Misty Eyes Greet Burns' Last Days

Herald Staff Writer

There were a few misty eyes and a lot of applause as Scott Burns, district manager of the Florida Power and Light Co.'s Sanford office, concluded his last staff meeting Wednesday morning.

The ritual had taken place on Wednesdays for the 24 years Burns had operated the Sanford district office.

"Perhaps I'll still be welcome when I come back to visit after Friday," Burns told the gathering, warning he was making the meeting brief because of the emotions he was feeling.

On Friday, Burns, who celebrated his 65th birthday on Jan. 15, and his 45th anniversary with the firm last November, will retire.

"I would have stayed until I was 70," Burns said, "but I felt I should get on and give young people a chance. Now I can get on and do some of the things I want to

Their daughter, Carole Ann Davis, and their only grandson, Kevin, live in Winter Park. "The two children live more than 2,000 miles apart," he said.;

The new district manager of FPL will be Bruce Berger, 30, who has worked the engineering department at the Sanford office for the past eight years and worked closely with Burns for the past 12-18 months.

Kirchhoff's School Redistricting Plan Gains

By GREG PIERCE Herald News Editor

If Tuesday night's meeting is any indication, Sanford residents will be supporting County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff's plan to redistribute the school population of Seminole County.

Nearly all of approximately 65 people who attended the meeting at the Sanford Chamber of Commerce raised their hands in support of Kirchhoff's plan, which would funnel more students to Sanford's Seminole High School.

And many signed a sheet provided by Kirchhoff indicating their desire to speak at the Feb. 5 school board meeting, when the board has said it will decide between Kirchhoff's plan and five others developed by school officials.

That Feb. 5 meeting promises to be highly significant. According to Kirchhoff, the board's decision will influence continue to lose enrollment. the growth pattern of much of the county. especially the north side.

The school board must decide what schools students will attend when the new Lake Mary High School opens next fall. Kirchhoff's plan differes significantly from the five other plans in that Seminole High School would draw some white students from the south side of the county while the Lake Mary School would gain black students from the west side of Sanford, thus providing a more even racial balance.

Kirchhoff said he would like to see some south end students attending Seminole High School "so it won't be a declining school like it has been in recent years." Under his plan, Seminole High would gain students, Kirchhoff said, while under the other plans it would draws an east-west boundary line along the Seaboard Coastline Railroad tracks through Sanford, paralleling Lake Mary Road as the tracks leave Sanford. The boundary then follows Lake Mary Road into the city of Lake Mary, passes west of the lake and crosses the northern boundary of Longwood just west of the Sky Lark Subdivision. From there, the boundary continues south through Longwood and crosses State Highway 434 just east of Wilma Road.

The school administration's plans draw a north-south boundary that essentially follows Lake Mary Boulevard east to U.S. Highway 17-92, then drops south and east to the shore of Lake Jessup.

Under his plan, Kirchhoff said, Lake

Mary High School and Seminole High School would have a more even racial balance than would result under the school administration's plans. The Lake Mary school would be about 75 percent white and 25 percent black while Seminole High School would be about 65 percent white and 35 percent black, under Plan 6.

Kirchhoff said if the new school boundaries leave Seminole High School with a disproportionately high number of black students compares to the other county schools, it will enougrage "white flight" from the Sanford area, thus disrupting an even growth pattern in the county.

The uneven racial distribution could cause a federal judge and the Justice Department to reject the new school boundaries or it could bring about law suits from unhappy citizens.

The county remains under a 1970 desegregation order which requires the approval of a federal court and the Justice Department before adjusting school boundaries.

Tom Wilson, a black who is director of the Seminole County Housing Authority, stood before the crowd and called for a plan that would provide a mix between economic and racial groups.

"Unless there's an exchange of values," the county's children will never become mature adults, he said.

"I'm concerned about that (an uneven racial and economic mix), what it does to children and counties.'

He said a balancing of socio-economic groups teaches children the "three R's:

'Reason, respect and responsibility." "I pray to God we can do something so my children don't go to a ghetto school," he said, drawing loud applause from the

Seminole County Superintendent of Schools Robert Hughes and School Board Member Nancy Warren attended the Kirchhoff praised the school administration's cooperation in helping him gather statistics to determine if his plan is feasible. He said he thinks it is.

Kirchhoff's plan would close the formerly all-black Crooms High School, but its enrollment would decline under any of the plans. A black woman said she would like to see Crooms remain open, but wondered if there's a "hidden agenda" to close Crooms no matter what.

If so, she said, "then I favor Kirchhoff's plan."

Winter Springs Woman Dies In Seminole Crash

A 73-year-old Winter Springs woman was killed Tuesday when she turned her late model compact car in front of a tractor trailer rig that had no time to stop.

The accident occurred at State Road 434 and Palm Springs Drive in Longwood.

Violet Faye Burr, 428 Hacienda Village, was pronounced dead on arrival at Florida Hospital-Altamonte following the 10 a.m. collision. The driver of the truck, Frederick M. Pittingill III, 26, of Orlando, was not injured.

Police diverted traffic for nearly four hours as a wrecker crew worked to free the AMC Spirit which was wedged under the front of the truck after being dragged 65 feet. Police said that Burr was apparently attempting a left-hand turn onto Palm Springs Drive and cut in front of the truck. No charges have been filed

Also Tuesday, a 49-year-old Orlando woman and her 26-yearold Palm Springs daughter were convicted of stealing $157 worth of clothing from Burdines in the Altamonte Mall and then beating up a security guard during their getaway. Debra E. Carey, 985 Manor Drive, Palm Springs, and her mother Sallie Swann, 7789 Broken Arrow Trail, were jailed pending a background investigation. Both women face up to six years in jail each for the grand theft and battery charges.

THIEVES PULL SWITCH Thieves switched a 1.3 carat stone worth $5,400 with a $6 paste stone in a ring belonging to an Altamonte Springs woman, police say.

Linda Sanders, 807 S. Wymore Road told officers she last wore the ring Jan. 19 and noticed nothing wrong with it. But when she put it on again Saturday, the prongs on the mounting were not smooth.

After taking the ring to the jeweler for repair, the jeweler told Sanders the ring was worth only $6 instead of $5,400. Police said they believe thieves entered the apartment and switched the stones. - BRITT SMITH

Child's Funeral Causes Wave Of Grief In Goldsboro

Herald Staff Writer The main boulevard through black Sanford runs west out of Goldsboro district, and then out to the open fields and pine lipped. So far, no one has been charged, but police say they forests on the edge of town. Appropriately enough, it's called 13th Street.

Usually, on Saturday afternoons, the sidewalks are filled with black faces; old men leaning in easy amity against the walls of the barber shop spinning tales and killing time, young folks sitting aimlessly on the hoods of cars eyeing each other,

Last Saturday was no different. And yet there was something very different, something undefinable but nonetheless real. But last Saturday, people stopped and stared. Death had cheated. The casket the somber-faced attendants slid into the back of the hearse was a tiny thing, covered in white satin. Two-year-old Tiffany Benthall had died.

"Died" may not say enough. "Abused" seems better. "Murdered" may turn out to be an exact fit when authorities get around to trying it on. Whatever the right word, it happened Jan. 14. When Tiffany's mother, Roslyn Realford, brought her into Seminole Memorial Hospital that night, she said the child had fallen on some railroad tracks near their home in the Higgins Terrace housing project, Third and Pecan Tiffany Benthall") were being used as fans and they fluttered

But county Medical Examiner Dr. G.V. Garay said Tiffany's injuries - massive internal bleeding due to a lacerated liver, and a large, deep bruise on the head as well as several less serious cuts and bumps - could not, in his opinion, have have a definite suspect and his arrest is imminent. All that didn't matter much Saturday when Tiffany Benthall's family and friends gathered in Goldsboro's New Salem Baptist Church to say good-bye.

Services weren't supposed to begin until 4 p.m., but by 3 a klatch of mourners had already begun to form outside the and lounge lizards outside the Silver Tip or Wallace's Blue small white building. Men stood talking and taking the warm afternoon sun through the dark suits they had hauled out of winter closets. The women wore loose dark print dresses and the little girls were all in long starched frocks.

Across the street, an old couple watched placidly from the

A gang of bright-faced youngsters biked and roller-skated by to see what all the fuss was about. But when the limos pulled up with their cargo of teary-eyed mourners, they acurried away. Inside, Tiffany's casket lay in the muggy still air at the foot a large tapestry of the Last Supper decorated the choir box. The procession filed in without looking at the small body made up and dressed in light blue. They didn't fill a quarter of the sanctuary; there were maybe 40 of them in all. But then, 28 months of life isn't much time in which to make a lot of friends. The two-page programs ("Eulogistical Services for the Late back and forth. The service began with some scripture - the story about Jesus rebuking His disciples for preventing the little children from coming to Him. "Deny them not," the old deacon shouted, "for such is the kingdom of Heaven." Soloist Norma Nelson got up to sing a couple of hymns: "Around God's Throne" and "Waiting For My Child to Come ment of Health and Rehabilitative Services which is charged Home." She had a smooth tenor voice, strong and good except for the tremor in it. An aunt, Mille McGrath, read a poem but the words were hard to understand. She cried through most of it and broke down completely at the end.

A few muffled sobs greeted preacher O.W. Williams as he got up to deliver his sermon. He looked at the family as he "You know, sometimes I think about how little we know anymore about death. When one of our children is taken from us, all we can think about is our loss. We're selfish. We're thinking about ourselves. We're thinking how much we'd like to see that person again. But why are we not thinking about them? "Hasn't Jesus made it plain? Didn't He say it when He gave His life on the cross ... When we lose someone, we haven't lost them at all. They are reborn in His glory. I know it's hard to accept, but we can't question God. We can't ask, 'Why did you take my child?' I say, don't worry about the child. Worry about yourselves. The child is with the angels."

As the sermon continued, the crying became open and solemn "Amens" rose from here and there. To the black crowd in the hall, the sermon was comfortable and familiar. Then came time for viewing the body. Now, in any funeral service this is a particularly painful period. But when the

is magnified dramatically. As the mourners formed in the center aisle, the group seemed right on the edge. Pauses, like colors, have shades and this one was positively black. Things progressed normally until Tiffany's grandmother Lucinda McMillan approached the casket and was overcome

"I want to kiss her! I want to kiss her!." she wailed. The muslin veil was pulled back and she bent down to kiss Tiffany's

Still hysterical, she began yelling, "Tiffany, please! Tiffany, please!" over and over, as if begging the child to rise. Her painful cries were a chilling thing to hear. She was out of control and had to be forcibly carried, kicking and screaming, from the chapel. Next up was Alexander Wyche who, upon seeing the prostrate body of his granddaughter, fainted.

There was a real concern that there would be two corpses in New Salem that day. Wyche has a bad heart. He was taken outside and stretched out on the ground. It seemed the whole neighborhood closed in to gawk. By the time the rescue unit arrived, Wyche was conscious and refused treatment. He stumbled into one of the lead limos and the motorcade moved off for the two-mile trip to Jackson Cemetery.

You don't join something like that without paying some very heavy dues first.

Finally, a right turn into the cemetery, down a curving sandy road, past the old grave mounds with their plastic marigold, chrysanthemum and iris offereings, to a virgin section at the very back of the graveyard. It seemed somehow fitting that a two-year-old should be the first buried there.

Afternoon was fading as the family crushed under the canopy for the short service. The rest of the crowd stood scattered across the grass, listening to the pastoral silence in place of the words of burial. Pine needles diffused bright sunlight and a cool breeze rattled palm fronds overhead.

Then it was over. The mourners drifted away and workmen began piling the fresh Florida soil into the small grave. There is no headstone on Tiffany Benthalls's grave yet. That will come later. It will be a simple marble stone bearing her mother's words:

Siamese Twins Die

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) - A 15-member surgical team worked nine hours to separate newborn Siamese twins with only "days" to live, but the girls died on the operating table of a complication doctors had not suspected — their hearts were hopelessly fused.

Marie Lynn and Samantha Dawn Self, joined from the top of the sternum to the navel, were delivered by Caesarean section Jan. 18 at a Knoxville hospital and rushed to Vanderbilt Children's Hospital in Nashville After pondering what one doctor called "terrible, terrible ethical questions," the teenaged parents, Roger and Katherine Self of Maryville, gave doctors ermission for the Tuesday operation Kathy Snyder, a night nurse who watched over the twins for the past four nights, said they slept at different times. "They fight sometimes and hug each other," she said before surgery began at 7 a.m. Tuesday. Tests had shown the 9-day-old twins shared a fused liver and numerous blood vessel connections, but did not indicate the heart fusion. There was no way of knowing the hearts were fused before the surgery, officials said.

"There was no question that this was the only alternative we had," O'Neill said Tuesday night. Without being separated, the twins would not have lived "many more days," he said.

Company's Generators May Get 'High' On Marijuana

PORT EVERGLADES, Fla. (UPI) - A Florida Power & Light Co. power plant may turn into a "groovy" generator today if an experiment in burning marijuana to produce electricity proves successful. The idea was to dispose of the tons and tons of the illicit weed that is seized almost daily by law enforcement authorities in and around south Florida, which has turned into a depot for the nation's smuggled drug habits. And it could save the power company and its customers a little bit on their foreignfuel oil bill. U.S. Customs officials, who counted more than 462 tons of marijuana confiscated from smugglers last year, came up with the proposal. FP&L officials agreed to try producing "pot power". So far, it hasn't

So, when the sniping began, all American taxpayers heard was that they were paying more than $800 million a year to fund a federal agency whose accomplishments, critics claimed, could not be detected. While Lowe "Seminole police agencies didn't become said LEAA "did a lot of good," it could never heavily involved with LEAA until 1970. The Sanford department didn't get its first LEAA grant until 1973 - $20,000 for prep radios, mobile units that can be worn on an officer's belt with a speaker fastened to a shirt or jacket lapel. Three years later, the city received $31,133 to buy a single-engine, fourseater Cessna airplane for surveillance work, but gave it to the county a year or so later. As City Manager Pete Knowles acknowledged, "they (county) needed it worse than we did. Besides, after taking off and climbing a couple thousand feet, you were out of the city." The city's last LEAA grant came two years ago, with $11,649 for equipment to mushrooming police files on microfilm. Why the scant involvement? "This is why," police administrator Sgt. Herb Shea said, holding up a four-inch thick file of rules and regulations and various other bits of bureaucratese covering the microfilm project. "We felt it was more trouble than it was worth," Shea said. "If we needed something, we either came up with the money ourselves or

The only deviation the county made from its hardware-oriented philosophy came in 1976 and '77 when nearly $30,000 was spent to hire the CJIS manager and a jailhouse caseworker who counsels and evaluates prisoners and then recommends to judicial officials possible alternatives to incarceration.

Since 1978, both positions have been funded by the county. "That's the way we worked," Lowe said.

"Our LEAA projects were either one-shot deals that didn't require any on-going funding, or we onlystarted what we thought we could continue on our own if we had to. And now we

"LEAA is dead, but we're not going to hold a wake," he said. "No programs are going to be cut and no one is going to be laid off because the money dried up. But," he added, "in the future if we need some type of equipment or we want to set up a special program. . . well,. . " like Shea said, "we'll just have to do Republican Congress takes a more kindly view of supporting local law enforcement with federal funds than did the Democrats. Should that happen, Lowe has an $84,600 wish list mostly for the CJIS) already drawn up. But he's not going to bet on it. Neither would he bet on local taxpayers coming up with any extra money. "We're just like everybody ballistics and toxicology tests, drug analyses, else." he said. "We're caught in a budget crunch and we have to do more with less.

Pleading Guilty

Defendant's Simple Statement Often Follows Lengthy Probe

Herald Staff Writer

There you are, a church-going, tax-paying, law-abiding pillar of the community and charged with a crime. How will you explain it to the neighbors? Up until now, the most serious brush with the law you've ever had was that ticket you got for double parking at a PTA conference on

But yes, you and the wife had a terrible row one night and you stormed out of the house to the nearest bar. Then that drunk got sloppy and you tied knots in his spine. And when the cop came to arrest you, you took violent exception to being handcuffed and took a poke at him. Disorderly intoxication and resisting arrest is the way the lawyer explained it. Now you just want to own up to your transgression and get it over with. But contrary to how it might seem, pleading guilty to a crime is not as simple as admitting, "I did it" and marching merrily off to jail. You could wait weeks, even months, for your chance to confess in court. Part of that is due to the staggering backlog of cases ahead of yours. But more importantly, it takes time for both the defense and prosecution to determine if you did indeed do what you claimed and whether there are any legal loopholes through which you might wiggle.

Another reason the process takes so long, according to Chris Ray, chief assistant 18th Circuit Court state attorney, is that "very few defendants plead guilty until their case is almost ready to go to trial" (usually no more than six weeks from the date of arrest). "They're always hoping for a miracle — the victim who forgives, the witness who forgets, or the cop who

Defense attorneys have been known to lend a hand in this, stalling preliminary hearings, constantly being out of town, or filing unnecessary motions, Ray said.

But barring any 'miracles' and thanks to criminal discovery rules, "defendants know long before trial what we have on them," Ray said. "They weigh the odds and figure they don't stand much cannce with a jury, so they plead and throw themselves on the mercy of the court."

Most judges go along and Ray said he's glad of it. "It en-much as 75 percent of the cases that come through his office end up as guilty please.

"I'd much rather have a person plead guilty than have to go to trial," Ray said. "It saves us time and effort and the taxpayer money. If every case we had went to trial, it would bring the system to its knees."

Be that as it may, Ray said he will go only so far to accommodate a repentant crook. "Some defense attorneys come in here and try to plea bargain their clients down to nothing" a six-count burglary, for instance, to a single breaking and entering. "I can't really blame them for that," he said. "That's their job. But it's not mine.

"If they try to push too hard, I'll say, 'Hey, forget the plea. We'll go to trial and let the system work. A jury can either convict your guy or cut him loose.' That's when they usually back off," Ray said. Is it all really necessary? "There are no shortcuts when you're dealing with a person's good name, their freedom, or maybe even their life," says 18th Circuit Public Defender James Russo, "The process can't end with a confession. "Even if a guy comes in here and says he's guilty as hell, I still review his case," Russo said. "He mighit have an absolute defense and not even know it." The investigation could have been botched in any number of ways -illegal search and seizure of damning evidence, improper questioning by police, failure to provide prompt legal counsel. If any of those things happen, it's grounds to have the case thrown out of court, he said.

"Our clients aren't attorneys. They don't know they might have been wrongly charged. It's part of a defense attorney's job to find those things."

To plead or not to plead. Before reaching a decision on that point, Russo said he discusses the case thoroughly with his client, judges the credibility of his story, obtains from the prosecutor a summary of the state's case and assesses the chances for acquittal.

"I can advise him on his options, but it would be improper for me to actually tell him to plead guilty," he said. "He must make that decision on his own.' Quite often, a defendant will put his lawyer through his paces preparing a trial defense only to change his mind at the last second. When this happens, the plea is usually accepted by the judge then and there and a date set for sentencing. Then there's the reverse of that coin which has a person maintaining from the beginning that he plans to plead guilty, but gets cold feet when he comes face to face with a jury ready "That can be a defense lawyer's nightmare," Russo said. "Thinking your client was going to plead, you might not have bothered to gather evidence, interview witnesses, or issue

"Of course, you can ask for a continuance, but the judge is under no obligation to grant one. It's always a good idea to prepare each case for trial," Rosso said. "That way, you're prepared for anything." Finally, the day comes when the discussions are over and a iant has chosen to admit his error and take his medicin like a man. His attorney notifies the prosecutor and a day is set aside for the plea to be made. When the moment finally arrives, after all that work, after all those sleepless nights, the process usually takes only 10-15 minutes. As the accused stands before him, the judge will ask a dozen or so questions to determine whether the defendant knows what he is doing, realizes he could have had a jury trial, and is happy with his attorney's services. If the judge is satisfied with the answers, he will accept the guilty plea and schedule sentencing. However, if one of the above criteria are not met, he will order the case be bound over for trial and the process starts all over again.

Expensive Florida Homes Selling At Rapid Pace

ORIANDO, Fla. (UPI) - Middle income Floridians can't afford new homes, but there's a mini-boom going on all over the state in the "luxury" real estate market. Realtors say the wealthy simply aren't bothered by 15 percent interest rates or rapidly escalating prices, and consequently are snapping up homes for $150,000 and up at a jet-

"The economy is about the 10th thing on their list," says Mary Smith, vice-president of a Tampa realty firm which specializes in homes for $250,000 and up. Mrs. Smith says the key to closing the sale on a luxury home is getting to know the wives - what clubs they want to join, who they want to know, where they want their children to go to "We have lunch and spend three or four days with them before we find out what kind of home they want," she says. Then it's simply a matter of matching buyer and seller. "Once we have them, we don't keep them very long," she

In Miami, foreign investors, particularly South Americans, cheerfully shell out $200,000 in cash for condominiums still in the blueprint stage. Sometimes they buy two or three at a clip. "They think they're in Macy's bargain-basement," says William Conover, spokesman for a large Miami realty firm. "Inflation is so high in their own countries they look at Miami as a safe harbor."

The story is the same in Orlando and Jacksonville. The wealthy, both young and old, shop around and without batting an eye put $50,000 to $100,000 down and move in. Even with mortgage payments at $2,000 a month, the result has been rapidly escalating prices.

'Arsenal Of Democracy

Americans like to think of their country as at least a potential "arsenal of democracy." It's comforting to believe that, faced with a genuine military emergency, the nation's factories could stop building refrigerators, lawn mowers and copying machines and promptly begin turning out tanks, warplanes and missiles.

It was, after all, this ability to switch quickly and on a massive scale from the production of consumer goods to weaponry that brought victory in two world wars.

Could something similar be achieved today? More precisely, could the supposedly omnipotent military-industrial complex boost production rapidly enough to avert probable defeat by numerically superior Soviet forces in any war short of a strategic nuclear exchange?

The appalling answer, according to the House Armed Services Committee, is almost certainly no. A committee report issued earlier this month following intensive hearings concluded: "In the event of a war, the U.S. defense industry would find it almost impossible to expand its weapons production suddenly and dramatically in the numbers necessary to sustain a prolonged con-

In detailing what it called a "shocking picture," the committee report noted that the nation's industrial base is "crippled by declining productivity growth, aging facilities and machinery, shortages in critical materials, increasing (production) lead times, skilled labor shortages, inflexible government contracting procedures, inadequate defense budgets and burdensome government regulations and paperwork."

These deficiencies, potentially fatal in themselves, are compounded by the critical scarcity of ammunition, weapons and other military equipment essential for even a short war. As one committee member put it, "Our troops are outmanned and outgunned at almost every turn. Our defense production base is ailing and in the event of a crisis, we do not have the staying power to sustain us until that base could come into play. It should be obvious that an inability to fight a short war or to mobilize productive capacity for a onger conflict is an invitation to disaster. Specifically, it is an invitation to the Soviets to

The study showed, according to a New York Times report, that wives who did not smoke but were exposed to their husbands' cigarette smoke developed lung cancer at a much higher rate than nonsmoking wives of nonsmoking

The risk to nonsmoking wives was directly related to the amount their husbands smoked, and that risk was one half to one third that of direct smoking, the report said.

Dr. Takeshi Hirayama, chief epidemiologist of the National Cancer Center Research Institute in Tokyo and author of the study, said the research "appears to explain the long standing riddle of why many women develop lung cancer although they themselves are non smokers."

JEFFREY HART

Overall, the study is reported to have shown that there was a twofold increase in death rates from lung cancer for nonsmoking women who were continually exposed to their husbands' smoking. Women whose husbands smoked more than 20 cigarettes a day were found to have a risk of lung cancer 2.08 times higher than women whose husbands did not smoke. If the husbands smoked one to 19 cigarettes a day, the risk was 1.61 times higher than for wives of nonsmokers. The study, called scientifically sound by Sir Richard Doll, Oxford University physicians, showed the risk of developing lung cancer for nonsmoking wives of agricultural workers 40 to 59 years old who smoked two or more packs of cigarettes per day reached 4.6 times that of nonsmokers in agricultural areas, where the study's findings could not be complicated by urban air conditions.

The study was conducted between 1965 and 1979 and involved 142.857 women and 122.261 men 40 and older in 29 health districts in Japan. It was undertaken to measure the effects of health of a wide variety of factors such as smoking, alcohol consumption, occupation and marital status. Because detailed questions about personal habits, including smoking habits were asked of husbands and wives separately at the start of the study, Hirayama said he could specifically determine the effect of the husbands' smoking on the risk of lung cancer in nonsmoking wives. The interesting thing to note is that smoking was the only habit of the husbands to affect the death of wives, and the link was so highly significant by statistical tests that it "was not the result of chance." Hirayama said. "The implication" is that cigarette smoking poses "a hazard to anybody in public rooms if they are not well ventilated," Doll said. This research should give strong impetus to nonsmokerss' rights groups who are working to achieve smoke-free environments in the workplace, in restaurants and all public places. We all deserve to breathe the cleanest air possible.

Justice Denied Doctor Raped In Nepal

When she made her way to a nearby village, she managed to persuade Nepalese officials that she needed hospital care, and a government helicopter flew her to the primitive hospital in Katmandu. There she was visited by the American consul, Nancy Powell, who told Sasaki she would not be allowed to leave until she had paid $4.300 for the one-hour helicopter ride. The demand was made enforceable by the fact that Sasaki's passport had been picked up earlier by a U.S. consulate employee. Sasaki got a friend in Bangkok to wire her the "bail money." Now back in the United States recuperating from her ordeal, Sasaki

Meanwhile, the Bureau of Consular Affairs reacted to my original column by claiming that money was never an issue, that Sasaki's passport was never confiscated — and that the consulate should be commended, not chastised. A State Department official also insisted that the department is still trying to recover Sasaki's money.

Sasaki, however, sticks by her account of the episode. And a sworn statement by her hospital roommate in Katmandu, Sharon Lee Childs, puts the lie to the State Department's version of events.

TRAVIS FILER ...13.9 a game

Seminole Community College, the 18th ranked junior college basketball team in the nation, entertains Central Florida JC (Ocala) tonight at 7:30.

The state's number one-ranked Raiders are riding an 11game winning streak. They have won 20 of 21 ballgames this "I don't know a whole lot about them, except Santa Fe only beat them 81-80," said SCC Coach Joe Sterling about tonight's opponent. The Raiders beat Sante Fe 81-74 Saturday. Despite Central Florida's strong showing against Sante Fe, CFCC is a dismal 3-15 on the year. Part of the reason is due to losing five of the 12 players to academic difficulties just after

The loss left the Ocala-based team with just one starter — Ocala Vanguard's Eddie Goff — who leads the team with 14.9

"We had to pull a guy off the campus to dress eight players," said Coach Mike McGinnis. "We're limited talent-wise, but we

The Raiders meanwhile are scoring at 92.5 points per game, which ranks them seventh in the nation. They are giving up 79.6 a game. The team shooting percentage is an awesome 52.8

Sanford's Bruce McCray leads in scoring with 21.6 (59 per cent) an outing. Lorne Jones, a 6'4" forward from Knoxville (TN) is next with 18.5 (51 per cent).

Largo's Travis Filer follows Jones with 14 (56 per cent) a game, while sophomore Mike Ryals completes the double figure averages with 10.5 (52 per cent) per outing. Point guard Eric Irvin is second in the state with 134 assists for an average of 6.4 a ballgame. The 6'5" Ryals with 8.6 boards and 6'4" McCray with 8.2 caroms lead in rebounding. Filer, who Sterling and assistant Tony Mandeville spotted in a Florida Junior Olympics game, has been especially pleasing of late to the Raiders. "He's always had great all around ability," points out 'By working real hard, Travis (Filer)

Seminoles Hit, Patriots Miss, Tribe Prevails 51-54...

Herald Sports Editor ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - For a team which has three of the county's top free throw shooters, Lake Brantley didn't put on much of a charity toss exhibition here Tuesday night.

Four times during crucial segments of the game the Patriots failed to hit the first attempt of a one plus one free

Seminole, as usual when it wins, jumped to a quick 8-2 lead on baskets by Clarance Sippio, Mike Gaudreau twice and Richard Grey. "Last game I didn't feel right," said Gaudreau about below par performance against Spruce Creek. "I know when the ball leaves my hand if I'll be all right. It felt good tonight."

It felt good for the Tribe too as they connected on 5-of-9 first quarter shots to seize an 11-7 edge. The Seminoles 2-1-2 matchup zone blanketed Brantley's 6-4 center Tom Moths most of the night, except for a flurry in the third quarter. In the second quarter Seminole fired 14 times, but converted only four. Two big ones came at the end of the half when Sipplo and the Patriots' Jay Poag traded 20-footers twice. Sanford led at intermission 19-14. Moths showed flashes of his 20-point per game form of the past two weeks by scoring eight straight points and drawing 6'7" Steve Grace and 6'3" Rufus Christian into foul trouble.

The closest the Pats could come, however, was 27-22. Grey then hit two long range jumpers and substitute starter (for Lenny Sutton) Willie James knocked in two free tosses for a 33-24 third quarter bulge.

Brantley's free throw artistry finally began to take shape in the fourth quarter. Forward Tim Heath, who ranks second in the county with 78.9 per cent, dropped in six in a row as the Pats scrambled back to within 37-31 with five minute left. Seminole, meanwhile, blew 3-of-5 attempts which forced

Coach Bill Payne to go with his delay game with 4:33 to Brantley countered by going with a man-to-man defense. Still, the Tribe ran off 1:15 before Sippio was fouled. "Sip" hit one and missed one for a 40-31 advantage. Poag then threw in a 22-footer, Heath notched two more from the line and senior Andy Lu Luce, the county's best FT shooter, dropped in two for a 42-37 game.

Sippio, nevertheless, converted two free tosses with 1:35 to put Sanford ahead 44-37. "I've been working overtime on my free throws. So has the whole team," related the 5'11"

The Patriots made one last charge as Moths head faked twice and hit a jumper in the lane to pull the Pats within 44-39. But Shatterfield charged Grey after letting go of a pass to all but end any comeback hopes. Sanford then hit 7-of-9 free throws down the stretch to offset Poag's basket for the 10-point victory margin. "I think when we're emotionally up we can beat most anybody." said Gaudreau while toweling off. "I was a little leery when Lenny (Sutton) wasn't here (flu). He gets us scored 11 and Grey was high man with 12. Sixth man Bernard tallied seven points and hauled in 10 boards. Moths was tops for Brantley with 17 points and 11 caroms. Poag hit 10 and Heath added eight free throws.

In junior varsity action, Seminole fell behind early. rallied late, but couldn't overcome Brantley. The young Pats won 52-44.

Seminole, playing without Calvin Bryant (flu) and Torie Hendricks (disciplinary reasons) pulled within 43-40 late in the game, but then turned the ball over twice. Chris Detreville with 13 points and point guard Vernon

...Digger's 'Naked Shooter' Philosophy Buries New Smyrna Beach

"Digger" Phillips free throw shooting philosophy anywhere in John Wooden's classic non-fiction "They Call Me Coach." After all, who would adhere to the theory, that the best way to shoot a free throw is to pull all your players from the retaining lines and send them to the other end of the court. Well, Phillips "naked shooter" paid dividends again Tuesday night here as the Lions converted 16-of-20 gift 'Murphy almost tore the basket off with a stuff.' - Oviedo's Dale Phillips tosses to ease past New Smyrna Beach down the stretch 80converted 72-of-92 free throws for a humid 78 per cent. Along with it Oviedo has won three of the four games. "It's unbelievable," said a still disbelieving "Digger."

"And it really helps our defense too." Phillips got his brainstorm after the Lions were depleted by injuries. Again last night leading scorer Bill Burgess was forced to the sidelines with the flu bug, leaving the Lions with seven players.

Burgess' running mate at forward Ronnie Murphy, though, picked up the slack. And how. The 6'3" super sophomore scored 21 points, grabbed five rebounds, blocked five shots, picked off three steals and handed out five assists.

Doug Meyer, a 6'4" postman, tossed in 21 points and collected eight rebounds. Terry Jones, the Lions' most consistent player of late, tallied 14 points. Greg Myers, up from the JV for the first time, added 12 points. "Greg did a super job," lauded Phillips about the

Daytona 500 Hits Gold

Herald Motor Sports Writer The largest pot of gold in stock car racing history could easily await the winner of the Daytona 500, with the final total quite possibly exceeding $120,000.

Since its inception in 1959, the Daytona 500 has been the richest, most prestigious race, on the NASCAR Winston circuit, and this 23rd renewal. to be run on February 15th, will be richer than ever with a total purse of over three quarters of a million dollars. 8774,160. This is an increase of more than $113.000 over 1980's record purse. In addition to the base prize money of $80,000, the winner will also pick up $5,000 more dollars from the special Manufacturers Challenge, and have a chancee to win $12,000 in one of the 125-mile qualifying races, $6,000 in pole position awards, some $11,000 in lap money and $2,100 in pit A total domination of the Winston Cup events could mean over $120,000 in winnings for some driver. This would break the record for a NASCAR Winston Cup event, which was set last year by Buddy Baker, when the Ranier Racing Team won

Sanfordite's 'Soup's On!' In Magazine

Liz Paulucci Helfrich came to Sanford 25 years ago as a celery buyer for her brother's food company. His name is Jeno Paulucci and at that time, he was the head of Chun King foods. Mrs. Helfrich came to Florida from Hibbing, Minn. which is located in the northern part of the state on the Mesabi Iron Range. She said she came from the iron ore capital of the world to the celery capital and decided to stay. Her parents left the exhausted sulphur mines of Italy and joined other immigrants who flocked to the iron range where they mined the rich ore. In that small town gathered miners from more than 30 different nations working and living together, recalls Mrs. Helfrich. "We learned different expressions, different dances and tried each other's recipes,'

The Italians, Irish, Scandinavians, Finns and a score of other nationalities blended together in the melting pot that was

More than six years ago, Mrs. Helfrich, who lives at 401 S. Summerlin Ave., decided to write down her mother's recipes and to put them in a cookbook. From there the idea grew to include recipes supplied by the other families and nationalities of that mining community.

Mrs. Helfrich has travelled to many foreign countries collecting recipes and dolls wherever she goes. Friends and relatives have given her their favorite dishes and they in return have tested recipes she plans to include in her book. Finally after all the research, writing, and testing, the "Cookbook From a Meltin Pot" is in her agent's hands for editing, planning for a March publication date.

Excerpts from her book are featured in the January issue of Attenzione magazine. Several soup recipes from Mrs. Helfrich's ancestral home of Bellisio Solfare are reprinted in Mrs. Helfrich's book consists of 14 chapters with recipes from a different nation featured in each chapter. She introduces each with a brief description of customs and heritage of those mining families on the Iron Range and the flavor they added to the melting pot of America. ESCARGOTS D' ALSACE

Escargots are a mollusk, a gastropod. Originally a French delicacy, it is now enjoyed the world over. A superior variety is grown on special farms in France known as Escargotieres. comgination package comeaning a chi (1 dozen) escargots and a plastic tube containing 12 shells. Single cans containing 11/2 dozen escargots are also available. 1 can escargots

1 tablespoon vegetable or corn oil 1/2 oz. cognac Garlic butter Cordon Bleu (See Recipe)

Escargot shells Wash escargots thoroughly in a sieve under cold water. Saute them a moment in hot oil. Add cognac and "Flame." Then let them cool.

In each shell press in some garlic butter. Then 1 escargot tail last, but don't force. Press in more garlic butter. Place on cookie sheet. Bake in hot oven (400 deghrees F.) and remove as soon as butter bubbles, 5 to 10 minutes. Serve hot with plenty of French bread to sop up the garlicky butter. A new method is to stuff the escargots into over proof individual ceramic dishes. Some are even shaped like escargot

Meal-In-One Dishes Popular During Winter

When winter winds blow, welcome your family in from the cold with Sunny Chicken Casserole. This savory easy-toprepare dish can really warm them up!

Better yet, Sunny Chicken Casserole saves cents. creatively combines inexpensive ingredients: hard-cooked eggs, chicken, rice and canned soup. The eggs are especially economical - only 60 cents a pound when Large eggs are 90

Eggs both lower the cost of this dish and increase its nutritional value. Eggs contain high-quality protein, all the essential vitamins (except vitamin C) and a host of minerals. For convenience, you can make this protein-rich dish the day before you plan to serve it. And, if your refrigerator is stocked with hard-cooked eggs, you'll find it extremely easy to

Let the sun shine on your table with Sunny Chicken Casserole. It's a delicious cold-weather main dish that's easy

SUNNY CHICKEN CASSEROLE 4 to 6 servings

1 and one-third cups water

two-thirds cup uncooked regular rice 1/2 cup chopped celery 1 teaspoon instant minced onion

1/2 teaspoon salt 1 can (10% oz.) condensed cream of celery soup, undiluted 34 cup chopped cooked chicken or turkey OR 1 can (5 to 634 oz.) boned chicken

1/4 cup milk 1 jar (2 oz.) chopped pimiento

1 tablespoon lemon juice 8 hard-cooked eggs, wedged (See below)

2 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

1/2 teaspoon paprika Parsley sprigs, optional

In large saucepan bring water, rice, celery, onion and salt to boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer until water is absorbed. about 15 to 20 minutes. Stir in soup, chicken, milk, pimiento and lemon juice. Add eggs and toss lightly to mix. Turn into greased 11/2-quart casserole. Combine crumbs, cheese and paprika. Sprinkle over casserole. Bake in preheated 350 degree F. oven until heated through, about 20 minutes. Garnish with parsley sprigs, if desired.

To hard-cook, put eggs in single layer in saucepan. Add enough tap water to come at least 1 inch above eggs. Cover and quickly bring just to boiling. Turn off heat. If necessary, remove pan from burner to prevent further boiling. Let eggs stand covered in the hot water 15 to 17 minutes for Large eggs. (Adjust time up or down by about 3 minutes for each size larger or smaller.) Immediately run cold water over eggs or put them in ice water until completely cooled. To remove hell, crackle it by tapping gently all over. Roll egg between hams to loosen shell, then peel, starting at large end. Hold egg under running cold water or dip in bowl of water to help ease off shell.

SWEET AND SOUR CHICKEN

1 medium green pepper, cut in squares 1 cup sliced carrot

2 tablespoons salad oil 1 can (101/2 ounces) au jus gravy

1 cup cubed cooked chicken 1 tablespoon brown sugar

1 tablespoon soy sauce 2 teaspoons vinegar

1 cup cubed cooked chicken

Cooked rice

In skillet, cook green pepper and carrot in oil until tender Add remaining ingredients except rice. Cook a few minutes to blend falvors. Serve with rice. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 21/2 cups, 3 servings.

PARMESAN CHICKEN BAKE

6 medium baking potatoes (about 2 pounds) 2 tablespoons butter or margarine 1 can (10% ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup ½ cup grated Parmesan cheese 2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Bake potatoes until done. Cut potatoes in half lengthwise; scoop out insides leaving a thin shell. With electric mixer, mash potatoes with butter. Gradually add soup, cheese and parsley; beat until light and fluffy. Fold in chicken. Spoon into shells; sprinkle with additional Parmesan cheese. Arrange potatoes in 3-quart shallow baking dish (13-by-9-by-2-inch). Bake at 450-degrees for 15 minutes or until hot. This kitchentested recipe makes 3 to 4 servings.

SAN FRANCISCO CHICKEN AND RICE 2 to 3 cups diced uncooked chicken

2 tablespoons butter or margarine 1 cup sliced onions 1 cup diagonally sliced celery

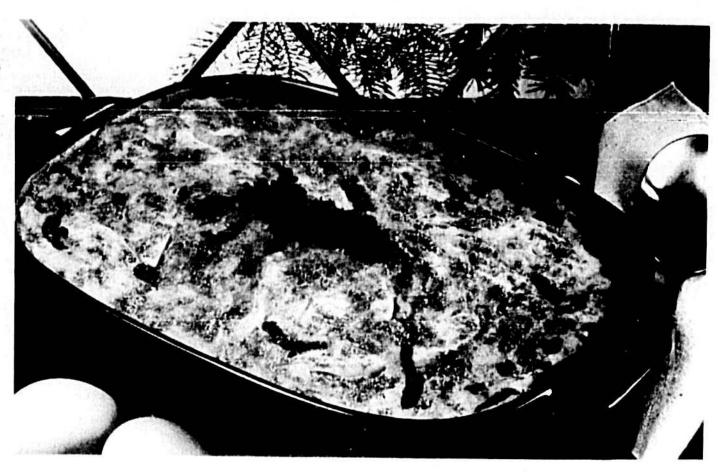

1 can (5 to 6 ounces) sliced bamboo shoots, drained 1/2 teaspoon salt

14 teaspoon ground black pepper 34 cup chicken broth 3 tablespoons soy sauce 3 cups cooked rice

Cook chicken in butter 5 minutes, stirring often. Add onions and celery and cook 5 minutes more. Add remaining ingredients and cook until liquid is absorbed. Serve with additional soy sauce, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

San Francisco Chicken and Rice takes its cue from a Chinese tradition that knows so well how to give inexpensive ingredients the flavor of an imperial feast.

Let the sun shine on your table with Sunny Chicken Casserole. It's a delicious cold-weather main dish that's easy and economical. And the protein-rich dish can be made the day before you plan to serve it.

No One Organizes A Pot Luck Like You

Old Concept Is New Way To Entertain

part of the American lifestyle as the hot dog. And, that is a raising events. term with many meanings. Hot dog not only has the leteral meaning of frankfurter, but through the years has taken on other connotations as well. It can be used as an exclamatory phrase to express delight and enthusiasm or it can be used to describe the "hot shot" or person with good fortune and great

Similarly, other expressions such as "apple-pie" order, which is derived from a New England woman who meticulously placed her apples in pie crust, and "in the soup" which indicated embarrassment, disappointment and essentially "out of luck," have filtered into common usage.

"Pot luck" is another of these colorful American expressions. It was first used to describe food prepared solely for the family for which a guest may have dropped by unannounced. But, the expressign "to take pot luck" is also used with the connotation to accept whatever events or consequences happen. The term is further used to describe a meal to which each guest brings a dish of food in which all share.

What nicer, more economical way to entertain at home during the winter months which begin a new year. For many families making budgetary resolutions in 1981, the pot luck meal can be the answer to inexpensive entertaining.

The host or hostess has the prerogative to request guests to bring either a certain type of food such as a vegetable or meat. or can base requests around a central food theme, such as Italian, Greek, Mexican or Indian food. The meal can also be comprised of different casseroles served hot with a crisp salad prepared by the hostess and accompanied by hot fresh bread prepared by one of the guests. Whatever the menu choice. guests are made to feel an integral part of the dining experience and for them too, the fun is relatively inexpensive.

Bringing a pot luck dinner to a new neighbor's home is a nice way of saying "hello and welcome" from others int he community. It is a thoughtful way of welcoming home the new mother or a new neighbor to the block. The bother of food preparation won't be a worry if neighbors plan their dishes carefully such as preparing a salad, casserole or simple dessert which will last a few days. School PTA groups and other parent committees can be invited to partake in pot luck

Only 1/2 pound of shrimp is used in the unique dish, Spaghetti Shrimp Marinara.

Shrimp Marinara

'A Little Fish Goes

It is traditional to begin the new year with resolutions such as "save more money," "lose weight," "exercise more," but one resolution everyone should keep throughout the year is "to eat more nutritiously in 1981." This means to watch calories. eat balanced meals, and eat lots of high quality protein foods. Seafood is the answer to each of the stipulations and shrimp represents the very best. It is low in calories, fits well into almost any menu plan, and is a delicious high quality protein Spaghetti Shrimp Marinara is a unique recipe which typlifies the old saying, "a little fish goes a long way." Only 1/2 pound of shrimp is used. This should mean a savings, keeping still another resolution! For a special seafood dinnner try Spaghetti Shrimp

SPAGHETTI SHRIMP MARINARA

1/2 pound peeled and develned shrimp, fresh or frozen 1 package (8 ounces) spaghetti, uncooked

2 hard-cooked eggs 3 tablespoons margarine or oil 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour

2 teaspoons lemon juice (optional) 1 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon dill weed, (optional)

1 cup undiluted evaporated milk 1 cup water

1 can (8 ounces) tiny peas, dreained or ¾ cup cooked frozen

14 cup sliced ripe olives

Thaw shrimp if frozen. Cook spaghetti as directed on package label. Cut eggs into quarters lengthwise and crosswise. Melt margarine in saucepan over low heat. Stir in flour, lemon juice, salt, and dill weed, if desired. Stir in milk and water; cook, stirring constantly, until smooth and thickened. Fold in shrimp, eggs, peas, and olives. Cook 3 to 4 minutes or until shrimp are opaque. Serve on spaghetti. Makes

Colorful expressions and everyday sayings are as much a meals as an inexpensive means of holding meetings or as fund

Some of the suggestions listed below from Kraft's Nobody Cooks Like You Campaign, can help you with your own pot luck ideas. Whether entertaining on a budget, helping neighbors or simply involving your own family in the experience of sharing cooking responsibilities, no one organizes a pot luck meal quite like you.

Almonds To Salads

Lighter fare - that's what everyone's talking about these days. More fruits and vegetables, refreshing entree salads for lunch and dinner, eating in more healthful

A salad meal is satisfying, not overwhelmingly filling. Colorful and so easy to prepare, a salad can serve as an ener-y-saving main dish A meal-in-one salad requires a protein source to be well balanced. In Hot Bacon and Asparagus Salad, crumbled bacon and hard-cooked eggs are the most easily recognized protein sources. But would you have guessed that the chopped almonds are a good source of protein, too? And that's not all almonds contribute. In addition to vegetable protein, these nuts are an exceptionally good source of riboflavin, one of the best sources of vitamin E, and provide magnesium, phosphorus, copper, iron, calcium, zinc, niacin, thiamin and folacin. For example, add toasted slivered almonds to an

Oriental-style salad with fresh bean sprouts, julienned strips of cooked ham, tomato wedges and shredded let-

Sprinkle sliced almonds over chunks of fresh fruit surrounding a mound of cottage cheese. Almonds make every salad a special crunchy and nutritious treat! With a supply of almonds on hand, you can add these versatile nuts to main dishes, entrees, desserts, as well as to salads of all kinds. And don't forget almonds for out-ofhand snacking. For nutrition and flavor appeal, there's nothing like almonds, the delicious health nut. HOT BACON AND ASPARAGUS SALAD

1 pound asparagus one-third cup vinegar

1/2 teaspoon dry mustard 14 teaspoon pepper one-third pound bacon, cooked and crumbled (reserve drippings)

1 tablespoon sugar

1 quart torn mixed salad greens (iceberg, romaine,

1/2 cup chopped natural (unblanched) almonds, toasted 2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced Trim asparagus; cut on a sharp diagonal into pieces about 11/2 inches long. Saute asparagus in 2 to 3 tablespoons bacon drippings until tender-crisp; add vinegar, sugar, mustard, pepper and bacon to pan; heat 1 or 2 minutes longer, stirring. Put greens and almonds in salad bowl; pour asparagus mixture over greens and top with sliced eggs. Toss and serve promptly.

To Toast Almonds: Spread in an ungreased baking pan or skillet. Place in a 350-degree oven or over medium-low heat on the stove top for 5-10 minutes (depending on the form of almonds that you are using) or until almonds are a light golden brown, stir once or twice to assure even browning. Note that almonds will continue to brown slightly after being removed from the heat.

Fix Favorite Fried Fritters For Family

A basic fritter batter is a godsend in these days of trying to economize on the food bill.

Fritters will be extremely popular to serve with a variety of meals since the all-purpose batter works well with coatedbatter fritters, as well as drop fritters, which have small pieces of vegetable or fruit mixted in the batter, and are then dropped by spoonfuls into hot fat.

Your fryer full of fritters will show up more often and may prove a way to serve leftovers in a new guise. And, as you watch the fritters being gobbled up, think of the old tongue twister: "If Flossie Fancie fried a fryer full of favorite fritters, where is the fryer full of favorite fritters that Flossie fried?"

FRITTER VARIETY (With All-Purpose Batter)

1/2 cup unsifted flour 1-3rd cup corn starch 1 teaspoon baking powder 1/2 teaspoon salt 2 eggs, separated 1-3rd cup milk 1 tablespoon corn oil Seafood, fruit or vegetables

In medium bowl, stir together flour, corn starch, baking powder and salt. In small bowl, stir together egg yolks, milk and I tablespoon corn oil. Stir into flour mixture until smooth. In small bowl with mixer at high speed, beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Fold into batter. Pour 1 quart corn oil into heavy 3-quart saucepan or deep fryer, filling no more rthan -3rd full. Heat-over trat um heat of Fre he grees. Dip pieces of seafood, fruit or vegetables into batter and fry, a few at a time, turning once, 2 to 4 minutes, depending on food being fried or until golden brown. Drain on paper towels, serve immediately If desired, serve druit fritters sprinkled with confectioners' sugar. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 2 dozen.

Suggested food to coat with batter; Cleaned develned medium to large shrimp; 1-inch cubes fish fillets; 1/4-inch slices unpeeled scrubbed zucchini; 3-inch long, pencil-thick slices peeled eggplant; flowerettes of broccoli or cauliflower; 4-inch slices peeled, cored apple or pear.

To make drop fritters: Mix chopped or small pieces of fruit or vegetable into the batter, adding the fruit or vegetable pieces before folding in the egg whites, as suggested here with the recipes for Mexican Corn Fritters and Apple Fritters.

Mexican Corn Drop Fritters: Use 11/2 cups drain canned, or thawed, frozen Mexican corn. (When fresh corn is in season, mix fresh corn kernels cut from the cob, with chopped green pepper and pimiento.) Prepare All-Purpose Batter, but DO NOT fold in egg whites. Stir corn mixture into batter, fold in egg whites. Carefully add batter by tablespoons, a few at a time, to oil. Fry 3 to 4 minutes, turning once, or until golden brown. Drain on paper towels; serve immediately. Makes Apple Drop Fritters: Use 11/2 cups chopped peeled apple. (Or for other fruit fritters, use 11/2 cups chopped or diced fruit or 11/2 cups berries. With canned or frozen fruit, drain thoroughly.) Prepare All-Purpose Batter but DO NOT fold in egg whites. Stir fruit into batter; fold in egg whites. Carefully add batter by tablespoons, a few at a time to oil. Fry 3 or 4 minutes, turning once, or until fritters are golden brown. Drain on paper towels; serve immediately. If desired, sprinkle fritters with confectioners' sugar. Makes about 2 dozen.

Try A Quick Bread That Freezes Well

Quick breads that freeze well are a cook's delight. One that maintains its homemade freshness straight from the freezer is a pantry pear bread.

It is a nutritious bread with a crunchy texture that stems from the use of whole grain oats and walnuts. The pears add their own touch of taste and help keep the bread moist.

You'll want to make more than one loaf at a time so there will be pear bread ready for a quicky brunch for guests, or the family breakfast on Sunday. PANTRY PEAR BREAD

1 and two-thirds cup finely chopped pear (about 2 pears) 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar

two-thirds cup milk 1/2 cup vegetable oil 1/2 cup chopped walnuts 21/2 cups all-purpose flour 1 cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked

5 teaspoons baking powder teaspoon ginger 1 teaspoon salt

pear, sugar, eggs, milk, oil and nuts to combined remaining
