Coast Of Ireland Slipping In Sea At Alarming Rate

AL New features. DUBLIN—The sea is eating away the southeast coast of Ireland and the movement was noticeably accelerated by last winter's gales.

From Roslure Harbor, Westford, some reports of whole sections of cliffs and sand dunes collapsing into the sea at an "alarming rate." A drive along 100 miles of coast from Bray Head, Wicklow, to Carrigrohane, Westford, reveals this scene:

At Roslure the cliff road has almost entirely disappeared, the soft links have suffered and the whole roadway is threatened. At Hayland the sea is within 200 yards of the cliff. Roslure-Dublin highway, where 29 years ago the line was nearly half a mile from the cliff at this point.

The villages of Carrigrohane, Blackwater, Ballyvourney and Courtown have suffered damage and a few scattered stones, visible only at low tide, are all that remain of the village of Fort, at the entrance to Westford Harbor.

Attempts to check the erosion by plaster piles and groynes along the highway, and by moving five groynes have been unsuccessful.

Directions: Dissolve lemon-flavored gelatin in hot liquid (vegetable juice plus water). Add salt, lemon juice, and vinegar. Chill partially. Add mixed vegetables and minced onion. BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

GOD IS THE SCULPTOR AFTER ALL. BE PLIABLE AND SEE WHAT GOD CAN MAKE OF YOU. Casting all my anxiety upon him, because he careth for me.—1 Peter 5:7.

The Senate has decided to increase the Social Security Taxes by 50 percent. Just another way of doing something for the little business!

Dr. Theodore Van Bellen announces that a new headache remedy has been discovered. What are they going to do put John L. Lewis in jail?

Former Secretary Ickes says that Truman is about the worst man in the country for President, but he seems to believe the Republicans will probably nominate a worse one.

Certain senators in Washington have been sending constituent telegrams at the rate of over $700 worth a day, a recent investigation discloses. But do the senators pay for these telegrams? They do not. The tax payers pay for them, and that means you, brother.

Senator Eastland of the Senate Judiciary Committee suggests that both Justice Black and Justice Jackson should resign, "at there can be no faith in any future opinions in which these two men participate." It might create a more wholesome atmosphere if the entire court resigned.

Senator George of Georgia made an interesting comment the other day with regard to Chester Bowles. We hope you didn't miss it. He said, "I would like to say this for Mr. Bowles. He is the most inflated product and commodity that I know." We suspect, however, he is about to be seriously deflated.

In spite of obvious differences with Soviet Russia which conceivably might lead to war, there are some people in this country who put political considerations of the communist party above their duty to their country and would give to Russia the secret of the atomic bomb. Just as some people sold scrap iron and oil to Japan before Pearl Harbor.

As long as the City Commission has started the ball rolling by raising property assessments in order to increase tax collections, it would be interesting to know just how much real estate in Sanford and Seminole County are exempt from any taxation whatever for one reason or another. How about an investigation into that?

Another person has been shot with an unloaded gun. Ronald Pletcher, 11-year old Tampa boy was sure the .22 caliber rifle wasn't loaded, and so was 13-year old Joseph Tanner, who pulled the trigger. Ronald now lies seriously injured in a Tampa hospital. The first thing a person should do when he picks up a gun, at any time, in any place, under any circumstances, is to open the breech and see if it is loaded.

"The Administration is short of first rate men," says Walter Lippmann, "but the country is not short of them." The America of today is not the America of the war nor is it the America of the future. Neither Congress nor the Administration is at the present time truly representative of the people. But it looks as if two more years of drift, of indecision, of incompetence must be suffered before anything can be done about it.

One solution for Sanford's tax problem is to hike real estate assessments, as the City Commission has done, raising the taxes on business property 10 percent, on residential property (not homesteads) 20 percent, and on vacant lots 100 percent. Not many people who own real estate will like this new arrangement, as no one likes to pay taxes but they should blame it on those who sought homestead exemption, not on the present City Commission. The City does not face with rising costs, as everyone else is; and whenever the City is receiving steadily growing demands for improvements, streets, sidewalks, lights, playgrounds, etc., which cost money.

Who's To Blame

Who is to blame for the condition in which the country now finds itself? Is it President Truman's fault that strikes have paralyzed the nation's reconversion efforts, that almost a year after the war shortages are worse than ever, that prices have already begun to soar and inflation appears inevitable? Mark Sullivan, writing in the New York Herald Tribune, does not think that President Truman had much to do with it.

"The labor situation is not of President Truman's making," he writes. "It was an inheritance from his predecessor. President Roosevelt set out early in his administration to give to workers, in their relations with employers, equal power. His effort, as expressed in the Wagner Labor Relations act passed in 1935 and as the act came to be interpreted by administrative actions, gave to workers not equal but superior power.

"It became a question whether, with labor unions and labor leaders having greater power than owners and managers, the system of private ownership of industry could function successfully. But if Mr. Truman did not create the condition, he became subject to popular blame for it, both as President Roosevelt's heir and through long reluctance to give support to proposals in Congress for changing the labor relations laws. Two weeks ago, when confronted by the railroad strike, he made a proposal for curbing labor's powers that went so far as to curb its legitimate liberty, and the Senate was not willing to follow him so far.

"There ensued a welter of developments, in the White House, in Congress, in political alignments and in industry. Of these the outcome is still extremely confused. It is likely that labor relations can be brought to a condition permitting full production of goods at a time sufficiently early to affect the Congressional election in November.

"Many voters, enough to determine the election trends, will act upon their judgment about the fate of the country. Looking upon President Truman as the symbol of that, they will vote accordingly. This group of voters, in the decisiveness of their influence, will outweigh the work of political party organizations and the efforts, records and personalities of individual candidates for Congress. Rarely has the prospect of a Congressional election, at a time less than four months in advance, seemed so unpromising for the party in power."

Diaries

Grandfather's daily journal served many purposes. When the family wondered how old Aunt Minnie was, or the year of the big flood, a few minutes thumbing through pages of carefully executed Spencerian penmanship produced the answers, set everyone's thoughts straight again. The individual's log of little successes, loves and heartbreaks could be viewed against the outline of world events.

So much that happens in the piling years is forgotten. Retrospect so easily is biased; Each era's pace grows more tense. Events crowd upon events, and memory's images are blurred.

Diary-keeping today probably could be justified as a therapeutic device for relief of "inner kinks" which it is current fashion to drop in a psychiatrist's lap. Old-timers never heard this jargon. They had leisure in those days before the dawn of mechanical efficiency, before printed matter inundated the land. The daily chronicles were necessary records. And when old age crept up, the little worn books became something to savour, precious companions.

Even the line-a-day has its merits in settling controversies as to the weather two years ago or what Aunt Sarah wore to Jane's wedding.

Broken Precedent

In elevating the Secretary of the Treasury to the chief justiceship, President Truman broke a precedent. No one from this particular post has ever gone to the Supreme courts before.

The usual tendency has been to name the attorney-general. Justices Murphy and Jackson came to the bench in this way. Similarly Coolidge promoted Attorney-General Stone, and Wilson Attorney-General McReynolds, to go no further back.

Most Chief Justices have come to the bench from private life, but there is no particular virtue in that fact. Training is a post that seems as removed from courts as the treasury department is likely to come in handy in a position as exacting as the chief justiceship of the Supreme Court.

SANFORD FORUM

Dear Mr. Editor:

In a recent edition of your paper I noticed an article stating that the City planned to spray all the garbage cans in the city of Sanford. I would like to commend the idea to the highest, but the thought has come to me that a man in charge of the health, and sanitation of a community could be so thoughtful, and on the other hand allow garbage from the colored section of Sanford to be dumped just nine blocks from the city clock for the white population to smell. This is no the only vicinity that the garbage is being collected from. When the garbage is mixed with the trash it all goes to the trash pile, and it is composed of decomposed vegetables, food stuff, and scrap meats from the local butcher shops.

On Monday, June 6, I followed one of the city dump trucks to see just what it was composed of. Upon arrival I asked the driver from what section of Sanford did the load come from. He stated that it came from the downtown stores. I made it a point to go to my phone and call the Quilman who is in charge of the local health unit. He came out, and I carried him to the dump. Upon arrival we were swamped with flies, and it was very evident why they were there. He agreed that garbage was being dumped there, but I was not satisfied with the attitude he took about the matter. He also informed me that I was going to call the State Board of Health for some reason, which I did. I have received a letter stating that my county does not exist and said that Dr. Quilman was the one in the locality to see that these conditions do not exist.

I traveled very close to the trash pile for a number of years and the local-city officials are well aware of the fact that what I am saying is true. They have admitted that the garbage from Goldberry, and other sections of Sanford has been hauled to this location. A very few people in Sanford knew that the entire garbage from the Navy base was carried to the so-called City dump.

For a number of years the taxpayers and the citizens in the vicinity of the trash pile have been pestered with smoke, and odor from sour garbage, and most of all breeding grounds for rats, flies, and mosquitoes which need little to say are the most common carriers of various diseases, and fever.

We have had all kinds of false promises from the City in the past that they keep this trash pile in a condition that would be sanitary, but they have proven to be of no value. Now the police is keeping dangerous in some localities of our state. I think that after we have an epidemic it would be entirely too late. We have had several bad cases of typhoid fever in the close vicinity of the trash pile.

The citizens that live in the close vicinity of this dump, and know that these conditions do exist are drawing up a complaint in the form of a petition that this unsightly, smelly, smoke, and unsanitation be moved from the City limits of Sanford. The City has a very desirable location outside the City limits that can be used for this, and I think that the closely estimated $1,500.00 the City of Sanford receives monthly for the disposal of trash, and garbage in the form of utility tax should be more than enough to make this change.

I would like to hear from some other individual concerning the matter, and have the support of all who are interested in living in a community that have the welfare of its population at heart. We intend to see this so called dump go for good.

Thanks, J. A. Calhoun

Leesburg Packers Rack Up 4 To 3 Win Over Celery Feds

Same Two Teams Clash In Double Header At Municipal Park Tonight

Kettles Blasted For 14 Hits During Tilt; Single By Bill Good With Stebbins On Third In Ninth Scored Winning Run

VENETIAN PARK, Leesburg, June 14. (Special)—Manager Ed Levy's Sanford Celery Feds bit the dust again yesterday afternoon and suffered their second defeat in two days. Charley Cudd, former Orlando Senator hurler, took the mound for Manager Bill Good's Leesburg Packers during the Watermelon Festival contest and limited the Sanford nine to five hits while the Packers collected 11 off the hurling of big Goose Kettles to rack up a 4 to 3 victory.

The Feds grabbed an early lead in the contest by pushing over a pair of runners in the opening inning. Jerry Silverman worked Cudd for his first of four bases on balls during the afternoon. Capone misused Al Bryant's grounder and both men scored when Buddy Lake slammed a double into centerfield in the sixth frame when Gene Pratt singled and advanced to second on Don Zappel's infield grounder. Kettles singled past short into left field and Prattfield on a third. Silverman hit an infield grounder and Pratt was thrown out at the plate. Bryant lifted a long fly to center field to score Zappel from third. Leesburg scored a single run in the second inning and pushed over a pair in the sixth frame to knot the count. With two away in the ninth inning, Jay Stebbins singled to centerfield and advanced to second when Silverman misused the ball. Stebbins stole third and scored the winning marker when Bill Good slapped a single into center-

Elmer Emmerson, who pitched for the old Tacoma Washington Tigers, was almost laughed out of baseball at a critical moment in his very first game. Elmer's cap bounced off his head when he rushed in to field a bunt. In one of those pauses of hesitation, Emmerson elected to retrieve his cap and let the ball go. The runner was safe at first. Charles Graham, who is now president of the San Francisco Seals, was catching for Tacoma.

Williams Hurls Furniture Team To 5-2 Win Over Carpenters

Moss Nine Whips Robson's 13-12 In Loop Opener

Over 250 Fans Watch Initial Games In Softball Circuit

Commissioner Floyd Palmer of the City Softball League announced this morning that a meeting of team managers will be held at the Community House at the corner of First Street and Sanford Avenue on Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. Managers, or their representatives, must be present and must have completed player lists to file with the Commissioner.

Arthur Williams hurred his Haynes and Williams Furniture Company team to a brilliant 5 to 2 victory over the local Carpenters' Union last night while the Moss Amusement Company nosed out Robson's Sporting Goods 13 to 12 in a hotly contested tilt to mark the successful opening of the City Softball League.

During a meeting of loop managers last evening just prior to game time, Floyd Palmer was officially named commissioner of the league. Palmer, a former major league ball player, was very instrumental in organizing softball in Sanford a number of years ago with the late E. H. Cullum.

The best played game of the evening was the second half of the twin-bill which was won by the Haynes and Williams nine. Williams hurred brilliant ball and though he was mired for two hits, they were launched out in the third frame when the Carpenters' Union tallied their only two runs. An error by one of Williams' mates with two men on base cost the Haynes and Williams moundman a shut out. Haynes and Williams pushed over a single run in the first inning when J. W. Altman singled to center, advanced to third on a passed ball and scored on a wild pitch by L. Swafford, the Carpenters' hurler.

The furniture men counted two more in the third on singles by A. Williams and Orville Touchton and a pair of errors.

The Carpenters' scored their only two runs in their half of the third on singles by G. Swafford and Elgin, and an error.

Haynes and Williams placed the tilt on ice in the fifth when Donald Jones, who replaced Earl Evans after he sustained a knee injury during a play at the plate, singled to right-center field. Altman slammed a long drive into deep centerfield for a circuit clout.

The opening contest between Robson's and Moss was a wild affair during the first three frames. Robson's scored a single run in the first but the Moss-men came back with an even half dozen. Robson's took the lead with a seven run attack in the second and held Moss to a single marker in their half of the same frame. Robson's pushed over two in the third but Moss retaliated with four and the score stood at 11 to 10.

Trailing one run as they entered the final inning, singles by Harry Robson and Earl Evans coupled with a pair of Moss errors accounted for two runs and Robson's took a 12 to 11 lead. However, Sam Martine led off in the final half of the

Sunday's Throng

From the indication of ticket sales reported thus far, so date, it appears that the Sanford Baseball Association and the Celery Feds will establish a league attendance record Sunday afternoon when the local organization will honor Goose Kettles for his recent no-hit, no-run game hurled against the Gainesville G-Men.

Kettles was tagged with his first defeat in nine contests yesterday afternoon in Leesburg when the Packers clubbed him for 14 hits to capture a 4 to 3 affair. However, the big righthander will go to the mound Sunday afternoon when the locals tangle with the league leading Orlando Senators.

Softball's opening tilt in the City Softball League can be described as successful. Over 250 fans watched the initial contest.

The first game, after the first three innings, was a hotly contested affair and the boys settled down to playing good softball. However, the feature tilt was the second half of the twin-bill between the Haynes and Williams Furniture Company team and the local Carpenters' Union.

Red Williams was on the hill for his furnituremen and he came through with a brilliant performance. He was nicked for ten hits but kept them well scattered. His mates gave him excellent support.

L. Swafford was on the mound for the Carpenters and he hurled a brilliant brand of ball but he did not have the support that Williams' mates gave him.

nights' openers was the fact that the lights were in terrible condition. We recommend that new bulbs be placed in the reflectors and that the reflectors be cleaned thoroughly. After this is done, the lights should be adjusted properly. However, this criticism is strictly constructive, for we realize that city officials and Director Kettles have been doing the best they can to get hostilities under way and the field in proper playing condition.

We had a report late last night that Mexican League representatives of famed loop president Pasquel, are on the way to Sanford to offer the Haynes and Williams catcher, Jim Riser, a contract.

In our opinion, Riser was the outstanding player on the field last night for both clubs. His work behind the plate was nothing short of brilliant.

Bowling Alleys Will Open Here Tomorrow Night

Sports Center To Be Operated By Edgar And Ivar Jensen

Another type of recreation returns to Sanford tomorrow evening when the Sanford Bowling Alleys, located on Magnolia Avenue next door to the Sanford Bank Company, will have its grand opening at 7:30 o'clock.

The Jensen brothers, Edgar and Ivar, formerly of Orlando but now residents of this city, have completed the installation of ten regulation duck pin alleys and are outfitting with new equipment throughout.

Edgar Jensen pointed out this afternoon that the regulation duck pin alleys had been installed in order to present a type of recreation that the Sanford family can enjoy. The regulation duck pin ball weighs only four and a half pounds. He added that "the game is faster and more scientific particularly since a smaller ball and pins are used."

The brothers asserted that they intend to organize bowling leagues and in the near future schedule inter-city matches with alleys in other nearby towns.

During the war, Ivar Jensen served overseas in the Mediterranean Theater of Operations with the 12th Air Force headquarters.

There have been many freak home runs in the long history of the major leagues but it is doubtful if any ever topped the weird round-tripper turned in at Boston many years ago.
The Chicago White Sox were playing the Boston Red Sox. Art Griggs was holding down the third base post for Chicago.
A Boston batter hit a grounder ball straight at Griggs. It would have been a routine out. But just as Art reached for the ball, it hit a pebble, bounced up and hit him in the head and landed in the front boxes of the grand stand. It went for a home run.

Restraints In Construction To Be Probed

Investigation Called By Justice Department To Eliminate Housing Shortage

WASHINGTON, June 17. (AP)—The Justice Department has ordered a nationwide investigation of alleged restraints in the building industry. According to Attorney General Tom Clark, illegal trade restraints in the construction field are holding up the emergency housing program.

The investigation, says Clark, will also take in reported abuses in allied fields, including mortgage interest rates, and black market dealings in lumber. It will be a certain-raid effort to smash the bottlenecks now adding to the housing shortage.

The FBI is making the investigation for the Justice Department's anti-trust division. Assistant Attorney General Wendell Herge, who leads the anti-trust division, maintained that the entire building industry has long been plagued with illegal trade restraints. These practices, he said, not only keep prices high but also work against the use of new techniques and processes. Herge added that mass production methods have not been utilized in home construction. The anti-trust division's activity in lumber, masonry, cement and plumbing, he said, has revealed the existence of flagrantly restrictive practices. The Justice Department officer also charged that local building codes discriminate against cheaper and more efficient materials, such as prefabricated products.

Durants Enroute To Frankfurt In Custody Of Army

WASHINGTON, June 17. (AP)—Col. Jack Durant and his WAC captain wife left Washington by plane in Army custody today for Frankfurt, Germany. Both Durants are held in connection with the Kronberg Castle jewel theft case.

Durant and WAC Capt. Kathleen Nash Durant had been held in Washington since their arrest in Chicago two weeks ago.

Col. A. C. Miller of the Provost Marshal's Office said soon after the arrest of the couple that formal charges against persons involved in the case would be brought in Germany. Col. Miller accompanied the Durants back to Frankfurt today.

Former Nippon Premier Declares Japan Was Presented With Impossible Proposals In Last Stages Of Negotiations

TOKYO, June 17. (AP)—The man who was Japan's premier when the Nipponese struck at Pearl Harbor doesn't believe he should be tried as a war criminal at all.

In an exclusive statement to the Associated Press, former Premier Hideki Tojo declared today that a coalition of the United States and Britain to be put to the Japanese empire into a conflict which he declared was one civilization and they should take responsibility for destruction of civilization.

Tojo and 27 other Japanese now are on trial before an international tribunal sitting in Tokyo. They are charged with crimes against humanity.

Tojo's exclusive statement to the AP was transmitted through Japanese defense attorney Ichiro Kiyose.

Among the many alibis Tojo listed in his defense was one which asserted that Japan had been presented with impossible proposals at the last stage of the Japanese-American negotiations—probably just before the Pearl Harbor attack on Dec. 7, 1941.

Tojo also declared in his defense statement that he cannot understand the prosecution charge that the numerous defendants were able to carry out a joint conspiracy. Tojo says the reason this isn't clear to him is that the ages of the defendants are "vastly apart."

Jack Ennis Is Main Speaker At Rotary Luncheon

Pins Responsibility For Death Of GPs On U. S. Citizens

Responsibility for the deaths of members of civic clubs toward the rising generation was today stressed in a talk to Rotarians at the Madison Inn by Jack Ennis of Jacksonville. He was introduced by Leslie Sheppard.

Mr. Ennis is passenger traffic agent of the N. C. and St. Paul Railroad, chairman of leadership training of the North Florida Council of Boy Scouts, and chairman of Boy Scouts under the Department of Florida, American Legion.

Telling the story of a G. I. Joe who died in the war, he asked: "Who condemned him to death?" He proceeded to pin the responsibility on the American people for "laziness and indifference." They reduced their Army and Navy and allowed Germany to have wealth, escaped participation in the League of Nations and permitted the rise of Hitler and Mussolini, thereby condemning to death Joe a baby yet unborn, he said.

Following President Roosevelt's speech in Chicago in 1947, the country decided to tend to its defense and let European affairs slide. The people drifted blindly but were mad after the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor, he declared. He stressed the fact that the price of peace is vigilance, and outlined the possibility for a new cycle of club organizing toward that end in all countries.

Hitler was smart enough to try to change the thinking of adults, he asserted, but concentrated on youth. This is a good lesson for us to learn, he pointed out, and stressed the value of youth training through church schools, the Y.M.C.A. and Boy Scouts. He noted war statistics that showed that 69 percent of American officers and 76 percent of American service men who received medals had been boy scouts.

He asserted that youth also is not wholly to blame for the problems of juvenile delinquency and said that fathers who are too busy to give an hour a day to their boys, "are too busy." He urged in turn that civic clubs do their part for this generation of youth.

Speakers were Joe M. McCann, Leroy B. Coffman, Hal Fikret, George Stevens, and Bill Sutton, all of Orlando. Charles Morrison led in singing with Harry Kudell at the piano. Dick Akken was caterer.

Dawson Completes Study On How To Save On Poultry Feed During Shortage

County Agent C. R. Dawson has given considerable study of late to the problem of conserving the supply of poultry feed as much as possible as far as farmers and poultrymen are concerned. The following advice was today given on the subject by Mr. Dawson.

"In these days of scarcity of things in general and poultry feed in particular, it behooves us to get the most out of available feed. Every farmer can do several things to stretch his feed supply. Too much feed in the feeder causes hens to waste feed. Fill the hoppers not more than two-thirds full. It is better business to use additional hoppers which provide plenty of feeding space than to over fill a small number of hoppers.

"Much feed is lost every year from poorly constructed hoppers and from putting too much feed in the hoppers. The hopper should be made so it is impossible for a chicken to scratch or 'bill' feed out. It will help to have a flange on the inside of the top of each side of the hopper.

"A feed on the hoppers will keep chickens from getting in the hopper and helps keep droppings out of the feed. Hoppers kept out doors should be covered to keep out the rain. The more important point is not to put too much feed in the hopper. It is better to build as many more hoppers as is necessary. If wind blows feed out of the hoppers which are in an exposed location, it is better to use pellets instead of mash.

"Another stretcher of feed supplies is to use all the fresh, green feed possible. Green grass may be supplied as pasture or finely chopping and fed in the chicken yard or pens. Such green feed is very important to growing birds and laying hens. It is rich in protein and vitamins.

It is also important to your pocket book, because when properly used, fresh green feed may save up to 25% of the amount of feed otherwise used. Think of the saving in the cost.

"Milk is a valuable supplement to poultry feed. Liquid or condensed skim milk, whey, or buttermilk are good feed stretchers.

"Providing feed in such a way as to permit the birds to swallow feed on the ground is the most desirable waste but there is another waste seldom considered. It is concerned with using protein efficiently. When we use a mash low in protein, we waste the grains found in the mash because they are not utilized efficiently without protein.

"Starting chicks need 20% of good protein. Any less will not give best results. Feeding low protein mash is a waste of feed.

"Growing chicks need at least 18% protein and this should be calculated on a basis of mash and scratch grain combined. Keep in mind that grains are low in protein and the birds need good quality protein feeds if their feed is to be utilized efficiently. With the properly balanced ration a 3 pound broiler in twelve to thirteen weeks should have consumed about 10 pounds of feed. If it takes 10 weeks and 15 pounds of feed, or over there is a feed waste which should be corrected."

Mr. and Mrs. Sutton believe that a playmate—or possibly a dog—might have slammed shut the door and caused Jimmy to suffocate.
