Public Hearing Punctuated By Heated Protests

Sanford P & Z Delays Group Home Amendment Decision

By Nancy Simmons
Herald Staff Writer

After heated protests from residents Thursday, the Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission postponed any decision on a residential care amendment until January.

The amendment would allow group homes for elderly persons, physically and mentally handicapped persons and dependent children. Although the amendment prohibits those who have committed violent crimes or sex offenses from living in a group home, residents opposing the amendment said all questions regarding the Amendment would allow group homes for elderly, physically and mentally handicapped and dependent children.

group home have not yet been answered. Glenn Domen, 600 Oak St., who works as a fireman in Jacksonville, said he has had the opportunity to see group homes for the mentally handicapped there. He said the individuals he has met who live in group homes in Jacksonville are those severely handicapped.

He, and others from the audience, questioned what measures could or would be taken to make certain that the staff of such a group home here would be properly trained.

Harry Ellis, 818 S. Park Ave., raised several questions. "How is the city going to make sure the people are getting proper care, and are not being victimized?" he asked.

He also pointed out several seemingly contradictory statements in the proposed amendment. One point in question is the statement that

24-hour supervision is provided, but "not required at all times."

Commission members suggested that when the residents are sleeping, the supervisor does not have to be awake watching them. Ellis believes an active supervisor should be provided through the night also.

Another discrepancy Ellis noted is the fact before a person can get licensed for a group home through the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, that person must have a license in the city in which they are operating.

New Facts Unfold On Pipe Bomb

In the latest developments involving the explosion of a homemade bomb at Seminole High School, school administrators have learned:

—That a second student unwittingly helped Michael David Garner build the bomb; the bomb was made on school property; and a teacher aide may be added to the auto shop class to help its instructor in handling supervision of the class.

Bobby Lundquist, SHS vice principal, said he now agrees with Sanford Police that Garner, 17, a senior at the Sanford school, made the device in the school's auto repair shop.

The bomb exploded in Garner's hand Tuesday afternoon, after he lit the fuse of the device while standing in front of a metal garage-like door just outside of the auto class building.

Garner was airlifted from the school after the accident to the Orlando Regional Medical Center, where he underwent eight hours of surgery to repair severe damage to his left arm and other wounds around his left side.

ORMC Spokesman David King, said Garner remains in critical condition today, with no signs yet as to whether he'll regain the use of the injured arm.

"It's really too early to tell what will happen with him, but doctors still expect Garner will have to undergo more surgery in the future," King said.

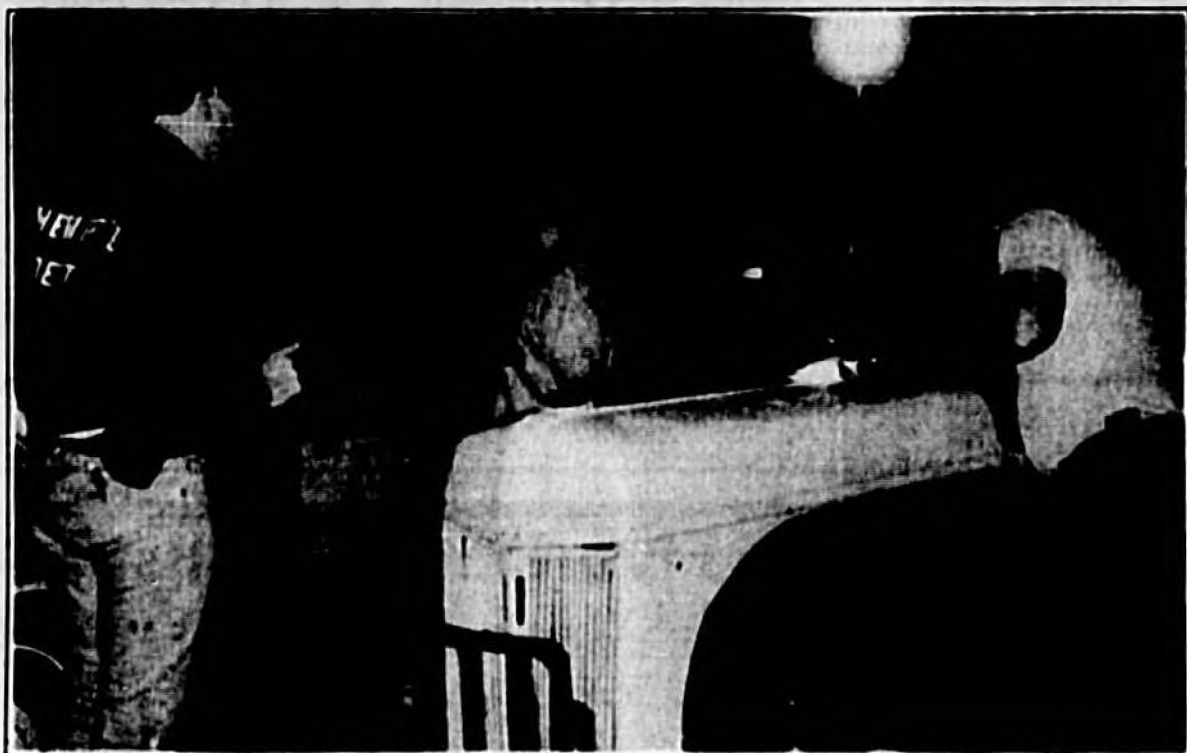

Lundquist said he's heard new testimony from students claiming they saw Garner build the bomb in the class. He said earlier he didn't think Garner could've made the bomb at the school, but that was before he heard the same testimony SPD investigators already had confirming that's where Garner actually constructed the bomb.

When Lundquist first heard of the police reports that Garner built the bomb in the school's auto shop he said that wasn't possible, based on the testimony from students. However, Lundquist said he's since heard testimony from the students interviewed by Sanford Police investigators, which indicate the department's findings are correct.

The police described the bomb as being a metal pipe about 18" in length and welded shut at one end. Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett said the device was filled with gun powder, sugar, oxygen pellets and pebbles.

"After getting all the statements from the students (who witnessed the events leading to the accident) we (SHS officials) concur the bomb was built at the

Photo below shows sheriff's investigator Eric Bryant and deputy Stewart Walthers taking inventory of stolen items found in that Oviedo home of a suspected "fence." The investigation, spearheaded by Oviedo police, continues. Only one suspected dealer in stolen goods, Ulysses McFadden, 39, was arrested in the raid.

Lawmen Find House Full Of Stolen Goods

Suspected 'Fence' Arrested

A cornucopia of goods believed stolen in Seminole and Orange counties was found at the 3-bedroom Oviedo home of a suspected "fence" in a Thursday night raid on that home. Lawmen said the home was so full of stolen goods they didn't know where to begin in amassing the find.

In addition to the items inside the home, which ranged from musical instruments, to video recorders and 20 to 30 firearms — 11 vehicles, at least some suspected to be stolen, were recovered at the scene. A tractor was also found.

Two trucks, one a moving van bearing the logo "All-Time Moving and Storage," and a flatter truck were found to be filled with what lawmen said were stolen goods, including about $4,500 worth lawn care equipment. Items found were both new and used. City County Investigative Bureau Commander Lt. Donald Eslinger said some items were still boxed with store price tags attached.

The lone resident of the home, Ulysses "Bone" McFadden, 39, of 558 Second St., Oviedo, was nabbed when CCIB agents, Oviedo police and Seminole County sheriff's deputies with a warrant raided the home at about 8:45 p.m. Sanford police also aided in the investigation.

About 15 lawmen were on the scene Thursday and Eslinger said it will take several days for sheriff's investigators to examine the find and determine what is and is not stolen and the source of the goods. Drug paraphernalia was also found.

Eslinger said that McFadden, who has been charged with three counts of trafficking in stolen property and one count of sale of cocaine, did not resist the lawmen. Oviedo police detective Sgt. Sparky Dingess, who spearheaded the investigation, said that McFadden was "cooperative" after his arrest and the

Seminole County Loses 1st Round In School Funding Suit

Staff and Wire Reports

A Seminole County School Board official, declaring the "war is not over," said Thursday the county and 21 other school boards in Florida will appeal a circuit judge's ruling upholding key elements of the formula used to distribute $6 billion in education money to school districts.

Department of Education officials hailed Judge Lewis Hall's Wednesday ruling. However, lawyers for 22 school boards that charge the Florida Education Funding Program is unfair said they will ask the judge to reconsider and appeal if he stands by his decision.

"When the number of dollars of local taxes is added to the number of state dollars (for education) and divided by the number of students in the district, the total amount is significantly less than other counties in the state," said Carey Ferrell, assistant superintendent for business and finance in Seminole County.

Total public school funding is a mixture of state money appropriated by the Legislature, required local property taxes and optional property taxes. It amounts to $5.8 billion for the 1987-88 fiscal year.

Twenty-two counties, including Seminole, Hillsborough, Escambia, Orange and Duval, sued the state in spring 1986, charging the program does not ensure all students an equal educational opportunity required by the Constitution because some districts have more money per pupil than others.

Hall upheld the use of district cost differentials — estimates of the price of services and materials purchased by school boards — in determining a county's share of the total pot of state money. He also found that discretionary property taxes did not give counties with a large tax roll an unconstitutional advantage over so-called "property poor" counties.

"This case will ultimately wind up in the state supreme court," Ferrell said. "There's been one battle, but the war is not over. The appeals process will go on."

The contention of the plaintive counties, is that the state has a responsibility to compensate counties for education money they cannot raise through local taxes, Ferrell said, "so that a child's education is not dependent on the county in which he lives. Seminole County has a relatively low tax base for our number of students."

"The present funding formula does not make an equitable distribution based on student distribution and so forth," agreed Ned Julian, attorney for the Seminole County School Board.

"We strongly feel it is constitutional, and the judge has concurred in part," said David Voss, spokesman for Education Commissioner Betty Castor. "We have one of the most equitable formulas in the country. While it is imperfect, it is still one of the best."

"Judge Hall has ruled on three issues raised in the case and ruled in the state's favor," said Barbara Harmon, DOE deputy general counsel. "So those issues have been resolved."

The counties also are challenging the way state money is distributed for school buses, program improvements and other "categorical" appropriations. Those remaining issues will be resolved during a trial scheduled for the first two weeks of February.

Castor is sympathetic to the counties' concerns even while fighting them in court. Voss said. She has worked with legislative leaders to reduce the difference in funding from county to county.

Castor's proposed 1988-89 education budget, endorsed by the Cabinet this week, guarantees

Winter Springs Employee Seeks Dismissal Of Bugging Charges

By Richard Whittaker
Herald Staff Writer

A Seminole County circuit judge may rule Monday whether to dismiss charges against a Winter Springs city employee who allegedly illegally taped a meeting in the city manager's office.

Howard Browning, a utilities employee with the city, was charged with two counts of "intercepting and disclosing oral communication" for allegedly tape-recording a meeting without the knowledge of the other two persons in attendance.

Browning was freed on a $1,000 bond after pleading not guilty to the charges in a previous court appearance.

Browning contends the charges have been filed in an effort to "harass me and get me off the city's payroll." Browning says his dispute with the city began originally over his demotion and subsequent efforts to be reinstated as a supervisor, efforts he says were thwarted by the city administration.

Browning allegedly had a tape recorder in his pocket turned on during a meeting last February in Winter Springs City Manager Richard Rozansky's office attended by another utilities

World Watches As Budget Pact Stalls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress and the administration say their anti-deficit negotiations are on course and their hopes alive for an 11th-hour compromise on new taxes and spending cuts before time runs out at midnight.

"I am not discouraged in any sense," said House Democratic leader Thomas Foley of Washington, who has presided over 20 days of private negotiations.

But there were doubts that the government could avoid the initial implementation of $23 billion in automatic spending cuts that by law take effect unless Congress and President

Asbestos Checks Planned For Schools

Seminole County School officials have set Dec. 4th as the deadline to accept bids from firms to conduct asbestos inspections for all district school buildings and to submit a plan to remove the substance if it is determined to be a health hazard.

The Seminole County School Board has also voted to approve tests for Lyman High School's auditorium and band room to confirm there was no health risk from asbestos.

Seminole High and Lyman after no written record could be found listing any asbestos inspections for the schools. After an Environmental Protection Agency inspection in August of Lyman's band room and auditorium ceilings, the inspector told officials the ceilings might contain asbestos.

Richard Wells, assistant superintendent for facilities and transportation, said a private engineering firm's tests agreed with the EPA findings.

Wells said he thought Lyman's students and teachers were under no health risk, but he wanted to conduct additional air tests to be sure. He said the tests will likely take place next week. Earlier inspections showed a relatively low release of asbestos particles at Seminole High, Wells said. He said the air at the school will continue to be monitored.

Wells wrote in a memorandum that he could find no record of an asbestos inspection of county schools during the 1979 removal project although "it would seem that all schools at that time would have been inspected." He wrote that Seminole County facility staff correctly felt that asbestos should be first removed from student- and teacher-occupied areas during the project.

The EPA has fined the county school district $47,700 for keeping poor records on asbestos inspections. The agency listed 15 violations of federal prohibition of asbestos in school buildings, including a lack of written proof that Lyman had ever been inspected.

EPA officials said because the district is correcting the violations, the $47,700 fine should be reduced to about $4,700.

Asbestos, once a common insulating material, has been found to cause cancer.

Defendant Found With Pot In Shoe After Being Sentenced For Theft

A Sanford man, who was sentenced to five years probation on grand theft charges, hid a bag of marijuana in his shoe that was discovered when he was searched by a Seminole County Sheriff's deputy immediately after being taken from the courtroom.

Daniel Hugo Kish, 26, 157 Elder Road, Sanford, was being charged with possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana, after Sheriff's deputy Ed Hughes found the bag when he searched Kish.

Prior to the discovery, Kish was ordered to serve 364 days in the Seminole County Jail as part of his probation sentence.

After his sentencing, Kish was taken to the area of the courtroom where deputies hold prisoners awaiting court appearances or transportation back to the Seminole County Jail.

All persons remanded to custody by judges must be totally searched, according to Lt. Robert Klunker, of Seminole County Sheriff's Judicial Department. Hughes said the standard procedure is to also check the prisoners' shoes during the search.

When Kish was told to turn his shoes up and tap the heels of both, he seemed reluctant, according to Hughes. Kish said, "Man, I've had these shoes on for 24 hours, they're going to stink real bad," according to Hughes.

When Kish refused to have his shoes checked, Hughes said he then grabbed them, turned them up and tapped the heels, which made the plastic bag containing the marijuana fall out of the toe of one of the shoes.

Kish is not allowed to have any marijuana in his possession, according to the stipulation of the probation documents he'd just signed before being searched. Hughes said he didn't know for sure if the incident constituted a violation of probation or not.

"He sure took a quizzing from the other prisoners in the area on his way out of here (the holding) area though," Hughes said.

Kish was returned to the jail where he will now face the additional charge against him. "He (Kish) hopped to jail with our shoe on and one shoe off," Hughes said.

Indiangivers Take Warm Temps Back

Fred H. Cooper
Herald Staff Writer
 Remember the other day when you were advised to add 10 degrees to that day's temperatures to get an idea of what was going to happen the next day. Well, weather is an Indian giver. It's taking that 10 degrees back. Now, subtract 10 degrees from yesterday to get tomorrow. You kinda got the idea this morning didn't you?

Read the readings for the past 24-hours - rain, balmy temperatures, etc. The next. Clear skies, very low humidity, no rain, very cool temps, etc. In fact, it probably will go down to the mid-40s tonight and only into the low 70s tomorrow. For goodness sake, wear a jacket to the ballgame tonight. And tomorrow night.

It's gonna stay this way until that front which is stuck in the southern part of the state decides to do something. Since it's stationary, it opens the door, or window so to speak, for a front just to the north of us. The wind is from the north, all the way from Alaska. You could tell though, couldn't you?

Good news for the folks on the Suncoast. Wildlife officials don't know what has caused the early migration of thousands of sandhill cranes who have arrived in Florida several weeks ahead of schedule.

The long-legged birds annually migrate from marsh and prairie nesting areas in Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Ontario, Canada, to settle in among Florida's non-migratory sandhill crane population, from the Panhandle down to Lake Okeechobee.

Steve Nesbitt, a bird expert with the state Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission office in Gainesville, said several thousand sandhill cranes set up winter homes in the Tampa Bay area, particularly in Pasco and Hernando counties north of Tampa.

Nesbitt said the sandhill cranes usually begin arriving in Florida in small numbers in early November, with the peak arrival time usually between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

But he said a majority of the 15,000 to 20,000 birds that normally migrate into Florida already have arrived. He said the early migration may be the result of cold weather in the north, but said it also could have something to do with food supply.

We were concerned about cranberries for Thanksgiving, so made appropriate inquiries so our fellow Seminolians were be informed. There's good news and bad.

The Cape Cod cranberry crop is down this year, but not enough to keep it from its traditional place alongside the turkey and stuffing on Thanksgiving dinner plates, a scientist says.

Cape Cod cranberry growers feared losing as much as half of their crop because of a fungus called phytophthora, which rots away the root of the plant, said Frank Caruso, a plant pathologist at the University of Massachusetts Cranberry Experiment Station in East Wareham.

About 46 percent of the nation's cranberry crop is produced in Massachusetts, mostly on Cape Cod, he said.

A rapid cold front pushed southeast across the upper Midwest early today, sending windchill levels to 20 below zero over parts of Michigan and threatening Florida with weekend temperatures that may dip below freezing.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Officials: Malpractice Proposal Could Prompt Special Session

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Key legislators and a top aide to Gov. Bob Martinez say they have made significant progress in addressing the medical malpractice crisis that one leading doctor charges has made Florida "a medical wasteland."

Rising medical malpractice costs have driven many doctors out of high-risk specialties and forced some hospitals to curtail emergency room services, citing a shortage of doctors willing to work in them.

On Thursday, Florida Medical Association President James White condemned legislators who have been unable to agree on solutions to the crisis.

"For far too long Floridians have waited in vain for the Legislature to assure them quality health care will continue," White said. "Florida has become a medical wasteland, blighted by legislative inaction."

Johnson Calls For Tax Repeal

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Two key legislative supporters of the services tax are now calling for its repeal, and one of them thinks the whole subject of taxes should be submitted once again to a study commission.

Rep. Ron Johnson, D-Panama City, a member of the House inner circle and formerly a pro-tax stalwart, announced his support for repeal Wednesday. Johnson cited overwhelming opposition to the services tax in his conservative north Florida district.

Part Of 'Information Age' In Schools

Computers Are Part Of Curriculum Now

By Brian Hedberg
Herald Staff Writer

Holmes, do you know where computers are turning up these days?

In elementary, my dear Watson.

Students in Seminole County are becoming familiar with computers as early as kindergarten, said Gary Becker, director of media services for the Seminole County School Board.

"One of the major reasons schools are getting into the computer age is that society as a whole is beginning to use it as a useful informational tool," Becker said. "We saw this as an area that was growing and that there was a need to expose students to computers."

Every school in the county has computers and computer courses, Becker said, most as a result of computer literacy requirement adopted by the school board in early 1984. He said computers are used in three areas: tutorial assistance and drills, "computer literacy" and computer application, such as word processing.

Idyllwild Elementary in Sanford had its fourth- and fifth-graders demonstrate computer know-how for parents Tuesday as part of the school's activities during American Education Week.

"All my children are teaching their parents," said Nancee Lowery, teacher of gifted students at Idyllwild, clearly proud of the school's computer literacy program.

Students are equally enamored. "At lunchtime, the boys inhale their food," Lowery said. "I give free computer time after lunch. I only have one computer, and it's in high demand."

"It's still new enough to most children that it's a wonderful motivational tool," she said.

At the computer demonstration, students showed the early warning signs of becoming whiz kids.

Lowery jovially chided one boy, who attempted to transfer his idea to the keyboard. "You're trying to go too far too fast. I haven't taken you that far."

Ben Richards, 9, of Sanford, began his friendship with computers in first grade. "He started on a computer program called Brain Drain, and he couldn't even read the words," Lowery said. She said Ben kept working on the program until he could read the words. "From then on, he started reading everything," she said.

Last year, the fourth-grader won the Harcourt, Brace, Jovanovich Excellence in Reading award for third-graders in Seminole County. "I almost jumped five feet in the air when I heard," Ben said.

In one computer program at Idyllwild, "States and Traits," the child identifies states by their traits and places them in their proper position on a U.S. map. With a pad, stylus and alternate computer disc, stunning color graphics can be drawn. Over 600 students at Idyllwild spend at least 20 minutes with computers each week during the second and fourth school quarters. Gifted students get hands-on computer experience during one class period each week.

Missile Pact Is Chief Goal

Whether Ronald Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev hold a summit before the year is out is nothing to lose sleep over.

What counts is that Washington and Moscow not fumble the current opportunity to clinch an agreement eliminating medium- and short-range nuclear missiles on a global basis. And despite Gorbachev's rejection of an early superpower summit, both sides moved closer to completing the missile deal during Secretary of State Shultz's recent visit to the Kremlin.

The White House must avoid the temptation of allowing a third Reagan-Gorbachev summit to become a goal in itself rather than a diplomatic tool for achieving U.S. objectives. American over eagerness for a meeting invites the Soviets to extract additional concessions in exchange for simply setting a summit date.

It is impossible to know for sure whether Gorbachev's dilatory tactics are: 1) a crude attempt to pressure the Reagan administration into giving ground on strategic defenses; 2) an indication that internal Soviet opposition to the proposed arms reductions necessitates a slowdown in the process; 3) a clumsy effort to take advantage of the president's currently embattled political posture.

If, in fact, Gorbachev is serious about sacrificing the missile agreement at hand in order to thwart the U.S. Strategic Defense Initiative, he has robbed Reagan's critics of their fundamental argument — namely, that SDI will never work and is a colossal waste of resources and talent. The Russian leader obviously believes otherwise.

Whatever Gorbachev's reasons, the president is wise to emphasize that he is in no hurry to sit down with his Soviet counterpart merely for the sake of an international media extravaganza. Indeed, completion of the weapons treaty ought to be a prerequisite of the next superpower summit.

At the same time, the Western world should not lose sight of the fact that Gorbachev's repudiation of a meeting date marks yet another broken Soviet promise. In the communique signed at the end of Foreign Minister Shevardnadze's trip to Washington in September, the Kremlin specifically pledged to hold a summit in Washington this fall. The ease with which Gorbachev apparently went back on his written word is an important lesson in how Moscow traditionally does business with the West.

Now is the time for the United States and its allies to demonstrate patience and steadiness instead of the all-too-common desire for instant gratification of Western expectations. Whether the Euromissile pact is nailed down in a few weeks or a few months hardly matters; whether a summit is held this year or next matters even less.

Gorbachev surely realizes that if he fails to come to terms with Ronald Reagan, he will find it much more difficult to strike a bargain with the next president. On the other hand, a nuclear missile treaty signed by Reagan could set the stage for a productive new era in superpower cooperation, one which Gorbachev could benefit from long after this president leaves office. The choice, at this point, is entirely up to the Kremlin.

A Judge Should Be Judged On Compassion

With President Reagan's third Supreme Court nominee now before the Senate, it may be worthwhile to consider why the president's first choice, Judge Bork, was so sharply rejected by the Senate.

Early in the confirmation hearings of Judge Bork my daughter wrote me that if she were a senator, she would vote against Bork because "he has no feeling for people."

Several weeks later the last senator to publicly announce his position just before the Senate roll call vote was Republican Sen. John Warner of Virginia, who voted against Bork on precisely those grounds.

He told the Senate that as a young lawyer when he was working as a clerk for Judge Barrett Prettyman, the judge was faced with a tough decision. It involved a group of low-income families who refused to abandon their houses in the face of an order designed to clear the way for a new government project. Judge Prettyman, on the day before the decision, took his young clerk out to visit the people who lived in the simple homes. The next day he ruled that the houses should stay because of the deep human attachments of the men and women who had struggled to purchase and maintain those homes.

I do not believe that Bork understands this human side of the law.

Writing in The Washington Post of Oct. 11, 1987, Nat Hentoff comments on a speech by Justice William Brennan to the New York Bar Association.

The New York Bar opposed Bork's nomination on grounds that his judicial philosophy ran counter to "many of the fundamental rights and liberties protected by the Constitution."

Brennan did not mention Bork, but he told the lawyers that Justice Cardozo has "awakened America to the human reality of the judicial process. From him we learned that judging could not properly be characterized as simply the application of pure reason to legal problems, nor, at the other extreme, as the application of the personal will or passion of the judge."

Brennan said that for a judge "sensitivity to one's intuitive and passionate responses and awareness of the range of human experience" is "not only an inevitable but a desirable part of the judicial process." Only by being open to the "concrete human realities" can a judge "come to understand the complex human meaning of a rich term such as 'liberty.'"

Judges obsessed with "abstract rationality" said Brennan, fail to understand that "reliance on formal rules alone" is never sufficient "to be faithful to the vision of the framers."

Testifying against Judge Bork's confirmation, Shirley Haskinler — a former federal court of appeals judge — spoke of Bork's "quest for certitudes" in the Constitution as a way to avoid "having to confront the grief and untidiness of the human condition."

When Sen. Alan Simpson asked Bork why he wanted to be a Supreme Court Justice he answered that he had spent his life "in the intellectual pursuits of the law" and that to be on the Supreme Court "would be an intellectual feast."

This is not enough for law and justice; it is not enough to discharge what we owe to our fellow humans.

VIEWPOINT

Proposals Bad For Business

By William E. Hawkins

Among the field of Democratic presidential candidates and the party's leaders in Congress, there is much talk about improving America's "competitiveness" in world markets and of creating more jobs in industry. These are noble objectives, but is the commitment credible?

With the exception of Missouri Rep. Richard Gephardt's trade bill, the Democrats have come up with few proposals for improving the country's economic performance. Just the opposite. Last year was a tax reform that shifted $120 billion in taxes to business. This year is a barrage of bills that would require business to provide more pay and social services to employees.

Among the bills pending:

Mandated parental leave of 18 to 26 weeks for the birth, death or illness of a child. During the leave, the firm would have to continue paying benefits and the employee would be guaranteed the same or similar job on his return. This would cover firms as small as 15 employees.

A higher minimum wage, $4.65 per hour by January 1990 with automatic increases to keep the minimum equal to half the average national wage rate. Economic studies have shown repeatedly that minimum wages increase unemployment, particularly among teenagers who make up most of those who hold such jobs. Minimum wages are often used as a floor upon which an entire system of wage differentials are built. Raising the floor raises the entire structure. Tying the minimum wage to average wages rather than to inflation makes this tactic of escalation obvious.

The expansion of labor union power in the construction industry by forcing "dual shop" firms that employ both union and non-union workers to pay everyone the union wage. This will work against many construction workers because they can actually make more money each year by working for less per hour. This is because firms using non-union workers win more contracts due to lower costs than do firms completely dominated by unions.

Carlucci Pals Lobbied Strangely

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Business and government associates of National Security Adviser Frank Carlucci, President Reagan's choice as the new secretary of defense, engaged in an unusual lobbying campaign last summer. They helped to pressure journalists and members of the Senate into laying off a huge Japanese trading company involved in the illegal sale of submarine propeller-milling machinery to the Soviet Union.

The company is C. Itoh, perhaps Japan's largest trading firm, with annual revenues of $62 billion. It acted as export broker in the illegal $17 million sale by Toshiba Machine Co., which has permitted the Soviets to make submarines so quiet that they are virtually undetectable. It could cost American taxpayers $30 billion to overcome the technological advantage.

C. Itoh claims it didn't know what Toshiba was selling to the Soviets, and no C. Itoh employee has been identified by the Japanese government as having knowledge of the illicit deal's details.

But just in case the company's

SCIENCE WORLD

Attacks Heating Up

One of the most striking aspects of the current political scene is the exceptional savagery with which the Democrats are waging war against President Reagan and his policies. Of course, opposition parties are expected to oppose — that's what they're for. But an anonymous White House official was quoted the other day as saying that he could not recall, in his own personal experience, any previous time when the barrage laid down by the Democrats in Congress was quite so vicious.

Of course, the Reagan presidency was bound to enter its lame-duck stage sooner or later. On top of that unavoidable disability, the president has sustained, in just over a year, two heavy blows: Democratic recapture of the Senate by virtue of narrow victories in half a dozen close contests, and the long agony of the Iran/contras controversy. (Not even the recent release of the investigative committee's report will mark the end of that episode: The indictments of Col. Oliver North, Adm. John Poindexter and others still lie ahead.)

Nor have recent months treated Reagan much better. The economy has held up remarkably well, but it remains to be seen whether the Oct. 19 crash was merely a healthy correction in an overpriced stock market or presaged a more general drift toward recession.

Only the steady progress toward a summit with Mikhail Gorbachev or the signing of an INF treaty, has shown President Reagan in a favorable light. And even that achievement has been denounced by many of the president's own conservative supporters as a sellout to the left.

In view of all this, one might expect to find the Democratic party gravely preparing itself to assume executive responsibility in January 1989, and meanwhile choosing with care both its issues and its style.

Instead, the Senate Democrats howled down the nomination of a truly distinguished jurist to the Supreme Court by means of tactics that the Washington correspondent of London's Spectator described to his British readers as "sickening"; the Democrats in control of the Governing Council of the American Physical Society so misrepresented the findings of an APS study group concerning SDI that twelve of the 17 members of the study group filed a written protest; and the Democratic speaker of the House entered into private negotiations with the president of Nicaragua, glibly promising to tell the secretary of state all about it later. What accounts for this weird amalgam of bitterness, dishonesty and outright contempt?

The answer lies, I believe, in a look at the present condition of the Democratic Party. Having lost four of the last five presidential elections and having spent several years in a fruitless search for "new ideas," it has concluded (correctly) that there are none; that the old Democratic formula for snake oil — taxing and spending — is all it has to peddle, and that the current popularity of that ancient nostrum is, to put it gently, debatable.

Stars May Be Clocks

By United Press International

Pulsars are stars that emit rapid pulses of radio waves, but according to scientists at least one may also be an efficient clock.

A team at Princeton University, the National Bureau of Standards and the Arecibo Observatory in Puerto Rico says a pulsar known as PSR 1509-21 rotates at such a stable rate and emits pulses of radiation so regularly it could be a better timekeeper than an atomic clock, the most accurate timepiece available.

"This pulsar has been known for five years, so it's not so much a discovery of an object as of a new use for an object," said Joseph Taylor, a Princeton physics professor and co-author of a report on the pulsar in the journal Science.

Pulsar PSR 1509-21 is located in the vicinity of the Northern Cross constellation.

The atomic clock would still be better over short timespans of hours or days, Taylor said, because of the difficulty in measuring the pulsar's activities at such a distance. However, the pulsar could be useful for measuring months or years.

At institutions such as the National Bureau of Standards, many atomic clocks are kept going. Those that seem to give a very different time reading than the others are disregarded, and the rest are averaged to give a standard time that serves as a reference for other organizations, Taylor said.

To use a pulsar this way, several other suitable pulsars would have to be found, Taylor said they are no doubt out there — they just haven't been thought of this way.

Education and heart disease
Women who are better educated may be less likely to develop heart disease, according to the results of a University of Pittsburgh study that compared college graduates with high school dropouts.

Scientists at the school found women who had less than a high school education tended to have higher blood pressure, higher levels of cholesterol, higher amounts of fat in their blood, and were more likely to be obese — all conditions associated with heart disease.

The researchers based their findings on a study of 541 healthy, pre-menopausal women from the Pittsburgh area.

Whitehead in the same conversation conceded that the State Department does not even have an investigative office that could have looked into C. Itoh's involvement. He also agreed that the department was basing its judgment of C. Itoh's purity on information provided by the Japanese government.

The second official Hills recommended as a good reference for C. Itoh was Ambassador Robert Dean, a special assistant on the National Security Council, headed by Carlucci. Dean had already worked in tandem with Hills to bring pressure on Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Ill. The senator was about to introduce a bill that would penalize C. Itoh by name, as well as other trading companies that might be involved in high-technology sales to the Soviets.

Hills told our reporter Gary Clouser that he had tried to get Dixon's staff to amend the bill to leave out C. Itoh's name. Hills also acknowledged that he had registered as a foreign agent for C. Itoh after that lobbying effort. He further admitted personally speaking on behalf of C. Itoh to another senator, to Whitehead and to then-Secretary of Labor William Brock.

The crucial day for Carlucci's friends bringing pressure on C. Itoh's critics was Friday, Aug. 7. On that day the NSC, with Carlucci in charge, reportedly agreed in a closed-door meeting to restrict the public release of information on alleged high-tech diversions as much as possible, to "limit embarrassment" to Japan and other nations.

That same day, Dean was dispatched to give Dixon a private briefing, in which he maintained that C. Itoh was "an unwitting agent" for the propeller machinery sale. When Dixon charged that the National Security Council was relying solely on the Japanese investigation of the deal, Dean admitted this, our source reported.

Even so, Dixon had his bill redrafted to omit C. Itoh's name, making it more generic. But Carlucci's friends didn't have complete success in their lobbying blitz. In remarks he made when he introduced the bill that day, Dixon was scathing about C. Itoh's involvement in the sale — and its responsibility whether company officials knew what they were doing or not.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Iran Negotiating Defense Treaty With The Soviet Union

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Iranian parliamentary speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani says Tehran is negotiating a new defense pact with the Soviet Union, but has so far made little progress.

Rafsanjani made the comment in an interview published today by the Japanese newspaper Asahi Shimbun.

The Tokyo newspaper said Rafsanjani, chairman of the National Consultative Assembly, made the remark in an exclusive interview with its correspondent in Tehran Wednesday.

"Iran refuses both communism and capitalism but is ready to enter into cooperative relations with any country if possible regardless of whether it is a member of the West or the East," Rafsanjani was quoted as saying.

Officials Baffled By London Fire

LONDON (UPI) — Fire officials, "mystified" by the rapid spread of the inferno that killed 30 people and injured 21 in the King's Cross subway station, said automatic sprinklers could have slowed the blaze and possibly saved lives.

Wednesday night's blaze evidently started on a wood-and-metal escalator, the officials said, but added that they did not know the cause or why it spread so rapidly "in a tremendous burst of heat and fire" through the station.

The fire blacked out the station, triggered panic among thousands of commuters and trapped subway riders in a maze of corridors.

Admiral: U.S. Not Deterred

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — The U.S. military's Pacific commander vowed today the murders of American servicemen by communist hit squads last month would serve only to create closer bonds between the Philippines and the United States.

Authorities near Angeles City, where the Oct. 28 murders were committed, announced the capture of two more members of the rebel cell believed to have planned and carried out the killings. Twenty-one people were formally charged with the murders Thursday.

Adm. Ronald J. Hays, commander-in-chief of the U.S. Pacific Command, praised the help and cooperation of Philippine investigators during a luncheon address to the American Chamber of Commerce in Manila.

But "the U.S. will not back down from terrorists," he said. "Those responsible for the recent murders at Clark ... will find that the crime does exactly the opposite. They will find it is counter-productive. Those actions will simply serve to draw our two countries closer together."

Kidnapped Girl Rescued

ESTEPONA, Spain (UPI) — Police raided an apartment on the Mediterranean Coast today and rescued a 5-year-old girl held captive for 10 days by kidnapers demanding a $4 million ransom.

Melodie Nakachian, daughter of Lebanese construction magnate Raymond Nakachian and South Korean rock-opera singer Kimera, was snatched from a car by four masked men as she was being driven to school Nov. 9.

"Her first words were, 'Papa, I'm okay, don't cry,'" her father told reporters after her return to the family home, Villa Melodie, in Estepona, 390 miles south of Madrid.

French Celebrate Uncorking of Beaujolais Nouveau Party

PARIS (UPI) — Parisians sipped samples and sang songs to pay homage to France's Beaujolais Nouveau, uncorked around the world Thursday as the first wine of the season and this year emerged from the barrel with a slight whiff of banana.

Wine lovers lined up in bars and restaurants in major world capitals to taste the fruity red wine, which was judged above average. In France, waiters dressed in traditional costumes from the Beaujolais region created a festive atmosphere for what has become an annual rite.

"It's as soft as a thigh," said Paul Georges, 76, who makes his own Beaujolais for his Duc de Richelieu restaurant.

"All my life I've had an injection of Beaujolais. That's why I'm so well preserved," he said, turning up a silver cup tied by a string around his neck.

The November unveiling of the first French wine of the season began as a commercial enterprise 18 years ago and has become a near holiday in holiday-loving France.

The Interprofessional Union of Beaujolais Wines this year set Nov. 19 as the first day that Beaujolais Nouveau can be legally sold in bars and restaurants around the globe.

At 12:01 a.m., shippers carrying bottles and casks of the wine fanned out across Europe from a tiny strip of eastern France, 34 miles long and 9 miles wide, where 5,000 farmers grow grapes on gentle slopes.

Exporters were allowed to air-freight their wines a few days early to reach countries like the United States, Australia, Japan and Canada in time for the uncorking.

Teams of drivers packed their cars with wine and raced from the Beaujolais region to the English Channel ferries to see who could be the first to bring the wine into Britain.

The Beaujolais union served notice that this year's harvest would have a slight taste of banana, a precision not noticed by many unprofessional tasters. It said late sunshine in September let the grapes ripen quickly, making them sweeter with less acidity.

Shevardnadze, Shultz Meet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze will meet in Geneva next week to make final preparations for next month's superpower summit, the U.S. and Soviet governments announced today.

The State Department said the two men will "discuss remaining outstanding issues" blocking a medium-range missile treaty that is to be signed at the Washington summit. The Soviet government said they would complete work on the treaty.

U.S. officials denied Shultz will be undertaking a "rescue mission" for the treaty. Although some important details are still to be resolved, they said, the treaty should be ready for signature on schedule in just 17 days.

The State Department announcement said Shultz and Shevardnadze will "review the full range of issues for the forthcoming summit in Washington."

"They will review the full range of issues on the U.S.-Soviet agenda," it said.

A senior U.S. official said they would deal with the full agenda of issues to be discussed by President Reagan and Soviet General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev, such as human rights and world trouble spots. They will also discuss other arms control issues such as long-range strategic nuclear weapons, he said.

The official news agency Tass said in Moscow today the meeting would take place "in order to finalize the work on the medium- and shorter-range missiles treaty and discuss matters related to preparations for an official visit of Mikhail Gorbachev, general secretary of the Communist Party Central Committee to the United States in December 1987."

Shultz plans to leave for Geneva Sunday and meet with Shevardnadze Monday and Tuesday. He plans to stop in Brussels Wednesday to brief NATO allies before returning to Washington Wednesday night in time for Thanksgiving.

Sun Bank Receives State Award

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

Sun Bank of Seminole County was one of eight businesses in the state to receive an Award of Excellence from the Florida Community Education Foundation, Inc. in Tallahassee Wednesday.

The award was given in recognition of the bank's "inter-agency cooperation" with the Seminole County School District. Sun Bank was jointly nominated for the award by the school district and the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

Receiving the award at ceremonies at the Tallahassee Hilton hotel was Bob Padgett, group president of Sun Bank, and Janice Springfield, vice president of Sun Bank business development.

Also in Tallahassee for the presentation were Nancy Warren, a member of the school board; Dede Schaffner, director of volunteer programs for the school district; and Dave Farr representing the Chamber of Commerce.

Sun Bank was recognized for its contributions to the educational system through its partnership program, direct involvement in the classroom, and sponsorship of various out-of-classroom programs with students.

Padgett said he is proud of the commitment that the bank's board of directors have made to education in central Florida and that he is sure that commitment will continue.

In the letter of nomination for the award, the 400 hours per month that Sun Bank officers spend in community volunteerism, including about 100 of hours in the school system, was noted.

Bank officer contributions to the school system include volunteering in classrooms providing presentations in economics, how to get credit and keep it, proper interviewing techniques, and how to finance a small business.

Bank representatives also participate in career education days, provide student tours of banks and computer facilities, attend special functions at the schools, act as judges for contests and provide student and employee recognition programs, according to district spokeswoman Karen Coleman.

She says the bank sponsors principals' breakfasts for outstanding students in the school system, and also provides recognition for teachers of the year.

Sun Bank branches in Seminole County have adopted 14 schools as part of the school district's Business and Education Partnership Program. The schools include all high schools, four middle schools and four elementary schools.

As part of the program, the bank has contributed more than 450 solar calculators to the math Super Stars program, and over 500 balloons for special projects at Midway Elementary School.

The bank and its employees were also recognized for other civic and community endeavors, such as participating in the American Heart Association, YMCA, United Way, Boy Scouts and Girls Scouts, Leukemia Society, senior citizens center, and other special projects.

Chuck Suggs Benefit Golf Tournament Slated

Lake Mary Mayor Dick Fess will sponsor a golf tournament Dec. 4, with all proceeds going to the heart/lung transplant expenses of Chuck Suggs.

Suggs, 14, of Lake Mary, is in London with his family for the transplant, which requires a $60,000 down payment.

NATION IN BRIEF

Perot: Reagan Thanked Him For Ransom For Hostages

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Texas billionaire H. Ross Perot recalls President Reagan thanking him for donating almost $1 million in what has been found to be an illegal White House scheme to ransom American hostages in Lebanon. The final report of the congressional Iran-Contra committees, released Wednesday, said the White House violated federal law in soliciting private money from Perot and offering it as ransom for hostages. Perot, 57, recalled in a telephone interview Thursday that he sat next to Reagan at a two-hour dinner around Christmas 1985 and the president expressed personal appreciation for his efforts to help secure the release of William Buckley, the CIA's station chief in Lebanon, as well as other hostages. White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater, asked at a briefing Thursday about Reagan's role in the three unsuccessful attempts to pay outright ransom for hostages between 1984 and 1986, said, "I don't think we will ever discuss these kinds of details."

Carlucci Confirmation Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate confirmation of Frank Carlucci as secretary of defense would put one of the government's most versatile handymen in charge of the Pentagon for the closing 14 months of the Reagan administration. Carlucci, who once held the No. 2 job in the Pentagon, was called up for confirmation today to succeed Caspar Weinberger, the architect of Reagan's military buildup, which in the last three years has been wounded by reduced defense budgets. Carlucci, also faced with cuts in the defense budget, has a markedly different style from Weinberger, which is expected to make it easier for him to plead the Pentagon's case on Capitol Hill.

Booster Test Successful

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — The first in a series of space shuttle booster tests to prove redesigned O-ring joints can withstand the rigors of launch was hailed as a success following a split-second firing. The test of a shortened booster rocket Thursday at the Marshall Space Flight Center was seen as a major step toward resuming shuttle flights in June with boosters that will prevent a repeat of the Challenger disaster. "I think it's a major milestone in the program," said Allan McDonald, a rocket engineer with booster-maker Morton Thiokol Inc. who protested Challenger's launch last year. "This kind of testing here would have revealed the problems of the Challenger."

Mister Rogers Goes To Russia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — First, Mister Rogers went to the Soviet Union. Now, his U.S.S.R. counterpart is coming to his neighborhood as guest and children's television mix to "help build a little bridge" between the two superpowers. On Thursday, Fred Rogers and Tatiana Vedeneva unveiled a show they taped together for Soviet viewers and announced a similar visit to "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood" next week. At a news conference at the Soviet Embassy to promote the exchange, Soviet Ambassador Yuri Dubinin, asked about the timing of the event in view of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's upcoming summit with President Reagan, said, "I am sure that all of these things are interconnected."

NOW Attacks Court Nominee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first major opposition to Supreme Court nominee Anthony Kennedy has surfaced with the National Organization for Women labeling him a "sexist" foe of women's rights and calling for his rejection by the Senate. Kennedy, who was paying courtesy calls on senators Thursday when he was informed of NOW's criticism, said, "I'll be glad to respond to that at the Senate Judiciary Committee hearing." Speaking at a news conference Thursday, NOW President Molly Yard said Kennedy is as objectionable as the recently rejected Robert Bork. She said NOW's 150,000 members would work as hard as they did against Bork to publicize Kennedy's record and to lobby senators to vote against him.

Rehnquist Warns Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chief Justice William Rehnquist has issued a veiled attack on the politicization of the Supreme Court, reminding Congress such tactics threaten the independence of the judiciary. In a speech to Columbia University Law School, Rehnquist appealed to lawmakers to resist partisan pressure on Capitol Hill and work instead to preserve the integrity of the judiciary. He noted most threats to the judiciary occur in times of political upheaval and the realignment of the major parties, an oblique reference to the current political backdrop.

Investigators Focus On Jet's Engines

DENVER (UPI) — Investigators pinpointed several noises "sounding like engine compression stalls" in the cockpit recordings of Continental Airlines Flight 1713, another indication ice may have built up on the jet's wings before it crashed. An engine compressor stall could be caused by disruption of air flow over the wings, possibly as a result of ice, investigators said. But National Transportation Board Chairman Jim Burnett cautioned Thursday night that investigators are not certain whether the noises occurred before the crash or because of it. The investigation into the cause of the crash Sunday that killed 28 people and injured 54 at Stapleton International Airport also included the possibility that wind turbulence from a jet landing at about the same time affected the Continental flight. Burnett said the cockpit voice recorder contains several noises "sounding like engine compression stalls, or a better term would be engine surging." "But we don't know if (the surging) was a cause of the crash or a result of impact," he said. "We have not been able to put it in sequence yet. You can't make too much of this." Engines keep running during a compressor stall but not smoothly, and engine blades could be damaged if the stall continues, officials said. Attention has been focused on the possibility that the wings of the plane might have iced up during a 23-minute delay, caused in part by crew error, between the time the plane was de-iced and the time it took off in a snowstorm. The wing design of the DC-9 Model 10 that crashed allows a faster buildup of ice than newer models, officials said. A survivor, Robert Linck, 60, of Green Pond, N.J., said he saw ice forming on the wings of the DC-9 before takeoff. But Thursday, Continental officials said wind turbulence caused by a landing jetliner might have been a bigger factor in the crash than ice buildup. "In my personal opinion, I have pushed aside the icing situation," said Capt. Richard Hillman, a Continental vice president for flight operations. Hillman said his opinion was based on his own study of the crash site, how the plane took off from the runway and by listening to the communication between the control tower and crew recorded on the plane's "black box." But Hillman added, "I haven't said absolutely no way could it be ice." Hillman raised the possibility that air turbulence caused by a Delta jet landing on an adjacent runway might have affected the takeoff of the Continental DC-9. Hicks said the two runways are only 1,600 feet apart, which means that air controllers must consider them as one runway in terms of takeoff and landing "pacing." Burnett said investigators need more exact information before they can determine whether the Delta jet's landing affected the Continental's take-off. Continental officials also conceded that it appeared both the pilot and co-pilot of Flight 1713, who were killed, did not have any experience taking off or landing DC-9s in a snowstorm. Voice recordings have indicated the 26-year-old co-pilot might have been at the controls during takeoff. Burnett said one flight attendant told investigators that she saw the co-pilot, Lee Edward Bruecher of Houston, at the controls, knew of his limited experience and expressed concern to the captain. But Continental spokesman Bruce Hicks said it would not be at the controls when the plane took off. "It was in fact a preferred procedure ... under adverse conditions," Hicks said, because it allowed the captain, Frank Zvonek, 43, of Carlsbad, Calif., to oversee the entire flight operation. The plane's recording of the crew's voices during the final minutes indicates that the pre-flight checklist was "virtually" completed and could be used as a training course," Hicks said. "That's the way you run a safe operation." Zvonek was promoted to captain Oct. 30 and had 196 hours of flight time in a DC-9. Continental has emphasized that Zvonek had flown planes

Piedmont To Install New Safety Equipment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Piedmont Airlines is billing itself as the first carrier to make the safety commitment of the future, installing a computer system on its fleet that can warn pilots of impending collisions in the skies. Piedmont, a subsidiary of USAir, announced Thursday that it has purchased the first of 81 airborne Traffic Alert and Collision Avoidance System units. The multimillion-dollar contract was signed with Allied-Signal Aerospace Co. for the Bendix-King TCAS II system. An exact price could not be learned. William McGee, Piedmont's chairman and chief executive officer, said the airline would begin installing the system on its Boeing 737-300 aircraft in 1989, with all 81 units flying aboard the 737-300 and 737-400 fleets by 1991. "Our experience with the world's only certified operational TCAS system, installed in a Piedmont Boeing 727 for the last seven months, has clearly indicated that it is now time to move from the evaluation phase into full operation use of the collision avoidance system," McGee said. The Federal Aviation Administration is moving to make such a collision avoidance system mandatory for large commercial airliners. TCAS II equipment can inform pilots of the location of other aircraft in their vicinity, alerting them to any threats and issuing a call to climb or descend in order to prevent an in-flight collision. The computer system is independent of ground stations. Piedmont, headquartered in Winston-Salem, N.C., said it is the first airline to order TCAS II units for its planes and is the only carrier already to have more than 40 percent of its fleet equipped with airborne wind shear detection equipment, another development of modern technology to improve safety.

Season Finale: Tribe Wants DeLand's Scalp

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

When Seminole clinched the District 4A-7 title three weeks ago, Tribe coach Roger Beathard said that he hoped his team could keep its composure and play well in its final three games.

What Beathard has gotten instead has been the Tribe's two best performances of the season. The 'Noles are scalping everybody they are playing.

"We are right where we want to be," Beathard said. "I said three weeks ago that these last three games would be the toughest of the season, and we still have one to go."

The Seminoles, riding a four-game winning streak, will invade DeLand's Spec Marjory Stadium tonight at 8 to take on the Bulldogs in a Seminole Seminole (6-3) will host Land O' Lakes on Nov. 27 in its opening round playoff game. Land O' Lakes is the District 4A-8 champion.

DeLand (7-2) is coming off a crucial 14-0 win over Lyman.

The Bulldogs will host the District 8A-4 three-way playoff between themselves, Lake Mary, and Lake Howell on Monday night at S. DeLand and Lake Mary will square off in the first playoff, with the winner taking on Lake Howell.

With the playoffs right around the corner for both teams, one would think that the players might not concentrate on the game. But Beathard and DeLand coach Dave Hiss said that is not so.

"We sure aren't going to pull any punches, and I'm sure that Beathard won't either," Hiss said. "This is our homecoming game, and we expect to have a very big crowd on hand. I just hope that all the people coming

Greyhounds Confident Going Into State

By Mark Mythe
Special to the Herald

With an everything-to-gain and nothing-to-lose attitude, the Lyman Greyhounds boys cross country team enters Saturday's state meet at Dunn Airpark in Titusville without pressure and a confident attitude.

Lyman does not enter the meet, which begins at 8:30 a.m. for Class 4A boys, as a favorite and coach Fred Finkle feels that will work in his team's favor.

"No one is expecting us to do well," Finkle said. "The kids are hungry though and feel they can do very well."

Lyman has a pair of talented front runners in sophomore Teddy Mitchell and junior Nick Radkewich. Both have finished near the front of every race this season and should again Saturday.

"We are in an enviable situation," Finkle said. "The whole team knows what they have to do and they really act like they will do it."

Finkle has been happy with the efforts of the entire team and now his runners are seeing results and feel they have a legitimate chance to make a run for the state title.

"Coach (Finkle) has described anyone who wins the state meet as lucky," Lyman's Darren Marshall said. "Every team in the meet has a chance to win and we feel if we run the race of our lives we can win."

Marshall who has been a consistent third runner for the Lyman squad has pulled together a second pack to improve the Greyhound attack.

"I don't think I'm in a leadership role. I just try to get everyone up for the race," Marshall said. "We all seem to feed off each other's energy before a race and go into the race to do our best. This team is very close and we all pull for each other and that has helped our success."

Two major reasons Lyman has a legitimate chance for the state title is Mitchell and Radkewich. The two have been instrumental to the squad all season and look to cap the season off in style Saturday.

Mitchell is showcased as the state's top sophomore and should battle Largo's Pat McDonough for the individual title.

"It will be a rough race," Mitchell said. "I hope to stay with McDonough until the end and beat him with my kick."

McDonough and Mitchell have been ranked as the top two runners in the state all season long and will race head to head Saturday for the first time.

"I heard he likes to surge a lot during the race," Mitchell said. "I'm going to try and combat that with surging directly after he does."

Radkewich, who has been steadily improving with each race, also could be a threat for the individual title.

"Having Teddy (Mitchell) running right in front of me has helped me greatly all season," Radkewich said. "We've formed a tight bond and aren't concerned with which one of us finishes first, as long as we both run well and close to the top we know we've done our job."

A new addition to the Lyman team is freshman Kevin Padgett who has been a pleasant surprise for Finkle.

"Kevin is really tough," Finkle said. "He's improved each week and now sees his improvement and gained some confidence."

Padgett feels it was an entire team effort that sent the Greyhounds to the meet Saturday.

"We're almost like family," Padgett said. "We encourage each other before and during the race and push each other to help the team's performance."

Lyman will hope a little luck will come its way Saturday and hope another strong team effort will be put forth.

"We're just hoping for a top five finish," Finkle said. "The kids know they have nothing to lose and everything to gain."

Lyman freshman Kevin Padgett heads for the finish line.

The Individual Road

Martin Hopes For Best Time At State

By Chris Pieter
Herald Sports Writer

Shownda Martin has won all but two races she has entered this season. The ones she didn't win, however, have been run at Dunn Airpark in Titusville, the site of Saturday's State Cross Country Championships.

This time, the Seminole High senior hopes to conquer what is not her favorite course to run on. Martin will run as an individual in the Class 3A two-mile race which begins Saturday at 9 a.m.

"They say the third time is a charm," Martin said. "Or, is it three strikes and your out?"

In both previous races at Titusville, Martin has run good times, 12:15 and 12:20, but has finished third on both occasions, the most recent the 3A-2 Region meet last Saturday. She has won the individual title in all other races this season.

"Titusville and Lake Mary are the two courses I hate the most," Martin said. "And if I had my choice of where to run Saturday it would be Lake Mary."

"I think the Titusville course just psyches me out," added Martin. "Maybe it's all those big trees or going up and down that hill but I just don't like it."

Like it or not, Martin is hoping for her best time in Saturday's race. Her best this season (outside of an 11:30 at the Daytona Beach Run) is a 12:04 at the University of Central Florida. She hopes to top that time Saturday.

"I just want to go out and run my race and give it all I've got," Martin said. "I've been pretty happy with the season and I hope to end it by at least doing my best time on the Titusville course. I'd like to at least make the all-state team, too."

This will be Martin's second trip to the state meet but her first since her freshman season. Seminole went as a team that year and Martin finished eighth in the Class 4A meet.

Coach Nate Perkins believes Martin, if at her best, could be a factor in Saturday's individual race.

"She is in very strong shape and ready to go," Perkins said. "There are a few girls she hasn't beaten this year that will be there but I think she has a shot at taking first place."

Whatever place Martin ends up in after it's all over, she knows one thing, she will not miss running at the Dunn Airpark.

"I believe I'll be smiling all the way in the last few hundred yards or so," Martin said. "People will probably be looking at me like I'm crazy but I'll just say, 'this is my last cross country meet and I won't have to run on this course any more so why shouldn't I be smiling?'"

BEST FAVORITES

The Titusville Astronaut girls, despite missing one key runner who was injured in a tragic automobile accident, are favored to win the Class 3A title with Tallahassee Leon the top competition while the Orlando Blahop Moore boys are odds on favorite to win their second consecutive title. Rockledge figures to be the competition.

Lake Mary's Brad Smith (seated) and coach Mark McGee are looking for a top-five or better finish from Smith in Saturday's Class 4A State meet at Dunn Airpark in Titusville. Smith is the state's eighth-ranked individual going into the meet.

Smith Wants To Run Smart At State Meet

By Chris Pieter
Herald Sports Writer

Running in the state cross country meet can do funny things to a runner. Some are so anxious to compete at state, they go out like a mad man from the start and end up gasping for air by mid-race. Others are intimidated by the big time and don't run up to their potential.

Lake Mary senior Brad Smith is running in his first Class 4A State Meet Saturday, but don't expect anything out of the ordinary from Smith. He knows what he wants to do and will stick with his game plan.

"Brad has to run a smart race," Lake Mary coach Mark McGee said. "If the frontrunners happen to take it out at 4:30-4:35 the first mile, he can't go with that kind of pace. If he stays at his usual 4:40-4:45 he still will be well within contact with the top group. And, if he continues to run his race and move up, he has a chance to achieve his goals."

Smith's main goal is to finish in the top 10 in the state which is considered the All-State team. He also would like a top-five finish and believes it is possible on a good day.

"If I run my best race I could get in the top five, maybe the top three," Smith said. "And I really believe that anybody in the top 10 is able to win if somebody has a super great day."

The state meet begins at 8 a.m. with the Class 4A girls followed by the three-mile Class 4A boys race at 8:30. The last time Smith ran at the Dunn Airpark course in Titusville, he ran a 15:36 and finished in third place behind Lyman's Teddy Mitchell and Nick Radkewich.

Cross Country

"Titusville is really winding course with a lot of turns," Smith said. "I felt I ran real well last time I ran there. It's my kind of course because I'm more of a strength runner and I won't break my stride around the turns."

Smith has had a very successful senior season for the Rams as he has the school record of 15:11.2 run at Kinsmeade Gateway. He also has a 15:12.1 at the Daytona Beach Run which is the second best time ever for a Lake Mary runner. Smith has run six of the top 20 times ever at Lake Mary this season.

Unlike Lyman's Mitchell, who is a speed runner, Smith relies mostly on strength and endurance to carry him through. But McGee feels he is capable of keeping up with the speed runners.

"Teddy (Mitchell) takes off like a jack rabbit from the start so Brad is used to going out at a fast pace," McGee said. "Brad has to stay in contact with the front guys, but he could be better off being conservative than absolutely going crazy."

Smith is hoping to stay within striking distance of the front pack in the early going and believes, if he does that, he will be in good position.

"If I want to beat somebody, I have to do it before the last straight away," Smith said. "But that doesn't mean I'm going to let someone beat me if it's a sprint to the finish."

Lady Raiders Look For Best Season Ever

SCC To Rely On Quickness

By Chris Pitzer
Herald Sports Writer

At first glance, Seminole Community College's Lady Raiders may not look like much of a powerhouse. The Lady Raiders have no returning starters, no player over 6-0 starting and only three players with any college experience at all.

What the Lady Raiders do have, though, is their quickest team ever and a desire to succeed and coach Ileana Gallagher said those are the two main ingredients in what has the potential to be her greatest team ever.

"This is the smallest team I've had but it's also the quickest," Gallagher said. "And I have more talent than ever all the way around. Everyone on the team will play extensively."

The Lady Raiders, 1-0 by virtue of a forfeit over Patrick Air Force Base, will see their first game action of the 1987-88 season tonight at 7:30 against North Florida in the second game of the Lady Raider Tournament. In game one, starting at 6, Edison plays Pensacola. The championship will be Saturday night at 5.

"We want to play a very up tempo game," Gallagher said. "Defensively, we'll pressure the ball as much as possible to create a lot of turnovers. Quickness is definitely a plus we want to use to our advantage. We're going on the fast break every chance we get."

One Lady Raider who is as anxious to start as anyone is sophomore guard Tammy Johnson. Johnson, a Lake Howell High graduate, averaged over 20 points per game as a freshman at SCC but she has sat out the last two seasons.

"Tammy (Johnson) is a little nervous after being out for two years," Gallagher said. "But she has lost nothing off her game. The desire and enthusiasm is there and she has also matured a lot."

Johnson, 5-8, will play the two guard in the starting lineup tonight but she is also very capable of handling the point. Gallagher is also looking for Johnson to hit the new three-point shot that is being introduced into the Junior College game this season.

The starting point guard will be 5-7 freshman Sheila Higgins. Higgins, out of West Virginia, was at SCC last year but decided not to play basketball.

"She doesn't have any college experience, but I'm confident she can get the job done," Gallagher said of Higgins. "She runs the team well and can also shoot."

Starting at the three position is 5-9 freshman Kathy Cleveland out of St. Petersburg Osceola High. Cleveland may be the best all-around athlete on the team.

"She's the quickest player on the team and can play shooting or point guard," Gallagher said. "With Kathy (Cleveland), Tammy (Johnson) and Sheila (Higgins) we have a lot of speed on the press and should have a good fast-breaking game."

Gallagher, in her seventh year with the SCC program, will look for inside strength from starters Pam Chatman and Bridget Thomas. Chatman, a 5-10 freshman from New Smyrna Beach, plays the low post well according to Gallagher while Thomas, a 5-11 freshman out of St. Petersburg Osceola, will be counted on to lead the way on the boards.

"Pam (Chatman) penetrates the lane really well," Gallagher said. "And Bridget (Thomas) is very solid and should be a real force for us inside."

Strength inside will be provided by 5-11 Jeannell Copeland and 5-9 Heather Peters while Gallagher has two players recovering from knee surgery, 5-9 Shana Scott and 5-0 Tracy Taylor.

Copeland is a freshman out of Bradenton Southeast while Peters is a sophomore from Orlando Lake Highland. Scott, also a freshman out of Southeast, is expected back in 3 to 4 weeks while Gallagher said Taylor, from Tallahassee, will be held out until she is ready. Gallagher hopes to have both players back by the start of the Mid-Florida Conference schedule.

Additional strength at the guard positions is provided by sophomores Stephanie Nelson and Latanya Johnson and freshman Novella Settles.

Nelson, 5-8, is an Orlando High graduate who Gallagher hopes will provide scoring from the outside. Gallagher said Nelson is finally getting healthy after being bothered by ankle injuries last season.

Johnson, 5-6, is a Lyman High graduate who Gallagher said has improved tremendously from last season.

Settles, 5-7, is out of Orlando Boone High and will provide depth at point guard.

"With the way we run, all 10 players will see a lot of time," Gallagher said. "We're really anxious to get started and we hope to get back to the State Tournament this season, especially since we're hosting it."

Gallagher's assistant coaches this year are Debbie Scherr and former SCC great Val Roeseler.

Rodgers Gets NL Manager Of Year

MONTREAL (UPI) — Buck Rodgers, voted National League Manager of the Year Thursday by United Press International, wants his next recognition to come after the Montreal Expos win the NL East.

"My job is to take that one more step," Rodgers said of the Expos' surprising success this season. "We finished four games out this year. Having a good record is not enough. We have to go out and win the title."

The preseason consensus pick for last place in the division, the Expos pressed the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Mets in the stretch before finishing third. Rodgers recently renegotiated the last year of his contract and signed a 3-year deal with a large raise.

Rodgers received 12 votes in balloting of 20 UPI baseball correspondents to beat out Roger Craig of the San Francisco Giants, who received seven votes. Jim Leyland of the Pittsburgh Pirates picked up the other vote.

"I'm really surprised," Rodgers said by telephone from his home in Yorba Linda, Calif. "It's really satisfying to be selected for all these honors because we finished in third place. Usually this is something that's reserved at least for the division winners. It's really humbling that all these people have selected me."

The Baseball Writers Association of America recently named Rodgers NL Manager of the Year.

After finishing fourth in the NL East in 1986, 29 1-2 games out of first, Montreal lost free-agent outfielder Andre Dawson to the Chicago Cubs and traded away pitcher Jeff Reardon. Tim Lincecum sat out spring training and the first month of the season in a contract dispute, and the pitching staff was lightly regarded. The Expos finished 91-71.

"We were lousy to begin with last season," Rogers said. "As our players got healthy, we began to snowball. After the first 50 or 60 games, the rest of the league began to realize we were a pretty good ballclub. We'll be even better next season."

Rodgers said the Expos will try to trade during the off-season in preparation for what he believes will be an even tougher division.

Rodgers

"If a quality shortstop becomes available, that would give me the opportunity to move Hubie Brooks to the outfield," he said. "We've also got to keep an eye on our catching because (Mike) Fitzgerald was hurt last year. His finger never did come around. We can hope that it's going to be 100 percent next year, but I think that we have to look for backup catching, just in case."

Even without trades, Rodgers said the Expos will be stronger.

"The pitching is going to be much deeper," he said. "Our Triple-A system will have at least four good young starters and we should come up with at least five good starters for our club. So we should be pitcher rich."

Biggest Week Of Season For Many College Teams

United Press International

Aside from the fact bowl bids go out, the No. 1 and No. 2 teams in the nation face each other, most schools play their traditional rivals and several conference titles are at stake, nothing much is happening this weekend in college football.

Of all the "big games" to be played Saturday, the matchup between No. 1 Nebraska and No. 2 Oklahoma heads the list. Also, No. 18 Southern Cal hosts No. 5 UCLA. No. 7 Notre Dame visits Penn State, and Ohio State plays its final game for Coach Earl Bruce against Michigan.

At Lincoln, Neb., the winner will take the Big Eight title, an automatic trip to the Orange Bowl, the No. 1 ranking and the favorite's role for the national title. The loser heads for the Fiesta Bowl. Yet Nebraska tight end Tom Banderas downplayed the magnitude of the game.

"Everybody's trying to make it a big game," he said. "I don't feel like it's a big game and neither do my teammates. We feel all year long we could win the national championship and we've proved it up to this point. This is just one more step and it's no more important than Utah State was for us. We need to win it."

The Sooners, on a 19-game winning streak, will be without quarterback Jamelle Holloway, who engineered last season's 20-17 comeback victory over the Cornhuskers, and fullback Lydell Carr. Freshman Charles Thompson will attempt to duplicate Holloway's big-game excellence at quarterback.

Nebraska has beaten UCLA, Arizona State and South Carolina, proving it can win big games. The Cornhuskers are the first 1986 bowl winner Oklahoma faces this year.

"We're much better than we were last year," Nebraska quarterback Steve Taylor said. "Our offensive line is better and our defense is much better."

Oklahoma is first in the country in rushing and scoring and second to Nebraska in total offense. The defense is not as strong as recent years, but still the stingiest in the country in terms of yardage and points allowed.

Nebraska was idle last weekend, but took over the top spot from Oklahoma after the Sooners' mediocre 17-13 victory over Missouri. The teams have been ranked 1-2 all season and their coaches, while knowing otherwise, feel that a close score should leave them 1-2.

"If these truly are the 1 and 2 teams in the country, and if they play fairly even that they shouldn't be any different than 1 and 2 when they come out," said Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne. "But I know how the facts are."

At Los Angeles, USC Coach Larry Smith enters his first game against UCLA with a sense of tradition.

"This is what college football is all about," Smith said. "It's THE championship game, and that's how it's supposed to be when USC and UCLA play each other."

A victory or a tie gets the Bruins their fourth Rose Bowl appearance since 1982; a loss sends them to the Aloha Bowl. Should USC lose, it would be headed for the Sun Bowl against Oklahoma State.

The Bruins, winners of eight straight, are 9-1 overall and 7-0 in the Pacific-10. No school has ever won eight Pac-10 games in a season, and none has gone without a conference loss since 1976. The Trojans, 5-0 at home this year, stand 7-3 and 6-1.

At College Station, Pa., the Irish need a convincing victory over the Nittany Lions to enhance their slim chances for the national title, and Penn State is coming off a 10-3 loss last weekend. Although Penn State has lost it's Top 20 ranking, Notre Dame Coach Lou Holtz is still concerned.

"The last thing you want to do is play them after a loss, at State and in their seniors' last home football game," he said. "All the indications are — and I think our football team recognizes this — we are going in to play a heck of a football team that will be at their very best."

Irish flanker Tim Brown has averaged 182.2 yards per game in all-purpose yardage this season, and quarterback Tony Rice has filled in ably for the injured Terry Andrysiak.

Notre Dame suffered its only setback this season in a 30-22 loss to Pitt, the same team that whipped Penn State, 7-3, last Saturday.

After the game, Notre Dame is expected to accept an invitation from the Cotton Bowl to play the Southwest Conference champion. Penn State likely will play Clemson in the Citrus Bowl.

For first time in the decade, the matchup between Ohio State and Michigan will not determine the Big Ten championship.

Lady Rams Rout West Orange

West Orange's Lady Warriors found out it is going to be rough going in their first season of soccer Thursday as they were routed by state power Lake Mary, 16-0.

The Lady Rama, expected to be ranked in the top 10 when the state poll comes out, have now outscored their first two opponents, 27-0. Both foes, though, Leesburg and West Orange, are first-year teams. Lake Mary will get its first real test of the season this Monday at defending state champion Melbourne.

In Thursday's match, Dana Hoover led the Lake Mary scoring onslaught with five goals. Donna Rohr pumped in three, Amy Alexander, Michelle Mattingly and Charlie Buckles had two each and Teresa Gatewood and Debbie Hutchings each had one.

Jackon Wants Union's Help

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A safety who bucked the NFL Players Association and played for the Washington Redskins' replacement team is now seeking the aid of the union in a grievance against the team.

Charles Jackson, who soon after the 24-day players' strike began dubbed himself and his new teammates the "real Washington Redskins," was cut Tuesday after the team claimed he was not working hard to rehabilitate an injured calf.

Jackson Wednesday filed a grievance through the union, seeking the remainder of his $65,000 salary and any playoff money the team earns.

"The way the trainers have been treating me and the way Coach (Joe) Gibbs has been treating me, I can understand why the players went on strike," Jackson said. "They treated me like a dog. They blackballed me."

The NFLPA is obliged to defend Jackson because he played in the league under the terms of the collective bargaining agreement. The players went on strike seeking a new agreement.

"There's certainly bad feelings among the players whose jobs were being jeopardized," NFLPA General Counsel Dick Berthelsen said of the Jackson case. "But technically and legally, (replacement players) are in the NFL's bargaining unit."

"Maybe what this situation does is point out to other players the importance of our struggle and supporting the union. If it takes a replacement player to do that, I see a net gain in it."

Said Jackson: "If it weren't for the Players Association, I wouldn't know where to turn. Now, I can really see their side of it, why they were out on the picket line."

Jackson injured his calf during the first non-union game against

St. Louis Oct. 4 and was placed on injured reserve. Jackson and the Redskins differed on the extent and treatment of the injury.

The Redskins accused Jackson of not working hard enough to come back. The team said in a statement that the calf atrophied because Jackson has "not cooperated in proper rehabilitation."

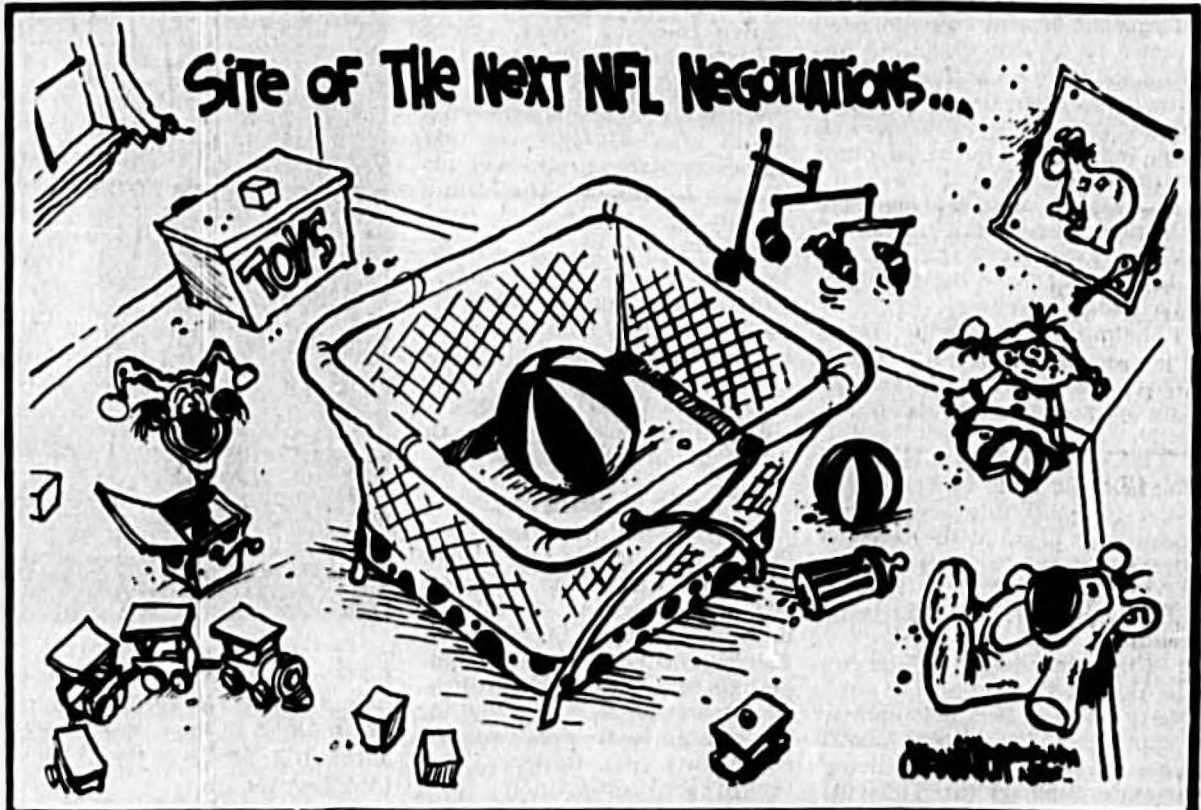

'CANES TAKE ON TOLEDO
MIAMI (UPI) — Third-ranked Miami practiced for two hours in shorts and shoulder pads Thursday in preparation for Saturday night's game with Toledo in the Orange Bowl.

Miami will have a short walk-through Friday afternoon.

"Today's drills ended a whole week of upbeat practices," coach Jimmy Johnson said. "Our mental attitude is good. The guys are looking forward to playing Saturday night."

Junior Mike Piza has been tabbed as the No. 2 tight end behind Alfredo Roberts.

Knights Need Big Win To Impress Pollsters

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

If you are University of Central Florida football fan, you'd better keep your fingers crossed. When UCF dropped a 19-14 decision to Florida A&M last week, it looked as though UCF's quest to make the NCAA Division II Playoffs for the first time in school history was over.

"We are out of the race," dejected UCF coach Gene McDowell said after the game. "It is tough way to bow out of the playoff picture this way."

But UCF's playoff hopes were saved when Eastern New Mexico (ranked ninth last week), New Haven University (10th), and Tuskegee (11th) all lost and failed to overtake UCF in this week's poll. The Knights have to finish in the top eight in the poll, which will be released on Sunday.

McDowell thought that his team was going to take a plunge in this week's poll, but the Knights only slipped from fifth to a tie for No. 11. "Thanks to those other teams losing, we are still very much in the playoff picture," McDowell said. "We have still got a very good shot."

The Knights will take their 7-3 record and playoff hopes into Saturday night's game against Morningstar (Iowa) College. The Chiefs are 4-6 and have lost five of their last six games. Kickoff is slated for 7 at Orlando Stadium.

Football

In order for UCF to make the playoffs, it must beat Morningstar by a landslide, and hope that a few other teams do them favors. With four of the top eight team playing each other, at least two of them will probably fall out of the top 10. If top-ranked Texas A&I (9-1) beats ninth-ranked Angelo State (7-2) and second-ranked West Chester State (9-1) beats sixth-ranked Indiana of Pennsylvania, UCF's chances to make the playoffs will be much greater.

"We have to get some help from a few other teams," McDowell said. "But even if we don't finish in the top eight, I still think that we will have a shot to make the playoffs."

All three of UCF's losses have come to Div. I-AA teams by a combined total of 14 points. UCF is 5-0 against Div. II teams and have outscored their opponents 242-87 in the process. "I can guarantee you that the voting panel will take our schedule into consideration," McDowell said. "We know that they would like to have a game in Orlando, and are praying that we get a bid."

McDowell has already submitted bids to host a possible first and second-round playoff game. "All the voting people want is guarantee that you will sell 10,000 tickets," McDowell said. "We averaged over that this season, and a playoff game would attract more people than that. If we make it, I think that we will host."

Third-ranked Portland State (9-1-1) and fourth-ranked Troy State (8-1-1) have both finished their season and have accepted playoff bids.

Morningstar doesn't figure to be much of a challenge for the Knights. "We should beat them," McDowell said. "I'd be very surprised if we don't."

The Knights will be without the services of wide receiver Bernard Ford, the leading receiver in the country. Ford suffered and ankle injury two weeks ago against Liberty, and tried to play last week. He was ineffective, however, and will sit out Saturday night's game.

The UCF offense had its worst outing of the season last week, scoring only 14 points and gaining only 302 net yards. The A&I defense had a lot to do with that, as the Rattlers are the number one I-AA team in the country against the pass. The UCF offensive line didn't give Slack much protection, allowing nine sacks.

"They did an excellent job in defending us last week," McDowell said. "But I think that we will come back strong on Saturday night."

UCF quarterback Darin Slack was held without a touchdown pass last week for the first time this season. Slack, however, has had a superb season, throwing for 2,800 yards and 25 touchdowns.

With the absence of Ford, Slack will still have several targets to look for. Wide receivers Arnell Spencer (688 yards and six touchdowns) and Sean Bechtol (517 yards and two touchdowns) are both capable of the big play. Tight end Donald Grayson, a 1986 Lake Mary graduate, has hauled in 28 passes for 231 yards and three touchdowns.

Running backs Mrk Giocone (504 yards and five touchdowns) and Robert Ector (347 yards and four touchdowns) are UCF's ground weapons.

"We are just going to worry about Morningstar before we worry about the playoffs," McDowell said. "We'll hope to make the playoffs on Sunday morning."

BANKS FOR DOC — Eddie Banks, a redshirt freshman at Bethune-Cookman College who graduated from Seminole High last year, has been activated to play in the Wildcat's final game against Florida A&M in Jacksonville on Nov. 28.

"There were three seniors in front of me at fullback," Banks said. "And I have worked my way up to second. I should be playing in this game."

Brantley-Lyman: Rivalry Still Cooks

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

Over the years, the Lake Brantley-Lyman rivalry has been one of the most exciting in Seminole County. No matter what the two teams' records are, they always seem to put on a good show.

Another chapter in that rivalry will be written tonight when the Greyhounds invade Tom Storey Field for a 7:45 Seminole Athletic Conference/District 5A-4 encounter. The game will have no bearing on the district or conference outcomes. Lyman beat Brantley, 14-6, in last year's game.

The Patriots come in with a 4-5 record. The Pats nipped Port Orange Spruce Creek, 21-19, last week. Lyman, meanwhile, fell to DeLand, 14-0. The Greyhounds are 5-4.

The game has one interesting aspect as both teams will be without their top offensive performers. Lyman tailback Victor Farrier, the leading rusher in the SAC with 1,231 yards and 17 touchdowns, cracked three ribs and punctured a lung against DeLand last week.

"We are at a real loss without Victor," Lyman defensive coordinator Jack Bloomingdale said. "But we'll just have to do as best as we can."

The Patriots will be without the services of quarterback Clint Johnson. Johnson broke his thumb against Dr. Phillips three weeks ago. "I was concerned when Clint got hurt," Lake Brantley coach Fred Almon said. "But I still think that our offense can move against them."

Last week against Spruce Creek, backup quarterback Scott Meredith threw for one touchdown and ran for another. "Scott did an excellent job last week," Almon said. "I feel confident with Scott in there."

Almon said that this is a very big game for his team, because it badly wants to go .500. "If I could take three plays back, I think that we would have gone 6-2," Almon said. "But we got a few bad breaks and are looking to go .500. These kids have worked too hard to have a losing record."

The Patriot offense is led by fullback Mark Sepe. Sepe, a bulldozing senior, has run for 748 yards and four touchdowns. "Lyman is probably the most aggressive team that we play," Sepe said. "I have some friends over there, and I want to beat them pretty badly."

The Greyhounds are hurting offensively without Farrier. Steven Jerry, who normally starts at quarterback, will be playing tailback. Mike McNamee will take care of the signal-calling duties.

"They are not as explosive without Farrier," Almon said. "But I still have a lot of respect for the kids that are out there. They are still a decent offensive team, and I think that we are going to be hard pressed to stop them."

Bloomingdale said that he is just as worried about the Brantley offense. "They have a good receiver (Nigel 'Hands' Hinds)," Bloomingdale said. "And we know that it is going to be tough to stop the wishbone. Their fullback (Sepe) is excellent."

Almon said that the key to the game will be Sepe. "If we can run Mark effectively up the middle, I think that we will win," Almon said. "I don't think that their defense can stop us."

The Lyman defense is led by linebacker Mike Whittaker. Whittaker is the leading tackler in the county 16.7 stops a game. "Whittaker is a good linebacker, and a heck of a player," Almon said. "It should be an interesting matchup."

"We are looking forward to it," Bloomingdale said. "It is an exciting game every year, and I'm sure that this game will be no exception."

Hawks-Oviedo Meet In Season Finale

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

Last season at this time, the Lake Howell Silver Hawks were riding a five-game winning streak, and knew that they would be taking on Apopka and Winter park in a three-way playoff.

The Hawks dumped Oviedo, 21-0, in their final regular season game before losing to Apopka the following Monday in the playoff.

This season, the Silver Hawks find themselves in a similar situation. Lake Howell, Lake Mary, and DeLand will all be playing in a three-way to decide the District 5A-4 winner on Nov. 23.

Tonight's Seminole Athletic Conference game at Oviedo between the Hawks will be the final warm-up for Howell before the playoff game. Kickoff is slated for 8 on Parents' Night at Oviedo High.

Lake Howell (5-4 overall and 3-2 in the SAC) is coming off a heart-breaking 28-20 loss to Seminole last week. The loss snapped a four-game winning streak. Oviedo (3-6 overall and 1-4 in the SAC) is coming off a tough 15-14 setback to Orlando Edgewater. The Lions have lost their last five.

Oviedo coach Jack Blanton said that Howell presents a number of different problems to his team. "I saw them play Seminole last week, and that was one of the best games of the season," Blanton said. "Lake Howell is a big and powerful team. We have been in a slump lately, and I hope that we play well."

Blanton said that two Howell players in particular impress him. "Number 65 (guard Ken Joseph) is an excellent blocker," Blanton said. "And 25 (Cornel Rigby) can run the ball, and he can also catch it out of the backfield. They are a very potent offensive team."

Lake Howell coach Mike Bisceglia said that his primary concern is Oviedo's defense. "Their offense isn't all that potent," Bisceglia said. "But they are an excellent defensive team. Their linebackers (Willie Pauldo and Pete Lingard) are their strength."

Blanton said that Lake Howell is a team that makes you earn what you get. "They won't give you a thing," Blanton said. "You have to earn every inch against them."

Lyman's John Scherpf (5) gets a hand from Matt Lamb after sacking Oviedo's quarterback. The Greyhounds, 5-4, are at Lake Brantley Friday night in Brantley's homecoming (starts at 7:45).

Rams Look To Keep Roll Going At Apopka

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

One of the most intense high school rivalries in the area will be renewed tonight at 8 when the Lake Mary Rams visit Apopka in a non-conference/nondistrict meeting.

"This is undoubtedly one of the better rivalries we have," Apopka coach Chip Gierke said. "When we both needed a game for the last week of the season, we decided to play each other."

"This is always a pretty good game," Lake Mary coach Harry Nelson said. "They always play us tough."

The Rams come in with a 7-2 record. Mary won't have much time to recuperate after the game as it will take on Lake Howell and DeLand on Monday in a three-way playoff to decide the District 5A-4 winner.

Apopka is coming off a tough 21-14 overtime loss to Orlando Evans last week. The Blue Darters are 5-4 overall and are headed for an appearance in the Kumquat Bowl against Dr. Phillips.

Gierke said that, considering the schedule his team has played, he has been relatively pleased with his team's performance. "I think that we have probably played the toughest schedule in the state," Gierke said. "We play good football teams week in and week out. This is a team made up of mostly juniors, and I think that we have done a pretty good job."

Lake Mary's schedule, however, may be just as tough as Apopka's. "I said at the start of the year that we had one of the toughest schedules around," Nelson said. "And I still believe that."

In last year's meeting, the Rams dumped the Darters, 19-7, in the first game of the season.

Apopka is a team that relies almost solely on the arm of quarterback Dan LaForrest. "We haven't run the ball very well, and that has been a real surprise to me," Gierke said. "We probably throw the ball about 30 or 40 times a game, and we aren't about to change now."

The Rams are playing their best football of the season. Quarterback Carlos Hartfield is maturing the way the Nelson hoped he would. Running backs John Curry and Ray Williams lead one of the most potent ground games in the area. "They always seem to have good people at the skill positions," Gierke said. "And that is the case again this season. Their skill people are excellent athletes."

Hartfield has thrown for 963 yards and seven touchdowns this season. Curry has rushed for 947 yards and 13 touchdowns. Wide receiver Calvin Davis leads the county in touchdown grabs with five.

Nelson said that although the Darters are just 5-4, he still has a lot of respect for them. "They beat Lake Howell, and we didn't," Nelson said. "There is no doubt that they are a good team."

The Lake Mary defense has been playing well of late. The Ram defense has yielded just 10 points in its last three games. The Rams are led by linebacker Dave Fencik (13 tackles a game) and Dan Ferris (11). "They have a very aggressive defense," Gierke said. "They are all disciplined kids."

Gierke said that he is curious as to what Lake Mary team is going to show up. "I've seen them play some really good games, and in other games like against Lake Howell they haven't looked that good," Gierke said. "I'm anxious to see what team shows up here."

Nelson said that although his team knows it will be playing again on Monday in the tiebreaker, it will still be concentrating on Apopka. "The only thing that we are worrying about is Apopka," Nelson said. "We'll worry about the tiebreaker afterwards."

...Tribe

into town for the high school reunion won't get that embarrassed."

"We are concentrating on DeLand," Beathard said. "We can't afford to worry about anybody else now."

The game will feature a pair of offenses with totally different philosophies. The Bulldogs like to run the ball with their power formation. DeLand likes to ground it out, and will lull opponents to sleep with its running game until it gets a big play.

Seminole, on the other hand, likes to mix up its game plan. Offensive coordinator Emory Blake blends a solid running game with the most prolific passing attack in Central Florida.

"We used Leesburg and Oviedo as stepping stones to correct ourselves," Blake said. "Right now we're at about 75-80 percent progression to where we want to be before the playoffs."

Tribe quarterback Jeff Blake is the leading passer in Central Florida. Blake has thrown for 1,238 yards and 10 touchdowns. "I think that DeLand is one of the better defensive teams that will go up against," Blake said. "In a lot of ways, I think that they are similar to Lake Howell."

One reason that Blake has been so successful has been the play of the Tribe offensive line.

Seminole's line was the big question mark coming into the season, but the O-line has matured.

"Jeff (Blake) took them out for pizza after the Howell game," Beathard said. "Our offensive line has come of age."

Seminole running back Jerod Jones has supplied most of the ground game. Jones rushed for 95 yards and returned a kickoff 95 yards for the winning touchdown against Lake Howell last week. "I think that this is really a big game for us," Jones, the fifth leading rusher in the SAC with 688 yards, said. "We have to have momentum going into that playoff game. A loss here could really hurt us."

Hiss, the eternal pessimist, said that his team doesn't have a prayer. "Our kids are worrying about floats and getting dates for the dance instead of worrying about football," Hiss said. "We are a physically beaten football team. If football wasn't like war, I'd call time out."

Beathard said that even though Hiss says his team isn't that good, he knows otherwise. "They wouldn't be 7-2 and contending for the district title if they weren't any good," Beathard said. "This is going to be a fight from start to finish."

"This should be a good one," Beathard said. "This has become a pretty good little rivalry, and that shouldn't change tonight."

Colorful Holiday Cactus Blooms Brighten Season

A gardening column wouldn't be complete at this time of year without instructions on the care and maintenance of the popular Christmas cactus. These attractive plants can be found in almost every flower shop and garden center during the holiday season. They will be at their peak of bloom at this time as a result of light and temperature management by the nurserymen producing them.

Actually, there are three different types of holiday cactus, but they all belong to the Zygocactus family. The Thanksgiving cactus has bright orange-red flowers and is sometimes referred to as the lobster or crab claw cactus. The popular Christmas cactus has red, pink or white blooms, or combinations of these colors at Christmas time. There is also an Easter cactus with white blooms in the spring. Collectively, we will refer to them as holiday cactus.

The holiday cactus is an eye-catcher at this time of year. If you have just purchased one at the flower shop or garden center, it is probably full of buds and blooms for you to enjoy between now and Christmas. If you have nurtured yours since last year, you will want it to bloom at this time. Your success in producing blooms will depend on following the correct procedures listed here.

To make a holiday cactus bloom, you need to carefully control both the temperature and the amount of light it receives. If the nighttime temperature is maintained between 50 to 55 degrees Fahrenheit, the flower buds will form regardless of day length. But if the night temperature is between 55 to 70 degrees, the cactus will need 13 hours of uninterrupted darkness per day to set buds. With night temperatures above 70 degrees, your cactus will require even more darkness - about 15 hours per day. Excessive heat or temperatures above 80 degrees may cause bud drop. Temperature and short day treatment should continue until flower buds develop which takes about six to nine weeks.

Even one small exposure to light is enough to interrupt the darkness treatment, so be careful turning lights on in the room that you are trying to force the bud formation in. Some people cover the cactus instead with a black plastic bag or cardboard box each night, but remove it each day so the plant will remain healthy. Other people put the cactus in an unused closet each night and out again in the day. The beautiful blooms of the holiday cactus will be well worth your efforts to produce them.

In the home, the holiday cactus grows well in pots or hanging baskets. They can be grown outdoors during the summer but need subdued shade during the hottest part of the day. They must be brought indoors during the winter as they aren't cold tolerant. Once inside the house, they prefer a sunny location with good air circulation.

In their natural habitat, holiday cactus are forest plants that grow in the decayed humus in the crotches of trees. Therefore, they should be planted in a rich, well drained soil with a good amount of organic matter. A mixture of two parts perlite and three parts peat moss is a good soil mixture. A soluble plant food can be applied at half strength once a month during the growing season.

Holiday cactus need careful watering as too little or too much can cause flower bud drop. The cactus should receive frequent light waterings, but the soil should never stay soaking wet. Good drainage is very important. Overwatering usually results in root rot.

Luckily, holiday cactus are relatively disease free. Mealy bugs can be a problem, but inspect for the "cottony masses" and either remove them manually or with a cotton swab and alcohol.

There are a few fine points to properly care for the holiday cactus. But with special attention and correct procedures, you can have healthy plants and beautiful flowers during your holiday season.

WINS Project To Improve Blighted Community Area

The Westside Improvement Neighborhood Strategy Project (WINS) has gotten off to a good start. The office ribbon-cutting ceremonies was held with Mayor Bettye Smith, Sanford City Commissioners, city officials, and other interested persons in attendance.

The WINS Project is a broad study of the Neighborhood Reinforcement Area which is bounded by French Avenue on the east, 18th Street on the south, Persimmon Avenue on the west and Highway 46 on the north. Within this large area is the Primary Study Area which is bound by French Avenue, West 13th Street, Olive Avenue and the railroad tracks between West Sixth Street and Seventh Street. This boundary includes much of Goldsboro neighborhood. It will, at a later date, extend to other neighborhoods in larger areas.

The concern of the city officials, mayor and city commission and city manager is that the time had come to identify and address the problems confronting this area and other blighted areas in Sanford. This plan will focus on improving housing conditions, expanding housing opportunities and improving the overall neighborhood—housing, community facilities, recreation, commercial, and community appearance.

The community is encouraged to actively support this neighborhood improvement efforts and to participate in its activities and benefits. Your involvement is critical to the success of the project.

For further information and to have your many questions an-

Come and worship the Lord in an atmosphere of great reverence and give to our Lord and Savior the Glory He deserves. Sister Jeannette Barrington is chairman. The Rev. J.H. Woodard is church pastor.

Forgotten Nightie May Reveal Pain Over Woman's Departure

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago, the woman I had loved for six years moved to another city. We lived together for the last three years. Finally, she said she needed to get on with her life, and she left me.

In the process of moving, she inadvertently left behind a gift I had given her last Christmas. It was a beautiful, expensive (not that the price matters), sexy, very revealing nightgown. Our relationship is over, but I can't bear the thought of her wearing that nightgown for another. I feel that I should mail it to her, but, as I have said, I hate the idea of her wearing it for someone else.

What do I do, Abby?
BELITTLED IN EL PASO

DEAR BELITTLED: The letter from "Jeffrey's Mom" sparked other memorable introductions. For example:
DEAR ABBY: Years ago when I was just a poor college kid, I was invited to spend the Christmas holidays with the family of a girl I'd been dating for about six months. We liked each other a lot, but I was in no position to make any kind of commitment. Well, can you imagine how I felt when her mother introduced me all over the place as "Jennifer's fiancé"?
GIL (STILL SINGLE)

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed "Jeffrey's Mother" hit home with me. It seems that Jeffrey had been dating Karen exclusively for two years, a fact well-known to his mother, but in introducing Karen to her friends, she said, "This is my son, Jeffrey, and his friend, Karen." Karen took offense, saying she should have been introduced as "Jeffrey's girlfriend."

Here's my situation: My boyfriend and I have been living together for six months. Although we are not formally engaged, we plan to marry next year.

Last month, at his sister's wedding, I had a chance to meet his whole family, who all live out of state. His mother, who is aware of our relationship and future plans, introduced me to all the aunts, uncles, sisters, brothers and grandparents as her son's "little friend!"

GIL (STILL SINGLE)

CONFIDENTIAL TO 'A LOVING MOTHER': So far you have given your son a car for his 18th birthday. He totaled it after three days. You gave him another car, which he totaled in two months. You gave him a chance for a college education. He dropped out in his sophomore year. You paid for the diamond ring that he gave his fiancée. He then broke the engagement, she returned the ring, and he hooked it and kept the money.

And now you ask me if you should borrow on your home to put this son in business. My answer is an unqualified no! Give him one more gift: a chance to prove that he is a man. Let him find his own job, stick to it, and learn how to stand on his own two feet.

DEAR ABBY: I chose not to take my husband's surname as my legal surname when we married; instead I kept my "own" surname. This has caused some distress with both his family and mine. They claim not to know what to call me, or how to address letters to the both of us, or how to introduce us. The explanation I've given them follows (I have not used our real names):

My name is Susan Jones. My husband's name is Frank Hall. Those are our legal names. My title is Mrs. Frank Hall. A letter written to me alone can be addressed to "Susan Jones" or to "Mrs. Frank Hall." A letter written to both my husband and me may be addressed to "Susan Jones and Frank Hall" or to "Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hall."

The same logic holds true when introducing us. A person may introduce us as "Frank Hall and his wife, Susan Jones," or "Susan Jones and her husband, Frank Hall," or simply as "Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hall."

I really can't see why there has to be so much confusion over what to call me just because I didn't change my name to Susan

Hall. After all, I would never have changed my name to "Mrs. Frank Hall"; that is just a title, which I may use regardless of what my legal name is as long as I'm married to Frank Hall. Am I right or wrong?

NAME AND TITLE

DEAR NAME: Right! If it's too complicated for those who claim not to know how to introduce you, simplify it by saying, "My name is Susan and I am married to Frank Hall." Period.

P.S. All social mail should be addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hall: your business mail to Susan Jones.

Whirlpool May Be The Problem, Not Your Body

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — At my health check the whirlpool is supposedly set at between 90 and 100 degrees. But it is so hot that I can't stand to get in. Is my temperature out of whack or is this too hot?

DEAR READER — Some people tend to be heat-sensitive. They are intolerant of saunas and whirlpools. Listen to what your body is telling you: If the whirlpool is uncomfortable, stay out of it — or enjoy one that isn't as hot. In addition, you might want to check the water temperature of the unit in your health club. Perhaps the whirlpool is too hot and you might be the first sensible person to voice a complaint about improperly functioning equipment.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Who can help with these food fads? Now, believe it or not, my father, 63, has started drinking a daily glass of 15 drops of hydrogen peroxide mixed with water. He claims it will keep his system clean and free of any harm in this practice?

DEAR READER — The amount of hydrogen peroxide your father consumes each day will not harm him. It won't help him, either.

I agree that the claims and counter-claims about nutrition are confusing to people who aren't specialists in the topic. That's why I've found the following resource material to be so helpful: "Popular Nutritional Practices: A Scientific Appraisal," by Jack Yeliv, M.D., Ph.D. (Popular Medicine Press, Box 403-C, Menlo Park, CA 94028). The book costs $12.95 (including postage and handling) and can be ordered directly.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm 18 and can't sweat through three shirts, a sweater and a winter jacket. My parents say it's normal, but if that's true, why aren't any of my friends walking around with huge sweat stains on their clothes? This has been going on for five years and is driving me crazy.

DEAR READER — You seem to be describing hyperhidrosis — too much sweating. Although this condition can be normal for many individuals, in others it

WIN AT BRIDGE

You've heard the old saw "Defense is the hardest part of the game." Believe me, it's true. Place yourself in the East chair with partner leading. Two diamonds to two against four spades. What should you be thinking about?

Of course the device is a singleton, and the diamond ace and club king. The winning play is for East to switch to the heart jack at trick two. That will establish another trick for the defense before West gets his diamond ruff.

Later, when he leads to give partner a ruff when he has a short suit, but be alert for those times when you have to first attack a side-suit to develop a needed trick on defense.

Stocks Open Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened sharply lower today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 43.77 Thursday, was down 24.04 to 1871.35 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 750-183 among the 1,214 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 8,719,000 shares.

Stocks prices tumbled Thursday in moderate trading as Wall Street suffered through another day without a budget agreement, worsened by indications the month-long effort to reduce the budget deficit was in trouble.

"There is great disappointment over the absence of a budget-deficit compromise," said Alfred Goldman of A.G. Edwards & Sons in St. Louis. "And even when it comes, there is a feeling that it will be made up of a lot of mirrors and blue smoke."

"We have had some pretty steady, unemotional selling," Goldman said, adding, however, that the market appeared to find support between 1885 and 1900, as measured by the Dow industrials.

Analysts said the market's focus remained on the apparent inability of budget negotiators in Washington to nail down an agreement and signs that the eventual agreement would fail to contain anything dramatic.

Dollar Drifts As Traders Wait For Budget Results

The dollar drifted in lackluster trading on major world money markets today with traders reluctant to buy or sell prior to the end of the budget-cutting negotiations in Washington. Gold was slightly higher.

Currency analysts said the market's focus remained on the apparent inability of budget negotiators in Washington to hammer out an agreement and on signs the eventual agreement would fail to contain anything dramatic.

Traders in London said they were unwilling to take any large trading positions as the deadline approached for deficit cuts to take effect under the revised Gramm-Rudman-Hollings law. They noted, however, that sentiment remained basically bearish against the dollar.

In the Far East, the dollar drifted slightly higher, closing out the week at 135.37 yen, up 0.52 from Thursday's close of 134.85 yen, on hopes that negotiations in Washington to reduce the budget deficit would be settled before the Friday deadline.

Markets in Japan will be closed on Monday for observance of the Labor Day national holiday.

Consumer Prices Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Inflation rose 0.4 percent in October, the Labor Department reported today, an increase that reflected boosts in the costs of shelter, new cars and clothing.

A decline in energy prices and smaller price increases in grocery store food prices helped offset the October increase, the department said.

For the first 10 months of 1987, the consumer price index rose 4.8 percent, according to the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Consumer prices rose 0.2 percent in September following increases of 0.5 percent in August and 0.2 percent in July.

All figures were adjusted for seasonal variations.

The index transportation component, up 0.2 percent in September, jumped 0.5 percent in October.

Prices for buying new cars rose 0.6 percent following a 0.1 percent rise in September.

employee, Doug Taylor. The meeting had been called to discuss complaints about Browning's job performance, according to the city administrator.

Browning has not admitted taping the meeting, but Rosanky says he learned about the taping from someone who claims Browning later played portions of the taped meeting. Browning denies that claim as well.

Woody Igou, Seminole County assistant state attorney, said the situation came about after members of a city utilities crew under the supervision of Browning complained of conduct on the job. The four or five workers assigned to Browning's crew reported he allegedly left their assigned work area for long periods of time and would later return and make them work overtime to make up for work left undone during his absence.

"They (the crew) said they just sat around the whole time Browning was gone," Igou said. He added that the crew claimed Browning was absent from the job location at least one time for a period of about four hours.

Browning denies the allegations and says he was unjustly demoted and later hindered in his attempts to have that demotion overturned.

Browning's Orlando attorney, Tom Turner, filed a motion to dismiss the charges claiming the meeting should come under Florida's Sunshine Law, which provides that all meetings of elected bodies have to be open to the public. He also asked for dismissal on the basis that the county's state attorney's office is selectively prosecuting the case while not prosecuting other similar offenses.

Circuit Court Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. ruled last Monday that the meeting didn't come under the Sunshine Law, and that Rosanky had a right to expect reasonable privacy in his office. He did, however, ask Igou to furnish the court with the number of previously reported similar charges and the amount of those cases his office prosecuted.

"The part (of the motion to dismiss) about selective prosecution really has no basis," Igou said.

As the legal battle continues, Browning remains an employee of Winter Springs.

Igou said one of the reasons the city may not have fired Browning yet stems from an incident three years ago, in which a city emergency medical technician was accused by a 14-year-old girl of molesting her while en route to a hospital during an emergency call. "When the case went to court, they found the guy (EMT) not guilty in about three minutes, so maybe that's why they (Winter Springs officials) haven't fired Browning yet."

have families?" she questioned. "Mental institutions are looking for places to put these people."

She also noted that some of those going into group homes receive SSI checks. "SSI requires that the person (recipient) receive $38 of that check," she said. "But what happens when people are unscrupulous. I'm scared of what can happen if they're not taken care of."

"This ordinance says nothing about building codes," she continued. "It doesn't say they have to have heat. There are so many gaping holes in this that I would implore the city to slow down. Let's put some penalties in here. Let's have some control. Let's not make the mistakes and then not be able to do anything about them."

Commissioner Jay Malone said the proposed ordinance was not clear and requested the board have a meeting with the city attorney to clarify it.

Other commissioners agreed with Malone and tabled the amendment until Jan. 14 when they will have a workshop with the City Attorney William Colbert.

However, the proposed amendment for Sanford requires those persons to first meet state codes before Sanford would license them.

The proposed amendment to city zoning ordinances outlines conditions that have to be met for group homes of more than three residents, another major point of discussion. Sanford can already have group homes for three or less residents.

Joyce Malone, 603 S. Myrtle St. said "No where have I heard that you have to take care of them in large numbers...if you don't put restrictions on it who is going to see that these people have proper care?" She explained that some group homes may be good, with caring people involved, and some group home residents may have caring families. "But what about the ones who don't Investigation continues.

McFadden, who describes himself as "self-employed," was being held today in the Seminole County jail in lieu of $2,000 bond.

Tipssters drew Oviedo police attention to McFadden's home, located at the dead end of Second Street off of Avenue B.

Dingess said when he realized the scope of the investigation, he called on Ealinger for assistance.

On Nov. 10 a neighbor of McFadden's introduced him to an undercover OCIB agent. The agent reported buying $10 worth of crack cocaine from the suspect that day. Later the same day the agent returned and bought an edger for $75. On Nov. 11, the agent reported buying a Honda motor scooter from McFadden out of the moving van, which at that time was parked on Third Street. The agent paid $100 for the scooter. The agent also bought, at McFadden's home, video recorder, a 12 gauge shotgun and a boat motor on Nov. 11, records show.

"We believe he was the fence," Ealinger said of McFadden. Ealinger added that goods recovered are valued at over $50,000. The vehicles alone, which included one dump truck in addition to two other large GMC trucks and the moving van and flatbed truck, exceed that $50,000 mark. Ealinger said that Thursday evening it had not been determined if all of the vehicles were stolen. About 20 bicycles were also found at the scene.

The investigation showed, Ealinger said, that "shoppers" would come to McFadden's home and buy what they needed, paying about 10 percent of the retail value for the goods, which included cigarettes, wine and beef steaks.

"We're unsure exactly who brought the stuff to the house," Ealinger said.

Dingess said his investigation began about seven weeks ago. He added that the number of people who visited McFadden's remote home was an attention getter. He said that McFadden is a long-time resident of Oviedo.

Reagan approve an alternative deficit reduction package today.

The same law allows the automatic cuts to be rescinded if congressional leaders take advantage of a provision giving them extra time to push the alternative into place.

"There's nothing going to be all that Draconian about it taking place," House Republican leader Robert Michel of Illinois said Thursday night, theorizing that the specter of automatic cuts would apply the extra pressure needed to wring out agreement on a more palatable alternative.

At the White House, a senior administration official told reporters the president would direct his negotiators to work right up to the midnight deadline, if necessary.

"We want to come out of this either with a deal or 100 percent clarity that we made every effort to get one," the official said. "But if we don't get a deal, there's going to be shouting in the streets."

Some economists say an agreement is needed to calm world financial markets that have been in turmoil since the Oct. 19 Wall Street crash. They say the deficit — estimated to climb to between $163 billion and $180 billion in this fiscal year without efforts to curb it — was partly to blame.

Negotiators have indicated the plan before them calls for about $30 billion in deficit reduction in fiscal 1988, which began Oct. 1, and about $45 billion in fiscal 1989. Of this year's $30 billion, about $10 billion would come from unspecified tax increases and about $5 billion each in cuts in military spending and various benefit programs.

The $30 billion figure exceeds the negotiators' minimum target for this year of at least $23 billion in deficit reduction.

In contrast to their relative optimism at day's end, lawmakers feared earlier Thursday that protests by some Republicans might upset the negotiating process.

school," Lundquist said. He added that the fact he managed to construct the device on school grounds has taken school administrators and teachers by surprise.

Lundquist had earlier said the shop didn't have the equipment Garner needed to make the kind of bomb he did, which included equipment that was used to weld the device shut on one end. SHS principal Wayne Epps said the auto shop does have welding equipment, but that investigations have revealed another student welded the bomb for Garner.

The unidentified student had no idea that Garner was going to use the welded pipe for a bomb, according to Epps. "He (the student) said Garner just asked him to weld the pipe for him," Epps said.

Epps said there are 15 other students enrolled in the class where Garner apparently made the bomb. "It (the class) is no huge and it has so many students, it wouldn't be difficult for a student to do that (construct a bomb)," Epps said.

Epps also said that if a student really wanted to do something in that class without having the instructor notice it, he was sure it could be done because the students are normally split into different groups. Epps explained the instructor had to go from group to group to check on their progress during the class period.

Epps said the school is looking into the possibility of putting a teacher's aide into the class to help oversee the students, but that he doesn't know if that will happen yet.

Bob Miller, a representative for the school district's Winter Park Insurance firm of Gallagher-Bassett, said he could not make a comment concerning his investigation of the accident or its findings. He did say he was preparing a full report on the accident and that it would be sent to School's Supt. Robert Hughes next week.

Silly Stance, But Fun

Story And Photos
By Susan Ledon
Herold Staff Writer

The pace is a bit leisurely and the stance a bit silly, but there's no stopping race walking as it sweeps into first place as the nation's fastest growing sport.

Sanford's Esteban Gonzalez, 70, said he doesn't mind that he looks a bit like a grounded duck flapping his bent arms as he waddles along in the stiff-legged walk. "I like it for health and exercise," said Gonzalez, who has been race walking for a couple of years, on doctor's orders.

"I do it daily, six miles each time. I feel silly. Oh, yes. But, I enjoy it," said this native of Puerto Rico, whose father lived to be 100 without race walking.

But, Gonzalez said, his lifestyle as a civil court marshal and a construction worker has been a bit different from his father's, who "worked hard in the sugar cane fields and every day took a siesta."

Gonzalez, who use to smoke said his father never smoked and his father also never drank, although Gonzalez himself recommends an occasional glass of wine.

Although Gonzalez' father never race walked, it would have been possible for him to do so, since, Bob Fine, 34, of Delroy Beach, who competes on a national level as a race walker, said the sport is over 100 years old.

...Running

Race walkers, Fine said, were called pedestrians in the 1800s, when they took to the road in a speeded up walk that falls short of a run.

Race walkers, Fine said, must at all times have one foot on the ground. Their knees must be straight and body perpendicular to the ground.

That's the position for those who want to follow international rules of the sport. There are about 40 million American walkers who follow some version of those rules and call themselves race walkers, although technically speaking, Fine said, some aren't doing the true race walk. But that's okay, he said, they're still getting great exercise.

There has been an upsurge of interest in race walking in recent years with many newcomers, many on doctor's orders, choosing to "race walk, not run." More than half of the new race walkers are women, Fine said.

The faster pace of race walking and the swinging of the arms of the walkers puts race walking in a class above regular walking, Fine said.

He called race walking the ideal aerobic exercise. He outlined several reasons for its superiority and popularity:

There's no expense involved; no visit to an exercise class is needed; race walking can be done most any place at any time; no equipment is needed; race walkers are not likely to be injured, as runners and joggers are by the stress running puts on the body.

"People can tolerate heat better when they race walk than when they run. That makes it the ideal Florida exercise," Fine said. "It's the best aerobic exercise, because you work with both the upper and lower body, but you don't need a pool like you do for swimming," he said.

Fine has been race walking for about 12 years, and has been race walking "exclusively" for seven years.

"You have to be shown the proper technique," he said. Once you have become a race walker, Fine said, you can enjoy the company of other race walkers if you exercise at this more gentle pace.

In competition, both Gonzalez and Fine, who competed in Sanford's Golden Age Games, said the pace of race walking picks up a bit. But for routine exercise, race walkers don't rush to finish.

Casselberry's Bob Miller, 55, said he has been a race walker since 1955. He race walks once a week on a four-mile walk. "It doesn't hurt. You don't get out of wind. It doesn't hurt your ankles, shins and back. It's a lot safer than running or jogging.

"Race walking is a complete exercise for the whole body. It's like swimming. But you can't swim to work. Race walking is very practical," Miller said.

Miller trained in England for race walking while in the U.S. Air Force. In those days he would walk 1,000 miles a year, but now, "I train once a week just for the heck of it. I go with my daughter. She jogs. I'm just maintaining my status quo."

Fine added that it is the ideal sport for the elderly, because its impact on the body as the walker contacts with the ground is one-half the force a runner feels.

But race walking isn't just the sport of seniors. Fine said it's ideal for any one of any age who's looking for an easy, safe way to exercise. If they don't mind a few stares from couch potatoes.

"It's low key, good exercising and fun," said Fine in summing up his sport, in which you walk, don't run, to win health benefits.

Lost in Hollywood?

It's Steve Martin And ... John Candy

By Frank Sanello

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — It could have been a scene from "Planes, Trains and Automobiles," the new comedy film.

It's about the disastrous experiences of two travelers — played by Steve Martin and John Candy — trying to make it home for Thanksgiving. At least the movie, with a release date of Nov. 25, meets the deadline.

Paramount Pictures had assembled some 300 journalists on the studio's back lot for a press conference and lunch with the film's two stars and writer-director John Hughes ("The Breakfast Club").

Steve Martin was there. So was Hughes. But not John Candy. The press waited. And waited. And waited.

Finally, an announcement: Candy was shooting a new picture in Fresno and his flight down to Los Angeles had been delayed by rain and fog.

After waiting more than three-quarters of an hour, the press was getting antsy, especially since they were sitting downwind of the turkey buffet.

Steve Martin decided to calm the uneasy crowd by doing an impromptu version of his standup act.

"It's all Candy's fault," the prematurely gray comedian shouted to the press. "So when you write your articles, don't criticize me."

Eying the turkey, which was quickly drying out in chafing dishes, Martin added, "You're having turkey for lunch? We already had some of that very same turkey while we were making the movie — and we shot the film a year ago."

Finally, Candy showed up, and the grilling began.

Actually, the press was rather easygoing, which was surprising, especially since at least half represented college newspapers. College reporters, motivated by visions of budding careers as Woodwards and Bernsteins, can sometimes be brutal.

If anything, the press conference was an indication of how popular Hughes, Martin and Candy are with young people today. The questions were close to reverential — except for one asked by a female reporter from Japan.

Despite her nation's reputation for politeness, the woman came right out and said Candy looked like a Sumo wrestler.

"We admire big people because we are a nation of small people," she said. Then came the non-sequitur: "Do you plan to diet?"

Visibly embarrassed, Candy replied, "I do eat a lot of junk food, and I think about (dieting) for health reasons."

Martin jumped in and relieved the tension by joking. "At one point during filming, John went down to 110 pounds, which I thought was a little excessive."

Unlike Candy and Martin, who wisecracked their way through the gathering, director John Hughes was grave and philosophical. He said he based the film's travel mishaps on his own experiences when he was an advertising copywriter flying from Chicago to New York, the reverse route followed in the film.

"It actually happened to me," Hughes said. "It was supposed to be a one-day business trip. I ended up in Phoenix and got home five days later."

"Planes, Trains and Automobiles" marks a departure from Hughes' typical casting: his stars for this venture are about 20 years older than the Brat Packers who usually populate Hughes films.

"I wanted Rob Lowe and Judd Nelson, but Paramount forced Steve and John on me," the director deadpanned. Hughes now prefers working with older actors because "I don't have to ask their mother for permission for one more close-up. With kids you have to spend a great deal of time relaxing them and giving them more encouragement."

The director denied a suggestion that he was trying to stir up controversy and attract an older audience by making an R-rated film. The comedy got an R because of one scene where Steve Martin repeatedly screams the ultimate obscenity.

"The word was used in only one sequence," Hughes said. "I wasn't trying to be controversial."

"And I only used it 19 times," Martin interjected.

Cable Network To Focus On Florida Sports

Staff And Wire Reports

Central Florida sports junkies will have a new outlet for their passion when a new network highlighting Florida sports and public affairs begins broadcasting early next year.

Home Sports Entertainment and a consortium of Florida cable systems operators announced the formation of the new Sunshine Network Wednesday. The network is scheduled to begin broadcasting in March 1988.

Mike Shea, vice president for operations of Cablevision of Central Florida, said that the new channel will be a part of the basic service to cable subscribers and there will be no additional charge.

HSE Vice President Dick Barron said cable companies have already promised to deliver programming to 1.8 million homes, making it one of the largest regional networks in the country.

"The Sunshine Network will become the second-largest regional cable network the day it opens," Barron said. "We fully expect to launch into 2 million homes."

The network was created by the 11 cable companies in the consortium, who then invited HSE of Houston to participate as managing partner. The consortium owns 51 percent of the network. Sunshine owns 49 percent.

The network plans to broadcast about 400 shows annually, including 150 sporting events from Florida. Central to the network's plans are agreements to broadcast basketball, football, baseball and other sports events from Florida State University, Jacksonville University and the University of Central Florida.

Jason Bateman: Two-Faced For Right Reasons

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jason Bateman, the 18-year-old star of TV's "Valerie's Family," is self-confessed schizophrenic who has even given different names to his two personalities.

Jason is the seasoned, professional actor who behaves like a man in his 30s. Jay is a kid who grabs his surfboard, heads for the beach and flakes out on the weekends.

"I keep the two characters separate," said Bateman in an interview at Lorimar Studios. "They even have different names."

"The side of me that is Jason Bateman is sometimes 35 years old. Jay Bateman is exactly 18. They have different vocabularies and attitudes."

"When I'm acting or doing interviews or involved in making career decisions I'm Jason. The difference between them is the difference between a kid and a kid at work."

Bateman obviously was in his Jason mode, articulate, serious and helpful.

"I don't think of myself as a 'star' whether I'm Jason or Jay. I don't drive a fancy car and I have no close friends in show business."

"When I'm not working I'm having a blast as a teenager. I have a job. So do my friends. My pals are surfers and hell-raisers. We don't talk about my work unless there's something funny to joke about."

"At my age and in my position it takes discipline not to let your whole self grow up. Young actors in the limelight suffer from hang-ups."

"A lot of actors my age stay with tutors even when they're not working because they have no friends outside the business and they're afraid to go back to high school."

"But at every opportunity I went back to school until I graduated. I didn't want to miss what I've been enjoying — music, surfing, my friends and partying."

"But even after Jay has been partying and having a good time, Jason gets up in the morning, gets to the set on time and meets his responsibilities. Jay's day begins when he leaves the set, jumps into his Jeep and turns the stereo loud to the Rolling Stones, The Who, The Doors or Led Zeppelin."

Last season, Bateman spent his hiatus from "Valerie's Family" starring in his first feature film, "Teen Wolf Too," in which he plays a high school student who turns benevolent werewolf from time to time.

"I don't think 'Teen Wolf Too' will win any awards," he said. "It's just another step forward. I was ready for my first movie. My TV background was major preparation to learn the process of the business."

Bateman has been a regular on four TV series, beginning with "Little House on the Prairie" when he was 11. Since then he has appeared in "Silver Spoons," "It's Your Move" and now "Valerie's Family."

"The transition to a movie wasn't difficult for a couple of reasons," he said. "To begin with, this is inherently a B film. I wanted to make it an A picture, but the budget just wasn't there."

"Also the role I play in the picture isn't too different from my part as David Hogan in the series. They're both middle class, all-American guys with problems. It's not as if I were playing a street gypsy or a farmer in the movie."

Bateman is resigned to the fact that the picture and his performance will be compared to "Teen Wolf," which starred Michael J. Fox.

"It's inevitable," he said. "We are different people and we're not playing the same character. I have never seen 'Teen Wolf' and decided not to look at it until after I played the part. Maybe one of these days I'll rent a cassette out of curiosity."

"The picture doesn't represent what I want to do in the future. I'd like to play a dramatic role like Timothy Hutton did in 'Ordinary People.' What a great vehicle that was. I want to be a great actor."

"I remember I was in the green room for Merv Griffin's TV show and it was full of stereotyped Hollywood people chattering away. Then the news was announced that James Cagney had died."

"Everyone stopped talking. They were touched by the passing of a great talent. That is the kind of career I want to establish."

(1) (1) MOVIE "The Gambler" (1980) Kenny Rogers, Lee Purcell. A professional gambler takes a train ride through the Old West to help his estranged son and finds romance with a steady society lady along the way.

A Toughie: Who's Shirley? Who's Flo?

Dear Dick: I have Shirley Jones and Florence Henderson a little confused. Can you help me? Was Shirley married to Jack Cassidy before he died? And did she play in a series similar to Florence's "Brady Bunch"? — E.H., Muskegon, Mich.

Dear E.H.: You have Shirley correctly pegged. She was married to Jack Cassidy. Now she is Mrs. Marty Ingels. She starred in the series "The Partridge Family" — which was something like "The Brady Bunch."

Dear Dick: I have a question about actors and actresses. How long do they have to memorize their scripts? — S., Knoxville, Tenn.

Dear S.: It varies widely. For important movies, they may get the script a few months before shooting begins. For series TV, they may get it the night before shooting begins. And, often, scripts are rewritten on the set — so the actors have to learn their new lines a few minutes before.

Dear Dick: What was the name of the movie, starring Richard Chamberlain and Glenda Jackson, which was about Tchaikovsky's life and times? — B.E.B., Shinnston, W. Va.

Dear B.E.B.: That was "The Music Lovers," from 1970.

Dear Dick: Can you tell me the whereabouts of two of my favorite movie tough guys — Ted

Ask Dick Kleiner

DeCorcia and Mike Kellin. — J.H.A., Williamsport, Pa.

Dear J.H.A.: Both are gone. DeCorcia died in 1973, Kellin in 1983.

Dear Dick: A few years ago, you printed the addresses of the three major networks. Could you please reprint them. I want to write them about some programs. — M.B.B., Newton.

Dear M.B.B.: ABC is at 1330 Ave. of the Americas, New York, NY 10019; and 2040 Ave. of the Stars, Los Angeles, CA 90067. CBS: 51 West 52nd St., New York, NY 10019, and 7800 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90036. NBC: 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, NY 10020, and 3000 West Alameda Blvd., Burbank, CA 91523.

Dear Dick: What was the name of the movie with Doris Day and James Cagney, based on the life of Ruth Etting, the singer? — R.K., Ventura, Calif.

Dear R.K.: That was "Love Me or Leave Me," from 1955.

Dear Dick: Since I got married, seven years ago, my husband has been talking about this movie, "The Count of Monte Cristo." I have yet to see it. I'd like to get it for him on video, but I can't find it. Is it available? — R.C., Chicago.

Dear R.C.: There have been several versions of that classic story — the 1934 version with Robert Donat and the 1975 version with Richard Chamberlain, among others. Both have been issued on video cassettes, and your local store should be able to order either one of them for you.

Dear Dick: I can't understand the game show emcee — Pat Sajak of "Wheel of Fortune" in particular — who always plays to the studio audience, and choreographs the applause. It hinders the home audience from hearing much of the program. I think they should consider the home audience more. After all, we are the ones who keep them on the air. — I.B.M., Saginaw, Mich.

Dear I.B.M.: That is done on the theory that the laughter and applause from the studio audience is infectious, and makes the home audience think the show is very funny or very exciting. They think the home audience believes they are watching an event, rather than just a show. I think they are probably right — but you are right, too. They overdo it.

medical help or advice. Scott admitted that Gina sometimes has Pamela told Alex that they must find Elena's real killer. Gina agreed not to sue C.C. for raising her blindness after he agreed to pay her big bucks, give her partial custody of Brandon and possession of his guest house. THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS Janet freaked out when Evan said that he's not going to divorce Michelle now that she's regained her memory. Shots were fired when Evan later tried to disarm Janet, who was holding Michelle (Faren) at gunpoint. Cricket promised that she'd stick by Philip, who told her that Nina claims he got her pregnant. The police warned Steven that Loanna is mentally ill and that at times she's extremely dangerous. Danny told Cricket that he still cares for her even though she's engaged to Philip. JoAnna offered to loan Marc some money. Andy agreed that Michelle (Faren) must decide if she wants him or Evan. Paul complimented Lauren, who is determined to become a successful businesswoman. Evan told Betty that Michelle (Faren) is her mom.

Jared Martin Comes To 'OLTL'

By Nancy M. Reichardt

NEW YORK — Most of the time, daytime soap actors turn up on nighttime soaps after they move to Hollywood to look for other work. But this time a former nighttime soap actor, Jared Martin, who played Dusty Farlow on "Dallas," is coming from a nighttime series to the daytime soap, "One Life to Live."

Jared will first appear on "OLTL" on Dec. 2. He'll be creating the character of Donald Latham, a former state judge from Nevada. Donald will move to Llanview and he'll have a mysterious connection to Lee Halpern's (played by Janet Zaring) past. But just what has gone down between these two will be kept a secret from the audience for several weeks.

We were unable to find out how long Jared will be working on "OLTL," but we did learn that the role will continue for several months at least.

SHORT TAKES:

TONY-AWARD WINNING actor Ben Harney will be seen on "All My Children" in the role of Assistant District Attorney Peter Ramsey on a recurring basis during Ross Chandler's (played by Robert Gentry) rape trial.

Ben won his Tony Award for his portrayal of Curtis Taylor, Jr. in the hit Broadway musical, "Dreamgirls." His other Broadway credits are too numerous to list here, but they include such hits as "Ain't Misbehavin'," "The Wiz" and "Pippin."

Ben appeared briefly as Dr. Greg Stone on the now-defunct soap, "The Doctors."

ALSO IN CONNECTION WITH Ross's rape trial, actress Fran Brill will appear as defense lawyer Jill Reihan. Daytime fans with a long memory will remember that Fran portrayed Fran Bachman on the former daytime soap, "How to Succeed in a Marriage." After leaving daytime, Fran went on to appear in guest-starring roles on such nighttime series as "Spenser: For Hire," "Nurse," "Barnaby Rudge" and "Kate and Allie." She was in the television movie, "Amber Waves."

BROADWAY, MOVIE AND television actor Franklin Cover will preside as Judge Lerner when Ross's rape trial gets underway beginning Friday, Nov. 20.

Franklin was a regular on the TV series "The Jeffersons" and has starred in Broadway productions of "Applause," "Forty Carats" and "Any Wednesday." He was seen in the feature films "The Stepford Wives," "The Great Gatsby" and "Such Good Friends."

JOHN REILLY, WHO PLAYS SEAN Donely on "General Hospital," and his wife, Liz, have been on cloud nine ever since they learned that they'll become parents in June 1988.

ALSO FROM "OH," WE'VE learned that Sam Behrens, who portrays Jake Meyer, has decided not to renew his contract with the soap. Although Sam will exit by the new year, there are no plans to write Jake out of the story, since the character will eventually be recast.

Kristina Malandro (Felicia Jones) fans don't have to worry any longer about whether she'll be staying or leaving "OH." Despite the fact that she hasn't had a lot of story line lately, Kristina recently signed a new one-year contract with the show. Felicia, who has become a detective of late, will continue to help Robert Scorpio (Tristan Rogers) track down criminals.

ANOTHER YOUNG DAYTIMER who has been busy recording a single record is Brian Bloom (Dusty Donovan) of "As The World Turns." Brian's record, "All I Want To Know," should be ready for general release in the very near future.

THIS IS THE WEEK that we'll get a glimpse of Cheryl Stansbury, a lady stockbroker played by daytime newcomer Jennifer Anglin. Cheryl is destined to eventually cause lots of romantic trouble between Sean Donoly (John Reilly) and Tiffany Hill (Sharon Wyatt).

"DAYS OF OUR LIVES" has hired two new cast members. The first is Richard Biggs, who will create the role of Marcus, an old friend of Steve "Patch" Johnson's (played by Stephen Nichols). According to the story line, Patch and Marcus have been pals since the days that they both lived in an orphanage.

The second newcomer is Broadway actor Brian Green, who most recently co-starred in the musical "Big River." Brian begins airing Jan. 1 in the recurring role of Alan Brand. Alan will be a close friend of Jennifer Horton's (Melissa Brennan), and his presence will undoubtedly cause trouble between Jennifer and her long-time boyfriend, Frankie Brady (Billy Warlock).

MICHAEL WEISS HAS TAKEN a leave of absence from his role of Mike Horton on "Days Of Our Lives" and he'll be gone for two months while he works on the feature film, "Halloween Four," being shot on location in Africa. Mike Horton will be sent off on a special medical mission during Michael's absence.

ETHAN WAYNE (STORM Logan) and Carrie Michum (Donna Logan) went to Australia recently to promote their soap, "The Bold and The Beautiful," which is very popular Down Under.

NOW THAT JAMES STENBECK is dead and buried (we've been assured for the last time), Anthony Herrera's run on "As The World Turns" has come to an end. He's now free to work on several projects which he's involved in writing and producing.

(Send your questions about soap operas to Nancy M. Reichardt, "Tune In Tomorrow," in care of this newspaper. Questions cannot be answered personally, but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.)

That schedule will include 23 baseball games involving the three teams, delayed telecast of all non-network FSU football games and up to 15 live FSU basketball games. The network will also televise "non-event" sports programs such as coaches' interview shows, and several non-money-making events, including women's athletics and tennis.

"We have been carrying UCF football on a tape-delay basis each Monday evening and this new network will provide greatly expanded coverage for the University of Central Florida," Shea said.

It will also show 100 major league baseball games, 70 college basketball games including those from Florida teams, 50 college football games and occasional pro boxing and tennis events.

The network will produce "first rate, network quality" public affairs programs. Those programs could include interviews with politicians, a round-table discussion of the week's events by members of Tallahassee's press corps, coverage of community festivals and election coverage.

"The possibilities are endless," said Florida Cable Television Association President Steve Wilkerson, who will oversee public affairs programming.
