Going Down The Road To The Soup Kitchen

Every indication shows that we are on a Reagan Merry-go-round, going down the 1929 Hoover Boulevard to the soup kitchen. All are shocked into a state of general confusion and lack of confidence.

Recession or depression or whatever, this is a strange and trying time in which we find ourselves. What is really happening? We find ourselves asking strangers, what is the latest word from Washington? What is the decision of the Senate? This kind of question can go on and on as we explore the progress of the latest scandal and the most current crisis. And with each inquiry, depression and despair seem to reach news heights with us.

We as a nation have many causes to fear, and not fear itself. The first priority must be for those who have become disabled while serving their country.

Meanwhile, we have an actor heading the country. Where are you, Sen. Kennedy? Your voice is very still. Where are you other loud mouths that somehow lost your voice? Someone should have an answer, and not with a joke that good times are just around the corner when they are living in a roundhouse.

Stop Handgun Violence

One year ago this month, the president of the United States was nearly killed with a "Saturday Night Special." Thank God President Reagan survived.

But during this past year over 20,000 other Americans were shot with handguns. They were not as fortunate as the president. They died.

It's easy to blame the politicians in Congress who should be doing something to stop America's handgun violence. But Congress works for us. What have we done? What have you done?

The gun lobbyists are puny compared to us. Polls show that 9 in 10 Americans want tougher handgun laws. But the politicians hear from the gun zealots every day. It's time they heard from us.

Our goal is to find one million Americans who care enough about handgun violence to stop it. And if becoming one million strong isn't enough, we'll find 10 million more until our handgun laws are strengthened. And if Congress won't change the law, we'll change Congress.

Every time a John Lennon or a Ronald Reagan is shot, America is called a sick society. A handful of kooks doesn't make us a sick society. But what is sick is for the rest of us to let this handgun violence continue.

You can do something to stop America's handgun violence. Contact us at 810 18th St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006. We'll show you how.

Hats Off To A Reporter

It is hard to find a reporter who enjoys writing about the outstanding youth in our country. However, the Evening Herald has such a reporter; she is Jane Casselberry.

In 1981 Mrs. Casselberry wrote a story about the Central Florida Fair and said there weren't any 4-H leaders in Seminole County who handled livestock. Her story also mentioned how difficult it was to find someone who wanted to start a 4-H Livestock Club. Because of that story, I went to the Agricultural Center that very day and signed up to be a livestock leader. Now Seminole County 4-H has two outstanding Livestock Clubs.

Mrs. Casselberry hasn't let us down. She has covered all of our young people and their remarkable achievements, as well as their heartbreaks. Her time has been spent spreading the word about our success. As a result, it has encouraged more young people to join our Livestock Clubs. We started with three members and have grown to a current enrollment of 38.

As a 4-H livestock leader, I feel our success can be attributed to Jane Casselberry's fine reporting, coupled with her energy in keeping up with our youth's activities throughout the 4-H year, including the Central Florida Fair and the State Fair.

Hats off to Mrs. Casselberry for all of her fine reporting and the confidence she has had in all of us. We appreciate her.

3 District Plans Backed

We have sent the following letter to State Sen. Dempsey Barron:

Please be advised that the Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce endorses as workable 3 of the 12 commonly known proposed redistricting plans before the Legislature. The plans we endorse are: (1) Alternative 1 Plan, (2) Common Cause of Florida Plan, and (3) the Skinner Proposal.

We ask that you seriously consider these plans and solicit your support with one of them.

Your comments on this matter would be appreciated.

In Effect, Redistricting Can Disenfranchise You

By BUD WYLIE
Common Cause

There's a sticky situation swirling out of Florida's reapportionment of senatorial districts.

As a voter, you could be represented for two years by a senator you never voted for and maybe never heard of.

This year, as required by law every 10 years, the Legislature is changing the boundaries of voting districts according to population and other standards. So far both the House and the Senate have put one pressing issue behind them. They've both agreed that single-member districts, were elected in 1978; their four-year terms will be up in 1982. But those elected in 1980 ordinarily would have served until 1984.

However, along comes the rub — reapportionment of the state's voting districts. The boundaries are being changed by the Legislature this year.

Some of the 1982 senators will lose their old districts; some will lose part of their old district and take in part of a new district.

In other words, some voters will be disenfranchised — be represented by a senator they never had a chance to vote for or against. When the holdover terms are combined with the change from multi to single-member districts, some voters in 1984 will not have had the opportunity to vote for a state senator since 1978.

The question is: Should these reapportioned senators elected in 1980 have to run for reelection this year after finishing only two years of their term, so that all voters in our state would have duly elected senators? Or can they legally finish out their four-year term?

Now come the entanglements! Sen. Dempsey Barron, the dean of the Senate, from Panama City, has been the loudest to insist that the reapportioned 1980 senators — including himself — should not have to run again.

The Senate received a legal opinion last year from Anthony Frederic G. Levin, who concluded that no four-year term could be abridged. This view was contradicted by an earlier opinion by Senate Counsel Steven Kahn that said, in effect, that there should be a two-year election in 1982.

Peter Butzin, the Common Cause executive director for Florida, acknowledges that the Constitution is "a bit murky on the issue."

"I imagine there is one point on which Common Cause, Mr. Kahn and Mr. Levin could agree," he says. "And that is that the Constitution is not clear—that the apparent problem failed to appear during the Constitution revision process in 1968."

Common Cause feels that the problem is too delicate to be handled by the legislators who are so directly involved; that instead it is a matter for the courts to decide. Common Cause is exploring the possibilities of litigation should it be necessary to see that the full voting rights of citizens are not abridged.

"We believe that senators represent the people and not just district numbers," Butzin emphasized. "We certainly cannot stand by and see a number of voters disenfranchised for two years just to maintain the whim of a handful of senators who wish to stall an election bid for two years."

Common Cause, plus a few senators and most representatives, take the position that the senators must run this year. Common Cause, the public-affairs lobby, says as many as half of the people in Florida could be disenfranchised for a two-year period—from 1982 to 1984—if senators do not run.

Aside from the political thunder the problem has created, the legalities are interesting—even for those who are not lawyers.

The Florida Constitution, adopted in 1968, has a section that says, in part, that there shall be four-year terms "except (that) at the election next following a reapportionment, some senators shall be elected for terms of two years when necessary to maintain staggered terms."

At first reading it sounds simple, doesn't it? But this brief quotation in our Constitution, and the other legal niceties to be found in any constitution, can generate problems of interpretation. And keep in mind that the purists maintain that to be properly explained, these documents must be read and interpreted as a whole and not by bits and pieces.

So there are some diverse opinions on two- and four-year terms.

The Basics On Medicare Benefits

If you are nearing the age of retirement, Medicare may seem as unfathomable as some of the new-fangled computer games that are driving people up the wall.

Perhaps these basics will help explain what the program is all about.

Medicare is a federal health-insurance program for people 65 or older and for some disabled people who qualify for Social Security. Those who need kidney dialysis or transplants also are eligible for Medicare.

Local Social Security Administration offices take applications for Medicare, provide information about the program and assist beneficiaries in filing claims.

Medicare has two parts — hospital insurance and medical insurance.

The hospital insurance helps pay for in-patient hospital care and certain follow-up treatment after the patient leaves the hospital. It is financed through the Social Security taxes paid by employees and employers.

Medicare medical insurance helps pay for your doctor and a variety of other medical services and supplies that are not covered by hospital insurance.

This part is financed by the monthly premiums of those who have enrolled voluntarily in the program and by general revenues. The premium is currently $11 a month.

When you have met the annual deductible of $78, Medicare medical insurance generally will pay 80 percent — not of your actual medical bill, but of Medicare's approved charge. Those charges are based on what Medicare defines as "reasonable" for your geographic area.

Medicare can be a big help, but it does not cover all medical expenses. For example, it does not pay for eyeglasses and examinations to prescribe or fit them, hearing aids and examinations to prescribe or fit them, dentures and routine dental care, ambulance transportation, injection that can be administered at home (such as insulin), orthopedic shoes (except under certain conditions), acupuncture and many other items.

Growing Older

If you are receiving Social Security or Railroad Retirement, your hospital insurance will start automatically at age 65.

You can sign up for medical insurance during the seven-month period that begins three months before your 65th birthday.

If you do not enroll during that period, you can do so later during the first three months of every year. But you will be charged a higher monthly premium. You do not have to retire to receive Medicare protection at 65. But if you plan to keep working, you will have to file an application for this coverage to start.

To find out whether you are eligible and to make sure your protection starts as soon as you turn 65, contact your local Social Security office about three months before your 65th birthday.

You can "buy into" Medicare hospital insurance at 65 if you haven't accumulated enough working credits to qualify otherwise. The basic premium is $80 for the 12-month period that started July 1, 1981. You also have to sign up for the medical insurance and pay the monthly premium.

For more information, phone or visit your local Social Security office. Ask for free booklets that will explain in detail all you are entitled to receive from Medicare.

Big Inning Haunts Tribe Again

Darters Drop Error Plagued Seminoles, 8-3

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Sports Writer

It was a case of the big inning and the big error for Seminole High Friday afternoon.

Apopka's home field Blue Darters had the big inning, two of them in fact, while Seminole had the big errors. The combination all added up to an 8-3 Apopka victory over Bobby Lundquist's Fighting Seminoles.

"We seemed to beat ourselves again" said Lundquist after the contest. "You can't go out and commit several errors in one inning and not expect the other team to take advantage of them. Apopka's a good, scrappy baseball team, and they took advantage."

The Blue Darters took advantage with a four-run out-burst in the bottom of the fourth after Tribe starter Freddie Howard and Apopka southpaw Dave Hamilton both tossed three straight shutout innings.

Center fielder Gary Sackett opened the inning with a leadoff double for Apopka. Shortstop Billy Johnson followed with an RBI single for one run. First baseman Rodney Brewer singled off Howard before Lundquist hooked his starter and brought in Greg Hill. Hill retired the next batter but gave up two runs when Mark Ridinger hit a warm burner that resulted in a two-base throwing error by Hill on a play at first. Two more Tribe errors and a single by pinch hitter Jim Wilson pushed Apopka's advantage to 4-0 by the time Seminole came to bat in the top of the fifth.

The Tribe scratched for one run when Freddie Howard started the inning with a ground rule double to left. Jeff Litton sacrificed him to third and scored on Paul Griffin's RBI ground out.

Apopka answered in its half of the fifth when singles by Billy Johnson and Rodney Brewer, combined with two more Seminole errors resulted in a lone run for Apopka.

Seminole tallied again in the sixth to cut the deficit to 5-2 when Hill singled and scored on Brett Von Herbulis' RBI hit. But Apopka came right back with three more scores in its half of the inning.

Clayton Morris and Mike Justice singled for the Blue Darters and moved to second and third on a sacrifice fly by Sackett. Johnson then singled in Morris and Brewer brought in two more runs with a line drive double.

Trailing 8-2 in the seventh, Jeff Litton put a dent in the final margin by leading off with a double off winning pitcher Hamilton. Litton scored for the final 8-3 margin on a sacrifice by Russi.

"We've been making the kind of mistakes that get you in a hole. We got in a hole early and got too far back against a good team like Apopka," said Lundquist.

"We've got to start getting the clutch hits and taking advantage of situations ourselves."

Seminole will try to take advantage of Spruce Creek's Hawks when the Tribe travels to Volusia County Saturday night for a 7 p.m. game.

In NCAA Midwest Regional

Boston College Dunks Dons, 70-66

United Press International

Clairvoyance is not high on Boston College Coach Tom Davis' list of attributes. But he's not complaining.

Davis said if he had known before Friday night's NCAA Midwest Regional game at Dallas that John Bagley, his team's top scorer, would have to spend almost the entire first half on the bench with foul trouble, he "might just have walked away."

But, Bagley made three free throws in the final 38 seconds to help fight off a San Francisco charge and bring BC a 70-66 victory over San Francisco.

In the first game, Les Craft led a Kansas State surge that carried the Wildcats to a 77-68 victory over Northern Illinois, setting up a second-round match Sunday against 13th-ranked Arkansas. Boston College will meet No. 2 DePaul Sunday.

Bagley, who averages 21 points per game, picked up three fouls in the first two minutes of the game. But the Eagles still took a 12-point lead at halftime.

USF, paced by Quintin Dailey with a game-high 23 points, went on an 8-0 spurt midway through the second half to move within three. The rally fell short, though.

"We played at an awful fast pace early," Davis said. "I thought they (the Dons) would run out of gas, but they didn't."

"But that shows how far this team has come," he said.

"It is a credit to them," Dailey said. "They handled the ball well."

San Francisco, making its fifth NCAA appearance in five years but bowing out in the first round for the second straight year, finished its season with a 25-6 record. The Eagles are now 20-9.

East Regional

At Unlondale, N.Y.

Northeastern 62, St. Jos. 62

Perry Moss scored 24 points and Eric Jefferson added 18, and Northeastern revived its game with just under eight minutes to go, to win a berth in the second round against Villanova Sunday.

St. John's 66, Penn 56

Billy Goodwin scored 21 points and freshman Chris Mullin had 19, lifting St. John's to a decision that advanced the Redmen to the second round against Alabama. St. John's ended the Ivy League champion's winning streak at 14.

Midwest Regional

At Indianapolis

Tenn.-Chatt 58, N.C. St. 51

Willie White hit four free throws down the stretch to help Tennessee-Chattanooga withstand a North Carolina State comeback. UTC, which nearly blew a 20-point second-half lead, advanced to the second round Sunday against eighth-ranked Minnesota.

Tenn. 61, Southwestern La. 57

Dale Ellis scored 23 points and Michael Brooks added 16, including six straight free throws in the final minute, to lead Tennessee. The triumph moved the Southeastern Conference co-champs into Sunday's matchup against third-ranked Virginia.

West Regional

At Pullman, Wash.

Pepperdine 99, Pittsburgh 88

Orlando Phillips scored 27 points and Boot Bond added 21 to lead the Waves. The West Coast Athletic Conference champion advances to meet Pac-10 champion Oregon State Sunday.

Iowa 70, Northeast La. 63

Bob Hansen hit a pair of baskets — one of them a three-point play — with just under five minutes left to rally the 16th-ranked Hawkeyes. Hansen led all scorers with 19 points.

Plant City Continues March In Lakeland

LAKELAND (UPI) — Plant City downed Miami Jackson, 70-69, in overtime Friday night in the semifinals of the Florida High School Basketball Tournament. It was Plant City's third consecutive overtime victory.

Plant City (23-5), which will go against Jacksonville Forrest (31-1) for the state's Class 4A championship Saturday, was led by Horace Broadnax with 21 points and David Kelley with 19.

In the Class A semifinal Friday night, Sarasota Booker downed Tallahassee FAMU, 64-62. Booker held an 18-point lead with 5:57 remaining, but FAMU closed the gap to 63-58 with 1:48 remaining. At that point, Booker's Jeff Hill, high man with 17 points, stepped in to sink three foul shots and tip a rebound into the basket to insure the victory.

Booker (21-9) will meet Orlando Luther in Saturday's finals. Earlier Friday, Patrick McDonald scored 19 points and picked off 12 rebounds to lead the Miami Edison Raiders to an easy 56-43 victory over Fort Myers in the Class 3A semifinals. In another game, Pahokee advanced to the finals of Class 2A competition with a 66-64 victory over Avon Park.

Edison's McDonald was helped by Terry Andrews with 15 points and 10 rebounds as the Raiders outclassed the Fort Myers squad. Edison will play Ocala Vanguard in the 3A finals Saturday.

In the first game of the day, Avon Park went into the final period with a 58-48 lead but could score only six points while Pahokee was tossing in 18.

Avon Park's Curtis Taylor took game scoring honors with 18 points. Anthony Bryant led Pahokee with 16.

The game was marred by a violent fighting in the stands that broke out with two seconds to go. No serious injuries were reported.

Avon Park will play Vernon Saturday in the Class 2A finals.

Shepherd Speeds To Hot Rod Record

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Lee Shepherd established a new National Hot Rod Association speed record in pro stock and Raymond Beadle set a Gainesville Raceway record for funny cars as qualifying continued Friday for Sunday's National Hot Rod Association Nationals.

Shepherd, of Arlington, Texas, drove his 1981 Chevy Camaro a quarter-mile at 177.18 mph for the record. Shepherd is the No. 1 qualifier with a time of 7.77 seconds.

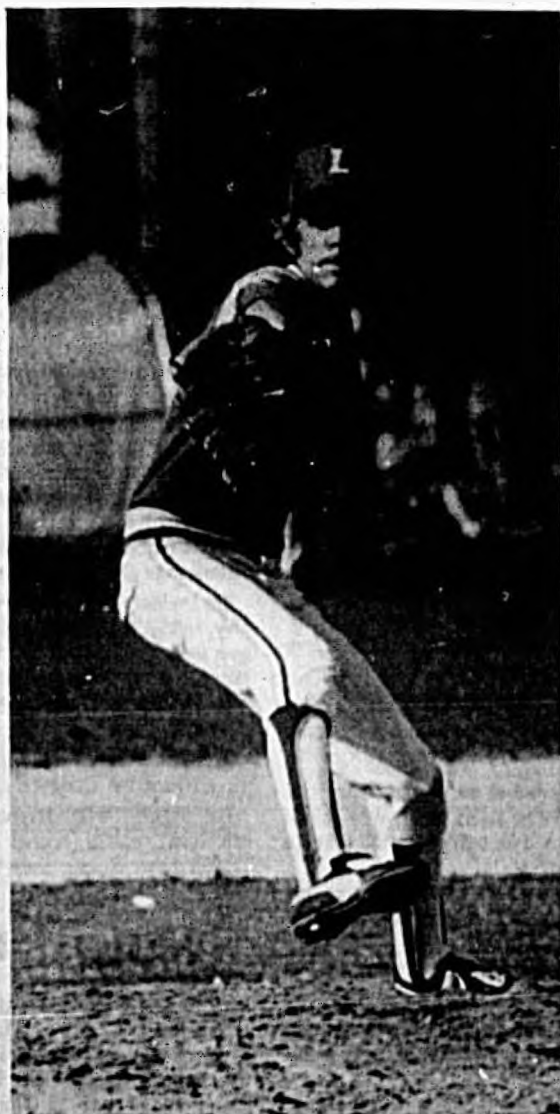

Beadle is the No. 1 funny cars qualifier with a track record 5.91 seconds at 243.90 mph.

Torre Battles Bum Rap

ATLANTA (UPI) — Joe Torre says the charge that he's too soft on his players is a bum rap.

Torre got that label during the five years he managed the New York Mets, never finishing higher than fifth place and he'd like to shed it now that he's going to be managing the Atlanta Braves.

"You know how people are," says Torre. "Unless you hold a bunch of team meetings with reports leaking out about how you gave them what for, the idea gets around that you aren't running a tight ship."

"I just happen to feel that team meetings should be devoted to talking about your opponents and how you are going to play them. It is important that your players know that you get on a player who has screwed up so they'll know he wasn't getting away with something. But I see no purpose in going public with that sort of thing."

Maintaining discipline had to be Torre's toughest transition. After all, he had been one of the boys for a lot of years — and never one to be that concerned about all the off-the-field rules either — before becoming player-manager of the Mets in 1977.

There had to be a certain reluctance to crack down on his former teammates, especially the ones he'd been palming around with. But that's behind him now.

Torre, 41, left Atlanta after the '68 season and the only former Braves teammate on hand to greet him when he was named Bobby Cox's successor last fall was 42-year-old knuckleballer Phil Niekro who has never been a problem for any of the nine managers he's pitched for during his 18 seasons with the Braves.

Only a handful of other current Braves was in the majors when Torre retired as a player and the only one of those who is a former teammate is relief pitcher AJ Hrabosky who was with him at St. Louis in the early '70s.

Torre doesn't figure to become a martinet in his new job. But he has indicated there'll be more emphasis on discipline than there was during the four years that Cox ran the club.

The only player who showed up with Torre at a pre-spring training media briefing the other day — catcher Bruce Benedict — indicated most of the Braves are hoping that their new manager will run a tighter ship.

"We need more discipline," said Benedict. "We're tired of getting beat. We're tired of waking up in the morning and reading in the paper about how bad we are."

Torre says he's going to the Braves spring camp at West Palm Beach, Fla. — which opens next week — with an open mind. "I'm going down there to find out as much as anyone else, really," he said. "I plan to run an efficient camp. We're not going to spend a lot of time out there because I don't think a player needs to work out four or five hours to show you what he can do."

"I'm going to split the squad into two groups, one working out in the morning and the other in the afternoon, so we can give everyone as much supervision as possible. We're going to put a lot of emphasis on fundamentals."

"A lot of players now days don't know how to play," said Torre. "It's hard to put your finger on why this is so, probably because expansion of the majors and less minor leagues forces teams to bring up young players before they are really ready."

"That's my No. 1 task this spring, trying to get this ball club mentally ready to play. There's one thing we're all here for, that's to win. This team will be going to spring training to try to find out how to win."

"As far as I am concerned, spring training is when you get your confidence," said Torre. "Winning is a habit, but, unfortunately, so is losing."

Jerome Whitehead of San Diego was fined $150 for leaving the bench and an additional $500 for a separate elbowing incident. Tom Chambers of San Diego was fined $500 for pushing a referee and Seattle's Lonnie Shelton and San Diego's Michael Brooks were fined $500 and $250, respectively, for their involvement in a shoving match.

Those fines are in addition to the $250 apiece that Donaldson, Chambers, Shelton and Brooks automatically were assessed for having been ejected from the game, bringing the total amount of fines in that game to $6,200.

Three players - Jeff Ruland, Alvan Adams and Dennis Johnson - were fined following an incident during the Phoenix-Washington game of March 9. Ruland of the Bullets was fined $1,000, Adams $650 and Johnson $500 - all for fighting.

In addition, Ruland and Adams received automatic $250 fines for being ejected.

"There is no place in the sport of professional basketball for fighting and under no circumstances will such behavior be tolerated," said O'Brien. "The NBA has the finest athletes in the world competing in a fast-paced sport that emphasizes skill, not brute force. Proben's 64 Leads Inverrary LAUDERHILL, Fla. (UPI) - Since Bob Proben has never been in the lead before during his more than three years on the pro golf tour, he can't be blamed for hearing footsteps.

Proben, 27, a Michigan resident who has been in the money only once so far this year, shot an impressive 8-under-par 64 in Friday's rain-delayed opening round of the $400,000 Inverrary Classic.

But with the 7,129-yard course playing about four shots easier than normal because of the soaking it got Thursday, he went into today's second round with only a one-stroke lead and two more experienced golfers are looking over his shoulder - defending champion Tom Kite who just won the Bay Hill Classic and two-time U.S. Open champ Hale Irwin.

Actually, Proben, who has won less than $9,000 since going on the tour in 1979 after leaving Eastern Michigan University, figures he's already ahead of the game.

"I can't complain," Proben said. "Five of the seven previous tournaments I tried to get into, I shot 70 or 71 on Monday and didn't even qualify. This time I did make it, and even if conditions were easier than usual, I'm proud of my 64. I shot the best I can."

The early starters Friday tore up the Inverrary course, with one-third of the 72 morning players shooting in the 60s and 53 of that group at par or better. The course dried out a bit in the afternoon, and that, along with some wind, kept the 60s shooters down to just 11 of the 72 late starters.

Best of the afternoon group was big George

Burns with his 66, two strokes behind Proben and one ahead of fifth-place David Graham, the reigning U.S. Open champ.

Proben, whose best-ever tour finish was a tie for 22nd last month in the Hawaiian Open, said he "got hot under the collar" when he started off Friday by three-putting his first hole for a bogey. But then the birdies began to flow as the ultra-soft greens permitted him to direct every approach shot right at the flags.

"The birdie that put me at 4 under is the one that really got me going," he said.

But, Proben is going to need all the confidence he can muster, since Kite is "riding on a high right now" and Irwin is convinced a new putter he started using last week has turned his game around after a slow start this year.

"I've played some better tournaments than I played at Bay Hill. But I won and that gave me a boost," said Kite.

Irwin said his 65 was a tribute to his suddenly improved putting.

"The difference has been remarkable," he said. "Maybe it's mental and maybe it'll wear off. But it's working."

Inverrary officials had been delighted when Jack Nicklaus committed at the last moment. But Nicklaus, second to Kite both in last year's Inverrary and Monday at Bay Hill, is in serious danger of missing today's 36-hole cut after shooting a 1-over 73 in the first round.

Because the first round was delayed 24 hours by rain, the field will be trimmed to the low 60 scorers for Sunday's scheduled 36-hole wrapup.

Waltrip Grabs 500 Pole

BRISTOL, Tenn. (UPI) - Darrell Waltrip captured his third straight pole position Friday at Bristol International Raceway for Sunday's NASCAR Bristol 500.

Waltrip, piloting a Buick, thundered to a second-lap time of 17.276 seconds at 111.068 mph to edge Joe Ruttman for the pole.

"That was a close one," said Waltrip, who has won the last two Bristol races. "But I knew it was going to be close. I wasn't sure. We had run faster in practice until just before practice ended and Joe ran a 17.25."

"I thought he had just gotten lucky, then I watched him go back out and do it in qualifying."

Ruttman, the first of 15 drivers to qualify Friday, roared out to a 17.285 clocking at 111.010 mph that earned him the outside pole position.

Waltrip's first lap stood at 17.315 at 110.818 mph. The defending grand national champion spun slightly in turn two.

"That first lap, I went into the turn too hard and pushed the car up near the wall," he said. "I was trying too hard"

Marcis, Bobby Allison, Ricky Rudd, Harry Gant, Dale Earnhardt, Terry Labonte, Dick Brooks, Gary Haulong, Ron Bouchard, Neil Bonnett and Jody Ridley.

The rest of the field will be completed during qualifying Saturday.

Dean Rusk: 'I'm Not Looking For Justification, I'm Looking For Peace'

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Former Secretary of State Dean Rusk is teaching international law at the University of Georgia these days and telling students the world is further from nuclear war than it has been in 30 years.

Rusk, secretary of state during the turbulent 1960s, is active on the university speaking circuit and says he enjoys teaching "because these young people rejuvenate you every day."

Rusk, born David Dean Rusk on a small farm in Cherokee County, Ga., 72 years ago, had a meteoric rise in the State Department following World War II.

He was appointed secretary of state by John F. Kennedy in 1961 and kept the job under Lyndon B. Johnson — bearing with Johnson the brunt of growing sentiment against the Vietnam war.

"Looking ahead to the next 20 years, I'm hoping the record will show those fellows — President Kennedy, President Johnson and Mr. Rusk — did more than we needed to do," Rusk said.

"I'm not looking for justification. I'm looking for peace in the world."

"The idea of collective security has eroded. We have taken some 600,000 casualties since the end of World War II in support of collective security."

"If collective security means 50,000 dead every 10 years, and it's not even collective, what's the use?"

Rusk said his generation "was led into the catastrophe of World War II" and concluded after the war "that collective security was the prevention of World War III."

The notion of collective security — nations joining together to prevent war — doesn't appear viable now, Rusk said, "and if we simply drift back to the beliefs we had when I was a senior in college, we may all be dead."

What concerns him, Rusk said, is that today's generation is not seeking another solution for maintaining world peace.

"The principal piece of business for this new generation is to find its own plan to prevent World War III."

Rusk, however, is optimistic about America's future because he feels peace and the balance of power are more certain now.

"I think we are further away from a nuclear war than we've been in 30 years. I think there's a lot of doomsday talk around that's just nonsense."

The bald and bespectacled former diplomat said he is most proud that no nuclear weapons were fired in combat during his years as secretary of state.

President Reagan, he said, hasn't had enough time "to move beyond campaign rhetoric." He declined to second guess Reagan's reaction to the crisis in Poland.

"It's a little too early to come up with a scorecard on the Reagan Administration," Rusk said. "People don't realize the rest of the world doesn't change very much because we elect one man instead of another as president."

"In a situation like Poland, there is very little to be done to influence the situation. It's not an issue of war and peace between East and West."

"It's frustrating," said Rusk, who admitted he was seldom asked for advice or guidance after leaving office in 1969.

"I don't play the role of grandstand quarterback. I've been away too long."

Widower Gets 'Consolation'

DEAR ABBY: I live in a rather exclusive community for retired people, and I am constantly amazed at the aggressiveness of some of the single women here.

A nice couple in their mid-70s were here for about a year, then the wife died. The husband buried her on a Tuesday and by Thursday he had received six invitations to the Saturday dinner dance! (He showed up at the affair and accepted "condolences" between dances!)

I have already told my husband that if I should die first, unless he wants to be hounded by women, not to put my obituary in the newspaper.

Abby, isn't there a prescribed length of time that one should mourn a loved one to show respect?

Dear Abby

will be appreciated by many:

DEAR FLABBERGASTED: The time to show "respect" is when the loved one is living. The length of time one mourns is a very individual matter. A brief mourning period does not necessarily show lack of respect.

DEAR READERS: With apologies to those of you who don't like my "moldy oldies," I'm printing a rerun of a timely item that I think Sex Revolution Waning?

NEW YORK (UPI) — The sex revolution may be winding down with some people scared off by incurable herpes and others turning to drugs in an effort to rejuvenate their flagging interest in sex, therapists say.

Therapists at the annual meeting of the American Association of Sex Educators, Counselors and Therapists said Friday the primary sexual problem in American today is a lack of sexual desire.

Incurable genital herpes, a recurring infection, has frightened some away from sex, public health workers say.

And sex therapists are finding large numbers of their patients, especially singles between 25 and 50, try recreational drugs — cocaine, marijuana, methaqualone — to boost flagging interest in sex, a family counselor said.

Dr. Sharon G. Nathan, of Cornell University Medical College in New York, said that based on sex surveys she estimates at least 10 percent of men suffer from some degree of impotence and five to 10 percent of married women and 15 to 20 percent of unmarried women have inhibited sexual desire. She said 5 to 10 percent of women are incapable or don't want to reach orgasm.

Lead-Footed 11-Year-Old

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) — The mother of an 11-year-old boy who led law enforcement officers on a 100-mile high speed chase down the Interstate 5 Freeway, said Friday he had done the same kind of thing before.

Thursday's chase from Portland to Eugene attracted the attention of city police, state police and sheriff's deputies before it ended, without injury, when the car slid off Interstate 5 near Eugene.

The boy was cited for trying to elude police and driving without a license. He said his sister had threatened to beat him up.

Juvenile authorities said the boy was on probation in a similar incident Jan. 7 — which lasted only 8 miles.

The boy's mother said, "We just don't want any more publicity because he might use it to turn into a hero among his friends and think it's the right thing to do. Right now he's just a scared little boy."

She said the last time he commandeered a car he drove it 8 miles before it ended up in a ditch.

OURSELVES

Evening Herald, Sanford, FL Sunday, March 14, 1982—1B

Youthful bargain hunters show up at sale.

By DORIS DIETRICH
OURSELVES Editor

In the spring, a young man's (or young woman's) fancy, as likely as not, turns to thoughts other than romance.

There's always spring gardening and, of course, spring cleaning has been a household word since people have had holds on houses.

Time was when upper class families would have pooh poohed the idea of cleaning the home in the spring and selling discarded and many well-worn items including Junior's junkie and Daisy's dresses.

Today, the yard or garage sale has become a popular pastime among all economic classes. Those lacking space for a home sale are apt to gather up their wares and rent a table at a flea market to dispose of unwanted merchandise.

One thing is for certain: one's trash may be another's treasure.

Too, the seller is generally assured of a few easy bucks. My daughter and her husband, Mary and Larry Blair, were in the throes of redecorating and remodeling their home. It could be said that the Blairs have certain pack rat characteristics. They don't play "toss in the trash can."

With a thorough spring cleaning in mind, they ran the following ad in The Herald on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Feb. 10, 11 and 12.

YARD SALE Furniture, stereo, air conditioner, VW parts, miscellaneous tools, citrus, bar and stools, miscellaneous household items, books, girl's fancy dresses, sizes 2-4, costume jewelry, clothing, lamps, draperies and many more. Hours: 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 13. Address: 2012 Holly Ave., Sanford.

The more we discussed the forthcoming sale, the more exciting it seemed. My husband, Carl, and I were also winding up a remodeling job that took nearly three years. We had our share of junkie — but things we felt were too nice to junk.

Our decision was to take a few things to the yard sale, mainly to get them out of the way. We spent hours cataloging and pricing items with household masking tape. I neatly pressed four nearly new jackets of my husband, which I tagged with a $5 label each.

Once and for all, I made the decision to get rid of some costume jewelry I no longer wear. There was also a drawer of neck scarves (some silk) that I decided to launder and sell.

I no longer needed the red velvet clothes hamper, adorned with gold trim and rhinestones, nor the matching red velvet shower curtain. I hated to think about parting with them, but they served their purpose for many years and clashed with the newly decorated bathroom.

We would be sunk, for sure, if it rained on the day of the sale. It stormed the preceding night and black clouds hovered low with cold winds nipping at the bones that Saturday.

But it didn't rain. And the sun smiled on us by mid-morning.

Although the sale was scheduled to begin at 10 a.m., cars

Books — a popular seller.

began arriving about 8. My daughter phoned, "Help. Hurry."

When I arrived on the scene, several customers seemed thrilled at the potpourri of "junkie." They were buying like crazy.

Bargain hunters came in all shapes and sizes and from all walks of life. There were wheelers — and dealers interested in select merchandise for resale — at a low price. Forget it.

The customers had a variety of whims. Ten cent kitchen utensils and unmatched dishes attracted some buyers while others opted for furniture.

Miscellaneous tools and scraps of leftover building materials were among the most popular items. A few pieces of lattice work could have brought much more than the $5 I quoted an interested buyer.

A slim attractive woman was perhaps the "buyer of the day." She returned several times. Among her first purchases were boxes of door knobs, towel bars and miscellaneous home hardware.

She took a fancy to a Spanish style sofa and carefully eyed the bar and stools. The serious buyer paused at some draperies and moved on to look at children's clothing and other items.

Later in the afternoon, the customer returned with three of her children. The little girls bought costume jewelry and a pale blue maribou-trimmed gown to play "grown-up." The buyer seemed delighted with all the bargains she purchased for a home being renovated.

A steady stream of bargain hunters milled around all day. In the middle of the afternoon, a tiny little lady seemed carried away with two pairs of deep turquoise draperies. She ran her fingers up and down the fringe-trimmed beauties. But she didn't have enough cash. Would we hold them for her? Certainly.

Still later, a car loaded with several adults and children pulled up. While the adults were shopping, the children thoroughly checked out all the toys that were for sale. One little tyke bawled. He didn't want to leave the bright pink tricycle he was learning to master.

Granddaughter Laurie's bicycle, parked on the lawn, could have been sold several times, as well as her heavy red quilted jacket draped over the handlebars.

I was disappointed that the clothing (in excellent condition), costume jewelry and scarves were such poor sellers. On the other hand, a table of brass (all new) went like hotcakes.

Previous commitments terminated the one-day sale late in the afternoon while bargain hunters continued to arrive. The unsold items were hauled inside and shelved for a future yard sale.

Since this was our first venture of this nature, we pass along the following tips to prospective yard sale merchants:

Advertise. Clearly mark the price of each item. Have plenty of display room, such as tables. Keep clothing on hangers. Clean, new-looking items bring a better price. Have plenty of change on hand. Have some adult help.

Just as bargain hunters have different opinions, so do mother and daughter.

Mary seemed overwhelmed with the hassle and rat race of the day. "I can't wait to have another one (sale)," she exclaimed with excitement.

Me?
I've had it.

Doll expert Lydia Williams, right, explains the history of a doll to Nancy P. Butler. Mrs. Williams will conduct a session for doll owners at the Henry S. Sanford Museum-Library.

In And Around Sanford

'Dolls Are Forever' Ends With A Special Finale

"Dolls Are Forever," an exhibit in the East Room of the Henry S. Sanford Museum-Library, has attracted a steady flow of admirers since December. Although the fascinating antique doll collection was actually designed as a Holiday treat for children, adults were carried away with the lovely dolls dating back to another century.

The doll collection belongs to Mrs. Lydia Williams who loaned the dolls to the museum. Exhibit directors Margaret Vitale and Nancy Butler say they are convinced that the title of the exhibit is apropos. Hundreds of questions have been asked by interested doll fanciers.

As the exhibit draws to a close, due to public interest, Mildred M. Caskey, museum curator, is announcing that a free question and answer period will be held at the museum, from 2-4 p.m., on March 21, the final day of the exquisite exhibit.

Interested persons may bring their dolls to the museum for Mrs. Williams to identify, appraise and advise owners of repairing and restoration possibilities.

In speaking of adults being charmed by Mrs. Williams' doll collection, Mildred spoke of adults' nostalgia and sighs and murmurs the antique dolls generated. She said, "The dolls have been a magnet for collectors and antique buffs as well."

The museum, 520 E. First St., is open from 2-4 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Sunday. There is no admission charge.

Welcome to Sanford, Becky Cockrell Aiken, bride of Dick Seaborn Aiken.

Prior to the couple's wedding in Tallahassee on Feb. 20, Dick's parents, Anne and Dick, entertained at the traditional rehearsal dinner for 35 guests at the Silver Slipper in Tallahassee.

"Die Fledermaus," Seminole Mutual Concert Association's third concert of the season, attracted a large turnout of SMCA subscribers Thursday night at Lake Mary High School.

SMCA board member Carol Kirchhoff said she and her husband Seminole County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff arrived a little late but "thoroughly enjoyed the concert" performed by the New York Opera Company.

The word on Stella Woodhouse Jones is that the former Sanfordite has been accepted into the Woman's National Democratic Club in Washington, D.C.

One of the requirements of the prestigious organization, founded in 1902, is that members must live within a 50 mile radius of the nation's capital.

Stella was big on the Seminole political scene and "just loves political life in Washington."

According to Ernie Cowley, president of the Sanford Shrine Club, a past president will be honored at each meeting during the year.

Ernie has big plans for the club. The potentate's Ball is Saturday, March 13, and March 25 has been designated as St. Patrick's Celebration.

Desiree Russell of Waukegan, Ill., the 1980 Little Miss American, is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Russell, 210 Flamingo, Sanford. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Russell of Waukegan. John is from Sanford and is a graduate of Seminole High School.

Desiree's most recent accomplishment was her appearance in several scenes of NBC TV's "Chicago Story" on March 6.

Those who missed "Times and Tempos," the 14th annual concert performed by Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole at Lake Mary High last month, can catch glimpses of the concert on TV's Channel 24 Tuesday at 5:30 p.m.

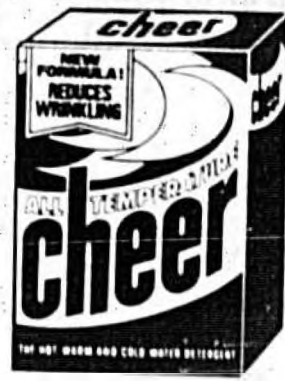

According to Valerie Weld, excerpts from the concert will be shown at this time. "Fantastic," Val says of some of the film she has already viewed.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Sunday, March 14, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY MARCH 14, 1982 Faith can move mountains, it is often said. In the year following your birthday you should experience a series of events that will be inspirational to those around you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Trade in your attitude today if you face a situation that is similar to one you successfully handled recently. What worked then should work again. Predictions of what's in store for you in each season following your birth date and where your luck and opportunities lie are in your Astro-Graph, Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 469, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Conditions which affect you and others will begin to change for the better today, because each will find ways for constructive solutions.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Situations which require a team effort should turn out favorably today, provided you assume the assertive role. Take the reins. Don't let someone else grab them.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Try to find ways today to be of worthy service to others. You'll feel good being helpful and your gestures will remain in their memories.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) In instances where you need to assert authority, do so without hesitation. You'll know when and how to act so her tactics you'll get the same results. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be sure to try your family and male kin in advance if you want to invite guests to your place today. They could have plans that might conflict with yours.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There's a chance you could rely too much on others today for things that you should be attending to yourself. Be careful not to normally count on may let you down.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you have taken pains to lay out a budget, don't do something foolish today that could throw it out of kilter. Spend within your guidelines.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Uncharacteristically, you may feel it necessary to put on airs and affectations to impress others today. Be yourself; hot-dogging won't work.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There's a possibility you could operate at extremes today; in some instances you may be overly generous, while in others you'll be tight-fisted.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Normally you're very astute in material matters, but today you could be a bit unrealistic and think you see opportunities where they don't exist.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Take with a grain of salt suggestions from well-meaning friends today, especially those pertaining to your career or finances. Their intentions may be good, but their counseling bad.

Jerry Mathers Back In Show Biz

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — All of you folks out there in Television Land often wonder what happened to your old favorites. TV shows last a few years, then fade away, and often the stars of those shows fade away, too.

Well here is Jerry Mathers. You remember Jerry Mathers, the kid with the teeth who played Beaver Cleaver on "Leave It to Beaver" for all those innocent years. Whatever happened to a kid, and most of it was good stuff. He didn't get into trouble like some other kid stars. It's been a normal sort of life for him, and that, in itself, is highly unusual.

Today, Mathers could probably walk anywhere without being recognized. You might see this average-height, slightly stocky guy walking around and think he looks like somebody you used to know, but chances are you would never say, "That's my old friend, Beaver Cleaver, all grown up."

"Leave It to Beaver" ran for six years, winding up its prime time career in 1963, when Jerry Mathers was 14. "I went to high school then," he says, "and I had a very happy and very normal adolescence."

He says the other kids in school didn't tease him about being Beaver, although they all knew who he was, of course. He thinks he avoided the teasing because he immediately went out for, and made, the school football team.

"I thought of trying to keep up with football," he says, "until my first year, when a big freshman really knocked me around on the practice field one day. So I realized I'd better find something else."

Mathers graduated from high school in 1967, right in the middle of the Vietnam War. His father then got drafted into the infantry (or the alternative, running off to Canada), he enlisted in the Air Force and wound up staying in uniform for six years.

"I had always wanted to go to college," he says, "and I had been a good student so, after I left the service, I went to the University of California, at Berkeley, and I majored in philosophy."

He admits that wasn't a very useful or practical major but he enjoyed it. While in college he began "playing around with investments" using a Berkeley bank as his headquarters. They got to know him, and, on his graduation, offered him a job.

But the call of acting was always there, apparently. He began doing some acting on the side. He and Tony Dow — who had played his big brother on "Beaver" — toured for a while in a play. And gradually the acting came to be more important, and the real estate faded into a sideline.

Now he's back acting. He is a disc jockey with a regular weekly show on a local L.A. station. He has a key role in an upcoming TV movie, "The Girl, the Gold Watch and the Dynamite." He and Burt Reynolds are involved together in a project, too.

He had a wife for a while but that didn't last. They had no children and now he's single again.

So he's come full circle. Jerry Mathers — Air Force man, banker, real estate man — is now once again Jerry Mathers — actor.

Market Update Scheduled

The March program for the Orlando Chamber of Commerce's monthly O.J. Forum is one that has become a favorite of area business people—the annual Orlando market update. The program is scheduled for March 17 at 7:30 a.m. at the Edyth Bush Theater.

An audio-visual extravaganza, the presentation is a multi-media, 15-projector sight and sound program packed full of facts, figures and updated information on the Orlando marketplace.

Commercial Banks Safest?

Most people consider commercial banks the safest place for their money, according to a survey of Central Florida residents. Despite the increased number of alternatives to banks, half the people surveyed indicated they felt a savings account was safest in a commercial bank, while only 29 percent preferred savings and loan associations and 17 percent selected money market funds. A mere 4 percent did not think their money was safe anywhere.

The results of the study revealed that the financial-services customer is more sensitive to risk and interest rates than ever before. Although half of the respondents felt their money was safest in a bank, 58 percent said they knew they could get a higher interest rate with a money-market fund. Consequently, 18 percent of them had withdrawn some part of their savings from a bank or savings and loan association in the last 12 months to deposit it in a money-market fund.

No Caffeine, Says 7-Up

The Seven-Up Co. has announced a new thrust in the advertising for its 7-Up brand that stresses that the product contains no caffeine, a widely used stimulant added to most other major soft drinks.

"7-Up never has contained caffeine and never will," Edward W. Frantel, president and chief executive officer, said. "The company decided to embark on this new and aggressive advertising thrust because it appeared to us that there is a growing body of concern among consumers about the possible negative health implications of this stimulant, especially with regard to children, who are major consumers of soft drinks."

An Optimistic Prediction

An Optimistic Economic growth, a lower rate of inflation and lower interest rates are on their way for the second half of 1982 and will continue throughout 1983, predicts Southeast Bank's vice president and corporate economist, Earl M. Foster, in his "Analysis and Outlook for the U.S. Economy: 1982-83."

Foster said he currently estimates a 2 to 4 percent growth in the gross national product for the second half of the year and a slightly higher rate for 1983, and he does not think this resumed growth will push interest rates higher. His viewpoint differs from some other economic predictions, which project a rise in interest rates when the economy picks up.

New Concepts Seen As Key To Success

"The companies that will succeed in the '80s are the ones that are investing in new marketing concepts, not those frantically cutting back in today's recession. With the economic downturn and the rapid changes taking place, the most savvy companies are carefully analyzing their markets for gaps or niches which their companies can fill," says Roger L. Pickar, chairman of the board of the Marketing Consortium, a Winter Park-based national marketing consulting firm that uses a "roundtable" technique with senior marketing executives to assist its clients.

"In a recent study of Marketing Consortium clients, we found 68 percent were 'reactive' to their marketplaces before coming to counsel with us. Their growth planning was often based on the very limited data in salesmen's reports, and they responded only to specific customers' needs," Pickar said. "This risky type of growth planning negated the possibility of pre-selecting the most optimal potential markets based on the company's resources and profitability goals."

Pickar described "Reactive" companies as those "trying to play professional football without a head coach and only a vague game plan. Maybe a team's or a company's talents and reaction time are enough to win a game or two, but would you want to bet on that organization having a winning season, especially in tough times like these?" he asked.

In recession or in times of substantial change, as the '90s are certain to be, Pickar said, mistakes will be even more disastrous. "The most effective solutions for the problems ahead will be those which have been thought out in advance, before the problem occurs or the trend changes. Last-minute, seat-of-the-pants decisions can be disastrous, or, at best, will result only in the barest survival," he added. Pickar said his firm's most successful American clients (12 percent) are "proactive," have carefully studied their marketplace, and know the trends and study the gaps that exist. "Marshalling their resources, they plan and execute with synergistic precision to fill the gap and capture a favorably disproportionate market share. And they beat the competition, often without a struggle," he said.

Emergency Legislation Seen Needed For Housing Industry

Emergency legislation is needed from the administration and Congress to help the nation's housing industry get back on its feet, according to Frederick J. Napolitano, president of the National Association of Home Builders.

Returning from NAHB's recent convention in Las Vegas, Napolitano said the mood of home builders is grim. The consensus of economists in and outside government attending the convention, he said, is that for things to get better the Reagan administration will have to focus on practical ways to reduce the federal deficit, lower interest rates and stimulate an economic recovery.

The NAHB, he said, is still working on the specifics of proposals for the government to buy down mortgage interest rates on new home sales and on apartment construction loans. The NAHB board of directors also called for a program to encourage the investment of pension funds in housing by making that portion of the funds invested in mortgages tax-exempt to beneficiaries.

Napolitano urged every level of government to "reaffirm the nation's long-standing commitment to decent, affordable housing for all Americans." He said the theme for the industry during his term as NAHB president would be "Housing — a Priority to Preserve the American Dream."

"A sense of urgency hangs over this industry," Napolitano said. "For the nation as a whole, the recession is measured in terms of months. But for home builders in many regions of the country, the recession is well into its third year and there's no light at the end of the tunnel."

He said 1981's production level — slightly over one million units — was the worst since 1946, at time when the nation's need for new housing was approaching record interest levels.

SNIP, AND THEY'RE OPEN

Lift Interest Curbs, Retailers Urge

Removal of price controls on consumer loan interest rates, a measure passed by the Florida Senate, is being strongly urged by all the state's credit suppliers and retail merchants, according to industry sources.

Nine industry groups have endorsed the rate relief bill (SB401), adopted by the Senate in a 23-16 vote recently and which now has gone to the House. The bill leaves intact all other consumer credit legislation. Its key point is elimination of a cap on consumer loan rates, a move which will allow Florida's credit suppliers to continue offering services here.

In the prevailing high-interest-rate environment, 34 states have provided rate relief.

In Florida, over 180 loan licenses have been turned back to the state since 1980 by companies forced to close here because of the rate cap, according to the Florida Consumer Finance Association.
