Sanford's Group Homes Ordinance Goes To P&Z

Horald Staff Writer

The Sanford City Commission unanimously voted Monday to refer the revised group home ordinance to the city's Planning and Zoning Commission for recommendation.

The action was taken during the regular meeting of the commission after changes proposed by Commissioner John Mercer concerning site development plans for group homes were approved.

Under the ordinance, site development plans for facilities which care for more than six residents or which require a conditional use permit would go before the city's Planning and Zoning Commission for approval. However, site plans for facilities which care for up to four residents could be approved by the city staff.

Mercer recommended changing this part of the ordinance to require that site plans for facilities with four or more residents be approved by the Planning and Zoning Commission and facilities with three or less residents be approved by the Mercer also expressed concern about checking the backgrounds of group home residents. Under the ordinance, a group home resident cannot be someone convicted of a felony. Ned Julian, acting city attorney for Bill Colbert (who was out of

Stock Prices Open Higher

Heavy Trading Follows World Lead

NEW YORK (UPI) - Prices opened sharply higher in heavy trading today, following cues provided by gains in foreign markets overnight.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 156.83 points Monday in its second-largest decline ever, was up 39.95 to 1833.88 soon after the market opened.

Advances led losers by a 5-1 ratio among the 1,412 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 28 million shares.

The higher opening follows a rebound in overseas markets after Tokyo stock prices posted their third-biggest gain ever and Hong Kong moved higher after a record one-day plunge a day earlier.

The Dow Jones industrial average suffered its secondlargest point loss ever Monday as investors worried that the Reagan administration would be unable to avert severe economic repercussions from last week's stock market collapse.

Volume swelled to 308.8 million shares, the sixth-heaviest trading in Big Board history. even though the session was shortened by two hours to allow the financial community to process paperwork from recent frenetic trading. On Friday turn-

After the market closed, the NYSE and the American Stock Exchange announced they would extend their early 2 p.m. EST closings, which were scheduled to be lifted Wednesday, for the rest of th week.

As investors around the world looked for signs that Reagan has recognized the severity of the financial markets' confidence crisis, one influential Wall Street analyst predicted the Dow would fall to between 1300 and 1500 within the next week.

Elaine Garzarelli, an analyst at Shearson Lehman Brothers Inc. said the Dow must drop another 15 percent to 20 percent to restore a more traditional rela-

With the Dow between 1300 and 1500, stock dividends will yield an average of 5.5 percent to 6 percent, Garzarelli said. Stocks currently have an average yield of 3.7 percent.

"The whole crash occurred because stocks were severely overvalued," said Garzarelli. 'People became euphoric."

Formal negotiations on cutting the federal budget deficit are set to begin this afternoon and House Speaker this works. D-Texas, predicted they could lead to a $23 billion deficit-reduction target achieved through a com-bination of tax increases and spending cuts.

State Grant Wording Changes Sought

School Board Expected To Extend 'Day-Care'

By Richard Whittaker Herald Staff Writer

Despite fears over getting into the "daycare business." the Seminole County School Board is expected to grant an extension Wednesday to a program that allows school-age mothers to attend regular classes while their babies are cared for through services contracted by the school district.

The board decided at a workshop Friday it would vote to allow administrators to apply for a $57,756 state grant that would provide a one year extension to a program called After Teen Age Pregnancy Program (After TAPP). The board, however, said it would approve the grant application only if certain changes were made in its wording.

After TAPP has been conducted at the Crooms School of Choice in Sanford since last year. Its purpose is to give teenage mothers the opportunity to complete their education even though they've had a child.

The major change the school board wanted in the grant application was that the actual physical day-care be done by someone other than the school system.

The mothers are offered day-care for their children from the ages of three to six months old while they continue with their classes at either Sanford High or Lake View Middle schools.

After TAPP has been providing day-care for the children from the time they are six-months-old at Crooms until they can find a space in a day-care agency which is at least partly supported by the U.S. government.

Under the board's direction that care will be moved to a non-district facility. The service would still be paid for with funds from the grant.

The program is provided a $60,000 state grant. It is now being utilized by 19 teenage mothers in the district.

Board members Ann Neiswender and Nancy Warren both raised concerns over the school district sending out the wrong message to young mothers that the school district would take care of their children for Board Chairman Joe Williams and Vice Chairman Pat Telson said they weren't sure the program was part of what the school system was trying to accomplish in working with teenage mothers.

Williams said that he and the board would like to see another way of handling the babies besides the one used by After TAPP.

'I think we'd (school board) like to get out of the baby-sitting part." Williams said.

One of the major reasons Williams gives for not liking the program is that it doesn't deal with the boys who got the girls pregnant in the first place. "This program requires the boys responsible to do nothing.

Public Hearings Slated On Expressway

Hdrald Staff Writer

Public comments about the official right-of-way map for the proposed Seminole County Expressway between State Road 426 and Interstate 4, and about the proposed route of the expressway between 1-4 and the Wekiva River, will be heard at a public hearing Wednesday afternoon in the county services building.

The official map, identifying all property within the corridor which is subject to being reserved and eventually purchased for the expressway, will be presented to the Seminole County Expressway Authority at its 4 p.m. meeting. followed by the public hearing. The authority will then vote on accepting the map. If the map is accepted, as expected, property within the corridor will be reserved for up to five years, and can be reserved for an additional five years after a second public hearing.

Once the property has been received, no improvements to commercial property except repairs will be allowed. However, residential property can be renovated, enlarged or otherwide improved as long as the residential use is maintained.

A citizens committee of residents who own property within the proposed expressway corridor have been trying to raise money to mount a court challenge to the state law which premits expressway authorities to reserve property for future highways.

The authority will also consider a request from the Florida Department of Transportation to adopt the recommended alignment of the expressway between I-4 and the Wekiva River, and will hold a public hearing on that alignment. which has been opposed by many residents in the Markham Woods Road area.

The authority will also hear a report from Henry Fuller of the DOT on the status of state projects on SR 434 and SR 426 and their relation to the proposed expressway.

IN BRIEF

Local Man Charged With Using Threats, Violence To Rape Woman

A Sanford man was being held in lieu of $25,000 bond Monday charged with the rape of a Moore Haven woman. The 20-year-old woman from east of Lake Okeechobee said the rape occurred in the Beardall Avenue area east of Sanford around 5:30 a.m. Saturday. An arrest was made in the case around 4:22 p.m. the same day. The woman said she met the man Friday night at the Club Two Spot on State Road 48 east of Sanford. She said she had met a few times before and left with him when the bar closed at 2 a.m. They then drove to a Fern Park restaurant and returned to the Sanford area where she was staying with relatives. She had asked the man to take her to her cousin's home.

She said the man grabbed her arm, then put his arm to her throat and punched in the face. He said he had a gun in the glove box and threatened her with an ice pick. He reportedly said he would kill her if she did not do as he

After the rape, he drove her to her cousin's home and as they approached the place, she told him she was going to tell authorities. They began to struggle again, and she said she cut him with a razor and jumped from the moving

Deputies traced the man's vehicle and later in the day it was found behind a Midway business. When the deputy impounded the car, the accused man showed up.

He had a "fresh" deep cut on his arm and told the officer he had been with the woman but that she had been a willing participant.

Arrested and charged with sexual battery was Alfred Lorenzo Jackson, 27, of 2401 Centre St.

Arrest Connected With Drug Area

A Winter Park man was arrested after he was seen riding his motorcycle from an area known for drug transactions.

An officer reported he was westbound on North Street near Jackson Street by Altamonte Springs when he saw a man on a motorcycle attempt to turn east on North Street. The officer turned around and drove east just ahead of the man, then motioning for him to stop.

The officer said the man had just left an area known for drug transactions. He reported he had seen seven men standing on a nearby corner, which he said is a common practice when one person is selling drugs on the street.

During a "safety" frisk, the motorcyclist reached into his left front pocket and pulled out some money. As he did so, a small white piece of cocaine fell to the ground. The officer said he picked up the piece. Two more pieces were found in his pocket.

Charged with possession of cocaine and driving with a revoked or suspended driver license was Michael Fragola. 24. He was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Yelling Man Pushes Deputy

An Altamonte Springs man was charged with resisting arrest after pushing a deputy and attracting a crowd at a Fern Park restaurant.

According to a deputy's report, about 200 people were at Krystal's Restaurant on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Fern Park around 1 a.m. Sunday.

One of the men was told to leave the area, but instead he

Deputies Pelted With Oranges, Bottles

Party Hosts Charged With Inciting Riot

An Altamonte Springs couple were charged with inciting a riot after a crowd of 200 party-goers hurled oranges and bottles at sheriff's deputies when they tried to shut down a street party.

The incident occurred around 1 a.m. Sunday at 108 Desoto Ave., near Magnolla Street.

It was the second trip deputies had made to the party because of complaints about loud music. The deputtes located George Watkins, 40, who said he was the home owner, and told him they were closing down the party. Watkins then told the disc jockey playing records over a public address system on the lawn to stop.

Francina Mae Watkins, 37, of the same address, reportedly became upset when the music stopped and began to yell at the deputies. The woman reportedly said the deputies were lying about the complaints and party-goers began to yell at the deputies as well.

The deputies attempted to disperse the crowd. The partygoers, however, began to pelt officers with oranges, according to their reports. One deputy was hit in the left knee by a broken bottle. Two Longwood officers who arrived at the scene had bottles tossed at their patrol cars, denting one and shattering the window of another. An A woman, later identified as officer and his police dog were in the car at the time but were not

A small group of people did start to leave. Watkins, however, reportedly told the people over the address system not to leave. and the crowd accused the deputies of shutting down the party because they were black and the deputies white.

Surrounded by a hostile corwd, the lawmen left but returned and arrested Watkins around 4:30 a.m. His wife was arrested around 6:15 a.m. Each was charged with inciting a riot.

They were released Sunday on $1,000 bond each from the Seminole County jail.

The Pentagon said the 280,000-ton Middletown, converted from a crude oil carrier to a petroleum products ship, left Dubai bound for Kuwait "without incident" Monday. It is being escorted by the frigate USS Ford.

Bicentennial Balloon Launch Reaps Responses

By Richard Whittaker Herald Blaff Writer

When students at Greenwood Lakes Middle School in Lake Mary launched 1,300 red, white and blue balloons with patriotic messages inside them in honor of the Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution on Sept. 16, they all waited for replies from whoever would find them. They didn't have to wait long.

Within two weeks, letters started arriving at the school from people throughout the state who had found the balloons and their messages. Upon their release, the balloons were carried by winds north, south, east and west across the state, according to responses received by the school. The students have kept a Lakes' music department and a map in the cafeteria showing the locations in which balloons have been found.

Although the balloons traveled in all directions out from the school grounds, Greenwood Lakes' Vice Principal James Shupe said he thought it strange that responses received from balloon recipients indicate most of them moved either towards the northwest around Ocala or the southwest to the Ft. Myers Responses to the messages have been received from such Florida cities as Ft. Myers. Arcadia and Lake Wales, James Buchanan, of Lady Lake, sent a $10 donation to Greenwood $5 check to Kerry Mills, whose message he had found in a belloon.

On Oct. 5, however, the school received a letter from a woman who had found one of the ballons in the Gulf of Mexico while returning from a fishing trip with her husband Charles on Sept. 19. Inside the balloon Loraine Espich, of Fort Myers, said she and her husband found a message from Greenwood Lakes sixth grader Adrian Sis-

Sisser's message in the balloon said simply, "Be thankful for the rights you have. Do not take them for granted," according to Shupe.

Espich said in the letter her husband had spotted the balloon in the water when they were looking at a sea turtle coming up for air in the gulf waters. She said they picked up the balloon at North 26: 15:98 longitude and West 82: 11:50 latitude, which is 41 degrees and 14.3 off the Sanibel Island Lighthouse. Sanibel Island is located northwest of Ft. Myers.

Espich told Sisser that as long as there were students in this country that cared enough to send messages like the ones sent in the balloons by him and his classmates, she was sure U.S. citizens won't take their rights for granted. "You and your class, the future leaders of our country will be there to remind us of how blessed we are." Espich told Sisser.

More Blue-Collar Workers Hungry

BOSTON (UPI) - Hunger is becoming increasingly common mong blue-collar workers, who have been largely left behind by the nation's economic recovery. according to a study released Monday.

"As reports of economic boom emanate from Washington and Wall Street, data acquired through first-hand field studies reveal that growing numbers of once-productive Americans are joining the soup lines of American," the report said.

Let's Unlock Those Files

The Justice Department recently tracked down a Michigan man accused of committing war crimes, after gaining limited access to the archives of the United Nations War Crimes Commission. Similar access last year prompted Washington to place Austrian President Kurt Waldheim on the "watch list" of aliens to be excluded from this country because of their brutal Nazi past.

Limiting access to these files protects thousands of persons whose dossiers may contain incriminating evidence of their complicity in outrages committed by the Third Reich. Such insulation for Nazi war criminals could be lifted if representatives from the 17 nations that constituted the commission would agree to open the files.

The commission, which was disbanded in 1948, accumulated detailed files on more than 40,000 Nazi war criminals, suspects and witnesses. Unfortunately, the war-crimes files are kept under lock and key and "may be inspected and used only for official United Nations purposes.

The U.N. rationale for this secrecy is that wider access to the files could compromise future criminal investigations. A more likely explanation is United Nations concern that the new evidence could embarrass certain nations with a sordid complicity in the Nazi atrocities. For example, the most vigorous ppponents of opening the files are France and Poland, which fear a careful examination of the evidence could disclose the extent to which they cooperated with their Nazi conquerers in rounding up Jews and other "undestrables" for shipment to death camps.

We are reliably informed that the U.N. archives contain nearly 25,000 Class A cases of individuals suspected of committing war crimes. Although many of these suspects are probably dead, many others are doubtless living double lives because of the anonymity granted them by the U.N.'s curious policy of keeping the files closed.

Simple justice demands these persons be investigated and, where appropriate, subjected to the criminal penalties surely due them. Representatives from the 17 countries that made up the commission should come together now and unlock those files.

Our Military Poor

According to the Pentagon, military pay has fallen 9.4 percent behind civilian wages for comparable work during the past five years. At the same time, housing allowances for those who can't be accommodated on base-mostly young enlisted men and women with families-don't reflect the actual rental costs in the communities where the soldiers are stationed. Nationally, the Pentagon estimates that housing allowances, on javerage, cover only 80 percent of rental costs, B percent less than what was intended by Congress. In some higher-rent areas, the disparity is even worse.

As a consequence, an increasing number of young military families are having to depend on food stamps, charity organizations and emergency loans to make ends meet. The housing manager at Mather Air Force Base estimates that 90 percent of the junior enlisted men and women with families are in financial trouble.

This is a national embarrassment that Congress should immediately take steps to correct. The best way to start is by providing more realistic housing allowances that not only would be higher overall but also would vary by community. To do that would mean taking money away from other items on the Defense Department's wish list, since a budget increase is very unlikely. But that priority shift seems only fair. Just because there are enough new recruits for the all-volunteer military doesn't mean the pay is adequate, or that Congress can ignore the poverty in which too many young military families are living.

Stock Market Crash Helps Democrats' Chances?

Stock-market collapses are bipartisan. equal-opportunity panies. And in their unpredictability, they can be as paradoxical as they are cruel.

What greater paradox than a stock market collapsing during the administration of one of its most passionate cheerleaders? What harsher cruelty than that collapse causing the election of the cheerleader's opposing party to the White House? And could there be a more bittersweet poetic justice than the prevention of a Republican 1929 stock-market crash in Republican 1967 because of the safety network the Democrats put into place?

'No matter whether th' constitution follows th' flag or not," observed Peter Dunne's Irish wit, Mr. Dooley, "th' supreme coort follows th' iliction returns.

And just as faithfully, election returns follow the stock market. The moment the market plummeted, the odds on a Democrat being elected president in 1968 quadrupled. In 1912, 1932. 1960 and 1976. It should be remembered. Democrats were elected after recessions had occurred during Republican administrations.

Despite the market's belated rally, some economic experts still foresee serious trouble. "I think we'll see a recession of several months, predicted the Philadelphia Inquirer's Pulitzer prize-winning business writer Joe Livingston.

But it's unlikely that Humpty Dumpty will fall off the stock-market wall in 1987 as he did in 1929. Federal deposit insurance, Social Security insurance, unemployment insurance, a Securities and Exchange Commission, and more government regulation in stabilizing financial markets have combined to create a safety network for investors and the economy. And in the past week, the tripartisan forces of the White House, Congress and the corporate sector have been cooperating to calm the financial markets. as investors tentatively leave their worries on the bull-market doorstep and direct their feet to the sunny side of the bear-market street.

More paradox: That entire safety network was put together by Democratic administrations. But pointing fingers of recrimination isn't going to solve the market crisis. Instead, the American people should be united in demanding that this Republican administration and Democratic Congress unite to stabilize the market.

The U.S. budget deficit should be substantially reduced." insists Livingston.

Agrees Washington Post economics writer Hobart Rowen, "First priority must go to reduction of the budget and trade deficits ... by cutting expenditures.

By definition, deficit and trade reductions mean a tax increase and a firm clamp on military spending, two economic imperatives that Reagan reacts to with the enthusiasm he would bestow on a suggestion that he swallow a bottle of castor oil blended with cocaine and laced with sulfur. But he may have no choice if he is to assert the kind of leadership that inspires world confidence.

Meanwhile, it's worth noting that there are still a few experts who maintain that the stock-market panic was caused not by an imposing array of economic forces but by deliberate manipulation on the part of stockmarket specialists.

Changes Are Unlikely In Kentucky

By Linda Wagar FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — Some things have always been true in Kentucky. Coal is king. Bourbon is the drink of choice and the governor is more likely to be a Democrat than a Republican.

After Election Day Nov. 3 all three likely will still be true.

Republican John Harper is as well aware of that fact as is his better financed opponent, Democrat Wallace Wilkinson.

Harper knows he is facing formidable odds against Wilkinson's slick multimillion-dollar campaign in a state where Republicans are outnumbered by Democrats

Harper has raised only $116,000 for the fall campaign, about 6 percent of the $2 million available to Wilkinson. In total, Wilkinson has raised nearly $6 million since before the May 26 primary, more than any candidate in Kentucky history.

Wilkinson, a self-made multimillionaire on his maiden political voyage, used his own wealth and the promise of a lottery to overcome the name recognition and popularity of his primary opponents, which included two former governors and the lieutenant gover-

He has throughout the campaign promised to use the lottery as a vehicle to prevent him from needing to raise taxes. Lottery proceeds, ne has vowed, will go to Vietnam veterans, early childhood education programs and senior citizens.

Wilkinson is also a slick campaigner who enthusiastically embraces potential voters with a bearing instead of a mere handshake.

Harper, who as a two-term Shepherdaville representative, is probably more familiar with the issues, is far less adept at the delivery. He has tended to latch on to complicated ideas and attempted to sell those to the voters.

He was the first candidate in the primary to mention the state's troubled workers' compensation system, months before a special session of the legislature was called by the governor to deal with the problem.

While other candidates were giving broad-based suggestions for improving the economy. Harper was launching into a detailed - often tedious - account on the state's troubled insurance system and its unfunded liability.

His often monotonous delivery and hefty frame prompted one interviewer to describe him as a "humpty dumpty who somehow managed to keep from falling off the

WILLIAM RUSHER

Taxes, Anyone?

Like the smoke bomb that out that the inveterate habit of Sherlock Holmes used to trick Irene Congress, when faced with fresh Adler into revealing the whereabouts of her most prized possession, the recent stock market plunge has jolted various people into disclosing their highest hopes.

For example, as you might expect, the New York Times op-ed page on Oct. 22 contained separate articles by Tom Wicker, Anthony Lewis and Robert Reich all blowing taps for Ronald Reagan and the Republican Party. As so often on that page recently, there was no pretense of balance: if bugling can do the job, the walls of Jericho will assuredly come tumbling down.

A rather more interesting reaction, because less tediously predictable, has been an upsurge of calls for, of all things, a tax increase. This particular project has been on a lot of agendas — most notably the Democratic Party's - for a long time. Politics is a poker game, and you can't play poker without chips. and the chips are the money the government exacts from the citizenry in return for all those "services!

The official excuse for a tax increase is, of course, the federal budget deficit. This could be eliminated, instantly, any day the Congress got serious about cutting expenditures. But it doesn't quite dare cut the defense budget (and rightly so), and it hasn't the remotest intention of cutting the bloated domestic budget. (It won't even agree to let Mr. Reagan personally take the heat for cutting it by giving him a line-item veto.)

I am forever amazed at the otherwise rational, even worldly people who automatically assume that a tax increase would reduce the deficit. Even leaving aside President Reagan's point that a tax increase often reduces revenues rather than increases them, do I have to point money, is to spend it? Increasing taxes to reduce the deficit is like giving a heroin addict a year's supply of his drug on the understanding that he will sell it and use the proceeds to pay off the mortgage.

Nevertheless, in the wake of the market's big drop there were all sorts of people out thumping the tubfor a tax increase. The Cable News Network's call-in question on the evening of Oct. 21 was, "Would you support a tax increase to lower the deficit?" I didn't bother to wait for the results; put that way, the answer would be, and was intended to be, yes. You can be sure, though, that CNN won't ask its listeners. "Do you think Congress would actually use the money derived from a tax increase to reduce the deficit?"

The chief financial adviser of a big investment banking house, whom I ran into at lunch on the 21st, also favors a tax increase. You may be interested to know the particular one he proposes: Elimination of the deduction for home mortgage interest. "It would wipe out the deficit all by itself," he pointed out.

Such a provision was briefly in the Tax Reform Act, but was dropped as politically impractical. But If we go the tax-increase route, it is certainly possible that the currently popular "home equity loans" will lose their deductible feature, and it is conceivable that home mortgage interest might be made only partially deductible.

Finally, though, a more important question stands in the way of a tax increase. If the market drop does in fact signal the start of a recession (as the Democrats devoutly hope), is this any time to be raising taxes? Just a thought.

VIEWPOINT NE Set For First Female Black Mayor

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) - Carrie Saxon-Perry is expected to easily win election as the first black woman mayor in New England, but a tougher task lies ahead as she confronts pockets of poverty in a city of plenty.

Saxon-Perry is heavily favored to win election Nov. 3 as mayor of Hartford, making her the first black woman mayor in New England and possibly the first black woman mayor of a larger U.S city.

The four-term state representative faces Republican Philip Steele, a lawyer and son of a popular veteran radio personality. However, with a long history of electing Democrats and the party's heavy lead in voter registrations. Saxon-Perry is strongly favored to win election as successor to Mayor Thirman Milner.

Milner, the first popularly elected black mayor in New England, decided not to seek re-election earlier this year. He endorsed Saxon-Perry. who went on to win the Democratic nomination in a September Hartford is the state's capital and second-largest city (Bridgeport is the largest) with a population of about 135,000.

Hartford is in the midst of a building boom with one developer planning New England's tallest building in the heart of downtown. At the same time, it has been ranked as one of the poorest cities in the nation

Saxon-Perry said she believes her legislative experience - she is chairman of a key bonding subcommittee - will help her as mayor.

"The skills that I honed up here at the Capitol is what Hartford needs right now; it's a person who is a coalition and consensus builder,"

Saxon-Perry, who lists the top issues facing the city as property tax revaluation, crime, education and job training, said she hopes to serve as the city's chief lobbyist at the State Capitol.

She said she intends to give up her legislative seat if elected mayor to devote full time at City Hall. The mayor's job pays $17,500, about the same as the House salary.

Saxon-Perry conceded the mayor's job is largely ceremontal. but said she will take advantage of the powers it offers, such as a line-flem veto, as well as usin it as a forum to promote ideas.

She said she has encountered difficulties in politics both because of her race and gender.

Interior Gave Up Oil-Shale Rights

By Jack Anderson And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON - Interior Secretary Donald Hodel gave away royalties worth as much as $210 billion on federally owned oil shale last year, according to congressional investigators. That was the conclusion of an unpublished House Appropriations Committee report obtained by our associate Stewart Harris. The committee investigators were looking into a 1986 Interior Department agreement with speculators who held old mining claims to federal land in the West.

It is not yet worthwhile to extract oil from the shale deposits, found mostly in Colorado, Utah and Wyoming. But entrepreneurs have been staking out claims to produce of from federally owned lands since

That's when prospectors and speculators were first allowed to buy mineral mining rights - for peanuts - on federal lands rich with oil shale. The scramble for claims lasted until 1920, when Congress put a stop to the giveaway. But the old claims to oil-shale mining rights on some 240,000 acres of federal land still Congressional criticism has been focused on the claims that Hodel agreed to honor on 82,000 acres of off shale, staked out between 1872 and 1920. But Congress itself must share the blame: It didn't wake up to the possible giveaway until after Hodel had signed the settlement on Aug. 4, 1986.

The settlement stopped government efforts to overturn the claims. With a stroke of his pen. Hodel had given up the taxpayers' rights to oil-shale royalties that could be worth $210 billion - and were certainly worth at least $34 billion the investigators found.

Hodel's decision to settle with the claimants appears to have been based on considerations of legal strategy rather than financial gain or loss to the government. According to recent congressional testimony by Hodel aide James E. Cason. Interior was afraid that if it appealed and lost the lawsuit in question, TOSCO vs. Hodel, the department wouldn't be able to challenge other oil-shale claims in the three Western states.

In TOSCO vs. Hodel, a U.S. District Court Judge in Colorado had forbidden the Interior Department to deny oil-shale claims even though the claimants had not maintained their claims as required by law. Claimants were required to spend at least $100 a year assessing claims that were not being actively mined. and many of the oil-shale claims had been abandoned when low oil prices made oil shale a less attractive energy source.

Furthermore, investigations by federal and state agencies have concluded that many of the oil-shale claims were fraudulent. As long ago as 1919, a joint investigation by the Post Office and Interior led to indictment of several so-called "dummy entrymen," who laid claims to thousands of acres of oll-shale land on behalf of

Few of the original oil-shale prospectors currently hold claims. Most of them have died or disappeared. and dusty county land records are the only remaining link to their dreams of striking it rich. Many of these old claims are now held by corporations that tracked down descendants of the original prospectors and bought the claims for next to nothing.

Despite the sometimes shady background of the oil-shale claims. Cason told the Senate subcommittee on mineral resources that the prospects for overturning TOSCO vs. Hodel were slim.

1960s Radicals' Second Thoughts

By Jeff Wise WASHINGTON (UPI)

- During the 1960s they wanted to busti the very libraries they have since used to research their dissertations and write their books. They defiled Ho Chi Minh as the previous generation had enshrined Trotsky, and they condemned Amerlean democracy as so much bourgeois nonsense.

About 30 former 1960s activists and self-styled revolutionaries gathered recently to discuss their second thoughts and document their political journeys since their glory days. But the meeting, dubbed the Second Thoughts Conference, was not a nostalgle chastening for the innocence and excesses of a tumultuous and confusing decade.

It featured dramatic conversions from what some called "the religion of the New Left," vituperative attacks on 'the liberal establishment" and dire warnings about repeating the "mistakes of the '60s" today, namely in Central America.

The forum was organized by David Horowitz and Peter Collier, former coeditors of the leftist Ramparts magazine. the beliweather of the New Left during the 1960s.

"We committed treason. We tried to destroy this country,' said Horowitz, whose conversion from the New Left began in the 1970s after several violent experiences with the Black Panthers.

Throughout the conference. Horowitz and Collier excortated the intellectual left, the media and congressional liberals for what they called "selfhattng. blame-America-first cynicism" and for supporting the Nicaraguan Sandinistas in ways they sald were "tantamount to treason."

"The beginning of political morality. Horowitz proclaimed. ,"is anti-communism."

Though this foreign affairs axiom seemed to sum up the sentiment of the conference. there was more diversity of opinion on social issues such as affirmative action and welfare.

Jeff Herf, a former leader in Students for a Democratic Society and now professor of strategy at the Naval War College, almost endorsed the welfare state amid vigorous protestations.

Herf said he began having second thoughts after 1975. "What happened in Indochina after we apulled out was so much more horrendous than anything we Imagined," he said. "Just read what we were writing about Vietnamese communism in the late '60s. It was dead wrong."

Richard Neuhaus, a civil rights activist who supported armed revolution on the basis of b the Christian notion of the just war, said that utopian yearnings should be expressed in the religious - not political - realm.

Author and film critic Michael Medved. who led the drive to abolish the ROTC program at Yale in 1969, said he began his conversion after the 1973 Yom Kippur War when he said he realized that the survival and freedom of a country — In this case Israel — can ultimately depend on military power.

After several Contra leaders addressed the conference, Latin American specialist former Maoist and until 1985 a critic of the Contras, said that since he withdrew his support for the Sandinistas he has been a victim of a "McCarthylam of the

"I've been called a CIA operative and a closet fascist," sald Letken, "I was declared anathema and cast out of the charmed circle of the left," even though he along with other participants still considers himself a liberal or "on the left."

There were some unexpected developments to spice up the conference. A former pro-Contra lobbyist and associate of Lt. Col. Oliver North. Bruce Cameron, revealed he had had "third thoughts" when he announced his support for the Central American peace plan amid boos and hisses: "These are complicated times. A rigid anti-communism and a naive belief in freedom fighters won't solve the world's problems."

The centerplece of the gathering was a nighttime affair given over to hearing the wise counsel of an older generation of conservatives - most of whom experienced their second thoughts after fliriations with communism in the 1930s - whose impression of the stories of conve sion was echoed in the phrase used by Norman Podhoretz, editor of Commentary magazine: "It's deja vu all over again."

But these stewards of conservatism were not in a generous mood. They challenged those ex-radicals who still identified with any part of the left.

Hilton Kramer. former art critic for The New York Times, upbraided Herf for his refusal to express shame for "the smugness and spiritual vanity" of the 1960s and his refusal to denounce the '60s social agenda, which he called "morally catastrophic."

An offended Herf muttered to his dinner companions, "If this keeps up. I'm going to walk out."

Irving Kristol, considered the figurehead of the neo-conservative movement, said that neo-conservatism was his sixth thought: "I think it's important to have more than two thoughts. It's not enough just to reject your radicalism. The '60s was a different type of radicalism because of the counterculture. This radicalism went deep into people's lives."

Podhoretz disabused the young "second-thoughters" of the notion of compromising with the left. "There is no magic formula between conservatism and leftism and there is no refuge in liberalism for those who have had serious second thoughts."

Nathan Glazer expressed his worry that the reaction of those having second thoughts about the 1960s might result in "excessive love of America." In an out-burst of moderation rarely witnessed through the conference, he suggested that the view of a monolithic, aggressive communism as our greatest threat overstates the case." Sam Leiken, one of the regular particlpants, commented as the conference closed. "The danger of second thoughts is to react to the left as blindly as we followed the left. We don't want to make the same mistakes as be-

Commanders May Not Have Tried To Reverse Engines

PARIS (UP) - New evidence suggests the Titanic's commanders may have failed to order the doomed luxury liner's engines into reverse despite sighting an iceberg dead ahead, organizers of a television program on the disaster said Monday.

The organizers said two telegraph machines from the Thanic were recovered from debris around the severed ship during a

902 E take

Mary Blad

French-American expedition last summer. The wreck lies 2 in miles beneath the Atlantic 385 miles southeast of Newfoundland.

They said the machines were used to send orders from the command bridge to the engine room of the Titanie, which sank April 15, 1912, on its maiden voyage from England to New York. More than 1,500 passengers and crew were killed, including Capt. Edward Smith.

"Both the telegraphs are in a forward posttion." indicating an order to go into reverse had not been given despite the sighting of the teeberg, said John Joslyn, producer of Return to the Titanie

... Live," which is to air Wednesday night in the United States and several other countries.

"It seems to me that if they had seen an iceberg the first thing they would do is put the engines in reverse, We don't have the answers yet," he said. In an effort to build up excitement for the two-hour live broadcast, Joslyn and other organizers, along with program host, actor Telly Savalas, gave details of the program during a news conference at the plush Royal Monceau Hotel in Paris.

Armed security guards wheeled intothe conference room two safes containing what are considered the most important discoveries - the assistant purser's safe and a leather bag containing jewels, coins and paper money. Savalas posed for pictures in front of the safes, which were not opened. The safes are expected to be opened during the program. it was Joslyn who produced "The Mystery of Al Capone's Vault," a vault that turned out to be virtually empty despite pre-show hype that it would contain important artifacts of the 1920s Chicago mob chieftain.

"I didn't need any assurance that there would be anything in the safe," said Savalas. The fact that these guys went down 2 14 miles and came up with anything was an achievement in itself.

"I've been making believe as a detective ton television programs) for so long, that Il was very exciting to be involved in something very, very real." doslyn said the telegraphs add a new clue to the Titante mystery.

Foreign Students Set Numbers Record

NEW YORK (UPI) -A record 348,609 foreign students attended colleges in the United States last year, a 1.7 percent increase again paced by Asian nations as enrollment dependent countries, a report said Monday. The "Open Doors" report issued by the Institute of International Education also said foreign graduate student enrollment was greater than foreign undergraduate enrollment for the first time in 20 years, 146,100 to 141,250.

The Asian students were the largest and fastest-growing seg-ment of the foreign population, up 8.8 percent compared to an overall foreign increase of 1.7 percent, the report said.

Foreign enrollment as a percentage of college enrollment remained at about 2.7 percent for the decade.

The largest number of foreign students. 25,660, came from Taiwan. Malaysia was second with 21,640 and China third with 20,030 students.

Declines were recorded from Africa. Latin America and the Middle East, according to Richard Krasno. president of the IIE the nation's largest higher education exchange agency.

'Students from Asian countries are taking advantage of their expanding economies and their governments' liberalized politice toward foreign study, and are enrolling here in record numbers." Krasno

"At the same time. economic and political problems in the Middle East and other oildependent areas are making foreign study prohibitive for growing numbers of young people from those nations.

Iran, which regards the United States as "The Great Satan," sent 12,230 students, down 13.9 percent from a year earlier, the report said.

The study said the graduate students showed a preference for technical courses. Thirty-one percent chose engineering. computer or math sciences, sciences, 19 percent business and management and 8 percent physical and life sciences.

Florida's Miami-Dade Community College, with 5,010, became the first college to register at least 5,000 students. The University of Southern California was the most popular four-year school with 3.746 and the University of Texas at Austin followed with 3,000.

More foreign students, 47,388, chose to attend school in California than any other state, followed by New York with 32,821 and Texas with 25,125.

The study said 64 percent of the students were self-supporting or relied on their families. 10 percent depended on their home governments or universities and the balance were funded by private groups or universities in this country or the U.S. government.

The 10 leading countries of origin: Taiwan, 25,860; Malaysia, 21.640: China, 20,030; Republic of Korea, 19,940; India, 18,350; Canada, 15,700; Japan, 15,070; Iran, 12.230; Nigeria. 11.700; Hong Kong. 11,010.

Blue Collar Workers Joining Hungry Ranks

workers, who have been largely left behind by the nation's economic recovery, according to a study released Monday.

"As reports of economic boom emanate from Washington and Wall Street, data acquired through firsthand field studies reveal that growing numbers of onceproductive Americans are joining the soup lines of American," the report said.

The 65-page report. "Hunger Reaches Blue-Collar American: An Unbalanced Recovery in a Service Economy," was prepared by the Physician Task Force on Hunger in America, a group of 23 doctors and researchers based at the Harvard School of Public Health that organized in 1984 to study hunger.

The task force analyzed a variety of Itatistics on jobs. Income and poverty and visited emergency food programs in Texas. Louisiana, Iowa, Minnesota. Pennsylvania. Ohio. West Virginia and California.

"This is an analysis of what we found, a report of two Americas," the report stated. "One is glittery, rich and growing. The other is not even showing on the boards.' It is a country where many hardworking people who have played by the rules now find themselves destitute and hungry."

The report attributed the trend to a failure of the Reagan Administration's supply side economics to trickle down to all workers.

There has been a substantial shift in the economy toward lower-paying service lobs, a failure of the

BOSTON (UPI) - minimum wage to keep Hunger is becoming pace with inflation and increasingly common a curtailing of governie-collar ment programs to help the poor, the report said. To counter the trend. the task force called for increasing the minimum wage. extending unemployment benefits and strengthening government programs that feed the poor, such as food stamps and the school lunch program.

"We are a country that prides itself on fixing problems once we understand their causes and remedies." the report said. Domestic hunger falls into this category."

Although the national economy is in its 58th month of expansion, about 20 million Americans are estimated to be hungry and emergency food programs reported that an increasing proportion of the hungry are working families with children, said Dr. J. Larry Brown, task force chairman.

"There is a new trend that is happen-ing," said Brown. "Hunger and poverty have cut in significantly into the blue collar segment of the popuation."

The Salvation Army. for example, reported that about half of its clients at emergency food programs are working families with children, he said.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - With Congress convinced military pressure is not enough. President Reagan has tightened the screws on Iran with imposition of a trade embargo aimed at cutting the flow of currency financing its war against Iraq.

One week to the day after U.S. warships destroyed an armed Iranian oil platform. Reagan ordered a halt Monday to oil imports that so far this year have earned fran more than $1 billion in American revenue for its war effort.

The ban extends to all other imports from Iran and to exports of products to Iran with potential military application in a move prompted by congressional calls for economic retaliation against attacks on U.S. interests in

The measures I am initiating are a direct result of the Iranian government's own actions, including its unprovoked attacks on U.S. forces and U.S. merchant vessels and its sponsorship of terrorism," the president declared.

Researcher: Let Lake Water Flow

GAINESVILLE (UPI) - Redesigning spillways to improve water flow could cure an aquatic acne of hydrilla and water weeds decreasing lake volume and threatening Florida fishing, a fresh water biologist said Mon-

Spillways are normally con-structed on the river outlets of lakes to control water level, and opened during periods of heavy rains to let water out of the lake to prevent flooding.

But the practice might be preventing bottom exposure of lake fringes during dry periods, which is the natural time for nutrients feeding on vegetation to oxidize or blow away in the wind and for the lake bottom to harden, said Hans Gottgens, a doctoral student at the University of Florida.

The first step in getting rid of the aquatic weeds choking these lakes may be to reintroduce lake-level fluctuation," he said. "This would also include changing the designs of spillways to allow better water flow through the lake." Gottgens is working under a grant from the St. Johns River Water Management District to help develop an effective management plan for lakes in the Orange Creek Basin, including Orange and Lochloosa lakes south of Gainesville.

In many of Florida's lakes the aquatic growth is fed by nutrient runoff from surroun ing farmlands and urban areas. But the problem in Orange and other lakes is the absence of naturally occurring water fluctuations that disappeared when apillways were built.

There aren't really any outside sources of nutrients in the Orange Creek Basin that would cause this problem," said Gottgens, who worked five years for the state as an environmental specialist before returning to school.

'Nutrient removal and hardening of the lake bottom were desirable occurrences to keep the lake open." said Gottgens, comparing the lake's cyclical drying-out to forest burns clearing undergrowth to promote tree growth. "Every now and then something must happen to rejuvenate the system."

The Orange Lake spillway built in the 1960s to protect inkenhore property from fluctuating water levels also may reduce water flow, he said, stagnates and traps nutrients.

solutions to a long-term problem," Gottgens said.

All-American? Morley Swings For First Team

University of Florida junior Cheryl Morley, an Oviedo High graduate, has been the leading lady on the links for the Gators this season and is a strong candidate for First Team All-American honors.

Morley, 21, picked up her second collegiate individual championship the first week in October when she fired a 1-under par 218 in the Dick McGuire invitational at Albuquerque, N.M. The Lady Gators won the tournament with a total of 908 compared to 908 for Morley opened the tournament with a sizzling 4-under 69 and followed it up with rounds of 76 and 73. Morley's first individual title came last season as she won the Pat Bradley Invitational at Key Biscayne and set a tournament record with a score of 210, including her personal best round of 67.

As a sophomore a year ago. Morley had one first place and five top-10 finishes. She came in tied for 25th at the NCAA Championships in which the Lady Gators finished third. Morley was rewarded for her outstanding season, in which her scoring average was 75.5, by being named Second Team All-American.

In the Lady Gators' most recent tournament, the Tulsa Tour-Mixed Invitational, Morley led the way with a 233 and an 11th-place finish but Florida was missing its other leader, Karen Davies, and wound up in ninth place. The Lady Gators had won every tourney they had entered until Tulsa.

"I guess it wasn't our tournament and we'll go on from here," Florida coach Mimi Ryan said. "We just couldn't get anything going. I'm glad we all had our lousy tournament together so that we can put it behind us."

The next tourney for the Lady Gators is the SIC Fall Classic in Athens, Ga. on Nov. 7-8.

Morley, who now lives in Ocala, began playing at the Big Cypress Country Club (now Winter Springs Golf Club) as a younster. She was the only female member of the Oviedo golf team. She and her family moved to Ocala three years ago.

The Mayfair Women's Golf Association Kader Eclectic Tournament ended in a tie with the Gloria Prosser-Gerrie Whiteside and Mirtam Andrews-Thelma Vose teams both ending up with a score of 55. A playoff for the tournament championship will be held Wednesday at the Mayfair Country Club.

Other top finishers in the Kader Tournament included Verne Smith-Mary Anderson (56); Irene Harris-Donna Dondaville (56); Peggy Billups-Maude Butler (58); Grace Sauers-Pinky Mioducki (60); Genevieve Woodruff-Annette Hodges (61); Jane McKibbin-Alice Potter (62) and Helen Killebrew-Evelyn Antar (64).

The Maitland-South Seminole Chamber of Commerce Tournament will be held Wednesday, Nov. 4 at Deer Run Country Club in Casselberry. Deadline for entry is Nov. 1. The tournament will begin with registration and putting contest at 11 a.m. with a 12 noon shotgun start and 5 p.m. buffet dinner. Sponsorship packages are available for $200 per foursome. Individual entry fee for green fee. cart and dinner is $45. For info. call the Maitland-South Seminole Chamber of Commerce at 644-0741.

MacPhail Makes Pitch To Help Viola, Blyleven

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Minnesota Twins General Manager Andy MacPhail deserves to sit back and enjoy his team's World Series triumph, but not too long. MacPhail, who fine-tuned the Twins

MacPhall, who fine-tuned the Twins into champions this season with some shrewd trades, realizes his club has some weaknesses and he must address them if the Twins are to successfully defend their title next year.

Minnesota became the 10th different team to win the World Series in the last 10 seasons. Baseball has lacked a dynasty team since the 1970s when the Oakland Athletics, Cincinnati Reds and New York Yankees took turns. The Twins hardly look like the dynasty team of the '80s.

Minnesota, as evidenced by its 85victory season, must fortify its starting pitching. Frank Viola and Bert

Blyleven are Manager Tom Kelly's only reliable starters and it's difficult to assess how much longer Blyleven. 36, can maintain his effectiveness.

Les Straker showed some flashes in Game 3 of the World Series, but the 28-year-old right-hander is a project who will take a while to cultivate.

Minnesota's others possible starters include Joe Niekro and Steve Carlton, two veterans whose status for next year is questionable, and Mike Smithson, who was left off the postseason roster.

The Twins were able to win short series against the Tigers and Cardinals with only two good starters, but that's tough to do over a 162-game season. So MacPhail has little choice but to pursue pitchers in the offseason.

"We will be better next year if we get a couple of starters." said MacPhail. 34, the youngest general manager in the majors. "Winning is tough, but we should start off OK in spring training."

MacPhail could also help the Twins by strengthening his bench. He has some good role players, but no wellrounded ones. Outfielder Mark Davidson and infielder Al Newman play defense well but can't hit, and Randy Bush is the opposite.

The Twins, however, have an excellent nucleus. Gary Gaetti. Kirby Puckett, Tom Brunansky, Kent Hrbek and Viola will keep Minnesota strong.

"If they get lucky and are able to find a couple of good young arms, they can win that division for a long time." St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog said. "When I look at the good everyday ballplayers they have. I think they could dominate the (AL) West."

Avoiding injuries, as always, will be important. The Twins, unlike other teams in the AL West, remained virtually injury-free this season and that was a main reason they won the division.

Injuries destroyed the New York Meta after their World Series season. The Mets nearly won their division despite the problems, but the Twins would unlikely be able to withstand injuries to any of their key players. They don't possess enough depth.

The Cardinals suffered in the World Series because of injuries, but taking Minnesota to a seventh game without Jack Clark and an injured Terry Pendleton was quite an accomplishment.

"We were vulnerable to left-handed pitching, but Jack Clark and Terry Pendleton will solve that," Herzog said. "We'll be back."

Suspended McEnroe Foresees Retirement In 2 More Years

FLORENCE, Italy (UPI) — John McEnroe, serving a 60-day suspension from official tournaments for misconduct, said Monday he expects to retire from tennis in two years.

"Within two years, I won't be playing on the circuit," the 28-year-old New Yorker said at a news conference before an exhibition Monday night against Ivan Lendi, the world's No. 1 player, "Right now, my objective is to return to the level of 1984. I want to be No. 1 again."

McEnroe, ranked No. 11 in the world, received his suspension from Nabisco Grand Prix events as punishment for an obscene outburst against an umpire at the U.S. Open.

During his enforced absence from the tour, he won a $150,000 eight-man exhibition tournament in Atlanta earlier this month.

Lendl, who took over the No. I ranking from McEnroe in late 1984, was beaten Sunday in a Tokyo tournament final by Sweden's Stefan Edberg, ranked No. 2 in the world.

McEnroe ruled as tennis' No. 1 from 1981-84.

McEnroe ruled as tennis' No. 1 from 1981-84. Three years ago, in his best season, he won Wimbledon for the third time and the U.S. Open a fourth time.

He took a six-month tennis sabbatical in early 1986 and returned to the tour in greatly reduced form. He lost in the first round of the 1987 French Open, complaining of back problems, and skipped Wimbledon for the second straight year. Tennis

District Finishes: 4A-7 — Cut, Dry 5A-4 — The Mess

In what has been one of the most action-packed and entertaining football seasons in Seminole County in quite a few years, the District 5A-4 and 4A-7 titles could be decided this week.

The two teams that are in the drivers' seat in the respective districts are DeLand and Seminole. The playoff possibilities are seemingly endices.

Seminole, 3-3 overall and 2-0 in the 4A-7, can go to the state playoffs if it beats Oviedo Friday at Sanford. The Lions are 3-3 and 2-0, if the Lions beat Seminole on Friday and Orlando Edgewater on Nov. 13, the Lions will go to the playoffs.

Edgewater can still win the district as well. If Oviedo beats Seminole and Edgewater beats Leesburg and Oviedo, there will be a three-way tie. A playoff would be held to determine the conference winner.

While the district 4A-7 race is

While the district 4A-7 race is pretty much cut and dry, the 5A-4 race is much more complicated. DeLand is 5-1 overall and 3-0 in the 5A-4. Lake Mary and Lake Howell are one-half game behind with 3-1 district marks.

If the Buildogs beat Lake Mary on Friday, they will win the district and go to the playoffs. The Buildogs will go to the playoffs even if they lose to Spruce Creek on Nov. 5. A loss to the Creek wouldn't hurt DeLand because even if it tied with Lake Mary and Lake Howell, DeLand would get the playoff nod because it has beaten Howell and Mary.

But a DeLand loss would really make things interesting in the district. Lake Howeli could win the district if Lake Mary and Lyman both beat DeLand. Two losses by DeLand would favor Howell because it tied the Hawks with Lake Mary and the Hawks would go to the playoffs because they have beaten Mary.

Sounds confusing, doesn't it? Just wait a minute, it gets worse!

If DeLand loses to Lake Mary but beats Lyman and Spruce Creek, the Bulldogs and the Hawks will be tied — if Howell can beat Spruce Creek and Daytona Beach Mainland.

A three-way tie could also happen. If Lake Mary beats De Land and De Land beats Lyman and Spruce Creek while Howell beats the Creek and Mainland, a three-way playoff would have to be held.

What a mess. But an interesting mess.

Lake Mary can win the district if it beats DeLand and Mainland. The Rams would have to hope that DeLand loses to Lyman and that Howell loses to Creek or Mainland.

The different possibilities have the county coaches preparing their teams for the most important three weeks of the season.

• At Seminole, coach Roger. Beathard said that his teams realizes the significance of Friday night's game against Oviedo. Both Seminole and Oviedo have had two weeks to prepare for the battle as both teams were idle last week.

"This is our season." Beathard, said. "The kids know that will make or break our season."

Beathard said that the extra' time to prepare for Oviedo was used well. "Oviedo has one of the better defenses around." Beathard said. "We have had a loose week of practice and think that that is an advantage.

"We were getting a little too aggressive in those three games that we lost (Lake Mary, Dr. Phillips, Lake Brantley)." Beathard said, "We have had nice crisp practices lately. Short ones, but effective."

Beathard said that getting the kids ready for the game will not be a problem. "They have been pretty serious all year." Beathard said. "We said at the beginning of the year that our goal was to make the playoffs. Our second goal was to win the conference.

"If we lose to Oviedo, we can't make the playoffs, and we already know that we can't win the conference." Beathard explained. "We have to win this one."

Houston Ups Ante To Keep Oilers From Jacksonville

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston will have a professional football team for at least the next 10 years, says Houston Ollers owner Bud Adams.

Turning down an attractive $125 million guaranteed offer to move to Jacksonville Adams said Monday he will keep the Oilers in Houston.

"It's been a very trying and dramatic last four to five months." Adams said. "It was a very tempting olfer (from Jacksonville). I think Jacksonville is where Houston was 10 or 15 years ago. I could've gone to Jacksonville and made a lot more money, but I don't think you need to view this on a dollar basis.

"When it came down to the final go-round, I think the HSA (Houston Football Sports Association) came together with everything they could possibly do to bring us together."

Adams signed a letter of intent with the HSA, agreeing to keep the Ollers in Houston for at least the next 10 years.

The agreement, however, is contingent on the sale of 72 luxury boxes that will be built on the fifth level of the Astrodome. Two previous conditions — expanded seating and a favorable lease agreement — have been worked out.

TAMPA (UPI) — Greg Roberts, former Outland Trophy winner and Tampa Bay Buccaneer, was arrested Monday on cocaine distribution and racketeering charges along a group of nine others that included the wives of two former NFL players.

Deputies armed with search warrants raided Roberts' home and said as they entered his bedroom he was trying to flush some drugs down the toilet. They said he was arrested after a brief struggle.

Officers found a loaded shotgun in his bed, two loaded handgons on the headboard, another shotgun in the room, a fused pipe bomb in the garage and $15,000 worth of cocaine, drug paraphernalia and ammunition.

The bomb was found in a baby stroller and was dismantled by bomb-squad experts.

Also seized as a result of a sevenmonth investigation were an M-110 machine gun — an American version of the Uzi — 164 pounds of marijuana and five automobiles allegedly used to transport cocaine and other drugs from Miami and distribute them in the Tampa Bay

Tampa Earns Bears' Respect

Herald Sports Writer

TAMPA - The Tampa Bay Buccaneers may not have earned a victory in Sunday afternoon's heartbreaking 27-26 loss to the Chicago Bears, but the once pathetic Bues certainly earned the respect of of the 1985 Super Bowl champions.

They (Tampa) totally outplayed us," Chicago offensive tackle Keith Van Horne, an All-Pro performer, said. "They always seem to play us tough. and they are a team that is going to win a heck of a lot of games."

The Bucs played their best first half in recent memory. racing out to a quick 20.0 first-quarter lead. The 20 points in the first stanza established set a record for Tampa.

And with a 26-14 lead midway through the fourth quarter. It appeared as though Tampa was well on its way to one of the biggest upsets in team history.

But the Bears proved why they are considered to be the best team in football, putting together a pair of late touchdowns drives, engineered by recuperated quarterback Jim McMahon. The Bears have beaten the Buccaneers 10 consecutive times.

McMahon's, playing in his first game in over 11 months, ran for one touchdown and threw for another, giving the Bears an exciting come-from-behind vic-

McMahon, coming off shoulder surgery, plunged in from the one-yard line with only 5:31 left to cut Tampa's lead to 26-20.

The gritty veteran showed that he is still capable of coming up with the big plays in the clutch, going 6 for 6 on the winning drive, which started at the Chicago 29-yard line with just 2:44 left to play.

Former Gator Neal Anderson culminated the winning drive, somersaulting into the end zone on a six-yard toss from McMahon. Kevin Butler's PAT gave the Bears the one-point victory. Anderson had a superb outing in his return to the Sunshine State, as he scored Chicago's first touchdown on a

McMahon greeted the hoards of reporters after the game in typical McMahon fashion: wearing a Bears' visor and chewing tobacco. "This isn't exactly the way that I though things were going to turn out," McMahon, who replaced starter Mike Tomezak in the third quarter, said. "But the important thing is that we won."

Tomczak, who has won 10 consecutive games in which he has started, said he was not bitter about McMahon replacing him. "I knew that Jim was going to come in, but I just didn't know when," Tomczak said, "I want what is best for the team. Jim is our starting quarterback and I'll back him all the way."

Ditka reaffirmed the fact that McMahon will call the signals from now on. "Jim is going to start and you (reporters) need not ask again," Ditka said. "He will start for us unless an injury

DeLand's 14-13 win over Lake Brantley last week actually helped Lake Mary. If DeLand would have lost and if Mary beats DeLand on Friday, the Rams could have been tied with Howell and the Hawks would win the district.

"If we keep playing well, we may just win the thing." Hiss said. "But I don't really know what is going to happen."

McFadin, Iles Turn In Best All-Arounds

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

Erin McFadin and Stefanie lies turned in dynamic all-around performances this past weekend and both claimed first place in their age division at the second local qualifying meet for Class III gymnasts held at Seminole High School.

McFadin, a freshman at Oviedo High, scored 8.5 or better in every event en route to an all-around score of 35.5. McFadin was first on floor exercise (9.15), second on uneven parallel bars (9.1), eighth on vault (8.75) and ninth on balance beam (8.5).

lles, a sixth grader at Rock Lake Middle School, finished with an all-around score of 34.95. Hes recorded an impressive 9.2 to win the uneven burs and also tied for fourth on floor [8.75], was fifth on bars (8.5) and sixth on vault (8.5).

While McFadin and Iles, who qualified for state in the first local meet, took top honors, this past weekend's meet also saw Brown's Gymnastics of Altamonte Springs qualify six more of its members for the Class III State Meet

In the 12-14 age group this past weekend, Pam Davis. Ashley Baker, Elan Holtzclaw and Erin Scully all bettered the state-qualifying standard of 33.0. In the 9-11 age division. Lisa Villarreal and Jodi Duke were state qualifiers for Brown's.

Davis, an eighth grader at Greenwood Lakes Middle School. was 10th all-around at 34.45 including a fourth on bars (8.9) and the for fourth on floor (9.0).

Also in the 12-14 age division. Heather Perry, who had already qualified for state, finished at 33.40 with a ninth on floor (8.9) and Heather Mellin, already a state qualifier, finished at 33.35. Qualifying for sectionals and both closing in on the state score were Marti King (32.9) and Kim Ford (32.4).

In the 9-11 division, Orlando's Villarreal was second all-around at 34.15 including a first on vault (8.75), third on floor (8.8), seventh on beam (8.4) and tie for 10th on bars (8.2). Duke, who attends Wekiva Elementary, linished ninth all-around at 33.15 including a tied for fourth on floor (8.75).

Others who have already qualified for state in the 9-11 age group include Lynn Kennedy and Jenny Beathard. In this past weekend's meet. Kennedy was seventh all-around (33.4) with a second on floor (8.9) and fourth on bars (8.65) while Beathard was 10th all-around (33.1) with a third on bars (8.9).

Sectional qualifiers in the 9-11 division include Mindy Hall (32.05), Christina Dominguez (31.65) and Amanda Wright (31.3). Hall had an eighth on vault (8.45) and tie for 10th on bars (8.2) while Dominguez tied for 10th on bars (8.2) and Wright was seventh on floor (8.6) and 10th on beam (8.2).

The Class III Sectional Meet will be held Nov. 21-22 at South Brevard Gymnastics in Palm

Gast Drives 'Mud Dauber' To Victory

NEW SMYRNA BEACH -After David Rogers dropped out of the late model feature with five laps to go, the victory was up for grabs. Veteran dirt tracker Bill Gast, driving his three-year old "Mud-Dauber" and sporting a new IROC-Z body with power by Midnight Express Engine Service, took the victory.

Jimmy Sills was second, followed by Joe Middleton and Stan Eads who led for the first eight times around. Fifth was Phil Dorman. The Limited Late Model main went to Lee Faulk. Chuck

Burkhalter held off former State Champ Ronnie Roach to grab the runner up spot. Joe Piscopo lookalike Gary Salvatore took over first place from early leader Doug Howard and went on to win the Florida Modified main. Howard, driving Jeff Blehr's No. 71 while Jell was in the Carolinas competing in a big money Enduro, held on for second at the finish. With the Four Cylinder points battle extremely close between Jerry Symons and Gene Van Alstine, as the point season concludes this coming Saturday with a double-point night.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Manufacturers wrote $1.2 billion more in new orders for durable goods in September than they did in August, a 1.1 percent increase to $107.8 billion, the Commerce Department reported today.

The rise in the orders represents the biggest jump since a 2 percent increase in June and continues an upward swing in new orders that began in January - except for a 2.4 percent drop in August.

September's rise means new durable goods orders so far this year are up 6.4 percent over the first nine months of 1986.

Durable goods shipments jumped $3.2 billion, or 3 percent, to $107.3 billion in September, with all industries increasing except lumber. This also represents the biggest one-month percentage rise since February's 4.3 percent gain and exceeds the December 1986 high of $106.7 billion.

McFall said the foundation and its non-stock market investments weren't really negatively impacted by the fall in the market. Because foundation money has nothing to do with the tuition costs at the universitv. UCF students will not face an increase in course fees because of the market. A dramatic loss of foundation assets could possibly have an effect on other things its

Even though business students at Stetson University, Deland, followed the same practice when they invested half of an almost $1 million fund in the market their portfolio still took a 18.8 percent dive last week.

The Roland George Investment Fund was established for the university's business school to allow students to make their own market decisions. The original donation to the fund was for $480,000, according to Dean Bill Wright, the dean of the university's business school. "The fund had grown to almost $1 million. but as of yesterday (Monday) we had lost about $61,000,"

Under the direction of the fund Stetaon students are free to invest the money as they see fit, which includes the opportunity to lose it all. Wright said the students, like the UCF Foundation, also had money invested in interest earning securities and bonds.

"Those (securities and bonds). of course, are doing well because of the stock market," Wright

He added that although the investment fund has been hit with the $81,000 loss last week. he still thinks that over the next few months the fund will not be badly hurt because of its other investments. He explained that when the students sell out of a particular stock it is reinvested in the securities and bonds that will earn interest and protect its portfolio from too much adversity from the stock market.

'Our position is reasonably good because our percentage loss last week was not as great as the market's." Wright said.

Past Sex Assault in Question

Whether a sexual assault occurred will be the key question at the trial of a suspended Longwood teacher accused of molesting a girl who was in his health class nearly six years ago.

Witnesses were expected to testify today during the trial for Bryon Clinger, 38, of 425 Wood Park Way. Monday jury selection was completed and opening statements made. The trial is before Circuit Judge O.H. Eaton

The alleged victim, now 18. has accused Clinger of assaulting her when she was 12 in December 1981. She was a student in his health class at Teague Middle School at the time. Clinger denies her accusa-

The teenager reportedly told sheriff's investigators that she met Clinger on June 4 of this year, and he allegedly made several statements to her about the alleged incident. That, she said, prompted her to report her allegations to authorities.

Assistant State Attorney Jeff Deen said in opening statements HOSPITAL that he thinks the facts will prove that Clinger tied the victim's hands and feet to a table when she came to his room after school and assaulted her.

Clinger, a teacher with the county for seven years, was suspended from his teaching position following his June arrest. When he was arrested, Clinger town), told the commissioners checks could be legally run on group home residents as long as the background information was a matter of public record.

The ordinance was drawn up after Colbert reviewed recommendations from a group homes commission formed to study the need for, and establishment of, group homes in Sanford. Under the ordinance, group homes would be permitted in Sanford for elderly persons, physically disabled persons, developmentally disabled persons, non-dangerous mentally ill persons and dependent children. Other provisions required by the ordinance include: city occupational lieguses for all group homes; • yearly fire inspections:

•a minimum distance of 1,500 feet between all facilities in single- and multi-family districts: no identification signs in single-family districts; •a minimum of 30-square-feet per resident of outside recreational space: •sufficient off-street parking lone space for every five residents and one space for every two staff members); and

•a maximum of four residents in single-family residential districts.

Abby Thinks She'll Never See A Poem So Many Say 'By Me'

DEAR READERS: is plagiarism really the best form of flattery? In any case, it's nothing new. Montaigne, the 16thcentury French essayist, had this to say about "borrowing" literary quotables: "I have gathered a bouquet of other men's flowers, and only the ribbon that binds them is my own."

Tuesday, Oct. 27, 1987-18

A reader signed "Going Crazy in Reno" sent the poem that began "Do not stand at my grave and weep," and asked me to help her find the author. I printed her letter, and more 'authors" surfaced than I can mention here. For example: DEAR ABBY: A very good friend of mine sent me your column from The Patriot Ledger in Quincy, Mass. May I modestly state that I am the author of the poem in question. I am 77 years old and have been a poet and journalist for the last 35 years. I wrote that poem in 1978 and titled it "Afterwards." John Wayne requested in his will that my poem be read at his graveside. I do hope that this will clear up the mystery of the origin of that poem.

NEAL B. TOOMEY, LOWELL, MASS.

DEAR ABBY: The poem sent to you by "Going Crazy in Reno" was written by me in 1971 while on an extended holiday in America. I gave it to the president of the Reno Chamber of Commerce while visiting Nevada. That poem was tentatively named "A Clown's Eulogy." Needless to say, I am amazed my work was used to the manner you have stated, and also very pleased that I have left something behind me besides

> WILLIAM ARTUS, VANCOUVER ISLAND. BRITISH COLUMBIA

DEAR ABBY: In regards to the poem sent in my "Going Crazy in Reno": The title is "I Am Not There," and I am the author. I composed the poems at Mr. Wayne's request in 1977 Yours in life.

ROBERTA BRAUN

DEAR ASSY: The poem "Do not stand at my grave" was written by Father Joseph Mohr of Obernsdorf, Austria, in 1819 when his brother, Elbert Mohr. was laid to rest. This beautiful poem was also read at another Mohr family member's funeral in Nuremburg, Germany, in 1899, and has become a popular eulogy since then. I am a great-grandnephew of the author, who also wrote "Stille Nacht" (Silent Night). AUTHOR'S RIN, CONN.

DEAR ABBY: The author you are looking for is John Neihart. poem laureate of Nebraska. That lovely poem is inscribed on the Nebraska State Capitol building in Lincoln. GEORGIA GRUBB, OMANA

DEAR ABBIT: My boss is a well-known minister in Atlanta. and he uses that poem for funeral services. He credits Lillian Bullard Ridgeway as the

VERA N. WADDELL DR. OZMENT'S SECRETARY

DEAR ABBY: "Going Crazy" will be relieved to learn that the author is Charles E. Hollingsworth, M.D. - a Los Angeles paychiatrist. I found the poem in The Family in Mourning" - a guide for health professionals. published in 1977. It was read at the funeral of a friend of mine.

REGINA THOSEPSON, WALHALLA, B.C.

DEAR ABSY: The other day I delivered a speech, which was well-received by the audience. First, let me say that I worked very hard for several weeks to prepare this speech.

I was introduced in the following way: "We had hoped to have Mr. Jones as our speaker today, but he had a previous engagement in another city. He recommended Mr. Smith, but, unfortunately. Mr. Smith was not available at this time, so he graciously agreed to send his assistant, Mr. Johnson. Please join me in welcoming Mr. Johnson 1

Although I had heard others introduced in this way, the impact of such an introduction never struck home until I was on the receiving end! As I have said. my speech was well-prepared and I worked hard on its presentation. Furthermore, I happen to be even better acquainted with the subject matter than either Mr. Smith or Mr. Jones a fact they both would readily have acknowledged. It seems to me that such an introduction was not only insulting to the speaker, it prepared the audience for a rather disappointing presentation. Am I being overly nenaltive?

IEURT IN WISCONSIN

DBAR MURT: Overly sensitive? Not at all. The insensitivity of the person who introduced you was appalling. Perhaps others will learn from reading this letter. I sincerely hope so.

DEAR ABBIT: I am 35 and in love with a man who is 17 years older than I am. (I'll call him Dale.) We have been living together for four years and have a beautiful son who is 7 years old. Dale and I are considering ; marriage. The problem is that his children (all adults) can't seem to accept me. They are constantly inviting him over for dinner parties (with their mon-there), but I am not invited. Dale feels that he has to accept every invitation because they are his children. I feel that he id wrong. Abby, I would not accept any invitation if Dale wasn't invited.

I am upset about this and need your advice, I can't go on living like this. Is Dale right to accept invitations from his children without including me? Sign me...? OUTSIDER IN LOUISIANA

DEAR OUTSIDER: You have chosen an appropriate signature insolar as Dale and his family are concerned. The fact that Dale is permitting his children to anub you should tell you something. They are No. 2 to his life! and probably always will be and MAMMOGRAPHY? Mammography is a simple X-ray examination of the breast to detect breast cancer before it can be detected by your own-examination or your doctor's examination. With breast self-examination it affords you the best chance to detect breast cancer early, while it's still surable.

WHAT IS SCREENING

The Breast Check network understands the needs of ladies to have a place to feel secure and private while having a mammogram. You'll find that our facilities meet these needs, if not surpassing. For a Breast Check, you don't need a physician's order. But remember, the Breast Check isn't for everyone, only those ladies who need a baseline or routine examination. If you have a new lump or other problem, sheek with your doctor or ask for a diagnostic examination, also available from the Breast Check network. The Breast Cheek screening examination .... $45.

Medicine Dosage May Be The Twitch Culprit

DEAR DR. GOTT - A couple of years ago I was diagnosed as having "bipolar affective disorder - mixed." I take 200 milligrams of Sinequan and 600 milligrams of lithium. I'm developing muscle jerks. When I have one of these spells I can't hold on to whatever is in my hands. Could my medicine be causing

DEAR READER - Bipolar affective disorders are the same thing as manic-depressive illness, in which a patient alternates between crushing depression and euphoria. The disorder is thought to be due to a chemical abnormality within the Lithium affects the metaboliam of brain substances called catecholamines. Although its precise role in alleviating the euphoria of bipolar disorders is unknown, the drug works well and has become a mainstay of psychiatrists' treatment of manic iliness. Sinequan, an anti-anxiety agent and anti-depressant, is extremely useful therapy for severe depression. Hence, lithium and Sinequan (dozepin) usually work well together in treating the emotional roller-coaster of bipolar disorders.

Unfortunately, one of the earliest signs of lithium toxicity is muscular weakness and lack of coordination. This may progress to giddiness and stumbling gait. Sinequan has also been reported to cause loss of coordination and difficulty walking. Therefore, in my opinion, either of your medicines could be causing your symptoms - although lithium is the most likely culprit. I doubt that your muscle jerks are the result of your emotional illness.

Explain your symptoms and concerns to your doctor. He or she will probably obtain a blood test to determine the lithium level in your body. If you have too much, the dose of medicine must be reduced. If the level is normal, the physician will surely adjust your medication schedule so that your unpleasant muscle twitches will be relieved.

DEAR DR. GOTT - The lymph node under my left armpit is much larger than the one on the right. Now one has turned dark. I'm 30; should I see

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

"I'm not very lucky today." bemoaned Willy Nilly. He had ducked the opening lead of the queen of clubs. When West continued the suit. Willy won the ace. He then played A-K of spades, ruffed his losing club with dummy's remaining trump. played to his diamond king and back to dummy's ace, and ruffed a third round of diamonds. When that suit failed to split, he exited with a trump, putting East on lead with no more clubs to play. So East had to play a heart. Unfortunately West had the K-J-10-3, and declarer could not escape losing two heart tricks for down one. Careful Charlie did better. He realized that since diamonds might well be 4-2, he needed to walt for the right time to use made his own good luck.

communication to the dummy. He won the second club with the ace, cashed A-K of spades, and then played K-A of diamonds and ruffed a diamond. Only now did he ruff his losing club in dummy, allowing him to ruff one more diamond to establish dummy's fifth diamond. He exited with a trump, putting East on lead with nothing left but hearts. On the forced heart lead. Charlie put up the queen but West covered with the king. However, dummy's heart ace and the good diamond provided the game-going tricks.

Yes, Willy Nilly was unlucky not to make the contract, since he would be OK if the heart king was right, even when he did not provide for a 4-2 diamond division, but Careful Charlle had

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

By Bernice Bede Osel YOUR BIRTHDAY OCTOBER 28, 1987

Conditions in general should be better for you than they have been for some time, but you mustn't coast and let valuable opportunities pass you by. Be productive.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Friends will not find you an enjoyable person to be around today if you behave like a know-it-all. It's better to understate your views than to overstate them. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences governing you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428. Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be extremely careful how you treat the possessions of that was loaned to you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.

19) Your judgment could be questionable in evaluating critcal career situations today. Don't view them as being more beneficial than they actually are.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't attempt a difficult project today if the co-workers you have at your disposal are as inexperienced as you are. Wait until you have competent help.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Manage your resources with prudence today. Don't dip into your cash reserves just to cater to a passing, extravagant whim. Save your nest egg for a rainy ARIES (March 21-April 19) Neither you nor your mate should try to pressure the other into complying with his or her wishes today. Agreements reached won't be acknowledged for very long.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

You're apt to be a slow starter today, and do more talking than producing. Also, avoid indifferothers today. For example, don't ent companions, because they'll loan something to someone else only slow you down more.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Conserve your physical, emotional and financial resources today. There are strong indications that you might deplete your supply in each area.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It will prove counterproductive to influence associates with flattery or bribes today. You'll only gain their allegiance by using a straightforward approach.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Sec things as they are today and evaluate situations realistically. Use your logic instead of depending upon hopes, hunches or VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) From time to time you tend to be overly generous with the undeserving and later suffer regrets. Today you might repeat this pattern.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll only be hurting yourself if you are lethargic today. Don't let something opportune pass you by because you're too indifferent to pursue t.
