WEST TOTAL NEAR MAXIMUM

On Sept. 1 the Fighting Troops There, He Figures, Reached 1,369 Batal-ions—Roumania's Entry Causes Swift Change.

With the French Armies.—The flux and reflux of the German forces on the western and eastern fronts, together with their rapid augmentation on either side whenever occasion called for an increase of effectives, have been now clearly set forth: The figures given refer to the various phases of the war, starting with the invasion of Belgium in August, 1914, going right through the allied offensives of 1915 and 1916, the German operations before Verdun, the movements on the Russian and Roumanian frontiers, and concluding with the position as it wason September 1 this year.

It will be seen that in 1914 the Germans threw onto the western front, including the army that forced its way through Belgium, 1,190 battalions of infantry; while on the Russian front, from which they did not await much activity, they left only 822 battallons. By September 1 this year these totals had been enormously raised, for on that date they had on the Franco-Belgian-British front no fewer than 1,369 battalions, while on the eastern front they had in position 965 battalions. Thus at the present moment they are employing 2,334 battalions on both fronts, whereas at the opening of hostilities only 1,512 were engaged.

From One 8lde to Other. glance at the totals of the battalions in line on the two fronts at different periods of the war is interesting. as showing how the principal effort of the Germans has swung from time to time from one side to the other.

The attack on Belgium and France absorbed the attention of the German staff when war broke out in August. 1914, and the Russian front was left to a very great extent to take care of itself. At that time the infantry effectives were disposed as follows: Divisions of

The battle of the Yser in November, 1914, caused the Germans to intensify their effort in the West. They brought up their effectives to a higher total there, but at the same time they were becoming rather anxious about the Russian front, and therefore added to the making the position as follows:

Verdun was the next great movement the Germans had in view, and in order to win a victory there they had ma, they have one child and a baby changed the disposition of their infantry effectives by bringing many divisions westward, so that the position in June, 1916, was:

Goldsmith's World-Wideness.

One of the most memorable things to be remarked in Goldsmith is the note of world-wideness which he introduced into literature. There is a total absence in him of local prejudice, which is in strong contrast with the vigorous and almost barbaric insularity of Johnson. He had once thought of emigrating to America, and would have done so but for one of those humorous incidents so common in his hapliazard

Apples Most Valuable Fruit. The apple is pre-empent in the household economy for no other fruit excels it in culinary associations. It graces the table in a far greater variety than any other fruit. Of all fruits grown in North America, the apple leads in amount and intrinsic value. No fear of an overproduction, bowever, if the means of transportation and distribution are perfected. What if we do raise 125,000 carloads of apples or 62,000,000 boxes a year? This is but half a box to a person not counting what we export. That isn't very many.

Prominent Physician Discusses Calomel

Dr. William Brady in an article about calomel in the Atlanta Constitution recently said:

"Calomel is a cathartic and a very crude and superfluous one. It produces no special effect upon the liver or upon the secretion of bile. It has no more influence over billiousness than any other active physic. It is just the ancient standby, cheaper than most other physics and retained in use because old dogs seldom learn new tricks."

As a substitute for a poison like talomel modern physicians prescribe purely vegetable cathartics. Martin's Liver Medicine does all the good calomel does without producting calomel's injurious effects. Martin's Liver Medicine is a standard proprietary preparation for constipation, sick headache and other stomach and liver troubles. Purely vegetable as to ingredients, pleasant in taste, mild in action and fully guaranteed. If not satisfied with it, take the empty bottle to your druggist and get your 50c back.

Try a dose or so of Martin's Liver Medicine when you feel that you need a liver regulator or a dose of physic. All good druggists sell Martin's Liver Medicine.
