SECRETARY MELLON CALLED MEETING OF COMMISSION ON DEBT FUNDING TERMS

TO MAKE PLANS PRESENTING TO CONGRESS THE NEW AGREEMENT

ACTED FAVORABLY

Upon By British Embassy and British Cabinet and All Seems Settled

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Secretary Mellon, chairman of the American Debt Funding commission called a meeting of the commission for later this afternoon to make plans for presenting to congress the American-British agreement accepted in London. The call followed official notification by the British embassy that the British cabinet had acted favorably on the American plan.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The cabinet council yesterday with unexpected promptitude, and almost without further debate decided to accept the American terms for funding the British debt and so far as known without reservations of any kind.

No official statement has been issued beyond the bare announcement or acceptance and if any reservations and counter proposals, they probably will become known after the ambassador at Washington has communicated the British government's decision to the state department.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Advices announcing the acceptance by the British cabinet of the American debt funding suggestions were received by official Washington with undisguised satisfaction. The feeling prevailed generally that a step toward breaking "the vicious cycle of world debts," had been taken and that the result would be a substantial improvement in world conditions.

On the basis of press dispatches which were supplemented later by a brief cable to the state department from Ambassador Harvey in London members of the American debt funding commission began immediate preparation for presenting the terms of the tentative settlement to congress.

Some further negotiations are expected to be necessary, however, since according to Mr. Harvey's cabled report, the British government agreed to the American suggestions "in principle." To what extent such an agreement may affect the suggestions carried back to London by Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, and his colleagues of the mission, was not known last night but it was believed in official circles that the major questions of interest rates and the plan for the amortization had been accepted by the British without change.

As a result of Mr. Harvey's cable message, it was stated officially, the plans would be made for a meeting of the American commission late today if a further report promised on details of the agreement was received from Mr. Harvey in time for decoding and transmission to the commission members. If further negotiations are necessary, they will be conducted with Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador, acting for his government.

Members of the American commission appeared to be divided as to the procedure to be followed in submitting the question of ratification of the agreement to congress. Some of them, including Secretary Mellon who is chairman, and Senator Snoot, Utah, and Representative Burton, Ohio, were represented as urging immediate changes in the law broadening the commission's power so it could complete the settlement.

It was understood that the president favored action by congress on a resolution by which congress could vote either to accept or reject the settlement most of the provisions of which are outside the present foreign debt funding act.

The American suggestions called for final payment of the nearly $5,000,000,000 debt in sixty-two years with interest rates of three per cent for the first ten years and three and one half per cent thereafter, and an amortization rate of one half of one per cent of the principal annually.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—It is authoritatively stated that officials of the British government consider the American terms for funding the war debt to have been completely accepted by yesterday's action of the British cabinet.

HENRY CLEWS DEAN OF BANKERS DIED YESTERDAY

ONE MOST PROMINENT BANKERS IN COUNTRY DIED AT AGE OF 51

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Funeral services for Henry Clews, financier, who died yesterday in his 53rd year will be held Saturday morning.

Henry Clews, "the dean of Wall Street," author and public speaker, for more than 50 years was one of the leading financiers in the United States.

Born in Staffordshire, Eng., on August 14, 1840, he was studying for the ministry as a young man when he accompanied his father on a trip to New York. He decided to enter mercantile life and some years after the panic of 1857 helped to organize the banking firm of Stout, Clews & Mason, which later became Livermore, Clews & Co. In 1877 the firm became Henry Clews & Co., which it has since remained.

Upon the outbreak of the civil war in 1861, Salmon P. Chase, secretary of the treasury, appointed Mr. Clews governmental financial agent for the sale of bond issues to prosecute the struggle. He was so successful that President Grant later appointed him as fiscal agent of the United States for all foreign governments. In this capacity he was an adviser in the organization of the modern financial system of Japan, a service for which in 1908 he was decorated as a commander of the Order of the Rising Sun.

Mr. Clews, who was a life long Republican, twice declined offers of the portfolio of secretary of the treasury, once the Republican nomination for mayor of New York, and once the collectorship of the port of New York. He always maintained an active interest, however, in organization of a patriotic, charitable, or educational character, including Ohio Northern University and the Metropolitan Civic Forum, of which he was a trustee, and the Richmond Hill (N. Y.) Settlement, of which he was treasurer and director.

He was also a director of the American Civic Alliance, the Japan Peace Society, the Royal Society of Arts of England, the American Chamber of Commerce of Paris, director of the International Peace Forum, president of the American Peace and Arbitration League, former president of the National Highways Protective Association, former treasurer of the American Geographical Society, and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. He was a founder of the Union League Club of New York and a member of the Turf and Field, Army and Navy, Economic, Union and Press clubs of New York, the Authors' of London, and the Boston City Club.

While the words "in principle" were used in informing both the American ambassador in London and the British ambassador in Washington, of the cabinet's action, this terminology was explained merely permits the British ambassador to continue unimportant details of the negotiations.

Closing Days Of The Revival Full of Interest

DR. KING AND MR. WOLSLAGEL HAVING HEARTIEST CO-OPERATION

With the approach of the closing days of the revival meetings at the First Baptist church the workers are bending every energy to accomplish the most good that is possible. Unsaved are being reached and the unaffiliated Baptist people in Sanford and the district are being visited with a view to impressing them to cast their lot with the local congregation. Dr. King and Mr. Wolslagel are having the heartiest co-operation on the part of the membership of the church here and are voicing their praise of the zeal that is being shown, especially by the officers and teachers of the Bible school and the deacons, of whom many are business men but who are putting things of the Kingdom first.

The auditorium was practically full at the service last night and the inspiring musical program and the forceful sermon were listened to with a very marked interest. There were three additions to the membership.

The congregational singing, according to the visiting baritone soloist and song leader, has been increasingly good and as a singer and people are becoming better acquainted there is a noticeable increase in volume and spirit.

A male quartet composed of Doyle Oliver, Warner Scoggins, Ed Henderson and Mr. Wolslagel sang some sacred words to a popular Hawaiian melody and made a decidedly strong impression last evening, while the favorite hymn of many, "Saved by Grace," written years ago by the blind but brilliant and consecrated Fanny Crosby, was feebly sung as a duet by Mr. E. T. Woodruff and Mr. Wolslagel, the tenor and baritone voices of these musicians blending into almost perfect harmony. They will sing again at the meeting tonight.

The solo of the meeting was a request number and Mr. Wolslagel showed unusual interpretative ability and range of voice in the rendition of it. "The Heart that Was Broken For Thee," a selection "I'll Be True," by the now splendidly working adult choir, also added to the helpful and attractive music of the evening.

"The Man Who Made the Greatest Discovery of All Time," was the subject of the sermon by Rev. Dr. King. In part he spoke as follows: "The discovery of one new truth may lift the discoverer into an entirely new life, and may transform a nation. The discovery that the earth was not flat has changed the history of humanity. The discovery that the voice by means of electricity may be heard for miles around has marvelously quickened the tides of commerce and has added to the rapidity of our living."

"The Apostle Paul thought that Christ's career was ended. He was dead, and he was determined to put an end to the movement which he had created. It makes all the difference in the world whether or not the leader is dead or alive. The death of Mr. Russell has been the beginning of the end of the cult known as Russellism. General Foch was the leader needed by the Lord in the recent World war but if he had fallen when the German tides were moving toward Paris with such great strength and fury the results of those memorable days might have been different. Christ is not dead, and Matthew, the tax gatherer, Luke, the physician, and Peter, the fisherman, were not deprived of His leadership. We are today not called upon to follow a dead

Must Have License Tags on All Cars From This Time On

SHERIFF HAND AND HIS DEPUTIES, AND MOTOR POLICE ARE ON THE JOB TODAY

The time has passed when the sheriff and his deputies and the county motorcycle policemen and the city officers will request that you get that 1923 license tag. You have had one month and your time is up, and the police and the deputies are on the trail of everyone this morning who drives down town without any license tags. They are very nice and polite about it, however, and they are not going to be mean about the matter even though the time is up. Several who have their tags failed to put them on the cars this morning and some have not received the tags ordered. Wherever this occurred and the matter was explained to the officers allowed the car owners to go in peace, but tomorrow—Oh boy—look out. Sheriff Hand intends to enforce the law and every car must have his license tag so get busy and get it now.

ROTARY CLUB HAD VISIT WITH GOVERNOR

NIGHT MEETING WAS GRACED BY PRESENCE OF PORTER PIERPONT

The Sanford Rotary Club had a fine meeting last night at the Valdez Hotel where they enjoyed the usual Rotary songs and Mine Host Canteen served the usual collation. The guest of honor was Porter Pierpont, of Savannah, who is the district governor of Rotary for this district. He is paying his annual official visit to every Rotary club in the district and on account of this fact the regular meeting Tuesday was postponed to last night. Mr. Pierpont is a Rotarian of many years of experience and the district made a wise selection in giving him this important office. He not only knows Rotary but he practices the Rotary principles in his business and private life and he is filled with the great spirit of imparting his knowledge to others.

He made one of the finest talks on Rotary last night that the local club has ever heard and brought the practical side of Rotary before the members in such a way that they could not fail to grasp the fundamental principles of this great organization. Mr. Pierpont held a meeting with the board of governors after the meeting and went over the year's work with them and commended them upon many features of their program and also gave them good advice upon some of the features which had not been touched upon by the local club. His visit here was an inspiration for the members of the local club for he is so interested in the Rotary work that he never fails to interest other people in the work and the great work of International Rotary in all parts of the world is bearing fruit.

The Rotary members regret that Mr. Pierpont cannot remain over here one day to take in this entire section of the country but he has promised to come back some time and spend a few weeks here.

One of the pleasant features of his visit here was the fact that he and President D. L. Thrasher had been school mates together at Stetson University some twenty-five years ago and they spent some time renewing old acquaintances and talking about their school days. Mr. Pierpont is a successful crate manufacturer in Savannah when he is not engaged in Rotary work and is one of the prominent business men of Georgia.

JAMES MOUGHTON APPOINTED CITY SANITARY INSPECTOR

City Manager Ryan yesterday appointed James Moughton as City Sanitary Inspector, following out the idea of the city commissioners to have a cleaner and better city and Mr. Moughton will take up his new duties at once. Mrs. R. L. Jones, who has a fine farm on Beardall avenue has gone in for strawberries this season and is having wonderful success with them. The editor of the Herald was presented with a box of these berries yesterday and they were as fine as have ever been raised in this section. It seems that the Sanford section is well adapted for the culture of strawberries as this season has proved.

MONT REILLY WILL RETIRE FROM SERVICE

AS GOVERNOR OF PORTO RICO WHERE HE IS STORMY PETREL

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Early retirement from office of E. Mont Reilly, whose administration as governor of Porto Rico has been attended by continual controversy in and out of the island was forecast in official quarters here. Secretary of War Weeks said because of the condition of Reilly's health "he may not stay" in Porto Rico although it is still his intention to return there.

Kiwanis Club Has Great Meeting

Grand Dad Neal, the Fourth Estater, Absent, But Meeting Met

The Kiwanis Club, after a week of visitation with the Chamber of Commerce and a week of "Ladies' night" met in regularly constituted convention at the fill room of the Valdez Hotel yesterday.

After Divine blessing had been asked by Reverend Brownlee, the membership proceeded to imbibe most freely of the cocktails that furnished the opening course of the several course dinner. The latter act was beautifully timed to the tunes of a serenade furnished by the uninvited Jenkins' Orphanage Dark and Dusky Musicians, who furnished alleged music throughout the eventful occasion. Some bright Kiwanian, after the meeting thought to tell the Musicians that it was against Kiwanian rules to take up a collection at a luncheon, and the wrath of the directors of said musicians was called on the B. K. for not having dispensed the information prior to the serenade.

There was painful silence during the meeting and the cause was not discovered until the name of Grand Dad Neal was announced in roll call, and then—well he was among the missing, and Forest not having G. D. N. to ball out brought on the silence.

In spite of all the aforesaid mentioned draw backs President Sharon had some excellent reports of the several committees—putting into effect his announced program of having committee reports every meeting.

The committee on activities reported much progress in several matters. The Committee on Civic Affairs had quite a report with reference to the utilities of the city, and from this report it appears that the public ownership of the utilities is not far distant. In this connection Mayor Lake advised that soon a survey of the water supply and the possibilities of public ownership of the utilities would be made under direction of the commission.

At the suggestion and invitation of Mayor Lake the committee on civic affairs was directed to meet with or have representatives meet with the city and county commissioners at each regular meeting and offer advice or friendly criticism, and assist the two commissions in any way that would suggest itself in a real democratic administration of the civic affairs of both city and county.

WENT INTO EFFECT AT MID-NIGHT AND WILL BE ENFORCED STRICTLY

From the Germans Up to Early Afternoon and Trouble May Be Averted Now

(By The Associated Press) DUSSELDORF, Feb. 1.—An order prohibiting the exporting of coal or coke from the Ruhr to unoccupied Germany has been in force since midnight last night. There has been no reaction from the Germans up to early this afternoon. The French announced that should Germany fail to come to terms, interdiction upon exports will be extended to steel, iron and other manufactured articles now permitted to Germany.

The Franco-Belgian grip on the Ruhr is tightening. The occupational authorities have seized the entire customs of the Ruhr valley and have shut off all shipments of coal from the Ruhr to occupied Germany.

A serious situation has arisen at the mines. Only about half the normal output is being brought to the surface and the supply of cars for the transportation of the coal is fast diminishing. Though the output is small, coal is accumulating at the pit heads and the French admit that this may cause suspension of operations within a few days.

The German railroad men who went on strike are displaying a determined front; they refuse to work and the traffic is tied up.

Essen has been shut off by reason of the severing of telegraph and telephone communication and the scarcity of food throughout the Ruhr regions is becoming more acute.

Herr Stinnes has discontinued German deliveries for the devastated area of France. Gold marks to the amount of 500,000,000 due on the reparations account, have not been paid by Germany. Therefore, unless Germany makes a satisfactory response to the latest notification of France and Belgium, those powers have decided to take still more rigorous measures than have yet been put into effect.

DUSSELDORF, Feb. 1.—Seizure of the Ruhr customs by the French; the low level of coal production reached; the practical disappearance of empty coal cars from the region, threatening a complete stoppage of work at the mines within a few days; the cutting of the Cologne-Berlin trunk telegraph and telephone cable lines at several places around Essen, completely isolating the city from the outside world, and a more acute scarcity of food—these were the developments of the twenty-first day of Franco-Belgian occupation.

On their hand, calm has apparently been restored so far as outward demonstrations are concerned.

The taking over of the customs by the French is the most severe economic blow attempted since they entered the Ruhr. M. Filippi, the French chief of the Ruhr customs, avers that the defections of the personnel of the German functionaries amount to only about 40 per cent; these were immediately replaced and work proceeded normally. The Germans declare that more than 70 per cent of their customs staff walked out and insist that the French will not be able to handle collections.

A visit to the Duisburg central custom house disclosed little congestion; business was somewhat slower but the French are keeping the doors open for two hours additional with the French staff and such Germans as volunteer, in order to transact the daily business without undue delay.

British Government Receives Such a Note From France Today

(By The Associated Press) LONDON, Feb. 1.—The British government received a note from France the substance of which is France reserves the right to undertake separate negotiations with Turkey in the event the Lausanne conference fails. The opinion was expressed in official circles that the events of the past twenty-four hours appear to have put the French note in abeyance. News from Lausanne indicates great hope that the conference will prove successful.

LAUSANNE, Feb. 1.—The Russian delegation to the Near East conference announced at a meeting of the Straits Commission the Russians would not sign convention providing for control of Dardanelles and Bosphorus.

The All Souls Dramatic Club presented a serio-comedy drama last spring in Sanford with the above title which was received on all sides with popular acclaim. The club was highly complimented on the unique production and many petitions came to give another performance. The play was given to a packed house and some had to go away who found standing room impossible. The summer was on and other conditions made a repetition impracticable at that time.

A spirited game of bridge was played during the evening, and when scores were counted, the prize for high score among the ladies, silk hose, was awarded Mrs. D. L. Thrasher. The men's prize, silk socks, went to R. A. Newman.

Following the game the guests were invited into the dining room for refreshments, the table being centered with a crystal basket filled with sweet peas. Delicious refreshments consisting of broiled crawfish, a salad course and coffee were served.

Substituting for absent club members were Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Drummond, Mrs. George DeCottes, Mrs. C. E. Henry. The regular members present were Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Newman, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Thrasher, Mr. and Mrs. George Knight, Dr. Puleston and Dr. Ralph Steveng.

THE RETURN OF MILES O'ROURKE REPEATED
The All Souls Dramatic Club presented a serio-comedy drama last spring in Sanford with the above title which was received on all sides with popular acclaim. The club was highly complimented on the unique production and many petitions came to give another performance. The play was given to a packed house and some had to go away who found standing room impossible. The summer was on and other conditions made a repetition impracticable at that time.

All imports of narcotics are to be halted, says a dispatch today. It is about time they were halted. With a flood of all kind of dope coming into this country the stoppage of booze is a joke.

The British have accepted the terms of the United States for debt funding. For a time we thought it would be spelled R-E-F-U-N-D but it looks now like they can get together and all will be peace and prosperity again in Anglo-Saxon circles.

A bootlegger at Waycross arrested yesterday with a truck load of booze paid his fine of $3,000, redeemed his truck minus the booze and left for Florida to get another truck load of booze. O, rum where is thy power—O, prohibition officers, where is thy sting?

President Harding and Mrs. Harding are coming to Florida and as they have been invited to visit Sanford they will no doubt take advantage of this opportunity of coming to the City Substantial. We are quite sure President Harding would never think of passing by Sanford without paying the Daily Herald office a visit.

That story of a school boy in Chicago committing suicide because he had become a dope fiend at school is pathetic. It is also rotten, if true. It also shows where this country is getting. It also shows that while millions are being spent to stop the booze business that the door on narcotics is wide open and the dope peddlers are doing business at the same old stand. If dope was made prohibitive except in extreme cases and everyone using it should be made to show why they used it and where and if the dope sellers were given life sentences there would be a stoppage of this dope business.

BRYAN HERE TODAY

We are honored today by a visit from William Jennings Bryan, the greatest American of his time—and one of whom all Florida is proud. Mr. Bryan is a Florida citizen now and being a Florida citizen he is throwing his heart and soul into the campaign for a Recreation building at Florida University. Everyone in Sanford should hear him today at the Princess theatre and give him the glad hand of welcome. Mr. Bryan visited Sanford some thirty-five years ago when his sweetheart and now his wife was visiting friends where the Pitts house now stands on the lake front or what is called Union avenue. Mr. Bryan has been here several times since and he has a warm spot in his heart for Sanford. Give him a rousing welcome today and make him feel that Sanford is really one of his Florida homes.

FREAK LEGISLATION

The speaker of the New Hampshire legislature is making war upon "freak legislation." A similar war could be carried on to advantage in most legislative bodies.

Four bills recently introduced in the New Hampshire legislature were the immediate cause of the speaker's ire. One proposed to make eight hours of sleep compulsory for everybody. Another provided for the appointment of a commission to investigate all homes to determine if they are happy. A third provided that no woman should marry her grandmother's son. The fourth ordained that the Ku Klux must call no meetings unless authorized by the League.

These measures are no more freakish than many which have been proposed and passed in some state or other, or at best have been the subject of time wasting discussion before they were thrown out. As the people generally take more interest in public affairs there is a growing tendency to "have the law" on everything and everybody, and the amount of ill-judged legislation proposed on every hand increases accordingly.

It is time someone arose to check the stream. There are too many vital matters which can and should be the subjects of legislation for profitless irrelevancy to be encouraged.—Jacksonville Journal.

SOME SIDELIGHTS ON SALARIES OF EXECUTIVES

During recent months various discussions and heated arguments have been heard concerning the salaries paid to railway executives. It has been contended that the men who are today directing the operation of the great railway systems of the country are receiving remuneration out of all proportion to the services rendered.

This much may be said as a general observation, that as things are today, the life of a railway executive is not an easy one. There comes to mind the same old story of mind in which men find themselves; those in the lowly walks envious of those in the more exalted stations; those in positions requiring great mental exertion and trying, nervous strain, envious of the men and women whose day's work is done when the whistle blows, who go to their homes with never a care in the world except to wonder what to do until the day's work begins the next morning. These are standard types—in between the struggling mass of humanity, with mind engrossed either in getting enough of this world's goods to keep body and soul together or amassing more wealth to be added to that already hidden away and which must be left behind when the last call comes.

Frankly and honestly, there cannot be found any person of sane mind and good judgment who is anxious to step into the shoes of the most prominent railway executive in the land. Being a railway head does not bring happiness in itself; neither does the shunting of cars and the throwing of switches. It is the opportunity for service, the ability to put into the work whatever it may be, that spirit of co-operation that alone can lift the world out of the depths. If we go at our tasks grudgingly, sourly, lazily, we miss the point, we have the wrong angle, we do not think straight, we are without motive.

But referring again to the practical side of this salary argument, it is to be noted that the salaries of $50,000 or more given in the list published in the Senate committee's report, aggregate $1,500,000 a year. According to the statistics submitted, this was one cent out of every $45 the railways carried in 1921. The statement goes on to say further that if the amount paid the executives had been diverted to the employes, it would have meant an increase of less than one dollar per individual during the year.

While holding no brief for the high salaried railway worker, it must be confessed that the job is not the easiest in the world, so we get back to the proposition that the only incentive for a young man in aspiring to a position of this kind, is the pride of achievement plus the opportunities afforded for a very wide range of useful service in the world.

High salaries cannot buy contentment and happiness.—Lakeland Telegram.

COL. W. J. BRYAN FOSTERING A GREAT CAUSE

Col. W. J. Bryan is performing a great service for the cause of Christian education in Florida. With characteristic energy he has given himself unreservedly to the campaign to raise $250,000 for the erection of the proposed student activities building at the state university at Gainesville.

An official of the university said to the writer, discussing Mr. Bryan's acceptance of the chairmanship of the general committee that when he was first approached on the subject he stated that he could not spare the time from engagements already made; but, as he obtained a better understanding of the uses to which the proposed building will be put and the deficiencies of the equipment of the university, he not only consented to conduct the campaign at his own expense, but volunteered a subscription of $500. After he had delivered several appeals Mr. Bryan said; he did not think he had done enough for the cause, and he doubled his subscription. Yesterday, after his address in Bradenton, Mr. Bryan said he had determined to give $500 more to the fund, making his subscription $1,500. "We fear that if the campaign is extended Mr. Bryan will attempt to provide the whole fund," said the speaker.

Mr. Bryan is apparently at the very prime of his physical and mental development. While he has passed the meridian of life there seems no deterioration of his wonderful power as an orator, nor of his ability for great physical endurance. Tuesday he delivered four addresses, speaking at three widely separated places and traveling in an automobile over very rough roads, but last night he was as fresh and as forceful as if he had just returned from a vacation.

In gratitude for the great service he is rendering the new building shall be named "Bryan Hall."

The quota was Tampa was asked to contribute to this noble cause should be raised easily.

say, or thought they did, through their councilman for their particular district. They do not seem to be able to adjust themselves to the one man or three men from at large to manage municipal affairs for them.

A modern city is a bigger piece of machinery than was a city of the same population thirty years ago. That it requires a more expert engineer than was required thirty years ago seems scarcely debatable. Modern invention, and the progress of the age has thrown new burdens upon community life that makes city government more intricate, and it involves many grave questions. The traffic question alone has changed the entire drift of city government. Not alone in preserving life against injury, but in preparing streets for the free passage of this enlarged traffic. Sanitation has assumed large importance and public lighting is more universal and extensive. The well has disappeared from the back yard and the town pump is only a memory. Activities that once centered in each individual home, are now given over to the public, and we expect that our public representatives will administer these utilities to our individual liking and convenience.

We are like a big family of children. Except that instead of quietly and cheerfully bowing to the government that father and mother have constituted for our home, and instead of gratefully eating from the general table they spread before us each day, we whine and find fault and want to turn off the heat and get another more to our individual liking. In other words, we want to boss the job ourselves. Now, if, like in the home, there was some one officially designated to box our ears when we get too saucy, or qualified to give us a dose of salts when our lives are a little sluggish, it is possible that we would have less fault to find with our city government, whether council, commission or manager form.—Reporter Star.

The farther we get away from the democratic form of government, the more serious become our problems and the more disturbing become political discussions. In America people want their say. American democratic government began with the town meeting. It is hard to get away from that notion.

We have so long been accustomed to retifying the questions of state in the corner grocery store and in the town hall that we cannot adjust our eyes to the commissions and bureaus or made over by so-called experts who tell us what we want and when we need it.

Every state in the union is fighting to get away from commission and bureau domination. And in Washington congressmen and department heads just go visiting or lecturing while commissions and bureaus run the government, even to the writing of speeches for the Congressional Record which congressmen are supposed to have made.

Now there is cumulative evidence that people want to return to the old town meeting as a means of discussing community affairs, and it looks as though the city manager plan of government is going to fail for the very reason for which it was recommended—because it takes the power to talk and to boss from the people. We do not want to surrender our prerogative of managing the city from the street corner and the back office room or the corner grocery. No city manager, no matter how expert, seems to be able to weather the storm two years.

At Miami his life was about six months. At St. Petersburg about a year ago the voters recalled their mayor and elevated to the throne one of the most prominent and respected citizens. Now there is a clamor for his recall. At Lakeland the new commissioners had hardly gotten their chairs warmed until there was a demand for their recall. In Ocala where the legislature passed a bill enabling a city above 3,000 to assume the city manager plan only one city—Michigan City—voted to institute that form of government. Now in less than a year the people of that city are demanding his resignation or recall.

What is the meaning of all this? No one knows unless it is that American spirit where each individual demands a voice in public affairs where the loudest noise seems to lead the populace. When we had the old city councils with the city divided up into districts, with a representative from each district—the people had their own voice, and they were heard. They were not afraid to speak their minds, and they were not afraid to vote. They were not afraid to elect a man to office, and they were not afraid to recall him. They were not afraid to elect a man to office, and they were not afraid to recall him.

They were not afraid to elect a man to office, and they were not afraid to recall him. They were not afraid to elect a man to office, and they were not afraid to recall him.

They were not afraid to elect a man to office, and they were not afraid to recall him. They were not afraid to elect a man to office, and they were not afraid to recall him.

They were not afraid to elect a man to office, and they were not afraid to recall him. They were not afraid to elect a man to office, and they were not afraid to recall him.

THOSE JAZZ TUNES

Oh, jazzy tunes are right in style; they seem to play them by the mill, where ever I chance to trek. This clatter-clatter, jigg-jagg junk—of all the music it's most punk and should be canned by heck. Time was when music soothed my soul and I was merry as King Cole—but such days are no more—nowdays real tunes are out of date, all they do now is syncope and it's a heastly bore. There is no music in such rot and I could take a healthy swat at those who grind it out; I'd knock 'em north and galley west and boost 'em just beneath the vent and maybe bruise a snout. Oh, ye who write the nation's tunes, hark back about two dozen moons—or maybe sixty-eight—and give us stuff like you wrote then; you'll prove a friend to jazz-slek men and mitigate their fate. I'm sick of all this dizzy dope and fervently I pray and hope it soon will run its course; and when that happy day is here I'll toss my lid aloft and cheer until my voice is hoarse. Melodious tunes are restful things and good for populi or kings, they soothe the tired brain; but oriental jagaron should by musicians be taboo. Oh, give us music sane. Uncle Dud.

FABLE OF THE SICK DOCTOR There was once a Prominent Physician, whose fame was the talk of the whole country. Patients came to him from all quarters of the globe. Naturally his prices were somewhat high, but he was the fashion, and everyone knows that Fashion's cost kale.

So he prospered, and his bank roll grew apace, and even faster. He was a wise old owl, and discovered many new and deadly diseases, that were never even thought of before he became famous.

Patients came to him with the utmost belief in his power, and as a result they were in the right frame of mind to receive his suggestions, and advice.

Rich matrons, and flip flappers, flocked up to his magnificent offices in their Rolls Royces, and were painlessly relieved of a large juicy portion of the family plate. In return they were informed that they had diabetes, or gout, and were given certain exercises to perform.

As a matter of fact this bird used more sound common sense than any real knowledge of medicine, for he was a very ordinary M. D.

But as time went on, he began to believe that he was clever. He admitted this without a blush, even to himself, and his hatter had perforce to increase the size of the sweatbands in his topknot. He put on such airs of profundity, that patients were awed in his presence.

Of course he was able to pack his suitcase, and he took good care to take on only those he was sure would respond to his treatments. And in the course of time he gradually forgot what little he ever knew about the art of healing. He would make a long impressive diagnosis, and then a powerful Latin name to the result, and send the patient away, from in the belief that it was but a matter of a few days before every little old crump would be as fit.

Now it so happened that this Dr. suddenly took real sick himself, and was forced to take to his downy couch. At first he decided that he would send for a good medic, but on reflection he thought that such a course of action might possibly hurt his reputation, so he tried to rack his own brain for a suitable remedy for his indisposition. He had been pruned so long, and so often that he really believed that he must possess some subtle power over mere bodily ills, and he set about curing himself.

But alas, and slack, he grew steadily no better. As a matter of plain truth he rapidly got worse. Then fearing that he was about to shuffle off he called in a whole flock of M. D.'s. The unanimously voted that he was in dire danger of passing out because of a leaky heart. This so enraged the Doc that he rose up in anger from out his bed, and cursed them roundly for a pack of fools. The funeral was held from the family residence three days later.

Boxes of American grits are passing as currency in Georgia, Armenia, Azerbaijan and the Russia of the Caucasus. The laborers of these countries will not take a job to be paid in currency of the country, but 120,000 of them are laboring earnestly on road-building, farming and sanitation for two and a half pounds of grits a week. This is said to be worth more than a basket of rubles.

Automobiles Must Have New License Tags in Orlando

(By The Associated Press) Traffic congestion will not be the only work confronting Orlando motorists today. Sheriff Francis Karel and his dashing deputies are out with the announced intention of arresting all drivers whose machines are not displaying 1923 license plates.

Dputy Sheriff P. M. Mosely declared the ultimatum yesterday, declaring that no favoritism will be shown. Arrests will be made just as often as the sheriff's forces see green, which is the color of the antiquated 1922 licenses. A reporter counted several automobiles decorated in green parked near the courthouse while the deputy was delivering his oration on the evils of not complying with the law. If the machines are parked there today there is likely to be trouble.

The sheriff's office explained that the state law requires a change in license plates January 1. Because of difficulty in obtaining the plates from Tallahassee this year the sheriff decided to allow thirty days of grace. Several days ago the sheriff's office was notified that all applications for licenses were handled easily at the capital and the state comptroller wrote Mr. Karel that if anybody didn't have a license by February 1 it would not be the fault of the state officials.

Other counties, according to the sheriff, began making arrests for violation of the license law some time ago. That is another good reason why no leniency will be shown Orange county motorists, it was said.

The usual penalty for failure to have the required license on automobiles is a fine plus payment of the costs of prosecution.—Orlando Sentinel.

(By The Associated Press) SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 1.—With the resumption of the grand jury inquiry into the death of Fritz Hann, dancer, rumors were current that an indictment would be returned. DEATHS

MRS. GEORGE KELLER DIES AT ORLANDO

All Orlando was shocked and deeply grieved this morning at the news that Mrs. George Keller had passed away, at her home in Lucerne Court, her death occurring at about 3 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Keller has been very ill for some weeks, and even her family had lost hope for several days past, and death came like a gentle sister of sleep, with all its healing touch.

Mrs. Keller was Elizabeth Farris, the daughter of Mrs. J. E. Farris, who makes her summer home in Kentucky and spends her winters here. Mrs. Keller was a Kentuckian, born in Danville, April 6, 1896, and had all the charm that has made the daughters of Kentucky famous. She was educated at the college at Stanfert, in her native state, and on May 19, 1889, she was married to Mr. George Keller, and to them three children were born, one son, who died in infancy, and the others are Mrs. Louis Dolive and Mr. J. Farris Keller, who, with one grandson, Jack, survive her.

The old Hindus had the belief that a newly-released soul took the form of a flower, as their deeds called for. The flower worth of receiving this newly-fled soul would be a lily graceful, fair, for her beauty of character was beyond compare. Tenderness and gentleness were her characteristics, and her influence on all about her was like the attar of roses, which perfumes the room though the bottle be hidden.

The funeral services will be very simple, only a prayer at the home and another at the grave in Greenwood cemetery. The services will take place at 3 o'clock, with Dr. McConnell in charge.

The pallbearers are all young men, for in heart, in looks, and in deed, Mrs. Keller had the beauty of perpetual youth. These pallbearers are Marinn Ives, Jenkins Dolive, Allison Palmer, Leiper Branham, Ed. Holvey and Tom Brodwater. Undertaker Hand will be in charge of the arrangements.—Orlando Reporter-Star.

George Keller is well known in Sanford where he visits as the representative of the Mergenthaler Linotype Co.

SHIP BUILDING INDUSTRY IN FLORIDA SHOWS GOOD FIGURES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Twenty-seven shipbuilding establishments in Florida reported to the Bureau of Census that their products for the year 1921 (cor) totalled $5,000 or more, according to a statement issued by the department of commerce. The term products refers only to the value of work done by them during the year, and not to the value of the completed vessels, the statement explained. Neither do the figures embrace work done in the federal shipbuilding plants.

Florida ranked with Washington state in sixth place in the number of shipbuilders reporting values of $5,000 or more for the year. The total value of the work for 1921 amounted to $400,384,000 which was a 75.3 per cent decrease as compared with the year 1919, the commerce department reported. The country's shipbuilding products for that year totalled $1,662,361,000. The 1921 aggregate exceeded by 115.7 per cent, however, the figure for 1916 when it totalled $186,852,000.

Those states which came ahead of Florida in reporting shipbuilding products of $5,000 or more were: New York 112, New Jersey 60, California 55, Massachusetts 39, and Maine 32. There were 216 establishments reporting products valued at less than $5,000 but the department did not divide them into states.

VALUABLE GEMS STOLEN

(By The Associated Press) MIAMI, Feb. 1.—Jewelry valued at $250,000, the property of Mrs. David C. Joyce, a millionaire Chicago lumberman, was stolen yesterday. It is believed the jewels were stolen from Mrs. Joyce's bedroom at the Joyce winter mansion last night while the family was at dinner in the dining room on the lower floor, but the loss was not discovered until Mrs. Joyce went to get the jewels in the afternoon.

An entrance had been gained to the bedroom by climbing a lattice-work and cutting through a window screen. The jewels were not insured.

Meighan Laughs Last

Star Proves Saying is True in "Back Home and Broke"

That he laughs best who laughs last is familiar philosophy, but one doesn't fully appreciate the much quoted saying until after one has seen Thomas Meighan in "Back Home and Broke," his new Paramount picture which will have its first showing at the theatre Friday and Saturday of this week. When Mr. Meighan, as the hero after going away to make good in the West returns to the old town an apparent failure even the newspapers can't resist the temptation to greet him sarcastically. But "Tom" had something up his sleeve and he comes across with a knockout. The picture abounds with human interest and humor, well mixed. Mr. Meighan is supported by a worthy cast, headed by Lila Lee.

Old Fashioned Doctor Has Nothing on Men Teaching Agriculture

Two Men At Plant City Have Eight Surrounding Schools

(By The Associated Press) TALLAHASSEE, Feb. 1.—The old-fashioned country doctor who pushed his horse-drawn buggy across the streams and over poorly-travelled trails by the light of a lantern, had nothing on the agricultural teachers who work under the state board of vocational education, according to Shelton J. Phillips, director. Mr. Phillips cited the agricultural work now being carried on in and out from Plant City. The vocational board maintains two teachers, O. J. Peacock and J. R. Gunn, at Plant City, he asserted, whose territory covers eight schools in that section. Although their daily routine embraces the teaching of some 60 boys in the plant city high school and the supervision of part time agricultural courses in the eight surrounding schools their full undertaking carries them through the country for nocturnal community forums or lectures.

Messrs. Peacock and Gunn each take four of the eight rural schools and in this way each school is visited once a week. The students there carry on what is known as the junior agricultural project. The Plant City boys receive daily instruction and seven acres have been set aside for them on which they can farm to their hearts' full content. Under the supervision of the agricultural teachers the Plant City boys cultivate profitable plots, as do on a smaller scale those out in the country.

The rural schools visited are located at Turkey Creek, Mount Enon, Spring Head, Cork Academy, Pilot, Brandon, Seffner and Dorner.

In one year, all of the agricultural teachers working under the board visited 1,491 adult farmers, Mr. Phillips said in explanation of the scope of their work. They are equipped with automobiles, he explained, and in addition to their regular school work, they go through the country, stopping here and there to help Mr. Farmer in working out some problem. Maybe Fetsy has gotten contrary, or maybe a certain product is falling off in its yield. It becomes the lot of the teacher to sit down with Mr. Farmer and if possible devise some treatment for the stubborn cow or the unproductive crop. As he goes along on his rounds he finds that the farmers of one community are interested in a particular subject. He forthwith organizes a community forum. A certain night and place is selected, usually at some residence, and ill interested parties gather there. Some of the teachers are provided with moving picture machines while others have magic lanterns, according to Mr. Phillips. If a "screen" doesn't happen to be a part of the teacher's equipment the family sheet is removed from its accustomed place and with out any ado the forum is under way. The family sheet depicting the "moving" version of the subject under discussion. Some of the teachers, however are not provided with either magic lantern or motion picture machines so they merely hold forth in the position of chairman. Their policy is to teach by developing the community knowledge rather than instructing, Mr. Phillips explained.

The agricultural projects managed by the school boys are traced fully by an efficient bookkeeping system, according to Mr. Phillips. In an ordinary ledger the student records how much he pays himself for labor or the amount he pays someone else for it; other expenditures; sums realized from the sale of his product, and the like. In one department of the ledger under the head of "remarks" the student agriculturist makes comment on his work as he goes along. These remarks bear later on the success or the non-success of his undertaking and are made a part of the discussions in school.

Vocational centers similar to the one maintained at Plant City and from which the teachers work out into the country, are maintained at Gonzales, Altha, Bonifay, Fort White, Green Cove Springs, Jasper and Madison, according to Director Phillips.

Evidence Increases For Show Down on Shipping Bill

Administration Forces Will Use Powers to Bring It To a Head

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—There were increasing evidences today that President Harding and the administration were preparing to use the full forces of their influence to insure a show down on the shipping bill at this session of congress. While the Republican senate leaders were renewing efforts to speed up legislation to get the ship bill once more before congress, Chairman Lasker of the shipping board conferred with Harding and stated afterward that the president would insist on "no uncertain terms" on the vote before congress adjourned.
