Strike Halts Making Of Machineguns

Kelsey-Hayes Plant Workers Demand 5 Cent Increase In Hourly Wages

Construction For Navy Is Stopped

Representative Says Walkout Is To Enforce Closed Shop

DETROIT, Oct. 29.—A walkout of the night shift at Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Company Machine-gun plant halted production of weapons for military aircraft today.

The United Auto Workers (C. I. O.) demanded a minimum 5 cent hourly increase in three Detroit plants as an adjustment of the Plymouth unit.

In Bay City, Mich., a strike in the DePoe Boat & Motor Works halted work today on eight submarine chasers and mine sweepers being contracted for by the U. S. Navy under a $20,000 defense contract.

A C. I. O. representative said the strike was to enforce union shop demands and wages were not involved.

President Roosevelt said Tuesday he may ask Congress for legislation to curb strikes in defense industries by putting teeth in the government's voluntary mediation machinery.

This disclosure came at a press conference at John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, showed no signs of yielding to presidential demands that he call off a strike of 600,000 coal miners.

The president would not say whether he was considering legislation to force compulsory mediation, explaining that it first must be determined whether his emergency powers are adequate to cover methods which he may want to use in attacking defense strikes.

The authority is lacking, he said he might have to have legislation.

He flatly refused to discuss his impasse with Lewis. The mine leader, he said, had not replied to his third request made Monday night that the captive mines be reopened immediately. He professed not to know where Lewis will meet today with Myron C. Taylor, former chairman of U. S. Steel Corp., whom he designated to confer with the mine boss over the captive conflict.

The captive mines are so-called because their product goes to the general commercial market. The union shop means that all miners would have to become members of the union.

Lewis' unwilling attitude touched off a new drive in Congress for strike laws. Chairman Bailey (D-N. C.) of the Senate Commerce Committee, introduced an amendment to the pending neutrality revision bill which would classify defense strikes as acts of sabotage and subject violators to $10,000 fines and 10 years imprisonment.

Bellevue said the measure would curtail the captive mine walkout. It also would virtually outlaw picketing. It was believed too sweeping to have a chance of winning White House approval and congressional leaders are agreed that no strike restrictions can be passed without the President's backing.

County Growers To have Meeting Monday Evening

Group Will Discuss Selling Charges And Commissions

The Seminole County Agricultural Association will meet Monday in the Future Farmers Building at Seminole High School at 8:00 o'clock to give growers who handle produce through the State Farmers' Market an opportunity to discuss commission and selling charges.

A committee has been working for the past year to establish standard rates at the market and these men are prepared to meet with farmers of Seminole County to list proposed charges which will be presented to shippers, who in turn have made a prospective chart, Alex H. Johnson, secretary, stated.

The object is to reach an agreeable scale of charges between shippers and growers connected with the State Market which, according to Mr. Johnson, has never been reached before.

All members of the association may bring problems before the growers at this meeting and several general subjects will be discussed, the secretary revealed. However, the main purpose of the gathering is to settle the scale of charges.

Ordnance Workers Told They Are Vital

DETROIT, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The workers in the Navy's ordnance plants are as vital in national defense as the men on its battlehips, Secretary Knox asserted here Tuesday.

"If you were below deck in a battleship, you wouldn't think of shirking your duties under fire; you are in the same position now in this plant," he said in formally dedicating the new Hudson Motor Car Company naval armory.

"I want to tell you this with all the emphasis at my command," he said, in addressing approximately 1000 workers and a large group of naval officers and guests.

Knox called upon the workers to "give the lie in the teeth" to anyone who attempts to convince them they have a dispute over pay or any other grievance.

Fort Lauderdale Is Building Crash Boats

PORT LAUDERDALE, Oct. 29.—(AP)—A local boat yard will start work soon on an Army order for four 104-foot rescue vessels equipped as small float hospitals.

The rescue boats will be assigned chiefly for aviation crash service. They will contain life rafts, complete surgical dispensaries and other equipment to provide emergency hospitalization for flyers injured far from shore.

President Nominates Solicitor General

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The President has nominated Charles E. Hughes, former United States circuit judge, to be solicitor general.

Mr. Hughes has been a member of the Supreme Court since 1910. He was born in 1862 in New York City.

'Bombed' In New York Air Raid Drill

New York was treated in a bit of realism as two cars were "struck and demolished" by air bombs during a dress rehearsal of an emergency attack near LaGuardia airport. Air raid wardens are shown giving first aid before arrival of doctors who supervised removal of the "injured." The battered car? It was furnished by a used car dealer.

R. A. F. Flyer From Sanford Is Missing

Phil C. Stanley, co-owner of the Stanley-Rogers Hardware Company, received a telegram this morning from the Chief Air Staff in Ottawa, Canada, that his son, Harold, who has been attached to the Royal Air Force Bomber Command in England, is missing.

The Canadian office stated it had been advised from the Canadian Air Force (casualties) Office Overseas and that the young flyer is "missing on active service."

Sanford Dentists Aid In Organizing First Aid Class

As a part of the National Defense Program, the American Dental Association was asked to assist the government in handling the problem of teaching first aid to the general public through the local dentist and one of the graduates of the First Aid Methods course instructed by Robert H. Cullerton, national Red Cross field representative from Washington, state today.

The association in turn called upon various State societies and subcommittees to handle first aid instruction in local communities. In line with this nation-wide effort, Sanford dentists secured the services of Mr. Cullerton, in conjunction with the County Red Cross Chapter, Dr. Rucker explained.

"A group of public-spirited citizens were trained to teach junior, standard and advanced courses in first aid treatment, including Miss Maule Ramsey, Miss Irene Hinton, Miss Gladys Hinton, Mrs. Kathryn Morrison, Mrs. Joel Field, Mrs. Henry McLaughlin, Jr., Mrs. Helen Schultz, Russell Aljovers, Mrs. J. C. Traxler, Dr. L. D. Brown and myself," said Dr. Rucker.

Those persons gave their time and energy three hours each week-day evening during the 30-hour course the dentist pointed out and the organization of general classes in first aid is in progress, which is being done as a "patriotic service" by the teachers with no remuneration expected.

"The appalling rate of accidental fatalities makes knowledge of first aid invaluable to the general public. Should an emergency arise there would be no nearly enough trained persons who are capable of giving first aid treatment."

"The graduates of this method course are ready and willing to conduct courses in accepted methods to any persons who are interested in learning. Citizens who are interested are asked to contact Mrs. Jack Hall, Chairman of the local Red Cross First Aid Committee," Dr. Rucker concluded.

Briton Calls War Fight For Future

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP)—A ranking British official told an international labor organization conference today that Britain's post-war plans must be fitted into those of the rest of the world. "For this fight is not just a fight between nations, it is a fight for the future of civilization."

Charles E. Atter, Lord Privy Seal, deputy prime minister and leader of the British delegation at the conference, asserted "We are determined to do our best to win the peace."

Map Is Challenged By Italian Paper

ROME, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Virginia Gayda, subscription editor, called on President Roosevelt today to produce the German document showing plans to suppress the world's religions.

"It does not appear within 24 hours," Gayda said, "the reputation of Roosevelt the falsifier will arise to the stars."

Nazi Fume Over Roosevelt's Map

BERLIN, Oct. 29.—(AP)—German spokesmen, still fuming over President Roosevelt's Navy Day speech, challenged the President to produce the map which he said revealed German aspirations in South America.

"If such a map exists," the spokesman challenged the President, "prove it authentic."

German Sub Sinkings To Be Kept Secret

Knox Will Not Deny Or Confirm Report Any Have Been Sunk By U. S. Ships

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Secretary Knox today said the Navy probably would apply a policy of secrecy to the sinkings of any German submarines in engagements with American war vessels.

Knox flatly declined either to his attention at the press conference or deny reports brought out by a German newspaper that German submarines had been sunk.

Ingley Is First In Fingerprinting Of Defense Group

With fingerprinting equipment set up and the project ready to go ahead, J. L. Ingley, federal chairman of the defense council, E. J. Nelson, secretary, and J. M. Gillon, chairman of the labor division, had their fingerprints taken at the Army today morning.

The work of taking care of members of the defense council will not start until next week and everyone connected with the project is asked to wait to get their prints when they are notified by Secretary Nelson.

Ingley explained, "Facilities are such that it is best to stagger the printing of persons according to a regular schedule to avoid crowding and waiting periods."

Set up on the order of an assembly line in a factory, the first desk is assigned the job of filling out the classification cards with information about the individual and then the person going through is passed on to the fingerprinting table to have prints taken.

The prints today were made by F. W. Evans, who operates a private bureau and is an expert in the classification of fingerprints, but by local members of the defense council when they have received full instructions from Mr. Evans. Mr. Ingley said.

Fingerprinting of chairman and members of defense committees, the defense force or labor guard, and all air raid wardens will be completed in the next few weeks, Mr. Ingley declared.

The fingerprinting of the 7,000 persons who registered for defense work is not in the program now but may eventually be added, he continued.

Mr. Ingley emphasizes the necessity that persons do not go to the Army to have their prints taken until they are notified since it would cause confusion.

"Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride," "Old Abe" and "Sweet Mystery of Life." Though the Stetson Club quartette had been scheduled to sing, Prof. Giffin confessed he had forgotten the date and had no alternative.

But the Kiwanians expressed their approval of his songs in thunderous applause.

Dr. H. W. Rucker, returning to active service in the club, reviewed the work of the Red Cross first aid classes and the aim of the group in teaching people to be competent in handling accident classes, and "Sweet Mystery of Life." U. S. Steel Shows Boom-Time Profit

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The U. S. Steel Corporation faced with a strike of workers in its captive mines and a consequent serious shortage of fuel at its steel mills, announced Tuesday the largest third quarter net earnings since 1929.

Net income for the September quarter was $34,313,315, or $3.21 a common share, compared with $31,103,071, or $3.07 a share, in the like 1940 period. In the June quarter this year the profit was $24,814,751 or $2.13 a share.

The corporation's earnings for the first nine months of the year were $95,968,091, equal to $8.82 a share on the common stock against $69,418,070 or $5.80 a share in the like period last year.

Ship Canal Bill Held Up In House

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—A billion-dollar rivers and harbors authorization bill that includes the $107,931,000 Florida ship canal will not receive final congressional consideration until hearings have been completed on the $60,000,000 Alton-Cosca waterway, Chairman Mansfield of the House rivers and harbors committee said today.

Mansfield, whose committee already has approved the bill, said its introduction would be delayed until after the Alabama hearings, which were scheduled today but postponed until army engineers report.

The bill provides no appropriations but is merely a blanket authorization measure.

Break-Through Into Crimea Peninsular Is Reported By Germans

LONDON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The Moscow radio said today the Germans had broken through into the Crimea Peninsula while other Nazi troops battered at Rostov-on-Don only 100 miles from the city's center, which guards the northern approach to the Caucasus oilfields. The Soviets said their engineers are planting mines preparing to leave the city in ruins.

The Russians admitted a new German thrust in the vicinity of Volokolansk, 72 miles northwest of Moscow. The Soviets said, however, the Germans had lost 40 percent effectiveness in the past few days that Moscow's fighting and the invaders apparently would not take the city.

The Reds said their defense forces were under no retreat orders and had recaptured four villages northwest of Moscow. They asserted no serious fighting in Moshansk, Maloyaroslavets and the Volokolansk sectors near the capital.

The Russians said the Germans were apparently resorting to trench warfare before Moscow as well as Leningrad and had weather conditions to hamper operations.

The Nazi High Command claimed 11 destroyers were sunk in British convoy across the channel as warfare took place between the R. A. F. and the Luftwaffe.

The Russian armies of the front appeared last night to have considerably improved their position by general counterattacks which were said in London to have beaten the Germans back before Moscow by as much as 10 miles, but by all signs catastrophe was shuddering the Soviet in the far south.

The southern German forces of Gen. von Thomstein, already surrounded and still being strengthened, were understood to have stood within 10 to 15 miles of Rostov on the River Don and clearly were still advancing, if only slowly.

Informed allied opinion reluctantly conceded that Marshal Timoshenko, recently sent to the south to try to break by far the most dangerous of all Hitler's current thrusts, was not likely to be able to hold Rostov, whose fall would lay open the lower Caucasus to the Axis.

Mayor LaGuardia Boots One

Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York puts plenty of oomph into his bid to start the soccer game between British and Czech refugees at Randall's Island, New York. The game was part of the Inter Allied Sports Festival. The British won, 2-1. LaGuardia and Jan Masaryk, Czech leader in exile, were guests of honor.

There is one here named George, but he isn't a Paulman porter, not a shimmy-footed dancer among them, not a single snaky con-ahout.

They don't say "I've requested" or talk in a business drawl. "Disinfect" they say, "and when I pass out here."

I asked one if he dreamed of chattering custom-built cars, and he said he'd rather own his own than rent them, but this J. B. denied he'd ever stolen the boss's Havana cigars!

The government is planning to double its defense production, an objective which would stand a much better chance of speedy fruition if present production were not being hamstrung by over-increasing strikes.

The Nazis are accused to feverishness over Roosevelt's revelation of a secret plan to divide up South America. They are so mad they have chosen to declare the whole thing is a rank fabrication, a declaration which is tantamount to positive proof that the President is right.

For A Safe Hunting Season

With the duck season opening next Sunday, it is not too early to express a few words of caution to the many hunters who will be wielding their shotguns in quest of the fast-flying teal, the elusive mallard, and the unpopular coot.

The fascination of hunting, in part anyway, lies in the fact that there is always a certain element of danger connected with it. Any man equipped with a shotgun loaded with high-powered duck shells automatically becomes a potentially destructive possibility to human life as well to wild fowl, and because of this factor there is great need for every hunter to be cautious even to the point of curtailing some of his fun.

More fatalities are chalked up each year to hunting accidents than to any other sport, and most of these accidents are the result of sheer neglect of the most rudimentary principles of handling firearms. One of these rudimentary principles is that a man seldom gets shot unless a gun is pointed at him, and so any consideration of the safety factor in hunting should include the cardinal rule of never pointing a gun, loaded or unloaded, at anyone.

Naturally, if this rule were followed universally there would be few accidents, but there is a sinister influence in the great pastime of hunting which militates against the pursuance of this rule. That sinister influence, which also happens to be the kick one gets out of hunting, is the excitement incident to aiming the old muzzle at a swiftly moving target in the form of one of the many varieties of ducks found in this region.

When a person gets excited, he forgets, and when he forgets he is liable to disregard every bit of advice he ever heard about how not to get shot or how to keep from shooting somebody else. Every hunter feels a little just before he cracks down on his quarry, but the person who loses control of his nerves to the point where he becomes a menace should not go out on the marshes or into the woods.

Our advice to the many nimrods who will rally forth next Sunday is to give as much earnest thought to the safe handling of their guns as they do to the fun of getting the bag limit. If this is done no one will have any regrets.

Divorce Racket On The Spot

Florida's easy divorce laws, passed to help increase the state's population, have been regretted by many Floridians who do not like to see their state trying to capitalize on business resulting from the misfortunes and often evil machinations of married couples, but when the laws are abused by unethical lawyers, then it is time for decent people to protest.

For this reason, the people of Miami are greatly interested in a court investigation down there of the divorce racket. "For a long time," says the Miami Herald, "there has been a firm conviction that Miami's unenviable record as the divorce center of the world was not achieved strictly on the 'up and up'."

"Laymen couldn't tell just what was wrong but they could not close their nostrils to the suspicious smell which has hung for months as a mephitic aura around Miami divorce courts."

"The Herald has urged at various times that the Dade County Bar Association take cognizance of conditions, for the good name of the legal fraternity and especially to preserve the courts from any taint of suspicion or lack of concern over a situation of which many lawyers of high standing privately complained bitterly."

"Action has been taken, it should be pushed to a thorough, fearless conclusion, regardless of the stature of any individual or individuals who may be caught in the net of inquiry."

"A house-cleaning is indicated. A mere dusting off, or hiding of the sweepings under a rug will not do."

"Nobody, whatever his position, should be spared if his conduct is such as to warrant public condemnation and official action."

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

Not long ago, at the invitation of an enterprising dealer, I attended a showing of the 1942 models of a popular make of motor cars. Mounted on a velvet-lined turntable, the newest model latest in the automobile field awaited my inspection.

The models were beautiful. Their appeal from every standpoint was so effectively presented that you just couldn't help but want one. Eager salesmen explained each new feature enthusiastically. Several persons placed orders. No one bothered to look under the hood or pry into the mechanism. The car carried the name of a reputable manufacturer, and because of that name and the reputation it carried the purchaser knew that the unseen features were as representative as that the car would perform perfectly.

Supposed that while every visible part—the body, upholstery, trim, paint job—overs of finest quality, but everything invisible was cheap and of lowest quality and when the purchaser got into the drive it the motor would sputter, the transmission would groan, and as far as stilling was concerned his bright new automobile car turned out to be a piece of junk.

Do you think that after such an experience a customer would go back to that dealer and buy another car of the same make? Would YOU? Would you?

Remember, customer, you would be impressed by the mere appearance of that car, but the moment you got into it, you would know the truth.

The same thing is true of the automobile industry. The moment you get into a car, you know the truth.

of the State itself. We have laws—books full of them; we have inspectors—dozens of them. And still we continue to ship worthless, lousy, green fruit that even a hog wouldn't eat—and things like SMART.

I will contend that no more profitable way could be found to spend the advertising fund of the Florida Citrus Commission than to carry a full page in every paper published where such fruit is shipped, warning people NOT to buy Florida fruit regardless of how attractive it may appear, because it is green, and bitter, and not fit to eat.

If regulation and inspection and law can't control this evil, let's at least be honest and make some effort to protect the good name of Florida. Such advertising would be so startling and so impressive it would make millions of friends for the State and for Florida fruit.

A few selfish, greedy operators wouldn't like such a program. But everybody else would; and we wouldn't have to do it more than one or two seasons to insure the shipment of only GOOD fruit.

March Of Time Shows Import Of Navy's Air Force

Focusing its cameras again upon a topic of vital interest to the American people, The March of Time, in its latest film entitled "Sailors With Wings", brings to the screen of the Ritz Theatre the story of U. S. Naval Aviation.

Reevaluating the current importance of the swiftly-growing air arm of the fleet, which has come to be recognized by military strategists as America's first line of defense, the film traces briefly the development of the Navy's air service since the period of the first World War, shows its present-day training and construction programs, and how it operates in partnership with the fleet, ranging over the oceans in search of Axis raiders and submarines.

Engaged in the never-ending task of keeping abreast of the day, the March of Time shows, in giant shore-based flying boats capable of scouring 50,000 square miles of ocean in a single day; torpedoes and bombing planes operating from aircraft carriers; and the planes which every battleship and cruiser of the U. S. Navy now carries.

The Navy's air force is already twice its pre-war size, The March of Time film points out, but the current emergency training program will soon bring it to a total of 50,000 naval pilots and airmen—all full-fledged "Sailors With Wings."

This latest March of Time picture will be shown at the Ritz Theatre today and Thursday.

Repair ships in the U. S. Navy are actually floating factories with complete electrical black machine shops with complete welding equipment, lathes, punchers, mailing machines and found-smiths—carpenter, optical and rics.

Friday & Saturday It'll "Wow" You!

IT'S DIFFERENT... AND Hilarious!

Do's & Don't's about Mattress Buying

- DON'T JUDGE COMFORT ON LOOKS
Most mattresses LOOK comfortable in a store. But there are all kinds of comfort. A mattress made with indifferent "insides" can give only indifferent comfort. The Beautyrest has a special construction that brings comfort to its most luxurious point.
- DON'T BUY UNTIL YOU KNOW ABOUT A MATTRESS'S INSIDES
In the ordinary mattress, each spring is tied to the next by wire. When you press down on some springs, others near by go down too—forming a slope. The Beautyrest has "independent coils." Each spring is pocketed...SEPARATED from the next...yields INDEPENDENTLY to the slightest movement.
- DON'T BUY A MATTRESS THAT CAN'T KEEP ITS COMFORT
A mattress that loses its comfort after a short while is no bargain. The United States Testing Company tested 17 different makes of mattresses. In these tests Beautyrest stood up 3 TIMES LONGER than any other mattress.
- DON'T BUY A MATTRESS THAT CAN'T KEEP ITS SHAPE
Time is hard on a mattress. After a few years lumps may form...edges may sag and get wavy. Beautyrest has a special PATENTED Sag-proof Edge. These edges stay erect and firm during the entire life of the mattress.

TODAY! GET A BEAUTYREST
Special Terms $1.00 A WEEK

Here's a superbly comfortable mattress that helps you relax quicker, sleep more soundly and awake refreshed. There's little need to sleep on an inferior mattress when you can get one of these famous Beautyrests on such liberal terms. Just let us deliver a Beautyrest... and at $1.00 a week, it will be paid for before you know it. You'll still have years of 'Luxury Comfort' to enjoy.

Quartermaster Corps Constructs "Rolling Garage" For Field Use

WILMINGTON, N. C., Oct. 22 (Special)—The "rolling garage" supplied by the Quartermaster Corps keeps the First Army rolling and "Keep 'em rolling" has become the slogan of the Fourth Corps Area Quartermaster.

This is a mobile machine shop where repairs to automotive and other equipment are made in the field. These shops travel with the troops for the very good reason that when a piece of motorized equipment breaks down or it is put out of commission, it cannot come to the garage. So, like Mahomet going to the mountain, the garage goes to the equipment.

The mobile machine shop in the field is what the Quartermaster Corps calls the third echelon, one of the four organizational units, upon which responsibility rests for the repair and maintenance of motor transportation.

The third echelon handles all but the heaviest repairs. These include the replacement of assemblies and sub-assemblies and removal of a worn-out motor and its replacement by a new one. The mobile machine shops are equipped to handle every phase of garage work, and equipment includes planes, lathes, welding apparatus, instruments and tools of all kinds, in addition to the parts and materials with which to make the repairs.

These "rolling garages" are in effect miniature workshops on wheels. They are mounted on two-and-a-half-ton trucks and have gasoline-driven generators which furnish power for the electrical machinery. They are usually set up in the field under trees and camouflaged from enemy planes.

In this connection, it is pointed out that in maneuvers simulating actual war conditions, the crews and the mobile shops themselves are subject to capture by the enemy.

STEWART SAYS:
SENATOR BURTON
ENVISSIONS CAPITAL
AS TRAFFIC MODEL
 By CHARLES P. STEWART
 Central Press Columnist

SENATOR HAROLD H. BURTON of Ohio has started a crusade to make Washington, D. C. a municipal traffic model for the whole country. They say he received an awful automotive situation in Cleveland when he was mayor there, before he broke into congress, but if he can do the same thing for the nation's capital, it generally is agreed by the city's residents and visitors that he'll prove himself a wonder.

At present the district simply is a curiosity, from the standpoint both of drivers and pedestrians. In the first place, Mayor Pierre L'Enfant, who planned the town just after the Revolution, naturally hadn't the slightest notion that the streets he mapped out ever would be navigated by anything but horse-drawn carriages. The sense and decency not to collide with one another and run over human beings afoot, if they could help it.

It's true that most of our big cities date back as far as the major day or father, but as a rule, they weren't formally designed. Their thoroughfares, in the main, were permitted to criss-cross at right and left angles with no artificial complications.

Major L'Enfant, anxious to do a fancy job mapped avenues which intersect four at a time at innumerable junctions, making 'em spread out in eight different directions, usually with a little park in the midst of the jumble. It's obvious that a jam of vehicles at one of these hubs can't be something frightful.

MANY HAYS TO DRIVE
 It was bad enough before our current national emergency started and Washington's population grew so fast in a mere matter of weeks, that there isn't living room for everybody in the whole District of Columbia. Thousands and thousands of downtown workers have to have their domiciles out in the Maryland and Virginia suburbs of course, coming into and going out of the burg in flocks.

Maryland isn't so fierce. That trip's straightaway. But Virginia! to get there and back involves crossing the Potomac. Two are a couple of bridges, but nearly all the travelers patronize what's known as the Highway span. There's a pivot draw in the middle of it. Let that draw open during the evening homeward rush out of the capital and it'll block everything for miles, clear across the district. Cars will move at the rate of about six feet at a time, with 15-minute stops between progressions. And the beauty of it is that it stalls all interesting traffic.

Furthermore, no place in the country has so many out-of-town visitors, in for a look at the capital. These birds don't even understand local regulations which are darned complicated, owing to the fearful congestion.

Then along will come a procession of army and navy trucks—hundreds of 'em. Do they pay any attention to lights? Not so you could notice it.

Rules don't mean anything to diplomats' autos, either—speed or light or parking rules or anything. Ambassadors and ministers and consuls and all their assistants and members of their families are exempt from the slightest discipline and take full advantage of it.

Senators and representatives' cars likewise enjoy a privileged status.

Pedestrians on foot. In such surroundings, the moral is "Don't be a pedestrian." It's dangerous to be an autoist, but pedestrianism is bound to be fatal, sooner or later. Besides, it's punishable. Cross with stress against the light or between intersections, and if a cop sees you, you get a "ticket," and have a fine to pay. Nonobedient it's for your own protection, but really it's for obstructing traffic—you're delaying autoist mobility. Even if you don't delay 'em—if one of 'em hits you, it's a nuisance to that driver to have to furnish explanation, unless, of course, he scoots off too fast to be bothered about it. And what makes him waste gasoline.

Mayor La Guardia of New York says that the correct way to solve the auto problem is to plan cities with a view to existing traffic conditions.

It may be right as to NEW YORK, but Washington can't very well be razed and replanned and rebuilt to remedy matters. If Senator Burton has a more practical scheme, it'll be a blessing to Washington autoists. And it'll be blessed to Washington pedestrians.

Florida Public Service Hit By Material Lack

ORLANDO, Oct. 22.—(Special)—The Florida Public Service Co., has announced the stoppage of virtually all line construction work because of the shortage of materials. The tremendous use of aluminum, steel, copper and zinc by production for national defense has caused a shortage of wire for electrical conductors, of pole hardware, transformers and electrical switchgear.

The Public Service Co. has received an order from the office of Donald Nelson, director of priorities, which assures it of a supply of such materials only as are needed for maintenance of present service. This general order applies to all electric, gas and water utilities throughout the United States. Utilities have been given a priority rating of A-10 for materials needed for maintenance and repairs only.

It is felt, even though A-10 is far from A-1, that utilities will be able to get all materials needed for maintenance and repairs, but the order states that it does not provide materials for new line construction.

H. R. Cloud, vice president and general manager of the Florida Public Service Co., in a statement to the press said, "Our material situation is really serious, but we know that our customers will help us in this period of national emergency. These are unusual times and we all have just one thought in mind. We must all join hands and do everything necessary and make sacrifices too where it can be accomplished. We will be glad to connect new customers to

Automobiles Run In Southern Orient On Almost Nothing

BANGKOK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—One of the last pieces to look for gasoline in the fuel-starved Far East today is in the gas tank of an automobile.

You may find almost anything else in the tank—alcohol, charcoal, potato peelings, or plain kerosene. But usually, not gasoline. Armies at war, or waiting for war, are getting practical all their governments can buy and import. The man with the private car gets whatever else he can to make the old tuggy run.

Any substance that gives off inflammable fumes is a substitute. Alcohol, distilled in large quantities from rice or maize, is the accepted ersatz in the Southern Orient. It does very well, as a fuel.

An insurance agent, working for a Shanghai firm, actually uses a Chinese for fuel because of its high alcoholic content. He has been known to stop and drain a cup or so from the tank on a long run.

"I figure," he explains, "that I need it more than the engine does."

In the past 11 years, Rollins College has failed to win or tie against only three opponents: Southeastern Louisiana, Mississippi and Florida U. The Louisianans won two games, while Mississippi eked out a 13-12 victory. Florida's Gators, in their only game with the Tars in recent years, clicked 13-2 a 13-2 victory in 1934.

Rollins College claims to have the lightest player in the nation's collegiate ranks this year in young Eddie Weinburg, son of a Rollins mathematics professor. Eddie weighs only 125 pounds, but is an extremely fast center-back. He is a graduate from the touch football ranks.

Business Picks Up In Army Maneuvers

CAMDEN, S. C., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Karl Truesdell's Red corps of some 37,000 men skirmished with the superior Blue forces of Maj. Gen. Lloyd R. Fredendall Tuesday night as the battle of the Pee Dee River gained momentum in the First Army maneuvers.

Reports from the mimic battlefront indicated the scene of action between General Truesdell's Sixth Corps, made up of the 1st and 26th Divisions, and General Fredendall's Second Corps of 63,000 men, was shifting westward from the river, which separated the opposing elements when the maneuver opened. The Second Corps includes the 28th, 29th and 44th Divisions.

Lewis Agrees To Open Coal Mines Today

United Mine Workers Accept Proposal By Roosevelt To Return To Work

Some Men To Report Tonight

Mediation Board Will Study Matters Involved In Dispute

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(AP)—John L. Lewis announced today that United Mine workers had accepted President Roosevelt's proposal for re-opening the strike-bound captive mines and adding the men would return to work as fast as arrangements could be made locally.

In some areas, Lewis said, night shifts may return tonight. Other mines, he asserted, would be reopened tomorrow.

Roosevelt had proposed that the mines be reopened pending further consideration of matters involved in the dispute, which affects 83,000 miners by the full membership of the Defense Mediation Board.

Lewis last night called district union representatives to meet here today to discuss a fourth demand from President Roosevelt for 83,000 captive coal miners and their strike immediately.

The call went out after the President personally had taken a hand in efforts to mediate the dispute at a White House conference with Lewis, Myron C. Taylor, a director of U. S. Steel Corp., one of the largest owners of captive mines, and William H. Davis, chairman of the National Defense Mediation Board.

The trio had spent four hours in conference at the Mayflower hotel before carrying their discussions to the White House.

The principal issue in the dispute which has threatened the supply of fuel for the nation is whether captive mine operators shall accept the Union's demands for a union shop, under which employees will be required to join the U. M. W. after a period of probation.
