

Bring 'Em Back Alive Is New Safety Plea

TAMPA, Oct. 21.—(AP)—"Bring them back alive," Barton H. Schoepf, chairman of the Florida Safety Council, urged automobile drivers yesterday.

"Take time to be safe," he added. He was speaking particularly of drivers carrying parents and friends to athletic events. Pointing out that there have been four fatalities among students going to football games in Florida since the season opened recently, Schoepf said:

"Don't let your exuberant spirits run away with your better judgment. Remember there is only one driver at the wheel. Bring them back alive."

55 CCC Companies Moved To Far West

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Fifty-five companies of Civilian Conservation Corps men have been moved from the Fourth Corps Area in the Far West, CCC officials announced.

They said the enrollees are being transferred to the West to work on forest, park and gravel land projects.

The CCC enrolled 54 percent more men from Southern States than their quotas allowed because industrial conditions in the North and East reduced enrollment there.

THIS IS RAIN IN SPAIN, a devastating downpour of steel and powder that leaves in its wake desolation and destruction. Smoke and debris rising from the fields below show where other missiles have hit.

Czechoslovakia Envoy Protests German Press

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Czechoslovakia's envoy to Berlin, Dr. Vojtech Mastny, yesterday protested to Foreign Minister Von Neurath against an "aggressive, menacing German press and broadcast campaign" which has strained relations between the two countries.

The protest was made after German newspapers supported editorially the position taken by Konrad Henlein, leader of the sudeten deutsche party, who wrote an open letter to the Czech president, Edvard Benes, insisting on autonomy for German districts of the republic.

Faron von Neurath said the protest was unwarranted, since the article opinion in Germany was thoroughly aroused by Czechoslovakia's measures against the sudeten party.

Czech police were said to have manhandled some members of the sudeten party Oct. 17 when they attempted to hold a forbidden rally near the German border.

Sarasota Prepares For Tin Can Campers

SARASOTA, Oct. 21.—(AP)—

With the arrival of four units in the Sarasota Tourist park Tuesday, the camp population jumped 40 units, 17 more than a year ago, according to Camp Manager Jack Kear.

The camp is being put in condition and more than 900 lots in the park are ready. Kear estimated they will be filled by Christmas with another 1000 lots available in the tract adjoining, which was purchased by the city last spring.

Last year the camp overflowed with 1000 units during the annual Tin Can Tourists convention, but Kear expects the enlarged and increased facilities will care for the crowd this season. The convention will be held here again in February.

Naval Stores Project Gets Wallace' Okey

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Farm administration officials estimated yesterday naval stores farmers in eight southern states could earn $1,500,000 in benefit payments under the 1938 agricultural conservation program.

They said Secretary Wallace had approved details for the program next year which aim at "conservation of timber land resources, prevention of their uneconomic use and wasteful exploitation, and the improvement of fire protection in the naval stores region."

Suit Filed To Get "Bank Night" Award

GAINESVILLE, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Dorman filed suit in circuit court here yesterday against the Sparks Theater, Inc., for $1000 on the grounds Mrs. Dorman had been deprived of $500 "bank night" award she claimed she should have received.

Papers filed in the suit said Mrs. Dorman's husband was drawn for a $500 "bank night" award at a theater here Sept. 23 and that she applied in person for the money within a reasonable time after her name was announced as the winner, but that the theater manager refused to give her the money.

Trailer Camps Are Ready For Tourists

MIAMI, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Florida trailer camps, winter sanctuaries for the nation's nomads of the highway, are being enlarged and improved this fall in preparation for an anticipated early and record-breaking tourist movement this season.

A survey of the state found camp owners predicting increases ranging from 20 to 50 percent, despite the failure of sales of the mobile homes to reach the anticipated peak this year and the annual given the gasoline bedlam by two large Florida cities.

Although an accurate check was difficult, 25,000 trailers were reported in Florida last winter. Last years figure for the movement that had its beginning in something different in camping doubled that of 1935.

Camp owners expect nearly 50,000 trailers to roll over Florida's highways this winter and while Jacksonville and Orlando have decided to discourage the movement, trailer tourists will be welcomed at Miami, Sarasota, Tampa, Ft. Lauderdale and a score of other cities.

Jacksonville and Orlando joined with Palm Beach and Miami Beach, Florida's two swankiest centers of society, in a campaign against the land yachts.

THE OLD DOG

I saw an old dog brought into a hospital. He was so old and so feeble that he could not stand. The man who carried him set him down in silence. In silence the girl rang the bell. A white-coated attendant came. And took the old dog in his arms. He spoke and said: "Do you want his collar, Sir?" The man took off the collar and gently laid his hand for an instant on the old dog's head. The dim eyes looked quietly into his master's. And he was carried off without complaint. (A good dog is more selfless than a man) Silently, the man paid the fee. And walked through the door. But I could sense all the memories of his dog's life that came flooding over him. Through the tender grass of early spring. Across the beaten sand by the loud ocean's roar. Amid the dead leaves of autumn, in the silent snow of winter, the young dog ran. In every sorrow that the man had known. In every joy that had filled his heart. Through all the years of his dog's life. He had felt the pressure of that noble head against his knee. Ah, well, a chapter closed. Silently, he entered his strangely lonely car. Margaret T. Lamson.

Recently it has appeared that the business cycle was something of a motorcycle.

What we'd like to know is how much some of these outstanding political exponents of minimum wages pay their cooks.

It looks as if John Montague were going to have to use some unusually good trick shots to get out of this trap.

Gov. Cone seems to be as determined not to have a special session of the Legislature as the President is to convene Congress.

One of the victims of the latest airplane disaster was making a news reel depicting the safety of air travel. No doubt it will be shown sooner or later, but some of us saw it the first time.

Among Florida's first winter visitors of the season is Fred Smith, Jr. of Chicago who comes in an "iron lung" to Miami Beach because his doctors feel that the climate will be better for him than the cold Illinois winds. That is a compliment to this state when a man with millions of dollars at his command, able to go anywhere in the world to seek his health, comes to Florida.

Mussolini appears to be coming to terms on the volunteer question in Spain, proposing a neutral commission to go to Spain and supervise withdrawals. This could be a fine settlement for a very difficult problem. Or maybe Il Duce is just stalling for time.

Both Mark Wilcox and Joe Hendricks agree that the St. Johns-River Canal is a necessary improvement to Florida's inland waterways, not alone because it would connect the beautiful St. Johns with the lower St. Johns for pleasure and commercial use, but also would provide vital flood control facilities for the great lower St. Johns River valley, something which would be worth millions of dollars in Canal money. All that is needed is a little more enthusiasm and a little more cash on the part of the State.

Is He Cured?

John Montague, Hollywood golfer and trick shot artist and friend of movie celebrities, has been positively identified as an accomplice in the holdup and robbery of a New York roadhouse back in 1930. Montague's name at that time was Laverne Moore, the testimony shows, and other evidence indicates that Montague not only participated in the robbery but took a leading and most brutal part. For this crime, two of the four bandits were finally arrested, tried, and served time for their offense. A third was killed when an automobile in which he was fleeing turned over. Only Montague escaped Scott free and finally landed in Hollywood where he made influential friends and developed his knack with the masher and putter. It was not until seven years later that the long arm of the law finally reached him.

Now it is contended by his new found friends that Montague has reformed, that he is now leading an honest and upright life, that he is making a good living in an honorable way, and that even if he had fallen by the wayside at some past time in his life, everyone is entitled to a second chance, and Montague has already proven what he would do with his second chance if it were given. They are confident that he would never lapse into the ways of the underworld again.

We are not disposed to condemn a man who has slipped once and wants to rise again. The way of the law should be to help a man up once he has fallen. But we wonder if all the facts pertaining to Montague's past and present have yet been brought out. If it is acknowledged that he actually did participate in this particular roadhouse holdup, we wonder if that was his first offense. We wonder if he may not also have had a part in numerous previous holdups, perhaps in some in which someone was killed.

And we wonder if the Hollywood celebrities with whom he now gangs, are sure that he has completely reformed. There have been occasions when "gentlemen" criminals wormed their way into the society and confidences of prominent persons only to rob them when they got a good chance. We wonder if they are sure that Montague is not a man of this type. We wonder if any of them have ever missed their watches or their wallets mysteriously when Montague was around and the natural tendency was to blame it on the servants.

Of course if the New York roadhouse holdup was Montague's first slip and he promptly realized his mistake, is sorry, and has never done it again, and is pretty well sure he never will do it again, he's probably entitled to the utmost leniency on the part of the court, but he shouldn't be excused just because a few Hollywood "big shots" have interceded in his behalf.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. — Before leaving for his western tour, President Roosevelt had included a brief paragraph or two about foreign affairs into a speech he made about the constitution. He said: "Fear spreads throughout the world—fear of aggression, fear of invasion, fear of revolution, fear of death. The people of America are rightly determined to keep that growing menace from our shores. The known and measurable danger of becoming involved in war we face confidently. As to that, your government knows you, and, you know your government's mind." Then he made the western trip. He talked to a lot of people and they talked to him. On his return trip he made the Chicago speech, talking of the desirability of taking "positive" action to "guarantee" that 10 percent of the world's population which wouldn't keep its hands off its guns.

That speech surprises a substantial part of official and unofficial Washington. Maybe, after all, Washington merely thought it knew what was in the government's mind. Or maybe the government, after its tour west, had discovered something in the country's mind that it hadn't suspected was there in such force. At any rate, the talk was so much more aggressive in tone than the stand taken by the state department in its several proclamations about the peace-mindedness of the United States that some surmised the President had become a bit impatient.

Another surmise: That the President had discovered a rising swell of American sentiment against sitting on the international fence.

What actually has happened, in the view of many here, is that the neutrality act has been put to its first test before the public. It wasn't put to a test in the Eshelman affair, which occurred before the present act was passed.

Spain was not much of a test. Both sides seemed to be fairly well matched, and civil wars among Spanish-speaking peoples have been rather frequent affairs on this continent for centuries. But the current oriental war—if one may yet call it that—is different. It brings out American sympathies which it is difficult to prevent being translated into action.

But congress debated that question a long time before passing the neutrality act. Senators Nye, Clark, Vandenberg and others insisted that isolation was the best means of keeping out of foreign war and that any effort to cooperate with other nations in suppressing outbreaks was simply inviting a repetition of 1917. The vote in the senate was 62 to 6 in favor of the neutrality act which incorporates that view.

But former Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson says a boycott by the United States and Great Britain of Japanese silk and other exports will leave that country no money to fight China. And, he says, such boycott wouldn't bring war. Those are the two views, and the President's speech appears to favor the Stimson view of doing something—now.

New Excuse Given For Traffic Violation

COVINGTON, La., Oct. 21. — (P)—Day Marshal John Bennett was in possession of a brand new excuse for a traffic signal violation. He said he halted the negro driver of a shiny new automobile which had just crossed an intersection against a red light. "Look here," said the marshal, "what do you mean by running that light? What do you think we have green and red lights for?" The negro, grinning broadly, replied: "I didn't aim to do no harm, Cap'n. I alius thought the green light was for the white folks and the red light for us niggers, so I went right along."

The Bowery, a street in New York City, was originally called Bowlerie from the Great Bowery, the farm belonging to Peter Stuyvesant. Independent stores comprise 63 percent of the retail distributing outlets in the United States. The independents do about 87 percent of the total business.

Clemson Crushes South Carolina By A Score Of 34-0

COLUMBIA, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Clemson College used a plain power attack yesterday and crushed a light University of South Carolina football team, 34-0. It is the largest margin since 1935 in the annual state rivalry.

The crowd of almost 20,000 fans hardly settled when the Gamecocks got their only touchdown. They took a punt on the Tiger 41, blocked the line for a first down and then Cleary passed to Brown in the end zone for the touchdown.

Willie Hard rushed through the line brought Clemson scores in the first period after the Tigers had pounced on South Carolina fumbles. Pearson ran around end and centered 23 yards for a third period score and a pair of substitutes added the touchdowns in the last quarter.

The Tigers registered 17 first downs to three, and made 261 yards by rushing to 24 for the birds.

Lyman High Wins Over Eustis 'B' By Score Of 12-7

EUSTIS, Oct. 22.—Lyman High School of Longwood defeated the Eustis High Panthers second team here last night with a score of 12-7 in a game that was marked by exceptional playing on both sides.

Dick Giles, Eustis half, ran around left end early in the second quarter for Eustis' only score, and Salter made the extra point for the Panthers.

Almost immediately, Payne scored a touchdown for Lyman, making a run of 60 yards. Lyman failed to make the extra point.

In the third quarter, Payne again scored for Lyman, making a touchdown over right end, and again Lyman failed on the extra point.

Lyman's line was almost impenetrable. Louis Marshall, Eustis back, doing most of the running for Eustis, was largely responsible for Eustis' gains.

Payne was Lyman's outstanding player, but M. Hudson, C. Swafford, and Jones offered strong resistance to the Panthers. Nichols, Salter and Giles of the Panther squad were strong factors in keeping Lyman's score down.

The picture of the wreckage (top) is mute evidence of the terrific plunge. Below, horses are shown lined up beside snow-covered wreckage and bodies to receive their burden of dead.
