County's Fiscal Position Is Sound

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Staff Writer

Call it a sign of the economic times. A building slump in Seminole County over the first half of the year has had a strong impact on the county's midyear budget review, but unexpected savings in the form of lower gasoline prices has the county sitting in basically a sound fiscal posture halfway through the fiscal year.

That's the picture the County Commission got Monday while going over a 149-page midyear report prepared by the county's Office of Management and Budget during a workshop session.

"We're in a better financial position than I had anticipated at the end of the first quarter," said County Administrator Roger Neiswender. "And that's largely due to county department heads operating on a bare-bones budget."

The one big drawback to the midyear fiscal picture was a big drop in projected revenues from building fees.

The county had projected $500,000 in revenue estimates from building fees for fiscal year 1961-62, but current revenues to date are $202,756, leaving projections almost $100,000 short.

The drop in building fees has had a parallel impact on the county's contingency fund, which now stands at $215,803, about $100,000 less than it should be.

Neiswender said the majority of building fees so far have been for remodeling and room addition, not for new construction. He indicated that a drop in high interest rates during the summer could help the county recoup some of the projected revenues.

The county contingency fee, a total of $970,000, has also been hit by higher than expected court costs and unexpected personnel overtime due to April's rains and tornado.

An $83,000 bite came out of the fund, going to the Sheriff's Department in an out-of-court settlement following the sheriff's appeal of his budget to the governor and cabinet. Another $95,956 chunk went to the Sheriff's Department for salary adjustments after a comparison illustrated Sheriff John Polk's officers were being paid less than their counterparts elsewhere.

April's rains and tornado also had a significant impact on the contingency fund.

While those costs put a dent in the overall budget, an unexpected saving on fuel costs and some departmental belt-tightening has resulted in a substantial saving for the county.

Projected gasoline costs for the fiscal year are running far ahead of current prices for unleaded, regular and diesel fuel, resulting in a saving of approximately $135,000.

Fiscal scrutiny by the county's purchasing department on bids and purchases at below-budgeted costs has resulted in a saving of almost $83,000.

Another $150,000 saving has been realized in the county's road resurfacing program.

Districting Not The Big Issue

Sanford Debate Shifting To Fire, Police Control

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The controversy on Sanford's charter revision has shifted from districting to something the residents are talking about even more — the proposal to place the direction of the police and fire departments under the city manager.

"I've heard more chatter about the uniform services than about districting," Commissioner David Farr told his commission colleagues and members of the Charter Revision Committee Monday evening.

He added that there might be less confusion among the voters if this item were dropped from the proposed charter.

But a motion by Farr to accept all the committee's recommendations with the exception of placing the uniformed services under City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles' direct control failed. Commissioner Milton Smith voted with Farr. But Mayor Lee P. Moore and Councilmen Ned Yancey and Eddie Keith voted against.

The other major changes recommended are: Require commissioners to live within specific geographic areas; change city election time from December to September; change the City Commission's name to City Council and extend Moore's term to 1965 from 1964.

Moore brought up the issue of the transfer of control of the uniformed services, asking what would happen to the charter revisions if the police and fire personnel and their friends do not want the uniformed services to go under Knowles' direct control.

Thomas Wilson III, chairman of the revision committee, said the panel felt the change to the city manager from City Commission control would provide continuity, since Knowles is the city's overall administrative head.

Another committee member, Dr. J.C. Ringling, noted that the manager's specific job is to monitor all city departments, adding that he already has budgetary control of both departments. Knowles responded that he would just as soon not add the uniformed departments to his responsibilities. But, he said, there is a need for the city manager to have responsibility for both departments.

"Neither department is operating with administrative supervision now," he said.

Farr admitted there is probably no disadvantage to Knowles' having direct control of the departments.

And Moore told the commissioners that if they thought that by naming him police commissioner he has been doing any supervisory work with that department, "You're out of your minds."

He reminded them that the last time the City Commission came to grips with the possibility of transferring the responsibility to the city manager was in the early 1970s. Action, he said, was deferred, then out of respect for the two department heads — Police Chief Ben Butler and Fire Chief George M. Harriett. Harriett retired more than a year ago.

Moore noted that both Butler and current Fire Chief William C. Galley will be retiring in the next few years. Galley, who became fire chief when Harriett retired, notified the commission at that time that he is eligible and plans to retire in June 1964.

Farr said Butler has no compunction about going under the control of the city manager.

The group again discussed creating residency districts, with Farr expressing the concern that some incumbent commissioners might have to run against each other if districting passes voter approval.

And Moore said the revised charter could be on the ballot in the December city election this year. It was noted that the districting would not go into effect until the city election in 1964, if it passes.

Knowles said he is sure the City Commission will not gerrymander districts to protect incumbent commissioners.

Committee member George Willis said he gets a "queasy feeling" about the charter when the commission is divided on issues.

Plea Expected By Woman In Arson Case

A 31-year-old Sanford woman is expected to enter a plea to charges of second-degree arson of a former Sanford police officer's home, although the case in which she was convicted was dismissed and is currently on appeal.

Court officials said today that Sharon Lee Meeker, 606 Park Ave., was expected to enter a plea Monday afternoon before Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffler but that the hearing has been postponed to 1 p.m. Friday because of scheduling conflicts.

Law-enforcement officials said they feel Ms. Meeker decided to plead because she wants to "bring some order to her life" and avoid another trial through the appeals court.

Prosecutor Randy Kramer, who is handling the case for the state, could not be reached for comment.

Ms. Meeker was found guilty of second-degree arson Jan. 25 after she testified in court that she torched the home of former Sanford police officer Walter L. Jones at 1839 Jerry St. in the Goldsboro section of Sanford. Ms. Meeker also testified she committed the act, with the help of two other people, out of love for Jones and not for money he reportedly was to pay her, which he would collect from an insurance policy.

However, Leffler dismissed the case against Ms. Meeker on April 5, saying the state did not specifically charge her with an "unlawful" act. The state is appealing Leffler's ruling to the Fifth District Court of Appeal in Daytona Beach.

James Michael Williams, 35, of Union Park, and his ex-wife, Patricia, 34, of Lake Mary, confessed prior to Ms. Meeker's conviction to their participation in the arson. The couple also testified against Ms. Meeker in the January trial before Leffler.

Jones was arrested Feb. 3 on charges of solicitation for arson and insurance fraud, following an indictment by the Seminole County grand jury in the case. A trial date for him is expected to be set next week, according to prosecutor Steve

Brady. However, the state has dropped the insurance-fraud charge against Jones and is expected to refile the charge in Orange County, since payment for the destroyed home was made to Jones

The state will make no deals with Ms. Meeker in the case,' Brady said today concerning whether she will be granted immunity in exchange for her testimony in the Jones case. 'I'm going to have all clean witnesses on the stand in Jones' trial.' Ms. Meeker could face up to 15 years in state prison for her part in the arson.

through an Orange County insurance company.

"The state will make no deals with Ms. Meeker in the case," Brady said today concerning whether she will be granted immunity in exchange for her testimony in the Jones case. "I'm going to have all clean witnesses on the stand in Jones' trial."

Ms. Meeker could face up to 15 years in state prison for her part in the arson.

Chief Assistant Public Defender Norman Levin, who is representing Ms. Meeker in the case, declined to reveal the reasoning behind Ms. Meeker's expected plea, saying, "It would be unethical and not in the best interest of my client to comment in any way on the case right now."

Altamonte Man Is Killed In Motorcycle Accident

An autopsy is expected to be performed at Seminole Memorial Hospital, Sanford, today on an Altamonte Springs man who died Monday night following a motorcycle accident.

Leonard Charles Lasher, 33, of 122 Willow Way, was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident after he "apparently disobeyed a traffic light, entered the intersection of Orienta and Maitland avenues at a high rate of speed and lost control of his vehicle — a Harley-Davidson motorcycle," said Altamonte Springs Police Officer Robert Merchant. Merchant said the accident occurred about 9:23 p.m. and "only involved one vehicle." He added that earlier reports indicated Lasher's motorcycle struck a vehicle and utility pole, but that his investigation does not support such a conclusion.

"My investigation is not complete," Merchant said. "I am sending blood samples to the lab for analysis, and all I really know is that there was no other vehicle involved, he was exceeding the speed limit and he was ejected from the motorcycle. It is also apparent that he hit the ground very hard."

Lasher's death marks the 10th traffic fatality in Seminole County this year.

Our Water—How Safe?

Constant Checking Keeps Purity Level High In South Seminole

Last In A Series

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

How does your water taste? If you live in any of three cities in southern Seminole County, it tastes just fine.

Yet with the summer drought of 1961 and increasing concern by experts over pollutants infiltrating our water supplies, the subject of water quality and conservation is of paramount concern.

In a survey of water experts in Oviedo, Casselberry and Altamonte Springs, it has been determined that while each city has a sufficient water supply that meets all state-required quality standards, officials say they are concerned about water conservation, treatment and quality as it affects city residents.

"Water, pure water, is free of color and sedimentation, light passes through it, and it is tasteless and odorless," says Altamonte Springs Chief Water Operator Chris Hill. "However, there is no such thing as pure water in that sense, but our water is safe and probably the best water around, and will remain so as long as it has a free residual of chlorine, which acts as a disinfectant." Hill explains that his city has about 1 ppm (parts per million) free residual chlorine in its water. He says the chlorine is added to the water and provides a "shock treatment that actually disinfects the raw (untreated) water and then has some left over (residual chlorine), which floats freely to rid the water of any foreign material that may get into the system."

Oviedo's water official, A.M. Jones, echoes Hill's comments concerning the use of chlorine in disinfecting raw water, as does Casselberry's Utility Director Ed Keuling.

"We use enough chlorine to have a free residual of about one-half ppm by the time it gets to the end of the lines," Jones says. "We'll use more than that at times if we've been working on the lines or whatever, but that's just to rid the lines and water of anything getting into the system."

"Our free chlorine residual runs at about 28 (ppm)," Keuling notes. "At the plant we keep it about 1.5 (ppm), but it varies upon need."

Altamonte Springs, Oviedo and Casselberry serve the water needs of about 24,000 people, 3,200 people and 13,000 people respectively. The average cost to residents for the service is $5.33 for 7,000 gallons, $8.33 for about 8,427 gallons and $14.25 for slightly over 2,000 gallons respectively, officials say.

"In the last 2 1/2 years I've spent $300,000 on wells and $250,000 on equipment — none of which is government money — and we have one of the largest and best water systems around," Keuling says of Casselberry's 12 wells and two overhead reservoirs. "And I've got enough water in my three larger wells so that if all the others ran out of water tomorrow I would have enough for this city. One major reason for our situation is that we are piping into one of the best and deepest aquifers around, The Floridan, or Florida aquifer. We've got enough water to last us 25 years or better right here."

Jones says his city also has "plenty of water" but that Oviedo voted to go along with recent conservation efforts in the county to "help everyone else who was running low on water." He says the city has three wells, all located in a triangle about 1,000 to 1,500 feet apart.

Hill was the only one of the three water experts who voiced immediate concern for a depleting water supply.

"We need to pay attention to our water supply," he says. "It is dangerously low and people need to conserve. Sure, we have enough now, but what about later on? Look at restaurants in California. You won't get a glass of water with your meal there, because they don't have enough to just give it away."

"Our water supply is like a bank," he continues. "You can't continually make withdrawals without also making an occasional substantial deposit. And we just haven't had that much rainfall to credit the account, yet people are still using the same amount of water."

Hill says Altamonte Springs is looking into methods of conserving water, including plans to alert the public to con-

Turnovers

Spinach Gives Snack A Florentine Touch

With summer in the air, you might want to give your menus a fresh, new flavor. Florentine Egg Turnovers can do just that as well as provide the fringe benefits of good nutrition and economy! For people on the go, the recipe is also a time-saver.

The ingredients include convenient frozen spinach and refrigerated crescent rolls to cut preparation time. And, if you hard cook the eggs in advance, the recipe will be a snap to put together on serving day.

The turnover filling of sunny eggs and green spinach not only satisfied the eye, it helps satisfy the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances for protein, vitamins and minerals. With the filling and the rolls, this is one of those prized recipes that contributes representatives from all of the basic four food groups. And, since eggs are the main protein source, you're getting this good nutrition economically!

One Florentine Egg Turnover, with its zesty Mustard Sauce, makes a savory snack. Two make a main dish serving equally fitting for family or guests.

FLORENTINE EGG TURNOVERS

8 snack or 4 main-dish servings

- 2 eggs
 - 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 - 6 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
 - 1 package (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach, thawed and drained
 - 1/4 cup (2 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese
 - 3 tablespoons instant minced onion
 - 2 packages (8 oz. ea.) refrigerated crescent rolls
 - Mustard Sauce (recipe below)
- In medium bowl, beat 1 egg with lemon juice. Stir in chopped eggs, spinach, cheese and onion. Set aside. Separate roll dough into triangles. Spread about 1-3rd cup reserved egg-spinach mixture in center of each of 8 triangles. Top with remaining triangles. Pinch edges to seal. Place on greased baking sheet. Beat remaining egg and brush on top of each turnover. Bake in preheated 350 degree F. oven until golden brown, about 15 to 20 minutes. Serve warm with Mustard Sauce.

MUSTARD SAUCE

(Makes about 1/4 cup)

- 1 egg
 - 1/4 cup water
 - 1/4 cup vinegar
 - 2 tablespoons sugar
 - 1 1/2 tablespoons dry mustard
 - 1 tablespoon butter
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - Dash nutmeg
- Place all ingredients in blender container or small mixing bowl. Cover and blend or beat with electric or rotary beater at medium speed until well blended. Pour into small saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, just until sauce begins to boil. Remove from heat. Refrigerate any extra sauce.

Florentine Egg Turnovers make a savory snack.

Leftovers

Of Mexican Favorites

In Mexico, stale corn tortillas and other leftovers are never thrown away, but are recycled by resourceful cooks into a tasty dish called chilaquiles. Here's a delicious version named "Chilaquiles Casserole".

"Chilaquil" actually means a broken-up old sombrero. As the name implies, the tortillas are torn or cut into strips or wedges, then fried in hot oil until stiff and tough — but don't let them become crisp and brown like chips.

Chilaquiles Casserole calls for shredded chicken, but shredded beef, ground beef or shredded turkey would be equally delicious. Just simmer the meat or poultry with onions, chopped tomatoes, chicken broth and ripe olives. Layer in a casserole with the tortillas, top with sour cream, cheese and olives, and bake. It's quick, easy and economical.

CHILAQUILES CASSEROLE

- 1 dozen stale corn tortillas
 - 1/2 cup chopped onion
 - 2 tablespoons oil
 - 2 large tomatoes, finely chopped
 - 1 pound cooked and shredded chicken (about 2 cups)
 - 1 10-ounce can chicken broth or 1-1/4 cups homemade stock
 - 1 envelope (1-1/4 ounce) taco seasoning mix
 - 1 4-ounce can chopped green chiles
 - 1 cup pitted California ripe olives
 - 1/2 cup sour cream
 - 1 cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese
- Garnishes: whole pitted ripe olives, radish roses, shredded lettuce, chopped onion, cilantro, avocado slices.
- If tortillas are not stale, dry slowly in a low (200 degree) oven for 20 minutes to one hour. Cut tortillas into strips or wedges and fry in hot oil until chewy and tough — not crisp. Drain well on paper towels and salt lightly.

Slice ripe olives, reserving four for the top. In a large skillet, saute onions in oil until transparent. Add tomatoes and cook briefly. Add shredded chicken, chicken broth, taco seasoning mix and green chiles. Simmer uncovered 10-15 minutes. Stir sliced olives into chili mixture. Make several layers each of tortillas and the chili mixture in a 2-quart casserole. Spread top with sour cream. Sprinkle on grated cheese, then reserved olives. Bake uncovered at 375 degrees for 20 minutes. Serve with garnishes. Serves 6.

Perfect End To Special Dinner

Looking for a light, sweet dessert to end a special dinner party?

Try pears with almond cream. These may be prepared partially in advance with canned pears and a rich custard sauce with almond liqueur topping poached meringues. This is a dessert you'll want to serve often.

PEARS WITH ALMOND CREAM

- 1 can (29 ounces) Bartlett pear halves
 - 3 large egg yolks
 - 3 tablespoons sugar
 - 1 tablespoon flour
 - Dash salt
 - 1 cup half-and-half
 - 1/4 cup almond liqueur
 - Poached Meringues
 - Sliced almonds
- Drain pears; set aside. Beat yolks, gradually add sugar, beating until mixture thickens and is pale yellow in color. Beat in flour and salt. Gradually add half-and-half. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until custard heavily coats spoon. Do not boil. Add liqueur; remove from heat and cool quickly by placing pan in bowl of ice water. Place plastic wrap directly on surface of custard; refrigerate until chilled. To serve, place 1 Poached Meringue in each individual dessert dish. Top with pear half; spoon about 1/4 cup custard over pears. Garnish with almonds. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings.

MERINGUES: Beat 2 egg whites and dash salt until soft peaks form. Gradually add 1/4 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time; beat well after each addition until stiff peaks form. In skillet, simmer 3 cups water or milk; drop 6 mounds of meringue on water. Cook slowly, about 5 minutes or until meringues are set; with slotted spoon or spatula remove from pan and drain on towels. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings.

Ground Beef In A Variety Of Favorites

This column is a continuation of last week's using ground meat as the basis for all the recipes.

In addition to meat loaf and meat balls lean ground beef can be used for a wide variety of casseroles and meat entrees.

A favorite way to serve ground beef is Stuffed Green Peppers. The peppers are plentiful and a good buy now so it is a good time to try this one dish meal.

STUFFED GREEN PEPPERS

- 4 large green peppers
- 1 lb. ground beef
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup chopped celery
- 1 can (16 oz.) tomato paste
- 1 cup cooked rice
- 1 teaspoon seasoned salt
- Minced garlic optional

Cut tops off the peppers, chop tops and set aside. Core and seed peppers. Place up in 8 x 8 dish.

Crumble ground beef into a 2 qt. casserole, add onions, celery and chopped green peppers.

Microwave 100 percent power 4-6 minutes or until meat is cooked and vegetables are tender. Stir, drain. Add remaining ingredients and mix together well. Fill peppers with stuffing mixture. Cover with plastic wrap. Microwave at 100 percent power 8-11 minutes or until peppers are tender.

For a quick, hot sandwich try these Untidy Josephs. The canned soup makes this especially easy.

UNTIDY JOSEPHS (Sloppy Joes)

- 1 lb. ground beef
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1 can chicken gumbo soup
- 1/2 cup catsup
- 1/4 cup brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 2 teaspoons mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Crumble ground beef into 2 qt. casserole; add onion.

Microwave at 100 percent power 4-6 minutes or until meat is cooked and onion is tender. Stir to break up meat and drain. Mix in remaining ingredients. Microwave at 100 percent power 5-7 minutes or until well heated. Spoon on sandwich buns. Serves 4-6.

This is another easy on the budget dish that is convenient and stretches that 1 pound of beef to serve 4-6 persons.

BEEF AND BEAN POT

- 4 slices bacon, cut in small pieces
- 1 lb. ground beef
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1 medium apple, peeled and diced
- 1 can (16 oz.) pork and beans in tomato sauce
- 1/4 cup molasses
- 1/4 cup barbecue sauce

Place bacon in 2 qt. casserole. Cover with paper towel. Microwave at 100 percent power 4-6 minutes or until crisp. Add crumbled ground beef, onion, and apple. Microwave at 100 percent power 4-6 minutes. Stir to break up meat, drain. Add all remaining ingredients.

Microwave 100 percent power 7-9 minutes or until hot and bubbly. Stir after half the cooking time.

Here are three quick-fix tuna treats which provide the right kind of nutritious "fuel" for active, sports-minded youngsters. Shown above clockwise: Sea Sprout Cakes, 1-2-3 Tuna Chili and Hot Tuna Handies.

Canned Tuna: Lovable, Dependable, Edible

Here are three new treats for jet-action juniors. One's a brand new idea, a tuna sandwich "handy." It's simply another version of the French toast sandwich; only this one uses just one slice of bread to engulf the tuna filling, like a turnover, for easy out-of-hand eating.

Another treat, called Sea Sprout Cakes, a mini-pancakes made with bean sprouts (or any kind of sprouts) and tuna. And to complete the trio, there's 1-2-3 Tuna Chili, a rippy put together of canned kidney beans, tuna, sauce and cheese.

When you come down to it, you don't need to be a teenager to enjoy this kind of food. Each of these recipes makes a flavorful, no-hassle main dish, morning, noon or night, for anyone and everyone.

HOT TUNA HANDIES

6 large slices whole wheat bread

1 can (16 1/2 or 7 ounces) tuna, drained

1/2 cup shredded Swiss cheese

1/4 cup unsalted sunflower seeds

1/4 cup mayonnaise

1 tablespoon sweet pickle relish

2 eggs

1/2 cup milk

1/4 cup butter or margarine

With rolling pin, roll each slice bread to 1/4-inch thickness. In large bowl combine tuna, cheese, sunflower seeds, mayonnaise and relish. Spoon 2 heaping tablespoons tuna mixture on each slice of bread; fold in half, press edges together with a fork. In pie plate beat eggs with milk. Dip both sides of sandwiches in egg mixture. In large skillet melt butter. Saute sandwiches on both sides until golden brown. Serve hot. Yield: 6 sandwiches or 3 servings.

SEA SPROUT CAKES

6 eggs

1 1/2 cups fresh bean sprouts, washed and drained

1 can (16 1/2 or 7 ounces) tuna, drained

1/2 cup chopped scallions

1/4 cup sliced almonds

1/2 teaspoon hot pepper sauce

2 tablespoons vegetable oil

In large bowl beat eggs. Add bean sprouts, tuna, scallions, almonds and hot pepper sauce. Lightly oil a heated griddle. Pour egg mixture, one-third cup at a time, onto griddle. Cook until bottom is set. Turn pancake and cook other side. Yield: 6 pancakes; 3 servings.

1-2-3 TUNA CHILI

1 tablespoon vegetable oil

1 medium onion, sliced

1 jar (15 1/2 ounces) prepared spaghetti sauce (about 1 cups)

1 can (15 1/2 ounces) red kidney beans, drained

1 can (16 1/2 or 7 ounces) tuna, drained

2 teaspoons chili powder

4 corn muffins, toasted

1 cup shredded (4 ounces) Monterey Jack cheese

In medium saucepan heat oil; saute onion until tender. Add spaghetti sauce, kidney beans, tuna and chili powder. Simmer 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Spoon tuna chili over toasted corn muffins. Sprinkle with shredded cheese. Yield: 4 servings.

Make Ice Cream In Few Minutes

Here's a homemade maple-ice cream so old-fashioned rich and delicious that your party guests will think you spent hours cranking a freezer in your back yard!

But, believe it or not, it takes no longer than 10 minutes to whip the cream and fold it (don't mix it) into a combination of sweetened condensed milk, maple flavored table syrup, chopped nuts, rum and salt. What could be simpler?

You'll love the way the maple flavored table syrup provides the sweetness and the rich maple-y flavor that goes so well with the "crunch" of chopped walnuts or pecans. Maple Crunch Ice Cream doesn't even require an ice cream freezer. It is spooned into a 9x5-inch loaf pan. Tightly wrapped in foil, it can be made two weeks before your shower or patio party.

Maple-y Crunch Ice

Cream

One 14-oz. can sweetened condensed milk

2-3rd cup maple flavored table syrup
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 to 2 tablespoons rum
Dash of salt

1 pt. (2 cups) heavy cream, whipped
In large bowl, combine all ingredients except whipped cream; mix well. Fold in whipped cream. Spoon into 9x5-inch loaf pan. Cover; freeze about 6 hours or until firm. Scoop into dessert dishes to serve. Makes about 1 1/2 pint.

Peach Of A Treat

Fresh juicy peaches always are a treat. However, when they are blended into a rich chocolate, cream cheese and whipped cream pie, it's heaven time.

This is a dessert just right for the warmer weather.
PEACH PIE COOL.

Crust:

1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 cup flour
2 tablespoons powdered sugar

Custard:

1/4 cup light cream
2 ounces semi-sweet chocolate, broken
1 egg yolk

Filling:

2 pounds fresh California peaches (5 to 6 medium)
1 package unflavored gelatin

1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened

1/4 cup granulated sugar
1 cup whipping cream, whipped

Crust: In small bowl, cut butter into flour and powdered sugar until crumbly. Press on bottom and 1 inch up sides of buttered 9x5-inch spring form pan. Prick with fork. Bake in 425-degree oven 8 to 10 minutes or until golden. Cool.

Custard: In small saucepan, heat cream and chocolate until chocolate has melted. (Do not boil.) Quickly whisk in egg yolk; cook 2 minutes. Pour chocolate mixture over crust, spreading evenly. Cool.

Filling: In small saucepan, soften gelatin in 1/4 cup water; then dissolve over low heat. Set aside. Into blender, slice enough peaches, unpeeled, to measure 2 cups. Puree (there should be 1 1/2 cups puree. Add cream cheese, sugar and dissolved gelatin; blend smooth. Pour into bowl; chill until syrupy. Fold in whipped cream; pour into crust. Chill 2 hours or overnight. To serve, garnish with additional whipped cream, peach slices and chocolate curls, if desired. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 servings.

Chicken Dish A Classic

Chickens came to America with Christopher Columbus and the many colonists who followed. You might say chickens were among our nation's earliest, and most delectable, settlers.

One recipe that has become a classic in this regard is saucy Glorified Chicken. Since it was developed at Campbell Soup's Creative Food Center just 20 years ago, it has appeared in cookbooks, newspapers, magazines and also on soup can labels, radio, TV — and countless dinner tables.

Simplicity is the secret of its success. What could be easier than smothering browned chicken parts in a can of condensed soup and simmering to tasty perfection? Cheddar cheese, cream of celery, chicken or mushroom soups all give great results.

Generations of chicken-lovers have found this dish convenient for family meals, yet dressy enough for company.

Glorified Chicken
2 pounds chicken parts
2 tablespoons shortening
1 can (10 3/4 ounces) Cheddar Cheese, Cream of Celery, Chicken or Mushroom Soup

In skillet, brown chicken in shortening. Pour off fat. Stir in soup. Cover; cook over low heat 45 minutes or until done. Stir occasionally. Makes 4 servings.

Shape Up With A Turkey Salad

Warm summer days call for light summer foods. A cool refreshing salad like Shape-Up Turkey Salad is nutritious with an eye on the number of calories.

Cubes of cooked turkey are featured in this tasty salad.

Turkey is high in protein and low in fat. Buy cooked turkey breast at the deli or use leftover turkey. Water chestnuts and toasted sesame seeds add a crunch to this summer delight.

And garden produce of lettuce, green onions and tomatoes can also add color and freshness to this luncheon salad or lite dinner recipe.

So take a bite, and enjoy the tastes of summer in Shape-Up Turkey Salad.

SHAPE-UP TURKEY SALAD

- 4 cups (1/2 med. head) lettuce, torn into 1" pieces
- 2 cups cooked, cubed turkey
- 8 oz. water chestnuts, sliced 1/2"
- 2 green onions, cut into 1" pieces

Evening Herald, Sanford, FL Wednesday, May 5, 1982 - 78

- 2 med. tomatoes, each cut into 8 wedges
- 2 tablespoons toasted sesame seeds

1/2 cup low calorie or regular Italian salad dressing.
In 3-qt. bowl toss together all ingredients except salad dressing. Refrigerate until chilled (1/2 to 1 hr.). Toss with salad dressing just before serving. Yield: 4 (2 cup) servings. 216 calories/serving.

MOMS IN OUR LIFE...

Mothers Day

Good Eating Guide

A contractor is very important to any construction job. He is the one that supervises the work, and the one who makes decisions on what materials to use.

Whether you realize it or not, you too are a contractor working on one of the biggest jobs of our time... your body. Construction began at birth, and won't be completed until your last breath is taken. You are responsible for the job that is done, so where do you begin? With the foundation... your skeletal structure.

Any builder knows the importance of a good foundation, whether the project is an office building or a body. One is built with cement, and the other with calcium.

There's little debate in nutrition circles over the importance of calcium for strong, healthy bones. In fact, this mineral is the most abundant one found in your body, making up 1.5 to 2 percent of your total weight.

But doesn't the need for calcium level off after the teen years? At first thought one would think so, but after realizing what calcium does, it is obvious that this is one mineral needed throughout construction.

Granted, your bones do not get any larger after adulthood, but they do continue to repair and reform themselves — a process they need lots of calcium for. In fact, your bones will replace 20 percent of their calcium content this year!

Aside from your bodily foundation, calcium is needed in other areas of major construction: It helps your muscles — including your heart — properly contract and relax; and also keeps your reflexes sharp. Building this body of yours requires the finest materials, and though cost is a factor, it's nice to know that there is a supplier who offers quality at an affordable price: milk and milk products.

Just two 8-oz. glasses of milk provide three-fourths of the adult recommended dietary allowance of calcium, and most milk is fortified with vitamin D, which helps your body absorb the calcium. Yogurt, cheeses, and cottage cheese are also very good suppliers.

Other foods besides milk, such as sardines, salmon, turnip and collard greens, sweet potatoes, and soy products, contain calcium and are fairly good sources.

Roast A Lime-Y Chicken

LIME ROASTED CHICKEN

- 1 frying chicken (about 3 pounds)
 - 3 to 4 fresh Florida limes
 - 1/4 cup salad oil
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 - 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
 - 1 tablespoon capers
 - 2 cooked carrots
 - 2 leeks
 - 3 boiled potatoes, peeled
 - 1/2 lb. raw mushrooms
- Place chicken in roasting pan. Juice enough limes to make 1/4 cup juice. Mix with oil, salt, pepper, parsley and capers. Pour over chicken and into cavity. Marinate 1 hour, turning frequently. Bake in 400 degree oven 1 hour or until done, basting and turning every 20 minutes. 20 minutes before chicken is done, add cooked vegetables and mushrooms to pan, basting with marinade. To serve: garnish casserole with slices of lime. Carve chicken; serve with vegetables, spooning juices over servings. Makes 4 servings.

Cutting Calcium Not Always Wise

DEAR DR. LAMB - My husband, age 82, is in good health. However, he had a calcium stone in one kidney two years ago. He was hospitalized for 13 days and was able to pass the stone. Since that time he has had no other stones and recent X-rays show nothing is forming. He drinks almost two quarts of milk a day.

everyone will agree on this recommendation.

Dr. Roy Mally of Stanford's medical renal clinic states in calcium oxalate stones the calcium should only be reduced if the intake is excessive.

To give you a different view on the management of stones I'm sending you The Health Letter number 11-2, Kidney Stones: Treatment Has Changed. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper.

This concerns me because I feel lack of milk products will weaken his bones in the long run leading to a tendency to broken bones. What is your opinion?

DEAR READER - You have a right to be concerned. A large portion of fractures in later years are because of weakened bones from calcium loss. And the condition is much more likely in a person who has been on a calcium-deficient diet. Since much of the calcium in many vegetables cannot be absorbed it is likely that your husband is on a calcium-deficient diet.

DEAR READER - Even though winter is over it is a good time to be concerned about the management of stones. They last for five years. They protect you from pneumonia caused by the pneumococcus bacteria. Not all pneumonia is caused by this bacteria but it is common enough and serious enough to make it wise for people to have the vaccination. Not all pneumococcal pneumonias respond readily to antibiotic treatment and the vaccination may be life saving.

I don't agree with restricting calcium in most calcium stone cases. Neither do most medical renal specialists. Urologists, on the other hand, frequently suggest restricting calcium. If you don't consume enough calcium your body simply robs your bones of its calcium stores to build up the level in the blood.

Some authorities would say your husband has a metabolically inactive problem, because he has had no stones or evidence of stones for more than a year. In that case those authorities would only ask that he drink enough fluids to pass two or three quarts of urine a day and the fluid should be taken frequently enough to ensure a good flow all 24 hours. Most

Flu is caused by a virus and the strains vary from year to year. Each year when the most likely type of virus is identified, new vaccines are made available. Older people, and those with heart or lung disease, should have one of these each fall. They save lives. Plan now to get yours this fall. And get a new flu shot every year.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Thursday, May 6, 1962

YOUR BIRTHDAY May 6, 1962
Alliances into which you enter for other than business purposes will prove of mutual benefit to all concerned this coming year. However, be careful with whom you team up for commercial reasons.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
You are likely to be luckier today in involvements which require team effort than you will be from things where you are acting independently. Predictions of what's in store for you in each season following your birth date and where your luck and opportunities lie are in your Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
This could be a lucky day work or careerwise. Should anything opportune develop you must move on it quickly or all may be lost.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Romantically, this could be a red letter day for unattached Cancers. That special someone may finally enter the picture.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Make the necessary effort today to finalize matters which you deem to be the most important. Expediency is necessary. You might be luckier now than later.

VERGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 23)
Associate place considerable importance on your words today and they'll remember for a long time what you have to say. Offer encouragement to all you encounter.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Your material prospects look encouraging today. Lady Luck will do all she can to help you get the cash register ringing if she sees you're really trying.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23)
Delegate as little as possible today. Anything you personally put your hand to should turn out more fortunately than if others do it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)
Something propitious is developing for you at this time, but it may be screened from your view. You won't learn of it until later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 19)
In your dealings today go right to the top person rather than through underlings, if there's something you want done. You're in tune with those who have clout.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
The odds tend to favor you today in situations which have competitive elements. Don't duck the challenge if fate tosses down the gauntlet.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Anything within reason which you believe yourself capable of doing today, you can do. In your case, a positive attitude will work wonders.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
By using your smarts today you should be able to build something more substantial from an already profitable situation. Lady Luck will help you spot it.

splinter bid. A jump to four of a minor suit is a forcing raise with a singleton in the suit bid. A jump to three no-trump shows a singleton in the other major. These splinter bids also show 11 or 12 high card points. With more points you either use the Jacoby two no-trump or simply bid a side suit.

These splinter responses have extended to some rubber bridge games and North's three no-trump call showed 11 or 12 HCP and a singleton spade.

This made it rather easy for South to move toward a slam despite the paucity of high card points in the combined hands. He started with a four club bid to see if North could show signs of life.

North's four diamond call showed the ace and South was able to bid four no-trump. North's response showed two aces and South could now bid the easy slam.

Had trumps broken 3-0, South would have had to do a little work. When they broke 2-1 he claimed with six natural trump tricks, two trumps of spades and one spade discard on the club queen.

Man's 'Changing' To Woman Not Easy, But A Lifesaver

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the woman signed "Nervous in Northridge" caught my eye. She said she had a baby boy who was so beautiful that strangers used to stop her on the street and say, "That child is much too beautiful to be a boy, he should have been a girl!"

As a baby boy I was never particularly beautiful, but dating back to my earliest recollections, I always felt that I should have been a girl.

As I matured, those feelings became so strong and painful that I often considered suicide rather than living the rest of my life in the "wrong" sex.

When I was 31, I wrote to you about my problem and you recommended a Dr. Paul Walker, who practiced gender identification therapy in San Francisco.

I went to see him, and after several treatments, I discovered that I was a bona fide transsexual. I decided to do whatever was necessary to become a woman physically. Dr. Walker explained what it entailed, and he guided me through the necessary stages.

The transition hasn't been easy, but it saved my life, and now I have a body that matches my mind and emotions. Best of all, I no longer have to pray to be a woman—I am one.

FROM HARRY TO HARRIETTE

DEAR ABBY: Last week I received an engraved invitation to my niece's wedding. Enclosed was a mimeographed suggestion: Because the bride and groom have everything they need, an ideal gift would be something that can be put into a pocket or purse. (I later learned that this letter was included in all the invitations — not only to family members.) Abby, the bride's family is extremely wealthy, but even if they were in modest circumstances, is it proper to send a "gift suggestion" along with an invitation?

I believe that a gift is just that—a gift—and I prefer to select a gift myself, but now I feel that I no longer have that option. How should I respond?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: Ignore the "suggestion," and select your own gift. It is never proper to "suggest" a gift, unless, of course, the giver asks for suggestions.

DEAR ABBY: Mother's Day will soon be here, and I wish you would say something in your column to remind "young marrieds" to remember their mothers-in-law, too—even if it's only a card or a note. There were so many years when I should have remembered my mother-in-law, but I was too "busy."

This year I will send her a spray of flowers — to the cemetery — bitterly regretting that I failed to send her flowers while she was living. I should have appreciated her more, written her more about her grandchildren, whom she loved so much, and most of all I should have let her know how much I had grown to love her.

Dear Abby

I hope others will not make the same mistake I made, because next year may be too late.

CPO Gonterman Piped Over The Side

At a recent retirement ceremony at the HS-1 hanger at NAS Jacksonville, Florida, Senior Chief Petty Officer Gary R. Gonterman, a 1952 graduate of Roodhouse Community High School, Roodhouse, Ill., and his wife, Mardell, the daughter of Ruth and George Jameson of Jacksonville, Ill., were piped over the side in the traditional ceremony culminating a 30-year-1 month career.

Chief Gonterman was presented an autographed picture of President and Mrs. Reagan along with a letter of appreciation from President Reagan.

Sen. Chiles of Florida sent a flag that had flown over the White House on January 8, 1982 and a letter of appreciation, presented to Chief Gonterman by his daughter, Airman First Class Marga R. Clifton, U.S. Air Force.

The Gontermans will reside in Sunland Estates in Sanford with their daughter, Garma and son, Gary II.

League Slates Meetings

The subject under discussion at the day and evening unit meetings of the League of Women Voters of Seminole County will be the impact of the proposed changes in government funding on local programs. Under the original proposal, programs affecting women, infants and children would be seriously impacted. Health care programs and transportation are also affected.

The morning unit will meet May 12, at 9:30-9:30 a.m. at the United Presbyterian Church, Red Bug Road.

The evening unit will meet May 10, at 7:30 p.m. at 114 Live Oak Lane, Spring Valley, Altamonte Springs.

The Annual Meeting of LWV Seminole County will be held May 17, at 7:30 p.m. at the Altamonte Community Chapel, Altamonte Springs. Election of officers, and program items for 1982-83 will be voted on. Dessert will be served.

U.S. Representative Bill McCollum will be the featured speaker at the LWV of Seminole County Annual Luncheon on June 5 at the White Marlin Restaurant in Longwood. Rep. McCollum's subject will be "Immigration".

Golden Anniversary

Reception Honors Mr., Mrs. James Collins

MR. AND MRS. JAMES H. COLLINS

BY DORIS DEITRICH
OURSELVES Editor

Mr. and Mrs. James H. (Louise and Jim) Collins of Lake Mary, have reached a milestone in their lives—their golden wedding anniversary.

In celebration of the memorable occasion, a daughter, and her husband, Carolyn and Dick Moss of DeBary and Daytona Beach, entertained the couple at a May Day reception Saturday at the Longwood Village Inn, Longwood.

Local and out-of-town friends attended the festive fete which Louise describes as "just lovely." The Collinses received congratulations from President and Mrs. Hagan and a host of relatives and friends.

Another celebration was in order with the 50th anniversary observance. The Collinses grandson, Tom Ellnor, son of Carolyn Moss and Fred Ellnor of Daytona Beach, and a student at Admiral Farragut Academy, St. Petersburg, had the "Happy Birthday" song sung to him on his 18th birthday.

What is the secret for a lasting and successful 50-year relationship? Louise says, "it's a give and take proposition. You grow together."

The couple have another daughter, Susan Butcher of Tulsa, Okla., who was unable to attend the celebration. The Collinses have six grandchildren.

Louise and Jim were married April 30, 1932 in LaSalle, Ill. They lived there and in Oklahoma City, Tulsa and Daytona Beach before moving to Lake Mary in 1967.

Louise is a graduate of the University of Chicago. She was a homemaker before continuing her teaching career while her younger daughter was in High School. She taught high school English and speech in Oklahoma and English at Lyman High School, Longwood, for more than six years. She is a member of the Lake Mary Woman's Club and Seminole County Retired Teachers Association.

Jim, a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, has been in the oil business, accounting and automobile dealership. He is past president of the Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce and served on the Lake Mary Planning and Zoning Board. He is also a charter member of the Lake Mary Rotary Club.

The Collinses have traveled extensively throughout the United States and plan to attend the World's Fair in Knoxville, Tenn. They are members of the First Presbyterian Church of Sanford.

State MDA Good Will Ambassador

Danny Temple of Altamonte Springs, has been selected as the Muscular Dystrophy Association's goodwill ambassador for the state. The nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Temple has spinal muscular atrophy, one of the forty neuromuscular diseases covered by MDA's programs of research and patient care.

Danny is a fourth grade student at Forest City Elementary School and has many interests and hobbies, including science, travel, and drawing. His outgoing, happy nature and friendly smile will be seen by MDA supporters as he travels throughout Florida speaking on behalf of the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Danny says he is excited about traveling the state and "raising a lot of money for muscular dystrophy."

Cook Of The Week

Artistic Flair Reflected In Fine Fare Of India

By LOU CHILDERS
Herald Correspondent

Rheta Patten still loves the foods of the country where she was born — and she's not the only one. So does her husband, Terry. Rheta was born in Rentachintala, India, while her father, Dr. Herbert Stalling, was serving as a medical missionary in a Lutheran hospital.

"Mom brought home (to America) some of the recipes we'd grown fond of during their five and one-half years in India," says Rheta, "and one of my favorites is Biryani." Biryani, pronounced "beer-ee-on-ee," is a spicy beef stew with rice, and Rheta says even though she is fond of it, she cooks it only two or three times a year.

"Most of our friends like the curry recipes of India origin," she continues, "and once they've been over to our house for dinner, they keep asking, 'when are you going to have us back?'"

Rheta is a busy gal. Two days a week she teaches art at the Azalea Park Baptist School in Orlando, and the rest of her week is spent doing freelance art work from her home in Altamonte Springs. She received her Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree from The Columbus College of Art and Design in Columbus, Ohio, and admits that the "artistic touch" finds its way into her kitchen.

Part of Rheta's artistic touch is found on display of over 80 kitchen magnets that grace one entire side of her refrigerator. "Several of them were made by a friend who makes them out of dough recipe — the rest I've just acquired from time to time."

Since Rheta's profession (art) is a hobby to some folks, you wonder what her hobby is. Well, it's artistic, too, for in her spare time, she is playing around with a 35 MM camera, developing her own pictures!

Rheta also likes to bake "breads" — the kind with lots of nuts in them, the kind you serve to your next door neighbor with a cup of coffee. Two of her favorite recipes in this category are Date Nut Bread and Zucchini Bread.

Rheta and her husband, Terry, are typical Americans when it comes to enjoying food — they like a variety. "I cook spaghetti, lots of fresh vegetables, and chicken dishes," says Rheta. Jokingly she adds, "Even our two 'children,' Wilbur and Tibble are well-fed." (Wilbur and Tibble are "poo-poms," cute, little, fluffy canines!)

Rheta Patten, left, says one of her favorite recipes from India is Biryani, a spicy beef stew with rice. According to Mrs. Patten, 'Most of our friends like the curry recipes of India origin.' And the friends always want a repeat performance — another dinner invitation.

1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon grated onion
1 cup sour cream
24 oz. package frozen French style green beans
1/2 pound grated cheddar cheese
1/2 cup cornflake crumbs

Precook beans according to package directions and drain off any remaining water. Set aside. Combine 2 tablespoons butter and the flour, cook until well mixed. Stir in seasonings and sour cream. Remove from heat. Fold in beans. Place in 2 quart casserole. Cover with cheese, then with crumbs that have been tossed with the remaining 1 tablespoon of butter. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 30 minutes.

DATE NUT BREAD

1 tablespoon butter
2 cups sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 egg
3 cups flour
1 1/2 cups boiled water
1 1/4 cups chopped dates
1 cup chopped nuts
2 teaspoons soda
2 tablespoons hot water

In a large bowl, mix together butter, sugar, salt, egg and flour. Add boiled water, dates, nuts, soda and hot water, mixing well. Pour into two greased and floured loaf pans and bake for 45 minutes in a 375 degree oven.

ZUCCHINI BREAD

Cream together:
3 eggs, beaten
1 cup cooking oil
2 cups sugar
2 cups grated zucchini (do not peel)
2 teaspoons vanilla

Add:
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons cinnamon

Optional:
1/2 cup chopped nuts or raisins
When batter is mixed, pour into two greased and floured loaf pans. Bake for 1 hour in a 325 degree oven.

BIRIYANI

1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon coriander
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1 tablespoon curry powder
1 medium onion, chopped
2 cinnamon sticks
5 whole cloves
5 whole cardamoms
1 tomato, cubed
1 pound beef stew (round steak cut into cubes)
2 cups rice
3 red chili peppers

Fry onion in hot fat until brown. Add first 8 spices and mix well. Add beef cubes and tomato cubes, plus enough water to cover. Cook slowly until tender, adding small amounts of water when necessary. When beef is very tender, add 3/4 cup water, cinnamon sticks, cloves, cardamoms, chili peppers, and salt to taste. Add rice and stir well. Simmer until all water is dissolved and rice is tender. Stir frequently during cooking to prevent rice from burning. Biryani is especially delicious served with plain yogurt.

CHICKEN CURRY

3 chicken breasts
1 large onion, chopped
3 or 4 grated garlic cloves
1-inch fresh ginger, grated
1 teaspoon ground coriander curry powder to taste (start out with 1 tablespoon)
1 cinnamon stick
3 or 4 whole cloves
3 cardamoms

1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 cup fresh grated coconut

Brown onion in small amount of cooking oil. Add garlic and ginger. Brown. Add coriander, curry powder and coconut. (If too dry, add a little water.) Add chicken breasts, salt to taste, and toss until coated with spices. Add about 1 cup of water, cinnamon stick, cloves, cardamoms and cook 30 minutes covered or until chicken is fork-tender. When completely cooked, add 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

GREEN BEAN CASSEROLE

3 tablespoons melted butter
2 tablespoons flour

Very Special Art Festival Designed For The Disabled

The Council of Arts and Sciences for Central Florida is looking for participants in the performing and visual arts to take part in the second annual Very Special Arts Festival for the handicapped. Adults as well as children are encouraged to participate.

Activities will include exhibits, performances, workshops, and demonstrations by and for the handicapped. The festival will be held at the Expo Centre in downtown Orlando on Friday and Saturday.

The Very Special Arts Festival is a celebration of the talents and skills of children and adults with handicapping conditions. The objectives of the festival are to enhance talents and skills in the arts, to enhance learning and communication skills, and to bring talented people together with the community. Last year's Very Special Arts Festival was the first of its kind ever to be held in Central Florida. More than 450 disabled persons participated and over 1,000 people attended the festival which was held at Valencia Community College, West Campus.

The Very Special Arts Festival is being funded by grants from the National Committee-Arts and the Handicapped, the Florida Arts Council, United Way and Kiwanis clubs in the Central Florida area. Co-Sponsors with the Council of Arts and Sciences are Valencia Community College and Creadle Arts, Inc. Festival Chairman is Bette Howe, of the Florida Diagnostic and Learning Resource System.

Anyone interested in being a part of this very special celebration of the arts should contact Erin Miner at the Council of Arts and Sciences at (305) THE-ARTS (843-2787).

Briefly

Salerno, 5 Other Bouts

Set For Friday At Graham

Light-heavyweight James Salerno will headline a fight card Friday night at the Eddie Graham Sports Complex beginning at 8 in Orlando.

Tickets are $10 for ringside, $7 for reserved and $3 for general admission. They are available at the Fashion Square and Altamonte Malls and at the box office the night of the fight.

Salerno, 21-2, will fight Anthony Phillips, a bullish 5-foot, 11, 175 pounder from Savannah, Ga. "I don't know too much about him," said Salerno. "Just that he's strong and aggressive."

Salerno's manager Angelo Dundee feels a victory over Phillips could catapult the 20-year-old fighter into the light heavyweight rankings.

There will be five other bouts put together by promoter Wally Zuzak in addition to the Salerno-Phillips main event, which is slated for 10 rounds.

Gainesville's Tony "Hit Man" Servance will fight Lakeland's J.D. Johnson in a battle of heavyweights in an eight rounder. In a six rounder between welterweights, William "The Teacher" Tellair battles Desario DeJesus. In a lightweight matchup, Orlando's Orlando's Manny "Pepino" Vega goes against Bo Whyms.

Orlando's Vini Hammock, who has won a state Golden Gloves title, makes his pro debut against Gainesville's Marshall Washington. Hammock is a welterweight. The bout is set for four rounds.

In the evening's first bout, Orlandoan Archie Cruz fights Savannah's Joe Virgil in a four round battle.

Brantley Golfers At State

District 6 golf champion Lake Brantley opens competition in the state golf meet today at the Bent Tree Golf Course in Sarasota.

The Patriots are led by Reid Callahan who fired a 75 to pace Brantley in the district win. He is joined by Bob Underwood, Mike Binford, David Turley and Brian Lentz.

The tournament is a 36-hole affair with the second round Thursday.

Islanders Gain Cup Finals

United Press International
Following their 4-2 victory Tuesday night over the Quebec Nordiques that pushed them into the Stanley Cup finals, the New York Islanders headed home for a well-deserved rest.

The two-time defending Stanley Cup champions will play the winner of the Vancouver Canucks-Chicago Black Hawks series for the Stanley Cup. Vancouver took a 3-1 series lead with a 5-3 triumph Tuesday.

Sanford's Pringle In The Chips With Degree, Oakland Contract

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

Around August of every year, when the National Football League opens pre-season camp, young boys around the nation will break out their helmets and dream of professional football stardom.

And, when your neighborhood has the likes of Greg Pringle, Tim Raines and Charles Riggins in it, dreaming and accomplishing fall into the same category.

On Sunday Pringle accomplished his dream, signing as a free agent with the Oakland Raiders. You already know of Raines' success in baseball and Riggins was recently drafted by the Green Bay Packers — not bad Sanford.

"I have my destiny in my own hands now," Pringle said from Orangeburg, South Carolina where he attends South Carolina State University. "It's going to take a lot of hard work but I'm going to Oakland with the same attitude and determination I've had throughout my career.

Pringle was surprised that he was not taken in the NFL's draft. "I thought I should have went in the draft, Oakland seemed really interested in me. They traded away a couple of their last draft picks, maybe that's why I wasn't drafted."

Pringle said he owed a lot to his cousin, Mickey Pringle, who had the most influence on his playing career. "He played before me at Seminole and I learned a lot from him, he backed me the most of anyone."

Pringle played defensive end at Seminole High when the Tribe had the third-ranked team in the state. He and Riggins were both All-Conference defensive ends (in 1976) on a team that was 11-0. "Pringle was the quickest of the two," Seminole Coach Jerry Posey said. "They built a reputation of defense at Seminole High that stuck for years after they were gone."

"Notes were conference change in '76 and the defense shut out its opponents four times. Coach Posey helped me out a lot," Pringle said. "He's done a lot for the school, he's a good coach."

When Pringle entered college at South Carolina State he had two adjustments to make. One: he had to adjust to college academics. Two: he had to adjust from defensive end to strong safety.

"It was a little rocky going from defensive end to safety but I've always had a positive attitude and confidence in myself. This is also a tough academic school and I've had to work hard at that." Pringle's hard work has paid off, not only is he looking at a professional football career but he will also get his college diploma this Sunday.

Last season was Pringle's first as a starter at SC State and he said that may have had something to do with his not being drafted. In his first season as a starter, Pringle played in 11 regular season games, had 15 solo tackles, 14 assists, 3 quarterback sacks, 2 fumble recoveries and two interceptions.

"Now Pringle will try to make it into one of the toughest defensive backfields in the NFL. "It's a thrill to be playing along side of guys like Lester Hayes. Oakland has a tremendous secondary and they seem like they have confidence in me. I'm just going to try my hardest and go in with a positive attitude," Pringle said.

With the confidence and attitude Pringle has, he should be a welcome addition to the Oakland Raiders but he hasn't forgotten Sanford, the place he grew up.

"I owe a lot to Sanford, I wouldn't be where I am now if it wasn't for that town," he added.

Celtics, 76ers Seek Clinchers Too

Gervin, Spurs Look For Knockout

United Press International
George Gervin, the NBA's leading scorer, knows what it's like to be up 3-1 in the playoffs — and what can happen.

Gervin and forward Mark Olberding are the only two remaining players from the 1979 San Antonio team that blew a 3-1 advantage to the Washington Bullets in the Eastern Conference finals.

"We'll be looking for that KO in Seattle," said Gervin. "I've been in this spot before. I've been ahead, 3-1, before. That's why I realize it isn't over yet."

Coming into this year's quarter-final matchup with the Seattle SuperSonics, the Spurs had won just one of six playoff series since joining the NBA in 1977.

NBA Playoffs

The Spurs have been outscored by the SuperSonics, 417-408, in the first four games of their best-of-seven playoff series, but clutch shooting in Games 1, 3 and 4 resulted in two-point San Antonio victories in each. Seattle's only win was a 114-99 blowout in Game 2.

Game 5 will be played in Seattle's Kingdome Wednesday night. The winner of the series meets the Los Angeles Lakers, who swept Phoenix four straight.

The Spurs apparently benefitted from a week of intensive workouts in El Paso while Seattle was disposing of Houston in a three-game mini-series. San Antonio center George

Johnson said the Spurs practiced late-game situations during their workouts.

"Seattle is a fine team — I don't think they'll really crumble," said Johnson. "It's a matter of which team makes fewer mistakes."

Gervin and Mike Bratt hit game-winning shots with seconds left in Games 1 and 3 for the Spurs while Dave Corzine's free throws and rebounding down the stretch helped San Antonio take Game 4.

The SuperSonics are attempting to become only the fifth team in NBA history to win a seven-game series after falling behind, 3-1.

The Celtics and the Philadelphia 76ers will join the Spurs in seeking series-clinching victories Wednesday night and the completion of the semifinal pairings in the NBA's playoffs.

The Celtics, gunning to become the first team to win two straight NBA titles since the 1968-69 Boston clubs, can oust the Washington Bullets with a victory in Boston. Should the Bullets prolong the series, Game 6 would be played Friday night in Washington.

The 76ers, who haven't won an NBA championship since 1967, also will have the home-court advantage when they oppose the Milwaukee Bucks, with a sixth game tentatively scheduled in Milwaukee Friday night.

The Celtics and 76ers have met in the Eastern Conference finals the last two years, with each team winning once.

Bellamy Tosses No-Hitter

Reginald "Cheese" Bellamy pitched a no-hit shutout and Sammy Edwards stroked a double and two singles Tuesday to lead Adcock Roofing to a 10-0 win over S&H Fabricating and Engineering in the Sanford Little American League.

Adcock improved its record to 9-0 with the win.

Little American

In other games, Atlantic Bank whipped Jack Prosser Ford 26-3, while Krayola Kollege rallied to beat Butch's Chevron 20-13.

Three games are scheduled for today in the Sanford Little National League. Unbeaten Poppa Jay's plays First Federal of Seminole at 5 p.m. at Westside Field, while Hinker Materials plays Cardinal Industries in the 5 p.m. game at Fort Mellon Park. The Railroaders play Sunland Corporation at 7 p.m. at Fort Mellon Park.

In Sanford Junior League action at Chase Park, Knights of Columbus plays Moose at 5 p.m., while Elks tangles with Kiwanis at 7:15.

Bellamy fanned a dozen S&H batters in the five-inning contest. He allowed only four base runners, three on walks and one on an error. S&H never had more than one base runner any inning.

Adcock Roofing led only 4-0 after three innings, but scored five runs in the fourth to break the game open.

Edwards had three of his team's 10 hits. Reginald Bellamy, Bobby Bew and Bernard Mitchell added doubles.

Atlantic Bank broke open a 2-2 tie with 15 runs in the top of the second and then scored seven times in the third.

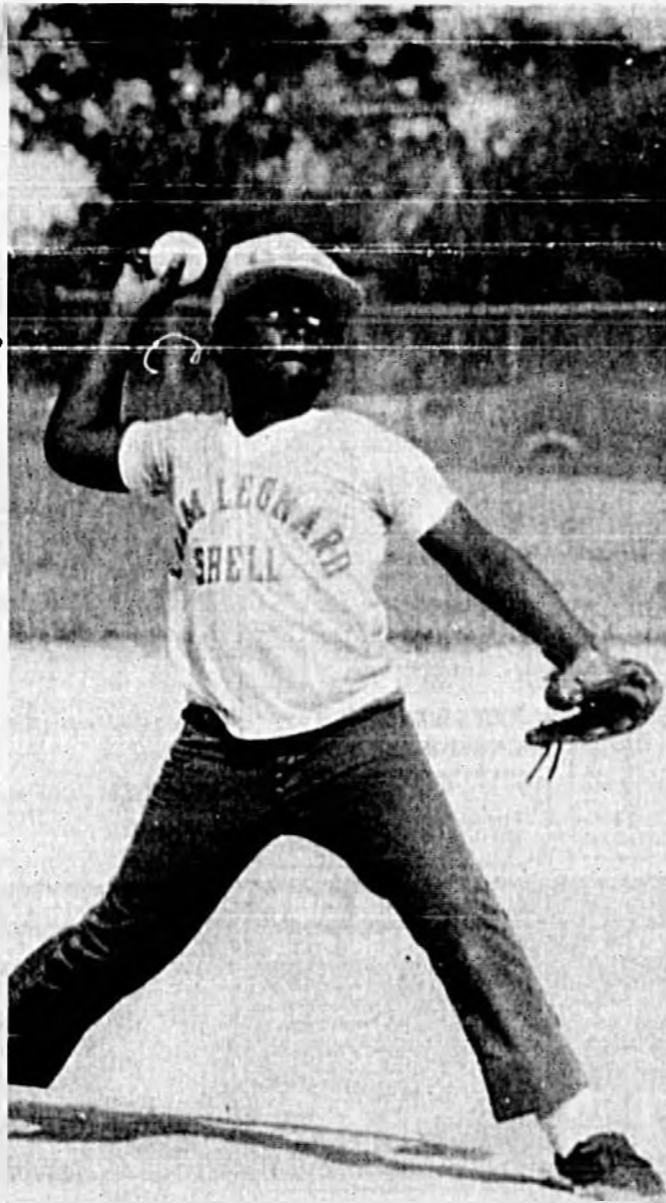

Leading Atlantic Bank's 16-hit attack was John Shuler with three home runs and a triple. He drove in six runs.

Michael Jump had a triple and double for the winners. James Cox had a double and single and George Wood and Leslie Thomas added two singles apiece.

Kyle Faulkner had a double and single for Jack Prosser Ford.

Krayola Kollege was out-scored 4-1 in the first inning, but scored eight runs in the top of the second for a 9-4 lead.

Butch's Chevron regained the lead, 11-10, with six runs in the fourth, but Krayola Kollege scored 10 (lines in the top of the fifth.

Clem Leonard Shell righthander Al Perkins fires a fastball at Rusty Keeling Tuesday night in the opening game of the Sanford Pee Wee League season. Perkins struck out seven batters while helping Shell to an 11-7 victory. Clem Leonard and manager Gary Taylor are the defending champions.

Keeling, meanwhile, is taking a rip at the Perkins' fastball for Kokomo Tools. Clem Leonard Shell wasn't too nice a host, roughing up Kokomo, 11-7, in the Tools first game in the Sanford Pee Wee League. The Pee Wees go at it again Thursday at Chase Park.

Perkins Perking In Shell Victory

Defending champ Clem Leonard Shell opened the 1982 Sanford Pee Wee League season Tuesday with an 11-7 win over Kokomo Tools.

Pee Wee

In other games, Gracey Construction Co. nipped Adcock Roofing 9-4, while McRoberts Tires topped Butch's Chevron 17-4.

Clem Leonard Shell's winning pitcher, Al Perkins, pitched three innings and didn't allow a hit while striking out eight. At one point he fanned seven batters in a row.

Michael Taylor belted a triple and double to pace Clem Leonard Shell at the plate. Perkins also had a double and Anthony Roberts added a single.

Kokomo Tools managed three hits, all off reliever Michael Taylor in the fourth inning. The three hits were collected by Rusty Keeling, Wesley Wade and Bill Rutherford.

With the score tied 3-3, Gracey Construction scored four runs in the bottom of the second and Adcock Roofing could never catch up.

Adcock scored three runs in the top of fourth and had the tying run on third when the rally died.

W.L. Gracey went the distance for the mound decision for Gracey Construction. He also led his team in hitting with a triple and single. James Jackson had a home run and Keith Armond added a double.

Three Adcock players finished with two hits apiece. Amos Sparrow had a triple and single, Tony Chavers had a double and single and Erskine Howard had two singles.

McRoberts Tires jumped out to a 10-0 lead with four runs in the first and six in the second.

Butch's Chevron scored four runs in the bottom of the second, but McRoberts Tires charged right back with seven runs in the top of the third.

Brice Keal had a home run for the winners, Floyd Henderson slapped a double and ELOY Moreno added a single.

Shawn Washington had the only two hits for Butch's Chevron, a triple and double.

Red Sox Win 13-Of-14 Games

Hurst Masters Mechanics, Minnesota

United Press International Boston pitcher Bruce Hurst wasn't ready for the major leagues in 1980 but now it appears the majors aren't ready for him — or the Red Sox. Hurst worked seven innings Tuesday night and gave up three runs — all unearned — to lead Boston to its fifth straight victory and 13th in its last 14 games, a 5-3 decision over the Minnesota Twins.

American League

sound. I feel more confident too, so if that's more poised, then yeah." Luis Aponte worked the final two innings to pick up his third save. The American League East-leading Red Sox trailed, 3-1, when they came to bat in the third against loser Pete Redfern, 2-3. Carney Lansford hit an RBI single, Dave Stapleton a run-scoring double and Glenn Hoffman a two-run single to make it 5-3. The Twins, who have lost 13 of their last 17, scored all their runs in the second off Hurst and Tom Hume extended his hitting streak to 14 games.

Toronto, 4-3, Milwaukee topped Kansas City, 9-5, and Oakland tripped New York, 9-7, in 13 innings. In the National League, it was Cincinnati 5, Houston 2; Pittsburgh 8, Atlanta 4; St. Louis 7, Chicago 4; New York 7, Montreal 3; Los Angeles 2, New York 1; and Philadelphia 9, San Francisco 4. Indians 6, Angels 5. At Cleveland, Bill Naborodny doubled home two runs and Larry Sorensen went 7 2-3 innings to pick up his second victory and end the Indians' four-game losing streak. Mariners 4, Orioles 3. At Baltimore, Jim Easler's two-out single to center in the ninth inning scored Todd Cruz with the tying run and Joe Simpson came home on Al Bumby's error to boost Seattle. Tigers 4, Texas 3. At Detroit, Kirk Gibson's slide into second base caused second baseman Doug Flynn to throw wildly past first on a potential double-play ball in the eighth that allowed Chet Lemon to score from second as the Rangers lost their 10th straight. White Sox 4, Blue Jays 3. At Chicago, Greg Luzinski's three-run homer climaxed a four-run sixth inning that carried the White Sox. Chicago reliever Salome Barojas pitched the final three innings to pick up his seventh save. Brewers 9, Royals 5. At Milwaukee, Charlie Moore's two-run homer in the sixth inning sparked the Brewers. Reliever Jim Slaton, 1-0, picked up the win. A's 9, Yankees 7. At New York, Tony Armas doubled in two runs in the 13th inning to lift Oakland to its sixth straight triumph, Dave Beard hurled the last inning to post his first save.

Gasoholic Seaver Changes Speeds To Frustrate Astros

United Press International Tom Seaver runs out of gas sooner than he used to but he still gets plenty of mileage. Seaver, 37, stalled in his first three starts this season, finally got started Tuesday night and pitched seven strong innings in leading the Cincinnati Reds to a 5-2 triumph over the Houston Astros. Seaver, 1-3, allowed only one run and four hits in seven innings before giving way to Tom Hume, who hurled the final two innings and earned his sixth save. "I felt lousy warming up so I decided to change speeds early and try to make my fastball more effective," Seaver said. "In the second inning I felt totally different. I had decent control and a decent fastball." The victory tied Seaver with Ted Lyons for 27th place on the all-time list for career victories. He struck out two and walked but one and now has 3,086 career strikeouts to rank sixth on the all-time list. Cesar Cedeno paced the Reds' 13-hit attack with a 3-for-3 performance and a pair of first-inning RBIs as he hiked his average to .288. Dan Driessen also had three hits for the Reds, who moved ahead of Houston and out of last place in the National League West. Cardinals 7, Cubs 4. At St. Louis, Keith Hernandez and George Hendrick homered to back the combined five-hit pitching of Joaquin Andujar and Bruce Sutter in pacing the Cardinals to their fifth victory over Chicago in as many games. Pirates 8, Braves 4. PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Pittsburgh right-hander Don Robinson says he remembered to pitch instead of throw Tuesday night, and the result was a strong seven-hit, 7 1/3 inning performance that helped the Pirates snap a four-game losing streak with an 8-4 victory over the Atlanta Braves. It was Robinson's first victory in two starts. Coming off winter shoulder surgery, he started the season in the bullpen and recorded one other victory in long relief. In his first start, a no-decision last Thursday against Houston, he was chased after giving up six runs on eight hits in four innings.

"(Manager) Chuck (Tanner) yelled at me after the Houston game," Robinson said. "Well, actually, he didn't yell, but we sat down and talked about how I was trying to blow everybody away instead of changing speeds and stuff. He told me I had to remember to pitch instead of just throw. "So tonight, I changed speeds a lot on my fastballs and my curves; I threw a lot of changeups. Plus, I had my breaking ball down. The other start, I was afraid to throw my breaking ball in the dirt and it was high. I just throw the ball past everybody for four innings, and then they all started waiting for those fastballs and hitting them. "My fastball is back," Robinson added. "But my breaking ball still isn't where I can throw it any time I want to for a strike. But tonight was definitely a big improvement. If I can keep pitching six or seven innings and then let the bullpen take over, and maybe throw a complete game once in a while, I'll be fine." Robinson's job was made much easier by a big early lead. The Pirates scored two runs in the first off starter and loser Joe Cowley. Then after Dale Murphy led off the second with a homer to pull Atlanta to within 2-1, the Pirates collected five more in the third with the help of Mike Easler's first career grand slam. Cowley, 0-1, went to the showers after Johnny Ray's RBI-double made it 8-1 with one out in the fourth. Padres 7, Expos 3. At San Diego, Garry Templeton and Sixto Lezcano homered in the first inning to spark the Padres' triumph. Tim Lollar, 3-0, got the victory. Phillies 9, Giants 4. At San Francisco, Steve Carlton struck out 10 and hit a three-run homer to lead the Phillies. George Vukovich also hit a three-run homer for the Phillies. Dodgers 2, Mets 1. At Los Angeles, Dusty Baker singled with the bases loaded and none out in the bottom of the ninth inning to lift the Dodgers.

Baseball Superstars Follow Dinosaur Into Extinction

You can put the superstar in the same boat with the dinosaur, the big car and the nickel candy bar. He's gradually becoming obsolete — in baseball, anyway. "You don't have any more superstars today," says Roger Craig, the Detroit Tigers' knowledgeable pitching coach. "Mike Schmidt is the closest one to it around now. There are no more Mantles, Mays, Mustats or Kalines. You'd think there'd be more superstars now because you have more clubs than there were years ago, but it hasn't worked out that way. I don't know the reason for it." Craig was talking about the disappearance of superstars because the subject was Kirk Gibson, the big, blond 24-year-old former All-American flanker from Michigan State, who hasn't quite shown himself to be "the new Mickey Mantle" yet that Sparky Anderson promised everybody he was going to turn into when he first came up with the Tigers three years ago. Like Anderson, Craig believes Gibson has a chance to be a superstar.

Milton Richman UPI Sports Editor

When Anderson suddenly pulled him out of the game with the Yankees two weeks ago after he had trouble on two consecutive plays in center field in the same inning, Gibson, playing with injured legs, showed some displeasure by flinging his sun glasses against the dugout wall when he came in. Following the game, which the Tigers won, writers who didn't know Tiger trainer Pio Di Salvo had told Anderson Gibson's leg was hurting him so bad he should be taken out, asked the Detroit manager how he felt over Gibson showing his anger. That, in turn, made Anderson angry. Enough so that he was still upset about it the next day. "Instead of asking me about the ball game, all these writers come in and asked me if I knew Gibson was mad," said the Tigers' pilot. "Really, now, is that my job to care if Gibson is mad about something I feel I have to do? Look, I've only had two rules ever since I started managing — first ... you don't have to like me, and second ... you don't have to respect me, just so long as you do your job."

Hall of Famer Al Kaline, who was one of the Tigers' premier outfielders for 21 years and now does their games on TV, feels the same way about Gibson Craig does. He believes the lefthanded hitting slugger has the raw talent to become a superstar some day, but he certainly isn't one yet. Right now, he is hitting only .230. But, he has picked up the pace considerably since and it won't really surprise anyone if he winds up this year as well, if not better, than he did the last one. "What impresses me about him most is his intensity," Kaline says. "He's tremendously competitive and I guess that's one of the best things he's got going for him." From what I've seen of him both on the field and off the field, Kirk Gibson may approach Mantle's baseball achievements but he will never be quite like him because his personality is different. A lot could depend on the friends he makes and what he would like to do with his life. As Kaline says, Gibson has the intensity. The rest is pretty much up to him.

Town Doctor Fought A Corporation—And Won

ST. MARYS, Ga. (UPI)—Carl M. Drury was just out of medical school when he moved to this south Georgia coastal community in 1966 and decided to challenge the stranglehold the Gilman Paper Co. had on Camden County.

Drury's decision triggered a nightmare of harassment that included a beating, a phony rape charge, repeated loss of his hospital privileges, suspension of his medical license and finally a plot to kill him.

The doctor fought the giant paper mill for 12 years before recently winning a $250,000 out-of-court civil rights settlement from Gilman for trying to run his reputation and medical career.

Attorney Don Keenan called it a landmark case and a significant victory for Drury, who is now 42.

St. Marys is a "company town." It has been since the Gilman Paper Co. moved into the poor fishing community near the Georgia-Florida border in 1941, built a mill and put most of the adult population in Camden County on its payroll.

Drury's love for the ocean beckoned him to St. Marys after graduating from the Medical College of Georgia. He landed a job on the staff of the Gilman Hospital—a facility built and controlled by the mill.

Two years later, still appalled by the town's conditions, Drury changed his mind. He defied the mill bosses and unseated incumbent Rep. Robert Harrison for what was then Georgia's 66th House District seat.

It was a rare achievement for an opponent of Gilman Paper Co. But Drury's victory was short-lived.

A few weeks after the election, Drury said he was telephoned by Dr. George W. Barker Jr., the mill's physician, and warned that Gilman officials planned to have him arrested on rape charges unless he moved away without taking his legislative seat.

Drury refused and was arrested a few days later.

A 16-year-old daughter of a mill worker accused Drury of raping her while she was recuperating from a tonsillectomy at Gilman Hospital.

Drury's legislative seat was put on hold. His medical license was suspended and his hospital privileges were revoked for the first of six times while he awaited trial.

A grand jury quickly dismissed the rape case after the girl and her three hospital roommates got their stories mixed up and contradicted themselves and each another.

Even the alleged victim could not decide whether she had been raped or threatened with rape.

Keenan said it was later revealed that mill officials promised lifetime jobs to the fathers of the alleged rape victim and the three other girls who shared her hospital room if they supported the rape story.

The medical association promptly restored Drury's medical license, he was reinstated at the local hospital, and he took his seat in the Georgia House.

Keenan said Drury went to court about a half dozen times in all in the early 1970s to have privileges restored at the hospital after officials took them away for trivial reasons that never stood up in court. In the meantime, the doctor began setting up clinics in other small south Georgia towns.

No murder was ever committed, but three mill officials—Brimley, Harrison, who was the mill's attorney, and another mill supervisor William "Tommy" Thomas—were indicted and convicted for making false statements to FBI agents and a grand jury about the murder plot.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals later reversed the convictions on grounds of insufficient evidence.

Mill officials got Dunbar's medical license reinstated in 1972 on the condition he practice in St. Marys. Keenan said Dunbar was made chief of staff at Gilman

Hospital and ordered to prove Drury was incompetent and run him out of town.

Drury refused to budge and Dunbar was allegedly ordered to kill him before the suit against Gilman was refilled, it was later learned.

The Sheriff's Department in nearby Duval County, Fla., inadvertently uncovered an elaborate assassination plot in 1976 in which Dunbar paid two hitmen $10,000 to kill the crusading physician. The FBI and the GBI aborted the plot and arrested the would-be hitmen, who said the hit was funded by the Gilman Paper Co.

Dunbar was arrested by federal and state officers in 1977 on narcotics charges and sentenced to 15 years in prison. He is now chief pharmacist in the minimum security prison at Florida's Eglin Air Force Base.

The case was to go to trial in March, but lawyers for both sides agreed the litigation had dragged on too long and Gilman reluctantly agreed to the $250,000 out-of-court settlement.

"It wasn't so much the money amount, it was the principle," Keenan said. "We felt a quarter of a million dollars in today's market was substantial enough to make people sit up and take notice."

The Captain Is Waiting For Word On The News

For years, no news was good news for "Captain Kangaroo." The show went on the air at 8 a.m., Eastern time, an hour covered by CBS News. The hour eventually was incorporated into the "CBS Morning News."

Bob Keeshan and his Captain were relegated to a half-hour at 6:30 a.m. All three networks now are expanding early morning news.

CBS plans to broadcast news from 2-5 a.m., starting in September. But rumors predict the news will stretch to 6:30, or possibly 8:30 or 9 a.m. That could strand Keeshan, an island of kidvid on a sea of adult programs.

Or he could wind up at 8:30, an ideal time slot. Keeshan told UPI, "I don't know what's happening. I keep hearing these rumors about 8:30. I'd be just delighted with that as a solution to the problem."

Burt Plays Rough

Burt Reynolds always seems such a big pussycat when he's being interviewed by the likes of Barbara Walters, but he was a tiger with a photographer who trespassed on his property.

The blowup came last Sunday, after two freelance photographers followed Reynolds as he drove Loni Anderson of "WKRP in Cincinnati" to his estate in Hollywood's Holmby Hills.

One photographer got stuck in traffic, but the other reportedly reached Reynolds' house before the actor and parked in his driveway.

Police Lt. Dan Cooke said photographer Russel Turkiak filed a complaint charging Reynolds knocked him to the ground and damaged his camera.

A spokesman for Reynolds said Turkiak was trespassing and "was lucky to get away as easily as he did."

Moore: 'Up Your Nose'

Dudley Moore says he can take professional criticism in stride but gets vicious about personal attacks, which he can only answer "in an equally primitive fashion — which is to take a small club and insert it in the nose of the person."

He went on to tell Dennis Cunningham during a taped interview which aired on WCBS-TV's News At Five: "There was one critic in England, I won't say his name, but it's emblazoned on my mind, and he just sort of misquoted me. Sort of taking stories (from) doubtful sources and attributing them to me."

"I hate that sort of thing. I think it's very unfair and deserves a large punch in the mouth." Moore thought it over and added, "I hope he's not a large person — I hope he's a small man, very very frail."

Smoking And The Pill: Risk Lingers After Pill Use Stops

NEW YORK (UPI) — The higher risk of heart attack among women who smoke and take birth control pills lingers in 40 to 49-year-olds if they continue to smoke after giving up the pill, researchers say.

"We estimate there are approximately 2,500 excess deaths from myocardial infarction in the United States each year among women in this age group (40-49) who smoke and are current or former users of oral contraceptives," federal health investigators said in a report Monday.

There is no evidence of a residual risk of heart attack among women who had used the pill when they were under 30, then stopped, said the report in "Family Planning Perspectives," the journal of the Alan Guttmacher Institute.

At its peak usage in the United States, the pill was used by about 10 million women. As reports of side effects have increased, however, use has slumped to below 7 million.

The report examined patterns among women 40 to 49 in a large case-control study of oral contraceptives under way at the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta.

It was based on an analysis by federal epidemiologists of a widely publicized study by the Drug Epidemiology Unit at Boston University — the first research unit to report an increased risk of heart attack among users of the pill. The risk was linked to an increase in age and duration of past pill use.

A related report in the journal cites three new British birth-control pill studies.

One shows little, if any, overall increase in the risk of cancerous tumors from birth-control use. A second finds a slightly increased risk of gallbladder disease only in the first year of use.

A third attempts to assess the association between heart attacks and the estrogen content of the pill.

"It shows a twofold increase in the risk of heart attack among current pill users, but finds no difference in risk" between women taking higher and lower dose pills, the British report said.

Florida Employment Posts Small Gain

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Employment in Florida increased by 14,200 jobs in March, the smallest gain at the peak of the tourism season since the 1975-76 recession.

Labor Secretary Wally Orr reported Tuesday total non farm employment for the month at an estimated 3,830,300 jobs, compared to 3,816,100 jobs in February. The state's economy supported 3,739,900 jobs in March of 1981.

"We normally expect to add at least 50,000 more jobs in March," Orr said. Orr pointed to a smaller than expected increase in wholesale and retail trades, hotels and other lodging places, and amusement and recreation services as evidence of reduced activity in those industries. Durable goods manufacturing, finance, real estate and insurance and business services added a total of 6,300 jobs in March.

'Off The Wall' Inventions No Home Should Be Without

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A diaper-changing machine, an automatic fly swatter and a computerized typewriter programmed to write music are some of the strange inventions on display at a technological exposition this week.

The North American Invention-New Product Exposition began a four-day run Monday in conjunction with Technomat '82 and the International Congress on Technology and Technology Exchange.

Officials said although the technology congress was primarily held as a forum for people to meet and exchange ideas designed to improve society, the Inpes show included a gathering of some 80 private inventors who have introduced strange, non-commercial devices.

In addition to the typewriter and fly swatter, other inventions on display included:

- An automatic auto oiler.
- A skateboard for use in snow.
- A machine that changes a baby's diaper.
- An automatic orange peeler.

"Some are strange and some are off the wall," said Inpes spokeswoman Jane Kostik. "They are not on the market."

Ms. Kostik described the joining of the two shows as "a mix of the private inventors and large corporations." "But it's probably the first time so many small inventors have been next to each other," she said.

Dr. I.S. Tuba, president of the International Technology Institute, said the gathering was different in both size and concept.

Was Lincoln Too Generous With Widows' Pensions?

By TOM TIEDE

SUMTER, S.C. (NEA) — One of the things Abraham Lincoln did to mend the wounds of the Civil War was to ask Congress to give financial assistance to the families involved in the fighting. He said aid was needed "to care for him who shall have borne the battle and for his widow and orphan."

The request was quickly granted. And 118 years later it's still being honored. Meet Daisy Cave. She's a lovely lady of 82 or 94 springs, depending on who's doing the guessing, and she is the last Civil Daisy Cave is the last local South Carolina Civil War widow. Her long-dead husband was a rebel soldier. As a result, and in accordance with President Lincoln's moving benevolence, she receives $100 a month from the United States Treasury for events that took place more than a century ago.

War widow in South Carolina. Well, check that. Down here they do not say Civil War. They say the misunderstanding of 1861-65 was the War Between the States.

In any event, Mrs. Cave is the last local widow of it. Her long-dead husband was a rebel soldier. As a result, and in accordance with President Lincoln's moving benevolence, she receives $100 a month from the United States Treasury for events that took place more than a century ago.

And that's not all. The Veterans Administration says there are almost 50 other widows of the war who likewise continue to receive compensations. Exact figures are risky, for the ranks of the women are regularly reduced by death, but the VA

HENRY CAVE:
He was 77 years old and the bride was 29 or 31.

thinks there are 31 Union and 16 Confederate widows left. And that's not all. In addition, there are about 115 Civil War orphans who are receiving federal help. The VA says children of Civil War veterans who are not able to take care of themselves qualify for as much as $100 a month. The breakdown on Union vs. Confederate kids is not available.

And even that's not all. The United States is also giving aid to the widows and children of two other conflicts of last century. The VA says almost 40 dependents of the Indian Wars are receiving welfare or pensions, and gulp, so are more than 11,500 dependents of the Spanish-American War.

That's all. Except to say that in times of mounting budget difficulties there are people who wonder if Lincoln was too generous. The VA will spend $24 billion on its programs this fiscal year, and the critics think it's extravagant to give part of it to ladies such as Daisy Cave.

One of the critics is Sid Taylor. He is the research director for the National Taxpayers Union (in Washington). He does not object to helping veterans and their dependents, but he thinks lines should be drawn; "Old soldiers may never die," he explains, "but do entitlements have to live forever, too?"

For one thing, Taylor points out that the entitlements given the dependents of last century's wars were carte blanche. A soldier did not have to die in action to pass on federal benefits; he could live for years after the fighting and his widow or orphan would still collect.

And that led to some stretching of the original government intent. Daisy Cave is an example. She did marry a veteran of the Civil War, one Henry Benjamin Cave, and she eventually became his legal widow, but she has never been the kind of dependent that Lincoln sought to help.

To be more specific, Mrs. Cave was not even alive during the War Between the States (she was born in 1887 or 1889), and she did not meet her Confederate husband until 50 years after the nasty thing ended. She was 29 or 31 at the time of her wedding, in 1918, and the groom was 77.

Taylor says these kinds of matings were often marriages of convenience. He says Mrs. Cave may very well have married her soldier for all of the best reasons, but some other women of the time did not; some of the couplings took place so the women could one day receive widow's benefits.

That's why the dependent entitlements have continued for so long. And that's why Taylor says it's an expensive excess. Over the years, he says, the cost of supporting the dependents of the Spanish-American War (1898) has been somewhat greater than the cost of the war itself.

This isn't to say the money has all been wasted, necessarily. Even Taylor says that VA entitlements are generally part of the legitimate expense of running the government and maintaining morale in the military. Dependents often suffer as much as soldiers during war and should not be ignored.

Besides, most of the aging dependents of last century's wars are in genuine need of public assistance of some sort. So if the Veterans Administration did not provide it, the burden would fall on other government agencies, which is to say the taxpayer would still be providing the currency.

And yet the whole matter remains stupefying. It's hard to imagine the funding of debts for events so distant, and it's difficult to see a solution. Thus taxpayers may be supporting World War II dependents well into the next century, and Vietnam debts could theoretically last to the year 2100.

Daisy Cave was not even alive during the War Between the States, and didn't meet her Confederate husband until 50 years after it ended. Yet she still receives $100 a month from the United States Treasury for events that took place more than a century ago.

Firearms Law Did Not Break New Ground

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham and legislators have been blistered in recent newspaper editorials for allowing almost unrestricted possession of firearms in cars and trucks, but they really didn't do anything new.

If Graham and the Legislature are to be criticized, it's for blowing a chance to stiffen firearm restrictions, but not for weakening them.

The bill Graham recently signed into law and which is now operating does nothing new, but clarifies what firearms laws have allowed for years and clears up confusion caused by a 1980 Florida Supreme Court ruling.

The old law allowed that. The new law does spell out what the courts had established through case law that a motorist cannot carry a pistol on his or her person, whether hidden or in open view, except with a special license.

Both statutes say it is legal to carry rifles and shotguns anywhere in a vehicle — clearly in sight on a gun rack in a pickup truck, but also hidden behind a seat or beneath some sort of covering.

The new law allows pistols to be kept concealed in a glove compartment or a box in a seat, but that already was legal. Weapons could be kept concealed as long as they weren't "readily accessible."

The new statute expands on what is intended by the term not readily accessible, a response to the Supreme Court opinion.

The Supreme Court ruled in a case in which a woman was charged with illegally concealing a pistol by hiding it under a floor mat between her legs with the handle protruding.

The charge was valid, the justices concluded, because enough of the pistol was showing for a trained law enforcement official to notice it, but not the average person.

Hunting groups, gun clubs and similar groups went into a tizzy, claiming firearms would have to be left in open view, making them a ripe target for thieves, or might not be allowed in a motor vehicle under any condition.

Attorney General Jim Smith issued an advisory opinion saying the law really was unchanged by the ruling, but that didn't satisfy the groups, so they went to the Legislature.

The proposal finally emerging from the recent session says concealed weapons must be "securely encased" and uses as examples of its intent handguns carried in a locked or unlocked glove compartment, an unworn holster, a gun case or a "closed box or container which requires a lid or cover to be opened for access."

Former Senate President Dempsey Barron put an amendment on the proposal when it passed initially saying an unsecured pistol could be concealed under a seat or in another spot readily available if the driver or passenger saw a need for self-defense.

Graham rejected the bill, saying anyone could claim the need for self defense and drive through a high crime area with a concealed pistol available which they might use hastily without thinking.

He accepted the second version which didn't include the Barron amendment.

Look up!

Those are the two words you should always keep in mind before you pick fruit, prune branches, or saw the limbs from trees.

Look up to see if there are any power lines close to the tree. This simple precaution could save you from a serious accident.

Because if a branch or pole makes contact with a power line, you could get a serious shock. And under certain conditions, such as wet weather, you could get a shock just from touching the tree trunk.

We're doing our best to keep trees clear of power lines, but if you see one where Mother Nature got the better of us, call Florida Power & Light.

We want you to enjoy your orange, avocado, mango and other fruit trees. But please play it safe and look up.

That also goes for flying kites, installing antennas, or any other activity that puts you in possible contact with overhead lines.

Encouraging safety is just one way we're working hard at being the kind of power company you want.

Ann Landers Promises No More Reruns

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ann Landers says she saw nothing wrong with recycling old letters in her worldwide advice column, but now that a small town publisher objects she'll stop the practice.

Barbara Sancken, a reporter for the Pontiac (Ill.) Daily Leader, was compiling the paper's "Remember" column — a daily digest of newspaper excerpts from years past — when she found letters dating back to 1966 that seemed very familiar.

Over a period of several months, she came up with more than 30 letters from 1966 and 1967 that ran again in 1981 and 1982.

She showed the rerun letters to James Pearre, the newspaper's publisher, who called Miss Landers Monday.

Pearre said the columnist admitted the letters were old material, but told him she believed the letters "sharply illustrated certain points of continuing concern to today's readers."

Miss Landers told Pearre she saw "no harm in presenting the old material as new ... and she didn't think the readers would care," he said.

But Pearre said he objected

ANN LANDERS
...heeds objection to old letters and advice being recycled and the queen of problem solvers devised an immediate solution — she promised to stop the reruns.

Pearre said Miss Landers' ready agreement impressed him, adding the Leader will continue to run her column, as it has for 24 years.

Miss Landers said later in a written statement she refused old letters occasionally, but added, "It had not occurred to me that this would be considered deceptive."

"The letters are relevant and it's the quality of the answer that counts," she said. "Now that I find there is disapproval from one publisher, I will discontinue this immediately," she promised.

She said she came across the old letters while doing research for a daily letter and advice feature she puts together for Illinois Bell Telephone's "Dial" service.

She added: "My credibility is all I have and I would never knowingly do anything to damage it."

Her column appears in about 1,000 newspapers around the world and is read by some 70 million people daily.

"Don't forget to wear your galoshes!"

Mothers always used to say things like that, and they still do. "Be careful when you cross the street," and "Don't gulp your milk!" sound as familiar to kids today as they did a couple of generations ago.

And we think that's good. Because it's a demonstration of caring which is carried from generation to generation — and caring is what funeral service is all about.

Because of the lack of burial space and the distance of the National Cemetery in Florida, we are assigning grave spaces in Veterans Garden of Valor, Baldwin Memorial Park. As an honorably discharged veteran of the United States Armed Forces, you may be qualified for Free Burial Space. However, you must register for this. You must be able to show proof of Honorable Discharge. There are a limited number of Veterans spaces available. Certificates for spaces will be issued on a first come first served basis. Water-Saving Devices Worthwhile Water. We tend to take it for granted, like clean air, secure in our belief that somehow there will always be plenty of it.

We here in Florida should know better. With one of the fastest growing populations in the country, the Sunshine State could, without proper planning and water management, be reduced to a barren peninsula of sandy wasteland devoid of the lush green foliage and abundant animal life that has made our state a sub-tropical paradise.

That's why we were pleased when Lake Mary and Sanford decided recently to take positive steps toward preserving our precious water resources.

Both cities plan to sell to their water customers kits containing various devices specially designed to conserve water. Included in the kits are a water-slinging shower head, a pair of plastic coated spring-steel baffles for toilets, and an aerator for sinks.

According to the group selling these conservation kits — New Resource Group Inc. (NRG) out of Boston and Milford, N.H. — the gadgets can annually save a family of four 12,000 gallons of water and $25 in energy, water and sewer costs.

Installation of such devices in every home in the state would go far toward solving part of Florida's chronic water problem, if not solve it altogether. And lest we forget there is a problem, all we need do is travel a few miles to Winter Park and view the gaping sinkhole which rumbled to life a year ago when the water table fell to dangerously low depths, the direct result of a lack of rain and increased water demands for homes and industry.

Or, remember last year when nearly every municipality in the state was forced to initiate water conservation measures such as decreased lawn sprinkling because of an unusually dry season?

The problem continued to worsen and the St. Johns River Water Management District ordered water cutbacks just short of restricting how many times a day we could flush our toilets.

And how many times have you read of communities, particularly those along the coast, suffering saltwater intrusion into their fresh water supplies because of heavy demand on the underground aquifer?

The $18 NRG kits will go on sale at Lake Mary City Hall on May 24. The details have yet to be finalized but the devices should be available in Sanford later this month or in early June. The city will contribute $3 toward each kit purchased and residents will pay $15.

We would like to see other Seminole cities follow the example set by Sanford and Lake Mary.

Iran Rescue Failure

Stansfield Turner, a retired Navy admiral, is calling for an investigation of the U.S. military rescue attempt that failed in the Iran desert two years ago.

The mission, on April 25, 1982, was an effort to retrieve the 53 American hostages held in Tehran. It was aborted after two of eight helicopters sent on the mission broke down and a third encountered a sand storm. A minimum of six helicopters was considered necessary to proceed.

As the rescue team and aircraft were preparing to leave the desert site a tragic accident occurred. A helicopter crashed into a transport plane, killing eight servicemen.

In the weeks after the accident, the maneuver was examined to determine what went wrong from a military standpoint. It was determined that overzealous concern for secrecy led to some of the misjudgments and operational problems. It was even suggested the raid could have gone forward despite the loss of three helicopters.

There still are unanswered questions about tactics and equipment. And Admiral Turner, who was the head of the CIA when the raid was attempted, is right in suggesting an inquiry into the matter.

"The purpose would not be to look backward and cast blame," he said, "but to look forward and learn the lessons that surely lie buried" in the raid.

We believe such an inquiry would be valuable. Much can be learned from mistakes. The truth about the aborted raid of two years ago could prove valuable in the future.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Hey, come on, Mr. President, a compromise on the budget isn't 'as bad as a root canal job!'"

By JANE CASSELLBERRY

The recent storms which struck the Sanford area left many residents with a giant headache. For most it was a matter of cleaning up debris, patching leaky roofs, replacing broken glass and an unexpected expense for repairs. For others, however, it would have meant going hungry had it not been for Seminole County School social workers and those who backed them with donations of food and money.

In some areas the power was off for an extended period of time in the wake of the storm causing refrigerators to defrost and ruining food. Some of the families would have not been eligible for food stamps until May 7 and many didn't have money to go out and buy food.

Although school was out the week following the storm, the school social workers stayed on the job to make sure the kids and their families were taken care of.

Chief Social Worker Marie Taylor stopped by the Herald office to let us know "people still care." She said donations from the Sanford Kiwanis Club, churches around the county and individuals made it possible to buy food and cleaning materials for 22 local families who were victims of the storm. Many had roof damage and a mess to clean up.

"Money's scarce and unemployment has made it hard on people," said Mrs. Taylor, who is not above appealing to organizations and churches when she sees one of "her kids" in need of food, clothing or an operation. "It is really keeping us busy."

She wanted to express her appreciation to those who pitched in to help in this latest emergency.

Is Mrs. Taylor thinking of retiring? "Not as long as I can still walk," she vowed.

Students from several Seminole County schools will be participating in the second annual Very Special Arts Festival Friday and Saturday at the Expo Centre in downtown Orlando. The festival will feature the talents and skills of children and adults with handicapping conditions. Both disabled and non-disabled artists will share their accomplishments in a non-competitive environment.

The festival is open free to the public and hours will be 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and noon to 5 p.m.

Saturday. Exhibiting visual arts will be Jackson Heights Middle School, Oviedo; Lake Mary Elementary School, Idylwild Elementary School, Sanford, Geneva Elementary School, Sterling Park Elementary School, Casselberry.

Rosenwald Exceptional Student Center in Altamonte Springs Chorus will present "I Believe in Music" Saturday at 3:05 and 4:40 p.m. Special events will include a performance by the Altamonte Community Jazz Ensemble directed by Mike Arena will perform from 12:30 to 1 p.m. Saturday, and a Lyman High School presentation of "Winnie the Pooh," an incident from the children's book by A.A. Milne.

There will be performances of clogging, square dancing, drama, tumbling, clowns, aerobics. Lake Sybella Elementary School of Maitland, where some Seminole County deaf students attend, will present the Roaring 20s Dance and the Signing Singers.

Is it only a coincidence that Flea World is opening just a hop and a jump from the proposed site for the new Humane Society Animal Shelter?

Some Changes Needed

Sitting 20 feet away from President Reagan in the historic East room of the White House, one gets a much clearer impression of his personality and outlook than one receives from television. The word charisma was made for him. His sunny disposition and Irish charm quickly wins over a non-political group assembled to hear him talk about private incentives in American society.

The President is the ultimate star. He has the looks and bearing of a man in his early 50s. With his easy repartee and amusing anecdotes, he quickly disarms hostile newsmen. He is a cheerleader for American and American values.

America needs cheerleading and pep talks. For years, we have had grim worry warts in the White House — Carter, Nixon and Johnson. Mr. Reagan obviously enjoys the job and has no trouble sleeping at night. The electorate most probably chose him because of his warm personality, not because of any doctrinaire economic theories.

Presidential cheerleading plays an important role in our system. Franklin Roosevelt's fireside chats gave the American people hope in the darkest of Depression days. Though the national circumstances are different now, our people continue to need an optimistic leader. And optimism is the primary ingredient in the mind and personality of Ronald Reagan.

Something more than optimism is needed, however. Many sectors of the American economy are in serious trouble. Positive government actions are needed to prevent the country from going into a tailspin.

The foreign imports problem is worsening all the time. Japanese auto imports now account for 22 percent of all sales. Is it any wonder that unemployment is rife in the auto industry and its multitude of suppliers? Administration responses to this situation are half-hearted and ineffective.

The administration also is trying to maintain a cozy relationship with Big Unionism. Instead of confronting it and making increased productivity a key public issue. The administration also turns a blind eye to the new class of military and government pensioners who get automatic cost of living increases while other citizens suffer.

If President Reagan is to succeed in his political counter-revolution and his New Federalism plan is a splendid design, the administration must be more positive in its actions. It must have a game plan for use if the economy continues to slip. Counting on reduced taxes to solve all problems is an inadequate approach to economic deterioration.

Basic to a more active administration is a change in personnel at the top. Mr. Reagan needs the modern-day equivalent of Jimmy Byrnes, who became "assistant president" for domestic affairs in the Roosevelt administration. The President needs advisers the strongest men our society has in its midst, not the campaign who directed his election campaign nor who have been brought aboard since then.

There is reason to believe that the President is being shielded from national opinion on domestic economic issues. The 50 leaders gathered in the White House this week had no opportunity to voice their concerns to the President. Who decided that the President would only talk to them, not hear them?

She Fights To Join Husband In U.S.

WASHINGTON — Most Soviets who want to leave their homeland belong to the oppressed side of communist society. But I can now report the case of a woman from the Soviet upper crust who is so desperate to emigrate that she will begin a hunger strike next week in hopes of forcing the Kremlin to let her go.

The woman's name is Tatyana Yerahov Lozansky. She is 29 years old and the daughter of one of the 20 top generals in the Red Army. Her father, Ivan Yerahov, is chief of staff of the Soviet Union's civil defense program.

Tatyana is a gray-eyed, dark-haired beauty who was raised in the lap of bourgeois luxury that is available to families of the Soviet hierarchy. The general and his wife live in a large, luxurious apartment in Moscow and own two dachas, one in Moscow suburbs and the other in the Black Sea resort area.

Yerahov has a chauffeured limousine at his beck and call, and his wife also has a car

Pearl Harbor: Who Knew?

With the publication of two new books by superb scholars, we are now at the point of knowing about all we can ever know about the December 7, 1941 disaster at Pearl Harbor.

One popular and recurrent question has been: Did Franklin Roosevelt know the Japanese would attack our great and supposedly impregnable naval base?

Gordon W. Prange and John Toland give slightly different answers, but the answers are really substantially the same.

Their two books in different ways illustrate what I, a scholar myself, regard as the romance of scholarship.

Did FDR know?

The answer established is that everyone knew, as early as October 1941, that the Japanese navy was going to strike. In a dispatch to Admiral Husband Kimmel in Hawaii, the Navy Department said: "This dispatch is to be considered a war warning. Negotiations with Japan looking toward stabilization of conditions in the Pacific have ceased."

Our code-breaking operation "Magic," had broken the Japanese code, and a veritable snowstorm of signals of approaching Japanese strikes had been intercepted.

Professor Gordon W. Prange is a fascinating, scholarly figure. His new and posthumous book, "At Dawn We Slept," (McGraw-Hill), is a very great historical work, but Prange could not bring himself to publish it during his lifetime. He had been chief of Douglas MacArthur's historical section in Tokyo, and he clearly fell in love with Japanese culture. He spent the next 37 years of his life as the historian of the Pearl Harbor raid.

Professor Prange's research went on and on, accumulating thousands of pages. Only with his death have we received it, cut to a still enormous book, beautifully written, an epic work of permanent importance.

Much of Prange's story is told from the Japanese point of view, and, emotionally, his two heroes are Yamamoto and Genda, the admiral and the aviator.

These two Japanese military men are indeed brilliant, resourceful, daring, meticulous.

Yamamoto became possessed with the idea of destroying the American fleet at Pearl Harbor. He had the persistence and the energy and he beat down his more cautious opposition.

Genda, the superb aviator, perfected the tactics. They were military radicals, embarked upon spectacular success and ultimate disaster.

American tacticians studied the possibility of a Japanese attack upon Pearl, and they agreed with Yamamoto's conservative opponents.

The odds of success were much too small. The Japanese fleet was inferior, it would be sighted, the weather might be bad, re-fueling at sea was risky, if the Japanese task force was surprised at sea by the Americans, the war would be over in a couple of hours.

As the Japanese steamed north toward the Pole and then south upon Hawaii, all the luck favored them. The weather held.

But our commanders in Hawaii and the Philippines had every possible warning. On November 27, War Department Message Number 472, signed "Marshall," said: "Hostile action possible at any moment."

John Toland, in his fine book "Infamy" (Doubleday), claims to have evidence that there were in fact radio intercepts of messages from the approaching Japanese task force, and he theorizes that FDR let the attack happen in the belief that Pearl Harbor was too powerful to be seriously hurt.

Toland has taped interviews to back his claim, and we shall see. Preliminary response from participants indicates that Yamamoto maintained total radio silence.

These are books that haunt my mind, as I reflect upon them. For example, Professor Prange enormously admires Admiral Yamamoto. And yet, as he writes, "Yamamoto devoted his skill and energy to selling a plan which... never inspired wholehearted confidence, being at best a calculated risk, as Yamamoto himself admitted. Worse still, Yamamoto's venture — Pearl Harbor — absolutely guaranteed that the United States would turn its full fury against Japan, destroying all possibility of a negotiated peace."

Sometimes I think that what really matters to me most is scholarship at this level, steeped in the wisdom and pathos of history.

DON GRAFF

Raising A Good Question

Those among us who still think it can't happen here ought to be given some pause by what did happen in New York, Denver, Dallas and a half-dozen other cities.

In a coordinated strike that struck some observers as having more in common with the Gestapo than with Eliot Ness or today's FBI, teams of federal agents raided scores of business operations and took hundreds of employees into custody.

All were — or were suspected of being — illegal aliens, illegally holding jobs that could be filled by U.S. citizens or legally resident aliens.

Immigration authorities who directed it are pleased with the success of Project Jobs in which the principle of the law was subordinated to pay rates. The sweep was carefully targeted to open up "quality" jobs — paying $4.50 an hour and up — to the eligible unemployed in surrounding communities.

The openings are being referred to appropriate employment agencies and the intent is to follow up after a few weeks to see to what extent the opening are filled by legally qualified workers. So more than another routine roundup, Project Jobs is a small-scale study of a problem that has confronted and defeated every administration for the past quarter of a century — illegal immigration.

The Reagan administration is, however, trying again. It came out swinging wildly late last year with a set of tough measures that would, among other things, empower the president to declare an "immigration emergency," close ports, seize ships on the high seas, expand federal detention powers and limit judicial authority in immigration matters.

More recent and less drastic proposals have also been tossed into the congressional hopper.

Most share a number of features, notably including amnesty for illegals already in the country, legal admission of limited numbers of "guest workers" for limited period of time, penalties for U.S. employers knowingly hiring illegible workers and the introduction of a fool-proof identification system.

All are subject to criticism and some are dismissed as unworkable. Some critics go farther, questioning the rationale of restricting immigration and charging that attempts to do so are actually exercises in political hypocrisy. In their argument, low-cost alien labor does not really compete to any significant degree with American workers but is a long-term contributor to economic growth through industries dependent upon it and as a market itself for American goods and services.

The public, if polls are to be believed, believes otherwise, however. Political measures are really intended to give the appearance of dealing with a problem for which there are not — and which politicians know there are not — any answers.

Project Jobs just might direct a bit more light into the darkness. It is an "interesting experiment," according to its originators, that may dispel some myths about jobs filled by illegal aliens. Maybe, even in a period of high unemployment, few Americans want them.

And then?

his daughter and grandchild out later.

Gulled by Yerahov's assurances, Lozansky left Russia and came to the United States, only to find that the general had lied to him. Yerahov had no intention of letting Tatyana and the child leave the Soviet Union. He used his political clout, not to get Tatyana permission to leave Russia, but to keep her there.

That was in late 1976. Since then, Tatyana has tried desperately to leave the Soviet Union and join the father of her child. She applied for an emigrant visa on her own, and was promptly kicked out of the graduate program at the Zelinski Institute of Organic Chemistry.

From Washington, where he now lives, Lozansky did what he could to get his family out. He even wrote an appeal to Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, to no avail.

Tatyana's despair is clear in a letter she managed to smuggle out to friends in this country. My associate Lucette Lagnado has seen the letter.

"On May 10 I will begin my final hunger strike, which will continue until my daughter and I receive permission to emigrate," she wrote.

Her father "refuses to sign the papers releasing me from any material obligations toward his retirement," she wrote. This is a reference to one of the official reasons Soviet authorities have given for not letting Tatyana emigrate: She must stick around to take care of her father in case his pension isn't large enough to support him in his old age.

That, of course, is a bucket of warm borcht. In the first place, the Soviet constitution obligates the state to take care of the elderly. And even without this guarantee, a three-star general's pension would need no supplement from an unemployed chemist.

"I begin my hunger strike because I have no other choice," Tatyana wrote. "I want only to reunite my family — a basic human right."

HOUSE THAT RONALD BUILT Sanford Supports McDonald House

When the Ronald McDonald House at Shands Hospital, Gainesville, opens on July 8, the city of Sanford can boast of sponsoring a bedroom and bathroom at the facility.

The plaque will read, "Sponsored By The Gifts Of Love From Individuals And Organizations Of The City Of Sanford, Fla."

The "Friendly City" is only $2,200 shy of the $12,000 sponsorship for the bedroom-bathroom," according to Tom Hunt, Sanford vice president of Friends of RSHI, Inc. "But, I know that by July 8, we'll make it."

"Concern for the impact of catastrophic illnesses and diseases on youngsters and their immediate families in our community has resulted in the financial support of a unique answer to the needs of hundreds of central Florida families each year whose children must go to Shands for treatment," Hunt said.

"For three years, this community has been responding to the needs and problems that we have shared regarding the devastating impact that a family must absorb when they must face a battle against cancer, leukemia and other diseases that require long-term treatment for their child."

Hunt has a personal understanding of the problem. His son, Eddie, was in Gainesville for treatment many times before his death at the age of 14 four years ago. It was during his visits to Shands that he met families who could not afford to stay in motels and eat in restaurants and needed a "home away from home" such as Ronald McDonald House will provide at little or no cost.

"On behalf of the many families in our community, who in the future will benefit from this home-away-from-home, I sincerely appreciate each and every contribution," Hunt said. "It's going to feel good saying, 'Your friends and neighbors made it a reality.'"

The $515,000 RMH project is only $73,000 short of paying off the buildings and furnishings.

Within walking distance of the hospital, the Gainesville Ronald McDonald House is one of several springing up around the country. Originally sponsored in part by the McDonald's fast food chain, they are named for McDonald's clown.

Historic Outer Banks Undergo Change

NAGS HEAD, N.C. (UPI) — Undercurrents of profit are reshaping North Carolina's famed Outer Banks.

Construction crews are finishing several dozen new restaurants, cottages and condominiums to help accommodate 75,000 to 100,000 people expected to visit Dare County's 20-mile-long tourist strip this summer.

Beachgoers spent $141 million in Dare County last year and Melanie Ply of the Outer Banks Chamber of Commerce anticipates a 10 percent jump this year.

The Outer Banks still bills itself as a down home land of natural wonders, but there are more and more wine shops, art studios, theaters and restaurants that have eggplant dishes called Ratatouille and offer five dinners under $10.

Mrs. Ply said the recent passage of a mixed drink referendum helped spur the restaurant boom. Bud Cannon of the Dare County Tourist Bureau noted, however, the Outer Banks lack the nightclub strip that attracts youths to Virginia Beach, Va., and Myrtle Beach, S.C.

"There are no places here where you go out and smash beer bottles against people's heads," Cannon said. "It's in keeping with the nature of this place, its history."

One chain motel will charge $74 a night for an oceanside room — $5 more than it is getting for rooms near the World's Fair in Knoxville, Tenn.

Edward Greene, who owns a shop that once had 50,000 varieties of Christmas ornaments and knickknacks, has culled frivolous items in favor of better goods.

"The spending habits are much more conservative," he said. "The things people are buying are more attractive."

The Outer Banks, however, has not turned its back on the coast-conscious.

The beaches are free, as are the sites where the Wright Brothers made their historic flights and America's first English colonists tried to settle the New World in 1585.

The Outer Banks' connection with the "Lost Colony" of Englishmen that disappeared without a trace in 1587 is being

A Sheepskin At 12

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — Jay Luo liked college much more than grade school. Graduate school will be even more of a challenge for the 12-year-old who is about to become the world's youngest college grad.

Jay will leave Boise State University after three years with honors and an invitation to join the Phi Kappa Phi national scholastic honor society.

He plans to take his bachelor's degree in math at graduate school at a California university, where his parents and two younger siblings will move so he can attend school, Dr. William Mech, director of the university's honors program, says.

Mech declined to reveal the name of the university, saying the family did not want Jay disturbed by publicity.

"The family is very much oriented around Jay's education," he said.

Jay, who is 12 years and 1 month old, entered Boise State after just 30 months of formal education at a Boise grade school.

"He clearly is one of the brightest students I've ever encountered," Mech said. "As honors directors, our normal fare is dealing with bright students. Even in that context, though, this is one of the most exceptional stories I've encountered."

Despite Jay's age, Mech said the boy appears happier at the university level than he was at grade school.

"He's quite well adapted," Mech said. "He's better placed at the university than he would be if he were in grade school or, possibly, even junior high. Neither option is entirely perfect, but I think we've chosen the better option because Jay is much happier working at a level that challenges him."

Officials at the Guinness Book of World Records said Luo's graduation will top the previous record for the youngest college graduate — Merrill Kenneth Wolf who earned a bachelor's degree in music from Yale University in 1945 at 14.

Math Festival At SCC Saturday

Some 500 mathematics students from Seminole County's eight middle schools will participate in a math festival at Seminole Community College from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., Saturday.

The Seminole County Council of Mathematics Teachers is sponsoring the event.

Clem Boyer, coordinator of mathematics for the Seminole school system, said three winners will be chosen from each grade participating—6th, 7th, and 8th and in Algebra I.

Contests will be held in various locations campus including the commons behind the administration building and in the student center.

Among the events will be a metric olympics, calculators, other math games and the Rubik's Cube.

Spirulina Is No Diet Aid Wonder

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Spirulina, a blue-green algae being touted in health food stores as a wonder aid for dieters, may only reduce your bank account, a University of Florida pharmacological expert says.

Margaret Forgnone, assistant director of UF's Drug Information and Pharmacy Resource Center, said an increasing number of people are calling the center with questions about spirulina, which is sold in dark green powder or tablet.

"Suddenly, the promoters, in full page ads, are making claims that it is a great diet aid and a fantastic protein source," she said. "I'm telling everyone that, yes, it is a protein source, but no reliable scientific data has demonstrated that it is a safe and effective appetite suppressant."

Ms. Forgnone said spirulina grows in ponds and lakes in warm climates throughout the world and has been used to make egg yolks darker, to color gold fish and as a food source in primitive cultures.

The only adverse effects it can cause are nausea, vomiting and green stools, the UF researcher said.

As a food, spirulina can be marketed legally as long as it is accurately labeled and contains no contaminated or adulterated substances.

What Would Popeye Say?

FARMINGTON, CONN. (UPI) — Drug dealers have come up with an unlikely use for spinach — diluting cocaine.

Dennis Crean, assistant director of the Connecticut Poison Center, said by adding pulverized spinach to cocaine, dealers make the drug seem more potent when tasted by a prospective buyer.

He said street dealers heat the greens in an oven, which reduces them to a fine yellow-white ash that is mixed with the powdery cocaine.

"Such ash is basically inert and tasteless and is said to make the presence and strength of the drug more readily apparent to someone tasting it before buying," said Crean.

Besides spinach, drug dealers are using broccoli and other vegetables to accomplish the same end.

The greens are replacing such common diluting agents as talcum and confectioner's sugar, said Crean.

IN BRIEF

Reagan Expected To Propose Ending School Prayer Ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The more than 100 guests President Reagan invited to a Rose Garden ceremony Thursday are expecting him to fulfill a campaign promise and call for a constitutional amendment to put prayer back in public schools.

Evangelist Jerry Falwell, head of the Moral Majority, said Tuesday it was his understanding that Reagan is going to propose a constitutional amendment to authorize voluntary group prayer in public schools.

Vietnam's Delayed Legacy

MARKHAM, Ill. (UPI) — A Vietnam veteran, who said the sights and sounds of his auto factory, triggered decade-old memories of combat, was found innocent by reason of insanity Tuesday in the attempted slaying of his boss.

A jury deliberated for two days before returning the verdict Tuesday in the trial of Jeari Wood, 31, in the shooting of Cecil Herrel. Wood was described by defense psychiatrists as a victim of "delayed stress," unable to forget the horrors of the Vietnam war and not responsible for his actions.

Diplomat Gunned Down

BOMERVILLE, Mass. (UPI) — Police and FBI agents hunted today for a "professional" gunman posing as a jogger who pumped at least nine bullets into the car of the honorary Turkish consul general in New England, killing him instantly as he sat in heavy traffic.

An Armenian terror group that seeks vengeance for the 1915 massacre of a reported 1.5 million Armenians claimed responsibility for the shooting, the second assassination of a Turkish leader in the United States this year.

Huge Cancer Study Planned

ATLANTA (UPI) — The American Cancer Society will begin in September a six-year study of about 30,000 Georgians, hoping a close examination of lifestyles will reveal possible causes and deterrents to cancer.

Curtis Allen, coordinator of the study, said Tuesday that researchers will survey people's habits as part of a six-year study that will eventually involve 1 million people nationwide — the largest undertaking of its kind.

Corporate Microfiche Available At Library

The Seminole County Public Library system has received the Corporate MicroFile collection and Micron microfiche reader.

The Corporate MicroFile is an organized system of microfiche containing complete copies of financial reports published by more than 8,500 public corporations, including every corporation listed on the New York and American Stock Exchanges, and several thousand Over-The-Counter companies.

New reports will be added to the collection approximately twice each month. These reports will include annual reports to stockholders, proxy statements, and a variety of special reports.

The collection is available at the Camelberry branch library, Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m. - 9 p.m., and Friday and Saturday, 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. For more information, call the Camelberry library at 339-4000.

County May Challenge Sanford Annexation

By JOE DeSANTIS
 Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Commission has authorized County Attorney Nikki Clayton to investigate the possibility of challenging the city of Sanford's recent annexation of a parcel of property at 25th Street and Country Club Road.

Richard Fleischmann and Patrick Zeuli, property owners, first approached the commission a year ago requesting rezoning of the parcel from agricultural to commercial, but the commission denied the request.

The property owners then petitioned the city to annex the land, which it did last September. But last week Mr. Clayton said the annexation was illegal but that there was little the county could do because a 30-day appeals period had expired. The commission didn't discover the annexation until last week, when the property owners requested a waiver of the two-year waiting period for any rezoning of annexed property.

According to Florida law, property annexed into a city cannot change density through rezoning for a two-year period without the consent of the county.

The law also says annexations must be contiguous and can't be tied into the city simply by running down an adjacent road or extending into unincorporated land.

The only tie the property has to Sanford is part of the plot on 25th Street, which is part of an old strip annexation of Mayfair Villas done eight years ago prior to legislative outlawing of such annexations.

A week ago, prompted by a report from county engineers that the property was flood-prone, the commission upheld a staff recommendation to deny a waiver of the two-year waiting period.

Engineers said any development on the property would have an adverse effect on adjacent property.

At Tuesday's workshop session, Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff said the board he had received several calls from residents in the area who were distressed at the annexation, and he said development of the property would be in violation of dumping in a wetlands area.

By a unanimous vote, the board authorized Mr. Clayton to write a letter to the state attorney in the form of a "quo warranto" to determine what, if any, authority Sanford had in annexing the property.

A quo warranto is an extraordinary writ submitted by the plaintiff seeking a declaration of authority.

Hinckley Lived In A 'Fantasy' World

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three weeks before he shot President Reagan, John W. Hinckley Jr. — living in a fantasy world without friends — suffered a crushing blow when his wealthy father told him he was on his own, his attorney says.

Lawyer Vincent Fuller, expected to open the defense at Hinckley's trial today, told a jury he would present evidence John W. Hinckley Sr. met his son at the Denver airport on March 7, 1981, gave him a few hundred dollars and sent him on his way.

"His last line to reality has been severed — because his parents have let him out," Fuller said Tuesday, laying the groundwork for Hinckley's defense that he was insane on the day he shot Reagan.

Prosecutors called nine witnesses Tuesday, including the two law officers wounded in the March 30, 1981, shooting. According to testimony, Hinckley practiced shooting at a Denver firing range and shot Reagan from a crouched position.

Government lawyers said they would complete their case today with testimony from about seven witnesses and the showing of a slow-motion videotape of the shooting.

Britain Loses Destroyer, But Pledges To Fight On

United Press International
 Amid reports of a major sea battle raging near the Falkland Islands, Britain vowed to keep up its war with Argentina today despite the loss of up to 30 men along with a $40 million destroyer and a Sea Harrier jet.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher faced mounting pressure in the fifth day of open hostilities with Argentina from domestic opposition and European allies for a cease-fire in a war that may also have taken hundreds of Argentine lives.

The HMS Sheffield was hit Tuesday by a French-made Exocet missile, one of naval warfare's most lethal weapons, fired from a plane launched from the British-built 25th of May aircraft carrier, U.S. intelligence sources said.

"On the horizon I could see thick smoke billowing from the stricken vessel," said a reporter aboard the aircraft carrier HMS Hermes. "The Sheffield's crew battled for several hours against the fires, which broke out when the missile struck."

But intelligence sources in Washington, quoted by the New York Times, said the attack was "only a small element" of a "major naval battle" raging in the 200-mile combat zone round the islands, 450 miles off the Argentine coast.

Argentina said it had rescued 680 survivors from its cruiser General Belgrano, leaving 363 men still missing in the icy sea. The ship, Argentina's second largest, was torpedoed by a British submarine Sunday.

Gentlemen Bandits Rob Casselberry Pair

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Although two men, wearing ski masks, gloves and carrying guns, broke into a Casselberry apartment and robbed the two women residents, the mother and daughter roommates told deputies that the men "were very polite."

Nancy Heizman, 35, and her mother, Adele Hunter, 64, both of 2577 Semoran Blvd., told deputies they were sitting in their living room at about 1:30 a.m. Sunday when two men, wearing masks, gloves, dark clothing and carrying handguns, entered their home through a bedroom window.

The men told the women to remain seated while they ransacked the apartment and stole an undisclosed amount of property, deputies said.

Mrs. Heizman and Mrs. Hunter told deputies the men "stayed for about an hour and were very polite when they talked to us."

An investigation into the incident is continuing.

BOAT SUBMERGED, MOTOR STOLEN

Thieves stole an aluminum boat from the Welkiva Marina in Longwood, submerged it a short distance from its mooring and took the motor valued at about $700.

Marina manager Barbara Stanley told deputies someone stole the boat belonging to Allan R. Quartermaine, 38, of 100 Suffolk Court, Longwood, sometime between 4 p.m. Saturday and 9:01 a.m. Sunday. The thieves reportedly used bolt cutters to cut a cable securing the boat to the dock and after stealing its motor, pulled the drain plug, allowing it to partially sink near a bridge west of the marina, deputies said.

TOYOTA DEALERSHIP RIPPED OFF

Thieves broke into the Citrus Country Toyota dealership, U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood, sometime between Saturday afternoon and Sunday vandalizing several offices, the customer lounge and cars.

Salesman David Walters told deputies that a cigarette machine in the customer lounge had been broken into as well as numerous cars in the repair shop.

Deputies said the burglars had ransacked the rear service area door several times before firing three shots at the door lock.

Deputies also said an undisclosed amount of office equipment is missing.

MAN CUT AT BAR

A Sanford man told police he was cut by a woman with a knife at the Cool Breeze Bar, Sipes Avenue, Sanford, "for no reason," and that several hours earlier a woman had fired shots at him.

Kendrick Pollock, 44, of 615 Palmetto Ave., said he received a four-inch long knife wound on his left leg, but refused to allow rescue workers to give him aid for the cut, police reported. The incident reportedly occurred at about 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

In the previous incident, which occurred at about 4:03 p.m., Pollock told police a woman whose identity was not disclosed, fired shots at him at his residence.

SANFORD WOMAN FREE ON BOND

A 23-year-old Sanford woman and an Apopka man are free today on bond from the Seminole County jail following their arrests over the weekend on charges of stealing items from a Fern Park store.

Sandra Lavern Wells, of 118 McKay Blvd., Sanford, was arrested Friday after she reportedly walked through the Zayre department store in Fern Park, stuffing clothing into her handbag and leaving the store without paying for $142 worth of merchandise, police said.

In another incident, Gary Richard Holt, 30, of 1436 Sheala Road, was released on bond following his arrest at the store when security personnel observed a man go into the shoe department, remove his personal shoes, put on a pair of new shoes and leave without paying.

MAIL STOLEN FROM POST OFFICE

An undisclosed amount of mail and postal equipment was stolen from the U.S. Post Office, on County Road 15 in Lake Monroe, sometime between 12:30 p.m. Saturday and 9:30 p.m. Sunday.

Postmaster Robert A. Mann, told deputies the thieves taped the glass on the post office door, broke the pane, unlocked the door and entered the building.

ATTEMPTED ARSON OF HOME

Deputies and fire investigators are investigating a Saturday night fire at a Lake Mary home which deputies say was caused when someone threw an incendiary device at the house.

Kenneth W. Gregory, 38, told deputies he heard a loud noise at the rear of his home at about 12:30 p.m. and upon investigation, discovered 10-foot flames just outside the back door.

Fire personnel said a burned plastic bottle was discovered on the ground. The fire burned only the grass, deputies reported.

30 DAYS GIVEN FOR EXTRADITION

Seminole Circuit Judge Robert MacGregor has denied a motion to release a Maitland couple, charged with killing their spouses in Chicago, but stipulated the pair must be extradited to that city within 30 days.

Donald James Abrams, 44, and Alice Mae Jackson, 40, both of 2025 Huntersfield Ave., are being held at the Seminole County jail until Illinois authorities extradite them. The two have been charged with fatally beating and shooting their spouses, Judith Abrams, 40, and Michael Jackson, 38, in a Chicago carpet store, managed by the Abrameses. Mrs. Abrams and Mrs. Jackson were sisters.

A defense lawyer had requested that MacGregor release his clients, saying the two had been held longer than the law permits while awaiting extradition. Abrams and Mrs. Jackson were arrested March 30.

PARK VANDALIZED

Vandals caused about $250 worth of damage to the Sanford Memorial Park on Lake Monroe sometime between 4 p.m. Monday and 4 a.m. Tuesday.

The culprits bent an aluminum light pole, knocked down a small tree and pulled the park's exercise devices from the ground and threw them into the lake, police said.

HOME RANSACKED, BURGLARIZED

An Altamonte Springs man's home was ransacked and burglarized sometime between 12:30 p.m. and 5:00 p.m. Monday.

Richard Turner, 44, of 1480 Hattaway Drive, told police someone broke into his home through the living room sliding glass door and stole 11 $100 bills, two $20 bills, a $50 bill, a $5 bill, a $10 bill and $100 worth of coins, totaling $1,305.

KICKING BURGLARS

Thieves kicked open the rear door of the Springs Plaza post office in Longwood and stole $10 worth of quarters from the cash drawer.

Post Office manager Janet Mae Hutchings told deputies that the thieves broke into the office sometime between noon Sunday and 8:45 a.m. Tuesday.

TV TAKEN

A 19-inch, color television set was stolen from a Sanford woman's home sometime between 1 and 5:15 a.m. Tuesday.

Shirley Ellison, 34, of 39 Higgins Terrace, told police the thieves entered her home after cutting the screen on a bedroom window. The TV was valued at about $450.

Florida Reapportionment

Now Up To Supreme Court

FALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Lawmakers have had their final say on legislative reapportionment, and whether the proposed new House and Senate districts take effect is now up to the Florida Supreme Court and U.S. Justice Department.

The seven justices spent most of Tuesday in a marathon court session hearing final arguments from lawyers for the House, Senate and other interested parties. They will now decide whether the plan meets all constitutional requirements, as well as such related questions as whether all senators have to run for reelection this year or only those whose terms expire.

Election Code Upheld

ORLANDO (UPI) — A federal judge Tuesday upheld the constitutionality of Florida's election code, thwarting the Libertarian Party's efforts to gain a foothold in the state.

U.S. District Judge Elizabeth Kovachevich said in an 18-page ruling that the state has "both legitimate and compelling" reasons for placing certain restrictions on ballot access. But she also agreed with the Libertarians that part of the code "burdens" some of their "fundamental rights."

Murder Suspects Jailed

STUART (UPI) — Stuart police said today they have captured and charged three Fort Pierce men in last week's abduction and slaying of Evinrude heiress Frances Julia Slater.

Police said they arrested J.B. Parker, 19, of Fort Pierce, at 11:30 a.m. today and booked him into the Martin County Jail. Already in custody were John Earl Hush and Alfonso Cave, both 23 and from Fort Pierce.

All three men are being held without bond on charges of robbery, kidnapping, and first-degree murder.

WORLD

Brezhnev Ends Silence

To Support Argentina

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev has ended five weeks of silence with a speech backing Argentina's claim to the Falkland Islands and condemning Britain's attempt to block the "freedom movement" in Latin America.

Brezhnev condemned Britain for "colonial brigandage" in a speech Tuesday toasting the Soviet Union's close ties to Latin America in general, and to Nicaragua in particular.

Warsaw Stifles Protests

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Poland's Communist rulers tightened martial-law restrictions today in a bid to prevent a new eruption of the worst anti-government riots since the military crackdown five months ago. "Serious" riots supporting the independent Solidarity labor union and denouncing martial law erupted in the port city of Szczecin for the second straight day Tuesday, the official PAP news agency said.

VW Not Negligent In Car Seat Case

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — Volkswagen of America was not negligent, nor was the seat design of its cars defective for five years while the automaker withheld test results from the government, a circuit court jury has decided.

The four-week trial, which questioned the safety of seats in VW Beetles from 1947 to 1972, ended late Tuesday following more than six hours of deliberation.

A DeLand woman, partially paralyzed in 1974 when her Beetle was struck from behind, sought between $5 million and $10 million in punitive damages from the automaker.

Pat Fitzroy said Volkswagen knew in 1968 of a faulty design that caused seats to snap loose in rear-end accidents, but took no steps to alter the seat anchoring system until 1973. Volkswagen lawyers said the car that struck Ms. Fitzroy's 1969 Beetle was going in excess of 40 mph, and there were no government regulations for crash safety at that speed. They also said Fitzroy was negligent for not wearing a safety belt.

Ms. Fitzroy, 34, was paralyzed on the left side and forced to quit her job in a DeLand nursery school after the accident. The man who hit her, Harley Cross, died in 1979.

Fitzroy's attorney, Anthony Provitola, said VW saved $250 million by not asking for a recall of the Beetle.

There are currently 80 to 90 similar suits pending against Volkswagen, said Provitola. He also said VW has settled several dozen seat safety suits out of court. The largest jury award was $1.6 million in a California case, he said.

Fundraiser Saturday At Geneva Church

"Bold Growing in Geneva" is the theme of a building drive sponsored by First Baptist Church of Geneva to raise funds to build a new church facility for its expanding congregation. To kick off the drive, an all-day fellowship will be held beginning at noon Saturday at the church featuring barbecued chicken, special music and guest speakers. The public is invited.

Correction

The final installment of the Evening's Herald series, Our Water—How Safe? Incorrectly stated that Oviedo and Altamonte Springs add fluoride to their water systems. While Casselberry's Utility Director Ed Keuling stated that he would be in favor of such treatment in his city's water, Oviedo and Altamonte Springs officials do not support such treatment for their systems.
