

Men At Agricultural Scientists Session

One of the principal objectives of the Central Florida Experiment Station is to develop new and improved crops for the Central Florida growing areas. To accomplish this objective, Dr. John H. Winters, Jr., and Walter E. Blandford, Jr., have been working closely with plant breeders in the testing of promising new strains of cabbage, celery, sweet corn, broccoli, and cauliflower. He is continuing his interest in these crops and expects to gather much helpful information at the meeting in Charleston.

Sweet corn has become a ten to fifteen million dollar crop in Florida since DDT became available for the control of the corn earworm. After many years of painstaking research plant breeders are beginning to release for trial strains of sweet corn that are resistant to the attack of the corn earworm. This method of control offers a possibility of reducing the cost of growing sweet corn by eliminating some of the applications of DDT. Dr. Winters will review his work of the past two years with sweet corn breeders and will make plans to continue this highly promising line of investigation.

Professor Foresees Strong Third Party Movement In South

A strong third party movement in the South is forecast by Dr. Gilbert L. Lyeon, professor of history and political science at Stetson University.

This view will be amplified in comments at a meeting of the Southern Political Science Association scheduled for November 21-22 in Gallatinburg, Tennessee.

Dr. Lyeon has been asked to comment on a paper by Professor Charles O. Lerche, of Emory University, entitled "A Theory of Southern Isolation". At the same session, Professor Kenneth Vines of Tulane University will give a paper on "Toward a Two-Party South?—The Pace of Republican Development in the South."

"The South may well see the growth of a strong third party movement now," said Dr. Lyeon. "The Little Rock affair and the integration problem in general has blasted the hopes of the Republican party in the South. The Southerners are wary of the integration ideas of the Northern Democrats."

Dr. Lyeon will be accompanied by Professor Luther W. Smith, Jr., of the history and political science department.

The journal, organ of the British Medical Association, warned TV viewers against becoming too engrossed in the programs and advised them to get up and walk about at least once every hour to prevent thrombosis in the leg. It also said that before sitting down to a night's viewing, viewers should remove girdles and other tight garments.

New Yorkers

NEW YORK (UP)—Oh, how we miss you! Let us work out our own problems. We New Yorkers are just like anybody else, except that we miss more shabbily—and longer—at home.

We know we're backward, but we're trying. We need encouragement, not beratement, from the rest of the country.

A man from down south has sent this department a cheery little message, as follows:

"What happens when a city gets too complex, too overgrown, too mixed up? I'm thinking of New York."

You Fear Failure?

"Seems to me every time I pick up a paper I see that the subway is out of commission up there, the water mains have broken, the lights have gone out, the steam pipes are leaking, the Long Island trains are stopped, traffic is jammed up, there's no place to park, or the mail is late. You poor fellows."

Uh-huh. He forgets a couple. The National League has abandoned to the West Coast—and the poor pedestrian is being held, partly but fairly, that he is no longer a free and wandering in the asphalt wilderness.

For the moment, we're concentrating on reforming the pedestrian. And they're resisting strenuously. This week they began a long-headed campaign against jaywalking. The idea is to try to educate New Yorkers against their impulse to walk out and get themselves killed.

To get an unbiased idea of how the campaign was working out for the first couple of days, we turned to Robert Vermillion, a businessman from the Orient who got into town on a visit as the anti-jaywalk campaign started.

"It's amazing," he said. "You have these big red blinking signs at the corners flashing with a 'don't walk' warning, and people just walk right out against them and dodge through traffic. At times there seem to be more people in the streets than there are on the sidewalks."

Taxi Driver Pitches In

"I came across town in a taxi, and the driver seemed to be trying to do his part in the campaign. He would lean out the window and holler at scurrying pedestrians, 'keep working at it—you'll be an angel yet.'"

Asked whether Orientals were as backward as New Yorkers in the matter of jaywalking, he said he believed not.

"Take Tokyo," he said. "there's less jaywalking there than in New York—probably because of the risk involved. The driving tends to be headlong. The walker learns that to survive he has to behave. The auto has the right of way, the driver has the advantage, and you're just not wise to walk out in front of a car."

"You should see the roads lead-

The Pastor, the Rev. E. H. Spear Jr., cordially extends an invitation to everyone to attend it at all possible.

WHEAT TO POLAND

WARSAW, Poland (UP)—More than 200,000 tons of American wheat have arrived in Poland since July 28 under the Polish-American economic agreement, the Polish News Agency said today. The agency also said that 3,000 tons of soy beans, 25,000 tons of cotton and 15,000 tons of oats had arrived from the United States.

ing to the horse race track. It's considered bad luck for a horse player to be passed by another car on the way to the track, and it's good luck to pass another. The roads, through residential areas, become race tracks themselves. Let the walker beware."

This, however, is not the answer for New York. We're going to educate ourselves. May take a generation or so, but we'll do it.

Today's Young Generation Doing Much Reading

By GAY FAULKY

United Press Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UP)—One authority on children's books says today's young generation reads everything in reach.

Which should be heartening news to all us adults who have been fretting about the demands of television on a child's free hours or on reason why "Johnny can't read."

This being the 20th annual Children's Book Week, I visited Mrs. Frances Spain, an affable, Georgia-born woman who has worked with youngsters in library and classroom for 25 years. She is present in head of the children's section of the New York Public Library, where some three and one-half million children's books are checked out yearly.

Classes to Come

"What are they reading? Marcy me, everything in all fields," said Mrs. Spain. "They're going through the books grandma gave up on—the classics as well as the comics. I must say, though, we don't include the latter in our Rrary listings."

"A bunch of us worried when television came along, fearing it would cut into a child's reading time," she recalled.

"But then, so does dancing school."

"Circulating did drop a bit at first, but not as we had feared. Television stimulates a certain amount of reading. The classic example was a few seasons ago when we had the Davy Crockett craze in circulation. Well, we couldn't keep his biography, or that of any other western hero on the shelves."

Statistics from the Children's Book Council support Mrs. Spain's observations. Lucy Tompkins, the executive secretary, said that in 1951 there was one children's book editor. Now, the council has 60 member publishers. Non-member publishers of juveniles being the total to 105, she said.

Children's Books Triple

In 1900, there were 57 children's book titles published. Last year, 1,406. The American Book Publishers Council, Inc., reported a 28 per cent increase from 1954 through 1956 in the number of volumes sold, in the R and up category. The under $4 retail showed a 12 per cent increase.

All told last year, either the kids or their relatives bought nearly 145 million books.

Mrs. Spain said children's tastes in reading have changed little with the years. "We have noticed," she said, "that there is more demand for books of fact. Not done in a fictional manner, but straight-forward. And the children seem to be reading more biography and history. Right at the moment, our books on space flying and science fiction are 'hot sellers'."

"But the children never tire of Black Beauty, Tom Sawyer, Hans Christian Andersen, Grimm's Fairy Tales, Arabian Nights, Robinson Crusoe, Little Women, Alice in Wonderland..."

How about Huckleberry Finn, the book recently dropped as a grade school text by the New York City Board of Education as "unsuitable."

"Oh, we have huck on our shelves," said Mrs. Spain. "The unabridged version."

DEATH PENALTY INVOKED

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UP)—The Lebanese government announced today that the penalty for terrorist infringement of security regulations had been raised from a prison sentence to death. The Council of Ministers took the decision at a special meeting to discuss ways of stamping out terrorist activity, including the throwing of bombs, attributed here to foreign elements.

COLLEGE GRADS EARN MORE

MIAMI BEACH (UP)—Paul Gurbis, director of the Bureau of Labor Standards of the U.S. Department of Labor, told the Florida Federation of Labor convention Monday that the average college graduate earns a total of $388,000 in his lifetime. Gurbis said bureau statistics showed the college graduate's lifetime earnings average $115,000 more than those of a high school graduate and $152,000 more than those of a grade school graduate.

THE HARKS GIFT

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth has made a gift of the first challenge and token ever used at Communion services in America to St. George's Church at Gravesend, it was announced today. The queen received the challenge and token at Jamestown, Va., during her recent state visit to the United States. St. George's Church is the burial place of Pocahontas, the Indian princess credited with saving the lives of many early settlers in America.

NEW YORK (UP)—Dr. David E. Steinman, designer of the recently opened, 7,000-foot, 100 million dollar Mackinac suspension bridge in Michigan, said Monday he has been awarded a $6 million dollar contract to design a bridge across the bosporus of Istanbul, Turkey.

Soviet Union Makes Economic Support Promise To Egypt

By UNITED PRESS
The Soviet Union has moved to bring Egypt into its economic orbit along with Syria.

Syria. It said Israel was massing troops for an attack on Syria. At the same time Cairo reserved its campaign against King Hussein of Jordan and attacked the United States. It accused Col. James G. Sweeney, U.S. military attaché in Jordan, of "collapsing" Hussein from Jordanian military affairs.

The Russian economic aid promise to Egypt was made Tuesday night in Moscow by Premier Nikolai Bulganin at a reception for Maj. Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, the Egyptian defense minister and commander of the joint Syrian-Egyptian forces.

The Soviet-Egyptian military relations although Amer met with several high military figures including Defense Minister Rodan Y. Malinovsky. But Moscow observers noted that Amer visited more Soviet military installations than any other non-Communist leader.

Observers recalled that Syria's decision to link its economic future with Russia followed a similar visit to Moscow.

Russia is Egypt's largest customer and supplier, but Egypt also has talks underway with Britain in Rome and with France in Geneva in an effort to repair economic relations with the West.

Accuses Turkey
Moscow Radio, in a broadcast monitored in London, said Turkish "provocations" were continuing along the Syrian border but it turned most of its "venom" on the United States and Israel. It said recent maneuvers by the U.S. 6th Fleet "give rise to the belief that Washington has now decided to attack Syria from both sea and land, more precisely from Israel."

Moscow made similar charges several months ago but switched its emphasis later to Turkey. To-day it said "large units of Israeli armed forces are massing south of Jerusalem" and said it was "worth noting" they followed a visit last week by Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther.

$1 Million Road Bond Issue Nearer Reality

The possibility of a $1 million bond issue with which rights-of-way may be purchased and other road improvements made in Seminole County came nearer a reality yesterday.

William A. Dial, in a letter to the Board of Seminole County Commissioners, said that "the bond issue is possible" with which rights-of-way for the proposed State Road 44, the bridge over the St. Johns on State Road 413, and other road projects may be purchased.

Dial revealed that he had talked with Ralph Hartfield, Director of Revenue Projects in Tallahassee. He said that the bond issue would be possible by pledging the 8th and 9th cent of the gasoline tax. "Resolutions are being prepared," Dial told the Board of Commissioners in his letter, for approval by the board.

Commissioners have been concerned over the possibility of having important projects approved by the State Road Board for construction in Seminole County and the lack of funds with which to purchase rights-of-way for the projects.

Freeholders' Names May Be Investigated

Possibilities of an investigation into the names appearing on the certified list of freeholders for yesterday's school bond election grew out of a meeting this morning of the Seminole County Board of Education which met to canvass the vote.

Citizens from four of the Seminole County precincts appeared at the meeting to protest the election and to ask that some investigation be made.

E. Martin Law, an interested citizen and member of the Parent-Teachers Association at Altamonte Springs said "From reports I have heard the same problem exists all over the county."

Paul Bates of Fern Park appeared at the meeting and stated "If I can look at the list of voters I believe I can point out at least 25 names in 10 minutes that have sold their property and moved away."

It was pointed out by John Kader at the meeting that "There were people turned away from the polls and not allowed to vote."

However, Senator Douglas Stenstrom, attorney for the School Board said, "A person must be a registered voter to have voted in yesterday's election. Any registered elector who was not shown as a freeholder could vote by signing an affidavit."

There were a total of 3,087 ballots cast in yesterday's election to approve a $2 million bond issue for school construction. R. T. Milwee, Superintendent of Public Instruction, said that approximately 200 of the total number voted against the bond issue. "I was an 18 to 1 vote," he said.

Senator Douglas Stenstrom said that he would recommend to the Board of Education that they conduct an investigation into names appearing on the list of registered voters who were deceased, declared incompetent, or had sold their property and moved away.

Milwee, late this morning said "The Board has the authority to conduct the investigation and it may be possible, after the voters are canvassed, that such an investigation will be held."

Stenstrom told the Board of Education members that their first duty is to canvass the election. "You are to ascertain the total number of voters, the number voting for, and the number voting against," he said.

One citizen asked "The investigation will put the election over?" Administrative Assistant Walter Teague replied "I believe it will."

Senator Stenstrom told the board members and audience attending this morning's meeting "If the report of the canvassing Board is not approved we cannot hold another year. Rather than divert your efforts in that field (speaking of a lawsuit contesting the election) I would rather spend our efforts on election for school bonds within a another election."

However, Stenstrom commented "I am not satisfied that this bond election has failed."

In the event that another election is to be held "I would be in favor of bringing the matter before the Board of Seminole County Commissioners and ask that enough personnel be furnished the Supervisor of Registration to bring the voting lists up to date," said Senator Stenstrom.

Board members this morning felt that it would take at least four days to complete an investigation into the names appearing on certified lists.

"It isn't going to be too easy," said Senator Stenstrom, "but I think you can do it."

The total votes cast in yesterday's election were 76 votes short of the number required to approve the bond issue.

Commission Adopts Street Construction Rules, Regulations

Rules and regulations by which engineers, developers and contractors are to be guided in the construction of streets in Seminole County subdivisions were adopted yesterday by the Board of Seminole County Commissioners and become a part of the plat law, now in effect.

There are eight sections of the regulations which are being made a part of the plat law.

The regulations call for complete plans and specifications to be submitted to the Board of Commissioners for approval before any actual construction is started. "The plans shall be complete and show profiles of streets, typical section of roadway, drainage areas, details of drainage structures to be used along with type of base and surface that is to be used," section 1 states.

Through or collector streets shall be 66 feet interior and dead-end streets 50 feet and where high hills or cuts are required right-of-way shall be sufficient to take in construction limits.

Minimum paving widths were set at 18 feet wide with 8 foot shoulders on each side for interior streets. Through or access streets or roads will be 20 feet wide with 8 foot shoulders. The regulations require that when curb and gutter is used the width shall not be less than 24 feet between the face of curbs. Curb-to-edges shall have a minimum radius of 40 feet.

Clearing and grubbing shall be performed within the roadway; and adequate size structures are to be installed for drainage; regulations for subgrade are outlined in the regulations relative to materials and soils. Regulations also set requirements for the base and require that all shoulders, front and back slopes are to be spigged or sodded with approved grasses.

Copies of the regulations, along with the plat law, will be available immediately, commissioners pointed out.

Zoning Regulations Adopted By County

A 35-section 20-page Zoning Regulation was adopted by the Seminole County Board of Commissioners yesterday.

The new regulations go into effect today which require that permits be obtained from the Zoning Commission of the county for all construction of any nature.

It was pointed out specifically that no "Use Permits" will be issued for any commercial, trade or industrial structure of multiple family building until the "application for such permit has been reviewed in public hearing after due notice and approved by a majority vote of the Seminole County Zoning Commission."

The zoning regulation, adopted at a public hearing held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, specifies by state law that it is "An act to empower the Board of County Commissioners of Seminole County to regulate and restrict within certain territory of said county not in (Continued on Page 3)

Civic Club Will Hear Agricultural Leaders This Week

Farm-City Week will get underway in earnest this week when agricultural leaders appear before local civic clubs to speak on subjects intended to bring urban and rural citizens closer together.

Dr. Ned Cate, Agricultural Economist with the Extension Service, University of Florida will speak tomorrow before the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce at its noon luncheon meeting and then speak again at 8:30 p. m. before the Casselberry Lions Club.

Next Monday, Forrest Myers, Assistant to the Director of the Florida Agricultural Extension Service, will speak to the Sanford Rotary Club at its noon luncheon meeting.

Tuesday, Don Adams, Director of Agricultural Development for the Florida Power and Light Company, will speak to the members of the Sanford Lions Club at their noon luncheon meeting.

The week of bringing urban and rural citizens together will be sponsored by members of the Sanford Kiwanis Club are taken on a tour of the new Sanford State Farmers Market, a tour arranged by the Kiwanis Club's Agricultural and Conservation Committee.

Earlier this month, the five mayors of incorporated communities in Seminole County declared Farm-City Week in all of the county's communities by issuing a joint proclamation. This is the first time that such a proclamation has been issued in the county and is one pointer toward the closer relationships between the farm and city people of the community.

Speakearing the activities of the week is Cecil Tucker II, Seminole County Agricultural Agent.

Membership Drive Over $7,000 Mark

The Seminole County Chamber of Commerce membership drive fund is steadily climbing, a fact that will more than likely be pointed out at the Coffee Club gathering of the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow morning at Mrs. Appleby's Valdes Hotel Restaurant.

Already the fund has exceeded the $7,000 mark and is daily increasing and growing nearer the $10,000 goal set by the Chamber of Commerce's membership drive committee.

In the current drive there are 188 memberships already subscribed to the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce. Of this total, 44 of the memberships are new and 49 of them have increased their memberships over last year.

Team captains of the membership drive committee are this week making personal calls on all names and prospective members appearing on their individual lists. Each team captain has business and professional categories on which to call.

J. Bralley Odham, chairman of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce membership drive committee called on business and professional leaders to send their memberships to the Chamber of Commerce as soon as possible.

"This will allow the team captains to concentrate on other personal calls in order to reach a larger membership than ever before realized in the local chamber of commerce," he said.

A meeting to climax the Chamber of Commerce membership drive will be held Friday morning at 8:30 at Mrs. Appleby's Restaurant. Reports will be heard from each team captain and solicitor.

"We hope by that time," Odham said, "to have reached our goal of $10,000 to match the appropriations of both the City of Sanford and Seminole County."

"There is no reason why we cannot have one of the most progressive budgets for our local chamber of commerce," said Odham. "We have already seen and experienced the effects of a successful, progressive and aggressive Chamber of Commerce," he said.

9-Year-Old Boy Kills 10-Pound Turkey Sunday

One young Seminole County hunter has already captured the envy of many an older gun enthusiast.

A fourth grade student of Southside School, in Mrs. Masey Brock's room, has already shown off his prowess with a shotgun by exhibiting the result of his day's hunt for the turkey.

David Pell, only nine years old, killed a 10-pound Tom Turkey last Sunday with his trusty 12 gauge shotgun as he hunted with his dad on the Turkey Track Ranch.

"Yeah, I bagged that one myself," he said as he posed with his turkey almost as long as he is high and his shotgun which is equally as tall as the 9-year-old hunter.

Decked out in his hunting gear (coat, cap, and shotgun) the young hunter was really as anxious for the hunting season to begin as the older folks around who had stocked up on shotgun shells, turkey calls, boots, coats, and caps.

"There couldn't be a prouder hunter than David," his parents revealed as news of the successful hunt spread around.

Odham Seeks Price Control Lift

TALLAHASSEE (UP) — Milk Commission Chairman J. Bralley Odham will try to get permission today to lift price controls on milk at the consumer level within the next 90 days.

After hearing day-long testimony from major milk distributors Tuesday, Odham said he felt that a free, competitive market would be best for the milk industry in Florida.

However, he said the commission should continue price-fixing on milk at the producer level, at least until Florida producers can petition for federal control.

"Otherwise," he explained, "the producers would be thrown to the wolves."

The long-time foe of milk controls said he would formally make his recommendation that controls on the wholesale and consumer level be lifted "if I can get the votes to put it over."

That means he needs a simple majority of four votes of the seven-man commission.

During Tuesday's testimony, the major milk distributors did an about face on controls. Witness after witness said he felt controls should be eliminated at both the retail and wholesale levels and the market thrown into open competition on pricing.

Representatives of both the major national distributors, who dominate the Florida milk business, and executives of the big supermarket chains admitted illegal "rebates and discounts" for quantity purchases are not uncommon. And they said there is apparently little the commission can do to stop it.

Odham charged that three "under-the-table" rebates cost the consumer from 10 to 15 per cent of their milk bill in "hidden costs." The commission has set a 25 cent a quart minimum on pasteurized milk on the wholesale level and 37 cents at the retail level.

Odham contends that elimination of these rebates could save the housewife up to three cents per quart of milk.

The commission chief advised the witnesses they could testify in a general hearsay manner since any distributor or supermarket which admitted paying or receiving a discount would be subject to criminal prosecution.

"Although we do not condone the practice," Odham said, "we do not want to put anyone in jail for something forced by an unrealistic and un-American law."

Sheriff Thinks Man Killed To Make Head Collection

MADISON, Wis. (UP)—A sheriff maintained today that bachelor farmer Ed Gein committed the mass murder of 10 or more women to obtain his collection of human heads.

Sheriff Herbert Wanserski of Portage County injected the controversial theory into the investigation Tuesday night when he said he found the shrunken head of a missing woman in Gein's "house of horrors."

However, the director of Wisconsin's crime laboratory, Charles Wilson, said it would be impossible to identify any of the human death masks or skulls by sight.

Gein, 51, a tall, mild-mannered farmer from near Plainfield, Wis., has admitted butchering a Plainfield woman storekeeper last Saturday. He said he got the rest of the skulls found in his junk-littered home by robbing fresh graves.

More Tests For Gein

Gein was scheduled to undergo further lie tests this morning at crime laboratory headquarters here in an effort to settle the issue.

Gein was questioned for about five hours Tuesday afternoon and submitted to a 35-minute lie test.

Wanserski told newsmen he and other authorities found the "face and head of Mary Hogan," a 34-year-old tavern operator from near Plainfield who disappeared nearly three years ago.

Gein has admitted dragging Mrs. Worden's body from her hardware store and hanging it by the heels in his woodshed. When (Continued on Page 3)

Speedboat Races Scheduled Jan. 19

The 1958 speedboat races to be held at Sanford will be on January 19, Dr. A. W. Woodall, commodore of the Sanford Boat and Ski Club announced late last night.

The date for the second annual event to be held here was set following a meeting of the American Power Boat Association held in St. Petersburg.

C. R. Watson, race chairman for Florida, informed Dr. Woodall of the date for the Grapefruit Circuit race.

Already the Sanford Boat and Ski Club is laying plans for the coming event, said Dr. Woodall as he announced that Joe Nicholas has been appointed Race Chairman for the Sanford Boat and Ski Club organization.

Other committees will be appointed by Nicholas at a special meeting to be held tomorrow night at the Sanford civic center building in Port Mellon Park at 8 p. m.

Dr. Woodall said last night "Following the experiences we gained in staging our first annual speedboat races we are planning a bigger and better race this coming year." He said that one of the chief aims of the Sanford Boat and Ski Club for the coming Grapefruit Circuit event "will be to have better facilities for the public to see the races."

The commodore of the local boat and ski club also said that Harry Robson and Frances Roumillat have agreed to serve as co-chairmen of a committee to finance the January 19 speedboat race.

Mrs. Chapman To Head Mental Health Assn.

The members of the Mental Health Assn. of Seminole County meeting last night in the board room of the First Federal Savings and Loan Assn., elected Mrs. B. F. Chapman president for the next year and Mrs. Verno Messenger as treasurer. Also included in the business of the evening was the election for three year terms as directors of John Kader, Mrs. Gustave Bamberger, Miss Rebecca Stevens, Mrs. Margaret Reynolds and R. F. Cooper.

Other officers for the ensuing 12 months are Sidney Ives III, first vice-president; R. F. Cooper, second vice-president; Mrs. Stanley Piskorski, secretary, and Mrs. Gusave Bamberger, assistant secretary.

Mrs. M. L. Raborn, director and treasurer, submitted her resignation, explaining that demands on her time now prevented her from giving the necessary time to the association duties. The members expressed their thanks for the capable manner in which Mrs. Raborn has served and regrettably accepted the resignation.

Outgoing president George Touhy received a vote of appreciation for his efforts in heading the organization in the past year. He said that the progress of this group, spearheading the drive to overcome "America's number one health problem," was a team effort. He pointed to the wide public spirited interest in advancing the aims of mental health associations at local, state and national levels.

Locally, for instance, he said, the Women's Club, Beta Sigma Phi sorority, the Medical Assn. Auxiliary and the Pilot Club all have established mental health projects for their support. Such enthusiasm speaks well for the public service viewpoint of these groups and for the worthwhile endeavors of the mental health association.

Mrs. Chapman will call a director's meeting soon at her administrative office. The date will be set up.

HOOPER AIMS BIBLE PROGRAM—Former President Herbert Hoover, a sponsor of the American Bible Society's annual Worldwide Bible Reading program, smiles his approval of this year's theme poster held by Mrs. Beverly Paine, U. S. Army, Portland, Maine. The slogan, "Now in 1,100 Tongues," refers to the number of languages and dialects into which at least one book of the Bible has been translated. The program, which unites more than 15,000,000 persons in more than 50 countries through daily readings from Thanksgiving to Christmas, was hailed by President Eisenhower in a message to the Society, which is headed by Dr. Daniel Burba.

'59 Cotton Acreage May Drop 25 Pct.

ATLANTA (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson warned the cotton-growing South that cotton acreage allowed in 1959 may drop to around 13 million acres, about 25 per cent under the present minimum.

Benson said legislation which established the present minimum of about 17,600,000 acres expires in 1960. After that date, the allotment must be set at a total acreage which normally would produce a crop of 10-million bales.

"The cotton farmer is now facing another legislation problem in 1960," Benson said in a speech prepared for delivery before the Golden Jubilee of the American Society of Agronomy. It was his first speech since he returned Saturday from a round-the-world trip to observe operation of U. S. surplus disposal programs.

Benson led into the warning of a sharply reduced cotton acreage with a plea for "broad" and "balanced" research as a way to "expand agriculture's frontiers."

He said research should be broad, because "it is concerned with both the problems of the day and the future" and balanced because "solutions to major prob-

Average College Graduate Earns $268,000 In Life

MIAMI BEACH (AP)—The average college graduate earns $112,000 more than a high school graduate in his life time and $132,000 more than a worker with a grade school diploma, a federal official reported.

Paul Gurske, director of the Bureau of Labor Standards of the U. S. Department of Labor, reported to the Florida Federation of Labor convention that the average college graduate earns a total of $268,000 in his life time.

"A national survey," Gurske said, "shows college grades accumulate this amount in wages as contrasted with but $185,000 for the holder of a high school diploma and $116,000 for a worker who merely finished grade school."

Medical Aid May Ease Even Hopeless Cancer

By HERMAN H. HUNNING, M.D.

SAVING lives is a doctor's main job. Yet he still must use all his medical skill and all the human kindness at his command when treating persons he knows he cannot save.

With all the modern drugs we have available today, a doctor never is helpless. There's always something he can do, even if it is merely to relieve pain or instill a note of hope in a patient or his family, for the time being at least.

Advanced Cases
Advanced cases of cancer, for example, usually will be fatal unless the entire malignant tumor can be removed. If this is impossible, a doctor just doesn't abandon the patient as hopeless. As a matter of fact, quite frequently it is cases such as these which tax a physician's ingenuity.

If radiation will do any good, it should be tried by all means. Often it can relieve pain, or shrink the tumor, thereby reducing pressure.

Personal Care
In some cases, such as in cervical cancer, radiation may even provide a permanent cure. There are any number of drugs which might be tried. Among the chemical agents doctors often use are nitrogen mustard, melphalan, Fowler's solution, triethyleneamine and triethylene-thiophosphoramide.

Also, there are the two purple antagonists, urethane and mercaptopurine, and the little acid antagonists, aminopterin and amethopterin.

Cancer Aids
ACTE and cortisone also may be valuable aids in treating a cancer patient. Not only do they often have a direct effect upon the tumor cells, but they also alleviate undesirable side effects of some of the other drugs.

Now these chemical compounds won't help all cases of cancer. In fact, they are most often employed in treating lymphomas and leukemias. Myeloma, for instance, gives hope of lengthening life in cases of myelogenous leukemia.

There's one thing I want all of you to remember: Today, advanced cases of cancer may seem to be hopeless. But tomorrow we may have the cure. We'll get it some day. Who can tell when it will be?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Q. V. My 12-year-old daughter has a great deal of hair on her upper lip and arms. Do you recommend it be removed?

A. Answer: Usually, it is best to withhold treatment with electrolysis until puberty is reached. The child possibly can be helped by bleaching the hairs or by rubbing them with the pumice stone or with sandpaper made for this purpose.

RECOVERING JUPITER-C MISSILE—The nose cone of the IRBM (intermediate range ballistic missile) with its parachute still attached, is recovered from the water after a successful test overcoming the problem of air-friction heating. The nose cone was mounted on a three stage rocket and fired to an altitude of 250 miles and to a distance of 2,200 miles. In the final phase the nose cone plunged into the target area at a speed of 14 times that of sound. Navy ships recovered the model nose within a few hours. Farmers May Have More Cash In '58

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Agriculture Department said today there may be more cash in farmers' pocketbooks next year, but it won't come from an increase in farm income.

Individual farmers may tally an increase in their ready cash from more off-farm employment, investments and the fact that there will be fewer farmers on fewer farms.

Newspapers Still Primary Source Of Information

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Newspapers continue to be America's primary source of information because they get all the facts and present them well, the 10th annual conference of the Public Relations Society of America was told Monday.

Despite the inroads of television into the news field, newspapers retain their popularity because of the "direct questioning and skeptical" approach of the reporter, New York Times Washington Correspondent James Reston said.

"Our founding fathers foresaw that the greater the power of government, the greater would be the need for skeptical questioning by the press," Reston said. Clifton Daniel, assistant to the managing editor of the New York Times, said newspapers have a record circulation of 58 million 10 years ago compared to 33 million 10 years ago.

"This is because a good newspaper provides more information than you get in any other way," Daniel said. "More than you can get for example, in a whole day of television viewing."

Department economists said farm income in 1958 is expected to average about the same as in 1957. At the same time the department said the total value of farm real estate on Nov. 1 was $114,700,000,000 a record high. This is 8 per cent greater than farm real estate values on Nov. 1, 1956, and 20 per cent higher than values four years ago.

Farm income for the first nine months of 1957 was at an annual rate of $12,100,000,000, up 2 per cent from the corresponding period in 1956. The department said most of this increase was due to higher payments under the 1957 soil bank program. Gross farm income so far this year is up 2 per cent. Production expenses also are up 2 per cent.

Only three states—Wisconsin, New York and North Carolina—were to register an increase in farm real estate values from July 1 to Nov. 1.

State Road 48, now under construction in Seminole County from the St. Johns River to Mellonville Ave., is proposed to be extended through Sanford and continue on to join with State Road 16 near Paola.

Also, plans to continue State Road 415 on into Seminole County over a new bridge to replace the present wood span and then to join State Road 48 east of Mellonville Ave., have been proposed.

Other plans include the widening of Sanford Avenue from the city limits to Onora Road at the Sanford Naval Air Station entrance; the improving of a road in South Seminole County; and the widening of West First Street from French Ave. to join with the Interstate Highway near Lake Monroe.

The regulations adopted by the Board of County Commissioners yesterday set in motion the procedure under which hearings will be held to some areas of Seminole County when "Use Permits" are applied for. The zoning director is authorized to issue permits for single family dwellings.

Other sections set up the fees for issuing permits, set-backs of buildings from property lines, non-conforming uses, penalties, definitions, districts and the description of each district.

Districts, according to the regulations are: R-1A, Rural Residential; R-1, Rural Residential; R-2, Urban Residential; A, Agricultural or Home District; C-1, Rural Commercial; C-2, Commercial; C-3, Urban Commercial—Light Industry; and M-1 Industrial.

Appearing before the Board of Commissioners for the adoption of the zoning regulations were members of the Seminole County Zoning Commission with Raymond M. Ball as its chairman.

Ball explained to the commission that the County Zoning Commission is now ready to hold hearings for "Use Permits" and has set up a "permit" system for the construction of single family dwellings.

Officers of the Seminole County Zoning Commission are maintained in the Seminole County Court House.

Dr. W. P. Brooks Observes 28th Year As Baptist Pastor

Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Brooks Jr., of 1100 Park Ave., were guests of honor last week at an informal after-service reception marking Dr. Brooks' 28th anniversary as pastor of Sanford's First Baptist Church. Exactly 28 years ago Nov. 17, the date of the reception, Dr. Brooks began his ministry with the local church.

Words of greeting and appreciation for the ministry of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks were expressed by Mrs. E. A. Covington who represented the Women's Missionary Union, I. Eugene Estridge for the Brotherhood, Homer L. Osborne for the Sunday School, Mrs. Cecil A. Tucker for the Training Union, J. Marlin Sincipher for the music ministry of the church, and Senator Douglas Stenstrom for the Board of Deacons.

Dr. Brooks responded with interesting and entertaining remarks on Sanford's changing scene during the 28 years of his ministry here. Among other comments he said that the very warm anniversary day reminded him of his leaving Atlanta 28 years ago with a heavy suit and topcoat, only to arrive in Sanford in 90 degree weather.

The Brooks were presented with corsages and a special cake on which was inscribed, "We Love You". Cake, coffee and punch were served to the members of the church family who were present to honor their pastor and his wife.

New York Sunday News Carries Item On Sanford, Giants

The New York Sunday News carried a news item last Sunday about Sanford and the Giant's organization here.

The article, written by Jim McCulley of the New York Sunday News staff, boosted the fact that "Giant Farmhands Live It Up at Sanford Site."

McCulley said in his article: "The Giants, baseball fans that is, have moved their variety operation to Sanford, and old sweat shirts to the Far West—San Francisco and Phoenix. But they're going to maintain their huge minor league base, one of the most lavish in the history of the business, in the East."

All the Giants' minor league clubs, and a number of teams with which the parent organization is affiliated, will continue to train at Sanford, Fla., a lakeside town about 40 miles inland and south of Daytona Beach.

"No minor leagues train in any plusher quarters than those who belong to the Giants. The PCL entry lives at the swank Mayfair Hotel, and the others bunk in a modern concrete and aluminum dormitory which was built last year at a cost of $250,000.

"The building consists of 30 sleeping rooms, recreation room, restaurant, and can house 225."

"The Giant operation at Sanford is run by Carl Hubbell, former pitching great who is the organization's farm director, and Jack Schwarz, business manager of the Giant chain, consisting of nine clubs.

"Besides owning the PCL franchise, which they just got in trade with the Red Sox for Minneapolis, the Giants' own, or are affiliated with, seven other minor clubs—Dallas (AA), Springfield, Mass. (A), Danville, Va. (B), St. Cloud, Minn. (C) Hastings, Neb., Michigan City, Ind., and Muskogee, Okla. (all Class C).

"The hopefuls do their training on five fields, including the town-owned Municipal Stadium. The Giants own 30 acres which surround the Municipal Stadium. The other four fields and the dormitory are situated on this plot of land."

"And not too far off is an 18 hole golf course, also owned by the Giants, on which the minor league boys can play for free. Apparently it's a pretty soft life for a Giant farmhand—in the spring at least."

Noell's Going Out Of Business; Schedules Sale

Frank Noell, jeweler and watchmaker for the past 15 years, announced today that he is retiring from business, at least temporarily, in Sanford.

Noell came to Sanford from Kentucky six years ago and opened a jewelry store on W. First Street. In November of 1935 the business was moved around the corner to the present location at 110 S. Park Avenue.

As announced in today's advertisement elsewhere in today's paper Noell is selling out their entire stock of jewelry, watches, china and diamonds. The time chosen for his going out of business sale was deliberate, said Noell, in order to give the store's friends and patrons the benefit of these reductions in the Christmas shopping.

In making his announcement of retirement from business, Noell said he did not disclose what his future plans will be.

Community Progress Is Keynote Of Chamber Of Commerce Drive

Every community which considers itself progressive and growing is always interested in new businesses and, particularly, new industries.

Yet, while it is simple to realize the need for an expanding economy, there is, to fall back on an old saying, "Many a slip 'twix the cup and the lip."

New industry is not developed by desire alone, nor will wishing bring a plant or factory to life. Instead, the attraction of new industry into a community or into an area is a technical, oft times drawn out process.

Today, the business of industry-hunting is an art, to be practiced effectively by those who understand what a community has to offer, what a particular industry needs, and how the assets of one and the necessities of the other can be joined successfully.

It is toward this end that the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, in its current membership campaign, is attempting to bring together all of Sanford and Seminole County's business and professional people into its organization of leadership.

Individually, Sanford and Seminole County business and professional leaders cannot accomplish an overall program of industrial development in the community. But together they become a powerhouse working through the chamber of commerce to keep the wheels of progress and growth continuing.

Already, the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce is responsible for securing industrial prospects and locating some of them in the community. At the same time there are many others with whom the chamber of commerce is working toward locating them here.

Friday morning, the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce membership drive committee will meet for a final report on the success of team captains and individual workers in making personal calls on more than 400 prospects for membership.

The goal is $10,000 which is being matched with an equal amount from the City of Sanford and from Seminole County. This budget will provide one of the most forward looking programs ever carried out by the local chamber of commerce.

We are sure that every businessman and every professional man in Sanford and Seminole County wants to have a hand in the progress of the community—for as the community prospers and grows so does business and professional services.

Certainly we want to grow together!

Queen Visits U.S. Supermarket

Queen Elizabeth II's visit to the United States was, naturally, a split-second affair, with every activity, small or large, meticulously planned long in advance by officials of the two nations concerned.

There was, however, an exception to this rule, and an unusual and interesting one. While driving to a football game, the Queen passed a modern supermarket and said that she would like to see it. The necessary arrangements were made. On the return drive the Queen's entourage stopped, while she visited the market, to the obvious amazement of personnel and customers. The Queen was obviously impressed and pleased with what she had seen and was shown.

Elizabeth reigns in England, and the Commonwealth over which she presides, as a symbol of tradition and unity, is highly advanced in the arts of material existence. Even so, it is far behind us, for the most part in retailing and in everything to do with retailing—efficiency, economy, standards of service, abundance of goods, and so on. And most of the other countries of the world are much farther behind still. One of the great economic achievements of this century in this nation has been the development of a mass-distribution system to complement and to act as a full partner to our system of mass-production.

The supermarket, the Queen saw, deals

Tax-Saving Deductions And How To Time Them

(This is the third in a series of four articles on federal income taxes. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Florida Institute of Certified Public Accountants.)

If you are one of those individual taxpayers who is constantly being called and harassed for charitable contributions you may save money by paying particular attention to the timing and planning of your year-end donations.

Before paying off on any more 1957 pledges you might have made, remember that you will not receive a tax credit for your charitable contributions unless you itemize deductions on your return. You can't take the standard 10 per cent deduction and a special deduction for donations to charity.

You may take only one or the other; so plan your year-end pledge payments accordingly.

Planning Charitable Gifts
If you will be forced to take the standard 10 per cent deduction this year, your best tax move would be to defer payment on your outstanding pledges until after January 1, prying them into 1958 when you may be able to itemize deductions. However, if you have had a better than-average income year and are trying to bunch itemized deductions on this year's return, you should pay not only the pledges you have made but possibly the pledges you would ordinarily make in early 1958.

Here is an important point to keep in mind as you plan your year-end pledge payments: a charitable contribution will be considered paid—and therefore deductible—in the year when the check is delivered to the charity and not when it is actually cashed.

Property Donations
A gift does not have to be in cash to qualify you to a charitable deduction. It can be in property, and since you can claim a deduction for the full market value of a property gift, it may actually pay you to give away items that are now worth more than they cost.

For example, suppose that you own a few shares of stock that cost you $100 a few years ago. Today the stock is worth $150, and apparently fully priced. If you are going to be approached by a church, charity, college or the like for a sizeable donation within the next few months, you might consider contributing these securities before the end of the year.

By giving this property away, the organization you care to favor will benefit by receiving property which they may hold or sell, and you will establish a $150 charitable deduction for your 1957 tax return. Furthermore, you avoid paying a 30-day period from 1,900 to 2,175. Some 500 prisoners at Raiford alone came down with flu last week, the prison director said, but only 150 to 200 cases had been reported Monday. He said some of the pile-up at Raiford was due to a freeze-on transfer to road camps ordered in an attempt to contain the flu epidemic.

There was also a heavy outbreak of flu at the Apalachicola prison for first offenders, Culver said, but the cases were not serious at either institution although the work program at both places was halted on the advice of physicians.

Culver said it will be at least nine months before plans are completed and construction can begin on the entire new prison at Raiford authorized by the 1957 Legislature, "and by the time we get it done, we will probably need another new prison."

The Legislature directed that any new prison built in the future be located in Sumter County, and the county has offered the state a 3,000-acre site in the Withlacoochee National Forest for the facility, but the cabinet has not made a final decision on accepting the land.

The question still remains whether the action was justified by the British-American belief that it was necessary to keep Tunisia from following the course of Egypt and Syria and thus giving Russia a foothold in North Africa such as it has in the Middle East.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau has come to the United States to confer with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

It is expected that Pineau will first ask Dulles to get a guarantee from the Tunisian government that the weapons it is sending will not be permitted to get to Algeria for use by the rebels in killing French soldiers.

But Pineau undoubtedly will seek American support for French policy in Algeria also.

The Algerian problem, specifically the demand of the rebels for outright independence, is to be debated in the United Nations General Assembly, possibly next week.

Rebels Will Have Support
The rebel cause will be supported by the "neutralist" and "anti-colonial" nations of Africa and Asia. France will expect the loyal support of the United States and Britain for its policy of ending the revolt by giving Algeria a limited measure of self-rule.

It is possible that, largely due to the Tunisia dispute, there will be a meeting of the American, British and French foreign ministers before the meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries in Paris starting Dec. 16.

At a United States-British-French meeting, or in separate discussions with the United States and Britain, France is likely to tie up the Tunisia issue with NATO. That alliance pledges its members to give no help to an enemy of any of them, and the Algerian rebels are enemies of France.

In the end, the Tunisia dispute may lead to a needed clarification of the relations of the big three western allies.

Woman's Page

Conning The News

By VIRGINIA CONN, Society Editor

This afternoon I took my little notebook in hand as I tripped to the polls. I thought I'd report for the Woman's Page what the well-dressed Sanford woman wore to the polls. However with the exception of the ladies who man the booths, Fred and Eleanor McMurphy, and Alice Wright, I didn't see anyone. This was at Westside School, where there are plenty of Freeholders.

We all cork off about the people who scream and never do. Just hope that this is not the case in Seminole County today. If the election failed there will be many who should be ashamed. If it has succeeded, the voters have insured the education of their children. Should report anyway that Alice looked lovely in a skirt and sweater, and Eleanor most efficient in her Girl Scout leader's uniform.

Plans are rolling for the garden show at the Mayfair Inn December fourth and fifth. The show will be entitled "Beauty on Parade," subtitled "Fashions in Clothes and Flowers." Chairman of the annual show is talented Boo Fleischer.

The doors will open at 12:30 December 4. The show will close at 9:00 that night. On the fifth the show will go from 11:00 A. M. until 9:00 P. M. Tickets are on sale from Garden Club members.

With Christmas so near, it is only natural that the classes will have a holiday theme. Unusual Christmas trees and decorations will make the Mayfair Inn sparkle with color.

Suspended from the ceiling in the ballroom will be a tremendous tree, filled with tropical birds from the Parrot Farm in Ormond Beach. There will be a special bird show at 7:00 P. M. on the fourth.

Mary-Esther's glamorous fashions will start the show off the first day at 1:00 P. M. So the "working people" can enjoy the fashion show, it has been scheduled for a re-run at 7:00 P. M. the second day.

Tickets are on sale from Garden Club members for $1.00. (I have a few, myself, so pity me.) Coffee and sandwiches will be served throughout the two days. The event promises to be one of great excitement in having many talented Garden Club enthusiasts. The show last spring was magnificent, but one at Christmas time is even more so.

No one is better at being impromptu than Keen Ivey. Monday afternoon she concocted one of her fabulous desserts and invited some friends to play bridge—all in honor of Ada Slater. Lucille Heard's sister, who is visiting the Heards from Douglas, Ga. Ada will be here about a week and plans are very gay for her visit.

Genevieve Woodruff scurried down to Keen's to have dessert, but could not stay for bridge. Playing were Ada, Lucille, Creola Higginbotham, Fanchon McRoberts, Rose Spear, Mary Anderson, Billie Tooke, and Jackie Crawford.

Hear that the Boat and Ski Club did much skiing Sunday. Showing off their skills in particular were Muriel Scott and John (hole-in-one) Crawford. Enthusiast Leon Taylor needed a tall light, as the group went to Ponce de Leon Springs. Imagine he is still stiff.

WEDNESDAY
The Club's Wives Club will meet at the C.P.O. Club at 8:00 p. m. All members are urged to be present, since nominations for election of officers will be made.

Sanford Duplicate Bridge Club meets at 8:00 p. m. at the Yacht Club.

The Dorcas Circle of the Upsala Presbyterian Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Glover Marrs on Thursday, Nov. 21 at 2:00 p. m. All women are invited.

Mrs. Blankenship Anna-Miller Member Of Month

The Anna-Miller Circle initiated this summer, the practice of choosing "Our Member of the Month". One of the "members of the month" recently chosen by secret ballot is Mrs. James Blankenship. Mrs. Blankenship's husband, the late James Blankenship, was on the Harry-Anna committee in the Elks Lodge. "Chris", as she is known to her many friends, has been active in the Anna-Miller Circle ever since she joined in May 1933. In 1934-35 she was First Vice-president and president in 1935-36. While she was president, Chris set a record by not missing a meeting, despite the fact that her mother was ill at the time.

It was under her term as president that many money making activities were held, including a floor show, shrimp ball, bazaar and dinners. We also have Chris to thank for the present form of initiation. It was while Chris was president that the first Anna-Miller Circle pins were bought.

Chris is a member of the First Methodist Church. She was also pianist for the Duxbury School of Dancing for seven years, where she made many friends among the young people of Sanford.

Chris is well liked by all the members and friends of the Elks and Anna-Miller Circle and all hope she will continue to serve our circle with the unselfishness and loyalty that she has shown in the past.

Candelight Service Unites Miss D. Milsted, Adron Ratliff

LAKE MARY—The First Baptist Church of Lake Mary was the scene Sunday night of the wedding of Deloris Annette Milsted, daughter of Mrs. C. E. Milsted and the late Mr. Milsted of Lake Mary, to Adron D. Ratliff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Ratliff of Langley, Ky.

The Rev. Marshall Flournoy, St. Petersburg, a family friend, performed the double ring ceremony against a candelight setting with tall baskets of white gladioli and pom poms.

The bride given in marriage by her uncle, J. Ralph Williams, was lovely in a gown of ice blue brocade satin made along princess lines. Her fingertip veil was attached to a bandeau. The bride's bouquet was pink roses.

Miss Cecilia Milsted, sister of the bride, was the only attendant. Her gown was pink brocade satin fashioned along the same lines as that of the bride. She wore a bandeau and tiny pink roses from her bouquet in her hair.

Herbert Doubler served as Mr. Ratliff's best man. Ushers were Francis Beard and Jimmie Manning. Mrs. Milsted chose for her daughter's wedding a brown and beige brocade satin gown with which she wore brown accessories and a corsage of roses.

RECEPTION
Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Brooks, cousins of the bride from Merritt Island, and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Bailey, aunt and uncle of the bride entertained at a reception at the Crystal Lake home of the latter.

The reception rooms were decorated with white gladioli. A white embroidered cloth covered the bride's table which held a wedding cake topped with a bride and groom. Crystal appointments were used. Mrs. Francis Beard served.

the punch and Mrs. Brooks cut the wedding cake while Mr. John Salisbury of Tampa kept the bride's book. Flowering hostesses were Mrs. Jimmie Manning, Miss Myrna Williams and Miss Deanna Brooks.

For traveling the bride chose brown taffeta with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations.

Upon their return from the honeymoon, they will make their home in Orlando.

Mrs. Ratliff is a graduate of Seminole High School and the Orange Memorial School of Nursing. The bridegroom was graduated from Maytown High School in Langley, Ky. He is now stationed at the Pinecastle Air Force Base.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Kline, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Brasfield, Mrs. N. Bradley, Mrs. Virginia Brown, Miss Maryann Ketter, Miss Biddy Dean, Miss Carol Caldwell, Miss Peggy Green, Franklin Walker, Franklin Davis and Howard Elliott all of Orlando, Mr. and Mrs. John Salisbury of Tampa, and Mr. and Mrs. J. CHAPTER 23

A DULL gray morning in early April brought Chad Endicott his first real problem of command. He was making a late morning visit to see the men who were sick. Corporal Dickinson arrested him at the doorway of the low-ceilinged, dark building that housed the men on the sick list. "Morning, sir. Ready for inspection?"

Chad was trying to think of something cheerful, something hopeful, to tell them. Then Zack Cuberly raced in through the doorway and yelled, "God a-mighty, Lieutenant, come a-minute!" He wheeled and ran out of the sickroom, Chad a step behind him.

Zack headed for the mess hall. As they approached the long, low building with its iron grating hanging by the door, Chad could hear what appeared to be a violent commotion going on inside.

Zack jerked the door open and lunged into the room. Chad beheld him. They were greeted by a scene of turmoil and destruction. Mess tables had been overturned, a giant iron kettle which had apparently contained stew was lying on its side, the contents running out on the rough plank floor, and men were milling around in all directions.

When Sergeant Anderson saw Chad, he dutifully yelled, "Attention!" but his voice was lost in the pandemonium. As Chad rambled his way toward the end of the mess hall, he saw that four or five men were trying to hold another soldier down on his back. Arms and legs were so mixed up that it was impossible to tell the number of participants, or what they were trying to accomplish.

Beyond the men on the floor, in a back corner, was one of the cooks, brandishing two enormous knives threateningly at half a dozen men attempting to close in on him.

The cook let out a scream and leaped at the men facing him, slashing wildly with his knives. One of the soldiers caught a blade squarely across the shoulder and his uniform opened as if by magic, blood gushing from the wound. The other men threw themselves on the screaming, struggling cook and brought him down, arms and legs thrashing wildly. Chad had a look at his face just as he went down and he was sure the man was completely insane. In a moment, the mess hall was relatively quiet. The cook was breathing so hard that his inhalings and exhalings sounded like a hoarse moan. "All right, men," Chad said sharply. "What happened?"

Corporal Fowler looked at his blouse and mopped back his hair with a quick, nervous gesture. He was one of those who had just overpowered the cook. He said, "Cookie went off his rocker, sir. I think we'd better lock him up for a while. He's gonna hurt somebody."

"What started it?" Chad demanded.

"Well, sir, Duncan here said something 'bout the grub," Fowler pointed at the man the others had pinned to the floor, when Chad had entered.

"Then what?" It just started a ruckus. Got to yellin' at each other and Cookie threw a ladle of stew at Duncan and Duncan hit him in the face with his mess kit. Then Cookie went for his knives and then some of us jumped in and tried to keep 'em from killin' each other."

Chad swung around to Sergeant Anderson. "Get this man some medical attention." He pointed to the soldier who had been cut by the knife and was now standing quietly with his arms hanging limply at his sides. "Then lock Ridgely up." Chad nodded at the cook, who was still pinned to the floor. "Lock Duncan up, too. When I get ready to see them, I'll tell you. Tiller, get hold of Mullvane. I want the men mustered at once."

Chad turned sharply on his heel and strode out of the mess hall. He went directly to his office and, slamming the door behind him, crossed the small, dingy room and sat down at his desk. By the time Mullvane got hold of him, Chad's mind was made up.

Mullvane saluted, and said, "The men are ready, sir."

"Thanks, Sergeant, I'll be right out," Chad said.

When he stepped outside, the men were drawn up on the little square that was called the Parade Ground. As Chad approached, Mullvane bellowed, "Attention!" and the men stiffened, chins up, shoulders squared. Mullvane saluted smartly and said, "Company's ready, sir." Chad returned the salute. He said, "Tell the men to stand at ease, Sergeant." The lines of men loosened up. Chad folded his hands behind him, and stood with his legs apart, his thoughts turning briefly to Randall. When the Colonel was alive, he could be blamed for anything that went wrong. Now there was no one except Chad Endicott.

"What I have to say won't take long," Chad said, "but I want you to know I mean every word of it. A little while ago we had a scene in the mess hall. We will not have another demonstration of that kind at Fort Butterfield. I am perfectly aware of

States Will Fight To Protect Offshore Tidelands Rights

TALLAHASSEE — Florida will join four other Gulf coast states in a vigorous legal fight against the federal government to protect its offshore tidelands rights, according to Atty. Gen. Richard Ervin.

Ervin said he has a previous engagement, but will send Assistant Atty. Gen. Fred Burns to a meeting of the attorneys general of the states involved in New Orleans and Louisiana.

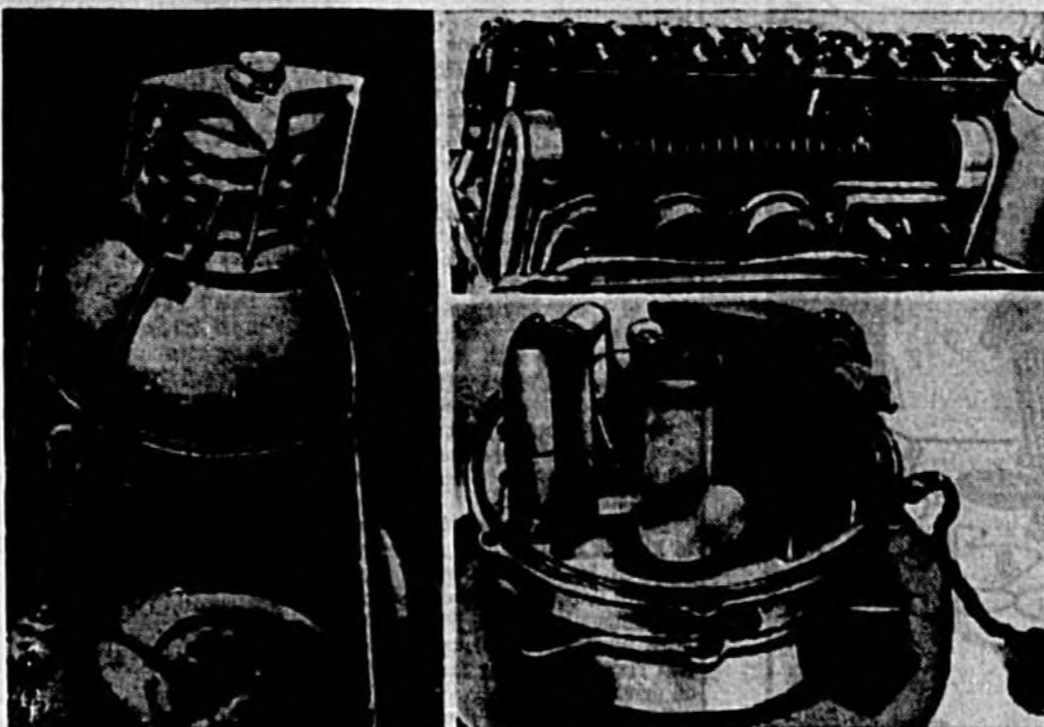

The U. S. Supreme Court Monday gave the five states 45 days to reply to the new Justice Department suit seeking to fix state offshore boundaries at the three-mile limit.

All of the states claim ownership of all lands, minerals and natural resources from the coast line to about 10.5 miles out. Florida has leased millions of acres of submerged lands to oil exploration companies and should oil ever be discovered the leases would bring the state millions of dollars.

Financial Responsibility Law

(Editors Note: This is No. 2 in a series of articles by State Treasurer and Insurance Commissioner J. Edwin Larson, explaining Florida's newly amended Financial Responsibility Law for Motorists. The first in this series dealt with the Law and its amendments since 1947.)

TALLAHASSEE—Law enforcement officials and the Florida Legislature have long been abandoned any thought that any Financial Responsibility Law in Florida would produce 100 per cent insured, or financially responsible, motorists.

The Financial Responsibility Law since 1947 has increased the number of insured motorists in Florida from an estimated 60 or 70 per cent to approximately 80 per cent last year. This is considered good in comparison with the State of Massachusetts which has had compulsory automobile liability insurance for the past 20 years and has never achieved more than approximately 90 or 95 per cent insured motorists.

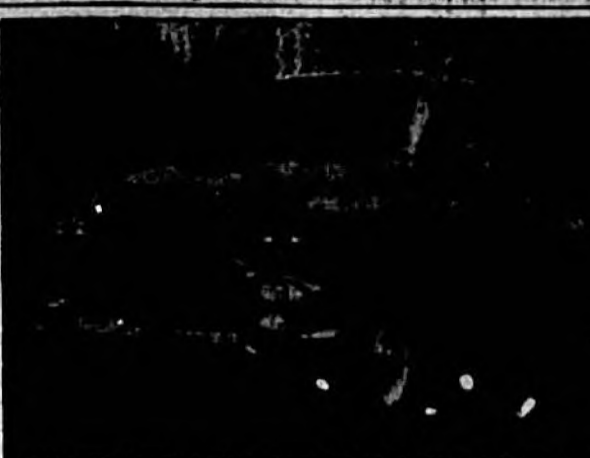

The Financial Responsibility Law in Florida requires that all persons involved in accidents where there is death or injury or property damage amounting to $500 or more, must furnish proof of future financial responsibility or face the loss of driving privileges.

Some people ask the question: what is the difference in compulsory insurance and the type of Financial Responsibility Law which Florida now has? The answer is simply that Florida's Financial Responsibility Law does not require a certificate of insurance as a prerequisite to a person being issued a motor vehicle registration certificate. Admittedly, it is to the best advantage of all motorists to have liability insurance before driving, although it is not required.

Since the 1957 Legislature, Florida's law applies also to the drunk and reckless driver whose license has been revoked, even without an accident having occurred. The Department of Public Safety has estimated that this amendment will operate according to the following plan: Assuming that a motorist has his driving license revoked for driving while intoxicated or for a third conviction for reckless driving, even though no accident has occurred; and the involved person had no insurance or other means of financial responsibility at the time he committed the act which resulted in his license being revoked, this person then must obtain automobile liability insurance or furnish other proof of financial responsibility before his driving license can be reinstated.

In the ordinary motorist who is driving a licensed automobile, the owner's registration would not be involved in the law, even though the operator of the vehicle had thereby subjected his driver's license to possible suspension in the case of a revocation of license where no accident has occurred.

On the other hand, if a person whose driving privileges are revoked for a violation of the Driving License Law, and who was insured at the time of his arrest, or if he had previously furnished proof of financial responsibility due to an accident or for other reasons under the Financial Responsibility Law, this person would be exempt from the law upon the filing of the proper form, SR-21A, certifying proof of insurance.

Block nose styling gives this 1956 GMC pickup truck an appearance factor or "face" that most truck owners are proud to have for their business. Dual headlights, massive bumper and grille treatment combine strength, beauty and grace into this GMC powered by a new V-8 engine of 336 cubic inches developing 200 horsepower.

Germans Like Oranges Small

LAKELAND — It might sound strange to Floridians, but the Germans like their oranges small.

A team of West German officials said here that Germans "like to squeeze their own juice" and feel that small oranges are better for this use than large ones.

Claus Gilsman, marketing adviser for the West German Minister of Food, Agriculture and Forestry, explained the German viewpoint at a news conference in reply to a statement by Dr. L. G. MacDowell, director of research for the Florida Citrus Commission.

MacDowell pointed out that one of the difficulties facing Florida citrus exporters is stringent size requirements by the German trade. He said German importers demand small oranges and "Florida can produce only so many of these."

Although Gilsman said Germans like to squeeze their own oranges, he indicated there is increasing interest among West Germans in frozen orange concentrate and that Germany may soon become a major importer of that product.

Gilsman also said his country is pleased with an amendment to the Florida Citrus Marketing Agreement designed to improve the quality of fresh citrus exports. He said it will "mean much to German consumers of fresh Florida citrus."

The amendment, to be effective Dec. 2, permits the Growers Administrative Committee to regulate grade, size, condition, containers and packs of all fresh citrus headed for export.

Their Future and Yours Depend on Our Colleges

As Americans, all of us are proud of our national growth. But it is a sobering thought that the number of young men and women who want and deserve a college education will double by 1967.

Right now our colleges and universities are making a valiant effort to take care of the hosts of eager-eyed young people who are already clamoring for admittance. They have an enormous job to do, for the necessary expansion is far more than a matter of adding classrooms, laboratories and dormitory space. There must be a corresponding increase in faculty and in faculty caliber. The profession of college teaching must attract more first-rate men and women or it will be in danger of turning out second-rate graduates.

This problem of the capacity of our colleges to meet the challenge that is now upon us is vital not only to students and their parents but also to business—to industry—and to you.

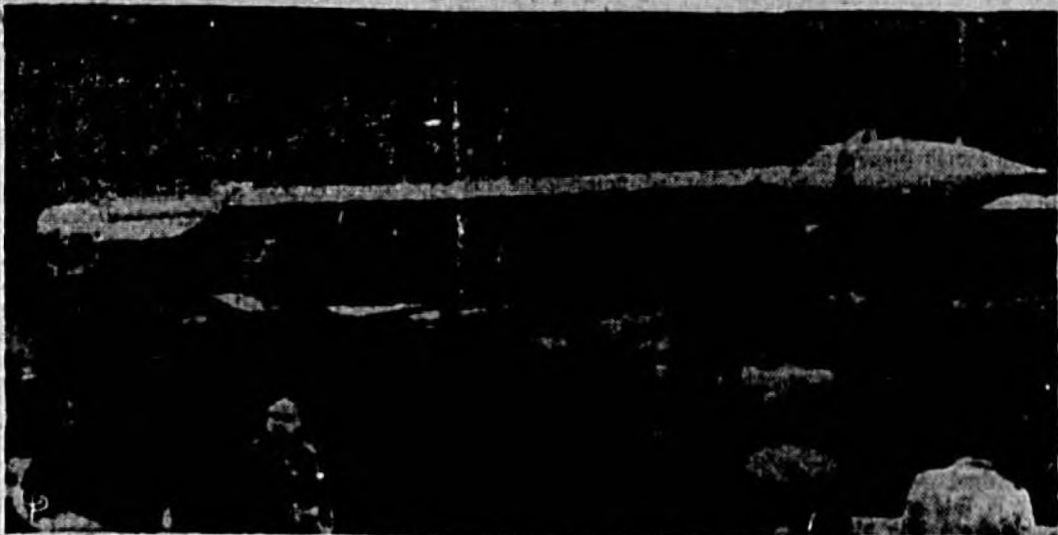

It is easy to point to current shortages of engineers and scientists. Less obvious but just as pressing is the need for civic leaders—for teachers—for business administrators—for home-makers. Above all there is a need for people who have learned to think soundly and choose wisely. They are and will continue to be the backbone of our strength as a nation.

Freedom needs educated people. In this country, those who lead are those who know. Help the colleges or universities of your choice—now!

If you want to know what the college crisis means to you, write for a free booklet to: HIGHER EDUCATION, Box 36, Times Square Station, New York 36, New York.

Farley Granger Is Unconcerned With Overexposure

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Aside from such curious anatomical specimens as Jayne Mansfield, Farley Granger may be the only TV performer unconcerned with overexposure.

While other actors try to hold down their TV emoting to three or four major dramas a season, Granger capers through that many in a few weeks. Witness his recent schedule:

On Oct. 23, "Kraft Theatre."
Nov. 7 — "Playhouse 90." Next Monday — A CBS-TV spectacular, "Beyond This Place." Dec. 4 — Another "Kraft."

Not Over-Exposed
"Over-exposure? As far as I'm concerned there isn't any such thing," said Granger as he worked his way through some under-exposed chopped steak. "I don't think anybody should be afraid to take on as many roles as he's offered."

"I've been careful in my choice of roles, but in this business, you can careful yourself out of existence. The only important thing is to work. There's nothing wrong with being in a flop and I don't think people remember your TV or movie flops anyway. They remember your successes."

"They remember Joan Crawford for 'Mildred Pierce' or Bette Davis for 'Jezebel.' But they don't remember all the bombs they were in and they were in plenty. Just like everyone else in the business."

Debuted in "North Star" Granger, a by-product of San Jose, Calif., made his movie debut in 1943 in "North Star." He then threaded his way through a succession of pictures including "Rope," "Strangers on a Train" and "They Ride by Night." He fled Hollywood three years ago.

"Acting for pictures is a very difficult craft which I don't think I knew anything about at all," confessed Granger. "In fact, I didn't know anything about acting at all. That's why I came to New York—to learn about my craft."

"I was pretty young when I broke into pictures and I looked upon acting as something you do upon the stimulus of inspiration. The trouble with that method is that most of the time you don't really feel any inspiration and you become a line reader. That's what I was."

Problem is Unlearning
"My problem has been to unlearn everything I learned in pictures. I was burdened with all sorts of acting cliches. It's something a bunch of us now in New York — Shelley Winters, Roddy McDowell, Peggy Ann Garner — have found we had to do. We left pictures so we could learn about our craft."

Granger has found that increasingly in TV, he has been assigned to oddball roles or "cukes" as they're known in the trade. "I've found that I like playing cukes and villains," said Granger. "You can have more fun with a cuko—the audience will accept all sorts of quirks in your acting."

that would not be accepted in portraying a hero.

"But cukes or heroes I don't really care what I play. All I want to do is work. And find myself—I guess that's my biggest objective. I'm trying to search out some sort of identity for myself, something you just can't hope to find in Hollywood."

SPUTNIK BUSINESS BOOMING

TOKYO (UP)—The Soviet launching of two earth satellites has become a windfall for Japanese telescope dealers, women's accessory makers and the sale of real estate on Mars. Department stores report brisk business in the sale of telescopes, women's accessory makers are doing well with rocket-shaped ornaments, and the Tokyo's "sole agent" for real estate on Mars — reports it is swamped with orders.

AGAINST PAY TV

WASHINGTON (UP)—A poll of television viewers throughout the country showed they opposed pay television 2 to 1. Broadcasting Magazine said Sunday. The magazine said a survey in 10 major areas by Pulse, Inc., showed two-thirds of those responding were "not interested" in paying. Of those who said they would pay, two-thirds preferred to put their money down on a "per program" basis.

ALWAYS IN A RUSH - - By Alan Maver

RICK CASARES, CHICAGO BEARS FULLBACK, FACES A ROUGH TASK TRYING TO MAKE IT TWO YEARS FROM HIS RUSHING CHAMP

THE FORMER LINK OF FLORIDA STAR MADE AN AUSPICIOUS PRO DEBUT IN 1935 WITH THE BEST AVERAGE PER CARRY—5.4. THEN LAST YEAR HIS 1,126 YDS. GAINED RUSHING WAS ONLY 20 ANY OF THE SEASON RECORD AND HIS 14 TD'S WERE TOP FOR THE LEAGUE.

Curci One Of UM's Great Quarterbacks

CORAL GABLES—Among his many talents, sophomore quarterback Fran Curci of the University of Miami is an outfielder and the 142 ball of fire plays the deep pass defense position for his ball club with all the grace, skill and aplomb of a Mickey Mantle.

He's within 200 yards of breaking into the top 10 in total offense for any one season at Miami, a feat accomplished only twice before by Hurricanes as sophomores.

Three times this year he has ranged far back for balls thrown over his head and come up with an interception. His latest, against Villanova, set the stage for a 31 yard comeback and allowed him to take the lead in pass interceptions at the University of Miami.

Today's Sports Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY United Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (UP)—They sat there together, the picture soldier and the lynx-eyed sea-dog, and as they looked back into the past you knew what the Army-Navy game means to those in Army posts around the world and aboard all the fighting ships at sea.

On Big Retreat "We were on the big retreat from North Korea," continued the handsome, white-haired Davidson, the bitterness of that memory plain in his voice.

It was a bitter cold night in December of 1950. A knife-like wind keened over the snow. Enemy guns might open up at any moment from the frowning hills on both sides of the rutted road.

They stopped after a while, stamping their feet in the snow to restore the circulation, and a radio man ran up to Gar in the darkness and puffed: "More bad news—Navy won it, 14 to 2."

"I had just tuned in for the kick-off," Smedberg reflected, and, while the reception was very faint, at least I could hear most of it.

"We went after him, dropping aheans all over the place," Smedberg said. "Then as the action ended, my mind went back to the game. But it was over or, at least, I couldn't get anything anymore."

DUPAS GETS 90-DAY BAN NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Light-weight Dave Dupas of New Orleans has been suspended for 90 days by the Louisiana Boxing Commission because of an injured hand which prevented him from meeting Larry Armstrong in a 10-round bout Monday night.

Florida Gators Search Reserves For Replacements

GAINESVILLE—Florida's Gators will need to search among reserves this week to find replacements for several injured regulars. Both regular Orange team guards, Howell Boney and Edwin Johns, were banged up in the Vanderbilt game last Saturday and are considered doubtful by Coach Bob Woodruff for this week's game with Georgia Tech in Atlanta.

Center Joel Wahberg, who was injured in the Georgia game, saw only limited action in the Vandy contest. Now he is joined on the sidelines by his replacement, Gene Graves. Both have wrenched knees.

Up to this point in the season, Coach Woodruff felt the Gators had been fortunate in having few injuries to key personnel. However, the Gators' November schedule of games with Auburn, Georgia, Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech and Miami would give any team in the nation a few bumps and bruises.

The Florida-Tech series dates back to 1912, with the Yellow Jackets claiming 19 victories, Florida five, and four ending in ties. The last time Florida won was in 1954 by a 13 to 12 score at Grant Field in Atlanta.

Michigan Tops Grid Ratings

NEW YORK (UP)—Michigan State took over the top spot in the United Press college football ratings today in the wake of week-end upsets that dropped Texas A&M to fourth place and Oklahoma to fifth.

Ohio State jumped up to the No. 2 rating; Auburn, one of the two remaining perfect-record teams in the major college ranks, could not advance last week's No. 3 ranking; and Notre Dame returned to the top 10 group—in ninth place—on the strength of its stunning 7-0 upset victory which snapped Oklahoma's 47-game winning streak.

Mississippi was another newcomer in this week's top ten advancing from 11th place to sixth. Navy, Iowa, Notre Dame and Army rounded out the select group in that order.

General Manager George Wells and Stengel always feel they can use more pitching and there are a number of hurlers in the league who appeal to them. Among those they would like to land are Dick Donovan of the White Sox, Ray Narleki of the Indians, Billy Hoelt of the Tigers and Camillo Pascual of the Senators.

Yankees Offering 4 'Expendables'

NEW YORK (UP)—The demoralized New York Yankees, losing little time in an attempt to get back on the winning track, already have offered four of their "expendables" in the hope of coming up with another front-line pitcher for 1938.

Harry Simpson, Tommy Byrne, Enos Slaughter and Joe Collins all were offered to various clubs during the past few weeks, and there is a chance two or three of those four may figure in a deal during the Major-Minor League meetings at Colorado Springs, Colo., Dec. 27.

The Baltimore Orioles are especially interested in Simpson, whom Paul Richards feels can help his club at first base.

Slaughter, Byrne and Collins no longer figure in the Yankees' plans because of their age. Slaughter is 41, Byrne will be 38 next month and Collins will be 35 in two weeks.

Marshall Leads Hockey League In Offensive Dept.

Auburn, 6-0 conqueror of weak Georgia, attracted the most first place votes from the coaches. Coach Shug Jordan's unbeaten and untied powerhouse had 14 compared to 13 for Michigan State and seven for Ohio State.

However, the two Big Ten titans received stronger support for second place and thus took over the first two ratings with 210 and 203 points, respectively. Auburn had 278 points.

This marked the first time in the eight-season history of the United Press ratings that two teams from the same conference placed 1-2 in any weekly ballot of the coaches.

Ohio State clinched the Big Ten championship and the Rose Bowl berth by beating Iowa, 17-13. Michigan State, the National Champion in 1952, winds up its season Saturday against Kansas State, Ohio State takes on Michigan, while Auburn still has games remaining against Florida State and Alabama.

Stuart Scene Of Tournaments In January

STUART—This Sailfish Capital of the World, which features year-round fishing tournaments, will be the scene of two important, special tournaments in January.

The Stuart Sailfish Club Annual Light Tackle Tournament will be held Jan. 10, 11, and 12, with Jan. 13 as alternate day in the event of weather cancellation.
