He suggested that the city should have a park, a library, and a public building. He also mentioned the need for a water supply and a sewerage system.

Mayor Hulick also mentioned the race tracks in the city, stating that they were a source of trouble and expense. He suggested that the city should have a public building and a park, and that the race tracks should be closed.

Havana Taking Steps To Limit Fire Danger

HAVANA, Apr. 15.—Carrying out an established policy of the city of Havana, orders have been issued by the mayor for demolition of many wooden buildings within the city limits. Doors, window frames and furniture are generally the only wood to be seen in the majority of Havana's homes and office buildings. Floors are tile.

Visiting American firemen have said that Havana is the best constructed city they have ever seen, when fire risk is considered. The Spanish style of architecture is generally pleasing to the eye and residences with ceilings 15 or more feet from the floor are the rule. This provides greater coolness during the heat of the summer days. An even temperature, falling below 75 only on rare occasions and generally never reaching above 88, makes heating arrangements unnecessary.

J. Salter, Johnny J. Jones Hired Boy," Takes Herald Man Down Glad Joy Plaza commit any act which is not right, he doesn't need to tell about it, the hot stones will tell it," there are some in Sanford that would like to see walk down this sort of heated highway.

By M. B. SHEPARD

Salter has some new friends in the way of an Hawaiian village. They are interesting to the eye on account of the old mode of construction, but beautiful to behold. The most interesting feature of their performance is the music furnished, which is of both vocal and instrumental and exceptionally well rendered.

There is another novelty show called "Japanese Circus," which is just full of up-to-date illusions. "The Crystal Maze" brought us back to our kiddie days.

And then there are four fat people, whose weight is 2,000 pounds. One is a fat girl, she weighs 500 odd pounds, and learned to walk at 3 when she weighed 200 pounds. Her leg is the thickest part, she said, is 16 inches and she has a diagonal line that measures 36 inches. Salter was interested that information. Her waist is eight feet, eight inches and she is 29 years old.

In addition to these attractions there were others, all of which were equally as interesting and entertaining. Salter declares Johnny Jones has spared no expense in gathering his show and a visit through the show will certainly cause one to believe it.

Salter Host to Newsboys.

Last night 25 Herald newsboys were guests of Salter, who personally conducted them through the various attractions. The youngsters were full of expressions of amazement when they beheld the mysterious stunts of the magicians and screamed with delight when they went through dog bill.

Rides on the various devices, which are plentiful, completed the evening's entertainment for the boys and before departing, they agreed unanimously that E. J. Salter was an ideal host and an all-around good fellow.

Huliek And Mayor Address Kiwanians At Luncheon Today

"We are following the Kiwanis slogan of 'We Build.' But after all it is not what we build, but how well we build it, that is of paramount interest."

Patriotism.

"Sanford has built a most wonderful city of which you should feel proud. You have built a commercial reputation which is world wide and you have built strong financial institutions which are a credit to Florida. You have not overlooked the religious side upon which all things are founded and you are, as I observe, a church-going people. You have built good roads, modern homes, wonderful schools, the sportiest golf course in the state. You have happy homes and I an enviable spirit of southern hospitality. With your splendid spirit of cooperation I believe that you are now over the hill and I firmly believe that the dawn of a new era for Sanford is here. I believe you are coming into your own. But it is no time in Sanford for the present. When a fellow reaches the point in his career he is satisfied with himself, where he can see no good in his home town or his neighbor, it is time a merciful Creator called him to his reward, for he is a detriment to himself and the city in which he lives and prospers."

"Geographically your location is ideal, you have the same golden fruit and sunshine that can be found anywhere else, plus the wonderful celery fields and truck gardens that grow the year in every direction. You have the best water in Florida, good drainage and sewerage. You have climatic conditions that cannot be surpassed, you have a progressive official government, you have soil as fertile as can be found in the world, you have a water frontage as beautiful as can be found in Florida, you are the head of navigation of the famous St. Johns. You have a red blooded American citizenship. You have more than your share of charming ladies and happy children. You have resources as yet unknown and untouched. You have assets which cannot be estimated. You are within about 36 hours of a large part of the population of America, in a land where the sun never freezes, and the water never blisters. Where it is summer in winter and springtime in summer.

Tell World About Sanford.

"Then why not broadcast the glad tidings to the tourist trade of our world. Invite them to participate in our joys and our pleasure, free forever from the icy grip of the north and we will invite them to locate where life is sweeter and longer, where they have built strong financial institutions which are a credit to Florida. You have not overlooked the religious side upon which all things are founded and you are, as I observe, a church-going people. You have built good roads, modern homes, wonderful schools, the sportiest golf course in the state. You have happy homes and I an enviable spirit of southern hospitality. With your splendid spirit of cooperation I believe that you are now over the hill and I firmly believe that the dawn of a new era for Sanford is here. I believe you are coming into your own. When a fellow reaches the point in his career he is satisfied with himself, where he can see no good in his home town or his neighbor, it is time a merciful Creator called him to his reward, for he is a detriment to himself and the city in which he lives and prospers."

"Practically all members of the club were present today, the attendance being over 90 percent. Special musical numbers were provided by Horace Erwin and Mr. Morse of Iowa. Rev. Rice of DeLand was also a visitor.

A new committee to serve for three months were appointed by Dr. E. D. Brownlee, president of the club.

have support, must have strong support in order to produce a winning team. Officials of the club have gone to great expense to assemble a good team, expecting the support of the citizens. The attendance throughout the season should be such that will show the appreciation and support of the fans.

"I feel certain that Sanford people will do everything to aid the team but I am making this appeal as a reminder that their support should be shown in regular attendance at the games. There is necessarily much expense attached to running the club and the expense can only come from gate receipts and donations." For this reason, I am stressing the importance of wholehearted support of the club."

The Sanford team is expected to arrive sometime tomorrow morning in automobiles. The Snickers will probably come by train.

MACHADO HONORED

WASHINGTON, Apr. 15.—Diplomatic military honors were accorded President-elect Machado, of Cuba, upon his arrival here today. An army band with a military escort met the train. His first appointment was a courtesy call by Secretary of State Kellogg this afternoon.

PLOT TO MURDER BULGARIAN KING BORIS THWARTED

These will be utilized to deal with the communist menace.

The Agrarian ministry headed by Premier Stambouliski was overthrown on June 9, 1923, the plot being carried out by reserve officers with the assistance of the active army. A state of siege was immediately proclaimed, although the fall of the government took place without blood shed. Stambouliski fled from Sofia and was captured a few days later by troops. While being taken under guard a party of peasants attempted to rescue him, but the deposed premier was shot and killed in 1921 King Boris narrowly escaped death when a bomb was thrown while he reviewed a parade from the royal palace. The bomb exploded but did not injure the king. More recently there have been reports of attempts against his life but these were not confirmed.

Permanent roads are a good investment—not an expense

Why America Must Have More Paved Highways

Almost every section of the United States is confronted by a traffic problem. Month by month this problem is becoming more and more serious.

Hundred of cars pass a given point every hour on many of our state and county roads. Down-town city streets are jammed with traffic.

Think, too, how narrow many of our roads are, and how comparatively few paved highways there are in proportion to the steadily increasing number of cars.

If the motor vehicle is to continue giving the economic service of which it is capable, we must have more concrete highways and widen those near large centers of population.

Every citizen should discuss highway needs of his community with his local authorities.

Your highway officials will do their part if given your support.

Why postpone meeting this pressing need?

An early start means early relief.

Good Enough To Desert Her Church

One day last summer a woman withdrew from a church in which she had long been a faithful communicant and joined another looked upon as a rival of the organization she left. Her act was regarded as rank treason by many of her former church sisters and brethren. Some of them stopped speaking to her, and only a few of her former close friends continued to come to her house for the visits she had always enjoyed.

To one of these close friends she explained her reasons for withdrawing her membership from the church. "I could not stand it any longer," she said. "For years and years I have pulled and pushed and begged and exhorted. But the church did not grow fast. It did not do any more good one year than it did the year before. The same circles met and said and did the same things. There were the same kind of sermons year in and year out. And I found that I, too, was getting to be just like the church. When I realized how little real good I was doing with my church membership, I decided to end the farce. In the other church, there is something doing all the time. I am a very small cog in the wheels there, but I have the satisfaction of knowing that the wheels are turning."

There are people who contend that this woman did wrong to forsake her church. They insist that she should have stayed on and spent her energy in trying to instill spirit and force into its sluggish cause. But after eight or ten months in the new congregation, this woman declares that all the members of the other church should be forcibly withdrawn and scattered among other churches where they would get new ideas and be roused to active service.

Curiously, too, the voluntary departure of this good woman has started new leaven in the church she left. At first the anger of her long-time associates expressed itself entirely in ill-natured remarks. Then the anger changed to a sort of "We'll-show-her" spirit. And they are going to have the church building "done over."

The Herald, following the history of this independent woman, is moved to speculate upon how many churches there are in the world that would be given a new lease on life, and usefulness, if some of their leading members would pick up their Bibles and depart to other folds.

Speaking Of Florida's "Boom"

"All the world" is talking about Florida. It thinks that it has discovered a new land. It regards itself as a sort of adventuresome explorer who dared to come into a wild territory, and to his amazement found there a wondrous country, marvellously beautiful and—RICH, my word! How RICH!

No universal is the belief "Up North," and "Out West," that it has suddenly found Florida, it has become the fashion for the newspapers to give editorial notice of one kind and another of this "boom" that has struck the southeast frontier. Some of the notices occasionally have a tinge of envy, but most of them are the friendly expression of genuine astonishment at the rapidity with which this state has attracted national attention, and incidentally lured millions of dollars into its investment fields.

To these observers, Florida appears to have started to develop on an enormous scale. They use the word, "boom," too often, for it is absolutely incorrect so far as "boom" signifies temporary growth, but they all keep on talking and give Florida invaluable advertising.

And it is of all Florida that these people of other states are talking. The Spartanburg (S. C.) Herald recently took the theme, "The Florida Boom," for an editorial, and summed up the facts so concisely, it is worthwhile to reproduce the paragraph here. Says the South Carolina paper:

The great majority of Americans know "their Florida" these days. It is a topic of conversation—a never ending topic, where two or three are gathered together, who have been to Florida. In Florida they deny that it is a "boom." They tell you it is just a development and just the beginning. And that is true. Perhaps the country will take Florida more rationally in a few years, but for the time being it is a craze. It is all wonderful and a dream land. It is the nation's winter playground, newly discovered and made accessible by the highways and the motor car factors that have never before figured in just such a development. We have had "booms" and reactions in localities, but on a horse and buggy basis, but never before have we had a whole commonwealth to boom. That is what's happening to Florida.

EVERY DAY we see men of only average talent paying their brothers on the road to success, simply because they are possessed of that blessed trait of application. Good nature is the cheapest commodity in the world and the only thing that will pay ten per cent. to the borrower and lender alike. —Ingersoll.

THE MEN WHOM I have seen succeed best in life have always been cheerful and hopeful men, who went about their business with a smile on their faces and took their chances and chances of this mortal life like men. —Kingley.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

BY IRVIN S. COBB

From the lowlands a special judge was sent up to the Kentucky mountains to try a lot of murder cases growing out of a desperate and bloody feud. He took with him as his official stenographer a young man from Louisville, who dressed smartly and, in strong contrast to the silent mountaineers, did quite a good deal of talking. For convenience let us call him Wilkins.

On his first Sunday morning in the mountain hamlet Wilkins felt the need of a shave. He had no razor and there was no regular barber in the town, but he learned from the hotelkeeper that there was an old cobbler living a few doors away who sometimes shaved transients.

Wilkins went to look for the cobbler. In a tiny shop he found an elderly native with stringy chin whiskers and a mild blue eye. The old chap got out an ancient razor from somewhere, stropped it deliberately and was soon scripping away on the patron's jaws. Wilkins felt the desire for a little conversation stealing over him.

"This is a mighty lawless country up here, ain't it?" he began in the way of opening up some conversation. "I don't know," said the old chap, mildly. "Things is purty quiet jist at present."

He paused to put a keener edge on his blade, then went on. "Well," said Wilkins, "you won't deny, I suppose, that you have a lot of murders in this town?" "We don't generally speak of 'em as murders," said the old man in tone of gentle reproof. "Up here we jest call 'em killings." "Did you call 'em killings, all right?" said Wilkins briskly. "If shooting a man down in cold blood from ambush isn't murder, then I don't know a murder when I see one, that's all. When was the last man killed, as you call it, here in this town?"

"Why, last week," said the patriarch. "Whereabouts was he killed?" "Right out yonder in the street in front of this here shop," stated the old man, with the air of one desiring to turn the conversation. "Razor hurt you much?"

"The razor is all right," said Wilkins, snappily. "What I want to know are the facts about the killing of this last man. Who killed him?"

The cobbler lit the edge of the razor linger right over the Adam's apple of the inquiring stranger for a fleeting moment. "I don't see," he said gently. "There was where this conversation seemed to begin to languish.

The Prize and the Plague. And a Vague Earthquake Herriot Goes Down. Good Comes From Sorrow. By ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1925)

SCIENTISTS AT Georgetown announce a heavy earthquake somewhere on the earth—about 6,500 miles away. When you say 6,500 miles, you reassure Americans. We all bear other peoples' troubles well.

THE PRINCE OF Wales is stopping in his triumphant tour through British possessions in Africa, by an outbreak of plague. That may be a good thing for Africans that lack the Prince's facilities for avoiding the disease.

WHEN DISEASE threatens those high in power, something is done about it. When we wanted to build the canal, we found a way to end malaria in Panama.

If the French King had known that he was to die of smallpox, with his favorite lady leaving him to die alone, like a sick dog, he would probably have done some cleaning up in Paris.

He might even have transferred his attentions from his Pare Aux Cerfs harem, to the English Doctor Jenner, then experimenting with vaccination.

HERIOT IS out of his job, as Prime Minister. He abolished the French Embassy at the Vatican, giving us a sane economy and a belief that the French Republic needs no diplomatic relations with the Pope.

He also undertook to cut a slice out of accumulated capital to help national finances, giving rich men their choice of contributing gracefully, or having the money taken from them.

They decided against both suggestions, and Herriot is out. He knows now that taking on a fight with the Catholic Church and with money, at the same time, is a big undertaking.

His SUCCESSORS will find, however, that establishing diplomatic relations with Rome and respecting the rights of high finance will not solve their problem. It is a money problem. Some one must find a way to substitute real cash for hope based on German indemnities.

HOWEVER, FRANCE has industry, intelligence, fraudulency, great wealth and a logical national mind. Such taxes as the British pay, or even taxes much lower, would balance the French budget and provide a surplus.

THE GERMANS, it should be remembered, had a plan in their mind to sell printed paper to foreign countries at the price of real money, and thus let the countries pay their debts. And that was not so dull, what-come you think of it, especially in heavy cases, that plan would not suit France, for there the little man with his wealth in francs, ready cash, in Germany, he is a poor beggar.

HERIOT'S DOWNFALL, caused President Doudege to issue a statement praising the work accomplished by the Socialist Prime Minister. The President observed that Herriot's financial troubles were caused by the Government's policy of subsidizing its army, and that the result is a budget deficit of 100,000,000 francs.

THE BIRTHDAY of their son, Caliban, the President and Mrs. Doudege gave a party for the children at Washington, in the White House grounds.

They then son lived, this April 14th would have celebrated his seventeenth birthday celebration. A sad and sorrowful the father and mother, they chose to make a day of happiness, for many other children.

This, among civilized beings, divided sorrow is the source of happiness for others, and misfortune finds its solace in doing good.

WE HAVEN'T JUMPED up more than seven feet a bushel yesterday and started the "short sellers." Win-win-win is reported to be had in Rumania, usually growing a great wheat surplus is buying wheat. Russia must buy 500,000 bushels to avoid famine. Gambling is dangerous on either "side" of the market, and especially on the "short side" in America.

RUSSIA FINISH some consolation for a poor wheat crop in their land, and in export goods. Russia has been coming up the Danube, fighting the strong current with their boats to German markets and loaded with Russian goods. The merchandise goes to sea from Odessa to Galatz and thence up the river in barges. How long will this country wait before doing business with Russia, a land much bigger than ours and for all we know far richer than ours.

CHILD MARRIAGES

TAMPA TRIBUNE

Appalled by the number of child marriages in this country—there are said to be nearly 400,000 wives married under the age of 16—the Russell Sage Foundation proposes 10 rules to remedy the evil. They are as follows:

1. Require laws making the minimum marriageable age for girls at least 16 instead of 12, as now allowed in many states.

2. Require five days' notice of intent to marry.

3. Abolish "notorious Gretna Greens" in this country, where marriages are now exploited and commercialized.

4. Stop the railroading of "out of town" marriages by marriage license clerks and justices of the peace.

5. Encourage license bureau officials to exercise fully the discretion left to them by many state laws.

6. Get rid of the fee system of license issuing.

7. Require age proof independent of parents' sworn statements.

8. Make marriage candidates submit documentary proof of age rather than affidavits.

9. Require both applicants to appear in person for the license.

10. Harmonize minimum marriage age, minimum working age and compulsory school attendance in state laws.

These are all good and worth working for, but inasmuch as they require uniform state legislation to make them fully effective, progress is likely to be slow. It is well to have so definite a program in mind. But for the present, the most useful method is the educational one, spreading information everywhere as to the extent and evil effect of premature marriage, and creating more public sentiment against it.

THE CITIZEN'S DUTY

ASHEVILLE CITIZEN

Wets and wet sympathizers are ridiculing and decrying the plan put forward by Mr. Palmer Casfield, Federal Prohibition Director for the State of New York, as necessary for successful dry enforcement in his territory. He gives its details as follows:

1. Six more United States judges in New York to handle liquor cases only.

2. More men in the city for enforcement.

3. A divisional chief and a corps of agents for each federal judicial district.

4. A rum constabulary to patrol the Canadian border.

5. A squad of chemists to combat the diversion of specially denatured alcohol.

6. An administrative order forbidding bonding or releasing of vessels seized while transporting liquor.

7. The purchase and destruction of all bonded liquor by the government.

8. The control of retail drug stores.

The plan is described by the wets as impossible of application. They argue that it will increase the number of officials "to be bribed" and increase the bootleggers' "to raise the money for their bribing." In fact, all this is frankly stated by one of the biggest newspapers in the Middle West. But the citizen's duty is to denounce and assist in enforcement of all laws of the land, including the dry laws. No good citizen's proposition that officials can be bribed. His only real concern should be observance and enforcement of the law as long as it is on the statute books. The wets display a rotten patriotism when they assail the Constitution itself by prophesying that any law can not possibly be enforced. When the nation falls to that fatality, we might as well give up the hope of liberty.

Renewed Activity In Construction

TIMES-UNION

Hotels will not occupy all the attention of builders this spring and summer and fall, however. In a number of Florida cities there are plans maturing for big office buildings. In some places the work is begun. Offices and stores are needed. The population of the state is showing steady growth, surprising the most optimistic. The demand for stores, offices, and other buildings for business and professional use is heavy and increasing. Besides this there are plans for churches, schools, theaters and many other structures. Apartment houses are under construction in various places. The building of apartments has already assumed proportions which are not even approached in most of the other states.

Home building is a feature which has caused remark of some of the larger cities grows to be wonder if there will not soon be a house for each family or even individual. But the work goes ahead. There are plans for building thousands of homes—the work including man-ions to cost a hundred thousand dollars, and bungalows at $300 each. Altogether it is going to be a busy time for the Florida to go away. They indicated the necessity for expansion, and the hotels will be built as soon as the materials and labor can be assembled and the work properly done. Hotel construction is now almost entirely of the most modern design. Nearly all the new hotels, following the plan of those constructed within the past ten years, will be fireproof, and equipped in the best manner.

Pick the right Milkman

WHEN you move, what's your first worry? Isn't it milk—how to be sure of rich, pure milk? Maybe the furniture and dishes aren't unpacked. Never mind, the kids can sleep on "shake-downs" and use paper plates. You can do without meat for a day or so—but you must have milk right away. The health of your family depends on it.

And it must be fresh and sweet, for stale milk is full of danger. You can't find an ice man—maybe there is no ice man. But you've got to have milk.

Pretty hard job—yours? Not a bit. Use Borden's Evaporated Milk. Then you never have to change your milkman. And it's pure, safe, full-cream milk. You'll find Borden's richer than ordinary milk, because half the water has been removed. Dilute with an equal part of water for soups, creamed dishes, desserts, and rich, nourishing cocoa.

Major Leagues Open Tuesday With Season Of Thrills Packed In Games

CHICAGO, April 15.—All the thrills of an entire season were crammed into the open struggles Tuesday of the annual baseball campaign before a quarter of a million fans.

The king of swat was sick abed but his mates shelled the fences with fifteen home runs. The Cleveland Indians made 12 runs in one inning, but their St. Louis hosts were only slightly less expert with the war club.

Pete Donahue of the Cincinnati Reds put over the first shut out of the season, the St. Louis Cardinals being the victims. All the National League contests except the Chicago-Pittsburgh game lacked the thrill of a home run, but each American league game had one or more, the Athletics and Boston registering five.

The National League parks elaborated their opening ceremonies in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the circuit.

President Heydler of the National league attended the Giants-Braves game at Boston, President Johnson of the American league attended the opening contest at Detroit, and Commissioner Landis at the Chicago-Cubs. Walter "Rabbit" Maraville, one of the long list of players disabled by training trip casualties, hobbled to the plate Tuesday at the Chicago-Pittsburgh game to receive a floral tribute.

The sluggers' roll of honor for the day includes Charles Jamieson of Cleveland, who made the first home run of the season in first time, in the first inning at St. Louis; Earl Sheely, of Chicago White Sox; Miller Paele and Welch of the Philadelphia Athletics; Flugstad and Harris of Boston Sox; Myrtle, Spinkier, McNulty of Cleveland; Paschal, Yankees Ken Williams of the St. Louis Browns, and Alexander and Bennett, the Chicago Cubs' battery, who scored the only four-run blow of the National League for the day.

The Yankees with the world-champion Washington team as attraction drew the largest throng of the day, close to 50,000. Chicago Nationals were next with second largest crowd in history, 38,000. Detroit was close behind with nearly 35,000 and the other crowds ranged from maximum capacity down to 15,000 at Boston.

Golf Is Being Blamed For Poor Showing Of Athletes In England. LONDON, Apr. 11. England's determination in athletics, as measured by international contests, is due to paying too much attention to golf, in the opinion of Lou Maxwe, editor of the National Review.

Golf Is Being Blamed For Poor Showing Of Athletes In England

England has been beaten year after year by the Australians at cricket, avers Mr. Maxwe, who goes on to say: "We play second fiddle to America at polo, and third fiddle to America and France at lawn tennis, and we cut a poor figure at the Olympic games in Paris last year, all because the talents and enthusiasm that we ought to devote to real games have been wasted on that fly, selfish, petty pastime of golf."

Keep your eyes on the stars and the world will trample on your toes.
