Charter committee considers consultants

SANFORD — Members of the Sanford Community Charter Advisory Committee are expected to decide whether to hire two consultants Monday to help them speed their drafting of a proposed charter for the county in time for the November general election.

The committee heard proposals from Harry Stewart, Orange County attorney, and Bill Neron, president of Public Management Advisory Services Inc. of Fort Myers, who is currently consulting firm. The latter was the author of the proposed charter. Neron has advised several agencies on preparation and revision of their charters.

Although committee members have tentatively decided on many facets of the charter, the county's proposed constitution, they decided to seek professional input on such areas as whether county laws should prevail over conflicting city laws.

No increase in garbage rate yet

LONGWOOD — Longwood residents won their victory about their garbage rates, going up at least for the time being, if new city Administrator Gene DeMarie has anything to say about it. A work session set for June 6 will be a $1.07 per month rate increase requested by Industrial Waste Service has been cancelled. IWS, which holds the city's garbage, has a residential garbage franchise with the city, which has to raise rates $7.42 a month for pickup for an additional truck. IWS also wants a one-time move in fee of $100 for each new resident.

DeMarie said, "It's the proverbial hell-bell but and the company is back in a few months to seek a rate increase. If they had some time first I would have said no to the change. There is no contract and unless they can prove an unusual one special bill increase I don't want to be in from the amount that need exists."

Police break up prostitution ring

Prison idea may add fuel to feud

By Wayne Mize
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A proposed federal prison on city-owned land near Lake Jesup could add fuel to an ongoing feud between Sanford and Seminole County government, according to one city commissioner.

City Commissioner Herbert Whitey Eckstein told the Herald a high-ranking non-elected official in Seminole County government told him last week by telephone that the county was prepared to resist the granting of the necessary permits for placement of a wastewater spray system at the same site proposed for the prison.

Eckstein said that the reason for the denying of the permits according to the high-ranking source was "because there is a general feeling of uncooperative spirit and attitude between county and city over previous disputes.

Seminole County Planning Director Tony Vanderworp said he has not seen application from the city for a zoning special exception to allow the waste treatment system.

Vanderworp said that the county is not willing to accept a waste water proposal without first viewing the proposal.

Seminole County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff said he does not think the city is using the possibility of a prison as a threat to force the county to issue the special exception permits. "I don't think that's the case," he said.

However, without the special exception permits Sanford would have to locate Lake Mary, a parcel of $12 million, for the waste disposal, according to Eckstein. The city has an offer from Lake Mary to buy the parcel for $10 million for use in irrigating the Titus Club Golf Course and other publicly owned areas.

"I don't want to go to Lake Mary and spend $12 million," said Eckstein. "But in the event we can't get the permits from the county, we would have to buy it. It would be a favor in locating the land for the prison."

Seminole County and Sanford are currently locked in a court battle over the city's plan to build a prison. See PRISON, page 8A.

Man arrested at fire scene

By Wayne Mize

SANFORD — Police have a man in custody in connection with an early morning fire that gutted an unoccupied home at 108 E. Seventh St. The suspicious origin of the blaze is under investigation by the state fire marshal and Sanford police and fire departments.

Sanford Fire Marshal Tom Martin said at 2 o'clock a.m. that the one-story wood-frame home was destroyed.

According to fire department reports, after the fire broke out, it included three engines and the home was extinguished in 10 minutes.

Police arrested John Smith, 36, at the scene for suspected intoxication, but it is not known if he started the fire, according to Police Chief Steven Haggart.

Smith, 607 E. 14th St., was arrested and charged with arson.

Smith said he could not recall the fire.

Smith said he was at the scene with a friend, but he does not recall the fire.

DeMarie, Etchberger clash about budget adjustments

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — What the city's new city manager, Gene DeMarie, referred to as a lively discussion, occurred between him and the city's management consultant, Jeff Etchberger, over the mid-year budget adjustments.

Etchberger, who was hired to conduct a management study of the city departments,

After the commissioners said they accepted the explanation given by DeMarie on the proposed revisions at a work session Monday night, Etchberger approached DeMarie by the commission member to discuss privately with him and Wayne Finance Director Marty Dupitt.

The discussion continued for several minutes in the staff offices and hallway before the start of the regular meeting.

DeMarie told the commission that the bottom line is there is no increase or decrease in terms of the overall budget. Funds were transferred where needed from the surplus of contingency funds.

Etchberger said he had a few different ideas on how to pay the bills, but he would use by DeMarie in place of word appropriate. See BUDGET, page 8A.

Sex education on workshop agenda

By Carol Rumsey
UCF Intern

SANFORD — A report recommending AIDS instruction for all Seminole County students will be reviewed by school board members at a Friday work session.

The report is the result of an eight-month study conducted by the Sex Education Committee, whose 14 members include parents, teachers, administrators and one school board member.

It will also recommend that birth control, abortion and teen pregnancy be taught in a factual, straightforward manner to middle and high school students.

"We are not suggesting that abortion be taught to students as a form of birth control," said committee member and parent Walter Cooper. "These are tough issues. It's just like drinking and driving. You have to tell all the facts and present all the consequences."

The report emphasizes instruction in the emotional ramifications of abortion, as well as the medical and legal ones.

Cooper said a high priority for the committee is to ensure that proper in-service training be provided to teachers.

You're walking on thin ice here," he said. "Some teachers will be comfortable teaching these topics and some will not and the program can only be as good as the instructors teaching it."

Cooper said there has been some discussion about having See WORKSHOP, page 8A.

Reactions to proposals vary

By Herald Staff

SANFORD — County officials and others reacted to the city by opposing a bid for a maximum security prison to be built on city-owned land, but some expressed their feelings today, ranging from opposition to the plan to support it.

Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff, whose District 15 is where the site is located, said neither Sanford nor Seminole County needs the prison, but he would support them.

The image of what would be built on the site, which is located in District 15, is a 900-bed, maximum security prison. It would be built on city-owned land near Lake Mary.

County Administrator Ken Hooper said the county's main concern with the prison proposal is providing water and sewer service to the facility. He said the county does not currently have the services, which is a critical factor in the county's opposition to the proposal.

DeMarie said a federal prison probably would affect the county's water supply. He said the county's water supply is currently provided by the city and the county's water supply is currently provided by the city.

Prison proposal

- U.S. Bureau of Prisons
- Wants to build 900-inmate prison on land owned by Sanford near Geneva.
- Wants city to donate land for the prison.
- Local officials have been invited to tour a federal prison.
- If Sanford agrees to donate the land, the prison would not be built for three or four years.

Driver missed turn

Oviedo police officer Fred Gold looks over a cement truck that overturned on County Road 419 Wednesday. Gold said the driver of this cement truck apparently missed his turn at the Twin Rivers subdivision construction site. In trying to avoid hitting another cement truck, this truck overturned, striking the second truck. The driver of the overturned truck, Alan Pierce, 31, of Largo, was treated for minor injuries at Winter Park Hospital and released, police said. Charges are pending in the accident, which caused $35,000 in damages to the two trucks.

POLICE

IN BRIEF

Couple charged with cultivating marijuana after search of home

OVIDO — An Ovido couple accused of growing and selling marijuana at their home are free today on $1,000 bond each. Both face charges of possession, sale and cultivation of marijuana as a result of a City County Investigative Bureau search of their home at about 9:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Dennis Michael Hennessey, 25, and his wife Patricia Ann Hennessey, 22, of 58 Johanna Drive, were arrested at their home after agents reported finding 55 potted marijuana plants growing there. Agents, who said they had earlier made undercover buys of marijuana from both suspects also reported finding drug paraphernalia and $210 at the home.

The couple's two small children found at the scene were placed in the temporary custody of relatives, the arrests reports said. The two are scheduled to appear in court June 13.

Fingerprints lead to charges

SANFORD — Fingerprints found at the scene of an armed burglary-robbery in rural Sanford on May 4, have led to charges against a 41-year-old Sanford man.

Charles Guy Hyman, already in jail on Sanford police burglary charges, was charged with armed burglary to an occupied dwelling Tuesday as well as armed robbery and petty theft in the rural case.

Hyman allegedly forced entry to a residence at 2301 N. Cameron Ave., Sanford, at about 2:13 p.m. on May 4. Victim Amelia Leflis said she was confronted in her home by a gun-wielding man who ordered her into the kitchen. She ran out a back door and later returned to find her wallet containing $20 had been stolen.

Fingerprints found at the scene were reportedly linked to Hyman and that led to charges in this case.

Alleged drug buyer arrested

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A passenger in a car who allegedly bought cocaine from street dealers as a Seminole County sheriff's deputy watched, faces a charge of possession of cocaine.

Patay Fairchild, 30, of 2714 Lake View Ave., Fern Park, was arrested at 2:15 p.m. Monday on Magnolia Avenue at County Road 427, rural Altamonte Springs, after deputies stopped the car in which she was riding. The driver was not charged and the suspected cocaine dealers ran when a deputy approached.

Deputies reported finding two pieces of crack cocaine in Fairchild's possession in the car. She was being held in lieu of $2,000 bond.

Two charged in truck thefts

SANFORD — Seminole County sheriff's deputies have charged two men who are already jailed with stealing two semi-trucks in rural Apopka on May 14.

James L. Balazs, 33, of Houston, Texas, and Richard F. Eaavey, 28, Cape Coral, have been charged with grand theft and burglary.

They are accused of stealing two Peterbilt trucks from a fenced compound of Peterbilt of Tampa, Inc., 2455 State Road 441, rural Apopka. The two were captured Monday in Hamilton County where they allegedly were found with one of the trucks at a truckstop. They were returned to Seminole County and jailed Tuesday.

Balazs was being held in lieu of $4,500 bond and Peavy was being held in lieu of $3,000 bond. Balazs allegedly said he had been paid $250 by a Miami man who wanted him to drive one of the trucks to Georgia.

Two charged with sex offenses

WINTER SPRINGS — In unrelated cases, two men were taken into custody on Seminole County warrants for alleged sexual contact with girls. One is free on $10,000 bond and the other, a 79-year-old man, has been released without posting bond.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies report charging Randy Haldeman, 37, of 405 Edgman St., Winter Springs with attempting a sexual act with a child. He has posted bond and is to appear in court June 13. He was arrested at his home Wednesday in connection with an alleged incident on April 24.

In the other case, Cecil Albert Black, 79, of Bldg. 411-112 Post Lake Apts., Forest City, was arrested on warrant charges at his home at about 9 a.m. Tuesday. He has been released without posting bond. Black is charged with lewd assault on a child in connection with a December 15 incident involving a 15-year-old girl.

Police seek assault suspect

SANFORD — Police are looking for a man known only as "Bullet" who assaulted Cordell Bedford, 33, in front of Wade's Grocery, 509 E. Seventh St., early this morning.

Bedford, 719 E. Eighth St., was beaten in the ribs, nose and cut on the forehead by the suspect, who was described to police as being 6-2, 200 pounds. The incident occurred at 1:30 a.m., according to the police report.

Altamonte Springs woman charged

Police break up prostitution ring

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A 30-year-old Altamonte Springs woman, accused of being part of a $1 million Florida prostitution ring, remains jailed today after being arrested at her home, which is also reportedly a branch office for an escort service engaged in prostitution activities.

Metropolitan Bureau of Investigation agents from Orlando arrested Sylvia Holoka, of 872 Orienta Ave., Altamonte Springs Wednesday after a raid on two apartments leased to her employer.

Holoka, who was arrested on a Clay County warrant stating that there on Jan. 8, 1988 she was linked to the dispatch of prostitutes for A-able Escort Service, "a front for prostitution." The warrant said Holoka was employed by the agency "during the time other female employees were arrested for prostitution violations."

The warrant was issued Tuesday and Holoka is being held in the Seminole County jail without bond. The suspect has been charged with living off the earnings of a prostitute. On her arrest report her occupation is listed as "telecommunications" and her employer is identified as A-able Escort Service, which is based in Orange Park and Altamonte Springs. Three other suspects were arrested at Orange Park near Jacksonville at the same time in connection with the case.

During the 8-month, MIU and

Clay County investigation into the ring 40, arrests have been made, most related to prostitution, MIU Director Joe Cocchiarella said.

The escort service is advertised in area telephone directory yellow pages in Seminole, Orange, Brevard, Duval, Clay and other counties, extending into the Panhandle, Cocchiarella said.

Local calls placed to those numbers, he said, would be relayed to the ring's headquarters in Altamonte Springs or Orange Park. From there, dispatchers allegedly assigned prostitutes who were in the area from which the call was made.

Officials say prostitutes met clients in various locations and allegedly exchanged sexual favors of a fee of $175, with the expectation of a $75 to $100 tip. The women then mailed portions of the money to the escort service office, Cocchiarella said.

The investigation has been a statewide effort by Cocchiarella's agency, the Duval and Clay County sheriff's departments and the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, with assistance from Altamonte Springs police.

He said the suspects will probably all face a single charge and prosecution will be handled by state prosecutors. At this point, he said, additional charges are not pending, but additional arrests may be made.

The ring, he said, grossed about $1 million dollars and is believed to have been in operation less than one year.

Man arrested after attempting to hide cocaine

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A Seminole County sheriff's deputy, familiar with habits of drug dealers, followed a man walking on Salina Drive in Altamonte Springs and confronted the man when he saw him slip a plastic container into his mouth.

The deputy suspected the container contained cocaine and reported retrieving a plastic container and five pieces of crack cocaine from the suspect's mouth.

The suspect who refused to identify himself, was arrested as John Doe, on a charge of possession of cocaine at about 1:25 a.m. Thursday.

The officer said it is a common practice of drug dealers and users to attempt to hide cocaine in their mouths when they suspect police are in the general vicinity.

Jail officials said the suspect was later identified as Tony Collier, 22, of 218 North St., Altamonte Springs. He was being held in lieu of $2,000 bond.

In other police cases reported Thursday:

●ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Two men confronted as trespassers at Lake Brantley High School face a trespassing charge. They have also been charged with possession of marijuana, which was reportedly found by school officials during a search of their car.

Hermann Steven Rubiano, 18, of Orlando, was arrested along with Daniel Butler, 20, of 2230 Jillytew Drive, Altamonte Springs, at 11:40 a.m. Wednesday. The arrests were made by a Seminole County sheriff's deputy assigned to the school. The deputy reported Butler had been previously warned not to trespass at the school, located on Sand Lake Road, Altamonte Springs.

The deputies said school officials concerned for the safety of students searched the suspects' car and reported the marijuana and tools.

Rubiano remains jailed in lieu of $500 bond and Butler has been released on $500 bond. He is scheduled to appear in court June 1.

●WINTER SPRINGS — A 44-year-old Winter Springs man who allegedly fired a shotgun outside his home during an argument with one of his sons remains jailed in lieu of $500 bond.

Rockwell Steven Hansen, of 600-401 Tuscani Place, faces charges of discharging a firearm in public and improper exhibition of a weapon. Winter Springs police report Hansen appeared intoxicated when they arrived at his home at about 4:40 p.m. Wednesday.

Weekend weather will be exciting

By Fred H. Cooper
Herald Staff Writer

So you want to make plans for the weekend and you want to know about the weather. Right? The official weather forecast for Saturday and Sunday as promulgated by the federally funded (albeit by a deficit budget) National Weather Service by meteorologists of the U.S. of A. reports that it will partly cloudy (or mostly sunny, whichever) with temperatures around 90 degrees during the day and dropping to the 60s at night. There are possibilities of late afternoon showers or thunderstorms both days. Winds will be gentle from one of three or four directions. To which you might add that the possibility exists for weather during both days. Aren't you excited?

If you wish to know about today, it will be the same as the weekend prediction. Tomorrow? The same as either today or the weekend.

Oh, yes, early morning fog. Don't want to forget that, it might be important if you're turned on by early morning fog.

If you're traveling through the South during the next four days, you'll be happy to know that the weather prognostications for the states near Florida are identical for all.

Florida cities and towns sure varied in a couple of areas during the past 24 hours. Tallahassee had the highest high temperature Wednesday with a 93 degree reading, then it plummeted to 53 overnight. However, little Crestview nose out its Panhandle neighbor with a 52 degree reading last night to take lowest of low honors. Only Miami had officially recorded rainfall—a trace.

Showers and thunderstorms are expected to continue to dampen the East Coast from

FSLIC teeters on the brink

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. lost $4.6 billion last year, had $17 billion in liabilities for insolvent thrifts and the situation may get worse, a General Accounting Office official said today.

Frederick Wolf, the GAO's accounting and management division director, went as far as to tell the Senate Banking Committee that congressional action may be needed to save the savings and loan industry from collapse.

"We conclude that the eventual costs of restoring the thrift industry's financial health are likely to exceed the funds that the FSLIC will have available," Wolf said in prepared remarks regarding a GAO audit.

The congressional watchdog agency official testified that the savings and loan industry has been plagued by bad management, high-risk loan portfolios and desperate economic conditions in the Southwest.

Despite Federal Home Loan Bank Board efforts to correct some of the worst abuses, he added, savings and loan institutions still enter risky financial areas "that potentially expose FSLIC to additional significant risk."

Wolf raised "serious questions" about the FSLIC's ability "to deal with the industry's still-growing problems." He said the insurance fund's net operating loss of $4.6 billion in 1987 was primarily caused by a $6.9 billion increase in liability for failed but still operating thrifts as well as $3.5 billion in losses for institutions that received financial aid or were closed.

The GAO audit also found the FSLIC ended 1987 with a $17 billion liability for resolving the problems of more than 200 insolvent institutions.

"While some have suggested these losses are not 'real' but only contingent in nature, we would dispel that myth," Wolf said. "The institutions have incurred actual losses."

Furthermore, the costs to the FSLIC of resolving such problems historically have been higher than an institution's negative net worth, he said, and they increase the longer a savings and loan is allowed to operate while technically in default.

"If congressional action becomes necessary, it should be taken swiftly," he told senators.

Confessed serial killer earns stay from federal appeals court

STARKE, Fla. (UPI) — Prison officials moved confessed serial killer Gerald Stano back onto death row after his execution scheduled for today was stayed by a federal appeals court in Atlanta.

The 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta granted Stano, who has confessed to the murders of 41 women, an indefinite stay at 6 p.m. Wednesday, 13 hours before he was to be executed in Florida's electric chair for the murders of two Volusia County women.

Stano, 36, who had already ordered a last meal of steak and eggs, had been in the "deathwatch" cell next to the death chamber since Gov. Bob Martinez signed the death warrant, Stano's fourth.

"He was very apprehensive prior to the awarding of the stay, more so than on the previous warrants signed," said Bob Macmaster, a spokesman for the Florida Department of Corrections.

Reagan to campaign for Mack

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — President Reagan has planned an appearance in Miami next month to boost the U.S. Senate campaign of Rep. Connie Mack, it was announced Wednesday.

Mack, R-Fla., made the announcement during a Tallahassee news conference, saying Reagan's visit will "come at a time when Democrats in the Florida Senate race will be engaged in a bitter primary fight waged on liberal issues of more taxes and more spending."

Specifics of the Reagan trip have not yet been announced.

Sea World experts try to save whale

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — An orphan pygmy sperm whale, swaddled in wet towels in a plastic stretcher, flew by chartered jet from North Carolina to Florida's Sea World where experts struggled today against the odds to save its life.

The whale, only a few months old, arrived Wednesday night at Orlando International Airport 34 hours after it followed its thin, sick mother ashore near the Long Beach, N.C., pier.

The 900-pound mother died on the beach, and the calf was taken to North Carolina's state aquarium, where workers began hunting for another, better-equipped home to give it a chance for survival.

"No pygmy sperm whale has ever been kept in captivity," said Paul Barrington, curator of aquariums for the North Carolina Aquarium in Fort Fisher. "It's been attempted all over the world, and I personally don't know of any long term success."

The whale, 5-foot-long and 140 pounds, was placed aboard the chartered jet in a plastic stretcher on foam pads covered with wet towels for the flight to Orlando, said Dr. Dan Odell, a Sea World research biologist. Marine experts poured ice water on the whale to keep it wet and cold.

Odell said the calf appeared to be in good health, although suffering from dehydration and low blood sugar.

Sea World placed the whale in its medical observation pool and gave it fluids and antibiotics, but Odell said the biologists have yet to determine exactly what can the whale needs.

"The whale will be kept under observation in Sea World's medical care facility for an undetermined period of time," he said.

State arrogance is intolerable

The arrogance of the United States State Department can be quite breathtaking. Concerning the minor matter of $366,780 reported missing, the department's undersecretary of state for management offered this excuse: Because the department is focused on foreign-policy issues, "management issues do not get the attention they deserve."

The management issue in question was the lack of control of State Department travel funds, a situation that was uncovered during a surprise audit last August.

Congress was told last week that the department's system of handling travelers' checks and advance payments for travel purposes was so chaotic that $59,000 was embezzled by one cashier in nine days. Another $307,780 in travelers' checks was "missing but not yet cashed."

Of course, this pales into insignificance compared with the $15 million advanced to U.S. officials, which has never been repaid or accounted for.

The picture painted by the investigators resembles a scene from a Monty Python farce, with travelers' checks lying in disarray in an unlocked cabinet and on the floor, and lowly-paid employees handing out travel advances like drunken sailors on a spree.

Auditors found there was no inventory of the checks, no written operating procedures, no controlled custody of funds, and minimal physical security in the cashier's office. One traveler to whom money was advanced was recorded as Ludwig von Beethoven.

All this would be funny if it weren't so messy. Two years ago when an audit disclosed a similar situation, the department promised to mend its ways. Instead the situation got worse, according to the auditors.

Such a callous disregard for the taxpayers' money, such "rotten ineptitude," as one member of the House Government Operations subcommittee put it, is intolerable.

Student credit

Campus activism isn't what it used to be. Take the University of California at Berkeley.

In the 1960s, Berkeley was a hotbed of free-speech, free-love and anti-war protest. Two decades later, the hottest issue on campus is credit cards. That's right, credit cards.

Protesters at Berkeley in early May forced Citibank, a subsidiary of New York-based Citicorp, to change its credit-card policies. At issue was a Citibank policy that denied credit cards to older students and to certain humanities majors. Seems the bank had found that older students and those majoring in a few specific fields—the bank won't say which ones—are less likely to pay their debts than are other students.

Citibank initially defended its practices, saying they were based on legitimate measures of credit worthiness. Then, it offered to eliminate discrimination based on course of study, but not age. That didn't mollify Berkeley's student government. It called for a boycott of Citibank and voted to ban the company's representatives from campus.

Citibank surrendered. It sent a representative to a student Senate meeting, where he reportedly acknowledged that the bank's policies were legal, but dumb, and promised that they would be changed.

And to think, some '60s activists have complained that modern students are too complacent. Maybe now they will give their '80s comrades credit. Citibank has.

Federal spokesmen owe loyalty to people

By Helen Thomas
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The firing of Terry Eastland, Justice Department director of public affairs, came as a surprise since Eastland was a total loyalist in an administration where that is in short supply.

On the other hand, there comes the parting of the way when a spokesman for a federal official — in this case Attorney General Edwin Meese — has to become a defense lawyer.

Eastland was not hired for that. A strong conservative, known as a "Meese man" in all things, Eastland ousted when Meese decided his efforts to defend his boss were not zealous enough.

Eastland said that he was supposed to protect Meese against "any and all criticism." Since when?

The federal employees dealing in public information, and heading such divisions in the White House, the Cabinet and throughout the government, are paid by the taxpayer. They are not paid by the president or Cabinet officials and they are certainly not hired to be image makers, although many of them wind up that way and see that as their mandate.

Meese has it all wrong, and nothing established that fact more than when Eastland said that he felt he also had a responsibility to the Justice Department as a whole "and the American people."

In an administration where image is everything, obviously Meese felt it was in his power to dump Eastland as his own fortunes have begun to fall.

History is replete where the White House press spokesman becomes a mere flack for the president. True he is the mouthpiece of the entire United States. But most who have held this role in recent years do not pay much attention to that second hat they must wear, which is to serve the American people and to keep them informed.

If anything, such officers in recent years have been charged with evading, avoiding and keeping at bay reporters with legitimate questions who are seeking information that should be in the public domain.

Information is doled out on their own terms, and only when it will not reflect on the president. Only when the palace guard feels the information will enhance the leader. When there is a crisis, information is in very short supply. When things are going well, the White House issues is only too happy to be vocal on the subject.

Other press officers have freely admitted that they had to "shade" the truth. Most of them come into their roles with a pledge that they will never knowingly lie.

There have been profiles in courage. Jerry TerHorst, press secretary to President Gerald Ford, resigned after one month when White House officials deceived him and told him that there was no truth to rumors that Ford was about to give a pardon to Nixon.

Being a spokesman for a president and the government is one of the toughest in the business. But it can be done if the spokesman cherishes his credibility and the nation's honor most of all.

Cut the demand for drugs

There is nothing inherently wrong with asking the armed forces to lend a hand in the current war against drug-smugglers. The Army, Navy, and Air Force are usually underemployed in peacetime, and there is no reason why they shouldn't be put to work helping to stop the armada of small ships and planes that is launched against this country's borders every night, bringing in the heroin, cocaine, and marijuana that our addicts demand.

But while this may reduce somewhat the supply of drugs on the U.S. market (and thereby run up the price of those still available), it can never solve America's drug problem. The harder it becomes to smuggle drugs into the United States, and the higher their price rises as a consequence, the more effort and ingenuity will be devoted to smuggling. Stupid criminals will be replaced by smarter ones, but crime will go on.

Nor is the solution to throw in the towel and legalize the sale of drugs here. That would help to keep their cost low, but as Abe Rosenthal has pointed out, drug prices are already (thanks to the huge amounts pouring in) quite reasonable. Legalizing drugs might make selling them a less attractive occupation for big-time criminals, but it would no more undermine the market for them than Woolworth undermined the market for other things people wanted by selling them more cheaply.

On the contrary, legalizing drugs would simply result in a vast expansion of the market for them. Many people who today shy away from experimenting with them because they are illegal would predictably conclude that legalization implied a degree of social sanction for drugs, and what's more that it certainly would not have occurred if drugs were truly harmful. (Witness the government's attacks on cigarettes.)

Mayor Edward Koch of New York, who has had a great deal more experience with this whole problem than most of us, has warned that legalization of drugs would set us on the road to turning millions of presently unaddicted Americans into drug-sodden zombies.

They know better.

Corruption plagues Republic of Palau

By Jack Anderson and Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — Shysters and con men from around the world test their seams in remote South Pacific islands — a fertile frontier for cowboys looking for a quick buck. The motto in many of the tiny tropical nations seems to be: Let's make a deal.

In recent years, the Republic of Palau has struck deals with an Australian hit man, a New York firm peddling bogus bonds and a London power company that put money in the pockets of Palauan politicians. That's a lot of double-dealing for a nation of less than 15,000 people.

There are 10,000 miles separating Palau's white beaches from Washington D.C., but the United States still has a stake in what happens in the island republic.

Palau is the last Pacific nation under a trust territory relationship with the United States. It falls under the authority of the Department of the Interior and receives two-thirds of its $15 million annual budget from the U.S. government.

Rumors of scandals in Palau have alarmed members of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee. Last November, Chairman Morris Udall, D-Ariz., and Ron de Lugo, D-Virgin Islands, asked the General Accounting Office to in-

Win in air-bag battle

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The nation's sixth largest provider of automobile insurance has made its policyholders an offer they can't refuse — it will give them $300 apiece if they select the air-bag option when buying a new car at any time in 1988.

Because several of the nation's leading auto makers are offering substantial discounts on air bags purchased with new cars, the special bonus offered by the San Antonio, Texas, insurance company known as USAA could pay for the entire cost of the safety feature.

Moreover, USAA's discount and incentive package also includes free replacement of any air bag deployed either because of a malfunction or following an accident.

That unusual promotion is notable because it marks the end of a legal, economic, political and psychological struggle of almost two decades' duration over the efficacy of air bags.

"The battle ... is now officially ended," the president of the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association announced earlier this year. MVMA and its members had long resisted the effort of public agencies, private safety groups and insurance companies to mandate the installation of air bags on all new cars.

Ralph Nader, probably the country's best-known advocate of air bags, recently proclaimed "victory in the 10-year-long seesaw struggle" waged in all three branches of the federal government.

His claim is partially valid, but the auto makers also can declare victory because their foot-dragging was part of a successful strategy to buy themselves time before air bags became mandatory.

In the mid-1970s, for example, General Motors Corp. offered air bags as an option on its largest cars for the sole apparent reason of proving that they were unpopular. By pricing them at $1,400 apiece and doing almost nothing to promote their sale, GM made its point.

Similarly, Ford Motor Co. in the early 1970s denigrated air bags as "complicated" and "costly." In the process of stalling, the auto makers almost certainly contributed to thousands of unnecessary deaths and injuries annually.

Now, however, the situation has changed radically. More than 500,000 autos with inflatable restraints already are on the road, and federal law requires that 25 percent of all new cars sold in the year that began in September 1987 be so equipped.

That figure will increase to 40 percent in the year beginning September 1988 and to 100 percent in the year beginning September 1990.

Chrysler Corp. currently is providing air bags as standard equipment on five top-of-the-line Dodge, Chrysler and Plymouth models. Ford offers the option in one Ford and one Mercury model, while GM offers it on one Oldsmobile model.

Other auto makers also offer air bags on the driver's side only, including Mercedes-Benz, Honda, BMW, Volvo and Saab. Only Porsche, however, provides them as standard equipment to protect both drivers and passengers on three of its models.

tion year here, too," he said.

Our associate Jim Lynch interviewed several former and present Palauan officials, who made it clear that Sallit is more than the victim of political mudslinging.

"It got to the point where it seemed everything in Palau was for sale," said Paul James, who was Palau's assistant attorney general for seven months last year. "I have no doubt whatsoever that (Sallit) is involved in every scheme whatsoever to manipulate the Palauan government to his own advantage." James left Palau "to avoid becoming an accomplice to what was going on." He is now an attorney in Washington.

Martin Wolff, formerly a legislative counsel to the Palau senate, left Palau several months after his car was firebombed in 1985. Wolff claims President Remelick was assassinated shortly after announcing that he planned to expose a payoff scandal behind construction of Palau's power plant, a boondoggle that buried the nation in $32 million of debt. Wolff believes his own car was bombed because he also wanted to expose the scandal.

The builder of the power plant, International Power Systems Co., of London made $1 million in what the GAO calls "questionable payments" to Palauan officials. Sallit got

Prenatal defect test found safe

By Rob Stein
UPI Science Writer

BOSTON (UPI) — A new test to detect birth defects in fetuses appears as safe and effective as the method most commonly used now, but can be performed much earlier in a woman's pregnancy, an extensive government study shows.

Chorionic villus sampling, or CVS, was found no more likely than amniocentesis to cause a miscarriage, said Dr. Laird G. Jackson, who is helping conduct the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development study.

Both tests are designed to determine whether the fetus has any genetic defects and are used most commonly on pregnant women over age 35 to determine whether the fetus has Down's syndrome, which causes mental retardation.

CVS can be done as early as eight weeks into the pregnancy, while amniocentesis must wait until about 16 weeks. Earlier testing allows women to abort the pregnancy when it is safer and less traumatic, Jackson said.

"The mother gets to have answers earlier, which is both physically and psychologically safer for her," said Jackson, director of medical genetics at Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia.

Based on the findings, reported recently at a meeting of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists in Boston, Jackson said CVS will probably eventually replace amniocentesis in most cases.

As many as 75,000 women undergo amniocentesis each year in the United States, he said.

CVS is currently available only on a restricted basis in the United States because the device used to obtain the sample has not yet been approved for routine use.

Both tests cost about $1,000 to perform, he said.

The study, begun in 1985, is continuing to further evaluate the catheter CVS method and compare it to another CVS method in which the sample is obtained with a needle inserted through the abdomen, Jackson said. Using a needle may be able to be performed more easily later into the pregnancy and could be less time-consuming, he said.

$200,000, which he claims was for legitimate business transactions.

Reagan administration officials say the ongoing congressional investigation into Palau is a stall tactic by the interior committee to avoid approving a Compact of Free Association which will give Palau its independence. The administration has been negotiating the compact in which Palau gets its freedom and agrees to an American military presence on the islands.

But a majority of Palau's National Congress backs the interior committee's stance, that the United States must investigate allegations of corruption in Palau while it still has some control over the country.

Seventeen members of Palau's congress sent a letter in April to Interior Secretary Donald Hodel urging him to continue investigating corruption in Palau. The Palauans' letter noted that their constitution gives them the power to investigate their own government, but that power is "meaningless when a gun is pointed at your head. ... Why is it necessary for us to have to remind you, again and again, that Palau is a trust territory and that the United States has responsibilities as well as rights in Palau?"

Chicago embezzlement scheme foiled by government agents

CHICAGO (UPI) — A bank account discrepancy and a suspect's agreement to record talks with his confederates cracked an elaborate, international scheme to embezzle $70 million from the First National Bank of Chicago, authorities said.

Federal authorities charged seven people Wednesday with participating in the scheme. They included two employees of the bank, and one of them cooperated with the FBI by secretly taping conversations with the other suspects, U.S. Attorney Anton Valukas said.

Bank officials said the attempted embezzlement involved the transfer of about $70 million from the First National accounts of Chicago-based United Airlines, New York-based brokerage giant Merrill Lynch & Co., and the Louisville, Ky., wine and spirits producer-importer Brown Forman Corp.

By three wire transfers on May 13, about $69.7 million was transferred to the two Austrian banks through Citicorp and the Chase Manhattan bank in New York, which maintain accounts for the Austrian banks, Valukas said.

The scheme was uncovered Tuesday before any of the $70 million transferred could be withdrawn.

Peter Soraparu, First National vice president of public relations, said Merrill Lynch reported a discrepancy in one of its accounts Monday — sparking an internal investigation that uncovered the $70 million embezzlement plot.

Bush opposes Noriega stance

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Vice President George Bush, vowing not to "bargain with drug dealers," appeared to oppose the administration's stance calling for possible negotiations with Panamanian Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega over drug charges against him.

The Panamanian strongman has been indicted on federal drug trafficking charges by two U.S. grand juries. The administration has reportedly offered to drop the charges if Noriega relinquishes power.

Bush, speaking at the Los Angeles Police Academy Wednesday, said, "The war against drugs must begin at home, and it must begin with law enforcement. Drug dealers are domestic terrorists, killing kids and cops, and they should be treated as such."

"I would not bargain with terrorists, and I won't bargain with drug dealers either, whether they're on U.S. or foreign soil."

He would not elaborate.

U.S.-Soviet test pact pending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and the Soviet Union would notify each other of all ballistic missile tests under a pact expected to be signed at the upcoming superpower summit, administration officials say.

The officials, who spoke on condition of anonymity, described the proposed missile test agreement as "a confidence-building measure."

The agreement, to be signed by President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev at the May 30-June 2 Moscow summit, would be a slight expansion of current missile test notice accords.

Recent parliamentary elections may signal shift in Iran policies

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — Sources in Tehran say the positions of Iranian President Ali Khamenei and Prime Minister Mir Hossein Mousavi may be threatened following recent parliamentary elections in which young radicals appear to have won a sweeping victory.

The position of Hojatoleslam Akbar Hashemi-Rashtjani, a powerful Iranian cleric, also appeared uncertain after the elections, said the sources, who were interviewed by telephone Wednesday on condition they remain anonymous.

Western diplomats in the region said Wednesday that confirmation a hard-line group had gained control of the 270-seat Islamic Majlis, or parliament, would also mean Tehran's attitude toward the West may deteriorate even further and hopes for a rapprochement between the United States and Iran would fade.

The sources, who claimed access to information inside Iran's ruling circles, said Mousavi may be replaced as prime minister by Interior Minister Ali Akbar Mohtashami.

Mohtashami is a founding member of a splinter group within the Tehran Militant Clergymen's Association. The new group published lists of names of young radicals they supported in the recent elections.

Iranians attack Norwegian ship

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Iranian gunboats attacked a Norwegian gas carrier with rocket-propelled grenades today in the Strait of Hormuz, setting the vessel ablaze in the second such strike in two days, shipping sources said.

There was no indication that U.S. warships now under orders to aid neutral shipping in distress in the Persian Gulf had been called to assist the 43,849-ton Berge Strand.

Shipping insurers Lloyd's of London said the Berge Strand, a liquefied petroleum gas carrier, was hit as it was steaming through the Strait of Hormuz bound for the port of Ras Tanura in Saudi Arabia.

Lloyd's said the tanker was attacked at 7:20 a.m. by two Iranian gunboats firing rocket-propelled grenades. It said a fire aboard the vessel was later extinguished and that salvage tugs were heading for the stricken ship to lend assistance.

The vessel, which was empty, is owned by the D.Y. Bergesen company of Oslo, Norway, Lloyd's said.

Israeli soldiers kill teenager

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The three-day Moslem holiday of Eid al-Fitr ended in violence as Israeli soldiers opened fire on a group of rioters, killing a teenager and wounding at least nine other people, the military said.

An army official said the killing occurred Wednesday when Israeli troops were attacked by dozens of rock-throwing youths while making arrests in the West Bank village of Abweta, 16 miles north of Jerusalem.

The death raised to at least 180 the number of Palestinians killed in eight months of Israel's occupation of the territories seized in the 1967 Middle East war. An Israeli teenager and a soldier also have died.

Scattered disturbances and stonings of Israeli vehicles also were reported Wednesday in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip on the third and final day of the Moslem holiday Eid al-Fitr, which marks the end of the Ramadan month of fasting.

County lawmen live 'by the book'

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County lawmen have developed, and for the last 15 years have depended, on a handy-dandy guidebook of Florida statutes, which has become a standard text for law enforcement officials in the state.

The 1988 version of "Florida Criminal Law: A Handbook for Peace Officers," has been updated by Seminole County Sheriff's Sgt. Ken Starr. Instead of just revising the edition by adding information on new laws and changes in old ones, Starr said he completely rewrote the book.

Fifteen years ago, Seminole County Sheriff John Polk initiated the development of the handbook because, he said, "I wanted to put together in a condensed book something officers can use as a handy reference." It would be impractical for sheriff's deputies to carry around bulky copies of the real statute books, but they do need easy access to state laws while working in the field, Polk said.

All Seminole County sheriff's deputies are annually issued an updated version of the compact book, which provides information for which lawmen have a constant need.

Polk said many other police agencies, police training academies and state law enforcement agencies, including the Department of Corrections, rely on the Seminole County-produced handbook.

Production of the book is a project of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department Employee Benefit Fund. Profits from the sale of the book, at about $3.50 per copy, are used to fund special projects for the sheriff's employees, Starr said.

Starr said he accepted that volunteer duty and invested more than 100 hours of his personal time beyond what it would have taken just to revise the book.

"I wanted the experience," he said. "There were things I wanted in the book. I wanted to have a say in what was in it."

He said his work will begin again in June as he develops the 1989 updated version as state lawmakers issue reports on changes in the laws. But his volunteer job this year won't match last year's work, which led Starr to review every entry in the book to make applicable changes in content to meet the specific needs of lawmen in the field. The goal was to retain the intent of the original written version of the statutes, which are more lengthy. The handbook, he said, offers interpretations of some laws, which help deputies decide what charges might apply in a specific case.

A major objective, Starr said, is to keep the book in pocket form, although this year's version, which features larger print, is a bit bigger than past issues.

Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett said the publication is an excellent reference which his officers sometimes use. However, he said, his department's primary compact reference book on state laws is a "Florida Law Enforcement Handbook" produced by the Metro-Dade Police Department.

Harriett said he opted for that college textbook-sized edition over the Seminole County handbook because it lists traffic laws.

Starr said his book doesn't include traffic laws because his department produces another listing that is a reference to traffic laws. The addition of traffic laws to the pocketbook, he said, might make it bigger than he wants it to be. The Dade County reference, Starr said, costs about $6 more than the Seminole County edition.

Starr said he welcomes input on what law enforcement officials feel would enhance the handbook.

Some members of Congress skeptical

Reagan task force would map new strategy for war on drugs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Members of Congress are skeptical of President Reagan's call for a bipartisan effort to "depoliticize" the war on drugs, suggesting he is merely feeding the "frenzy" of rhetoric on the election-year issue.

"A bipartisan commission that continues the same drivel of the past is not going to be enough," grumbled Sen. Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., after Reagan made his proposal in a commencement speech Wednesday at the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn.

"There is a frenzy about this issue," complained Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., reflecting on the saturation of it in recent months.

"It seems to me senators are a worse threat to the country than drugs at this stage of the game," added a wry Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., who griped "how insane" the drug debate has become and warned it could not be "depoliticized."

Yet, having taken the heat for recently suggesting the nation had turned the corner on its narcotics problem, Reagan sought congressional backing for a task force that would have 45 days to "agree on solutions for every area" of concern — from interdiction to prosecution, education and treatment.

Branding illegal drugs "Public Enemy No. 1," the president invited Congress to join his administration in developing a "unified response."

"Our policy is one of zero tolerance for illegal drugs, and we are looking for solutions, not just restatement of the problem," he insisted.

Underlying his speech, however, was a drive to defuse an emerging Democratic campaign issue, what with presidential candidates Michael Dukakis and Jesse Jackson accusing his administration of insufficient and misguided efforts to stem the drug problem — and of consorting with drug peddlers in dealing over the years with Panama's Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega.

Under fire even from Republicans for deals he has tried to cut with Noriega, Reagan set out to recapture the political offensive on an issue his wife has championed with her "Just Say No" campaign.

"If we cannot remove the politics from drugs," he said, "how can we hope to remove the drugs from our communities, workplaces and schools? ... If America's anti-drug effort gets tripped up in partisanship, if we permit politics to determine policy, it will mean a disaster for our future."

Soviet troops return to heroes' welcome

TERMEZ, U.S.S.R. (UPI) — The first convoy of Soviet troops withdrawing from an eight-year guerrilla war in Afghanistan rolled unscathed over Friendship Bridge into the Soviet Union Wednesday, greeted by their cheering families and countrymen with flowers and a picnic.

The 230 tanks and armored personnel carriers carrying at least 1,200 troops passed over the border bridge spanning the Amu Darya River and into the Uzbekistan province village of Termez, about 200 miles north of Kabul, the Afghan capital.

A few Soviet families were present to greet their sons, the first of an estimated 115,000 Soviet troops to go home under the pullback, which began Sunday from Jalalabad and is expected to take nine months.

The withdrawal is part of a peace accord signed precisely a month ago in Geneva to end a war that began in 1979 when the Soviets invaded Afghanistan to prop up a faltering communist government under fire from U.S.-backed Moslem guerrillas.

More than a million people have been killed in the war and about 3 million Afghans have fled to Pakistan and Iran, where they live in refugee camps. The Soviets have suffered an estimated 50,000 soldiers killed and wounded.

The first soldier to return was Nikolai Novikov, 21, who rode across the bridge on an armored personnel carrier adorned with flowers. Cheering village residents welcomed the troops.

The most senior representatives from Moscow appeared to be Vladimir Sevruk from the Propaganda Department of the Communist Central Committee and Lt. Gen. Genady Stefanovsky from the Defense Ministry.

Col. Grigory Bondarev, a senior officer in the convoy, said no major incidents occurred during the convoy's trip from Jalalabad in eastern Afghanistan to Kabul and then on to the border.

"All who left Jalalabad arrived safe and healthy," he said. "I can tell you officially that there was no shooting from Jalalabad to Kabul and Kabul to Khairaton," the Afghan border village across the river from Termez.

Col. Alexei Gorokhov, chief military correspondent for the Communist Party newspaper Pravda who traveled with the convoy, said two or three rockets had fallen near the road about an hour after the convoy left Kabul Monday.

Having said that, Reagan added a partisan plug for Vice President George Bush, noting his Republican heir apparent had been placed in charge of drug surveillance and seizure operations in south Florida and along the border.

Among the legal actions Reagan identified as ripe for urgent review were capital punishment for drug-related murders and appointment of tougher judges to "send a loud, clear message to drug kingpins and cop-killers."

In a bid to head off Senate action to expand the Pentagon's role in fighting drugs — a plan Defense Secretary Frank Carlucci opposes — Reagan also directed Carlucci to "tap the best minds both inside and outside of government to come up with creative solutions" on how better to use the military in interdiction.

"One thing must be clear," he cautioned. "When it comes to the military, let's give them a clear mission for specific situations."

Reagan's speech to the 150 Coast Guard cadets originally was to have focused on the pending Moscow summit. But increasing attacks from Democrats and action in Congress on a flurry of drug-related initiatives prompted White House strategists to recraft his visit to place the focus squarely on drugs.

Soldiers replied, "Excellent," when asked how they felt about their safe arrival after traveling three days through Afghanistan. But many appeared tired as they stood for welcoming ceremonies after also having to wait through an official farewell in Afghanistan before crossing the border.

A small crowd of Afghans had bid them farewell, waving torn, second-hand flags that had been used at a similar parade in Kabul and ferried to the border aboard the same military plane that brought in Western journalists.

Asked how he felt at having to listen to more speeches in the heat after similar ceremonies in Jalalabad and Kabul, one soldier whispered:

"What do you think? I haven't slept for five days."

A woman who identified herself as Lyudmila, 30, a secretary from Termez, said before the parade she had been waiting eight months for her husband Nikolai, an officer. Married 11 years ago, she was wearing a white lace costume like a young bride.

"It's going to be like a second wedding," she said, adding their 10-year-old son would join the family for a feast of homemade pies at home Wednesday night.

Five Florida hotels earn high marks

MIAMI (UPI) — The American Automobile Association bestowed its top rating on five Florida hotels Wednesday, including Marnot's Harbor Beach Resort in Fort Lauderdale and the Ritz-Carlton in Naples, both first-time recipients.

Three other Florida hotels — the Boca Raton Hotel and Club in Boca Raton, The Breakers in Palm Beach and the Hyatt Regency Grand Cypress at Lake Buena Vista — also received five diamond awards during a ceremony in Dallas.

The rankings are listed in AAA's 1988 tourbooks.

The Harbor Beach Resort and Ritz-Carlton received four-diamond rankings in 1987.

Altogether, the AAA granted five-diamond ratings to 46 hotels and resorts in North America, or four less than last year. None of Florida's five-diamond resorts suffered a demotion this year, AAA spokesman Richard White said.

In January, The Breakers lost its coveted five-star ranking from the Mobil Travel Guide, another leading service for travelers, as did Cafe Chauveron restaurant in North Bay Village.

Mobil Travel Guide granted five-star rankings to three Florida establishments: The Boca Raton Hotel and Club, the Grand Bay Hotel in Miami and La Vieille Maison restaurant in Boca Raton.

The AAA rankings exclude restaurants. The group uses diamonds to rank hotels and motels on the basis of guest facilities, service and atmosphere.

This year, 1,230 properties received four-diamond rankings; 7,208 establishments received three diamonds; 7,721 properties won two diamonds and 2,647 establishments rated one diamond, AAA said.

The group began ranking hotels in 1909 and has used diamonds since 1977.

"The rankings appear next to a property's listing in the tourbook, so our members use the tourbook to select the accommodations that best suit their needs," White said.

AAA, a federation of 159 individual clubs, boasts 29 million members.

In Jackson assassination plot

Couple indicates others were involved

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Federal agents investigating a plot to kill Jesse Jackson are looking for links between violent white supremacist groups and the couple charged in the case, who reportedly claimed to be "a lower rung" in the assassination conspiracy.

Londell Williams, 30, who is charged in the case along with his wife Tammy, 27, told an informant that he was a low-level member of a group that was planning to kill the Democratic presidential candidate and had not been involved in planning the slaying. The New York Times reported today.

The couple, residents of Washington, Mo., were ordered held without bail Tuesday by U.S. Magistrate Carol Jackson pending grand jury action in the case.

They are charged in a federal complaint with conspiring to kill Jackson and possession of a fully automatic rifle not registered to them. The complaint said the AR-15 rifle was to be used in the assassination.

The charges are based in part on tape-recorded conversations in which Londell Williams is alleged to have claimed that the white supremacist group the Covenant, the Sword and the Arm of the Lord was plotting to kill Jackson because he was "getting too close to being president of the United States."

Officials said Londell Williams passed a lie detector test Tuesday in which he denied membership in the neo-Nazi group.

Federal officials are looking for links between the couple and the white supremacist group.

"We are seeking out every shred of evidence and talking to every person we can who might knew something," said Rich Adams, a spokesman for the Secret Service.

An unidentified investigator said Williams told the informant "that he was kind of a lower rung of this organization, and he certainly wouldn't be involved in the planning of an assassination," the Times said.

Londell and Tammy Williams were being held at the St. Clair County jail in Belleville, Ill., which is used to house suspects in federal custody, said Jay Foushee, agent in charge of the Secret Service's office in St. Louis.

An informant who was a neighbor of the couple told the Franklin County Sheriff's Department May 9 that the couple was conspiring to kill Jackson, the federal complaint said. The sheriff's office contacted the Secret Service, which began an investigation.

The informant, equipped with a hidden microphone, met a day later with Londell Williams, the complaint said. The carpenter told the informant he was a member of the Order and other white supremacist groups.

Members of the Order have been charged with the slaying of Denver talk show host Alan Berg and with conspiring to kill a number of federal judges. In Missouri, David Tate, a member of the Order, was convicted for the 1985 slaying in southwest Missouri of a highway patrol trooper who stopped his car.

"He said that on either June 21, 1988, or on July 4, 1988, they would execute Jesse Jackson as he was getting too close to being president of the United States," the complaint said.

Teamsters president has brain tumor removed

PHOENIX (UPI) — Doctors are expected to decide next week on further treatment for Teamsters President Jackie Presser, who is recovering from a cancer operation.

Surgeons at St. Joseph's Hospital and Medical Center Wednesday successfully removed a malignant tumor from Presser's brain.

"Jackie Presser underwent a successful removal of a metastatic intracranial metastatic tumor," hospital spokeswoman Debra Gelbart, said in a statement. "His surgeon, Dr. Robert Spetzler, reports that Mr. Presser tolerated the procedure well and is recovering without complications."

Gelbart said the hospital would not release further information concerning the controversial 62-year-old labor leader who is being treated at Barrow Neurological Institute, a part of St. Joseph's.

Metastatic intracranial tumors are caused by cancer that arises somewhere else in the body and then spreads or metastasizes to the brain, said Dr. John Potter, a professor of surgery at Georgetown University in Washington. In older men, the most common site of origin is in the lungs, he said.

Presser took a four-month medical leave of absence recently after undergoing radiation treatment at the Cleveland (Ohio) Clinic. Presser, who underwent surgery for lung cancer in 1987, was admitted to Barrow Neurological Institute on Saturday.

Concerned moms want world to mend its warlike ways

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of two small children, and like mothers all over the world, I am concerned about the possibility of a nuclear war. I'm just an ordinary person who doesn't know much about nuclear weapons, but I'm terrified when I look at my beautiful children and think what could happen to them in the event of a nuclear war. I love it to my children to do what I can so they can grow up and have families.

What can one concerned mother do? I feel so helpless and alone.

A VERY CONCERNED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: In 1965, Linda Smith, a young mother from La Jolla, Calif., visited the Vietnam Memorial in Washington, D.C., with her four daughters. She was so overwhelmed by the loss of life in that war—and the possibility of even greater losses in the event of a nuclear war—that she started an organization called MEND: Mothers Embracing Nuclear Disarmament.

MEND is a non-profit educational organization that produces and distributes educational material for concerned mothers just like you.

MEND has 1,900 members in the United States, Canada, West Germany and India. It has been endorsed and supported by some people whose names may be familiar to you: Norman Cousins, The Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, Jack Lemmon, Wallis Annenberg, Carl Sagan, Robin Williams, Joan Kroc, Jonas Salk and myself.

There is strength in numbers—and one ordinary person can make a difference by uniting with other "ordinary" people.

For information about joining MEND, write to: MEND, P.O. Box 23098, La Jolla, Calif. 92038.

because their husbands would not have a vasectomy.

Two years ago I decided that four children was enough and I did not want any more. I was 37 at the time with four children—ages 12, 10, 6 and 3. With my age and the fact that I have hypoglycemia, I did not feel I could go through another pregnancy. My husband was scared and reluctant to go through surgery, but because he loves me, he had a vasectomy.

Imagine what a shock it was to find out a few weeks ago that I am going to have another baby in September! My doctor said I am the third patient he has known who got pregnant after her husband had surgery—the chances are 1 in 900! So, all the women who push to get their husbands to have surgery should remember that it is not always 100 percent effective. (By the way, my husband is really excited about the baby and so am I, now that I'm over the shock.)

Trading light, prices dip

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened lower today in light trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 35.32 Wednesday, was down 7.96 to 1943.13 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 489-236 among the 1,170 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 8,081,700 shares.

Don R. Hays, director of investment strategy at Wheat, First Securities in Richmond, Va., said the market hit a "give-up phase." Wednesday characterized by extreme pessimism after stock prices broke through a key technical support level and then failed to rally on the March trade-deficit news.

Tuesday's trade report sounded renewed alarm bells about the pace of the economy's growth.

Greenback opens down; gold, silver prices up

LONDON (UPI) — The U.S. dollar dropped in Tokyo today then fell back at the opening of European foreign exchanges. The price of gold rose.

Dealers said that attention was turning to the weak performance of Wall Street and growing fears over U.S. inflation.

Gold was up in all markets, led by Hong Kong with a 3.25 increase. Gold opened in New York at 459.40, up 2.10. Silver opened at 6.715, up 0.03.

The greenback closed in Tokyo at 124.80 yen against 125.53. Traders there said the dollar was hit by remarks by former presidential adviser Martin Feldstein that the dollar could fall below 100 yen in the next three years, the Kyodo news service said.

The dollar opened in Frankfurt at 1.6990 marks against 1.7046, in Zurich at 1.4145 Swiss francs against 1.4212, in Paris at 5.7535 francs against 5.7710 and in Brussels at 35.70 Belgian francs against 35.81. In Milan the dollar opened at 1.26150 lire against 1.265.65.

U.S., Japan trade talks resume

TOKYO (UPI) — Bilateral trade talks with the United States resumed Thursday with no fixed discussions on ending import restrictions on beef and oranges, a Japanese official said.

"Vice Minister Yasuo Goto and U.S. Deputy Trade Representative Mike Smith will start a new round of talks at the official level," said Yoshifumi Matsuda, the chief spokesman for the Foreign Ministry.

"They may or may not continue the talks tomorrow," he said.

go any further. It's their turn," said Murakami.

The United States has pressured Japan to open its markets to beef and orange imports when its quotas on the products expired in March, but no agreement has been reached.

After talks broke down earlier this month, the United States filed a complaint against Japan with an international trade forum in Geneva but both sides they would prefer to settle the matter together.

charter. DeMarie defined "to appropriate" as "to raise funds," while Etchberger regarded it as assigning funds for a particular use in the budget.

One budget revision was a transfer of $54,088 from money budgeted for contingencies to pay for outside legal services to represent the city in suits brought by Florida Residential Communities and Risa Kay as well as before the police review board hearing the appeal of charges against Police Chief Greg Manning and Capt. Terry Baker.

Also transferred from the contingency budget was $12,500 for Etchberger's consulting services through the preparation of the budget, $10,500 to remove the old water tower and put in a small park on the site, and $50,900 for engineering fees.

Funds for the master lift station to pump city sewage to the county's Greenwood Lakes treatment facilities were included in last year's budget and when the project was delayed, $172,937 had to be appropriated from carry-over funds in the 1987-88 fiscal year budget.

At the regular meeting, DeMarie clarified an earlier statement during the work session that there was no additional revenue in the revised budget. In fact, he said, there is a net increase in the general fund budget from $4.5 million to between $4.6 and $4.7 million but it came from the surplus funds already raised and available in the city treasury.

Transfers totalling $18,381 had to be made from contingency funds to the purchasing department budget to cover the salary and increase in wages after six months' probation for the secretary and purchasing director. Additional transfers would cover the merit bonus deficit and the longevity pay which were not budgeted for the new purchasing department. Funds were moved from the city clerk's budget to the city attorney's budget because the city clerk's secretary was transferred to the city attorney's office.

Other adjustments were necessary because renovating the city hall and city hall annex cost more than had been budgeted and necessary computer maintenance was removed from last year's budget.

one teacher stand in for another should an instructor feel uneasy with the program. Another suggestion is to form a team of teachers who would teach only these topics and travel from school to school. This way he said the program would have teachers who were really concerned and dedicated to these issues.

Though the board is not voting on these issues, board member Pat Telson said she expects new courses will be added to the 1989-1990 school program. Telson also serves on the Sex Education Committee.

"The timing is right for these programs," Telson said. "I think we are probably the first county to tackle these issues in this fashion. With all the news on AIDS, we felt we'd better do something about it before it becomes a real problem in our schools."

The committee will recommend that information packets be available for parents. "Parents want to understand what were presenting in the school," Telson explained. "And, a lot of parents are concerned about how we will present these issues."

Recommendations are based on national surveys, related research, existing programs and curricula from other counties. Also, 10 percent of Seminole County families were surveyed regarding their feelings on sex education. Questionnaires were mailed to more than 4,000 parents. The results were strongly in favor of sex education for Seminole County students.

of a piece of land located at the corner of Airport Boulevard and Jewett Lane.

More recently, Sanford annexed another parcel of land adjacent to the Airport Boulevard-Jewett Lane property, after Seminole County indicated it would take legal action opposing it.

It was learned by the Herald that the U.S. Bureau of Prisons' land acquisition office conferred with city officials nearly five months ago concerning the city's 2,200 acres of land off State Road 46 near Lake Jessup as a proposed federal prison site.

It is not known who initiated the talks.

Jim Jones, director of the land acquisition office of U.S. Bureau of Prisons in Washington, met with City Manager Frank Faison and Sanford Dave Fatt, executive director of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce two weeks ago to discuss the proposed federal prison.

On June 2, 25 city and county officials will tour the federal prison in Tallahassee as part of an "educational tour," according to Jones.

The tour invitation letters were received late last week, according to Eckstein. Eckstein said Faison, Mayor Betty Smith, city engineer Bill Simmons, and the five city commission members received the invitations, along with Seminole County commissioners and County Sheriff John Polk.

It is not known how many will attend the tour.

"Typically, we want to educate local officials on just what is a federal prison and how its works as part of this educational tour," said Jones. "We visit federal prisons nearby."

Federal prisoners will come from every state, said Jones, but usually most are from the state where the prison is located. Typical prisoners are convicted of "white collar crimes" such as fraud and tax evasion, said Jones.

The prison would consist of two compounds on 200 acres and hold approximately 900 prisoners.

Jones said that the prison would employ about 300 people of which "50-65 percent would be hired locally."

the hospital.

An aide for State Rep. Art Grundle, R-Altamonte Springs, said the office had researched the project and determined since it is a federal facility there would be no impact as far as state legislators are concerned.

The Rev. Gary Isner, pastor of First United Methodist Church, Geneva, is opposed to the proposed location. "It's a bad location, if the prison would be the image people have of Geneva if it's built there. It's just something else there trying to push down on us. It's a constant fight to keep them from running this area. We have the landfill, then they wanted to spray sewage effluent and now a federal prison."

Isner said he has nothing against a federal prison being built in the county, but it should be in an undeveloped area.

Seminole County Jail Chaplain Charles Pitroff of Good News Jail and Prison Ministries said he doesn't think the proposed minimum security facility would have any impact on the community as far as posing a danger since most of the federal prisoners "there would have committed 'paper crimes'."

Although he ministers to federal prisoners housed in Seminole County Jail while awaiting trial or sentencing, Good News generally would not furnish chaplains for federal prisons. "They have paid chaplains and Good News doesn't accept government money," Pitroff said. His work is supported by gifts from Seminole County individuals and churches.

Jury finds Lehder guilty

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — A federal court jury convicted Colombian drug baron Carlos Lehder Thursday of running a billion-dollar smuggling network in a trial considered among the most important narcotics prosecutions in history.

The sequestered jury of eight women and four men deliberated for more than 43 hours over seven days before returning at 11:15 a.m. to announce they had found Lehder, 38, guilty of all counts in his 11-count indictment.

Co-defendant Jack Carlton Reed was convicted of the one count of conspiracy he faced, which could bring him a maximum of 15 years in jail and a $25,000 fine.

U.S. District Judge Howell W. Melton did not immediately schedule sentencing.

Truck, car collide after driver suffers heart attack

LONGWOOD — A Longwood man apparently had a heart attack Wednesday afternoon while driving west on State Road 434, and as he lay unconscious at the wheel, his car partially swerved onto a sidewalk, then across the road where he struck a delivery truck.

James Carney, 61, of Longwood, apparently had suffered a heart attack prior to the accident, Longwood paramedic Bill Clemens said. Clemens said Carney was unconscious, had no pulse and wasn't breathing when they arrived. Both his pulse and breathing were restored at the scene and he was transported to Florida Hospital-Altamonte, where he was listed in critical condition Thursday morning, police said.

Police Sgt. Tom Jackson said Carney apparently suffered the heart attack at about 4:50 p.m. as he was driving his late model Chrysler west on SR 434 near Savage Court. Jackson said the car partially swerved onto the sidewalk as witnesses looked on.

They reported to police seeing no one at the wheel.

Jackson said the car then swerved back into traffic, moved across the intersection of Warren Avenue and struck a Dolly Madison delivery truck head-on while it was waiting to make a turn. The van driver, Ronnie Cipponeri, 31, of Sanford, was unhurt in the accident.

the the scene today investigating the possible cause of the fire.

According to Lt. Doug Luce, there were no nearby structures and damage was restricted to the vacant home.

Battalion Chief B.C. Poovey was in charge at the scene.

Pistons eliminate Bulls, 102-95

DETROIT (UPI) — The next opponent facing the Detroit Pistons is time.

After that, either the Boston Celtics or Atlanta Hawks. The Pistons will have to wait, possibly until Sunday, to see which team to prepare for after the Hawks defeated the Celtics 112-104 at Boston to take a 3-2 lead in their Eastern Conference semifinal.

Detroit reached the conference final for the second straight year when it eliminated the Chicago Bulls with a 102-95 victory Wednesday night to take the best-of-seven series, 4-1.

"We're fortunate we got through the series," Detroit

NBA PLAYOFFS

Coach Chuck Daly said. "We did a good job. We've got some good basketball players. That's what allows you to get in this position. They've earned everything they've got."

The Pistons advanced by holding high-scoring Michael Jordan — who averaged 45 points against the Cleveland Cavaliers in the first round — to 24, 23, and 25 points to sweep the last three games.

"They have more experience and better personnel than we do right now," Chicago Coach Doug Collins said. "They've got a chance to win it. But they have to win two more series — and nothing's going to be given to them."

Detroit double- and triple-teamed Jordan, and Chicago didn't have enough experience or talent to take advantage of the situation. However, the Bulls showed promise in the final game with a lineup that included Horace Grant at center, Charles Oakley and Scottie Pippen at forwards, and John Paxson flanking Jordan at guard.

"We just got a taste of it," Jordan said. "Now we want to get back real quick — but within reason. I want to play a little golf now."

"I'm hoping that we're going to take this and springboard into next year with some confidence," Collins said, "because I was really proud of them. I was really pleased with our young kids."

Dopson gets first victory

United Press International Montreal's John Dopson Wednesday night earned his first major-league victory — three years after getting his first chance to do so. "I'm happy and glad it finally happened," said Dopson, after he and two relievers combined on a six-hitter to lift the Expos to a 3-0 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

NI. BASEBALL

enough to fool Andres Galarraga, who led off the second inning by belting a 3-1 pitch for his eighth homer. "Even after the home run, I felt we were going to win," Hershiser said. With one out in the eighth, Tim Wallach hit his third homer, a shot to left off reliever Alejandro Pena. Montreal added a run in the ninth on Herm Winingham's infield single with the bases loaded.

Orioles outlast Angels

United Press International With the American League West's two worst clubs on deck Baltimore interim skipper Ernie Langer could wind up as the first Orioles manager with a winning record in three years. Not that Frank Robinson doesn't have a chance, but since he's due to resume managing Saturday after being sidelined with a ruptured disk, his odds of turning around the 6-31 Orioles are very good.

AL BASEBALL

"I wish I could have run him (Aase) out in the ninth inning, but he did what I wanted," Hendricks said. "We don't want to rush him. He is too valuable a piece of property." Tigers 3, Brewers 1 At Milwaukee, Luis Salazar scored the go-ahead run on Teddy Higuera's ninth-inning bunt. Doyle Alexander, 4-2, scattered eight hits for the victory. He struck out seven and walked three in his third complete game of the season. Higuera, 3-3, gave up 11 hits in 8 1/3 innings.

walked three and struck out six. Scott Garrelts picked up his second save of the season. Bruce Ruffin, 3-4, was tagged for seven hits and walked five through five innings before being knocked out in the sixth. Reds 3, Braves 4 At Cincinnati, Dave Collins' two-strike suicide squeeze off Paul Assenmacher, 1-3, scored Barry Larkin with the go-ahead run in the seventh inning to lift the Reds. Jose Rijo, 5-1, the fourth Cincinnati pitcher, hurled four innings.

Hendricks was able to win thanks in large part to Don Aase. The one-time ace of the Orioles relief corps is trying to return from shoulder surgery that forced him to miss most of last season. With the Orioles leading 8-2, Baltimore rookie starter Jose Bautista, 1-2, and Doug Sisk failed to retire five straight Angels to open the eighth. Aase, who came off the disabled list last Tuesday, relieved, and yielded an RBI single to Johnny Ray that cut the Orioles lead to 8-5. Aase struck out Jack Howell with the bases loaded, and got Tony Armas and Butch Wynegar on fly balls. "It's the first game I've been in where the game is on the line," Aase said. "The one inning was all I could have pitched longer, but told Ernie it was his decision. I felt good, threw some fastballs good and some I overthrew. I gave it everything I had." Hendricks decided against using Aase in the ninth. Instead he turned to Tom Niedenfuer to save Bautista's first major-league victory. Niedenfuer ended up allowing two runs before earning his second save.

Texas has won 10 of its last 12. Red Sox 4, Athletics 1 At Boston, Mike Greenwell and Ellis Burks scored on pitcher Dave Stewart's throwing error to trigger a three-run seventh inning. Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd improved to 5-2. Lee Smith pitched the ninth for his fifth save. Stewart, 8-2, dropped his second consecutive decision. Indians 3, White Sox 1 At Cleveland, Joe Carter doubled in two runs with one out in the eighth inning to give the Indians their seventh victory in eight games. Tom Candiotti, 6-1, pitched his league-leading sixth complete game. Rookie right-hander Melido Perez, 3-1, took the loss. Royals 3, Twins 2 At Minneapolis, Danny Tarabull, Kurt Stillwell and Bo Jackson homered to support Bret Saberhagen, 5-4, who allowed eight hits, struck out four and walked four in pitching his fourth complete game. Minnesota starter Allan Anderson fell to 1-3.

Rare disease, PXE, always inherited

DEAR DR. GOTT: My wife and I recently lost our 26-year-old daughter who was, we thought, in excellent health. She did have pseudoxanthoma elasticum, which we thought was a skin disease. The medical examiner said the cause of death was narrow and diseased arteries of the heart, producing arrhythmia. Could we have prevented her passing? We also have an older daughter with "pseudo" and are very concerned about her and her daughter.

DEAR READER: Pseudoxanthoma elasticum (PXE) is a rare, inherited disorder of connective tissue, marked by a degeneration of elastic fibers in certain organs. The skin is primarily affected and shows exaggerated folds, inelasticity, growing and laxity. However, the disease can also attack the retinas, causing blindness, and the walls of the arteries.

Nearly all patients show the vascular complications of PXE. This results in virtual collapse of arteries, as they weaken from loss of elastic fibers. Hemorrhages may occur; also angina and hypertension are common consequences.

In view of the genetic basis of your daughter's disease, you and your husband were powerless to prevent her death. The prognosis of PXE depends on the severity and location of the arterial disease. At present, no treatment — other than supportive care — is available. I share your concern about your older daughter's future — and her child's. I think that you should ask for a conference with her doctor so that, perhaps, complications can be avoided and your family can be given a detailed explanation of PXE.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 71, diabetic and have a terrible vaginal odor. Are these factors related?

DEAR READER: Probably. Diabetics are particularly susceptible to infections, especially of the skin and vagina. Yeast vaginitis can cause a malodorous discharge. On the other hand, women returned to his hand with a second trump lead and ruffed out the last heart. He was able to return to his hand with a diamond ruff to draw trumps and run the remaining hearts. That was six doubled.

An initial trump lead would have allowed West to play a second trump when he was in with the queen of hearts, and the hand would have fallen apart for declarer. After the unfortunate choice of a spade, West could still have recovered. What he had to do was allow dummy's jack of hearts to win when the heart suit was first led. Once again, the communication for setting up the heart suit and getting back to the South hand to cash heart winners would have evaporated.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

When the opponents seem to be overboard, and you have the declarer's secondary suit apparently locked up, a trump lead is usually devastating. After West had a chance later to make an unusually great play. He missed this chance also, and then the declarer countered by making a great guess of his own.

South won dummy's ace of spades and played the jack of hearts, passing it to West's queen. Now West led a trump. Declarer won and led a heart, but not just any heart. He led the king West ducked, and a spade was thrown from dummy as East played the 10. Declarer led another heart and ruffed it with dummy's club king. He then returned to his hand with a second trump lead and ruffed out the last heart. He was able to return to his hand with a diamond ruff to draw trumps and run the remaining hearts. That was six doubled.

An initial trump lead would have allowed West to play a second trump when he was in with the queen of hearts, and the hand would have fallen apart for declarer. After the unfortunate choice of a spade, West could still have recovered. What he had to do was allow dummy's jack of hearts to win when the heart suit was first led. Once again, the communication for setting up the heart suit and getting back to the South hand to cash heart winners would have evaporated.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
MAY 20, 1988

Ventures or enterprises that you personally direct could be earmarked for success in the year ahead. Don't be afraid to take a chance on your own ideas.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your financial picture is starting to brighten up a bit. However, it's best not to use this as a sign to go on a spending spree. Major changes are ahead for Taurus in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail #1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Personal interests can be advanced today. Ways can now be found to overcome obstructions that have blocked your path for the past few days.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A situation about which you've been concerned looks like it is going to work out favorably, provided it is free from interference from others as well as yourself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't worry too much about the material aspects of a new venture in which you're involved. If you put the other pieces together properly, everything will fall into place.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Success will not elude you today if you are both bold and constant. Once you establish an objective, don't let your eyes drift from your target.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You are presently in a very positive cycle, so don't lower your expectations. If you want something badly enough, you can figure out ways to acquire it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your chances for gratifying an ambitious interest is likely to be better today than it will be tomorrow. Pull out the stops and go for your goals.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec.

21) If there is a matter you have thoroughly studied, move on it now instead of reflecting on it further. This is a time for action, not contemplation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Something you're presently working on with another could turn out to be very rewarding, even though it may not be obvious at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Conditions will be much more harmonious for you today where two valued relationships are concerned. Minor differences can be easily mended.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is a good day to tie up loose threads and finalize projects that you've left dangling. You might even surprise yourself as to how much you can do.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today, you may be the recipient of some good news. It could come to you through someone with whom you're becoming very friendly socially.
