DEBARY — The driver of a tractor-trailer truck that was killed by a CSX freight train Monday afternoon has been identified by the Florida Highway Patrol.

Jeffrey Raymond Andrews, 34, of Allamonte Springs was killed shortly after 5 p.m. on U.S. Highway 17-92 at the entrance to the Florida Power and Light power station. A FHP dispatcher said Andrews was backing over the CSX lines when he was struck by a CSX freight train driven by Robert Walton of Sanford.

Alcohol was not a factor in the accident, according to an investigator's report. Charges are pending.

Judge nominees interviewed

SANFORD — The nine-member Judicial Nominating Commission of the Eighteenth Judicial Circuit will convene in Sanford City Hall Wednesday to interview 31 applicants to fill vacancies in a circuit and a county judge's position.

Two bench vacancies were created this year when Seminole County Judge Harold F. Johnson, 61, died last month and Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. announced he will retire Dec. 31 after 12 years on the bench.

Seven applicants have applied for Davis' seat and another seven have applied for Johnson's bench. Another 17 people have applied for either position.

Among the applicants for the circuit vacancy are Seminole County Judge Wallace H. Hall and Sanford lawyer Ned Jullian.

Among the applicants for county judge are chief Seminole County public defender Marlene Alva and two assistant state attorneys, Bob Killfeather and Anne Elizabeth Richards-Rutberg.

Among the applicants for either position are Altamonte Springs lawyer Ken Bevan. Also applying are Lake Mary lawyer Joe Rosier and assistant state attorney Charles Tabscott.

Correction

Due to a reporter's error, an article in Sunday's Sanford Herald stated that Sanford police corporal Darrell L. Brewer had been subject to disciplinary action. The article intended to state that corporal Darrel Presley had been subject to city discipline. Brewer's personnel files indicate he has never been disciplined in more than 13 years of service.

Surprise for the needy

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A windfall from the state will mean county relief services for nearly 70 more people facing a financial crisis.

Irene Quintana, Seminole County social services officer, said the county recently received an additional $8,757 from the state Department of Community Affairs for emergency aid programs. The county had already received $60,189 from the DCA program. As a result of the bonus, the county will be able to provide emergency housing, utility and medical payments for the needy, she said.

"We will be able to serve many more people with this," Quintana said.

Quintana said the program is not targeted at homeless people or prevention of homelessness, but those facing a medical crisis or company closing that may have resulted in lost wages. The county has a separate $41,600 program for people facing eviction or foreclosure.

"Most people in this program can manage with one-time help," Quintana said.

The county had previously allocated $22,726 for one-time emergency rent and mortgage assistance, enough to pay 75 families up to $301. Quintana said. With $2,919 from the new money, an additional 10 families.

Another $2,919 from the windfall will be allocated for emergency utility payments. Quintana said.

Power-line burial resurfaces again

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The undergrounding of power lines on Lake Mary Boulevard will be discussed this Wednesday evening. The Seminole County Engineer however, says the project has already reached a point of no return.

The question of costs for the undergrounding of power lines will be brought back before the Lake Mary City Commission during a Special Called meeting this Wednesday evening.

During several City Commission meetings in the past few months, a number of citizens have voiced concern over the cost of the project, as well as the upkeep after it was finished. Some have seen as a waste of money, while others have commented that it added to the beautification of the area.

The matter to be discussed during the special meeting is whether or not to request the City Manager to investigate costs and other considerations associated with the possibility of reversing the City's decision to underground the power lines. Since the City voted in favor of the project, one seat on the Commission has changed, with burial-project supporter Tom Mahoney now replaced by A.R. "Doc" Jore.

During his political campaigning, Jore was critical of the project. "Lake Mary has only paved one road in the past 14 years, they kept putting it off," he said, "but they saw fit to spend $1.3 million to bury power cables."

In a letter sent to Lake Mary City Manager John Litton, Seminole County Engineer Jerry McCollum has said the undergrounding has already "reached the point of no return."

He explained, "Florida Power Corporation has on site, or en route to the site, about two-thirds of the conduit and pull boxes needed to accomplish the underground relocation utility. Based on my conversations with FPC representatives, their vendor would probably not accept the return of the material, and FPC does not have another project where these materials could be utilized."

McCollum continued, "Therefore, approximately $300,000 would be 'sunk' into the project for materials alone." He also explained that construction already underway had placed about one-third of the cable underground, which, if the project were dropped now, would have reached a conservative estimate of "closer to $500,000, depending on material ordered and actual construction."

The city has already decided in favor of the burial as part of a $3 million bond project, which includes parks and other improvements, the cost of the actual burial continues to be a matter of concern.

Regarding the joint agreement, McCollum said a cancellation would, "...require the City to retract its direction to me and the Board of County Commissioners to rectify that retraction before I can retract my direction to Florida Power Corporation."

County wrestles with drainage fees

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners will meet for a second time during the next few days to decide whether to pursue a tax and fee combination to pay for drainage maintenance and improvements.

Only commissioner Bob Sturm was ready Tuesday to authorize county staff prepare a stormwater management financing system to include a countywide property tax of 16 cents per $1,000 of taxable property and $2 per month unincorporated fee.

Commissioners Larry Furlong and Pat Warren balked at the proposal and Fred Streetman was undecided. Because commissioner Jennifer Kelley was unable to attend the meeting due to an illness, commissioners will meet again when she returns in an effort to reach a consensus. If commissioners give the go-ahead this month, formal approval would be scheduled for March 1992. The assessments would take effect Oct. 1, 1992.

The county, along with each city, are required by state growth management requirements and federal water quality mandates to address drainage systems. Each city is reviewing their drainage needs and commissioners in Sanford, Longwood and Altamonte Springs have already adopted monthly fees to pay for the drainage expenses.

County staffers estimated the costs of a minimal drainage maintenance and improvement program at $15.6 million for the next five years. That amount would pay for only one-third of the maintenance costs and a quarter of the improvements known to be needed, officials said.

To pay for the program, staffers proposed a two-tiered financing method which would include a countywide tax estimated at 16 cents per $1,000 of taxable property and $2 per home in the unincorporated areas. Staffers proposed the countywide tax increase to raise about $2.8 million during the first year to begin a countywide drainage maintenance program coordinated.

Sanford backs off citrus plan

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The city has 270 acres of land in the Geneva area being used as a reclaimed water irrigation facility. What to do with it has become a problem.

During Monday night's City Commission meeting workshop, City Manager Bill Simmons announced results of a proposal to use the land for citrus growing on a lease or cooperative venture. Commissioner Whitey Eckstein was firmly against it. "The City doesn't need to go into the citrus business," he commented.

Several months ago, the City advertised for statements of interest and qualifications from firms interested in either leasing the property for grove development, or providing grove operation and maintenance service. Simmons observed, "The lease agreement would have been more attractive to the City in terms of initial costs."

Only three responses were received, all addressing the operation and maintenance alternative, with only one of the three indicating a proposed lease for only a small part

"I think it would be risky, and I don't think the taxpayers need that risk."

-Whitey Eckstein

of the area. Simmons recommended the Commission authorize the staff to negotiate a 5 year operation and maintenance contract with one of the respondents.

"I will not support this," Eckstein commented. "No one thought it was worth looking into on a lease arrangement. I think it would be risky, and I don't think the taxpayers need that risk."

The Commissioner commented, "If we could get into a lease arrangement, it wouldn't cost us (the City) anything, but with an operation and maintenance service, we would probably have to float a $1.1 million dollar bond in order to buy the trees and get the grove established. That's asking us to spend a lot of money we shouldn't have to do."

Eckstein added, "All it would take is a frost and the project would be wiped out. The city just doesn't need that type of risk, when we could possibly use the land for other purposes such as growing hay or some other crop that would not be susceptible to a freeze."

Commissioner Lon Howell commented he felt the same way about the project.

Simmons reported, "If the City doesn't go this way, we will still have a lot of expense to establish a crop that would be acceptable by the DER."

In using the land for a reclaimed water irrigation facility, the City had agreed to a Department of Environmental Regulations requirement that the land must be used for agricultural.

Both Commissioners Howell and Bob Thomas agreed that options other than citrus growing should be explored before the City agrees to allow use of the land.

During the regular City Commission meeting later in the evening, Mayor Bettye Smith explained that the matter had been placed on hold, with the City Manager instructed to seek other options for the use of the land.

City backs shopping plaza fight

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Sanford City Commission has agreed to support a plaza in its plea for elimination of a retention pond requirement. The engineering firm for the K-Mart expansion and Food Lion construction says they cannot build unless the requirement is lifted.

When the K-Mart plaza shopping center was first built in 1979, all regulations had been followed. Since that time however, the St. John's River Water Management District, SJRWMD, has added a requirement of a pre-treatment stormwater retention pond to be built on the property.

A. Tom Harb, who heads the engineering firm designing the project, told City Manager Bill Simmons that the cost of meeting the requirement would work an economic hardship on the city.

United wins Pan Am assets at auction

NEW YORK — The nation's two largest air carriers are poised to go head-to-head in Latin America now that United Airlines has picked up most of the remnants of Pan American World Airways in a bankruptcy court auction.

United made a winning bid of $135 million late Monday night for the Latin American operations that gave Pan Am its start in international aviation 64 years ago.

As United, the nation's second-largest airline, gets into those markets, it will compete with archrival American, which now flies into South America on routes purchased from defunct Eastern Airlines.

United had tried to buy the Pan Am routes last summer. But the Chicago-based carrier was edged out when Delta Air Lines agreed to buy most of Pan Am's trans-Atlantic operations in a deal that was also supposed to have gotten Pan Am out of bankruptcy court.

Delta backed out of a financing package at the last minute, saying last week that Pan Am was too sick to be saved. Pan Am folded the next day and the auction of its remaining assets was ordered by U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Cornelius Blackshear.

Goya painting brings $600,000

MIAMI — A 23-year-old man from Puerto Rico paid $600,000 at an art auction for an original work by the Spanish painter Francisco de Goya.

Bidders spent about $2.1 million for artwork at the auction Sunday organized by Sterling Marketing, said Rey Zamora, the company's art adviser.

There were more than 400 works for sale, most of it the property of banks and art collectors.

Elberto Berdud came from San Juan to buy The Countess of Haro, by Goya.

"The painting is exceptional," he said. "I could bid up to $600,000 or even a million dollars for it. That's what it will be worth some day."

Berdud said he recently traveled to Madrid to check on the painting, which was given a certificate of authenticity by the chief of restoration at the Prado Museum there.

Paintings by Cuban artist, including the late painters Rene Portocarrero, Carlos Alfonso and Amelia Pelaez, also sold well, Zamora said.

"For the first time in Florida, Cuban paintings have sold at the price they go for in New York," said one buyer who spent more than $40,000 for five Cuban paintings and did not want to be identified.

Bikers donate toys to needy

POMPANO BEACH — More than 4,000 tough-looking, toy-toting bikers in black leather pulled into this Broward County community to prove they do more than swill beer and make a lot of noise.

The bikers from throughout South Florida gathered at a Pompano Beach shopping plaza Sunday to donate toys and raise money for needy children.

"It shows the general public that these people aren't just drinking beer and wrecking their bikes and don't care about what's going on in the world," said motorcyclist Patti Zoratti, 32, of West Palm Beach. "It shows they do care."

"We want to let the people out there know we're trying to do some good," said Joseph Ferraro, owner of the Brothers III motorcycle shop at the shopping plaza.

Ferraro's shop was a sponsor of the charity toy run, with other companies including NAPA Auto Parts.

Last year, the event raised about $20,000 for the Children's Cancer Caring Center at Jackson Memorial Hospital in Miami. This year, Ferraro said, the group intended to double that.

Speakers testify against AIDS testing

TALLAHASSEE — Mandatory AIDS testing of health care workers would do far more harm than good, a parade of speakers told a special legislative panel.

The testimony in a small committee room in the state Capitol came late Monday as visitation hours were held for Kimberly Bergalis, the first of five people known to have been infected with AIDS during a medical procedure.

Miss Bergalis died Sunday at the age of 23. In September she had traveled to Washington to ask Congress to mandate AIDS testing of health care professionals.

The legislative Task Force on AIDS Oversight listened to more than a dozen people, many of whom called Miss Bergalis' death a tragedy, but urged that it not be used as a reason for testing health workers.

The task force took no action Monday night. Members agreed they would have to meet again before issuing their report because of new federal rules on acquired immune deficiency syndrome and health care workers are still pending.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Health care reform top priority

By PAT LINDSEY
Associated Press Writer

TAMPA — Health care reform is a top priority for Florida, and the leading issue for the nineties, Gov. Lawton Chiles told a national democratic health care panel.

"It's hard to believe that in Florida we spend over $31 billion in health care, yet we still have close to 2.5 million people, or 18 percent of the entire population, without health care coverage," Chiles told the Democratic Policy Committee at a hearing in Tampa Monday.

Chiles called on Congress to remove federal obstacles and give states the flexibility to administer programs, including Medicare for seniors. It would result in greater access to individuals and at lower cost, the governor said.

It's hard to believe that in Florida we spend over $31 billion in health care, yet we still have close to 2.5 million people, or 18 percent of the entire population, without health care coverage.

-Gov. Lawton Chiles

Chiles was the lead witness during the first of five regional hearings by the committee to gather views on comprehensive health care reform.

Senate majority leader George Mitchell and Democratic Sen. Bob Graham of Florida, Jay Rockefeller of West Virginia and recently-elected Harris Wofford of Pennsylvania took testimony from individuals, business leaders, health-care providers and state and local officials.

The panel traveled today to Atlanta, then heads to Detroit, Cleveland and Denver this week.

"I believe every citizen in a democratic society has a fundamental right to good health care. It is not a privilege reserved for a few," Mitchell said. "One of the most important problems Americans face today is the growing crisis in our health care system."

No matter what form a comprehensive reform package takes, it must ensure access to health care for all Americans, include significant cost containment strategies and emphasize preventive measures, Mitchell said.

Woman raped, strangled

Associated Press

LEESBURG — A woman whose body was found under some leaves near Wekiva Falls had been raped, severely beaten and strangled before she was discovered by a hiker, an autopsy reported showed.

Investigators concluded Monday that a black bear probably did not drag the unidentified woman's body away from a Land Rover reported stolen from Osceola County, as they earlier believed.

Investigators believed that a bear had left claw marks on the woman's body when the animal dragged it from a remote location off a dirt road off County Road 433 between Wekiva Falls and Mount Plymouth.

But on Monday, authorities said they believe that the wounds were inflicted during the woman's rape and strangulation.

Presidential nomination race is on

Nebraska senator looks for win here

By BRENT KALLESTAD
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Scrambling to improve his standing with Florida Democratic regulars by Sunday's straw ballot, Nebraska Sen. Bob Kerrey hooked up with several reporters to talk about what kind of president he'd be.

But first there is the matter of winning his party's nomination. Kerrey said Monday he plans on winning the Florida presidential primary March 10, although he doesn't expect to capture the straw ballot vote at the state Democratic convention.

"I hope I do well," said Kerrey. "I have no expectation of finishing first in it."

Many Democratic regulars project Kerrey's Senate colleague, Tom Harkin of Iowa, and Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton to finish 1-2 in the non-binding ballot followed by Kerrey and former Massachusetts Sen. Paul Tsongas.

Two other presidential hopefuls, former California Gov. Jerry Brown and Virginia Gov. Douglas Wilder, do not plan to take part in the weekend activities.

Kerrey, who spoke with reporters in a telephone conference call from Washington, D.C., said the candidate with the best message on health care stands a good chance of winning the presidency in 1992.

"We've been sitting in Dr. Bush's waiting room for 12 years while costs are running off the chart," said Kerrey.

"I don't expect President Bush to come up with anything terribly dramatic," said Kerrey. "He'll come up with something cosmetic to survive the election."

Kerrey, who has filed a health care bill in the Senate, said skyrocketing costs have put medical care out of reach for many Americans.

"Health care is a crucial economic as well as humanitarian issue," said Kerrey.

The senator also criticized Bush for his handling of the Haitian situation.

Republicans: Duke won't be put on ballot

Associated Press

TAMPA — State Republican Party officials say they don't intend to submit David Duke's name for the Florida presidential primary, a newspaper reported today.

Republican Party Chairman Van Poole "is not predisposed to putting Mr. Duke on the ballot," spokesman Stan Smith said Monday. "We view him Duke as a charlatan."

Smith said the controversial Louisiana politician's campaign is nothing more than an attempt to collect federal matching campaign funds so he will "not have to work for a living."

Poole couldn't be reached for comment Monday.

Smith's remarks made to The Tampa Tribune for a story in today's editions brought a caustic response from Duke's campaign.

"The Russians just threw out a system that was controlled by party bosses. It seems that the Republican Party has a lot of admiration for the old Soviet-style politics," said Duke aide Marc Ellis.

Ellis appears the Florida GOP doesn't trust Republicans to make the decision. Maybe they're afraid of George Bush losing," Ellis said.

Duke, a former neo-Nazi and Ku Klux Klan leader, said he wants to counter what he views as the Republican Party's leftward tilt.

A vehement opponent of affirmative action and school busing, he garnered 39 percent of the vote in Louisiana's November gubernatorial election.

Under Florida law, parties will submit to the secretary of state by the end of this month a list of their presidential candidates. Then on Jan. 7, the state's Presidential Selection Committee will choose which names will be on the ballot.

Those excluded have until Jan. 14 to appeal to the committee, which will meet two days later to consider challenges. Anyone still excluded after the second meeting would have to fight the decision in court.

Ellis said the Duke campaign would fight the Republican of-

Young musicians need backing

By VICKI BUCHHEIM
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — A group of third, fourth and fifth grade musicians from Longwood Elementary School, 840 Orange Ave. in Longwood, has been selected to perform at the International Jazz Convention in Miami in January, but they may not be able to make the trip due to a shortage of money.

The JADA (Jazz Against Drug Alliance) Kittens, in its second year at the school. It is a cooperative effort between the school and the Central Florida Community Jazz Center.

The program was started by the Jazz Center and the University of Central Florida Department of Music Education to give youngsters an alternative activity to keep them away from drugs.

The JADA Kittens need $3,000 to make the trip to Miami where they would be the only elementary school group to perform. To date, they have only been able to collect $700.

"These kids have a dream," Cheryl Hopper, a spokesman for the group said. "We can't let them down."

Hopper said she realizes that a tight economy and the proximity to the Christmas holiday will make it difficult for anyone to make a large donation to their cause, but hopes the community will support their various fundraising activities.

On Saturday, Dec. 14 from 8 a.m. until noon, they will be having a car wash at the Barnett Bank on State Road 436, across the street from the Altamonte Mall. The bank is giving the youngsters the use of their parking lot for the day and they hope to be able to send supporters away with clean cars.

They can gather up a trunk full of Christmas gifts at a garage sale at the school at the same time that day.

In addition to the car wash there will be an antique car show featuring more than a dozen classic automobiles at the Barnett Bank location.

The JADA Kittens meet to practice twice a week and learn about self-esteem and social interaction as well as music. The youngsters in the group are chosen for their musical ability, personal commitment and the desire to play jazz music.

"It's a wonderful program for these youngsters," Hopper said. Hopper said that 300 businesses are also being asked to donate $10 apiece as corporate sponsors of the group.

"That's lunch for two," she said. "They could make 28 kids very happy without breaking their budgets."

The contributions should be made out to Longwood Elementary School and they are tax deductible donations.

The two were charged with burglary to a conveyance, and grand theft. They are being held at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility on $5,000 bond.

Cocaine arrest made

A Sanford Police informant reported making a drug purchase Friday. After the drug was proven to be crack cocaine, officers served a warrant Sunday, for the arrest of the accused seller, Duane Jerrod Jackson, 17, who was located at his home, 1002 W. 10th Street in Sanford.

Upon conducting a search of his Jackson's home, officers also located 15 pieces of what proved to be crack cocaine, and three handguns, all loaded, police reported. One of the guns was listed as stolen, according to police.

While the investigation is continuing, Jackson is expected to be charged in connection with the drug sale as well as possession of a stolen firearm.

Residential burglary reported

The Seminole County Sheriff's office is investigating a residential burglary at 2471 Church Street, in Midway, reported early Sunday. The home, owned by Sidney J. Williams, of 2410 Water Street in Midway, was unoccupied and under construction at the time of the break-in. Deputies report entry was made through a front window. Over $1,000 worth of items were reported missing including a welding machine, telephone and answering machine, authorities said.

Warrant served on Sanford man

Sanford Police officers served a warrant Sunday on Donald Keith Brewer, 35, of 15 Palm Tree Apartments Sanford. Brewer was wanted for failing to appear to answer charges of failing to re-deliver a hired vehicle.

Improper driving in parking lot

Virgil Lee Hinkle, 20, of 1237 Upsala Road, Sanford, was arrested by Sanford Police officers Sunday. Hinkle was reportedly seen skidding and driving in circles, in the Walmart Plaza parking lot. After he was chased by an officer, he was stopped near Taylor Rental, 3215 Oak Drive, in Sanford. Hinkle was charged with reckless driving, fleeing and eluding a police officer, and driving with a suspended drivers license.

Movie set in Sanford draws attention

SANFORD — Wilder Nepalm, a motion picture to be filmed in the Sanford Plaza parking lot area continues to draw attention to passers-by. The movie company has been constructing a mock carnival set for use in the film, for several weeks.

Additional set construction was underway again this morning. Portions of the set have been seen in the parking area of the plaza for several weeks.

The J.C. Penney store is next to the filming area. Store Manager John Valiquette said, "While the construction of the set is going on all the time, I believe filming isn't scheduled to start until about January 8th."

According to initial information concerning the movie set at the plaza, the carnival will eventually be blown up and destroyed as part of the film. The exact date for that has not been released as yet.

Valiquette is very pleased with the attention given to the set, as well as the movie itself. "It's really something," he commented, "the movie setting is really interesting to look at, and it's drawing people into the plaza for shopping."

Among others, Valiquette said, "The movie stars Debra Winger and Jim Varney, and I'm hoping they will be here during the filming."

Boating mishap to be featured on TV tonight

By MIKE PFENPAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Sanford lakefront will appear on TV screens tonight. Rescue-911, to be telecast on CBS, will highlight a boat rescue during its feature segment.

Several members of the Seminole Power Squadron will be featured in the program. The segment was videotaped on Lake Monroe just offshore from the Holiday Inn during May of this year.

The actual rescue took place on Dec. 2, 1990, during the running of the Red Lobster Cup Regatta. Guy Adkins, piloting one of the 578 boats entered in the event, was trapped when his boat capsized. He became tied by the mast lines and was held under water until members of the Power Squadron were able to come to his rescue.

The producers had planned to run the segment earlier this year, but reportedly waited until Dec. 10, to coincide with the running of the 1991 Florida Citrus Sailfest, the name now used for the event.

Rescue-911 will be telecast Tuesday night, beginning at 8 p.m., on the CBS Television Network, Channel 6 in the Central Florida area.

Reform or limits?

Time and again, Congress has refused to adopt campaign finance reforms, mainly because the current system helps insulate incumbents against serious challenges. Not surprisingly, lawmakers have been in a duck-and-cover position ever since President Bush proposed a comprehensive campaign reform measure that would give challengers something close to a fair chance.

The president's plan would outlaw political action committees supported by corporations, labor unions and trade associations. These PACs account for approximately 90 percent of the tens of millions of dollars in congressional campaign contributions made during each election cycle. But the prospect of losing this money causes panic among lawmakers, most of whom are heavily dependent on special-interest cash.

The vast majority of PAC dollars go to incumbents. During the last election, for instance, PACs doled out nearly $8 to incumbents for every $1 given to challengers. Is this glaring disparity because special interests hold incumbents in such high regard? Or does it reflect an investment in pliable lawmakers?

Consider, for example, the medical community's large investment in California's congressional delegation. During the last 10 years, the state's 45 House members have received more than $3.2 million from medical industry PACs. Now that national health care has become such a hot topic, the contributions are likely to increase substantially.

Meanwhile, many lawmakers devote an inordinate amount of their time to soliciting special-interest contributions.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., is a prime example. He collected nearly $1 million from Irvine savings and loan operator Charles Keating in return for favors. Keating conceded as much two years ago when he observed that he certainly expected to buy influence with his large contributions.

In light of the long shadow cast by the Keating Five scandal, senators may become less blatant about accepting cash in exchange for their services. Even before Cranston was reprimanded by the Ethics Committee, the Senate had shown some willingness to adopt reforms. But the House still is hauling in PAC money at a record rate. And House Democrats even are redistributing it among their colleagues.

The Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, chaired by Rep. Vic Fazio of Sacramento, Calif., has devised a scheme to funnel the unused campaign funds from some incumbents to those who need the money more.

Mr. Bush's plan would discourage such cash transfers by banning the carryover of campaign funds from one election to the next. In December 1990, following the last congressional elections, the surplus cash held by House members alone amounted to nearly $100 million. Given this monstrous financial advantage, is it any wonder that incumbents are so rarely defeated when they seek re-election?

Earlier this year the Senate narrowly approved a measure to outlaw PACs. But the ban stands little chance of being approved in the House, whose members must face the voters every two years and therefore are more dependent on the perpetual money machine.

American voters know how the current campaign finance system corrupts the legislative process. And if Congress continues to duck this issue, it will invite the Draconian remedy of term limits.

How about warning on condoms?

Somewhere today, I'm sure, the Devil is laughing himself silly. Humanity's oldest enemy has actually managed to bring things to a point where various municipalities and charitable organizations are handing out fresh needles to drug addicts, and New York City's public schools have begun giving free condoms to high school students on request.

I understand the rationale, of course. Unprotected sex and the use of unclean needles when injecting heroin are the two principal avenues whereby AIDS is spread. Public warnings to this effect having proved pitifully inadequate, the next step (so it is reasoned) is to make safer practices as easy as possible. Hence, the free needles and condoms.

Opponents of these steps insist students should be told that only sexual abstinence can guarantee against infection by the sexual route, but they seem to have less to say to hardened drug users. "Just say no" may be sound advice to a teen-ager being tempted by that first marijuana cigarette, but it isn't likely to resonate very loudly in the deep-fried brain of a heroin addict.

Still, just how practical would it be to rely, in the case of sexually active students, on a recommendation that they cut out sex altogether? Anyone familiar with the world "as it really is" these days will recognize the gamble as a pretty desperate one. In many areas and levels of society, the peer pressures on teenagers to indulge in sex are almost overwhelming. Total abstinence is almost unimaginable.

Well then, how about printing a warning on every condom package, describing the risks and at least recommending abstinence? Something like this:

"WARNING: Ten percent of all condoms fail to give protection against the transmission of AIDS, which is incurable and results in cancer, pneumonia or dementia, and death. The Surgeon General stresses that the only sure way to avoid sexual transmission of the AIDS virus is to abstain from sexual activity altogether, outside of an initially uninfected and wholly faithful marriage."

Describe the risks and at least recommend abstinence?

If we care enough about the lives of cigarette smokers to insist on printing comparable warnings on every pack of cigarettes and in every ad for them, how can we do less for our teenagers when they are faced with the horrors of a disease that will kill millions of them before (if ever) it can be halted?

Having made that modest suggestion, however, let me disabuse you at once: It isn't going to happen. It won't happen because there's a hidden agenda here that dares not speak its name.

The modern secular mind rejoiced at the "sexual revolution" of the 1960s. It was, in fact, a logical outcome of the moral relativism that had inundated the West after the Enlightenment captured men's imaginations and seemed to render God irrelevant. "If it feels good, do it" became the only guiding principle of millions of people.

Into this Eden crept the snake of AIDS. It has put a terrible price on the sort of sexual conduct that became popular in many quarters during the 1960s and '70s.

"He thinks we're the last of the Amazon Stone Age tribes to be discovered. I don't have the heart to ask him how the William Kennedy Smith trial is going."

The roles for past and present

BOSTON — As we were getting ready to celebrate the golden anniversary of a dark day, images of the past are already oozing up like oil from the hulk of the USS Arizona.

The Movietone news shots of Zeros and subs and ships in flames were out of storage. There were interviews with survivors. A grandfather remembered a friend who died on the deck beside him and cried as if he were 19 and not 69.

The elders who were at home told about the day the world exploded into their America-first living rooms. Where were you when you heard?

It looked like December 7, 1991, was a day to relive the infamy.

But there are other snapshots as well for this 50th anniversary. At Pearl Harbor, a former Navy aircraft mechanic who survived the attack, guides visitors around the memorial. These people come from Tokyo as well as Toledo. "It was a long time ago," he tells a reporter. "Too long for hate to linger."

On the mainland, those who remember the war and their grandchildren watch the reruns of this grim "opening day" on Japanese-made television sets with Japanese-made cars in the garage. And while some grumble — "who won the war?" — few think of the Japanese as enemies.

As an American born too late for such memories, I hear all sorts of mixed messages in this orgy of history. But the ones that resonate the most in our world are about the moral costs of both forgetting and remembering the past. History is alive, not just in the Pacific, but in Eastern Europe and the Middle East and everywhere people wrangle over wrongs.

Remember "Remember Pearl Harbor?" The price of forgetting any searing moment is the fear that we'll do some injustice to innocent lives that were lost or forever changed. Making bygones into by-gones can weaken the claim victims have on our collective sympathy. One cataclysm settles back into what we call historic perspective...that endless sequence of cataclysms.

But remembering with an intensity that remains undiminished over time and generations, destined people to live in the past. We become the curators of our ancestors' grievances.

What was the George Santayana line? "Those who cannot remember the past are condemned to repeat it." Well, those who remember too well are also condemned to repeat it. To be stuck in feuds far more ancient than the Hatfields and McCoys.

In this, the year of our 50th anniversary, the Serbs and Croats are murdering each other, calling up ancient hostilities from as long ago as 800 years. In the rest of Eastern Europe where history itself was occupied by the Soviets, ethnic hostilities have re-emerged, dangling their roots. And those are modern memories compared to the biblical datelines over land disputes in the Middle East.

There is no excuse for sending the past down the memory hole. The final assault of the Holocaust is the "revisionists" denial of the Holocaust. Even a Toyota-driving American is uneasy hearing that the young Japanese know more about Hiroshima than about Pearl Harbor. Not long ago, a Japanese professor told of a junior high school student who thought Pearl Harbor was where her countrymen dive for Mikimoto pearls. But how do any of us acknowledge the past and honor it without being trapped in it?

Historian Carol Gluck at Columbia University makes the case for three Rs: remembrance, reflection and responsibility. "We don't want to transmit all the burdens of the past," she says. "We're not looking for a constant open wound. What we need is remembrance for those who died and the 'day that will live in infamy.' We need reflection for understanding how it really happened. We need to take responsibility for the past and therefore the present and future."

This is especially true on this anniversary. In all likelihood, this President will be the last to have fought in World War II. Pearl Harbor is becoming a geriatric memory now, on its way to history.

It may be the veterans who pass the best message about history to the next generations. Like the guide on the Arizona, most of them have passed through the fourth R, reconciliation.

In the past half-century the Japanese and the Americans, separately and together, have filled a new memory bank. Not always an easy task, but without amnesia or vengeance. So, remember Pearl Harbor in its proper place: the past.

Acknowledge the past and honor it without being trapped in it.

Taxpayers foot campaign bills

WASHINGTON — It doesn't matter that voters are disillusioned and disgusted with the electoral process. Tax dollars will still pay for the Democratic and Republican conventions in 1992 — the Great American Shindig.

Congress and the White House make a show of wrangling over shaving pennies from the deficit, but nobody barked when the Treasury wrote $10.6 million in checks to both parties to make sure they can throw lavish conventions next summer — conventions that are all show and no substance.

Nor will anyone in power in Washington object when the two surviving presidential candidates receive $110 million for their personal campaigns so they can squander it on photo ops of themselves swathed in flags and spouting one-liners.

Along the way, taxpayers will also pay for the slash-and-burn ads made famous by the last Bush campaign. Despite the mea culpas after the Willie Horton fiasco in 1988, the candidates will do it again. You can count on it.

If this is campaign financing reform, it's time to reform the reformers.

California's Jerry Brown is the one candidate who has stepped out of the vicious circle. He doesn't stand much of a chance of winning, but his campaign against the campaign financing system gives us hope that some day political candidates will trust the voters with information instead of illusions.

Brown is not taking any money from political action committees, and he won't let anyone contribute more than $100 to his campaign. But even Gov. Purity can't run a campaign on petty cash alone. He has asked and qualified for matching funds from the federal government. Any candidate who wants the taxpayers to help finance his or her campaign must raise at least $100,000 from contributors in at least 20 states to qualify for the federal match.

The money comes from voluntary donations by taxpayers who check a box on their tax returns earmarking $1 for presidential campaigns. That fund has been around since the 1978 primaries. But taxpayers are becoming increasingly wary of the way presidential candidates sell themselves. In 1980, 29 percent of people filing their tax forms donated $1, but in the last round of filings, only 20 percent were willing. Since the amount is only $1, the issue can't be money. It must be disaffection with the process.

Given the current level of contributions, the fund will be just about dry by the 1996 campaign. In depriving the fund, even as a way of protest, voters still hurt themselves and the system because it is the challengers who suffer when money is tight, not the entrenched incumbents.

That power of incumbency is never more pronounced than in a presidential campaign. George Bush has not yet announced he is running, yet he raised $1.5 million at a single dinner in Houston recently. It takes the challengers months on the road to coax that much money out of the wallets of their supporters.

Other perks of incumbency are also beginning to show themselves. Bush can get into the nation's living rooms by staging a photo opportunity that the networks would be reluctant to ignore even if it has no news value. Bush doesn't have to pay for the air time, nor will it be credited against his campaign spending cap.

Our associate Jim Lynch reviewed the slate of candidates who have filed to date and found that the daunting odds of beating an incumbent president don't seem to have discouraged challengers.

It is time to reform the reformers.

County stages mass casualty exercise to coordinate services

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A large number of people scattered in red lay scattered in the field at Central Florida Regional Airport as dozens of emergency medical technicians from area agencies rushed to tend them.

But no one was really hurt. It was all a test. Seminole County staged the first of several regional mass casualty exercises this morning to practice coordination between agencies in catastrophes involving numerous injuries. Three to four of the exercises will be held each year throughout the county with various city medical emergency crews, said Ken Roberts, spokesman for the county Public Safety Department.

An estimated 75 emergency workers from Sanford, Seminole County and CFRA responded to the scene of the mock airplane crash at Sanford's airport today. A school bus acted as the crashed aircraft. A medical team from the Orlando Naval Training Center participated.

sending a physician, nurse and paramedic in a specially-equipped van.

Thirty-five actors simulated crash victims who were treated at the scene and taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital, South Seminole Community Hospital and the training center hospital to test the hospital's ability to handle a sudden influx of critically-injured victims.

Roberts said the emergency personnel won't be graded on their performance. The exercise was to test emergency coordination.

"Our goal is not to test individual performances but to test the system and management structure," Roberts said. "We'll do several of these exercises so we'll have a disaster plan so that no matter what happens, we'll be prepared."

Roberts said the recent Tri-County bus accident on U.S. Highway 17-92 near Longwood that sent 16 injured people to area hospitals indicated the need for the preparedness training.

"Incidents of this level are increasing," Roberts said. "We need to be ready for them."

Drainage

nated with cities. The tax would cost the owner of a $50,000 home with a $25,000 homestead exemption $4 per year. The owner of a $110,000 home with the exemption would pay $13.60 annually.

County manager Ron Rabun said the tax is only an estimate at this time. Rabun said the drainage tax would not necessarily require a tax increase from the current $5.75 tax rate. County staffers have begun the 1992 budget review process, he said.

The $2 per month fee would apply only to unincorporated structures and would be used to raise about $1.8 million the first year to pay for drainage improvements. The fee would be applied to all structures including homes and businesses, but also schools and churches which are exempt from property taxes. If the fee is not approved, the 16-cent drainage tax would have to double, Rabun said.

The fee would cost the owner of the $50,000 home, and $1 million home the same $24 amount. Other buildings, such as businesses and schools would be assessed according to the amount of ground they cover.

Sturn said the drainage program was both demanded by the state and federal government and needed to improve the environment and urged commissioners to approve the financing method. But Furlong balked, saying he didn't approve of the fee because it represented an artificial property tax.

Furlong said the full needs of the drainage program should be financed from the current property tax, cutting other programs to accommodate it.

Warren said the county was rushing into the program and should coordinate with area cities and counties before starting such a program. She said the county's approved comprehensive plan calling for the five-year drainage program should be altered to include drinking water protection as well.

County Engineer Jerry McCollum said a city-county task force has met to review county drainage needs. Rabun said while coordination will continue, it is each county's and city's responsibility to address drainage problems in their own jurisdiction. Capitol programs planner Pam Hastings said commissioners were unrealistic to assume the state would approve an altered improvement schedule.

Streetman said he realized the county needed to respond to drainage needs, but was uncertain of the fee and tax method to pay for it.

the developer, and more than likely would mean a scrapping of the project. He indicated the only way the pond could be constructed, ... is by the removal and replacement of most of the current paving and drainage system, which is not economically feasible."

Harb is scheduled to meet with the SJRWMD on Jan. 14, to request a hardship waiver, and had requested letters of support from both the city and the city's Planning and Zoning Commission.

During Monday night's meeting, the Sanford city commissioners fully supported the request, and approved a letter written by Mayor Bettye Smith for submission to Jeff Elledge, director of the Water Management District.

In part, the mayor said, "We view this expansion and upgrade as a very positive and welcome move for our community, both in the short range and over the many years to come. The immediate influx of dollars expended and jobs created are welcome, but more importantly, the reality of permanent jobs being created and long-term benefits to the community and its people by maintaining this as a vibrant and functioning retail facility."

If the St. Johns group does not change the requirement for the retention pond, Harb said, "The Food Lion would not be built. If the Food Lion is not built, then K-Mart will not expand at this site." He estimated the cancellation would eliminate a few hundred new jobs in the area.

Commissioners approved the letter unanimously. The P&Z approved a similar letter during its November meeting.

tana said. The extra money will boost the program to $23,725, enough to provide up to $150 emergency utility bill payments for 158 families, 20 more than with previous financing levels.

The third $2,919 share of the money will be allocated to emergency medical care programs, nearly doubling the number of people who can receive emergency eye and dental care. The $4,200 already allocated for the program was enough to serve 40 people, Quintana said. The additional money will enable another 38 people to receive care.

The new money will also enable the county to expand medical relief services to include payments for doctor visits, Quintana said.

poration." McCollum predicted that with the meeting dates scheduled, "I would not be able to get Board direction until January 14. By this time, essentially all FPC material would be on site and would probably be installed." By then he estimated the total "sunken" costs would have reached approximately $1 million, out of the total $1.4 million allocated for the entire undergrounding.

He concluded, "Any attempt to stop his work would have severe cost implications." Litton could not comment on any possible outcome of the meeting. "I haven't had any specific direction by the Commission," he said, "It's all in their hands."

The "Special Called" meeting is scheduled for 5:30 p.m., Wednesday Dec. 11, in the City Commission chambers at the Lake Mary City Hall.

Mideast peace talks to resume

WASHINGTON — Arab and Israeli negotiators finally are getting down to peace talks after six days of bickering and posturing that have obscured the historic significance of their meeting.

Israeli delegates were scheduled to meet separately today at the State Department with Syrians, Lebanese, Jordanians and Palestinians to start negotiating the nuts and bolts of peace. The talks to resolve the bitter 43-year Arab-Israeli conflict were launched Oct. 30 at a mostly symbolic session in Madrid, Spain.

Both sides say they're ready to talk issues: self-rule for Palestinians under Israeli occupation and peace treaties between the Jewish state and its Arab neighbors.

But so far, the procedure of peace appears to be holding the substance hostage.

Bush travels to the Midwest

WASHINGTON — President Bush, still looking for ways to revive the sagging economy, is putting the spotlight on farm exports in meetings with business and farm leaders in the Midwest.

He was headed to Chicago today to visit the soybean pit of the Chicago Board of Trade and ring the ceremonial bell that triggers the daily onslaught of dealing by arm waving, screaming traders in brightly colored jackets.

Accompanied by Agriculture Secretary Edward Madigan, Bush was meeting later in calmer surroundings with board executives, pay a separate visit to the Chicago Mercantile Exchange and address Chicago business leaders and the Illinois Farm Bureau state convention.

This was the fourth and last of the president's recent spate of trips to take the pulse of working people whose lives have been adversely affected by the on-again, off-again recession.

Anderson to celebrate Christmas

WIESBADEN, Germany — It was something Terry Anderson could only dream about after his kidnapping on March 16, 1985: Christmas at home with relatives and friends.

After six Christmases chained inside a dark cell in Lebanon, Anderson is on his way home for the holidays.

Many of Anderson's relatives were waiting for him in New York today, ready to give their long-missing loved one a welcome he'll never forget.

"I'm coming home," an excited Anderson blurted out over the telephone from Germany when his cousin answered a surprise wake-up call at his Long Island home early Monday.

Hazardous waste cleanup $750 billion

WASHINGTON — The tab for cleaning up America's hazardous wastes is almost certain to exceed $750 billion over the next 30 years, and it could go much higher, a private assessment says.

Researchers at the University of Tennessee for the first time have attempted to estimate the total cost of all the hazardous waste cleanup efforts facing the nation — from removing radioactive sludge at nuclear weapons plants to cleaning soil around leaking underground tanks at corner service stations.

"This is looking at the whole elephant," said Milton Russell, a UT professor of economics and a waste management specialist. "Others have looked at the leg or the trunk."

The researchers estimated in a report presented Monday that the total costs could range from about $500 billion if only basic control and cleanup measures are taken to an "upper bound" estimate of as much as $1.2 trillion over three decades.

Seminole girls triumph

ST. CLOUD — The Seminole High School girls coesser team improved its record to 3-5 with a 5-2 victory over homestanding St. Cloud last Saturday.

The Tribe fell behind 1-0 on a free kick by St. Cloud after a hand ball call 12:00 into the game, but led at halftime 2-1 after Sabrina Reali scored on an assist from Diane Davis at the 22:00 mark and Dawn Burks scored the first of her four goals at the 28:00 mark.

St. Cloud's other goal also came on a free kick after a hand ball, but the half belonged to Burks who scored on an assist from Ginger Packett with 20:00 left and then scored a pair of unassisted goals at the 16:00 and 20:00 minute marks.

The Tribe outshot St. Cloud 24-3 and had four corner kicks to one for St. Cloud. Seminole goalie Christy Oliver had two saves while the St. Cloud keeper had nine.

Seminole will host Lake Mary at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium Wednesday, starting at 7 p.m.

Marino threw for 281 yards and three touchdowns Monday night, helping the Miami Dolphins move closer to a playoff berth by beating the Cincinnati Bengals 37-13.

Miami (8-6) won for the fifth time in six games. The Dolphins will clinch a wild-card playoff berth next Sunday if they beat San Diego and the New York Jets lose to New England.

Cincinnati fell to 2-12, tying the team record for losses set in 1978 and 1979.

Tribe can't tame Tigers

Jones wins 59-55 to spoil Seminole's home opener

By BILL KLINE
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Close games are won and lost on the boards.

The Seminole High School boys varsity basketball team lost control of the boards and made mental mistakes late in the game as Orlando-Jones High School spoiled a spirited Seminole home opener Monday night 59-55 in a game that featured eight lead changes at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

"Jones controlled the boards late," said Seminole head coach Bill Klein. "But not early. We held our own during most of the game. Their late dominance of the boards is one reason why we lost. The kids hustled, but mental errors hurt us."

Jones held a 55-45 lead with 1:30 remaining in the game when the Tribe rallied for 10 of the final 14 points. But despite numerous chances, Seminole couldn't get closer than four points until Demetrius Lomax hit a three pointer with just three seconds remaining.

The Tribe led 14-12 after the first period but the Tigers came back to tie the game at 26-26 at the intermission.

Jones appeared to put the game in the win column when it dominated the third quarter 17-9 to take a 43-35 lead into the final eight minutes.

Seminole scored 10 of the first 12 points of the fourth quarter, with Shawn Washington's layup tying the score at 45-45. But the Tigers came right back with 10 straight points of their own.

J.J. Wiggins led the Tribe with a game, and season high 27 points. He added six steals, four in the final quarter. Shawn Washington was the only other Seminole player in double figures with 13 points.

"We came back pretty well," said Wiggins. "But we made some mistakes and came up short. We played really good at the end. Defensively, we showed how we can play. I didn't play too good. I didn't play too well at all."

The loss drops Seminole to 2-2 on the season. The Tribe had defeated Jones last Wednesday 65-58 in the opening game of the Winter Park Rotary Club Tournament and Seminole went on to finish third. Jonathan Montgomery had scored 15 points in beating the Tigers but they put the clamps on him in this one as they held the senior guard to one point.

"All losses are tough," said Kline. "The defense was super, but we're not playing well offensively yet. We came close but failed to take advantage of some chances, and that hurts. From a coach's stand point, I should have gone to man to man earlier. We would have won, and that's my fault."

Andrew Boatman led Jones, which has appeared in nine straight district championships games and finished 26-7 last year, with 22 points, including three 3-pointers. Proctor chipped in with 18 points.

The win was its first of the year for the Tigers and upped its record to 1-2. The team lost eight seniors

SCC's Merthie wins Jaycees weekly award

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — Lake Mary's Mike Merthie was one of the few bright spots in an otherwise lost week for the Seminole Community College men's basketball last week as the Raiders lost three straight road games.

Merthie, who missed last Tuesday's game with Manatee with the flu, came off the bench to average 14 points and 5.5 rebounds in the Pepsi Florida JUCO Shoot-Out at Hillsborough Community College in Tampa last weekend. For his efforts the freshman guard is this week's Sanford-Seminole Jaycees Men's Junior College Player of the Week.

For the week Merthie scored 28 points, on 11 of 19 shooting from the floor (57.9 percent) and 1 of 2 three-point tries, grabbed 11 rebounds, blocked one shot, came up with two steals and handed out five

Raiders basketball teams return home for "deuce"

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — The men's and women's basketball teams from Seminole Community College return home from road trips tonight when they host Indian River Community College from Ft. Pierce in a doubleheader at the Health and Physical Education Center.

The women will open the night's action starting at 5:30 p.m. with the men scheduled to take the floor at 7:30 p.m. Admission to all Raiders home games are free of charge.

These same two clubs met in Ft. Pierce in a men's/women's doubleheader back on November 12th with the SCC women posting a one point win and the SCC men losing an 81-76 decision to the Pioneers.

The men will be playing their first home game since before

Thanksgiving and are in the midst of a three game losing streak that has seen their record fall to 6-6. The Raiders suffered a 93-69 defeat at the hands of Manatee C.C. in Bradenton last Tuesday before losing 72-61 to undefeated Miami-Dade South and 68-65 to Edison C.C. in the Pepsi Florida JUCO Shoot-Out in Tampa last weekend.

The men were hurt last week by an unexpected drop off in their shooting. On the season the Raiders had been shooting close to 50 percent as a team, but last week went into a team wide slump that saw them make only 67 of 176 field goal attempts (38.1 percent).

The women also will be looking to get back on the winning track after suffering a losses to Edison C.C. and St. Petersburg J.C. at the Central Florida C.C. Tournament in Ocala last weekend to drop them to 5-5 on the season.

Patriots show class in defeat to garner award

By ROBERT STOCK
Herald Correspondent

GAINESVILLE — Following their 24-0 loss to Gainesville Buchholz Friday night for the 5A-Section 1 championship, some Lake Brantley Patriot football players talked quietly with their parents and friends.

Others cried after losing their only shot at a state championship.

But no one among the 60-plus competitors for Lake Brantley hung their head in shame. Although they lost the game, this season was definitely a big win.

For their efforts the Lake Brantley team, coaches, helpers, parents and fans are the final winners of the Sanford Herald Player of the Week Award for 1991.

"We played good all year," said Patriot head coach Fred Almon. "That's what I'm proud of. We can take a defeat."

Almon's players also expressed their happiness with their accomplishments. "We came together as a football team," said offensive guard Chuck Evans. "We worked together as one. It was a great season."

For Evans, the most memorable game of this season came when the Patriots defeated archrival Lake Mary. While it was just the second game of the season, it was the one that would eventually give Lake Brantley the 5A-District IV crown.

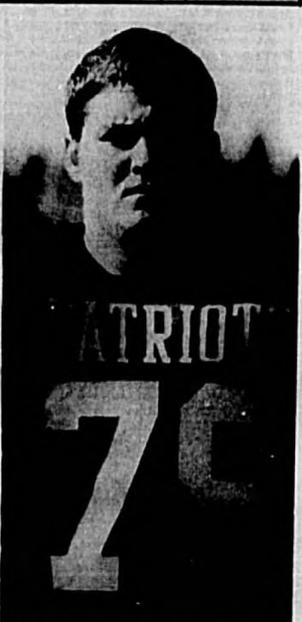

"We came together as an offensive line in that game," said Evans. "And we played well for the rest of the season."

And what a season it was as the Patriots finished the season with a 10-2 record, their second 5A-District IV title in four years and won their first regional crown ever.

"We set our minds to improve and we did," said junior linebacker Darryl Bush, who had 13 tackles against Buchholz. "We did more than any other team (in school history) this season."

Passport needed to get to dying son

DEAR ABBY: My only son recently died due to complications from a heart attack he suffered while serving in the U.S. Marine Corps in Okinawa. Upon notifying us that he was in serious condition, the military requested that my daughter-in-law, Billie, and I travel to his bedside in Okinawa.

Billie was able to leave immediately, traveling with military orders and her dependent military ID in lieu of a passport. I, however, having no connection with the military, had to get a passport in a hurry.

The State Department was marvelous. A passport can take up to six weeks to receive, and there are only three cities where one can be obtained in one day — New Orleans, Los Angeles and Houston.

I flew to Houston on Father's Day Sunday, received my passport, and left for Okinawa the next morning. Upon arrival after this long journey, I found my son had died just six hours earlier.

Abby, my point is this: If I had already possessed a passport, I could have accompanied my 18-year-old daughter-in-law and been there in time at least to have said goodbye to my son. I would like to encourage all parents who have children in the military to get a passport now. I hope they'll never have to use it except for pleasure — but if a loved one is injured overseas, they won't have to waste precious time, as I did.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

LINDA MICHELL, OKLAHOMA CITY

DEAR LINDA: My sincere sympathy to you, Billie and your family. The point you make is an excellent one, and well worth sharing with parents of all military personnel.

Actually, I checked with the U.S. Passport Agency in Washington and was told there are 13 passport offices nationwide capable of issuing a passport for "life and death" emergencies on weekends and holidays. A duty officer is available to make that judgment during non-working hours in Boston, Chicago, Honolulu, Houston, Los Angeles, Miami, New Orleans, New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Seattle, Stamford, Conn., and Washington, D.C.

Thank you for wanting to spare others the anxiety you experienced.

DEAR ABBY: I've never written to you, but a recent letter in your column has motivated me to share my experience with tattoos. Some parents were concerned that their bright, responsible daughter had "betrayed" her decent parents' beliefs and values by getting a tattoo.

I, too, was a popular, bright high school student. I was class valedictorian, president of the National Honor Society and a National Merit Scholar. I had my choice of colleges and scholarships, and initially chose a small, church-affiliated college. I later transferred to a large state university where I graduated with a 4.0 grade-point average and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

After leaving graduate school, I worked as a volunteer teacher for Vista (the domestic branch of the Peace Corps), then I became a federal law enforcement agent and have been in that career for the last 16 years. I am married and have three wonderful children and am active in my church.

And guess what? When I was 24, I got a tattoo! A rather small one in a relatively private place. I think tattoos are fascinating and would have another one were I not concerned about contracting hepatitis or some other disease from a dirty needle.

I have had that tattoo for 15 years and do not regret it or suffer any embarrassment because of it. It got it for myself, not for public display — although those who see it may get a clue to the "inner me" not normally revealed to the casual acquaintance. Thanks for being an open forum, Abby.

TERRY FREDY IN GEORGIA

DEAR ABBY: I would dearly love to see the inside of the homes where my grandmother and parents lived when I was a child. They were farmhouses with no indoor plumbing and, at one time, no electricity. I understand that my grandmother's house has been completely modernized, and I can see from the outside that an addition has been built onto it.

My question: Would it be out of line for me to go to the door, identify myself, and ask to be taken on a tour of the house? I can't call ahead to make an appointment because I don't know who lives there. Also, I'm always on vacation when I'm in the area, and I can't make an appointment for the next week or month.

This is rural country; people are not as fearful of strangers as they might be in the city, and I can tell them enough about their house to convince them that I once lived there.

I have asked a few friends what they would do if a stranger came to their door and asked permission to see their house. Some said they would permit entry. Others said, "No way!"

Abby, please ask your readers what they would say. And why.

CALVIN IN MILWAUKEE

DEAR CALVIN: Provocative question. Readers?

County officials will meet to plan how 'to do more with less'

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — This Thursday and Friday, Seminole County Manager Ron Rabun and more than a dozen of the county's top officials will lock themselves into a Dixie Road conference room for two days and chart their goals for the coming year.

In his first staff retreat, Rabun said he hopes to build a higher degree of understanding among departments and see how the county can function even more efficiently. Seminole County already has one of the lowest employee-to-resident ratios of any comparable county in the state, according to county surveys.

"If we don't pool our resources, we're going to have difficulty meeting our goals," Rabun said. And those goals are?

"How to do more with less, that's it," Rabun said. "The people, I think, want more environmental protection, a better level of service and they don't want to pay higher taxes for them. We've got to figure out how we can do that."

In keeping with that fiscally-restrained spirit, the two-day retreat at the San Pedro Conference Center near Casselberry will cost a total of $400, including lunches each day, said Rabun.

"I couldn't believe it myself," Rabun said. "I had to ask twice 'Are you sure that's all?'" Rabun said he hopes his management team will come away with a better sense of the functioning of the complete county organization with an increased focus on teamwork.

"We may find we can combine some of our resources and do them even better," Rabun said.

Rabun said the retreat will also offer county management a chance to get better acquainted with his reorganized county organization, approved by county commissioners in October. Rabun reduced the number of departments from 17 to 10 by turning several departments into divisions of a more simplified structure.

In his Oct. 8 issue paper to commissioners, Rabun wrote many of the goals of the new departments was to provide better services to residents with fewer layers of bureaucracy.

On the road again

Used bikes will be fixed up and become Christmas gifts again, thanks to the Sanford Kiwanis Club and the Sanford Fire Department. Hellig-Meyers store manager, John Williams, center, presented A.A. McClanahan, right, a member of the Kiwanis club, and Fire Chief Tom Hickson, left, with four new bicycles for the annual Project Bicycle program. Used bicycles are being collected by the club and repaired by the fire department for less fortunate children in the community for Christmas.

Pay-raise block being re-evaluated

By JACQUE HALLFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Public nurses went to court Monday over a decision by Gov. Lawton Chiles' top budget aide to withhold their pay raises, and the legal challenge persuaded Chiles' staff to rethink the issue.

"We are re-evaluating our position now that we've been served with the suit," Julie Abender, a spokeswoman for the Florida Nurses Association turned to the state Supreme Court.

Doug Cook, director of the state Office of Planning and Budgeting, is barred by both state law and the Florida Constitution from blocking the scheduled pay raise, according to the nurses' motion.

Some 4,400 nurses who work in clinics, schools, institutions and prisons were supposed to get pay raises averaging 9 percent starting Sunday. The nurses make anywhere from $19,000 to $34,000.

"Ignoring a contract negotiated and signed by the governor's own office displays a disregard for employees," Barbara Lumpkin, associate executive director of the group, said in a press release.

The nurses' motion refers to an October ruling by Florida's high court in a lawsuit filed on behalf of foster children. That decision banned the governor and Cabinet from taking mid-year action to balance the state's $28 billion budget in the wake of a $622 million tax shortfall.

Policy decisions, such as where and how to spend Florida's money, belong to the Legislature and current law doesn't include enough guidelines to let the executive branch take action, the justices said.

Since the Florida Constitution requires that the state operate in the black, Chiles scheduled a special weeklong session for the 160 lawmakers, beginning Tuesday, so they could update the state spending plan.

"Notwithstanding the clear directive of the court less than one month earlier, the governor has ignored the holding, as well as the express requirement of the duly negotiated collective bargaining agreement, and ... has impounded the appropriated monies without any lawful authority to do so," the nurses' motion reads.

An order by Cook to withhold negotiated pay raises pending legislative action actually affected all state agencies, but only the health raises were scheduled to go into effect before the special session.

Legislative leaders last week demanded that Cook rescind his order, but the budget director said he wouldn't without a guarantee that the raises wouldn't be rescinded as a part of the pending budget-balancing process.

'Star Trek VI' takes series into 'Undiscovered Country'

By JONNE MORRIS
AP Entertainment Writer

LOS ANGELES — The crew of the Starship Enterprise took 'Star Trek VI: The Undiscovered Country' into new box office territory with an $18.2 million premiere weekend, the best opening ever in the science fiction series.

According to figures released Monday by Exhibitor Relations Co. Inc., "Star Trek VI" surpassed the previous debut record of $17.4 million, set by 1989's "Star Trek V: The Final Frontier." The new sequel is said to be the last voyage for the ship's crew led by the indomitable Capt. James T. Kirk.

Meanwhile, Bette Midler's musical valentine to the military, "For the Boys," threatened to become the first big-ticket bomb of the holiday season.

"The Addams Family" slipped to second after two weeks on top of the charts, as the black comedy grossed $8.6 million for the weekend and $67.1 million to date. In third was Macaulay Culkin in "My Girl," which made $6.7 million.

The instant animated classic "Beauty and the Beast" enjoyed another strong weekend, collecting $6 million for fourth. "Cape Fear," the thriller remake from director Martin Scorsese, claimed fifth with receipts of $4.9 million.

Miss Midler's "For the Boys" could manage no better than sixth with a gate of $2.6 million in its second week of wide release. The expensive period drama has made only $9.8 million so far, and its feeble per-screen average indicates its complete collapse is in the wings.

"An American Tail: Fievel Goes West" took in just $1.6 million in its third week of release. "Curly Sue" took eighth with proceeds of $819,107 and "The People Under the Stairs" scored up a little business with admissions of $635,910 for ninth place.

"All I Want for Christmas" rounded out the Top 10 with a measly gross of $576,926. That works out to only $389 per theater for the weekend, or less than seven customers per showing.

What's the cure for sleepwalking?

DEAR DR. GOTT: What is the cause of sleepwalking, and is there a cure?

DEAR READER: Sleep walking (somnambulism) is a poorly understood and relatively rare disorder, most common in children, marked by the performance of complex acts during what appears to be deep sleep. The patient seems to be out of contact with the environment while experiencing a vivid, hallucinatory drama. The eyes are usually open and the patient may mumble repetitiously, walk about and engage in a variety of activities.

The condition is believed due to immaturity of the sleep-arousal system in the brain. There is no treatment (except to guide the sleepwalker back to bed). Above all, the patient must be protected against injury from falling into obstacles or down stairs. Most patients outgrow the affliction.

DEAR DR. GOTT: In a recent column, you misinterpreted a reader's question about the "seven year itch." You assumed she meant her husband was cheating on her, but it's more likely her husband had scabies. The poor woman must be thoroughly confused by your response: she wrote because of her husband's skin condition and you recommended marriage counseling!

DEAR READER: Hmmm. After rereading the column in question, I agree that the question was ambiguous. Unfortunately, the sense of the question, revolved around her use of the term "seven year itch," which I interpreted as marital infidelity. You, and other readers who wrote to chide me, are correct that the original question may have referred to the "seven year itch" of scabies, a parasite that enters the skin and causes severe itching. I guess I need to be reminded on occasion that some common expressions have more than one interpretation. So ... to the poor woman whose husband got more than he bargained for in this column, my apologies. The treatment for scabies is far cheaper and more convenient than marriage counseling: Kwell lotion, a topical prescription product, cures scabies. And thanks to the readers who gleefully pointed out that a common skin condition need not be complicated by unnecessary therapy.

- WIN AT BRIDGE
- by Phillip Alder
- The USA-2 team won the Women's World Team Championship for the NEC Venice Cup. The team members were Nell Cahn, Stasha Cohen, Lynn Deas, Sharon Osberg, Nancy Passell and Sue Picus. It was the third consecutive Venice Cup victory for Lynn Deas. In the final, USA-2 beat Austria by 358 to 258 international matchpoints (IMPs).
- The swings gained on part-score hands can add up substantially over a long match. USA-2, for example, gained five IMPs on today's deal from the final. If you wish to test yourself, cover the East-West cards in the diagram. West leads a low heart. East wins with the king, cashes the ace and leads a third round to West's queen. Now comes the club four. How do you continue?
- The Austrians use a canape system, in which they bid a four-card major before a longer minor.
- The Austrian declarer, after a similar start to the play, led a spade to dummy's queen. No doubt she thought she was unlucky that East held the singleton ace, but now she had three spade losers: one down.
- Stasha Cohen realized from the bidding that East was almost certain to have the spade ace. Also East had shown length in two suits, so there was a danger she would be short in spades. Cohen won the fourth trick with dummy's club king and led the spade four. When the spade ace fell on stony ground, Cohen had only two trump losers: contract made.
- This deal was played in both finals. Cohen was the only declarer of three to make two spades.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Dec. 11, 1991

Don't give up on an endeavor in the year ahead that you've been working on for quite some time. Conditions are changing and rewards you've been expecting could now be within reach.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Usually, you're an optimistic individual, but today your assumptions might be negative instead of hopeful. If your thinking is murky, your effectiveness will be severely reduced. Sagittarius, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Sagittarius' Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you participate in some sort of social involvement today where betting is a factor, keep the stakes as small and friendly as possible.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Two important objectives can be achieved today, but you might operate in a manner that will deny you their attainment. Be sure your methods match your expectations.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You might have an opportunity to distort something said by an individual you dislike. If you do, you can even the score, but you're not apt to like yourself much for doing it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful in your commercial dealings today with individuals with whom you've never previously dealt. Don't assume they do business in the same manner as those with whom you're familiar.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Try to keep competitive elements out of your activities with friends today. What starts out as fun could suddenly develop into something quite serious.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone whose philosophy clashes with yours could be difficult to get along with again today. There are still some hard feelings from a past encounter.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't expect too much from a friend whose past history shows the lack of a giving nature. This individual will run true to form today.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your objectives are likely to be clearly defined today, but you might not go after them with the determination and persistence necessary for success.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is not a favorable day to work on assignments you don't enjoy. The end results are likely to reflect your mental attitude.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Financial trends are mixed today, and gains and losses could ebb and flow. Fortunately, however, you may still end up on the plus side.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Cooperation among family members is likely to be rather sparse in your household today, especially if you're the one who sets the poor example.
