Even So, Officials Say Coverage A Bargain

County's Hospital Insurance Premium Up 40 Percent

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

Hospital insurance rates for Seminole County employees will go up by 40 percent on January 1, but county officials feel the increase will help keep the plan affordable over the long run. The 40 percent rate hike will cost the county $795,606 annually, up from $563,863 paid this year, a difference of $231,743. The County Commission "made some far reaching changes last year," David Hotary, director of central services said today. "We firmly believe it will save us more money in the long run."

Among the changes included in the new coverage is a waiver of the $200 deductible clause for inpatient hospital care and outpatient diagnostic testing.

"We've had a tremendous amount of difficulty since the sale of Seminole Memorial Hospital," Hotary said. "The new hospital has a different way of doing business."

Hotary said Central Florida Regional Hospital officials were less than pleased with the coverage plan, knowing that county workers were responsible for the first $200 of their bills. By eliminating the deductible for hospitalization and outpatient testing, the problem has been resolved, he said.

The new policy also increases the payment for laboratory and X-ray work from $100 to 80 percent of all expenses.

New benefits included in the coverage are payment for pre-admission testing and second surgical opinions, elimination of the deductible and payment of the first $300 plus 80 percent of the remainder of costs for outpatient surgery, payment of 100 percent of the costs for generic drugs and medicines.

Hotary said the new coverage should provide incentives for county employees to save money for both themselves and the county.

By paying for tests and second opinions, unnecessary surgery can be reduced and the payment for outpatient surgery should encourage employees to undergo treatment without hospitalization when they can.

Hotary said the additions to the health plan are an effort by commissioners to "manage the group insurance plan so we can all survive."

The Gulf Group Services Corp., which carries the county policy, said the county's rates would have increased by an additional 16.5 percent over and above the 40 percent hike if the changes had not been implemented in this year's policy.

Hotary said that figure is evidence that the changes are already having an effect.

The employees themselves will not be affected by the rate hike which brings the county's monthly payment per employee to $66.12 from the current $47.13 per month. The rates for dependents, paid by employees, will remain the same. Employees may purchase hospitalization insurance for their spouse for $63.88 per month and for their children for $46.64 per month.

Pit Owner Trying To Reclaim, Beautify Land

Foul odors may be coming from decaying building materials and souring sawdust being used to fill in an abandoned clay pit on a 10-acre parcel off Art Lane near Sanford, but the owner of the tract hopes that the situation will be alleviated soon.

Ralph H. Peacock, who with his wife, Violet, and nephew, James L. Durs Jr., owns the property, says he is trying to reclaim and beautify the land for two future home sites — one for himself and his wife and the other for his nephew. The three bought the property less than two years ago.

Peacock said he is sorry if odors from the fill operation are disturbing residents in nearby Hidden Lake subdivision. He estimates it will take four to six months before the water in the pit is completely covered over.

Roger Harmon, who owns an adjacent 10 acres, said today the odors from the pit have been "quite bad at times, especially in the late evening or early in the morning."

"It's a bad odor, but it's not harmful and I know it's a temporary thing until the pit is covered," he said.

Peacock said he walked his property this morning and found no odors at all. "It seems as if it comes and goes," he said.

The environmental section of the Seminole County Health Department last week declared that no health hazard exists at the site, despite the objectionable smells.

The health department sanitation supervisor, Bud Corbett, who inspected the site, said last week a report of his findings would be forwarded to the state Department of Environmental Regulation.

And Tom Sawicki, hazardous and solid waste engineer with DER, said officers from the agency will inspect the property next week.

"Normally there are certain freedoms people have with their property if it is totally enclosed," Sawicki said. "That individual has the right to receive the waste at his property as long as surface and ground water violations do not occur," he said.

"I don't know whether ground water is being contaminated. If it is we will initiate action to stop the operation," Sawicki said.

Peacock said today he doesn't know whether the water in the bottom of the pit comes from rain or comes from an underground spring. "It's not a flood prone area," Peacock said.

County Land Development Manager John Dwyer said he can't find any county laws or regulations that Peacock is violating.

A heavy equipment operator, who is a friend of property owner Ralph Peacock, today pushes scrap building materials into a former clay pit on the west side of Art Lane, just outside of Sanford's city limits. Residents in adjacent Hidden Lake subdivision are complaining that foul odors are coming from the pit.

'We and our lawyer term this a beautification project. It is not a dump or a landfill where garbage or anything of that nature is dumped.'

— Owner Peacock

"We are in our first stage by trying to cover the water by bringing in building materials to fill and then we will cover with clay and dirt," said Peacock, who lives at 148 Sunset Drive in Longwood.

Peacock said the best information he has been able to get is that the pit was originally dug out to "borrow the clay it contained" some decades ago when what was to become Lake Mary Boulevard was built.

The tract, he said, is surrounded by fencing and a gate into the property is kept under lock and key. Peacock took that action after he saw children with rubber rafts swimming in the 10 to 12-foot-deep hole.

"It was apparently a swimming hole and a fishing hole used by children for some time," he said.

That's why he fenced in the property and placed it under lock and key.

Peacock said while he plans to create two home sites on the property, the structures will not be placed near the 2½ to 3-acre-wide former pit. He said he envisions that part of the property as a green area with fruit and slash pines dotting the scenery.

"It's not a dump and it's not a land fill," Peacock said. He said the discarded building materials are being brought in from Cardinal Industries and a local roofing company and special care is being taken that no garbage is dumped into the pit. He added with heavy equipment an old friend is at the property to unlock the gate and push the building trash into the pit when it arrives.

Peacock said he is not charging any fee for the dumping nor is he paying anything for the fill.

"We and our lawyer term this a beautification project. It is not a dump or a landfill where garbage or anything of that nature is dumped," he said.

Peacock said the odors may be a reaction to the plywood or sawdust and once the water is covered this should cease. "The speed of our project is determined by the amount of work that is being done," he said. "No one is permitted in there but some may be going in without our knowledge," Peacock added.

Hidden Lake residents have complained to authorities that the pungent smell from the pit brings tears to the eyes and causes nausea.

The sulphur-like fumes have permeated the area for the past few weeks.

Sanford City Manager W. E. "Pete" Knowles, who determined the pit is not in the city, said the stench is similar to that around pulp and paper mills.

At Lake Mary

Promotions, Pay Hikes Suggested

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

At least two Lake Mary employees will get pay raises and promotions if the recommendations by Long and Associates of Ft. Lauderdale are heeded by the City Council.

Long and Associates was commissioned in November by the Lake Mary City Council to do a job classification and pay plan for the city's 21 employees. Reports of the study, which cost $2,100, are expected to be received by the city today or Thursday, City Manager Phil Kulbes said today.

Kulbes said company personnel gave him a review of its findings by telephone. He said Long and Associates determined the secretary position held by Carol Spotts should be reclassified as an administrative assistant because of all the jobs she does and that Utility Clerk Barbara Gorman's position should be upgraded to "utility administrative supervisor."

Both women, if the council approves, will receive pay raises as a result.

Mrs. Spotts has been employed by the city for slightly more than four years as city secretary while Mrs. Gorman has worked for the city more than five years.

Kulbes said the consultants also will be recommending pay raises for some police officers.

The city manager said he will request the consultants send the city the report by special mail if it is not received by Thursday. He said he plans to give copies of the report to council members by the time of the swearing-in ceremonies for new councilmen—Burt Perinchief, Russ Megonegal and Charlie Lytle—Monday at 4 p.m.

Currently the salaries of Mrs. Spotts and Mrs. Gorman are $10,808.51 each a year.

Mrs. Spotts is a native of Sanford and graduated from Seminole High School. Mrs. Gorman grew up in Lake Mary and also graduated from Seminole High School. Both women live in Lake Mary.

All 21 Lake Mary employees received an interim 4 percent pay raise in November.

The city has budgeted money to permit pay raises totaling 8 percent in this fiscal year.

In granting the 4 percent pay hike, the council noted that at least one additional pay hike will come as a result of the Long and Associates study.

Kulbes said questionnaires were distributed to all the employees, asking them to describe the jobs they do. The consultants then talked to each employee to determine exactly what their responsibilities are.

He noted that Mrs. Spotts, as an example, acts as assistant city clerk in the absence of the city clerk, finalizes applications for building permits after Kulbes has approved building plans, prepares and sends various statistical reports to state and federal agencies and works with City Treasurer Madeleine Minns on payrolls and accounts payable.

"Basically, she does more than typing. That's why the consultants changed her title," Kulbes said. He added that Mrs. Gorman's title also will be changed, while the duties of other city hall employees are "cut and dried."

Kulbes said the consultants made a survey of cities within the area, collecting the payroll figures and employee responsibilities from those cities of like size before setting starting and maximum salaries for Lake Mary employees.

"The consultants are also recommending some salary increases in the police department for police officers and supervisory people," Kulbes said.

Mistake In Miami

'Boo Boo' Cuts Power To Many In Seminole

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Some Florida Power and Light Co. and Florida Power Corporation customers in Seminole County and west Volusia County suffered a short power outage Tuesday morning as the result of an electronic "boo boo" that was triggered during routine testing at the FP&L Turkey Point nuclear reactor near Miami.

During the FP&L testing, a circuitry problem erroneously picked up as a malfunction shut down three FP&L power plants temporarily cutting off power to 225,000 customers along the east coast.

As a result of the chain reaction, two feeder lines were lost in the Sanford District causing a 15 to 20 minute power outage affecting approximately 3,900 customers in Geneva, Chuluota, Osteen and Deltona, according to John Higgins, customer service representative in the Sanford office.

Higgins said electricity was off in the area from about 11:30 to 11:45 a.m. Tuesday with all customers back on around the state by 12:05 p.m. Because all of the tie lines between power companies are interconnected through a grid, Higgins explained that when a large plant drops off it puts everyone in trouble until they can get disconnected.

Systems are equipped with protective devices to prevent major power blackouts.

As a result 42,000 Florida Power Corporation customers in scattered areas of Altamonte Springs, Winter Park, Maitland, Pine Castle and Apopka also were affected. About 17 percent of Florida Power's customer in Central Florida were without electricity for periods ranging from eight to 50 minutes.

In an unrelated incident Sunday morning, a burned wire caused a small outage in the Idylwild area off Country Club Road west of Sanford, Higgins said. For most of the customers, the power was soon restored. But some were without power from 8:30 a.m. to about noon while the wire was being repaired, he added.

Officials To Meet Tuesday

County Move To Hospital Delayed

Seminole County commissioners will discuss with an architect and a consultant planned renovations to the courthouse and the old Seminole Memorial Hospital at a Tuesday work session.

Acting County Administrator Jim Easton said today the planned renovation of the old hospital for use by county commissioners, staff agencies and constitutional officers should be completed by July or August.

That is sooner than the preliminary estimate of Charles S. Braun, senior vice president of Helman, Hurley, Charvat, Peacock Architects, Inc., who thought the work could take until September.

Easton said complete drawings and plans have not yet been submitted by consultant Walter H. Sobel which could accelerate the work of the architectural firm.

Commissioners had hoped to move into the old hospital by April 1. At the Tuesday meeting, Easton hopes to get a new timetable for completion of the hospital renovation and refurbishing of the courthouse for use by the circuit and county courts. Helman, Hurley, Charvat, Peacock and the Sobel firm have both been employed by the county to work on the plans for the hospital, courthouse and other planned county facilities.

Under the arrangement, the Orlando architectural firm will be responsible for drawing up the plans and the Chicago-based consultant will be responsible for compiling information on space needs and reviewing the plans to be certain they meet those needs.

The county also is keeping open the option of selling the hospital. Easton met recently with representatives of Hopkins-Easton & Associates, an Orlando firm that has shown an interest in purchasing the building and leasing it back to the county for six or seven years.

But commissioners have been opposed to that plan because of the length of the lease. A shorter lease or an outright purchase of the building might be acceptable, Easton said.

Easton said the firm has said the county's asking price of $1.5 million for the building is acceptable. The company is expected to submit a written proposal to the county by the middle of January. — MICHAEL BEHA

IN BRIEF

Graham, Cabinet To Choose Which Beach Tracts To Buy

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham and the Cabinet will have the final say on a list of beachfront properties proposed for purchase under the "save Our Coasts" program.

Two state committees, meeting jointly Tuesday, ranked the 25 parcels on the list based on their environmental qualities and proximity to population centers. Graham and the Cabinet are scheduled to vote on the proposed rankings on Jan. 11.

The state is issuing $200 million in bonds over the next few years to finance the program. The bonds are backed by the documentary tax on deeds and other official papers.

The rankings will determine the order in which the state will pursue the purchases. Whether a particular parcel will be bought will depend upon the asking price.

Con Lost His Voice...Box

STARKE (UPI) — Authorities say they will check with throat doctors across Florida to see if a convicted killer is trying to replace the artificial voice box he dropped while escaping from Florida's maximum-security prison.

Myron David Fleming, 43, apparently snatched a guard's cap and coat from a closet, smeared his prison pants with shoe polish to match the uniform and strolled unnoticed out the prison's main gate with a group of holiday visitors.

"He has to speak through an artificial voice box because he was shot in the throat during a robbery attempt," corrections department spokesman David Skipper said. "He left the voice box behind at the prison and he can't talk without it. We think he may be looking for a new one."

Fleming, sentenced to die in the electric chair in the slaying of Lee County Sheriff's Sgt. Mike Yahl during a 1976 holdup in Fort Myers, had his sentence commuted to life in 1980.

Cleanup Begins; Probe Sought

Angry Blacks Riot Over Police Shooting

MIAMI (UPI) — Bands of youths roamed the streets before dispersing near dawn today in Miami's Overtown ghetto, where hundreds of blacks torched cars, looted stores and shot at police Tuesday night. One man was killed and six persons were injured during the rampage ignited when white officers shot a black man.

A spokesman for the National Advancement of Colored People announced meanwhile that NAACP regional director Earl Shihoster will ask U.S. Attorney General William French Smith to investigate possible civil rights violations.

"What we are concerned about is whether civil rights have been violated by the illegal use of force," spokesman John Due said early today. "We're also concerned about whether the police used proper judgment."

The area was generally clear of residents at daybreak as the city crews began clearing the debris-littered streets.

Two highway exit ramps into the 35-block area remained barricaded at daybreak. Police advised motorists to avoid Overtown, located just south of the Liberty City area where three days of race rioting killed 18 people in May of 1980.

During the three-hour disturbance Tuesday night, rioters looted and heavily damaged numerous area stores — one by ramming a car through its facade. Police said 29 people were arrested, 23 for burglary.

Throughout the night, officers investigated reports of breakins and groups of up to 30 youths roaming the debris-littered streets. By morning the area was mostly clear, but police said they would maintain beefed-up patrols at least until tonight.

"We're getting sporadic reports of people walking around and were checking them out," Miami police information officer Mike Stewart said at daybreak. "Right now it stands pretty quiet in the area we're cleaning the streets."

Dade County State Attorney Janet Reno said her office had started an investigation of the incident and would decide if any charges should be pressed against the two unidentified figures involved in the shooting. Stewart said the two would be relieved of patrol duty at least until they are evaluated for stress levels.

Witnesses said the riot flared suddenly. "I was a victim of random violence," Paul Rodenkirch, a 23-year-old white man, said of the Tuesday night riot. He was leaving a hospital with his head bandaged and his shirt bloodspattered.

"I had no idea whatsoever that anything was happening. My car was assaulted with stones and one of them made it through the driver's side window and hit me. I tried to drive through quickly, but it wasn't quick enough."

Police said the shooting of Nevel "The Snake" Johnson, 21, at a video arcade Tuesday night was an accident, but enraged blacks — believing Johnson was dead — took to the streets, burning, looting and shooting at police.

Johnson, shot in the head, was in critical condition today.

Three hours later, after hundreds of officers firing tear gas canisters cleared most of the streets, Police Chief Kenneth Harms said, "Right now the situation is under control."

In balmy, 75-degree weather, officers stood at nearly every corner in the 35-block area and some streets were still blocked to traffic. Sporadic reports of looting continued through the night.

Harms estimated as many as 200 rioters were involved, but David L. Perkins, a black community leader, put the figure at 600. "They were throwing rocks and bottles and shooting at white people," he said.

The only victims shot, however, were black. Four whites, including a police officer, received apparently less serious injuries.

Three police cars were burned after weapons were seized from them. Two television news vehicles and a truck were also torched.

Apparently the only death came shortly before midnight when police pursuing a gang of suspected looters were fired upon and in turn opened fire, killing one of the gang, a witness said.

Riot-equipped police had to rush to the video arcade where the shooting that triggered the violence took place to rescue investigating officers. They were trapped inside the arcade by a growing crowd of blacks who had "turned hostile," Harms said.

Harms said two white officers, whom he would not identify, went into the arcade on a "self-initiated check" and "identified a man with a gun."

He said the officer asked the young black man "What's that?" The suspect said "That's a gun."

"The officer placed his left hand on the revolver and pulled his own revolver with his right hand. The individual made a quick movement and the officer's gun discharged."

IN BRIEF

Lebanese Government Calls Meeting With U.S. Officials

United Press International
Lebanese President Amin Gemayel's government called for "intensive" talks with U.S. officials today to thrash out a compromise agenda for the second round of Lebanese-Israeli troop withdrawal talks.

The talks Tuesday at a seaside hotel in Khalde, 8 miles south of Beirut, were aimed at securing the withdrawal of the 30,000 Israeli, 40,000 Syrian and 3,000 to 10,000 Palestine Liberation Organization troops from Lebanon.

But the Lebanese and Israeli positions remained sharply divided at the end of the meeting.

The opening speeches by the heads of each delegation left clear Israel seeks political linkage with Lebanon through "an agreement... but a step away from a full, final, formal peace treaty."

Lebanon, by contrast, seeks a troop withdrawal before all else, demanding, in the words of chief delegate Antoine Fattal, an accelerated schedule to guarantee "the restoration of Lebanese sovereignty and full authority over the whole of its territory."

State Bows To Protesters

OCOYOACAC, Mexico (UPI)—Mexican state officials bowed to the demands of nearly 500 angry peasants who seized the Ocoyoacac City Hall, dropping plans to expropriate 245 acres of prime communal land.

But hundreds of demonstrators held town halls in two other cities in a 3-day-old protest against alleged voting fraud by Mexico's ruling party.

State government spokesman Gerardo Ruiz said Tuesday that as part of a settlement with protesters holding the city hall in Ocoyoacac, 28 miles west of Mexico City, the government rescinded its plan to expropriate their land.

Defending Our Good Name

When disarmament advocate Alva Myrdal of Sweden accepted the Nobel Peace Prize recently in Oslo, she bitterly attacked the United States and the Soviet Union in the same breath for creating a "cult of violence" that she said breeds crime and threatens global war.

The actual slander equating the United States with the Soviet Union as a threat to peace is as preposterous as, say, blaming the European democracies before World War II as a threat to peace because they opposed Adolf Hitler. Yet, it is fashionable in the neutral and Third World nations to condemn the United States and the Soviet Union equally for grave offenses against mankind, except, as is often the case, when this country is blamed solely for threatening the world with a nuclear holocaust.

For years, the United Nations has been the chief forum for bitter condemnation against the United States by delegates from Arab, communist, and developing nations. And for years, the American mission at the United Nations (USUN) has turned the other cheek and silently endured almost incessant insult, much of it from bloodstained, tyrannical regimes.

One notable exception, a few years back, was when USUN Ambassador Daniel P. Moynihan and his counselor, Leonard Garment vigorously refuted communist calumnies. But, lack of support from the State Department led to Moynihan's resignation in 1976. So refreshing was this rare display of spine, and so warmly received by the American people, that it made Moynihan's name a household word and afterward led him to the U.S. Senate.

At long last, we have a president in Washington who does not lightly suffer international abuse of the United States. As observed by Arnold Beichman, an acute U.N. watcher and visiting scholar at the Hoover Institution, the president has in Jeane Kirkpatrick, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations and her staff, unusually able spokesmen who have brought back "in fine scholarly style the polemical art" of slugging it out with U.S. critics. Their strategy, as one USUN spokesman put it: "When they attack, we counterattack wherever and whenever."

When, for example, the Swedish U.N. delegate denounced the United States for friendly relations with countries that are insensitive to human relations, a U.S. spokesman inquired how it was that a pretentious neutral such as Sweden, supposedly full of concern about human rights, gave $50 million this year, its second highest amount of foreign aid "to none other than Vietnam, a country that so palpably violates its own people's human rights..."

Predictably, such sharp retorts have restrained some customary critics from malicious lying about the United States.

Carl Gershman, counselor to Ambassador Kirkpatrick, put all of this in correct perspective: "What the Soviets and their allies are trying to do to the opposition (in the United Nations) is what they actually do to dissidents within their countries — to silence you, to bully you, to warn you that if you don't shut up, we'll besmirch you."

In not refuting the lies against the United States over the years, American delegates at the United Nations have, by their silence, given credence to them. And, as Hitler once observed, the bigger the lie, the more believable.

We, therefore, congratulate the Reagan administration, Ambassador Kirkpatrick, and her colleagues for so ably defending the good name of the United States of America in the world. And high time!

BERRY'S WORLD

"I wonder how a JAPANESE executive would handle this?"

The Public Service Research Council, a national public interest group has praised U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Altamonte Springs, for his vote in favor of an amendment which would have waived the provisions of the Davis-Bacon Act on construction financed by the new five cent gas tax.

In a letter to Representative McCollum, David Y. Denholm, president of the Council, called the vote "a courageous act of statesmanship in the face of union political pressure." Denholm said that the vote was "a vote on behalf of the unemployed, youth and minorities. If the Davis-Bacon Act had been waived, the 5 cent per gallon tax would have produced at least 15 percent more jobs. Those jobs would have gone to the unskilled and those attempting to enter the job market."

The amendment in question, authored by Representative Charles Stenholm D-Tex., would have waived the Davis-Bacon Act on federal highway and transit construction funded by the gas tax increase. The amendment was defeated on a 174-223 vote. The House then went on to approve the tax increase.

The Davis-Bacon Act is a 50-year-old law under which the Department of Labor sets wages on federally financed construction. Critics of the law say that because of union influence it inflates the cost of federal construction between 15 percent and 36 percent.

The General Accounting Office, an agency of Congress, in a 1979 report based on 1977 figures, accounted for at least $715 million in waste caused by the Davis-Bacon Act. A more recent study from Oregon State University shows that the Davis-Bacon Act inflates costs by as much as 36 percent. Current estimates are that the Davis-Bacon Act wastes over $2-billion per year in federal spending.

"Even taking the conservative estimate of Davis-Bacon Act waste," says Denholm, "the new gas tax could have created 48,000 additional jobs if the Davis-Bacon Act waiver had been approved."

"The true beneficiaries of the Davis-Bacon Act are a handful of construction union officials," Denholm charges. "It's high time that the unemployed realize that they are victims of abusive union power."

The Public Service Research Council is a national citizens' group concerned with union influence in government. The Council advocates repeal of the Davis-Bacon Act.

Latin Debts Danger

The management of debts incurred by foreign countries, especially those of Mexico, Brazil, Argentina and Venezuela, has become one of the most vexing international problems.

The British Journal, The Economist, estimates that about $300 billion is owed by Latin American nations. It also concludes that more dollars will be supplied to Latin America and that "the money will probably not be seen again." The banks, which are being urged to provide the money, reportedly will be lucky even to get paid the interest.

The banks which loaned the money in the first place will be the enormous danger if one or more major Latin borrowers default on loans. In the judgment of The Economist, a default "would send a hurricane through Wall Street; it would cause the certain collapse of a number of American banks."

This kind of problem is so enormous and complex that the public can't really contribute to finding a solution. However, we should be aware of the dark cloud on the horizon. If Mexico were to default on its debts, for example, the big U.S. lenders would call for a government bailout on a huge scale. It might be impossible for the government to refuse, for the alternative would be collapse of major lending institutions on which thousands of businesses and scores of thousands of individuals depend for credit.

The American people also would be affected by the political chaos that would result, especially in the case of Mexico. Who can say what would happen south of the border. Would a Castro-type Mexican regime seize power?

Would the Mexican middle class flee across the Rio Grande as the Cubans fled to Florida at the end of the 1950s? Would there be an even bigger invasion by poor Mexicans, hungry for jobs? What would happen to U.S.-Mexican trade? Would the United States, in the midst of a deep recession, have the means to handle a new influx of Mexican workers? Would a giant border patrol have to be established on the long U.S.-Mexican land border at enormous expense?

Numerous questions of this sort come to mind. All of them are disturbing. They suggest that the status quo in the U.S.-Mexican relations could undergo drastic and shocking transformation.

It may be that the situation will rock along. The new president of Mexico may be able to stabilize and improve his country's situation.

In short order, however, the situation on our continental frontier could change in the most alarming way. The future, unfortunately, has a way of providing unpleasant surprises.

Wilson Protectors Near Victims

WASHINGTON — In the checkered career of renegade CIA agent Edwin Wilson, no escapade is more revealing than his involvement in a scheme to engineer a coup in Sudan — doublecrossing his Libyan protectors in the process.

Wilson himself was eventually betrayed by an associate, tricked into leaving his Libyan sanctuary and brought to trial on charges of running guns to Col. Muammar Qaddafi. Last week, he was sentenced to 15 years in prison.

But the Sudanese caper began while Wilson was still riding high in Libya under Qaddafi's wing. Here's the story, according to sources close to Wilson, who provided documentary evidence:

Wilson met his initial Sudanese contact, Capt. Elhour Zarrour, on a plane from London to Tripoli in 1979. Zarrour worked for Gulf Fisheries, a company owned by the sheik of Kuwait. He was also an adviser to the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, and was active in the maritime industry in Indonesia, Sri Lanka and the Philippines.

Not long after their chance meeting on the plane, Zarrour invited Wilson to work in Sudan. Wilson, still secure in his relationship with Qaddafi, declined the invitation and told Libyan intelligence about it.

But by June 1981, as a result of columns I was publishing on Wilson and Qaddafi, things were getting hot for the ex-CIA agent in Libya. So Wilson reopened the Sudanese connection by sending an associate, John Heath, to London for a meeting with Omar Mohammed el Tayeb, then Sudan's minister of national security — the Sudanese equivalent of the CIA. He is now the second most powerful man in the country. Qaddafi also happens to be a blood enemy of Qaddafi, so Wilson's negotiations were delicate.

Tayeb promised that Heath and Wilson would get V.I.P. treatment if they would come to Sudan, ostensibly to help set up espionage apparatus for the Sudanese government. Actually, Tayeb apparently had something more ambitious in mind — a coup against President Gaafar Mohammed Nimeiri.

Ever cautious, Wilson checked with Libyan intelligence sources, who encouraged him to go to Sudan and report back to them. Wilson sent Heath and another aide to Sudan on Aug. 8, 1981. They were met by Tayeb's deputy, Gasim Ahmed Gasim, bypassed customs and were whisked from the airport in an unmarked black limousine. They were put up in the president's well-staffed, well-guarded guesthouse.

According to Wilson's own typewritten report on the matter, shown to my associate Dale Van Atta, Tayeb wanted a shipping company set up as a front for Sudan's espionage operations abroad — something Wilson had done for the CIA and U.S. Navy intelligence in the old days.

Tayeb also wanted video and other surveillance equipment from Wilson for "security of the bridges over the Nile, the president's residence, their sugar factories and borders." The borders Tayeb was most concerned about were those with Libya and Chad.

"It is obvious," Wilson wrote, "that the Sudanese are most concerned with counter-revolutionary groups located in Libya, training in Libya and Chad, which provide an external threat to Sudan."

In three days of meetings with the Sudanese, Wilson's emissaries drew up a three-page list of equipment and training Tayeb wanted for intelligence and counterintelligence operations. He also asked for information on Libyan and other spy networks in London, Tripoli and elsewhere. At the end of the visit, Tayeb wrote a letter thanking Wilson for his "personal interest and concern in the welfare and security of my country," and expressing the hope that he would meet Wilson himself "in the near future."

Sources close to Wilson said he had received information that Tayeb's primary interest was over-throwing Nimeiri once Wilson had been hired to provide security for the Sudanese president. In other words, Wilson would be doublecrossing both Nimeiri and Qaddafi by helping Tayeb seize power in Sudan.

The negotiations were still continuing when Tayeb, in October 1981, was promoted to third vice president by Nimeiri. (He has since been promoted to first vice president.) This apparently satisfied Tayeb, and he no longer needed the services of the treacherous American.

Footnote: A spokesman for the Sudan Embassy denied that Tayeb was planning a coup with Wilson. President Nimeiri himself authorized the negotiations, said the spokesman, in hopes of getting Wilson away from the Libyans.

There can be no doubt that these trends within the American Church will be resisted by Catholic laymen, and resisted effectively. The United States was born in resistance to oligarchical despotism, and Americans are not about to submit to it now.

Well, there it is. There is a scandal in the American Catholic Church. In the name of "liberalism" and "Vatican II," there has been created a bureaucratic ecclesiastical despotism which tolerates no dissent and cares little for the opinions and feelings of its supposed constituency.

In Europe, such ecclesiastical despotism was called "clericalism" — i.e., the unwarranted interference of the clergy in all areas of life. And of course, in countries like Spain, France, and Italy clericalism gave rise to a ferocious anti-clericalism.

That is the precipice toward which the American Catholic bishops, surrounded by their '60s-style younger clergy, are now marching.

"I know you will not use my name, for that would mean exile for me."

"The bishops do not reflect the thinking of the people because they do not know the thinking of the people. Older pastors are dismayed at this. In almost every diocese I know there is a split in the clergy between those over and under 50 — and those over 50 are practically totally disregarded."

"There is no way pastors can oppose the chancery crowd without being labeled troublemakers. There is in a diocese no real grievance board, no ombudsman, and no secret ballot. We must suffer in silence. We have no civil rights."

"The bishops in this country, quite some time ago, in their wish for popularity sold out to the 'youth cult.' This is certainly true in regard to the young. They surround themselves with young men who influence them a good deal and tell them all these novel ideas; and since bishops now are quite isolated, especially in large dioceses, and are desk men, they have lost contact with the rank and file of Catholics. Pastors know the thinking of the people, but pastors, who might have some experience and wisdom, are ignored."

Keeping A Turkey Alive...

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The promoters of an indefensible government project are planning to borrow a political device long favored by the world's dictators and despots: If you don't have enough votes to win, cancel the election.

That's the strategy being quietly pursued by the Department of Energy and Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., to retain federal support for the Clinch River Breeder Reactor derided by a growing legion of critics — liberals and conservatives alike — as a "technological turkey."

Virtually all contemporary nuclear power reactors are classified as light water or heavy water reactors. Both use water to cool the fuel rods and to perpetuate the nuclear chain reaction. The fuel is methodically dissipated, however, and must eventually be replaced. The liquid metal fast breeder reactor to be constructed on the banks of the Clinch River in eastern Tennessee relies upon molten sodium instead of water. More significantly, it creates more fuel than it consumes in the process of generating electricity.

The LMFBR concept long has intrigued scientists and engineers because it holds the promise of producing an inexhaustible supply of energy. But conquering the extraordinary technical problems associated with the LMFBR technology has been an exceptionally difficult and costly task.

Conceived by the Atomic Energy Commission in 1969 and authorized by President Nixon in 1972, the reactor project was initially estimated in 1971 to cost $400 million — but only one year later the projected price had soared to almost $700 million.

The official cost estimate for the project today stands at just under $3.8 billion, but the General Accounting Office says $8.5 billion is a far more accurate figure and some critics suggest that even that estimate may be low.

The federal government nevertheless remains determined to proceed with the project because of the political pressure generated by Baker, the Senate's majority leader, and others who view it as a bonanza for Tennessee's economy.

"Clinch River is just life or death to Baker," says David A. Stockman, director of the Office of Management and Budget, who characterized the project as a "technological turkey" when he was a member of Congress. Despite Stockman's opposition, the administration supports funding for the breeder.

When Congress voted last year on appropriating federal funds for the project, its supporters won by only 20 votes in the House and a slim two votes in the Senate.

In a futile attempt to avoid a similar showdown this year, the project's congressional backers prevented the Energy and Water Development Appropriations Bill, the legislation through which the LMFBR is funded, from coming to a vote in either chamber of the legislature.

Instead, the breeder reactor and other "pork barrel" projects were incorporated in the year's final continuing resolution, the omnibus temporary financing measure approved in the closing days of the 97th Congress.

But critics of the LMFBR project forced a House vote on an amendment to delete its funds from the continuing resolution — and succeeded by a 217-196 margin. That vote was extraordinary because the House had never before rejected the Clinch River Breeder Reactor.

A similar amendment was widely expected to succeed in the Senate, but failed by a 49-48 margin after Baker reportedly made personal appeals to several senators who planned to vote against the project to switch their position.

A joint House-Senate conference committee agreed to limited funding for the project, but Baker and other promoters have good reason to fear that they won't be as fortunate in the future because Congress clearly has lost its patience with the unjustifiable boondoggle.

The senator and his allies now are quietly concocting a scheme to remove the project from the federal budget by granting it special "off-budget" status, perhaps as a semi-autonomous program with government loan guarantees.

Read It And Weep

In response to my recent columns on the folly of the American Catholic bishops, I received an extraordinary amount of mail, virtually all of it making it dramatically clear that the bishops are living in an ecclesiastical dream world, completely cut off from American Catholic opinion.

Particularly moving — and revealing — was a letter I received from a Catholic priest, who, for reasons that will be clear, requested that I not make his name public. Read it and weep.

"Congratulations on your column in our local paper today on the confused thinking of the bishops. The reason they're confused is because there is no thinker among them. As a result they are people easily swayed and greatly desirous of being popular. A group like that can be very dangerous."

"The bishops in this country, quite some time ago, in their wish for popularity sold out to the 'youth cult.' This is certainly true in regard to the young. They surround themselves with young men who influence them a good deal and tell them all these novel ideas; and since bishops now are quite isolated, especially in large dioceses, and are desk men, they have lost contact with the rank and file of Catholics. # Wallace's Popularity With Blacks Understood

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — A federal judge who crossed swords repeatedly with one of the segregationist George Wallace says the Alabama governor-elect's new popularity with blacks did not surprise him.

Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. of the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said blacks probably realized in 1982 that "George has now returned to his true nature and his real genuine philosophy."

"During the 60s primarily, George took a lot of people snipe hunting," Johnson said in a rare interview. "I guess with that realization, it wasn't difficult for them (blacks) to vote for him."

Johnson said he never thought Wallace, who will begin his fourth term as governor in January, ever had "any malice toward anyone because of their race."

"I've always said he was a past master of political demagoguery. I think now he's exhibiting and demonstrating, at least as far as I can see and hear, his true feelings as far as race was concerned."

Johnson, who made many of the major civil rights advances in the South, has been described as the "real governor" of Alabama.

Johnson issued scores of rulings against the state in the Montgomery bus boycott, the Selma-to-Montgomery march, Wallace's "schoolhouse door" stand and other school desegregation cases, repeal of the poll tax that was used to prevent blacks from voting, legislative reapportionment and prison and mental health reforms.

Johnson, however, claims no credit for running state government. The state defaulted, he said, and punted its problems to his court.

"I determined they were entitled to relief ... that's not acting as governor," he said. "That's discharging your duties as a federal judge."

Johnson's decisions triggered threats against him and his family and federal marshals guarded his home for more than two decades.

Wallace once called Johnson an "integratin', carpetbaggin', scallowaggin' liar" who deserved a "barbed-wire enema." Later, Wallace said he regretted his choice of words.

As classmates at the University of Alabama Law School in 1943, Wallace was known as a liberal. Johnson was a conservative Republican.

Johnson was appointed U.S. attorney at age 34 and was named to the federal bench in Alabama's Middle District at age 37.

Johnson and Wallace first clashed in 1958 when Wallace said he would defy Johnson's order to turn over records to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission.

Wallace went to Johnson's court saying he was guilty of contempt, but Johnson said the records were turned over through "subterfuge" and dismissed the charges.

The stern, aloof judge ran his courtroom with an iron fist, maintaining strict decorum without a gavel. Lawyers quivered in his presence and one Department of Justice attorney fainted in a jury trial. Johnson told a marshal to remove the lawyer, but did not stop the trial because "it wasn't time for a recess."

Johnson said he did not think of himself as a partisan. "I guess the lawyers, he said. "If they come prepared they enjoy it. Those who were not prepared muddled around. I'm definite, emphatic."

His gruff demeanor, he said, was merely a product of his rearing in Winston County, a rocky region in north Alabama. His great-grandfather, James Wallace Johnson, was a Republican sheriff known as "Straight Edge."

"I guess I give the impression I am stern," Johnson said. "I do that when I give the blessing. That's how people from the hill country talk."

Johnson agreed in August 1977 to become FBI director, but later asked former President Jimmy Carter to withdraw his nomination because he underwent major surgery. He said he is in good health now.

Johnson said the only animosity between he and Wallace was created by the media.

"We had some cross purposes," the judge said. "We had a good number of clashes. As far as I'm concerned, there was nothing personal between me and George Wallace."

Carter nominated Johnson to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in 1979. He was assigned to the 11th Circuit when the court was split. Johnson continues to live in Montgomery and works out of the federal building where he rendered his early landmark decisions.

Johnson said he has slowed down a little as an appellate judge.

"When you are young, you like dramatic things. It makes your juices flow, but after 60 you welcome a change of pace."

Women Blast Highway Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Women's groups are complaining that just 4 percent of the 320,000 construction jobs expected to be created by the new highway-jobs bill will go to women.

Dorothy Ridings, head of the League of Women Voters, said the measure is an example of President Reagan's "lack of sensitivity" to women's issues.

The bill, passed by Congress last week, would raise the federal gasoline tax by a nickel a gallon — generating $5.5 billion a year to repair the nation's deteriorating roads, bridges and mass transit systems.

"The purpose of the bill is to correct a situation we feel is very serious, and there will be the benefit of jobs," said Transportation Department spokesman Dick Schoenfeld. "Women weren't a real issue."

Several women's groups, however, say women are the issue.

Ms. Ridings said, "Women work for the same reason men do — because they need the money. Some of these jobs are the best paying jobs around."

Leslie Lilly, director of the Southeast Women's Employment Coalition, said "The bill is not going to assist the most disadvantaged group" — women.

The coalition, an umbrella group of 11 women's employment organizations, studied Transportation Department statistics from 1981 and found that 96.3 percent of highway construction jobs went to men.

Last month, the nation's jobless rate was 10.8 percent — the highest since the Great Depression. Nearly 12 million Americans were listed as unemployed, about 5 million of them women.

'Fake Fat' Helps People Lose Weight

CHICAGO (UPI) — Obese patients fed a synthetic substance that looks, tastes and smells like fat-containing food lost weight — without the discomfort of consciously avoiding fat producing foods.

Researchers said the substance known as sucrose polyester has all the characteristics of fat.

The "fake fat" is actually sucrose, or sugar, added to fatty acids and its physical properties resemble common dietary fats. The body does not recognize it as food so it is not absorbed.

Ten chronically obese patients who ingested the sucrose polyester lost an average 0.4 pounds per day, the Journal of the American Medical Association reported.

In addition, earlier studies by National Institutes of Health-supported investigators showed sucrose polyester sharply reduces cholesterol levels in the blood.

The findings were described by Dr. Charles J. Glueck and colleagues at the University of Cincinnati's Clinical Research Center.

They said sucrose polyester "has considerable potential for weight reduction therapy in the treatment of obesity."

The use of up to 60 grams of sucrose polyester per day, secretly substituted for conventional dietary fat, allowed the patients to ingest a diet that appears to be a conventional high-fat, high-calorie diet — but actually contains 23 percent fewer calories and 50 percent less fat.

Patients received sucrose polyester in three different forms:

— A semisolid mixture containing 80 percent sucrose polyester oil and 20 percent hydrogenated palm oil, which liquifies upon heating and was used in salad dressings and other recipes.

— A bread spread mixture containing 54 percent sucrose polyester oil with a consistency and texture similar to corn oil margarine.

— An emulsion combined with milk to make a vanilla milkshake-type beverage containing sucrose polyester.

Despite the opportunity to increase snack calories to compensate for reduced mealtime calories, the patients did not feel hungrier when consuming sucrose polyester and took 23 percent fewer meal snack calories during the sucrose polyester period.

Sucrose polyester, currently an investigational new drug, has not yet been approved for non-experimental use by the Food and Drug Administration. Even if approved, it probably only will be available under a physician's prescription.

Brother Of Princess Grace Shot

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — John B. Kelly Jr., brother of the late Princess Grace of Monaco, was shot when he tried to overpower a gunman demanding his money, police said.

Kelly, 55, a former Philadelphia councilman who now heads a construction firm, was shot late Monday night in a high-crime section of Fort Lauderdale after he and his wife, Sandra, got lost on their way to a friend's house, police said.

Kelly was reported in good condition Tuesday at Broward General Hospital, officials said, and was expected to undergo surgery to remove a single bullet in his groin.

"They got lost and Kelly stopped the car to use a pay phone at a service station," said Officer Diana Morrisette. "After he completed his call, he was returning to his car and was approached by a black male armed with a gun."

The gunman demanded that Kelly hand over all his money, Ms. Morrisette said, but instead, Kelly tried to push the robber down and overpower him.

Missing In El Salvador

What Ever Happened To John Sullivan?

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In December of 1980 a free-lance journalist named John Sullivan traveled to El Salvador on a reporting assignment. He checked into the Sheraton hotel in that nation's capital, he stayed one night in the accommodations, and then suddenly, mysteriously, he vanished.

What happened? Some say he was kidnapped by communist guerrillas in the war-torn Central American nation. Others believe he was killed by right-wing forces representing the government's side. In any event, the reporter has not been heard from, and two years later he has been more or less forgotten.

That is to say he has been forgotten by the public at large and perhaps by the investigating authorities as well. He has not been forgotten by his family. His sister, Donna Igoe, says the family is still doing whatever it can to find out what really happened to the journalist.

No that the family can do much. Mrs. Igoe says that in the main she has had to work through U.S. officials, and it's been demoralizing. She says she is in contact with members of the administration, and with the State Department, but she doesn't think the officers care very much.

One reason is that the United States is politically allied with El Salvador. And Mrs. Igoe wonders if Washington is truly interested in uncovering the truth. If Sullivan was killed by government forces, for whatever reason, the revelation would certainly put some strain on the alliance.

But that is the obvious reason. There is also a less obvious one. Mrs. Igoe says it has to do with reporter Sullivan's credentials. He was a relatively obscure newsman, self-employed, and he had gone to El Salvador to write an article for a controversial girlie magazine called Hustler.

Hustler has a steamy reputation. It features low life literature, soft core pornography, and endless numbers of jokes about or references to bowel movements. In recent months the magazine has printed a series of gruesome photographs that reportedly depict combat atrocities in Salvador.

Hence, Mrs. Igoe says that U.S. officials may have dismissed her brother as a marginal journalist, not worth a whole lot of bother. She claims that if he had gone to the war for The New York Times, or, better yet, for the Catholic Reporter, the case would have received more attention.

She cites one example to prove her point: the 1980-81 issue of the U.S. edition of Hustler in El Salvador. Mrs. Igoe thinks that if the women had been Playboy bunnies, the incident might have faded quickly, but since three of them were nuns the Catholic church has lobbied furiously for justice.

And the church pressure has apparently borne fruit. The American government asked the Salvador government to find the killers, and five national guardsmen were arrested last February. There have been some impediments, but the trial of the guardsmen is now scheduled to begin in January.

Mrs. Igoe wishes the church would also support the search for John Sullivan. But it has not officially spoken of his disappearance. Neither have many of the journalist's colleagues, actually; the New York Times has run hundreds of stories about the nuns, only two about the reporter.

The sister says the whole thing has been frustrating. And she adds that it's a cruel disservice to her brother. In the first place, she says that Sullivan was not a pornographer, he was a professional. He worked for Hustler, yes, but he had also worked for Forbes magazine, several newspapers and ABC-TV.

Besides which, he was an American citizen in good standing, so Mrs. Igoe believes he deserves the full weight of U.S. compassion. "I'll never forget the time we first phoned our embassy in San Salvador," she says. "They coldly suggested that maybe we should hire a private investigator."

The family couldn't afford a private detective. So it has been forced to go it alone. Mrs. Igoe has written to congressmen, and spoken with countless authorities here and in El Salvador. She has also given testimony on the matter before a congressional hearing on inter-American affairs.

But it's all been for nothing. Mrs. Igoe says the family is as much in the dark now as it was 24 months ago. "We have heard things from time to time, but nothing ever amounts to anything. We don't know who took John, or why, and, worst of all, we still don't know if he is dead or alive."

Yet the family won't give up. What's left of the family, anyway. Mrs. Igoe says her father recently died of cancer, and perhaps of the debilitating effects of a broken heart, and so now she says there is one more good reason to find out what happened to John Sullivan in El Salvador.

John Sullivan, a free-lance journalist, vanished in El Salvador two years ago. Today the family still doesn't know where he is or even if he is dead or alive.

Teenagers Join In Custody Battle

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Two teenage boys spent $1 each to hire their own attorney to fight for custody rights in their parents' divorce trial and their first victory was being allowed to live temporarily with their father.

The boys found their attorney, Jean Oliver Moore, by thumbing through the Yellow Pages.

Moore said, to the best of his knowledge, it was the first time children had demanded the right to tell the court the parent with whom they want to live.

"We believe the issue of awarding the physical custody of one human being to another is very important, and the child whose custody is the prize should be consulted."

Florida '82: From Freeze And Drought To Warm, Wet

MIAMI (UPI) — The year that began with dire predictions of drought and back-to-back freezes is ending in Florida with balmy winter weather and over-abundant rainfall.

Water managers say Lake Okeechobee, which sank to its lowest level in 40 years in 1981, is back to maximum capacity as the dry season begins.

And growers report the rainfall has helped citrus groves recover from the freezes of early '81 and '82.

If the trend continues, Florida may have one of its warmest, wettest winters in history.

"We've got a high pressure zone over the east that is preventing cold fronts from penetrating Florida," said Paul Hebert, deputy director of the National Hurricane Center. "If it stays this way we'll have the all-time warmest winter in history."

But Hebert, speaking in mid-December, cautioned that Florida's weather is fickle.

This year has been unusual for the amount of rain during normally dry months and the lack of severe tropical storms on the east coast, forecasters say.

Hebert says that high-level westerly winds have helped both to keep Florida wetter than usual and to prevent tropical storms from reaching the continent.

"The slightly colder air aloft can generate a lot of thunderstorms," Hebert said. "But it also inhibits the development of tropical storms by blowing the tops off the storms as they develop."

"This prevents the heat released from the thunderstorms from accumulating in a single vertical column. If this column or core is destroyed, it can never generate a surface tropical storm."

Hebert said that weather patterns usually change after two or three years. After suffering through droughts in 1980 and 1981, Floridians can expect relatively wet weather in 1983.

Citrus growers credit a wet 1982 with helping their groves recover from the freeze of January 1982.

"The orange crop is better than anticipated," said Earl Wells, a spokesman for Florida Citrus Mutual. "An excellent rainy season allows for new growth that couldn't occur without adequate moisture."

Wells said growers are predicting a crop of 147 million boxes of oranges. "That's still way below what we had two and half years ago, but it's much better than we thought it might be."

Wells cautioned, however, that one night of freezing temperatures can decimate a crop.

Self-Made Success Stories Still Exist Today

ATLANTA (UPI) — Horatio Alger, where are you? S. Truett Cathy — with a chicken head built into the "C" — would like to know.

Cathy is one of that rare breed of self-made men. He has reached a pinnacle of success in one of the most competitive of businesses, and he has done it through aggressive application of free enterprise principles.

He is anxious to hire others willing to work as hard as he has.

Cathy, an erect ruddy-faced man of 62, heads the Atlanta-based Chick-fil-A chain of 253 fast-food restaurants in 31 states. The gross of over $100 million last year and the size of the chain will not scare the McDonald's, the Wendy's, the Kentucky Fried Chicken types, but Cathy does not appear to care about that.

There have been offers to buy him out but Cathy prefers to have his chicken and eat it, too, for Chick-fil-A remains a closely-held family business. He has not found it necessary to go public to finance expansion, and he opened this year a plush five-story $7.5 million Atlanta headquarters building near the Atlanta airport.

Sitting in his semi-circular top floor office, looking out over green woodlands, Cathy talks about how his business was built around three things — the product of a chicken breast on a bun, his operators and location of the restaurants.

He mixes sports-type homilies into his conversation about the need to be "No. 1" and the restaurant operator being the "coach who sees that his players perform at their best level." Men working in the offices wear ties featuring the company logo which combines a perky chicken head in the letter "C."

Cathy likes to tell how he began his career at the age of 8 by buying Coca-Colas at six for a quarter from a local grocery store, then selling them for a nickel each.

He first got into the restaurant business in 1946 but the chicken phase didn't come until 20 years later. He developed a seasoning (secret, naturally) and a process of pressure-frying filleted chicken breasts, then opened his first Chick-fil-A restaurant in an Atlanta-area shopping mall in 1967. It was, Cathy said, a "hole in the wall" with just 387 square feet.

But the location was fortunate and from there, the business started to take off with more and more restaurants opening each year. It reached a peak in 1980 with 53 new restaurants while 47 more opened last year. Cathy also kept locating them in malls. In line with his own life of hard work and long hours, Cathy looks for operators who are willing to do the same for financial reward.

Cathy says he could "very easily have gone the franchise route like the other fast food restaurants" but he decided on a "joint venture" with his managers. He gets a small upfront payment for leasing them restaurants which he builds and stocks. The net profits are split 50-50.

"The only money they need is $5,000 cash. So there you have a high level individual managing your business... that person puts in his time, effort and talents; we put in the capital. It makes sense for him to be a success..."

As an incentive, Cathy rewards operators who boost sales 40 percent with new white Lincoln Continentals for a year. If they repeat the increase the next year, they keep the cars.

Cathy says he has given 53 of the cars so far, including two to one manager who hiked sales by 40 percent three years in a row.

None of the restaurants has ever closed, he notes. Chick-fil-A, according to Cathy, "is built through the free enterprise system which rewards hard work and excellence."

Florida Highway Patrol Predicts

27 May Die Over Weekend

Twenty-seven people will die in traffic accidents in Florida during the 1983 New Year's holiday period unless there is a drastic change in driving habits, according to a prediction released today by the Florida Highway Patrol.

This prediction is based on fatality experience during the past three New Year's holiday periods which recorded the following fatality experience: 1979-80, 102 hours — 31 fatalities; 1980-81, 102 hours — 31 fatalities; 1981-82, 78 hours — 34 fatalities.

Robert A. Butterworth, executive director of the Florida Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles, said, "The 34 deaths during the New Year's holiday last year brought needless tragedy and grief into the lives of the victim's families at the rate of one death every two hours and 18 minutes of the holiday period."

Department records on traffic accidents statewide reflect that the five leading contributing causes of traffic deaths last year were: Had been drinking and driving while intoxicated combined were listed as the contributing cause in 12 of the 34 fatal accidents.

Careless driving ran a close second place as a contributing cause of 11 fatal accidents. Exceeding a safe speed or exceeding the speed limit was listed in six fatal accidents and pedestrians walking in roadway, in five fatal accidents.

"Record research reflects that 76 percent of these 34 fatal traffic accident victims were males," continued Butterworth, "while 21 or 68 percent were under the age of 35 and 22 of the 35 fatal traffic accidents occurred between the hours of 10 a.m. and 6 p.m."

Blueprint Class Set

Seminole Community College is offering an evening course in blueprint reading during Term II. The course, oriented to the construction field, building trades and related areas, will be offered on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. beginning Jan. 4.

The course is a continuation of blueprint reading held in Term I and offers the student the opportunity to now move into the advanced areas and specialize in carpentry, electrical, plumbing, masonry and sheet metal. Due to the unique structure, a student can rapidly review the information previously covered and move at his own pace in the advanced area.

The course is designed to offer a student an opportunity to upgrade previous skills, learn new skills, become an asset to his employer and increase his earning potential.

Students may register at the college from now through the first night of class. Fees for this course include a $16 registration fee and the cost of texts according to subject area selected.

Devil Or Angel? McKay Needs Just 1 More Buc Miracle

It's been over two Sundays since Tampa Bay coach John McKay mentioned going to church in his postgame press conference.

The way the Bucs' luck has been running the past two weeks (wins over Buffalo and Detroit), however, one wouldn't be surprised if the caustic old Tampa Bay coach was taking up residence in some hallowed chapel.

Or maybe he's gone to the other extreme and sold his soul to the Devil.

The Bucs, who stand just one win away (Chicago Saturday at home) from a playoff berth, have been more than blessed on the past two Sundays.

These are the same Buccaneers who lost 26 games in succession a few years back. Their fortunes usually run parallel to the modern-day Baltimore Colts. Fumbles, interceptions and penalties used to flock to them like unwanted relatives.

The past two weeks, however, Tampa Bay has been wearing a Dallas Cowboy mask. Everything that the Bucs have needed to happen has happened, especially in the closing moments. Both victories were miracles.

Take the Buffalo game. Tampa played excellently until the middle of the fourth quarter when the Bills rallied on a Joe Ferguson touchdown run to pull within 24-23.

A loss would knock the Bucs out of a playoff berth.

It seemed to be forthcoming. Ferguson retrieved the ball when the Bucs' offense stalled and artfully moved his club into field goal position at the Tampa 17 — a mere 34-yard chip shot for Efrén Herrera, who already had a 48-yarder to his credit, dashes any postseason dreams.

He never gets a chance. With just 36 seconds to play, Lee Roy Selmon separated fullback Roosevelt Leaks from his senses and the football — which Cedric Brown immediately recovered — to keep the Bucs' playoff hopes alive.

Take the Detroit game. Probably an even more incredible game when you take into consideration a referee's decision is the key to victory.

Williams is backed up to his 45-yard line and things look very bleak as it is third and 20. The swing passes have just about run their course, so everybody in the stadium knows Doug has to go long to Kevin House or over the middle to Jimmie Giles.

He decides on House and lets it fly about 60 yards worth. House and Detroit defensive back Bobby Watkins race after the playoff spot. They collide. A penalty is called on Watkins which results in a 42-yard gain which give the Bucs a first down on the Detroit 12 with just over a minute to play. Billy Capece eventually kicked a 26-yard field goal for the win.

"It was a close call," McKay said about the play. "I think that what he (Watkins) did violate the rule but I will say that it is not often called."

But it is called Sunday which is why you're still reading about Tampa's wonder boys and not researching some other endeavor for your Sunday enjoyment.

Although the last-second finishes have proved entertaining for the 66,000 that have been at Tampa Stadium (both games were blacked out in Orlando because the game was not sold out 72 hours before the kickoff), McKay is having trouble handling the accelerated heartbeats.

"I had a team like this at Southern Cal in 1969," said McKay. "They called them the cardiac kids. Everyone loved them. I didn't like them a bit."

"It's a sign of maturity to win close games. Our team is maturing in that regard but I wish they'd mature in other ways so I wouldn't have to worry," he added.

Well, there's only one more week to worry, whether it be devil or angel.

Ocala—It's hard to tell whether Seminole High would have been better off playing a team it knew nothing about or a team it has already beaten once this season.

At 2:30 p.m. today, the Tribe goes up against Colonial in a loser's bracket semi-final in the Kingdom of the Sun Tournament at Vanguard High. Seminole squeezed out a 49-48 victory the last time the two teams met but Tuesday Colonial outlasted Indian Hills, N.J., 56-49.

The way Seminole coach Chris Marlette and his troops see it, either Indian Hills is not very good or Colonial has improved a lot since the last time they played each other. "We have a good chance to make the consolation finals," Marlette said. "We need to go out and keep the pressure on Colonial like we did with Lake Weir."

Prep Basketball

The 'Noles pressure defense gave Lake Weir fits yesterday and the Tribe survived a late Hurricane rally to win, 63-51. The winner of the Seminole-Colonial game will meet the winner of the Berea, Ky.-Crestview game in the consolation finals on Thursday at 1 p.m.

Seminole got a combined effort of 35 points from Calvin "Kiki" Bryant and Willie Mitchell against Lake Weir. Bryant however scored 16 of his 20 points in the first half and didn't hit a shot from the floor the second half.

Vernon Law, Seminole's point guard, should be at full speed today after spraining his ankle in the opening game of the tourney.

Colonial was led by Mike Wheeler's 18 points and Dennis Lytle chipped in 17 including eight in the fourth quarter. It was Colonial's first win in nine games.

In other games Tuesday, powerful St. John's of Washington D.C. routed St. Petersburg High, 70-48, Ocala Vanguard slipped by Bahamas Catholic, 62-61, Decatur, Ga., edged Edgewater's title hopes, 82-65 and in the other winner's bracket game Clearwater High upset Martin County, 66-61.

In the tourney semi-finals tonight, Clearwater meets Decatur at 9:30 and St. John's clashes with Vanguard at 8.

Tribe On WTRR At 7:55 Tonight

Sanford radio station WTRR (1400 AM) will carry the Tuesday afternoon game between Seminole and Colonial on a tape-delayed basis at 7:55 p.m. Veteran play-by-play announcer Mitchell Mick and Dennis Gola will be mikeside for the ISI Sports Network.

Hillery's Prayer Answered, Tribe Trips Edgewater

By BRENT SMARTT, Herald Sports Writer

"I just said a little prayer and shot it up. I wasn't nervous at all."

Those are the words of 6-1 Seminole junior center Diedre Hillery after she calmly sank two free throws with six seconds left to lift the 'Noles over Edgewater 44-41 and into the finals of the sixth annual Lady Hawk Invitational.

The Seminoles of coach Ron Merthle will square off against defending tourney champions Evans tonight at 8 in the Lake Howell gym.

"I believe we can win," predicted Merthle. "I'm really looking forward to it."

The final stanza was played at a fast and furious pace with Edgewater slowly sneaking to a 41-41 tie at the 56-second mark on a sticky person-to-person defense and two buckets apiece by center Tris Bell and Palm Payne.

After both squads had missed opportunities to go ahead, Edgewater's Sharon Simmons rebounded a Hillery missed jumper at 25 seconds and the Eagles raced down-court for a jumper of their own.

Getting good position, Hillery rebounded the missed shot and was fouled on the way down with six seconds remaining. After calmly downing both charity tosses, Hillery and company forced an errant Edgewater inbound pass. Forced to foul, Edgewater fouled Benton who sank the front end of her one-in-one to provide the 44-41 winning margin.

"It's very important that we play well in a big tournament like this one," pointed out Merthle. "They've calmed down and showed some maturity which is important."

The down-to-the-wire affair got off to a split personality start as both teams went into early zones and slow-down offenses, but later joined in a track meet to finish the first quarter. Edgewater came out on top in the quarter, 11-8, with Mary Joiner chipping in seven of the 11 in the quarter.

In the second period, foul shooting kept the War Eagles close, as the 'Noles outplayed Edgewater with a full-court running game triggered by guards Maxine Campbell and Mona Benton to overtake coach Denise McCarty's Eagles and take a 23-19 halftime edge.

After the intermission the 'Noles went directly inside to Hillery and she totally took over. Scoring eight of Seminole's 14 third-quarter tallies, Hillery and the 'Noles posted a 37-31 margin heading into the final eight minutes.

Hillery led all scorers with 16 points and 13 rebounds. Benton, having an off night followed up with 13 points. Payne led McCarty's forces with 14.

In the second semi-final, coach Dorothy Starbird's Evans Trojans pulled away from Winter Park with 24 fourth-quarter points to ride a 51-34 victory into tonight's finals.

Trailing 28-27 after the third stanza, the Trojans, led by a balanced attack and running game, outscored the Parkers 24-6 in the quarter.

Senior Valerie Seay did most of the damage from the point guard position and ball hawking on the Evans press.

Seay led all scorers with 17 while Winter Park's opening round hero against host Lake Howell Laurie Critser topped the Wildcats with 14.

New York Peddles Zachry For Dodgers' Orta

Baseball

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Mets Tuesday announced they obtained veteran outfielder-pinch hitter Jorge Orta from the Los Angeles Dodgers in exchange for veteran pitcher Pat Zachry.

Orta, 32, boasts a career batting average of .280 in 11 major-league seasons but played sparingly for the Dodgers last year, hitting just .217 in 86 games. He was 9-for-40 as a pinch hitter for Los Angeles and started 16 games in right field, hitting .281.

The two-time American League All-Star finished second to Rod Carew in the AL batting race in 1974 with a .318 average and had a 6-hit game with Cleveland in 1980.

Zachry, 30, a right-handed starter, posted a 6-9 record and 4.05 ERA in 36 games for the Mets in 1982 and for his career, he is 58-60 with a respectable 3.55 ERA. He was 41-46 overall with the Mets.

"Pat asked us about the possibility of trading his contract and we tried to oblige him," said New York General Manager Frank Cashen. "We made a commitment to go with our young pitchers in 1983 and in the future, and honestly Pat didn't fit into our plans."

The acquisition of Orta gives the Mets a surplus of lefthanded bats in right field, with Gary Rajsch and newly acquired Danny Heep already on the roster.

"As far as Orta goes, he's a talented batter who has proved he can hit big-league pitching through the years," Cashen said. "I know we have quite a few left-handed hitting outfielders now and you can look for the Mets to make some other moves before the start of spring training."

Ironically, the Zachry deal comes less than two weeks after the Mets reacquired Tom Seaver from Cincinnati. In 1977, Zachry, Doug Flynn, Steve Henderson and Dan Norman were traded from the Reds to New York for Seaver in the biggest deal in Mets' history.

With Tuesday's transaction, the Mets have now been stripped of all four players they received in the original Seaver trade.

In Los Angeles, Dodgers vicepresident of player personnel Al Campanis said Zachry might allow the Dodgers to go to a five-man starting rotation.

"We felt Pat could be used as a starter and also in long relief," Campanis said. "That will be determined in spring training."

He also said he was sorry to see Orta go.

"Orta was one of nicest people we've ever met in our lives," Campanis said. "But he didn't play and didn't get an opportunity to be sharp. We wish him the best."

IN BRIEF

Williams, Morrison Grab Titles In JV Mat Tourney

Lyman's wrestlers placed second and Lake Mary's matmen took fifth in the Sixth Annual College Park Junior Varsity Wrestling Tournament Tuesday at Edgewater High School in Orlando.

The JV Greyhounds totaled 110 points to finish behind Chapman Winter Park which scored 125 1/2 points. Sebring (101 1/2), Lake Gibson (96 1/2), Lake Mary (91) and Colonial (67) followed in order.

Lyman's Bobby Williams (107) and Lake Mary's Jim Morrison (114) took individual championships. Williams pinned Jeff Dutton of Sebring in 2:53 and Morrison decimated Karl Meyers of Colonial, 9-8.

For the Greyhounds, Chris Battle (100), Scott Andrew (121), Derek Smith (157) and Robert Garza (187) all picked up second-place finishes.

Tim Orange (169), Paul Owen (220) and "Fast Frank" Landrin (111), each grabbed a second spot, for the Rams.

Third place finishes for Lyman included Chris Waxler (140), Randall Mathis (169) and Matt Breen (147). Breen nipped Lake Mary's Doug Kolbjornse, 6-7, on two penalty points for locking hands.

Rams with third place spots were Bo Connell (187) and Matt Broberg (128). Broberg pinned Lyman's Anthony Carullo in 3:02.

Bowden Can't Turn Off West Virginia Memories

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — Florida State Coach Bobby Bowden says no West Virginia fan gets more excited than he does when the band strikes up the Mountaineer fight song.

"That West Virginia fight song gets my blood rushing too," said Bowden, who spent 10 years coaching the team his Seminoles will meet Thursday in the 38th annual Gator Bowl.

"I have a lot of good friends up there and four of my children graduated from West Virginia University," he said. "Used to be, whenever Florida State would be in a bowl game, my children would come to town and all cheer for Florida State."

"This time, they're for West Virginia," Bowden said. "It's a civil war at my house. That's why this game means so much to me. Out of all these 80,000 people at the Gator Bowl Thursday, that game won't mean more to anybody than it does to me."

The Seminoles and Mountaineers are in Jacksonville for their final practice sessions before the contest.

Bowden said he is worried about the West Virginia defense. Mountaineer Coach Don Nehlen said he is concerned about Florida State's razzledazzle offense.

"I think it would be a mistake for us to try to be overly fancy on offense," Nehlen said. "Florida State — now they get fancy."

ISSAC WILLIAMS ...first bowl game

"They're a big-play team and they're full of surprises," he said. "If we can shut off their big plays, we have a chance. If we don't, we have no chance."

Nehlen said the "great diversity" of the Seminoles offense "is the thing that's really amazing."

"Their team has fun on offense — too much fun to suit me," he griped.

Bowden admitted his offense "can be unpredictable."

"It has a lot to do with the area of the country we're in," he said. "Up there in West Virginia you get those big kids playing football. When we want somebody really big, we usually have to go up North looking for them."

"You get more skilled people down here," Bowden said. "You get more runners, more throwers — people who do one thing really well. And when you have a collection of people like that, it's more conducive to wide-open football."

"The only team I know of in this part of the country that plays conservative football is Georgia," he said. "Well, if I had Herschel Walker, I'd play conservative football, too. My forward pass would be a handoff to him."

Bowden predicted a lowscoring football game Thursday night because of West Virginia's strong defense. But Nehlen refused to speculate on how many points would be scored.

"It could be near zero or near 50, I don't know," he said. "Give me a coin and I'll flip it."

Seminole high graduate Issac Williams, a second-term nose guard, will suit up for his first bowl game. Williams, an all-state offensive lineman for the Tribe last year, is a freshman at Florida State and a backup to David Ponder.

Peculiar Bowl

Untested Kickers Spice Florida-Arkansas Bowl

HOUSTON (UPI) — Call it the Peculiar Bowl.

An overabundance of quarterbacks and an undersupply of placekickers is causing Friday night's Bluebonnet Bowl between Florida and Arkansas to get that tag, and causing Florida Coach Charlie Pell to scratch his head over the odd set of circumstances.

"I've never seen anything like it. It's really peculiar," he said. "Both teams have two good quarterbacks who will play in the game, and both teams have a new placekicker who has never kicked."

Pell said Tuesday he would use sophomore kicker Bobby Raymond, a non-scholarship walk-on, because steady senior Jim Gainey — the Gators' leading scorer — is still bothered by a deep cut in his left shin.

The Gators were a 4-point underdog Tuesday before Pell said he thought Gainey was sidelined.

Raymond has kicked only two extra points this year, making both. But he has practiced kicking all season, something the Razorbacks can't say for their field-goal kicker.

Arkansas will use all-America defensive end Billy Ray Smith. The 6-4, 230-pound senior hasn't tried a field goal in a game since high school. But he is the best Coach Lou Holtz has after two other kickers didn't pan out this season.

College Football

Gainey injured his left shin Dec. 19 when a car transmission was dropped accidentally onto his leg. He kicked a few times Monday, but did not kick Tuesday because of swelling in the leg.

He is a right-footed, soccerstyle kicker. But he runs into problem when he has to plant his left foot to begin his kicking swing. The action causes him great pain.

Otherwise, Pell declared the 19th-ranked Gators as healthy as they have been since early last fall when they attained a No. 4 ranking and looked like a potential national champion.

"Bob Hewko will start (at quarterback) because he played well against Florida State, and because he is a senior playing his last game for Florida," Pell said. "But both quarterbacks will play."

Behind Hewko is junior Wayne Peace, who started every game this season en route to an NCAA record 70.7 percent passing accuracy.

Observers said the two quarterbacks were similar mechanically but that Hewko was more intense. In the last regular season game, he sparked the Gators from a 10-0 deficit to a 13-10 win over archrival Florida State and gained a respect he had never felt while at Gainesville.

Pell will quickly replace Hewko with Peace if the Gators fail to move offensively — a tough task against the Razorbacks' No. 1 defense scoring defense in the country.

Hewko said he was not worried about a quick hook.

"I'm a performer. If I do a good job, I'll stay on the stage. If not, I expect to leave," he said. "I'm happy to get the opportunity. It's been tough on me this year, preparing to play each game and getting mentally ready, and then not playing."

Arkansas' defense doesn't know which quarterback to prepare to face. But neither does Florida's defense.

Holtz has not said who will start at quarterback for his team but there were indications he favored sophomore Brad Taylor over senior Tom Jones. Jones is a veteran field general, and Taylor is a more dangerous passer.

Jones Tuesday said a bruise on his arm, which Holtz has said might sideline Jones, was healed and not bothering him. It is known Holtz would like to play Taylor, his quarterback of the future.

McDowell, Gators Rip Penn State, 82-60

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — Eugene McDowell and Ronnie Williams combined for 37 points Tuesday, leading Florida to an 82-60 victory over Penn State in the first round of the Gator Bowl Classic basketball tournament.

The Gators play for the title Wednesday night against the winner of Tuesday's second game between Iowa State and Jacksonville.

McDowell, who scored 12 points in the first half to pace the Gators to 37-29 halftime lead, led Florida with 19 points. Williams, who was hampered with foul trouble in the first half, scored 13 of his 18 points in the second half.

College Basketball

The Gators, 5-4, also got double figure scoring from Vernon Delaney with 16 points, Randall Leath with 13, and Tony Rogers with 10.

Mike Lang led Penn State, 6-4, with 13 points.

The victory was the 499th for Florida coach Norm Sloan.

The Gators trailed only at the outset as Penn State's Craig Collins hit a jumper for a 2-0 Nittany Lion lead.

DEAR ABBY: My mother died three years ago after being happily married to my father for 38 years. Four months ago my father married a lovely woman near his age (60ish), and they came from New York to spend the Thanksgiving holidays in Connecticut with my husband, children and me.

It was a wonderful three days. And although it was strange to see my father show affection to a woman other than my mother, I am honestly thrilled that he found someone so lovely.

After they left, I went into the guest room they had occupied and I noticed that my mother's picture had been turned toward the wall! At first I felt anger and resentment. Then I felt thoughtless and guilty for not having realized it was there and taken it down. In a way I feel hurt and outraged that either my father or his wife would turn my mother's picture to the wall. I can't seem to get it out of my mind, Abby. My husband says I am overreacting and to forget it. But I can't stop thinking about it. Should I mention this to my father or his wife? And if so, what should I say?

MIXED EMOTIONS

DEAR MIXED: Don't mention it. They will probably have a few mixed emotions of their own when they realize that they left the picture turned to the wall.

If I were you, I would find another place for that picture.

DEAR ABBY: In your Thanksgiving message you suggested that the surest cure for post-holiday blues is to "call someone who lives alone and invite him (or her) over for leftovers."

What an insult! Don't forget, Abby, the poor and lonely have their pride! My advice would be: Never invite anyone who lives alone over for leftovers! If you don't want to ask the lonely person for "the real thing," finish your leftovers yourself — or feed them to your dog!

LIVING ALONE IN HUNTSVILLE, ALA.

DEAR LIVING: Sorry. I meant no offense. Most people (myself included) often find leftovers more flavorful than the initial serving.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My husband is an only child and his mother is a widow, so when my in-laws-in-law invited us to pack up our kids (we have three — ages 2, 4½ and 8) and come for Thanksgiving we thought it would be a great idea. We drove 125 miles to get there. Granny, you should know, is very well-to-do, has traveled all over the world and is a collector. Her home is cluttered with treasures she's collected from all over the world. It looks like a museum!

The whole time she watched the kids like a hawk for fear they'd break something. I spent most of my time policing the kids to be sure they wouldn't touch anything. They aren't deliberately destructive or careless — they are normal, curious children. Needless to say, I was a total wreck and my nerves were shot by the time we went home.

When we left, Granny said, "Promise you will come again next year!" Abby, no way will I bring those kids to her house until they're grown.

What should we say when she invites us again?

STILL TREMBLING

DEAR STILL: Thank her, and tell her it's her turn to come to visit you!

DEAR ABBY: How long is "always"? DISILLUSIONED IN PETERSBURG, VA. DEAR DISILLUSIONED: Just a little short of "forever."

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. Write to Abby, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Thursday, December 30, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY

Dec. 30, 1982

This coming year you may have extra responsibilities with which to contend, but these will prove to be character builders. Your qualities and capabilities come to the forefront under challenge.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Usually you're not the type who dodges tough decisions, but today indecisiveness could be your worst enemy. Don't straddle the fence. Order now: the NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals romantic combinations, compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Send an additional $1 for your Capricorn Astro-Graph predictions for 1983.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're not likely to be at your best if you have to work under pressure today, so don't let that which needs doing pile up. Keep a tight schedule.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be your own person today, especially if you get involved with people whose morals and standards do not come up to yours. Better yet, avoid them altogether.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) An old issue which caused turmoil in the household previously could rear its ugly head again today. Don't be responsible for reintroducing it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Try to steer clear of one today who always tries to force his views on others. You won't be in the mood for having anyone tell you how to think or what to say.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be extra careful in your financial dealings today. Mistakes could prove rather costly. Taking prudent measures will avoid this.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Even those with whom you normally get along well could be a trifle difficult today. Handle one-to-one relationships with all the skill you can muster.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't neglect your responsibilities today. They could compound themselves and be even harder to manage later. Sweep nothing under the rug.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Though you may feel impelled to do otherwise, it's best to abide by the will of the majority today. Don't be the only one who is out of step.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Beware of tendencies today toward making what you hope to accomplish far more difficult than it really is. Seek the most direct route.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Discussions pertaining to politics or religion could turn into volatile issues today. Take care, especially if you encounter one who holds strong opposing views.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Before considering new expenditures today, it might be better to first settle old obligations. Don't paint yourself into a financial corner!

Water Sports Best For Osteoarthritis

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to know more about osteoarthritis. I have it in my hips and back and one ankle. I'm 75 years old and overweight by about 30 pounds. I take Ascriptin tablets and use Aspercreme. Does this really help or is it in my imagination? Is there anything better?

I have tried dieting but don't have much success. I would like to lose 30 to 40 pounds. I also have a stationary bicycle I try to ride. Is that OK?

DEAR READER — The location of your arthritis is typical. Notice it involves weight-bearing joints. Osteoarthritis, or degenerative joint disease as it is now sometimes called, is wear and tear arthritis. If a person lives long enough he will have it. Often the first evidence of it is noted by X-rays when the person still is free of symptoms.

Aspirin remains one of the most effective medicines, whether it is in a preparation such as Ascriptin or in the Aspercreme you are using. Yes, the Aspercreme is very helpful in relieving local pain and discomfort. The salicylate it contains is absorbed through the skin.

There are other medicines that have a similar action. These all tend to neutralize prostaglandins that are the body's pain-producing chemicals. But they all decrease factors that protect the stomach lining, causing irritation of the stomach. That is why they should be used under a doctor's direction.

You do need to lose weight, which will decrease the load on those overworked joints. Exercise is important in losing weight and in maintaining function of a joint. BIT, many people wrongly think that exercise is good for arthritis. It is not, other than maintaining range of motion and flexibility. Rest for an overworked joint relieves pain and leads to improvement.

That is why jogging and running activities are not the best form of exercise for people with osteoarthritis. A bicycle is less of a problem. Swimming and water exercises are best because they support your body weight. You'll understand what you should do better from reading The Health Letter 20-2, Osteoarthritis: Degenerative Joint Disease. Others can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My fiancée recently went to a gynecologist for a pelvic examination since she is on the pill. The examination was fairly normal until the gynecologist probed her rectum with his finger. She has been through numerous pelvic examinations before but an incident like this has never happened.

She is now both upset and depressed and has lost a lot of respect and trust in the gynecologist. She believes he went too far and refuses to go to a male gynecologist again.

Is such an examination a routine and valid part of a pelvic examination and, if so, what is it meant to determine?

DEAR READER — Your letter reminds me of how great the gulf of knowledge is sometimes between the attending physician and the patient. Your fiancée should have asked her doctor about it. Otherwise, how would he know that a routine part of a complete pelvic examination had not been understood.

It is done to reach higher to feel for a retroverted uterus, and other problems that cannot always be determined without it. About half of all rectal cancers can be felt by the finger. Her doctor gave her a better examination than the one she has seen who failed to do a complete examination.

WIN AT BRIDGE

almost automatic for him to cash a second high diamond at trick three.

At this time he will notice that diamonds are going to break 3-1 and that he will only be able to collect four diamond tricks because his fourth diamond will block the suit.

Nothing daunted, he will take the club finesse. He will lose it and eventually wind up one trick short.

The careful player will have guarded against this by an apparently unusual play at trick three.

Instead of cashing a second high diamond he will lead a spade to his hand, then a diamond back to dummy.

Now he will lead dummy's last spade and discard one of his diamonds on that spade.

West will cash three spade tricks. Had the suit broken 6-2 he would be able to take four, but South will be sure of five diamonds and his contract.

How would South handle a 4-diamond break?

He wouldn't. Miracles don't happen at the bridge table. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Cranberry Punch, snacks and other hors d'oeuvres start the new year.

Specialties To Celebrate New Year

Many enjoy celebrating the new year with a small group of friends. Often this includes those from a church group or bridge club, golf buddies or neighbors.

Punch and hors d'oeuvres begin the evening and each couple can bring a hot dish for a special New Year's Eve dinner.

CRANBERRY STUFFED BABY BEETS

48 small whole canned beets
1 cup jellied cranberry sauce
1 tablespoon horseradish
1/2 cup sour cream

Drain beets well. Cut a thin slice from bottom of each beet allowing them to stand straight. With the tip of a small paring knife, cut a hollow out of each beet. (Save cut out pieces for your next vegetable salad.) Mix cranberry sauce with horseradish. Fill each beet hollow with the cranberry mixture. Chill and cover. When ready to serve, top each beet with about 1/2 teaspoon sour cream. Serve at once. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 48 servings.

LOW CALORIE BAGNA CAUDA WITH CRUDITE

One-third cup grapefruit juice
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
1 tablespoon anchovy paste
2 cloves garlic, mashed
One-third cup low-calorie Italian salad dressing
Bite-size pieces raw vegetables: small whole mushrooms, thin carrot and zucchini slices, broccoli or cauliflower buds, fennel sticks

Combine all ingredients except vegetables and heat until just bubbling. Place over a warmer and dip vegetables into hot mixture. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 1 & 2-3rds cups, 10 to 12 servings.

BUNCH PUNCH

2 quarts cranberry juice cocktail, chilled
1 quart orange juice, chilled
1 quart pineapple juice, chilled
2 quarts vanilla ice cream
Optional 4-6 cups light whiskey or golden rum or 4 cups club soda

Sprinkle of freshly grated nutmeg
In 6-quart bowl, mix cranberry juice cocktail, orange juice, pineapple juice and ice cream until smooth. Stir in whiskey. Serve in tall glasses or punch cups sprinkled with nutmeg. This makes about 3/4 cup each serving or 24 cups.

CRANBERRY BACON SNACKS

1 jar (14 ounces) cranberry orange sauce
One-third cups crumbled crisp bacon (about 6-7 slices)
One-third cup flavored bread crumbs
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
8 boiled ham slices, 4-by-6 inches
In bowl, mix cranberry orange sauce, bacon and enough bread crumbs to make thick, spreadable mixture. Stir in mustard. Spread mixture evenly on ham slices. Starting at the 4-inch side, roll up ham slices like a jelly roll. Chill wrapped in foil. Cut each roll into 4 pieces and spear each piece with a toothpick. Serve chilled. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 24 servings.

Vegetable Pate

Exotic caterers offering take-out foods for quick meals or entertaining are springing up around the country. Among favorites they offer are pates, usually of the liver, sausage, poultry or game variety.

Growing in popularity, perhaps because of an interest in vegetarian and lower cholesterol foods, are the vegetable pates.

You can make your own broccoli-spinach pate to serve at parties throughout the year. These also are fun and filling to take on picnics, tailgating or on concert excursions.

BROCCOLI-SPINACH PATE

2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen chopped broccoli, thawed
1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped spinach, thawed
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 cup sliced green onion
1 cup shredded carrot
1 medium clove garlic, minced
1/4 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) chicken gravy
1/2 cup pine nuts (optional)
1/2 teaspoon pepper
4 eggs, slightly beaten
Carrot curls, radish roses

Drain broccoli and spinach well with knife; finely chop broccoli and spinach. Well grease an 8 1/2-by-4 1/2 inch loaf pan. Line bottom of pan with foil. In 3-quart saucepan, over medium heat in hot butter, cook onion and carrot with garlic, lemon rind and nutmeg until tender. Stir in gravy, nuts and pepper. Heat, stir occasionally. Remove from heat. Cool slightly. Beat in eggs and fold in broccoli and spinach. Spoon evenly into prepared pan. Cover with foil. Place in 13-by-9-by-3 inch baking pan. Place in oven. Fill to 1 inch deep with boiling water. Bake at 375 degrees for 1 1/2 hours or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan on wire rack for 15 minutes. Place light weight on pate to hold shape. Refrigerate overnight. To serve, unmold on serving platter. Garnish with carrots and radishes. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 10 servings.

Bananas Lend Sweet Touch Of Islands To Main Dishes

A touch of the Caribbean will warm your family on a cold winter's night. The radiance of the Islands shines through to their cuisine, which imaginatively juxtaposes light yet substantial meat with robust fruit.

Bananas frequently are paired with chicken or fish in the Caribbean, capturing the warmth of the sun and lending their sweet, fresh taste to the overall goodness of the dish.

These two main dish recipes have other attractions as well. They are not only delicious but economical and easy. Bananas are almost always the lowest-priced fruit in the marketplace and consistently available. Using cooked chicken in the Curried Banana Chicken Crepes and choosing any one of a wide variety of low-priced fish for the Last Minute Fish Bake will add a budgetary benefit to these unique meals.

Nutrition, too, gets a boost with these dinners. Bananas are high in potassium, have a good supply of iron and are 99.8 percent fat free with no cholesterol.

CURRIED BANANA CHICKEN CREPES

- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup chopped onion (1 medium)
- 1 1/4 cups sliced red or green pepper (1 large)
- 1/4 cup flour
- 2 1/2 teaspoons curry powder
- 3/4 cup milk
- 2 cups cooked, sliced chicken
- 3 green-tipped bananas, sliced 1/2 inch thick
- 8 prepared crepes
- 1/4 cup chopped peanuts

In large saucepan melt butter; saute onion and pepper until crisp tender. Stir in flour; curry powder and ginger; cook 1 minute. Gradually add broth and milk, stirring constantly, until mixture boils and thickens. Stir in chicken; heat. Gently stir in bananas. Place 2 tablespoons mixture on prepared crepes. Roll crepes and place in shallow baking dish, seam-side-down. Spoon remaining banana mixture over crepes. Bake in a 400 degree F. oven about 10 minutes, until heated through. To serve, sprinkle with peanuts. 4 servings.

LAST MINUTE FISH BAKE

- 1 pound fresh fish fillets (flounder, sole, haddock)
  - 1/2 cup tomato puree
  - 1/4 cup mayonnaise
  - 1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice
  - 1 teaspoon dried leaf basil, crushed
  - 1/4 teaspoon salt
  - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
  - 3 green-tipped bananas, sliced 1/2-inch thick
- Place fish in a shallow baking dish. Combine tomato puree, mayonnaise, lemon juice, basil, salt and pepper. Spoon mixture over fish. Bake, uncovered, 10 to 15 minutes or until fish is almost done. Place bananas around fish; spoon sauce over bananas. Bake 5 minutes longer. 4 servings.

Curried Banana Chicken Crepes reflect the Caribbean.

Delectable Creative Desserts

Many are experimenting with cooking these days. Recent studies have shown that more of us are cooking from scratch for a variety of reasons. We're looking for better taste, flavor, economy and natural ingredients. We want to be able to control what goes into our food, to season as we choose and to make food preparation more personal and imaginative. Indeed, the tremendous growth in the number and types of cooking schools in this country indicates our increasing interest in learning new ways of preparing our food.

Desserts are one area where a cook can really indulge his or her creativity. Light, elegant desserts like the ones suggested here are easy when you have grape and strawberry spreads in the house.

For example, grape jelly makes a flavorful sauce to complement the tart taste of the Frosty Lime Souffle. The light and airy Strawberry Angel Pie gets its delicate pink color and great flavor from strawberry preserves. And either grape or strawberry jam turns everyday bananas into a ready-in-minutes showpiece when flamed at the table.

Both the souffle and pie can be made in advance and refrigerated until serving time. There's no last minute rush to assemble ingredients and no extra time away from family or guests. Bananas Aflame requires only a few minutes to cook and all ingredients can be readied ahead of time.

STRAWBERRY ANGEL PIE

- 4 egg whites
- 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup finely chopped almonds
- 2 cups heavy cream
- 2 tablespoons orange flavored liqueur OR 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 cup strawberry preserves
- Sliced almonds or candied violets

Beat egg whites and cream of tartar until foamy. Gradually beat in sugar and continue beating until meringue forms stiff, glossy peaks. Fold in chopped almonds. Spread over bottom and sides of greased 9-inch pie plate; use a spatula or back of spoon to spread meringue to 1/4-inch thickness on bottom and 1-inch on sides. Bake at 275 degrees F. for 1 hour. Turn off oven; leave meringue in oven until cool.

Whip cream to soft peaks. Fold in orange flavored liqueur and strawberry preserves. Spoon into cooled meringue shell. Chill or freeze overnight. Garnish with almonds or candied violets. Yield: 8 servings.

FROSTY LIME SOUFFLE WITH GRAPE NUT SAUCE

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 4 eggs, separated
- 1/2 cup cold water
- one-third cup lime juice
- 2 1/4 teaspoons grated lime peel
- 1/4 teaspoon green food coloring (optional)
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 1 cup grape jelly
- 1/4 cup undrained crushed pineapple
- 1/4 cup chopped macadamian nuts, almonds, pecans or walnuts

In top of double boiler, combine gelatin, 1/4 cup sugar and salt until well blended. In bowl, beat egg yolks with 1/2 cup cold water and lime juice until well mixed; stir into gelatin mixture. Cook over hot, not boiling, water; stir constantly until mixture is thickened and coats the back of a spoon. Remove from heat and stir in 2 teaspoons grated lime peel and food coloring. Pour into large bowl and cool to room temperature; stir occasionally.

In small mixer bowl, beat egg whites until foamy. Gradually add remaining 1/4 cup sugar and continue beating until egg whites are stiff but not dry.

Whip cream. Pile cream and egg whites on top of yolk mixture; gently fold in. Spoon into 5-cup souffle dish. Chill until firm, at least 3 hours.

Combine grape jelly, pineapple, 1/4 teaspoon grated lime peel and chopped nuts. Serve as sauce over souffle. Yield: 8 servings.

BANANAS AFLAME

- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
  - 1/4 cup grape or strawberry jam
  - 4 medium ripe bananas, quartered
  - Dash cinnamon
  - 1/4 cup banana liqueur
  - 3 ounces light rum
  - Vanilla ice cream
- Melt butter in chafing dish or skillet. Add Welch's Grape or Strawberry Jam and blend well. Add bananas and saute several minutes. Sprinkle with cinnamon. Pour banana liqueur and rum over fruit and ignite, basting bananas with flaming liquid. When flame dies out, serve over vanilla ice cream. Yield: 4 servings.

Resolution: Start Year Off Light

Finally, a food resolution we can all keep and feel good about! With the holidays behind, it's the natural time to think about balancing our diets and maybe shedding a few extra pounds picked up during all the festivities.

Don't think diet, think light and sensible. After all, there are many foods, like apples and wheat germ, that taste great, are not fattening, and are good nutritionally. You can stick to your resolution by following a few simple strategies:

- Eat smaller portions of main dishes that are rich in fat. Trim visible fats from meat, skin chicken; broil or bake instead of frying.
- Fill up on vegetable side dishes or soup courses to give you a full feeling.
- Look for foods that offer the most nutrients to fill you up, not out. Try ice milk or yogurt-based frozen desserts as an alternative to ice cream, or plain yogurt instead of sour cream.
- Be sure to eat three meals a day and don't fall into the trap of skipping meals because you think you'll want a rich, gooey dessert at dinner. That's not sensible.
- Beverages can sneak extra calories into your diet. Look to diet sodas or spritzers made of seltzer water and fruit juices or wine to keep calories under control.
- To pack extra nutrients, use wheat germ in place of bread crumbs in casseroles and vegetable dishes. Try apple juice, instead of wine for poaching fish.
- Cut back on the amount of sugar and fat in your own cooking.

- If you're concerned about increasing fiber, it's easily done with foods you like to eat. Apples and other fruits, wheat germ, vegetables, nuts, and whole grain breads are good sources.

- If you're interested in reducing your salt intake, use herbs and spices for flavor.

- Exercise goes hand-in-hand with light eating habits. Exercise painlessly by incorporating it into your daily routine. Stretch to reach, or try isometrics. A brisk walk before dinner is another way to stave off hunger and get exercise benefits as well.

Apples and wheat germ, two of the most wholesome foods available, can help you stay on track when eating light. According to the International Apple Institute, there are sixteen varieties available nationwide, so you can enjoy fresh apples as a nutritious snack anytime, or you can use applesauce or apple juice as a convenient and flavorful ingredient in recipes. Wheat germ, with its nutty flavor, is also an easy and healthy add-on to fruit, salads, and cereals. It's lightly toasted and vacuum-packed to retain freshness and nutritive goodness, with no need for preservatives.

The recipes that follow have all been developed with sensible and light eating in mind.

APPLE STUFFED FILLET OF SOLE

- 2 tablespoons oil
- 1/2 cup chopped fresh mushrooms
- 3 tablespoons chopped shallots
- 2-3 cup chopped pared apple
- 1/2 cup fresh bread crumbs
- 1/2 teaspoon rosemary, crushed
- 4 sole filets
- 1 cup apple juice
- 1/2 teaspoon lemon juice
- chopped parsley

Heat oil in a skillet; saute mushrooms and 1 tablespoon shallots. Add apple, bread crumbs and rosemary; mix well. Spoon filling down center of filets. Roll up and secure with toothpicks. Place remaining 2 tablespoons shallots in shallow baking dish. Place rolled filets over shallots. Pour apple juice over fish. Bake in a 400 degree F. oven for 20-23 minutes, basting twice, until fish flakes easily when touched with a fork.

Remove from liquid and keep warm. Transfer liquid to saucepan. Bring to a boil and continue boiling until only 1/4 cup remains. Stir in lemon juice. Garnish fish with parsley. Serve sauce over fish. Makes 4 servings.

CRISPY WHEAT GERM CHICKEN

- 1 3-pound chicken, cut-up and skinned
- 1 cup regular wheat germ
- 1 teaspoon tarragon leaves, crushed
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1/4 cup milk

Rinse chicken, pat dry. Combine wheat germ, tarragon and lemon rind. Dip chicken pieces in milk, then roll in wheat germ mixture. Place on foil-lined baking pan. Bake in a 375 degree oven for 40-50 minutes.

APPLE AND SQUASH SOUP

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 3/4 pound butternut squash, peeled and chopped
- 3 baking apples, peeled, cored and chopped
- 1 quart chicken broth
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- pinch nutmeg
- salt and pepper
- chopped chives

Heat butter in 5-quart saucepan. Add onion and squash; saute until onion is transparent. Add apples and cook 3 minutes. Add chicken broth and curry powder. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 30 minutes, or until squash is very tender. Transfer soup in batches to blender or food processor and process until smooth. Return to pan; season with nutmeg and salt and pepper to taste. Serve hot, sprinkled with chopped chives. Makes 7 cups.

WHEAT GERM SPINACH SAUTE

- 1 pound fresh spinach
- 1 cup regular wheat germ
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1/4 cup pine nuts or coarsely chopped almonds
- 1/2 teaspoon basil leaves, crushed
- 1/2 teaspoon thyme leaves, crushed
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine

Wash and drain spinach. Discard stems. Chop spinach coarsely. Combine spinach, wheat germ, eggs, pine nuts, basil, thyme, salt and pepper; mix well. Melt butter in large skillet.

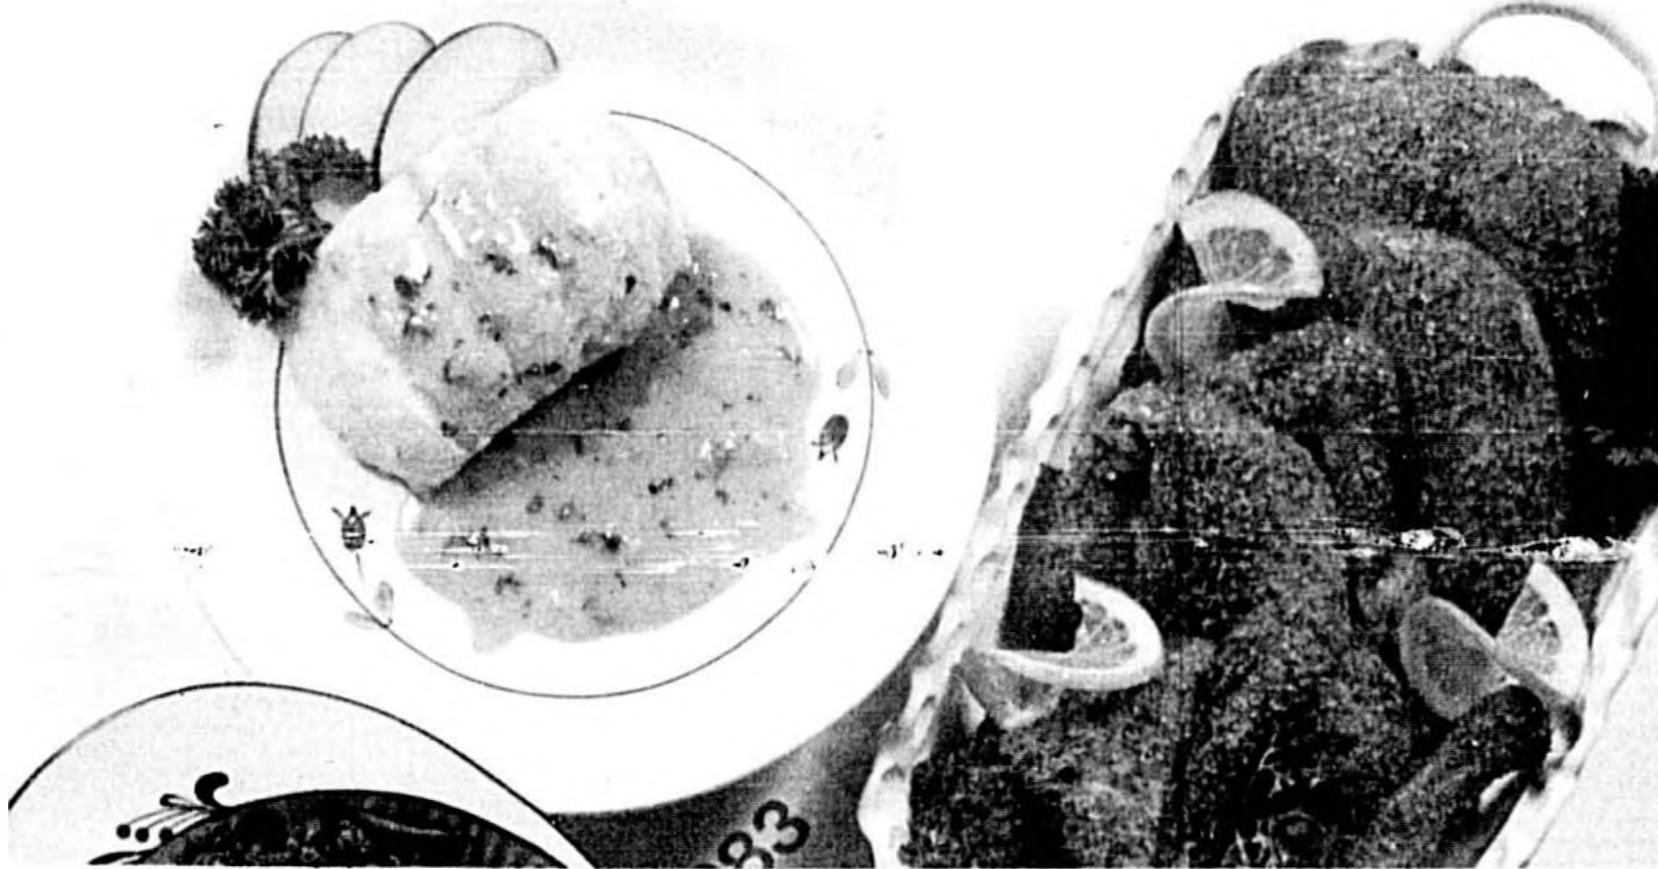

Add spinach mixture. Cook over medium-high heat for 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Makes 4-6 servings.

WHEAT GERM-APPLE YOGURT TORTONI

- 16 ounces plain yogurt
- 1 cup applesauce
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 3/4 cup wheat germ, regular or brown sugar & honey
- 1-3 cup finely chopped walnuts
- 1-2 tablespoons honey

Combine yogurt, applesauce and vanilla; set aside. Mix together wheat germ, walnuts and honey. Reserve 1/2 cup for topping; stir remaining mixture into yogurt mixture. Spoon into paper-lined muffin-pan cups. Sprinkle with reserved wheat germ mixture. Freeze until firm; about 2 hours or overnight. Makes 8 servings.

Apple Stuffed Fillet of Sole, left, and Crispy Wheat Germ Chicken have been developed with sensible and light eating in mind.
