Four found dead in home

DETROIT — A deeply religious couple, their 2½-year-old daughter and an unwed mother were found slain Thursday in a home on the city's northwest side, and police Friday searched for the boyfriend of the second woman.

The adult victims, William Darnell Jr., 34; his wife, Bette, 40, and Alicia Smith, 24, were found bound and gagged in the basement of the home, their bodies piled on top of one another, police said.

North: Two charges dismissed

WASHINGTON — A federal judge, accepting Attorney General Dick Thornburgh's certification of the potential damage of disclosing national security secrets at trial, Friday dismissed the two central Iran-Contra charges against Oliver North.

In his bench ruling, U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell said he had "no factual basis for contesting" the administration's decision to bar independent prosecutor Lawrence Walsh from using classified documents to pursue the charges.

North, the ex-White House aide whose 1986 firing broke open the Iran-Contra scandal, still faces 12 criminal counts.

Nuclear plants to be closed

WASHINGTON — The government, citing "public perception" problems and possible savings, said Thursday it plans to shut down contained nuclear weapons plants in Colorado, Washington and Ohio as part of a 20-year, $11 billion modernization and cleanup project.

A report to Congress from President Reagan said the F-1 Matera Production Center, a uranium foundry near Female, Ohio, would be closed in the early 1990s and that plutonium processing activities at the Rocky Flats plant near Denver would begin to be relocated to other sites in the next decade.

Student shuffle okayed

Task force recommendation would transplant 841 to different schools

By CAROL J. RUMSEY
Herald staff writer

OVIEDO — A task force studying middle school rezoning for Seminole County approved a recommendation last night to move 841 students to different schools next fall.

The bulk of those students would have attended Jackson Heights Middle, and Greenwood Lakes Middle schools — schools located in areas of rapid residential growth. Too many students in these areas left the rest of the district with empty seats, and Jackson Heights needing 17 portable classrooms to handle students.

Task force members voted 15-2 to include all grade levels — sixth, seventh, and eighth — in the rezoning. The decision breaks with a high school recommendation to move only incoming freshmen, and ignores school board guidelines set last August. At that time, seventh-graders able to provide their own transportation were to be left out of the process.

Dan Pelham, Sanford Middle principal, said not all parents could manage rides for their children, and that made it an unfair option to offer students. Further, he said by including all grade levels, principals could obtain better projections of student numbers at each school.

This is not what parents of Jackson Heights students wanted to hear last night. Throughout the rezoning process they have pushed to have only incoming students affected, saying it would involve the least movement of students. Bob Rainey, principal of that school, asked task force members to take another look at the idea.

"We can handle the numbers," Rainey told the task force. "It makes much more sense to move one grade per year than three."

City manager hopefuls not suitable, board says

By SANDRA BOUCHAMINE
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — City commissioners are back to square one in their search for a new city manager.

After interviewing three of the top candidates, commissioners found none of them suitable for the position and decided Thursday to raise the salary range for the position and to use an executive search firm to recruit someone for them.

They will direct the staff to research some firms and will interview them at 7 p.m., Jan. 26.

They decided by a 4-1 vote to increase the salary range from $35,000-$45,000 to $40,000-$50,000.

Commissioner Thomas Mahoney made the motion that none of the candidates interviewed were suitable and to thank them for their participation.

There was a list of three other candidates to interview if the top three did not meet the commissioners' criteria, but they decided not to interview them either.

"For different reasons tonight, I found none of the applicants satisfactory," Commissioner Paul Tremel said.

"I agree with Tremel. These candidates do not meet my expectations," Mahoney said.

"I think we need to raise the range. We're moving to a point where we must reach out and pull them out of a job they're reasonably happy with to us," Mahoney said.

Commissioner Bill Greene suggested interviewing two or three firms that could find the proper person for the job.

"We must verbalize to them exactly what we're looking for. We have to give them the qualifications. They will go out and find them. I can't see a better way of doing it," Greene said.

In the meanwhile, Acting City Manager and Police Chief Charles

Creek clean-up will lower cost of Lake Jesup span

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

ORLANDO — In about three or four years, Seminole County expressway motorists will cross over Lake Jesup on a level bridge instead of an arched one.

The environmental advisory committee of the Seminole County Expressway Authority gave their endorsement Thursday to a plan to clean up Six Mile Creek instead of scrubbing stormwater drainage from the bridge.

The approval allows bridge engineers to design a slightly less expensive flat bridge which will let rain flow untreated off the bridge directly into the lake.

Environmentalists and state officials agreed the concept would lead to cleaner water flowing into the lake, a 7,900-acre murky backwater of the St. Johns River southeast of Sanford. The lake has been polluted by years of sewage and other drainage flowing into it.

The original design for the nearly two-mile, $25 million bridge over Lake Jesup featured an 18-foot arch in the center and a drain system that collected stormwater and directed it to a filtration system that would clean out much of the lead, oil and other pollutants from automobiles. The drainage system alone added about $1.2 million to the cost of the bridge, designers said.

However, bridge designers said on Thursday that they could better improve the lake's water quality by cleaning the water in Six Mile Creek before it enters the lake than by cleaning the water running off of the bridge. Therefore, the committee

Kelly and several other Kelly Services workers are conducting a trip survey for the Seminole County Expressway Authority to determine where people in the county are driving to and from where. The results will help expressway and county planners know which roads people will use to get to the expressway and how many will use the $152 million road when it is built in the 1990s.

Kimball under 'suicide watch' in jail

TAMPA — Former Olympic diver Bruce Kimball, who pleaded guilty to drunken driving-manslaughter, was in a one-person cell Thursday, segregated from the rest of the jail population and under 15-minute watch because authorities fear he is developing suicidal tendencies.

Kimball, 25, entered a surprise plea of guilty to two counts of manslaughter and three counts of driving under the influence involving serious injury Wednesday moments after hearing a deputy sheriff give a graphic description of the accident scene, and before photographs could be shown to the jurors.

The obviously shaken Kimball conferred with his attorneys and then entered the guilty plea. He is scheduled to be sentenced Jan. 30 and state sentencing guidelines call for a minimum of seven years and a maximum of 22.

During a conference with Hillsborough Circuit Judge Harry Lee Coe before Kimball pleaded guilty, defense attorneys Lee Fugate and Frank Quesada said they were worried about him.

Belgian soldier confesses to killings

FORT LAUDERDALE — A Belgian soldier has confessed to the murders of a gay airline reservations clerk and a cab driver he said were committed because he had a fight with his homosexual lover, police said Thursday.

Rudy Albert Van denborre, 25, pleaded with detectives by phone to find him before he killed someone else, then turned himself in to a Fort Lauderdale police officer early Thursday.

"He said he had arrived in Fort Lauderdale Jan. 4 after having an emotional breakup with his homosexual lover in Washington," Broward county sheriff's spokesman George Crollus said. "He indicated the two murders were a form of revenge against his former homosexual partner and that he was planning a third murder when he saw the police officer on the street and decided to surrender."

Police crack down on gang violence

PENSACOLA — A gang of middle-class youths who allegedly assaulted a city councilman several weeks ago has been put on notice that authorities will not tolerate gang terrorism, police said Thursday.

Police spokesman Lt. Jerry Henderson said the gang goes by the name "Foul Play," has up to 25 members and operates in the northern part of town. It is one of two distinguishable gangs in Pensacola.

Members of "Foul Play" are suspected of being involved in burglaries and thefts, break-ins, vandalism, assault and batteries, Henderson said police are keeping a close eye on their activities.

New radar will help predict tornadoes

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE — An Air Force base in northwest Florida will be among the first sites to install a new radar system that lets experts predict deadly tornadoes up to 20 minutes before they form.

The NEXRAD system, which can also see "wind shears" dangerous to aircraft, will be installed at Eglin Air Force Base in October 1990. Construction should be finished in six months.

Six months before Eglin gets its new radar, Melbourne, a city about 25 miles south of Cape Canaveral on Florida's East Coast, will be getting its system. It is scheduled to be installed in March 1990.

Lt. Col. Thomas Tascione, commander of Detachment 10 of the 2nd Weather Squadron, said Eglin will use the system to get a better picture of weather at the base. But civilians will benefit because the information will be fed into a databank shared with civilian weather forecasters.

Conventional weather radar can see moisture in the air up to 150 miles away, but can not show an observer how fast or in what direction the wind is blowing. It does not always show echoes indicating a tornado.

Henderson denies gas tax allegations

TALLAHASSEE — Transportation Secretary Kaye Henderson denied Thursday that he and Gov. Bob Martinez are trying to maneuver the Legislature into proposing a gasoline tax increase and taking the political heat.

Henderson maintained under questioning by the Senate Appropriations Committee that his agency can continue with its master transportation plan with no increase over the $2.3 billion in state and federal funds it received last year.

But committee members indicated they were not convinced the state could so easily overcome the DOT budget crunch which is forcing delay of $700 million in projects over the next five years.

"You should tell us what it is you know in your heart you need to do your job," said Sen. Malcolm Beard, R-Seffner. "I'd like to know the truth, and we're not getting it."

"Are we being maneuvered into a position to come up with a big shot of revenue?" asked Sen. George Kirkpatrick, D-Gainesville.

State prepares for refugee influx

United Press International

MIAMI — The flood of Central American refugees into south Florida continued Thursday as local officials prepare for a wave of thousands of refugees from south Texas.

"They've been coming in like flies," said Maria Gulones, a Greyhound ticket agent in Miami.

Carl Guelker, a Greyhound agent in Brownsville, said about 700 Central American refugees a day are loading buses for the 40-hour trip to Miami. "I don't know what you're going to do with all those people."

Guelker said about 75 percent of the estimated 5,000 refugees in south Texas have bought bus tickets to Florida, with 60 percent heading to Miami, popular because of its large Hispanic community.

While Miami historically has been a final destination for most Nicaraguans, the city became more inviting when Miami City Manger Cesar Odio opened the Bobby Maduro Miami stadium for temporary shelter. For almost a month, the stadium has sheltered Nicaraguan refugees and about 150 homeless, but Odio has ordered the doors closed to newcomers since it reached capacity with 250 people.

The stadium must be vacated by Jan. 25, when the Baltimore Orioles begin spring training.

"From a practical standpoint, there's a limitation to what we can do," Dade County Manager Joaquin Avino said.

Workers are clearing county wetland to set up as many as 60 trailers to serve as temporary housing, Avino said.

Supreme Court orders stays for two condemned inmates

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — The Supreme Court Thursday struck down the death penalty given convicted killer Theodore Bassett and ordered a new trial for death row inmate James Michael Mack.

Bassett was sentenced to death for the 1978 murders of James Boucher and Daryl, both 18, in Broward County. According to court records, Bassett and co-defendant John Cox told the two victims they would take them to a party after Bassett met them walking on Daytona Beach.

Bassett and Cox robbed the two victims at gun point, then locked the teenagers in the trunk of a car for several hours while planning how to kill them. Bassett and Cox eventually ran a hose from the car's exhaust into the trunk, killing the two boys by carbon monoxide poisoning.

On appeal, Bassett claimed his lawyer had not done an adequate job of defending him. He charged his lawyer had not presented evidence that Bassett had a history of being easily dominated by other people, including co-defendant Cox.

The Supreme Court agreed, saying that if the trial lawyer had done his job better the jury may have recommended he be given life in prison or a lesser sentence rather than death.

The court unanimously upheld Bassett's conviction, but ordered his sentence of death reversed. The justices ordered that he be given a new sentence by a different jury.

Mack was sentenced to death for the August 1986 murder of Mary Eberhart during a Volusia County burglary. Eberhart was beaten and stabbed in the neck with a steak knife.

The justices ruled 6-1 that Mack's conviction and sentence be reversed and that he be given a new trial.

Spokesman predicts changes for state's elderly population

United Press International

GAINESVILLE — Growing competition for tax dollars among the young, baby boomers and the elderly will make seniors in Florida and the nation more vocal and more cohesive in the future, predicts the president of a national elderly advocacy group.

"Among advocates for the elderly, I foresee the evolution of a new kind of organization made up of elderly people," said Robert Atchley, president of the 7,000-member American Society on Aging.

Speaking at the University of Florida Wednesday, Atchley said he sees a growing competition for tax dollars among the generations.

He said baby boomers and younger people are becoming increasingly critical of government-funded benefit programs for the elderly and are putting pressure on legislators to cut back those programs.

"I think, in the future, it will be very interesting to see whether pressures to cut back on benefits and services to elderly people will generate the kind of energy in them that will force policymakers to work with them," said Atchley, director of a gerontological studies center at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio.

Atchley elderly people will become more militant and vocal — in the tradition of the Gray Panthers elderly advocacy group — as they perceive threats to Social Security, Medicare and other benefit programs.

Programs for the elderly are being criticized in Florida and every other state, Atchley said. Although elderly advocates are proud the percentage of elderly Americans living below the poverty level has fallen from 60 percent in 1960 to 30 percent today, many younger taxpayers feel the elderly are advancing at the expense of other generations, he said.

"A statistic like that does change the situation," Atchley said. "It is true that we're seeing a lot more affluent older people. But there are still pockets of dire poverty among the elderly."

"The Golden Age of Aging has passed. There are no free rides anymore on issues related to aging in the United States Congress," he said. "Every aging-related issue will be vigorously debated in Congress from now on."

Firm fined for dumping sludge

SANFORD — A Sanford based firm based was fined Tuesday for improperly dumping sludge in Volusia County.

Frenz Enterprises, a sludge-hauling company, was fined $1,000 for violating a Volusia ordinance requiring a permit from the county to dump materials. Frenz was cited Dec. 28.

Under the Volusia ordinance that went into effect Sept. 1, Frenz will have to pay 40 cents for every 1,000 gallons of sludge dumped in the county amounting to $353.60.

Tuesday Frenz agreed to pay Volusia County $756.26 for administrative and investigative costs.

Bill Pecci, consultant to Frenz Enterprises, said the company is now certified to dump sludge in Volusia County.

Frenz Enterprises hauls sludge from sewage treatment plants to farms for use as fertilizer.

Killer hit-and-run car found

By SUSAN LOZEM

CASSELBERRY — "We have the hit-and-run car," Casselberry Police Investigator Al Caplan said of a silver, MR2 Toyota found at about 2:37 a.m. today hidden in a garage at 959 Jericho Drive, Casselberry.

The car, Caplan said, is definitely the one involved in the drag-race-related accident on State Road 436, Jan. 7, in which Loren Quinn, 14, of Winter Park, was thrown from her family's van and killed.

Caplan said a 17-year-old boy has been identified as the driver of the death car, but he has fled. Caplan said police received a couple of anonymous tips to the location of the car. When they questioned homeowner Nerida DeJesus, she reportedly identified the 17-year-old boy as the driver of the car on Saturday night when the fatal crash occurred. She told police the boy had gone to Puerto Rico.

Caplan said he believes the boy is still in the Central Florida area. He has an appointment Monday to question a passenger who was in the MR2 Saturday night, as well as the suspected driver's lawyer.

Caplan said he believes the MR2 has been in DeJesus' garage since the accident. There has been no attempt to repair the car, DeJesus, Caplan said refused to give police permission to search for the car at her home. They got a search warrant and searched the garage where the car was found.

Police, Caplan said, will discuss with the State Attorney, the possibility of charges being filed against persons who may have aided the driver in evading police after the accident.

The driver of the second car, that was reportedly drag racing with the MR2 when the MR2 passed on the right, from the rear the van Quinn was riding in with her family, came forward Monday. That man described the MR2 and gave police other information. The investigation continues, and so far no charges have been filed in the case.

Witnesses said the eastbound van veered out of control when the left rear of the Toyota clipped the right front of the van, driven by Quinn's stepfather. The van crossed the median into the westbound lane and flipped. Quinn was ejected through the glass of a window. Three other family members with her were not seriously injured. Both racing cars sped from the scene, bringing a massive manhunt by Casselberry police.

Longwood, unions set negotiations

By SANDRA BOUCHAHINE

LONGWOOD — Labor negotiations between the city and the International Union of Operating Engineers Local 673 (IUOE) will be held Monday.

Two separate bargaining units will be negotiating a contract with the city. "This is the first negotiating session. At that time, the union will propose what they want," City Labor Attorney and Chief Negotiator Frank C. Kruppenbacher said.

The session for the blue-collar unit will take place at 9 a.m. in city hall. Then at 11 a.m., the white collar or clerical unit will negotiate.

About 45 workers are represented by IUOE.

The Longwood Professional Firefighters Association Local 3163 will not be part of the negotiations because of a pending election to determine whether there will be two separate bargaining units, one for supervisors and one for rank and file firefighters.

Train kills man

LONGWOOD — A man was struck and killed by a train in rural Longwood early today.

The victim is identified as Jerry Eugene Tolzenbury, 32, of 1848 Longwood Lake Mary Road. Seminole Sheriff's Chief Deputy Duane Harrell said there is no indication of foulplay in the incident.

Train engineer Michael Tanner, 33, of Chuluota said his CSX rail transport train was traveling north at about 50 mph when he saw a man who had been lying on the railroad track stand and try to walk away. The train struck the man and dragged his body about 100 feet before the train could stop, a Seminole County sheriff's report said. Brakeman Harold Bingham, 41, of Sanford, also witnessed the accident, deputies said.

The site of the accident is 150 yards south of County Road 427 at Lake Mary Road, deputies reported.

Water district agrees to spend $30 million in five-year plan

By LAURAL L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The St. Johns Water Management District has adopted a five-year plan to spend $30 million to $40 million annually for acquiring lands for flood control and wildlife protection.

The district buys land to preserve flood plains, to filter surface water and to help preserve wildlife. District spokesman Ed Albanesi said development in Florida has sprung up on flood plains, leaving no outlet for excess surface water and endangering wildlife habitats.

A federal flood control project that began last year accounts for most of the recent land acquisitions, Albanesi said. The five-year project primarily involves purchasing flood plain land in the upper St. Johns basin, he said, rather than construction.

Local governments need tax increase, officials say

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Cities and counties must be allowed to raise taxes or the 1985 Growth Management Act is doomed to failure, local government officials and environmentalists told House Speaker Tom Gustafson Thursday.

The Growth Management Act, seen by many as crucial to protecting Florida's fragile environment from ravages of population growth, in part requires infrastructures such as roads and sewers be in place before construction can proceed.

Local governments cannot meet that requirement — known as concurrency — unless they are given the authority to raise more money. Gustafson was held during a meeting with concerned groups.

"Without new sources of revenue, this act will self-destruct within a few years," said Florida Association of Counties director Kurt Spitzer. "Without that extra revenue, there is just no way we can meet the requirements of the act within a few short years."

Spitzer and others specifically requested lawmakers allow counties to raise local sales taxes without voter approval. County commissioners can now raise the local sales tax by 1 cent only if they first win permission in a local referendum.

Spitzer and others also said that local governments need more leeway to raise gasoline taxes for road construction. Most counties are at or near a statutory cap on local gas taxes.

The law is expected to be a hot topic during the 1989 legislative session because many of its key elements, including concurrency, take effect this year. Despite concern in the environmental community, Gustafson said he does not expect an assault on the act. He said that virtually everyone affected, including local governments, realtors and developers has united to make the act work.

DNR has cooperated with the district on two other projects. When parcels have varying kinds of land, Albanesi said, "working together can prove fruitful." While the district can use low-lying lands for flood control, DNR may need forests and pastures for recreational and ecological uses.

The Oviedo tract, owned by William Demetree, is primarily pasture and wetland forest.

The district has acquired more than 100,000 acres, Albanesi said. While most district purchases are in the upper St. Johns basin located in Brevard and Indian River Counties, he said, other purchases are made along the St. Johns River, the Econohatchee River Basin and the Oklawaha River Basin.

Spare us the steer steroids

America frowns upon athletes pumped up with synthetic hormones. Steroids are dangerous, the experts say.

The meat we eat apparently is another matter. American food-raisers inject growth hormones into hamburger-bound beef cattle. Thanksgiving turkeys and pigs destined to complement a scrambled egg breakfast are hormone-treated animals put on weight faster than you can say Ben Johnson. The experts - most of them, at least - say the substances don't hurt us. More and more consumers in this country are questioning the experts. So do we.

The skepticism is even more widespread in Europe. Consumer groups, mainly in West Germany, insist that hormones are dangerous to human health. Politicians have started listening, which is why growth hormones are feeding an incipient trade war between the United States and the 12-nation European Community.

Beginning Jan. 1, the Europeans banned imports of U.S. meat from animals treated with growth hormones. The United States is threatening to retaliate by imposing 100 percent duties on $100 million of annual imports from the E.C. That would make the European products too expensive for most American consumers.

Clay Yutler, U.S. trade representative, has declared the European ban an "unfair trade practice." Whatever it is, it looks as if we will be doing without Danish hams and French cheese, tomatoes, fruit juices and other import items.

The Europeans aren't backing down. They are getting beef from countries that honor the hormone ban. To allow hormone-treated beef meat into Europe, the E.C. says, would be unfair to European farmers, who already are prohibited from using the hormones.

Although we would hate to see a trade war escalate, our sympathies on this particular issue lie with the Europeans. Their increasing sensitivity to health concerns seems legitimate. It should be emulated here.

Australia, New Zealand, Brazil and Argentina now export hormone free beef to Europe. Why can't we?

Honoring Mike Mansfield

Mike Mansfield, a tall, ramrod-straight man who could have been played by Gary Cooper, was as taciturn, as candid and as honorable as he looked during the 46 years of public service that he's about to end at the age of 85. If anyone ever accused this one-time Montana teacher and mining engineer of mincing his words or taking a cheap shot, no one can remember it.

One should never speak of Mansfield in the past tense, of course. Who would have guessed, when he retired as Senate majority leader at 74, after 34 years in Congress, that he would soon begin a new career as U.S. ambassador to Japan? There, amazingly, he served both Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan. He managed one of the world's most delicate relationships with both tact and directness.

Mansfield's demeanor as majority leader in the Senate during the tense years of the Vietnam War and the Watergate scandal was no beyond reproach that, to younger members of Congress, he was not so much respected as revered. Mike Mansfield's career stands as a model for all of us.

Berry's World

Now there is an impulse to turn a name that promoted unity on the basis of color to a name that promotes unity on the basis of origin. To turn from a title that describes people in contrast to others, white to a title that describes people in connection to their own ancestry, African American.

"We are not just former slaves living in the United States," says Kamona Edelin in the head of the National Urban Coalition who raised the issue at a recent meeting of leaders. "We are African Americans."

"To be called African American has cultural integrity; it puts us in our proper historical context," says Jesse Jackson, speaking for himself and others who have used the title of a title that until now has been mainly used by academics.

As first, as an American who regards her ties to the mother continent Europe with great distance, I regarded the phrase African American with great skepticism. After all, what is in a name? Does this one promise to be more precise? If black is a word used to describe a huge range of skin color that rarely resembles ebony, then African is a world that covers countries as diverse as Ethiopia and Kenya. It covers cultures as diverse as the Kikuyu and the Iakuba.

BEN WATTENBERG

Sentencing Reagan to history

What about George Washington? He was the father of our country.

How about Abraham Lincoln? He freed the slaves.

Franklin Roosevelt? He gets two sentences. Fought the Depression. Won the war.

Lyndon Johnson? A struggle, still, between two sentences. He got us into Vietnam. He helped the poor and blacks.

Millard Fillmore? James Buchanan? Grover Cleveland? Nothing, nothing, nothing.

It was a theory of the late Clare Booth Luce that important presidents were remembered by only a single sentence, occasionally by two. The sentences are terse, sometimes unfair or simplistic, but that's all that one gets from history. Sorry about that. Lesser presidents don't even get that much.

What, then, about Ronald Reagan? In the past few weeks there has been much writing about his accomplishments and failings. He made us feel better about ourselves. He rebuilt the military. He cut taxes, inflation and regulation. He opposed the poor. He showed that capitalism worked. He ran up a gonzo deficit. He was lazy, inattentive and presided over a rogue White House. He paid ransom to the dreaded ayatollah. He made peace with the Russians. He cut back nuclear weapons. He started Star Wars. Sorry, too much. Under Luce's rule that just won't do. One sentence, maybe two. You say that's not realistic? Too bad. That's the rule.

What does Reagan get?

Feel better about ourselves? Dubious. Too fuzzy. "We never felt so bad; anyway, we may start feeling that way again."

Taxes, inflation and regulation? They are important, but they may go back up. Not necessarily a lasting change.

Bashed the poor? The poverty rate is lower.

Lazy and inattentive? Me too. Not the stuff of history.

Ransomed hostages, Iran-contra? Poof! Another blip.

There are only two serious candidates for lasting single-sentence Reaganesque historical simplicity. Both are hostages to history.

One is the deficit. It is big. One can have fun by imagining what Ronald Reagan would say about it if it had been run up by Jimmy Carter.

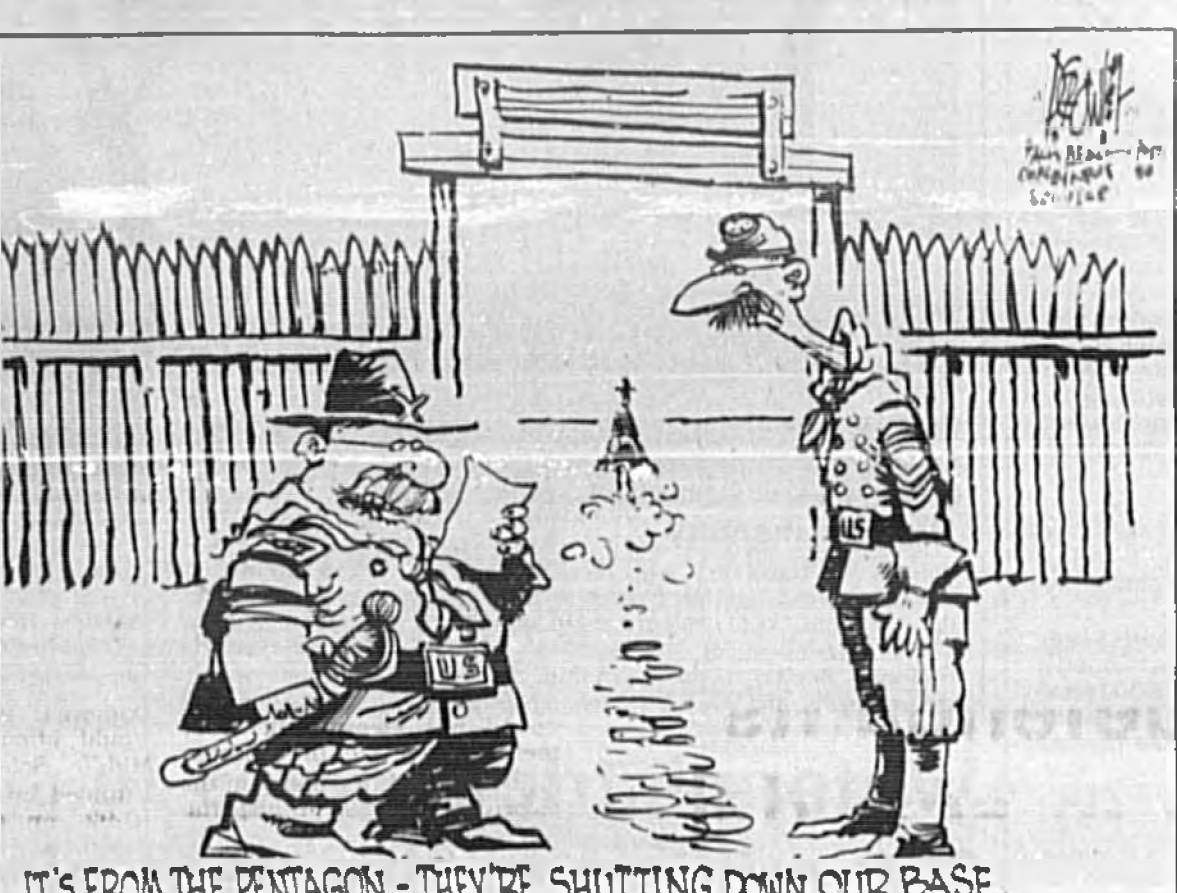

There are some people, even economists, who believe that we are in for a major crash, crunch, baah or bump. If it happens, it will surely be ascribed to Reagan's promiscuous budget debt. No matter that the relationship between economic apocalypse and national deficit is, at best, unclear. In popular history it will be Reagan's fault. His sentence will then be: "He started the Crash."

But something big did happen on Reagan's watch that is fraught with substance. For almost 50 years we have been grappling with the Soviets about the nature of the world. That struggle is called the Cold War. That Reagan was able to participate in it is a debt he owes to two generations of Western statesmen.

But it happened to come together on his watch. He helped make it happen. He reacted in the right way. If Reagan is lucky, if the great struggle indeed winds down soon, there will only be one proper sentence for the guy: perhaps simplistic, perhaps unfair, but there it is, in big neon letters: "He won the Cold War."

Important presidents are remembered by only a single sentence, occasionally by two.

IT'S FROM THE PENTAGON - THEY'RE SHUTTING DOWN OUR BASE.

JACK ANDERSON

Nixon should have handled Gadhafi

WASHINGTON - If Moammar Gadhafi has become a pain in the American derriere, we can thank Richard Nixon, who likes to boast that, whatever his inadequacies, he guided U.S. foreign policy with uncommon skill.

It is worth recalling, therefore, how he handled Gadhafi's arrival on the world stage. Gadhafi was a 24-year-old communications lieutenant when he overthrew the legitimate government of Libya in 1969.

He headed a band of young conspirators, representing no constituency in particular, who usurped power at gunpoint. By an Arab-Bian Night's rage, they got the palace guards drunk, carried them off to prison, and then, through the de-kened streets in the wee hours to arrest the key leaders.

Gadhafi displaced a constitutional government, which had succeeded ages of foreign rule and imposed puppets. King Idris had followed a pro-Western policy and became the premier of oil supplier of several NATO countries. Overnight, Gadhafi threw up existing treaties, proclaimed his alignment with radical Arab states and indulged in radical rhetoric and posturings.

Not long afterward, the United States merely closed down its most important foreign base at Gadhafi's request.

We have it from Nixon's then-national security adviser, Henry Kissinger, that the U.S. government debated within itself whether to accept or reject the Gadhafi seizure of power and that Kissinger had analyzed made of various actions that could be taken against it.

The Central Intelligence Agency insisted that the United States replace Gadhafi with a leader more friendly to the West. What's more, the United States could have acted not as a conqueror, but as a defender of the lawful government, intervening at its request.

What then, with the redoubtable Richard Nixon at bat, was the rationale behind what Kissinger would later confess as his administration's passivity in Libya?

The State Department's explanation, given in a Senate inquiry, was that there was a local intelligence failure which made misjudgments unavoidable. Kissinger's suggestion is probably more accurate. He said that the lower echelons of the U.S. foreign policy apparatus were soft-headed about America's true interests in the ghetto calls himself African American. Immediately he's international. You've taken him from the ghetto and put him on the globe.

The black leadership of today has turned inward, toward internal healing, toward self-help. It is a fitting impulsive to choose a name that looks backward in order to move forward.

ELLEN GOODMAN

From blacks to African Americans

BOSTON - I cannot trace my roots very deep. I run out of names and places quickly. Of my eight great-grandparents, only two were born in America. The others, whose names I do not know, came from all over Europe, mostly from towns that were German one year, Polish the next, Russian the third.

Some were kicked out of those towns, still others chose to emigrate. They came and married each other - sometimes against their families' wishes - and begat. They became Americans. To trace my ancestry back through even such a short history to one set of ancestors in one town in one country would mean cutting out the others the way Alex Haley did when he chose Kunta Kinte from his lexicon of forebears.

Like most third- and fourth-generation Americans, then, I am a genetic melting pot, the product of nationalities that spend centuries trying to murder each other. If there is an ethnicity that makes any sense at all it has been expanded from a country to an entire continent, European American.

It is from this personal vantage point that I witness the movement of some of my countrymen and women to name themselves after a different mother continent, Africa.

Twenty years ago, the civil-rights leadership told its followers to drop the names that white Americans had given them. They were no longer colored, no longer Negro, but black. African proud, black and powerful, black and beautiful.

Now there is an impulse to turn a name that promoted unity on the basis of color to a name that promotes unity on the basis of origin. To turn from a title that describes people in contrast to others, white to a title that describes people in connection to their own ancestry, African American.

"We are not just former slaves living in the United States," says Kamona Edelin in the head of the National Urban Coalition who raised the issue at a recent meeting of leaders. "We are African Americans."

"To be called African American has cultural integrity; it puts us in our proper historical context," says Jesse Jackson, speaking for himself and others who have used the title of a title that until now has been mainly used by academics.

As first, as an American who regards her ties to the mother continent Europe with great distance, I regarded the phrase African American with great skepticism. After all, what is in a name? Does this one promise to be more precise? If black is a word used to describe a huge range of skin color that rarely resembles ebony, then African is a world that covers countries as diverse as Ethiopia and Kenya. It covers cultures as diverse as the Kikuyu and the Iakuba.

Does this name promise unity? How do you find unity identifying with Africans when Africans themselves, like Europeans and Asians, are often in steady conflict with each other? When the Americans in question may trace their strongest roots to the Caribbean, or may indeed trace much of their genetic heritage to Europe?

Does this name make some symbolic point? Trace back 100,000 years and all humans are descendants of a single African "Eve." Go forward far enough from the mother country to the mother continent and we are people of the mother earth.

But that line of reasoning is far too abstract, too starry-eyed. The question, it seems to me now, isn't whether this name change makes genetic or ethnic sense, but whether it makes emotional sense. And it does.

A change of name is a serious business. A name is identity, a part of one's self. It is a name that makes any sense at all it has been expanded from a country to an entire continent, European American.

The name "black" emerged out of confrontational politics of the civil-rights movement. But now the toughest battles are not against segregation but against violence and drugs, the destruction of family and community and culture. Today among the leadership you hear less talk of rights and more of values.

In this context of change, African American sounds right. It's a name that resonates of cultural history, a name that reflects the real desire to teach children that "I am Somebody." A name that reaches back past slavery and out past the limits of an embattled city block for that reason.

"Who are we if we don't acknowledge our motherland?" asks Kamona Edelin. "We are really proud if we are just former slaves." She said that with great skepticism. After all, what is in a name? Does this one promise to be more precise? If black is a word used to describe a huge range of skin color that rarely resembles ebony, then African is a world that covers countries as diverse as Ethiopia and Kenya. It covers cultures as diverse as the Kikuyu and the Iakuba.

WASHINGTON - Defense contractor Teledyne Industries Inc. has filed a lawsuit against the Navy engineer and two private consultants pleaded innocent Friday in the first Pentagon procurement scandal indictments.

The pleas, entered in federal court before U.S. District Judge Richard Williams, stem from a 2 1/2-year probe into allegations that top Pentagon officials took bribes to pass sensitive contract data to industry consultants, who then sold it to firms they were working for to give them a potential edge in landed lucrative military projects.

All six individuals and a Teledyne lawyer stepped one by one to a podium and intoned pleas of "not guilty, not guilty" as the multiple counts were cited by a court clerk.

Williams set the trial date for March 27, denying a motion by several defense attorneys to put it off into late April because of the roughly 250 hours of writups that must be reviewed and the "warehouse of documents" the government has obtained that they must go through to prepare their defenses.

Thomas Patten, attorney for the California-based Teledyne, told Williams in arguing for a delay that the defendants had "a daunting task in front of us" in reviewing the government's evidence.

Williams delayed a ruling on a motion by Teledyne officials who wanted the court to order the Pentagon to give the defense access to Pentagon employees. The lawyer said defense efforts to gain access to the Pentagon employees had been "delayed and stonewalled" by the Pentagon.

At the same time Teledyne and the six were indicted a week ago, Hazeltine Corp., two of its former officials and an ex-Teledyne official pleaded guilty to reduced charges under deals with the prosecution team run by U.S. Attorney Henry Hudson, and promised to cooperate with investigators.

Stocks open higher

NEW YORK - Prices opened higher Friday in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues, extending gains won in the previous two sessions.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which rose 15.89 Thursday was up 2,14 to 2224.46 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 475-327 among the 1,296 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tab. Early turnover amounted to about 9,975,000 shares.

Before the market opened, the government said retail sales rose a modest 0.2 percent in December, below analysts' expectations, who were looking for a jump of at least 1 percent.

In another report, the government said producer prices of finished goods rose a seasonally adjusted 0.4 percent in December, 0.1 percent below November's adjusted figures.

Neither report was expected to have a profound effect on trading, although analysts said the weaker-than-expected retail sales report could ease pressure on the Federal Reserve to raise interest rates to tighten credit conditions.

Dollar lower due to news

In a separate report, the Labor Department said the nation's producer price index rose an adjusted 0.4 percent in December, at a 4.5 percent compounded annual rate.

Analysts had expected the PPI to rise about that much in December.

Before the reports were released, the dollar was high in trading on major foreign currency markets. Gold was mixed.

In Tokyo, the dollar closed out the week at 126.65 Japanese yen, up 0.55 from 126.10 yen on Thursday.

Markets in Japan will be closed Monday for the national holiday of Adults Day. Trading will resume Tuesday.

The Commerce Department reported the nation's retail sales rose 0.2 percent in December from November, far below analysts' expectations of a 1.4 percent increase in December.

Total retail sales adjusted for seasonal variations but not for price changes were $138 billion in December, a 0.2 percent increase from November, the department's Census Bureau said.

The increase came on the heels of a revised 0.9 percent advance from October to November, a little slower than the previously reported 1.1 percent advance, the bureau said.

Excluding the automotive sector, retail sales were up a slightly stronger 0.3 percent in December, the bureau said.

Hazeltine Corp. banned from government contracts

WASHINGTON - The Defense Department announced Thursday it indefinitely suspended from government work a major contractor, Hazeltine Corp., and two of its former employees for their role in the Pentagon procurement scandal.

Hazeltine, a Long Island, N.Y., electronics firm and a subsidiary of the St. Louis-based Emerson Electric Co., pleaded guilty Jan. 6 in conspiracy to defraud the government and to commit wire fraud.

The men admitted obtaining inside information about competitor's bids and Pentagon buying plans through defense consultants' William Parkin and Fred Lackner.

Colarusso was a former senior vice president of Hazeltine and a 23-year employee before his resignation last month. Furcinetti is a former Hazeltine marketing vice president.

According to federal indictments handed down last week in Alexandria, Va., the consultants allegedly got the information from bribing Navy engineer Stuart Berlin.

The Navy announced Tuesday it was suspending Berlin without pay.

The action follows the announcement Jan. 6 of the first indictments in the 2 1/2-year investigation of alleged bribery.

Hazeltine and Teledyne are only two of what prosecutors have described as dozens of contractors drawing scrutiny in the probe, which began two years ago by the FBI and Naval Investigative Service.

The inquiry, code-named "Operation Ill Wind," was disclosed June 14 when the FBI contacted court-ordered searches at 40 sites nationwide, including offices of a half-dozen Pentagon officials.

Teledyne, six defendants plead innocent in scandal

WASHINGTON - Defense contractor Teledyne Industries Inc. has filed a lawsuit against the Navy engineer and two private consultants pleaded innocent Friday in the first Pentagon procurement scandal indictments.

The pleas, entered in federal court before U.S. District Judge Richard Williams, stem from a 2 1/2-year probe into allegations that top Pentagon officials took bribes to pass sensitive contract data to industry consultants, who then sold it to firms they were working for to give them a potential edge in landed lucrative military projects.

All six individuals and a Teledyne lawyer stepped one by one to a podium and intoned pleas of "not guilty, not guilty" as the multiple counts were cited by a court clerk.

Williams set the trial date for March 27, denying a motion by several defense attorneys to put it off into late April because of the roughly 250 hours of writups that must be reviewed and the "warehouse of documents" the government has obtained that they must go through to prepare their defenses.

Thomas Patten, attorney for the California-based Teledyne, told Williams in arguing for a delay that the defendants had "a daunting task in front of us" in reviewing the government's evidence.

Williams delayed a ruling on a motion by Teledyne officials who wanted the court to order the Pentagon to give the defense access to Pentagon employees. The lawyer said defense efforts to gain access to the Pentagon employees had been "delayed and stonewalled" by the Pentagon.

At the same time Teledyne and the six were indicted a week ago, Hazeltine Corp., two of its former officials and an ex-Teledyne official pleaded guilty to reduced charges under deals with the prosecution team run by U.S. Attorney Henry Hudson, and promised to cooperate with investigators.

Bridge

WASHINGTON - The Defense Department announced Thursday it indefinitely suspended from government work a major contractor, Hazeltine Corp., and two of its former employees for their role in the Pentagon procurement scandal.

Hazeltine, a Long Island, N.Y., electronics firm and a subsidiary of the St. Louis-based Emerson Electric Co., pleaded guilty Jan. 6 in conspiracy to defraud the government and to commit wire fraud.

The men admitted obtaining inside information about competitor's bids and Pentagon buying plans through defense consultants' William Parkin and Fred Lackner.

Colarusso was a former senior vice president of Hazeltine and a 23-year employee before his resignation last month. Furcinetti is a former Hazeltine marketing vice president.

According to federal indictments handed down last week in Alexandria, Va., the consultants allegedly got the information from bribing Navy engineer Stuart Berlin.

The Navy announced Tuesday it was suspending Berlin without pay.

The action follows the announcement Jan. 6 of the first indictments in the 2 1/2-year investigation of alleged bribery.

Hazeltine and Teledyne are only two of what prosecutors have described as dozens of contractors drawing scrutiny in the probe, which began two years ago by the FBI and Naval Investigative Service.

The inquiry, code-named "Operation Ill Wind," was disclosed June 14 when the FBI contacted court-ordered searches at 40 sites nationwide, including offices of a half-dozen Pentagon officials.

Baby boy found abandoned in bag

BOSTON — A woman taking a walk after lunch discovered a two-month old boy wrapped in a shopping bag lying near a dumpster in an alley, the Boston Herald reported Friday.

The infant, whose identity was not known, was taken to an unnamed Boston hospital for evaluation, but his condition was not available.

Karen Kelly, who works for the Boston Election Department, said she was returning from lunch Wednesday when she noticed something moving inside the shopping bag, which was in an alley behind the Union Oyster House near Boston's historic Faneuil Hall.

Two students arrested in gun incidents

NEW YORK — A student who tried to pull a loaded revolver on police officers and another pupil who threatened a teacher with a fake gun were arrested Thursday in separate incidents in the weapon-plagued city schools.

In Manhattan, transit police confronted Troy Boone, 16, as he left Norman Thomas High School on Park Avenue with a .38-caliber revolver, said transit police spokesman Robert Valentino.

Only two hours earlier in the Bronx, a 15-year-old student pointed a fake handgun at a seventh-grade teacher who had asked him to leave a school hallway and return to his classroom, police said.

Cocaine worth $13 million seized

CHICAGO — Narcotics officers seized 53 kilograms of cocaine worth $13 million on the street, and arrested an 18-year-old man with suspected ties to an international drug ring during a raid on the West Side, police said Thursday.

The cocaine was tested by police and determined to be 98.9 percent pure, investigators said.

Silvestri Valdez, 18, was charged with possession of a controlled substance and held pending a bond hearing. He also was ordered to appear in Narcotics Court on Feb. 15, authorities said.

Maximum sentence given to vandal

DALLAS — A state district judge sentenced a 19-year-old white supremacist to the maximum 10 years in prison Thursday for vandalizing a synagogue, saying he wanted to send a powerful message to all hate groups.

"It's not illegal to hate, but it is illegal to act on it," State District Judge Joe Kendall said in sentencing Daniel Alvis Wood to the 10-year term and a $5,000 fine on the felony criminal mischief charge.

In pleading guilty, Wood, a high school dropout who police said was affiliated with a loose-knit neo-Nazi youth movement called the skinheads, admitted helping to deface Temple Shalom on Oct. 8.

In that incident, red-painted hate messages were scrawled on the building and shotgun blasts shattered a glass door and a classroom window.

The same night, vandals struck at a mosque and at the Jewish Community Center in north Dallas, spray painting anti-Semitic or anti-Islamic slogans on the buildings and firing shots that broke several windows.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Folk-rock singer Tracy Chapman topped the list of nominees for the 31st annual Grammy Awards announced Thursday with six nominations.

Pop vocalist Bobby McFerrin came in second with five nominations, including one for best pop male vocalist, record and song of the year for the upbeat "Don't Worry, Be Happy," and album of the year for "Simple Pleasures."

Chapman also was nominated in record and song of the year for the single "Fast Car" and album of the year for the self-titled "Tracy Chapman." The rock newcomer, a critic's favorite, also earned nominations for best new artist, best contemporary folk recording and best pop vocal performance by a female.

McFerrin also was nominated for best male jazz vocal performance for the song "Brothers" on Rob Wasserman's album "Duets."

U.S. to shut down three nuclear plants

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The government, citing "public perception" problems and possible savings, said Thursday it plans to shut down contaminated nuclear weapons plants in Colorado, Washington and Ohio as part of a 20-year, $81 billion modernization and cleanup project.

A report to Congress from President Reagan said the Feed Materials Production Center, a uranium foundry near Fernald, Ohio, would be closed in the early 1990s and that plutonium processing activities at the Rocky Flats plant near Denver would begin to be relocated to other sites in the next decade.

In addition, the report calls for the gradual phase-out of nuclear material production activities at the Hanford nuclear reservation near Richland, Wash., after finishing processing of reactor fuel and plutonium now on the site. That processing is expected to take four to five years to complete.

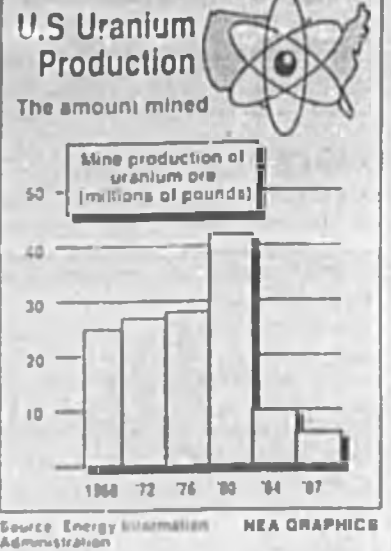

The report, ordered by Congress, was prepared by Energy Department officials with cooperation from the Defense Department. The Energy Department runs the plants for the Pentagon.

A declassified version of the report, running less than 50 pages, was released to the public.

The modernization plan for the nation's "nuclear weapons complex" also envisions the relocation of nuclear production activities now conducted at the Mound plant, located near Dayton, Ohio, to other sites. The plant manufactures detonators, timers and other parts of nuclear weapons and also handled radioactive tritium wastes.

The report said no final decisions have been made on where nuclear activities will be relocated, but it mentioned as possibilities the Savannah River Plant in South Carolina, the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory near Idaho Falls or the Pantex plant near Amarillo, Texas, where nuclear weapons are assembled.

Cabinet rounded out with Watkins, Bennett

United Press International

WASHINGTON — President-elect George Bush filled the remaining top posts in his administration Thursday, selecting retired Adm. James Watkins, a nuclear advocate, as energy secretary and former Education Secretary William Bennett to lead the battle against drugs.

The vice president, citing the challenges facing both men, promised that his administration would be actively involved in trying to deal with the problems plaguing the nation's nuclear weapons facilities and in attempting to lessen America's drug problem.

For the energy job, Bush, a former Texas oilman, was torn between choosing someone with experience in that field or in nuclear power, where most of the department's immediate troubles lie.

He said Thursday that the problems facing the agency convinced him to turn to Watkins, who has an extensive background in nuclear power. In an apparent attempt to calm fears of oil and gas interests,

Bush added that the nation could not rely on any single energy source and said he would be pleased if Watkins selected an oil and gas expert as a deputy.

Bush also contended that developing energy sources was not inconsistent with protecting the environment and added that he hoped there would be a resurgence of research into civilian nuclear power.

Concerning drugs, Bush said he would be "personally involved" in the fight and said the matter was as "serious as any problem we're likely to face in the years to come."

"We are at war. Drugs are a terrifying, insidious enemy," Bush added, contending they posed a threat that "reaches deep into our nation's soul."

The selection of Watkins, 61, a former chief of naval operations and commander in chief of the U.S. Pacific Fleet, was Bush's 14th and final Cabinet choice, completing the team that will take over the helm of government Jan. 20.

He told reporters his message for his new staff was to "think big."

Thornburgh, Walsh wrangle over North affair

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Attorney General Dick Thornburgh certified in an affidavit Thursday that the threatened exposure of national security secrets forced the government to drop two key Iran-Contra charges against Oliver North.

At the same time, independent prosecutor Lawrence Walsh argued in court papers that little classified information will be needed at North's trial on 12 remaining counts because the ex-White House aide's activities no longer are relevant to the case.

"Why North lied, shredded and falsified documents does not matter to the jury's verdict," Walsh and his staff said of the still-pending counts.

"The charges are narrow and straightforward and the defendant should be prohibited from seeking to prove a host of irrelevant matters for the sole purpose of scuttling the entire case" by again threatening to reveal U.S. secrets, the prosecutors wrote.

Thornburgh and Walsh filed court declarations in response to U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell's demand Monday for a formal statement that the decision to withhold classified information — and force dismissal of the central charges — was made at the highest levels.

North's trial, long delayed by legal wrangles over the use of classified information, is scheduled to begin Jan. 31.

Walsh, who has spent more than two years and $12 million in taxpayers' money investigating the Iran-Contra scandal, advised the court Jan. 5 that he was compelled to seek dismissal of conspiracy and theft of government property charges because the administration refused to declassify crucial information.

The charges, to be formally dismissed by Gesell at a hearing Friday, revolved around the role of North and three others in diverting to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels about $14 million in proceeds from U.S. arms sales to Iran.

If convicted of all the remaining counts accusing him of obstructing Congress, shredding documents and other improprieties, North still faces up to 60 years in prison and $3 million in fines.

Man arrested trying to smuggle missiles, bombs

United Press International

NEWARK, N.J. — A Korean American exporter was arrested Thursday on charges of conspiracy to smuggle missiles and 500 lethal quarter-ton nerve gas bombs out of the country, perhaps to Iran, authorities said.

Juwahn Yun, president of Komex International Corp. in Summit, N.J., was arrested near Newark International Airport, federal prosecutors said.

Yun, 48, of Short Hills, N.J., allegedly negotiated with an undercover U.S. Customs agent to illegally buy and export weapons, including Tow and Stinger missiles and a nerve gas known as SARIN.

Yun was acting on behalf of a man identified as Charles Caplan, who operates Domino Associates in London, prosecutors said. Yun allegedly met with Caplan in London last week and later discussed plans for the shipment with the undercover agent.

Customs agents said they were told at one point in the negotiations that the nerve gas was destined for Iran, but said they had no proof it actually was headed there.

Yun is a native of Korea, but a naturalized American citizen.

He is charged with violating the federal Arms Export Control Act and faces a maximum of five years in prison and a $250,000 fine.

Caplan also is charged as a conspirator. Federal prosecutors said he is in Britain. They did not immediately say if they would seek to extradite him.

First Assistant U.S. Attorney Michael Chertoff said SARIN cannot be exported legally from the United States.

Two killed in jet collision

United Press International

WIESMOOR, West Germany — A British Tornado fighter and a West German military jet collided Friday and crashed in farmland in northern Germany, killing two British aviators, a West German air force spokesman said.

The two British pilots of the Tornado were killed in the crash but the German Alpha-jet pilot managed to eject from his plane before it crashed, the spokesman said. The German pilot sustained injuries and was taken to a hospital, the spokesman said.

He said the crash occurred in the Wiesmoor region of northern Germany, near the North Sea.

The cause of the collision was not yet known.

The German plane was thought to have taken off from Oldenburg, near the scene of the crash, the spokesman said.

A spokesman for British Forces in Germany said the Tornado crew was based near the West German town of Brueggen, near the Dutch border.

It was not immediately known whether there were any civilian ground casualties in the crash, which came just over a month after a U.S. military jet plowed into a row of houses in the central town of Remscheid, killing five West Germans and the American pilot.

Military flights, including widely criticized low-level training missions, were suspended for three weeks immediately after the Remscheid crash.

West German and North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces resumed flights over West German territory Jan. 2, despite strong criticism from opposition parties and other groups.

A string of crashes involving NATO planes — mostly during low-level flights — has triggered criticism of the troubled West German defense establishment and its role in NATO, the western defense alliance.

A total of 452 West German military aircraft and at least 233 planes from allied forces have crashed in West Germany since World War II.

Government officials said recently the number of military flights, cut by 25 percent since 1980, would continue to be reduced from the 900,000 NATO flights made 1988.

Of the total number of military flights over West Germany in 1988, 87,000 were low-level missions — amounting to 87,000 flight hours. About 45,000 of the low-level flights in 1988 involved NATO planes, and 22,000 were by aircraft of the West German air force.

Bonn admits possible German role in Libyan plant

United Press International

BONN, West Germany — After a week of denials, the government acknowledged it now "has information" that West German firms may have been involved in the construction of a suspected chemical weapons plant in Libya.

Government spokesman Friedhelm Ost said Thursday investigators were trying to determine what role West German companies may have had in building the plant that the United States says is designed to manufacture chemical weapons.

"The federal government has information about a possible participation by West German firms or persons in the construction of this plant in Libya," Ost said. "Authorities are intensely at work investigating these bits of information and suspicions."

The announcement came after a week of denials by government officials of U.S. charges that West Germans had provided know-how and equipment to the Libyan factory.

NBC News, quoting unidentified intelligence sources, said Thursday the United States learned in the summer of 1987 that Libya had acquired chemicals that when mixed together at the plant could produce only one substance — poison gas.

In August 1988, dangerous chemicals were spilled during a production run at the plant and in the panic that followed, the Libyans made frantic calls to West German companies, trying to find crews to clean it up, NBC News said.

In Antwerp, Belgium, a magistrate issued a formal warrant for Belgian shipping agent Jozef Gedopt, 44, for his alleged role in supplying Libya with equipment for the plant, the Belgian news agency Belga said Thursday.

Gedopt's group of shipping agents reportedly cooperated with three West German companies suspected of supplying equipment, it said. Gedopt, general manager of Cross Link Group, was taken into custody

Tuesday night in the first arrest in the scandal.

Belgian police were prodded by West German customs to detain Gedopt, whose Antwerp office and home were searched and documents found linking him to the Libyan contract, Belgian news reports said.

Libyans to return body of U.S. pilot

LONDON — Libya said it intended to turn over to the Vatican Friday the body of an American pilot shot down during the United States' air attack on Libya in 1986.

The official Libyan news agency JANA, monitored by the British Broadcasting Corp. in London, said Thursday that "in the framework of the humanitarian initiatives ... the body of the American pilot will be handed tomorrow, 13th January, to the representative of the Vatican, representing his holiness the pope."

The Italian news agency ANSA said U.S. officials confirmed that the body Libya was turning over to the Vatican was that of Capt. Paul F. Lorence, whose F-111 warplane was listed as unaccounted for April 17, 1986. His fellow crewman, Fernando Ribas Dominici, has never been recovered.

Libyan television reported finding Lorence's body three weeks after the U.S. bombing, ANSA said. It said the body was found washed ashore near Al Zawiyah, 21 miles west of Tripoli.

Vatican spokesman Joaquin Navarro Valls Friday said Libya bought the Vatican's help with the return of the body, which was expected to be flown to Rome Friday and handed over to the U.S. Embassy to the Holy See for return to the United States.

Libya charges U.S. jets buzzed airliner

LONDON — Libya charged Friday that U.S. fighter jets buzzed one of its civilian jetliners over the Mediterranean Sea en route from Tripoli to Istanbul, Turkey.

A Libyan Airlines Boeing 707 had just left Tripoli air space Tuesday on a scheduled flight to Istanbul when the captain saw a U.S. fighter plane flying past and then behind his aircraft, said the official Libyan news agency JANA, monitored by the British Broadcasting Corp. in London.

Moments later, two U.S. fighters appeared and flew alongside the airliner at a distance of about 10 miles for 14 minutes, JANA said, based on a statement by the secretariat of Libya's General Popular Committee for Communications and Maritime Transport.

The captain reported the incident to flight controllers in Athens, Greece, the statement said.

In Washington, Pentagon spokesman Major William O'Connell said: "I haven't heard a thing on that at all."

JANA said the secretariat filed protests with the Arab Civil Aviation and the International Civil Aviation organizations condemning the behavior of the U.S. fighters, "which endangered the safety of the airliner."

Another such incident "will be considered a threat against international air navigation over the Mediterranean," JANA said.

Seven dead after explosion in China

BEIJING — A powerful gas explosion ripped through a residential building in eastern Shanghai, killing seven people and leaving 200 others homeless, a newspaper reported Friday.

The blast, sparked Wednesday afternoon when an elderly woman lit her kitchen stove in a building where gas leaks were being investigated, also injured three people, the official English-language China Daily said.

The woman, Xu Fudi, escaped unhurt after the force of the explosion pushed her out of the kitchen. A second woman, Hang Meijue, 68, jumped to safety from a second-story window at the Shanghai Garden School dormitory as its roof collapsed.

Five women and two men, all living in apartments adjacent to that of Xu, were killed in the explosion, the report said. About 200 residents, many of whom were at work at the time of the blast, were left homeless, it said.

Officials said a Shanghai gas company had been investigating residents' complaints of a strong smell of gas at the dormitory, which was wrecked in the explosion.

Twelve babies dead from infection

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — Twelve babies died and nine others were in serious condition after contracting a viral infection in a hospital in western Argentina, officials said Thursday.

Antonio Gomez, director of sanitation in the Andean city of Mendoza, 740 miles west of Buenos Aires, said it was possible more recently born babies may yet die from the intestinal infection.

"At this moment we can suppose that the microbe was introduced (to the facility) by a child who entered the hospital after having been born in a contaminated home," Gomez said in a telephone interview.

Gomez said 12 babies died between Wednesday and Thursday in the Luis Lagomayore Hospital and nine others were in serious condition.

He said the affected babies were born premature or had been interned because of health problems other than the virus.

Death toll 115 in Lebanese combat

KFAR FILA, Lebanon — Rival Shiite Muslim militiamen fought for a hilltop village outside Beirut with artillery and rocket fire in a resumption of combat as the death toll from recent violence rose to 115.

The fifth day of fighting between Amal and Hezbollah militiamen underscored the inability of Syria and Iran to find a political compromise that would end their local allies' bloody power struggle.

Elsewhere in southern Lebanon, Israeli jets bombed bases of the Palestinian guerrilla leader Abu Nidal outside the port city of Sidon for the second time in 24 hours.

Police said Iranian-backed Hezbollah fighters repulsed pro-Syrian Amal militiamen in a prolonged battle for control of Jabaa, a village 28 miles south of the capital. Hezbollah forces captured Jabaa and three nearby settlements in a surprise attack Sunday.

Amal fighters backed by rockets and artillery tried unsuccessfully to pierce Hezbollah defenses around Jabaa.

A Hezbollah spokesman said the fundamentalist Muslim fighters repulsed the Amal offensive, "inflicting many casualties among the attackers."

An Amal field commander with the code name of "Abou Jamil" said 10 of his militiamen were killed and 15 taken prisoner in the previous two days.

A police spokesman said three Amal fighters and two other people died and 10 others were wounded Thursday as the fighting tapered off into skirmishes by nightfall.

Police said the recent fighting raised to 115 the death toll in the latest struggle for control of a string of villages in Iklim Al Toffah, a mountainous region southeast of Beirut. They said more than 180 people had been wounded.

Reward offered in slaying of Australian

CANBERRA, Australia — The government Friday offered a $200,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the killer of the assistant commissioner of the Australian Federal Police.

The officer, Colin Winchester, was shot twice in the back of the head Tuesday as he sat in his parked car in the driveway of his Canberra home in what police described as an execution-style slaying.

Justice Minister Michael Tate announced the $200,000 reward and promised lifetime protection for any informant.

Police believe a professional killer shot Winchester on orders from drug bosses.

Knicks knock off Charlotte

The Charlotte Hornets provided a perfect break in a difficult schedule for the New York Knicks Thursday night.

One night after posting their third straight victory over the defending Eastern Conference champion Detroit Pistons, the Knicks came out and played a lethargic first half against the expansion Hornets.

But Charles Oakley scored 6 points in a 15-0 run that opened the third period and broke the game open, leading New York to a 108-89 victory.

The Knicks then tried to put their best face on the victory.

"I think we have shown what the caliber of this team is," said Knicks guard Mark Jackson. "Charlotte is no pushover, they're a very good basketball team. To beat them by 20 after a tough game in Detroit is a credit to this basketball team."

Oakley added 4 rebounds in the key surge that snapped a 48-48 halftime tie. Elsewhere, Washington whipped Miami 105-100, Boston beat New Jersey 106-103, Houston outlasted Portland 116-106, Seattle stymied Dallas 130-95, and Utah dumped San Antonio 115-91.

Bryant takes lead at Hope

BERMUDA DUNES, Calif. — Brad Bryant, a member of the PGA Tour after surviving seven slinks at qualifying school, shot a 4-under-par 68 Thursday to take a one-stroke lead after two rounds of the $1 million Bob Hope Classic.

Bryant, who chipped in from 30 feet for one of his seven birdies at Eldorado Country Club, stood at 9-under 135. The resident of Winter Park has no Tour victories since first joining the circuit in 1978.

A stroke behind Bryant in the 90-hole event was first-round leader Fred Couples, who managed a 71 at Eldorado; Blaine McCallister, who fired a 66 at Indian Wells; and Jim Beney, who shot a 68 at Eldorado.

In a group at 7-under were Tom Kite (after a 69), Peter Jacobsen (70), Jeff Sluman (68) and Paul Azinger (68). All the players benefited from a clear day and diminished wind in the Palm Springs area.

Canadiens power past Bruins

Any way you want to play them, the Montreal Canadiens feel they can beat you. So far, they are doing an excellent job of supporting their faith in themselves.

Mike McPhee scored a second-period goal while prone on the ice and Guy Carbonneau added a goal and an assist Thursday night, powering the Canadiens to a 5-3 triumph over the Bruins in Boston.

One night after winning a defensive struggle 1-0 over New Jersey, the Canadiens were challenged by a physical Boston team and proved superior at that style of play as well.

Elsewhere, Buffalo outscored Chicago 6-5, Philadelphia blasted Quebec 7-2, Pittsburgh routed Minnesota 9-2 and Los Angeles skated past St. Louis 7-4.

SHS-Lake Mary rivalry takes spotlight

By CHRIS FISTER
 Herald sports editor

There will be more than just the usual neighborhood and area bragging rights on the line tonight when Seminole and Lake Mary put their boys basketball rivalry back on the burner. Also at stake is first place in the Seminole Athletic Conference.

Seminole, which has won three games in impressive fashion since returning from the Christmas break, comes in at 9-7 overall and 4-0 in the conference. SHS defeated Oviedo, 77-52, on Wednesday in one of its best all-around efforts of the season.

Lake Mary, meanwhile, comes in a 8-5 overall and 3-0 in the SAC. Inconsistency has been the only thing holding the talented Rams back thus far. In Wednesday's game against Mainland, Lake Mary played poorly for three quarters, then went on a 29-7 run in the fourth only to fall three points short, 78-75.

"With the exception of Oak Ridge, Lake Mary has the best team I've seen in Central Florida this season," Seminole coach Greg Robinson said. "They have good size and good speed and we're going to need everyone to play up to their potential to have a chance."

The Rams are led by senior forward Bernard Mitchell who leads Seminole County in scoring at 22 points per game and also averages close to nine rebounds per outing. Lake Mary figures to get its usual good game from Mitchell but the Rams also need some strength inside from Chris Davidson, Jeff Draughton and Jaimon Perry. The guard tandem of senior George Gordon and sophomore Mike Merthle along with guard-forward Carlos Hartsfield will be a key for the Rams against a Seminole team that is at its best when in the running game.

"We've got some things in mind that we'll try against Seminole, but the main thing is getting the kids to perform for an entire ballgame," Lake Mary coach Willie Richardson said. "If we play the whole game like we did the fourth quarter against Mainland, we'll have a shot at them."

Seminole, which took two games from the Rams a year ago, does not possess the size of SHS teams of the past, but has good speed and has been able to go inside with good success in

'Noles clip Rams

SANFORD — Despite playing its third game in three nights and playing the first quarter without star guard Adrian Hillsman, the Lady Seminoles of Seminole High School showed enough life to overcome a determined Lady Ram team of Lake Mary, 51-39, Thursday night before 221 fans at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

The Lady 'Noles, 12-2 on the season and 6-0 in the Seminole Athletic Conference, now take off until next Thursday when they play host to Spruce Creek High School.

"Playing three nights in a row is tough," said Seminole coach John McNamara. "We were a little sluggish and had trouble handling the ball so I took the press off late in the game to save some energy and also to stay out of foul trouble. But whenever we play Lake Mary it is a tough game. No matter what kind of teams either team has it is a war. They move the ball well, they shoot it well and they played a real good press against us."

Lake Mary falls to 4-7 overall and 2-3 in the Seminole Athletic Conference. The Rams will now play host to the Lady Trojans of Maynard Evans High School Saturday night with the JVs getting started at 6.

Sheri Reddicks had a game-high 20 points for Seminole despite sitting out the whole second quarter with two personal fouls. She dominated the offensive backboards to score most of her points. Reddicks was the only Lady 'Nole in double figures but she was definitely not a one woman gang.

Hillsman came off the bench, after getting out of a night class late, to score nine points and get several steals. Liz Long popped in seven points and blocked several shots, and Aretha Riggins scored six points and handed out five assists.

Tara Jackson was the only Lady 'Nole to record a steal. See 'Noles, Page 3B

Seminole's Koscia Kennon goes up and blocks the shot of Lake Mary's Heather Gleason in Thursday's game at Seminole High. Kennon contributed five points in SHS' 51-39 victory.

Kentucky blasts Gators

GAINESVILLE — Kentucky and Florida, two Southeastern Conference teams in turmoil, met Thursday night. The Wildcats walked out a little less troubled.

Derrick Miller scored 30 points and Kentucky took control with a 14-0 spurt bridging the first and second halves, in cruising to a 69-56 triumph. The Wildcats, 8-7, trying to avert their first losing season in 60 years, missed just 3 of 16 field goal attempts after taking a 34-26 lead at intermission.

"After we won our last two, I still wasn't sure how we would play in a hostile environment," said Kentucky Coach Eddie Sutton, under siege because of an ongoing NCAA investigation that threatens to levy stiff sanctions against the basketball program.

"We tried to take the crowd out of the game by being patient on offense. When you do that, it makes the other team nervous. They have to say to themselves, 'Oh no, here we go again. We have to play defense for another 20 or 30 seconds.'"

Kentucky, 3-0 in the Southeastern Conference, snapped a three-game losing streak against Florida and posted its third straight victory of the year.

The Gators, 7-8, have been one of the targets of a Drug Enforcement Agency probe in the Gainesville area. Coach Norm Sloan, who has testified before a grand jury in Tallahassee, is busy trying to defend himself against charges he has lost control of the team.

Florida led 23-18 on Renaldo Garcia's three-pointer with 7:02 left in the half before collapsing against Kentucky's zone defense. With Florida ahead 26-25, Miller hit three free throws and a fast-break layup as Kentucky reeled off the final 9 points of the half. Five straight Miller points after intermission opened up a 39-26 advantage.

"Miller is a very good player," Garcia said. "He's quick and an

Stetson rips UCF women

By TONY DESORMIER
 Herald sports writer

ORLANDO — For 32 minutes on Thursday night, the University of Central Florida women's basketball team outscored the visiting Stetson Lady Hatters 69-66.

Unfortunately for the Lady Knights, Stetson outscored them 33-8 over the remaining eight minutes to take a 99-77 win over its host in a New South Women Athletic Conference contest.

Both teams came into the game 8-5 overall, 1-1 in the conference. Now Stetson is 9-5, 2-1 while UCF is 8-6, 1-2.

"I knew going in that it was going to take a good effort from the whole team," said Stetson coach Nancy Nichols. "We had two starters out (Cheri Nelson and Sally Bunyard) with stomach problems. Courtney Hall and Alyce Allen haven't practiced in a week because of injuries, so we almost had to play this game with eight players."

"They knew we were going to have to do a good job. I think that got the players fired up." From the looks of things, it certainly did. Directing their halfcourt offense at 6-3 junior center Sarah Foley (from Portsmouth, England), the Lady Hatters opened with an 18-6 run over the game's first four minutes. Foley, who hit her first six shots, scored 10 points during that opening dash.

Over the half's last 15:54, it was an interesting game as the Lady Knights came back to outscore their visitors 31-26, cutting the lead to 44-37 going into halftime. Kelly Lincoln, who was forced to play out of position at the point guard slot, scored 10 points in the first half for UCF. Kacie Kemmer came off the bench for the Lady Knights and helped ignite the comeback with four baskets off steals. "Kelly played the point for the first time tonight," said UCF coach Beverly Knight. "Personally, I think she played an outstanding game, considering the circumstances. She handled the switch well."

Just as it looked like the Lady Knights were going to climb back into the game, things fell apart. The start of the second half was a replay of the game's opening minutes. Stetson starting quickly while UCF misfired. The Lady Hatters opened the half with a 15-2 surge that put the game all but out of reach (59-39) with still over 16 minutes to play.

Even with that bulge, which was never smaller than 12 points and as large as 24 (with just under two minutes to play), Nichols said she wasn't sure the win was secure until almost the end.

"I didn't feel comfortable even when we were up by 20 points with two minutes left," she said. "They can hit the outside shot. During the years I've coached against UCF, almost all the games have been close. Someone always finds a way to get back into the game."

It didn't happen on Thursday night. The 99 points Stetson scored was its second highest total this season (the Lady Hatters scored 102 in a win over Eastern Kentucky on Jan. 3) and only 15 points away from its game high-point record (114 vs. Mercer University in 1985-86). The mark was only 18 points under the UCF record for most points allowed in a game (117 vs. Tulane in 1986-87).

UCF is off until Monday night, when the Florida International University Lady Sunblazers pay a visit. The 7:30 p.m. game is also an NSWAC contest. Stetson's next game is this Saturday, returning home for a 3 p.m. contest against, ironically enough, FIU.

Stetson's Michelle Michael runs into a defensive roadblock in UCF's Fayella Robinson during Thursday night's action at UCF. Stetson came away with a 99-77 victory.

Moore: Seminole's enforcer

By DEAN SMITH
Herald correspondent

Seminole's Robert Moore battles for position with a Dunedin player during action earlier this season. At 6-2, Moore is one of the smallest centers around, but he is more than holding his own this season.

SANFORD — In this day and age, when you think of the center position on a basketball team you normally think of names like Kareem, Moses, or Ewing. Men who all stand near or over seven feet tall and weigh in the neighborhood of 250 pounds.

Even on the high school level the centers are between 6-5 and 6-10 and weigh over 200 pounds. So how can Seminole High School expect to compete with a 6-2, 185-pound young man in the middle?

Quite well, actually. Robert Moore, the son of Alice Moore, is a junior who has been asked to step in and fill some mighty big shoes for the Fighting Seminoles this season. He has been asked to fill the position left by the graduation of 6-8, 220-pound Craig Walker, who signed with Auburn University but is now playing at a junior college in Mississippi.

This would normally be a tough task for someone of Robert's lack of inches and bulk, but Robert is no ordinary person. He is a very good athlete who can run and jump with the best of them and his quickness allows him to get around people much bigger than him.

"Robert reminds me of a guy I played with, Vernell Ellzy (ex-Seminole Junior College and Florida State University star)," said Seminole High coach Greg Robinson. "Ellzy was only 6-4 but no one could jump with him. I used to play guard on his team and just be amazed at what he could do. Robert has the same type of leaping ability. He is a quick jumper who can wait until you shoot and then go up and block your shot."

Robert thinks part of the reason he does as well against bigger opponents is because he got to practice against Walker last year when he was called up from the junior varsity in the middle of the season.

"I know what I have to do to get as good as Craig (Walker). I don't have the advantage of being 6-8 so I have had to learn how to get position under the boards and block people out. Playing against Craig last year let me work on boxing out bigger people and learning how to get my shot off over a bigger person."

Moore started playing basketball in the SYSA league when he was at Lakeview before the program was dropped. He then went to play in the Sanford Recreation Department's basketball league. As a 15-year-old he was dunking the ball with ease in the games and it was apparent that he was going to be a good one. After spending a half year with the junior varsity he was called up to the varsity last year and did a very good job in several ballgames for the Fighting Seminoles.

Lyman blanks Howell, 2-0

By MARK BLYTHE

Lyman High School finished its scoring opportunities strongly and played a solid defensive game to post a 2-0 victory over Lake Howell in a big Seminole Athletic Conference battle at Lyman High School Thursday night.

Lyman improved to 8-5-2 and will return to action Saturday at home against Miami Columbus High School. Lake Howell fell to 7-4-3 and will return to action next Thursday at Oviedo.

"We got a quick goal and that really helped us," Lyman coach Ray Sandidge said. "We were able to get the ball in the net and that has been a problem for us lately. We haven't been playing bad but we've been tying everyone."

The Greyhounds defense continued to play well as Jeff Onderko, Paul Klaus, Tobie Leibben and Craig Tarret all came up with brilliant games. Lyman's keeper, Kelly Walden, also came up with a strong performance and recorded his eight shutout of the season.

Eric Leibben opened the games scoring just 1:30 into the game when he broke down the middle, took a serve from JoJo House and sent the ball into the net for a 1-0 lead.

House scored the second goal with 26 minutes to play in the half when he took a pass from Brian Fooks, carried the ball around a pair of defenders before sending a shot in to the net to complete the games scoring.

OVIEDO 2, LAKE BRANTLEY 1

Tim Waisanen netted the deciding goal on a penalty kick with 10 minutes to play to lift Oviedo's Lions to a 2-1 victory over Lake Brantley Thursday night in Seminole Athletic Conference action at Oviedo High School.

Oviedo, ranked ninth in class 3A, improved to 12-5 with the victory and is in sole possession of second place in the SAC behind Lake Mary with a 5-2 mark in the conference. Brantley fell to 2-8-2 with the loss and 1-7 in the SAC.

Lyman's Troy Hamilton (No. 8) and Lake Howell's Peter Logan duel for possession in Thursday's match at Lake Howell. Lyman came up with a solid all-around effort in a 2-0 victory.

Rob Mills opened the games scoring when he took a double assist from both Waisanen and Steve Hoffman and ripped in the goal to give the Lions a 1-0 lead with 35:42 to play in the opening half.

The Patriots then took control of the ball game and kept pressing before finally putting the ball in the net. Sean Jones took a Ron Mosto serve and tapped a shot in to even things up at 1-1 with 24:27 to play in the opening half.

Rams hold off Seminole

By MARK BLYTHE

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary built a quick 3-0 lead, then held off a late Seminole surge to take a 4-2 victory Thursday night in Seminole Athletic Conference play before 251 fans at Lake Mary High School.

The Rams, ranked second in class 4A, improved to 14-1-2 and 6-0-1 in the conference. The 'Noles dropped to 1-8 overall and 1-7 in the SAC.

"Seminole came in and played a real tough game," Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle said. "We were able to get three quick goals, but we fell asleep after that. We didn't keep pressing. Seminole didn't give up and I respect them for that, even when they were down 3-0 they were really trying."

Lake Mary came out extremely strong and showed signs of blowing the Tribe out. John Mora, who finished the night with a hat trick, scored his first goal five minutes into the match.

Mora took a pass from Darren Forde, chipped it over a defender and ripped the ball into the upper 90 to give the Rams the lead for good with 35:01 remaining in the first half.

It wasn't long before Mora struck again as Lake Mary took control of the ball and quickly worked it to the offensive side of the field. Mora took a pass from Jimmy Abbott at midfield, dribbled around two defenders before carrying the ball into the box.

Seminole keeper Sean Sundval came out in attempt to stop Mora but he sent a slow rolling shot under him into the right portion of the goal to up the lead to 2-0 with 32:27 to play in the first half.

The Rams continued to press and came up with their third goal minutes later to take a commanding lead. Lake Mary managed to work the ball down to the net before a Seminole defender kicked the ball out of bounds to set up a corner kick.

Travis Betsinger brought the ball in before spotting Eric Ravndal open right in front of the net. Betsinger sent in a nice serve and Ravndal finished things off to up the lead to 3-0 with 26:32 to play in the opening half.

"Lake Mary had the flow and could have really put it to us," Seminole coach Carlos Merlino said. "But they kind of backed off and weren't able to get back on track."

The Rams didn't score for the rest of the half and went into the intermission with a comfortable 3-0 lead.

Seminole opened the second half strongly with Jimmi Reyzenda sending in a nice header off a corner kick that was saved by Lake Mary keeper Steve Sharp. Seminole thought, won the Sharp's punt and worked the ball to Chuck Roll on the right side.

Roll looked up and saw a clear shot on goal and ripped a 35 yard rifle shot over Sharp to put the 'Noles on the scoreboard.

The goal lifted the Tribe and they began to play better and better.

Lake Mary had two real good chances to put the game out of reach as James Noble and Mora each had a shot bounce off the post and away from the goal. The Rams also had two shot go just over the goal, one a nice header by Pete Cassella.

The two teams then went up and down the field without doing much until Seminole came up with a throw in deep in Lake Mary's territory. Roll lofted a long throw in right in front of the net that Bruce Boyer sent into the net to cut the lead to 3-2 with just 9:48 to play.

"I actually was beginning to think about a tie," Merlino said. "I'm extremely pleased with the week we had. We lost to Oviedo, but were tied with 15 minutes to play and we only lost to Lake Mary 4-2. We were mentally exhausted after the Oviedo game so we played golf yesterday, that's twice we've done that. The first time we beat Lake Brantley then we play a game like tonight."

Lake Mary wrapped up the win though, when Mora drilled a penalty kick into the upper right hand corner to increase the lead to 4-2 with 3:49 to play.

"We started off well but then we slacked off," McCorkle said. "I think these are the hardest games to win, you come in and get on the board quick and you quit doing the things that got you the lead."

Lady Hawks drop Lyman, 67-47

By CHUCK BURGESS
Herald correspondent

CASSELBERRY — The Lady Silver Hawks of Lake Howell reached into their magic hat and found their offense Thursday night as they pounded the Lady Greyhounds of Lyman, 67-47, in a Seminole Athletic Conference basketball matchup in front of 221 fans at Lake Howell.

The win improved the Lady Hawks record to 12-7 on the season while the Lady 'Hounds dropped to 2-12. Lake Howell travels to Deltona Monday to battle the Lady Wolves while the Lady 'Hounds take some much needed rest to prepare for a big game against DeLand next Friday at Lyman High.

Running on all cylinders from start to finish, the Lady Silver Hawks jumped out to an early lead and never looked back en route to the 20-point win. Leading the much improved Lake Howell squad was Jennifer Brown who pumped in a game-high 20 points. Serena Winston added 12 while crashing the glass for 12 rebounds and sister Cheryl Winston came off the bench to score 10 points and Val Lahr added 11 rebounds.

The closest the Lady 'Hounds could come to the running Lady Silver Hawks was with 1:03 remaining in the third period with Lake Howell leading 43-30. However, that was the end of the futile comeback attempt with the Lady Hawks going on a 15-0 run through the end of the third to the middle of the fourth period.

"I don't think that anybody had a bad game tonight," Lake Howell head coach Dennis Codrey said. "We're starting to mature into a decent team. We've had a lot of close games this year and our record could be a lot better, but with the leadership of Brooke Burns, the other players are starting to develop a winning attitude."

Even though Burns didn't score, she set things up for the Lady Hawks and in the fourth period when the team needed a spark to put a little distance between them and Lyman, she came through with three assists in a row.

It wasn't easy for awhile, though, as Lyman's big center

Julie Dowling dominated the rebounding with 15 boards while teammate Jen Kruger hit from the outside for 16 points and Dana Garrett added 10 points from the inside.

The Silver Hawks jumped out to an early 10-4 first period lead and extended the cushion to 34-15 at the half with the shooting of Brown and Winston. After the halftime intermission though, the Greyhounds hung tough in the third period only being outscored 16-15.

BRANTLEY ROUTS OVIEDO

Leading by eight at the half, Lake Brantley's Patriots came out blazing in the second half and blitzed Oviedo's Lady Lions with a 25-7 run that gave Brantley a 57-31 Seminole Athletic Conference victory.

Tracy Brandenburg had another solid game for Brantley with a game-high 18 points, five assists and three steals. Lori Bunce provided the inside strength with 15 points and 11 rebounds while Jennifer Tullford and Sarah Keith contributed six points apiece.

Suzanne Hughes had 10 points to lead Oviedo.

Ram in double figures with 10 points, but Wiltha Hartsfield picked up seven points and did a good job of rebounding before getting in foul trouble. Amy Kuvach contributed six points on two long 3-point jumpshots.

"I was very surprised to see Adrian come in the gym because we did not expect her to be here," said McNamara. "I thought the bench did a great job in the second quarter keeping us ahead with Sheri (Reddicks) and Chmeta (Glechrist) on the bench in foul trouble. I don't think we would have won the game if the bench had not played as well as it did."

Both teams came out a little nervous for this game and no one was able to score until the 6:30 mark of the first quarter when Reddicks grabbed a rebound and laved the ball in the basket to put Seminole ahead 2-0. Hartsfield then scored the next four points for Lake Mary. First on a fast break layup off a pass by Lisa Johnson and then on a steal of the inbounds pass, to put the Lady Rams ahead 4-2. Reddicks retied the score with another basket off an offensive rebound and then scored a layup off a nice pass from Riggins to take a 6-4 lead with 3:56 left in the opening stanza.

Miller hit his first 7 shots from the floor in the second half. He added 8 rebounds, while backcourt mate Sean Sutton had 11 points, 5 assists and 3 steals.

Dwayne Schintzius led Florida with 20 points and 13 rebounds, but forwards Livingston Chatman and Dwayne Davis vanished from the Gator offense in the second half.

Anita Mitchell tied the score for Lake Mary on a 17-foot jumper with 3:06 left, but Reddicks put Seminole back ahead to stay on yet another rebound basket. Koscia Kennon hit a 12-foot baseline jumper on a pass from Riggins and Mechelle Toombs scored a layup on a pass from Riggins and Seminole had a 12-6 lead with 1:30 to play in the quarter. Seminole led at the quarter break 14-8.

After Lake Mary fought back to close the gap to two points, 17-15, with 3:47 to play in the half Seminole's 1-2-1 full court press started to take effect and the Lady 'Noles recorded several steals to retie the Lady Rams 10-4 the remainder of the half to take a 27-19 lead into the locker room at halftime. Hillsman and Riggins had four points each during the run.

Seminole kept up the pressure in the third quarter outscoring Lake Mary 16-2 over the first 7:15 of the quarter, 10-0 over a 4:20 span, to take a 43-21 lead. Reddicks had six points and Hillsman five during the run. A jump shot by Hartsfield was the only score for Lake Mary.

A 3-point shot by Kuvach and a rebound basket by Trudy Roundtree for Lake Mary allowed the Lady Rams to cut the lead to 17-43-26, at the end of the third quarter.

Lake Mary continued to play well to start the fourth quarter and scored eight of the first ten points to cut the lead to 11-45-34 with 5:10 left to play. Included in the streak was a long 3-point shot by Kuvach. But when Mitchell made one of two free throw attempts with 1:39 to play to cut the lead to 10-49-39.

Illinois, Michigan coast to victory

United Press International

No. 2 Illinois and No. 5 Michigan both struggled through the first half of their Big Ten games Thursday night before taking different approaches to a runaway victory.

Illinois used a tight defense to spark an 11-0 run late in the first half and come away with a 103-80 victory over Wisconsin. Meanwhile, Michigan went on a three-point spree in the second half in a 98-83 victory over Minnesota.

Glen Rice scored 8 of his 31 points Thursday night while Michigan was on a seven-minute three-point spree in the second half in which the Wolverines outscored Minnesota 27-9.

Michigan, 14-1 and 2-0 in the Big Ten, registered a three-point basket or a three-point play 7 out of 10 times, it scored 3 while out-pointing Minnesota 27-9 in a span of 6:46 in the second half.

We're going to shoot the three-point shot," Michigan Coach Bill Frieder said. "We're got the shooters — and they're going to shoot it. Some nights they're not going to fall in, but we're still going to shoot them."

As long as they're squared away and open, Sean Higgins and Rice are going to shoot it. They're great shooters.

The three-point spree by the Wolverines erased a 47-43 lead the Gophers built up by patient offense and aggressive defensive play.

To make it doubly difficult for the Gophers, the Wolverines missed only 5 of 24 shots in the second half.

Robinson scored 24 points and Higgins finished with 20. Melvin Newbern and Willie Burton scored 19 points each for Minnesota, 8-4 and 0-2 in the Big Ten. Meanwhile, Illinois trailed 25-24 with 6:32 left in the first half, but held the Badgers scoreless for 2:50 to run off 11 consecutive points and a 35-25 lead.

Illinois has great quickness and great speed, Wisconsin Coach Steve Yoder said. "They turned opportunities into positive circumstances. It wasn't so much what we could or could not do, it was what they did. They were very good."

Kendall Gill made all 8 of his shots and finished with 19 points to lead Illinois, 14-0 and 2-0 in the conference.

Nick Anderson added 18 points, followed by Kenny Battle and Lowell Hamilton with 17 apiece. Trent Jackson tallied 20 points for Wisconsin, 9-3 and 1-2 in the Big Ten.

In other games, No. 10 Arizona trounced Oregon State 85-64. No. 17 North Carolina State routed Coastal Carolina 97-69. Wyoming upset No. 20 Texas El Paso 81-75. Kentucky topped Florida 69-56. Stanford tipped Washington 71-69, and Miami (Fla.) toppled Kansas 87-86.

At Miami, Dennis Burns scored 25 points and Joel Warren saw a free throw with two seconds to pace Miami. With the score tied 86-86, Warren was fouled by Freeman West as he tried a layup. MVP Newton led Kansas with 20 points and 7 rebounds.

At Tucson, Ariz., Anthony Cook scored 20 points, hitting 7 of 8 shots in the first half, to lead Arizona. Sean Elliott was held to just 11 points for the Wildcats, half his season average. Gary Payton scored 25 points to lead Oregon State.

Childhood abuse need not wreck adult's life

DEAR DR. GOTT: When I was a child, I was physically and sexually abused for eight years. My parents put me in a state mental hospital when I was a teenager, where I stayed for several years. I'm getting help now, but I'm afraid the emotional pain won't go away. Is there an operation that can be done on the brain so that all the terrible memories are gone?

DEAR READER: Unfortunately, no reputable surgery will separate you from your unpleasant memories. Like other people who have suffered deprivation and abuse, you will continue to remember your terrible experiences for the rest of your life. Terrible things happened to you, and these memories probably will remain an indelible part of your emotional life.

It seems to me that the goal in dealing with disastrous childhood experiences is to make them work for you; that is, use them as a springboard to promote personal growth. What happened happened. It's past, it's over. Try not to let your memories and resentments contaminate your life today. You can overcome these unpleasant experiences and, in the process, become a better, stronger person. On the other hand, if you choose to live your life in the past and allow self-pity and remorse to control your life, you will become a bitter and unhappy adult.

Work with your therapist to find effective ways of dealing with the anger, shame and guilt that are often produced by disastrous childhood experiences. You needn't be a victim anymore. In fact, your memories may make you a better person. In addition, you may be able to help others who have experienced similar abuse. Use your emotional pain to make you a more sensitive, rather than a less sensitive, person. At times when you are overwhelmed by your memories, reach out for help, work on your self-image and get your life back in balance. Today is the first day of the rest of your life; it's a cliché, but it works.

Piano duo to tickle ears

Concert association hopes for better local patronage

By VICKI DeBORMIER

ENTERTAINMENT

LAKE MARY — Despite strong competition and weak attendance, the Seminole County Community Concerts Association continues to bring acclaimed talent to the county. On Sunday, Jan. 22, the piano duo of Stecher and Horowitz are set to give county residents yet another chance to support the arts here.

"We welcome anybody at our concerts," said Shirley Mills, president of the concert association. "We have world-class talent at a reasonable price right here in Seminole County. I hope more people will take advantage of it."

A close working relationship has developed between the Seminole County Community Concerts Association and the Seminole Art Association. For many years art shows and sales have been combined with concerts. While the sales of any art work benefit only the artists, the presentation of the two art forms brings a new aspect to the shows.

On Jan. 22 at 3:30 p.m., the associations will combine efforts once again at the Lake Mary High School auditorium on Longwood-Lake Mary Boulevard.

During the intermission and following the performance of Stecher and Horowitz, the art association will be showing off their own talents.

Stecher and Horowitz are internationally acclaimed as one of the leading duo pianists of our time. They appear in more than 70 cities throughout the world annually in addition to educating the public about classical piano music.

At their concert in Lake Mary, the two will play pieces by Schumann-Debussy, Mozart, Chopin, Milhaud, Rachmaninoff, Poulenc and Strauss.

A team since 1951, Stecher and Horowitz made their first appearances on a major hotel circuit, playing everything from Gerahwin to Chopin. They were the first duo piano attraction to be booked at Radio City Music Hall. In 1960, they founded the Stecher-Horowitz School of the Arts in Cedarhurst, N.Y., a non-profit educational institution for students of all ages and educational backgrounds.

"We aren't able to sell tickets to individual shows. To see one, you have to buy the season package," Mills said. "Of course, the price of our season ($25) is comparable to what some organizations charge for a single show."

Since the number of available seats is high, Mills said that memberships will be sold at the door, but she encouraged people to call Dr. Alexander K. Dickison, the group's membership director, to simplify matters.

Dickison may be reached during business hours at 323-1450, ext. 431. In addition to the Jan. 22 concert, the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra will perform at the Sanford Civic Center (where concertgoers will have the opportunity to dance to the Big Band sound) on Friday, Feb. 10, at 8 p.m. On Tuesday, March 7, the Quintet of the Americas will play at 8 p.m. at the Lake Mary High School Auditorium.

"I think we have something unique here. Phenomenal talent at reasonable prices," Mills said.

Billy Graham at—yes—70

United Press International

Most of the nation's attention was focused on the presidential election last Nov. 7 and the small milestone that was passed went generally unremarked: Billy Graham turned 70.

It is, perhaps, not all that unremarkable, for it seems that Graham has always been part of the scene — at the elbow of presidents and statesmen; holding a crusade just down the road; in a televised special on one of the independent channels.

And in an age of glitz and greed and grudges among television's gospellers, the modest presence of Graham has been, for many, a kind of safe harbor of certainty.

Recently, "Christianity Today," the powerful evangelical organ Graham helped found, celebrated the evangelist's birthday with a symposium on Graham's contribution to the religious scene in the second half of the 20th century.

Church historian Martin Marty, self-described as a one-time "Graham group," was perceptively precise in his contribution.

First he described Graham's task: carrying on an evangelical tradition shaped by such predecessors as Jonathan Edwards, Dwight L. Moody and Billy Sunday but, unlike them, "in a culture not decisively shaped by a Protestantism that was responsive to evangelicalism."

"He has had to build community in a pluralist America, one in which neither his kind of camp nor any camp singularly 'ran the show.'"

"He had to rely on old evangelical vocabularies where he could, as in leftover parts of the oldish South. Then he had to translate as it became the newish South, the worldly Sun Belt. Graham had to find languages to communicate, to 'sing the Lord's song' in many strange lands, some of them named America. Secular America.

Post-Protestant America. Religious America."

There is also a peculiar paradox about Graham.

He has grown while remaining the same.

Marty notes the disappointment many felt when Graham — so close to Richard Nixon he was once spoken of as a potential running mate — refused to condemn the 1972 Christmas bombing of Cambodia, using what Marty calls the "dodge" that he was a New Testament evangelist not an Old Testament prophet.

"Since then, there have been reasons for critics from 'our side,'" Marty added, "to rub our eyes as Graham has come to take risky stands for disarmament before these seemed safe and popular in politics."

As that suggests growth, his response to the celebrity status conferred on him suggests his remaining the same.

Promises can bring out the best in us

I hadn't thought about Johnny Sylvester in years before the Babe Ruth story showed up again on television the other night.

Like most stories that get passed on from one storyteller to another, the saga of Johnny Sylvester went through countless versions. The details may have varied but all the accounts brought a lump to the throat.

The most popular version was this one: At the time of the 1926 World Series between the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals, the Yanks' star home-run hitter, Babe Ruth, received a message from the father of an 11-year-old boy who lay critically ill in a hospital in Essex Falls, N.J.

Surgeons had performed an operation on him but he was not responding. Johnny was an ardent Yankee fan. Babe Ruth was his hero. As the boy's father and his doctor talked gravely about Johnny's condition, it occurred to both of them that a visit from the boy's idol might be just what was needed to spur his recovery.

RELIGION

The next morning Johnny couldn't believe his eyes when the door to his hospital room opened and Babe Ruth walked in. The two — the wide-eyed boy fighting for his life and the most legendary sports figure in history — talked like old friends for almost an hour.

Before he left, Ruth signed a baseball for Johnny and then made him a promise. He would hit a home run for him in the series game that afternoon. In this account, Ruth hit not one but three home runs that day.

Johnny slept well in his hospital bed that night — and he lived.

There were discrepancies in that story, however. For one thing, the series game in which Ruth hit three home runs was played in St. Louis. It wouldn't have been possible for the Babe to get from the hospital in New Jersey that morning to St. Louis in the afternoon to keep his promise to the boy.

An item that appeared in The New York Times on Oct. 8, 1926, may have had the facts straighter. The article quoted the boy's doctor as saying that Johnny's recovery began "when he learned the news of the Babe's three home runs. His fever began to abate at once."

But the story said nothing about Ruth visiting Johnny in the hospital. Nothing about a promise. Johnny's father was quoted as saying he was "convinced that Johnny owes his life to the autographed baseballs" he had received in the mail from the managers of both teams.

Mel Allen, the ex-Yankee broadcaster, preferred the more popular version of the story and always made a dramatic point when he came to Ruth's promise to Johnny.

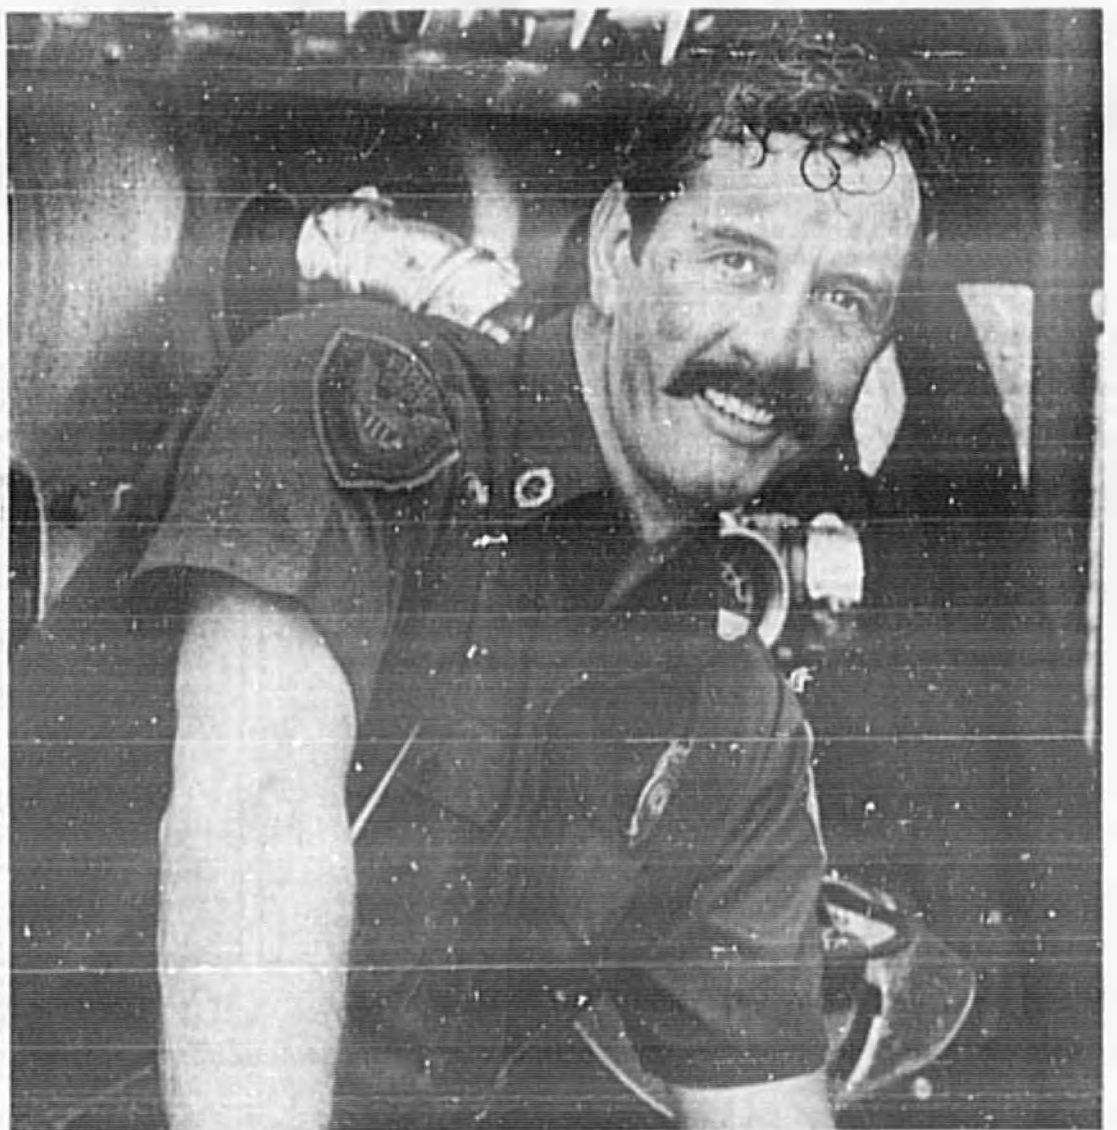

"Babe knew that Johnny would be holding him to his promise every time he came to bat that afternoon. He went to the ball park knowing he was 'under contract' to hit a home run. He knew Johnny would be crushed with disappointment if he didn't come through."

We ourselves are not much for making promises. Many of us can't remember the last time we made a promise. "I'll see what I can do" is the furthest we will go. We quickly add, "I can't make you any promises."

Promises we are serious about can bring out the best in us. They make us live up to a commitment. Like the promise made to young Johnny Sylvester, they can also give new hope, and even new life, to those to whom the promises are made.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

My good friend Fred Sheinwold has a very unusual Bois tip, especially when applied to such a cerebral game as bridge - "Don't think." What's this? Don't think when you're playing bridge? Might as well keep your eyes open while sleeping. However, there is one situation in which you must not let your opponent realize that you are thinking. Suppose declarer is taking a finesse; if it works, he will return to dummy or his hand and repeat it. If you hold the honor that he is finessing against, and you cleverly intend to let him win the trick, you must play with your normal casual tempo. For sure, you don't want to give away your deception of the virtuous declarer.

When declarer first plays a spade back to his queen, West should play low. Declarer will now return to dummy with a diamond to take another spade finesse. West can now win the king and exit with either a spade or a diamond, and declarer cannot get to dummy twice to take the necessary two club finesses. The contract will fail.

But what happens if West trances when spades are first led and then plays low? South might pick up what is happening, play ace and another spade, and subsequently use his entries to dummy to take the club finesse twice. So if you're West, follow the advice - don't think. But don't take the king of spades the first time the suit is led either.
