

Major League Baseball Teams Are Pleased Over Trading Among Players

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Mar. 27.—It is noted today with sincere regret that nobody sees any reason to disapprove of himself over the series of off-season deals perpetrated by the Major Leagues this year. This will leave some of us also, but at our wits' end, and maybe we didn't alter the fact that the situation places the writer in a very abashed position. After all, there is nothing like a good cry for real enjoyment and it is painful to admit that pessimism can't be enjoyed at this time on anything like a large scale.

No sooner, for example, did the Chicago Cubs sponsor statistics to prove that Hazel Cuyler was running wild as a hitter and outfielder in their California camp than the Pittsburgh Pirates countered with some data on "Sparky" Adams, who is exhibit B in this transaction.

Adams, according to available figures, hit .354 through the first two weeks of Pittsburgh's exhibition games, accepted fairly good chances without an error and altogether looked the part of the best second baseman the Pirates have had since Maraville's departure. Their story is that somebody may have made a big mistake on this deal but it wasn't Pittsburgh. That's John McGraw's story, to whom the Pirates matter. Huggins and Welch are beginning to impersonate ball players. Cohen seems to be acceptable as a second baseman, John says everything is just dandy and maybe it is. At that, the Giants impressed rival clubs they have faced in the South. Huggins hasn't been hitting for the Braves but the latter are worrying like a man with nothing on his mind except a freshman cap.

It is a bit early for anyone to pass judgment on the recent Bell-Hugh trade and, therefore, all concerned naturally are felled in particular. The Grimes-Aldridge matter, however, is something else since to date the Giants have obtained nothing beyond a headline. John probably would like to claim a trade here somewhere but just doesn't know where to begin.

This really is the only removable factor in the entire situation as the Pirates believe that Dave Bancroft has quite their infield and Stanley Harris wishes to announce that he has an unbalanced number of $15,000 commission to hand over to a few more Siskons. The latter is hitting well and has added speed to the Senators' base stitutional in a unanimous opinion handed down by the Florida Supreme Court. Other important matters will be discussed including the banking situation.

Governor Martin is also expected to devote some time to charges made against him by political enemies. He expects to answer Sidney J. Catts on statements attributed to the candidate for governor and also to tell his audience of Burton Lee Mank, Catts' campaign manager, who the Chief Executive has described as a "jail bird."

Don Howley also states that he would have no specific objection to making any number of trades like the one that got him Blue and Manush. The latter injured himself last winter and is not in the line up at the moment, so maybe what Daniel really likes about him is the way he slides along the bench. McNeely, obtained from Washington, likewise is noted as a satisfactory addition and, I trust, for a slightly more satisfactory reason.

The Detroit end of the Manush-Bancroft deal also is cheering heavily about Harry Rice, who seems to be going very well for the tigers. Quite an Arsenal; there is usually no chance right now to look on the dark side of things and I'm all broken up about it.

When the Water Boils

An overheated engine not only indicates the need of oil, water, or mechanical adjustment to prevent damage — it is a "fire signal" that should not be ignored. Keep the engine cool — the gasoline, wood and cloth in your car are easily ignited.

There are other common causes of fire, some of which cannot be easily detected. Even a minor blaze in your car or garage means an outlay of cash for repairs. It is wise to insure your car against such loss.

Carson Challenges Sidney J. Catts To Debate Race Issue

even more pronounced because of the apathy of other candidates toward a race issue raised by Catts on the race track question. Since his first public address in Tallahassee, Mr. Carson said his opponent had put up a "loud howl" and attributed this to the fact that his charges had struck home with such force that Catts had embarked immediately upon a campaign of dealing in untruths, not in a small way but in a big way.

Answering Catts' threats of intimidation if he visits West Florida, Mr. Carson announced that he expected to invade the so-called Catts' stronghold next week and that he will go alone and unarmed. Catts' knife carriers to the contrary notwithstanding.

"I have no fear of the old man nor any of his threats," said the speaker, "because I am fighting for a principal and am enlisted in behalf of a righteous cause."

Catts, the candidate said, had tried to impress his audiences that he was a "bad man" and in reply Mr. Carson said, "I am not a bad man—have never claimed to be a bad man—but I have stopped a few who were."

Reviewing the flight made against race track gambling, Mr. Carson said he undertook the battle alone but enlisted the aid of his uncle, John M. Bryan of Fort Lauderdale, after the courts had thrown out his suit to enjoin the tracks from operating. Filing a new suit in the name of his relative, Mr. Carson said he took the case to the supreme court and succeeded finally in obtaining a decision outlawing the pari-mutuels.

"When we started the battle we were surrounded by the most sinister influences. We were besieged with bribes, which eventually gave away to threats but we kept on despite the obstacles, which at times seemed almost insurmountable. When we won I thought that was ample proof of the old saying that 'you can kill a Cracker but you can't scare him.'"

Taking up the cudgel against Carlton and Hathaway, Mr. Carson charged each of them with having resorted to foolish evasions of the race track issue, either because they are afraid of losing the votes of some of their supporters or because they are afraid of Catts. The speaker illustrated his point by reciting a story of two cowboys who pitched their camp near a "haunted house."

While the pair cooked their supper, the speaker said the horses wandered away. Taking circular routes in their search for the missing horses, the two men were to meet near the "haunted house."

The first one arriving at the house stood under the eaves of the dwelling and when the other reached the spot he saw the figure of his friend but thought it was a ghost. He took out for the camp fire and the other thinking that his companion had surely seen the ghost, took in behind the fleeing figure.

Arriving at camp they went around the fire several times until they came to the realization that they were chasing each other around and the horses were still running loose.

"That situation reminds me of this campaign," the speaker said. "Carlton and Hathaway are running around the camp fire after each other while Catts is meowing and howling up and down the back fence of the whole state."

Taking issue with the claims of Catts and his campaign manager, Burton Mank, Mr. Carson denied emphatically that Miami is dead and that prosperity is gone because of the absence of racing. Contradicting this claim and describing it as "foolish and absurd," Mr. Carson quoted from the advertisements of Carl G. Fisher recently appearing in the Miami papers showing that Miami Beach hotels were packed beyond their normal capacity and that school attendance in the greater Miami district had an increase this year over last season of 258 per cent.

"We had the biggest season in our history this year," said Mr. Carson. "More people visited Miami than ever before and why?" "Because northern people have discovered that we have found out that common decency and clean government pays."

Denying Catts' charge that S. Hobo Dean, former publisher of the Miami Metropolis, had contributed $35,000 to his campaign, Mr. Carson said, "Mr. Dean has not contributed one cent in my behalf, as when Catts said Mr. Dean was supporting me, he did more to help me than any other thing he could have done or said."

Quoting from an editorial in the Lomestead Leader, Mr. Carson said that Frank Shutt, publisher of the Miami Herald and former co-holder in the Miami Jockey Club, is supporting Hathaway; that Charles H. Brown, director of a West Coast Jockey Club of Tampa, was supporting Carlton and that Jack Cleary, also a director in the Miami Jockey Club, is strong for Catts. With this information that all three of the candidates are receiving money from race track leaders, Carson closed the discussion with the question, "Why?" recalling that Catts said at the end of his 1924 campaign for governor that he was "broke," Mr.

Women Of Denver Debate Question Of Serving On Juries

DENVER, Colo., Mar. 28.—(INS)—Members of the South Side Woman's Club of Denver recently held a debate on the subject "Should Women be allowed to serve on juries?" The negative side triumphed by a vote of 69 to 53.

Colorado, one of the first states to have women's suffrage, is not counted among the 24 states that call upon women for jury service. If the outcome of this debate is any criterion, the centennial state will remain in its present status for some time.

Among the arguments presented by the winning side were:

"Women can do more good by educating their children so that the need of juries is lessened, than by going into the courtrooms themselves."

"The woman's place is at home, not in the jury box."

"It is terrible to think of women in such a place. They would be forced to listen to shady testimony and sit among men who would smoke and tell obscene stories. They would be long hours away from home with household duties neglected and children without maternal care. Besides, we do not understand how women who shudder at the thought of killing a chicken could weigh the life of a human being."

Among the losing arguments presented were the following statements:

"Why is the mother and housewife any better than her sister stenographer who sits in the court room, and not only hears volumes of filth, but is obliged to write it out."

"Serving on juries is rather an interesting form of recreation."

"There is no physical hardship attached to jury service. It opens the way to many new vistas for women. Besides, it is easier for women to appear in such a capacity. Business men are often hurt by their decision in the jury box. Women could avoid that set-back."

OFFERS ESTATE

WASHINGTON, Mar. 28.—(INS)—The 20-acre estate of J. B. Pound, atop Lookout Mountain, at Chattanooga, Tenn., was offered today to President Coolidge for a summer White House.

Applications from eligible youths and almost as many more from persons manifestly unqualified. Last year's call produced less than 200 applications. Training corps officers estimate that 1,500 applications will be received before examination date.

Applications have come from every state in the union and from Panama, Hawaii, Alaska and the Philippines. California leads all other states in the number of a spring Landburghs.

Minister Condemns Modern Society For Its Ideas On New Theory Of Existence

BOULDER, Colo., March 28.—(INS)—Modern civilization is on the toboggan, and is being forced downward by companionate marriage, petting parties, false education, denial of the incarnation of Christ, and deplorable practices in high society.

This declaration was made by Prof. Marion E. Cady, of the Seventh Day Adventist Church while attending the Central Union Conference of the denomination held here recently.

In his heated verbal rebellion, Prof. Cady commented upon many phases of modern living. He declared that parents of today were being made "the goat" by their children. The children denounce control, thinking they are being suppressed, and the parents give way too easily.

Teaching Evolution

The teaching of evolution in the schools and colleges has had a bad effect, according to Prof. Cady. The churches and ministers who advocate modernism in the place of pure gospel are also adding to the downfall.

All of these factors, in Prof. Cady's opinion, are omens of the near return of Christ who "will overthrow the sin and corruption in the world today in a manner parallel to the days of Noah and the flood."

"It is as much the fault of modern ministers as it is the educators themselves. Both classes are taboos the Bible, which means throwing it away and when this is done, all standards of living are discarded," said Prof. Cady.

"The modern minister denies the story of creation, the leadership of Moses in the camp of Israel, the story of Adam and Eve, Jonah and the whale and is teaching such as so much folklore."

History Teachings

"Modernists are declaring that they can take the history of any nation and make a more interesting record for the teaching of their children than the Bible contains. They actually are taking away from the human family a plan for salvation, thus making a materialistic age which, if God allows to continue, would lead us back to the days of the dark ages, barbarism and savagery."

"This will not happen because back to the dark ages, barbarism God has a plan himself, whereby Christ will come when the human family has filled its cup of iniquity and destroy them and establish a Kingdom to righteousness, according to his original purpose."

"If companionate marriage would become so prevalent as to encourage promiscuous relationship everywhere, moral standards would be hurled to the winds, and vice and lust and passion would have free way."

Chicago Politicians Offer Huge Reward In Recent Bombing

CHICAGO, Mar. 28.—(INS)—A fortune of $65,000 today awaits the person who can name the men responsible for the ruthless bombing which Monday night endangered eight innocent lives and partially demolished the homes of Senator Charles S. Deneen, and Judge John A. Swanson.

To make the reward more alluring, it provides that if the informant should be one of the actual perpetrators of the crime or in any manner involved, he will be immune from arrest and prosecution.

This huge award, a record in Illinois for a crime involving no fatalities, was posted by twelve local Republican leaders, all opposed to the Republican faction headed by Senator Deneen.

State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, rival in the Apr. primaries of Judge Swanson, headed the list with $10,000 of his personal funds. Mayor William Hale Thompson, Crowe's political ally, added $5,000, as did Commissioner of Police Michael Hughes, a Thompson appointee.

Nine other leaders in the Thompson-Crowe organization, who contributed $5,000 each to the reward fund are: Homer K. Galpin, George F. Harding, Eugene R. Pike, Charles V. Barrett, Bernard W. Snow, Lawrence F. King, Edward J. Brundage, John W. Jaranowski and Sheriff John Graydon.

CLASS MEETS

Medical Association To Have Large Exhibit

MINNEAPOLIS, Mar. 28.—(INS)—The entire exhibiting space to be available at the Minneapolis auditorium during the national convention of the American Medical Association, June 11 to 15, has been contracted for, according to information received here today by Dr. W. A. Jones, chairman of the convention committee of the Hennepin County Medical Association.

Exhibitors will occupy the entire floor of the mezzanine basement, half of the floor of the main auditorium and corridors of the main floor of the new auditorium.

That side of exhibition space in the auditorium is complete was announced by W. C. Braun, business manager for the American Medical Association.

The convention, which will be one of the largest that has ever met in Minneapolis, will require three additional meeting places for its section meetings, according to Dr. Jones. The Lyceum Theatre, the Long Theatre and the Majestic ballroom, all adjacent to the auditorium, will be used.

Committees of the Hennepin county association which will handle the Minneapolis end of arrangements for the convention will be announced within the next three weeks, according to Mr. Jones.

PRESIDENT SIGNS BILL

WASHINGTON, Mar. 28.—(INS)—The Federal Radio Commission was officially restored to active life today, when President Coolidge signed the Radio Bill, extending its term to Mar. 15, 1929.

FIRE DESTROYS HOTEL

BALTIMORE, Md., Mar. 28.—(INS)—Scores of theatrical people, guests and residents at Folly Hotel here, were forced to flee to the street in scanty attire today, when fire or starting in the Folly Theatre wrecked it and the adjoining hotel. All city fire apparatus was called out, and several firemen were overcome by smoke fighting the blaze.

SHANGHAI CAFES GIVE CITY NAME "PARIS OF EAST"

Oriental Community Becomes Gayest City Through Addition Of Road Houses And Cabarets In Foreign Districts

SHANGHAI, Mar. 28. (INS)—Shanghai's much-advertised "Night Life," that gay and alluring mode of existence which turns night into day for many, is responsible for the existence in Shanghai (today of total of 55 cabarets and road-houses, all within the International Settlement and French Concession, the two foreign-controlled areas of the "Paris of the Orient.")

Approximately one-half of these establishments are run by foreigners, the majority of them Americans with homelike experience which, adapted to Oriental conditions, have resulted in novel and unique methods whereby the night-life is swiftly and painlessly pruned from his cash. The other half of Shanghai's three-score cabarets are owned by Chinese and managed by Americans, Britons, Frenchmen or Russians. Only two cabarets are purely Chinese in proprietorship and management.

Employ Many

Shanghai's 55 cabarets give employment to 150 men, who act as managers or "booneys"; 450 musicians, the majority Filipinos and Russians who play American jazz music; and a handful of white and colored Americans, including the world known aggregation "Whitey" Smith's Majestic Orchestra; 2,200 women, more than 2,000 of them Russian dancing partners and the remainder Chinese or Japanese girls with dances, like the Russian, now to be heard in the saloons, champagne, high priced fallow cocktails and dance tickets, and some 5,000 Chinese waiters, ticket sellers, cleaners, cooks, carpenters, doormen, and other help.

Shanghai night life has swollen the Russian invasion, too, and girls, attractive and otherwise, flock to the city from Harbin, other Manchurian cities and from Siberia, drawn by tales of good times recounted by lucky friends of the unprincipled Russian "agent" of cabarets seeking "new faces" with which to beguile Shanghai's business men in their role as les playboys of the world. There is a high price for these girls and they sell for fall of darkness. Some are sold by their parents or relatives in these cabarets, marriages have resulted of some of them blissful, and others short lived.

Lewis, the former world champion, is expected to win the match. He is a former world champion and has a record of 200 wins and 25 losses.

Seventy-eight cars were shipped from Sanford yesterday, 22 of them Florida white cabbage, 18 cars which brought the U. S. total up to 795. The Sanford billings were as follows: 25 Waycross, 16 Potomac Yard, 5 Jersey City, 1 Philadelphia, 3 Chicago, 3 Florence, 3 New York, 3 Rochester, and 1 each of Island, Ft. Wayne, Indianapolis, Memphis, Montreal, Newark, Norfolk, Pittsburgh, Quebec, Syracuse, Waterloo, Worcester, and Lansing.

There was a fair inquiry yesterday and good demand for small sizes. Demand continues slow for large sizes. The market has a firm tone, a few sales of fancy stock were made at slightly advanced prices over the previous day. Most cars filled run sizes sold on the f. o. b. basis of $2.00 for 6-8 doz. with 9-1 and 10's discounted 25-50¢.

Feeding The Hospital Family

WHEN a housewife plans meals for a family of eight or ten she feels that she has more than her share of the work, but the dietitian of a hospital thinks nothing of planning food for three or five hundred at a time.

And the dietitian has problems that seldom enter into the housewife's problems. Some patients can eat no carbohydrates, some can eat only a small amount of food, and some are allergic to certain foods.

Important Fruits and Vegetables

In a hospital fruits and vegetables are used in large quantities for several reasons. For one thing, they are effective in building up bodily resistance. Also they provide bulk, which is especially important for people who are not exercising at all. In course, we use fresh ones when they are in season, but we always have large stores of quality canned fruits and vegetables. The ones which come already mixed for salads are wonderful time savers. Everyone knows how long it takes to prepare salads for a home. Multiply the time by several hundred, and it is obvious why fruits and vegetables for salads are bought by the case.

Even so, special salads are made.

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 28. Right on the heels of the assertion, that the women of the United States dominated their men folk, came the outburst which has caused the flush of anger to steal up and lose itself, so to speak, in the collective bosom of the co-eds.

Medium size requires 3 yards, 54-inch plaid jersey and 1 1/2 yards striped material of the same width for the blouse.

Finally Determine Fate Of Mansion

LONDON, Mar. 28. (INS)—The fate of the "Buckingham Palace" mansion, which is to be converted into a "Theatre Royal," has been finally determined by a syndicate for conversion into the most luxurious hotel in Europe.

Built about 50 years ago by George Helford, 10th Earl of Home, situated in a commanding site, Park Lane, London, the mansion, which was regarded as the world's architectural masterpiece from 1906 to 1912, was bought by the American Embassy in London, and there entertained monarchs and celebrities of every description. It cost him $30,000 "yearly" for "rent" — enormous sum in those days.

Recently an attempt was made by Lady Bessborough to open the house "not as a theatre, but as a drama, music and literary" and also to act as the "Theatre Shakespeare Memorial." The sufficient subscriptions were forthcoming, however, and a syndicate bought the site for $5,500,000.

The projected hotel will have 100 rooms, and the present intention the promoters is to outfit every rooming hotel in the world as regards sheen luxury and beauty.

The decision of the Supreme Court upholding Governor Martin's program for financing to completion the drainage of the Everglades, and declaring that the bonds to be issued were a binding obligation on the district only and not on the state, removes the last vestige of any doubt that this transaction was illegal or tainted by corruption.

Charges by political enemies of Governor Martin that the Everglades deal was "the biggest steal in the history of Florida" and the wide-spread publicity given to so-called "proof" that negotiations for Everglades bonds had been made at private sale resulting in a loss of several million dollars to the State, had led many of Martin's friends, who ordinarily had the utmost confidence in his ability and integrity, to fear that there might be something wrong about the Everglades deal.

For that reason it is particularly gratifying to those who have admired Governor Martin's intense aggressiveness and the achievements of his administration, that the ruling handed down on Monday by the Supreme Court should vindicate beyond all question of doubt the Chief Executive's connection with the most progressive movement and the greatest financial negotiation in the history of Florida.

Governor Martin had repeatedly insisted from the time his bill was first presented to the Legislature that the state of Florida could in no way be held responsible for the drainage bonds, and that only the district to be benefited directly by the drainage could be taxed to pay interest and retire the bonds. The Supreme Court, reversing the orders of the Gadsden circuit court, has unanimously upheld the Governor.

With the removal of doubt on Martin's regime from the minds of many, his candidacy for the United States Senate receives a decided boom. The charges of his enemies have been branded for what they are, "political lies," and Governor Martin again steps forth as honest as he is aggressive.

Pretty Good Sporting

Ruth Bryan Owen, congressional candidate, has proved herself not only "the best man in the race," but also the best "sportsman."

She and her opponent, Joe Sears, had been invited to speak at the American Legion convention in Coral Gables, she to make the welcoming address and he to speak on any non-political subject he might choose. But unfortunately it developed later that Mr. Sears could not be present. Whereupon Rice King, departmental commander and strong supporter of the Kissimmee man, objected to Mr. Owen's appearance.

We do not criticize Mr. King's action, but we do say that the gracious manner in which Mrs. Owen averted a controversy and withdrew from the convention was most becoming and indicative of the highest type of sportsmanship. Other Legion officials urged her to make the welcoming address anyway, regardless of whether Mr. Sears was present and of what Mr. King might say.

Mrs. Owen, however, sent the departmental commander the following telegram: "I have been invited to deliver the address of welcome to your convention on the understanding that Mr. Sears, who is my political opponent, would also address the convention. I have learned with regret that Mr. Sears is unable to be present. In fairness to him and to the non-political policy of the American Legion, which I appreciate, I feel I should not appear. Be assured, nevertheless, that every man, woman and child in Coral Gables bids the American Legion warmly welcome."

Mrs. Owen, it will be recalled, served three years as ward nurse, surgical nurse and operating nurse with the British in Egypt and Palestine where the United States entered the war. She was one of fifteen members of the American Woman's Relief Fund, which financed and operated the American Woman's hospital at Paignton, Devonshire. It was at this institution that more than three thousand wounded soldiers were cared for before the United States declared war.

Her husband only recently died of illness contracted while serving in the Dardanelles campaign.

LOWELL THEN AND NOW TAMPA TRIBUNE

James Russell Lowell, a few years after the Civil War, told how, perusing a newspaper, he read of public scandal, private fraud,

Crime haunting sent-free while the mob applauded.

O'rice made vile to bribe unworthies.

And all the unwholesome mess The land of Honest Abraham serves of late—

To teach the Old World how to wait!

What would he write if he were living today?

Conditions, surely, are not so bad now. Business life is much cleaner. Political life, too, is cleaner, if we forget the current G.O.P. oil scandal. There are some phases of our public life that most of us would rather not discuss. As for "crime flaunting sent-free," there is probably more of that than ever before in our history.

Well-known politicians would do well if, instead of bragging about pre-eminence in virtue, they would turn to and help clean up the bad spots.

If it were a battle between the secretary and senator alone, the former might fare better, but the friends of Hoover, Davies and others may be expected to vote for With State. Mr. Hoover must prove his preponderance over the field. Admittedly the leading candidate, he is facing a task which may mean a serious setback or an ultimate triumph. If he wins Ohio his cause will gain momentum over the country. If he loses his opponents will say that the field can keep Hoover from the nomination and there will be good reason to support the alternative.

So it is that California and Ohio may help solve the 1928 riddle for the destinies of the present two leading candidates are involved in an unconsiderable extent.

WHAT IS NEWS? ST. AUGUSTINE RECORD

With the rolling by of the years we have become "fed up" on the statement that "it would not be news for a dog to bite a man, but if a man should bite a dog, then that would be news." Sounds well, but it is not so. If a dog bites a man on the right place many times and hard enough to kill him, that is news. If a dog kills barely up a man, and the man be prominent, like Thomas A. Edison, that would be bad news. But if William Edward Hickman should be attacked by a ferocious half-wolf police dog, that would be good news to everybody except Hickman.

Pola Negri Stars In Milane Picture Of The Golden Orange Grove Country

Two waitresses in a spaghetti restaurant have worn a badge with the number 7 on it.

In turn, each has been wooed, won and happily married.

So, Pola Negri, enacting the role of a waitress, decides that badge No. 7 bears a lucky charm and appropriates it. After that things begin to happen.

This is the beginning of the swift picturesque drama, a romance of the orange groves, which Miss Negri recently finished for Paramount. It is called "The Secret Hour" and was written for the screen and directed by Rowland V. Lee. Lee began his professional career as a writer of plays in New York and his talent in this respect has grown since he became a director. He wrote the adaptation of "Harold Wins" Miss Negri's great success, which he likewise directed.

To insure having players who could respond to Miss Negri's superb emotional power, R. P. Scholberg, associate Paramount producer, arranged for the services of Jean Hersholt, a character star in his own right, and of Kenneth Thompson, one of the fastest rising young leading men in Hollywood.

Locations for the picture were found at Burbank, in the orange groves and vineyards of John Grandetok, pride of San Fernando Valley, California. The owner and his wife, almost literally adopted the star, giving her the use of their picturesque ranch home. A festival scene Director Lee put Miss Nellie Smallwood of Baltimore, Md., arrived here Wednesday and is the guest of Mrs. Charles E. Henry at her home on Magnolia Avenue.

Mrs. Wren McLean of Atlanta, Ga., is spending a week in Sanford on business and is stopping at Martin Cottage.

W. Lee Jr., Mrs. J. O. Loney and Mrs. James F. Hawkins served delicious refreshment, consisting of frozen fruit salad, stuffed celery, sandwiches cut in the form of the various card symbols, saltines, coffee and gay colored Easter Eggs.

There were fifteen tables of players and included a large number of out of town visitors.

D. A. R. Chapter Gives Tuesday Luncheon

"Florida Day" was most fittingly observed Tuesday by the Sallie Harrison Chapter N. S. D. A. R., when they entertained the neighboring chapters at luncheon at the Forrest Lake Hotel, and a motorcade to points of interest about the country.

Luncheon was served in the ball room, which had been decorated with potted plants and baskets of spring flowers. At one end of the spacious room, the speakers table had been placed, and was centered with a low mound of deep red roses and ferns. At either end of the long table were bowls of rainbow tinted Spring flowers, which alternated with rattles in silver holders. At the speakers table were the visiting state officers, Mrs. B. E. Brown of Deland, newly elected state regent; Mrs. W. C. McLean of Orlando, newly elected honorary past state regent; Mrs. J. J. Kindred of Deland and Washington, Pa., past regent; Mrs. Theodore Stover of Deland, past state regent; Mrs. B. E. Steven of Daytona Beach, newly elected recording secretary; Miss Mable Bishop of Eustis, state librarian; and Mrs. John Leonard, regent of the Sallie Harrison Chapter and also newly elected first vice regent of the state.

Luncheon was served at one o'clock by Mrs. W. E. Watson, Mrs. Lloyd Beale, Mrs. E. McKenzie

BIG BUSINESS SHAKES HANDS WITH SCIENCE

SCIENCE has come into its own before, in its effect on the section of big business in the United States. Not only the great Universities and medical institutions, but both the National and State governments have enlisted its aid in the intelligent direction of the nation's economic life.

The scientific data which is so widely disseminated by the United States Department of Agriculture is now a matter of common knowledge, and the systematic efforts of the National Committee toward the scientific simplification of all manufactured articles in widespread use are equally well known. The State Governments are applying science to the automobile in this modern era of swift transportation, and of State laws, based on scientific findings, in regard to brakes, headlights and other mechanical details.

But the use of science has gone much further in its penetration of our business and economic life. It is not only being used by the Government but welcomed by the public in the safeguarding of this nation's health. The great initial step in this direction was the passing of the Pure Food Law in 1906. But since that time, great scientific laboratories have come into being in practically all kinds of manufacturing industries, including steel, electricity, textiles, paints and varnishes, and the scientific preservation of foodstuffs by means of canning to mention only a few.

At the present time, the scientific and practical aspects of all foods, and the wholesaler or retailer, has made a plea for them to consider the possibilities of reducing the number of sizes and styles of cans to the minimum necessary to meet the needs of the consumer.

A. Wheeler of the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., gave an account of the Seed Verification Service inaugurated in October of last year by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, to give the buyer of certain kinds of seed a verified origin seed certificate, issued under authority of the Department. The speaker said that this service was important wherever there is value attached to the locality of production of any kind of seed. At present its scope is limited to alfalfa, clovers, and seed corn, but the service may be extended to other seeds if sufficient funds for the purpose are forthcoming. Sixty-three dealers in 24 States scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Minnesota to Texas have enrolled in this service for the first season ending June 30 of this year.

R. S. Hollingshead, Canned Foods Specialist of the United States Department of Commerce, reported on two investigations of consumers' opinions of canned foods made by that Government Department. The first survey indicated that the consumption of canned foods was greatest among those whose incomes were between $1500 and $2000 a year. One of the outstanding facts was that the convenience of canned foods was the principal reason for their use. Another was that the consumption of canned foods in winter was from two to eight times as great as in summer.

A Great Range of Subjects

Dr. Leverett S. Lyon of the Institute of Economics, Washington, D. C., made clear to the assembled canners the importance from an economic point of view of assembling and studying the statistics of buying and distribution in their own field not only for their own benefit but for that of the consumers.

Dr. Carl L. Alsberg, Director, Food Research Institute, Stanford University, Palo Alto, Cal., developed some further arguments along this line, and dwelt on the new competition for the consumers' dollar.

"Food habits," he said, "do not change as suddenly and as unaccountably as the length of skirts or the width of trousers, but they do change with time. The consumption of flour has gone down 12% per capita since 1917. The consumption of sugar has gone up 50%. In 1926 at least 75 million dollars worth of salad dressings were sold. Translate that into salad made largely of fresh fruits and vegetables and see what it means to you. Carload shipments of fresh fruit and vegetables, not counting what is hauled by motor trucks, have gone up from 700,000 cars in 1920 to nearly a million in 1925. What has happened between 1925 and 1928 we don't yet know."

F. C. Gaylord, Specialist in Marketing, Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., discussed the grading of tomatoes according to United States standards, and Professor J. F. Cox of the Michigan State College of Agriculture stated that the present yearly bean crop of the United States is worth approximately $50,000,000, and that about 40% of it is canned.

A Great Demonstration

If there ever was an occasion which demonstrates the fact that science has really come into its own, it was the Twenty-first Annual Convention of the National Canners' Association held in Chicago early this year. Here, where more than 500 important business men, including the highest officials of many nationally known corporations, congregated for a space of five days, exactly 40% of the formal addresses were delivered by scientists from great Universities, and a number of the United States Department of Commerce and the United States Department of Agriculture, Home Economics expert from great Universities, and more than 500 scientists who are working directly for the Association in its elaborate Research Laboratories at Washington, D. C.

There was a reason for this—a fundamental reason of vital importance to the millions of consumers of canned foods in this country today. The men and organizations putting up processed foods are now and have for many years past been trying not only to preserve the best food in the best ways, but constantly to improve these ways, and in order to accomplish this object they have had to recourse to expert technicians and scientists.

This is why they called so largely at this Convention on the scientist and the economist, and the representatives of some of the great publications which reach the housewife directly to help them in the production, processing, presentation and distribution of these foodstuffs which form such an important part of our national economic life.

Scientists Who Spoke

The men from great universities and scientific institutions who spoke at the sessions of this Convention, were representing to many millions of capital and listened and learned, were Dr. Leverett S. Lyon of the Institute of Economics, Washington, D. C., Dr. Carl L. Alsberg of Stanford University, Palo Alto, Cal., P. C. Gaylord of Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., Professor J. F. Cox of the Michigan State College of Agriculture, East Lansing, Mich., Professor A. T. Erwin of the State College, Ames, Ia., C. B. Sayre of the Agricultural Experiment Station, Geneva, N. Y., and last, but by no means least, the venerable 83-year old Dr. Harvey Wiley, father of the Pure Food Law, who needs no organization or institution to identify him in the minds of a grateful public.

The representatives of the United States Government Departments who contributed their quota to the great aggregation of information on how to produce, distribute and safeguard the highest quality of canned foods were Dr. Frank M. Surface and R. S. Hollingshead of the Department of Commerce, and W. A. Wheeler of the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

The speakers from the Research Laboratories maintained by the National Canners' Association itself in our national capital, were R. J. Thompson, who spoke twice, E. J. Cameron, P. L. Goren, C. G. Woodward, Dr. W. D. Bigelow and Dr. F. F. Kolman, the last two nationally known for their important work in the fields of dietetic research.

We Eat More Beans

"During 1880," he said, "the United States Census reported a bean production of 3,000,000 bushels for the United States and a total population of approximately 50,000,000 people. Our population today is estimated as 118,000,000 people and the bean production for 1927 was 17,396,000 bushels. If the people of the United States today ate the same amount of beans per capita as in 1880, they could only use a production of 7,000,000 bushels. Our per capita consumption, however, has increased over two hundred and fifty per cent. This increase in the use of beans by the average American has been largely due to the development of the canning industry, producing a far better product than the average home cooked bean, advertising this product nationally, and making it readily available to the public."

Professor A. T. Erwin of the State College, Ames, Ia., discussed pumpkins and squash which are raised for canning in thirteen States. He told of the difficulty of distinguishing between pumpkin and squash.

"When the housewife gets through putting in butter, sugar, nutmeg and whatnot," he said, "any minor differences as to flavor are lost."

C. B. Sayre of the Agricultural Experiment Station, Geneva, N. Y., told the canners of the practical value to them of grading sweet corn seed for size, and Dr. Harvey W. Wiley delivered an impromptu address commenting benignantly on the addresses of the other speakers with a word about the great advances made during his lifetime in the scientific canning of foods.

The Uncommercial Side

Finally, that most important person, the housewife, was represented by Mrs. Ruth Atwater who conducts the Home Economics Department of the National Canners' Association. Miss Prudence Penny, Home Economics Editor of the Chicago Herald-Examiner, and Miss Dorothy B. Marsh of the Good Housekeeping Magazine, who spoke twice in New York City by "Good Housekeeping" magazine to test and pass on the

The Government's Contribution

The three United States Government officials made important contributions in their addresses to the convention.

Dr. Frank M. Surface of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, United States Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C., told the canners about some of their wastes in distribution and pointed out that they do not even know the

No Problem Neglected

The six speakers from the National Canners' Association's own Research Laboratories in Washington, D. C., spoke on highly technical subjects, all having to do with the problems of the further improvement of food products and of the methods of processing them. That there is no problem in regard to the production of pure, appetizing, nutritive and healthful foods which is not being assiduously studied both within and without the industry was conclusively proved by this unusual Convention where business and science sat down together and talked over these problems from every point of view.

TEXAS WILL HAVE LARGEST PORT IN OIL EXPORTATION

Pipe Lines Of Humble Oil Co., Subsidiary Of Standard Oil, Serving Prolific Fields End At Texas Port On The Gulf

PORT ARANSAS, Texas, March 23.—(INS)—The largest oil port in the world, in point of tonnage exported, is being developed here by the Humble Pipeline Co. and Humble Oil and Refining Co., subsidiaries of the Standard Oil Co. of Texas, whose $15,000,000 pipeline systems serving the prolific West Texas oil fields terminate at this port.

With its pipeline and ship-loading facilities inadequate to handle the 200,000 barrels per day out of West Texas, for which it is under contract to build at Port Aransas in the next few months, ended Jan. 31, 1928, 1,000,000 barrels of oil, including 100,000 barrels of kerosene, were shipped in 1928, the Humble shipped 187,120,000 tons.

Dredging To Gulf

Because of the unusually deep draught of vessels employed as oil tankers the Humble has been able to load only 60 per cent capacity at its wharves at Port Aransas, near its afterward tapping of at some other Texas port where deeper water was available.

As a result construction of an emergency line, to terminate on the gulf coast of Mustang Island was begun last week by the Humble Oil and Refining Co. at Ingleside Station, near the mouth of the San Antonio river, which will boost the capacity of this line 40 per cent. The Illinois pipeline from West Texas, also has been tied in at this point, entailing the combination of the two lines into a "trunk line."

A refinery, which when completed, will have a capacity of 50,000 barrels of crude per day is now under construction by Humble Oil and Refining Co. at Ingleside Station, near the mouth of the San Antonio river.

WILL YOU INCREASE TAXES?

Or Will You Make Next Year's Burden Easier By Paying This Year's Taxes Now?

Every economy that can possibly be effected in City government is being practiced in the operation of the City of Sanford.

The number of City employees have been reduced, salaries cut; expense of every description has been pared to the bone or done away with.

Under the budget system City operation is on a rigid economy basis. So much has been allowed for each item of necessary expense and no more. The budget system has saved you large sums Mr. Taxpayer.

These economies, the saving of money and the economical operation of the city will all go to waste and TAXES WILL HAVE TO BE INCREASED next year unless you pay this year's assessment promptly Mr. Taxpayer.

There is a certain amount of property within the City limits; it is subject to a tax for the purpose of securing funds to give you conveniences and protection without which you would not live here. Taxes represent 75% of the City's revenue . . . if you don't pay them promptly you, your family and every citizen of Sanford will suffer.

Which shall it be?

SMOOTH BANDITS RECEIVE BLOW BY NEW ENACTMENT

Bill Introduced In House Of Commons Will Make It Difficult For Crooks To Pawn Wares On The British Public

BY CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Mar. 26.—(UPI)—The terms of a Bill introduced in the House of Commons by the British Government, the white collar bandit of the future will find it much harder to unload his worthless "shares" upon the British public.

The Bill has been introduced as the result of a rising wave of protest against the activities of American and British crook share-peddlers, who are estimated to have received an unsuspected public outlay of 5 millions of dollars in the past few years.

Heretofore, there has been little under British law to prevent the white collar bandit operating in his country, but with the passing of the present measure the public will be afforded full protection, it is to have hawking of shares—the favorite method of the share peddlers—will be prohibited, and written offers of shares will have to be accompanied by full particulars.

DRAWING THE NET

"Comparatively few of these sharks will get through the net which we are so closely drawing around them," said Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, the President of the Board of Trade, in speaking upon the Bill. "Parliament cannot really do anything to protect a fool from his folly, but what it can do is to make sure that even a fool is given a chance not to be fooled."

The Bill is an enormous affair of 109 pages. As a whole it will not immediately be passed, but the clause dealing with the white collar bandit will come into effect immediately after the Royal Assent is given.

"It begins! It shall not be lawful for any person to go from house to house offering shares for subscription or purchase to the public or any member of the public. It shall not be lawful to make an offer in writing to any member of the public or to share broker, unless the offer is accompanied by a statement in writing containing full particulars."

WRITTEN PARTICULARS

Among the written particulars supplied must be: Whether the vendor is principal or agent; the amount of the capital; rights of "shareholders"; whether or not the shares have been fully paid; the past performance of the company; and, if recognized, Stock Exchange and, if so, where.

Putting an end to the share peddlers is a reform advocated for many years by the leading finance houses and financial advisers. On a very small scale it has been introduced in a British law which was enacted in 1914 during the first world war, but which had its origin in the United States.

NOTED WOMAN SCIENTIST TO SHOW HEALTH VALUE OF CARBONATED DRINKS

Dr. Lillian B. Storms, well known as a lecturer on home economics and her nutritional work in the United States and abroad, has been appointed Director of Home Economics for a program of national research and advertising. C., and it will cooperate in a program of national research and advertising to educate consumers as to the food and health value of bottled carbonated beverages.

Results her work in the classrooms of leading educational institutions in this and other countries, Dr. Storms has been a frequent contributor to scientific publications. She recently completed a dissertation on the "Study of the Work of Women in Various Occupations." She was a member of the faculty of the University of New Zealand. Previously she was an instructor in organic food and nutrition at Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa, where she graduated in 1924 with a degree of Master of Science and Doctor of Philosophy from Columbia University, New York City, and is a member of the American Chemical Society, American Home Economics Association, Sigma Xi Honor Society, and the National Home Economics Association. Brown of Selma, announced if bond was refused he would file habeas corpus proceedings. Chief Blake who was established in the neck by Miss Tabbs following his acquittal by the jury, was reported to have shown considerable improvement in the hospital at Clanton. He is still weak, however, from his injury.

Mrs. Goodhue recognized Mrs. Coolidge and the two conversed for a few moments. The rest of the time Mrs. Coolidge sat by her mother's bedside with her friends, Mrs. Rufus B. Hill, who accompanied her from Washington. Mrs. Goodhue's physician, Dr. Justin E. Hayes, declined to hazard a guess as to how long Mrs. Goodhue might live.
