City To Investigate Plan Of Bulkheads Which May Bring Saving Of $400,000

A method by which the city of Sanford may be saved possibly $400,000 on the proposed bulkhead work of two-thirds of the present estimated cost is to be investigated by City Manager W. B. Williams, City Engineer Fred T. Williams and a committee from the Chamber of Commerce, who will view the system in operation there, which is said to be far cheaper than the usual dredging method. The KISSIMMEE method, which is to drill directly down through the hardpan into the sea sands below, and fill with concrete, is estimated to cost only eight cents per cubic yard, against 20 and 25 cents under the usual method of filling in by dragging the water bottom, and even this lower cost at Kissimmee is expected to be lowered to six cents. A meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce Saturday afternoon discussed the question and it was voted to send a committee with the city manager and city engineer to study the Kissimmee method.

SOUTHERN MAN'S EDITORIAL WINS COLUMBIA PRIZE

NEW YORK, Apr. 27.—The annual prizes in journalism and letters for 1924 were announced Sunday by President Nicholas Murray Butler for the school of journalism of Columbia university. Edna Ferber, for her novel, 'So Big,' was awarded the $1,000 prize for the best American novel published during the year which shall represent the wholesome atmosphere of American life, and the highest standards of American manners and methods. The $500 prize for the best cartoon published in any American newspaper during the year was given to Rollin Kirby of the New York World.

Tax Legislation Is Opposed In Sanford By Trade Chamber

The Legislative Committee of the Chamber of Commerce has gone on record as opposing the various taxation bills and the bill regulating motorists now before the legislature, according to an announcement today. The committee also recommends to the legislature that this state be in accord with other states in the matter of automobile licenses for tourists.

Earth Tremors Of Unusual Intensity Recorded By Georgetown Scientist

WASHINGTON, Apr. 27.—Earth tremors of unusual intensity and duration, centering probably near 8,000 miles from Washington, were recorded Sunday on the seismograph of Georgetown University. Director Torndorf, of the university's observatory, said the disturbance was of very unusual violence and almost continuously in progress from 3:45 a. m. to 6 a. m. Neither the direction from Washington nor the distance of the section of the earth crust affected could be determined with any accuracy, Father Torndorf explained, since the factors which ordinarily help out with such calculations become unreliable when the instruments recording needle is brought into action by shocks originating more than 6,000 or 7,000 miles away.

THOUSANDS TO ATTEND ROADS MEET APRIL 30

Geneva is preparing a Big Entertainment and Governor and Other Prominent Speakers Are Invited. Petition is Being Signed in Seminole. Road Department Asked To Build Volusia Link In Proposed Cross-State Route. The cross-state road barbecue to be held at Geneva Thursday under the joint auspices of the Geneva and Sanford Chambers of Commerce, promises to be one of the largest attended meetings of its kind ever held in this section of the state, according to Leon L. LeRoy, president of the Geneva Chamber of Commerce, who is in charge of the planning. He is estimated that the bulkhead plan by the city under the old way of dredging the lake bottom will be near $600,000 on a basis of 35 cents per cubic yard. To have this work done at 8 cents per cubic yard would therefore mean a saving of $500,000 on the 1,000,000 yards on the east side and $400,000 on the west side, where city limits are extended.

Bill Proposes Seminole For Senate Circuit

Seminole county would form a senatorial district alone, the Thirty-eighth, according to the Bell bill, one of two measures providing for the re-division of the state by the legislature. The Hale bill would bracket Seminole and Brevard to form the Thirty-seventh district. Both the Hale and Bell bills make one district out of Orange, which is now in the Nineteenth district with Seminole and Osceola.

Upper House Faces Complex Problem

Hale Redistricting Measure Would Bracket Seminole With Brevard In District. The Senate is preparing a Bill Measure For Senate Re-arrangement Would Make This County Single Senate District Beginning in 1927.

Chosen President

Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, who emerged victor in Sunday's election for the presidency of Germany, the former military leader led his nearest opponent by more than 1,000,000 votes.

Hindenburg Wins Race With Plurality Estimated At Million

WASHINGTON, Apr. 27.—News of the election of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg as president of Germany was received in official circles in Washington as something of a shock. While it had been realized by those who have been watching the progress of the election closely that the German hero was certain to poll a very heavy vote, few had been inclined to think he actually would be elected, as his triumph is certain to mean a difficult period for Germany.

VON HINDENBURG ELECTION SHOCK TO WASHINGTON

Few Observers in Washington Really Thought He Would Be Victorious; His Election Regarded As Bad Blunder. Hard Fought Election Ends With Military Leader Victorious Over Wilhelm Marx

BERLIN, Apr. 27.—The people of Germany have rallied to the banner of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg and elected him president of the republic. He is the first president of Germany to be elected by popular ballot. He was nominated by the nationalist-conservative bloc to replace Dr. Karl Jarres, who failed to win the opposition vote.

Silent Vote Given Credit For Victory

Many Fights Reported Over Election With 50 Berlin Casualties. The women's votes and a heavy turnout of former stay-at-home voters elected the field marshal. Not until the returns from 33 out of 35 election districts were received and tabulated, could the outcome be determined, and from the close of polls at 6 o'clock it was a 9-2 margin race as the two candidates ran neck and neck in the official count.

Government Probes Fire At Fort Dade

TAMPA, Apr. 27.—Capt. John Day left this morning under orders from the government to investigate the burning of 20 buildings at Fort Dade Sunday. The fire raged more than 13 hours. The Fort had not been used for more than two years. The fire is thought to have been started by dry agents, who set fire to rubbish to smoke out 11 run-runners, who had taken refuge on the island after a chase at sea.

An Ideal Trip for SUNDAY ---

Make Your Plans for Sunday

Plan NOW to see Daytona Highlands on that day. It is hardly more than a hour's drive from Sanford. Just pile the family into the back of the car, bring along a basket of lunch if you like and your bathing suits for a picnic and an hour's fun in the surf at Daytona Beach; take a sixty-mile-an-hour spin on the great speedway and SEE DAYTONA HIGHLANDS, the greatest investment opportunity in Florida today.

How to Get There

From Beach Street Daytona: Turn at Volusia Avenue and go straight west until you reach the stone entrance.

From the Beach: Cross any one of the three bridges spanning the Halifax river to Beach Street, turn at Volusia Avenue and go straight west.

Being Built in Daytona Highlands

DAYTONA, Apr. 27.—With the completion of near completion of several homes at Daytona Highlands, Wilson and Weimer, building contractors, who have been doing a tremendous amount of work throughout the suburbs and whose work has been greatly admired by all who have visited the property, have recently started work on the home of Kenneth Hill at the home of Kenneth Hill on the shore of Highland Lake at the section of that name. The same building firm also started work last week on the home of James Weathers of the Mison Printing Company, one of three first individuals to purchase a lot in Daytona Highlands. This is also a Spanish design and is situated in the Highland Lake section. The home of Mr. Harris, an English cottage in the Tudor style also under way, Wilson and Weimer also being the builders in this instance.

The home of City Manager H. B. Casin was started last week on the East side of Tarragona Way, not far from the entrance to the property. It is to be a spacious home of Spanish design. The home of W. B. Taylor, of the Traylor's of Daytona, selling agents for the Daytona Highlands, is nearing completion.

tion on Tarragona Way and promises to be of the show places of this section. It is Mediterranean in style and commands splendid views of the surrounding country.

Many homes are scheduled for building in the Highland Suburb this summer, the bringing of Daytona City water and electric Company's plant to the property for the use of home builders having tremendously speeded up this branch of the development.

Brewers Anxious To Return to Sanford, Says Sports Writer

Secretary R. W. Pearson, Jr., of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce, has received a letter from Bryan Griffith, sports sports writer for the Milwaukee Sentinel, who was here with the Milwaukee team, thanking the chamber of commerce for favors shown him while here and also telling the secretary of the enthusiastic friendship in which all of the Milwaukee players hold the people of Sanford.

Officials Chagrined At Wheeler Verdict

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Department of Justice officials had nothing to say today about the collapse of their case against Senator Wheeler. The acquiescence with which the jury threw out the government's charge and exonerated the senator manifestly caused chagrin and disappointment, but no official would predict whether the separate proceedings which were brought against Wheeler in the District of Columbia would be pressed. Friends of Wheeler predict the case here never will be brought to trial.

Reminiscences of childhood are not complete without recalling the good things Mother used to cook. As you carry your thoughts back to those days, you can imagine yourself in mother's kitchen where she is busy making tea cakes that will melt in your mouth or perhaps baking a huge chocolate cake, where the filling drips from layer to layer as she spreads it on generously. Or maybe she has just taken the biscuits out of the oven, not that pale sickly looking kind, but the sort made of buttermilk, whose color is a rich velvety brown and the very sight of which causes your mouth to water.

Now she is frying chicken in lard that is sizzling hot and as the chicken cuts begin to brown, you fairly drink in that pungent odor which fills the whole room. And then you are suddenly aware of that gnawing, craving something within you, which you cannot describe and which seems to have seized you suddenly. It becomes more aggravated as Mother continues to prepare other delicacies and you wonder how in the world you can wait until time for dinner. It grips you still more until it seems that nothing can satisfy but food. Hunger, real hunger, it is.

And somehow or other, if we look back over the history of the world and note the wonderful strides of progress that have been made, we can trace the birth of many great eras or movements to hunger. Not hunger for food but the hunger for liberty, for world power or perhaps the hunger for knowledge.

Back in the eleventh and twelfth centuries a religious wave covered the entire southeastern Europe and out of it grew the crusades, a series of seven pilgrimages formed to rescue the Holy Land from the ravages of the Turks. These great movements, participated in by hundreds of thousands of people, stirred their spirit of religious enthusiasm, stimulated their love for fighting and adventure and gave rise to the desire to better their fortunes. Out of their hunger for these things came the crusades, which checked the Mohammedan advance into Europe for once and all time, established greater commercial relations between eastern and western Europe and gave rise to a stronger and more powerful civilization.

In 1769 there was born on the island of Corsica one of the greatest figures in history. Napoleon Bonaparte, born of humble parentage, rose from an inconspicuous young French officer to be the greatest military leader of history. But Napoleon is significant historically, not merely for his military exploits, but because he carried by the force of arms the ideas of eighteenth century France. It was Napoleon's desire for power, his hunger for world dominion, that caused him to conquer foes in the face of seemingly insurmountable difficulties and earn for him the power to change the map of Europe at will. It was hunger for more territory and a passionate desire to conquer England, which prompted him to wage that famous winter campaign in Russia. It was out of Napoleon's dream of a world empire that came the rushing blow of liberalism with all its attendant political inconsistencies. Out of his meteoric career came the rise of political democracy and economic class rule.

When Christopher Columbus set sail from Spain in 1492, it was to discover a new route to India and when he landed on American shores, he was confident that he had realized his ambition. Reports going back to Spain told of the discovery of a new world, which abounded in untold wealth. Straightaway Spanish noblemen set out for the new world, prompted not by the desire to find new commercial trade routes but urged on by the hunger and greed for gold and riches. Explorer after explorer landed, settlements sprang up and the first development of America was started. It marked the beginning of colonization in the new continent and the start of a new world empire.

A few years later there landed at Plymouth, Massachusetts on the Mayflower, that little band of Pilgrims. They had come to a strange land not for the purpose of exploration or a desire for riches but on account of the hunger for freedom, religious freedom. Their coming marked the birth of a great ideal, which later formed one of those principles upon which the constitution was founded—religious toleration.

The war clouds broke in Europe in 1914 and sooner or later plunged almost the whole world, including the United States, into a frightful carnage. It was all the outcome of a German dream, the morbid hunger to create a huge German empire ruled by German "Kultur." Though one success after another carried the Germans to the very gates of Paris, a combined stand staged by the last remnant of the Belgian army and a determined French force, withstood the Belgian attack until American and British forces augmented the Allies and brought about the armistice. Thus it was that the hunger for more power by a despotic monarch not only brought about his own downfall, but sounded the death knell to all of the absolute monarchies of Europe until today their existence is only a dream of the past.

Hunger, therefore, has been a potent power in shaping the history of the world. Just as the savory odors from mother's kitchen have stimulated the hunger for food so have incidents in the lives of individuals or occurrences in the history of nations, stimulated the hunger for liberty, for world power or for knowledge. Man's hunger for these and many other things has been responsible for the birth of mighty nations, for the extensive experimentation in the various fields of science, for the conquest of sea and air and for the civilization we enjoy today. The world owes its being to hunger and without the hunger for something, an individual fails to realize his ambition and a nation fails to accomplish its purpose.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

BY IRVIN S. COBB

In the town where I was reared there was a combination bar, room and luncheon for colored only, known as the Bleeding Heart saloon. It stood at the foot of a street near the head of the wharf and was a favorite resort for river dunces. Among its regular patrons was a brawny individual six feet four inches long and correspondingly broad, who answered to the name of Red Hoss. Red Hoss posed as a bad man. He let on, as the phrase runs, that he was the undertaker's best friend. To be sure there was no record that he actually had ever deceived anyone, but he frequently promised to do so, and was rated as dangerous by the resident colored populace.

One night the Cincinnati and New Orleans packet on her way south landed at our town. Among her deck passengers was a small yellow man, a professional prize fighter from up North. On the journey down the river he had introduced his own private set of educated ivories into the crap game among the roustabouts, with the result that he now had all their money in his possession. Dapper, trim and slim, he climbed the wharf and entered the Bleeding Heart and called for a jolt of blue gin. He was in the act of paying for the drink with the top film of a delectably fattened roll of green bills when the swing doors were thrust violently open and in stalked Red Hoss, dumber and in stalker, with a gleam in his eye and a double entendre belligerent. He lowering bloodshot eye swept the interior, then focused with a greedy stare upon what the slender stranger held in his hand.

Laughing slightly, he swaggered up to the bar and gripped a huge soiled paw on the hand of the yellow man's coat. "Say listen, monsoon," he stated, "You better turn out some of your money over to me, an' I'll give you back what part of it I think you should have for yourself." "Who is you, may I ask?" inquired the visiting nobleman in gentle accents. "You better ask," growled Red Hoss, "Fining out here I is mokin' your chances for buyin' longer all day brighter if you aims to stay round dese parts. You ask me who I is, huh? Well, I so gon tell you, I so do new town bully, that's what I am." "You ask me who I is, huh? Well, I so gon tell you, I so do new town bully, that's what I am." "You ask me who I is, huh? Well, I so gon tell you, I so do new town bully, that's what I am."

He did not finish the sentence. Stupefaction and rage tied his tongue temporarily as the audacious stranger with a jaunty gait, those brusque free of the detaining clutch and tamed to the barkeeper, saying pleasantly, "Mist' barkeeper, if shorely wuz very tasty gin. I thinks I'll tek me one no' slug outen dese bottle, of you please."

Red Hoss recovered his faculties. With a horrid howl he swung with a huge fist for the fighter's nose. The fist was not there when the fat whizzer past. The pugilist ducked, and came up expertly with a short arm jab which landed exactly on the point

Not an American Captain. Moscow Griefs. Another War? Perhaps. Koenigsberg's Miracle. By ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1925)

THE JAPANESE freight ship, Hlafuku Maru, in desperate danger, tossed in a heavy storm. The brave Japanese operator kept his wireless sending out distress signals, over the ocean, and died, in the end, with all on board.

The British steamer Homeric picked up the appeal for help sent out in broken English, and ploughed through the storm, only to see the Japanese ship go down, with all on board.

THE HOMERIC was within a few yards of the doomed ship as she sank. No life boat or raft was lowered from the Homeric, and there is criticism of the Homeric captain, some passengers declaring that he might have saved at least a few lives by greater effort.

IT IS EASY for land lubbers to tell a sea captain how to do his duty. The probability is that Captain Roberts did all that he could do short of disregarding the safety of his own passengers. His first duty was to them.

In any case, it is fortunate, since the brave and unfortunate Japanese seaman had to die, that the British ship and captain failed in the attempted rescue.

Prejudice is bitter and blind, and had an American ship looked on while the Japanese freighter went down, the comment would have been even more bitter, especially in Japan.

RUSSIA NO longer has a majority of "phorators." In fact, the Government expresses indignation at the murderous excesses committed by the Bulgarian government.

Strict censorship holds a veil over the rounding up and shooting of agitators by the Government of Prime Minister Traunkoff. But it is clear that wholesale killing is done as thoroughly in Bulgaria as it ever was in the early Bolshevik days.

Moscow grieves because the victims of the Bulgarian roundup are Bolshevik sympathizers. Ever to have betrayed any sympathy for Russia's government means death in Bulgaria now.

THE COMMONER
ORLANDO REPORTER-STAR

When William Jennings Bryan was running for the presidency from Nebraska under the name of the "Boy Orator from the Platte," industrial leaders and financiers avoided him and his theories as being dangerous.

Time has wrought great changes. Mr. Bryan is no longer the boy orator of the Platte. He is still the commoner, and still an orator who draws a crowd. But he is now the well seasoned orator from the serenity of Biscayne bay in sunny Florida.

IT IS ALL most distinctly NOT our business. We have trouble enough keeping our home brigands from robbing out own people, and our bootleggers and hijackers from killing. Let us be grateful that no League of Nations or World Court has the power, as yet, to make this country responsible for European affairs—political massacres, or any other. He's a lucky American eagle, to have kept his feet off that European League of Nations fly paper.

THERE IS ONE feature of Bulgaria's troubles and massacre enthusiasm more serious than Latscha's indignation, or to the lives snuffed out so freely.

Another Balkan war may grow out of the trouble, and who knows how many may be brought into that war? One thing is sure, if the war does start, this country will say, "Please excuse me. My motto is peace, not twice."

Our delinquent publishers will have to find their profits this time in some scheme that will not include getting us into the war.

MR. KOENIGSBERG, who runs King Features, the International News, and other enterprises of first aid to publishers, gave a party on Tuesday and showed his guests something new and wonderful.

President Coolidge was shown on the screen, in usual motion picture way, reading from a manuscript.

As he read, the audience heard the President's voice, which dozens of publishers at once recognized. And the picture and voice were synchronized perfectly. Voice gesture and tone fitted the words, and it was absolutely and perfectly a man talking on the screen, his voice heard at the same time.

"IF I HATH not yet been shown what we shall be," Add to that it hath not yet been shown what we shall DO. Science is as much in its infancy as when the first man pulled a bow and sent an arrow flying.

LAUDIES LADKAR, an Arab, murdered two Portuguese, in France, where the crime was committed, they create you for that. The executioner roused Adkar from a sound sleep in the Santo Prison before daybreak yesterday, handed him the usual cigarette, with a big glass of sound rum, "to help him through," and asked if he had any last wish to express. "The simple hearted Arab replied, "Yes, don't cut my head off."

Red Hoss' chin. There was a jar as a huge inert body struck the floor.

Three minutes later Red Hoss slowly and dully roused himself. Some Good Samaritan had restored him to consciousness—by "shaking a bucket of water over him. Drunken and dazed, he set up hobbling his aching head on with both hands. The little man stood at the bar blowing softly upon the knuckles of his right hand and cursing with the barkeeper upon the tongue of the day.

"Mist' barkeeper," growled Red Hoss, "Who is you?" "Me!" said the stranger. "Oh, I is merely the pussion you thought you wuz w'en you come in here."

Walter P. Chrysler, super-chance, has been much laughed at. He achieved an immense reputation as the man who took the Buick Motor Co. from a production of 40 to one of 569 cars per day. He added to it by pushing the Willys-Overland Co. out of its 1921 depression. He was about to crown it, thought the public, when the Maxwell and Chalmers companies asked him to drop them. Mr. Bryan sits and talks for an hour to those men and thousands of others and they applaud and cheer and then go away and invest their dollars in Florida real estate.

It is not the Bryan of Nebraska talking a cross of gold and a crown of thorns, however. It's the crowned old veteran of many political and religious wars, who by reason of physical ailments finds it preferable to sit rather than stand for an hour every day than while he addresses a crowd.

People still laugh at Bryan. They joke about him and they "tease" him. But it is Bryan, the millionaire today that invites the show. A millionaire by reason of his investments in Florida. He may be a poor business man and a political disturber, but in the midst of the serenity of Florida he has certainly shown a vision not very faulty. Had he been elected president of the United States, he might today be president of the United States, he might today be president of some college at a salary equal to the salary of a third or fourth rate ball player. As it is, he has retired to a beautiful home in the midst of royal palms in the pretty residential section of Coconut Grove, and that home is one of the places pointed out to the tourist as the sights in the tropical suburb of the Magic City of Miami. Those who view his home, which among surroundings and his holdings, can not help admiring the man who has steered his craft so successfully. And many will say that it was fortunate for him and for the country that he was not elected president.

These are the ideas of a man who knows he is living in a world which has revolutionized every detail. But Walter P. Chrysler does not get excited. He has learned to appreciate the beauty of perspiration, no other car ever having sold in such large volume during its first year.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

AND IF I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also.—John 14:3.

WHY HE NEVER GOT BEYOND A ONE-HORSE BUSINESS

He tried to do everything himself.

He did not know how to delegate his goods, and thought he could sell his goods without that expense.

He did not keep up with the times.

He tried to save by hiring cheap help.

His word could not be depended upon.

His regarded system as useless red tape.

He did not pay his bills or meet his notes on time, and lost his credit.

He did not have the ability to multiply himself in others.

He did not think it worth while to look after little things.

His style was a little off, his goods always a little out of date because he could get them cheap.

He ruined his capacity for larger things by burying himself in detail.

His first successes made him over-confident, and he got a "swell head."

He never learned that it is the liberal policy that wins in business building.

He thought he could save the money which his competitors spent for advertising.

"Tricks of Trade," sapped his credit and ruined his reputation for more dealing.

He put men in responsible positions who lacked executive ability and leadership.

He did not appreciate the value of good taste in a buyer, but thought what he saved on his salary was clear gain.

He did not buy with his customers' needs in view, but bought the things which he liked best himself, or which he thought would bring the largest profits.

He was always talking his business down. With him, times were always "hard," money "tight," business "rotten," or only "so-so."

He did not think it worth while to compare his business with that of his more successful competitors or to study their methods.

He was pessimistic. His employees caught the contagion, and the whole atmosphere of the establishment was depressing.

He could plan but could not execute, and he did not know human nature well enough to surround himself with efficient lieutenants.

Jack Dempsey took the count the other day when an attack of indigestion got after him. John L. Sullivan, Jeffries and other heavies will testify that when indigestion, gout and rheumatism begin to make themselves felt, one cannot seriously consider himself a champion.

Charles M. Schwab, says the Asheville Citizen, has several times spoken of making his home in Asheville. It seems to us that the statement carries a great deal more weight when it is made only once. It becomes less effective with repetition.

Eating The Ox that Pulls The Plow

A story is told of the Indians in Paraguay who worked hard all day under the direction of the Jesuits. At night, when they came home hungry from plowing with the oxen, without even thinking as far ahead as the morning, they killed the oxen for supper. This, of course, cut them off from plowing and planting corn to keep their homes from starving.

But then, they were not chastised. Are you? Are you a sinner planning for the future?

"Jack, The Monk" At Fire Station Objects To Bath

Monday was wash day at the Sanford fire station and Firemen Mack Cleveland and Bob Williamson were doing the washing while "Jack," the monkey, was the victim. Jack didn't fail to let it be known that he was a victim and not any willing participant in the proceedings.

They didn't show Jack any more consideration than fond mothers do when they wash behind the ears and twist their little fingers into the towel for a probe in and around and back of his eardrums of their long-suffering offspring. Jack howled, squealed and begged pitifully, but this failed to reach the heart-strings of his inexorable laudrymen, who were determined to scrub and dash cold water to their satisfaction.

Jack knew it was Monday and kept on hiding all the morning and would let no one approach without scamping away, but with him washing on Monday is as certain as fate and he was finally caught and the cold water toilet began.

Something No Home Can Hide

THE floors, of course. And Pee Gee Floor Varnish will make them so beautiful, they will be a source of pride. And floors finished with this varnish add a distinct, lasting note of harmony to any furnishings. In the home, floors bear the brunt of the hardest tramping of feet and shifting of furniture. With Pee Gee Floor Varnish hard usage means nothing. It is the most inexpensive, long-wearing varnish ever put on a floor.

SANFORD BEATEN BY HIGHLANDERS 7-2 IN FINAL TILT

Luther Works In Splendid Form on Saturday; Walsh Is Injured By Line Out Hit By Brazier of Lakeland.

LAKE LAND, Apr. 27.—The Highlanders scored their fourth win over the Celery Growers here Saturday afternoon in the fastest game yet played on the home field by a seven to two score. Watt Luther did the hurling for the Highlanders and kept the hits down to nine while his teammates played with errorless precision. Walsh for Sanford received excellent support but allowed the Highlanders to hit him timely. Bryant, the Highlander catcher was forced to retire in the first part of the second when a fast ball split his thumb. Doyle replaced him while McQue replayed Doyle on third. A second casualty was marked up in the seventh when Brazier after two outs lined one which caught Walsh in the midriff, who retired the Highlanders by holding on the ball but fell to the ground a moment later. Old folk replaced him. Walsh got his second home run on the home grounds today.

Out of Game

The 1925 baseball season opened the other day but not for "Rabbit" Maranville, star shortstop of the Chicago Cubs. He was forced to watch the proceedings from the bench as the result of fracturing an ankle during an exhibition game put on the court. He is here shown with his present pal—a pair of mitts.

CHAMPIONS BEAT PHILLIES

NEW YORK, Apr. 27.—The New York Giants defeated Philadelphia here yesterday 4 to 1. Bentley held the Phillies without a hit after the fifth. Ring pitched a fair game for Philadelphia. A sensational catch by Burns, cutting off two runs featured.

BOSTON SHUT OUT BROOKLYN

BROOKLYN, Apr. 27.—Boston shut out Brooklyn 3 to 0 in the opening game of the season today yesterday. Babe Maranville was credited with the victory, although he was taken out in the fifth with 2 Dodgers on bases and no out. Ryan, who relieved him retired the next three batters. Up to the fifth Marquard pitched one of his best games, holding the hard hitting Dodgers to five scattered hits.

CHICAGO'S FANS SWARM ON FIELD AND GAME HALTS

CLEVELAND Indians, Leading 7-2 in Ninth Given Game on Forfeit; Washington's Winning Stopped By Yanks

CHICAGO, Apr. 27.—The opening game between the Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians was forfeited to the latter 9 to 0 yesterday in the ninth inning when the visitors were leading 7 to 2.

The largest crowd which has ever witnessed a game in Chicago—close to 44,000—swarmed on the field after two White Sox had been retired in the ninth and Kamm reached first on an error by Knobe, who failed to touch the bag after receiving J. Sewell's throw.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—New York stopped the world champion Sox, winning a straight yesterday by taking the final game of the series, 3 to 2. The Yankees scored their winning tally in the ninth, Jones allowed the Senators six hits, while Reuther gave up eight.

ST. LOUIS Defeats Detroit

DETROIT, Apr. 27.—Eighth and ninth inning rallies fell two short of the needed runs and Detroit lost to St. Louis, 6 to 4 here yesterday. It was the fifth consecutive defeat to the Tigers and marked the twentieth consecutive game in which Stiles has not acted as pitcher.

And it is a perfectly logical corollary that with the great part which Miami Beach has played in the growth of the city, a still larger and finer Water Front Suburb, reasonably estimated to cost a far greater amount than has been expended at Miami Beach, will in direct ratio play a proportionately greater part in the future of Greater Miami.

And investors — always wise in their own generation — will quickly grasp the tremendous significance of Coral Gables in this connection and profit by early action.

The Chief Asset of a Great City

CITY of enlarged area, vision, power and influence, as well as population, will be the Miami-of-the-future—the Greater Miami, in which every resident will take just pride. New railroads will contribute to it, better harbor facilities will be a great factor, large hotels and apartments will add to the sum total, but the greatest asset in its achievement will beyond all question be the magnificent $100,000,000 Water Front development of Coral Gables.

As Carl Fisher twelve years ago had made announcement of a $40,000,000 development program at Miami Beach, it would have been hailed at that time as the one dominating factor in the upbuilding of this section. The magnificent program now announced by George E. Merrick in the building on the South Bay Shore of Miami Riviera far exceeds in plan and scope anything ever attempted or accomplished at Miami Beach.

You have read about Coral Gables. Let us take you to Miami and show you the great strides in development now being made, including the plans for Miami Riviera. Transportation is free in Deluxe Highway Pullman Coaches. For full particulars and to make reservation, call at the local Coral Gables office.

BRITTING UP FATHER
By GEORGE McMANUS

SAY-DINTY-I HADN'T BEEN IN HERE TEN MINUTES BEFORE, SOME ONE SWIPE MY UMBRELLA-AN I THINK DUGAN IN THERE TOOK IT.

I DON'T WANT YOU TO LEND ME ONE. I WANT MINE!

IS THIS YOURS?

IT IS-I OUGHT TO GO IN AN' PUNCH HIM IN THE JAW.

DON'T SAY ANYTHING TO HIM- HE DOESN'T KNOW I GOT IT!

I'LL LEND YOU ONE

I'LL SEE IF HE TOOK IT!
