

REBEL ATTACK MET BY FIERCE FEDERAL FIRE

Withering Barrage Of Rifle And Machine Gun Fire Meets Assault On Naco Force

NACO, Ariz., Apr. 3.—(INS)—From their semi-circular entrenchments surrounding Naco, Sonora, federal soldiers met the advance of rebel forces under General Fausto Topete with a withering barrage of rifle and machine gun fire.

A rebel plane bombed Naco early today but, apparently, with little damage. The plane kept within the Mexican border.

The rebels were in their prepared positions and appeared well prepared to meet the attack.

A division of federal, led by Gen. Juan Andres Almazan, today pursued the insurgents, hotly giving battle on the level bridge crossing of Jimenez and Estremitas.

The president in announcing the decisive victory of the federal, on the Jimenez front after two days of violent fighting, forecast the complete rout of the rebel army today.

Charge Of Abusive Words By Customs Men Investigated

WASHINGTON, Apr. 3.—(INS)—Charges that customs guards used abusive tactics in searching a private yacht owned by Stuyvesant Fish, New York millionaire, were under investigation by the Treasury Department today.

A report on the incident was submitted this morning to Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman by Customs Commissioner E. W. Camp, after which Lowman declared that the customs patrol was entirely within its rights in boarding the vessel.

No other features of the search of the vessel will be gone into except that pertaining to the alleged use of profanity and other rough tactics by the patrol. Members of the customs crew maintained that they used the utmost courtesy in searching the ship.

The report showed that the customs patrol fired into the air with pistols as a signal for the fish yacht to stop. No shots were fired at the yacht, according to the report.

There has been a suspicion that smuggling of liquor and other commodities has been going on in New York harbor by private yachts. Lowman said, "The customs authorities are entirely within their power in boarding such craft. Three private yachts have been doing about as they please. Apparently navigator Fish intended to obey the signals to halt for boarding."

Witnesses Tell Of Long Bribe Offers

BATON ROUGE, La., Apr. 3.—(INS)—Testimony of two members of the house of Representatives that they had heard Governor Huey P. Long make what they considered offers of bribes was introduced before a sub-committee of the house and the house as a whole today as impeachment proceedings against Governor Long were started. All the testimony presented during the morning session of the house was in an attempt to prove article two of the impeachment charges, which allege attempted bribery. There are 18 other charges against the 58-year-old Chief Executive ranging from an alleged plot to murder to various official irregularities.

FIGHT CONTINUES AGAINST PUBLIC STOCK GAMBLING

WASHINGTON, Apr. 3.—(INS)—A wide demand for criminal legislation evidenced today in Congress as a result of the top heavy stock exchange following the close of the federal reserve board to put a check on speculation.

Amid a general murmur of protest at the use of federal reserve credit for stock gambling, leaders' voices arose with tentative plans to place the exchange on a basis of actual values.

Legislator Senator Glas, (D) of Virginia, a former secretary of the treasury, members of the various committees of Congress conferred with finance men today to discuss the problem of curbing speculative stock transactions.

Glas said he had several bills introduced when the present session convenes in April, but has not perfected them sufficiently to make public their specific provisions. "They will be designed to take up the system of credit generally," he said.

The Virginia Senator disclaimed any intention of demanding congressional investigation or stock manipulation by Wall Street. "We should attend to general conditions which are causing present conditions," he explained, adding: "The cause is obvious. What we need is legislation to keep public credit in the hands of legitimate business."

Beautification Of County Highways Discussed By Board

In an effort to encourage highway beautification in Benicola County, the County Commissioners yesterday took preliminary steps in a movement, which is expected to result in a system of roadways lined with plants and shrubs.

Speaking of the project today, Mr. Evans said the plan would be carried out economically. He stressed that the beautification of highways, Mr. Evans pointed out, would not place the county in the position of competing with commercial nurseries.

ADVANTAGE OF DRY LAW WILL BE BROADCAST

International News Service Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON, Apr. 3.—Two "educational campaigns" designed to impress the country with the benefits of prohibition are being laid out in Washington—and, whether by accident or design, they are expected to run concurrently with the investigation that is to be made by President Hoover's fact-finding commission.

One is to be sponsored by the prohibition bureau itself. It has a fund of $50,000 voted by Congress for the express purpose of "disseminating information" about the benefits of prohibition. Some of it probably will go for posters and other forms of advertising, although Commissioner J. M. Moran said today plans had not been fully perfected.

"But the bureau," he said "will endeavor to show exactly what conditions are and the progress being made." The other campaign, being organized by officials of the Anti-Saloon League and kindred organizations is more ambitious. It will be in the nature of a "drive" to educate business, fraternal, religious and civic organizations to the benefits of Volsteadism, conducted through speakers, literature and whatnot.

Dr. McBride believes that committees of women and leading druggists should attend liquor cases. "It would have a psychological effect of great value," he said. "Only too often jurors sit in courtrooms where many in the audience are bootleggers. The atmosphere is against conviction in a prohibition case."

"If those who are interested in law enforcement would attend the courts and by their presence and interest signify their desire to see the guilty punished it would have a great effect on jurors. It would have an effect, too, on many judges who, in the absence of an asserted public opinion, are apt to assess light fines and penalties. If a judge knows his record is being watched he will be more careful."

Former Governor John W. Martin Is Visitor To Sanford

Former Governor John W. Martin was a visitor yesterday in Sanford. Accompanied by Mrs. Martin, he was a guest for a few hours of his cousin, Mrs. W. B. Jernell, 210 West Fifth Street.

The former chief executive came here from Orlando, where he addressed the Orange County Advertising Club on Monday. He and Mrs. Martin were week-end guests of Albert Martin, a brother, at Apopka. From here the ex-governor went to Tallahassee, where he will remain most of the session of the legislature.

Inman's Marital Troubles Are Blamed On Radio, Rum And Breaking Wife's Nose

GENEVA, Ill., Apr. 3.—(INS)—Roy Inman, the Kane county deputy sheriff who shot and killed Mrs. Lillian De King during a dry raid last week in Aurora, Ill., faced an indictment for manslaughter today, following the verdict of a coroner's jury.

Attorney General Oscar Carlson, or one of his assistants, is expected to go before a special session of the grand jury Monday and seek the indictments recommended at the request.

Action on a perjury charge also will be taken against Eugene Boyd Fairchild, the dry job who falsified affidavits formed the basis for the fatal raid. Fairchild admitted on the stand that his sworn statement had purchased liquor from Mrs. De King was a lie. Stat's Attorney George Carberry, who yielded to popular demand and turned the investigation over to Attorney General Carlson after Carberry had expressed support of the raiders, was to confer today with Carlson's representative concerning the prosecution of Fairchild.

This was predicted on evidence which tended to show that the raid introduced at yesterday's inquest was "illegal" in that the raiders failed to produce a search warrant, and that the warrant, if produced, would have been worthless because the desire was to have the attorney general "go to the limit" in probing the case and to take whatever action he saw fit to take against officials responsible for the "death" of a gallant officer of law enforcement in Kane county.

The grand jury should investigate "all conditions surrounding the raid which led to the shooting," the six Aurora business men who composed the jury reported to Coroner Herman J. Vierke. Their verdict was delivered after hearing testimony first, at the hospital bedside of Deputy Smith and later in the city hall at Geneva.

Hundreds of persons from miles around came to attend the inquest. Those who could crowd their way into the city hall were not disappointed. Evidence was presented to show: 1. That Mrs. Lillian De King was shot and killed while she was in her hand holding a telephone in her hands.

2. That proper care and medical treatment were denied Mrs. De King after she was shot and that her husband was thrown into a prison cell to recover from a blow on the head with a shotgun.

Herald Newsboys Enjoy Attractions Of Midway As Johnny Jones' Guests

Many people at the show grounds near the Municipal Athletic Field, last night, thought that a tornado had broken loose, but it was only the happy laughter and enthusiasm displayed by some half hundred boys who sell and distribute The Sanford Herald. They were the guests of no less a personage than the great showman, Johnny J. Jones himself.

Mr. Jones was once a newsboy and for years sold the Dubois, Pa. Courier, and ever since he started his own newspaper he has made a practice of entertaining the newsboys in every city in which his show appears. The boys were in charge of Circulation Manager M. G. Lewis and were met at the entrance by "Big" Bill Hillier, Mr. Jones' personal representative, who escorted them from above to show all around the big midway. They visited with Snookie Jr. the educated chimpanzee and then into the Woodruff side show and saw all the freaks, the mind readers and the strange performers. When the "Professors" started to stick a lot of swords through a stick of

HYDE ADVISES WITH SOLONS UPON FARM AID

Secretary Of Agriculture Sounds Death Of Long Contentious Equalization Fee

WASHINGTON, Apr. 3.—(INS)—Carrying no word from President Hoover, and so ending the death of the equalization fee principle in farm relief, Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde appeared before the Senate Agriculture Committee today and recommended a general program of aid to the agriculturists, based upon three principal points: 1.—Tariff revision. 2.—Reduction in transportation costs. 3.—Government assistance in marketing reorganization.

Hyde is the first cabinet officer of the new administration to appear before a congressional committee. His appearance had been awaited with interest, for some had predicted to believe he would present a specific Hoover-Administration plan for dealing with farm relief. But he did not have one, and he was very careful to explain to the committee that he was voicing only his own views.

McCracken Fractures Skull In Fall Here

E. W. McCracken, who sustained a fractured skull in a fall Monday night at the Hotel Forrest Lake, where he resides, was reported to be somewhat improved today after passing a restless day yesterday at the Fernald-Laughton Hospital. His condition is described as serious, though he is expected to recover.

Mr. McCracken fell from a stairway a distance of 14 feet, after he is said to have lost his balance and pitched over the railing, falling headlong on the carpeted floor. Mr. McCracken sustained a deep cut over his left forehead and was knocked unconscious by the impact. He was rushed to the hospital, where medical aid was administered. The accident occurred during the course of a dance at the hotel.

Governor Stresses Economy In Speech Before Legislature

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—(INS)—Economy and the establishment of a sane fiscal—and sound financial policy were the keynotes of Governor Doyle E. Carlton's message to the twenty-second state legislature today.

The uppermost problem is finance and taxation the Governor declared, and every endeavor of the state, whether in behalf of education, the public health, conservation of natural resources, governmental organization, the whole economic structure of the state hinges on a sane fiscal and sound financial policy.

"Abnormal conditions resulting from the boom left their mark on public as well as private life to such an extent as to endanger our financial security," the Chief Executive's message said. "For this we blame no one. It is the logical outcome of the spirit of the time. But the results are with us. We find ourselves in a time of peace burdened with war-time equipment."

"We have made advances on every front but at a cost that must be paid. Our expenditures have exceeded our receipts to an alarming degree, approximately two and a half million dollars for 1928. The gap between receipts and expenditures must be closed; our obligations must be discharged; our financial integrity must be preserved; a sound fiscal structure must be established; our tax burden must be adjusted; we must not hope to accomplish this by any one act or any single policy, but by a consistent, co-ordinated action along many lines to a definite purpose."

Wets Gain Decisive Victory On Repeal Issue In Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE, Apr. 3.—(INS)—Wisconsin wet forces scored an overwhelming victory in the state-wide referendum yesterday by polling a majority estimated to be greater than 100,000, latest returns indicated today.

By a majority almost as large, the voters favored modifying the state liquor tax to 2.75 per cent beer, as well as repeal of the state prohibition enforcement act. The vote on the referendum stood today with more than half of the state's precincts having voted for 222,617; against 107,700; wet majority, 98,819.

In Milwaukee County a 5 to 1 landslide victory for repeal of the enforcement act was registered with approximately two-thirds of the 71 precincts having their votes in. The referendum result constitutes a mandate to the legislature now in session, to wipe out the state dry act, leaving prohibition enforcement entirely up to the federal government.

ISSUES WARNING WASHINGTON, Apr. 3.—(INS)—Americans who enlisted on either side in the Mexican warfare forfeit all claims to aid by the government, Secretary of State Stimson warned today. The warning evidently was anguished by recent reports of Americans, particularly flying men, joining up with the Mexicans.

ROCHELLE PARK, N. J., Apr. 3.—(INS)—Catherine MacDonald, motion picture actress, was killed here today when the automobile in which she was riding skidded off the road and tumbled into a home-made fire alarm gong.

At first it was believed the dead woman was Miss Kathleen MacDonald, well-known moving picture actress, but police later said the victim was a less noted screen actress.

The accident occurred after a luncheon party. The machine was being pursued by a police officer who said the automobile was exceeding a speed of 70 miles an hour.

At first it was believed the dead woman was Miss Kathleen MacDonald, well-known moving picture actress, but police later said the victim was a less noted screen actress.

Jury Probes Death Of Palm Beach Man

PALM BEACH, Fla., Apr. 3.—(INS)—The coroner's jury is probing the death of A. R. Meyne Pearson, Jr., wealthy Palm Beach and Glenn Ridge, N. J., study man, who was killed last Monday night by a falling airplane.

Witnesses told the coroner's jury that Pearson had been on the influence of liquor the night before his body was found in a room at his private estate near Boynton Beach early yesterday. Mrs. Pearson testified that she and her husband had argued for about an hour Monday night and that she finally persuaded him to go to his room. She declared he was drunk and when he entered his room he stumbled and fell.

Wall Street Betting Odds Favor New York Yankees And Cubs To Lead Series

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service
Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Apr. 2.—If it was possible to think as kindly of the Phillies or Boston Red Sox as you do of $10, which I concede is selling good nature well above the market price, you can have the implied fun today of watching that sawbuck run against at least a thousand for the next six months. If you suspect the St. Louis Cardinals of being greatly misunderstood, the same 10 dollars can get you 50 in one spot and 30 in another. If you fancy the New York Giants or Pittsburgh Pirates, your 10 will be worth 25 and 30 respectively provided either of the pair pays off.

All of which means that Wall Street betting commissioners are quoting what are likely to be their final prices on the baseball races, beginning two weeks hence, and in case you crave uncertainty and plenty of tempo, an urbane stranger will be there to take your money and see that you get the right change.

The New York Yankees and the Chicago Cubs are the favored entries in most, if not all, books operating in N. Y. street. The price against the Cubs is at least two cases is 8 to 5 that they don't win the pennant, with the Giants trailing at 2-1-2 to 1. The Yankees are so highly esteemed that they rate even money in one book and another is willing to lay a price of 6 to 5 that the American League pennant is theirs for the asking. This commission even is ready to go further and parlay the Yankees in both the pennant race and the 1929 World Series, offering to take 3 to 1.

The Cubs, Giants and Pirates in the National League and the Yankees, Athletics and Browns in the American run-one-two-three or thereabouts, in all quotations. However, in one instance, the Cardinals are coupled with the Pirates 3 to 1 and, in another, the 1929 champions are held no better than fourth odds of 6 to 1. Further variations are found in the American League quotations, one set including the Browns, Washington Senators and Detroit Tigers at the same figure, 10 to 1, while you could get 12 to 1 against the Tigers and 25 to 1 against the Senators from another commissioner.

From this, it might be judged that the upheaval in the Detroit camp and the failure of Healy Schultz (the shotstopper doesn't mean a thing to Wall Street).

The lad who wants to parlay the Yankees is inconsistent enough to offer only 7 to 5 against the Athletics and 7 to 1 against the Browns, when he jumps sharply to 25 to 1 against the Senators, then he offers 20 to 1 against the Cleveland Indians, 40 to 1 against the Chicago White Sox and 60 to 1 against the Red Sox. Some of his competitors, on the other hand, will lay as high as 100 to 1 against the Sox but only 20 to 1 against Chicago and 15 to 1 against Cleveland.

Daily Fashion Hint

FOR WARM AFTERNOONS
Faded rayon or celanese veil, organdy or a very lightweight crepe de Chine is the ideal choice for this dainty short-sleeved model. It is delightful to wear on Summer afternoons or to informal luncheons and teas. Scallop edges finish the armholes and the flounces of the skirt, forming a modish decoration which may be emphasized by ribbon binding in a contrasting shade. A ribbon bow adds a smart note to the line of shirring which marks the low waistline. Made with long sleeves in cotton crepe or tricot. This model is practical for general wear.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Apr. 2.—The New York Giants meet the Cleveland Indians here today in the first contest of a two-game series. Carl Mays, the submarine pitcher turned looper by Cincinnati is coming along nicely with the Giants. He went well for six innings against Shreveport yesterday the New Yorkers winning 5 to 2.

MIAMI Fla., Apr. 2.—(INS)—The Brooklyn Robins faced another drubbing at the hands of the Boston Braves here today. A freak home run by Sisler gave the Braves a 3 to 1 verdict yesterday. Bob Smith pitched the full game for Boston. Shortstop Glenn Wright was shifted to second base in the Brooklyn infield and showed no trace of his alleged "glass arm."

Houston, Tex., Apr. 2.—(INS)—Having recovered their poise at the expense of Minor League outfits, the New York Yankees met sterner opposition here today in the Pittsburgh Pirates. Hoyt and Helmsch twirled the champions to a 3 to 1 win over Mobile in the Alabama city yesterday. Moosa Clabaugh, Mobile's outfielder and Minor League home run king, who once flied in a big league tryout with Brooklyn, nicked Hoyt for a homer.

HOUSTON, Tex., Apr. 2.—(INS)—Pie Traynor, captain and third baseman of the Pittsburgh Pirates will not be in the lineup today when the Yankees take the field against the Pirates. He was ordered to Fort Worth where he is to remain under the care of Dr. Nemitz, his specialist, for several days. The Pirates dropped a close one to the Houston nine yesterday 4 to 3.

The A's defeated the Jacksonville squad yesterday 9 to 3.

'God Save The King' Author Is Disputed In English Circles

LONDON, APR. 2.—"God Save the King," the British national anthem, has been sung with unusual fervor all over the world by millions of King George's subjects during his critical illness. Despite its popularity, however, it cannot be discovered when this familiar old tune came into existence. Claim is made that it was composed by James Oswald, when records show as living in London during 1742, and later in 1769 arranging the tunes to be played by the chimes of Windsor Parish church. One of these is recorded as "God Save the King" (Oswald's air). Grove's "Dictionary of Music" ignores this claim and states that the anthem was first sung in 1740 by a Henry Carey, who says the dictionary was the author of both words and music.

FLORIDA HOUSE NAMES GETZEN NEW SPEAKER

tism of legislative life were a few veterans of former campaigns, whose names have become bywords in Florida statecraft. These included L. W. Zim of St. Augustine, "grand old man" of the house whose years have considerably exceeded the allotted span of three score and 10; H. L. McKenzie of Palatka, one of the oldest members of the lower branch in point of service; A. W. Weeks of Bonifay, stormy petrel of the appropriations committee in former years and a number of others with previous experience in the upper branch, and now serving their apprenticeship in the house.

The east wing of the capitol found the more sedate senators in a situation similar to that of their co-workers at the opposite end of the building, at least insofar as new personnel was concerned. Of the 38 members of the upper body 19 were placed in office at the last general election, although a few are again dominating the senatorial toga after a lapse of several years. Honors for length of service in the senate are shared by John W. Watson, Miami; S. W. Anderson, Greenbush; R. H. Rowe, Maitson; S. A. Pinedy, Live Oak; Theodore T. Turnbull, Monticello; W. H. Malone, Key West; Howard G. Putnam, Oakhill, and J. J. Parish, Titusville.

Members of the house and senate, as well as Governor Carlton, expressed the belief tonight that tomorrow's formal gathering of the legislature will fire the opening gun for the most important session of its sort in the history of the state.

HOOPER TO TALK OVER 'I'M ALONE' CASE IN CABINET

WASHINGTON, Apr. 2.—The Hoover case was scheduled to be taken up by President Hoover today at the regular cabinet meeting with the possibility he will suggest that better work be practiced by the various departments directly or indirectly affected by prohibition.

The sinking of the I'm Alone by coast guard cutters 300 miles from American territorial waters in the Gulf of Mexico, has not only brought in its wake international complications the extent of which depends on secretary of State Stimson's ability to satisfy three nations, but disclosed lack of co-ordination between three departments of this government.

There appeared to be no question today but that the action of the coast guard in sinking the Canadian rum runner, with the killing of a member of its crew, has caused the State Department considerable embarrassment. In addition the Department of Justice is placed in the predicament of having to prosecute the I'm Alone's skipper and the crew for violation of American domestic laws with virtually no evidence other than Capt. Randall's own statement that he had engaged in rum running.

As the record now stands, the coast guard acted under its conception of legal authority to pursue and sink the I'm Alone, basing its action on the tariff act of 1922. Neither the State Department nor the Department of Justice were consulted by the Treasury concerning the possible international law aspects of their rum blockade. But both those departments must take the burden

This is the opinion of U. S. Senator Royal S. Copeland, New York, as expressed in an interview here.

"The possession of liquor is hereditarily criminal. That is the vote against the Jones act."

"The Jones Act, he declared, is not a progressive act of reform. The nation declared that the federal government should be frittered away this chance by imposing three months sentences in the past to bootleggers in lieu of heavier penalties. The senator indicated that if the bill had applied only to bootleggers he might have cast the vote differently.

"Under the provisions of this act," he said, "a pint of whiskey would be planted on a high school boy as a prank and if a federal judge saw it, the lad could be sent to the penitentiary for five years."

The New York senator spoke before the Mid-Day luncheon club while in Springfield.

The Tax Problem

Speaking over the radio the other night, Secretary Mellon announced himself as being in favor of reducing the tax on earned incomes, a move which of course would necessitate increasing the tax on unearned incomes. Mr. Mellon holds that since mines and oil wells which are continually wearing out are permitted to bleed "depletion," doctors, lawyers, dentists and others who are also wearing out should be made to pay lower and lower income taxes under some kind of plea very similar to "depletion."

Arthur Brisbane, commenting on Mellon's remarks says, "Naturally from some source, government must get what is needed to run the country. Lowering taxes in one direction must mean increasing in another, barring greater revenue, or better management. But, certainly, if the owner of a ten million dollar coal mine may plead that his mine is worth less than it was ten years before, a doctor 60 years old should be allowed to plead that his life and energy amount to less than they did ten years before, and that he is nearer to the end of his productive years."

In the present session of the legislature, taxes, and especially tax reduction, constitute the most important problem to be dealt with. Economy, of course, will be the war cry of the various bureaus, offices and extravagances of one kind or another will be abolished. It is also likely that countless bills will be introduced, most of which will represent merely a gesture in behalf of capitalists back home, but which will not get very far along the pathway of becoming a law. It is nevertheless to be hoped that some wise man will arise, who, if not placing a ban on taxes altogether, can materially relieve the situation.

Where counties and cities all over the state have greatly over-burdened in order to get certain public improvements, it is not going to be a very easy matter to reduce taxes merely by cutting operating costs. In many cases if the expense of running the government were done away with entirely, interest and principal on the bonded debt would still keep taxes at an exorbitant rate. Where bonds have been voted, those bonds must be paid, if not in one way, in another. All that can be done to relieve the taxpayers is toward effecting a shift in the burden or in scattering the taxes.

The situation reminds us of a boxing match between a very clever white man and an Ethiopian lightweight. The negro was the stronger of the two, but not quite so fast. The blond developed a plan of attack, which, while not disastrous to the negro, was at least very painful. He would step in quickly, stick his left into the negro's rather extensive nose and step out before any form of retaliation could be effected. He could not hope to knock the negro out, but those constant jabs, always in the same place, always just hard enough to raise a blister, finally produced a proboscis of simply astounding size and very tender and sensitive. The Senegambian stood it as long as he could and finally ejaculated, "Look heah, white man, ah don't mine yo blit'n nose, but fer Gawd's sake scatter yo blow!"

TALKING HARD TIMES
OCALA STAR

What would you think of a merchant who told a customer that the "all wool" suit he was planning to buy was nothing but cheap, low-grade goods? He would probably think it was anything but laughable.

Our office boy, who is a little thingy on his Mexican pronunciation, was telling me about one of these bloody battles in Cuba. He said that he didn't think it was anything to laugh about.

Young man who had been arrested for speeding came in the other day to ask us no to mention it in the paper. He opened negotiations by offering us a cigar. We had to admit to him that it is probably true that every man has his price, but that unfortunately we don't smoke.

Even the weirdest river makes its way into the sea. The body of Francis St. John Smith, who disappeared at Northampton over a year ago, has at last been found at Springfield twenty-one miles farther down the river. And someone, if someone killed her, is in another weary river, waiting to be found, or for the sea.

Young men and young women of West Palm Beach went riding in an automobile. They had an accident and the girl died. The young man told the police that he could at the wheel while driving and when he woke he was in a ditch. Now we've heard of fellows going to sleep on their daises, and we've heard of fellows sleeping while driving, but we've never before heard of one sleeping while driving with his girl.

JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES
 "Myself when young did eagerly frequent Doctor and saint, and heard great argument, And evermore Came out by that same door wherein I went."

Legislators, assembled at Tallahassee, are mostly lawyers and should not shudder if a syllogism is used in the argument stated in logical form, consisting of three propositions, the first two being called the premises and the last conclusion which contains the matter to be proved.

Florida's present syllogism is a very simple one. It can be stated thus: First premise—Florida's staggering public indebtedness, nearly half a billion dollars represents money spent for highways, reclamation projects, recreation facilities and various other public works in contemplation of a rapid and continuous increase in the population and wealth of this section. Second premise—this public debt would not be the burden and menace it is today to the economic state of Florida if population and wealth could be made to increase in the measure expected when the debt was being created. Conclusion—Every possible effort must be made to bring about, on a sound basis, such expansion and growth in Florida as was contemplated in the public undertakings for which the debt was incurred.

In other words, Florida's sure and only salvation is to grow up to the house it has built for itself. A half billion dollars debt is a big one if the debtor has not an establishment large enough to warrant and carry it. It would be a very small debt for New York or West for California. It would be a small one for the Florida which was anticipated by those who created Florida's present debt, even though there may have been extravagance and waste in the conduct of its execution because of the fever that prevailed at the time.

The effort to cut down public expenditures in Florida today and to have every possible public penny available for the relief of the burden that weighs upon every citizen of Florida. But there is a definite limit to what can be accomplished in this direction and when that limit is reached Florida will still be almost intolerably burdened with taxation unless an increased population and business activity can be obtained to share the burden and to lighten it by widening its distribution.

Florida must go forward, therefore, not only because it has the capacity and opportunity to do so but also because to stand still would mean something dangerously near economic death.

There was never a better time for entertaining such a syllogism and acting upon it. All the signs point to a returning national interest in this state, a renewed national conception of its vast potentialities and present investment advantages. Last winter heard the sound of hammers and rivets begin once more all over the state. It saw the tourists coming again and in numbers exceeding any in the state's history. It caught the vigor but unmistakable air of old-time conquest in the air.

This is the witching hour, the hour for a vast resumption of march on all fronts, the hour when every potent aware that to move forward is to win and to fall to move forward is to die.

That Florida's governor is sensitive to every threat and every promise in his present status is eloquent in his willingness to entertain the idea of a vast advertising program for the state which will catch and capitalize the returning public attention and people Florida's house in numbers adequate to the time and money spent on that house. He is for every wisdom but never to the extent of pound foolishness.

Florida must go on. There is no other direction for her. Life investment in the future will run her unless she obtains that future. And all the gods promise her that future if she will give herself with the courage and sacrifice and vision it requires.

Negro women picking beans are making as much money as a union bricklayer in a big city during a building boom. This is because unions are producing beans of superior quality beautifully, and the bean being plentiful, all they can pick most of the negro women have two or more children who work with the mothers. Growers often pay $8 to $12 for less than eight hours work. A Canal Point grower this week paid a woman $3 for her labor, and that of her two small children for beans picked in a length of time that left the woman time to do a washing for another family.—Canal Point News.

ADVERTISE OUR ROADS
PORT MYERS TROPICAL NEWS

Those who followed the recent series of interviews with tourists which the Tropical News published during the height of the season under the heading "Who's Who at the City Hall Park," must have been impressed by the recurring enthusiastic comments on Florida's road system. Every motorist praised our highways. Even those who had recently been over the atrocious stretch of the Tamiami Trail between Naples and the Lee county line which the state allowed to fall into a deplorable condition of decay while building the "missing link," forgot about the misery of that place in telling of their delight with the good roads they had encountered everywhere.

From their experience, there can be no doubt that Florida's highway system is one of the state's best drawing cards. Those who enjoy motoring—and their number is increasing annually—can find no better place in the whole wide world in which to indulge their fancy for the open road than Florida in the six months from the middle of May to the middle of October. During that period motoring is a large section of the United States, is far from being fun. Along about Thanksgiving motorists begin to freeze up, starting becomes difficult and all the motor life of cold weather harasses the driver. On the northern roads there is snow and slush, skidding increases the toll of accidents and riding is beset with discomfort. Then is the time to leave for Florida, while the intervening roads are still open, and more and more will do so every winter. Here they find a motoring paradise—wide, smoothly paved, well marked and well kept highways, reaching every section of the state. No snow or ice on which to slip and slide; no freezing weather to decrease engine efficiency and worry the driver. Places, everywhere, to go—they can't all be seen in six or seven months and if they have been visited previously the tourists will want to return. Every year there are new roads, new sights. This season, for example, was the first of the magnificent Tamiami Trail and the Bok tower. Next winter it will be the cross state road to Palm Beach and some new scenic wonder somewhere. The Trail this year, even with the stream of traffic it accommodated, was used by only a small proportion of the motor touring who were in Florida. Some were deterred by the Naples stretch; many just didn't get around this way and there were, no doubt, some who didn't know about it.

ANENT A LETTER
TAMPA TRIBUNE

The Tribune is in receipt of a letter which has been signed by the sign—wherein we are wanted to discontinue printing the news of bolita playing in Tampa. Violent assurances are indicated, should the warning be disregarded. The letter purports to express the sentiments of Tampa's "Latin people," who desire to be left alone in the enjoyment of the "recreation and pleasure." "If we run bolita games," says the writer "that's our business; we don't ask you hybrid Americans to patronize our bolita."

We print this quotation because it suggests the nub of the whole situation. Tampa's Latin population does in part embrace much of the city's best citizenship. The cigar industry is the foundation of our industrial future. Our Latin citizens make it possible, their knowledge of the business, their capacity and ability have brought about its growth. The Latin clubs, hospitals, social organizations are in the van of Tampa's civic achievements. The city has been glad to accept the substantial benefits its Latin citizens have brought. And now, says our anonymous correspondent, the city must accept a game of chance which the Latin people have been taught from infancy to regard as "recreation and pleasure." The argument has some force.

A year ago, we printed in these columns a statement of Clarence Darrow, who said: "Why stop the people of Tampa from playing bolita. If they like their gambling that way? I wonder what your bolita players would be doing with their money if they didn't play it?" On which we commented: "Gambling is only a relative vice. A pretty good case can be made out of private gambling along the lines of Mr. Darrow's suggestion."

With bolita, played by the Latin people, in whose native institutions it has governmental recognition, we can have no grave quarrel. But, if and when bolita players (to quote again from our editorial of a year ago) "enter every home—every place of business, and for some, make a chance the whole business of life . . . operate to the detriment of the whole community, increase poverty, increase want, threaten the integrity of the law enforcing agencies," then those who run bolita are in fact making what can be more or less innocuous recreation for themselves a matter of grave concern for all. ## MILANE TODAY AND THURSDAY

High School Notes

This column is to be published Wednesday of each week until commencement under the auspices of the Senior class of Seminole High School and by the courtesy of the Sanford Herald. Its purpose is to arouse interest in the high school and to keep the town people well acquainted with the different school activities.

This week the High School is sponsoring the famous Elson Art Exhibit which will include 200 famous paintings. For the past two weeks the Seniors and Juniors have studied these paintings and their artists. Many students are acting as guides to those who come to attend. The admission is small and the proceeds go to a fund with which to buy pictures for the school. Please come, you are welcome.

The Salammund Staff is working hard on the last minute details before the annual goes to press. We have had wonderful cooperation from the business men in this town backing our annual and appreciate their support. We won't forget. The Staff

The Epworth League of the First Methodist Church held its monthly business meeting on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Anna Lapora Brown on Maple Avenue. Plans were discussed for the annual banquet which will be held on May 2, and the following officers were elected for the coming year: Russell Mitchell, president; Louis E. Rietze, vice-president; Miss Nellie Williams, secretary; Miss Rebecca Clark, treasurer; Miss Evelyn Edenfield, corresponding secretary; and Miss Alys Chapman, Era agent.

A social hour was then enjoyed when Miss Ruth Diefenbach told fortunes. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. John Brown. The following: Misses Ruth Diefenbach, Nellie Williams, Margaret Giles, Rebecca Clark, Evelyn Edenfield, and Edward Mitchell, George Mitchell, Olm Oenshaw, Charles Coghlan, and Louis E. Rietze.

A reproduction of the battle of Trafalgar will be seen and heard tonight and Thursday when "The Divine Lady," Corinne Griffith's first Vitaphone picture begins a two day engagement at the Milane Theater.

Despite the magnitude of the maritime scenes of "The Divine Lady," this sequence by no means diminishes the picture, which deals with naval battles only as incidents in the great love story of Lady Hamilton and Lord Nelson.

Miss Griffith, as the lady of many affairs and one splendid ideal manager, worked in the picture steadily for over more than six months while another six months was devoted to preparations for filming the story.

The cinematic naval battles and other scenes with old-fashioned sailing ships and men-of-war took place along the entire California coast, from Monterey to San Diego. Landing scenes were filmed near Monterey, and three hundred miles south, the principal battle scenes were taken at distances ranging from fifty to one hundred miles from shore.

Four ships were used as "privateers" in the sea episodes, and from eight to fourteen others for distant atmosphere, no action being shown on the decks of the latter. In this way the whole English and French fleets were reproduced.

Tire Shop Installs Vulcanizing Outfit

The Seminole Tire Co., 400 W. First Street, has completed the installation of a modern vulcanizing and retreading plant. The equipment is of the very latest type.

H. A. Peterson, manager of the company, said the new retreading equipment turns out a tread like that of the new Firestone tires. He also stated that the same tread gum used in new Firestones is used in the work here.

A factory representative had charge of the installation and remained for several days giving instructions to the management on the best methods by which to operate the plant.

Also everyone must remember to attend the theater the latter part of this week to see the Sanford High School girls cut, strip pack and load celery for the Fox News cameraman. You'll enjoy that.

Don't forget April 23 or 24.

Governor's Message

The Honorable Senate and House of Representatives of the Twenty-Second Legislative Assembly of the State of Florida

I am honored by the privilege of presenting in person my message to you, the members of the State. I do so not as a matter of form but as an earnest solicitation for the most cordial relation between the Executive and the Legislative branches of our Government. We are comrades in a common cause, sharing the greatest responsibility and at once the largest opportunity that ever came to the leaders of our State. We are called upon at a time when the State is on the verge of new foundations under our economic, political and moral structure, thus preparing the way for a progress that is permanent. May Almighty God give us wisdom to see the way and unflinching courage to do our duty.

Finance and Taxation the Urgent Problems
The urgent problem is finance and taxation. Every endeavor of the State, whether in behalf of education, the public health, conservation of our natural resources, or governmental organization, our whole economic future hinges upon a sane fiscal and sound financial policy.

Abnormal conditions resulting from the boom left their mark on the State as well as private life to such an extent as to endanger our financial security. For this we blame no one. It is a logical outcome of the spirit of the time. We find ourselves in a time of peace burdened with wartime equipment. We have made advances on every front (1000 per cent in public improvements in ten years), but at a cost that must be paid. Our expenditures have exceeded our receipts to an alarming degree, approximately two and one-half million dollars in the year 1928. While the State is now free from bonds, we are loath to ignore the fact that counties and municipalities are loaded to the uttermost while taxes have reached the danger point. There is a deadline in cost of government which, when reached by the taxing powers, marks the decline of a State's prosperity. In spite of high taxes, we have had many have resorted to petty bond defaults are imminent in towns, districts and counties throughout the State. "Unwise" someone says, to release this information. But it is only to doze facts which will multiply force their attention.

Our Financial Task
The gap between receipts and expenditures must be closed; our obligations must be discharged; our financial integrity must be preserved; a sound fiscal structure must be established; our tax burden must be adjusted; and with the intelligent leadership and patriotic cooperation evident in this Legislature I know that these things can be done and Florida's place established in the front ranks of this advancing nation.

Must Work Along Many Lines
We must not hope to accomplish this by any one act, or any single policy, but by sane, consistent, co-ordinated action along many lines to a definite purpose.
(1) Economy in public expenditure, with business-like organization and supervision in governmental activities.
(2) Conservation of our revenue and its distribution in the proper channel.
(3) An equitable distribution of our tax burden with a collection system that is simple in operation and a firm of results.
(4) Safeguarding against unnecessary debts and obligations in the future.

These things will lift our government from financial distress and hasten by years the usual prosperity of our State.
Economy
Economy in public expenditure is fundamental. Unnecessary expenses must be eliminated. We have lost a sense of the value of the public dollar and forgotten that little economies amount to big savings. Useless offices must be abolished; employees need not be paid for the tasks which they are asked. There is a sharp distinction between a pension roll and a payroll. Many employees are being employed by your present administration, and you can safely depend on a saving of at least a half million dollars per year in the administration of the State's affairs. We are well on the way now, but there are changes fixed by law which no administrative action can change. As an illustration, we have three special assistant Attorneys General, drawing $15,000 per year each and expenses. Their purpose has been served and I respectfully recommend the repeal of the statute creating these offices. Many inferior courts have been created throughout the State, prosecuting officers multiplied and salaries increased beyond the bounds of reason. This condition should engage your attention.

Our Circuit Judges within four years multiplied from twenty to forty, while the budget for these courts jumped from $479,450 to $752,250. An attorney, I would be the last to abolish a court that is needed. No one advocates that policy, but patriotism and common honesty demand that the unnecessary go. I am aware of the fact that it presents a delicate and difficult question and calls for rare courage and patriotism on your part, but the issue should be met as the judge meets their issues on the bench. I recommend the immediate appointment of a commission of five, composed of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, President of the Bar Association, President of one of our universities, an outstanding business man and one of our circuit clerks requested to impartially redistrict the State in keeping with present requirements and report their findings back to this session in time for action.

An adjustment of fees and compensation of county officers is in order. A condition which places in a single county office in the name of compensation as much as that of the entire Supreme Court or that of the Governor and his cabinet is intolerable. Records and reports should be required and a reviewing authority provided that would put a brake on the number of employees and the amount of their compensation, securing justice to State and officer.

must be centralized. Bond Trustees have cost the State untold sums of money. This office should be abolished. The State Treasurer made the Trustee for very outstanding bond issues. As it is, there is no central authority in the County or the State where public obligations can be ascertained or the people find assurance that trust funds to discharge such obligations are being maintained.

Purchasing Department
All purchases of the State, except those of a minor nature, should be centralized in one Department. We thus substitute expert service for indiscriminate and irresponsible buying, secure lower prices by larger quantity purchases, centralizing the point of contact between the bidder and the State. It is responsibility for determining prices, establish standard specifications, and assure all discounts.

Conservation and Direction of Revenue Into Proper Channels
But we must go further in relieving our present embarrassment. The next step is of greater moment and calls for your most thoughtful consideration. It involves a change in our fiscal policy and seeks to place certain of our revenues where most needed. I therefore respectfully suggest the advisability of imposing the gasoline tax now levied in the counties and that paid to the schools, that portion of the automobile license tax not used by the Road Department, personal tax on automobiles, a reasonable tax on amusements, into a common fund to be administered by the State and used for the maintenance of road bonds and other board obligations. In this program three things must be taken care of. First, the present revenue of the Road Department must be kept intact. Second, equity must be done the several counties. Third, the State can assume no obligations without a definite plan of funds that is imposed. It is believed these points can be safeguarded. The plan, of course, will be subject to objection. Any program will be. I ask you, however, to consider it in the spirit of finding something better if this is not acceptable. Something of this nature is one of the fundamental integrity of our State is to be preserved and justice done our taxpayers.

Tax Collections
Our financial structure is stronger than our methods of collection. Our system must be simplified and the results made certain. To this end, there should be a single authority. And there now essential to a valid assessment should be done away with. The levy should be held valid if not contested within a fixed time; unnecessary cost in advertising as well as fees in making entries should be abolished. The tax collector should be empowered and authorized to enforce the procedure made as strict as possible to the end that a valid tax deed would be certain.

It would facilitate the collection of personal property tax on automobiles to require this payment as a condition to the issuance of a license tax. This could be well to have automobile license tags distributed by the tax collector with the rest of license greatly reduced. As a matter of fact, the personal property tax on automobiles should be abolished and the license tax raised accordingly to equal the cost of collection. A constitutional amendment, however, would, of course, be necessary to accomplish this result.

Every Board of Commission should be abolished. No money should be expended except an appropriation made by the Legislature. In the case of constitutional matters, we can expect to avoid waste from independent and overlapping activities and hope to establish business efficiency, administrative authority must be centralized and responsibility definitely fixed in the term when the people inevitably hold us to account.

Some of our Department should be consolidated and many activities discontinued. The Game and Fresh Water Fish Department, the Shell Fish Department and the Forestry work should be brought together. Work of the State Engineer should be transferred to the Health Department and Hotel Commission should be discontinued. From the standpoint of economy and efficiency as well as our structure of government should be made simple and unambiguous.

Business Methods in Government
It is well to keep government out of business. Business principles should be employed in government. A modern, efficient system of records and accounts, including cost accounting, should be established throughout the State, with an auditing system that would insure at least an annual audit of the different subdivisions of the State, the purpose being not only to prevent defaults but to establish efficiency in governmental operations. Thousands of dollars are lost each year to the State not only through defaults but waste resulting from loose business methods.

A rigid budgeting should be required. Shifting and intermingling of various funds, merging current expenses into future obligations should be prohibited and records kept that the people may see how and for what their money is expended. Office of Bond Trustee Should Be Abolished. Our scattered financial control must be centralized. Bond Trustees have cost the State untold sums of money. This office should be abolished. The State Treasurer made the Trustee for very outstanding bond issues. As it is, there is no central authority in the County or the State where public obligations can be ascertained or the people find assurance that trust funds to discharge such obligations are being maintained.

Highways
Membership in the Road Department should be held sacred to the trust to which it is committed, and the Road Department should be kept free from the temptation of political influence. The law should make it impossible for any member of the Department to be a candidate for any office while holding that position or within six months thereafter.

I would respectfully caution you against the danger of indiscriminately placing roads under State maintenance. In order to maintain a uniform, balanced and equitable program this matter should be left to the users of the road for local Department, who must view the road system as a whole. Any other program furnishes a temptation to trade and the danger of converting our road funds into a cash barrel proposition. With the outstanding obligations now on the Road Department budgeting, accounting and auditing in the several counties of the State.

Textbook Selection Law
The Textbook Selection Law should be amended so as to provide for a selection group of books on each subject, rather than an exclusive selection and allow for retiring obsolete or undesirable text books.

Conservation
The Game Law must be amended with a view always in conserving the game, and at the same time removing arbitrary and unreasonable regulations with a fair adjustment of license fees. I would suggest closing the August hunting season and make the open season for hunting deer and turkey concurrent. Breeding grounds must be extended and protection of game and fish fostered in the most effective manner. I invite your thought to the most practical common sense and business-like method of conserving this great resource.

Forestry
Re-forestation has been long neglected. The State is rapidly depleting what has been and is yet the State's greatest money producer. Without adequate effort to replenish it, it would not be amiss to employ a reasonable severance tax to this purpose.

Law and Lawlessness
Florida must make no surrender to law compromise with the enemies of constituted authority. Agencies to establish legal proof of crime and enforce the law should be strengthened and not weakened. Florida should build on permanent values and not risk her future on a game of chance of a program of legalized gambling.

Conclusion
I am aware that this message presents a difficult program, but I have faith in its practical significance and trust you as safeguards against error. I know it is submitted only in a spirit of unselfish and constructive service.

We must work out a plan to meet the necessities of the hour as well as the requirements of Florida's new day which is at hand. This we cannot do if we allow selfish interests to hold sway, or fail to put first things first. Nor can we succeed by partisan strife or sectional alignment. Thank God these lines have lost their place in the geography of Greater Florida. As individuals and public officers worthy of the name, all Florida is ours—her counties and cities, her farms and factories, field and forest. The welfare of every citizen, his happiness or sorrow, success or failure, is ours. We are one people, one in hope, one in purpose, one in destiny, and shall hold for the future in the spirit of McCalley:

"When more was for the party
But all were for the State,
When the rich man helped the poor
And the poor man helped the great!"

DAYTONA BEACH—$150,000 residence will be built here soon.
WINTER GARDEN—12 foot aerial marking sign painted on top of Pounds Garage.

Reclamation Of The Everglades
The development of a national system of reclamation, under the Federal Government giving promise of cooperation that will insure the completion of this project in a proper way. In view of these prospects, it would be well to authorize the establishment of a reclamation fund of $10,000,000 to be used for the purpose of carrying out this program.

In the administration of the Trustage Trust and in the area should be brought into contact with the drainage commission in the way of representation on the board or by the establishment of an intermediary body that will give the people the assistance to which they are entitled.

Education
Perhaps no branch of the State's development is in greater distress than our school system, the first difficulty being that of finance. A system of taxation is needed to meet the needs of our law in taxation will furnish relief in this respect. It is certain that our school system must go on, and it is a matter of great embarrassment that any boy or girl in the State should be denied an eight months term with teachers properly trained and fairly paid.

I commend to your careful study the report of the Educational Survey. Our schools are tied by the constitution to an obsolete system, and from which should be given at the earliest possible moment. We should place in the office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction a director of building to advise with the Superintendent of Public Instruction and advise the users of the school purposes. Enormous waste can be saved and greater efficiency accomplished by this program. There should also be provided in the office of the State Superintendent a director of finance empowered to organize and institute a system of uniform, to get a hit.

Orlando tallied three runs in the opening inning and one more in the sixth and that ended the scoring for the afternoon. Rogers was the leading star, getting three hits in four trips and scoring two runs. Fairfield got two hits.

BIG PROFIT

Classified Ads are popular for a number of reasons, they get RESULTS quickly, they are easy to use and they cost ONLY A FEW CENTS a day.

This small cost offers big profit to advertisers. Let us say you have a house that is empty; you have been renting it for $35 a month. If it stays idle for a month you have lost $35.

The average classified ad run for a month costs less than $5.00. Granting that you spent that much to get your house rented, you still have a good profit left... a sum you would not have had otherwise.

Does Classified Advertising Pay? Give it a test yourself, a thro test, and judge for yourself.

NEW SHORTSTOP OF DETROIT HAS BUILD OF MIDGET

Jack Taverner Follows Predecessors Who Have All Been Tiny

NEW YORK, Apr. 2.—(INS)—Fans who are without a scorecard when they see the Detroit Tigers play this year may think at first glance that Jackie Taverner is still filling the short field berth for the Bengals, for he is so tiny that Taverner's successor, is also a midget. And thereby hangs a tale. Per twenty-five years, Detroit shortstops have been little men. From Charles O'Leary's time down to the present day, it has so happened that tall shortstops have been missing from the Tiger infield.

The reign of midgets was begun by O'Leary in 1904. When the rough and tumble Irishman, now the corpulent coach of the New York Yankees, dropped out of the picture, along came fiery little Bernie Bush, present manager of the Pirates. Bush held down the job for many years, being succeeded by Emory Rigney. The fact that Topper was a midget was more a coincidence. By that time the thing had become a tradition. Art so it was only natural that Taverner, Detroit's next shortstop, should be a little man.

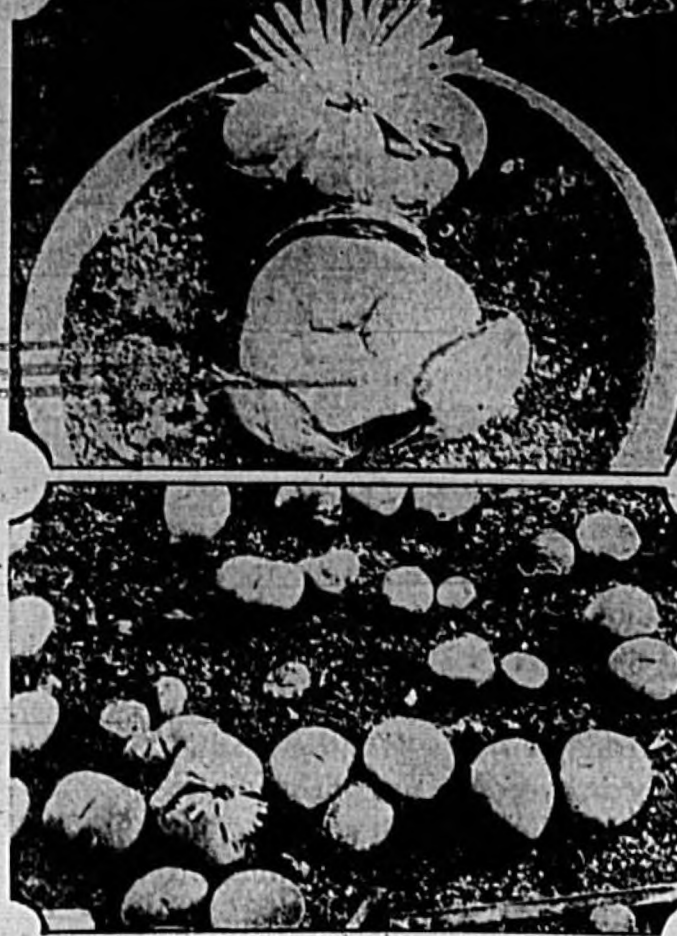

Now Taverner has gone to Cleveland and Schuble is the fifth midget to hold down the job. Heinie formerly had a trial with the St. Louis Cardinals and was found wanting, but it is predicted that he will stay in the big show this time.

There are plenty of tall shortstops in the big leagues. There is no law against a shortstop living up to the first syllable of his name as far as the physical requirements of the job go. The little fellows, in fact, appear to be more nimble than the tall ones in reaching after hot grounders and snapping the ball on a base runner.

It is a fact, however, that few of the midget shortstops are sluggers. Joey Sewell of the Indians is a notable exception, many of his wallpops being good for extra bases. But if most of the short fielders are not long distance hitters they make up for it by drawing more passes than the big fellows.

Pebbles Which Bloom

Prof. de Laet, a Belgian horticulturist, returned from a tour of Africa with a collection of unique plants. They belong to the family of desert plants, "mesembryanthemum," and there are, according to Prof. Laet, some 300 varieties of them in the Sahara Desert alone. The plants before blooming have the distinct characteristics of pebbles and are hard to distinguish from stones in a field. Photo shows a field of pebble flowers, with several pebbles scattered among the plants. The tiny plant identifies the plants.

Frisly Blouses Supplant Tailored Garments As Latest Hint From Paris

PARIS, Apr. 3.—(INS)—That the blouse will bloom in the spring is very easy to believe from the beautiful ones that are appearing at all of the chic couturiers in Paris these days.

Like all women's wear this year, it is quite frilly and feminine, quite unlike the plain tailored blouse of yore which was made for utilitarian purposes only. Some are of cotton, others of silk and very many have soft frills of lovely lace. At noon blouses come in satin, georgette or embroidered linen. And there are evening blouses for informal wear with satin, moire or other silk suits. And there is one in white chiffon edged with silver thread and with large silver flowers embroidered to the bottom. A new silk alpaca makes a charming blouse for afternoon wear, fitted to fall in soft graceful folds down to the waistline, and having a double jabot and undervert of white crepe showing in plastron effect. A white satin blouse is the ideal complement of any black satin or silk ensemble and one house has a stunning dress in a symmetric cut, forming a short, flat detached surface material, starting from under the arm and finishing in a cascading jabot. Little ruffles incised above the wrists give importance to this part of the sleeves.

A very youthful blouse comes of natural shirting and is trimmed with bands of fine tucks. The round, school-girl collar and the square shoulder-yoke make it exceedingly young in appearance and the narrow ribbon laced along the closing makes a dainty detail.
