Was "Try Again" really the name of the boat? Or did some joker paint those words on the old hull after the wreck? Either way the irony wasn't wasted. Lots of people used to sail through life confidently and contentedly. Today they aren't so sure they're on the right course. There are some who think it's only a matter of time before our whole civilization runs aground

Christianity has often been called "the religion of another chance." Yes, for Christ teaches that we can rise out of our failures through God's forgiveness and power. Millions today are rediscovering Christian precepts. It is a new generation which will soon be sailing toward a Christian destiny Copyright 1974 Keister Advertising Service, Inc., Strasburg, Virginia

Flower Power

BOSTON (AP) - Massachusetts' $30-million-a-year lowergrowing business has suffered from the energy crisis and lilies will cost more at Easter. Lilies have climbed to $7.50 a pot and up, says Herman

Bronstein, owner of the Olympia Flower Store in Boston. That's 50 cents above last year's price. He blames the increase on higher heating bills for greenhouses. Roses are scarce already, costing $1 more a

Other taboo topics - some banned for years - are imprisonment of subversives, demonstrations abroad gainst Brazil's government, torture of political prisoners, terrorist or subversive activities, criticism of ensorship, criticism of the regime and sexual berrations.

Lyman Students Host Peruvians

By ELDA NICHOLS Herald Correspondent

LONGWOOD - Lyman High-School students said "adios" this week to three charming good will ambassadors from Peru, who have been attending the school for three months while staying in with area families.

Their three American counterparts in the Student Exchange Program are eagerly awaiting the chance to return the visit.

This is the summer season in Peru and Rita Lizarzaburu, Rita Gonzales and Lily France lived in the homes of Lyman students who will in turn visit Peru this summer under the program. This way none of the exchange program students miss attending their home school sessions.

The attractive Peruvian visitors were eager to learn all about students and their activities in the United States. Exchange students are paired with local students of corresponding ages who have similar hobbies and interests.

Rita Lizaezabura lived with Mr. and Mrs. C. David Bowen and their daughter, Jeanenne,

Jeanenne spoke of how well Mrs. Howard F. Bryan and Rita fit in with her family. She their daughter, Betsy. By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - For months, Sen, Howard Baker, R-Tenn., has been piecing together evidence that the Central Intelligence Agency somehow was involved in the Watergate break-in. Now he is preparing a detailed report, backed up with secret documents. The report will depend for explosive effect, however, more on the questions it asks than on the answers it gives. The report will focus largely on former CIA agent E. Howard Hunt, who retired from the CIA in 1970, joined a CIA cover organization and then went on the White House payroll in July 1971. A year later, he helped plan the Watergate break-in. In Baker's study of the CIA role in the case, he has made these tentative findings: -Deputy CIA Director Vernon Walters' repeated claim that the CIA grew wary of Hunt and broke contact with him by August 31, 1971, is false. The CIA now admits its top psychiatrist, Dr. Bernard Malloy, met secretly with Hunt on the Daniel Ellsberg case as late as October 27, 1971.

-Baker has documents showing the CIA role in Watergate coverup was far more extensive than has been revealed in public

-Baker's documents also indicate that former CIA Director Richard Helms helped place Hunt with Mullen and Co., a CIA front. Baker believes the CIA kept close tabs on Hunt even after he supposedly "retired" from the CIA.

-While Hunt was working for the CIA front company, he sought out an old Bay of Pigs sidekick, Bernard Barker. The Senator suspects Hunt may have been planning exploits with Barker on behalf of the CIA. The senator would like to prove, but cannot, that two of the exploits were the Watergate and Ellsberg psychiatrist break-ins. What Baker can show, however, is that Hunt contacted Barker in April 1971, months before going on the White House payroll.

Tip From Bennet

-After Hunt went to work for the White House, he got a tip from Robert Bennett, head of the Mullen CIA cover company, that one of Bennett's ex-employes in New England had some fresh information on the Chappaquiddick episode. Hunt could have obtained the information by making a simple call to the exemploye. Instead, he obtained from the CIA's deputy director a wig, false I.D. cards, a voice modulator, a camera, a recorder and a "safe house." The trip to New England proved totally fruitless, leading Baker to suspect it may have been a cover for some other CIA purpose.

-Baker has received indications that Hunt was reporting indirectly to the CIA even after he had moved into the White House. The senator suspects, for example, that the CIA may have been involved with Hunt's celebrated excursion to Denver in a ludicrous CIA wig to talk to Dita Beard. The CIA reportedly was worried whether we got the famous ITT-Dita Beard memo from the same source who gave us the ITT Chile memos implicating the CIA in a plot to block the inaugural of the late Salvador

-Baker suspects, but cannot prove, that Hunt's plan to break into the safe of Las Vegas publisher Hank Greenspun may also have had some CIA undertones. The safe contained billionaire Howard Hughes' private papers. Hughes not only was associated with the Mullen CIA front but had also employed Robert Maheu, another CIA front man.

-After the Watergate break-in was discovered, Hunt fled to California to a man identified as "Mort Jackson," who has close CIA connections, Baker has learned.

These bits of evidence have led Baker to suspect that Hunf may never have broken off his ties with the CIA, despite statements to the contrary from CIA officials.

We dug into this story a year ago. We were able to report on April 7, 1973, that the CIA strangely had ordered its agents not to talk to the FBI about the Watergate case. We published the proof on May 8, quoting from a confidential FBI memo which said : "It is recalled we specifically were requested by the CIA not to interview . . . two CIA employes, and instructions were issued to WFO (Washington Field Office) to this effect."

CIA Intervention Asked

However, we later learned that the White House had asked he CIA to intervene with the FBI to limit the Watergate instigation. This request was made by H. R. Haldeman, then the powerful White Hose staff chief, who told the CIA "it was the President's wish." We obtained and, on May 30, quoted the secret CIA memos about Haldeman's intervention.

This led us to the conclusion not that the CIA was implicated in the Watergate break-in but that the White House was trying to use the CIA to thwart the FBI investigation.

Baker now believes the CIA involvement was much greater than we had been able to learn. Our own CIA sources, while reserving judgment on Baker's report until they see it, agree there's more CIA involvement in the coverup than has been printed. They concede that numerous contradictions at least need

Official CIA spokesmen, however, gave a "no comment" to our detailed questions, saying only that they were cooperating with congressional investigators. Bennett told my associate Les Whitten the Mullen company severed all its CIA ties in June 1973. He firmly denied that he had acted as a conduit for information from Hunt to the CIA during the 1971-72 Watergate times. Baker aide Fred Thompson refused comment and Hunt could not be

Car Racing's Peter Revson Killed In Flaming Crash

JOHANNESBURG (AP) - "Sure I'm afraid when I get out on the track; who isn't?" Peter Revson said early this year before the Argentine Grand Prix. "But it never stopped me from trying again." Revson, who preferred the life of an auto race driver to the jet set, playboy image, tried again Friday ... and it cost him his life at the age of 35.

Dashing Bachelor

The dashing bachelor, often linked with some of the world's most beautiful women. died en route to a Johannesburg hospital after his UOP Shadow car crashed and burned during practice at the Kyalami Circuit, scene of the March 30 South African Grand Prix. Witnesses said Revson was coming out of a turn at more than 110 miles an hour when his car shot off the 212-mile circuit, flipped end-over-end and burst into

"The car caught fire immediately when it crashed," said Graham Hill of Britain, who, with fellow drivers Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil and Eddie Keizan of South Africa, attempted to rescue Revson. "It was still burning when we turned it over and lifted him out."

Faulty Steering

Officials initially indicated a faulty steering mechanism may have caused the mishap, but Hill said after a preliminary inspection that it could have been caused by a faulty front suspension. Revson was the nephew of Charles

Sports Spotlight

By J Richards

Herald Sports Editor

There are probably those among us who may say Peter Revson was a fool. He had it made. Rich. Handsome. And he had just about anything in the world he wanted to do available to him; if he wanted it. Why, then, did he stubbornly cling to auto racing? Why, then, is ne dead?

It's not just the Revson's of the world, the heirs to fortunes made by others who have to do no work themselves, but it's the dreamers of the world who choose strange and unsettling places to deal with their fate. It's not just the race driver who may be branded as if from another world when then challenge the ultimate in themselves, their own deaths, who are questioning why revson is dead. The sports world knows. Anyone in sports respects death. It is the ultimate timeclock, ticking away the final years, months, hours of each personal game. It is the natural ending to "The

Self Challenge

Each person, whether he is rich or poor, famous or a nobody, harbors themselves; they learn to like the feeling of facing one's doom and defeating it-for

Sports, while apart from the reality we more sedate people call life, has its codes of conduct. A man may face and bear death or his own definition of the "ultimate" many times, but it's the time he's facing now that counts. Once a person 'retires" he no longer has that very personal feeling he gets when he rises off the ground, dusts himself off, and returns the stare of the challenge. It reflects something of the noblest and at the same time basest human drives; the desire to overcome.

The long distance runner must think the agony of the last mile, the pain and desparation of not finishing the course, are his ultimate enemy. No. He is only partly right. It's himself he is facing. Facing Himself

Not time, not a victor's laurels, not even death is the ultimate foe. Each person is his own ultimate; his own doom. As soon as he quits the field he has succumbed to the enemy-himself. The courage and conviction that put him on the field in the first place are what he has to fight with.

Himself is what he's up against. And he's the toughest fighter on the block. He knows all the weaknesses of the man he's trying to beat down. He plays on his mind, telling him constantly; Not this time. It's the fight to succeed, "this time' every time that puts men on Mt. Everest, the moon, or in a boxing ring. In this case, a grand prix auto racing circuit. The curves, the road, the car was not half so much the foe Peter Revson faced Friday, but himself. Whether he won or lost, only he knows. But it's the facing of the foe that counts the most.

How Much Better?

The challenge of "how much better can] do it this time; how much more will it cost to do so?" is the real challenge of life, just as in sports.

Every so often it's good to remind ourselves that we, too, face such challenges. They aren't as spectacular nor as rewarding outwardly as those faced by Revson or any other well-known figure. But they cost just as much to attain for anyone. The reward in real sums-to the individual-just the same for the kid who is trying to become the best auto mechanic, U.S. Congressman or high school record holder.

To Meet A Challenge

Meeting the challenge renews life. It rekindles the spirit the way nothing else can. When a person can look not at his fellow men but himself and know he has met the challenge that time, the reward is incalcuable in any terms we could ever devise to measure such achievement.

Life means the most to those who risk it. Personal achievement, whether in sports or any other phase of life, means the most to those who strive so hard to attain it. The real cheat is the person who strives for too little. Who wants just a little. He is the person who "cut" his scoring and sold the game out to less than ideal goals. There is the real cheat who knows he is not meeting the best in himself he has to offer as a

14 Year Career

Revson began racing sports cars as an amateur in Hawaii in 1960 and turned professional three years later. In 1971 he became the first American to win the Canadian-American driving title.

Revson lived in New York and Reeondo Beach, Calif. He consorted with the jetsetting "beautiful people," and romanced the Miss World titleholder. But he preferred to be known for his racing.

"Pete was a race driver and he wanted to stand on his own feet as a competent fessional," said fellow driver George Follmer, a close friend of Revson's. Championship Hope

"He hoped to win the world driving championship one day. And I think, given proper equipment, he eventually would have won it." Follmer said. "He was good, really smooth on road courses, as fearless as anyone at Indianapolis and as dedicated to the sport as anybody in it."

Revson had signed to drive the Indianapolis 500 for Philadelphian Roger Penske and to compete in the Can-Am series.

"If I don't win the championship in the next two years, I'm thinking of retiring," he said in an interview in January. "...I raced Can-Am and Trans-Am before, but Formula One is the real meat of racing. For me, it's now or never."

NEW YORK - (NEA) - "A Pete Rose by any other name still stinks," scribbled one neo-Shakespearean paraphrast on a hanner last October here in Shea Stadium This literary brainstorm was conceived after Pete Rose of the Cincinnati Reds slammed into Bud Harelson of the Mets while trying to break up a double play. Dust, spikes and a fist or two flew.

🔫 🖜 By Ira Berkow

Ungrateful Fans

When Rose returned to his left-field position, after the nefarious inning, boos and whizzing beer bottles greeted him. Nothing new for Rose. Bleacher burns in Wrigley Field pelt him with paper clips. Fans in San Francisco bathe him with invective. Even home-town Cincinnati fans, as well as some players, figuratively hold their nose when they hear the name

He is called hot dog for his head-first slides, his rifling the ball into the infield after a meaningless out, his executionerlike motion after catching a fly ball, his running, running even on walks. He has been called, not always with admiration, "Charley Hustle."

"Well," says Rose, "nobody liked Ty Cobb either."

Rose sees himself in the mold of a modern-day Ty Cobb. Rose is a man who hits for average. Last season he batted .338, to win his third league hitting title and it was his ninth straight season hitting over

The similarities between Rose and Cobb are interestingg, both in playing skills and attitude, but the differences are even more absorbing. They differ mainly in degree. Cobb had a lifetime batting average of .367 for 24 seasons. Rose, going into his 12th big-league year, has a .312 career average.

"Cobb was a super hitter," said Lew Fonseca, the American League batting champion in 1929 and currently a sometime hitting coach with the Cincinnati Reds, "and Pete is a fine hitter.

Cobb More Talented

"I think overall Cobb was more talented but both showed tremendous desire and used their skills to the ultimate.

"Pete is always asking me about Cobb. I remember his first question. 'Tell me, Lew, was Cobb as tough as they say?

"Tougher, I told him." Cobb was always getting in brawls, with teammates, with opponents and with fans, who he would climb into the stands to

"Cobb would do anything to win," said Fonseca. "I remember a story concerning Howard Ehmke, the pitcher. He had pitched at Detroit when Cobb was Philadelphia. The first game Ehmke was in against Detroit, he hit Ehmke with a pitch. And Ehmke called to Cobb, 'I hit 20 batters for you last year. Now I got one for myself.' " Cobb would snarl at the opposition, said

"One pitcher got Pete out three straight times," said Fonseca. "The fourth time up, Pete shouted to him, 'Go down to the bullpen and get warmed up, you ain't got

Double-Edged Rose

One major difference is that Cobb often did not even speak to teammates. Rose talks, though sometimes double-edged. When Rose says to Tony Perez, who passes him in the locker room. "When you gonna knock me in? I'm tired of standin' on second base," it draws a laugh from Perez. And a slow smile forn Rose.

Cobb, particularly, was obsessed with being tops. Once, he was angered when he returned to his hotel room saw his roommate in the bath tub. Cobb screamed "Get out of there - I'm always first!" Rose has his peculiarities, too. Once he was giving a baseball clinic for kids on a Hamilton, Ohio, sandlot field, and he let a grounder go through his legs. One kid laughed. Rose skewered him with a look and said, "I make seven errors a season. I have six left."

Both Rose and Cobb were influenced b their fathers. Rose's father taught him to switch hit ("And I'll always do it) promised Dad that"-) emphasized ! young Pete how Enos Slaughter always hustled everywhere on the field.

Lot Of Bunk

He told Pete, "That stuff about it's not whether you win or lose, but how you play the game, that's a lot of bunk. If you don't win, you haven't accomplished anything.' "If my father were alive," said Rose, "he'd have bawled me out if I hadn't put the slug on Harrelson." In his autobiography, written with Al Stump, Cobb talks about the tragedy of his father's death. "My father had his head blown off with a shotgun when I was 18 years old . . . I've never gotten over it."

It seems that Cobb tried ever after to vindicate his father and produced, in Stump's words, "the most violent, successful, thoroughly maladjusted personality ever to pass across American As Cobb himself put it, "I had to fight all my life to survive. They were all against me . . . but I beat the bastards and left them in the ditch."

STANFORD'S HANK LUISETTI Assuming one-handed position

There is a basketball double-header on tap tonight at Madison Square Garden. Four of the best college quintets in the country are scheduled to play.

In the opener Georgetown is pitted against N.Y.U., but it's the second game that has this sports-crazy city buzzing with expectation.

All You Got

For Larry Csonka, the rakeoff from being a Super Bowl star will soon pass his projected six-figure salary for the Dolphins. He gets $2,000 a pop for public appearances, and he's had only three days off in the last 60. Who's got time to run, as rumored, for political office in Florida?

Q. How can there be a force-out in basketball when there's not supposed to be any contact, and don't the referees in the NBA give preferential treatment to certain stars in calling fouls?--Jerry Pang, El Cerrito, Cal.

The NBA has been trying to phase out the force-out call, but it's still on the books to be called at the discretion of the referee when there's "incidental contact" near the sideline that forces the man with the ball out of bounds. Richie Powers, one of the vet signal blowers, tells me that he has only called it once all season, in an early March game between the Pistons and Warriors. No, there's no obvious preferential treatment, though there is the human element-in baseball, they called fewer strikes on Ted Williams because they respected his batting eye.

Q. Which NBA star has never fouled out in more than 10 years as a pro?-Dana Dodus, Cleveland, O.

Right now, there ain't no such animal. You're a year late with your question, Wilt Chamberlain went his entire NBA career, 1959 through 1973-1,045 games plus 160 playoff games plus 13 All-Star games-without a disgualification. Don Meineke of Fort Wayne (now Detroit) fouled out 26 times in the 1952-53 season alone.

Q. Since the Atlanta Braves have announced that Henry Aaron will not participate in the first three road games, what's to prevent the visiting team pitchers while in Atlanta to walk Mr. Aaron intentionally every time he comes to bat? I believe Henry Aaron has sold out to the "Establishment" and has forgotten where he came from.-Gary Baxman, Union City, Cal. Henry Aaron comes from Mobile, Ala., and is well-aware of it.

I don't understard the furor about Henry sitting out the first three games in Cincinnau. What's the big deal? He works for the Braves who determine his working hours-for whatever reason. And since he'll inevitably hit homers 714 and 715, it might as well be in Atlanta. Pitchers aren't going to walk him. I mean, who would ever have heard of Tom Zachary if he hadn't served up Ruth's last home run?

Parting shot: Although the LA Rams renewed their lease on the Coliscum for three years, Carroll Rosenbloom is still mulling his own stadium for the long-term future, next to the Hollywood Race Track (just as Jack Kent Cooke built his Forum there).

Got a tough question about sports and the people who play them? All you got to do is ask Murry Olderman. Write him at The Sanford Heraid. The most interesting questions will be ansered in this column. Olderman regrets that he cannot write personal inswers to all questions.

A seven pound bass and a string of 20 speckled perch taken near the Wekiva River's mouth, was reported last week. Other vistors are pursuing the eating size catfish (one to

Spray Hyacinths

Lowell Hiley who runs the fish camp on the South side of Jessup said this would be a good time for the Army Corps of Engineers to hit a good blow at the pesky water haycinths as there are only a few in the lake right now. One more good spraying would practically eliminate them.

A good run of specks was located between the I-4 bridge and 17-92 bridge early this week according to Fred Sweet at the Fishing Hole Bait and Tackle Shop. SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Lt. Laura Lynn Livingston is a woman in a tough business: she is an officer in the U.S. Army's military police. One of the first five female officers in the MP corps, she pulls patrol duty at San Francisco's Presidio and has commanded an all-male platoon. Lt. Livingston carries a .38-

caliber revolver instead of the MP standard .45-automatic and in other ways does not fit the stereotype of a burly, tough

"Oh, I'm not really that mean," she says.

"She's very knowledgeable, very professional and a fine leader." said Lt. Col Van D. Lolladay, commander of the crack 504th Military Police Battalion at the Presidio. For several months, Lt. Livingston commanded a platoon of 32 military policemen - all of them male. "Initially, I did have problems," she admits. "But I spent two weeks on bivouac with these men as a platoon leader. "I picked creepy crawlers out of my hair and I went without a

She says an undergraduate degree in criminology magna cum laude from Fresno State University did not lift any barriers for her in the Fresno County Sheriff's office.

For 18 months, she was a booking officer at the jail, "wrestling drunks" and searching prisoners. "It was a start, but I wouldn't hav gone anywhere," she said. In August, 1972, she joined the Army and spent two months in military police training at Ft. Gordon, Ga., with 57 men and four other women.

Exemption Deadline Is Monday, April

By JULIAN STENSTROM

Time's a wasting! That is, if you haven't yet filed for homestead exemption. You have until Monday, April 1. That is absolutely positively the final day. If you reside within the corporate limits of the City of Sanford and you were occupying your homestead as of Dec. 31, 1973, you're entitled to homestead exemption which amounts to almost $150 less on your next tax bill which you'll be getting in October of this year.

If you reside in an unincorporated area of the county your homestead exemption will amount to a little more than $100. If you're entitled to it there is no earthly reason why you should not file for it.

If yoy don't claim homestead when you are entitled to it it's just like taking money and holding it to a match. And, the sad part about it is that the people who can afford it the least are the ones who "forget" to claim it.

Orientation Classes

The first orientation classes in the history of the Seminole County Board of Realtors were held last week at a conference room in the Longwood office of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Seminole County.

These classes are held for the purpose of explaining the history of the National Association of Realtors, the Florida Association of Realtors, and the Seminole County Board of Realtors along with the Realtors' Code of Ethics, and the by laws of the Seminole County Board which governs the conduct of Realtors in this area. Those completing the initial course were Margaret Anderson of Anderson Realty, Harold W. Joos of Gale Associates, Ann Theissin of Hatton Associates, Margaret F. Young of Cross Country Real Estate, Bill France of Gale Associates, Elsie Richardson of Dehlinger Real Estate, Pauling M. Wheeless of San Lando Realty, Marty Sorenson of Gale Associates, Hilda M. Dodson of Hattaway Realty, Hal Powers of Gale Associates, Julia Hatton of Hatton Associates and Roger L. Davis of Gale Associates.

The second orientation classes will be held during April at th First Federal offices in Longwood.

The newly elected president of the National Association of Realtors is Joseph B. Doherty of Andover, Mass. As a result, Realtors throughout the United States this year can expect a strong emphasis on education. Doherty's career, as a matter of fact, has been marked by a strong emphasis in education. He served as chairman of Realtors' education committees at the local, state, national and international levels as well as the superintendency of two public school systems in Connecticut. Home Noho Haven From Hurt Multiflora is the least Doherty is a former president of his local Board of Realtors, former president of the Massachusettes Association of Real Estate Boards, and is a former director and vice president of the National Association of Realtors. In 1961 he was named "Realtor of the Year" by both his local board and the Massachusettes Association. He is a graduate of Boston College, holds a masters degree in education from Harvard, and is a five-year veteran of World War II - attaining the rank of Lieutenant Commander in the Navy,

The National Association of Realtors now represents 110,000 Realtors and 400,000 Realtor-Associates who are members of 52 state associations and 1,620 local real estate boards through the nation.

Startling Growth

Talk about growth? Then read this! In 1964 the Orlando-Winter Park Board of Realtors was comprised 929 members. In 1972 that number had grown to 2,101. However, during 1973 the number of members jumped to 3,034, an increase of almost 1,000 members. the hazards. But that's not all. During 1964, the Multiple Listing Service operated by the Orlando-Winter Park Board of Realtors enjoyed a sales volume of slightly more than $11 million. During 1973, MLS Power Tools sales totalled almost $151 million. Oddly enough, despite the record increase in membership for a single year between 1972 and 1973, the greatest increase in one year came in 1972, MLS sales that year increased by $30 million over total sales in 1972. Many Realtors in South Seminole County are participants in the Orlando-Winter Park Board's MLS operation. Sanford Realtors who are participants are Callbart Realty, Hall Realty, Stemper Agency and Stenstrom Realty.
