Mack seeks repeal of 10 percent luxury tax

By CHRISTINA A. BAMUELS Associated Press Writer

MIAMI - The 10 percent tax on boats and other "luxury items" is responsible for the loss of thousands of jobs in Florida, says U.S. Sen. Connie Mack.

"Increasing taxes decreases jobs. it's that simple," Mack, who has co-sponsored legislation for a repeal of the tax, said in a statement released Thursday.

"This tax has scared off potential boat buyers, leaving boat manufacturers and their workers devastated. The luxury tax is poison to a boat industry already hurt by the recession. The tax must be repealed," said the Cape Coral Republican who voted against the tax.

Congress passed the luxury tax on expensive boats, cars, planes, furs and jewelry last year, intending to make the wealthy bear some of the burden of reducing the federal deficit.

But critics say the tax has been harder on middle-class boat builders than on buyers, who can choose to make no purchases or buy their boats overseas.

A report released Thursday by Republicans on the congressional Joint Economic Committee indicates that the new tax will cost 9,000 Jobs nationwide and leave the federal government with a net loss of $19 million.

J. Robert Long, president of Welleraft Marine in Sarasota. estimates he's had to lay off about 1.200 people - about 60 percent of his work force - since the tax took effect in January.

"I'm all for a balanced budget and paying our fair share, but to single out about three items ... It's not vacations, it's not vacation homes, it's not travel abroad." Long added. "It's got to be fair and equitable,"

More phone customers complain

Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - Telephone customers made 2,284 complaints to utility regulators during the first half of this year, up 34 percent from the same period a year before.

Electric companies, however, generated only 533 complaints in the first half of the year, down 11 percent from the same period

From January through June, consumers who filed complaints against utilities got refunds and credits of $334,348, according to the Public Service Commission. That was down from $380,267 in the same six-month period a year earlier.

Since some investigations have not yet concluded, the PSC has not calculated how many of this year's complaints were justified, commission spokesman George Hanna said Thursday.

But Hanna said during all of last year about 43 percent of the complaints against the telephone industry and 18 percent of all complaints against the electric industry were found to be justified.

"We're taking a close look at the complaints to see what action might be necessary," David Swafford, executive director of the Public Service Commission, sald.

Complaints against General Telephone, Florida's second largest telephone company with 1.6 million customers, were up 45 percent the first half of this year, for a total of 256, compared to the same period in 1990. The PSC found 93 to be justified and 63 to have some justification.

GTE, with 22 percent of the state's telephone customers, serves the Tampa Bay area and Central Florida.

Complaints against Southern Bell. Florida's biggest telephone company with 58 percent of the state's customers, rose 29 percent in the first half of this year for a total of 1,080. The PSC found 437 to be justified and 229 to have some justification. Southern Bell has 4.3 million customers along the state's Atlantic coast and in the Panhandle and North and South Florida.

Complaints against long-distance telephone companies were up 39 percent, for a total of 561 this year. The PSC found 287 of them to be justified and 81 to have some justification.

Worst equine encephalitis in years here

Accordated Proce

TALLAHASSEE - With 110 cases of equine encephalitis confirmed so far this year. Florida has the worst case of the fatal horse disease in nine years.

One human death has been attributed to the outbreak of the mosquito-borne disease and two North Florida counties have issued medical alerts for residents and visitors.

And the total number of cases in horses may actually be 70 percent to 75 percent higher than is known, according to Dr. Steve Goldsmith, with the Department of Agriculture's animal industry division.

"We know these horses are dying, but nobody is collecting blood samples," he said.

Many horses are not diagnosed as having encephalitis so the cases aren't reported, he said. Veterinarians are required to report all cases they see under an emergency order Agriculture Commissioner Bob Crawford issued last week.

In addition to the confirmed cases, another 21 suspected cases have been reported across the state, Goldsmith said.

Equine encephalitis rarely affects humans, but a 70-year-old Atlantic Beach man died last week a month after being infeeted. A Bradford County man, who is the only other human diagnosed with the disease in the state this year. is recovering.

Aleria in Duval and Leon counties warn people to stay indoors when possible, wear long sleeves and use insect repellent.

Infected horses don't pose a risk to humans or other horses, said Dr. Harvey Rubin of the Department of Agriculture's animal diagnostic laboratory in

In the past, the city has only budgeted money for the Airport Authority to pay for police and fire protection. The airport now has its own public safety operation and no longer needs a majority of the funding.

be funded by the Authority."

Earlier this year, the Authority hired Daryl Holbrook to head up a fire fighting operation at the airport. Tom Hinson was added to the team, recently, and Cooke expects a third firefighter will be hired prior to the end of the present fiscal year.

"This will give us our own fire fighting and rescue squad," Cooke sald. "We have one truck already in operation, and a second unit is under construction in Texas, and should be delivered in the near future." He said the new unit will have a 1,500 gallon water tank that will handle most of the fire fighting needs. The airport also has its own 3 man police department.

The previously requested amount of $60,000 has remained unchanged for several years. This will be the first time the fire and police salaries for the airport personnel will be handled in the Airport Authority budget.

Court OKs county's river plan

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County Planning Director Tony Van-Derworp said the Fifth District Court of Appeals has endorsed the county's protection of the Wekiva River.

"This is an affirmation of our plan." VanDerworp said Thursday. "The (Wekiva River Protection) Act always said we have the authority to allow development that is consistent with the act.'

Thursday, the Fifth DCA released its opinion overturning a ruling in April 1990 by former Gov. Bob Martinez and the Florida Cabinet to force the county to lower the land use of five commercial acres on west State Road 46 to a rural residential use. The panel said the state overstepped its authority by trying to force a zoning decision on the county.

The appeals panel said the Wekiva River Protection Act does not prohibit any general land classification in the river protection zone, but does prohibit uses that are not lowdensity in nature, harm the river or river resources. The panel agreed with the reb. 1990 decision reached by a state hearing

The five-acre tract at issue, owned by convenience store developer Miller Enterprises and others is located at the intersection of Longwood Markham Road and SR 46. It is in the protection area but outside the protection zone.

Wedded bliss

Surprise. Contrary to the message of the popular culture, marriage isn't being routinely mugged by adulterous spouses.
In a national survey, 98 percent of the married participants said they were faithful to their spouses in the year preceeding the study. The survey was taken in 1988 and 1989. A 1990 study is showing similar results, according to the National Opinion Research Center at the University of Chicago.

Imagine that. One of the legacies of the sexual revolution was a generalized sense that "everybody" was "playing around." That notion has been central to novels. movies, plays and television shows in recent years. With circular illogic, seeing the theme of adultery depicted so frequently has almost seemed to cement the idea in the public consciousness:

From every soap opera to "Fatal Attrraction," from Broadway to the National Enquirer's front page, from Oprah to Donahue to the schlockiest of the tabloid-television fare. infidelity has been one of the hot topics.

The new survey, of course, is just that — a survey. Its margin of error is 3 percent, and only 1,400 Americans were asked about their cheating ways. Not everyone tells the truth in public opinion surveys. The possibility exists that there is enough shame left in the act of marital betrayal that some people lied to the survey-takers, meaning that the rate of marital hanky-panky is higher than the study

But perhaps not. Perhaps the swinging spouse of popular image really is a rarity. Perhaps the great majority of American husbands and wives really are decent, honest people who want to do the right thing, people who do their best to remain true to their marriage vows.

Good morning, Geraldo. Welcome to the real world.

Reward African reformers

President Bush was right to lift the economic sanctions against South Africa. The conditions prescribed by law have been met. Failure to lift the sanctions under these circumstances would be failure to reward the white government in South Africa for the remarkable progress it has made in dismantling the legal structure of racial apartheid.

Though the process is far from complete, the United States cannot ignore how far and how fast South Africa has come in the past few years. No. the racial stituation in South Africa is not yet satisfactory. Blacks in South Africa and the United States are right to say that grievous disparities remain between the whites and the blacks.

It will take generations of effort to move the blacks up to parity in education and employment. How long have we been at it in America?

A greater black voice in government still remains to be negotiated. The ultimate goal, in South Africa as in every nation, must be one person, one vote. Until that is achieved, the task is not done.

But the legal barriers to equal opportunity are being dismantled by the government headed by South African President F.W. deKlerk. Bush is right: the time has come for the United States to help by providing housing, economic development and education aid in the "profound transformation" taking place at the tip of the African Progress must continue. Lifting the sanctions, as Bush did July 10, is a necessary step toward continued progress. Congress should do nothing to interfere with the progress under way.

Build more prisons, save money

The next time your liberal brother-in-law starts sounding off about how expensive it is to keep a convict in prison for a year (and why, therefore, sentences should be shorter), ask him how much it might cost to release these worthles early.

We have all seen the kind of statistics splashed around by the liberals, indicating that it costs some huge amount - $40,000, or something like that — to house a criminal in a prison for just one year. Why this should be so is never explained. Presumably the figure is arrived at by simply dividing the number of prisoners into the total cost of the prison system, including administrative overhead, etc., for a year. Anyway, we are asked to accept the figure on faith, and to recognize it as a cogent argument against building more prisons.

We are all indebted, therefore, to Eugene

Methvin, a senior editor of the Reader's Digest, for providing in its June issue some remarkable new statistics on a seldom considered aspect of this question. It turns out that releasing prisoners early may save a little money on their maintenance, but nothing like the cost of the damage they proceed to do to society in that extra free time.

Take the case of the state of Illinois. In the early 1980s it occurred to the authorities there that they could save $60 million by releasing 21,000 prisoners an average of three months early. No sooner said than done. But, according to James Austin of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, these bravos merely dashed out of the prison gates and committed 23 homicides, 32 rapes. 262 arsons, 661 robberies, 2,472 burglaries, 2,571 asseults and more than 8,000 other

What's more. Harvard researchers David P. Cavanaugh and Mark A.R. Kleiman bave calculated the dollar value of the damage these crimes cost their victims, directly or indirectly. It adds up to $304 million - or $244 million more than the state of Illinois managed to save.

No sooner aid than done.

By way of contrast, consider the course adopted by the people of the state of California. During the 1980s, they voted to spend no less than $3.7 billion to build new prisons. As you might expect, the inmate population almost quadrupled, from 22,600 to 87,500. But, oddly enough, the murder rate in California declined 24 percent, rape 29 percent and burglary 37 percent. In 1980 alone, there were 16,000 fewer robberies and 255,000 fewer burglaries in California than there would have been if those rates had stayed at their 1960-81 peak. And 988 fewer people were murdered.

How can one calculate the cash value of avoiding almost 1,000 murders, 16,000 robberies and a quarter of a million burglaries every year? It's obviously impossible. Yet the point is prestainly one to been in mind the next time accomp year? It's obviously impossible. Yet the point is certainly one to bear in mind the next time some

Texas is one state that might pay particular attention to this point. It is famous for leading the nation in the number of death sentences it has carried out, but its record in the matter of bleeding heart starts bewalling the cost of more less newsworthy prisoners is lousy.

Texas legislators were warned by a blue-ribbon commission in 1962 that the state would need prison space for 90,000 felons by 1990. But they voted facilities for only 46,000.

Senate really a country club?

WASHINGTON - The U.S. Senate has long been called a "millionaires club," and new financial-disclosure statements show this is now more true than ever.

According to recently released annual filings. one quarter of the senators admit to being millionaires. However, because of the way Congress has written its own disclosure rules, huge loopholes are allowed. So, the best guess is that at least a third of all senators - and perhaps more - are millionaires.

Under congressional disclosure rules, most assets are reported as being within "ranges." say $100,000 to $250,000. There has actually been one improvement. Previously the top range was "over $250,000." Now it is "over $1

But listing assets within ranges allows, for example, Jay Rockefeller, D.W.Va., the Senate's richest member, to legally list his net worth as about $7 million, even though most believe that is about $220 million less than his true worth.

One big loophole continues to be exemption from reporting the value of, and income from. trusts. This allows, for example, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass. — widely regarded as either the second or third wealthiest senator — to list his net worth at barely $100,000.

Another loophole is the non-reporting requirement for assets of wives and children. Many members put assets in their wives' names to avoid having to report them. Other wives, such as Linda Byrd Johnson Robb, are simply wealthy in their own right. Given all these loopholes, the actual ranking of senators' net worths is a difficult proposition. However, Roll Call, the Capitol Hill newspaper, has spent a considerable amount of time and effort on drawing up a list of the wealthiest senators. (They caution that the senators' actual worths could be considerably

According to Roll Call, the richest member of the Senate is Rockefeller ($230 million). He is followed by Kennedy ($45 million): John Danforth, R-Mo. ($30 million); Charles Robb, D-Va. ($19.5 million): and Herbert Kohl. D-Wis. ($12.4 million).

Also, Claiborne Pell, D-R.I. ($10.2 million): Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz. ($8 million); Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas ($5 million): John McCain. R-Ariz. ($4.4 million): Bob Graham, D-Fla. ($3.9 million).

Also, John Warner, R-Va. ($3 million): Frank Murkowski, R-Alaska (63.7 million): John Glenn. D-Ohio ($2.9 million): Harry Reid. D-Nev. ($2.7 million); Tim Wirth, D-Colo. ($2.1 million).

Also, Sam Nunn, D-Ga. ($1.8 million); Robert Dole, R-Kan. ($1.7 million): Bob Kerrey, D-Neb. ($1.5 million): Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio ($1.4 million); John Seymour, R-Calif. ($1.3

Also, Alan Dixon. D-III. ($1.3 million); Slade Gorton, R-Wash. ($1.1 million): Quentin Burdick, D-N.D. ($1 million): Alan Cranston, D-Calif. ($1 million); Wendell Ford, D-Ky. ($1 million); and Ernest Hollings, D-S.C. ($1

At the other end of the financial scale, it would appear that, by far, the Senate's poorest member is Sen. Joe Biden, D-Del., whose net worth is a minus $100,000. Sen. Chris Dodd, D.Conn. is next poorest, listing his total assets at between $2,000 and $30,000. The financial filings also disclosed that many senators are carning and keeping less in honoraria and speaking fees than they did previously.

Another half-dozen stopped accepting paid appearances altogether, bringing the total number who "just say no" to

Many members put assets in wives' names to avoid reporting them.

In 1990, senators earned about $1.4 million in honoraria and fees, down from about $2 million the year before.

As part of new ethics-pay package, senators in 1990 were allowed to keep up to $27,337 in honoraria and fees, down from $35,800 in 1989. Traditionally, members of both the House and Senate carn large amounts in fees annually. Many give all or most of it away to charities in their states and districts, thus building up good will at home.

Last year, Hollings, chairman of the powerful Commerce Committee, earned $82,000 in fees. He donated $55.212 to charity. Right behind him was Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., who earned $79,000 and Dole, who pulled in $78,000. Like Hollings, they gave all over the $27,337 limit to charity. All three showed decreases of $15,000 to $30,000 each from their 1989 honoraria levels.

The disclosure reports also indicated that, in 1990, 61 senators accepted free transportation. lodging and meals from outside private sources. This is travel that was over and above the free travel that accompanied the many speeches they gave.

Under new "get tough" legislation Congress passed last year, members cannot accept free travel and lodging from private sources "in excess" of seven days for international trips and four days for domestic.

Army destroyed useable surplus

WASHINGTON - The Pentagon says it didn't happen, but soldiers returning from Operation Desert Storm burned and dumped large stockpiles of food, equipment, medical supplies, clothes, tents and lumber rather than give them away or bring them back

In some cases soldiers acted on their own out of haste or lasiness, and in a few units, soldiers reluctantly destroyed the surplus under orders from their commanding officers. One sergeant told us, "Sometimes it was with NCOs authorizing this, with the full knowledge of the commander."

Our sources told us that they witnessed burning of supplies near the Saudi Arabia-Iraq border. Dumping was the more common method of disposal in the port city of Damman where fires would have been conspicuous. The piles there included tents, uniforms. tools, tires, cots. medical supplies. building materials. blankets and food packets. "By the time you got down to the port, it seemed like just about anything was fair game." Army Reserve Spec. David Oelberg of lown told us. Although the Pentagon claimed every item had to be accounted for with paperwork, Army Reserve Sgt. David Utzke of Minnesota told us that "depending on the item. accountability just wasn't there."

Gen. William "Gus" Pagonis, the man in charge of logistics for the Gulf war, denied that any widespread burning had taken place. He told our reporter Nick Budnick that the only things authorized to be burned were contaminated latrines and lice-infested tents. And he said there were soldiers stationed at the dumps in Damman to stop unauthorized dumping. If anyone was guilty of waste, it was a few "disgruntled or unhappy" soldiers. Pagonis said. "It was easy to turn things in. That doesn't mean every soldier did it."

The accounts of waste we heard all involved Army units - usually logistical units, evacuation hospitals and the mobile Ration Breakdown Points where food was distributed. "In their wake (the food distribution units), we would find truckloads of food items left behind in the desert." Utzke told

That may have been the best thing the military could have done with its surplus leave it behind in the desert. The nomadic tribes of Bedouin in Saudi Arabia are the most efficient "recyclers" in the world. They glean whatever the desert gives them, and the Persian Gulf War leftovers could have been a bumper crop for them, or for the needy Kuwaitis and Kurds. But some of the straight-laced military commanders seemed to be consumed by a tidiness fetish, not wanting to leave one stick of wood or scrap of cloth behind, even if it meant burning the

The official Pentagon policy was to bring home the surplus or give it to relief organizations. The military Joint Information Bureau in Dhahran said that $7.8 million in medical supplies was given to relief groups in the Gulf and elsewhere.

Pagonis told us that soldiers were only allowed to throw away food or medicine if it had spoiled. But Utzke and Oelberg, whose duties included food inspection, said the discarded food they found was just fine. They also said soldiers asked them to condemn food to avoid the hassle of doing something with it. When the request was denied, some soldiers would leave the food out in the sun so it would spoil.

Syria's acceptance 'very encouraging'

ATHENS, Greece - President Bush said today that Syria's acceptance of terms for a Middle East peace conference was "very encouraging" and said reports he has received from Secretary of State James A. Baker III were "all positive so far."

"it's interesting," Bush said when asked about Syria's will-ingness to attend an Arab-laracii nference under U.S. and Sovi-

GUADALAJARA. Mexico -The bearded leader in a military uniform seemed out of tune with the 20 heads of state in business suits. Fidel Castro railed against U.S. imperialism: the others preached democracy and free markets.

Latin leaders at the first Ibero-American summit Thursday gently prodded the Cuban revolutionary to move toward democracy even as they moved to repair ties with the only Communist government in the Western hemisphere. The two-day summit, which ends today, is the first time that the leaders of Spain and Portugal have gathered with 19 of their former Latin American colonies. It follows years of democratic change both in Europe and the Americas. All of the countries save Cuba now have elected

Displaying the tact with which the summit leaders handled the Cuban issue, Salvadoran President Alfredo Cristiani did not criticize Castro directly during his address to the group

Thursday. "This is not a forum for confrontation, but to seek understanding." he said.

But after the leaders' opening day speeches. Cristiani told reporters that Castro "continues to cling to something which is giving way all over the world."

"The winds of change that have swept the world in recent years have also arrived in America," added Spanish Prime Minister Felipe Gonzalez. Gonzalez said it was time to "let the parliaments and the people write their history with sovereignty and relegate the achievements of guerrillas to the imaginative novelists.

PHOENIX — Episcopal bishops narrowly squelched a move by clergy and lay delegates at the church's governing conventions. tion to commend President Bush's handling of the Gulf War. On a 79-78 vote, the House of Bishops on Thursday threw out a resolution by the lay-clergy branch of the church's legislature, the House of Deputies, praising Bush's war leader-

"To commend him is the very last thing this house should do." said Retired Bishop Paul Moore of New York. He said Bush is to blame for the deaths of up to 200,000 Iraqis during the war.

The Gulf War resolution, passed by the lay-clergy House of Deputies, had condemned the Iraqis for aggression and applauded the president's "leadership, his commitment to prayer and his sensitivity to the needs of military personnel, their families and the victims of warfare."

Because concurrence of both houses is required for convention legislation, the bishops' vote killed the measure.

Both McCullum and Lake Mary Public Works Director Rod Stroupe immediately ordered additional tests made of the pond, from individual laboratories. Stroupe received the latest results this morning. the County's test results are expected early next week.

The original problem was brought up last week when residents voiced their concern over Big Lake Mary. Laboratory tests were arranged by the City of Lake Mary and preliminary results incidated the lake had no problems. The waters in the big lake tested at only 10 to 60 parts per million. The level west of the lake, between the pond and a trabidity filter however was 2,040 parts per million. The drainage pumping was immediately stopped and the county crews began cleaning the filter. In both of the tests contracted by Lake Mary, four parts of the drainage pond were tested. In the first results, the highest level of 24,200 parts per million came from the east side, toward County Club Road. The west side was tested at 10,500. In the southern area, closest to the school, the level was 9,500. The northern side toward the Lake Mary City Hall was 8,000.

Although the results of the second test, received this morning, were also high, their locations were different. Stroupe said. "The water doesn't stand still, it floats around, and so do the pollutants."

The second test revealed the level had gone up to 26,200 on the south side, and 22,400 on lecal coliform was clear off the the north. The eastern side, the highest in the first test, was down to 4.99 and the west was at 2,600.

Mayor Morris had previously expressed a concern that the pollution could have come from the sewer system at the school. "They are not connected to a septic tank," he said, "the building is on a sewer system, and even though school isn't in session now, the drainage is still out there somewhere."

McCullum suggested, "Finding out the true level of fecal coliform contamination in the pond is only the first step. If the high level of the tests prove correct, the next immediate step will be to find out where the sewage is coming from and do whatever is necessary to bring it to a halt as soon as possible."

Crosby explained that the Federal Government has maps showing such areas, and they are generally used by builders. contractors, or checked as part of a mortgage application. 'We don't expect you to resolve this overnight." Lormann said. "We just want to know when the flooding problem will be resolved, and have assurance that you are working on it." In response however, the city gave no specific timetable.

Mayor Morris explained, "This is not a problem we can resolve easily or immediately. It's a multi-structure problem, not done by the city alone. We will need help from the county as

Will Rothstein replace Daly?

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. - Detroit management is down-playing reports that former Miami Heat coach Ron Rothstein will replace Pistons coach Chuck Daly in 1992.

Rothstein quit the Miami job May 1 after three seasons and was named this week to be color commentator for 40 televised Pistons games in 1991-92. He was assistant to Daly with the Pistons in 1986-88.

Booth Newspapers quoted an unidentified player as saying he had met with general manager Jack McCloskey and everyone at the meeting agreed Rothstein should replace Daly.

SOUTHPORT, England - Seve Ballesteros demonstrated to his old teacher Johnny Miller just how well he learned those painful lessons 15 years ago.

Miller was watching with the awe and admiration Ballesteros once felt when the Spanish star put on a spectacular eagle-birdie finish for a 66 and the first round lead Thursday in the British Open.

It was a role reversal for Ballesteron and Miller, the principals in the 1976 British Open on the same sand dunes on England's west coast.

Miller then was at the height of his game, one of the leading players in the world. He overwhelmed the youthful Ballesteros and won his only British Open title with a final round 66. Ballesteros, then 19 and the leader through the first three rounds of that long-ago tourna-

'Gambles' pay off well for Altamonte Seniors

By TONY Desormier Herald Sports Editor

OCOEE - Needing something to give his team, which suffered a heart-breaking loss Wednesday and was physically and emotionally exhausted. Altamonte Springs American All-Star coach Dan Antonelli took some chances Thursday night.

First, he made a defensive switch, moving Eric Leister to third and Ritchie Alexander to shortstop. Then Antonelli gave the ball to Jimmy Newberry, who was making his first pitching start of the All-Star season.

While Leister did play third base at Lake Mary High School this spring and Newberry pitched for his Senior League team, in light of the fact that they were playing a tough DeLand team in an elimination contest of the District 14 tournament, the moves had to be considered an ali-or-nothing gamble.

So Antonelli rolled the dice. Hello, seven.

good Brooks Robinson impersonation at third. Newberry threw a two-hit complete game to lead the Altamonte Springs Americans to a 6-2 win over DeLand at the Bob Sorenson Senior League Field.

"This was the game I was worried about," said Antonelli. "I knew that after last night (when Altamonte Springs lost to Oviedo 5-4 in 10 innings), they were mentally and physically exhausted. But that shows how gutsy this team is. They get behind each other."

That may have never been more true than Thursday as Newberry, who kept his pitches around the plate, used all of Sorenson Field. DeLand had its hacks, but with the exception of the seventh inning, the Alta-

OVIEDO — "Winners never quit." If that statement is true then both the Oviedo and Dr. Phillips Junior League Ail-Stars teams are winners because they certainly are not quitters.

Thursday night in the District 14 Juntor League Tournament at Oviedo, both teams took turns coming from behind, but in the end. the host team prevailed 5-4 in an 11-inning, four hour-plus marathon.

Kevin Jackson and Ryan Livingaton squeezed in runs in the top of the 11th inning to give Oviedo a two-run lead, then Richard Roger withstood a bases-loaded jam as the Oviedo All-Stars won their fifth straight post-season game.

Roger, making his first pitching appearance of the tournament, worked out of two bases-loaded situations and allowed only one run to garner the win in relief of Ben Dunemann, who overcame a slow start to allow seven hits and strike out 10 in 835 innings.

Injuries abound at inside linebacker spot for Dolphins

By STEVEN WINE

MIAMI - All-Pro inside linebacker John Offerdahl has watched the position next to him become a revolving door - to a hospital entrance. "We've had a lot of injuries," Offerdahl said Thursday. "In that position we've been kind of unfortunate."

Krauss, the oldest Dolphin, will get the first ahot with the first team. He's trying to overcome five knee operations in the past five years - four on his right knee, one on his left.

"The doctors told me to retire three years ago, but I just feel that I can play," Krauss said. When Don Shula asks you if you want to play another year, you find something in you so you can get back out there."

Krauss said he's prepared for the possibility he'll be in a wheelchair by age 50.

"I'm on borrowed time with the knee because I don't have much cartilage. That's just bone on bone. So what I'm doing is just grinding my knee ☐See Dolphins, Page 2B

The win by Oviedo overshad-owed a great pitching perfor-mance by Dr. Phillips' Chris Mistretta, who allowed three runs on eight hits in 10 innings of work. Mistretta was forced to leave the game after 10 innings by Little League rules and did not figure in the decision. Oviedo took the initial lead in years, refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter: Choosing rather to suffer stillction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season." Hebrews 11:24-25. The Bible tells us that Moses was a meek man. Meek does not mean weak. Meekness is an attitude of quiet confidence, of inner peace.

Moses was able to have peace, for his attitude and principles of life were not based on external feelings but on obedience to

One basic principle was that Moses knew who he was. He was born a Jew and refused to live in a false identity as the grandson of Pharaoh. When Moses made that decision he was a mature man of 40 years.

It is a rewarding experience when you obey God and be the man or woman you were meant to be rather than to be shaped and molded by the world. One is living the truth, the other living a lie.

You, at this moment, can decide to follow God's way rather than man's way. The Christian life is not a matter of negative rules, but rather a positive relationship with God. We live in a culture that loves to blame others for their misfortunes and mistakes. All of us want to give blame, but few of us

It is up to you. You can choose to become a better person or a bitter person. No one can destroy your life except you. Others around can influence you or pressure you. but only you can decide how to respond to

If you, like Moses, follow God's word you will finally know for a certainty who you are. A child of the Living God who she and molds your attitude so that you may become the man or woman God intende you to be. And be not conformed to this world but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind that you may prove what is that good, acceptable, and perfect. will of God."

Walk in His Peace.

Lymphocytes and leukocytes are the white blood cells whose primary role is fighting infection. Therefore, in the presence of infection the number of these cells increases in the bloodstream.

Lympcytosis is a lymphocyte count that exceeds the normal range (3,000 cells per cubic milliliter of blood). This is commonly seen in viral infections, such as flu and mononucleosis. Once the infection disappears, so does the lymphocytosis.

Leukocytosis is a leukocyte count that is higher than normal (about 10,000 cells per cubic millimeter of blood). Leukocytosis usually accompanies bacterial infections, such as strep or staph. When the infection is brought under control, the leukocyte count falls to

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 53 and haven't experienced a menstrual cycle in about a year. I'm plagued with hot flashes, some worse than others. Will they fade in time, or should I go for the treatment that I can't afford so I can function better during this inconvenient time?

DEAR READER: You seem to be experiencing menopause. Hot flashes (due to vascular instability) may be only part of your symptoms, which can also include moodiness, emotional swings, vaginal dryness and other physical changes.

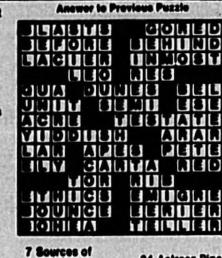

There is no hard and fast rule about how long the symptoms of menopause will last. Some women are troubled for a few weeks (if at all), while other women suffer disabling symptoms for years.

Whether you should see a doctor for your hot flashes - or wait them out - depends on you may be better off seeking advice and treatment sooner rather than later because hormone replacement will make

Given that introduction, how would you. South, play in six spades on today's hand. West leading the heart king? (The deal is from Bill Root's "How to Play a Bridge Hand.")

Over the weak two-spade opening. North used the grand-slam force. This asked the opener to bid seven spades with two of the top three trump honors. Holding only one top honor, South signed off in six.

By Bernice Bede Osol YOUR BIRTHDAY

July 20, 1991 Your possibilities for accumulating a financial surplus by year's end look rather good. However, what you gain isn't likely to be made through investments.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't come on too strong today with individuals of lesser financial means; someone might jockey you into an awkward position where you'll either have to pay the tab or end up looking like a bad guy. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you.
