STATES MUST HELP SELVES TO GET RELIEF

No Financial Assistance Will Be Given Those Which Do Not Offer Contribution

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(A.P.)—The administration emphasized yesterday that unless individual states are willing to do their share in providing for the unemployed they need not expect financial help from the federal government.

Blunt notice to this effect was given by Harry L. Hopkins, federal emergency relief director, in a message from Cleveland, Ohio, which sought aid.

Explaining that the state legislatures had taken no action toward unemployment relief after he had advised the Ohio governor what he would do, Hopkins added: "I feel that the Ohio legislature will meet soon and will put up some money. Certainly no one in this room thinks Ohio cannot do anything. If they think we are bluffing, let's have the issue drawn."

"We are willing to meet the Ohio legislature more than half-way but not until we see what they are doing." "If the Ohio legislature decides the unemployed of Ohio are not important to them I don't see why we should lose any sleep about it."

"There is no question that Cleveland needs the money," Hopkins said. "You have done magnificent work. But we cannot deal with the cities. We must deal with the states."

"I told the governor of Ohio what the legislature was in session where we would do. The legislature did nothing. I have heard from sources in which I have the greatest confidence that one of the reasons nothing was done was that they thought I was bluffing and would back down."

"We have only $500,000,000 for relief. If we put up this money without the state doing its share it will soon be gone and we will be left holding the bag."

Similar ultimata have been laid down for Kentucky, Colorado and Texas. Generally the administration feels that the states and political units should provide 75 percent of all relief.

MANY WORKERS IN FILM INDUSTRY LAUNCH STRIKE

5,000 Men Involved In Walkout Threatening Studio Business

HOLLYWOOD, July 25.—(A.P.)—Motion picture studios endeavored to maintain the production of canned entertainment today as 5,000 men technicians struck.

Union workers, who help make call-rol romances, left their jobs, their spokesmen said because the studios yesterday hired non-union men to replace 665 sound technicians who struck Saturday.

The producers attributed the trouble solely to an argument between two unions as to which had jurisdiction over the sound men.

Richard J. Green, representative of the International Alliance of State Employes and Motion Picture Machine operators of the United States and Canada, issued the strike call, but said it was not to be regarded as a sympathetic strike.

"The producers have violated an agreement not to employ non-union help in the event of a strike," Green said. "They have employed non-union sound technicians. I have ordered 5,000 workers to strike at midnight."

Representatives of the producers said the positions of the striking sound technicians were filled from reserve lists and from applicants who answered newspaper advertisements yesterday.

Whether the applicant was a union or non-union man was not the consideration, the producers' representatives said. The object was to fill the places in order that the $200,000,000 production program of the studios might continue uninterrupted.

The two studios forced to close because of the sound men's strike were Columbia and Hal Roach. Columbia had been idle for three weeks, as a strike of sound technicians there was followed by a sympathetic strike of cameramen, electricians, property men and other groups.

The general strike, labor officials said, will force a complete shutdown of the studios. It will affect between 27,000 and 30,000 persons, nearly all of them losing their wages for the period of the strike, with contracts carried by the producers having clauses giving the employer the option of terminating the contract in the event of a strike.

The various producers went into a conference a few hours after the general strike order had been issued, with organized labor representatives expressing the belief there would be a capitulation to their cause.

Th's would mean, the studio unions' representatives said, the granting of a minimum wage scale, maximum of 13 hours a day, a six-day week, and the discharge of all persons employed to replace the sound technicians on strike.

Patrick Casey, labor arbiter for the producers, called the industry heads into the conference.

MYSTERY MAN OF GRAIN PITS IS SUSPENDED

Windy City Board Of Trade Gives Reason As His "Inability To Meet Obligations"

CHICAGO, July 25.—(A.P.)—Edward A. Crawford of New York, "mystery man" of the grain trading pits, yesterday was suspended by the Chicago board of trade.

While board officials gave no reasons for the suspension Crawford's "inability to meet obligations," financial circles burst with tales of a giant speculative pyramid erected swiftly and broken abruptly.

The Daily News said Crawford was the man Secretary of Agriculture Wallace referred to as having been "long" 13,000,000 bushels of corn when commodity markets slumped early last Friday.

Official information that he was "the long trader in difficulty" was lacking, however, R.A.P. officials announced merely that Crawford was barred from trading privileges under rule 120, covering failure to meet obligations.

Nothing on the matter was forthcoming from the grain futures administration, reports on a ch race having been suspended. (Continued On Page Three)

LIGHT RATE TO BE DISCUSSED AT NEXT MEET

Coleman's Letter Explaining Company's Position Read At Last Night's Confab

Second reading of an ordinance which proposes to set up a new system of rates to be charged for electricity consumed in Sanford was held up until early next week after members of the City Commission last night had listened to the reading of a letter from H. H. Coleman, local manager for the Florida Power and Light Co.

Summed up, the letter makes a statement which Mr. Coleman explained orally at a special meeting last April—"We cannot at this time afford to reduce our electric rates in Sanford."

Pleading that for the year ending June, 1933, the company's net on the present day value of used and useful property in Sanford, excluding entirely bond interest and other fixed charges such as insurance and depreciation, was approximately five percent, Mr. Coleman concludes his letter asking for further co-operation from the City.

"Through this co-operation," Mr. Coleman wrote, "we hope to see business improve and conditions change within the near future, so that we can properly reduce our electric rates in Sanford which we are so desirous of doing as you are desirous of having done."

The Commissioners wasted little time after the letter was read. Commissioner W. A. Laffer, who had earlier asked that the meeting be adjourned early, moved that the matter be held up until next week when the full board could meet to discuss it. His motion was seconded, and Mayor Spear indicated that he would call a meeting as soon as Commissioner S. O. Shinhohler returned to the city.

Mr. Coleman's letter, which began as an acknowledgment of a letter sent him by Clerk F. S. Lammson some days ago, is as follows:

"On April 5, 1933, I appeared before the Commission and explained in detail why we could not reduce our electric rates in Sanford at that time. The conditions surrounding our business, which made impossible a rate reduction at that time, not only now exist. (Continued On Page Two)

President Is Pleased Over Response To His Wage Raising Request

ANNUAL PARLEY OF GOVERNORS IS HOLDING SESSION

SAFRAEMENTO, Calif., July 25.—(A.P.)—State executives attending the annual conference of governors here yesterday unanimously promised President Roosevelt "wholehearted and active support" of the national recovery program.

Frank Watson, introduced by Governor Pollard, of Virginia, chairman, as a representative of the national recovery administration, said press and business activity were showing increases which were not commensurate with the rise in pay rolls.

Declaring that unless purchasing power increases proceeds business activity and price increases the recovery would suffer a relapse, he said business activity had increased 53 percent recently, prices from 30 to 46 percent and pay rolls, representing purchasing power, only 21 percent.

Earlier the governors had heard Secretary of War Bernadotte for state co-operation in the recovery program. He stated that if the national industrial recovery act fails "our national existence will be at stake."

"For effective economic planning, such as we are embarking upon for the first time," Secretary Dorn said, "state borders must to an extent be disregarded and the United States must be taken as one economic area."

"The relationship of the states to the federal government is under our complex national industrial life, it will be necessary for the federal government to take over more and more power. Since its sole purpose would be to promote social justice why not do it openly rather than through disguise? Real practices have been hidden behind the bugaboo of state rights long enough."

"And it will be good for the states. After all, we are not primarily Californians, or Nebraskans, or New Yorkers. We are Americans and the good of America is the good of all of us. Surely by this time we are conscious of (Continued On Page Four)

Stocks Are Higher And Grain Rallies In Trading Today

NEW YORK, July 25.—(A.P.)—Stocks were higher today. Many opening advances of one to four dollars were reduced by profit-taking sales but the market later rose again.

Grain prices at Chicago and Winnipeg rallied and share offerings were well absorbed. Wet issues were again in the lead. Rail stocks strengthened.

Many leading industrialists moved narrowly although numerous speculative showed higher prices. The response made by the country to President Roosevelt's employment appeal helped Wall Street's revived spirits.

The dollar was lower in foreign exchange. Cotton moved differently and silver futures were a bit reactionary. Bonds were steady to firm.

Planning Committee To Meet Wednesday

Lehmann, will meet at the City Hall Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock to map out future work for labor furnished by the Welfare Board.

RECOVERY PLAN ADVANCES AMID DISSENSION TALK

Many Groups Protest Blanket Voluntary Wage Hiking Effort

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(A.P.)—Amid some sounds of dissension, the industrial recovery administration here yesterday moved forward today in step with the pace set by President Roosevelt.

Hearings went forward on the agreements drawn up for the oil, wool textiles and lumber industries. Plans for getting under way the compact signing in the recovery push were not allowed to lag and the entire movement was given new impetus by the speech of President Roosevelt last night.

Meanwhile, however, reports of widespread dissension against administration officials in many industrial administration officials in considering means of ending strife between workers and employers.

Dr. Leo Wolman, chief of the labor advisory board, said there was every indication of prejudice being shown with employers' representatives.

Efforts To Obtain Hutto Unsuccessful

W. C. Hill, local sportsman, who has been assisting in securing talent for the Sanford Baseball Club, today stated the efforts to obtain Olin Hutto, Gainesville left-hander, have so far failed. Mr. Hutto has not answered the club's offer.

In the meantime, Mr. Hill said, telegrams were sent to Bobbing and Avon Park in an effort to secure Bill Cobb, young right-hander, who is said to be one of the better prospects in that section.

Local fans went to DeLand yesterday in hopes of securing Bill Lett's services but they met with disappointment in that Mr. Lett was in Palatka for the day. Efforts to secure him will be continued, however, it was stated.

Many Pledges Of Support Are Received By Chief Executive; To Post Honor Roll

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(A.P.)—President Roosevelt was represented at the White House today as exceedingly encouraged by the immediate response to his summons for employers to raise wages and shorten working hours.

Even before mid-morning almost 2,000 pledges of support for his course were stacked on desks in the executive offices. More arrived at the recovery administration where Hugh Johnson, his chief aide, and his aides sought their studies of proposed wage agreements for a variety of specific industries.

All communications were to be brought together for a compilation of "honor rolls" of those participating in the campaign. The list the President said last night, are to be posted in postoffices for public scrutiny.

"I ask," he said, "that even before the list is set in the agreement which we have sent out, the employers of the country who have not already done so—the big fellow and the little fellow—shall at once write or telegraph to me personally at the White House, expressing their intention of getting through with the plans. And it is my purpose to keep posted in the postoffice of every town, a roll of honor of all those who join with me."

Praising the co-operation so far given to the attempt for American industry to spread work and increase wages, the President said he recognized that a few men might try to thwart "this great common purpose by seeking selfish advantages."

He noted there are adequate penalties in law to meet this, but he urged instead a voluntary co-operation and announced this would be the only instrument used "in this great summer offensive against unemployment."

"But we shall use them to the limit," he stated, "to protect the willing from the laggard and (Continued On Page Three)

O'Connell Family Expects Break In Kidnap Negotiation

(By The Associated Press) The family of kidnaped John O'Connell, Jr., was represented as expecting a "break" today in the deal for the youth's return.

Meanwhile Captain Richard Oliver, commanding New York detectives working on the case, expressed the opinion that the kidnapers are the "killer type." O'Connell has been held captive 19 days.

Investigation of the kidnaping of Charles Urchel, oil millionaire of Oklahoma City, was at a standstill today as his family called off the law forces in an effort to encourage the abductors to communicate their price for Urchel's safe release.

BILLE VERSE FOR TODAY

A SURE SWELLING PLACE - Trust in the Lord, and he shall show thee the way, and very thou shalt be fed. Psalm 137.

Crime never pays. Even kidnapers are apt to get caught.

One thing we like about Elliott Roosevelt - he doesn't care what people think.

The movie actresses' association, we understand, is adopting a code with minimum wages of $100,000 a year.

Bonds are following stocks and commodities down the Michigan. Speculation is again taking its toll just as it did in 1929.

Banker Harrison isn't half as easy as he seems to be. He admits he's insane. Most of the rest of us are, but haven't got sense enough to admit it.

Twenty-eight thousand persons lost their lives last year in "domestic accidents." That's what husbands and wives get for throwing rolling pins and coffee pots at each other.

Last year at this time it was "See by Christmas, this year it is 'Whiskey by Christmas.'" No, "I'll see what it will be next year, at undoubtably Santa Claus will come in for some large orders.

Secretary Hull, the correspondents report, is pleading with other delegates to arrange for the convening of the World Economic Conference. It seems to be the only one left who still believes in internationalism.

Japan at Geneva expressed willingness to cooperate to the full extent of her ability in any well conceived attempt to carry out a world wide program of disarmament, but in preparing her budget for the coming fiscal year, it includes the largest army and navy appropriation in the history of the country. This militarization progresses!

Senator Thomas, Prime Minister Bennett, of Canada, and others, suggest that President Roosevelt should close the stock exchange in order to prevent speculation. That would not help bankers to raise cash when depositors ask for their money and the banks must sell securities in order to get the money. But now that the government is guaranteeing deposits, maybe that doesn't matter.

Will raising wages help Sanford? That's what employers here are wondering now. The average person spends every dollar he gets as fast as he gets it. A raise in wages would necessarily, then, increase business for a while. But every time a dollar is spent a large percentage of it goes out of town. The more that is spent, the quicker the present supply of money in town would be exhausted and then there would be less business than ever. Until some new money comes in. We see no prospects of any new money until another celery crop is put on the market, sometime next winter.

We don't hear much about state's rights any more. That used to be good Jeffersonian and Jacksonian Democracy. In fact, the South were wrong to war on section of state's rights. But nowadays we admit that state laws to combat crime waves have proved ineffective, that our states' rights to protect bank depositors have failed, that state tax structures are being destroyed, and that every state more and more is appealing to the federal government for grants of money, for regulation of business and agriculture, for control of private enterprise. The time may come when the names of Florida, Georgia and all the rest, will be mere geographical designations only, when all political power will be centralized in Washington.

The Cross-State Canal

The federal government's gigantic public works program in which billions of dollars will be spent on a vast amount of construction throughout the United States, has lent considerable support to the proposal that a cross-state canal should be built in Florida. In fact, certain Jacksonville interests appear to be positive that this canal, costing in the neighborhood of 200 million dollars, will be constructed during the next few years.

Though expressing grave doubts as to the feasibility, or even the desirability, of constructing such a canal, the Tampa Tribune is concentrating its opposition on the proposed route for the canal which seems at this time to be the one most favored. This is the so-called Jacksonville-Yankeetown route, or down the St. Johns to Palatka, thence through the Oklawaha and into the Gulf at Yankeetown. The Tribune, if a canal is to be constructed, favors one of three other routes.

The Tampa position says the Tribune, "has found expression in the action of the Chamber of Commerce, following the recommendation of a committee which has made a thorough investigation of the canal question, in asking the government to make surveys of three other canal routes, before any decision is reached. Each of these routes is strongly supported as superior to the Jacksonville route. They are:

- 1. From the mouth of the Alafia River to the East Coast at Fort Pierce, via Lake Kissimmee.
 - 2. From the mouth of the Hillsborough River through the Withlacoochee River to Sanford, thence to the Atlantic via the St. Johns River.
 - 3. From the mouth of the Hillsborough River across to the Atlantic, emerging at Cape Canaveral.
- "If the government decides to spend 100 or 200 million, probably more, in a Florida canal, this entire section of the state insists that it survey and thoroughly investigate these other routes before deciding which route it will adopt.

"We are strongly inclined to favor the second route named above as the most feasible, practical and beneficial; particularly because it will serve the interests both of Jacksonville and Tampa, and, through these ports, serve the interests of both North and South Florida. Adoption of that route would avoid an ugly sight now imminent if the Jacksonville route is insisted upon. It would unite both the principal ports and all sections of the state in behalf of one project. There are various objections to the Yankeetown-Jacksonville route which don't apply to the Tampa-Jacksonville route," the Tribune concludes.

The second of the trade routes which are listed by the Tribune and one which seems to be the most practical to the paper, would come by Sanford and would join this city with both Jacksonville and Tampa by a canal capable of supporting ocean-going traffic. While the feasibility of the canal from the standpoint of world-wide shipping interests is certainly open to grave question, there can be no doubt that its construction through or near Sanford would prove a great boon to this city.

Celery, oranges, and other products of this section could then be loaded on big freighters in this city and shipped direct to New York and other sea coast centers of population without the necessity of unloading and reloading in Jacksonville. Obviously such a condition would be of tremendous advantage to this city.

Farewell Balbo

When General Italo Balbo took off this morning with his air armada of 24 giant seaplanes on the return flight to Italy, he carried with him the good wishes of the American public, which has been thrilled into admiration over the notable feat of this daring aviator in flying the route from Oristano to this side of the Atlantic.

Not only has Balbo's accomplishment been outstanding from a purely technical point of view of mastering space in mass airplane formations, but it has been very worthy in helping to strengthen cordial relations between Italy and the United States. We have a much more healthy respect both for the men and for the machines of the country, which only a few years ago, were so backward that such a feat comparative to Balbo's would have been unthinkable.

The General caught the imagination of this country by his gallant and pleasant manner as well as by his obvious skill as an aviator and a leader of men. He revealed a strong and attractive personality, which, if of great benefit to him on his present mission, may spell his doom upon his return to his native land.

So popular has he been while over here that it is rumored he may come in for a bit of wrath from Mussolini, who, it is known, has dealt unappreciatively with those in his regime who became too prominent in his scheme of things.

Count Volpi, who received the plaudits of the Italian populace upon his return from Washington after securing a very favorable war debt settlement, was put into obscurity by being given a seat on a banking board. De Pineda, another illustrious aviator, whose feats were hailed around the world, was rewarded by getting a generalship and a forced retirement. Dino Grandi, who not long ago ascended the courts of Europe by his diplomatic astuteness and who made such a favorable impression on Washington, was sent to the Italian Embassy in London where he is scarcely ever heard from.

So it is with a feeling of apprehension, not so much over the chance of a mishap as over what may happen to him from the "bos," that Americans bid farewell to this intrepid air voyager, who has been dubbed the "second Columbus."

SANFORD, TWENTY YEARS AGO

Word comes from Coronado Beach that the bridge, which has been out of commission so long on account of repairs, has been put in shape at last. It is now open to the public. The Atlantic House has made special arrangements to take care of the people, and Mrs. O'Connell would like to see her many Sanford friends come over and enjoy the fine surf bathing. All of the business houses were closed yesterday while the funeral of E. H. Herndon was being held at the Presbyterian Church, which demonstrated the great respect in which he was held by every one here. The storm, closed from 2:30 o'clock to 4:00 o'clock on First Street without interruption. For the past few weeks the Commercial club and every hotel or in Sanford has been working for the new lake front. The Elks will soon erect a fine club house on the lake shore and several other buildings, among them the court house and hotel are talked of and the lake front is very much in the public eye. Everyone realizes that in the present condition the lake front amounts to nothing. That behemoth the lake front would be the most valuable property in the city and considerably it has reached the afternoon and they will take up the matter at the next meeting. There is much preliminary work attending to this great undertaking and City Attorney DeCotton is studying the matter from every angle and making all the necessary from the line of Nash down to the present time. There will be special services at

LIGHT RATE TO BE DISCUSSED AT NEXT MEET

(Continued From Page One) but are aggregated. "I respectfully call your attention to the following facts in connection with our electric service in Sanford: "For the year ending in June, 1933, our return on the present day value of our property used and used to the Sanford electric service under our electric rates during that year (including entirely our bond interest and other fixed charges) was approximately 8 percent. This is considerably less than the fair rate of return allowed by law in the State of Florida. The minimum rate of return which has ever been allowed by any court in this state is eight percent.

"By applying the rates set out in the proposed ordinance, which was passed on the first reading by you on July 10, 1933, in our electric service rendered within the City of Sanford for the year ending June 30, 1934, on the assumption that the proposed ordinance rates had been in effect instead of our rates which were in effect, our rate of return (including entirely bond interest and other fixed charges) on the same property used and used in our Sanford electric service would have been approximately one percent. Obviously, the effect of these rates on our business and service would be disastrous.

"Our electric revenue in Sanford has been declining for some time and has declined through June of this year, compared with the same period last year, over nine percent. This decline is continuing today, which is continually lowering our revenue and rate of return in Sanford.

"In spite of the continual reduction in our revenues, our operating expenses are going up, which will further reduce our electric rate of return. It is a matter of common knowledge that the prices of commodities are increasing daily. But more important, our taxes are increasing, including the large taxes being imposed upon the utility companies by the National Recovery Act. We are not advised as to the full amount of these taxes, as Washington has not yet issued instructions relative to them, but the three percent electric tax imposition on us and the Capital Stock Tax alone will reduce our electric revenue over three percent. The result that these taxes will have upon our net revenue and return is evident.

"In view of the foregoing facts, it is obvious that we cannot afford to reduce our electric rates in Sanford. We have since my report to you on Apr. 8, placed into effect in Sanford a promotional commercial rate which affords a reduction in applicable commercial customers, and through which we hope to build up our revenues. It is a comparative rate to our residential combination rate, and is being placed into effect generally in the com-the Presbyterian Church Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock. This will be the last service before Dr. Brownlee leaves for his vacation. He has been granted a two months' vacation, which he will spend in Europe. After some time on the continent in Belgium, Holland and Germany he will cross the English Channel and spend a while in the study of the slums of London. The regular meeting of the Reading Circle of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Church was held at the home of Mrs. L. R. Phillips Wednesday afternoon.

Reach for a Lucky - for always Luckies Please! Now my fiance and I both smoke Luckies because "It's toasted" It wasn't always so. In the beginning I tried his brand, and I got him to try mine. Well, he liked mine... but not for the same reason that I say "Luckies Please". He said Luckies taste fine and they're ever so mild. But I'm a woman and I pride myself on my sense of discernment - for, my cigarette does touch my lips and is a personal, intimate thing with me. Naturally "Toasting" means to me even more than it does to men, for purity is something that a fastidious woman appreciates highly.
