State Veterinarian Claims Pine Straw Infected With Ticks

ATLANTA, June 21.—Judge Samuel H. Sibley, of northern judicial district Georgia today granted an order restraining Peter Bahnsen, state veterinarian, from enforcing the embargo on Florida melons shipped into Georgia packed in straw.

The injunction was issued on behalf of the Atlantic Coast and requires that, under a bond of $10,000 to cover any damage arising from melons sent through the state.

A hearing on the case is set for June 30 or July 1, or as Judge Sibley can arrange with the other two district judges.

The petition was presented to Judge S. H. Sibley Friday by attorneys for the Atlantic Coast Line railroad, asking to prevent the enforcement of an order issued by Dr. Peter F. Bahnsen, state veterinarian of Florida, prohibiting the entrance of Florida melons into Georgia.

They claimed the pine straw used to pack the melons is infested with ticks.

Dr. Bahnsen's order is based on a report that the pine straw in packing the melons is infested with ticks, and would tick-free areas in Georgia.

Rev. Percy S. Grant Resigns as Rector New York Church

NEW YORK, June 21.—Rev. Percy S. Grant, Episcopal rector who has had several differences with Bishop William T. Manning on religious subjects, Friday resigned as rector of the Church of Ascension of lower Fifth Avenue. The resignation, presented at a vestry meeting, was accepted "with regret."

Grant's resignation was announced last month and it was explained that the engagement between Dr. Grant and Mrs. Rita De Acosta Lydig had been broken. The marriage was forbidden by Bishop Manning on the ground that it would violate a church canon prohibiting the re-marriage of a divorced person unless she obtained her divorce on the grounds of adultery.

Although Dr. Grant was present at the meeting his resignation was tendered in a letter to the vestry and rector of the church. He wrote that he always had planned to resign at the end of 30 years service as rector, but had stayed one year longer because of the controversy going on last year. He explained that his health was not good and that he needed a country life. Also, he had certain literary work to do which already was two years behind schedule.

C. C. Carlin, manager of Senator Underwood's campaign, has announced that he and his backers would join with George E. Brennan, leader of the old guard, in forcing the Klan fight to the front. There will be no "busy-footing" in the question. Carlin is declaring that the demand will be presented to the convention to mention the Klan by name and demanding its extermination.

Sanford "PAY UP" Campaign Closes Today

Week of Intensive Campaigning To "Square Accounts" Results In Much Success, Sanford Merchants Declare.

Sanford's "Pay-Up" campaign comes to a close today. It has been a drive that has been very successful, declare many prominent business men of this city, who further state that the results that have been obtained have far exceeded their fondest hopes and expectations.

Not only has much money been put in circulation, they say, but the campaign has had a tendency in making business better and has made the outlook for the remainder of the summer much brighter. Today sees the close of a campaign that has done much toward "squaring of accounts," it is further declared and those who were not at first in favor of it, have become satisfied that it was worth the time and trouble it took to put it over.

Local Man Gets Appointment To Democrat Meet

Editor Sanford Herald Receives Appointment to National Convention Through Courtesy of Wm. J. Bryan.

R. L. Dean, editor of The Sanford Herald, spent several hours in this city Friday en route to New York where he will attend the National Democratic Convention.

For the past three weeks Mr. Dean has been away from the city, having gone to New Haven, Conn., where he attended his class reunion and later spent several days in Washington, D. C., in the east. While away, Mr. Dean had an opportunity to observe very closely the national political situation as it is viewed by northern political enthusiasts and in an interview Friday afternoon prior to his departure, he said:

"It is the consensus of opinion in the eastern states that if the Democratic party nominates a strong man, it will have a good opportunity to send its choice to the White House, but otherwise the November election will be a Republican landslide."

"Most of the Republicans with whom I came in contact," continued Mr. Dean, "are hostile to the nomination of McAdoo by the Democrats. It is my personal opinion that it is so because they fear his strength. He is the strongest individual in the United States today without a doubt, and could come nearer to carrying the Democrats to victory than any other man they might select. This fact, the Republicans know and for that reason they are so hostile to him."

"Whenever you talk to a Republican," the editor further declared, "he always wants to see the Democrats nominate a dark horse, mentioning probably the names of Davis, Hylan or Glass. That is the personality of the man who will have as much to do with winning the election as principles or platforms."

Mr. Dean declared that everyone in the north is holding politics in the subject that you hear anywhere, he said, at the moment, in the business places, in the homes and on the streets. "More interest is being shown in the Democratic convention than any other convention since the one of 1912 when Theodore Roosevelt split the Republican party," he declared. Mr. Dean, summing up the situation and showing the intense interest that is being manifested.

Mayor Lake Leaves for New York to Attend Convention

Mayor Forrest Lake left this afternoon for New York where he will attend the Democratic National Convention as the guest of William G. McAdoo, leading candidate for the nomination. The mayor will arrive in New York Sunday night which will give him ample time to view the situation before the convention gets under way on Tuesday.

Mayor Lake played an active part during the recent campaign in the state and will be a prominent writer who sought confidential information on the Smith and McAdoo qualifications from the standpoint of the prize ring.

"My height, five feet nine inches," he answered the first question.

"My reach? Washington," said his reply to the second.

Mayor Dever of Chicago was among the visitors at Smith headquarters Friday and although the mayor is credited with having dined up Chicago, it was unofficially thought that he had been supporting the Smith candidacy.

"He's like I am, the governor explained. 'A man may be very big but if he's a public official he will enforce the laws—if the money of their enforcement is approached, a president takes an oath to enforce all laws of the land. In this city, or a state or a nation, it is only so much law enforcement as it is willing to pay for.'"

When the governor was being greeted out-of-town politicians conferring with him, the secretary staff he was answering inquiries about his hot dog, turkey or making hurried trips to his office at the Ellipse in response to reports that some stray pup had been found on the street, was the gubernatorial canine. "I'd like to continue among the visiting breeders, though the police force of the city troopers was on the lookout for the dog."

Governor Smith announced today that Franklin D. Roosevelt would be offered to the chair of the convention.

McAdoo and Smith Redoubling Efforts to Strengthen Their Claims as Convention Nears

Local Man Gets Appointment to Democrat Meet

National Committee in Session Makes Final Plans Opening Convention Tuesday

Fight Between 2 Leaders Feature

Ku Klux Klan Issue Is Holding Prominent Place in Discussion

NEW YORK, June 21.—Redoubled efforts to strengthen their position today occupied the camps of W. G. McAdoo and Governor A. Smith as the Democratic National Committee went in session to complete final arrangements for the opening of the national convention in Madison Square Garden Tuesday.

The fight between McAdoo and Smith forces is the dominant feature of the closing days of pre-convention period, but other issues, particularly that of the Ku Klux Klan, also is holding prominent places in discussions among the assembling delegates.

To these may be added a third struggle that will make political history—a sharp and bitter skirmish over retention of the long standing rule requiring a two-thirds vote of the delegates to nominate.

Compromised Candidate

Should McAdoo and Smith both be forced out of the running after a prolonged deadlock, these will come another spirited fight over selection of a compromise candidate but for the moment only the champions of the favorite sons and dark horses are looking that far into the future.

The McAdoo men, with their candidate in their midst, are straining every resource to segment their forces to a point that will ensure a nomination but they are cementing together a reserve that is believed to be the last necessary against the selection of any other whose policies are not to their liking.

Similarly, the supporters of Governor Smith, realizing that McAdoo will have the largest vote among the many to enter the voting on the first ballot, are working hard and day to align a bloc of delegates large enough and cohesive enough to exercise a veto on the initial selection of the former treasury secretary as the standard bearer of his party.

Smith Confident

After a busy day spent in greeting delegates from 17 states, Gov. Alfred E. Smith today was so certain of the Democratic presidential nomination that he refused to discuss dark horses or second choice candidates.

"There are no such things," he declared. "I believe I'm nominated. I am confident that when the convention gets through paying its compliments to favorite sons, it will get down to figuring who could most assuredly win the race to the White House."

The governor's state of mind was illustrated in his answer to a reporter who sought confidential information on the Smith and McAdoo qualifications from the standpoint of the prize ring.

"My height, five feet nine inches," he answered the first question.

"My reach? Washington," said his reply to the second.

Mayor Dever of Chicago was among the visitors at Smith headquarters Friday and although the mayor is credited with having dined up Chicago, it was unofficially thought that he had been supporting the Smith candidacy.

Governor Smith announced today that Franklin D. Roosevelt would be offered to the chair of the convention.

Dowell Is Found Guilty of Murder; Jury Asks Mercy

 Death of Sisters
 "Of course, we never knew exactly," he replied, "but all of the reports about the door being locked, there couldn't be any truth about that because the doors didn't have any locks to them. Somebody said something about my pouring gasoline over them. That is simply foolish. Once before I had set the kitchen on fire at night; we didn't know whether it was sleep walking or what it was. I had been—I don't know, sometimes it seems to relieve me somehow. I don't know and I remember mother said there was something about my looking for a gun and there was something about a gun found there later, and we never did know what to make of that. I can't give it quite straight. About the heart-shaped letter, I believe if they would properly analyze that letter that will give a clue to the position I was in at that time. I just can't think. If I could be brought back here again. Can't I be brought back in the morning when I am fresher and feel better?"
 Judge McMullen told him to proceed because "you seem to have a good idea of what you want to say."

Date Fixed in Mind
 The defendant said that somehow, February 19, at midnight seemed to have a peculiar effect on him and he could remember every such date since he was three and a half years old. "It is exactly half way between my two birthdays," he said, and added that "I remember how it started. If I could just express to you the way I feel about that I could lay the foundation for the whole thing and show you just how it is. Won't you tell me something else your witnesses said you think is against me?"
 Prompted by a juror's request to "tell us how you acted when you went to your mother; how did you go to her?" McDowell continued: "The first thing I can remember about it—you see they said I tried to show—I tried to cover that up, well, I didn't. It was this way: There is no telling what I did in the two or three hours between the shot fired and the time I got out in the street. I remember being in some water, but I don't know what it was, and that letter was written then. I know, because I couldn't have written that sort of letter before. I don't remember anything clearly about it until the next day, and I suppose I took some more drugs that night and next day as soon as it cleared, I suppose that was when Mr. Trotter (St. Petersburg detective chief), came for me and they took me back and the drug had worn off, and I realized where I was, and he asked me to tell the truth and it came to me and I told everything I knew. And when it came to signing that confession I naturally signed it because I thought I was doing the right thing. I never thought it would be considered as willful murder; I just thought people would think I was responsible for it and not blame it on someone else."

 were given intensive training and upon asking along what lines, the speaker said he received this reply: "Intensive training in collecting after which they are sent out to various towns to solicit funds for the home."
 The speaker urged that something be done to remedy the situation here adding that in Daytona and Orlando, representatives of this home have been prohibited from soliciting funds any more.
 The subject of the inland waterway canal again came up when Mr. Connelly was called upon for a report on the meeting held at Palatka last week when representatives of the Chamber of Commerce of this city conferred with H. DeMontmolin of that city. Lengthy correspondence between the latter and Duncan U. Fletcher and Jacksonville representatives were read, said Mr. Connelly, and reported that in general the outlook for the canal is very bright. At present he said, a survey is being made to determine the best location for the canal. He also reported that much favorable support has been given the project by members of the board of district engineers at Jacksonville.
 Mr. Connelly also stated that it was his belief that the canal as well as the deeper waterway would never be secured as long as the senators from this state didn't want it.
 Today's meeting was the first one to be held at the Montezuma and was attended by 36 people.

 back of it, said A. S. Christenberry of the Seminole Steam Laundry. He expressed hope that before too long the accounts will have been paid that would not had it not been for the campaign.
 "It is a big and a good thing for the business men and the citizens of Sanford in that it has stimulated trade and has given the people an incentive to pay their bills," declared Mr. Lloyd of the Shoe Shop today. "It is a good thing to be thought of the success of the campaign was assured and that it should be an annual affair."
 Other merchants have expressed hope that, although the movement is particularly adapted to help business, it is a great success. Mr. Connelly is in it, on account of the good brought both for the merchants and the people.

KIWANIS BAND AS HEARD BY VICTIM

By SCHELLE MAINES
 Tunes, Oh Tunes, where wert thou yesterday.
 Speaking of tunes, there weren't such a thing.
 It was a brass band. It took real brass to be in it.
 Fort, as a musician, would make a dandy ditch digger.
 They needed ditch diggers in Tinker field yesterday.
 But it was Fort's day off.
 As a drum carrier, Raffield is a success.
 Dock Caswell was a success beating the pine burs.
 Judge Sharons' overalls, cocked hat, red bandana and flute was all out of tune.
 Pinkus Connelly playing the saxophone was a riot.
 Doc Marshall proved himself to be a hustling good player of the bass vile.
 Judge Maines, doubling for Roscoe A. on the drum, made a big noise.
 In fact, he opened the fireworks, and but for the water would have put on a scene.
 Sherman Lloyd packed a wicked cornet.
 John D. Jenkins stopped collecting taxes long enough to collect a few tunes on his trombone.
 John D's overalls, plug hat and blood-red tie were a match for his tunes—all frights.
 Sam Baumeil did a little jig in a little buddle on Tinker field, and made all the people laugh.
 The crowd, well, he stayed home yesterday to keep from getting wet.
 The next time the band will appear in bath suits, and the crowd is advised to do the same.
 All the fellows who didn't play in the game or in the band played coaches.
 The band will have their uniforms registered in the patent office—they were new and novel, and somewhat an improvement over the ordinary zand uniform.

KIWANIS GAME FROM BLEACHERS

By SCHELLE MAINES
 The first, last and about the most thing we saw was rain.
 Instead of issuing rain checks, the gate keeper was giving out bath checks.
 Berg, star first sacker, for the locals, got his britches dirty.
 Overlin made a short circuit, when he alpped into back stop pond. He admitted his ability to get wet.
 Birdie Bevo says Asher tried the time-worn trick of trying to see him going out. They did.
 The Orlando bunch was there—they are good losers a witness the feed at San Juan last evening.
 Kissam lost the game—principally because he wore an undershirt—something he was not used to.
 Gardiner tried to rub it in on the boys—he played all over the left field.
 That boy Philpi in center is a stealer—he stole Berk Steele's home run.
 A. P. Connelly was there in the bleachers, seeing that no fences were moved.
 The Orlando outfit knew McCall but they didn't suspect he was a pitcher until the first inning before him.

MAJORITY RULE AT CONVENTION IN FOR CONTEST

 of the candidates have agreed to vote approval of the selection of Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, as temporary chairman and keynote; Senator Thomas P. Walsh of Montana, as permanent chairman and Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut, as chairman of the platform committee.
 So far there has been no decision for head of the rules committee which will prepare the regulations that are to govern convention procedure. Ordinarily but little importance has been attached to that committee, whose duties have consisted in a perfunctory recommendation that the long-established practice of the party be followed without deviation with possibility of a fight over the two-thirds rule, however, it is different in the convention 1924.

 staff. Then it was that the Sanford band was called into action again, and with Mrs. Edward Lane presiding at the piano, in the absence of the drum, the band responded with its usual success.
 Sherman Lloyd led the singing and with all the ladies and gentlemen there present made the old San Juan rear with the melodies.
 Birdie Bebut couldn't keep still until after the ice cream and then he appeared to be satisfied.
 Skinny Maines, ambassador plenipotentiary without portfolio for the Sanford officials, rehearsed the ball days of yore, and invited the Orlando squad to Sanford to christen the new athletic field, promising that Sanford would double their score without letting Orlando have a thing more.
 Burke Steele, upon being questioned, had to admit that the lady next to him was not his wife.
 Dr. Marshall addressed the meeting, reviewing Kiwanis and its work and also invited the Orlando representatives to Sanford, asking them to bring their best ball players, musicians, singers, ladies and appetites.
 After singing we are all for Orlando, the banquet came to a close.

 EUSTIS, Fla., June 20—The special committee of the Lake County Chamber of Commerce, appointed to select a successor to Willis B. Powell, whose resignation became effective June 1, announced yesterday that Franklin L. Wood of Philadelphia had been unanimously chosen as secretary of the organization and would assume active charge of the office July 1.

Mr. Wood came to Lake county for a conference with the committee members several weeks ago. By his pleasing manner and distinct personality, he made friends of those who had the pleasure of meeting him and it was the unanimous opinion of the directors of the chamber of commerce that by training and experience Mr. Wood was eminently fitted for the duties which will devolve upon him in the position to which he has been appointed.
 Mr. Wood was born in Boston and received his education at Newton, Mass. Upon completing his collegiate course, he became connected with the National Cash Register Company as salesman, and later took charge of the western distributing office of the Crown Cork and Seal Company. He was for seven years in publicity and advertising work in New York and was one of the organizers of the Advertising Club of New York.
 Soon after the Lincoln automobile was marketed, Mr. Wood was selected as Lincoln distributor in Philadelphia. He is a member of the Poor Richard Club of Philadelphia.

Keenly interested in all phases of athletics, Mr. Wood was a star baseball and football player in his college days and has not lost sight of the benefits to be derived from athletics in all stages of life. Possessed of an excellent baritone voice, Mr. Wood has done considerable solo work and chorus leading. At one time he studied for grand opera, but the appeal for a business career overbalanced his artistic leanings.
 Until he came to Lake county to survey the prospects here, Mr. Wood had never been in Florida. His sister, Mrs. Florence Wood Russell, an accomplished musician and club woman of Clearwater, has been a resident of the state for a number of years. Mr. Wood will be accompanied to Lake county by his wife and daughter.

Gardiner out at second on a choice, scoring McCall. Berg whiffs. Byrd singles to right, stealing second. Lloyd for Mathews fans. One run, two hits, one error.
 Orlando: Phillips at bat is hit by ball, and steals second. Asher safe on first when McCall chose Phillips at third. Cheney gets hit by McCall, and Michaels singles to left, placing Asher on third, who gets caught between there and home, McCall, Steele and Overlin combining to put him out, and they did it. Cheney on second, Jenkins walks, filling the bases. White singles, scoring Cheney and Michaels. Mathis out pitcher to first. Two runs, two hits, no errors.
 And here endeth the chapter, but the rain continued to rain, even drowning out the notes of the band.

PAY UP WEEK

Ends Tomorrow!

"KEEP Your Credit GOOD!"

The Most Fooled Man is— the Man who Fools Himself!

—particularly when it comes to paying his bills. Bad credit is like backyard gossip—it travels fast—and is magnified as it goes along. Therefore the man who fools himself by not paying his bills promptly when due—is hurting himself far more than he can hurt his creditors. They lose only money. He loses their good opinion and eventually his own self-respect.

Most People Appreciate This and Pay Up and Keep Their Credit Good!

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY BEGIN THE DAY RIGHT—Cause me to hear thy loving kindness in the morning; for in thee do I trust; cause me to know the way wherein I should walk; for I lift up my soul unto thee.—Psalm 143:8.

SOME SENSE IN HIS NONSENSE

There was an old geese and he had a lot of sense. He started up a business on a dollar and eighty cents. The dollar went for stock and the eighty for an ad. That brought in three dollars the first day, by dad!

Well, he bought more goods and a little more space. And he played that system with a smile on his face. The customers flocked to his little two by four. And he soon had to rustle for a regular store.

Up on the square, where all the people pass. He grabbed up a corner that was all plate glass. He fixed up the windows with the best that he had. And told all about it in a half-page ad.

He soon had them coming, but he never, never got it. And he wouldn't cut down on his ads one bit. And has kept things humping in the town ever since. And everyone is calling him "The Merchant Prince."—Cowgill (Mo.) News.

Thirty dark horses are reported stamping around Manhattan Island. If the delegates do their nominating at night one of them may slip into the convention.

The University of Pennsylvania recently conferred one thousand four hundred ninety-eight degrees upon members of the graduating class. Wonder if any of them were educated?

The Democratic Convention opens June 24 and for a few days thereafter Madison Square Garden will be the scene of hotter fights than the Milk Fund Show brought out last year.

A two-faced man is one who tells you he is an ardent believer in prohibition and then says he is in favor of Al. Smith for the Democratic nomination for the presidency.

Coolidge declares he is going to be the boss of his political campaign. One thing about Coolidge he is the boss. We would rather be a fish with too many bones than a jellyfish.

The Japanese ban must stand, repeats the United States. Well, why don't we quit talking about it then. The Japs probably feel very much as if we were trying to rub it in.

There is at least one way in which Minnesota may be likened unto Florida. Voters in one congressional district of that state have just defeated a man who has been in congress for twenty years and such was the case in Florida.

The McAdoo following seems to be giving up the attempt to change the two-thirds rule. A majority vote among the delegates could change this rule and McAdoo's nomination would then be practically assured.

That little girl of fourteen years who sat fire to a school, burning twenty-four, should have been taught of the dangers of playing with fire. Disregard of the lives or happiness of others is a dangerous thing and the best way to teach against it is to let them burn their fingers in a harmless sort of way.

William Jennings Bryan has no ulterior motives to prompt his actions in the coming convention. If things are conducted according to Hoyle probably little will be heard from the great Floridian, but let some of the ring politicians attempt to "put something over"—drag in Al Smith, for instance—and the big guns of the old Commerce party will show the same powder of their earlier days of the "Cross of Gold" speech or the time when Woodrow Wilson was first heard of.

Although he favors Smith for the nomination as long as there is a possible chance, George E. Brennan of Chicago, who will probably have something to say about his party's choice, has let it be known that Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi would be acceptable in case Smith loses out. Nothing peculiar about that fact except that Brennan has declared that an anti-Klan plank must be inserted in the platform and yet he knows that Harrison is to be the Klan's spokesman at the convention and as such will probably lead the fight against such a plank.

"Pay Up And Keep Your Credit Good"

Only a few hours remain before the closing of Sanford's "Pay-Up" campaign. But a short time is left in which accounts may be straightened by those who wish to have a part in making this great week more of a success.

This is the last day of the campaign. It has been a most successful week and has resulted in many thousands of dollars being placed in circulation throughout the city and county.

During the week the great majority of the people have done their best to pay their bills. Many old accounts have been settled. Accounts long past due have been taken care of and the people as a rule have come to realize how important it is for them to keep their credit spotless.

If the pay-up campaign did nothing more than to awaken a careless people to the necessity of prompt payment of their obligations it was well worth while. If it straightened out satisfactorily the relations between merchant and customer and placed them on more of a satisfactory basis, it more than paid for itself.

But it did more than this. It has not only paid bills but it has also improved business conditions in Sanford and has made it possible for dollars to accomplish more and buy more. It has made money more plentiful and has put many dollars into circulation.

"Pay-Up" week has emphasized the value and importance of good credit. People have come to realize that credit is more than a matter of money. It is a matter of character. Good credit is a progressive asset while poor credit is a serious handicap. What presents a more sorrowful appearance than the man without credit—the man who has been trusted by his fellows and has failed in his trust? What is finer and more beneficial than good credit?

He who has good credit standing in a community can look ahead unafraid knowing that all opportunities are his. The man who is alert to his own interests pays up. The man who pays promptly creates a good name and enjoys good credit convenience as often as he will. His wants are taken care of often before they happen. For purely selfish reasons, if for no other, it is well to make it a practice of paying promptly and keeping good credit.

The man who is poor pay hurts himself more than he does his creditor. The man who does not pay shackles himself, weakens his self-respect and kills his chances when he needs credit most.

The spirit of "Pay-Up" week should be in evidence throughout the entire year. The slogan should be before us continually.

"Pay Up and Keep Your Credit Good."

Home-Owning Means General Betterment

President Coolidge told the big gathering of real estate men that he wants to see this country a home-owning nation.

"Silent Cal," it seems, has a habit of saying something when he does speak. If this country were a home-owning nation, the large percentage of the nation's evils and troubles would be cured. People who own their own homes, as a rule, are better citizens than people who are "temporarily" living on another man's land.

The home-owner is a taxpayer. He does—or at least he should feel an interest in how the taxes are spent and in what sort of men are placed in charge of the public business. He does—or should feel an interest in public improvements, and in every movement for or against the betterment of his town and community.

The home-owner—if he is of the right sort—takes interest in the beautifying of his property. He keeps his house painted; he plants flowers and trees; he has a pretty lawn; he devises ways to make his place more attractive. And by making his own premises more beautiful, he adds to the beauty of the neighborhood in which he lives.

The home-owner is looked upon as a permanent, substantial citizen. He is treated with a certain amount of deference. His wishes are respected. He is somebody.

President Coolidge knows that when a man buys his own home, that man is going to try to get all the benefits possible from that home. The property takes on a new value to the man who acquires it as his own. His family live in the house that is theirs with an entirely different attitude toward its upkeep and its improvement than they show toward a rented house. And in the shelter of his own home, a man—if he has anything worthy in his character—develops the best that is in him.

Rent-payers who never have known nor desired the satisfaction of owning their own homes will continue, of course, to make revenues for canny folks who build houses to rent. But it is great missionary work to carry the own-your-own-home appeal among people who have the ability, and the wisdom, to respond to its call.

In Sanford, and in other Florida towns similarly prospering, the proportion of home-owning citizens is gratifyingly large. But it should be larger. Florida, more than any other state in the Union, should be noted for the number of its home-owners.

Religion From A Business Standpoint

"And perhaps," says the Columbia Record, "there would be more religion in business if there were less business in religion."

How does that strike you? And just exactly what does it mean?

The Record may be thinking of any one of a number of things. It may be thinking of the business or professional man, new to a town, who looks about and affiliates with the church that promises to bring him the best patronage from among new "brethren and sisters" he will find in its fold. Or it may be thinking of the leading citizen who is always the first to pledge fine contributions to the various church causes, always the first to offer up prayers at conspicuous times. And now builds up his prospering business on the reputation he makes as a good church member.

There is other "business in religion" that the Columbia paper may be thinking of, also. It may be thinking of the money-getting spirit that sometimes hovers so perpetually over a church it shuts out all consciousness of any divine presence that might have been expected to be near the holy place. The Record, as have all of us, doubtless has heard preachers plead for money to buy the new church carpet with greater fervor than they plead for sinners to come back from the primrose path. "Business in religion" sometimes defeats all the finer purposes of an earnest preacher's calling.

There will come a time when the necessary expenses of a church, grown to many times the amount needed today, will be secured without any "appeal" from the pulpit. There will come a time when the man who affiliates with a church "for business reasons" will be held in contempt. There will come a time when the spiritual health of the people will be sustained by spiritual leaders. And those spiritual leaders will see so close a connection between the health of the soul and the moral influences of a community, they will also be the militant leaders against evil men and evil institutions regardless of how much revenue might come into their churches from such men and such institutions.

We say "there will come a time." Such churches already exist. And in them money influence and business considerations have no power. The Columbia Record will agree with us, too, that there is certain to be more religion in the business of men and women who attend the churches in which they are engaged in religion. It can be proven.

As Brisbane Sees It

That Nordic Craze. W. G. and Al. No Revolution Here. Dawn and Demagogues. Copyright, 1924.

THE PURELY "NORDIC" craze has gone far. A scientific association of German "racialists" propose to plan a new state in which only those "purely Nordic" will be admitted.

The scientists allege that blood tests will distinguish the purely Nordic from the mixed breeds.

That's interesting as there is not on the surface of the earth any single sample of a pure breed, whether of "Nordic," Arian, Semitic, Mongolian, African or Malayesian strain. All the breeds were mixed up long ago.

"That new Nordic state, by the way, would exclude the founder of Christianity, whose mother was a Jewess. He, certainly, was not "purely Nordic."

BETTING YESTERDAY was 20 to 1 against the nomination of Al Smith, 2 1/2 to 1 against McAdoo. Politicians that know say the odds are Al Smith probably influence the betting considerably.

And then, Wall street, including its big oil companies, DOES NOT WANT McAdoo.

That will probably be the McAdoo men's best answer to "The oil question," which Louis Seibold says is bound to come up in the convention and in the campaign.

"THE OIL MATTER," as far as it concerns McAdoo, resides in the fact that after he left the cabinet to "practice law, oil men, among others, retained him, but NOT for any work in connection with the naval reserve or any other oil scandal.

If every lawyer taking such fees were guilty of crime, there would be few big lawyers at large.

McADOO ON HIS triumphant tour east predicts that he will not only win the nomination and win the election, but will also carry Pennsylvania.

Those that take the trouble to find out how labor feels toward McAdoo will find the prediction by no means preposterous. If railroad workers all over the United States would talk to their friends and to other workers about McAdoo as they have talked to this writer, the country would learn something new about the power of labor.

COMMUNISM AND revolution have no chance in a country where 90 per cent of the opportunities are still open, and anybody who cares to take the trouble can make himself independent.

It is different in Europe, not so many opportunities there.

MR. DAWES WILL mercilessly denounce "party demagogues." Denouncing is easy; gathering votes is less so. Samuel Hill, former mayor of the late great railroad, builder of James Hill and one of the many worth-while citizens of Seattle, says: "Great sections in the northwest are bankrupt. Fourteen hundred banks out there have suspended."

GENERAL DAWES knows you can't fix up that situation by "denouncing demagogues." It is much better to say what you intend to do for those who see themselves bankrupt through no fault of their own.

SENATOR WALSH of Montana, who fought and beat the copper king, then went to the senate, is to be permanent chairman of the Democratic National Convention. Walsh is a Catholic. The McAdoo men consider his election a victory. That seems to contradict some years about religious prejudice in politics.

IT MAY BE mentioned also that Cardinal Hayes of New York will offer the first prayer in the Democratic convention, to be followed at the various sessions by representatives of other religions, Protestants of various kinds, rabbis and, perhaps, a Christian Scientist.

A YOUNG Rockefeller of the third generation, James S. Stillman Rockefeller, son of Mrs. William G. Rockefeller, and captain of the Yale crew, is lecturing his men on the "psychology of attempting the impossible," quoting in the original Greek advice given to athletes in ancient Olympic games.

HIS GRANDFATHER'S brother, John D. Rockefeller, has illustrated "how to accomplish the impossible" by turning out from the ground into scientific knowledge that destroys diseases.

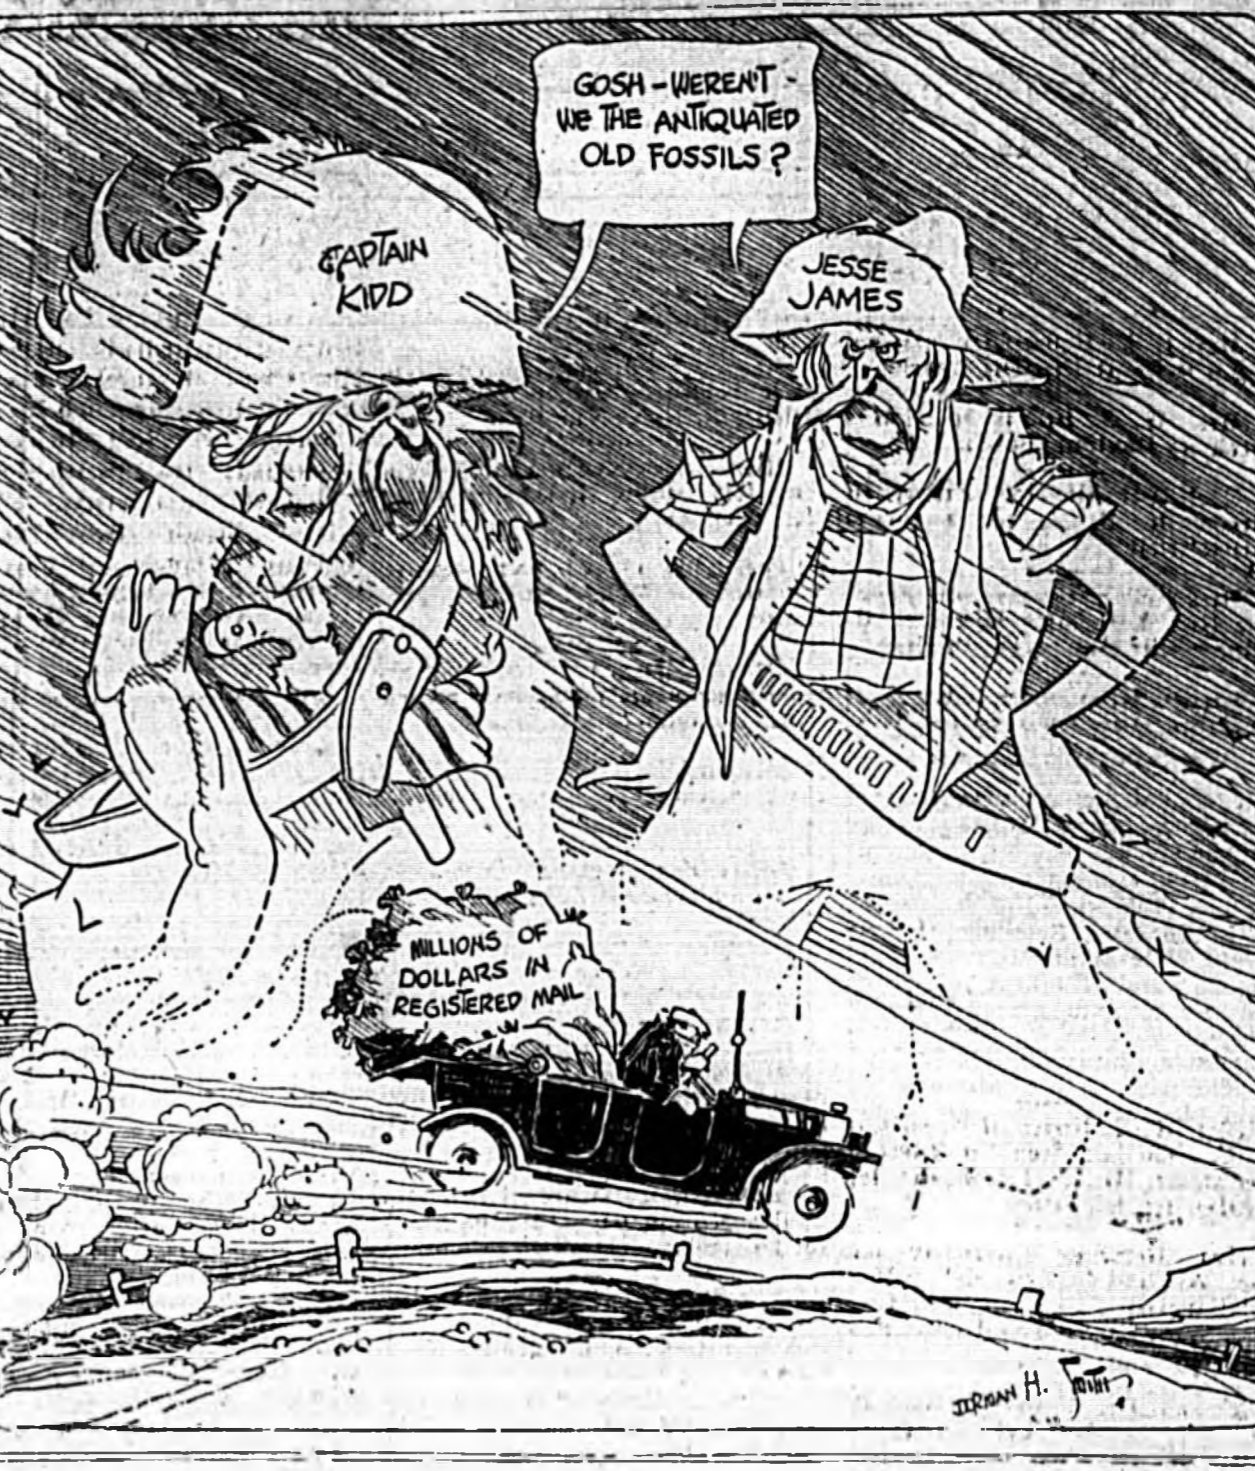

It would be interesting to follow the young Rockefellers and others of very rich Americans, through a few dozen of generations—if their fortunes hold together.

EVERYBODY KNOWS that part played in Italian history by the Medici, whose founder looked enough like John D. Rockefeller to be a twin brother, and who established what, for his day, was J. Rockefeller fortune. His descendants developed art and artists. John D. Jr., has just given $500,000 to Harvard "for art."

THE GRAND DUKE Nicholas of Russia, believing that he can revive Gaidom, sends word to the Russian peasants that he possesses the ashes of the Czar and his family. That is expected to have a great effect upon peasants, with their deep reverence for relics of all kinds.

It will take more than the Czar's ashes to restore the Czarist government. If those ashes could come back to life, their first official act would be to take back the land from peasants, and return it to the nobles that own "owned it." That's what makes Trotsky's theory.

PROGRESS

JUST IN PASSING

BY R. J. HOLLY

The hot weather may be responsible for the many cases where people seem to be flying the track and going off at a tangent. Last Saturday was a busy day and the Herald looked like a metropolis daily with the scare heads of events.

This is the kind of weather when it seems good to hit the trails of the mountain resorts and camp out along the way viewing Nature at close hand. Some day when I get plenty of money I will take my "covered wagon" covered by the mortgage and go away from here.

The Rhode Island senate deadlock was broken up yesterday by shooting chlorine gas into the senate chamber and making the senators leave their seats. This is one of the new ideas and reverses the old order of things when the senators were allowed to gas the gallery.

Yale has conferred a degree upon the man who discovered the tomb of King Tut. Having discovered several King Tuts in Sanford since living here it is up to some fresh water college to confer a B. S. or B. V. D. upon me and Bob Pearman of the Chamber of Commerce should see to it.

The favorite "indoor and outdoor sport" these days after the election seems to be making cracks at the City Commissioners for doing their duty and then taking it all back the next day, and their full duty toward the people of this city and attending to their "business" private jobs as a fair man would do. Instead of brainless criticism they should have the earnest assistance and whole-hearted co-operation of the people.

The idea of having a yacht club here in connection with our beautiful lake and the boat basin is an excellent one and should receive the support of those folks who want to see this city made the headquarters of the tourists. Sanford has more to offer the tourist than the majority of the tourist resorts today and all we need to make it complete is a real tourist hotel. We have everything else since the yacht club is on.

Few people take more than a passing interest in Sanford's municipal golf course. This club house and eighteen hole course will when finished be one of the finest in the entire country and the surroundings are beautiful. No other word in the English language describes the avenue of stately oaks at the entrance to the grounds, to the beauty spots on the eighteen-hole course and to the orange trees and pines that sprinkle the course. We should boost our golf course and club house to the world at large.

Sending out a dollar to pay bills and find out how far it will go toward keeping home money in circulation is the same the world over. It was tried here this week by the Herald and the dollar has been lost. I tried this stunt in Gainesville one time and my dollar was lost for many days and was finally resurrected in the safe of a man who never spent a dollar in his life unless he was forced to eat. It shows that money circulates only where we have to live in a place where they believe in circulating it. Reminds me of the man who fed a dollar to a pelican and said "circulate you son-of-a-gun."

The man who would build for the future and place his money where it will do him the most good should invest in property in Sanford this summer. The men who come here from other cities say that Sanford property is very reasonable in price—much lower than other cities in Florida with only half the advantages—and this being the case there is no time like the present to put your money where it will begin to grow dollars for you in the near future. Sanford has started and Sanford will never stop.

We don't hear much about the good things our City Commissioners are doing and among them is the saving on the new sewerage system. City Manager Williams recently saved the city over $5,500 clear net profit on putting in the sewers, and on the laying of the water pipes for the new water works plant. Mr. Williams is also saving the city considerable money. I believe in making these things public and giving our public servants the compliment they deserve. Had they lost money on this work the people would have been sitting up nights talking about it—such is human nature and the public is very fickle.

There are big things in store for Sanford this fall and winter and it behooves everyone to get busy now to take care of the winter visitors who are coming to Sanford. I am in correspondence with many of them in reference to winter homes here and if we can accommodate them there will be at least six new families here for the winter and they mean something since the men are financially able to spend a million or more here if they so wish. Other folks are thinking well of Sanford—it is time we homefolks set our sights much higher than we have been and go after the tourists who will come here and help us to build Sanford.

TAKING UMBRAGE

ST. PETERSBURG TIMES

When one says that a person takes umbrage, is offended at something, it isn't always realized that what is literally being said is that he or she is under a shadow, yet the word shadow, in its Latin form "umbrs," in Italian "ombra," is the root of the word "umbrage."

The word also means a little shadow, an umbration, and finds expression in the English word "umbrage" or shade. But in the sense of taking offense, "umbrage" is a bit more than a shadow. It is a shadow that is dispelled by the sunshine. It is a shadow that is cast by the sun. It is a shadow that is cast by the sun. It is a shadow that is cast by the sun.

SATURDAY EVENING SERMON

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN

The lesson of the first quarter of Israel from Abraham to Solomon. Several of these were so majestic that the second quarter could hardly equal them in interest. Abraham, Moses, Joshua, Samuel, David and Solomon stand out in bold relief against the characters of the heathen world.

But a review of the lessons of the second quarter brings to memory another group, the like of which cannot be found outside the Bible. Elijah, Elisha, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel and Nehemiah—another half dozen—are stars whose luster is not diminished by the years.

There are others during the quarter, like Rehobam, who teach us what to avoid. He was a haughty son; his father was wise and wealthy and Rehobam inherited all of Solomon's faults without any of his virtues.

His unpopularity during the latter years of his father's life was not calculated to fit him for the throne; even a good government could hardly have saved him from his evil tendencies. His arrogance caused the kingdom to be divided. He sinned greatly and sorely answered for it.

Partis Well Played Amos and Hosea were among the minor prophets, but they played well their parts; the former denouncing wrong doing with a vehemence never surpassed, and the latter pleading for righteousness with an eloquence seldom equaled.

Amos would find much in the world today to stir him to the utterance of words of warning; there are many who are "at ease in Zion," who "lie upon beds of ivory and stretch themselves upon their couches," who "eat the lamb out of the flock and the calves out of the midst of the stall," who "sing idle songs to the sound of the viol," and "drink wine in bowls."

We have reviewed during the quarter the exile of Israel and the punishment which they deserved. We have studied the record of Athaliah, a woman who rivalled the wicked Jezebel in evil ambitions and in heartlessness, and have seen how the Lord could save a servant whom he needed from the machinations of one as cunning and as cruel as she.

Fascinating Boldness We have learned, also, of the generosity of the Persian king, Cyrus; of the great work entrusted to Zerubbabel, the rebuilding of the temple; and we have enumerated together the reforms accomplished under Ezra and Nehemiah.

I have selected the six characters mentioned above, Elijah to Nehemiah, as outstanding figures in the second quarter's lessons, that we may take a parting glance at them before turning to the New Testament.

Elijah fascinates by his boldness and by his uncompromising challenge to evil doers. His achievements were big and the results of his work far-reaching.

His confronted Ahab, an apostate king, and risked him at the risk of his own life. He was the hero in the world's greatest prayer text, and he used Naboth's vineyard to teach a most impressive lesson on covetousness. He drew the line between the worship of God and the worship of Baal and anathematized the coward who attempted to occupy ground between right and wrong.

Drawing the Line. As it is our purpose to draw from the Bible texts studied, lessons that will be useful to us in our everyday life, we cannot overlook the fact that the drawing of lines is imperatively needed today. Every great reform, religious, social, economic, and political, begins with the drawing of a standard and the setting of a line between those who are for it and those who are against it.

Manager Whidden Asks Sanford Fans To Support Team

Manager Whidden wishes to call the attention of every baseball loving fan to his efforts at putting a winning team in the field during the summer months, and asks that they give him their support. Yesterday's contest was witnessed by about 350 people, but the collection taken up amounted to only a small sum.

There are at present, some 25 or 30 young men in Sanford who can be called fair and as good as the average ball players. Manager Whidden is doing his best to furnish the fans with as good ball games as can be seen for the money and only with the support of those who wish to play and the fans. Can he succeed?

New Smyrna Team Beats 'Celery Feds' in a Hectic Game

Poor support back of Emil Ammons, star Sanford twirler, cost the Celery Feds a very interesting game of ball yesterday at Ninth Street Park. Ammons' pitching in fine style, kept the visitors' hits well scattered but the crucial moment in each inning, a costly error, produced disastrous results.

Sanford scored her five runs in the fourth and fifth innings and seemed for a while to have a chance to win. The Celery Feds were unable to make additional rallies, however, and lost to New Smyrna by a 9 to 5 count.

A SMALL SIX ROOM HOUSE

The ground area of this house is small, and the plan is nearly square, with no breaks or extensions. This means marked economy in construction.

This house measures but 25 feet, six inches front, by 22 feet six inches deep, yet; the plan arrangement allows the three main rooms of the first floor to be of good size, owing to the economical use of every square foot of space.

But, the real feature of this house is the second floor plan; here are three good bedrooms, a bath and plenty of closets, all provided over the very modest size of the first floor, and the rooms are not small; besides, they have full ceiling height.

This second floor arrangement was accomplished by a skillful handling of the living porch. Instead of placing the porch at the end of the house in the usual manner, it was placed at the front and the main roof brought down over the porch, thus giving space on the second floor that would otherwise be lost, and allowing a third bedroom to be provided, where otherwise only two bedrooms could be arranged.

Then, too, the roof extending out over the porch to the first story gives the house a broader appearance that is well proportioned to its height, and it allows the house to be placed on a very narrow lot.

Small houses that are full two stories in height usually appear too high for their size, since whether the house be large or small, the ceiling heights vary but little. Small houses should be of the cottage type for the best effects, but room cannot be sacrificed on the second floor, and this is why a successful small house is hard to find. Generally, small houses are either artistic and impractical, or they are practical but ugly.

The little house shown herewith combines the practical and the economical with the artistic to a marked degree.

Note the hall and stair arrangement, not an inch of waste space, yet the arrangement is artistic as well as economical. All of the rooms will furnish well.

Cost about $4,800.

Complete working plans and specifications of this house may be obtained for a nominal sum from the Building Editor. Refer to House A-70.

TRUCK LAND FOR SALE OR RENT
 We have the best trucking land in Florida for sale or rent. It is located in the Oviedo-Iowa City section, in Seminole county, sixteen miles from Sanford. In the past few years it has been repeatedly demonstrated that we raise better celery, lettuce, atwaterberries, cucumbers, tomatoes, peppers, watermelons, beans, peas, and other truck, than they do in the Sanford and other sections of Florida. We can easily demonstrate this to the satisfaction of anyone who wishes to investigate. With our wonderful system of underground irrigation and drainage, we can get water to the surface, or out of, of heavy rains in any other section. If you are going into the trucking game, then why not get the best and in the state for that purpose? We have fully developed land for sale or rent, also partially developed or pine or hammock land for sale. For full information write E. R. Moore, 250 N. E. 25th St., Miami, or see Bob King, Oviedo.
