Lax Hiring Practice Let Probation Officer Slip Through

By Deans Jordan

Herald Staff Writer Seminole County's written policy of not requiring background checks for potential county employees allowed the hiring of a probation officer with a questionable background who was subsequenty charged with the grand theft of money from probation fines.

Arrested and charged Jan. 24 is Orestes A. Cobb. 33. of 207 Ramblewood, Sanford.

An earlier allegation of theft against the probation officer was not turned over to police after the man resigned because a county Judge who oversees the division thought the case would be a weak one in court.

Since the latest alleged theft came to light, the Evening Herald has learned there are at least two of 11 employees in the county probation department dissatisfied with the way the department's supervisor handled the case. One of those disgruntled employees has since been put on administrative leave, apparently for complaining about it, and now faces two hearings to basis as they need routine attention. She said determine if she'll lose her job.

Cobb was charged with grand theft stemming from the alleged theft of $740 in fine money paid by probationers. He was released the same day from the county jail on $1,000 bond. The incidents allegedly occurred Feb. 28, and May 8, 1983. Another charge has been filed against him. according to the probation department supervisor.

Suspended with pay after complaining by letter that Ms. Donna Haerich, the department supervisor, left out several details of the thefts in disclosing them, is Miriam Lewis, 53, of Winter Springs, a probation officer.

Ms. Haerich, who is Cobb's and Ms. Lewis' supervisor, said Thursday the investigation into allegations against Cobb may appear slow or not as sweeping as some might think because it takes time to collect evidence and documentation. She also said the 500 or so cases under Cobb's supervision are being reviewed on a monthly background he claimed on his resume and had a work history that included about 10 jobs in seven years.

From now on, the probation office is going to conduct a thorough background check on potential employees which will be as extensive as presentence investigations. Ms. Haerich said Thursday. She said she has been developing such a policy since October, along with other departmental procedures for the growing office, and will have it in final form this spring.

Two employess hired in October received more-thorough-than-usual checks and future employees will be subject to the in-depth scrutiny. She said it should prevent workers with questionable backgrounds from being hired in an office which, she said, she wants to be above reproach. The office handles misdemeanor and DUI probations and has about a $200,000 annual

Lawyers Set For Battle

Hearing To Dismiss Slated Monday

By Karen Talley

And Serah Nunn

The fate of Sanford's Yankee Lake condemnation effort lies with city commissioners and administrators whose testimony on Monday will either bolater or deflate defense attorneys' motions for dismissal of the suit.

In separate motions filed Friday, defense attorneys not only specify the approach they'll take to achieve this, but also move for dismissal of amended pleadings Sanford filed on Jan. 15.

The additional pleadings charge Seminole County representatives with violating the state Constitution and its Government in the Sunshine law when negotiating to purchase Yankee Lake from Jeno Paulucet. Both Sanford and the county vied for the property last fall for their respective wastewater management programs.

In seeking dismissal of all city charges, defense attorneys for Paulucel and the county charge that Sanford commissioners violtated the city charter and state statutes when they met on Nov. 8 to sanction the condemnation effort. Because the meeting was "illegal," defense attorneys contend the condemnation suit and all subsequent pleadings in the city's attempt to obtain Yankee Lake are "null and void."

Primary basis for their motions lies with the fact that City Commissioner Milton Smith was not present at the specially called Nov. 8 meeting. nor did he receive notice of it. Defense attorneys contend that this is in violation of the city charter, which requires 24 hours advance notice for special commission meetings. Smith was in South Carolina on Nov. 7 and 8.

Also, attorneys contend, "The commission failed to comply with the (state) statutory requirements for passing a resolution," because the commission's vote was not properly entered in the city minute book.

However, according to City Attorney William Colbert, Sanford representatives "were careful every step of the way and followed the law throughout."

He also said Smith's presence was not necessary for the special meeting because a duorum was in attendance. "It seems to me if they all had to be at meetings, government would shut down whenever someone wasn't there," he

The city, according to Colbert, "is prepared" for Monday's hearing.

The attorneys, as well as the city representatives, will state their case on Monday in Melbourne during a four-hour hearing presided over by Seminole-Brevard Circuit Judge Tom Waddell.

"We have full anticipation of a lively discussion," defense attorney Ross Stanton said Friday.

Arguing for the dismissal are Stanton and Howard Marsee, representing Seminole County, and Mack Cleveland, Jim Spoonhour and Harris Turner, counsel for Paulucel.

In addition to Colbert, the city will be represented by Ken McIntosh and Thomas Julin. Subpoenaed to testify are City Commissioners Milton Smith and Bob Thomas, City Manager Frank Faison, City Clerk Henry Tamm and Cal Conklin, of the city's engineering firm Conklin, Porter and Holmes.

Defect In Booster Suspected

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) -NASA employees held a memorial service Saturday morning honoring the seven astronauts near the Vehicle Assembly Building at the Kennedy Space Center amid conflicting reports as to the possible cause of Tuesday's tragic explosion on lift-off of the shuttle Challenger

NASA officials have repeatedly declined speculation as to the cause of the explosion but one unconfirmed report from a usually reliable source indicated confirmation from NASA that a defect in a seam of the left solid rocket booster allowed the emission of fuel causing the detonation. The Saturday morning memorial service gave the NASA launch team the opportunity to "say good-by" to the seven astronauts. The feeling of family has caused the space complex and surrounding communities to feel the losses personally. Coast Guard cutters, divers and robot submersibles continued Saturday to comb through underwater debris that could include the doomed shuttle Challenger's crew cabin. Friday night, thousands of residents in Brevard County near the Kennedy Space Center lined local beaches bearing candles and flashlights to honor the fallen astronauts. President Reagan earlier eulogized space teacher Christa McAulisse and her crewmates Friday as "heroes" in an emotional remembrance at the Johnson Space Center in Houston attended by family members, astronauts. lawmakers and NASA workers.

Back at the Cape, a small. unmanned remote-controlled submersible called the Sprint was deployed in water up to 200-feet deep after sonar equipment detected "a large object on the ocean floor," said Coast Guard Lt. Cmdr. James Simpson.

A second, larger submersible. Scorpio, was taken to the search area later in the day, NASA officials said.

The debris could be part of the Challenger wreckage, but strong ocean currents prevented divers from trying a search.

A spokesman for the space agency said he had no reports on whether any of the astronauts' remains had been found or if the shuttle's crew module had been located.

The structurally reinforced crew cabin may have survived the initial explosion relatively intact, but space agency and Coast Guard officials stressed the sonar-detected debris could be anything.

"It could be a Spanish gaileon or a shrimp boat; it could be a bunch of rocks or it could have something to do with Challenger," said Simpson. 'There's no way of telling what it might be."

The NASA review board investigating the shuttle disaster took the day off today for the memorial service and planned to get back to work Sunday.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Sales of new one-family houses increased 1.7 percent in December as the average price hit a new high of $108,600, government estimates showed Estimates released by the Department of Commerce and Housing and Urban Development also showed that 686,000 new houses were sold in 1985, the most since 1979, when 709,000 new houses were sold.

Sales of new one-family houses in December were at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 721,000, compared to the upwardly revised November rate of 709,000, an increase of 1.7 percent. December's annual rate was 19.4 percent above the December 1984 figure of 604,000.

The report said the average sales price, $108,600, topped the old figure of $103,900 in November 1985.

The 686,000 new homes sold in 1985, the report said. represented a 7.4 percent increase over the 639,000 sold in

The median sales price of the houses sold in 1985 was $84,100. "The nation's economy is very robust with virtually all its vital signs growing stronger with each month," White House spokesman Larry Speakes said of the housing report.

The highest number of new homes sold in a year was 817,000 in 1978, government figures showed.

Lund Gets Human Heart, Hope

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) - Mary Lund, the world's first temale artificial heart recipient, experienced her first human heartbeat in six weeks after doctors replaced her mini-darvik 7 with the heart of a 14-year-old girl.

Doctors replaced Lund's mini-Jarvik 7 Friday with the new heart, which was beating in Lund's chest 2 hours and 56 minutes after it was removed from the donor in Billings.

Doctors said Lund, of Kensington, Minn., was in critical but stable condition, recuperating today in the intensive care unit at Abbott Northwestern Hospital.

She was awake and responded to commands, recognizing her husband at her bedside, although she could not talk because of a tube inserted to help her breathe, said Dr. Robert Van Tassel of the Minneapolis Heart Institute.

"Her heart is working very well and is beating in a normal rhythm." he said.

The donor heart came from Jyna Marie Forshee of Billings, Mont., who died Thursday after drowning in a bathtub. Montana hospital officials said.

Lund received the mini-Jarvik 7 heart Dec. 18 at Abbott Northwestern after a viral infection destroyed her own heart's pumping ability. The artificial heart served as a bridge until a human heart was available, and Van Tassel said the mini-Jarvik 7 "did not complicate the transplant

Gov. Urges Strike Settlement

AUSTIN, Minn. (UPI) - Gov. Rudy Perpich has urged striking meatpackers to settle their dispute with Geo. A. Hormel & Co., and the company planned to reopen its flagship plant after a rally by union members forced its closure for a day.

The governor met with leaders of the United Food and Commercial Workers local Friday night but neither he nor the leaders would comment afterwards. Advisers said the governor went to the meeting to ask union leaders to strive for a settlement in the five-month battle.

Hormel officials, forced to close the plant Friday because of a mass rally by union members from around the Midwest, said they would try to open again today.

A union meeting scheduled for tonight was planned to consider the recommendation of Perpich's fact-finder that the meatnackers vote again on the company's last affer.

A union spokesman said late Friday that the fact-finder's report issued last Sunday, would be discussed but that was

IN BRIEF

Graham Proposes Master Teacher Program Revisions

TALLAHASSEE - (UPI) - Gov. Bob Graham has proposed salvaging Florida's troubled master teacher program by expanding it into a five-rung career ladder system and eliminating bureaucratic foul-ups.

The recommendations came on the eve of Saturday's deadline for his salvage plan. The Legislature had threatened to dump the merit pay program unless Graham could come up with suggestions for ending the bureacratic and morale problems the program spawned.

In a letter to Senate President Harry Johnston, Graham said teachers should receive merit bonuses if they meet established performance standards - regardless of how they rank among their peers in classroom performance and

He insisted state government must remain true to the program's goal: keeping good teachers in the classroom by rewarding merit.

"Achievement of this objective is essential. The spo-ific tactics used to achieve this objective are of less importance," Graham said.

We cannot afford a teacher turnover rate of 6.8 percent each year, particularly when so many teachers leaving the clasroom are among the ablest and most likely to serve as role models for the profession," he added.

The program, which the Legislature enacted the program in 1983, provides for $3,000 raises for teachers who qualify for "associate master teacher" status.

Charges Dropped Against Police

Scola said a "complete and thorough investigation" was conducted by Miami police, but the evidence did not warrant prosecution.

Neither man appeared before Circuit Judge Sidney Shapiro as scheduled. The charges, however, can be refiled.

What is a "magnet magnet schools were operated school"? This is a term we using the local funds of 140 hear from time to time and I school districts. Perhaps seeing would like a better definition the continued enthusiasm for of it than I have so far gotten.

A: A "magnet school" is an elementary or secondary school lation supporting magnet that is organized around a central purpose or theme. The purpose is to offer an educationappropriation of $75 million al program to outstanding that it will appeal to students and their parents and cause parents to make the quality and uniqueness of the school their priority for enrollment.

Obviously, the idea of such a school is not brand new on the American educational scene, but more and more magnet schools have been appearing in the past ten years. Many educators feel that the magnet schools movement began with the "Glenn amendment" to the Emergency School Aid Act. This called for the allocation of federal funds with which a school district could create " a school or educational center that operated a special curriculum capable of attracting substantial numbers of students of different racial

The hope was that magnet schools could serve as a quality based incentive program that would minimize need for forced busing of students to comply with federal directives. Today. you can find magnet schools in most states and especially in larger, urban school districts. In 1982, the Education Consolidation and Improvement Act ended direct federal support for magnet schools. However the concept continued to flourish. During 1983 approximatey 1,000

'Baby Doc' Holds Onto Power Despite Violence

PORT-AU-PRINCE. Hatti (UPI) — Scores of gun-toting crack troops patrolled empty and blocked-off streets early today following President-for-life Jean-Claude Davaller's rejection of reports that he had been deposed.

The conflicting reports of "Baby Doe" Duvalier's ousterbrought the anti-government demonstrations to the capital. Violent protests had been limited until the sixth day Friday to outlying towns and areas.

In Port-Au-Prince, police reportedly fired in the air to disperse the crowds, but witnesses said some people were wounded or killed, and at least one 16-year-old youth was reportedly hospitalized with gunshot wounds.

It was not immediately possible to confirm the reports. which came as soldiers today patrolled the streets - many blocked off by the troops.

in repeated radio and television addresses Duvalier Friday rejected reports he was ousted from Haiti and said he was in full control of the country despite protests and violence against his rule that began Sunday.

Aquino Predicts Landslide Win

MANILA. Philippines (UPI) - Corazon Aquino today predicted a landslide victory in next week's election as President Ferdinand Marcos moved to counter reports he planned to drop out of the race.

Marcos, 68, looking strong and combative, opened an hourlong nationally televised news conference at his Melacanang Palace by denying persistent press and opposition reports that he would step aside shortly before voting begins Feb. 7 to let his powerful wife Imelda, 57.

These stories to the effect that there will be a sudden. last minute change of the presidential candidate from the president to the First Lady on the last day is completely Jalse Marcos said

On a day of heavy campaigning, Aquino told a press conference her bandwagon had gathered so much momentum that there was "no way" Marcos' ruling party machine could stop her.

There is no way we can lose," she said, "No way will Marcos deprive me of the victory I know is already mine. I am counting on a landslide to oifset any cheating Marcos and his supporters intend to do.

Pope Meets Rajiv Gandhi

NEW DELIII, India (UPI) - Pope John Paul II arrived today for a grueling 10-day mission of unity and peace' across ludia, the first state visit by any pontiff to this probaminanth Hindu land, Security was extremely light when the pontiff's special Mitalia jet from Rome landed at Palam Airport, where the sope was greeted by Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi and Presplent Zail Singh Commandos armed with submachine guns ringed the flag-decked arrival area as the ponult, clad in a bright white cassock, knelt to kiss the tarmae, a now traditional gesture on state visits. Scores more police lined his motorcade routes.

Two Christian schoolchildren presented him with garlands of flowers and beads of scented sandalwood.

Army artillerymen fired a 21-gun salute and the pope walked down a red carpet to a purple canopy-covered podoim to make his arrival speech

Why Did Marcos Call The Election?

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) -He has been publicly denounced as an inveterate liar, a dying dictator, an evil genius, a cheater and a coward. His record as a guerrilla fighter in World War II has been belittled and he is accused of stashing millions of dollars abroad.

President Ferdinand Marcos. who used to silence his critics by jailing them, is under unprecedented attack from a formidable and outspoken rival in the final stretch of perhaps the most critical election campaign in Philippine history.

The rigors of the campaign trail have taken a toll on his health. He often is carried to the stage by aides and retreats during rallies to hidden private cubicles, often for as long as 20 minutes.

At one rally, an unflattering photograph showed him slumped in the arms of bodyguards, his eyes nearly closed. On a platform earlier the same day he was seen swallowing what appeared to be a handful of

More telling may be the crowds themselves. Many who attend Marcos rallies are bused there and given free T-shirts. Some admit to having been paid. By the time Marcos speaks many already have gone home.

With only a short time to go until the Feb. 7 election, some people are wondering why he has subjected himself to such punishment.

He was not legally bound to call the election and his term of office does not expire until

Had he expected an easy victory? Had he not anticipated the opposition would unite behind Corazon Aquino? Had be banked on the Supreme Court constitutional? Had he thought his election call alone would mollify Washington?

The United States has expressed satisfaction with the call for the vote and the enthusiastic reaction of the Filipino people. But it is watching the outcome closely, not yet satisfied the results will be credible.

The Philippine Supreme Court refused to halt the election. The opposition, except for a boycott movement by the extreme left. has united solidly behind Aquino. And Marcos now faces the toughest battle of his career.

"I asked the president on New Year's, 'Why did you call for the snap election when your term of office would still expire in 1987," Roman Catholic Archbishop of Manila. Cardinal Jaime Sin, told a gathering of businessmen and civic leaders. "He could not answer me. I don't know what happened. It was very untimely. It was all favorable to the opposition."

The campaign period began Dec. 11, less than six months

A week before the campaign began. Armed Forces Chief Gen. Fabian Ver and 24 other soldiers were acquitted in the 1983 murder of his rival's husband, popular opposition leader Benigno Aquino. Ver was reinstated despite fierce opposition from the United States.

and take the risk of facing the cicctorate."

Observers speculated on several scenarios that forced Marcos to call the election, among them fears in his family that his health would fall before the 1987 election or that possible opposition victories in the May 1986 local polls would erode his power

Still others held the Americans directly responsible after their stiff criticism over Marcos handling of the communist insurgency and the economic crisis and his apparent reluctance to implement sweeping political, economic and military reforms.

Marcos has been president since 1965. He has watched four American presidents come and go, beginning with Lyndon Johnson. A victory would extend his rule to 1992. He has vowed to win but acknowledges the stakes are high.

He said the election would settle "once and for all" doubts about his popularity.

"If we do not do this, the country may be divided and the institutions that are established in order to implement the policies of government may become ineffective." he told a meeting of ruling party officials.

How Marcos intends to win given the apparent widespread support for Aquino has raised speculation he will cheat despite U.S. warnings that a fraudulent election would offset any gains he intends to reap by a six-year extension of his rule.

"Such an outcome," Assistant Secretary of State Paul Wolfowitz warned recently in Washington, "would lead to the polarization of Philippine soci-

Japanese Top U.S. In International Banking

Japanese banks had international assets of $640 billion on Sept. 30, 1985, against $580 billion for U.S. banks, the BIS said, giving the Japanese a 26 percent share of total international loans among reporting banks compared to 23.4 percent for U.S. banks.

The BIS said that in fact, the share of U.S. banks "is somewhat overstated" because it includes assets in offshore centers in the Caribbean and Far East. while data for other reporting banking systems include only those foreign affiliates located in other reporting countries.

"That means, for instance, that the figures for Japanese banks do not include the operations of their branches in Hong Kong and Singapore," it said.

The BIS, a clearing house for central banks based in this Swiss city, said if offshore activities are not taken into account. the U.S. bank share of reported international assets was 18 percent against a comparable 24.5 percent for Japanese banks.

Placing third to fifth in international assets were French. British and West German banks with respective shares of 8.9, 7.4 and 6.7 percent, the BIS said in its report on international banking during the first nine months last year.

Juggling gains and losses trims tax

By Robert Metz (Fourth of 14 articles)

Capital assets get special treatment under the tax laws. If you made a profit and if you held the property longer than six months, you will get special long-term capital gains treatment - and a lower tax bill.

Tax Trap: This applies to the 1985 tax year only. The more than six-month holding period for long-term capital gains treatment applies to assets acquired after June 22, 1984, Assets acquired before that date must be held more than a year. So, for example, if you acquired an asset on June 1, 1984 and sold it for a profit on, say, May 5. 1985 you would not have a long-term gain.

In any case, if you are thinking of selling securities you should be sensitive to the tax consequences.

You have a capital gain when you sell a capital asset at a profit. Capital gains are longterm if you owned the asset for more than six months (six months and a day or longer). short-term if held for six months or less. Only 40 percent of long-term gains are taxed. But 50 percent of net long-term capital losses ordinarily will be deductible.

Conversely, 100 percent of any short-term gain is taxable and 100 percent of any short-term loss is deductible up to certain limits. So it makes sense for investors to hold gains for long-term status but to take losses before they become long-term.

Since only 40 percent of a long-term capital gain is taxable. the maximum rate of tax on the whole capital gain now stands at 20 percent. (The 50 percent bracket is the highest and 40 percent of that is 20 percent, the maximum rate of tax on gains.) You must complete Schedule

County as a youth counselor. Ms. Haerich said some of Cobb's previous work performance was checked into but not his background because he had worked for the county before and she had assumed his claims of education and experience had been verified. She said a check with a national crime computer showed no information on Cobb and no problems were found associated with his driver license.

While Cobb apparently had a successful interview for the probation department job, the county's personnel office had flagged his records noting his resume did not jibe with his work history which included periods of dual employment, conflicting dates of employment and a history of working only a few months at a job.

In fact. Cobb had applied for a permanent job with the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services in Casselberry while a temporary worker there, but was turned down because his supervisor at that time could not confirm his education claims, according to that supervisor. Prior to Cobb's hiring at the probation office. Haerich was not obligated by county policy to verify Cobb's background claims, according to county hiring policy.

Should county department supervisors be required to thoroughly check out prospective employees, or should they continue under present policy? Seminole County commissioners reached for comment on the hiring policy are divided on the issue.

Commissioner Fred Streetman said he was not aware of the county's policy regarding checking prospective employees' credentials.

If the policy does not require a check, he said, "I think the policy ought to be changed."

"I don't know what we're doing." Streetman said concerning the policy. "But if the county is not asking these people to submit some proof of education, we ought to do that," he said.

Streetman also said the county should do "at least some spot checking of references." "If we're not, then we should," he said.

County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm said the county does a preliminary cheek of the qualifications. He said this "is sufficient, but on certain jobs we should go into a little more Sturm said the county's check of prospective employees' credentials "may not be as in depth as it should be." He-said he had not heard about the case involving this specific employee and declined to comment further until he had seen the facts of the case.

Commissioner Sandra Glenn also said she had not heard about this specific case. She said she was not familiar with the procedure for checking into a prospective employee's background, but thought that the personnel department would evaluate the person's qualifications based on the county's job description and that people within each division would interview the person. She said she did not know if they would also check that person's credentials.

If there was a problem with the policy, Mrs. Glenn said it would come before the county's personnel board, which would review the policy and procedure and make a recommendation to the county commission.

The personnel board is made up of two county commissioners, Streetman and Sturm, and three county employees. County Administrator Ken Hooper, Purchasing Director JoAnn Blackmon. and a Public Works division employee.

Ms. Haerich called accusations that she mishandled the Cobb investigation "totally County Judge Harold Johnson, Ms. Haerich's supervisor said he was not going to look into the suspension of Ms. Lewis or the alleged theft unless it involved management problems. He said if the current turmoil in the probation office is being caused by the theft of fine money, he prefers auditors or the state attorney's office handle the matter.

Cobb, who joined the probation office in October 1984, resigned Aug. 16 to enter private business after he was told he would be fired if he did not resign, according to Ms. Haerich who asked to meet with the Evening Herald after the paper began an investigation into the alleged thefts and suspension. At the time Cobb resigned, he was earning $18,533 annually and made restitution in the case, she said. Ms. Haerich said Cobb assurred her at that time that there was no other missing fine money.

paid back, the accused was ifone from the office, and there was no evidence the crime had been committed. Ms. Haerich, however, said she began a systematic review of Cobb's caseload and when _ she found what she thought were other indications of theft, went to the State Attorney's office which she said advised her to go to the Sanford police. The police investigations were then routed to the State Attorney's office and then filed. Ms. Haerich said more charges could be filed as the caseload is reviewed.

According to county records, Cobb's job meanderings from 1977 ranged from selling fried chicken to debt collection to personal financial planning. One resume in county records has him holding 10 jobs in seven years, another five jobs in eight years, some of them at the same time as others. He said he had a bachelor of science in psychology conferred in 1982 by the University of West Georgia, a requirement for the probation officer's job or four years of equivalent experience. A spokesman for the registrar's office at the college, Deloris Moore, said Cobb did not graduate from the university. He did, however, attend the college in the early 70s, she said.

Cobb also said in applying for the probation lob with the county that he received a degree in psychology and sociology from South Georgia College in 1972. A spokesman for the registrar's office. Peggy Guthrie, said the college does not confer four-year degrees and its two-year degrees are not given in any subject. She said Cobb completed his course work for a degree in the early 70s but did not take his final test until 1982. After the test - a regency exam required by all college students in Georgia - he received a two-year Associate of Science degree.

Prior to working a few months with the Casselberry HRS office, Cobb said in county records that he worked six months for Child Protective Services in Americus, Ga.

Jan Myers, director of the department in Americus, said Wednesday she remembers the "Cobb case" well because it was one of the rare times a person finished their six-months work probation with the department and was not hired. She said that "seldom happens."

Ms. Myers said besides non-satisfactory job performance. Cobb was not kept on because there were accusations of money mismanagement involving clients in his caseload. She said the department did not pursue the matter beyond his

Both Cobb and Ms. Lewis during their employment with the probation office received good evaluations from Ms. Haerich.

The first evaluation of Cobb, in Dec. 20 1984. said he was conscientious, punctual and able to work with difficult probationers. She said Cobb "took over a DUI caseload that had been unattended for several months." Those cases had been left unattended for several months because the clerk handling them was bitter over job opportunities and Ms. Haerich's management. records show.

In July, 1985, a month before Cobb resigned. his evaluation referred to him as "cheerful ... always on time ... one to be counted on to get a job done." She said he had handled 600 cases in six months. Ms. Hacrich said Thursday that until the allegation of theft arose, Cobb was an outstanding worker and that the alleged theft was an unfortunate incident.

Ms. Lewis, whose first hearing is Tuesday, was called "in line for supervision." Ms. Haerich reported she was an asset to morale, superlative at writing narrative investigation reports, and dependable.

Ms. Haerich has been evaluated by her superiors, the county judges, as professional and above reproach.

Friday, Paulucci lashed out at 'off-the-lip statements' he contends Colbert made to the media regarding the multimillion dollar lawsuit his Heathrow development people filed earlier this week.

Paulucci's lawsuit holds city representatives liable for their alleged "illegal and malicious" interference in his efforts to sellthe 2,867 acre Yankee Lake property to Seminole County. The suit seeks $13 million in actual damages and $15 million in punitive damages from the city.

Earlier this week, Colbert said he found it "interesting" that the suit asks $13 million in actual damages, rather than the $7.5 million the county paid for the property. "The $13 million must be the amount that Heathrow believes the county's purchase is actually worth, as opposed to the $7.5 million purchase price," Colbert

He also said the city was within its legal right to attempt to acquire the land through condemnation and that it would respond to the Paulucci suit by seeking its dismissal. Paulucci termed these statements "a personal affront" and said because of them, he will have no part of the settlement negotiations he initiated between Sanford, Seminole County and the state Department of Environmental Regulation.

On Friday, the three parties said Paulucci's position will not after their plans to meet at Sanford city hall on Feb. 3. FJC Nemesis Draws Target From Raiders

"Well, how important is this game?"

That's become a standard line of questioning when one confronts Seminole Community College basketball coach Bill Payne. The question, though, is becoming somewhat obsolete.

Every game from here on in for Payne's Raiders in a big game in the Mid-Florida Conference. Saturday night at the SCC Health Center, nevertheless, is the biggest to date. There is no charge for admission to the most competitive and exciting basketball in the state.

The fourth-ranked Raiders. 21-5 and 7-2 in the conference, host top-ranked Florida Junior. which is 19-4 and 8-1 in the M-FC. Once considered a lock by Payne for the conference and automatic berth in the state tournament. Florida Junior has slipped a bit. The Stars lost at Lake City by one point to bring SCC and Daytona Beach (20-6 and 6-3) back into the race.

The emphasis is on the "at." SCC lost to the Stars (101-90) at Jacksonville and the Raiders must win at home if they hope to win the conference. Florida Juntor still has to play at Daytona, as do the Raiders, which makes the race interesting again. Daytona plays at Central Florida Saturday.

The Raider nemesis Saturday night will be Verdy Buckholtz. FJC's 6.0 sophomore point his socks for a FJC-SCC clash, he also pulls on a magic shooting

A year ago, the Jacksonville prep product was nearly flawless from the field in a Stars' win. This year, all Buckholtz did was make 10 of 11 field-goal attempts and add a free throw.

"We just hope he has a bad night shooting." Payne said wishfully. "They will press Saturday to try and establish the tempo." And coach Buster Harvey's tempo is upbeat. Payne listed four objectives for a win Saturday night. "We have to keep the score down. We have to control the game," he said. "We have to shoot a little better than last time. We have to have our own

SCC did none of that and there were a lot of Stars on Jan. 13. They shot 56 percent from the field. Teammate Derrick Mitchell hit 8 of 12 for 18 points. Jonathan Crawford, who Payne calls the best player in the conference, finished with 13 and a lot of boards. Alvin Heggs, a 6-7 board man, and Dwayne Taylor, a 6-4 forward, complete

Greg "Slim" Johnson, the inspirational one, is less than 100 percent with a bruise in the small of his back. "But he'll be out there," Payne said about his 28-year-old leader.

Mike Landell, the defensive whiz, will start in the backcourt along with multi-talented Tony Roberts and Darris Gallagher. Efrem Brooks will be the first addition at guard. James Morris and Carl Poelinitz, who had up his incomplete and returned to action in Wednesday's win over Santa Fe, provide the depth at forward.

The key Raider, though. should be Vance Hall, a 6-8 freshman who starts his bloom against FJC three weeks ago. Hall met the Stars' muscular challenge with 23 points and 15

Lyman's Senior Trio Nips Rams

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

Lyman's Greyhounds and Lake Mary's Rams have played that the final score of Friday night's Seminole Athletic Conference barnburner was not

While both teams have played a number of close games, the Greyhounds have found ways to pull them out while Lake Mary has come out on the short end more often than not.

The Rams were unable to turn the tables on Lyman Friday night as the senior trio of Ralph Philpott, Brett Marshall and T.J. Scaletta paved the way as the 'Hounds came away with a 64-63 victory before 401 fans at Lyman High.

Lyman ran its overall record to 16-3 while improving its SAC mark to 4-1 and moving one game behind Seminole (5-0) which played a nonconference game Friday. Lake Mary now stands at 7-9 overall and fell two games back in the conference at 3-2. Lyman hosts Seminole in a big SAC showdown Tuesday.

Philpott poured in a careerhigh 26 points including a bucket with 30 seconds left that broke a 61-61 tie. Marshall contributed 17 points and seven rebounds while Scaletta added 11 points and hit the free throw with seven seconds left that scaled the victory.

"The kids did what they had to do to win," Lyman coach Tom Lawrence said. "But I'm impressed with Lake Mary. They played really well."

For Lake Mary, Kelly McKinnon lit up the net for 22 points, most from the downtown Longwood area, while Ray Hartsfield pumped in 13 and Oscar Merthic contributed 11 points and nine rebounds.

"We're getting better." Lake Mary coach Willie Richardson said. "Just like Seminole, nobody gave us a shot at Lyman. I was really happy with the kids. They played a good ballgame. Now, we have to start doing the right things so we can win the close ones.

Lake Mary led for most of the ballgame and was up by as much as eight, 40-32, in the third quarter before Lyman used its zone press to rattle the Rams. The Greyhounds outscored Lake Mary, 17-6, the remainder of the third period for a 49-46 lead.

The Greyhound patiently worked the ball around their next possession and Scaletta found Marshall open on the baseline. Marshall buried the jumper from 15 feet as Lyman took a 61-59 lead with 1:01 remaining.

McKinnon came back to fire in a 15-footer with 50 seconds left to pull the Rams even. 61-61. Lake Mary got the ball back after a Lyman misfire, but Hartsfield couldn't connect and Marshall grabbed the rebound and outletted to Scaletta. Philpott broke open underneath and Scaletta whipped it to him for a layup that gave Lyman a 63-61 lead with 30 seconds left to play.

Lake Mary couldn't retie it and Scaletta was then intentionally fouled with seven seconds left. The senior guard hit the first of two free throws for a 64-61 victory. Lyman's defense then let Lake Mary have the final two points at the buzzer.

"Our zone press really worked well for us the second half," Lawrence said. "We were able to change defenses a few times and it confused Lake Mary.'

Philpott had his way inside on the offensive end as a number of his buckets came on one on one opportunities.

'He (Philpott) was isolated one on one and we were able to dump it off to him quickly," Lawrence said. "It's hard to control a kid like that when you're playing him one on one."

"Within the limits of the game's rules, we're going to try to open it up," said Shula.

The coaches have 82 of the National Football League's top players to work with. Each team has lost its starting quarterbacks in Joe Montana of the San Francisco 49ers and Dan

The Lake Mary Rams kept their streak alive Friday night with an easy 51-20 win over Orlando Evans at Lake Mary High School.

The Rams improved to 10-0 on the year and 51-4 over the past four seasons. The defending Seminole Athletic Conference champions were too strong and powerful for the Trojans.

he was wrestling varsity, he was scared to death." Peters said. "He did a great job. He wrestled a tough kid and even scored some points on him."

Craig Johnson got the Rams back on the winning track at 115 when he defeated Wilbert Fuce 14-7. Johnson's win put him at 10-0 for the season.

"Craig (Johnson) really looked controlled on the mat tonight," Peters said. "He did things the way we planned them to go and really took it to the other guy (Fuce)."

Lady Rams Throttle Lyman To Remain Perfect

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

Lake Mary's Lady Rams have reached the halfway point in their quest for a first-ever conference championship.

Friday night, Tonya Lawson, Cynthia Patterson and Teri Whyte combined for 46 points as the Lady Rams ran their Seminole Athletic Conference record to 5.0 with a 63-53 victory over Lyman's Lady Greyhounds before 151 fans at Lyman High.

Lake Mary now has a 112 game lead over Lake Brantley (4-2) in the SAC with five games left on the league schedule. The Lady Rams also ran their overall record to 14-4 and are well on their way to a fifth consecutive 20-win season.

"I was real proud of the kids tonight." Lake Mary coach Bill Moore said, "They were able to change defenses without making the mistakes they had been making. This was one of our smartest ballgames of the season."

Lyman, which was led by a strong performance by senior Kim Forsyth, now stands at 2-3 in the conference and is practically out of the running unless Lake Mary does a late-season nosedive The Lady Greyhounds are 11-4 overall.

Champion Joe Kruczek rolls in a putt at the Mayfair Open.

Mayfair Open Is Huge Success

Now that the smoke has cleared and things have settled down after the hugely successful Mayfair Open Pro-Am and Pro-Tournament last week, the "Old Course" is getting back to normal.

As most everyone knows, the open was won by Joe Kruczek with a spectacular 13 under par 131 for the two-day event. Kruczek won by two strokes over Jim Hallett and Keith Parker who tied at 133. It was a terrific field of 195 professionals who played under almost perfect weather conditions on both days.

Many of the pros made a point of commenting about the excellent condition of the course and how much they enjoyed it. The winner Kruczek had a nice paycheck of $1,800 for his efforts.

Benches, Bleachers Clear As Patriots Fight Past Howell

By Chuck Burgese Special to the Herald

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - In a game marred by a bench- and bleacher-clearing brawl, the Lake Brantley Patriots went on to destroy the Lake Howell Silver Hawks. 62-47, in a Seminole Athletic Conference confrontation in front of 401 angry fans at Lake Brantley High School Friday night.

The Patriots used a game-high 16 points each from Wade Wittig and Mark Moser en route to the SAC victory. The win improved the Patriots to 7.8 overall and 2.3 in the SAC. The Silver Hawks drop to 1-3 in the SAC and hold at 5-13 on the season.

With the score well in the favor of the Patriots in the fourth period, the Silver Hawks' Terry Gammons was apparently fouled when Moser went for a steal. However, the flagrant foul was called against Gammons and he went into a frenzy. He retallated and a technical foul and put the Hawks further in the hole against the Patriots, who were already up by seven points.

"My kid (Gammons) was definitely fouled," Silver Hawks head coach Greg Robinson said. "He just reacted the wrong way when the call was made. He didn't mean to start anything, he thought the call was a bad one."

Even though Gammons didn't mean to start anything, his retaliation against Moser brought both benches and both sides of the gym onto the court with fists flying left and right. Parents and fans alike were shouting obscenttles and making threats, but play was finally resumed after a 10-minute intermission.

"It was really unfortunate that things got out of hand the way they did." Robinson said. "I think if the people wouldn't have come on the court that things would not just inside the foul line.

have been so dramatic.

"I went out to get my players calmed down and some parent of a Lake Brantley player grabbed me! I wish the game would have been left to the people involved."

When play resumed, the Patriots' Darren Leva put up a 15-foot jumper that hit nothing put net bringing them to within

The Silver Hawks made a slight comeback to pull within four points when C. Gibson hit short jumper, but could never get any closer. With time running out late in the game, the Silver Hawks were forced to foul. The end result was a Patriot spurt that put them over the top and gave them the win.

"It seems to be a big rivalry," Brantley mentor Steve Jucker said of the two teams. "They went to a 2-3 zone and caught up to us at the end, but we got a little spurt on them at the free throw line and that's what made the difference."

Jumping all over the Silver Hawks in the early going, the Patriots managed a 12-8 first period lead. In that span of time, Wittig went four for four from the fleld to drop in eight of his game-high total.

"Wade (Wittig) played a good game for us tonight." Jucker said. "He was more effective in the first half, but he helped in other ways."

The second period opened with a pass inside to Leva from Moser for a quick two and Wittig put up a shot that wouldn't fall, got the rebound and put the sphere in the hole for another bucket.

With 3:15 remaining in the half. Brantley's Mike Morris took another feed from Moser to nail down two, but the Silver Hawks' Fred Hicks answered with a layup. After Lake Howell's John Lowe sank a pair of free throws. Hicks hit for two more from

"We couldn't get our inside game going tonight," Robinson said. "Without our inside game, we're not very effective at all.

We came back at the end of the first half. but they came at us in the third." After a 22-16 Patriot halftime lead, the game went into the strategy stage for both coaches. On one side the 2-3 zone was put in and on the other the full court press was inserted. "We tried to do something different," Jucker said. "We held them to only six field goals in the first half and I put even more pressure on them in the second (half)." The pressure worked as the Patriots built a 37-28 third period lead with the Patriots' Brent Bell and Moser contributing six points each. Bell added four rebounds in the period and Moser dished out three assists in the same quarter. 'Their (Lake Howell) 2-3 zone is very effective." Jucker said. "In the first half we weren't very patient, but we broke it in the third period.

The name of the game in the final period was fouls. The Silver Hawks couldn't get untracked in the closing quarter and committed 13 fouls which the Patriots turned into 18 points.

'We played a very emotional game tonight," Robinson said. "We should have played with our heads instead of our hearts. We made too many mistakes early and we fouled too much in the end. I don't know what else to say. Lake Brantley really stuck

"It's time for sterner measures and a commitment to better sportsmanship," said Sun Belt Commissioner Vic Bubas of Tampa. Fla., who issued a four-step planregulating future Sun Belt games.

The plan involves:

- Additional security officers near visiting team benches. All home coaches and administrators will be more visible and use public address systems to warn that technical fouls will be called if abuse continues. - Cheerleaders and mascots will be warned about taunting officials and opposing players.

- Handouts, such as Frisbees, plastic megaphones and candy bars, will be distributed as fans exit the arenas or the practice discontinued.

"I haven't been too confident," Jenkins, who contributed 8 points and 7 rebounds. said. "Now I am more confident."

mark, Darthard and Fedor hit buckets. Kenny Southall added two free throws and Johnnie Bennett slammed one for a 12-10 lead.

Whitney came back from the wing with a jumper to tie but Southall took a nifty pass from Fedor for a basket and Darthard flipped home a 22-footer as the clock expired for a 16-12 lead. Fedor intimidated two in-thepaint moves by Fossitt and Brad Baird into traveling calls in the last 30 seconds.

Henderson, who had trouble finding the range all night (3 of 13 from the field) with is jumper. finally hit one to open the second quarter. Parker then went coast to coast after a rebound for a 16-16 count.

"I thought we'd be able to tire those big kids out." Romaniszyn said. "But he (Klein) substituted well and that 22 (Parker) ran up and down all night."

Seminole's pressure defense forced nine Hawks' turnovers in the second period alone. Despite Henderson's lack of offense (seven points), he set the tone defensively in the second quarter before picking up his third foul.

His free throw broke the tie at 16 and then the 6-312 junior stole the ball and fed supersub Mike Wright for a layup and 19-16 lead. Darthard came back with a pair of free throws but Parker hit a jumper and Wright whipped a quick pass to Holden for a 23-18 bulge before Romaniszyn called another timeout with 4:18 to play.

It worked again as Southall and Corey Bell sandwiched baseline drives for hoops around a Fedor free throw for a 23-23 deadlock. Seminole, nevertheless, used a succession of free throws - the last pair by Walker with four seconds left — to take a 29-27 lead into halftime. Henderson picked up his fourth foul 10 seconds into the second half. Spruce Creek immediately outscored the 'Noles, 10-4, to take a 37-33 lead with 2:55 to play in the third quarter.

Klein called a timeout but the Tribe missed twice on short jumpers and Darthard, who had eight of his game-high 16 points or zzling drives. beat the . 4 Tribe down the lane for a 39-33

Whitney came back with his only second-half bucket to trim the deficit to 39-35 and after consecutive Creek turnovers, 1,300

Holden hit two big buckets inside to pull Seminole even at 39-39. Darthard, though, came back with two free throws with two seconds left for a 41-39 lead entering the final eight minutes.

'Andre (Whitney) had the open shot in the first half," Klein said. "But they weren't there in the second half."

The teams traded buckets at the outset of the fourth but Spruce Creek took a 45-43 lead when Bennett scored from short range with 4:33 left. Seminole then had four shots at the bucket - one on which Walker missed a tip-in dunk.

Fedor finally came away with the ball and quickly outletted to Darthard who went the distance for a 47-43 lead with 3:50 to Spruce Creek tried to spread its offense with 2:55 to play but Whitney stole the ball and was touled. Henderson came back with a clutch bucket to pull Seminole within two and after Walker got one of his six blocks at the other end. Fedor grabbed the rebound but threw the ball away with 2:06 to play.

Henderson and Whitney then worked some magic at the other end. Henderson took the ball on the wing and fired it to the point where Whitney rifled it back underneath as Henderson maneuvered the baseline for a bucket and a 47-47 count with 45 to play.

Fifteen seconds later, however, Southall came back with a baseline jumper for a 49-47 lead. After Walker missed at the other end, the Hawks spread it out again. The ran the clock down to 27 seconds but Bennett threw it away, giving Seminole one more chance to tie.

After a timeout, the Tribe ran the clock down to 11 seconds. Henderson had to force a jumper from the line and it missed. Craftily, Darthard slipped inside for the rebound. He hurried it up court and found Southall for a layup with four seconds left to clinch the victory

Southall and Bennett each linished with 10 points. Parker had 13 for Seminole to follow Whitney's 15. Whitney had eight assists. Henderson finished with nine rebounds and Wright snared five. Henderson had four

Pace JV's Win After the way Gene Byam and Walter "Dunkman" Hopson assaulted the backboards Friday night, it was surprising there was enough glass left to play the Seminole-Spruce Creek varsity basketball game at Seminole High's Bill Fleming Memorial

Byam, Hopson

Gymnasium. Byam scored 20 points and yanked down 14 rebounds while Hopson poured in 29 points and ripped 13 caroms as Seminole dropped Spruce Creek. 68-57. for its sixth win in a row in junior versity basketball Friday night.

Both were career highs scoring-wise for the Seminole sophomores and each added a crowd-pleasing dunk. "Gene hit some big free throws and Walter had an exceptional night," Seminole coach Tom Smith said about his streaking cagers. The Tribe is 8.2 overall and Byam warned those two teams that inflicted the setbacks better beware. "Oviedo and Seabreeze better look out," the 6-0 forward said. "We've got a score to settle with those two teams." Hopson, a 6-4 swingman, said he had a good night because he didn't think about scoring. "I knew I had to play better because Earnest (Lewis) was gone." he said about his muscular teammate who is sidelined with a back injury. "I didn't think about scoring points tonight and they just came.

Sammle Edwards, who Smith said handed out eight assists and played superb defense, had an easy time finding Byam and Hopson underneath. "They were both breaking up from the low post," he said. "I'd throw it to Gene one time and Walter the Seminole had just a 22-20 lead halftime and a three-point edge going into the final quarter when it outscored the Creek, 27-19, to nall down the victory.

Dependable Leonard Lucas added 12 points and eight boards. Hopson broke loose for his dunk in the third period while Byam capped his performance with a left-handed jam with 37 seconds to play.

"I wanted it bad," he said. "As soon I Sammle got me the ball I knew I had it because nobody was behind me.'

Seminole, also 8-0 in District 4A-9 play, travels to Lyman Tuesday night. — Sam Cook

'Work Is Life'

Employment Counselor Helps Disadvantaged Find Jobs

By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

A former migrant worker turned social worker, Emma Jean Lee is always looking ahead. Although today her mafor focus is on helping the disadvantaged find work, at 43 Ms. Lee is looking "just around the corner" at old age and said she has a special interest in the plight of the elderly.

It's not only because she expects to grow old, but having worked in a nursing home, "I feel very protective of both old people and children." she said.

In her job as an employment dustry Council of Seminole County, located at Seminole Community College, with two days of duty at Job Services of Florida in Sanford, Ms. Lee works with those who fall between those two categories. However, she said, "If I had to specialize it would be in dealing with senior citizens. I think they are badly abused. They used to scream at me in college, 'There she is on that soapbox about the old people again," Ms. Lee said.

That Ms. Lee is in a position to help the young, the old or the unemployed is a bit of a miracle. considering that when at age 10 her family moved to Sanford from Miami, it was as farm workers. By age 18 she was in the fields as a migrant worker. chopping celery, cabbage and other area crops. Until in her early 30s, without a high school diploma, this divorced mother of four decided to accept the opportunity to go to college and pursue her dream to help others.

"I knew what my major was going to be," Ms. Lee said, when she began her studies at Seminole Community College.

nice lady. I said I like to work with people. I want to be able to help someone. Social workers do not make a lot of money, so I didn't want to get rich. But they gave me something and I want to give something back."

And Ms. Lee certainly wasn't going to get rich as a migrant worker. In fact, she could barely survive and occasionally found herself on the welfare roll, she

"It's a very hard life," Ms. Lee said of migrant work. "I understand. I don't ever forget where I came from. Even in college, times when I could counselor for the Private In- afford not to work (because of education grants), during the breaks I'd go pick cucumbers for one day. My mother would say, 'Why do you do that?' I would say, 'Because I want to remember what it feels like to be over there and over here too.' I made sure I didn't forget," Ms. Lee said.

To be on the other side, Ms. Lee said. "Feels good, yeah. It makes me feel good, because in helping others I remember when I was there. I don't keep people waiting in my office, because I remember when I was there having to wait for someone else. I go out of my way to help someone, because I've been on the other side."

When the opportunity for change came, Ms. Lee said she was ready for it. "I wanted the opportunity. I had no fear. This (college) was what I had to go through to get the opportunity."

She's developed a taste for education. Ms. Lee's dream is to pursue a master's degree and teach at the college level.

At first, Ms. Lee did fear that social worker and she was a very and 70s going back to school.

I thought, am I going to dation for college, she said, remember that stuff I learned However, she added, "We did Seminole Community College, she would be the oldest in her years ago? It's not lost. It's there, have some very good teachers after passing her high school class, but at SCC she found. It just takes a little awakening and they worked very hard when equivalency exam. "I had met a "some ladies there in their 60s and experimentation," she said. they saw you wanted to learn. jobs. The education Ms. Lee did The system was alot different."

Sanford, Ms. Lee said it "was kind of slow. It wasn't noisey. There weren't riots or anything. It sort of turned over slowly and a lot smoother than I thought it would be."

It also brought a flood of social programs, such as those that benefited Ms. Lee. And although she is a former welfare recipient she said she believes in "workfare," not welfare. To receive financial assistance. Ms. Lee said, as a matter of pride the receivers should be assigned to perform some type of community service.

"To me." she said, "It's de-grading to get the money and not have anything to do for it. They don't want to be on welfare. They're there because they don't have anything bet-

"The migrant program I graduated from is right across the street from where I work for the Private Industry Council." Ms. Lee said. "Usually we refer clients back and forth. When they say, 'I can't do this,' I say, 'Yes you can. If you really want it bad enough, you can do it," Ms. Lee said. And she's there as an example.

Ms. Lee, who received her batchelor's degree from the University of Central Florida in 1976, had until May been working in Daytona Beach. She returned to Sanford, she said, only because her children, who even as adults maintain a close relationship with her, refused to

"This sounds really bad," Ms. Lee said, "but Sanford is a hard place to find a job if you're black and in an administrative position. In Sanford it's not what you know, it's who you know. A lot of qualified persons can't find

"Yeah, believe it or not, I had in that dream.

When integration came to to know someone to get my job, I had worked in an employment program at UCF and was known from that," Ms. Lee said.

Although she is close to her children who are ages 19, 21, 24, and 27, and spends Sundays with them in family-oriented activity. Ms. Lee said she is distressed by the abandoment of some older persons by their families.

It's a happening not often seen in black families, she said. "Black families have always been sort of very close. I don't see any change in that. We sort of depend on our own. When my grandmother gets old, she lives with me, my mother lives with me and on down the line. Nursing homes are the last

"When you see a black family put somebody there, they just don't have any choice. They can't do anything with then, they're really ill, so the family can't take care of them," Ms. Lee said.

But, that isn't the case in some other families, Ms. Lee said. "I feel like our society says, 'Okay, you're old, your'e no use anymore. We're going to put you in the nursing home and forget about you. That peeves me off.

"They still have something to give the community," Ms. Lee said. "I get very upset about this because I used to work in a nursing home and there were a lot of brilliant people there and they should not have been there. But the families just said. 'Hey, you're old. We're going to put you here. Their minds still worked well, yet they were in the nursing home."

And that's something Ms. Lee dreams of changing. And who knows, with her determination, she might someday make a dent

Sophisticated, Feminine, Shapely Trend For 1986

By Melissa Sones UPI FASHION WRITER

NEW YORK (UPI) - The dutting edge in 1986 wedding gowns, like that in this spring's ready-to-wear clothes, are styles that are sophisticated, feminine and shapely.

"The trend up to this year was tight at the waist and very full skirts and puffy sleeves," said Monica Hickey, bridal director at Henri Bendel's, the New York specialty store considered a leader in couture bridal fashion.

"The trend this year is strongly toward the body. slimmer, in more sensuous

At Bergdorf Goodman, the elegant Manhattan specialty store across from Bendel's, the trend is evident in the enormous popularity of "advanced" designers like Yumi Katsura, a Japanese couturier noted for very body-conscious gowns.

The bestselling designs at Nelman-Marcus, where fitting rooms are reportedly packed, exemplify the new look: a sheath of pure silk with a straightacross bateau neckline, a lace torso, and a long train.

In place of yesterday's organza and chiffon, today's gowns are pure silk and silk taffeta.

"The biggest change has been the return to natural fibers," says Frank Masandrea, a

"For a while there were mostly organzas and satin polyesters but now we use only pure silk taffeta, silk doupioni and silk satin. Everything is pure silk and the girls seem to understand

"They like that China silk and we use a lightweight silk satin that fits rather slinky," says Priscilla Kidder of Priscilla of Boston, whose company has dressed numerous presidential daughters.

Suky Rosan, whose Philadelphia salon caters to Main Line society brides doesn't hesitate. "Pure silk and lace" is how she sums it up.

Decolletage in varying degrees seems to go hand-in-hand with this year's sensuous styles.

Today's brides "want to be sexy not so much now as two years ago," says Kidder. "I pink and of white over ivory.

Bendel's bride is more daring. "We do a lot of things that are high in the front and bare in the back." says Hickey. "The back is the focal point with us.

Masandrea achieves a bare look with nude linen while Andrew Kovac, who designs a high-fashion line for Bridal Couture, is doing well with jackets that provide cover during the religious ceremony and can he removed to reveal a sexy gown at the reception. Removable jackets also are used by Ron Lovece, another innovative high-fashion designer.

Rosan is selling "a lot of sheaths with trains attached." Kovac of Bridal Couture says "if they're having a train, they want a long one" while Kidder has gotten "a lot of calls for long trains which means they're going to have formal weddings.

The dedication will take place on Wednesday, Feb. 5 at 10:30 in the morning at Magnolia Mall and Sanford's residents are invited to

The Community Bulletin Board project was started by Elizabeth McDonald, Chairwoman of the Commercial Committee, to provide the community with one location to find out "What's Happening". The Magnolia Mall location will provide an accessible spot for all the clubs and organizations to post their notices of events and activities.

The members of the Downtown Business Association will take over the task of posting new notices and removing the old ones. The contact person will be Kathy Kinney of First Street

The project will be dedicated to the memory of the late Mary Higgins Williams, longtime Sanford resident, whose son John Wesley Williams designed and crafted the beautiful mahogany and glass bulletin board. Glenn McCall of Touchton's Rexall Drugs has offered his building as the site of the bulletin board and Dave McFadden handled the installation. A bronze plaque was donated by Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) about Southern cooking includes tried chicken and over-cooked vegetables drenched in bacon lat. Not so, says boyish-looking chef and cookbook author Bill Neal of Chapel Hill, N.C.

Neal tries to dispel that unappetizing image in his new cookbook, "Bill Neal's Southern Cooking" (University of North Carolina Press, 233 pp. $15.95).

"I wanted to write something that would reveal something more than just what is consumed by hungry people in the southeastern United States," Neal begins his introduction.

"Nowadays, what may be consumed in the South may have been baked in Omaha. But true southerners hold historical and cultural bonds to heart. above geography."

Neal, manager of Crook's Corner restaurant, said he attempted to define Southern cooking in his cookbook, which contains 117 recipes.

Son Loses In Love, Mom Loses Heirloom

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago, when my son became engaged, I gave him my mother's engagement ring to give to his flancee. At that time, I asked him to please ask his fiancee to sign a paper stating that if the marriage was ever dissolved, she would return the ring to his family. He became indignant, said he was hurt that I had so little faith in their future together, and refused to even ask her. Like a softy, Het it go.

Two and a half yeas later, she walked out on him. She has the ring. My son says he wants no discordancy whatever - that he will pay me what the ring is worth.

Abby, I didn't sell it to him. I want the ring, not the money. They are working out a "friendly divorce," although I know my son is broken-hearted because she left him. They are living apart, and she is living it up. Meanwhile, knowing she has my mother's diamong really upsets

To rate the anniversary, they tossed a One year down, three to go then to hold the job another four years. i case anyone is interested, I plan un in 1988," sald Berrien who first on the job whet his appetite to over how much of private business hods can be incorporated in the

and despite some successes, includthe fulfillment of campaign proes, there's still "a long way to go." Berrien from his new fourth floor e at the county courthouse in errien succeeded in his second try the clerk's job ousting Art Beckwith o had held office for 24 years. Under two dozen years of Beckwith's rule, e office changed from a six-person peration to a 108-staff enterprise, oday the staff is 135 and future tpansion is anticipated to accom-modate the county's rapid growth.

Like other workers at the courthouse, office was moved twice during the year as workmen scoured the building removing asbestos and remodeling. It just one of the changes Berrien dured or initiated during his first mar in office.

A major accomplishment of the first ear, said Berrien, was reducing the everage time it took the office to process a child support payment, one of his campaign promises. It used to take two weeks to process a payment. When he assumed office, Berrien pledged to reduce the money-in money-out time to 48 hours. Today the turn around time is 24-hours even, though the office has more responsibilites in that area because of new legislation.

"What comes in today, is handled today," Berrien said. An expansion of that department and reorganization also facilitated the reduction in turn-

It was given a priority because a lot of the people receiving child support payments "need it badly."

The legislature directed that starting in 1985 the clerk of court's office shall send delinquency notices regarding child support. The clerk also was given the authority to report failure of payments to the Domestic Relations Commission which can result in the delinquent parent's arrest.

Most people ordered to pay child supoport do pay it, however, Berrien said. His office handles about $700,000-a-month from about 5,154 payments.

Now each person taking payments has their own drawer as in a bank. Berrien said adding the system also protects individuals handling

However, all but about $500,000 of the office's operating costs are funded by fees charged by the office. The only money the office gets from the county. Gramm-Rudman Verdict In -Depending Who You Listen To

This is one of those times that we economists can take great pride in our profession.

The nation is about to embark on the most dramatic experiment in fiscal policy ever - deficit reduction under the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings bill. The bill mandates annual reductions in the budget deficit, eliminating it by 1991.

While the ink on the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings is barely dry, and while administration and Congressional leaders are already busy trying to get out of its provisions for spending cuts or tax increases, economists are being helpful by figuring out and explaining what the bill will do to the economy.

The verdict is in.

Gramm-Rudman-Hollings will plunge the economy into a recession, or it will have no effect at all, or it will stimulate Keynesian economists cling to the notion that government spending and tax policy matter. They believe that the provisions of the deficit reduction program will rob the economy of a huge dose of total demand for goods and services, and thus lower the level of income.

The President is required to submit next month a budget calling for about $55 billion in cuts in spending or tax increases in order to achieve the deficit ceiling of $144 billion for the next fiscal year. The Congress can try an alternative, but one way or another, the target must be met.

Meeting it will lower peoples' incomes, reducing their consumption. lowering other peoples' incomes. Fraditional Keynesian analysis suggests the first-year result of such cuts will be a plunge of $120 billion in income. With slow growth likely next year anyway, this Keynesian prognosis could easily translate into a recession.

Monetarists, on the other hand, think the deficit phase-out will have no effect. They argue that the spending cuts or tax increases will reduce government borrowing, and thus the government's demand for credit. This will lower interest rates and stimulate invest-

How much? Monetarists argue the increased investment will offest the effects of deficit cuts, and thus leave total income unchanged. Economists in the Reagan administration, which is a hotbed of monetarism, adhere to this view. The Office of Management and Budget assumes spending cuts will not affect total income.

Rational expectations economists believe we will all respond to the defleit cuts in a way that will similarly neutralize their effects. As we see the government borrowing less, we will breathe a sigh of financial relief at the reduced burden being placed on our future and that of our children. Thus reassured, we will go out and spend like crazy, offsetting the reduction in demand the cuts would otherwise cause.

Long run monetarists take an even more cheerful view of the deficit cuts. Not only does increased investment offset the immediate effect of the cuts. but it provides the capital for more rapid economic growth in the future. In the long run. Gramm-Rudman-Hollings increases income.

Having paid no money, you can take your choice. My own inclination is to pick none of the above. I think the deficit cuts will ease pressure on interest rates. That will diminish foreign enthusiasm for buying up

AIDS Suffering Can Not Be God's Punishment

By United Press International

The Charlotte (N.C.) Observer

The Rev. Charles Stanley, president of the Southern Baptist Convention. must have been referring to that Old Testament God a few days ago when he declared that AIDS is God's expression of displeasure with the "sinful lifestyle" of homosexuals.

... what the Rev. Stanley said probably reveals more about his own meanness than about God. ... A case of AIDS is certainly a consequence of someone's actions, but if it is God's will, how do we explain the innocent child who has the disease, or the person who got it from a blood transfusion ... Is God that fickle? ... to suggest that anyone's suffering is God's punishment for his sins is to attribute to God not only our own sinful vindictiveness, but also our inability to administer perfect justice.

It mandates automatic cuts across the board to achieve the necessary overall budget limit required to reach the desired 1991 goal of a fully balanced budget without a deficit.

Panicked by the existence of a total deficit well above one trillion (that is, a million million) dollars. Congress and President Reagan tried to find some magical way to avoid paying the fiddler. Such payment, of course. should properly come in the form of tax increases. But Congress has been profligate too long.

Mom's Strike Successful

VADER, Wash. (UPI) -Gina Smith, 37, who holds jobs as a waitress and part-time school bus driver, said she will remain officially on strike until her three children sign work agreements, but thinks her work stoppage has been a BUCCESS.

Smith declared her strike Jan. 11 against son Shawn, 16, stepdaughter Tracee, 16, and daughter Kimberly, 13, after coming home from a hard day's work to find the house a mess. The crowning blow came when one of her daughters then complained, "Mom, you never do anything.'

At that point, she stopped cooking meals and cleaning house. For a week the mess piled up. On Jan. 18 the teenagers cleaned up the house but still refused to sign the contract.

Smith, whose husband Jim was not involved directly in the dispute, said the strike and the settlement were "a growing experience" for herself and her children.

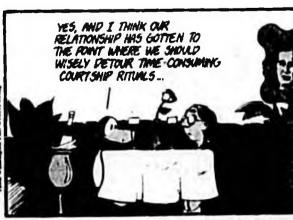

"It showed them a lot of what I did as a mother that they took for granted. I guess I had been a hindrance to them growing up because they were so attuned to not doing anything around the house because I did it all."

In the future, the work will be "split up real evenly on a rotating basis," Smith said.

Hiring Policies Need Hard Look

A county probabtion officer is arrested on a charge of grand theft; a county sheriff's deputy is suspended following an incident in which he shot a fellow officer: A school teacher is charged with fondling a child. Three unrelated incidents and seemingly not comparable. Or are they?

One glaring defect stands out in each case: The individuals involved were not responsibly checked out prior to hiring.

The deputy sheriff was still serving his probationary term on the force at the time of the unfortunate accident. The incident, however, made the defects of the hiring procedures obvious.

A telephone call was made to the personnel office for the city of Orlando but the Orlando Police Department, the previous employer, was not contacted, even casually.

The former Orlando police officer may have received a glowing recommendation from OPD, if it had been requested. This point here is not to reflect on the individual, but to call attention to the fact that no more than perfunctory efforts were made to check the background of an individual who was to be given police powers and responsibility for the protection of the citizens in Seminole County.

The case of the county probation officer is far more serious and the overall handling of the hiring of this individual cries out for reform of procedures.

He had been refused a position with HRS in Casselberry due to a misstatement as to his college experience. In other words, he lied about having a degree. He lied to them, and also in his application for the position in the county judge's office.

There was conflicting information as to his previous job experience. A reporter for the Evening Herald contacted former and prosepctive employers and easily obtained the information which was not sought by local officials during the hiring process. His previous employers verified experiences and misfortunes with him that were duplicated here in Seminole County. Testimony in court produced evidence that a local teacher, charged with fondling small children in a school for exceptional students. had had similar charges made against him in other areas of the state. The charges were not resolved in court due to a rehearing and a mistrial but the lack of a comprehensive background check of the man when he was hired is a glaring deficiency in the matter.

The are numerous laws, both state and Federal, that protect the privacy of individuals during the hiring process. However, some of these laws tie the hands of personnel officers to an extent that miscreants and incompetents are also protected. As a result, hiring mistakes are made.

The common sense element must be introduced into the personnel situation. When a judge, asked about embezzlement charges by employees in his office, compounded by employee suspensions by a criticized supervisor, shrugs off the matter with the rejoinder that he will look into it only if there appears to be a management problem. there is obviously a management problem.

When vacancies exist in areas of public protection, rehabilitation and education, clearly a higher standard of performance is mandated. Thus, it follows, that a higher standard must be set for evaluation of individual applicants.

A reasonable solution is available. Constitutional officers have the authority to do their own hiring but it would not be an officiation of that authority to seek assistance from the Seminole County personnel office in doing background checks in the obvious areas - verifying previous employment and educational claims.

A few telephone calls might help, also.

A serious problem obviously exists. Equally obvious is the responsibility of local officials to solve the problem.

An Obvious Problem Deserves A Solution

Bill Moyers' fine program on CBS has are complicating facts and questions that are crystallized a mounting concern about the very high rate of female-headed, black families in America. The concern is proper: It is the No. 1 problem for blacks.

For too long the topic was almost taboo regarded as racist finger-pointing. Now black leaders are paying public attention. So is the policy community. An important debate is

The situation is remarkably complex, confounding many orthodoxies of left and right. Unfortunately, as the dialogue unfolds, a caricature of the problem may be emerging: It is said that morality in the inner city breaks down. welfare offers incentives to have babies, teenage black girls get pregnant, black teenage boys drop out of school and can't get jobs, ever-more babies are born into poverty and with no male role model, teenage fathers remain dead-ended, the cycle of welfare, sexual irresponsibility and crime is continued, and blacks destroy themselves.

There is some tragic truth to all that, but there high as the white rate. Questions: Does this not often considered. It is important to try first to unscramble the curious pattern of black birthrates.

Item: Contrary to perception, the black birthrate in America has come down dramatically in recent years for all income groups. Remarkably, even the illegitimate birth rate for blacks has come down somewhat. Question: If welfare creates a bonus for poor blacks to have bables - why have these birthrates gone down?

Item: Because marital birth rates have fallen so sharply, the PROPORTION of black bables born out of wedlock has soared - to a devastating 56 percent. Questions: How can this happen when there is more sex education about birth control in the schools? Is it simply sexual irresponsibility? But then why is the overall black birthrate, legitimate and illegitimate, falling?

On the topic of irresponsibility, other anomalies emerge.

Item: The black rate of abortion is twice as indicate sexual irresponsibility regarding conception, or sexual responsibility regarding termination of pregnancy, or the lack of the right kind of sex education which would encourage abstinence and discourage abortion - or all of the above? Item: Most black teenage mothers with out-of-wedlock children end up getting married.

An Urban Institute study showed that about three-quarters of such mothers are married by age 24. Question: Is it really a never-ending cycle of matriarchy if most of these children end up in married households, at least for part of their lives?

Item: More black children are living in female-headed households because their parents have been divorced or separated than because their parents were never married. Questions: Are we ignoring a big part of the problem by concentrating only on the out-of-wedlock syndrome? But is it "irresponsible" for blacks to get divorced? How about for whites?

Frisbee Designed Airplanes

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Ever wonder what might happen if an airplane had wings shaped like a Frisbee?

Evidentally, it depends on whether the aircraft is flying forward or backward. At least that's the way I read High Technology magazine. That publication has an article about a California engineer who invented "an aerodynamically advanced flying disk" that can be thrown farther than a Frisbee. I'll readily concede your point that most modern aircraft don't get propulsion from throwing arms. We're talking theoretically here. According to High Technology, With a properly designed airplane.

the lift created by the wing can be harnessed to produce level flight." It adds that "Frisbees achieve relatively level flight because the thick rim creates enough turbulence in the air to move the center of lift to an area closer to the center of gravity." Now. Get this:

The California engineer concluded that a flying disk needed an airfoll section that provided more lift when flying forward than when flying backward." So he made his disk ring-shaped.

I'll also concede your point that modern airplanes don't have ringshaped wings either. Neither can they fly backward. Anyway, the ones I have flown on didn't.

These conditions could change, of course, with the advent of computers and flying disks that are more aerodynamically advanced than Frisbees. But for the moment we'll leave ring-shaped wings to California engineers and other high technocrats.

For the moment, it's enough for a confused layman to wonder where the magazine gets its records.

A 1986 issue tells us the record Frisbee toss is 456 feet. Yet my 1983 edition of the Guinness Book of World Records clearly states that in 1980 Tetsuro Arita of Tokyo threw one 500 feet. Outdoors, that

The indoor mark was then 363.5 feet, a record held by Joseph Youngman of L'Anse, Mich.

Don't ask me why a Frisbee can be thrown farther outdoors than inside, or why a Japanese can throw one farther than an America. Maybe the air is better in Tokyo. Or maybe it has something to do with throwing it backward.

However thrown, the new ringshaped disk is reported to have traveled 1.125 feet, which High Technology figures is "about two football fields farther than the longest Frisbee throw."

"Whatever it is, I don't think we should try to milk it."

At one point Brokaw tried to steer the interview from sports and on to Reagan's forthcoming State of the Union address. Death Strikes Suddenly

By Gayle Young UPI Science Writer

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — Mental arithmetic is more likely than physical exercise to bring on attacks of silent ischemia — the sudden death syndrome, according to a professor of medicine at Harvard. "There is a decrease in the supply of blood to the heart during mental demand that you do not see in exercise," said Dr. Andrew B. Selwyn, who spoke a meeting of the American Heart Association about the deadly disease that kills an estimated 350,000 people each year without warning. A recent study showed 77 percent of ischemic attacks, when blood does not fill up the heart, occurred while the patient was performing tasks such as driving, interviewing or talking on the telephone, he said. Since it was first identified in the 1970's, no disease has seemed quite as frightening as silent ischemial a disease of the heart that usually gives its victims no warning signals

For months or even years, pa-tients with the disease will suffer damaging ischemic attacks of the heart muscle that can last up to 40 minutes and occur dozens of times each day. During an ischemic attack, a section of the heart will fail to fill with blood and the tissues slowly start to die for lack of oxygen. Over a period of time the muscle weakens and eventually fails without warn-

For reasons doctors don't quite understand, an ischemic attack will trigger pleasure hormones that fill the heart nerves, countering pain signals sent from the oxygenstarved tissues, said Dr. Joel Kuppersmith, chief of cardiology at Beth Israel Medical Center in New York. "This hasn't been proven, but the warning system seems to be masked by pleasure hormones." said Kuppersmith. "The episodes can go on for years without the patient realizing until the heart goes to the point where it can't take

Selwyn said his studies show 76 percent of ischemic attacks are painless and those who do feel pain may only suffer discomfort for a minute, while the attack may last over a half an hour.

As doctors learn more and more about silent ischemia they are better able to identify potential victims and treat it.

"Relaxation techniques and some forms of exercise can help relieve the tension that builds up and sets off ischemia," said Kuppersmith. "Often patients have to learn to live their lives without constant

Tax Changes Affect Elderly

It's time to think about taxes. And some federal-tax changes are especially important for those over 65.

Beginning with tax year 1965, the standard deduction (formally known as the "zero bracket amount") has been increased for each filing status. As a result, there have also been changes in the income limits that determine whether or not you must file a tax

In previous years, if you were single and 65 or older, you would have had to file a return if your taxable income was $4,300. As of tax year 1965, that amount has increased to $4,470 - so you'll pay tax on $170 less.

In previous years, spouses who filed jointly and were both over 65 had to file a return if their taxable income was $7,400 or more. That figure is now

The Internal Revenue Service also emphasizes some changes that took place in tax year 1984:

- Taxing Social Security Benefits: in tax year 1984 - for the first time — some Social Security beneficiaries (or Tier 1 Railroad Retirement beneficiaries) were required to pay federal income tax on a part of their benefits.

If you recently retired and didn't pay attention to this change last year, you should know that: (1) only about 10 percent of Social Security beneficiaries will have to pay some tax; and (2) only up to one-half of benefits may be taxable - and primarily just for people who had substantial income in addition to their Social Security benefits. (For more information, consult IRS Publication 915. "Tax information on Social Security Benefits.")

- Estimated Tax: Most people are used to having their federal tax withheld by an employer - but that changes upon retirement: Either no tax is withheld, or too little is withheld. since it's taken out of only a portion of income truch ne a penetoni.

If your tax liability for 1985 will be $500 or more — after you apply the amount withheld or reduced by tax credits you're entitled to - you were required to pay estimated taxes during 1985.

Many retired or about-to-retire people don't realize that the IRS will charge them a penalty if 80 percent of their tax liability isn't paid over the course of the year through withheld or estimated payments. However, starting with tax year 1985, the IRS had more latitude in waiving that penalty. In the past, a penalty could be waived only if you were in one of four "exception" categories. Beginning in 1965, however, the penalty could also be waived for a "reasonable cause." (For more information, see IRS Publication 505. "Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax.")

- Charitable Deductions: Even if you don't itemize, you can still deduct a portion of your charitable contributions, and the amount that you can deduct increased for tax year 1965. (See IRS Publication 526, "Charitable Contributions" for details.

Bonner L. Carter

English has long been the "tie that binds" for the people of the United States. It has solidified a nation out of what might have been a loose collection of feuding ethnic groups.

But today, the position of English as our common tongue is eroding rapidly. Immigrants are rejecting our time-honored custom of assimilating into our society in favor of maintaining their own separate languages and

And our Federal government is encouraging this trend by providing bilingual ballots, prolonged - rather than transitional - bilingual education in public schools, and bilingual social services.

My Veterans' group-The Forty and Eight, is strongly opposed to the use of any language other than English, as the official language of America!

As the Commander of the Forty and Eight in Seminole County, I am asking every registered voter in our area to call or write to our U.S. Senators and our Congressmen, In support of the English Language Amendment (Senate Joint Resolution 20 and House Resolution 96), currently before Congress. And also to ask them for a committment to insist on high English Language standards for the naturilization of immigrants.

Cherokee Propose Tax, Gambling Haven On Rio Grande

By William H. Inman UPI National Feature Writer

Texas dope and migrant-smugglers know the island in the Rio Grande by the name of a dirt-poor settlement huddled on the bank nearby. It's called "Los Indios" or The Indians.

The name fits.

The 155-acre island, a chunk of mudflat not far I from where the great river widens and pours into the Gulf of Mexico, is the proposed homeland for a long-dispersed tribe of Indians, a branch of the American Cherokee.

"How better to get Indians off welfare than to give them independence?" says the nation's would be founding father. Herbert Williams, 76. He is a retired Air Force colonel who goes by the name "Little Bird on the Shoulder."

He and other members of the Neches tribe descendants of the Cherokee who settled in Texas are so confident of victory they've drafted a constitution and designed a flag in red, white, blue and green after the banners of the U.S. and Mexico, and emblazoned with a crossed toma-hawk, peacepipe and feather. In addition, the Neches have created a paper army, navy, and air force; and issued coins, passports, and postage stamps bearing the likenesses of warrior sachems including Chief Joseph and Sitting Bull.

But, sitting angry against the proposal is the Mexican government.

The tiny island 40 miles upstream from Brownsville, Texas, has been included on Mexican national maps since Hurricane Beulah rejiggered the boundary river 10 years ago.

miniscule.

At least that's what Mexico told the group in third-party talks.

But to the Cherokee, who claim 8,000 to 10,000 members and hold title to the property, there can be no peace without liberty. In March, a delegation is traveling to the World Court at the Hague. Netherlands, to ask that Mexico be enjoined from exercising sovereignty over the island.

"It's a cinch we're just not going to dry up and blow away," says Thomas "Red Eagle" Taylor. 48, a Dallas-based oilman and the Cherokees' ambassador plenipotentiary. "But we know it may take years and years."

To nudge along the process, Taylor is writing to oil and gas producers, including the powerful Hunt family, regarding a minor legal matter. It seems the oil-rich may not hold indisputable title to the underground riches of east Texas. Based on an ancient treaty signed between the Republic of Texas and one of Col. Williams' ancestors. Texas deeded some of its best oilpatch parcels to the Cherokee. Whites - true to form broke the treaty, slaughtered the inhabitants and swept them from the land. But Williams and the Cherokee believe a legal argument can still be made for the tribe's "inchoate" or partial rights. "Several (Texas) attorneys general have affirmed that principle," says Little Bird.

Cherokee Nation project are offering the Williams was invited to Reagan's inaugural. peacepipe. "We realize our chances for actual Territory is territory, no matter how barren and remuneration on the lands is probably slim." says Taylor. "But legal scholars say the Cherokee have bona fide rights and we're hoping they foil producers) will see it clear to help us.

Taylor hopes the oil barons will make contributions to the Indian cause in return for acceptance as honorary members of the tribe.

Membership in the Cherokee Nation — which, in order to gain tax-exempt status, has been legally incorporated - is open to any native American registered on Indian Bureau census rolls. In addition, whites can be adopted as honorary members. "That's been a historical tradition with the tribe," Taylor says. "Sam Houston, in fact, was an adopted Cherokee."

So far the out-of-court approach has been unsuccessful, despite the hint that this Indian sanctuary might spin off more than a few benefits for U.S. corporations. For one, the proposed country would be a confidential tax haven; for another, it would be devoid of labor unions and office-holding lawyers, a provision written into the constitution. "(Lawyers) cause a lot of problems," says Williams.

In addition, plans for the new republic call for a medical research center and a casino or two. "Only slot machines," Williams predicts. "And no dope or prostitutes.

The Cherokee have approached members of Congress, the White House - Reagan is honorarily "Big Eagle" and Bush is "Raven" and the State Department. But so far there's been Rather than go to court, supporters of the no real support for the venture, although

By most accounts, it appears the United States was glad for what Hurricane Beulah did to the river.

"If no! for that storm," confides Del McNealy, principal engineer of the U.S. Section of the International Boundary and Water Commission. "that piece of property would be our headache, and not Mexico's.

This, of course, is not the first time the muddy Rio Grande has spawned an outcry for freedom. Long before the American Civil War, a band of Mexicans and Texicans (as they were called) joined in the creation of a Republic of the Rio Grande, with its capital in Laredo. The Rio Republic never got off the ground, although towns on both banks of the river still talk now and then about seceding from one nation or the

More recently, there is the phenomenon of the Conch Republic of Key West. Fla. The nationstate was "founded" when drug agents tried to close off a smuggler's road and, hence, stem a major form of island commerce, not to speak of tourism. The islanders took over Key West, lowered the American flag and raised the red-and-blue banner of an independent republic.

Later about 100 Key Westers, blowing Coach shells, stormed a beach in a flotilla of speedboats. while another band of "revolutionaries" tied a park ranger to a flagpole. The rebellion has now become something of an annual celebration.

New Look At Our Lady of the Lakes

Renovations at Our Lady of the Lakes Church in Deltona have provided the edifice with a new look. Dedicated recently by Bishop Thomas J. Grady of the Orlando Diocese, the church has been enlarged to seat nearly 900 persons. Cost of the renovation is estimated at $750,000.

To create a larger sanctuary, two walls were knocked out. The former t-shope of the church structure has been replaced by a contemporary fan-shaped design. Pews were angled making the altar more visible, according to the Rev. William Killion. pastor.

According to the architect Paul Zelones, the congregation is no longer divided and the new shape allows for "one worshiping community."

The front of the building was redone and tripled in size. A choir area, sound system and workroom were also added.

The decor of the church was changed to reflect the new mood. The color blue was chosen by the parish staff for the walls, scats and carpet of the church. The marble altar, lectern and tabernacle were modified.

There is a shrine area devoted to the Holy Family. Pastoral minister Hervey Mondor, said a risen Christ will be added to the large crucifix which now dominates the sanctuary.

The renovation also brought improvements to the exterior. A fountain with a statute of the Blessed Mother, fountain and was rebuilt and enlarged to carillons were added. The parkinclude a larger sacristy, re- ing lot was expanded and the

Another indication that we may be heading back toward the idealized version of the family is the popularity of two current TV programs - "The Cosby Show" and "Family Ties," about two close-knit, nuclear families just when many thought we had relegated "nuclear family" to the list of archaic words.

PANAMA CITY, Panama - Tourists have discovered that the Panama Canal is much more than just a thoroughfare for freighters and ocean liners to pass between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans — it is a unique travel experience. The daylong adventure on passenger cruise ships gives travelers an opportunity to view the workings of one of the world's most ambitious and impressive engineering marvels.

The 50-mile Panama Canal, wide and deep enough to accommodate even the biggest ocean liners, links the Atlantic and Pacific oceans across the breadth of Ships crossing from the Atlantic to the Pacific enter a channel from Limon Bay and pass' through a sea-level section of the Canal which is 61/2 miles long, 500 feet wide and runs through a large mangrove swamp. Next, the vessel is raised or lowered 85 feet in a continuous flight through three chambers of the Gatun Locks. Each lock chamber is 110 feet wide, 1,000 feet long and 85 feet high (as tall as a seven-story building).

The ship then travels 231/2 miles through Gatun Lake to Gaillard Cut. one of the largest man-made bodies of water in the world and named for the engineer, Col. David DuBose Gaillard, who was in charge of this section of the Canal. Gaillard Cut is over 163 square miles, and was formed by damming the Chagres River which runs next to the Gatun Locks. The dam and spillway total about 11/2 miles, and the dam is nearly one-half mile wide at the base, sloping to a width of 100 feet at the crest - 105 feet above sea level.

Ships enter Pedro Miguel Locks from the southern end of Gaillard Cut. The vessels are then lowered 31 feet in one step to into the relatively small, man-made Miraflores Lake, which separates the two Pacific locks. The ships are lowered again two more steps to sea level through the Miraflores Locks. which total just over one mile in length. These lock gates are the highest in any look system because of the extreme tidal variation in the Pacific Ocean.

The canal dream was conceived in 1524 by Charles I of Spain, who actually commissioned the first land survey of the area. But more than three centuries passed before the French actually began construction of the canal in 1880, only to be plagued and ultimately defeated by disease and financial difficulty.

The United States became involved in the project in 1903 with the signing of a treaty to construct the ship canal. it took 10 years and an expenditure approaching $390 million to complete the project.

The Panama Canal includes the largest earthen dam, canal locks and moveable gates ever constructed until that time. The technology of designing and building these structures was brand new. Dozens and dozens of men succumbed to yellow fever or malaria as they attempted to dig and construct the canal.

Theodore Roosevelt said the canal represented one of the great peaceful endeavors of mankind and that American ingenuity and ideals were crucial to its successful completion.

The new Royal Princess cruise ship transits the Panama Canal. Still one of the wonders of the modern world, the 50-mile long canal was built over a 10-year period at a cost of $387 million. It takes from eight to ten hours for a ship to cross from Atlantic Ocean to Pacific Ocean, or vice versa. The canal runs in a northwest to southeast direction. A system of three locks raise and lower vessels 85 feet from sea level to sea level.

What's Bred in the Bone, by Robertson Davies (Viking. 436 pp., $17.95).

Hardcore Robertson Davies fans looking for yet another delicious light confection in "What's Bred in the Bone" will have to look really hard.

The heavy-handed saga of the life and times of art patron Francis Chegwidden Cornish is not as electrifying as previous works, but is shot through with himor and a mastery of language that are the Davies hallmark.

A description of the removal of underwear from a corpse sends one's very olfactory senses reeling:

... Old McAllister, according to local custom, had been sewed into it for the winter. Francis knew all about that; most of the children at Carlyle Rural were so encased and they stank amazingly

The book sets out to prove the truth of the proverb that furnishes the litle: "What's bred in the bone comes out in the flesh.

When Cornish first appears in this novel's precursor, "The Rebel Angels," he is dead. In the new novel, he still is dead but we quickly learn that the trustees of an art endowment bearing his name feel the story of this secretive, eccentric man must be told, and told, and

Ex-Diplomat Discounts U.S.S.R. Strength

In the Eye of the Storm, A Memoir, by Kurt Waldheim (Adler & Adler, 288 pp., $17.95).

Austrian diplomat Kurt Waldheim, who held one of the world's most impossible jobs — that of United Nations secretary-general - for 10 years, says the United States is overrating the Soviet threat to its security.

At the same time Waldhelm, 67, a eandidate for the presidency of Austria in the spring elections, discounts prognostications by some Kremlinologists that the coming of the younger generation of leaders signals a liberalization of the Soviet system.

In his crisp and eminently readable autobiography. Waldheim, who was the world organization's fourth chief executive from 1972 through 1981, devotes a chapter on "Power Politics" to American-Soviet relations.

"The West continuously overlooks (that) the Soviet Union is basically a country of contradiction, split between outer power and inner weakness," he says. "Outwardly, it is the largest and most powerful of the great multinational empires. Inwardly, it is a country rent by huge problems."

Waldhelm says it is unfortunate that "for too long, too many Americans have focused exclusively on the strength of the U.S.S.R." demanding from "one president after another" to prepare militarily to stand up to the Soviets. The Americans would be better advised, he says, to focus on both the strengths and weaknesses to get a "more valid long-term picture" of their Soviet counterparts and - most important - to be able to relax the relentless arms race, which he estimates is costing the world $1 billion a day.

But, huge problems or not, Waldheim believes the Soviet system has "certainly taken over," in that "two new generations have grown up not knowing anything else.

Whereas some shifts in emphasis may emerge when the younger generation reaches the top, no radical changes are to be expected,'

Waldheim's book is at its most entertaining when he describes some of his personal encounters with world leaders. He is a believer in the tenet that personalities clearly determine the fateful choices made by nations."

And: "I always find it important to keep contact with all political leaders whatever their ideology or public image

Thus he says of Libya's Moammar Khadafy, "It does not help to create a group of political outcasts when one may one day need their cooperation to solve an international problem.

And of Jimmy Carter, Waldheim says. "Perhaps because of his honesty and a deep sense of justice he was given to indecisiveness." Furthermore, "his habit of jogging in public, especially in foreign capitals, did little to enhance his pre-

Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome began to spread through the nation's homosexual population a few years ago, shooting smack with a friend. there was at least one significant note of hope. Gays have a sense of community, they can act in started to lose weight. The accord; and so they had the ability to prepare an organized AIDS the hard way, and he response.

They launched a massive educatlon program, for one thing, They drew up, published and distributed various rules of proteetive conduct. They also used their considerable social and political influence to persuade He says he straightened out his ublic and private forces to lend what has become a measure of to spread information regarding sympathy and support.

But if the gays have been able to organize to fight back against AIDS, another high-risk group has not. Drug users suffer the disease in numbers that are second only to the homosexuals. yet they do not command the organizational resources necessary to, in this case, save themselves from themselves.

In other words, heavy drug users normally go it alone. The only time they get together is to get high. One result is they do not enjoy the AIDS-related attention given to the homosexuals; certainly they do not enjoy much sympathy and support. and there are only a few public programs to help them be circumspect.

Actually, there may only be one program. It's here in the godforsaken ghettos of Newark. The city is unique in that it has far more addlets with AIDS that it has homosexuals with AIDS. Thus, a loose and tentative effort Integrity House, a private rehabilitation unit - has been started to teach drug users how to stay clear of the usually fatal allment.

Most of the teachers involved have abused drugs themselves. And at least one also has AIDS. Thirty-three-year-old Roger Cole used drugs for most of his life. until he contacted the AIDSrelated complex; he says he is now telling the story of that life. whenever he can, trying to help others avoid the same end.

To be sure, the story is dismal. Cole was born to an alcoholic father and a drug dependent mother; and he never learned the lesson when they both died of their debilitations. He started experimenting with drugs when he was 12, he became addicted by 19; he didn't take to the streets, however. He tried to negotiate an otherwise normal existence. He served in the Army, he married twice, he drove a truck for a salary, and he drugs took a dreadful toll; the marriages failed, for instance, others get a second chance also.

Then the real crunch came last year. Cole says he can pinpoint the occasion. He was using a common hypodermic needle. A short while later he doctor said that he had gotten should prepare himself for the

That relation is astonishingly clear in Newark. The city has the largest number of addicted AIDS carriers in the nation. There are 15,000 heroin users, at least 325 of them are already known to have the disease, and most of the rest are, in the words of Roger Cole, "sitting out there waiting

Cole says they can get it in two principal ways. One is by having sex with each other. The other is by sharing drug injection needles. The needles are not expensive, but addicts prefer to put all of their funds into fixings: when they pass the instruments. therefore, they also exchange disease in the blood. And that's where the education comes in. Cole says that addicts, like gays, must learn to be selective in sex. And it's just as crucial to maintain clean hypodermies. He says the latter should be used new, whenever possible, or they should be regularly boiled in a purification

Cole says he gives these instructions to school classes, when invited. Others hand out leaflets on the avenues. No one can say if the program has cut into the spread of the disease as yet, but some addlets report the price of new needles has began to rise, a sign, perhaps, that demand is rising too.

At any rate, Cole says the word is at least getting out. And some concern is finally being shown. Addicts may be outlaws, he goes on, but without argument they are people as well. and he has never met anyone in the street who is too polluted, or degenerate, to respond to an application of good news.

And he should know. He says when he first learned he had AIDS he thought about driving off a bridge. But he has more recently been told that his condition has stabilized, and he may now have even odds at survival. fathered five children. 9 Women Dealing With What Fate Wrought

Nine Women, by Shirley Ann Grau (Knopf, 208 pp., $14.95)

The nine women in Shirley Ann Grau's new collection of short stortes include a woman dying of cancer who recalls her loveless marriage; a woman who, by pre-arrangement, loses her husband the same day she throws a lartsh wedding for her only child; a widow on her first summer outing to her country club since her husband's death; and a woman whose female lover of 15 years declares she wants to have a child.

Most of these stories depict characters who have been dealt some very grave cards in life. Some of them rise above their circumstances if only for moments or in small ways. One such is the daughter in "Letting Go," who manages to find an easy friendship with the young husband she is divorcing despite being raised by two stifling, cold parents.

But the sole survivor of an airplane crash in "The Hunters" who continues to fly frequently so she will crash again and "loin" her dead husband and two daughters is so dotty it's difficult to believe in her.
