Wells Fargo Armored Car Heist Suspects Under Tight Security

NEW YORK (UPI) — Defense attorneys say the tight security surrounding a group of 11 Puerto Rican separatists charged in a $7 million Wells Fargo armored car holdup is violating their clients' constitutional rights.

The 11 were to be transferred from New York City to Hartford, Conn., today for arraignment before U.S. Magistrate F. Owen Eagan in the 1983 heist, the second largest in U.S. history.

Civil rights attorney William M. Kunstler said Monday his client, Ivonne Melendez Carrion, and perhaps all of the other 10 suspects transferred Sunday from Puerto Rico were in the Metropolitan Correctional Center in New York.

Kunstler said he conferred briefly with Carrion, but said federal officials would not tell him the whereabouts of the suspects and called that a "blatant violation" of their constitutional right to counsel.

Seventeen people were indicted Aug. 23 by a federal grand jury for their alleged involvement in the robbery.

The alleged front man in the heist, Wells Fargo guard Victor Gerena, is believed to be hiding in Cuba with part of the loot, the FBI said. Two other suspects were still at large.

Teachers Strike In Chicago

By United Press International

Talks between Chicago teachers and school officials broke off early today because of a "lack of progress," apparently ending hope of averting the third walkout in as many years against the nation's third largest school system.

But in Philadelphia, teachers and school officials reached tentative agreement on a contract early today, averting a strike which union officials said last week was certain.

Back-to-school teacher walkouts already have idled students in districts in Illinois and Michigan while strikes loomed in Seattle, San Francisco and Ohio.

In Chicago, federal mediator James Shepherd said talks between teachers and the board broke off at 1:15 a.m. (CDT) "due to lack of progress." No new talks were set, and a union spokesman said teachers did not report for work today.

A last-minute appeal by Illinois Gov. James Thompson brought the Chicago Teachers Union and the Board of Education back to the bargaining table Monday evening, but the strike vote had been taken earlier in the day.

Of 28,000 rank-and-file union members, the teachers voted 3,548 to 494 to reject the latest wage increase offered by the school board, almost certainly delaying the scheduled start of school for 431,000 students Wednesday.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Israeli Navy Captures PLO Terrorists Off Lebanese Coast

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israeli military officials said Palestine Liberation Organization terrorists aboard a yacht seized off the Lebanese coast were planning to infiltrate Israel and "kill as many Jews" as they could.

According to an Israeli military statement Monday, the squad of PLO fighters apparently was trying to infiltrate Israel in order to carry out terrorist activities.

"Their instructions were clear-cut: Kill as many Jews as you can," Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin said.

A Briton and a Greek were among those detained Saturday night after the yacht Ganda was intercepted. Israel is still holding an American and an Australian taken from a vessel seized Aug. 24.

Israeli officials have said they will release the American and Australian, who have not been identified, if they are determined to be innocent of any crimes.

Suicide Bomber Targets Israelis

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A suicide bomber detonated a car packed with explosives at an Israeli-backed militia checkpoint in southern Lebanon today and Beirut radio said Israeli forces shelled villages in retaliation.

In Beirut, Moslem militiamen fought with machine guns and a new wave of kidnappings was reported near the war-torn capital.

The pro-Syrian Baath Party Organization said one of its members carried out today's suicide attack on the outskirts of the village of Kfar Houna and reported 30 South Lebanon Army militiamen and seven Israeli soldiers were killed by the blast.

Police and Moslem militia sources said "many people" were killed or wounded in the seventh such attack since June. Israel acknowledged the attack but said there were no casualties in the early morning explosion 13 miles southeast of the port of Sidon.

Fourth Kharg Attack In 19 Days

By United Press International

Iraq said its warplanes attacked Iran's main oil terminal at Kharg Island in the Persian Gulf for the fourth time in 19 days and an Iraqi military official vowed the attacks would continue.

The Iraqi report could not be independently confirmed, and there was no immediate Iranian comment. The Iraqi spokesman said eight bombs were dropped on Kharg Island and the warplanes returned safely.

Kamal Kharazi, director of Iran's war information, said the air strikes have not stopped the loading of oil tankers at the terminal.

In a statement monitored in Beirut, an Iraqi military official said Monday: "The raid was aimed at stopping the Iraqis from extinguishing fires started by previous raids or carrying out any repairs on damage to the oil installation. Iraq will repeat such raids."

Shuttle Comes Home A Success

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — Discovery's space repartner glided to an exceptionally smooth desert landing today, capping the 20th shuttle mission and leaving behind in orbit a successfully rewired communications satellite.

Commander Joe Engle guided the 99-ton space freighter to a precision landing in the rosy light of the California dawn at 6:16 a.m. PDT — nine minutes before sunrise — to wrap up a 3 million-mile orbital adventure.

The big spaceship kicked up a cloud of dust as its main landing gear gently kissed the dry lakebed surface of runway 23 before rolling to a stop 39 seconds later — business as usual for Engle, a shuttle veteran who used to fly X-15 rocketplanes at Edwards.

For Engle, co-pilot Richard Covey, James "Ox" van Hosten, William Fisher and John Lounge, landing signaled the end of one of the most productive flights in the 4-year-old shuttle program.

The Syncom 3 communications satellite spacewalkers van Hosten and Fisher "hot-wired" Saturday and relaunched Sunday appears healthy and is slowly coming to life after 4½ months as a space derelict.

NASA officials said early today data beamed down from the drum-shaped $85 million satellite indicated its crucial solid rocket motor is in better shape than had been expected. The satellite will not be fired to its final orbit until late October.

"OK, looks like this bus is coming home," Engle said after firing Discovery's twin braking rockets over the Indian Ocean for about four minutes, enough to slow the space freighter by 324 mph and drop it out of orbit.

After a searing glide across the Pacific Ocean, Discovery knifed across the California coast southeast of Santa Barbara, at more than four times the speed of sound, and then glided to touchdown at Edwards.

Landings on the concrete runway at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida have been ruled out until later this year when the shuttle's landing gear system can be modified to reduce tire and brake damage.

Discovery's flight was especially rewarding to van Hosten and Fisher, who pulled off one of the most daring spacewalks yet attempted and successfully rewired the crippled Syncom 3, which had been stranded in a useless orbit since launch from Discovery in April due to electrical problems.

The satellite is owned by Hughes Communications Inc. and is one of a four-satellite fleet leased by the Navy for military communications.

Holiday No Picnic For Fireman, Deputy

Action Reports

The holiday weekend was no picnic for a Seminole County firefighter hit in the face with flying glass and a sheriff's deputy whose patrol car was burglarized.

David Romis, 30, was back on duty Monday at Fire Station 41, State Road 46, Sanford, after a Friday incident at the station that sent him to Florida Hospital-Altamonte Springs for treatment of facial cuts.

Romis' face was peppered with broken glass when a man he and firefighter Thomas Hannon spotted outside a kitchen window of the station house at about 9:40 p.m. put his fist through the window.

It was feared glass splinters had flown into Romis' eyes, a sheriff's report said. But Monday firefighters said his eyes were not injured and he was back on the job.

No arrest has been made in the case.

In the other incident, sheriff's Sgt. Bill Morris was still puzzled by a thief who entered his patrol car at about midnight Saturday and stole an $80 pair of binoculars and a $4 sheriff's department baseball cap.

Morris said his locked patrol car was parked for about 20 minutes at Season's restaurant on Dogtrack Road, Longwood, when a thief opened the vehicle, possibly using a coathanger, leaving behind weapons and other items.

Morris said his car was relocked by the thief. The car was parked four spaces from the restaurant's front door when it was broken into, he said.

SERIOUS ABOUT BACKGAMMON

A 26-year-old Winter Park man who reportedly became enraged when two men refused to give him three backgammon pieces they were using in a game at a Casselberry bar waited for the pair and reportedly attacked them with a tire iron when they tried to leave.

The man was charged with aggravated battery after Daniel P. Barbosa, 28, of 105 Alberdeen Drive, Fern Park, and Robert Paul Ryan, 28, of Melbourne, told police of the alleged attack. The men said they were assaulted in the parking lot of Bentley's, State Road 436, at about 1:44 a.m. Monday, a police report said.

They fled but before he could make it back into the bar Barbosa was reportedly hit in the arm by the tire iron the man was wielding, the report said.

The suspect reportedly told Casselberry police he defended himself with the tire iron when attacked by Barbosa and Ryan.

Khaled A. Altawel, of 3211 E. Whisper Lake Lane, has been released on $8,000 bond.

ACCIDENT SPURS FIGHT

A Green Cove Springs truck driver has been charged with aggravated battery after allegedly hitting with a steel pipe the driver of a car involved in an accident with a semi truck on Interstate 4 in Lake Mary.

The suspect was a passenger in the truck driven by Jack Brookers, 32, of Green Cove Springs, a police report said.

When the truck was struck from behind by a car driven by Lance Edwards, address not listed, the occupants of the truck reportedly attacked Edwards at about 3 a.m. Saturday. The truck passenger reportedly took a steel pipe from the truck and hit Edwards in the head with it, the report said.

Joseph Paul Rose, 26, was charged with aggravated battery at the scene of the fight at about 3:15 a.m. He has been released on $8,000 bond.

Brookers was charged with affray and released on $500 bond.

TIPPED TO GUN

Sanford police called to the 10th Street area because of a man reputed to be carrying a gun, located a suspect; found a loaded .25-caliber pistol in his pants pocket and charged him with carrying a concealed firearm, a police report said.

Juveniles on 10th Street described the suspect to police and told officers he was walking towards U.S. Highway 17-92 at about 1 p.m. Saturday. Police spotted a suspect and searched him, finding the gun, the report said.

Eddie Blake, 61, of 1105 W. 10th St., Sanford, was charged in the case and released on $5,000 bond.

Hitchhiker Steals Car While Owner In Bathroom

Pizzaro Murry Neal, 27, of Orlando, told Seminole County sheriff's deputies a hitchhiker he picked up in Orlando stole his 1981 Toyota when he stopped at the Exxon station at State Road 436 and U.S. Highway 17-92, Fern Park, to go to the restroom at about 6 p.m. Sunday.

The thief drove away in the $8,000 car while Neal was in the restroom, a sheriff's report said.

In other burglaries and thefts: Jerry Lee, 38, of 3517 Bonnie Drive, Apopka, reported a $400 lawnmower was stolen from his carport on Saturday or Sunday.

Tools worth $700 were stolen from a tool box in the pickup truck of Moses W. Perkins, 33, of 2351 Brisson Ave., Sanford, on Saturday or Sunday, a sheriff's report said.

Cash, jewelry and a television with a combined value of $8,640 were stolen from the home of Allen R. Bowling, 55, of 530 Nolan Road, Sanford,

BATTERED WIFE

Sheriff's deputies called to 124 Windmill Road, Longwood, at about 1:50 a.m. Monday charged a man with battery spouse abuse, after Nannette Rappa told them she had been beaten.

Deputies noted Mrs. Rappa had a swollen face and marks on her face, a sheriff's report said.

Frank Don Rappa, 45, was arrested at his home and has been released on $500 bond.

ASSAULTS FOILED

Felicia D. Alexander, 21, of Orlando, told Seminole County sheriff's deputies she escaped from a man who tried to pull her into a vehicle at about 11 p.m. Sunday.

She said the man drew a gun, held it to her right temple and told her, "You'd better go ahead and give it up," after she stopped to talk to him on Matthews Drive, Altamonte Springs. Ms. Alexander told deputies, she was walking to a friend's home when she stopped to talk with a man she called Joe and he allegedly tried to abduct her, the report said.

She managed to escape and ran to a nearby home to call deputies, the report said.

Ms. Alexander told deputies she will press charges, but Monday no arrest had been made.

In the other case, Circus Circus employee Karen Lynn Harris, 22, of Orlando, reported to sheriff's deputies she was driving on State Road 434 in Longwood at about 4 a.m. Friday when her car was hit from behind.

She stopped to talk with the male driver who told her she was cute and forced her into his car, a sheriff's report said.

The man hit Ms. Harris in the mouth and drove around with her for about three hours, fondling her breasts, the report said.

Eventually he drove back to her car and when he took the keys from the vehicle she escaped and ran to a home at 1321 Winsor Lane, Longwood, to call for help, the report said.

POT IN CAR

A Titusville man parked at Club 2 Spot, on State Road 46, Sanford, was spotted smoking what a sheriff's deputy believed to be a marijuana cigarette and was arrested on drug charges at about 12 a.m. Sunday.

The deputy reported finding marijuana and several clips used for holding cigarettes in the man's vehicle.

Arnold Ross, 18, was charged with possession of less than 20 grams of pot and drug paraphernalia. He has been released on $500 bond.

The rental unit has the same address. The items were stolen between Aug. 18 and Saturday and sheriff's deputies say they have the name of a suspect.

FLORIDA

IN BRIEF

Recovering From Elena May Be Long Ordeal For Beaches

TAMPA (UPI) — Hurricane Elena pummeled a long slice of Florida's Gulf coastline so hard that its beaches may take more than a decade to recover — if they recover, erosion experts say.

By stalling off Cedar Key Sunday, Elena spared residents but sent wave after wave of tides crashing into the sand for hours from Sarasota to Pensacola. Scientists say the beaches might have had it easier if the storm plowed into land and moved on.

Scientists are waiting for water to draw back so they can see clearly see the degree of erosion and devastation the storm caused to beaches.

They believe that because of the hurricane, the Gulf Coast has been permanently reshaped, with miles and miles of white sandy beaches wiped away. Orrin Pilkey, Duke University professor and authority on shorelines, said destruction of the shoreline will be "devastating."

"On beaches where there are sea walls, like a lot of the beaches in Pinellas County have, I wouldn't be surprised to see at least half of the recreation beaches disappear, even permanently," said Pilkey. "Some will disappear completely."

On heavily developed beaches like those around in the Tampa Bay area, bulldozers have pushed away dunes to make room for buildings. Dunes serve as a source of sand to restore what water has drawn away, Pilkey said.

On wild, undeveloped beaches, water takes sand from the dunes and pulls it offshore, widening the beaches, Pilkey said.

Woman Returns 'Trashed' Money

LAKE WORTH (UPI) — A woman who found $1,714 in cash and checks that depositors had stuffed in a garbage receptacle they thought was a deposit box said she gave up the bundle because, "People work too hard for their money."

"I couldn't live with myself if I'd kept it," said Audrey Richards, 36, of suburban Lake Worth. "I know how hard my husband works for his money."

She found the money at an automatic teller machine outside a Barnett Bank branch at 4 p.m. Sunday. Depositors had thought a garbage box next to the teller machine was what they were supposed to deposit cash and checks in.

At the machine, she set her purse on a green box mounted on a wall.

"And when I did, a trap door underneath swung open and a metal box came out and hit me on the foot," she said.

Garbage tumbled out of the box. Sifting through it, Richards found three sealed deposit envelopes. She wanted to know what was inside and opened one, finding $400 cash. She later learned the others contained $1,314 in cash and checks.

Polar Beer Debuts In S. Florida

MIAMI (UPI) — A Venezuelan brew named Polar Beer, known for being shipped cold, Monday made its debut in South Florida with company officials hoping they can establish a liquid pipeline similar to the South American country's oil export business.

Venezuela is a top oil exporter to Florida and Polar Beer officials plan to export about 1 million bottles of beer into Florida over the next 12 months.

After establishing its presence there, Polar plans to go all out late next year to penetrate the South Florida market.

many years, the Titanic has become more than a shipwreck. It's a true disaster," he said.

CTV said the expedition, funded by the U.S. Navy and the National Geographic Society, did not plan to raise the wreck. The network said the team planned to ask the United Nations to declare the site an international memorial.

The respected London Observer earlier reported the submarine had been probing 100 square miles of ocean floor in water 2 miles deep since the beginning of July.

The Titanic sank enroute from Southampton, England, to New York after striking an iceberg April 14, 1912, and took 1,503 of its approximately 2,200 passengers and crew to their deaths.

According to a Sanford Herald report of April 19, 1912, the Cunard liner was "ripped from stem to engine room by the great mass of ice she struck" and her "side laid open as if by a gigantic can opener."

The report continued: "She quickly listed to starboard and a shower of ice fell on the forecastle deck. Shortly before she sank, she broke in to abaft the engine and as she disappeared beneath the water, the explosion of air caused two explosions which were plainly heard by survivors adrift. A moment more and the Titanic had gone to her doom with the helpless passengers on board.

"To the survivors were visible the remaining passengers moaning and crying as the vessel sank from sight."

The Titanic, thought to be the fastest ship afloat, was believed

"unsinkable" because of its double bottom and reinforced bulkheads.

Ten millionaires were on board when the ship sank. Its strongroom was filled with valuables, including diamonds valued at $7 million in 1912.

But some, including survivors who lost relatives in the tragedy, believe the ship should remain undisturbed beneath the frigid North Atlantic.

"As far as I am concerned, that ship is my father's grave," said Eva Hart, an 80-year-old British survivor of the sinking.

land at Biloxi.

Tornadoes caused as much damage as the erratic hurricane.

Harrison County Civil Defense Director Wade Guice said seven tornadoes hit Gulfport — two ripping into emergency shelters — and fires burned an apartment complex, several homes and businesses. But there was only one minor injury, Guice said, "and we were very fortunate in that regard."

In Gautier, two shopping centers with 10 to 12 stores were totaled by tornadoes and McLaurin said, "I have yet to see a structure in Gautier that doesn't have some sort of damage. I dare say we don't have the first business that can operate."

Gregg Hess, 28, was riding out the storm in Gulfport when a tornado hit his three-story apartment building, ruptured a gas line, caused an explosion "and all hell broke loose."

"It was like you were standing in a wind tunnel with everything going wide open. Then it sounded like a stick of dynamite went off," He said. Storm shelters survived Elena's wrath, but could not withstand assaults by tornadoes.

One twister tore into the Central Elementary School in Gulfport, sending 380 people into the howling winds, and the roof of a Biloxi senior citizens center was smashed, forcing paramedics to crawl through rubble to rescue 200 people.

"I would swear there was a freight train running right across the roof of the college where we were huddled," said Gautier firefighter Glenda Underwood. "I was actually petrified."

The storm raked Florida's Panhandle Sunday night and early Monday, injuring 25 people, and tornadoes spawned by Elena on Saturday killed two people and injured six others.

killed, 10 firefighters and two civilians suffered minor injuries in the blaze, he said.

Police Director Imre Karaszegi said firefighting units from at least 25 neighboring towns helped battle the fire.

William Koenemund, a 65-year-old volunteer fireman, was pronounced dead at Beth Israel Hospital in Newark. Fire officials said he apparently suffered a fatal heart attack while battling the spectacular blaze.

The heat could be felt several blocks away, and huge plumes of dark, heavy smoke were visible 10 miles away. Explosions from within the fire came "about one every few minutes," said a witness, Maj. Stanley Senak of the Salvation Army.

Within one hour, all of the residents of a four-square block area were evacuated, officials said. "Two to three hundred people are in the shelter, and more are coming in all the time," said Dominic DeCandia, the director of the Greater New York Red Cross.

The fire burned an area known as the Gera Mills Industrial Park, an old textile complex subdivided into 50 small companies, in a predominantly Polish neighborhood.

Some residents trying to return to their homes, or to stay with their possessions, before the blaze was brought under control were forcibly evacuated by state police, a witness said.

"There were hysterical women screaming in Polish outside their homes, and state police were forcibly removing people from homes," witness Ruth Finstein said. "Many families were trying to get back into their houses to get their belongings and had to be restrained."

And, not forgetting the children, the city is offering a playground of items. Boys and girls may be able to ride off with a good deal. Bicycles police have recovered but have never been claimed will be up for sale, Tamm said. A children's slide is also for sale.

Anyone may come to the auction, Tamm said. He said residents usually come to browse the selection. Used car dealers are expected to be on hand to bid for the cars and trucks, but residents may also bid, he said. —Rick Brunson

A Sanford man was being held without bond in the Seminole County jail today after allegedly blasting away with a shotgun at a group of people on Labor Day.

Charged with aggravated assault and discharging a firearm in public is David Walter Kniffin, 34, of Box 143 A, Wayside Drive.

According to a sheriff's report, Kniffin was involved in a fight just prior to 11 p.m. Monday at 2810 Knudson Drive in Sanford.

What the fight was about and with whom was not reported. After the fight, Kniffin reportedly left the area.

Shortly thereafter, a man returned to the scene and fired a shotgun near a group of people. No injuries were reported. The alleged gunman was arrested at 11 p.m. at County Road 427 and S. Sanford Avenue.

Kniffin was scheduled for his initial court appearance today.

volunteers. For information on this program call 339-1400.

P.A. relies heavily on professional volunteer counselors. Bowman said, as do similar groups. The volunteers act as "facilitators" in group meeting to make sure the parental discussions stay on the right track and that no harm is done in the sessions.

"All of the therapy is done by the parents themselves in a self-help mode. They solve their own problems through group discussions," he said.

At the state level, P.A., with two paid employees, operates on a $40,000 a year HRS budget and has an additional $10,000 a year HRS grant to operate the toll-free phone lines, Bowman said. No fees are charged to parents who participate in P.A.

Free childcare is offered during the meetings and free transportation is also available, Bowman said.

The program is patterned after one developed in California in 1970. However, Bowman said, that program was strictly for abusive parents, P.A., he said, offers help to parents with all types of relational or communication problems with their children.

"If they feel they might be abusive," he said, "or if they feel they and the kids just aren't getting what they want from the relationship we're here to help."

"A parent may say I'd never abuse my child, but I do scream at him a lot. That's psychological abuse. All parents resent their children at one time or another. They need a place to work these feelings out without taking it out on the child. P.A. offers that."

When residents of a county indicate an interest in forming a P.A. group, Bowman said, he sends organizers in to form an advisory board of local residents and to oversee development of the chapter. "Once the group is in place, there might be several chapters formed within a county, all will be overseen by the county advisory board. All it would take to set this in motion is one call from a parent," he said.

In addition to P.U.P. there is a similar HRS funded group operating in Seminole County, which offer help to parents along the same lines.

Maggie Thomas, a former HRS case investigator, said her four-year-old TYKE (Teaching Young Kids Effectively) program, which holds weekly parents' meeting in Altamonte Springs, also deals with parenting problems and offers assistance under the same circumstances and for free.

"We have discussions of ways to effectively relieve stress, how to develop coping skills, we cover the same philosophy as Parents Anonymous."

Mrs. Thomas said the possibility of P.A. coming to Seminole County would be great, even though there are some support systems already in place. Ms. Brown also called P.A. a fine program and said she in no way wanted to cast a bad light on the program. She only has doubts about its name.

After parents have completed six weeks of sessions at TYKE headquarters at Seminole Community Mental Health Center at 377 Cranes Roost Blvd., they continue to be served by a "volunteer family friend," who is available to talk out their problems, Mrs. Thomas said. TYKE parents are also contacted by a counselor once a month for three months after they've completed their group sessions, just to make sure everything is okay, she said.

TYKE can be contacted at 831-2411.

Commissioners To Hear Density, Rezoning Requests

Seminole County's commissioners are scheduled to hear five requests to change density specifications or rezone areas at their 7 p.m. public hearing today at the Seminole County Services Building in Sanford.

Commissioners will also ask for public input on the county's budget for fiscal year 1985-86 at the hearing.

Those requests include changing an area from general rural and preservation to commercial and rezoning agriculture to retail commercial on 1.3 acres of land on the north side of State Road 419, west of the Flying Seminole Airport.

Another request would change eight acres on the north side of Florida Avenue in district 2 from low density residential to industrial and rezone it from agriculture to industrial.

Land totaling 6.8 acres at the south end of Timocuan Way, according to the request for zone change, would be changed from low density residential to industrial and rezoned from agriculture to very light industrial.

Another request would change 3.34 acres on the east side of Tuskawilla Road, one quarter mile south of State Road 434 from low intensity urban to industrial and rezone that area from agriculture to industrial.

The last scheduled request for redesignation would change four acres on Palm Springs Drive from low density residential to medium density residential and rezone that area from single family dwelling to a multi-family dwelling district.

The commission will hold its regular meeting at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday. —Janis Gaat

A Two-Track ASAT Approach

President Reagan is right to proceed with the next scheduled test of the new anti-satellite (ASAT) missile being developed by the United States, as he announced that he will do after a required 15-day waiting period.

The development of this new weapon should go forward without interruption, but it is important the negotiations covering such weapons should be conducted simultaneously, with serious and sincere intent to reach agreement with the Soviet Union if possible.

The Soviets have an operational anti-satellite system, a crude affair compared with our prototype and a great deal less capable. But they have it and presumably are prepared to use it, in the proper circumstances.

It is hard to imagine what those circumstances might be.

Any attempt to blind certain of our satellites would be taken as a step directly into the abyss of total war between the superpowers. These are surveillance satellites, euphemistically described in our strategic arms limitation treaties as "national technical means of verification." They are essential to detect violations of arms control treaties and to give early warning of the launching of rockets in a nuclear first strike. An attack upon them would be taken as a step toward such a strike. The appropriate response, without any ability to take similar action against the opponents' strategic surveillance satellites, might be to launch a first strike of our own.

There are satellites for other purposes, such as communication, navigation, weather observation and the surveillance of the deployment of tactical forces, which might be shot down in a non-nuclear, conventional war without provoking Armageddon. It you believe a non-nuclear war between the Soviet Union and ourselves is possible, it would be essential to have the same or superior capability to shoot down their satellites of these types as they have to shoot down ours.

These speculations have an Alice-in-Wonderland quality, but so does much of the serious military thinking about the unthinkable in this nuclear age. We cannot shrink from the realities. We must explore the regions of the possible, however original and bizarre they may seem.

Without question, then, we must develop and test this weapon. And we can rejoice at its sophistication, which makes it a jewel of advanced technology, swift and sure and deadly compared with the blunderbuss of the Soviet anti-satellite weapon. No wonder the Kremlin is concerned.

But it would be better if we could reach some kind of agreement with the Russians to limit or ban the testing or deployment of anti-satellite weapons. The world would be a safer place without the technology for the superpowers to blind each other in space, because a blinded superpower would be like the blinded Cyclops Polyphemus in his cave, roaring in anger and groping wildly in the dark.

Some in the Reagan administration don't believe any agreement with the Soviets is helpful. But the president has certified that he is trying to reach one on the anti-satellite issue, and we take him at his word. A two-track approach is needed. Build the weapon for ourselves so that we can reach an agreement to control this type of weapon on both sides.

How Can We Lower Poverty Rate More?

Unemployment has always been a lagging economic indicator. Thus, while the economy was bouncing back in 1983 — chiefly as a result of the tax cuts — the slow reduction in unemployment did not translate into an immediate reduction in the poverty rate. In fact, the poverty rate rose slightly that year to 15.3 percent.

But as the investment-led recovery continued to blossom in 1984, pounding the unemployment rate down to single-digit levels, and as personal incomes rose, the poverty numbers began to shrink.

The news that poverty was down and that median family income rose nationally by 3.3 percent last year to $26,433 did not impress people like Reps. Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y., and Robert T. Matsui, D-Calif.

They had predicted "economic disaster" as a result of Reaganomics.

Rangel and company argued last week that the financial well-being of most of the nation's disadvantaged groups had not improved significantly. He noted, among other things, that real median family incomes were still slightly beneath the 1980 level and poverty was still 1.4 percent higher than in 1980.

Yet when you boil this all down to the cold, hard statistics, 35.5 million Americans were among the poor in 1983, and that number declined to 33.7 million people last year. But that's still 33.7 million too many.

The question now is: What policies are to be pursued to lower the poverty rate even further? There are sure to be those who will call for major new make-work jobs programs and pork-barrel expenditures. But with the current deficit, this is unlikely to happen.

A more likely response will be a continuation of Reaganomics, which, after all, is nothing more than the simple idea that you can expand economic growth and job creation by taking less tax money out of the cash registers and paychecks of the American people.

CORRECTION: In my June 20 column on wasteful smoking behavior studies at the National Institutes of Health, I quoted an NIH official who said that the agency wouldn't stop "until we get everyone in this country to quit (smoking), then we will move into other countries" and who pointed to Third World nations as the next "trouble spot" for NIH to tackle.

During my staff's research on the story — for which we interviewed nearly a dozen government officials — this quote was inadvertently misattributed to Dr. Elaine Stone, an administrator in the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute (NHLBI).

The quote actually came from Dr. Sydney Parker, the NHLBI's Lung Division Branch chief. Our apologies to Dr. Stone for this unintentional error.

We Can't Win For Losing

Why does housing construction decline when interest rates drop? Why does two years of low inflation hurt some companies? Why do some politicians, after years of attacking the Arabs as oil price pirates, now worry that the price of crude oil is too low?

All those things are happening today; we can only guess at the reasons. But the questions remind us of the fundamental mysteriousness of a political economy; that is, an economic system based on the often-conflicting wants and ambitions of individual human beings, popularly known today as consumers, living together in a free and ordered society.

That mystery accounts for the yawning gap between recent economic developments and the predictions of highly-educated, highly-paid professional economists, who spin volumes of data on prices, interest rates, and other measurements onto magnetic tape and wait for their computers to spit out forecasts. Given the data, their projections are superbly rational. But where do the data come from? Unfortunately, no computer can predict the behavior of a middle-aged salesman in the Midwest who scripps and saves for years, the suddenly decides to cash it all in and buy a Cadillac, or a trip around the world. Why? He says he felt like it — not exactly rational economic behavior, but thoroughly human. In the same way, millions and millions of people make economic decisions every day — decisions that cannot be predicted.

Thus it is that the Reagan Administration's economic projections, as well as those of most professional economists have been dreadfully wrong for five years running.

On the housing front, the Commerce Department announced on Aug. 16 that housing starts in July ran 100,000 units below the pace of 1.7 million in June, and 4.4 percent below July 1984. This, in the face of mortgage rates averaging 12.23 percent, nearly two full points below the 14.54 average for the first week of August last year. Why? At this point, economists become sociologists or demographers, and offer guesses that the "baby boom" generation has aged past the homebuying stage. Other explanations: buyers are "waiting out" current interest rate volatility, or that they are waiting for a new set of guidelines to be issued by the Federal National Mortgage Association, which sets precedents for mortgage lenders. All plausible reasons, all guesswork.

Round Two In Fight On Equal Pay

By Jack Anderson
And
Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — The Battle of the Sexists was raging hot and heavy in the House when Congress took off for the summer, and there's every indication that it was just a sneak preview of the fireworks to come when it reconvenes tomorrow.

What lit the fuse was a proposed study of women's jobs and pay scales in the federal government.

But the actual issue — whether the federal government should get involved in the controversial concept of "comparable worth," or equal pay for jobs of equal social value — has been overshadowed by the rancor of the brief pre-recess battle. Intemperate personal attacks, questioned motives and ill-concealed derision have characterized both the public debate and

When Congress Returns

By Robert Doherty
UPI Southern Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UPI) — When members of the House and Senate return to town over the next few days for the last leg of the congressional session, there will be more than a few issues of importance to the Southeast that need resolving.

From textiles and tobacco to nuclear waste and airport regulation, most of the issues dear to the hearts of politicians and plain folks alike in the Southeast face a number of hearings, markups — and compromises — before being settled.

Legislation to limit textile and apparel imports — one of the most heavily co-sponsored and controversial bills of the year — appears to be quite a bit away from any type of resolution.

The House Ways and Means Committee, which is overseeing the bill, will concern itself first with tax reform, meaning it likely will be mid- to late October before a Ways and Means subcommittee votes on the textiles legislation.

The Senate Finance Committee's international trade subcommittee has scheduled hearings for Sept. 12 and 23 on the legislation.

Legislation to resolve the issue of low-level radioactive nuclear waste disposal is almost as controversial as the textiles bill — and also seems to have several hurdles to clear before it is passed.

It is an issue that must be resolved by January to avoid a disposal crisis.

The bill, which would allow states access to the three current waste sites — in South Carolina, Washington and Nevada — until the end of 1992, has been approved by the House Interior Committee.

remarks made off the floor.

The brawl started when Rep. Mary Rose Oakar, D-Ohio, introduced legislation ordering a comparable-worth study of federal jobs; it sailed through committee and appeared headed for passage. In what Republicans call "damage control" and Democrats call "dilatory and frivolous" tactics, GOP members introduced more than 150 amendments on the House floor on July 30.

The ringleaders of the opposition, Reps. Richard Arment, R-Texas, and Dan Burton, R-Ind., claim this was the only way they could intercept the bill for proper debate, since the House has no provision for Senate-style filibusters.

Some of the amendments would have packed the commission in charge of the study with presidential appointees certain to be

It must still be cleared by the House Energy and Commerce Committee before going to the House floor. Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass., and head of the Energy and Commerce subcommittee handling the bill, says he will move quickly. But his panel likely will not vote on the bill until late September or early October.

In the Senate, which has done much less work on the bill, three committees — Judiciary, Environment and Energy — all have some say in the matter.

"It's going to be a struggle," said a Senate staffer who supports the legislation.

A more local, but no less divisive issue, involves the transfer of Dulles and National airports from federal to local control.

The bill is supported by the entire Virginia delegation, Washington Mayor Marion Barry and Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole, but is opposed by Maryland politicians and business officials who say the measure is unfair.

The Senate Commerce Committee is tentatively set to vote on the bill Sept. 11 but there has been no accommodation between the two sides. In fact, one committee aide said Maryland is "becoming increasingly entrenched, just dug in."

The House has been awaiting Senate action before moving on the bill.

In addition to these issues, there are also state-specific issues — like the deauthorization of the Cross Florida Barge Canal — that need to be handled. Unresolved national issues — Superfund, the farm bill, tax reform and cost-sharing for water projects — will affect Southeastern states in various ways.

hostile to the concept of comparable worth. But there was a strong suspicion that the Republicans were trying to laugh the bill to death. Among the subtitles proposed for the bill by GOP amendments were:

- The Sexist Socialism Act
 - Feminist Folly
 - This Is What Happens When the Democrats Are In Control
 - Being Railroaded Through on a Greased Track
 - Let's Soak the Taxpayer Again
 - Done by a Loaded Commission
 - The $320 Billion Mistake
- "Humor can be used to deftly make a debater's point," said an aide to Burton.

Ms. Oakar was not amused. She said the amendments reflected a "narrow and demeaning mentality," and showed "the pathetic

FARMING WORLD

Trade Disputes Increase

By Linda Werfelman

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Even though international trade rules have helped reduce tariffs and limit trade disputes, disagreements involving agricultural trade persist — and one government economist says the rules themselves may be partly to blame.

The General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, adopted in 1947 as a guide for world trade and to provide a forum for resolving disputes between nations, has generally treated agriculture according to a separate set of rules, said Agriculture Department economist Stephen Sposato in a report in the department's Farmline magazine.

He traced many of the recent disputes between the United States and the European Community to "the agreement among member nations to consider agriculture as a special case."

The Farmline report by Doug Martinez quoted Sposato as saying that agreement dates to the early years of GATT.

"Signatory nations permitted export subsidies for primary agricultural commodities and exempted agriculture from some of the other trade rules," Sposato said. "All parties agreed to this in the late 1940s and 1950s."

The United States had insisted on special treatment for agriculture before it would support the GATT agreement, he said. For years, U.S. farm policy kept prices at relatively high levels, and the United States and other countries commonly relied on export subsidies to push their farm goods on the world market.

That changed in the 1960s, when the United States began allowing most of its agricultural exports to trade at world prices.

But other nations continued to rely on export subsidies, despite an agreement in the 1970s that they should be used "only if they did not undercut world prices and result in more than an equitable share of the market for the country in question," Sposato said.

Different interpretations of that "subsidies code" have aggravated today's problems, he said, predicting that disputes over agricultural trade will continue unless a more specific definition is developed.

"Failure to agree on acceptable rules for commodity trade can only be harmful to both sides," he added. "Without some progress in the subsidies area, trade disputes seem destined to increase."

Sposato noted that the European Community has been involved in conflicts with the United States and other countries for "practically every major commodity that the EC exports," including wheat flour, poultry, pasta, sugar, canned fruit and raisins.

quality of what they are trying to do."

Ms. Oakar is a 45-year-old former college professor and drama coach. She may become the first woman speaker of the House some day, and will certainly be the next chairwoman of the House Democratic Caucus.

Usually cool and composed, Ms. Oakar was biting in her comments to our reporter Stewart Harris. Never before in her nine years on Capitol Hill, she said, has she heard such "sexist ... outrageous" statements as those directed at her bill.

"There's an old adage my mother used to say: 'When you get outrageous comments, you have to consider the source,'" she said.

Ms. Oakar denied, however, that she had called Arment "an idiot," as the GOP congressman's aide said she had.

Glory Days?

5 Returnees, Fresh Talent Have Corso Singing New Tune

By Chris Flster
Herald Sports Writer

Volleyball

Glory days may soon be returning for the Seminole High volleyball team.

Not since the days of Tony Hardy, Gene Stallworth, Arlene Jones and Katy Barbour have the Lady Seminoles had as many talented athletes at one time. The problem for Seminole coach Beth Corso this season is not putting together a strong varsity team, but trimming the roster down from 20 players to 12 or 14 by the beginning of the season.

"I haven't had this many athletes in two or three years," Corso said. "It's going to be hard to narrow the team down to 14."

Along with a number of returning players from last year's squad, the Lady Seminoles have picked up some fine athletes from other sports along with some quick-learning freshmen.

The top returning players include seniors Jackie Farr, Cindy Hogan and Debra Hillery and juniors Sheri Peterson and Mary Ann Calibuso. Also returning from last year's junior varsity squad and challenging for varsity spots are Lisa McGrotha, Lisa Hartman, Faronda Brown, Cindy Bengel and Vicky "Spuffy" Pakovic.

Farr and Peterson were both starters on last year's squad and both are fine all-around players, according to Corso. Peterson and Farr are the top two setters on the team.

"Sheri (Peterson) and Jackie (Farr) are doing an excellent job setting," Corso said. "They're side by side right now. Jackie hits too, and they both play the back row well. Both are very good with their hands."

Hartman, a junior, is another setter who Corso said looked good in volleyball camp but a knee injury has sidetracked her. Hartman injured the knee playing AAU basketball over the summer and Corso said she twisted it in practice one day and had ligament damage. Hartman had an operation and Corso said she will probably not be ready to play for three weeks.

Another player who was a standout as a sophomore but didn't play as a junior is senior Christy Gonzales. Gonzales was the most improved player as a sophomore.

The newcomers include senior basketball standouts Catherine "Kitty" Anderson, Kim "Big Wheel" Johnson and junior Yolanda Robinson along with junior track runner Diane Mitchell. Another new senior is Mindy Green and the freshmen challenging for a varsity spot are Aretha Riggins and Liz Long.

"We have seven girls who have never played volleyball before but they're learning fast," Corso said. "They're all good athletes. None of them have been to more than five practices yet so they're learning something new every day. Other girls that have been on varsity are going to have to work, they're being challenged."

With the 6-0 Hogan returning as one of the team's big hitters, the Lady Seminoles could have a front line

'Boom Boom' Will Be Back

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bye-bye Boom Boom.

Boris "Boom Boom" Becker will be back one day soon, though, bigger and better than ever. You can bank on it.

Bye-bye also to that "dream match" between Becker and John McEnroe, who now appears an even stronger bet to wind up with his fifth U.S. Open title.

Blame it all on Joakim Nystrom, probably the most unsung, under-rated underdog to come over to our shores since Ingemar Johansson.

Remember him? He astounded everybody in boxing by decking Floyd Patterson with a left hook in the third round of their first bout to win the world heavyweight championship in 1959. The trouble was they had two more title fights and Patterson won both.

Becker, the 17-year-old Wimbledon champ, came into this Open as the new darling of tennis and the competitor accorded the best chance of beating McEnroe for the title even though he was seeded eighth.

Now that will never happen because he isn't going to get the chance to play McEnroe.

Nystrom took care of all that by upsetting Becker, 6-3, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, Monday night, going to six match points before he finally was able to put away his red-haired West German opponent on a controversial forehand that many, including Becker, thought was outside the baseline.

Becker had beaten Nystrom the two previous times they played, at Wimbledon two months ago and in Cincinnati two weeks ago. It was expected that Becker would take Nystrom again.

"I didn't play tennis the first two sets," Becker said. "I was just fighting."

He put up the fight of his young life at the end of the fourth set. When the line judge signified Nystrom's final shot was inside the baseline, Becker, who was flat on the ground from having returned the previous shot, offered no protest.

However, when asked about the call in the interview room after the match, Becker had this to say:

"The ball was out. Too many mistakes in the match. On both sides."

Becker said he was "a little bit" disappointed over his failure to win, yet the instant he realized the match was over, he immediately jumped up and rushed to the net to congratulate the 10th-seeded 22-year-old Nystrom.

Nystrom was a good winner.

"Today, Boris wasn't playing as well as he did at Wimbledon," he said. "I think he was nervous from the very beginning because he dropped his serve to me (at the start) too easily."

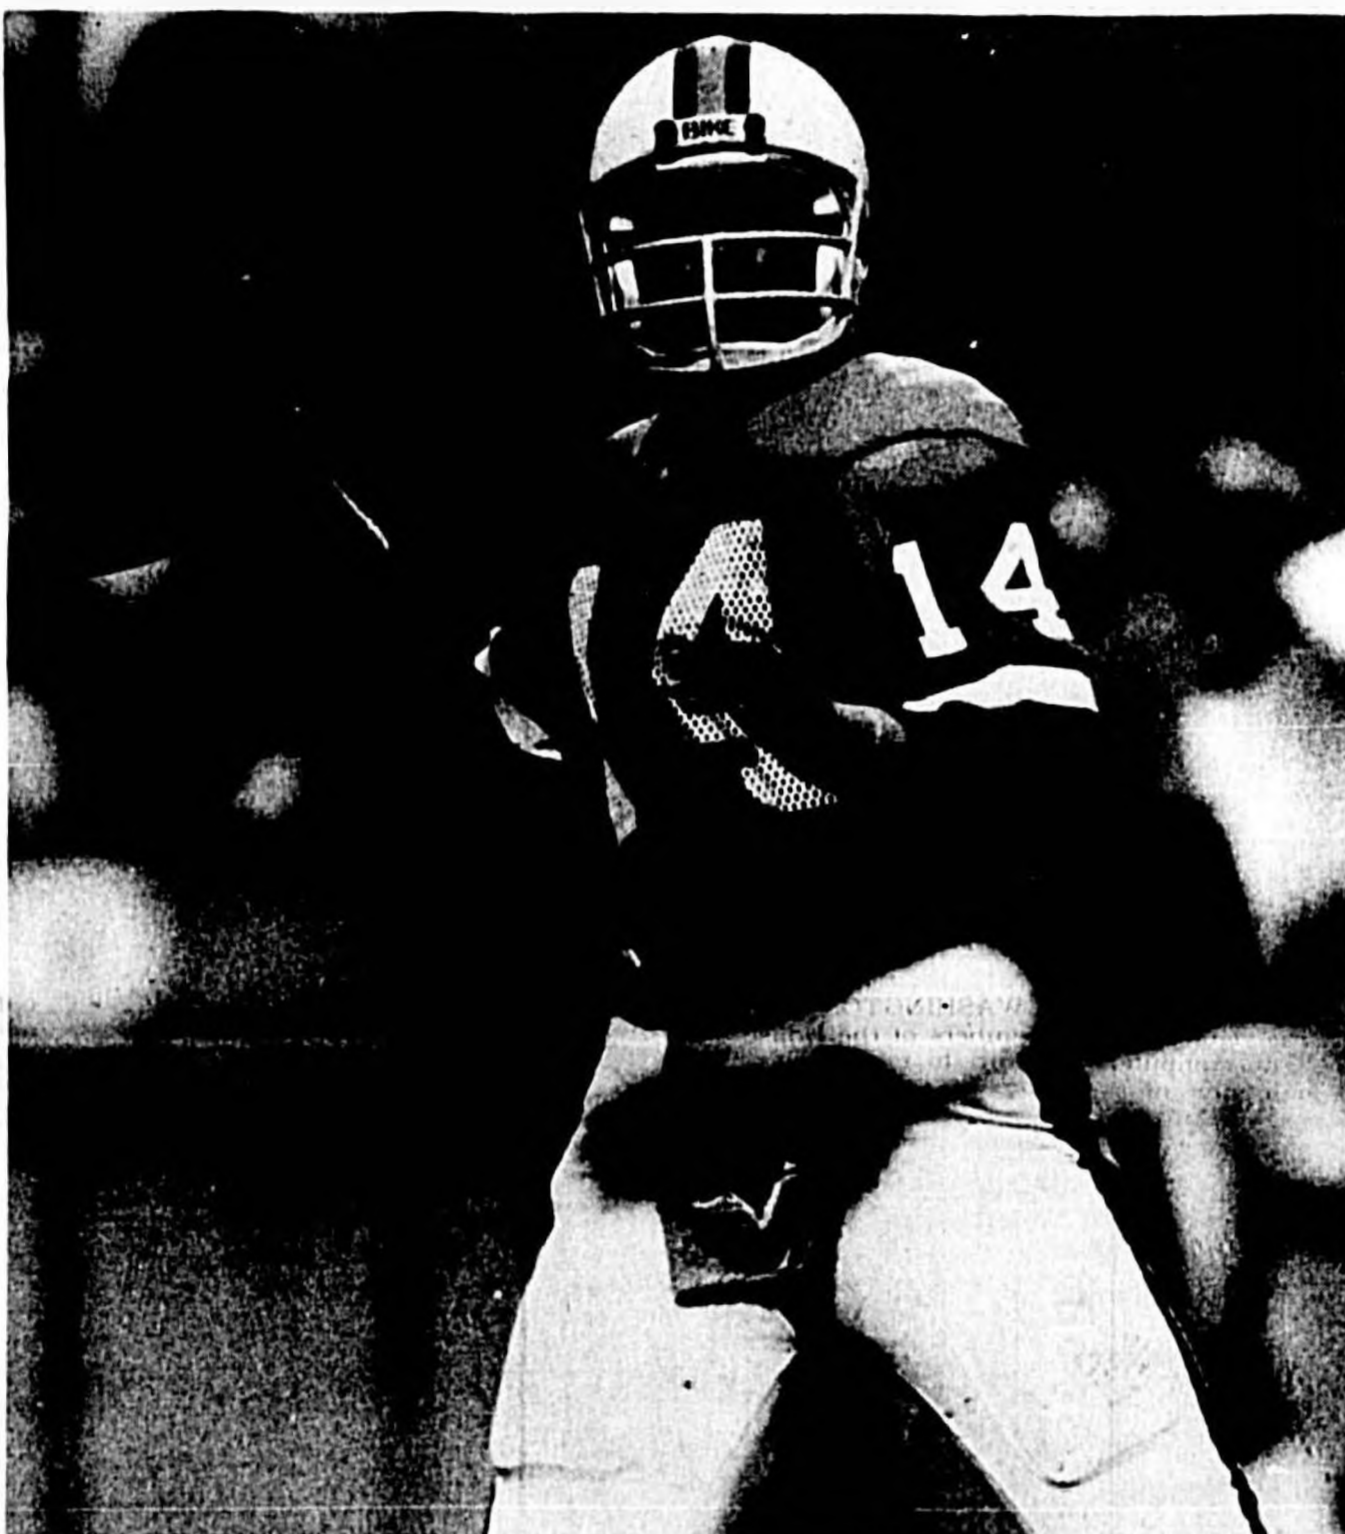

McEnroe beat Czechoslovakia's Tomas Smid, 6-3, 7-5, 6-2. Like Becker, he also looked sluggish during the early part of his match. Unlike Becker, though, he was able to do something about it.

Picture this if you can. The top seed is playing in the Open and he falls sound asleep. Right there on Center Court.

No big calamity. A lot of spectators in the stands got the same idea and did the same thing. That's the kind of match it was. Not much drama, not much excitement, not much anything.

Luckily for him, McEnroe left a wake-up call.

It came at a very odd time. About half past one Monday afternoon while McEnroe was sleepwalking through the second set of his fourth-round match with Smid, the rangy 18th-seeded Czech workhorse.

Jack Thompson has thrown his last pass for Tampa Bay. He was one of five players waived by the Bucs. Thompson said he knew it was coming when he didn't play Friday.

QB Cutdown: Zorn, Thompson Waived

United Press International

Jim Zorn, who was able to survive the early, dreadful days of the Seahawks, learned Monday he could not make it with the team now that Seattle is among the NFL elite.

Zorn was waived Monday by Seattle, ending a 9-year association which stretched back to the team's expansion in 1976. Cornerback Dave Brown and wide receiver Steve Largent are now the lone original Seahawks remaining on the roster.

Veterans joining Zorn on the waiver included Chicago kicker Bob Thomas, Minnesota nose tackle Charlie Johnson, Dallas running back Ron Springs, Cleveland running back Mike Pruitt, and Tampa quarterback Jack Thompson and safety Beasley Reece.

A starter in the franchise's first six seasons after joining the Seahawks as a free agent, Zorn owns most of Seattle's passing records. His Seahawks career began to take a toll in 1982 when he briefly lost his starting job.

Zorn regained the starting assignment in 1983, but midway through that year lost it to Dave Kreig, who has since become one of the NFL's best quarterbacks. Zorn concluded a rough pre-season and finalized his fate Friday, throwing two interceptions in an exhibition loss to San Francisco.

"I think it was just a matter of (Seattle coach) Chuck Knox deciding that I was not competing in such a way that would allow us to win if Dave Kreig had gone down," Zorn said.

At Lake Forest, Ill., Bears coach Mike Ditka decided to go with rookie Kevin Butler of Georgia as his No. 1 kicker, making Thomas, a 10-year veteran, expendable.

"I was told by Mike Ditka that I would have to be beaten out convincingly and I wasn't," Thomas said. "He told me it wasn't my kickoffs or anything else. I wish him (Butler) well. Mike told me that he knew that I would land a job and be kicking off for someone else by next Sunday."

At Berea, Ohio, unable to work out a trade, the Browns released Pruitt, a 10-year veteran and the third leading rusher in Cleveland's history. His 6,540 career yards are surpassed by Jim Brown (12,312) and Leroy Kelly (7,274).

At Tampa, the Buccaneers released Thompson and Reece when it became apparent neither figured prominently in the team's plans.

Neither Thompson nor Reece played against the Redskins last Friday. Rookie Alan Risher replaced No. 1 quarterback Steve DeBerg after halftime and second-year pro Craig Curry started at free safety.

At Dallas, the Cowboys played Springs on waivers after trying to trade the 7-year veteran. Springs, facing a trial on assault charges in connection with a night club disturbance, had been the subject of trade talks with Buffalo.

Tackle Luis Sharpe spent his first day in practice after resigning Saturday with the Cardinals.

Shula Takes Control, Tosses Alabama Past Georgia

Football

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Ray Perkins spent the preseason looking for an Alabama quarterback.

Monday night, he found the man he had been looking for — junior Mike Shula, son of Miami Dolphins coach Don Shula.

Perkins has had young Shula for quite awhile, even using him as a part-time starter last season when the Crimson Tide suffered through its first losing campaign in 27 years. But there was always the question about whether he'd take over completely.

Shula, starting and going the route in Alabama's nationally-televised 1985 opener Monday night, led a last-minute scoring drive that lifted the Crimson Tide to a 20-16 victory over Georgia.

The left-handed quarterback passed the Crimson Tide 71 yards in 35 seconds, hitting Albert Bell on an 18-yard touchdown toss with 15 seconds remaining, to spur Alabama to a Southeastern Conference victory over the Bulldogs.

"It was a great feeling to know we could get the job done through the air in a clutch situation when we had to," said Shula, who hit 9-of-13 passes for 136 yards. "I feel a whole lot better about myself because of this game."

So does Perkins. "I think Mike Shula handled the club extremely well, especially at the end of the game," said Perkins. "I'm prouder of this victory than any other I've ever been involved in as a player or a coach. We hung in there as a football team. We fought until the bitter end."

Just 35 seconds earlier, the Bulldogs, after trailing since the second play of the second quarter when Shula threw a 16-yard touchdown pass to Bell, had taken a 16-13 lead by blocking an Alabama punt and recovering it in the Tide end zone.

But Shula, who had thrown only eight times earlier in the evening, quickly drove his team to victory.

Starting at the Alabama 29, Shula, after missing on a first-down pass, hit four in a row — 16 yards to Greg Richardson, 25 yards to Bell, 12 yards to Richardson and then the winner to Richardson.

"We went into the game thinking we could establish our running game and I think we did that," said Shula. "But, I really felt good about our passing game at the end."

Georgia coach Vince Dooley noted his Bulldogs "hung in there long enough to find a way to win — but then celebrated too early and it cost us tremendously."

"I have to give a lot of credit to their quarterback, Shula," said Dooley. "When the chips were down, Shula looked very poised and directed Alabama to the winning touchdown."

"I'm proud of our team for hanging in there," said Dooley. "But our defense just couldn't get any pressure on Shula in that last series."

Alabama had opened the game's scoring with that first Shula-Bell TD pass. Georgia cut the margin to 7-3 with 1:16 left in the first half with a 38-yard Steve Crumley field goal, but the Tide widened its lead to 13-3 when Van Tiffin kicked a 48-yard field goal with 5:12 left in the third quarter and a 41-yarder with 8:38 left in the game.

"This victory is just what the doctor ordered for our football team," said Shula. "It really gave us a shot of confidence. I felt the winner of this game could become SEC champions. I firmly believe that."

Nystrom Destroys Dream

Becker Commits 64 Unforced Errors, Falls In 5 Sets

Tennis

NEW YORK (UPI) — The match of the year went up in flames and it was a quiet Swede named Joakim Nystrom who snuffed out the bright light of the U.S. Open.

Nystrom's four-set victory Monday over Wimbledon champion Boris Becker leveled the mounting anticipation of the hoped-for confrontation between the 17-year-old sensation and No. 1 John McEnroe.

But Nystrom, seeded 10th, can't take full credit for his 6-3, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4 victory. The West German had a hand in his own demise, committing 64 unforced errors, too many to be offset by his 20 aces.

"The first two sets, I wasn't on the court, then the third and four sets was a close match," lamented Becker, who received roars of encouragement from the stadium-court crowd of nearly 20,000.

"The crowd was cheering for me and I began fighting harder," he explained after saving five match points in the final two games.

The 2-hour, 45-minute contest ended strangely. Becker, who had fought for every point, ran towards a Nystrom backhand down the line but pulled up when, from behind the baseline umpire, a voice in the crowd, yelled, "Out."

When the ball bounced inside the line, Becker looked into the crowd a moment, then down at the court. He wordlessly went to the net and shook hands and afterwards claimed not to have heard the extra call.

McEnroe, very interested in playing Becker, had reached the

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sixth seed Claudia Kohde-Kilsch doesn't sound optimistic about her chances in the quarterfinals against likely opponent Chris Evert Lloyd, the women's top seed at the U.S. Open.

"I must have a really great day to beat her," Kohde-Kilsch said. "The game she plays, I don't like, because you have to win every point by yourself. She doesn't miss anything."

What about trying to run the six-time Open champion?
"She runs very well. The more you make her run, the better she gets," said the less-than-hopeful West German.

Catarina Lindqvist, loser to Martina Navratilova, also had an interesting attitude.

"To play Martina is one of the easiest matches because you have no pressure on yourself. You just go out and play, and if you lose, it's OK," she said.

Doubles matches receive minimal television time, but crowds at the U.S. Open have been of their noisiest during men's doubles.

King's Birdies Win Rail Golf

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — For two days Betsy King did nothing but complain about how poorly she hit the golf ball around the 6,250-yard Rail Golf Club course.

Finally, with nine holes to go in Monday's final round of the $185,000 Rail Charity Golf Classic, it was King who broke from the pack with five birdies to win the $27,500 first place check by two strokes over Janet Anderson.

"I really hit the ball well today. It was the best I hit all tournament," King said after Monday's final round 67.

Rest Revives Tired Bat, Hernandez Rips Padres

United Press International

It's a sure bet Keith Hernandez won't object the next time manager Davey Johnson suggests he take a day off.

Johnson benched his All-Star first baseman Sunday and a doctor's prescription couldn't have been a better antidote for a severe case of "tired bat."

The New York Mets' first baseman griped when Johnson forced him to sit out Sunday's game with the San Francisco Giants, but he delivered a pinch-hit homer in the ninth to win the game 4-3 and Monday night he continued his heavy hitting by banging out five hits to spark a 12-4 victory over the San Diego Padres.

"The season is a test of mental endurance as well as physical," Hernandez said after helping defeat the Padres. "It's a long year. I've gotta believe the off-day helped me."

The Mets collected 18 hits en route to the victory.

The triumph, coupled with St. Louis' loss to Cincinnati, moved the Mets to within one game of first place in the National League East.

"They just blew us out," San Diego manager Dick Williams said. "There's not much you can say about it. Hernandez had a helluva night."

N.L. Baseball

The Mets' Sid Fernandez, 6-8, pitched a five-hitter in completing his second game. Ray Knight drove in four runs, three coming in the seventh on his sixth homer, and Darryl Strawberry knocked in three for the Mets. Dodgers 5, Expos 4

At Los Angeles, pinch hitter Jay Johnstone singled home the winning run with one out in the 11th inning to help the Dodgers snap a four-game losing streak. The triumph kept the Dodgers 6 1/2 games ahead of the Cincinnati Reds in the National League West. Andre Dawson homered for Montreal. Tim Lincecum went 1 for 5 and stole his 52nd base.

Pirates 5, Braves 4
At Pittsburgh, Mike Brown hit a three-run homer, his first for Pittsburgh since being acquired in a trade from the California Angels, and Steve Kemp went 3-for-4 and drove in a run to lead the Pirates to victory.

Astros 7, Cubs 2
At Chicago, Eric Bullock drove in two runs with his first major-league hit, a five-inning double, to lead the Astros to their fifth triumph in the last six games. Bullock was called up from Houston's AAA farm club in Tucson last week.

Reds 4, Cardinals 1
At St. Louis, Dave Parker belted a two-run homer and rookie southpaw Tom Browning won his 15th game to lead the Reds to victory. Cincinnati player-manager Pete Rose went 0-for-3 and still needs six hits to break Ty Cobb's all-time record of 4,191.

Phillies 4, Giants 3
At San Francisco, Luis Aguayo's run-scoring double with none out in the top of the 10th inning scored Tom Foley and lifted the Phillies to victory. The double made a winner of reliever Lon Carman, 7-4, who pitched 1 1/3 innings of hitless relief. Dave Shipanoff worked the 10th for his third save.

Manager Rose Overshadowed

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Pete Rose looks like a pretty good manager.

His pursuit of Ty Cobb provides excellent camouflage. This summer, 4,192 looks like the most important number since the Greeks defined pi.

If you think 4,192 hits is impressive, however, then try these two figures: — A 69-60 won-lost record for Rose's Cincinnati ballclub.

— A distance of only 6 1/2 games between the Reds and the first-place Dodgers.

The Reds look very little like the team that duced the San Francisco Giants for last place in the National League West a year ago.

"I marvel at the way he's played so well and managed so well because they are both so hard to do," said Reds GM Bill Bergesch.

Rose went 0-for-3 in Monday night's 4-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals and still needs six hits to pass Cobb.

He made two key pitching decisions, however, both of which proved correct.

With the Reds leading 3-1 in the seventh inning, Rose removed starter Tom Browning, who had just allowed a two-out homer to Willie McGee and a walk to Tito Landrum.

Reliever John Franco prevented any further scoring.

resembling a row of tall timbers with the development of Johnson (6-1), Long (6-1) and Robinson (6-0). Anderson (5-9) and Riggins (5-6) aren't as tall as the others but are excellent leapers.
"We could have a really big front row," Corso said. "Cindy (Hogan) said it's the first time she's ever looked up to anybody on the team. We could intimidate some people this year."
"There's not really a spot on the team right now that isn't being challenged," added Corso. "Sometimes the new girls that were good in another sport don't think they'll be good in volleyball. But the other coaches (track coach Emory Blake and basketball coach Charles Steele) helped get the girls out and now they're enjoying it and seeing that they can do it. It's totally new right now, every practice is a challenge. Now we want to get everybody going, there are a lot of areas to cover but they're learning fast."

The Seminoles lost four starters from last year's squad including the irreplaceable Beth Nelson and Janet Hauck along with Becky Baker and Jill Witherow. Hauck will play at Stetson University while Nelson is attending Troy State (Ala.) University but has decided not to play volleyball. Barbour, who played two years ago, is expected to start for Stetson this fall.

"Stetson is very impressed with Janet (Hauck)," Corso said. "Beth (Nelson) had made the team at Troy State but decided not to play. She's on a four-year academic scholarship."
Because the district tournament has been moved back two weeks, the Seminole County coaches are getting together tonight to rearrange the schedules. The Lady Seminoles were scheduled to open the season Sept. 17 but the season probably won't start now until the 25th or 26th.
"Moving it back will be to everybody's advantage," Corso said. "Most of us didn't get the major part of our team until Monday. To open after two and a half weeks of practice is unheard of."

While Corso doesn't mind the season starting later, scheduling teams outside of the Seminole Athletic Conference has been a problem.
"We have no limitations on matches this year," Corso said. "The problem is everybody else is limited and nobody can play us."
Speaking of the new Seminole Athletic Conference, Corso believes Lyman and Oviedo will be "super strong" and Lake Howell, with Jo Luciano back at the helm, can't be counted out.
As for Seminole...
"If everybody comes along we could be a real contender by midseason," Corso said. "The girls just need some games and some experience."

Mats Wilander, the third seed, overcame Greg Holmes 7-6 (7-5), 6-1, 7-5 in a fourth-round pairing on the evening schedule. The Swede won despite trailing 5-1 in the tie-breaker and being down 5-2, double set point, in the third set.

The women's top four seeds also advanced to the quarterfinals Monday. Martina Navratilova led the way with a 6-4, 7-5 elimination of Sweden's Catarina Lindqvist, who gave the defending champion her toughest match of the tournament.

No. 1 seed Chris Evert Lloyd triumphed 6-2, 6-4 over Robin White; No. 3 Hana Mandlikova prevailed over Kathy Jordan, 7-5, 3-6, 6-1; and Pam Shriver, the fourth seed, eased past Alycia Moulton, 6-2, 6-4.

Lying Lover Giving 2 Women Runaround

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend and I lived together for four years and planned to be married, but three months before the wedding date, he asked me to postpone it "for a while." I didn't know how to handle that, so I just moved out. Although we aren't living together anymore, we're still seeing a lot of each other. He admitted to having another girlfriend, but he says he still loves me.

Dear Abby

My problem: He refuses to tell his girlfriend about us. I asked him why, and he said because she's not mature enough to handle it. He also said he wants to get all the running around out of his system before he settles down. The other girl found out about us. He told her that we were just "friends" and she had nothing to worry about. Now she thinks I am out of his life for good.

I still love him, and feel guilty when he comes to my bed after he's been with her, but I can't turn away when he tells me he loves me and needs me. What should I do?

HANGING ON

DEAR HANGING: Face it, he's lying to both of you, and he's using you to the hilt. Kiss him goodbye, and tell him to let you know when he gets all the running around out of his system. If you're still available, you might consider picking up where you left off.

DEAR ABBY: A close neighbor phoned, wanting to know if I'll be home. She wants to "drop something off." Then she comes by with some flowers from her garden. (I have a garden with the same flowers and she knows it.) Or she just made some cookies. (I am just sweets, and I would rather not have any around, which she also knows because I have told her often.) Or she has some little trinket or doodad, or some snapshots to show me, or a letter she wants to read to me! Obviously, I have to invite her in to sit for a few minutes, and maybe offer her a cup of coffee or a cold drink.

Naturally she sits and sits and sits, until I am ready to scream. She is a bore and her company is a chore.

Is there a polite way to avoid getting sucked into this situation?

OFTEN STUCK

DEAR OFTEN STUCK: I know of no polite way to tell a bore that you do not want to get sucked into allowing her to "stop by" with something in order to spend time with you. Your best defense would be to tell her that you will not be home. (Then go somewhere if necessary.)

Problems? Write to Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. All correspondence is confidential.

Speech Craft

Pat Spivey listens intently while Altamonte Springs Attorney Joe Rosler conducts a speech craft workshop sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. in collaboration with the Toastmasters of Sanford. The 8-week seminar taught various communication techniques including body language, speech organization and voice control to people not engaged in public speaking. Future speech crafts are planned.

Singers Wanted For Chorus

The Seminole Community Chorus is seeking new members for the 1985-86 season. This choral organization is sponsored by the Department of Fine and Performing Arts and the Leisure Time Program of Seminole Community College under the direction of Dr. Burt H. Perinchief. No audition is necessary for membership in this fine chorus of mixed voices.

Rehearsals will begin on Sept. 9 at 7 p.m. in Room G-105 in the Fine Arts Building on the Seminole Community College campus. Registration for academic credit is available and may be conducted by mail, while Leisure Time credit registration will take place at the opening rehearsals.

Term I rehearsals will prepare for a concert in late November and will feature a broader spectrum of musical selections than this chorus has performed in the past including a short Mass by Franz Schubert as well as music from the Broadway stage. Music is available for purchase in the college bookstore.

All interested singers may receive additional information by calling Patricia Meridith at Extension 438 or Dr. Perinchief at Extension 285.

Alan's Fabrics Chosen To Redecorate Clubhouse

Alan's Fabrics of Sanford is pleased to have been selected to help coordinate the redecoration of the Women's Club of Sanford's historic clubhouse located at 309 S. Oak Ave.

Jim Coffin, owner of Alan's, assisted the building committee in choosing new carpet and floor coverings, wallpaper, draperies and upholstery fabrics from Alan's extensive sample collection.

Members of the building committee include Elizabeth Welebob, Florence Korgan, Patricia Foster, Emy Bill, Vivian Buck, Martha Yancey and Ann Brisson.

Alan's staff installed the floor coverings and window treatments, refinished the club's wood floors, reupholstered sofas, and hung new wallpaper.

Alan's has been serving area residences since 1962 and is located at 2559 Park Drive next to Stenstrom Realtors.

To celebrate Alan's 23rd anniversary and introduce several new lines of carpet, they are offering free installation with purchase of carpet. There is a slight charge for moving furniture.

This offer is good through Sept. 19 and will help you get your home ready for the holidays.

For free shop at home service and estimates with no obligation, of course, please call 322-5783.

Alan's turns your decorating dreams into reality.

Brazil Opts For Growth

By Brian Nicholson
 RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI) — After five months of internal wrangling, the civilian government has opted firmly for economic growth and a better deal for the poor, despite worries about record inflation and its $100 billion foreign debt.

President Jose Sarney last week accepted the resignation of finance Minister Francisco Dornelles and replaced him with 52-year-old liberal businessman Dilson Funaro. One foreign banker called it a classic tussle between "spenders and savers," in which the spenders won.

"Sarney has clearly decided on a policy of economic development, in line with national aspirations," the financial daily Gazeta Mercantil said.

It was the first major cabinet crisis since Sarney took office March 15 after 21 years of military rule.

"All actions of my government have aimed at devoting scarce resources to the poor," Sarney said at a June press conference.

But he faced problems.

He was elected as vice president, then stepped into the top job only because President-Elect Tancredino Neves died without taking office.

Sarney inherited the massive national debt for change which swept Neves into office against the military government's own candidate. But he lacked Neves' near-saintly image.

Moving quickly, Sarney promised to implement all Neves' policies of social reform. And he pledged to retain Neves' ministers.

For the first few months his hands were tied by Neves' ghost, but Sarney gradually settled into the presidency.

He developed his own popularity and congressional power base, and he sided with the "spenders," the economists and politicians who insist Brazil must turn its back on four years of economic recession.

They argue more economic growth is vital for a country where one in three workers receive $14 a week or less, where a third of its 130 million people have no garbage collection or running water and where one in five live without even the most rudimentary sanitation.

All politicians and economists advocate growth, but there is disagreement about how much is immediately possible without jeopardizing two other vital administration goals: controlling inflation and cutting the public deficit.

One of Funaro's first unpleasant jobs was announcing record inflation of 14 percent in August, an annual rate of 382 percent.

Most economists agree inflation is being fueled by the large government deficit.

Sarney said the military left "economic chaos" with a budget deficit equal to roughly $17 billion.

He announced tax hikes and spending cuts in steel mills, nuclear power stations and hydroelectric dams to chop the deficit by some $7.5 billion.

Sarney said deeper cuts would risk his growth target.

The Estado de Sao Paulo newspaper said that in accepting Dornelles' resignation and naming Funaro, Sarney opted for "growing 5 percent a year, no matter what the cost in inflation."

But many economists argue the deficit is still excessive. They say Brazil must accept lower economic growth while it slows its price spiral.

Funaro promised a third path: growth and lower inflation. The secret, he said, was reducing bank interest rates.

Currently even a "good quality" industrial borrower pays 20 percent or more real annual interest, over and above inflation.

Consumer credit can run well over 100 percent.

Businessmen complain financial charges—often outstrip labor costs.

Funaro met with leading bankers then announced a voluntary pact to gradually bring down interest rates, although without immediately revealing how this would be done.

Some bankers suggested mandatory interest limits. Others said this was unworkable.

And hanging over the whole debate about interest rates, government spending, growth and inflation is the $100 billion foreign debt.

Following the change in finance ministers, the government promised to honor its international commitments.

U.S., European and Japanese bankers recently agreed to extend their loans until Jan 17, when Brazil hopes to have reached agreement with the International Monetary Fund about 1986 economic policies.

Even before the ministerial change-over, economists said the IMF wanted deeper spending cuts than Sarney considered acceptable.

After the change-over, these cuts appeared yet less likely.

Towers Beauty Salon Under New Ownership

Ken Hicks is the new owner of the Towers Beauty Salon located at 519 E. First St., Sanford, in the lobby of Bram Towers. You don't have to be a resident of Bram Towers to take advantage of hair care offered by the experienced hairdressers at his salon.

Ken, who has 10 years experience in the field, took over the salon on July 1 from former owner Betty Webber, who opened the beauty shop in 1970.

Her old customers will be glad to know Betty is still on the staff along with Marty Moore and Jewel Goolsby.

Together they have accumulated more than 60 years collective experience and offer all phases of hair care for men and women including perms, coloring, haircutting, shampoo and set.

Before buying the Towers Salon, Ken traveled extensively for Jhirmae of Florida as a sales representative and technician. He has also worked for several salons in this area. He received training in permanent waving and hair color from Jhirmae and attended several sessions of the Jesse and Flo Briggs Advanced Haircutting Institute in Fort Lauderdale.

Ken offers several lines of men's hairpieces and wigs. The Towers Beauty Salon is a service and hair loss information center to those who have suffered hair loss because of chemotherapy treatments or accidents.

Customers may park in the visitors' parking spaces or on the side streets and enter from either the east or west side entrances to the building.

The Towers Beauty Salon, an easy-going shop where you can come in and relax, is open Monday through Saturday and other hours by appointment only. Call 322-5742 for an appointment.

Canadian UAW Set To Split From U.S.

TORONTO (UPI) — A Canadian convention will mark an "historic moment" when it votes this week to adopt a constitution and give birth to an independent United Auto Workers of Canada, says the union leader who spearheaded a drive to split the powerful Detroit-based UAW after 50 years.

"It's an historic moment for the UAW and I think an historic moment for the Canadian labor movement," said Robert White, the high-profile Canadian trade unionist expected to win the presidency of the new union.

White is leading 120,000 Canadian autoworkers out of the one-million-member UAW because he wants more autonomy for Canadians and less "interference" from Detroit.

The Canadians, whose UAW affiliation began in 1935, will hold a founding convention that will, in most respects, mark the official birth of a Canadian UAW.

About 330 delegates will attend the convention, which begins Wednesday and ends Saturday. They will vote on a constitution late Thursday or early Friday.

The delegates will elect union officers Friday morning and that night hear from Victor Reuther, who with his brother Walter helped build the UAW and is a prominent name in American labor.

"It's almost like reliving history," White said. UAW international president Owen Bieber was to have attended, officials said, but decided against that.

White, 50, Canadian director of the union for seven years, threatened last year to split the UAW unless Canadians were given more autonomy. Bieber refused.

The Canadians were more militant and took a different bargaining path in the 1980s, and troubles grew after what White calls interference by Detroit officials in a 13-day strike against General Motors of Canada last October, when thousands of U.S. autoworkers were laid off.

White, who took his first job at age 15 earning 47 1/2 cents an hour and now earns about $65,000 a year, said the Canadians and Americans already are operating separately.

Under the terms of the split, which will cost the UAW in Detroit about $15 million a year in union dues, the Canadian union will receive about $26 million in UAW assets.

While a Canadian constitution is to be adopted this week, it may take until the UAW's international constitutional convention next May to work out final details and transfer full assets and bargaining rights.

Canadian locals still send dues to Detroit but the money is set aside, White said, from a union educational facility in Port Elgin, northwest of Toronto, where committees were making last-minute preparations.

Canadian locals will continue to operate under the international constitution until all matters are settled, he said.

After the convention, the UAW heads back into master contract negotiations with Chrysler Canada. There have been concerns that the divorce could affect investment in Canada by the automakers but analysts are taking a wait-and-see attitude.

Boston Gets Its Schools Back

Judge Relinquishing Control Amid New Racial Harmony

BOSTON (UPI) — Eleven years after handing down a school desegregation order that touched off bloody racial violence, a federal judge promised to turn control of the city's classrooms back to local officials this week.

The withdrawal by U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity coincides with the arrival of Boston's first black school superintendent and a growing atmosphere of racial harmony in the city.

Laval S. Wilson, who ran schools in Rochester, N.Y., before being chosen last month to head the 55,000-student system in Boston, the nation's oldest, replaces Robert R. Spillane.

Spillane left Boston after four years to take over the Fairfax County, Va., school system, one of the nation's wealthiest.

Garrity was expected to issue the final orders today formally ending federal control of Boston's schools. But the decision will require the city's 13-member governing School Committee to follow affirmative action guidelines in assigning students and hiring teachers.

Garrity's initial 1974 busing order to achieve desegregation was met with two years of sporadic, but often bloody racial violence, primarily at South Boston, Charlestown and Hyde Park high schools, located in white, working-class enclaves.

Racial incidents, including the slayings of several blacks and whites, plagued the city for the rest of the decade.

The withdrawal by Garrity, just two days before the Sept. 5 opening of school, finds a calmer city, triggered by an amicable 1983 mayoral race between erstwhile busing opponent Raymond L. Flynn, the victor, and black community activist Melvin H. King.

In addition to the affirmative action guidelines, Garrity's final orders are expected to create a formal decision-making process involving parents, teachers, community leaders and administrators. Also, a Department of Implementation, which has carried out Garrity's orders in the past, will continue to ensure desegregation despite declining school enrollment.

Boston was one of the first northern cities found in violation of the 1954 Supreme Court decision ending separate but equal schools for blacks and whites, and was one of a handful in which federal courts continued to play an active role in the schools into the 1980s.

In his initial order, Garrity said enrollment patterns and faculty and staff hiring and assignment policies by the city's school committee "intentionally brought about and maintained a dual school system in Boston" — one for whites and one for blacks. He also cited in 1974 a 10-year record of overcrowding and underutilization of school buildings.

At first, the school committee resisted the court's desegregation plans. Three members of the then five-member panel were found in civil contempt in October 1974 for their opposition.

Flynn, a resident of South Boston and a peaceful foe of busing, said he opposed Garrity's order because it violated Boston's long tradition of neighborhood schools, not because he was against desegregation.

In an interview on the 10th anniversary of the order, Flynn stood by his position, saying busing was "educationally counterproductive."

"Children were being sent from one bad school to another."

Hard Hat Harmony

With traveling fingers, fiddler Earl Wilson accompanied by other members of his trio put on a mini-road show during ceremonies Friday to note the completion of improvements to State Road 436 in Altamonte Springs, and the general economic development of the area. On hand for the event, besides Earl from Cape Canaveral, was state Rep. Bobby Brantley (R) Longwood, and the mayor of Altamonte Springs, Ray Ambrose.

'That Ain't No Boy's Camp'

Cubans Cite Abuses At Federal Prison

ATLANTA (UPI) — In a letter smuggled out of the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary, seven Cubans are charging prison and immigration officials with violating the rights of the 1,800 Cuban detainees and discriminating against them "in all matters."

"We the Cuban refugees are being discriminated against in all matters," read a document stuffed inside legal papers.

The document alleges prison officials may have been responsible for the death of at least one refugee.

Prison censors, who check all mail coming into and leaving the prison, missed the document included in a batch of legal papers.

Dale Schwartz, an Atlanta attorney who has waged a legal battle on behalf of the detainees since they began arriving five years ago, said he believes conditions there are less than ideal but are not unusual for a prison.

"That ain't no boy's camp," he said.

The 1,800 Cubans at the prison have been under lockdown regulations since last October when they staged a series of protests.

A prison spokesman said Saturday that 50 Cubans are being force-fed as a result of a hunger strike to protest conditions. But prison officials could not be reached Monday to comment on the hunger strike or the forced feeding.

The paper, addressed to "Amnesty International, the Organization of American States and the world at large," is signed by seven refugees held at the 83-year-old prison under orders from the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

"We accuse the INS of having it in for us to an extreme, by denying us our freedom and violating the human rights which every human being is entitled," read the paper.

"For some time now we have been suffering because of a lack of ventilation, because by order of the director it was decided to close the windows with tarps," said the document.

"As a consequence, many of the refugees have been ill, many are suffering nose bleedings and the state of cleanliness is even worse," the paper charges.

Government Car Users May Be Law Breakers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The head of the Government Accounting Office warned top White House and budget office officials that they may be breaking the law if they are using government cars to commute to work.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who released the report of Comptroller General Charles Bowsher, said the ruling "ends the free ride these officials have had at the taxpayer's expense."

"For years federal officials blithely ignored the government-wide ban on the use of government vehicles for home-to-work transportation, even though this law has been on the books since 1946," Proxmire said in a statement.

The mandatory penalty for ignoring the law ranges from temporary suspension without pay to outright dismissal.

The GAO cracked down on the abuse in 1983. As a result, the number of officials being driven to work at taxpayers' expense dropped from a peak of 190 in 1982 to 51 today.

But, Proxmire said, "The Office of Management and Budget officials claimed they were not subject to the law. And the White House staff, under (White House chief of staff) Don Regan, refused to even respond to my inquiries."

Last week, in response to Proxmire's request for a review of "the current practice, and legality, of chauffeur service," the GAO said: "No person at OMB or on the White House staff may properly receive government home-to-work transportation."

It said the law limits that privilege to the president, vice-president, heads of Cabinet departments, and selected officials — usually for security reasons. OMB technically is not a Cabinet department although the budget director held Cabinet rank.

Asked about the report, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said: "We've always used cars for official business" and "not normally" for home-to-office commuting.

He said as far as he knows, only Regan and national security adviser Robert McFarlane now have the commuting service — McFarlane under separate statute and Regan under a special arrangement with the Secret Service.

Regan, who as treasury secretary had the Secret Service under his jurisdiction, now retains the service based on a Secret Service recommendation.

Itchy Varicose Veins May Require Surgery

DEAR DR. GOTT — What can be done about itchy varicose veins? The prescribed ointments used, to help, but the itching keeps getting worse.

DEAR READER — The skin over varicose veins usually has poor circulation, since not enough oxygen and nutrients are delivered. This sets the stage for a sequence of events starting with an itchy rash and culminating in sores or ulcers of the skin. Most of these skin changes can be managed by the use of elastic support stockings and anti-irritant moisturizing creams. However, if your legs are getting worse, you may have to consider having the varicose veins surgically removed by a stripping procedure. See a good surgeon and at least get his opinion.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is there an antibiotic that can be purchased without a prescription? I have had septal reconstruction and allergy shots for years, but I still have a sinus infection all the time. I live on antibiotics.

DEAR READER — In the United States, antibiotics are available only by prescription. This is because they are powerful medicines and should only be used for specific conditions under medical supervision.

I am concerned that you "live" on antibiotics. While the drugs are useful, they are not necessarily the answer to everyone's prayer. In addition, their prolonged use can cause internal problems.

Although allergy shots may be a pain — both figuratively and literally — they are probably an important part of your treatment. If you do have chronic sinus infection, it may be due to continuing sinus blockage. This condition may be helped either by having your sinuses washed out or by correcting the obstruction. Both options can best be evaluated by an ear, nose and throat specialist. If your otolaryngologist has thrown up his hands and tossed you repeated prescriptions for antibiotics, you may wish to ask for a referral for a second opinion. Often an equally well-trained doctor can offer a different perspective that may be far more

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

When the World Bridge Team Olympiad was held in Miami in 1972, one of the semifinals matches was between Italy and France. The Blue Team for Italy had dominated world team competition for more than a decade. Although the French team consisted of experienced international players, spectators made Italy a strong favorite in the match. This may explain the line of play taken by Claude Delmouly, sitting South for France in the diagramed deal.

North's free bid of three spades over three hearts, followed by five clubs, confirmed a strong hand in support of clubs. Delmouly was judged well to carry on to slam. Although he did not expect the slam to be a laydown, it seemed a good chance to create a swing against Italy.

After the heart queen had held the first trick, West led a spade. Declarer won the ace, played ace of clubs and a low club. When East followed with the nine, he played the jack. This was not the best percentage play, but the desired result was achieved. In the other room, six clubs failed. Delmouly's play, although slightly against the odds, had gained France a slam swing.

P.S.: Italy nevertheless won the match comfortably, vindicating the spectators' analysis.
