U.S. To Get Chance This Week To Meet The 'Other' DeGaulle

By NEIL NEWSON
The people of the United States get a chance this week to see the "other" Charles DeGaulle. This is the opportunity men who average over 60 years of age have. DeGaulle then will have conferred separately with Premier Nikita Khrushchev of the Soviet Union, with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain and with Eisenhower. Each of the others also have held their separate conferences, so much so that it almost might be said that the summit meeting already has been held. As the most recent to have seen Khrushchev, DeGaulle may be expected to relay his impressions to Eisenhower. An important cue, shared last fall by Eisenhower, is that Khrushchev plans an immediate new program in Berlin. Another cue between the two will be the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance which Khrushchev regards as a byproduct of U.S. foreign policy. DeGaulle believes that rejoining world tensions have reduced the importance of NATO.

Daylight Saving Time Change Set
By United Press International
Daylight saving time goes into effect for most Americans Sunday, but it will also turn the United States into a nation divided. Only about half the population moves its clocks ahead one hour. But practically everyone feels the effects of the last hour, which is probably why more and more communities now go on fast time for part of the year. A survey by a watch company shows that 51,272,000 of the estimated population of 130 million will move up their clocks at 2 a. m. April 24. This is 26.7 percent of the population, a substantial increase over the 20 percent which made the switch a dozen years ago. Only about half the population moves its clocks ahead one hour. Holy Cross To Add To Kindergarten

Holy Cross Episcopal Parish Day School announced today that registrations are open for an afternoon kindergarten starting in September. Mrs. J. B. John will teach this class as well as the morning session that is already full. Father Thomas, rector of Holy Cross, said the afternoon session was made necessary because of the number of children who could not be accommodated in the morning hours. The facilities of the school are air-conditioned and the afternoon session will be an exact duplicate of the morning class. A full kindergarten course, in preparation for first grade, is taught under the same conditions. Hours of the new class will be from 12:45 p. m. to 2:45 p. m. in the school facilities at Fourth St. and Magnolia Ave.

Citrusmen Tell That New Products Needed In State

LAKELAND (UPI) — New products are necessary if the Florida citrus industry is to remain healthy in the years ahead, a national agricultural leader said Wednesday. The warning from Vice President Wheeler McMillen of the Farm Journal magazine came as Florida Citrus Mutual presented a bright marketing outlook for the remainder of the current season. McMillen spoke at a meeting of officers of the Florida Citrus Research Foundation while the staff of Florida Citrus Mutual presented its marketing forecast to a meeting of its board of directors. McMillen said "among the nation's largest corporate enterprises may be found several who report that more than half of their sales dollars from products which were not on the market 15 years ago." Cuban Revolt Move Expected To Start Next Month

MIAMI (UPI) — A former Havana businessman says he heads a revolutionary group which will begin guerrilla warfare against Fidel Castro's government next month. Mario Garcia Robby said Wednesday his "Liberators of Cuba" include 7,000 active members divided into squads of 10 each. He said the liberators will begin striking at Cuban airports, shipping, and communications the second week in May. A 20-man air force has also been assembled, Robby said. Robby said the liberators will strike hard in dozens of major cities at one and the same moment. Robby called the liberators an "action" rather than a political movement. "Politics and presidents will be left to the determination of the Cuban people, where it belongs," he said. "We are not trying to dictate a choice of governmental or military leaders." The war-like announcement was the second in two days directed at Castro from Miami. Monday, a 29-year-old exiled Cuban accountant, Fernando Lopez del Toro, said 5,000 men under his direction will begin warfare against Castro May 2 if the premier does not purge his government of Communist influence by then.

Capt. Ramage To Be Missed

Capt. James D. Ramage will be going to the Pacific West sometime after June 14 and there are a lot of people in this area who will miss him.

The Navy has announced that Capt. Ramage will be transferred to command of the Salisbury Sound, flagship of the commander of the Formosa Patrol Force. As commander of HAWKING ONE at the Sanford Naval Air Station since 1958, the captain has made many friends for himself and the Navy in Seminole County. He has been active in varied activities and has been called on often by civilian agencies to give a boost to their efforts. His judgment and cooperation have been most helpful to the community in these instances.

We join all his other friends in bidding him good fortune.

Capt. F. G. Edwards will assume command of the wing at NAS and will also pledge the community interest in the continuation of his good work as commander of VAH-3 in his new post as wing commander.

WORRY CLINIC by Dr. G. W. Crane

Man, it's cheaper to be a good husband than to pay alimony, and for more fun to use the laws of psychology in safeguarding your home. To understand a fundamental sex difference between men and women, notice how they react to their old hats. And remember, women always retain their childhood delight in "surprises."

CASE E-484: Elizabeth V., aged 37, has been married for six years.

"Dr. Crane, I am happy in my marriage, but I could be more happy," she confessed.

"My husband is a fine man and has none of those bad habits which make so many wives miserable. For example, he doesn't drink or smoke or go out with other women."

"But he is too quiet, Dr. Crane! I just long to have him give me a few words of praise now and then."

"If I take him a pie or clean up the house so it looks nice and cozy, or if I buy myself an attractive new hat, he makes no comment unless I ask for it."

"When I inquire if he likes my hat or pie, he will say yes, and I think he means it."

"What women prefer to receive compliments which they don't have to ask for!"

"He also forgets to bring me candy or flowers or even send me a sweet, though occasional greeting card on my birthday or when I am away."

"It isn't difficult to keep the average wife happy and make her think you are wonderful, so men ought to pay more attention to the little things."

"Women are much like children in their emotional life. They never lose their interest in 'surprises.' However, it is the 'surprises' that stimulate them perhaps even more than the necessary value of which will a child appreciate more—a gift of $1.00 value or 20 gifts which cost a dime apiece?"

"In previous articles I have told you how to hold your wife against excitement, namely, satisfy her basic human needs when they occur."

"These consist of the gastric appetite, the love or sex appetite,

ASSIGNMENT WASHINGTON by Ed Koterba

WASHINGTON — It was a double-feature movie, probably the strangest twin bill on record in America. Star of both features was Nikita Khrushchev.

Both movies had the same general setting — the United States. The theme: Khrushchev's tour of 1959.

One film was the American version. The other was Communist. Now, in Communist Technicolor, you could see with your own eyes the results of Khrushchev's propaganda trickery.

The Soviet film, "Khrushchev in America," has been distributed to every country outside the free world and has been translated into every language. What's more, the Communist charge admission. (In Prague, it was 30 cents.)

U. S. Finds Itself Facing Dilemma In Dealings With Castro's Regime

By PHIL NEWSON
UPI Foreign Editor

When President Eisenhower accused Cuba's Castro regime of "betraying" the principles of the Cuban revolution, there was speculation that if this did not lead to a break in relations nothing could.

The break did not occur, but neither did relations improve. In one sharp note last week, the United States noted that the Cuban government was obtaining arms far in excess of normal needs, and that mounting tension in the Caribbean had accompanied the rise of the Castro regime.

In another, it refused to reinstate a labor leader fired from his job on the U.S. Naval base at Guantanamo on Cuba's eastern tip.

None of these actions could be calculated to alter the course of the violent anti-U.S. campaign waged for months by Fidel Castro and his propaganda outlets.

Nonetheless, this week Castro rather mildly suggested that relations between the two countries might be improved if he could talk personally with Eisenhower or Secretary of State Christian Herter.

This suggests that both Castro and the United States are on the horns of a dilemma.

The United States is disturbed both by the Castro regime's economic policies, the wide-scale seizure of properties without compensation, and by Communist infiltration into the Cuban government.

In the latter it finds growing sympathy among other Latin American governments but an equal reluctance to intervene.

The Organization of American States, founded in 1948, would be a natural instrument to bring hemispheric pressure against Cuba, at the same time relieving the United States of any charge of intervention on its own.

But in the south-of-the-border states there so far is no enthusiasm for any such move. One reason is that no Latin American state is ready yet to associate itself with the U.S. in action against a Latin American state.

The image of U.S. "big stick" diplomacy still is too fresh. Another reason is that intervention on grounds of Communist infiltration, conceivably could open the door to action against other states.

WASHINGTON CALLING by Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — The major ritual of the goosey birds could be no more prescribed and inevitable in its end than the periodic meetings of the Western foreign ministers.

In the first phase the tension of alarm is sounded. Germany and Britain are at odds. A deal will be made over Berlin. A cloud of distrust darkens the scene.

Then the ministers come together to be photographed amiably smiling at one another. Next they retire into the fastness of the conference chamber from which come haltingly describing the fruitless progress of the discussions.

Finally, as the conference nears its end, the love call is triumphant. The chorus of harmony sounds like the brasses in a Wagnerian opera. This process has just been gone through here in Washington and it will be repeated early next month at a session in Istanbul and for a third time in Paris just prior to the opening of the summit.

The reason this whole business has such an empty and pre-ferential sound is evident enough. The ministers have no power to agree on any positive new steps that may be taken in the exchange with the Soviet Union. They can agree only on what their respective governments will NOT do and that is bound to seem sterile and self-defeating.

What is also becoming rather painfully evident is that the present is for the West a difficult transition phase, with the chief hope that it will pass without a major challenge. The hard, the truly terrifying decision will have to be taken by others at a later time. This may explain why the rumor is circulating that President Eisenhower in Paris will propose to Premier Khrushchev a second summit conference to be held in December and to which he will bring the president-elect chosen in November.

While presidents before him have not hesitated to enter into executive agreements committing their successors, Mr. Eisenhower has said that a moratorium on small nuclear explosion could not be assured beyond the expiration of his term in the White House. This casts some doubt on whether an agreement on a nuclear test ban is really possible for the summit-conference to be reached.

But the area of uncertainty is not limited to this country. West Germany has an election in 1961 and top officials here are convinced

Nature Lovers Starting Tourist Travel Season Early In Capital

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — On a clear day sightseers here can see a lot of sights. But what they see is most of all other sightseers.

I do believe we are breaking all records this year in early season tourist travel. I don't intend to bemoan you with statistics, but more than 100,000 persons congregated around the Tidal Basin last weekend when the cherry trees were in full bloom.

One of the local newspapers estimated the Tidal Basin had more blossom watchers than blossoms. At any rate, it was a lot of nature loving for such a short period. The trees weren't so much admired as overwhelped.

The blossoms are gone now but the city is still swarming with visitors. From a distance, Capitol Hill looks like an ant hill that has been seeded with sugar lumps.

I have just completed a round trip stroll from the Capitol to the Health, Education and Welfare Department, upon which I made an informal census.

Along the circular drive around the statue of General Grant at the foot of Capitol Hill, I counted 38 chartered buses and five ice cream carts.

I couldn't begin to count the number of visiting automobiles but I do know one thing — we now have all the ingredients for congested traffic. It is taking me 15 minutes longer than usual to drive to and from work, and I travel after rush hours.

The traffic situation is one of the reasons why I walked to the Health, Education and Welfare Department. The other reason was to see a demonstration of a new colored circuit color television projector called the epiophore.

According to a press release, the demonstration was planned to test the feasibility of using live TV to "replace time-consuming visits and tours for orientation and information purposes."

Here, I said to myself, might be just the thing Washington needs for the tourist season. I fig-

Symington Raps Administration On National Strength Obsession

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Stuart Symington attacked the Eisenhower administration today for what he called its "obsession" that the nation can build strength in one field only by sacrificing power in another.

The Missouri senator, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, gave his formula for building national strength in a speech prepared for today's session of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Two other announced Democratic candidates — Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota — also were billed for speeches before the organization today.

Symington defended his decision not to compete against Humphrey and Kennedy in presidential primaries, which he said brought candidates before only "random fractions" of the voters.

"They tend to become personality contests," he said. "They embitter men of fundamentally similar views, who later must work together to serve our national needs. They are ill-suited to the systematic discussion of great issues."

Symington described his speech as the first of a series of related statements which would outline his views. He said building national strength called for:

—Gearing economic performance to capacity to provide faster economic growth to help serve domestic needs, support national defense and expand U. S. peace efforts.

—Use increased economic strength to combat problems of unemployment, poverty, inflation, care for the aged, education, farm income, slums and medical care.

—Full extension of justice and equality of opportunity in our political, civil and economic affairs.

—Redefine relations with other free people to make them aware of American moral purposes, to provide food because they are hungry, not to get rid of farm surpluses, and to help them live better lives, not just to resist Communism.

—Find a more workable way to live with totalitarian states without jeopardizing American freedom.

Summit First Step To World Peace

United Press International The world's four atomic powers meet at the summit in Paris on May 16 seeking a first step toward averting mankind from the ultimate weapon to ultimate peace.

When President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and President Charles De Gaulle meet with Premier Nikita Khrushchev it will be the first East-West summit meeting since Geneva in 1958.

The issues now are the same as then, but with an urgency that did not exist before the union of the hydrogen bomb and the intercontinental missile which makes mass destruction only 30 minutes distant from 7,000 miles away.

They are: —Disarmament. —Berlin and the reunification of Germany.

—East-West relations. In 1958, Berlin and the reunification of Germany made up the No. 1 problem. Disarmament takes its place today, in accordance with advances in man's ability to destroy himself.

The summit meeting of 1960 takes place in an era of unprecedented dangers but with at least two important weapons only recently added to the Western bargaining arsenal.

One is France's mid-February entry into the atomic club, and the swift development of her own missiles.

Both East and West opposed French efforts to develop nuclear weapons but, for bargaining purposes, the West now outnumbers the Soviet Union three to one in the exclusive atomic club membership.

The other new weapon is the United States' weather satellite whose television eye may prove almost as effective over alien terrain as President Eisenhower's proposed "open skies" program which the Russians first rejected five years ago.

REV. K. L. HANSEN, First Baptist Church pastor at Palatka, will speak tonight at the revival in progress at the Pinecrest Baptist Church. The program begins at 8 p. m.

Quiet Pays Off

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—George Rayford told police the thief who came into his home worked so quietly that he stole his "burglar-chasing" pistol. Rayford explained he kept a pistol on a chair near the bed in case of prowlers, but the burglar who visited him stole his wallet and gun without awakening him.

The first Amish colonists arrived in Pennsylvania in the early 1700's.

Death At Age 85 Ends Fabulous Life Of Royal Duchess

LONDON (UPI) — Intrigue, wealth, murder, and royalty were threads running through the life of Grand Duchess Xenia of Russia.

When she was six, in 1918, terrorists assassinated her grandfather, Czar Alexander II, by blowing up his sled on a snowy street in St. Petersburg.

In 1888, her father, Czar Alexander III, saved her life when revolutionaries dynamited the royal train. He used his enormous strength to hold up the shattered roof of their carriage until rescue came.

Her son-in-law, Prince Youssouppoff, helped shoot and drown Gregory Rasputin, the "mad monk" who held a sinister influence over the Czarina of Russia, Xenia's sister-in-law.

The fabulous rule of the Romanovs ended in murder in 1918. Her brother, Czar Nicholas II, and his family were shot to death by the Bolsheviks who had overthrown his government.

Grand Duchess Xenia escaped the Bolsheviks aboard a British battleship sent to Yalta during the revolution by her cousin, King George V of England.

She lived in exile 43 years, far from the continuing march of bloody events in Russia, and died of pneumonia Wednesday at the age of 85 in a quiet English suburban home.

It's Back To Work For President Today

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — President Eisenhower, after a goodbye game at the Augusta National Golf Club, flies back today to Washington and a broad range of executive activity that should keep him busy until midsummer.

The Chief Executive and Mrs. Eisenhower, who have been here since April 11, were expected to take off for the nation's capital during the early afternoon in time to put them back at the White House around 8 p. m.

Eisenhower expected to work briefly in his office at the golf club during the early morning, then play golf before lunch. Although there were a number of serious world situations—crises in Korea, South Africa, Cuba, Venezuela — to occupy his attention, the first major item on his agenda was French President Charles DeGaulle.

County To Be Represented At Miami Educational Meet

Thirty-five teachers and principals from Seminole County will be delegates to the Annual Florida Education Association Convention held in Miami this year.

The convention, which started Wednesday for the superintendents and supervisors, will run through Saturday for the teachers. The professional educators meeting is for the purpose of electing officials for next year. Besides electing the officials, professional reports of education and educational methods will be given. Governor LaRoy Collins will be among the guest speakers. Others will be State Supervisor Thomas Bailey and Dr. Walter E. Eshelman, president of the National Education Association.

From Seminole County, Supt. R. T. Milwee, Stewart Gatchel, the county secondary school supervisor, and Mrs. Golt, the elementary supervisor will attend.

The program is a professional group rather than part of the State Department of Education. William Whorton, county guidance director said, All levels of education from the elementary grades through the university level will be represented.

She Asked For It

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — David Reed, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Reed of Baytown, was taking an aptitude test at Robert E. Lee High School. Mrs. Dorothy Willis, who was administering the test, told him "now recite the number 'six-two-three' backwards." Without a moment's hesitation, David turned his back on Mrs. Willis and recited, "Six, two, three."

Florida Projects Approval Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Approval of $7,113,000 for four Florida projects was asked Wednesday by the Army Engineers.

The authorizations are $4,980,000 for deepening and widening Lake Worth Inlet in Palm Beach Harbor; $316,000 for canal and levee work at Nicodemus Slough; $1,711,000 for deepening and widening the St. Marks River Channel; and $104,000 for channel improvements at Little Pass.

The request was made to the Senate Public Works Committee. Both Senate and House approval is required.

Signs Of Spring

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — There are sure signs of spring on the University of Texas campus. Prowlers have noticed an upsurge of prowler calls from security houses and women's dormitories.

Kindly Lion

Farmer Buries Wife Beside Eight Children

CLEAR CREEK, Iowa (UPI)—A heart-broken, lonely farmer returns today to the tiny, rustic church where 14 years ago he found happiness.

On a spring day in 1946, Richard Hammes walked down the aisle of Saints Peter and Paul Catholic Church with his happy bride at his side.

Today, he will walk down the same aisle and then out into the cemetery to bury his wife, Ruth, beside the bodies of eight of their children.

In the years between, Hammes' farmhouse had rung with the laughter and joys of growing children. But tragedy wiped out the happiness in two crushing blows.

The first came the morning of Oct. 25, 1936. Mrs. Hammes piled their eight children, including two sets of twins, into the family car to take the older ones to school. Hammes, at work in a field, looked up and waved as they drove away.

Moments later, a once-a-day train plowed into the car at a nearby railroad crossing. All the children, who ranged in age from 18 months to 9 years, were killed. Only Mrs. Hammes lived.

The grieving couple made a new life in a farm home. Fifteen months later, a son, Myron, was born and the couple planned for more children in a "second" family.

On Easter Sunday the 41-year-old mother joked as she entered a hospital for the impending birth of her 10th child.

The strain of labor proved too much for Mrs. Hammes' heart. She died, together with the unborn baby.

In the family lot, a grave was made ready for Ruth Hammes. A long, low, marble headstone bore the names of the mother and her eight dead children. Its inscription read:

"The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away. Blessed be the name of the Lord."

Symphony Offers Piano Competition

To encourage young performers as well as young listeners, the Florida Symphony Orchestra, which has played 18 concerts for the young people of Central Florida during this past season, will add a new feature to next season's series.

There will be a Piano Competition for young pianists of Central Florida, the prize to be a solo performance with the Florida Symphony at one of the Young People's Concerts during the 1961 season.

To qualify for the Competition, a student must be of High School age or less and a resident of Orange, Seminole, Volusia, Brevard, Lake or Osceola County, all counties in which the Florida Symphony has played during the 1960 season. The student's application to enter the Competition must be signed by his piano teacher, and his official entry blank must be in the Symphony office by October 15.

Private Plane Bounces Off Airliner Killing 4 Aboard

WICKORY, N. C. (UPI)—A fast private plane bounced off the top of a jet-prop airliner over the Hickory airport here Wednesday, and all four men in the private craft were killed.

The bigger Piedmont Airlines plane, carrying 46 persons, landed safely with only minor damage. Most of the passengers were unaware there had been an accident.

Piedmont pilot Lee Cottrell said the twin-engine Cessna 310 "let down on top of me."

"I had already started to pull up to go around because we had been told there was another aircraft above and behind us," Cottrell said.

The Cessna, carrying a company pilot and three officers of Bergama Brothers Furniture Co. of Grand Rapids, Mich., fell apart after the impact and plunged to earth about 200 yards from the end of the runway.

County Agent Cites Need To Protect Smathers Raps Plants By Attacking Insects Now Benefits Bill

The best way to defend your prized ornamental plants from insect attack this spring is to attack the insects now—before they have had a chance to build up to large numbers.

Let's take a look at some of the insects that give us trouble this time of year and their controls. Whiteflies on gardenias and ligustrum need attention in many yards. Whiteflies are found on the undersides of the leaves. They feed by sucking the plant juices through tiny beaks. As they feed, they excrete a sticky material which clings to the leaves and on which the unsightly, black sooty mold grows.

Adult whiteflies, which fly about when you shake foliage, are small insects which look like tiny moths. The young, found attached to the undersides of the leaves, are oval, flat, and light yellowish in color.

Scale insects may be present the year around, but now they are beginning to be more active and to reproduce. Examine your gardenias for wax scales. They are usually a dirty white color, and have a thick waxy covering which is roughly circular in outline and up to almost 1/4 inch in diameter. The lesser snow scale is a common scale on hibiscus. It, too, is dirty white, but is somewhat pear-shaped.

Other scale insects often seen on a large number of ornamental plants include the Florida red scale, cottony cushion scale, and soft brown scale.

Various kinds of spider mites attack many of our ornamentals. They feed by sucking plant juices and cause small yellow or brown spots at the feeding sites. The leaves soon have a stippled appearance from the many spots. Mites form webbing of silk, especially on the undersides of the leaves.

This is the time of year when thrips begin to be the most damaging, since they are worst when the weather begins to be warmer.

Aphids, or plant lice, may appear now on a number of ornamental plants including roses, gardenias, hibiscus, viburnum, crepe-myrtle and others. Many aphids form colonies on plants.

Chewing insects can become quite serious pests. Usually these include various kinds of caterpillars, certain beetles, grasshoppers and katydids. For these chewing insects, DDT dusts or sprays are probably the best choice of insecticide for the homeowner to use. Chlordane is also recommended.

Demos Outnumber GOP 5-1 In State

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Registered Democrats outnumber Republicans in Florida five to one, state records showed today.

Records for 1,783,426 voters have registered this year, 18 per cent more than in 1956, the last time Florida elected a governor.

Though outnumbered, Republicans showed a gain of nearly 40 per cent in the four-year period, with a new total of 365,892 GOP supporters.

JACKSONVILLE (UPI)—Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla.) said Tuesday night he is strongly opposed to the Forand bill, which would provide medical benefits paid from social security funds for citizens over 65.

"The compulsory provision of the Forand bill," Smathers told a group of insurance underwriters, "would include multi-millionaires and others well able to afford their own plans, yet would exclude four million people not now included in social security."

Earlier Tuesday, Smathers addressed the semi-annual meeting of the Southeastern States Armed Services Small Business Council. The federal government, he told delegates from eight Southern states, "should help the small businessman by buying from him."

Smathers also fired off a letter Tuesday regarding an application by Capital Airlines for a $12,500,000 subsidy.

He wrote Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D-Okla.), chairman of the Senate Aviation Subcommittee, asking for a meeting between the subcommittee and Civil Aeronautics Board officials to discuss the request.

He said Capital was the first major trunkline in five years to ask for a subsidy. "This portends what could be a worsening situation among all major airlines," he said.

Reds Laughing At The Wrong Time Watching Hit Musical Show

EDITOR'S NOTE: Actress Lola Fisher, who plays the part of Eliza Doolittle in "My Fair Lady," discloses in the following dispatch that Russians are missing some of the gags by laughing at the wrong times.

MOSCOW (UPI)—The opening of "My Fair Lady" in Moscow certainly was one of the most thrilling of my career.

The cast was a little nervous after the reserved reception the diplomatic corps gave to a special performance the night before.

But when the final curtain rang down opening night the Russian audience rushed to the orchestra pit applauding shouting "bravo" and demanding more curtain calls. We applauded back in the Russian tradition and then went backstage for a champagne party with the Russian crew who worked very hard alongside our American stage hands.

Robert Coates, who plays Col. Pickering, led a series of toasts with the first strains of "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow" and "Hip-hip-hoorahs."

Afterward, the cast went back to the Ukraine Hotel for another celebration given by the Russian theatrical officials.

I was served caviar, smoked salmon, chicken and ice cream and drank 140 proof vodka.

When the officials of "Gosconcert"—the Soviet organization sponsoring the show—made laudatory speeches, it really touched the cast.

To repeat the old expression, there wasn't a dry eye in the house.

The cast is accustomed now to the fact that Russians react differently from English-speaking audiences.

Russians laugh in different places than we are accustomed to and often miss gags where we formerly got a big response.

entire cast is determined to make the effort.

Better Citrus Inspections Asked

ORLANDO (UPI)—Better citrus inspection procedures were urged Wednesday by Agriculture Commissioner candidate W. R. Hancock.

The Groveland citrusman said new equipment and more trained personnel were needed in the inspection services. Better inspection, he said, would result in better prices for better quality fruit.

Get Out And Vote TV Program Fails To Live Up To Opening Sketch

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI) — Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country...

That, briefly, was the message delivered by Tuesday night's NBC-TV "Startime" special, "Well, What About You?" Produced by Dore Schary and boasting a bipartisan assortment of political stars and potential campaign buttons, the program invited us to get out there and vote, vote, vote next November. (No, not three times. Once will do.)

Having had reports about space gaps and missile gaps, this hour told about the ballot box. Statistics show our national voting average is far behind that of other democratic countries, even though we've risen from 29.3 to 62.7 per cent.

The opening sketch showed some sophisticated non-voters sitting around a living room and set and grumbling about the outcome of an election. Eddie Albert, host of the show, drew from these people, in realistic fashion, some lame alibis for not voting. Having made his point neatly and quickly, the remaining 55 minutes were devoted to repetition. Everything after the opener was anticlimactic.

There was a medley of rousing political songs, old and new, to stir things up at one point. Especially attractive in color, these entertaining tunes were staged amid some gracious antique furnishings.

Another high point was an interview of "The Candidate," played by Fred Clark. Clark's replies to Mike Wallace's questions were doused with a sterile eloquence — or steroeloquence, if you will — that provided some insight into campaign oratory.

Also on hand to deliver earnest words about voting were Vice President Nixon, Adlai Stevenson, John Kennedy, Paul Butler, Thruston Morton, Joseph N. Welch, Nelson Rockefeller, Marian Anderson and, of course, pretty Polly Bergen. Miss Anderson did not sing. Miss Bergen did. Except for the songs, the show had little to arouse us. Neither documentary nor all-out entertainment, the program ended up as a rather bland collection of citizenship codes. The underlying attitude seemed to be: It's nice to vote. If you don't vote, don't worry because we'll survive, anyhow. Hardly the way to make an impression.

Some treatment of the meaning of the vote — from the lips or words of the disenfranchised, current or deceased — would have added more meaning to the presentation.

Still, I'm sold on this idea of voting in national elections.

Where's my "Miss Rheingold" ballot?

Having stored up many fond memories of the Jimmy Durante-Garry Moore radio shows of the 1940s, I guess I expected too much from their reunion Tuesday night.

The link-up on Moore's CBS TV variety hour managed to convey great chunks of warmth and mutual admiration, but it lacked spontaneity and wildness. However, some amusing moments occurred as Jimmy introduced his pulchritudinous staff, wandered around on stage and encountered Marion Lorne. Moore closed the show with a verbal tribute to Jimmy, with a gleefully straightforward, apt and sincere.

The Channel Swich—"Singalong With Mitch," starring Mitch Miller, Columbia Records "Music Man" as host, will be NBC-TV's May 21 "Startime" special. On the preceding Tuesday, May 17, "Startime" will repeat "The Wicked Scheme of Jebal Deeks," starring Alec Guinness.

Allen Funt's "Candid Camera," now confirmed as a CBS-TV Sunday night series starting next October, will conceal its various guest stars in its hidden camera sequences. Ray Bolger and Al Kelly, the doubletalk artist, join Smith & Dale, the Goofer and Herb Shriver on CBS-TV's "Accent on Comedy" special Thursday, April 28.

Elaine Stritch has been signed to a leading role in Art Carney's May 6 NBC-TV comedy, "Full Moon Over Brooklyn." The Dinah Shore Show concludes its season on May 22. On May 29, a full-hour suspense series, with Walter Slezak as host, takes over Dinah's time slot.

Because of the writers strike, CBS-TV is postponing "The Troubled Tens," the last in its "woman" daytime special that was scheduled for Thursday, April 28.

Actors Burned Filming Series

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Two actors were burned Wednesday when a gun powder — like compound scattered on the ground and exploded during filming to a television series. Edwin Lonon, 30, guest star on the "Tombstone Territory" series, suffered second and third degree burns on his face, chest and hands. He was confined at Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital. Fred Kessler, 58, also received facial burns when the heavy eyebrows and beard required for the series were burned off.

Young Mother, Infant Found Dead By Police

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — Home-icide detectives said they found a young mother and her infant daughter dead in their locked apartment Wednesday night in an apparent murder-suicide.

The victims were Corina Kay Smith, 21, and Deva Smith, two months. Mrs. Smith was found in a closet, a thin rubber cord wound tightly around her neck. The child was smothered beneath blankets on a bed, officers said.

Another daughter, Brenda, 18 months, was found alive atop the blankets which covered her sister. Police said they believed the mother may have also tried to smother the older child. Brenda was hospitalized.

Capt. R. B. Whittington said it appeared Mrs. Smith hanged herself with the cord tied to a hook high on the closet door. The hook apparently broke under her weight some time after her death, dropping her to the closet floor.

Police broke in the apartment after neighbors said they had tried repeatedly to bring Mrs. Smith to the door. Whittington said neighbors called after Mrs. Smith's husband, Donald, telephoned from Charleston, S. C., and told them his wife had failed to answer her phone when he called several times.

Whittington said Smith had gone to Charleston to re-enlist in the Navy after trying unsuccessfully to find a job here.

The captain said neighbors told him Mrs. Smith had seemed depressed over selling her furniture and moving to Charleston; she and the children were to have joined Smith there Friday.

REV. GROVER C. SEWELL JR.

Rev. Grover C. Sewell Becomes First Presbyterian Pastor

Rev. Grover C. Sewell Jr. was received by the St. Johns Presbyterian Church April 19 to become the pastor of the Sanford First Presbyterian Church. He will conduct the regular services this Sunday.

Rev. Sewell and his wife, Mary, and children, Steve and Debbie, will reside in the manse at 2016 Elizabeth Court.

Rev. and Mrs. Sewell are natives of Georgia. Before entering the ministry, Mr. Sewell was in business for several years. He was in the U. S. Air Force from 1942 to 1946. It was when he returned to business after this service that he felt the call to the ministry.

After graduating from Columbia Theological Seminary in June, 1949, he was ordained by the Atlanta Presbytery the following month, and served in that Presbytery before moving to Florida.

Mr. Sewell served both the Bee Ridge and Pine Shores Presbyterian Churches for approximately two years, after which the growth ceased to be a pastor for each church. On November 15, 1951, the membership of Pine Shores Church was 43 when Mr. Sewell became the first ordained pastor of that church which was first organized on May 31, 1951 with 49 charter members. The membership has grown to 773 members to date under the leadership of the Sewells.

During his ministry in Sarasota, Mr. Sewell served as president of the Sarasota Christian Ministers' Assn. for two years, president of Manassah Presbyterian Council, moderator of Westminster Presbytery, was a member of the Sarasota Bay Rotary Club, and was active in other community service.

Kiwanians Hear Plans For Ball Game Promotions

The way to help put baseball over in a small town is with free gimmicks, the Sanford Greyhounds business manager said Monday.

Orlando advertising man Peter Schaal, rolled his promotion ideas off the tip of his tongue with lightning rapidity at the Kiwanis luncheon Wednesday.

Schaal has 27 ideas for promoting attendance at the Greyhound games this year. They run from a "get rid of your mother-in-law night" to a night for giving away pet animals at the ball game.

"Get rid of your mother-in-law night" will be May 10. Standard Oil Co. will give away enough gas and oil to take one mother-in-law anywhere in Florida and return; another anywhere in several southern states and return, and a third anywhere in the United States and return. Schaal said he had gotten one complaint about the "and return" clause.

Schaal is working out promotion ideas with other Sanford merchants. July 4 will be AGL Railroad night, with a Florida Power and Light Corp. event following soon after.

The combination advertising man-baseball fan got close to Seventeen Heavens when he expanded his Greyhounds score book idea. Each ad in the new score-book is a coupon, which can help pay for merchandise in a Sanford store, or may even be a ticket exchangeable for free merchandise.

Kansas City trained the Class D team about five weeks before the season opened and has invested $20,000 in the club.

The pre-season training alone cost Kansas City about $12,000 and the Athletics are giving the players $7,500 in salaries, paying the field manager's salary, paying for players social security, telephone toll calls, and contributing to travel expenses. Raising all that money would be a mighty hard job if the Greyhounds had to do it alone, Schaal said.

Field manager Robbie Robertson took over after Schaal and said he has a bunch of boys who like to hustle. He praised the Greyhounds' double play combination against Leaburg Tuesday night, when Sanford's team won 14-1.

The fastest trip on the Pony Express out of St. Joseph, Mo., was seven days, 17 hours when Lincoln's inaugural address was carried to the West Coast.

Rehabilitation Camp For Crippled To Be Started

A year around rehabilitation-recreation camp for crippled children, the first of its kind in the entire nation, will soon be established in the Mt. Plymouth lakes area only a few miles from Sanford, it was announced here today.

Officials of the Florida Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc., which has its state headquarters in Orlando, disclosed that the N. K. Winston-Sanson Florida Corp. of Miami Beach has given a 30-acre tract of valuable property for the new camp.

This is the same firm which provided land for the University of South Florida at Tampa and recently donated a site for Girls Town, U.S.A., also in the Mt. Plymouth region, according to Kenneth W. McIntosh, Sanford attorney and trustee from Seminole County in the state Easter Seal organization.

Stanton D. Sanson, president, and Irving Z. Mann, vice president, of the benefactor corporation, are completing negotiations this week for transfer of the acreage with Lisle Reese, state director of the Florida Society. Trustees of the society will formally accept the deed from Sanson at their annual spring meeting to be held in Winter Park May 13 and 14. At this time, the statewide organization will further plans for construction of the special camp.

McIntosh noted that the site is considered "ideal" for such a facility, according to rehabilitation authorities. Ready for an immediate building program, the property is on one of the highest elevations in central Florida, is free of flood hazards, and fronts on picturesque Neighborhood Lake.

Actual worth of the real estate is $62,500, according to recent appraisals by the William A. White Co. of New York City and the McCune Co. of Miami, both nationally recognized firms of appraisers.

The especially designed Florida Easter Seal Camp for the handicapped has frontage on State Rd. 46 which has just been repaved. This connects with new U. S. Interstate Highway 4 at the Sanford interchange between Daytona Beach and St. Petersburg.

Also close to the site is a road through the Mt. Plymouth Country Club Golf Course, providing access to Highway 435 to Rock Springs Park, Apopka and then to U. S. 441 to Orlando.

Leaders in the local Easter Seal organization point out that acquisition of this property in the heart of Florida's highlands will give great impetus to the expanding program of aiding handicapped children.

They explained that the state association had been seeking a suitable piece of property for at least two years where a camp could be built for complete utilization 12 months of the year.

Until the new camp is ready for use, arrangements have been made for children with handicaps to attend a special session at the Youth Conservation Camp in Ocala National Forest and seasons at Camp Crystal Lake near Starke, McIntosh added.

Philip Logan is president of the Crippled Children Society of Seminole County which will soon be concluding a highly successful Easter Seal campaign for 1960.
