KGB Using 'Spy Dust' To Track U.S. Diplomats

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The KGB has dusted ordinary objects like doorknobs and steering wheels with an invisible — and possibly cancer-causing — powder to track the movements and contacts of Americans in Moscow, the State Department charged Wednesday.

The State Department said the invisible tracking agent, known as 5-(4-Nitro Phenyl)-2,4-Pentadien-1-AL, or NPPD, is a mutagen — a chemical agent that alters living cells and can be carcinogenic in humans.

The United States, which said the practice has been going on for years but increased dramatically in recent months, delivered a strong protest to the Soviet government Monday and demanded use of the chemical be stopped immediately, the State Department said.

There was no immediate response from Soviet officials.

U.S. chemists said they could find little data on the substance other than how to make it. They said it would probably be fluorescent, showing up under certain light, and designed specifically for tracking. Traces of the material could be detected on surfaces or even on other people.

Disenchanted

Rival Union Talks To Teachers Upset Over Contract

A representative of a minority teachers union told a group of 15 to 20 "disenchanted" Seminole County teachers Wednesday they can work to vote down the contract negotiated for them by the Seminole Education Association.

Richard Layer, of the Florida Education Association United, an affiliate of the national American Federation of Teachers, met with the teachers at the Holiday Inn at State Road 46 and Interstate 4, according to Milwee Middle School teacher June Scheumann.

Although reporters were barred from the meeting, Ms. Scheumann said afterwards Layer primarily listened to the teachers' complaints. In attendance were teachers of 15 or more years experience who feel the contract negotiated for them by the SEA, which gives long-time teachers a 4 percent salary increase while first year teachers are slated for about a 13 percent hike, is "a slap in the face."

The SEA-negotiated contract is slated for a ratification vote Tuesday.

Ms. Scheumann said "career" teachers are "disenchanted."

"This group is extremely tired of being told 'we'll take care of you next year.'"

She said Layer told them they can sit back and do nothing or vote "no" on the contract and hope the SEA goes back to the negotiating table and gets them something.

$20,000 Battle Looms

Hattaway Drops Option On Land

By Janie Onat
Herald Staff Writer

With no guarantee the property would ever be zoned for commercial development, Robert Hattaway decided Wednesday not to pick up his option to purchase the Seminole County School Board's surplus land on U.S. Highway 17-92 across from Sanford Middle School. And he may have to sue the board to get it to return his $20,000 deposit.

Robert Hattaway

In the meantime, Stanley Sandefur, owner of Sandefur Properties in Oviedo, has been frustrated in his efforts to purchase the land.

Sandefur said Hattaway, of Hattaway Investments Corp., Altamonte Springs, offered to sell for $630,000 his $600,000 contract with the board.

"I'm not going to buy it at a profit for Mr. Hattaway," Sandefur said. He also attempted to buy the land from the board offering $600,000, but Ned Julian, board attorney, said he could not accept the offer because a six-month deadline for accepting such independent contracts has passed.

The board declined Sandefur's earlier offer of $610,000 because at the time they were considering Hattaway's offer.

Hattaway said Wednesday, "I'm not going to lay out $600,000 on a piece of land and not be sure of the zoning."

The Sanford City Commission Aug. 12 neither approved nor disapproved the zoning request, voting 4-1 instead to return the issue to the planning and zoning board, Commissioner John Mercer said he wanted the "full" board to vote on the matter. On July 18 the P&Z voted 3-2 to recommend the request for commercial zoning be approved. Three of the board's nine members were absent and one member abstained because she works for the school board.

The city's action meant the P&Z would have to hold new public hearings and at least a six week delay, past Hattaway's Wednesday deadline to pick up his option.

With Hattaway's decision not to go ahead with the purchase, a dispute remains over whether or not he will receive a refund of his deposit.

Hattaway said Wednesday the contract is clear and concise in its stipulation that downpayment funds in escrow be returned to the buyer if the acquisition fails to materialize. The school board may not agree, however.

In a letter to Julian, Hattaway's attorney, Robert Worman, said correspondence from the board indicates "it is the school board's intention to retain the escrow deposit based upon the last 90-day extension being unconditional."

According to a copy of Hattaway's contract the final paragraph of an addendum states, "...the buyer shall have the option of canceling this contract and, in such event, the escrow deposit shall be returned to the buyer..."

Worman wrote, "I also understand that (the board) has told my client that in the event (Hattaway) wants his $20,000 back it will be necessary to sue to collect same." He added if Hattaway does bring legal action against the board he will ask for

54 Killed In Plane Fire

MANCHESTER, England (UPI) — A British Airways Boeing 737 bound for a holiday in the Greek islands with 137 people on board burst into a "ball of fire" on takeoff today, killing 54 people and injuring dozens of others.

Police said Flight KT 328 "caught fire on the port wing" at 7:07 a.m. while speeding down the runway at Manchester International Airport. A fire brigade spokesman said one of the plane's engines burst into flames.

"It was a horrifying sight," said airport engineer Alan Higham. "The plane went up in moments. It was an inferno the moment it skidded to a halt. People were trying to get out but a lot of them must have been overcome before it stopped."

Police and fire officials said 54 people were killed and 83 were rushed to nearby hospitals, some in serious condition.

Cardinal Fires 2 In Drug Probe

More Allowed To Resign

Two employees of Cardinal Industries, Inc., Sanford, were fired and an undisclosed number allowed to resign voluntarily in the past six weeks because of drug and/or alcohol use on the job.

John Jolinski, media relations director for the modular housing manufacturer, said employees had left for various reasons in that period so it was impossible to determine just how many resigned because of drug use.

It had been rumored that 70 or 80 employees were fired or left voluntarily for use of drugs or pilfering. However, Jolinski said the number was substantially less than that and pilfering was not involved.

Jolinski said employees had violated an inflexible company policy prohibiting the use of alcohol or drugs during working hours. He said the company's policy is based on safety concerns for the employees themselves and their fellow workers, as well as productivity. He said the investigation revealed things had gotten too lax.

The company conducted its own probe, Jolinski said.

He said the men and women employees caught using drugs and/or alcohol on the job were mainly in the production staff in the manufacturing plant. No criminal charges were made. The firings and resignations took place in phases mainly during June and July.

Like many other companies faced with absenteeism and loss of productivity because of employees' drug and alcohol abuse and other problems, Cardinal has a rehabilitative employee assistance program. Under the company-paid benefit, employees can get help with such problems as drug or alcohol abuse, depression, divorce, marital problems or the death of a spouse without any cost to them, Jolinski explained. The company has had the program for the past two years.

"Confidentiality is maintained," Jolinski said. "The program would not work if employees feared results would filter back to management."

"It is the first positive step when somebody admits he has a problem and wants to be rehabilitated."

Landscaping Designed To 'Warm' City Hall

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford City Hall, dubbed a "cold, barren, uninviting fortress" by the city's Scenic Improvement Board, is expected to undergo a massive landscaping project to make it more colorful and attractive.

Landscape designer Irving Kaufman presented a preliminary plan to the board Monday. It calls for "softening" the gray, stalwart structure with a combination of weeping willows, palmetto palms, oaks and a host of various shrubs.

"We're trying to take away that concrete look," said Kaufman, who also designed the landscape for the Seminole County Courthouse.

The project is the first of many the Scenic Improvement Board plans to undertake. The board issued a 16-page plan report in June criticizing the poor upkeep of some public areas and calling for their improvement. The eight-member board consists of Chairman Sara Jacobson, Ruth Lee, Juanny Mercer, Judy Wimbleh, Dr. Lurlene Sweeting, Brent Carlil, Bill Gielow and city Parks and Recreation Department Director Jim Jernigan.

The city commission accepted the board's plan and has earmarked $152,000 in the 1985-86 Parks and Recreation Department budget to implement some of its goals. The commission also agreed to set aside $60,000 each year for the next five years for board projects.

The $452,000 allocation shows the commission is "dead serious about beautification," said Mrs. Mercer, whose husband, John, is a city commissioner.

Port's Missing Sewer Capacity Stalls Cruise Ship Building

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Port Authority Executive Director Dennis Dolgner will take an appeal for sewer capacity directly to the head of a state agency in Orlando if County Commissioner Barbara Christensen can arrange an appointment. Mrs. Christensen is the county commission's liaison to the Port Authority.

Dolgner was authorized to take the action by port directors Wednesday evening after a notice was received from Lake Monroe Utilities that it could not grant any new sewer connections at the port on orders from the state Department of Environmental Regulation.

The cut-off of sewer connections means that a new building cannot be constructed at the port for the cruise ship, Star of Sanford.

The building to house the Star's offices, ticket sales and ship's store was to be built by Florida Sun Inc., owners and operators of Hidden Harbour Marina at the port. The ship is now sharing office space in Florida Sun's building and "it's cramped for space," Dolgner said.

Even though the Star of Sanford people will merely be moving from one building at the port to another and will not be generating any additional sewage, Dolgner said new capacity must be granted before a building permit for the new structure will be issued by Seminole County.

Despite a letter from J.L. Hickman, president of Lake Monroe Utilities water and sewer service, stating that the port has used up all 18,000 gallons per day of sewer capacity allocated, Dolgner disagreed.

He said he checked with tenants at the port and found they had been billed individually by LMU for a total of 12,000 gallons of water use monthly and sewer bills are based on the amount of water used.

Dolgner, noting he is not an

Out Of The Sunshine

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A presidential commission, whose purpose is to inform the public of the meaning of the Constitution and prepare for its 200th anniversary, has decided its deliberations should be a private affair.

The President's Commission on the Bicentennial of the Constitution barred the public from its first meeting, held July 29-30 at the Supreme Court. Another two-day meeting scheduled for today and Friday in Utah will also be closed, said a spokesman for the chairman, Chief Justice Warren Burger.

Consumer Price Index Inches Up A Scant .2%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer prices inched up 0.2 percent in July, the same as May and June, as accelerating housing costs were mostly balanced by lower gasoline and meat prices, the Labor Department said today.

The mild upward movement of the Consumer Price Index through July of this year kept the annual inflation rate at just 3.5 percent. The index was 319.1 in July, equivalent to a cost of $319.10 for goods and services that cost $100 in 1967. The dollar that year is now worth 31 cents.

As the year progresses, the price performance is getting better, with the most recent three months generating a 2.5 percent inflation rate, the best for any similar period in almost 2 1/2 years.

The only big mover among the major categories was rent, up at an 8 percent annual rate in the most recent three months, and 0.6 percent in July. That factor alone accounted for most of the July increase.

Volatile vegetable prices bounced up 6.5 percent during the month but overall food and beverage prices were lifted only 0.1 percent, the same as June.

AT&T Eliminating 24,000 Jobs

NEW YORK (UPI) — American Telephone & Telegraph Co. is eliminating 24,000 jobs in its Information Systems computer and business communications equipment group in one of the largest staff cutbacks in corporate history.

Information Systems Chairman Robert E. Allen, who announced the job reductions Wednesday in a nationwide telephone call to employees from company headquarters in Morristown, N.J., said the paring down of the workforce will lower costs and improve profit margins.

Analysts said the move could save AT&T almost $1 billion a year and allow the company to offer customers better prices on its computer and business equipment products.

The Communication Workers of America, one of AT&T's two major unions, demanded immediate negotiations over the massive cutbacks.

Information Systems, which employs about 118,000 people, entered the computer and business equipment market after the AT&T break-up on Jan. 1, 1984.

IUD Maker Files For Bankruptcy

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — The A.H. Robins Co., which has already paid $378 million to women injured by its Dalkon Shield contraceptive and is still facing 5,100 outstanding claims, turned to a court of last resort — bankruptcy.

The pharmaceutical giant, after trying unsuccessfully to lump the outstanding injury claims into a class action suit, filed for Chapter 11 protection Wednesday from a federal bankruptcy court.

The Johns-Manville Corp. used a similar legal tactic when faced with numerous asbestos damage suits.

More than 14,300 claims have been filed against Robins since 1974, when it removed the intrauterine device from U.S. markets. The company and its insurer have already paid $378.3 million for 9,230 cases, plus legal expenses totaling another $107.3 million.

Heart Transplant Patient Continues Speedy Recovery

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — A 34-year-old electrician given a new lease on life with a healthy heart from a teenager is recovering "right on schedule" from his transplant operation two days ago, a hospital spokeswoman says.

Stephen Stewart, of West Palm Beach, was "doing extremely well" Wednesday night, about 24 hours after Dr. Michael Carmichael put the new organ in his chest during a 2 1/2-hour operation at Shands Teaching Hospital, said spokeswoman Debra Feldman.

She said Stewart was alert and "in good spirits" Wednesday, when he visited with his wife, Nancy, and his parents and began sipping liquids from his bed in Shands' intensive care unit.

Carmichael said he was "quite pleased with Mr. Stewart's progress so far."

"The heart started up right away and the patient has been stable ever since," Carmichael said. "He is doing amazingly well and I am very optimistic about his recovery. He is experiencing some chest pain — about like being kicked by a horse — but that is to be expected."

Diseased Trees To Be Torched

HAINES CITY (UPI) — The first segment of 3 million citrus trees ordered destroyed faced the torch today at Adams Citrus Nursery Inc., where owner Bill Adams says he faces a tree loss of $12 million.

The destruction of all the trees at the nursery was ordered last week after citrus canker was confirmed in a section of the 60-acre nursery.

Citrus canker is a highly contagious bacteria that kills trees, but is harmless to humans. The only known means of eradication is to burn infected and exposed trees.

It was the 11th nursery where canker has been found since the first outbreak in more than 50 years was discovered last August, and the second one owned by Adams. He said the disease has driven him out of the citrus tree business.

Adams sought to have state and federal agriculture officials order just the destruction of trees in the area where canker was found, leaving the rest of the nursery in quarantine, but said that was rejected and the entire nursery was ordered destroyed.

Graham: Free 'Mercy Killer'

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Side-stepping the issue of complete clemency, Gov. Bob Graham recommended today that 76-year-old Roswell Gilbert be freed from prison pending the outcome of his appeal of a 25-year prison term for the "mercy killing" of his terminally-ill wife.

The governor's recommendation must be accepted by three of the six Cabinet members before Gilbert can be released from the Avon Park Correctional Institute.

"I feel justice would be served by the 76-year-old sick man being able to continue his appeal from his home, rather than prison," Graham said at a news conference.

Graham said the recommendation for conditional clemency was being circulated among the Cabinet members today. It was not immediately known when the Cabinet's decision would be made.

Under the terms of Graham's recommendation, Gilbert must remain under the supervision of state parole officer and must remain in Broward County. He can own no firearms, Graham said, and must obey all laws.

The clemency would be revoked upon completion of state appeals — meaning he would have to return to prison if his conviction is upheld.

Graham said he would be willing to consider another clemency appeal from Gilbert if the conviction is upheld.

Graham said state law was intended to keep dangerous felons off the streets. He said a review of Gilbert's case convinced him Gilbert would never commit a similar crime.

Graham said it could take up to two years for the Supreme Court to complete the appeals process.

"This recommendation represents an act of mercy extended to an elderly defendant in ill health," Graham said.

Sanford Woman Faces Prison On Cocaine Charges

A Seminole County school district employee faces up to 15 years in federal prison and a $125,000 fine after pleading guilty to smuggling six pounds of cocaine into the United States.

The cocaine was reportedly valued at $1.5 million.

Leslie Renee Cauthen, 28, of 1111 Celery Ave., Sanford, is scheduled to be sentenced in Miami Sept. 6 by Federal Judge Alece Hastings. She pleaded guilty as charged to importing and possession with intent to distribute cocaine, federal records show.

Ms. Cauthen was arrested in Miami April 26 by Drug Enforcement Agency officials, according to court records. She was reportedly arrested after returning from a three-day cruise to the Bahamas. Ms. Cauthen told the DEA agents she was from Oviedo, court records show. Officials reportedly were tipped off to the smuggling when a traveling companion told authorities Ms. Cauthen had the drugs. School records show she took some time off from her job in April.

Ms. Cauthen, reportedly released on $100,000 bond to await sentencing, resigned from her job as a high-level clerk at Lake Howell High School on June 27, school board records show. When she informed Lake Howell High School officials that day that she had been arrested in connection with possession of a drug she was told that was an "intolerable" situation, according to school district employees. She then submitted her resignation, records show. She said she was leaving for personal reasons.

School board officials said today they were never contacted by law officials telling them of Ms. Cauthen's arrest or plea.

Ms. Cauthen, who began working at the high school as an aide in 1978, was a Florida Teaching Equivalence clerk at the school. Her job was to monitor attendance at the school which would generate data used to determine how much funding the school would get from the state.

Hastings, who will sentence Ms. Cauthen, is formerly of Altamonte Springs.

Sanford Man Gets 25 Years For Rape

Raping a woman in a ditch has netted a Sanford man 25 years in prison.

Terrell Frank Brundidge, 25, of 88 Castle Brewer Court, was sentenced by Seminole Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor who also ordered Brundidge to pay the Public Defender's Office $750.

Brundidge was found guilty by jury in July.

According to court records, a 24-year-old Sanford woman was walking with a man shortly after 1 a.m. Feb. 3 when he attacked her on Third Street near Poplar and Cedar avenues in Sanford.

The man then dragged the woman into a ditch and beat her, a Sanford police report said.

The victim later told police the man threatened to kill her before he raped her.

The woman's screams attracted the attention of two teenage boys who saw the struggle, ran and got help, the report said. They brought a 44-year-old man to the scene and he forced the man to stop the assault. He then followed the couple to Third Street and French Avenue where he flagged down officer Tom Bernosky who was responding to the scene. The man was taken to the Sanford Police Department, questioned and arrested at 3:25 a.m.

Brundidge was given credit for 197 days already served.

In other court action:

—Kimberlee Elaine Hall, 22, of 1120 Florida Ave., #220, Sanford, arrested and charged with grand theft Nov. 29. Her arrest came after $200 of an insurance company's payment to a client was stolen. McGregor placed Ms. Hall on 5 years probation with the stipulation that she serve 90 days in the Seminole County jail.

—Michael Robert Gagliano, 20, of 325 Carlton Road, Maitland, arrested Feb. 14 after he reportedly sold a packet of cocaine to a juvenile in Fern Park. He pleaded guilty in July to possession of cocaine. He was sentenced by McGregor to 3 years probation with the stipulation he serve 31 days in the county jail. The time is to be served for 10 consecutive days, then seven weekends.

—Russell Edward Jones, 20, of Orlando, was sentenced to 2 years probation for possession of cocaine. He was arrested Jan. 5 after a man told a deputy a pedestrian offered to sell him cocaine.

—Armando Acosta, 33, of Miami Beach, arrested Feb. 1 after he was caught with Valium in his possession but no prescription for the drug. McGregor sentenced Acosta to 3 years probation.

—Dan Washington, 20, of 3615 Lincoln St., Sanford, pleaded guilty before semi-retired

Circuit Judge Volte Williams to false imprisonment and aggravated battery. Washington was arrested June 11 after abducting his estranged wife from a Sanford church at gunpoint. He faces up to a year in the county jail when sentenced Nov. 12.

In county court action:

—Ronald Lee Scott, 28, of 4220 S. Orlando Drive, Apt. 58, was sentenced to 6 months probation and to pay $196 in restitution for animal cruelty. Scott pleaded no contest before County Judge Fred Hitt to the charge stemming from the abandonment of a middle-aged Doberman pinscher. The flea infested dog, which had been tied to a stake without food, did not respond to medical treatment and had to be killed. Scott, who told Humane Society officials he did not have time to "mess with the dog," was arrested June 18 after he failed to appear after being summoned for trial on the animal cruelty charge. He was released on bond after his arrest. He is to pay $20 a month to pay for the cost of his supervision during probation.

—Bernard Pew, 20, of 114 Plymouth Ave., Altamonte Springs, was fined $25 for having window tinting covering his car's front windshield. He was to pay the fine Tuesday. He was arrested Aug. 2 on Rangeline Road at 3:05 a.m. by a Longwood officer.

Detective Shot Following Robbery Doing Fine

A Casselberry police detective shot in the chest during a manhunt for a robbery suspect was released from Orlando Regional Medical Center Wednesday.

Detective Stafford Lynn Cambre, 37, initially listed in serious condition, was removed from intensive care last Friday and his condition apparently improved sufficiently by Wednesday and he was able to leave the hospital.

Surgeons removed a .25-caliber bullet which lodged near Cambre's spine after it pierced his right lung.

Cambre was shot Aug. 13 just after 12:40 p.m. as officers closed in on John Donald Dirgins, 24, suspect in a robbery that occurred a few minutes earlier at Service Merchandise, formerly Wilson's, Seminole Plaza, Casselberry.

Dirgins, charged with two counts of attempted murder and one count of armed robbery, was being held today without bond in the Seminole County jail. He is scheduled to have a tentative court date set when he's arraigned at 9 a.m. Sept. 9 at the Seminole County Courthouse.

Dirgins was originally identified as Kenneth King from Dallas because he was carrying a birth certificate with that name on it. He later said he was Dennis Michael King, of North Carolina. He was identified a third time when his Altamonte Springs girlfriend told police his name was Dirgins, a California parole violator, said Casselberry Police Chief Fred McGowan. The police, however, won't be sure of his actual identity until they receive fingerprints from California and compare them with his prints.

Dirgins, who said he was under the influence of diabetic problems when he was arrested, reportedly was on parole after serving three months for bank robbery. McGowan said if Dirgins is the suspect's correct name he will probably also be charged with violating parole and interstate flight.

Cambre's shooting followed a robbery of the department store in which a man brandishing a handgun demanded two cashiers put all the money they had into two bank bags.

The suspect then fled the store with $624, firing one shot at pursuing store employees. He dashed west across afternoon traffic on U.S. Highway 17-92, hurdled a fence and disappeared into some woods.

Police, using a tracking dog, located a suspect in a fenced lake nearby. As they surrounded him, Cambre was heard to order someone to halt, then was shot.

Following the shooting, Cambre was evacuated by helicopter to the hospital. He was operated on Aug. 14 to remove the bullet which ripped through his right lung and stopped a quarter-inch from his spine. Neurosurgeons, cutting through Cambre's back, removed the bullet in a three-hour operation and said he should suffer no paralysis, Brown said.

Hitchhiker Jailed In Sexual Assault On Children

An Oviedo family's complaints to police that they have been sexually abused and battered by a hitchhiker they picked up in Tampa and let live with them from June 1 through Aug. 14 has led to the man's arrest.

A 31-year-old Oviedo man told police the man said his name was Jack J. and he was looking for a job and a place to stay. The Oviedo man invited him to stay at his home, an invitation the hitchhiker accepted. The man was asked to leave on Aug. 14, a police report said.

During the man's stay he allegedly exposed his sexual organs to children under the age of 16 in the home. He also allegedly hit and kicked the children and fondled their 29-year-old mother and tried to have sex with her, the report said.

Delbert Jaskuloski, 23, of P.O. Box 1138, Oviedo, was arrested Tuesday at the Townhouse Restaurant, Oviedo, where he worked as a cook. He was charged in connection with a lewd and lascivious act on a child, exposure of sexual organs and battery. He was being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

GOODS FOUND AT HOME

A man linked to a Sanford burglary by another suspect allegedly involved in the case has been charged with armed burglary and grand theft after a police search of his home turned up two stolen firearms and other items.

The stolen goods were reportedly taken in a burglary at 127 Keider Road, Sanford, a police report said. The search was conducted Aug. 17, and the suspect was arrested at 9:23 p.m. Tuesday following questioning at the police station, the report said.

James Everett Gentile, 18, of 103 Rabun Court, Sanford, was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

BASEBALL BATTER ARREST
A Casselberry man who allegedly threatened another man with a baseball bat during a dispute in Longwood has been charged with aggravated assault.

Police said the suspect took a baseball bat from the car of a friend and threatened the other man who, was not identified in a police report, as they argued in front of 618 East Street, Longwood, at about 6 p.m. Thursday.

DUI ARREST

The following person has been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence.

—Irvin Wilson Evans, 46, of 4220 S. Orlando Ave., Sanford, was arrested at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday after his car was involved in an accident on U.S. Highway 17-92 south of Sanford.

BATTERY TO SPOUSE

Sheriff's deputies arrested a west Seminole County man after his bruised wife said he had hit and kicked her several times, then threw water at her in the deputies' presence.

When the lawmen arrived at 858 Banana Lake Drive around 3:40 a.m. Tuesday, they saw Susan J. Lorenz, 33, run from her home followed by her mother carrying a small child. Inside, the officers were confronted by a man who refused to calm down. He then threw a glass of water at Mrs. Lorenz and started after her. The deputies grabbed the man, forced him onto a sofa and handcuffed him.

Mrs. Lorenz said she was kicked and hit several times by the man and that he ran through the house chasing one of the couple's four children, a 9-year-old girl.

The deputies said in a report that the man was abusive to deputies and corrections officers and wanted to pick a fight with everyone.

Released on $500 bond from the Seminole County jail Tuesday was Rich Lorenz, no age reported, of 858 Banana Lake Drive.

FURNITURE THEFT

About $7,100 worth of furniture was taken from an adult bookstore in south Seminole County.

According to a sheriff's report, someone entered New Wave Entertainment, 1508 N. Orlando Drive, between Aug. 6 and noon

Monday by entering an unlocked door in the backroom of the building. The thief or thieves then knocked a large hole through a wall to remove the furniture and also a smaller hole into the business office.

Removed, in addition to an unknown amount of cash from the office, were 13 coffee tables, nine blue couches and seven blue love seats.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

A saddle and a blanket with a combined value of $645 were stolen from the garage of Andrew G. Donaldson, 45, of 890 Albert St., Lake Mary, on Aug. 13, according to a sheriff's report filed Tuesday.

William Makaski, 23, of Red Oak Circle, Altamonte Springs, reported to deputies that a $380 kitchen range was stolen from a home being built at 375 Amethyst Court, Lake Mary, on Sunday or Monday.

A thief apparently emptied the coin boxes of laundry machines at the Springwood Village Condos, 160 Springwood Circle, Longwood, on Monday or Tuesday. Mary L. Bono, 66, of Deltona, reported the theft when she found only $3.75 in the machines when she checked them Tuesday, a sheriff's report said. The machines are emptied once a week and the loss is estimated at $400 to $475. There was no sign of forced entry and a missing key may have been used to open the machines, the report said.

ADROIT THIEF

A south Seminole County home was ransacked after a burglar managed to open a sliding glass door that was pinned shut and blocked by a stick of wood.

Gary D. Savelle, 33, of 7710 County Road, said he returned home at 5 p.m. Monday to find his home had been ransacked.

According to a sheriff's report, the burglar entered the home by jimmying a sliding glass door, prying the lower left door frame up and pushing away a stick on the door's track between the door and the wall. The burglar then pried the door off its track and pushed it, slowly working out a door pin used to secure the door to the frame. He then unlocked the door and entered the home.

A list of the stolen items has not been taken.

Voter Registration Office To Be Open On Saturdays

Seminole County residents will be able to register to vote the next five Saturdays at Supervisor of Elections Sandy Goard's office at the County Services Building, First Street at McElonville Avenue. Office hours will be from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Carylon Cohen, office manager, said the Saturday hours will continue until Sept. 21 when the books will close until after the Oct. 22 special election on the School Board's plan to float a $100 million bond issue to renovate and expand public schools.

The special election date was tentatively set by the School Board pending approval by the state Department of Education for the bond issue program.

Ms. Cohen said state law requires the elections office to be open for the five Saturdays prior to the closing of registration books 30 days before an election.

She said locations of polling places for the county's 72 precincts will be set and 288 elections officials — four for each polling place — appointed within the next few weeks.

The School Board scheduled the special election for the county's voters to approve or disapprove the $100 million bond issue to be paid over a 20 years period.

The bond issue was suggested to the board by Carey Ferrell, assistant superintendent for finance, and endorsed by Superintendent of schools Robert Hughes.

Under Ferrell's plan, revenues from the tax exempt bonds will be invested, Ferrell cited an example whereby the bonds might sell at an interest rate of 9 percent and then those bond revenues could be invested at a rate of 10 percent. The money realized through the difference in interest rates could be used to help pay off the bonds, he said.

Older elementary schools, middle schools and high schools in the county would be renovated and expanded with the proceeds.

Hughes said Casselberry Elementary which now has space for 565 students would be expanded to provide space for 787 students. The capacity at Lake Brantley, Lake Howell and Seminole High schools would be expanded to 2,400 students each.

Ferrell said the total principal and interest to be paid over the 20 years of the bond issue would be about $403.8 million. But he added that $219 million of that would come from interest earned from the investment of the funds. After deducting earnings from interest, the board would have to pay back principal and interest of $184.8 million.

Ms. Cohen said the county now has 95,304 voters eligible to cast ballots in the Oct. 22 election.

Elderly Under Stress Don't Drink More

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Elderly people can weather a traumatic experience such as the death of a spouse without using alcohol as a crutch, a University of Florida researcher says.

Stressful situations — the loss of a loved one, being fired, retiring, getting divorced — are more frequent among the elderly than among the general population, said Sociology Professor Ronald Akers, who helped survey 1,400 people over 60.

"If drinking is a response to these life events, you'd expect to see an increased rate of drinking or problems associated with drinking developing late in life," Akers said.

"But we found a negative correlation between life events and drinking," Akers said. "In other words, the elderly people (who had traumatic experiences) reported they drank less than the elderly who had not been faced with these events."

Akers said the survey confirmed other studies by finding that, when compared to the general population, fewer older people drink, and those who do drink, drink less.

"That was no surprise to us," Akers said. "But what did get our attention is how the elderly respond when faced with what we sociologists call significant life events."

He said he and his associates had expected to find that "the more traumatic experiences an elderly person suffers, the more he or she would drink."

"I'm speculating," Akers said, "but it could be that older people are better able to cope with stressful situations and are better able to plug into a supportive social network. Perhaps the idea is that they've seen it all before and know. This, too, shall pass."

The survey findings will be presented Monday to the annual meeting of the Society for the Study of Social Problems.

Seminole Helping School Board Prepare For Opening Of Schools

Seminole County public works department crews are working feverishly to complete two projects involving the Woodlands Elementary School and the Lake Howell High School before the public schools open for the new year on Monday.

Public Works Director Larry Sellers said the improvements being done in a cooperative effort with the School Board are: construction of turn lanes into Woodlands Elementary on E.E. Williamson Road, near Longwood, and the addition of paved parking; and construction of additional parking spots at Lake Howell High, near Casselberry.

Sellers said more parking space is needed at Lake Howell so that students will stop parking their cars in the Amberwood subdivision. Amberwood residents complained at a recent public hearing before the county commission that the parking of Lake Howell students in the development is creating traffic hazards for residents.

County Engineer Jerry McCollum said public works crews are trying to have the improvements completed by Aug. 26, the first day of school.

He said the Lake Howell work is likely to be completed on time. Holding up completion of the work at the Woodlands school is the moving of utility poles. The turning lanes under construction there will remove the obstruction to through traffic by motorists turning into the school.

With less than six weeks to go in the 1984-85 fiscal year, Seminole County's public works department also is finishing up small projects to clear them from their "to do" list before the 1985-86 fiscal year begins Oct. 1.

Those projects include:

- Safety work on the narrow bridge on County Road 15 around Lake Monroe.

- Resurfacing CR 426 near Oviedo.
- Intersection improvements at Tuskawilla Road and State Road 419 and installation of a traffic signal.
- Intersection work at Tuskawilla and Dyson roads, construction of turning lanes and installation of signals and the same type work at the intersections of Wymore and Lake Destiny, of Howell Branch Road and Eastbrook, 46A and Upsala Road; at Dike and Dodd roads.
- Modification of the Markham Woods Road curve to straighten it out as much as possible.
- Replacing of the Howard Avenue bridge at Black Hammock.

McCollum said he also expects a contract to be let on the four-laning of Maitland Avenue from SR 436 to the Orange County line before the fiscal year ends. The project is expected to cost $2 million.

Civil Rights Restoration Act Threatened

Abortion Issue Blocking Unrelated Legislation

By Judi Hasson
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — While the 99th Congress turns most of its attention to the federal deficit and tax revision, the abortion issue has crept into a number of unrelated legislative issues, even threatening key civil rights legislation.

In the last few months, anti-abortion language has been attached to foreign aid bills, the District of Columbia budget, the Civil Rights Restoration Act of 1985 and funding for the Legal Services Corporation.

Christopher Smith, for instance, represents the people of central New Jersey in the House of Representatives, but he's also an ardent worker to ban abortion. Like some of his colleagues with similar beliefs, Smith, head of the congressional Pro-Life Caucus, uses every chance he can get to bring the abortion issue to the floor of the House.

"I know that many members of this body are growing weary of abortion floor fights," Smith said during a recent abortion debate. "But I would suggest

Pro-lifers 'are attaching anti-abortion riders in an irrational way to legislation that has little or no abortion relationship, but they are also using the abortion issue as a club to try to screw up and delay and block other legislation.'

-William Hamilton, director of Planned Parenthood in Washington that what we do here today may indeed result in some now nameless, voiceless child — perhaps many children — being given a chance to live."

Anti-abortion lobbyists say they are doing nothing different, but their opponents say the tactics are escalating and have been since 1977 when Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., first succeeded in sponsoring an amendment banning the use of federal funds for abortion except when a woman's life was in danger.

The activity in Congress over abortion comes at the same time the Reagan administration is asking the Supreme Court to reconsider and overturn its landmark 1973 decision legalizing abortion.

William Hamilton, director of Planned Parenthood in Washington, said the anti-abortion movement has gone into a "guerrilla stance" because it has failed to get a constitutional amendment banning abortion approved by Congress.

"They are attaching anti-abortion riders in an irrational way to legislation that has little or no abortion relationship, but they are also using the abortion issue as a club to try to screw up and delay and block other legislation," he said.

Abortion could jeopardize the Civil Rights Restoration Act of 1985, a major piece of legislation to restore civil rights coverage at institutions getting federal money.

"Opponents of this bill definitely are trying to convert it into an abortion bill," says

Ralph Neas, head of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights which supports enacting the bill without extraneous language.

But conservatives, joined by the U.S. Catholic Conference, are pushing anti-abortion amendments in a dispute that threatens to scuttle the bill. Pro-choice advocates say they will not support a bill carrying anti-abortion language.

"I think what's happening is that we're now seeing that the agenda of pro-life groups is much broader than just abortion," says Leslie Harris, legislative director for the American Civil Liberties Union.

"It's an agenda in opposition to women's rights. What they have managed to do is characterize a broad range of women's rights bills as anti-abortion and force them to a standstill."

Harris says the civil rights bill is only one of a number of pieces of legislation facing this controversy.

In June, language added to a foreign aid bill would have barred the use of U.S. money by two international family planning agencies that fund, in turn, countries that might be involved in abortion for population control.

After some heated debate, House-Senate conferees took the easy route to settle the issue of U.S. support for overseas family planning programs — they deleted all references to the issue.

In July, pro-life congressmen succeeded in adding anti-abortion language to a Legal Services Corporation funding bill, along with a provision that would bar the District of Columbia from using its own local tax money to fund abortion.

"We don't see what we are doing as a change of tactics," said Douglas Johnson, legislative director of the National Right to Life Committee. "It happens we have had some more opportunities lately, particularly in the House."

Frances Kissling of Catholics for a Free Choice disagrees with Johnson's assessment.

"We see an escalation of what has been going on since 1975 when Right to Life in Congress first began to attempt to use the appropriations process and other measures as a means of legislating on the subject of abortion," Kissling said.

Both sides, however, are bucking down for a renewed fight this fall and winter at a time when the Reagan administration is turning its attention to the social agenda, including abortion.

Hamilton of Planned Parenthood says the pro-life movement is simply "throwing darts." He says "the darts don't add up to anything. They are painful, but they don't change the law."

Johnson, the Right to Life lobbyist, maintains, "We don't orchestrate all of this. We just wait. When something comes along that bears on our concerns, we use the opportunity."

Gateway Narcotic

Predictably critics are deriding the Reagan administration's search-and-destroy mission against marijuana growing. They are calling the nationwide effort by 2,200 law enforcement officers using fire and machetes a grandstand play that won't make a dent in what has become the nation's second biggest cash crop. Far better, they say, to legalize the sale of pot and control its use that way.

We disagree on a number of counts. First, Attorney General Edwin Meese III reported the destruction of 342,635 marijuana plants that were growing in concealed plots. While it won't stop the production of pot, the operation by federal, state and local officers sends a message to the domestic criminals who are growing and selling marijuana, along with foreign sources. The message: The United States means business about stopping the proliferation of what Mr. Meese calls a "gateway narcotic" that leads users to stronger drugs.

Even if pot smokers didn't graduate to harder drugs, there is enough evidence to show that marijuana itself is far from a "harmless" drug, especially to young people. The U.S. surgeon general warns that young people who smoke pot may disrupt the normal development and functioning of the cardiovascular, central nervous, reproductive and immune systems. Further, chemicals in marijuana have been linked to emphysema and lung cancer, and are known to stay in the body and accumulate.

You don't hear much about the health hazards of marijuana from those who want to legalize it. They will argue that health professionals, educators and social scientists are better able to deal with health and social issues of marijuana, a degree of optimism we cannot share.

Studies show that 5 percent of the nation's high school seniors smoke marijuana, half the number reported in 1978. This is a welcome trend, but legalizing pot inevitably would signal young people that it's all right to use it.

The recent raids serve another constructive purpose: Much of the criminal cultivation of marijuana takes place on federal lands where innocent backpackers, picnickers, fishermen and hunters risk stumbling onto a plot rigged with booby traps or trigger-happy growers. This cannot be permitted, especially on land belonging to the public.

Last year, Americans smoked 25 million pounds of marijuana. Federal officials estimated that 12 percent of that dope was produced in the United States, up from 5 percent in 1980. There has been success in slowing down smuggling from Jamaica and Colombia; now it is only proper to step up the campaign against domestic production of this damaging drug.

An Air Treaty

The Soviet Union, Japan and the United States have reached tentative agreement on a telephone network between air controllers in the cities of Anchorage, Tokyo and Khabarovsk.

It is hoped the phone link will prevent future incidents like the Soviet Union's shooting down of Korean Air Lines Flight 007 and killing 269 in 1983, after that airliner strayed into Soviet airspace.

The new equipment will make it possible for controllers to talk directly to each other. The current communications system goes through several switchboards and is described by U.S. negotiators as "slow and laborious." In the future, controllers should be able to work out problems before drastic action is taken.

You'd Best Come Back Home, Democrats

In a recent guest appearance before a group of unusually bright German students in the American studies program at the University of Munich, I found myself hard-pressed to give a satisfying explanation of some of the "dilemmas facing American Democrats," my lecture topic.

One such "dilemma" is the difficulty of reconciling the historic commitment of the Democratic Party to the poor, the handicapped and minorities with resentment of too much government assistance to these groups at the expense of the middle class. Another dilemma is posed by the commitment of the Democrats to civil rights and affirmative action despite the lingering racist attitudes that make this commitment offensive to some Americans. Still a third dilemma is the desire of many Democrats to curb the arms race, notwithstanding the fact that Ronald Reagan and other hardliners have equated this with weakness on national defense.

On each of these points I was sharply challenged as to why it is considered a "dilemma" for the Democrats to stand up for what they believe to be a decent and honorable position.

"How can a liberal party not be in favor of social welfare?" demanded one young man.

"How can the Democratic Party give up on racial justice and still be the Democratic Party?" I was asked. "How can any reasonable person support the arms race as matters now stand?" other students wanted to know.

The students' message to me was that the aforementioned are not "dilemmas"; they are moral and political imperatives on which Democrats cannot equivocate.

I confess that the reactions of these German students are fully compatible with my own instincts and leanings. These graduate research students were carefully selected for the American studies program for their intelligence and ability, and clearly had enough interest and respect for the United States to enroll in the program in the first place. Their director, Professor Berndt Osendorf, was educated in the United States and is obviously "pro-American," as are the students to varying degrees.

I've been thinking about their message to me and I believe they are right. If there is political heat involved for the Democrats, fast to their compassion.

bad, but it is not a dilemma. It is the principle of the Democratic Party. There are millions of voters who resent black demands for ful citizenship that is also unfortunate, but it is an issue calling for Democratic courage — not surrender to selfishness and racism. If there are those who believe that an open-ended arms race, including the MX and Star Wars, is aiding American security, that is no reason for Democrats who feel differently to yield their convictions and their common sense.

In short, a political party worth its salt has to stand for something even in the face of temporary unpopularity and defeat. Mr. Reagan's brand of politics may be popular at the moment, but what we definitely do not need are two political parties committed to Reaganism.

There is one lesson, however, that Mr. Reagan has to offer both Democrats and Republicans. For 20 years prior to winning the Republican nomination and the general election in 1980, Mr. Reagan held fast to his own brand of conservatism even when it was unpopular. I wish his views were still unpopular, because I think they are at odds not only with Democratic principles but with what is best for the nation. What I accept, however, is that Reagan's views and that he has held to them in political times — good and bad — for the cause of Reaganism.

Lying About Star Wars

You know an opponent is in deep trouble when he has to lie about your argument in order to score points against it.

These thoughts are prompted by a recent review in the Sunday New York Times Book Review of the important new book by Robert Jastrow called "How to Make Nuclear Weapons Obsolete." Jastrow, a highly reputable scientist, argues that a defense is feasible against incoming intercontinental ballistic missiles.

For example, here is Broad: "What apparently makes Mr. Jastrow so confident of success is that the system would do little. Despite his book's title, 'How to Make Nuclear Weapons Obsolete,' no technical defense is envisioned that would do so. No shield is proposed that would protect American people and cities from missile attacks."

But if you check that against the Jastrow book itself you find that the exact opposite is true. Here is Jastrow, page 100:

"An advanced defense against Soviet missiles, using exotic technologies such as the laser and the neutral particle beam, may become a reality by the end of the century. Americans will rest easier when that defense is in place, for it will mean the prospect of a Soviet first strike is essentially nil."

"Meanwhile, the technologies that are already in hand will allow us to put into place in the early 1990s, a simple but highly effective defense at a cost of roughly $60 billion. A conservative estimate of the effectiveness of this defense is 90 percent, which means that only one Soviet warhead in ten will reach its target. That is more than sufficient to guarantee devastating U.S. retaliation and discourage Soviet leaders from any thought of achieving a successful strike."

"This limited defense will be based on the off-the-shelf technology of the smart bullet. That technology is mature and unexotic, and its deployment around the end of the decade involves no further research, but only a relatively modest degree of engineering development of existing hardware. In fact, it is technically accurate to state that these vital defenses could be in place at this moment if it were not for the constraints accepted by the United States in its adherence to the ABM Treaty."

On To Academia

Reed Irvine, the tireless gadfly who heads Accuracy in Media, or AIM, has decided that the time is ripe for somebody to lop off the liberal hydra's other remaining head: the pervasive leftist influence in America's colleges and universities.

In the absence of volunteers, he has decided to shoulder the job himself (with help, of course) — a classic illustration of the old rule, "If you want something done, give it to a busy man to do."

AIM devotes itself to making life miserable for the liberal media, and especially for the heavyweights: the three major TV networks, The New York Times and The Washington Post.

Irvine is forever showing up at stockholders' meetings of the corporations that own the networks, and firing off open letters to the two newspapers (or even trying to buy ad space in their pages), to lambaste their journalistic sins of omission and commission.

The National News Council (of which I was a founding member) tried to correct the media more gently and evenhandedly — and expired of neglect and liberal contempt after just 11 years.

AIM, on the other hand, less concerned about accusations of conservative bias on its own part, is growing stronger year by year, and has already managed to make perceptible progress in its self-chosen Herculean assignment of cleansing the liberal bias out of the stables of American journalism.

Irvine's new preoccupation with academia shows that his vision of the problems ahead is 20/20.

As I wrote in my own most recent book, "The Rise of the Right":

"For the moment the opposition to the conservative movement — liberal and harder left alike — has retreated into its twin Alpine redoubts: the media and the academy."

These, therefore, are likely to be the scene of conservatism's next battles and almost certainly in that order."

Characteristically, Irvine can't wait: He wants to fight both at once — and understandably so.

The name of his new battle-choir is Accuracy in Academia, which may not have so felicitous an acronym as AIM but makes up for it by its brevity and precision.

Malcolm Lawrence, a former Foreign Service officer who will actually head the new group, estimates that there are at least 10,000 known Marxists teaching on university campuses in the United States today.

To anyone who has spoken, as I have, on many of those campuses, the estimate sounds eminently reasonable.

AIA proposes to recruit volunteers — preferably senior citizens — to monitor classes in political science, history and sociology at targeted universities beginning this September, to report instances of "political bias based on incorrect information."

As may be imagined, AIA's announced intention is about as popular among liberal academic spokesmen as the proverbial skunk in a submarine.

The monitors it plans to put quietly in the backs of classrooms were promptly denounced as "intellectual goon squads" by the executive director of the American Political Science Association.

Lesson Of The Bomb

In June of last year, liberals hooted at President Reagan's ostentatious pose on the cliffs of Normandy, as he and other heads of state of our World War II allies met to observe the 40th anniversary of D-Day. They got back at him in spades during the first week of August, at the annual orgy of recriminations and moralistic posturing over the dropping of the first atomic bombs on Japan.

As usual, a squadron of ban-the-bombers descended on Hiroshima.

In this country, the theme was not mourning the dead, but assigning guilt for the bombing by various ministers, "peace" activists, and journalists, to President Truman and Pentagon. The Soviet Union condemned the bombing. In all, the 40th anniversary of the Bomb was a propaganda festival for those who blame the United States for the arms race and everything else wrong in the world.

A setting in perspective is necessary. By midsummer 1945, American forces had consolidated their hold on Okinawa, which had been the largest and most heavily defended Japanese stronghold in the Pacific, six hundred miles from the home islands. More than 49,000 Marines were killed or wounded in the battle. Some 100,000 Okinawan civilians died, murdered by the Japanese or forced to commit suicide. Nine million of Japan's 10 million tons of merchant shipping had been sunk by U.S. submarines. American B-29 bombers staged devastating raids on Japanese cities. The home islands were without imports of food and fuel. Starvation was spreading.

But Japan refused to surrender. A new book by Denis and Peggy Warner and Commander Sadao Seno, "The Sacred Warriors: Japan's Fanatic Legions" describes the inner circle of leaders who controlled the armed forces and the government, and paid homage to the ancient ritual of bushido: the way of the samurai, or warrior.

Then suddenly on Aug. 6 and 8 came the A-bomb, and it was over. The invasion, which would have cost a minimum of one million Japanese and 100,000 American lives, never occurred. The Japanese people were finally spared the suicidal fanaticism of their government.

Congressmen Tour World Hot Spots

By Jack Anderson
And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — It's an annual rite in Washington: Every summer, the members of various committees on Capitol Hill play spin-the-globe to determine which of the world's hot spots need their personal attention during the recess.

The locations tend toward the pleasure spots. Indeed, the uninitiated might be amazed to learn how many problems are screaming for solutions in such places as Paris, London and Rome.

Tentative plans are drawn up, and staffers are dispatched to make arrangements. Air transportation has to be requisitioned from the Defense Department. Surface transportation, hotel reservations and luggage carriers have to be lined up by the State Department.

The woebegone diplomats also have to dredge up some officials of the host governments who are willing to give up a few days of their summer vacations to "confer" with the visiting dignitaries. Can't have an "official business" trip without some official business, you see.

We have been following globe-trotting lawmakers for 38 years as they clamor across the ruins of Machupicchu and float down the Nile. We reported the amusing antics of a Louisiana senator trying out his Cajun French on bewildered natives in Timbuktu. We caught a Midwestern senator taking elephant rides in Sri Lanka.

It's a story without an ending. There is no final chapter, only the next one. An estimated 14 congressional delegations, for example, trekked this month to Central America, Europe, Africa and the Far East.

Members of the House Armed Services Committee, to name but one, recently returned to the United States after a two-week "fact-finding" trip to several Mediterranean countries. An Air Force C-137 was required to haul the party of 10 lawmakers, five wives, nine aides and bureaucrats, a Navy doctor and three Air Force "escort" officers across the Atlantic. The seven-hour flights to and from set the taxpayers back $102,000 in fuel and maintenance costs alone.

The congressional party used an Air Force C-9 jet to hop from country to country. The taxpayers' bill for the short-hop flights came to another $88,000.

Our reporter Stewart Harris has obtained their itinerary, stamped "confidential," which was prepared by the State Department. Here is but a sampling of the laborious schedule the diplomats set up for the official travelers at each of their stops:

Yugoslavia: The delegation was to set down in the resort town of Dubrovnik on the Adriatic Sea in time for a late lunch, hosted by the mayor in the Hotel Belvedere. The Dubrovnik leg was necessary, said a State Department official, because Yugoslav officials are vacationing on the Adriatic in August.

Free time was scheduled that evening and the next day, but tours of the nearby village of Chitipi were available so the delegation could view the "native handicrafts and folk dancing."

Official talks were scheduled for the morning of Aug. 5 in Sarajevo with representatives of the local province and later with defense officials.

Tunisia: Meetings with Tunisian officials were still shaky at departure time, so the State Department prepared contingency plans to tour the Barbo Museum and eat lunch at a beach restaurant. Optional trips to Carthage and the seaside resort of Sidi Bou Said were also available.

Morocco: On their arrival in Rabat on Aug. 8, the party had a free afternoon to be followed by a dinner and reception. A meeting was set up next morning with Prime Minister Mohammed Karim-Lamrani, after which the group was offered a tour to Marrakech.

SHS Boosters Target Friday For Members

The dawning of a new era begins this fall as Dave Mosure replaces Jerry Posey as Seminole High School football coach. Posey was the chief Seminole for 10 years and during that time the popular coach had some very successful teams.

Mosure, who was instrumental in that success the past three years as defensive coordinator, said he hopes the Seminoles will keep the ball rolling this fall.

The intense first-year head coach built a good reputation in the Miami area when he coached three district champions. "We're working real hard," said Mosure. "We've only got 35 players but they are a very tough and determined 35 players."

Although Seminole's football success has been pretty favorable the past five years with two district and conference championships, the attendance at home games has not kept pace.

The reserved section, in particular, has been lacking. The student-filled areas on each side easily outnumber what is supposed to be the core of any rooting section.

With that in mind, Seminole High's Booster Club has targeted Friday as a very important day to the off-the-field success of the school. Friday will be the annual canvassing of the downtown area by the football players for memberships in the booster club.

The central meeting place will be the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce building at 9 a.m. The football players and coaches will go after the memberships from 9 a.m. to noon, according to Gayle Tipton, secretary for the Boosters.

"Friday is a very important day for us," said Tipton, one of Seminole's most-active supporters. "We hope the merchants and everyone else will really get behind the team and really get involved."

Memberships are just $5. "We're going to have a great year," continued Tipton. "We're looking forward to a fantastic football season along with all the other sports."

Wayne Albert, vice-president of operations at First Federal Savings & Loan, is coordinating the activity.

The Seminole Athletic Conference's first football matchup should be a good one, Oviedo and Lake Brantley square off Friday, Sept. 13 at Lake Brantley. Oviedo coach Jack Blanton and first-year Big Blue boss Fred Almon were both assistants at Lake Brantley several years ago.

Lake Brantley, which already has an excellent playing surface and press box, took another step toward one of the state's finest facilities Wednesday when it moved the poles and upgraded its lighting system.

"We should have the best lighted field around," said Ron Bass, one of the Patriots' hard-working boosters.

Don Reynolds, Lake Mary High principal and one of the driving forces behind the formation of the SAC, said the conference is still accepting logo ideas.

The winner of the logo contest will receive two free passes for the athletic events in the county during the 1985-86 school year.

Call it coincidence but the Montreal Expos have not won since the New York Times came out with its series on cocaine abuse in which Tim Lincecum and eight or nine unnamed teammates were the central figures of Tuesday's article.

The series began Monday and the Expos immediately lost to the Mets. Tuesday, they lost to the Padres. Wednesday, they lost again to the Padres.

Montreal was within four games of front-running New York but now it trails by six. The chase is starting to look bleak.

Manager Buck Rodgers was last seen dialing the Times and wondering when the series would end.

Slaney Runs Record Mile

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI) — The world's most expensive track meet netted some valuable rewards Wednesday, most notably Mary Decker Slaney's world record in the women's mile.

With a time of 4 minutes, 16.71 seconds in the Weltklasse meet at Letzigrund Stadium, Slaney regained the record from Romania's Maricica Puica, who captured the distinction three years ago with a time of 4:17.44. Puica took second Wednesday with a time of 4:17.33 and Zola Budd was third in 4:17.57.

DeLisa Walton-Floyd of the United States ran the first two laps in 2:10.17, but Decker picked up the pace herself after that.

With Budd, Puica and East German Ulrike Bruns pushing all the way, they hit the bell at 3:15.25. Puica kicked as they came out of the final bend but Slaney accelerated away.

The victory and world record went some way toward avenging Slaney's defeat in the Olympic 3,000 meters final last year which Puica won after Slaney collided with Budd.

"The field was so strong that it was always going to be a fast race tonight," Slaney said. "I think that within the next year, the record could come down to 4:10."

The meet — attracting 36 Olympic champions, world champions and world record holders — was the most expensive ever staged, costing $700,000. It cost

Track/Field

$440,000 to pay for the expenses of more than 300 athletes from 39 countries.

The only event in which a world or Olympic champion was not competing was the men's 400 meters hurdles where Edwin Moses was absent.

The results justified the expense though, as Slaney's performance at the Grand Prix meet was joined by Moroccan Said Aouita's second fastest mile in history and Pierre Deleze of Switzerland rewarded his fans with a stirring victory in the 1,500 meters over Olympic champion Sebastian Coe.

Aouita had to settle for the second fastest mile in history (3:46.92 minutes) when his attempt on Briton Steve Cram's world record failed by 0.61 of a second.

Cram ran the fastest 800 meters in the world this year in 1:42.88, a personal best by almost three-quarters of a second. He edged Olympic champion Joaquim Cruz of Brazil in a battle down straightaway.

Carl Lewis, the quadruple Olympic gold medalist, making his first outing since injuring a hamstring in the spring, finished fourth in the 100 meters.

He started poorly, never recovered and finished in 10.31 seconds, behind winner and Olympic bronze medalist Ben Johnson of Canada (10.18). World record holder Calvin Smith of the United States (10.19) finished second and Desai Williams of Canada (10.26) was third.

Lewis pulled out of the 200 meters later in the meet.

Deleze received the biggest cheer of the night when he defeated Coe in the 1,500 meters. Deleze came from the middle of the pack in the final 80 meters to clock a national record of 3:31.75. Coe could not respond and finished second in 3:32.13.

"Obviously, I am not happy," said Coe, who missed the European Cup Final in Moscow because of injury. "And I need a few more races and more training before I can run faster. But I am not sure it is worth it at this stage of the season."

Valerie Brisco-Hooks, the American triple Olympic gold medalist, edged world champion Marlies Goehr of East Germany in the women's 100 meters with a personal best of 11.01 seconds, 0.07 of a second faster than she has ever run. Brisco-Hooks stole the race from Goehr in the last few strides.

The men's 400 meters boasted two high quality finals. World champion Bert Cameron of Jamaica won the B final and Thomas Schoenlebe of East Germany the A final.

Tennessee Knocks Off Minnesota

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (UPI) — Richie Conway pitched a two-hitter as Morristown, Tenn., defeated Minnetonka, Minn., 5-1 Wednesday in the Little League Baseball World Series.

Conway, who struck out eight and walked only one, had a no-hitter for five innings of the six-inning game. Until then, Minnetonka had hit only two balls out of the infield.

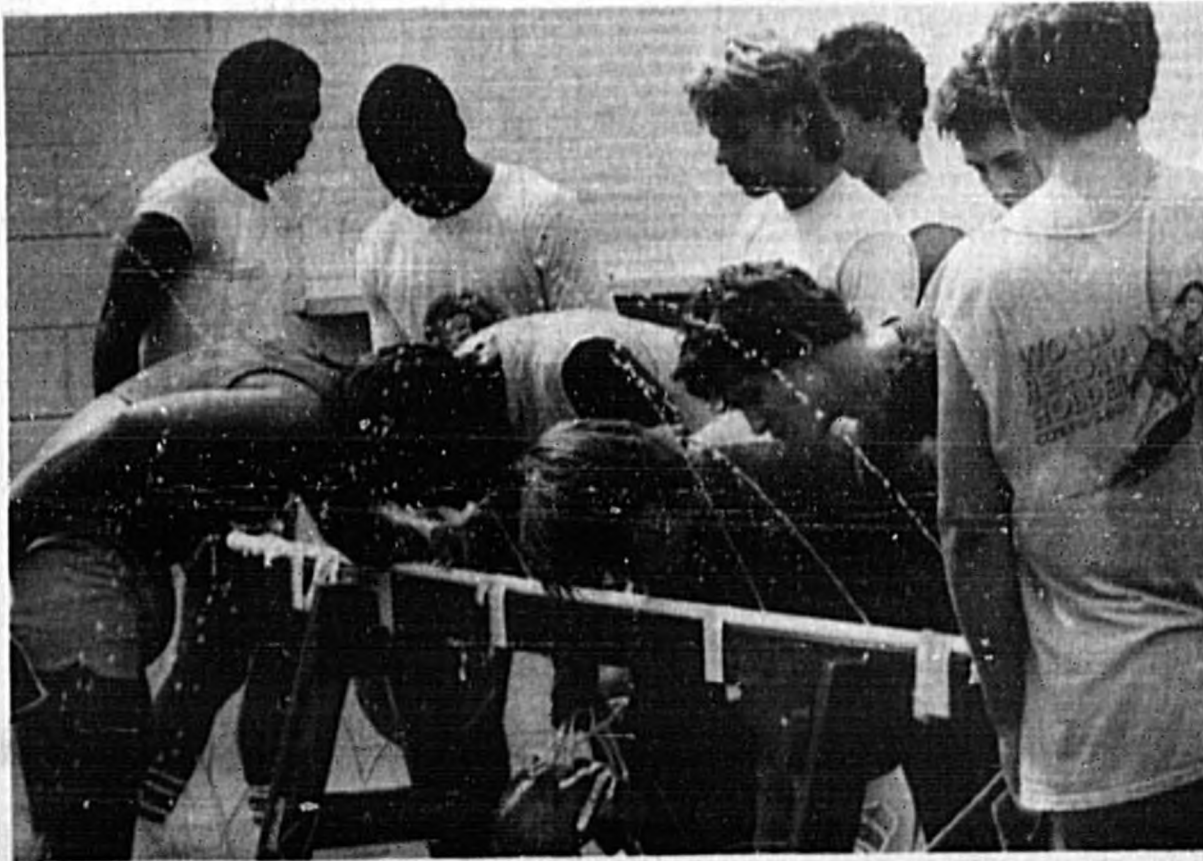

Morristown banged out 10 hits off Minnetonka pitcher Brad Kearin, who went the distance.

Rocky McElheny provided Morristown its first run when he opened the fourth inning with a homer. Three more hits, an error and a sacrifice gave the Tennesseans another run in the fourth. The runner was squeezed home on a bunt by Scotty Stewart.

With two out in the sixth inning, Morristown rapped out four singles and scored three more runs. Two of the runs were driven in on singles by Brad Cornwell and Dave Baskette and the third scored on an error.

In the bottom of the sixth, with one out, Justin McHugh spoiled Conway's no-hitter with a single to left field after Jason Pfau was hit by a pitched ball.

Pfau scored on a force out by Justin Harder after Kip Peterson singled. The victory was Conway's 11th without a loss in all-star competition.

A Rams' best friend in winter is his wool but during August's torrid football workouts it's hard to top a cool water break. Lake Mary opens the season Friday, Sept. 13 at Apopka.

SAC Throws Out Welcome Mat

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Russ Megonegal, executive secretary for the newly formed Seminole Athletic Conference, throws out the welcome mat to county high school principals, athletic directors and reporters next Tuesday at 7 p.m. at Lake Mary High School.

Megonegal, who held the same position for the Five Star Conference last year, said this will be a good opportunity for the new conference members to get acquainted and discuss some of the aims of the SAC.

Prep Roundup

The SAC, which has been on the drawing board for several years, was formed when the Five Star members from Seminole County were forced to pull out because of a realignment of the state's district football classifications.

Seminole, Lake Mary, Oviedo, Lyman, Lake Howell and Lake Brantley are the six teams in the SAC.

Yankees Creep Within 3

United Press International
While New Yorkers have been watching a lottery prize grow past $40 million, the Yankees keep hitting the jackpot.

After a 13-10 victory over the California Angels Wednesday night, the Yankees have won seven straight and 14 of their last 15 to close within three games of the division-leading Blue Jays.

It was a 10th-inning error by third baseman Jack Howell that triggered the Yankees' latest triumph.

"All I know is our ship came in," said New York manager Billy Martin. "The errors, they're just part of the game. That's not the best we've played, but that's baseball."

California's lead in the West dropped to 1 1/2 games over the Kansas City Royals.

"I'm going to try my hardest to just forget everything," said a simmering California manager Gene Mauch.

With one out, Baylor singled off Donnie Moore, 7-7, and went to third on Ken Griffey's single. Willie Randolph bounced to third, where Howell picked up the ball and threw wildly to first, allowing Baylor to score and leaving runners on second and third.

After Mike Pagliarulo was walked intentionally, Butch Wynegar struck out and Bobby Meacham blooped a single to left. The winning pitcher was Dave Righetti, 10-7.

The Angels scored twice to tie the score 10-10 in the ninth. Reliever Brian Fisher ran a 2-0 count to leadoff hitter Rod Carew, and Righetti relieved. Carew walked, pinch hitter Juan Beniquez singled Carew to third, and right fielder Dave Winfield's throw to third hit the runner and rolled into foul territory. Carew scored, and when catcher Wynegar tried to nail Beniquez at third, his throw went into left, allowing the tying run to score.

In other games, Milwaukee shaded Minnesota 3-2, Oakland nipped Detroit 4-3, Cleveland downed Toronto 5-2, Texas topped Boston 5-3, Kansas City nipped Chicago 2-1, and Baltimore blasted Seattle 11-8.

In the National League, it was San Diego 6, Montreal 2; San Francisco 3, New York 2; Los Angeles 15, Philadelphia 6; Cincinnati 8, Pittsburgh 5; Chicago 9, Atlanta 5; and St. Louis 7, Houston 4.

Brewers 3, Twins 2
At Milwaukee, Robin Yount's one-out bases-loaded single in the bottom of the ninth scored Jim Gantner and lifted the Brewers. With one out, Gantner broke an 0-for-34 streak with a single off loser Steve Howe, 1-3.

A's 4, Tigers 3
At Oakland, Steve Henderson's one-out run-scoring double in the ninth inning and a subsequent throwing error by first baseman Dave Bergman capped a four-run rally that carried the A's. Steve Mura, 1-0, worked the ninth for the victory. Lou Whitaker homered for Detroit.

Indians 5, Blue Jays 2
At Cleveland, Julio Franco and Joe Carter collected two RBI apiece and Neal Heaton survived back-to-back homers to pitch a six-hitter that helped the Indians. Last-place Cleveland won two of three games from Toronto, which is battling New York for the American League East lead.

Rangers 5, Red Sox 3
At Boston, Gary Ward belted a three-run homer in the first inning and Jeff Russell earned his first AL victory, handing the Red Sox their sixth straight loss. Russell, 1-3, allowed seven hits while walking and striking out three in 5 1/3 innings of work. Greg Harris posted his eighth save of the season.

Royals 2, White Sox 1
At Chicago, George Brett's solo homer leading off the fourth inning snapped a 1-1 tie and Charlie Leibrandt allowed five hits over eight innings to pace the Royals. Brett's homer, his 17th, came off Floyd Bannister, 5-11, who permitted three hits in 7 1/3 innings. The loss was the seventh straight for Bannister.

Orioles 11, Mariners 8
At Seattle, Eddie Murray drove in three runs to highlight a 10-run third. It was Baltimore's ninth victory in its last 11 games. The first eight Orioles to bat in the third scored and the 10 runs equalled a club record set twice before.

IN BRIEF

6 Killed In Beirut Fighting; Cabinet Tries To End Violence

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Artillery and rockets blasted the city and surrounding villages today, killing six people as Syria joined efforts to end Lebanon's bloodiest factional fighting in two years.

Police sources reported six people killed and 18 wounded in today's fighting, bringing the toll for 11 days of fighting to 282 dead and more than 900 wounded.

The Cabinet met for the first time in four months today to consider moves to end the bloodshed.

As the Cabinet convened at President Amin Gemayel's summer residence in the mountain resort of Bikfaya, a Syrian-led cease-fire committee met with Christian and Moslem militia representatives in an effort to end the violence.

A government source said Education Minister Selim Hoss would propose deployment of Syrian observers along the Beirut and mountain militia confrontation lines to consolidating any cease-fire. Syrian observers have already helped end a Shiite-Palestinian war in south Beirut.

S. African Miners Put Off Strike

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Police shot and killed a black man and at least eight people were wounded in new racial violence, and black miners postponed a strike that had threatened to add to the bloodshed.

Authorities arrested another 103 people under a state of emergency declared a month ago to curb unrest that has claimed 138 lives since President Pieter Botha imposed emergency rule in parts of the country July 21.

Officers fired tear gas, rubber bullets, shotguns and pistols to disperse a crowd of youthful rioters near the black township of North Allwal. The rioters had abducted a 16-year-old girl. One man was killed and another wounded, authorities said.

The predominately black National Union of Mineworkers, meanwhile, postponed a strike scheduled for Sunday for another week to consult with members about new offers presented by coal and gold mine owners in a marathon meeting that ended early today.

Although the substance would come up positive on one of the major tests of carcinogenicity, that would not be enough to label it cancer-causing or dangerous to humans, said a spokeswoman for the Chemical Manufacturers' Association.

In Moscow, in an unprecedented action, all Americans in the city were summoned to the ambassador's residence and briefed by Richard Combs, the charge d'affaires.

Dr. Charles Brodine, a State Department specialist, told the gathered diplomats, businessmen and journalists that the potential harm of the powder is less than smoking or driving a car without a seatbelt.

But he recommended the Americans bathe regularly with soap and water and use an alcohol-based cleansing agent.

"There is a relatively low acute toxicity and a slow absorption rate. The risk is fairly low," he said.

A medical task force under the direction of the National Institutes of Health and the Environmental Protection Agency has been formed and will go to Moscow to investigate the potential hazard, the State Department said.

"There is no evidence to date that any embassy personnel have suffered ill effects due to exposure to tracking agents," a statement said, but laboratory tests may take years to determine if a serious hazard exists.

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., vice chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, called the Soviets' use of the chemical "outrageous and totally unacceptable."

Leahy demanded the administration immediately implement a newly enacted law he co-sponsored allowing the administration to retaliate against the Soviet Union by expelling Soviet diplomats.

The matter is regarded as serious enough to be on the agenda of the September meetings between Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze, the department said.

In Los Angeles, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said it is "entirely possible" the issue will be raised by President Reagan during his November summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

Speakes said Reagan received a detailed report Monday and approved the protest made to the Soviets.

"This is a serious matter," he said. "Whatever the KGB has done, certainly the political leadership of the Soviet Union is responsible for the conduct of their security services."

The chemical tracking agent, a U.S. official said, was used by the Soviets at least once in the United States and "that Soviet authorities for a number of years have used chemical substances to monitor the activities of employees of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow."

It is also presumed to have been used against private Americans in Moscow, including journalists, who have been in contact with dissidents.

The official said he could not discuss "operational" questions, including the possible damage done to U.S. intelligence.

"The substances in question, which have been applied indirectly to embassy personnel, leave deposits on the person or possessions of people with whom they have had contact," the statement said. It can be detected only through chemical analysis, the department said.

Anyone coming in contact with the chemical would leave minute traces on other objects and people touched later. Officials said such traces would allow Soviet intelligence agents to easily verify contacts made by the Americans.

Use of the tracking agent by the Soviets first was detected in the 1970s, the State Department said, but it was used rarely and in tiny quantities.

But the official said that early this summer the powder suddenly began to appear in Moscow in much larger quantities — dusted on such things as doorknobs, steering wheels or car seats — raising the possibility that Americans could be harmed.

The widespread use of the powder indicated stepped-up operations by the KGB against the U.S. Embassy at about the time that the current Kremlin leadership, headed by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, came to power.

the city usually asks for to reserve for parks. Miss Jacobson said it was too early to tell how much the project would cost.

Kaufman and the board are still working on the plan, which is expected to be finalized Sept. 10. The board has to present the plan to the commission for approval.

Kaufman has been hired by the city to design the plan, pick the plants, supervise the work and develop a maintenance schedule. Workers from the Parks and Recreation Department will carry out the project.

Before actual planting, the plan calls for the irrigation system on the city hall grounds to be upgraded and expanded. Parks director and scenic board member Jim Jernigan estimated irrigation work would be completed by February and cost about $26,000.

Soil tests will also have to be conducted before planting can begin, Jernigan said, because the existing soil contains shells, broken glass and other elements that could harm plant growth.

Because of two freezes in the past two years, the board plans to use coldheart plants that do not require much maintenance.

The board and Kaufman propose putting weeping willows near the north side of the building, along Seminole Boulevard. The parking lot would also have rows of hedges and oak trees.

The grassy beltway on the south side of the building would have three Jerusalem thorn trees which would spread 30 feet in diameter. The trees would provide shade and yellow blossoms in the spring. The board is also considering putting picnic tables on the beltway so city employees will have a nice place outdoors to have lunch.

More color would be provided in front of the building by mulched rows of junipers, asparagus ferns, periwinkles and fiery red fotena bushes. A patch of palmetto palms would adorn the west side of the building.

The board is considering putting two Christmas trees on the northwest corner of the lot to be decorated during the holiday season.

Mrs. Mercer, who is coordinating the project, said the board picked Kaufman to design the plan because of his work on the county courthouse across the street from city hall.

Kaufman said the landscaping of city hall would be a "labor of love" that would cause people to look "a second and third time" at the building.

In other action Monday, the scenic improvement board discussed the possibility of using people convicted of driving under the influence to clean up the weeds along the lakefront seawall. Jernigan made the suggestion after he said city crews were too busy on other projects. The board asked Jernigan to check with judicial authorities about the possibility of using DUI offenders, whose sentences usually include a number of hours of community service, for the work. Jernigan said some of the area is infested with snakes.

...Land

"treble damages and attorney's fees...based on the (board's) wrongful and illegal retention of the escrow deposits."

Julian declined to comment on the possibility of a legal battle over the $20,000 for fear of prejudicing such proceedings.

He did say the board must decide whether to keep the property on the market. If the board decides it still wants to sell the property it must accept sealed bids and appraisals again.

However, if the bidding procedure does not produce a qualified buyer or if the board refuses to accept any of the bids offered, Julian said he would advise the board to hold a public sale or auction for the property if the board still wants to sell it.

Hattaway said the "matter was not handled very well" by the board.

As for the city's part, "the mayor gave me a fair shot but Mercer did not want to make a decision," he said referring to the Aug. 12 meeting which sent the issue back to the P&Z.

The issue isn't over yet, according to Hattaway. He said there is still a "good possibility" that he will purchase the property if it receives commercial zoning that allows retail outlets and grocery stores.

Whether the zoning change request will still be considered depends on whether the board withdraws its application for rezoning. William Colbert, Sanford city attorney, said if Hattaway has withdrawn his option to buy the land there is "no real reason" for the board to continue to seek the rezoning.

Sandefur feels that his ability to purchase the property is contingent upon how long it takes the board to accept bids. "If they wait 30 or 45 days I can't keep my prospective client waiting," he said. "If they wait 60 or 90 days I may have to put my tenant on another piece of property."

"I made every possible attempt to get the property before it went out for bids again," said Sandefur. He added that he would probably bid on the land again but he did not know what his offer would be. "I'll try to make it a cash offer," he said.

Superintendent Robert Hughes refused to comment on the matter and board member William Kroll said he would not comment on the $20,000 downpayment or the possibility of taking the land off the market without having discussed it with other board members.

engineer, said it doesn't make sense to him that the port tenants could be generating more sewage than the amount of water they are using. Water is used to transport the sewage to a lift station on site and then into a force main at the LMU plant, he said.

He said LMU commissioned an expert to consider how much sewage the port was generating. Based on how long a lift station on the property operates daily, a determination was reached that 18,000 gallons of sewage daily is being generated there.

Dolner said the only possible way this could be happening is if drainage water or ground water is infiltrating into the sewer pipes at the port.

He said it could mean that the port would have to acquire a television-monitoring service to examine the sewer pipes to find out where the leaks are and then to repair or replace the pipes.

Dolner also told the board that LMU said it will grant the port more capacity if the DER approves. Dolner said he wants to appeal to Alex Alexander, the manager of the DER's office in Orlando for the St. Johns District. He asked Mrs. Christensen to set up an appointment with Alexander and to accompany him to the meeting.

She said she would personally call Alexander today.

In a related matter, Dolner told the directors that despite reports that the Star of Sanford has been dumping raw sewage from its berth at the port, monitoring of the port water has not shown this to be true.

A report published in the Evening Herald, Wednesday, said Assistant State Attorney Woody Igou expects charges will be filed this week or next against Star Line Corp., owners of the Star of Sanford, charging that the ship has dumped raw sewage into Lake Monroe and at the port.

TV Cameraman Assaulted Filming Arrest

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

An Orlando television news photographer attacked while taping a roundup of illegal aliens working at an Altamonte Springs construction site at about 9:15 p.m. Wednesday will be off the job for a couple of days recovering from cuts and neck strain.

The construction supervisor accused of throwing sand at cameraman Robert Lee Murdock, jumping on his back and knocking him to the ground and kicking and hitting him while he was down has been released from the Seminole County jail on $5,000 bond.

Allan Edward Sabo, 36, of Houston, Texas, has been charged with battery and criminal mischief. He allegedly damaged the $35,000 camera Murdock was using.

And three Salvadoran males nabbed in the roundup at Escondido (which, coincidentally, means hidden in Spanish) Condominiums off Hattaway Drive, were being held today at the Krome Detention Center in Miami, according to Ed Banzin, U.S. Border Patrol department chief in Miami.

The aliens arrested Wednesday bring to 23 the total number of illegal aliens nabbed this year working for MEK Construction of Houston, Texas, at that Altamonte Springs construction site, Banzin said. About half the construction workers arrested have been from Mexico, the rest from El Salvador, he said.

Murdock was taping the arrests Wednesday for WESH, Channel 2, television, when, according to Altamonte Springs police, who had 15 men assisting border patrol agents in the arrests, was attacked.

Police Sgt. Jack Martin reported seeing the suspect throw sand at Murdock. Martin ran to intervene, but before he reached Murdock the suspect had jumped on his back, knocked him to the ground and was kicking and hitting him, a police report said.

Martin pulled the suspect off Murdock and the man was arrested, the report said.

Murdock was treated at Florida Hospital-Altamonte where he was held overnight and released this morning. Steve Homan, WESH vice president, said today Murdock is his first news department employee to be hospitalized following an assault, although other news personnel have been attacked on other occasions.

Homan said Murdock should be back at work in a couple of days and is recovering from cuts on his back and a strained neck. At first it was feared he had some broken ribs, but Homan said no ribs were broken.

Homan called the incident "outrageous and unfortunate." He said he hasn't discussed with Murdock the possibility of a personal injury suit against the suspect. But Homan has talked to an attorney and said he feels if Murdock chose to pursue that avenue he has a good chance of being awarded some sort of damages for his injuries.

Sabo is scheduled to appear in court Sept. 9.

better. About 500 of Seminole's 2,200 teachers have 15 or more years experience teaching in Seminole County Schools.

Mrs. Scheumann said she is a member of the United Teachers of Seminole, which is affiliated with Lauer's state group. In turn an affiliate of the national American Federation of Teachers. She estimated the United Teachers has fewer than 50 members.

Although Lauer told the group one of its alternatives is to change unions, recruiting members for the rival union was not the purpose of the meeting, Mrs. Scheumann said.

And Bill Klein, Seminole High School geometry teacher who complained to the Evening Herald last week about the SEA's contract, said the United Teachers group "has less chance of being successful than the contract has of being voted down." He attended the Wednesday meeting in which "we aired our gripes, but then we've been doing that everyday."

Mrs. Scheumann said the meeting ended with all present agreeing the SEA School Board pact is "a very bad contract with reference to career teachers. It has upset many of them."

"The teachers' cost for school lunch went up more than four percent," she said. "For many years the SEA has always taken whatever the school board offered" but she predicted "more vocal and united opposition" to the latest SEA-school board agreement.

Miss Stocksett, W.H. Dickey Repeat Vows

Sandra L. Stocksett of Sanford and William Hatcher (Hatch) Dickey of DeBary, were married on July 27 in the Ascension Lutheran Church, Casselberry. Pastor Ronald Engel and Les Ginkel, the bride's uncle, performed the 7 p.m. candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Stocksett, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dickey, all of Sanford.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride chose for her vows a white organza over taffeta gown fashioned with a fitted bodice, scooped neckline and sheer leg-o-mutton sleeves. A border of hand-cut lace edged the controlled skirt that cascaded into a sweeping chapel-length train. Iridescent beads and seed pearls added a shimmering opulence to the elegant gown. Her full-length veil of imported illusion was held by a tulle Alencon lace headpiece accented with seed pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of white bridal roses with mini carnations, freesia and starburst pompons showered with baby's breath.

Lisa Spillman attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a peacock blue taffeta, fashioned along the slim silhouette, with short tulip sleeves, a high ruffled collar and a tapered peplum at the natural waistline. She wore a spray of matching blue baby's breath in her hair and carried a nosegay of white cushion pompons and pink mini carnations accented with peacock blue baby's breath and matching blue streamers.

Bridesmaids were Kim Larson, the bridegroom's sister, Cheryl Stocksett, the bride's sister-in-law; and Laura MacDonald. Their attire and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

Michelle Peacock was the flower girl and the ring bearer was Adam Luchs.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at Sanora Clubhouse. Lynne Dickey, the bridegroom's sister, presided at the guest registry. Julie Fudge poured the punch and the cake was cut and served by Helen Kruse.

After a honeymoon trip to Sanibel Island, the newlyweds

Mr. and Mrs. William Hatcher (Hatch) Dickey

are making their home in DeBary. The bride is employed by Freedom Savings, Lake Mary, and the bridegroom is employed in the family business, McRoberts Tires, Orange City.

Rumors After Daughter's Death Opens Fresh Wounds For Parents

DEAR ABBY: We are grieving over the recent loss of our 19-year-old daughter, Margaret. She was a beautiful, popular girl with everything to look forward to. She graduated from high school with honors and was maintaining a B-plus average in college. Her interests were nutrition and physical fitness, and she hoped to go to law school. She excelled in everything she did and was a joy to us for all of her 19 years, never giving us a minute of heartache. Margaret went into a sudden coma and died a week later. We learned that a malignant brain tumor ruptured an artery, causing severe cerebral hemorrhage.

Yesterday, a friend told me that two of her neighbors were under the impression that our daughter died of a "drug overdose!" These people didn't even know her, and I can't imagine where they heard this terrible lie. Our hearts are broken enough without this vicious gossip.

Please tell your readers to keep their mouths shut when they have no facts, and to have more respect for the memory of the deceased, regardless of their age or the circumstances of their death.

HEARTBROKEN IN NEW YORK

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: Please accept my sympathy on the loss of your beloved daughter. Concerning vicious gossip: It takes a friend and an enemy working hand in hand to cut you to the core: an enemy to make up a vicious lie, and a "friend" to tell you about it.

DEAR ABBY: I'm in my first year of junior high, and I've been going with this guy for a couple of months. Now he wants a more grown-up relationship, and I'm not ready for it.

I don't want to have sex before I'm ready, but I'm afraid if I say no I will lose him. I don't want to lose him, but I don't want to be pushed into something I'm not ready for.

Should I give in and risk getting pregnant, or should I tell him how I feel and risk losing him? He is very persistent, and I like him a lot.

I really hope you put this in the paper, because a lot of girls my age are going through the same thing and we are going to have to make a choice either way.

DEAR SCARED: What a wise (and honest) girl you are. If you have to ask, you're definitely not ready. Furthermore, any boy who would put a girl in this position is selfish, uncaring, immature and a user. Don't worry about "losing" him; tell him you're not ready for that kind of relationship, and if you lose him, consider yourself lucky.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for publishing the letter from "Discouraged in Jay, Maine," who complained about sesame seed buns served in fast-food places.

I don't wear dentures, but I have a colostomy and must chew my food well and eat nothing that might cause a blockage. I was told that some seeds can swell considerably while in the body, causing a blockage.

It's unfortunate that there isn't a Wendy's restaurant in this town. The food at Wendy's is delicious and the buns are unseeded.

COLOSTOMATE IN JOPLIN, MO.

DEAR COLOSTOMATE: There may be one after this hits print. And the competition just might provide a choice of seeded or unseeded buns. (At least you planted the seed.)

DEAR READERS: How's this for a humbling exchange:

DEAR ABBY: We know you're bombarded with questions.

Your mail likely runs into tons.

After picking the questions to answer.

Must they always be answered with puns?

Your wisdom we value most highly.

Your witty responses are fun.

We love you, Dear Abby — but spare us

The silly, nonsensical pun!

TOM IN CAMBRIDGE

DEAR TOM:

Writing would be much less fun.

Without the "nonsensical" pun.

I know you abhor it.

But others adore it.

You lose — by 10 million to one.

DEAR ABBY: Now it's 10 million to three, as both my husband and I think your puns sound like a 16-year-old smartale.

We are 68 and 69.

Decaffeinated Facts Lead To The Jitters

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I heard that decaffeinated coffee is put through a process that uses embalming fluid. Is this true?

DEAR READER — Many people get jittery, not from caffeine, but from the knowledge that decaffeinated coffee is processed with embalming fluid. Maybe that's one reason decaf coffee doesn't keep us awake. The formaldehyde used in the decaffeinating process does not affect the final product. Still, it's a little disconcerting to start the embalming process with a relaxing cup of coffee long before most of us are ready for the undertaker. If you are bothered by the thought of possible chemical adulteration, I recommend that you purchase water-processed decaffeinated coffee, which has not been treated with formaldehyde.

DEAR DR. GOTT — You suggested taking Tums as a calcium supplement. What about Tums' sodium content?

DEAR READER — Tums is composed of calcium carbonate, which is a good acid absorber as well as a source of calcium. Tums does not contain vitamin D, however, so people who use Tums as a calcium supplement must obtain their vitamin D from a different source.

Many of my patients who use calcium pills have chosen to take two or three vitamin-D pills a day and to make up the remaining calcium dose with two or three Tums. That seems to work well and is less expensive than relying solely on calcium-D combinations. The amount of sodium per Tums tablet is insignificant — about 3 mg. per tablet.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What is collagen disease (scleroderma)? I have had one positive and two negative tests for it.

DEAR READER — "Collagen disease" really refers to a class of diseases characterized by an inflammation of collagen, the body's "cement," which connects tissues together. A more modern term is "disorder of connective tissue." Scleroderma is a form of connective-tissue disease. It causes thickening and scarring of the skin and certain internal organs, notably the lungs, heart and kidneys. The esophagus is often involved, making swallowing difficult.

Experts theorize that disorders of connective tissue are secondary to a malfunction of the immune system — the biochemical police force that identifies foreign proteins in our bodies. Apparently, some people's immune systems become too belligerent and attack normal structures, like those containing collagen. Inflammation and scarring result. No one knows what causes this to happen. Treatment of connective-tissue disorders involves using drugs that reduce irritation and undermine the immune system's normal defense mechanisms.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

"Idle hands are the devil's workshop" is a good Puritan saying. If you think of your opponents as diabolical defenders when you're in a slam contract, take the idle cards out of their hands and you may see a devil transformed into an angel.

Play for slam was quite good, depending on the clubs splitting 3-3 or the diamond finesse working. South won the opening lead in dummy and started the trump suit. West held off taking his trump ace until three rounds were played.

After winning the ace, West led a second heart. Declarer won in dummy and came to his hand with the club ace to draw the last trump. Then he played to the club king, and cashed the last heart and the last high club.

When clubs did not split, South played a diamond to the queen, unfortunately losing to West's singleton king.

How can declarer acquire X-ray vision? Not by putting on his Superman cape. Instead, he should take the idle cards out of the defenders' hands. He does so by playing his fifth spade, discarding a diamond from dummy, before playing to the club king. He now plays as before, cashing his high heart and the last high club.

At the two-card ending, he leads dummy's diamond. When East follows with the jack, he remembers that East has the remaining club and so cannot have the red king. When he rises with the ace he is rewarded by the fall of the king.

'Today' Tries To Broaden Its World Into Primetime

By Joan Hanner
UPI TV Reporter
NEW YORK (UPI) — NBC's "Today" show invaded prime time this week in order to establish a beachhead among evening viewers who have never watched the morning show and increase its share of the $200 million morning market.

There were Bryant Gumbel, Jane Pauley, Willard Scott and Gene Shalit doing their ingratiating show at 8 p.m. instead of 8 a.m. on Monday night. They have to be ingratiating because no one would tune in to watch Howard Cosell first thing in the morning.

The results were impressive. In the 10-city overnight ratings report, about 7,250,000 viewers watched the "Today" show from 7 to 9 a.m. Eastern time. There were about 19 million people watching "Today — At Night" Monday 8-9 p.m.

"I think it's a great shot for us," said Steve Friedman, executive producer of "Today." "The real question is, does it mean anything? Will they tune in during the morning, and will they stay tuned in? But it certainly was a great shot for us."

"Today" was the prototype for morning talk shows, introduced on Jan. 14, 1952. The inspiration was Dave Garroway's Chicago-based "Garroway at Large," and Garroway was the show's first host. Among his colleagues were Betty Palmer, Jack Lescault, Frank Blair and a chimpanzee named J. Fred Muggs.

Garroway remained with the show until June 1961, by which time it had been taken over by the news department, and his successor for 15 months was John Chancellor.

Hugh Downs, a former announcer on "Tonight," became host in 1962 and held the post for nine years, when he was succeeded by Frank McGee, who kept the post until his death in 1974.

That's when "Today" interviewer Barbara Walters was named co-host, eventually joined by Jim Hartz.

Walters left the show in 1976, wooed away by ABC to become the first woman to anchor a network evening news broadcast in uneasy double harness with Harry Reasoner.

Meantime, back on "Today," Tom Brokaw was named host, joined by Jane Pauley. Gumbel took over the male hosting chores in 1982 when Brokaw moved on to the NBC Nightly News.

For years, "Today" was the top-rated network morning show. Then in 1980 ABC's "Good Morning America," led by David Hartman, began taking over the top spot. On Feb. 1, 1982 "GMA" began a three-year stint in first place. That ended in March, 1985, when "Today" began to win some ratings weeks, and now is in hot pursuit of Hartman & Co.

CBS, which for years stayed with the straight news approach in the morning, also stayed in third place. Its attempts to challenge "GMA" and "Today" with its "CBS Morning News" have so far been unsuccessful. The show currently has no male host and there have been reports that Phyllis George may not be permanent.

That puts CBS in a poor position to compete for the approximately $200 million-plus that is the network share of the 7-9 a.m. audience, since advertisers are reluctant to spend big bucks for an unknown quantity.

All three networks split their time 50-50 with local stations, Friedman said, and he guessed the local station take might be twice that of the networks for the time period.

"We have 10 minutes every day," he said, referring to the NBC "Today" show share of the action. "Roughly, advertisers pay an average of $15,000 for every 30 seconds. So that is approximately $300,000 a day." And that's a lot of breakfast chat.

NBC Wins Ratings Race With Repeats

NEW YORK (UPI) — The NBC lineup of sitcoms, headed by "The Cosby Show," won the prime time rerun ratings race again last week, with CBS in second and ABC third.

Ratings for the week ending Aug. 18, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co., saw NBC win with a 12.8 rating and a 23 percent share of the audience. CBS was second with a 12.0 rating and a 22 share, while ABC had an 11.2 rating and 20 share.

Of the top 10 shows, all were repeats. Seven bore the NBC logo, six of which were situation comedies. Two CBS shows were represented and the good news for ABC was that a rerun of its returning action-comedy series, "Moonlighting," also was in the top group.

NBC's limited series, "OceanQuest," did well, tying for 22nd place in the ratings, as did another limited series, "I Had Three Wives" on CBS, which tied for 28th.

"West 57th," the new CBS news magazine, placed 40th on a list of 64 shows, which is not in the "60 Minutes" ratings class — but then, "60 Minutes" took several years to establish its ratings credentials. Last week the August edition of the new NBC magazine, "American Almanac" with Roger Mudd, finished in a tie for 44th place.

The 10 top prime time shows for the week ending Aug. 18

- according to the A.C. Nielsen Co., were:
1. The Cosby Show (NBC)
  2. Family Ties (NBC)
  3. Murder, She Wrote (CBS)
  4. Cheers (NBC)
  5. Facts of Life (NBC)
  6. Night Court (NBC)
  7. Double Trouble (NBC)
  8. Miami Vice (NBC)
  9. Moonlighting (ABC)
  10. Trapper John, M.D. (CBS)
- Storm, hope to cut an album by year's end.
- "It's not a rock or soul album but just pop music," Lewis said. "We haven't done any gigs yet except for a couple of benefits but I would like a long career as an entertainer and I enjoy it."
- After the exposure of the Olympics, Lewis says being out of the public eye this year has done wonders for him.

Carl Lewis On The Musical Track

Carl Lewis is coming out with an album and showed up for a track meet in Zurich looking more like pop star than an Olympic gold medal winner.

Lewis, still cultivating his Grace Jones-style flat-top, wore an aquamarine smock, sunglasses and faded designer jeans tucked into black and gold ankle boots.

He and his band, Electric

Storm, hope to cut an album by year's end.

"It's not a rock or soul album but just pop music," Lewis said. "We haven't done any gigs yet except for a couple of benefits but I would like a long career as an entertainer and I enjoy it."
