SANFORD PUTS ONE OVER

Indiana were Not in Class of Collegians at Miami Ball Game

Winning the first game of the series, Sanford was victorious over the Miami team yesterday afternoon, defeating the locals by the score of 11 to 1.

Tillman started the pitching for Miami and walked two men. With two errors and a pair of hits, the celery bunch put four runs across the plate. Sanford also scored four more runs in the second inning by getting the bases full on two errors and a walk, when Lowe drove the ball over the left field fence and cleared the bases.

In the first inning a Sanford man reached first on an error and Farmer picked out one to his liking and cleared the right field fence, cleaning the bases. Up to this point Sanford scored ten runs, out of which only three were earned. Sanford had made five hits from Tillman, and had the home boys played errorless, the tale might have been different.

Ray, the Sanford twirler, had the Indians at his mercy throughout the game, giving only two hits in nine innings. Tenney in the first inning beat out a bunt and in the ninth Snedigar hit to the deep center field and reached third where he was left at the close of the game.

Walker pitches for Miami this afternoon and Manager Reed is confident that the visitors are not such a hard bunch after all.

Lost the Second Game

If there was any luck in the game yesterday, it was in the ninth inning when Miami scored six men, winning the second game of the series from Sanford on the score of seven to five.

Some of the Indians r WWWWWW
Some of the Indians had scarcely recuperated from the effects of the scare which the celery bunch had handed them on the previous day, but the Braves went into the game feeling that the visitors weren't such a tough bunch after all and won the game by a desperate effort in the closing hours.

Walker, the reputed big leaguer, entered the box for Miami and remained during the entire game, striking out eight of the visitors but giving eleven hits. Wallace and Lee pitched for Sanford and Wallace only struck out two men while Lee held his own easily in the ninth.

No home runs were made, although Taylor made a three base hit. At the close of the eighth the score stood five to one, but five men were scored and the day was won.

The game was thoroughly enjoyed by all present and it is certain that the base ball enthusiasts of Miami will attend the games during the remainder of the week, as good patronage is necessary for the financial success of the week.

Sanford has a good team and every man came here with the intention of doing his best to win the series from Miami, in order that the team may claim the amateur championship of the state. Manager Reed is working hard and so is each of his players and with two evenly matched teams, good base ball and plenty of it is assured for the fans during the remainder of the week. Games will be played every afternoon beginning at 3:15 o'clock.

New Overlands Are In

The new model, 1913 Overlands arrived yesterday and all day long Bob Holland was busy getting them housed and showing them off to the many prospective buyers. Many Sanford people have been anxiously awaiting the arrival of the new Overlands. They expected to see one of the finest cars on the market and they have not been disappointed, for the new models are beautiful and seem to be the last word in automobile construction. Mr. Holland stated that he could not get the required number of cars that he wanted in this shipment, but could supply them in a few days. There are so many people wanted to see the new cars that he had these rushed to Sanford for demonstrations and has already taken several orders and the cars have only been here one day. Read the page advertisement in this issue and get the specifications and then let Bob Holland take you out and demonstrate the famous car and show you all the good points. The price will be $1085 in Sanford with the big tires and all the other accessories and you will buy an Overland after you ride in one.

Killed Big Rattler

While W. A. Parr and George Teratus were skimming down the Orlando road last Wednesday thinking only about wire troubles on the telephone line they came upon what at first glance seemed to be a log lying in the road. Upon getting closer it was found to be a large rattlesnake, and quickly turning his car toward it Parr managed to strike his snakeship full in the middle breaking his backbone and putting him hors du combat. Getting out of the car and measuring the snake they found that he was over eight feet long and had thirteen rattlers and a button. The boys brought him home and will preserve the skin as a memento of their narrow escape. One of the peculiar circumstances connected with the adventure was the fact that as the car struck the snake something went wrong with the machine and it stopped dead on the snake's body. As to whether the shock of striking the snake stopped the car or not is left to conjecture.

Randall-Amick

At 11:30 this morning, Miss Nellie Amick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Amick, of this city, and Mr. E. B. Randall, of Sanford, were united in marriage at the home of the bride, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Chapman of the Methodist church.

The bride was becomingly attired in a beautiful frock of white embroidery with dainty lace trimmings.

The couple were attended by Miss Myrtle Amick, sister of the bride, with Mr. Beecher Kent of Sanford.

Immediately after the ceremony a wedding dinner was served, after which, amid the best wishes of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Randall left for an extended wedding tour, their itinerary taking in Washington, Niagara Falls, Pittsburg and other points, returning via Parkersburg, W. Va., the old home of the bride.

After October 4th they will be at home to their friends in a pretty furnished cottage which is ready for their reception at 804 Magnolia avenue, Sanford.—Reporter-Star.

Mrs. E. G. Tyner left yesterday for Tampa, after spending the summer with her daughter, Mrs. R. J. Holly on Sanford Heights.

STATE HAPPENINGS BOILED DOWN FOR THE BUSY

A Brief Resume of Florida Happenings That Will Interest The Hurried Reader

Bertie and Lawrence Smith, deputy sheriffs, who formed part of a posse sent to raid negro crap shooters at Dutton's still near Terrell, in the eastern part of Hernando county, returned to Brooksville with charges of buckshot in their feet, the result of armed resistance on the part of negroes friendly to the blacks who were arrested. Eleven handcuffed prisoners were abandoned by the deputies.

Plans have been ordered prepared at once for the construction of the cold storage plant and reconstruction of the ice factory itself in St. Petersburg. The new work to be done will comprise a two story heavily reinforced concrete structure 60x70 feet in dimension. As planned the lower floor will be the ice factory while the second story will be divided into five large cold storage rooms.

A form of gambling called bolito has become so prevalent in Key West that the Journal compares it to an epidemic of the bubonic plague. All classes of society patronize the bolito shops and public morals are being contaminated. The officers of the law, under oath to maintain public order and decency, apparently are doing nothing to stop this plague.

Clearwater is to have a handsome new $200,000 hotel. A stock company capitalized at $500,000 is promoting the proposition. As planned the structure will be a four story building, either stucco or concrete construction being used. The Spanish style with mission features will be followed, the building being roofed with red tile. The structure will contain 250 rooms with 100 baths, and the construction will be done with a view of making a further addition at some future date.

The resignation of Drainage Engineer Wright of Everglades fame, was a surprise to many. Other surprises are no doubt in store, however, in connection with the drainage of the Glades. People who should be posted in regard to the matter say the state of Florida will have parted with title to every acre of land in that section long before the work is completed. It has been a great scheme for land sharks, at the expense of the people. —Gainesville Sun.

If the plans of the board of bond trustees in Jacksonville are carried out are lights will eventually disappear from the streets of that city and in their place will be a splendid system of post lighting along the avenues and thoroughfares, such as has been adopted and installed by the larger and more progressive cities of the United States.

The new sanitarium in Arcadia is nearing completion and will be a splendid thing for that town. The building is three stories high, containing twenty-four rooms in all, and a front and south side veranda on both the first and second floors. The structure is equipped with all modern improvements.

Chief Thomas W. Haney of the Jacksonville Fire Department has celebrated the twentieth anniversary of his official capacity as head of that city's fire fighters.

New Real Estate Firm

The Florida Realty Co., is among the new institutions in Sanford's business circles. Messrs. K. R. Murrell and J. B. Willis are the guiding spirits in the new concern and the offices will be in the Garner-Woodruff building. The new firm will handle all kinds of Florida lands but will make a specialty of turpentine and timber lands. They will also be agents for life insurance and later on for fire insurance companies and expect to do business in everything of the nature of real estate and insurance. Both gentlemen are citizens of Sanford and have been in business here for several years and need no introduction to the public. Being thoroughly conversant with every branch of the business and holders of the first degree the new firm ought to get a large slice of the business of Sanford and Florida.

PROSPECTS ARE GOOD

Growers Anticipate Good Crop, Good Prices

SEED BEDS IN FINE CONDITION

The Celery Crop Will Be Curtailed to a Certain Extent Among the Sanford Growers

A swing around the Celery Delta will convince the most skeptical that the growers still have faith in the celery and while the consensus of opinion seems to be that the crop will be curtailed this season the seed beds would indicate that most of the old growers will plant a fair acreage of the crop that may mean so much or so little to them in the way of good money.

So far the seed beds are in fine shape and the growers are confident that the plants, both celery and lettuce, will be in excellent condition when planting time is here. The only disaster to be dreaded now is the storms that are liable to sweep this state at this season of the year and while the Sanford section is well protected the storm of two years ago played havoc among the seed beds and the stuff that had been set in the fields.

The statement that very little growing of lettuce and celery would take place this season was exploded last week when one fertilizer firm sold 70 tons of fertilizer to a combination of growers.

For this 70 tons the cash was paid, demonstrating that not only have the growers faith in the proposition but they have the cash to back up their belief and the Sanford section will soon assume the shape of former fall seasons with the farms all tilled and the green of the vegetable making a pretty background for the dwellings.

A general spirit of get together is in the atmosphere this season and the growers are realizing more than ever that they ought to discuss matters of general interest among themselves and form some plan of cooperation that would redound to their benefit and give them a better chance to market the money crops that are raised here in greater quantities than in any other part of the world.

COMMISSION GOVERNMENT

Orlando Citizens are in Favor of New Form for City

Orlando, Sept. 10. Orlando citizens are becoming interested in the question of the commission form of city government and it is not at all unlikely that they will join other progressive Florida towns the coming winter in asking the Legislature for a new city charter to that end. Mayor Reynolds and several members of the city council have already expressed themselves as favoring the change. Arrangements are about completed to call an election to vote on $200,000 or more city bonds to be issued for civic improvements, especially sewerage and paved streets. The expenditure of that amount of money, if carefully and honestly done, means a great deal of time spent by those having the city matters in charge.

Under the present aldermanic form of government it would mean that the larger part of the planning and figuring would need to be done at the council at their regular evening meetings held twice a week after they have each done a hard day's work in their private stores and offices. At the council meeting held on Thursday evening of this week, Hon. B. Beacham, ex-mayor and capitalist, went boldly before the council and told them in so many words that he did not believe they were competent under existing conditions to spend so large an amount of money in the wisest and most satisfactory manner and urged upon them the necessity of taking immediate action in the matter of commission government.

Mr. Beacham then explained that he did not mean to reflect on the business ability of the members of the council, each of whom is his personal friend, but that the present form of city government made the best and most judicious use of public funds almost an impossibility.

A majority of the council fully agreed with Mr. Beacham's proposition and it is probable that they will at once begin an investigation of the question.

Farewell for Miss Wight

One of the prettiest and most enjoyable parties of the summer season was given Thursday evening by Miss Margaret Wight and Ralph Wight at their home on Park avenue, for a few of their young friends.

Mrs. Wight, assisted by Mrs. Samuel Puleston, received the young people in the reception hall, which was beautifully decorated with pink vines. The same dainty flowers were used in all the other rooms for decorations. The back yard was particularly pretty, illuminated as it was with pink Japanese lanterns and the pink vine running in profusion all over the fences, making a beautiful background. Part of the evening was spent in the yard and the remainder in the house, dancing and playing games. Excellent dance music was furnished by Mrs. Turner Houser. This party was given as a farewell for Miss Wight, who leaves in a few days to resume her studies at the Woman's College at Tallahassee, and the young folks were unusually sorry to see a most delightful evening come to a close. Those present were Miss Essie Purdom, Miss Helen Rowland, Miss Margaret Davis, Miss Lillian Davis, Miss Mary Chappell, Miss Lucien Chappell, Miss Nellie Elder, Miss Elizabeth McLaughlin, Miss Hazel Hand, Miss Rene Murrell, Miss Charlotte Hand, Kenneth Murrell, James Downall, Osborne Herndon, Abie Kanner, Clarence Mahoney, Hal Wight, Ralph Wight, Seth Woodruff, George McLaughlin, Ernest Betts, Harold Long, McDowell Butt, Karl Roumullat.

The Potato Outlook

The present outlook for potatoes, taking all the districts collectively that produce stock for fall and winter use, is very promising. There are some spots here and there that have reported a poor outlook, as the reader will find by going over the advices in this issue of the Packer, but the districts that seem not to have fared well are not of material importance in the sum total of the year's crop.

As the Packer's readers know, the government reports say that the total acreage in potatoes this year, including the crops already marketed as well as those being grown for winter use, is 3,689,000 acres, or 102 per cent compared with the acreage last year. The same report says that crop reports from the whole country indicate an average yield for the entire acreage of 100.7 bushels per acre against the final estimate of 80.9 bushels per acre in 1911. These figures mean a total production of potatoes in 1912 of 371,000,000 against last year's final estimate of 293,000,000 bushels and for 1910, 349,000,000 bushels. These are the figures the agricultural department at Washington gave when issuing their last report.

The eastern states, including New England, Pennsylvania and New York state have about an average outlook, speaking of the entire district and this of course means a much larger crop than last year. Going farther west, we find an unusually fine outlook in Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Iowa, Nebraska, Montana, Utah, Idaho, Washington and Oregon.—New York Packer.

Governor Woodrow Wilson, Democratic Presidential nominee, today declared war on James Smith, Jr., one of the Democratic candidates for United States Senator from New Jersey, an office which he held during President Cleveland's second administration. Gov. Wilson said that he did not doubt that the return of Mr. Smith to power would mean a restoration of "machine rule."

The new battleship Pennsylvania, the only one authorized by Congress at the last session, will be fully as large as the great battleship which the British government has just ordered, according to plans of the general board. The displacement will exceed 30,000 tons, which is about equal to the addition of a good sized cruiser's displacement to the biggest ship the United States now has afloat.

Eddy Hasha of Waco, Texas, holder of several world's records for motorcycle racing, plunged over the rail of the course at the Newark motordrome into a crowd late Sunday afternoon, causing the death of six persons, including himself, while six are dying and thirteen are badly injured. The only two of the six dead positively identified were Hasha and Johnny Albright, a Denver moto cyclist, who was riding third in the race. The other four dead were boys and young men among the spectators.

Intervention in Mexico and the possibilities of President Taft calling a special session of Congress to determine whether United States troops should be sent across the boundary line, were widely discussed in Washington by public men and in diplomatic circles. It is known that the government has been pressed on many sides to take such a step and various accounts of what influences were being brought to bear and the objects sought to be accomplished are related among those on both sides of the question.

President Taft and the state department, however, are holding to the principle that no such action should be taken without authorization of Congress. A great strike that will tie up industries all over the United States is threatened by the committee which is working for the release from jail at Lawrence, Mass., of J. J. Ettor and Arthur Giovatti, who are charged with murder in connection with the shooting of Anna Lopizza, during the recent textile strike disturbances at Lawrence. William D. Criminal Court

Criminal court convened this morning, with Judge T. P. Warlow on the bench. There is quite a large docket, being somewhere about twenty-five cases only two of which had been disposed of at noon.

The following gentlemen compose the jury. E. T. Carson, E. A. Eaton, P. C. Hart, A. Hunter, C. W. Rose, J. I. Anderson, Geo. McClure, A. Arnold, R. Jernigan, S. Jernigan, H. Carroll, and T. H. Barlow.

Following are the two cases disposed of:

May Smith, an old negro, charged with selling liquor, plead guilty and was sentenced to four months at the county home.
Robert Jackson, charged with stealing a bicycle, was found guilty and was given five months on the county road.
The court this afternoon is considering the case of John V. Denton, charged with issuing worthless drafts. The prosecution is being assisted by Cary D. Landis, while the defendant's interests are being cared for by Carl Robinson.—Reporter-Star.

A Budget of Opinion "Just Between You and Me"

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A Chiel is Among Ye Taking Notes and Faith, He'll Prent 'Em"—So Says Saunterer.

In the council proceedings of last week I note that they favor having the roads go out Park avenue to Hughey street and then east to Sanford avenue and out Union avenue to Meltonville thence south on Meltonville to Celery avenue. Upon asking why this action was necessary on the part of the council I was informed that there were some folks in favor of bricking the straight Celery avenue road and also putting down the brick on Sanford avenue, thus laying brick roads where there are only a few houses and cutting off two of the finest residence sections of Sanford for a part where there are only a few negro houses. I had never imagined for a minute that any one would be so dense as to wish to turn the brick on an isolated part of the city where there would be but few white people living for years to come. In my opinion Union avenue and Sanford Heights are entitled to all that the people of Sanford can give them. Both sections are beautiful residence sections and both sections were taken into the city against their will and since that time have received but little in the way of improvements and now that they are on the eve of getting a small portion of the brick roads I am certainly glad to see the city council and the majority of the people coming to their aid. The brick roads can be placed on Union avenue and on Sanford Heights with no extra cost. The same amount of brick will have to be used in any event and there is no rhyme or reason in building brick roads where there are no fine residences and where the people travelling through the city will see only the few residences and miss the best part. Taking the road away from Union avenue, for instance, would mean that the tourists making the trip from the East Coast next winter would go out Sanford avenue and never see Sanford at all. There are two sides to every question, but the biggest and broadest side to the brick road question is to place them where there are the most people living and where the enterprising citizens have built fine homes and endeavor to give the visitors a glimpse of a better city. This question of where the roads will go is to be left finally to the trustees and the county commissioner and I have not talked to any of them about the directions, as I have no property that will be affected and would not be influenced by it anyhow. But while left to the trustees they will also have to be governed by the wishes of the people, and if a majority want the roads to go out Sanford Heights way and on Union avenue there is no doubt but that the trustees will listen to the voice of the majority. These roads will be built for all time and let us try to suit the wishes of the people where the changing of a route is vital and will not cost any extra for the change. The time is short and these questions should be taken up and settled at once.

Our schools will start on the 30th of September and now is the time to get the children in condition to keep up with their work for the whole school term. Not alone should their minds be in proper shape but their physical being should be looked after for the health of the school children means everything. Not but what I believe that Sanford children are the healthiest in the world, but that according to statistics half of the parents do not know that their children are afflicted, and if the child does not gain as much knowledge as the parents may think necessary the fault is laid at the door of the teacher or child, when in truth the child is physically unable to study.

Of the 20,000,000 school children in this country, not less than seventy-five per cent "need attention today for physical defects which are prejudicial to health and which are partially or completely remediable." This is the finding of Dr. Thomas D. Wood, professor of physical education in the teachers' College, Columbia University, New York, and free for distribution by the United States bureau of education.

"Careful study of statistics and estimation of all conditions leads to the following personal conclusions," writes Dr. Wood.

"From 1 1/4 to 2 per cent of 400,000 of these have organic heart disease.

"Probably 5 per cent, or 100,000 at least, have now or have had tuberculous disease of the lungs.

"About 5 per cent, or 1,000,000, have spinal curvature, flat foot or some other moderate deformity serious enough to interfere to some degree with health.

"Over 5 per cent, or 1,000,000, have defective hearing.

"About 25 per cent, or 5,000,000, have defective vision.

"About 25 per cent, or 5,000,000, are suffering from malnutrition, in many cases due in part at least to one or more of the other defects enumerated.

"Over 30 per cent, or 6,000,000, have enlarged tonsils, adenoids, or enlarged cervical glands which need attention.

Over 50 per cent, or 10,000,000, in some schools as high as 98 per cent, have defective teeth which are interfering with health.

Several millions of the children possess, each, two or more of the handicapping defects.

"About 100 cities in the United States have as many different kinds of organizations for the care of health in the school children for the care of health in the schools.

The most important of all our national resources is the health of the people. The most valuable asset in our capital of national vitality is the health of the children.

"Public education is the logical, the strategic and the responsible agency of the nation, of each state, and of each community for the conservation and enhancement of child health.

To become an effective instrument for the protection and promotion of child health, it is essential that the school should not only be sanitary and a healthy place for children, but that the various agencies in public education should be so organized that each pupil may be given the best possible opportunity to escape weakness and disease and far more to realize the attainable best in in growth, in development of biologic, intellectual, moral, social and economic power."

In millions of homes this fall mail order catalogues from different metropolitan establishments will shortly be received. They have smart little cuts by clever draftsmen, concise descriptions by trained advertising writers. They are a model of good form in publicity, which every home merchant might well emulate.

Patronizing a house hundreds or thousands of miles away, however, in preference to the tried and trusted home merchant, is a dubious proposition.

Nothing is more deceptive than a catalogue cut. If the object is represented by a drawing, the picture has little value to the discriminating buyer. Even a photograph has little idea to give of textures and qualities.

Buying from a picture in a catalogue is essentially the same as when the boys used to swap jack knives "unsight and unseen," without any chance to learn what kind of a knife the other fellow held in his closed hand. It seems about as hopeful to the wise buyer as patronizing the grab bag at a public fair.

The only way to tell whether you are getting good worth for your money is to see the goods, handle them, and put the salesman or proprietor through a searching questioning to see if the value is really there. A purchase from a catalogue out of a house at a distance gives opportunity to do neither of these things.

In ordering from a distant mail order house you have express or freight charges to pay from the establishment to your house, you take chances on long delays that may rob your purchase of part of its value. If the goods are not what you expected, it may cost you more than the article is worth to get satisfaction, if indeed you ever get it.

Ask your home merchant for the article you saw in the catalogue. If its any good he will get it for you for the same money, minus any express bill. And if it is no good he will tell you so and save you a disappointment.

I see by The Herald that the editor of the Orlando Citizen was in Sanford last week and that having settled the Saunterer in a long bilious attack in his paper he sent 25 sample copies to my friends and then followed himself in order to see the effect. I don't suppose he was met with a brass band at the depot and very few people know he was here, and in order to make a noise he looked up Representative Lake at the ice plant, and after taking a drink of real ice water remarked that the ice was better than Orlando's and he didn't see why the papers should not see why they should either. No one here ever kicked on the quality of the ice, but on the quantity, and as for being better than the ice in Orlando, well, that's a cinch. Everything here is just a little better than they have in Orlando, even to the ball clubs, the newspapers and Sunday mails.

My little friend states that he rode his hobby horse all around town and never sighted the Saunterer. Well, he was not likely to find me at the ice factory for I was on the farm that day getting my seed beds in shape to come down to Orlando and take first prize at the county fair. But nothing would have suited me better than to have met Mr. Howard and taken him around the city. He would have been delighted I am sure.

Orlando people want $200,000 in bonds for city improvements and most of the money is to go for parks and civic improvements. Now Sanford does not need bonds for city parks but we need more bonds for other improvements and we should have them. No city in the world gets along as cheaply as Sanford and we ought to spend some money on improvements. As I understand it we have some $30,000 of unsold bonds and just why they should be held can best be explained by the city council. I do not want an expensive government and useless expenditure of money, but neither do I want a penny wise and pound foolish one and there is money spent saving a cent in figuring up a five cent lead pencil. Our city right now would be better off with more improvements even if it takes more bonds. Every other city is doing it and why not Sanford?

Lakeland will have a large electric sign swung at the depot for advertising purposes. The current will be given free and the railroad will furnish the sign and Lakeland will reap the benefit. Sanford also has an electric sign, but it does not burn. The railroad company did not furnish it and the electric light company did not furnish the current free, but I think it is about time the people of this city asserted themselves, ask for a new sign at the depot and ask for free current for an hour or so each night as the trains come in. The expense would be but little and the benefits derived would be great. Every up to date town does this little stunt and really we ought to have something at the new depot to let the people know that they have arrived in Sanford and not in darkest Africa.

ECONOMY IN THE BEST FEED

Nothing Gained by Purchasing Supplies for the Poultry Because They Are Called Cheap.

(By A. G. RYMOND.)
No matter what food is given the fowls be sure it is the very best that can be procured. It does not pay to buy poor grain or poultry food of any kind. Some people think it is economical to buy poultry supplies because they are cheap.

The best is none too good, is a rule as applicable here as anywhere else. Only the very best grains should be sanctioned. Only the choicest brand of beef scraps, fine cut clover, alfalfa, and other foods of this sort should be used. There is nothing that will repay one better for good care and food given them than a flock of hens. See to it then that in the matter of foods given them only the best be procured and only the best be fed.

Value of Charcoal.
For all kinds of digestive troubles, charcoal is one of the best remedies.

When "Labby" Blundered.
The worst mess that I ever got into was at a dinner in a country town where I took the chair. Having got through all the usual toasts some friends prompted me to propose the health of the mayor's wife. I drew a picture of a sort of modern Cornelia; I dwelt upon the matron's domestic virtues, and prayed heaven that I might find such a wife. Carried away by my subject, I had forgotten my audience. Suddenly I perceived that some were looking down, others staring at me as though their eyes would come out of their heads, others smiled in a curious manner, while the mayor was glaring at me like a wild beast. I discovered afterward that the mayor's wife had fled from the domestic hearth a few weeks previously with a Don Juan of a grocer. I have never been asked since to take the chair at a dinner in that town.—Labby Reprinted in London Truth

Good Work of Safety Appliances.
Sixty-six shops of one of the most prominent eastern lines railroads employing fifty thousand men, have been equipped with safety appliances, and the result has been a decrease of accidents from an average of three hundred a month to about one hundred. Bulletins have been issued to the employees, showing how to avoid accidents, and these have had a helpful influence.

Good Excuse.
It was on the sleeping-car.
"Say, mister," said the man in the upper berth to the occupant of the lower, "quit that music, will you? What do you think this is, a concert-hall? The rest of us want to sleep."
"Why, the car is so stuffy," said the warbler, "I was only humming a little air."
It was then that he was hit with a Pullman pillow, remaining unconscious for seven hours.—Harper's Weekly.

WE WIN WITH WILSON

Sanford will have the tourist hotel. The matter has assumed proportions that will warrant this assertion.

The new depot will soon be finished and should be supplied with plenty of lights. A large electric sign for Sanford would be a good stunt.

We need more streets and sidewalks and it is to be hoped that the city council will keep up the work until the entire city has been supplied.

The special session of the Legislature will be called for Jacksonville, but there will be several other subjects to come before it beside the local charter.

The Sanford ball players made a hit in Miami and have gone to Key West looking for new worlds to conquer. Sanford ought to have the peerless players tour the state.

Sanford streets would be greatly improved by the use of the mowing machine. Every street has whiskers on it and never before have they presented such a poor appearance.

From all reports the Sanford schools will be filled to overflowing again this year and it will soon be up to the school board to construct some more rooms at the Grammar School building.

Editor Sparkman of the Jackson Leader anticipates the different state papers who will be against the Initiative and Referendum and if he is as wild of the mark on the others as he was on the Herald he is a poor prophet. The Herald has favored the Initiative and Referendum before Sparkman was thought of and if he reads The Herald as closely as he reads the Pensacola Journal he would have known better. We favored the Initiative and Referendum in a modified form for the past four years in The Herald while Hugley was attending the Lake City School of Expression. We favored it while he was printing the Taylor Herald on wall paper and pine bark. We favored it while he was printing the DeSoto Corkscrew in poster form. We favored it while he was an infant using a nursing bottle. We favored it while he was a youth using a Peruna bottle and we will probably be favoring it while he is in the next world using an asbestos bottle. If Hugh will take the initiative we will use the referendum and refer him to the records to recall him down.

PROFITABLE SOIL FOR BABIES

The stork has left some mighty fine ones in St. Augustine lately, even if none of them have three millions to start off with.—St. Augustine Record. There are several around here, and others almost due, that their mammy's wouldn't take three millions apiece for.—Ocala Star. St. Augustine and Ocala haven't a thing on Live Oak when it comes to babies. We have enough here right now to have a baby parade of our own, to say nothing of the fall crop near at hand.—Live Oak Democrat. We don't like the idea of St. Augustine, Ocala and Live Oak trying to confiscate an honor that rightfully belongs to Kissimmee. A careful perusal of the local columns of the Journal will convince the most skeptical that the "Marvel City" has all corners beat a block in the way of "new arrivals," they are worth ten million per. One can hear the "Rock-a-Bye, Baby" song in nine houses out of every ten in Kissimmee.—Ocala Journal. It takes the fertile soil of Sanford to raise them in large quantities and they are worth so much that even the commission men can't buy them. A bumper crop is expected this season and they are all Democrats.

THE CO-OPERATION SPIRIT

The Herald has unceasingly urged the farmers of the celery delta to stand together and get the best treatment that an organization at all times is accorded. The majority of the truckers have never given the matter the proper consideration. Such an organization has always been treated with suspicion and no matter how reliable the firm that wanted to sell goods or market the produce on a co-operative plan the growers never entered heartily into the scheme.

Last year several prominent growers entered into a compact to buy their fertilizer together. They agreed upon a co-operative plan and asked for bids. They bought their fertilizers much cheaper than formerly. This season hearing of the plan several other growers wanted to come in the deal and did so and the result was the purchasing of 700 tons of fertilizer from the firm that offered it at the lowest price for cash.

The Herald has never learned the names of these growers but we will venture the assertion that two-thirds of them were not in favor of a growers' organization, and yet the strongest kind of an argument for co-operation has just been presented to each and every grower in the celery delta, whether he is a member of an organization, combine or any other kind of a co-operative plan for buying materials.

The first principle of co-operation has been given a trial and found to be the best for the grower. The growers who joined hands and purchased cheap fertilizer are several hundred dollars better off than their neighbors who are working independently under the old regime. These same growers can buy their crate material the same way, can hire men cheaper and make a scale of wages for day labor, can market their products with better results and tug the buyers who are not O. K.

They can combine on every detail of their business and before they are aware of the fact they will have perfected one of the strongest organizations for mutual benefit and profit that the Celery Delta has ever witnessed. They can have their own storage plant and hold their products for better prices and do a number of things to better their condition and bring the growing of winter vegetables into the high position that it should occupy in the business world.

Great oaks from little acorns grow and from this one little item comes the belief that the growers of Sanford will combine from a small beginning and become a powerful factor in the business circles of the country making terms and prices instead of taking what is offered them as heretofore.

The grower today is a force to be reckoned with or would be if he had an organization founded upon co-operation and united effort. One round dozen of the principal growers of the Celery Delta banded together could dictate terms to the buyer and seller and almost control the entire situation.

Will you accept what is yours for the taking or will you continue to gnaw the bone that is thrown you from the present master's table?

SHOULD NOT CONFLICT

Since The Herald has chronicled the fact that Sanford would have a Business Men's League several busybodies have made the statement that the organization would conflict with the Commercial Club. There should be no conflict between the two organizations. Each would be a separate and distinct organization and each would have work of a different nature. The province of the League would be to bring every merchant in Sanford into a closer relationship for mutual benefit and unless a man is engaged in the selling game he would not be eligible for membership. Such an organization would be of untold benefit to the merchants and along their line of work of course would come many matters of importance to Sanford, such as civic improvements and matters of public interest, also municipal matters that touched the interests of the merchants.

The merchants of Sanford have never joined the Commercial Club and the idea of the Business League is to give every man an opportunity to join an organization that appeals directly to his individual interest.

For the benefit of the hammer throwers The Herald would like to state that the organization of the Business Men's League has nothing whatever to do with the organization or disorganization of the Commercial Club or any other club.

The get-together spirit in Sanford among the business men is not as intense or noticeable as a nickel's worth of radium and a good league or club would accomplish more in one month for the business men than a board of trade would in a year. Other cities have their purely business organizations and there is no reason why Sanford could not support one.

NEWS ITEM ADVERTISEMENTS

According to the Postoffice Appropriation act which was approved Saturday a week ago, after Oct. 1, 1912, no newspaper, daily or weekly or monthly, will be allowed to publish an advertisement in the form of pure reading matter without a mark on it to show that it is an advertisement. Postmaster General Hitchcock will notify the newspapers of the country within the next week or so to this effect. Any newspaper committing an infraction of this law will be fined not less than $50 nor more than $500. That paragraph referring to the printing of pure reading matter in the form of an advertisement reads as follows:

That all editorial or other reading matter published in any such newspaper, magazines, or periodical for the publication of which money or other valuable consideration is paid, accepted or promised, shall be plainly marked "advertisement." Any editor or publisher printing editorial or other reading matter for which compensation is paid, accepted or promised, without so marking the same, shall, upon conviction in any court having jurisdiction, be fined not less than fifty dollars ($50) nor more than five hundred dollars ($500). This will preclude the giving away of free notices for tickets and other considerations that have been the bane of the country editor.

LET THE LADIES VOTE

The Progressive party, in advocating the ballot for women, says that its main object is to give women a hand in the betterment of their own industrial conditions. There are many changes which we trust women will bring about if they secure equal voting rights with men. We have long felt pained to see the hardships which women are compelled to undergo. We never could understand why women should have to pay $15 to $25 for a hat when a man could be equally well dressed in a hat costing $3. Nor can we see why it should take 15 to 20 more or less complicated garments to clothe a woman when a man can get along with half a dozen, and then it grieves us to see how women are obliged to get new gowns before the old ones are worn out simply because the style has changed from a hobble to a harem skirt or from large to small sleeves. A man can wear a suit of clothes from two to five years if they will hold together that long and still not be noticeably out of style. Undoubtedly if women get a right to vote they will greatly reduce the price of living by abandoning these foolish fashions and adopting a simple and inexpensive costume. We have never been in earnest in our advocacy of woman suffrage but if this change could be brought about we should be on the verge of conversion.

News comes from New York that C. W. Morse, who a few months ago was pardoned out of the Atlanta penitentiary by President Taft, on the plea that he was in a dying condition, has reentered Wall street, as strong and vigorous as in his palmiest days, and has mapped out a financial career, whose prime object, aside from amassing another fortune, is to "get even" with his erstwhile enemies in the world of finance. Meanwhile, many a poor fellow, who, under stress of poverty and want, was guilty of some trifling theft, or other delinquency, pitifully small in comparison with Morse's speculations, is rotting in prison, with no hope of the executive clemency which can so readily find the large offender. It is things like these that beget discontent and breed anarchy.—Lakeland Telegram.

Editor Carter of the Arcadia Enterprise wrote an editorial about the papers that should not support Wilson, and received a scathing reply from Marne Henry Watterson of the Louisville Courier-Journal. Carter comes back at the Plunderbund press and exposes the whole scheme of the corporate interests in the control of certain newspapers.

Sanford brick roads are attracting the attention of farmers, tourists and artisans. Already the visitors are speaking for rooms and houses and this city will be filled with new people in a few months.

"A FORMAL INVITATION"

A ship driven by a violent storm had at last foundered on the rocks near the shore, and the life saving crew was busily preparing to render assistance. In the excitement, an old lady approached the captain of the crew and asked if anything was being done to save the unfortunate sailors aboard the sinking ship. "Yes, mam," the captain replied, "We have sent them a line to come ashore." "Goodness gracious," exclaimed the old lady, "I shouldn't think they'd need a formal invitation."

Are you meeting with any problem in the care of your grove, pineapple field or truck farm, that you do not quite understand, and would you like to have expert advice to help you in arriving at a correct solution? If so, this type is being thrown to you. We place at your disposal the expert knowledge of Florida crops and soils, which has been acquired by over thirty years' experience and practical research along horticultural lines, and it makes no difference whether you are a customer of ours or not, any inquiry that you may address to us will receive our prompt and careful attention.

He finds that with a good truck all the hauling to and fro can be done cheaper and at the same time more economically, as it will enable him to use his team for farm work all the time. Other truckers will profit by his experience and in time the farmers of this section will all have automobile trucks and not only save considerably in freight and hauling but will get better service out of their teams. With the brick roads will come the farmer's truck and automobile and the man who cussed the buzz wagon last year will be a speed fiend next.

ALWAYS MASTER OF FINANCE

How John D. Rockefeller Established His Credit in the Early Days of His Career.

Just because John D. Rockefeller has made more money than he can count without the aid of his clerks and forty adding machines, not to mention a well trained corps of coupon clippers, there are many people who come forward these days with stories to show that John, now famous for his wealth, wigs and wit, was once about the cutest person that ever happened when it came to financial strategy.

According to this latest narrative, Rockefeller told a close friend—and that "close" goes both ways—one morning that he wanted to borrow $5,000 and that he must have it in order to save his business. The friend went down town in the course of his work, and pretty soon met a big banker.

"I wish," said the banker, "if you see Mr. Rockefeller this afternoon, you would tell him that I have found a place to put that $10,000 which he asked me to loan out for him."

The friend gasped like a goldfish, and proceeded on his way, encountering another of the town's leading bankers.

"By the way," said the banker, "when you see Rockefeller this afternoon, please tell him that I have found a man who wants to borrow that $10,000."

The friend staggered on, and met a third banker, who repeated what the other two captains of finance had said. Then he went back and found Rockefeller.

"John," he said, in astonishment, "when I left you this morning you told me you had to borrow $5,000, and all day bankers have been telling me that you asked them to lend out $10,000 for you."

"Well, well!" smiled Rockefeller, "that's fine! I suppose I may safely assume now that my credit is established in this town. I'll just step out and borrow that $5,000 I need."—Popular Magazine.

SOME IMPRESSIONS AND EXPERIENCES OF A TRIP TO OLD ENGLAND

Soon after leaving Enterprise the writer was fortunate enough to make an acquaintance that added a great deal to the pleasure of the following few days. This was that of a young U. S. Army Captain, who had been spending his vacation visiting his parents near Cameron City and was now on his way to New York from whence he would go to his post of duty. Each of us was glad to find a companion to help make the journey more agreeable. And since we were to sail on the Comanche the next day for New York, we would be together for some time.

Our next stop was at Beresford, which was reached about 1 o'clock. There we spent quite a long time, loading and unloading freight. This was the most unpleasant part of the river trip, because it was at the hottest time of a day that was extremely hot, and since the boat was not under way there was no cooling breeze.

After leaving Beresford the nicest part of the trip was before us. The cooler part of the day was coming on and all the passengers could enjoy the deck and join in the watch for an occasional alligator in the water or basking in the sun upon the bank. When such a sight was announced every one rushed to that side of the deck to see the "gator," no matter how many he or she had seen before. Then there many other interesting things to be seen. Eagles' nests and various kinds of bird and water life were equally as attractive to some, while the most inartistic could not but admire the wonderful pictures of the palmettoes and the blue sky with clouds floating across it as they were reflected in the smooth and mirror like surface of the river.

A little before sunset Lake George was entered. It is said that Lake George by moonlight is an incomparable sight, but surely it can be no more beautiful by moonlight than it is in the late afternoon when lighted by the rays of the setting sun. Since this is the third largest lake in Florida, it is by no means a small body of water, and with its miniature lighthouse it suggests the ocean when the boat is near the middle and the shores of the lake are almost out of sight.

It must have been about 10 o'clock that night when the city of Palatka was reached, and it was with a good deal of interest that the passengers watched our entry by the light of the boat's search light. As different objects were lit up by the beam of light they were given such an unusual appearance that it was some times difficult to decide just what they were. Evidently the man that operated the light had an eye for the humorous for he discovered a young man and lady upon the approach to the draw bridge where they evidently expected to be free from the curious gaze of the world, and played the light upon them in such a way that they were the center of attraction not only of those on board but of the many people who were upon the dock.

Since neither the Captain or I had ever seen Palatka, we resolved to explore the city while the boat was busy loading and unloading. Accordingly, having learned that the boat would not leave in less than three quarters of an hour, we alone of all the passengers ventured off on a trip of exploration. Although it was only 10 o'clock apparently all the citizens were wrapped in slumber and not a single store was open. But nevertheless there is always a chance of adventure, and the Captain and I were soon so lost to the passing of time, which was due to an occurrence that both of us would not wish to be so publicly announced as this, that we were both startled by the boat's whistle, and it became necessary for us to do a rather fast two hundred yards dash to the dock which we reached just in time to make a flying leap for the receding gang plank. When we had recovered our breath and had realized how near we had come to being marooned in that "Sleepy Hollow" we resolved to make no more such expeditions.

From Palatka on the trip was pleasant but very interesting. Since the night was a dark one, but little could be seen except the shadowy outline of the trees along the river bank and their reflection in the water. Occasionally a landing would be made at some little landing, which presented rather a lonesome picture in the searchlight. The gang plank would be run out to the accompaniment of the rather spicy language of the officer who directed the operation and would be drawn in in the same manner, except that the officer in charge used a different supply of language.

Until some time in the small hours of the night, the Captain and I, and some others of the passengers that preferred the cool breeze upon deck to trying to sleep, stayed up to tell all the stories and interesting experiences we knew, and of these the Captain possessed a large and good supply.

When we awoke the next morning it was to find that we had reached Jacksonville some time during the night and were then tied up at the dock. Thus was ended the first stage of the writer's journey to "Old England." He wishes to assure each of those who may chance to read these lines that there is right here within reach of all of us one of the most pleasant of journeys, and that although within the next few weeks it was his good fortune to travel further than this and to see much of more historic interest than the trip down the St. Johns has to offer, yet he encountered nothing more beautiful. Thus it is that he has taken so much space to describe something that may not at first appear to have any connection with this account.

Jacksonville to Charleston, S. C. Probably some of my readers have not been in Jacksonville on a hot day in July, but those that have been there on such a day will understand that it is not an extremely pleasant place to stay. So it was with a great deal of pleasure both to the Captain, I think, and to myself that we remembered, on awaking, that we were due to leave at 2 o'clock, and would have only the forenoon to spend in such a hot place. There was of course the usual trip up town to see if the temperature still kept up to the same high standard as usual, which we found to be the case, to buy and mail the usual highly colored Florida post cards, to make the purchase of those many things that one thinks he is going to absolutely need on the voyage, and which he afterwards finds to be partially in the way and unnecessary, and to see a few friends before "beating it" to use a certain High School graduate's expression, back to the boat to get comfortably settled.

The boat on which we were to sail was the Comanche. Although she is neither the largest or the newest of the Clyde Line fleet, she is a very comfortable and nice vessel. Since the Captain and I were unknown to each other when we made our reservations we, of course, had not obtained berths in the same stateroom. But by the time the ship was ready to sail we had shifted our room mates around until we were placed together. One of the most unpleasant things about travelling by steamer is the uncertainty as to what kind of a creature you are to be placed with. Of course if you can afford it you can have a whole stateroom to yourself, but if such is not the case you may be wedged into a little stateroom, not much larger than a Pullman section with some little fellow and a large amount of baggage, or with a big man and a small amount of baggage, in either of which cases you are in such extremely close quarters that you have to come outside to change your mind, or perhaps you are obliged to play the part of nurse to some unfortunate who is "afraid first that he will die and then is afraid he won't die." So the Captain chose the lesser of two evils and we succeeded in getting together.

Having got everything settled as we wished, we welcomed the departure of the Comanche at 2 o'clock. There were the usual leave takings between the passengers and friends and relatives on dock that always accompany the departure of a boat, just as though every boat were a Titanic and there was not the least chance of those on board and those on the dock ever meeting again except in the Great Beyond. Some few shed tears, others indulged in a hysterical sort of laughter, and the greater part of the whole continued to wave handkerchiefs until they could scarcely distinguish that the forms on the dock were those of human beings and there was not the least possible chance of their knowing whom they were waving at. Doubtless they cherished the delusion that they did know whom they waved at, but at any rate the exercise they managed to obtain thus was good for them when they were to be without opportunity to get much exercise for several days.

From Jacksonville to Mayport is really a continuation of the river trip, since Jacksonville is several miles from the mouth of the river. But in about two hours after leaving Jacksonville harbor the Atlantic is sighted, and along with it that uncomfortable feeling that some of the passengers have been feeling ever since before the boat even started.

One of the first things that one notices just here is the number of wrecks that decorate the entrance to the channel. Evidently this must be a somewhat dangerous place, and one wonders if each of these broken hulls that are slowly being beaten to pieces by the waves does not possess a story of storm and disaster and hardship. But we have nothing to fear, for the weather is as calm as any one could wish. So we sail grandly out into the ocean and those that have not had the experience before enjoy an indescribable sensation. The splendors of the ocean have been the theme of many writers both in prose and poetry and as one first sees the ocean under such circumstances as it was the writer's good fortune to first see it, it is easy to understand whence came the inspiration for their lines.

There were many things to make the following four days very pleasant. The weather was all any one could wish for. The list of passengers was made up of people most of whom were very likable. The service was good and the food excellent. So that everything contributed to make for each one a very pleasant voyage.

There is not that monotonous lack of something to look at, besides the water, about the coastwise trip that characterizes the trip across the ocean. Almost always there is either a sail, or a steamer, or a light ship or house in sight. Sometimes there will be as many as ten or twelve in sight at the same time. And then too there is the thought that just over the horizon's edge is the coast. And when one is aboard ship one finds that things such as these, which at ordinary times would scarcely attract the attention, become of huge importance to all on board.

PICKLING TIME.

Every frugal housekeeper likes to have her shelves well stocked with good things for the winter. Today one may buy such good canned goods that much of the work has been given up; but we all have a few time-honored and handed-down recipes which we prepare each year. The following are a few which are old and reliable:

To Can Green Corn Without Cooking.—Take nine cups of corn cut from the cob, have the corn just picked, one cup of sugar, half a cup of salt and a cup of cold water; mix all together and place in sterilized cans, sealed tight. Freshen when using.

Beet Relish.—A quart of boiled beets chopped, two cups of sugar, tablespoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of white pepper, half a teaspoon of red pepper and a cup of grated horseradish, mix all together and add enough vinegar to make it moist. Can cold.

Canned Red Peppers.—These delicious little appetizers which cost too much in the winter to have often, may be canned successfully at home. First, raise your own sweet peppers, and when ready to can, wash and cut in strips with the scissors, cover with boiling water and let stand five minutes, drain and plunge into ice water to cover, in which there is a large piece of ice. Again drain and pack into pint jars. To one quart of vinegar add two cups of sugar. Boil together fifteen minutes and pour over the peppers until overflowing, seal and store in a cold place.

Ripe Tomato Pickle.—Mix the following ingredients in a stone jar: Three plants of peeled and chopped tomatoes, a cup of celery chopped, four tablespoonfuls of chopped red pepper, the "hot" kind and four tablespoonfuls of chopped onion, the same of salt, six tablespoonfuls of same of salt, six tablespoonfuls of teaspoonful of cloves, the same of cinnamon, a teaspoonful of grated nutmeg, and two cups of vinegar. This will keep a year, and is good to use in a week. Fine for meats.

Unforeseen Complication.

Jimpson, in London, had rung up a well known shop in Paris by telephone to communicate an order on behalf of Mrs. Jimpson. After waiting two hours for the connection to be made, he entered the booth and began. Two minutes later he emerged.

"Say, mister," said he to the attendant, "can't you put me on a wire that'll translate what I have to say in to French? I can't make that darned jassack on the other end of the line understand a word I say."—Harper's Weekly.

Ventilation Test.

A single way to tell whether your room is properly ventilated is to place a wide-necked bottle of water into which you have put half an ounce of lime water; in the room, letting it remain uncovered over night. If in the morning the lime water is milk the ventilation is bad. If the lime water becomes milk on your covering the bottle mouth with your hand and shaking the vessel, the ventilation is not sufficiently good. If the lime water remains clear, the air of that room is pure.

No Perfection in Humanity.
Practically no human being is perfect. Even those that stand for splendid health and development usually lack in some respect; and the rest and file of men all have some weak point. With one it is a heart not quite perfect, with another a lung, and so on.

Have Ever Some Occupation.
"But women—be they of what earthly rank they may, however gifted with intellect or genius, or endowed with awful beauty—have always some little bit of handwork ready to fill the gap of every vacant moment."—Hawthorne, in "The Marble Faun"

Unprofitable Pets.
It is said that a hundred thousand canaries are kept in Paris apartments and that it costs $2,000 a day to supply them with chickweed alone. They also consume large quantities of lettuce, hemp and other seeds.

Daily Glimpse of Manhattan.
Numerous elderly, prosperous-looking business men were distinguished in the wriggling throng that filled the floor most of the time, and at day break the negro musicians were still playing.—New York Sun

Heater for Drinking Water.
For the use of dentists and barbers there has been invented a metal holder for tumblers, with which water may be heated by electricity to any desired temperature.

Laughable Reduction.
A statement was made in the House of parliament in 1610 that the coal mines of Newcastle would be productive for at least twenty-one years.

Not Altogether Satisfactory.
It may indicate genius to be forever sticking one's paste brush into one's ink pot, but most of us would prefer more substantial proof.

Just as an Example

Recently there appeared in the Saturday Evening Post a double page advertisement of a certain chewing gum. It is said by those in position to know that the single insertion of this advertisement cost $8,000. How many packages of chewing gum at five cents per package would it be necessary to sell for the profits on the sales to pay the cost of this advertisement? Looks like throwing money away, doesn't it? And yet this expenditure was made by a cold blooded corporation, with hard-headed business men at its head; and it was made because they were satisfied it would pay. There is a moral in this story for the merchant, or the man who has something to sell, whether his business be in the large or the small city, or even in the town or village. Instead of one article to be advertised, the merchant usually has many, and his chances of sales are usually multiplied. Instead of an article retailing at five cents he has many articles in which the net profits of a single sale would be many times five cents. Therefore, he should not look on an expenditure for advertising as throwing money away. The chewing gum people's business may be one hundred times as big as his. Very well, he can afford to spend for publicity the hundredth part of their advertising bill. If advertising bill is proportioned to volume of business, results or returns will also be proportionate. The big men, the successful men, of the country throw money away for advertising. The biggest men, the most successful men of a community, large or small, are those who spend the largest sums for advertising. If you are not one of the biggest men, don't you think you had better profit by their example.

Sidewalks and More of Them

The present city council is determined to have a city garnished with fine sidewalks and at every meeting they agree upon condemnation proceedings for new sidewalk in every part of the city. There is nothing that enhances the value of property so much as good walks and although it may work a temporary hardship upon some of the property owners they will eventually profit by the improvement. Now if the city council will condemn the property on Park avenue from Tenth street to Hughey ave 7 nue and put down sidewalks Sanford Heights will really be a part of Sanford and the inhabitants thereof will get object to taxes.

FINE RAILROAD DEPOTS

UNITED STATES HAS ITS SHARE OF THE WORLD'S BEST.

Largest in the World's Six Southern Stations at Vienna, Austria, and That at New York City Ranka Next.

Mr. George A. Wade, in the Railway Magazine, discusses the question as to which is actually the biggest railroad station in the world. He points out that, first of all, one must settle what is meant by "biggest." Is it the one covering the largest area, the one which has the greatest traffic, or the one with the most platforms and passengers? No single station is first in all these requirements.

The New York city station—certainly now one of the grandest and most extensive railroad stations in the world—covers an area of 28 acres. After this comes the Gare St. Lazare, in Paris, with an acreage of over 25 acres; then the Waverley station, Edinburgh, with 23 acres; followed by Waterloo, London, with 20 1/4 acres; Euston, London, with 18 acres, and Liverpool street, London, with 16 acres. But there is a railroad station immensely bigger in extent than any of these, and there is the Bouth Railroad station, Vienna, the whole of which area is close upon 100 acres! This makes it easily the largest station in the world, from the point of view of space covered. Much of the land included in this area is not employed, however, as railroads use all their land at English and American stations.

The New York city station is the costliest ever built; $10,000,000 was expended upon it and including associated work the total cost of the scheme has exceeded $100,000,000. During the first year of working 10,000,000 passengers used it, 112,000 trains were worked in and out, 1,928,320 tickets were issued and 1,800,000 trunks, parcels, etc., were handled. Its magnificent facade is one of the finest of its kind in the world. When complete, the new Leipzig station will be far above the average in respect of size and beauty of German architecture in railway buildings. The magnificent central hall, with its six enormous bays, splendid ticket offices, and superb waiting rooms, will be just about the "last word" in each particular sphere.

As regards the number of platforms at various railroad termini, the new Waterloo station of the London and South Western, stands at the top, with 19, which will shortly become 23, when the alterations now going on are finished. Then we have Liverpool street, London, and Waverley station, Edinburgh, with 18 platforms; Manchester (Victoria) 17; Euston, 16; New castle (Central), 15; Glasgow (Central), 13; Glasgow (St. Enoch), 12; Victoria, 9-18. Probably next would come Washington station, in the United States, which can boast of 337,920 square feet of platform accommodation, some of its platforms being extremely long. Cologne follows with 14 platforms, and Canada is next, with its Canadian Pacific Windsor Street station in Montreal, possessing 13 platforms.

English Railroads Not Safer.

Julius Kruttschnitt contradicts the statement that British railroad lines are operated more safely than railroads in this country. He says false conceptions to the contrary arise from the fact that British roads operate only 24,000 miles, while roads in this country operate 240,000 miles. In the last three years and ten months no passenger has been killed through collisions or derailments on the Southern Pacific, and during that time the road carried 150,400,000 passengers an average distance of 42 miles. In the last three years and four months but one passenger has been killed on the Union Pacific out of 27,900,000 carried by that line. In 1911 14 passengers were killed in collisions on railroads in the United Kingdom. The Harriman roads have nearly as many miles of track as those of the United Kingdom.—Wall Street Journal.

New Idea for Locomotive.

An obstacle to the use of the internal combustion engine for hauling railroad trains has been the impossibility of accelerating the train from standstill with an engine of normal size and of maintaining any considerable overload at any speed. A petroleum-electric locomotive is now proposed, in which the prime mover is an internal combustion engine, using crude oil, kept continuously running to drive an electric generator, which in turn delivers electrical energy to four 10-horse power polyphase motors.

SPORTING GOSSIP

Sanford Wins Game

With Lee in the box holding the locals down to six hits, Sanford again displayed its luck yesterday, winning the third game of the series from Miami on the score of 9 to 1.

An interesting number of star plays were made on both sides, but the visitors went in the game determined to win, and when they brought seven of their men home in the third, the game was practically assured them.

Atkinson was in the box for Miami until the third inning when he was relieved by Tillman. The visitors got seven hits off of Atkinson, six from Tillman, while Miami made only six hits from Lee, the Sanford pitcher.

White, a former Miami catcher, platted with the home team and Manager Reed was satisfied with the work done by every player of the team.

There will be a game today and one tomorrow and then Sanford will leave for Key West where the team will play a series with Keeley's Sluggers, having contracted for the series last night. Sanford expects to have a great trip to the Island City as the Key West boys have promised to show them a good time.

Walker, Miami's new pitcher, is expected to occupy the box for the locals this afternoon and with Ray, one of Sanford's best twirling, a good game is assured.

Manager Reed says that the boys are all determined to work hard and the fans of Miami will be certain to see some interesting games today and tomorrow.

The following is the box score of the game:

Thursday's Game

Yesterday's game of base ball was a most interesting story, but it had a bad ending. The villain, in the minds of the Miami fans, triumphed. With grim determination in the set of his jaws, Farmer, of the Sanford aggregation, met the first ball that came over the plate in the last half of the ninth inning of a nothing to nothing game, and pinged it over the fence. With a yell of surprise, astonishment, chagrin and admiration, the bleacherites arose as one man and clambered out of the park as fast as they could.

Thus was the climax of the game fixed at 1 to 0 in favor of Sanford. The celery team must admit, however, that it had to play ball to get it. With one exception Miami's outfield handled the large amount of business that came to it accurately, taking in several chances that were mighty hard. The fielding of the infield was satisfactory, with likewise one exception. Yesterday was Peddy's "Jonah day," being on a Thursday. Peddy is usually one of the safe men of the team, and his fellow players look to see him back in his form today.

Walker pitched a good game for Miami, getting out of some bad holes when Sanford had a couple of men on bases and a big swatter up to bat. Sanford made Miami play ball several times with two men on bases, but only once did Miami get a man past first base. In spite of the heroic efforts of the fans in the bleachers and the grandstand, who, beginning with the seventh inning sought by every means of noise, squeal, yell, clapping of hands and stamping of feet to say nothing of contemptuous remarks, sought to get the Celery pitcher up in the air. Ray stayed right on the mound and pitched ball to the end.

In spite of the fact that but one score was made, every one who saw the game agreed that it was one of the most interesting and enjoyable of the series thus far. Both teams played tight ball with a few exceptions, and the fans were given very few opportunities to be ashamed of their team.

A good crowd saw the game yesterday. The bleachers were full, a goodly number of enthusiastic fans occupied the grandstand, and not the least vociferous was a well filled "nigger heaven."—Miami Metropolis.

Sanford Wins Last Game

The last game of the season yesterday afternoon resulted in the same old story, Sanford won, 5 to 2. But though the score has no news in it, readers must not infer that it was an uninteresting game. It was one which engaged the attention in fact, there were breathless spots in it when Bundy picked a mean bouncer out of the air sixteen feet from the ground, when Miami's right fielder ran a quarter of a mile, nearly, to get a high fly, picking it out of a field of coconut trees, or when Snedigar executed one of his famous war dances around the second sack.

Fans all agree that it was a good game, nearly as good as the one the day before. A good crowd witnessed the farewell battle, and rooted as noisily as ever. The feature of the game was the fine fielding of the visitors. The goddess of chance certainly held the celery boys in her favor yesterday, and they made good on practically every attempt, and they took some desperate ones too. Well bunched hits in the first game gave Sanford three runs and the game, for Miami never tallied after that, though the home team made several fruitless attempts. Everybody on the Miami team played hard, however, and gave Tillman satisfactory support.

Tillman pitched consistent ball, and White caught in good form. Wallace twirled for Sanford, and didn't go up in the ninth either, as he did once before not a year ago. Lowe took in his deliveries.

The way those three runs happened in the first was on this wise: Farmer, the mighty swatter who stole Thursday's game with a homer in the ninth, slammed a hot-liner to short and got to first on it. Swink sacrificed him down to second, the left fielder caught Bowen's fly and Moreland walked. Then Lowe, the stalwart, slammed one over the fence, and the trio walked home, namely, Farmer, Moreland and Lowe. Roberts got to first on a stroke to right field and Bundy got caught on third.

Then with Peddy put out on a pop up, Snedigar singled, Selph hit for the first base and Snedigar came home on an error. Taylor fanned and Atwood's fly to right was swallowed.

The second was without event. With Bowen's double to center field and a duplicate of the trick by Moreland, the former swatter came home. Tillman and his support headed off the rest of them.

Not till the seventh did Miami get enough hits bunched to score, and then Atkinson got first on an infield hit, Robinson was put out, and Dillon doubled, bringing in Atkinson amid great applause from the bleachers. But the rally was short lived, and White and Tillman both failed to reach station No. 1.

With a combination of errors and hits the Celery Chaps annexed one more tally in the ninth putting a finish to the score board additions.—Miami Metropolis.

STATE HAPPENINGS BOILED DOWN FOR THE BUSY

A Brief Resume of Florida Happenings That Will Interest The Hurried Reader

The eighth session of the State College for Women at Tallahassee will open for the 1912-13 term on the 18th of this month. Many improvements have been made on the college during the summer and a large enrollment is expected on the opening day.

County commissioners discussing the proposed bond issue for road purposes in St. Johns recently decided not to call for the election on the matter at the present time. This does not mean that St. Johns county is opposed to improvement of roads, but the commissioners were not convinced that the application had been made in proper form, and also that the amount indicated, $250,000 was not sufficient for the purposes intended.

The Gadsden county fair to be held in Quincy this year will be the greatest ever held in that county. Great preparations are being made and the doors will be thrown open on Tuesday, Nov. 12th.

That fine old English game of cricket is being promoted in West Palm Beach, where an enthusiastic club of thirty-five members is giving attention to regular practice. The cricket players are expecting to work up interest in a game with Miami in the near future.

The First National Bank of Plant City has formally opened its doors to the public. This makes the third bank for that hustling town.

A FINE WINDOW DISPLAY

Furniture House Cannot Keep Goods Longer Than One Day

The furniture house of W. W. Abernathy, at the corner of First street and Palmetto avenue, while not centrally located probably has a fine show window as there is in Sanford, and when it comes to dressing a window Abernathy is the real thing. Having nothing else on his mind the other day Mr. Abernathy decided to put up a real window, using some extra fine furnishings that had just arrived from one of the largest wholesale centers of the north. Selecting all his rugs and art squares with a view of making a perfect blending of colors and pleasing effects he placed a suite of beautiful Circassian walnut furniture in the window, embellished with a dull finished brass bed and a few mission rockers placed carelessly around to fill in the corners. Every attention was paid to detail in the dressing of the window and when completed it drew the attention of the passerby even from the opposite side of the street.

Mr. Abernathy said he answered more questions about the furniture in that window for one day than he ever answered before and one night a customer came in and purchased the entire outfit. Another window has been furnished temporarily, but it does not compare with the first one, although Abernathy says he will duplicate it if he is obliged to wait for the same material. A glance over the store would convince any one that the hardest part of dressing a window in that establishment would be in determining which suite to use as there seems to be half a hundred suites of beautiful stuff right from the factories and right up to now in stock and finish, but the furniture man grows esthetic by constant association and handling of nice furniture.

Mr. Abernathy is a great believer in advertising and window displays and never hides his light under a bushel. Having the best that the factories can supply at all times he believes in displaying it to the best advantage and letting the public know that he has the best.

The new line that has just been received shows the return to the ancient style of furniture and the massive furniture of several years ago is giving place to the more delicate bits of the Louis XIV period, and the Sanford people who contemplate fitting up their drawing rooms this season will go into rhapsodies over the new styles shown at the store of W. W. Abernathy.

Sudden Death of W. W. Thurston

William W. Thurston dropped dead at his home on Fourth street on Wednesday night. He had been down town at his place of business and feeling badly had returned home and tried to rest. Thinking a hot bath would help him he started for the room and fell upon entering the door. Mrs. Thurston upon hearing the fall ran to his side, but life was extinct before she reached him.

Mr. Thurston came to this city several years ago from Iowa seeking a milder climate for his health. He engaged in the real estate business for a time and afterward purchased a fine outfit for roasted peanuts and popcorn and had his stand on Miller's corner, where he became a familiar figure to every one. He chose the outdoor life for the benefit of his health and though he was almost an invalid he seemed cheerful at all times and made many friends here.

Deceased leaves a wife and daughter and son to mourn the loss of a loving father and husband.

The funeral services occurred from Miller's chapel this morning at ten o'clock, Rev. C. H. Summers of the Methodist church officiating. Interment was made in Lakeview cemetery.

OUR TOURIST HOTEL

Will Not Be Built In Time For 1913 Trade

BUT THE HOTEL WILL BE BUILT

The Location Is The Finest In The State Of Florida

It begins to look as though Sanford will be burdened for another year with an excuse for a hotel. The plans under way for the building of a new hotel will now be materially changed and the new plans will call for the purchase of the entire property known as the Sanford House Hotel Co., and their property now occupied by the so-called hotel.

The plan of W. T. Fields is assuming shape and only a small amount of stock is left unsubscribed. His plan now is to raise the amount here and then put forth the plan of purchasing the property on both sides of Commercial street and thus offering the foreign stock holders a much better proposition.

The owners of the Sanford House at least a majority of the stockholders who live here are perfectly willing to part with their old friend, the hotel and will listen to any reasonable proposition that separates them from their needless hoard. It is the earnest prayer that some plan will be put in operation at once that will rid the city of the venerable and hoary and moss covered relic that has been dubbed a hotel so many years and helped to give the tourists a nightmare and given the commercial men the hook.

The present structure, if never put in shape to give the trade a first class hotel and every one will welcome the day that the old hotel goes down and the new one is erected.

A meeting will be held this week to lease the old structure to some one who will have nerve enough to keep the dining room open during the winter and endeavor to take care of the people that will be here during the season. As yet no arrangements have been made for this season.

On a Fishing Trip

Dr. S. Palestine and Walter Hand are off to the Ten Thousand Isles for a few weeks fishing and as there is some fishing down there and nothing but big fish we can look for some big fish stories when they return.

At the Presbyterian Church

Rev. M. M. McFerrin of Marion, Va., will preach at the Presbyterian church next Sunday at both morning and evening services. Rev. McFerrin comes to Sanford with a view to locating here and all the members of the Presbyterian church should be in attendance next Sabbath. Mr. E. T. Woodruff will have charge of the choir and good music is assured.

For a Military Company

All those who expected to join the Sanford military company and those who did not expect but would like to join now are requested to meet at the city hall next Monday night at 8 o'clock. The organization of the company and election of officers will take place at that time and the company will then be ready to become a part of the military organization of the state. The young men of Sanford should sign the roster at once and help to make Sanford company one of the best in the state.

General Gordon Dead

General W. W. Gordon, aged 78 years, a citizen of Savannah and member of the famous Gordon family of Confederate civil war history, died at White Sulphur Springs, Va., Wednesday morning.

General Gordon was brigadier general commanding the first division of the Fourth army corps during the Spanish American war, and captain in the Confederate army. He was first president of the Central of Georgia railroad, former president of the Cotton Exchange, and for half a century head of the firm of W. W. Gordon & Co., cotton factors. He served under Gen. J. E. B. Stewart. His wife was Miss Eleanor Little Kinzie of Chicago. She was the first white child born at Fort Dearborn. His widow and three sons survive.

WHAT MAKES FLORIDA GROW

Spirit of Progress is Apparent in Every Section in the State

Florida made a splendid showing in the last census, but small compared to that which she will make in the next. Too many forces making for progress are at work, forces that are indomitable, that will bring great results because back of them is a strong, boasting, progressive, business-like citizenship.

Over all Florida may be seen the signs.

In the Everglades a vast empire is being opened up and made ready for development, which has already begun. Over this work and in charge of it are state officials who are trusted by the people of Florida and who are carrying out the task in their charge in a manner to which all who know anything about the real facts of the matter can accord naught but highest praise. Those who come to see are converts and invest. They are all good citizens. Each will prove a factor in the future upbuilding of his adopted state.

Into every county is pouring a stream of desirable homeseekers who have not been dissuaded from coming to Florida by either ignorant or intentional calumny howlers. Like those who are going to the Everglades section, those bound for the Gulf coast countries, the central section, north Florida and west Florida are all people of a most desirable class.

Nearly every railroad is extending its lines into new territory and opening up fertile wild lands for settlement. Work is nearing completion upon a canal by a corporation which has been tackling the great task for thirty years, a waterway over three hundred miles in length. Along the coasts of Florida and upon her rivers are plying new steamer lines, with equipment which is constantly being increased and improved to meet the needs of the vast settling country touched.

Jacksonville must have special legislation at once to permit of bonding for an immense sum for the purchase of waterfrontage for terminals in order to secure the greatest amount possible from the government upon her harbor task. Jacksonville cheerfully meets the task and downs the obstacles by going into her own pockets to pay the bill for a special session of the legislature.

Over two hundred miles south on the shores of the Gulf, St. Petersburg holds a membership campaign for her board of trade and when it ends there is a member for every ten residents of the city.

Tampa needs a new city hall and other modern improvements. Her sweeping majority the necessary bond issue is carried.

Near the headwaters of the St. Johns the people of one district of Orange county are determined that they shall have permanent brick highways. They cheerfully assume the burden by a magnificent vote and Sanford will have brick roads.

St. Lucie county many months ago voted bonds and is now paving a splendid highway throughout the entire county.

St. Johns county is working steadily and swiftly upon the improvement of her roads and is laying the foundation for a magnificent system of highways.

Take county by county in turn and one finds the work of progress going on.

Take city by city, town by town and even hamlet by hamlet from the Perdido to Key West and one sees improvement work, new and flourishing businesses, beautiful new homes being built, the spirit of progressiveness everywhere.

Take individual by individual throughout Florida and one will find the great majority sincerely progressive, each confident in the future of his home town, his county and his state, and ready to aid in any way in the splendid work.

For the booster has Florida most firmly in his grasp.

Is it any wonder that Florida is growing?—St. Augustine Record.

The project for a great scheme of Chinese railways, which holds the foremost place in Dr. Sun Yat Sen's program, has commanded the support of the Peking government and may involve a great extension of privileges of foreigners with possibilities of an immense increase in China's foreign trade. The Governor has authorized Sun Yat Sen to establish a corporation to carry out a system of national railways to cover 70,000 miles in extent. Mixed Chinese and foreign corporations throughout China proper for periods of about forty years, after which time the lines are to revert to China.

Aviator Paul Peck of Washington, D. C., holder of the American duration flight record, was fatally injured in a fall with a biplane when flying in a gusty wind at Chicago. He attempted to speed a spiral and when he struck the ground the heavy engine crushed through the wreckage, striking him in the neck.

Instead of being called to trial yesterday the first to be prosecuted for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, Police Lieutenant Charles Becker has won nearly a month's delay of the ordeal. Justice Bischoff, of the Supreme Court, today granted the application of John F. McIntyre, counsel for the indicted policeman, for a stay until Monday, Oct. 7th. The reason for the stay is to allow the appointment of a commission of one or three persons to go to Hot Springs, Ark., to take testimony which is said to be valuable to Becker's defense. This testimony has to do with Sam Schepps, the alleged paymaster of the murderers, who, after his arrest at Hot Springs, is declared to have told various persons that Becker had nothing to do with the Rosenthal murder.

When adjournment was taken for dinner today in the trial of Victor Allen for alleged participation in the Hillsville courthouse murders, Judge Staples had Floyd and Claude Allen, who were found guilty of first degree murder on the same charge, brought into court and sentence of death was passed upon them. The date of execution was fixed for Nov. 22.

A Republican ticket composed entirely of women candidates will be placed in the field in Idaho this fall against the regular Republican and the Progressive party tickets, making three Republican tickets.

Complete unofficial returns from the state election held in Maine Tuesday showed the following figures: Governor, W. T. Haines, Republican, 70,982; Frederick W. Plaisted, Democrat, 67,905; Haines' plurality, 3,023. Two years ago Plaisted was elected governor, the first Democrat to fill that place in the state in thirty years, by a plurality of 8,660. The next legislature will be made up as follows: Senate: Republicans 23, Democrats 8; Assembly: Republicans, 79, Democrats 72. This will give the Republicans a majority of 22 on joint ballot and insures the election of Congressman Edwin Burleigh as United States senator to succeed Obadiah Gardner, Democrat.

Reception for Mr. and Mrs. Wallace. Nearly 200 friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Wallace met at the M. E. church Tuesday evening where a reception was tendered the new bride and groom. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace arrived home from Washington Thursday evening. A social evening was spent, after which a fine supper was served by the ladies of the M. E. church. Several impromptu speeches were made and a general good time had by all present. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace are now at home to their many friends in Mr. Wallace's palatial home on south Main street.—Perry Michel News.

Mrs. Wallace was formerly Mrs. Anna Ludlum, who resided here several years.
