

Industry Terms Whisky Inquiry Wasted Money

Louisville Distillers Hold Senate To Find Nothing To Probe

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 24. (AP)—The Senate appropriation of $10,000 for an investigation of the industry's whisky funds is termed "useless" by the men who direct the industry in this bourbon-producing center.

One of them termed the appropriation a waste of money because there isn't anything to probe.

A survey of the distillery executives showed they attributed the agitation in Washington to a lack of knowledge of the intricate workings of the industry by Congressmen and government officials of the complexities of their operations.

Answering the often heard charge of "hoarding," they said there simply was less whisky on sale because none had been made for more than a year and during that year the public grabbed it more eagerly than it did for nylon stockings.

One of the worst misstatements about the industry, whisky people asserted, is that there is a five years' supply on hand. Actually, they declared, under present sales of consumption only two to two and a half years' supply remains if allowance is made for shrinkage and the fact that much of the whisky is not yet fit for bottling.

Total stocks of whisky in Kentucky were listed by the Kentucky Tax Commission in its latest report as 4,046,378 barrels. Of this, 3,441,771 barrels were made in 1940, 1941 and 1942, leaving only 15,407 barrels, or approximately 15 per cent of the total, that can be bottled in bond.

However, much of this has been bottled since Aug. 31, so the actual available supply for bottling and distribution is even smaller than the figures indicate.

Barrels of four-year-old liquor cannot be counted like so many boxes, for each contains less than a full barrel. It must be four years old to be date before it can be sold.

The rate of evaporation increases faster as it ages because the upper part of the barrel is dry and air filled.

This rate of evaporation, or what the trade terms "outage," shows in the industry, is about one-half per cent.

In bottle his hair is good in four years instead of "board in" as the Washington investigators seem to suspect, the distillers said.

Germany requires so much fertilizer for agriculture because most of the land is largely an old glacier plain over which glaciers moved large quantities of sand.

Retail Volume At Peak As Yule Shopping Rises

Apparel, Gifts Make Up Bulk Of Sales; Stemware Popular

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 24. (Special)—Increasing Christmas shopping accounted for the improvement in retail trade last week, according to the weekly trade review issued by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. The review described activity as having attained "the highest point in apparel and gift departments with the bulk of sales. Sales were spotty in housefurnishings and other lines affected by limited supplies.

Total sales volume for the country was estimated to have increased from 10 to 20 per cent over last year. Regional increases were: New England, 2 to 4 percent; East, 1 to 6 percent; Middle West, 10 to 12 per cent; Northwest, 1 to 3 percent; South, 12 to 15 percent; Southwest, 19 to 21 per cent; and Pacific Coast, 18 to 20 per cent.

Men's and women's accessories received fully as much attention as apparel departments, although the latter is still the largest in the leaders in total retail sales. Handbags, muffs and jewelry were some of the chief items in accessory sales. Frilly aprons, black and white lingerie, gloves, and stockings did well in business.

Sales of fur and other heavy apparel rose as the weather turned colder. The review also reported improvement in children's wear, despite more pronounced shortages in snow suits, leggings and mittens.

The regular pre-holiday emphasis on tableware accounted for a brisker selling pace in housefurnishings during the week. The review cited the demand for all types of stemware, straws, glasses, etc., as the key to dinnerware.

China, glassware and pottery wares were advertised prominently. And sales volume was substantial. Lamp bases intended for gifts enjoyed a salutary turnover, and drapery and tapestry sales were at peak levels.

Retail food volume compared favorably with that of the previous week, according to the review. However, confectionery and liquor stores have become increasingly tight and milk sales were off because of shortages in many areas.

ON GUARD

(From The Countryman)
Out in the dark I stand alone,
You not uncomprised;
A sword, beside me, stand the souls
Of British men long dead,
Who vigil kept on cliff and tor
For freedom from Spain, from Proud Roman with his spear and sword,
Blond Viking, lawless Dane.

I hear the cool wind stir the trees,
The breathing of the kine,
I see the cohorts of the stars,
Unfaltering, divine.
To sentinels in vanished wars
These nights of home were known Phalanxed about with shining dead.

lot of fun over this Patton insident.

other hand, Mrs. Hollerman, they may be more used to disobeying orders too.

Wherever there are American soldiers, there you find boys from Sanford. Almost every mail that comes to our desk brings news from some fellow we used to see around the corner druggists now serving in India, Australia, Hawaii, Alaska, England, Africa, or Iral. Indeed, we just learned that George Melton who used to represent this country in the State Legislature is now in England.

During this Thanksgiving we should like to remind our readers that the war is not happening in Berlin might be happening in New York and other American cities, if the Wheeler, Nys, McCormicks and Fishes, who said this country was immune to attack, had been allowed to prevail a little longer.
Fortunately for us, "Fay," Harold came just in time to arrest this evolution from its long winter's nap and save us from the worst defeat any country ever suffered.

Sight For G. I.'s
The infantry recruit had been bullied by the sergeant for days on end. But his chance came while he was bumbling through rifle practice.

"It's about time you know what a fine sight was," said the sergeant. "Come now, what is a fine night?"

A perfectly enormous boat answered the sergeant, "crammed full of recruits. In fact, an army in a hurricane." —L.A.
Magazine.

Too frequently we find in police court men who have been arrested on charges of drunken driving.
We sometimes wonder how these men can get their automobile licenses and what kind of essential driving it seems to us that the least that could be done under such circumstances would be to deprive them of the gasoline ration coupons, as well as their driver's license, for a long enough time to give them
time to learn all the rules they need for necessary work a chance to forget thereby.

We hope the Patton incident is magnified beyond all proportion to its true proportions and that the whole nation has seen the error of the ways of the military. We hope that the next time we see a man driving a car, we will be able to say, "Good driving."

Governmental Teamwork

It is really an astonishing thing if, as Washington experts say, Secretary Hull's address to Congress was the first example of such departmental fraternizing in American history. Apparently it has taken a century and a half for the State Department to get into direct touch with the two-fold legislative branch of government. Heretofore any such approach has been left to the President, who is always overwhelmed with responsibilities and must, himself, depend largely on his cabinet members for information in their departments.

The obvious success of this information should lead to a more general use of it. There is no good reason why abinet heads should not be closer to Congress. The American federal government got along well enough with the present system when both nation and government were much smaller and simpler. But now federal ones are so vast and intricate that most of the cabinet branches and congressional committees are likely to know little about what the others are doing.

There seems to be more flexibility and more direct action in the upper levels of the British system. We are naturally proud of our own government, but the British an usually act more promptly in a legislative emergency.

Farm Sanity

A burnt child dreads the fire, and a burnt farmer shuns inflation. Especially real estate inflation. Most farmers are determined now to avoid their mistakes of the last war, when they bought and farmed so much land at $200 an acre and upward that they were left high and dry when the bottom dropped out of grain and meat. Wheat fell from $2.50 to 50 cents a bushel, when crops piled up and the war piped down. Over-extended farmers were ruined.

There are occupations in which it is hard for people to remember from one disillusionment to another, but farming is not one of them. A good deal of farm investment is reported, but the tables are turned. It is mostly the farmer now who is selling acreage to city business men. Accordingly we may yet hear, from the lips of city investors, the opprobrious term of "country slicker."

At any rate, the situation in general seems pretty sound now. A keen observer says if the farmer sits tight he can safely ride out impending inflation. He has mostly got his inventory up to a sound basis and is producing commodities with a favorable market. If he "saws wood" produces food and avoids the inflationary spiral, he will come through safely.

Frozen Lakes

As winter settles down over the Great Lake region between Canada and the States, the biggest and most efficient hauling system on earth is icebound. Ordinarily it means idleness for the 16,000 men who operate the freighters. From mid-December to late March they loiter around and rest up from their hard jobs. But not this winter.

The War Man-Power Commission will ask the members of the Lake fleet to report to the U. S. Employment Service.
They will not have their occupational deferments extended through the winter months unless they take temporary employment in essential work while on shore. Then in the Spring their deferments may be cancelled if they do not return to the lake shipping industry.

This sort of campaign may "gripe" aged many of the inland mariners, but it is sound policy in war time.
And in fact many of them have been following it on their own initiative the last few years. It is rather tough, though, on some of the inland "tars." They love the lakes as salt water sailors love the sea, and a rolling deck better than solid land.

Musical Comedies

The current musical comedy, "Oklahoma," is said to be setting a new record for sheet music. More than 600,000 sheets have been sold, surpassing the previous mark of "Show Boat." With songs like "Oh, What A Beautiful Morning" and "The Surrey With The Fringe On The Top" to stimulate the sale, 9,000 more are being bought daily.
Meanwhile packed houses and frequent radio musical renditions attest the popularity of this show.

Stage fashions come and go, but a really good musical comedy with singable airs is a sure bet. "Floradora,"
"The Merry Widow," "The Pink Lady," "The Student Prince" and "Rose Marie," to name only a few, ran so long that it looked as if they would run forever. And their tunes are a permanent part of America's repertoire of popular music. Still another, almost a contemporary of these earlier pieces, "Blossom Time," goes on year after year and still draws crowds.

Just now a good musical comedy offers a pleasant escape from troubles. Such a show, through rent and laughter, strengthens national morale.

1943 MURKIN

BY RUSSELL KAY

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By RUSSELL KAY

Next month at the Waldorf Astoria in New York, top rank industrial and political leaders of American industry, labor and Labor will sit down together at a conference table to discuss a post-war program and thrash out the problems that concern the common welfare.

In the group will be William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor; Philip Murray, President of the Congress of Industrial Organizations; E. C. Crawford, President of the National Association of Manufacturers; Paul Hoffman, Chairman of the Committee on Economic Defense; and Eric Johnston, President of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

For years the powerful groups these men represent have viewed each other with suspicion and distrust, have called each other names, ignored all that is fine and good and magnified every evil and shortcoming, each summing up "bolder than thou" attitudes in an effort to win public approval.

An eight thinking, unbiased individual, interested enough to look back the record, could find plenty to be gained by the meeting of labor and industry and by the same token, even more to lose. If before entering the conference room, each of these five men, realizing the tremendous responsibility that rests on them, would through his brievity and remove the prejudices, distrust and approach his task with a sincere desire to find an answer based on truth, justice, reason, and good will, there is no limit to the good that might be accomplished.

If, before considering any lesser problem, they first found unanimous agreement in the confirmation of their belief that all men are the creatures of God and as such should "love one another"; that it is better to give than receive; that there nothing that could arise in later discussion that could not be solved.

And having concurred in the above principles, if the representa-atives of labor would take pencil and paper and write out every demand and aspiration acceptable to the representatives of industry, ignore the year, forgetting every sordid act or shortcoming, and the representatives of industry would likewise write with their own hands a record of every good and splendid achievement that might be enlisted in their cause, as a group review, their findings together, they would have a cornerstone on which to build, a cornerstone of mutual understanding, faith and confidence could be erected to stand as an everlasting tribute to the ever-purifying power, strength and comfort of God.

It is as simple as that, and these five men know it in their hearts as do the millions they represent. But it has been Man's habit since the beginning of time to believe in the strength and power to subdue his problem the hard way. He fails to recognize the fact that "Man cannot act with effect unless they act in concert, they will not act in concert unless they have confidence and they will not have confidence unless they have common interests, common interests."

The wealth and resources of this good earth are so abundant that the fruits of Man's labor, if unselfishly directed, would provide every living soul with every need. If we but once will all work with each other for each other,

and the solution of man's woes in

GIVE rather than GET, we will find the answer to all our

problems.

But the answer lies in the individual hearts of men and until

they are willing all the talking

and planning is in vain.

It is too much to hope that these five men might still see the LIGHT that has been burning for two thousand years,

and acting in accord, set in motion

a tide that will sweep over the hearts of men, cleansing them of the selfishness that are growing

with each other for each other,

and the solution of man's woes in

GIVE rather than GET, we

will find the answer to all our

problems.

But the answer lies in the individual hearts of men and until

they are willing all the talking

and planning is in vain.

October Arms Output Rises; Planes Set Pace

8,362 Aircraft Are Record For any Month; Nelson Hails Gains

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. (AP) — Aircraft production in October showed its biggest gains since April, Donald M. Nelson reported with aircraft output reaching a record-smashing total of 8,362 planes. Measured by dollar value, October production advanced 5 per cent over September.

"Most power, occasional shortages of material and design changes gave less trouble than in recent months," the War Production Board chairman said in his sixteenth monthly report.

"Better management, better effort by labor, better trained workers—in a word, 'know-how'—can be seen clearly in last month's performance."

While over-all production showed substantial gains, there was only a 1 per cent rise in gun output.

which is a stable program, and there was a decline in combat and motor vehicles, which Mr. Nelson said is "according to plan."

The expanding programs—those getting the most pressure for realization of military strategy—showed their production tally.

Aircraft up 10 per cent in number, 9 per cent in weight and 10 per cent in value.

Ships, up 5 per cent (in terms of construction put in place).

Ammunition, up 11 per cent.

Communication equipment, including Radar, up 9 per cent.

The W.P.B. munitions index gained 29 points over September, the best showing since April's 30 points over March. The index, which takes arms production in the pre-Yalta Harbor month of November 1941, at 100, now stands at 945. In other words, armament output is nearly 6½ times as great as when the country went to war.

The index revealed that September production was better than was reported a month ago. Whereas the last report showed only a 1-point gain in September, in August, figures revised on the basis of later reports showed a 9-point climb.

Mr. Nelson said that while it's a harder month to make out to achieve gains, it is "encouraging to realize that the 'know-how' which has stimulated October production will be a continuing influence from now on."

"For the first time in 1943, he said with reference to aircraft, the number of combat models meeting or exceeding their goals failed to do so."

Of the four major "bottleneck items" now worrying W.P.B.—

landing craft, trucks, electronics not reported, presumably for release from now on,"—only two were mentioned in the index. The heavy-duty truck tire production has never been covered in the monthly reports although it is a vital part of the military vehicle and aircraft program.

Tankers delivered jumped to thirty-five, thirteen more than in September, while cargo vessels gained 6 per cent and combat and other vessels 4 per cent. The Liberty ship schedule is being trimmed to make shipways available for the faster, bigger Victory ships.

Combat vehicles dropped off as planned, declining 11 per cent with tanks down the most.

Army To Call 300,000 Men In January

More Men Are Needed On Account Of Slow WAC Enlistments And Quota Failures

WASHINGTON. Nov. 29. (AP)—Approximately 300,000 men, for more than the War Manpower Commission expected to be called, may be tapped by Uncle Sam for military service in January. The WMC had indicated that the Army draft requirement would drop sharply after the first of the year, but the War Department has certified a January call twice as large as expected.

As a result, the combined Army-Navy monthly quota will remain at its present level of about 300,000 at least for the first month of 1944. The War Department is increasing its January call by more than 40,000 above the replacement requirements because of lagging WAC enlistments and due to the failure of draft boards to meet the October quotas.

WASHINGTON. Nov. 29. (AP)—The army's draft call for January is to be twice the figure the War Manpower commission has been expecting. It was learned yesterday, and as a result the combined Army-Navy call will approach 300,000 men.

This is about the present monthly figure as contrasted with previous indications that calls would begin dropping after the first of the year.

Peak Strength. The expanded quota is now expected to reach its strength until well along in 1944 and the army, it was reported authoritatively, won't be at its expected peak strength of 7,700,000 men by Jan. 1 for two main reasons:

1. The WAC enrollment drive has been suspended. (The army is pleased with the performance of the women soldiers and is willing to take hundreds of them.) (Continued on Page Two)

Joe Chittenden, Former Resident Dies In Capital

Joe D. Chittenden, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Chittenden of Sanford, died yesterday morning at Washington, D.C., shortly following an operation on a leg wound he received in World War I as a member of the Rainbow Division.

Mr. Chittenden, who was 53 years old at the time of his death, was an only child, separated from his parents before he was born. His assumption of duties as State Service Officer for Florida at Bay Pines. For the past eight or 10 years he has been National Legion Offer for the Veterans of Foreign Wars and a director of the National Service Bureau of V.F.W. with offices in the Tower Building in Washington, D.C.

Besides his widow, the deceased is survived by one daughter, Mrs. C.B. Hall, of Arlington, Va.; one son, Joe D. Chittenden, Jr., of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.; and his wife, Mrs. Laura B. Beford; and two brothers, Roy and Edwin, of Bay Pines.

Funeral services will be held next Wednesday at 2:30 P.M. at St. Myers Chapel, Va., and burial will be in Arlington Cemetery. The Ivan Funeral Home of Arlington, Va., is in charge of arrangements.

Charles G. Malm, 90 Years Old, Dies

Charles G. Malm, 90-year-old father of Mrs. H.G. Hawkins, died at her home, 2018 South Sanford Avenue at 8:30 A.M. today following a brief illness.

Mr. Malm, born in Dakar, Africa, Nov. 20, 1853, and came to this country in 1882 where he settled in Forest City. He was married to Miss Clara Anderson Oct. 2, 1884, and later moved to Winona Lake, Ind., where he remained until 1915 when he moved to Sanford.

At that time he was a member of the Winona Bay Adventure Club, which he organized.

He was a member of his congregation, First Methodist Church, Alpine, Ind., and a member of the Winona Bay Adventure Club.

He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. H.G. Hawkins, and his wife.

Blasted Jap Pillbox On Tarawa

Here is one of the first photos showing the wreckage wrought by United States Marines on the stoll of Tarawa in the Pacific. P. R. F. West, Tucson, Ariz., is looking over what was left of the pillbox that had been used by American Marines. The fighting on the island is being described as the bloodiest in the history of the Marine Corps and resulted in a heavy loss of life for both United States forces and the enemy. Medals Given Four Fliers At Naval Station

Lieuts. Viall, Parker, Schild And Pi- mentel Honored For Courage In Pacific

In an impressive ceremony at the Sanford Naval Air Station Saturday afternoon Lieut. Comdr. Robert Kirkpatrick, acting commanding officer of the station, presented Air Medals on behalf of the Navy Department to four flight instructors who during recent months had served as fighter pilots in the Pacific area, had participated in heavy fighting, and who each had downed one or more Jap planes.

The men presented medals were: Lieut. Kenneth T. Viall, USNR of Rochester, N.Y.; Lieut. (j.g.) Chester A. Parker, USN of Lakeland, Fla.; Lieut. (j.g.) Charles H. Schild, USNR of Monroeville, Ohio; and Lieut. (j.g.) Anthony T. Pimentel of San Francisco, Calif.

In the Pacific area, Lieut. Viall led a four plane squadron of fighters directly against an enemy force of about 20 fighter planes. Discarding tremendous odds, he destroyed five enemy planes. For his exploit he was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross. Lieut. Parker led his group against a force of ten Jap bombers and fighters and shot down two bombers and one Zero, all seen to crash in the water.

He also participated in numerous patrols, night operations, fighter sweeps and strafing attacks against the iron nests of Japs. Viall was recently cited by Rear Adm. L. E. Shafroth, dept. commander of the South Pacific Area, for his courage, skill and determination in keeping with the highest Navy traditions.

Churchill Is Analyzed By Dean Edmonds

Rotarians Hear Rol- lins Man Praise Prime Minister

Declaring that Hitler made his supreme error when he killed himself at the English Channel, he had a great antagonist in the person of Winston Churchill "who had an anchor outside him self" in his faith, in God, Dean Henry Morris Edmonds of Rollins College addressed the Rotary Club of Orlando on Saturday.

Edmonds said: "Whether he was right or wrong, he was probably the greatest man produced by this war."

Declaring that the British Prime Minister is the best prepared man in public life today, Dean Edmonds said: "I think from a military point of view Churchill is better prepared early in life when at 21 he was sent as an observer to the Cuban insurrection, and later participated in campaigns in India, in the Sudan, in South Africa and in the War of Independence in Ireland. Roy C. Corlett, Rotarian, said:

Vegetable Sales So Far This Year Below Last Year

Market Director Wil- son Reports On Con- ditions In State

As an example, figures from Waucluse show volume to date is being less than that for the same period last year. Other markets are having a similar experience," he said.

Conditions at specific markets he described as follows:

"This will be the last week for peacock auction sales," said Mr. Wilson. "Last week Mariana grapes led sales with 22,000 pounds, selling on from 21 cents to 81 cents per pound.

"The bean movement at Palmetto last week did not come up to expectations due mainly to the fact that beans are in impaired quality.

About 100 bushels of yellow neck squash and 25 bushels of peppers were moved daily.

Shipments of beans have dropped from four to ten carloads per day.

"Palmetto is having an increase in volume and tonnage and prices are better than formerly, but quality is lower than a year ago."

Pompano shipments are picking up as season advances and consumers demand is being expected by the first of December.

"Florida City produce has been returned from sea duty as a member of the naval fleet assigned to an American merchant vessel.

About 100 cases of the 1943 season would bring added benefits to the ready during the current fiscal year.

"Unfavorable weather at Fort Pierce has also retarded the vegetable movement. It now appears that the tomato deal there will run far into January.

A considerable volume of tomatoes and cucumbers are still being shipped and some eggplant and squash.

"Plant City reports continued

movement of squash, English peas, snap beans, potatoes and cucumbers. This is the third year in which the market has been increasingly dependent upon the market for its supplies.

Academy, he received his boot

Certificates of War Necessity issued by the Office of Defense Transportation are for the duration of the war and need not be renewed for 1944. George H. O'Conor, director, manager of the ODT in Orlando, declared.

As an officer, Dean Edmonds agreed that the certificates need not be renewed for 1944.

He added that he believes that he and others in the office of the Office of Defense

Transportation

are doing their best to make certificates available to those who need them.

He advised that the certificates

need not be renewed.
