

Washington Social Tempest Over 'Dolly' Gann's Rating Recalled By Curtis' Death

By SIGRID ARNE
WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The loyalty and affection felt by the late Charles Curtis for his handsome, white-haired sister, Mrs. Edward Everett (Dolly) Gann, tossed social Washington into one of its more exciting battles soon after President Hoover and Vice President Curtis took office.

Curtis, a widower, announced Mrs. Gann would be his official hostess. Then he discovered that the going Secretary of State Collogg had ruled since the Curtis hostess was a sister and not a wife she would rank below the wives of the diplomatic corps at these functions.

Curtis protested to incoming Secretary of State Stimson, and the ruling was reversed. He eyes twinkled when he discussed the affair but he pressed the issue resolutely.

Hostesses, long before the arrangement, had scheduled dinners and receptions. Diplomats had invitations out. There was consternation. Should they risk the anger of the state department by ignoring its ruling, or extend the new vice president?

The diplomatic corps was called together by Sir Emsie Howard, British ambassador, and after two solemn hours the corps wound up with a request to the state department to settle the Curtis-Gann precedence tangle as soon as possible.

Meanwhile, Curtis and his sister were attending functions and smilingly taking whatever positions at the table their hosts had chosen for them.

At a White House dinner President Hoover took Mrs. Gann in to dinner, and that seemed to indicate that the Hoover believed she should have the rank of the vice president's wife, that is, above the long string of diplomatic wives.

Then the state department notified Sir Howard that it had no jurisdiction over persons not in the diplomatic corps.

Again Sir Howard called a meeting. This time the representatives of foreign governments gathered an hour and came out with their decision. Mrs. Gann was to rank above their wives.

Washington breathed more easily and Mrs. Gann and Curtis beamed at Washington's parties.

Then came a party to which were invited Curtis and Mrs. Gann and the late Speaker Nicholas Longworth and Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth.

The Ganna arrived, but the Longworths didn't. Alert Washingtonians buzzed immediately about Longworth's contention that the speaker should rank above the vice president.

The Longworths made no public explanation of their absence from the party.

Mrs. Gann summed up the entire affair later by saying with hearty laugh, "Nothing but a tempest in a teapot."

History Of Elks Lodge And Homes It Has Occupied

instrumental in helping his home county to such a splendid Court House. It is a contribution of Elks civic spirit and energy to their home city.

Next, the lodge took temporary quarters over the then Seminole bank, to try to rebuild its strength, and before very long became the owner of the building built by the Rod and Gun Club during the boom years. There the lodge prospered and grew back to its former strength again, but, unfortunately, the building was destroyed by fire on Oct. 12, 1924.

For temporary quarters the lodge then leased the property of Walter Hand on the lake front on the West Side until in 1924, when the property formerly owned by the Fraternal Order of Eagles on Oak Avenue was bought and occupied for several years, until litigation after the collapse of the boom made it advisable to relinquish this property, as well as the lot of the former home on the lake front.

In 1930 the lodge moved to the second floor of the Bishop building on East First Street and Palmetto Avenue, where commodious quarters were put up, and the fight for building up and owning a home was started all over again, and presently ended with the possession of the present fine club house.

Leaders in the fight for this accomplishment were its last two exalted rulers, G. W. Spencer and E. F. Housholder and an efficient building committee under the leadership of Wm. Tipl.

Good leadership is what helped the lodge over and over again through all its often hard and stormy trials, and even brought it up again to strength and success. From its first Exalted Ruler W. D. During all the 25 years of its life, Sanford Lodge has always lived up to its ideals of a real Elks lodge, by giving its untiring efforts to deeds of charity and aid and cheer at Christmas to poor children and indigent elders were a regular program.

Prompt relief for hurricane sufferers, support of students at the university, prize essays for schools, and support of the Elks Hospital for crippled children at Umataha, are only some of the activities of their under cover work.

May the proud possession of this beautiful new home stimulate all its members, present and future, to emulate those two great principles of Elksdom—Brotherly Love and Charity—and in further growth and success will be assured.

Death Of Curtis Removes An Able Landon Strategist

By HERBERT LUMMER
WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Had former Vice President Curtis lived until the coming presidential campaign entered the really crucial stage, his contribution undoubtedly would have been an important one.

As far back as last August he announced his support of Governor Alfred M. Landon for the Republican nomination. His position was made clear in an interview in which he denied published reports aligning him on the side of Col. Frank Knox of Illinois.

"I'm for Governor Landon if he is a candidate," said Curtis. "I never commit myself for anyone else until I know what he intends to do."

Always a colorful campaigner, Curtis doubtless would have been a valued ally for the Kansas governor and his presidential aspirations. Few men knew the inside of politics, both from the standpoint of prenomination maneuvers and the rough and tumble of the hustings, as did the former vice president.

He had come within striking distance of the White House himself. The story has been told on good authority that in 1920 he missed the Republican nomination for president by an eye-bash; that except for mere chance he would have been selected by those in control of the party machinery at the Chicago convention instead of Harding.

Curtis' political philosophy was of the practical sort. One of his pet theories was that in a national campaign everything was over by the middle of October. Check back over his record and you will find that he rarely made a speech after that time. Usually he could be found in some out-of-the-way place taking it easy.

Both as a member of the Senate and later as presiding officer of that body, he was a great stickler for form. He probably was the strictest man ever to preside over the Senate in recent times. He demanded order from senators and got it even if he had to stop proceedings for several minutes.

He always said that party politics in itself played a minor part in the enactment of major legislation in the Senate. Members of the Senate, he said, stress politics in the cloakrooms, but on the floor during consideration of major legislation they forgot about it and moved in a nonpartisan effort.

This observation was made after service of more than a quarter of a century in both houses of Congress.

Hessian Fly Holds Big Crop Threat For Next Season

By PORTER M. HEDGE
DES MOINES, Feb. 12.—(AP)—From Ohio to Nevada, countless hordes of pestilential insects, a threat to millions of dollars in crops, are lying in hibernation awaiting the first spring warmth to awaken.

Potentially most dangerous, an Associated Press survey indicates, is the Hessian fly that preys on wheat. Other pests that threaten widespread crop damage unless nature steps in with a dose of unfavorable spring weather are grasshoppers, chinch bugs and the dreaded European corn borer.

The federal bureau of entomology and plant quarantine estimates insects harvest an annual toll of $2,000,000,000.

The Hessian fly is entrenched across a front extending from Oklahoma to Ohio. Dr. P. N. Annand, federal entomologist, reports the pest multiplied enormously during the favorable fall weather from north central Oklahoma, Missouri, southern Iowa, Illinois and much of Indiana, tapering off into light infestations in Ohio.

Grasshoppers are expected to strike most severely in south central Montana, eastern Nebraska and lower Michigan. But even in these areas entomologists have found fewer eggs than a year ago.

Entomologists believe there are enough eggs to cause "very severe" infestations (50 to 100 percent) in the heavily infested areas of these three states, and enough to cause "severe" infestations (25 to 49 percent) in parts of Kansas, North Dakota, Iowa, Wyoming, Wisconsin, Nevada, Colorado and Utah.

They assert that chinch bugs are hibernating in "dangerously large" numbers along the fence rows and in the grain fields of southeastern Iowa and west-central Illinois.

As for the European corn borer, perhaps the most serious insect threat to the corn belt in the long-time view, more concern is expressed over its advance westward than over the threat to crops in the areas in which it is entrenched.

Fletcher Will Keep Up Fight For Ship Canal

Senator Returns To Capital Hoping To Get Appropriation Into Next Budget

Danger To Water Supply Ridiculed

False Propaganda Is Distributed, Says Florida Senator

JACKSONVILLE, Feb. 14. (AP)—Senator Duncan U. Fletcher returned to Washington today to "continue the fight" for sufficient funds to complete the Florida ship canal.

At a meeting of canal supporters here Fletcher outlined the steps necessary to obtain another appropriation. He expressed regret that the House sub-committee had struck the $12,000,000 canal item from the way department list of projects, but expressed the belief that Florida House members will be able to have the item reinstated on the floor.

"Somebody is putting up a lot of money to fight the canal," Fletcher said. "I don't know where the money is coming from, but they are putting out a lot of false propaganda, buying advertisements in the newspapers and spreading false statements. The nonsense about the effect the canal might have on the water supply of South Florida is perfectly ridiculous, but they continue to make these statements without any facts whatever to support them."

San Francisco, Feb. 14. (AP)—In a formal statement issued today E. E. Callaway, former chairman of the State Republican Committee, challenged what he said was an attempt by Senator Duncan U. Fletcher to blame Republicans for the House appropriation committee's failure to include funds for the continuation of Florida cross-state canal.

'Cocktail Marriages' May Be Prohibited In New York State

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 14. (AP)—Assemblyman Jane H. Todd, Westchester Republican, introduced in the New York Legislature today a bill aimed at "cocktail marriages."

The measure, to become effective immediately if approved, provides that "marriages shall not be solemnized within 72 hours from the date of issuance of a marriage license except in cases of emergency, and then by court order."

In addition, every marriage license would be required to bear the notation of the day and hour of its issuance, and the clergyman, judge or other public official performing a ceremony would be required to note on the license the date and hour the marriage is solemnized.

Marriages within the 72-hour period would be permitted only "when one of the parties is in danger of imminent death or by reason of other emergency public interest will be promoted thereby, or when such delay (72 hours) will work irreparable injury or great hardship upon the contracting parties or one of them."

American's Creed Is To Be Placed In School Rooms

War Vets To Have Pronouncement Printed, Framed

Believing that "the future of the nation rests with its youth," veterans of the Spanish-American War of 1898 plan to place in each school room in Seminole County framed printed copies of the "American's Creed." The local organization—Theodore Roosevelt Camp No. 12, U. S. W. V.—ordered the printing when it met in the Legion, Hot last night, and Chairman Fred T. Williams of the County Board of Education stated that there will be no objection to placing the Creeds in each school room. Mr. Williams is also adjutant of the local group of the Spanish War veterans.

The Creed reads as follows: "Americanism is an unflinching love of country, loyalty to its institutions and ideals, eagerness to defend it against all enemies, undivided allegiance to the flag, and a desire to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and posterity."

Mr. Williams and J. R. Lytle were appointed as a committee to have the printing done and the Creeds placed in the schools. Resolutions expressing to Frank Evans, member of the local camp, the sympathy of the veterans in the passing of Mrs. Evans were passed. An invitation was read to the camp to send a delegation to a meeting of the veterans of '98 in Miami on Mar. 2 when Rice W. Means and W. L. Matlocks, past national commanders of the U. S. W. V. and editors of the National Tribune, will be present.

Dust Storms Roll In Panhandle Of Texas

AMARILLO, Tex., Feb. 14. (AP)—Dust storms such as devastated great areas in the Southwest and Midwest in 1935 rolled again yesterday in the Texas panhandle. Blustering winds carrying soil scooped up from bare fields blotted out the sun. It was the most severe "black blizzard" of the current year—but still a far cry from those which ravaged soils, destroyed crops and impaired health in the so-called "dust bowl" last year.

Grain fields lacking sufficient vegetative covering furnished ammunition for the 45-mile south-west wind that swept toward a low pressure area in the North-western panhandle.

Visibility at one time was reduced to one-fifth of a mile. Downtown Amarillo was under a haze of dirt.

11 Dead, Four Missing In Jersey Hotel Fire

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Feb. 14. (AP)—Out of the black ruins of the Victoria Mansion hotel a band of WPA workers and firemen yesterday dug from more bodies, bringing to 11 the total of known dead in the Lincoln Day fire. Four persons, still unaccounted for, are thought to have perished in the flames.

At Paul Kimball Hospital the condition of M. E. Robert Schwartz, one of the eight seriously hurt in the fire, was reported critical.

50 Trucks A Day Haul Produce To Distant Markets

Vegetables Shipped North To Canada, West Into Texas

On the average of 50 trucks, a day, some of them half as large as a railroad freight car, are hauling produce from the Sanford State Farmers Wholesale Market to points as far North as Montreal, Quebec, and as far West as Houston, Texas. And the celery movement is only just beginning. In another two weeks, it was reported, the market will be "really busy."

Most of the produce being shipped at this season is brought in the big market in Sanford from points along the Florida East Coast, south of Fort Pierce, though some vegetables are being brought from Wauchula and the Bowling Green section as well as from Fort Meyers and other points on the Gulf Coast. Tomatoes and eggplant from Fort Myers and tomatoes from Wauchula are on the market, but the greater variety of produce comes from East Coast points as far south as Miami and Homestead—peppers, beans, squash, tomatoes, etc.

The market is open days and nights, Sundays and holidays, and is always a busy place. The very early morning hours, from 2 o'clock on often see the greatest activity there, with the 618-foot long warehouse stacked high with a great variety of fruit and vegetables and thronged with buyers and shippers.

Trucks from the North bring in apples, trucks from the South bring in vegetables, then the trucks go back North with Florida produce and the trucks from the South go back with northern fruits and Sanford celery.

A huge map in the office of Market Manager J. G. Michael is studded with pins showing where shipments have been made this season. Among the more distant points, in addition to Montreal and Houston, are Hamilton, Ontario; Grand Rapids and Saginaw Bay, Michigan; Minneapolis and St. Paul, Buffalo, St. Louis and Alexandria, Louisiana.

Bondholders' Lawyer Meets City Officials

The conference was arranged by City Attorney Fred R. Believe It Or Not, Vegetables In Ice Will Not Freeze

Shippers of vegetables from the Farmers State Wholesale Market in Sanford through and to frigid areas in the north use quantities of crushed ice to keep the vegetables from freezing. So much crushed ice is used—as much as half a ton in a truck—that a portable ice crusher has been installed at the market, and it has been in great demand during the continued cold spell. Well iced trucks have delivered vegetables in good condition as far as the Canadian border, it was reported at the market this week.

Sanford Boys Win 2 Prizes At State Fair

Meat And Dairy Displays Get Second And Fourth Places And $300 In Cash

Celery Camp of the Future Farmers of America won two prizes at the State Fair in Tampa this week. The meat exhibit placed in the exhibition by the boys was awarded second place, and the dairy exhibit won fourth place. With the awards went cash prizes totaling $300. Alex R. Johnson, instructor in agriculture at Seminole High School, was in charge of the exhibits.

The "celery progress" exhibit placed in the fair by the boys was not in competition for any prize award, but Mr. Johnson said it won the acclaim of visitors to the fair. The celery exhibit was placed at the left of the entrance to one of the largest exposition buildings and visitors to the building had to pass right by it, Mr. Johnson said. More than 101,000 persons saw the exhibit a week ago today, he said, and at 85,000 saw it last Monday.

As the "celery progress" display was different from any other exhibit at the fair in that it showed growing celery in all its stages from seed bed to crate it attracted a "world of attention," according to Mr. Johnson. Two thousand celery recipe books were printed for distribution at the fair, and though these were given only to persons who asked for them the supply was exhausted several days ago.

Mr. Johnson and C. R. Dawson, county agent, hope to rebuild the celery exhibit for the Central Florida Exposition in Orlando next week. The Future Farmers' meat display will also be taken to the Orlando fair.

Mr. Johnson returned from Tampa last night and said he wished to express his thanks for financial assistance to the County Commissioners, the Chamber of Commerce, the American Fruit Growers, the Sanford-Oviedo Truck Growers, Julius Dingfelder and J. C. Hutchison.

Other district officers elected last night are E. G. Dagg of Orlando, advisor; lieutenant; Charles Demco of Umatilla, banker; J. T. Brook of New Smyrna, clerk; J. A. Hurst of Winter Garden, escort; Gordon Graham of Umatilla, watchman; and J. J. Decker of Orlando, secretary.

Armstrong, Couch Also Charged With Larceny In Information Filed Today

Mayor's Son Is Accused Of Theft

Investigation Made Upon Orders From Governor Sholtz

DELAND, Feb. 14. (AP)—Mayor E. H. Armstrong and City Manager M. S. Couch of Daytona Beach were charged with larceny and embezzlement of $1214 in municipal funds in information filed in Circuit Court today by J. C. Adkins of Gainesville, special state attorney assigned here by Governor Dave Sholtz.

Howard Armstrong, son of the mayor, was charged with forgery and embezzlement of payrolls amounting to $3,719 an embezzlement of $696 of Volusia county district funds while employed as a timekeeper in county commissioners' district No. Four.

Adkins said the informations were based on investigation made by him and state auditors at Sholtz's direction.

Six informations were filed against the younger Armstrong and the seventh named his father and Couch.

Mayor Armstrong and Couch were charged with embezzling money Dec. 2, the last day prior to the city election. The son was charged with falsifying six district payrolls during a two week period last August and September.

Daytona Beach is Sholtz's hometown. Armstrong accused the governor of attempting to control county politics when he recently ordered audits of county and city records.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY
 THE DOOR OF THE LIPS: Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth;
 keep the door of my lips.—Psalm 141:3.

Proving Its Mettle

The experience of seven CCC boys, who were carried to sea on ice floes in Cape Cod Bay recently, provided a perfect background for a movie thriller which would lack nothing in novelty, thrills and suspense. Though deserving of a good spanking for venturing out where angels fear to tread, the boys did set in motion a drama which provided newspapers with unrivaled news copy.

The breaking off of the ice barrier, the seaward drift of the huge cake with its huddled cargo of young men, unable to be helped by their comrades ashore, its disappearance into the night, while Coast Guard boats sought vainly to locate the group, the subsequent search by airplane and the rescue by dory—here were events to challenge the ingenuity of a Hollywood scenario writer.

But their experience did something more. It served to focus attention on the services which the Coast Guard render, on the bravery and efficiency of its personnel, and how it meets emergencies. It helped to illustrate the gallantry and resourcefulness of the organization, an organization which, unfortunately, because of prohibition, had lost some of the high esteem with which it had always been held.

The Coast Guard is called upon to perform all manner of dangerous rescues along our sea shores. Whenever a ship is in distress, grounded on the rocks, perhaps, the Coast Guardmen brave the waves in their small boats or send a breeches buoy over the side so that the victims may be taken ashore. The Coast Guard is the special angel of small craft which are often running out of fuel, or being blown out to sea, and many a seaman owes his life to the Coast Guard for taking him to medical attention.

This latest feat of heroism is only one of many recently which are helping to re-establish the Coast Guard to its former position of high record.

Snapping Out Of It

The railroads of the country have experienced greater changes in the last few years than any other industry. The changes have been brought about because the railroads were losing their business to other means of transportation and something had to be done to stem the tide. The result has been new equipment, new service, streamlining, swifter schedules and lower rates.

In referring to the problems of the railroads, Joseph B. Eastman, federal co-ordinator has said: "Many must begin a new financial life, through reorganization. All must bring new life into operation, equipment, service, and rates. Transportation was once another name for railroads—but not now. Rivals abound—on the highways, on the water, in the air, and underneath the ground. Transportation is in a ferment of change, and the railroads must change along with the rest."

"In large bodies, like the railroads, change generates slowly, but once inertia is overcome, proceeds with accelerating momentum. I believe the railroads are reaching the latter stage. The air-conditioned stream-lined, Diesel-electric trains are forerunners of what is to come. My guess is that we are on the verge of changes which will reach into every phase of rail service. In the process, the railroads are likely to become transportation companies, with all that the name implies."

"Change is seldom painless, and it will not be for the railroads. It will also throw a heavy strain on private capital. It may be that private capital will be able to stand the strain. That will depend, I believe, on the extent to which railroad traffic recovers with recovery in general business. There are those who think that the traffic lost to the railroads through the depression has, in the main been traffic comparatively immune to the competition of other forms of transportation. They may be right. In that event, the earnings of the railroads may increase sufficiently to furnish an adequate basis for private credit."

"If the strain proves too great for private capital, the government will have to assume responsibility, in one form or another, for the railroads. On that point I venture no predictions."

Binocular Vision Used By Cavemen Serves Auto Age

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14.—(AP)—"Binocular vision," developed by monkeys and cavemen in their struggle for survival, is absolutely essential to the modern auto driver.

This is the finding of Dr. Theodore E. Schwartz of Alameda county hospital after a study of eyesight and its relation to motor accidents.

Defining binocular vision broadly as "depth perception—the ability to judge correctly the distance between objects," Dr. Schwartz said it was coming into its own again after a lapse of centuries.

"Monkeys require it when they leap from limb to limb," he said, "and prehistoric man needed it to judge how far away his enemies were. With civilization the necessity for binocular vision ceased."

"Automobiles have made it necessary again."

More Quakes Felt In Montana Metropolis

HELENA, Mont., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Earthquakes struck terror in several Montana cities last night as an added hardship to the state's longest cold wave and heaviest snowfall in years.

Hastening Of Adjournment Hints 'New Deal' Campaign Will Be Based On Record

By BYRON PRICE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—(AP)

The barren effort to hasten the adjournment of Congress has certain political implications which may prove of first-rate importance.

Broadly, Mr. Roosevelt now has a choice between two courses of political action. He can plunge into a new series of bold experiments on the eve of the re-election campaign, and seek by dramatic attacks on the depression to reassert some of the momentum of his earlier days in the White House. Or he can rest on the record as it stands.

His opening address to the present session, castigating his political enemies and announcing there would be no retreat, was interpreted widely as forecasting another tense period of creative effort at Washington. Rightly or wrongly, when he said he would not retreat, many believed that meant he intended to advance.

Subsequent events have led to a reconsideration of that forecast. If Administration pressure for early adjournment is taken at its face value, it can mean only that the President is willing to go to the country on the plea that he has done all he could to insure recovery, and is confident his efforts have succeeded.

To realize the unusual character of the present legislative situation it is necessary only to compare it with what has gone before.

Almost from the first, it has been customary for presidents to lay on the doorstep of Congress, even in normal times, long lists of legislative proposals.

It is no tax on the memory to recall how, in each of the earlier Roosevelt congresses, this process was accelerated so greatly that requests for major legislation, followed one another in breath-taking succession.

In contrast, it may almost be said that Mr. Roosevelt has asked nothing of the present session. He made one or two very general suggestions in his annual message. He recommended later the repeal of the cotton, tobacco and potato statutes, after everyone already regarded those statutes as dead letters.

Indirectly, and not officially or formally, he has asked that something be done to replace AAA, but a new farm act was inevitable without his recommendation. He indicated, also indirectly, that a restricted tax bill should be passed to replace the processing tax. His necessity measure, once figured as about the only prime administration proposal, appears to have been laid aside without protest.

Nothing more is heard of new industrial legislation to replace NRA, although the President himself mentioned such a prospect several months ago. An early adjournment would mean that no legislative recovery would be at hand should other "New Deal" laws now in the courts be invalidated.

For all of this there must be some special reason. It indicates, for the time being at least, a large-scale change of legislative strategy. The cause may remain hidden for weeks in the political fog, but some politicians think they can guess what it is.

An influential school among Mr. Roosevelt's advisors has been telling him that the depression is over, that the Mar. 15 tax returns will show it, and that it would be political wisdom for him to say so. They have been saying that, such being the case, the country is tired of Congress, and of new legislation. They have been arguing that this is no time to "rock the boat."

If the President himself is thinking along those lines, and is contemplating any public statement of his thoughts, Mar. 15 may become a significant date. At least it is worth marking on the political calendar.

The State of North Carolina first granted pardoning power to the governor in 1776. Acquiring new lands for national forestry, the U. S. forest service is giving free permits, in certain cases, to elderly people who want to live out their days on the old homestead.

Regatta Is To Be In Deeper Water Off Bethune Point

International Speed Boat Events To Be Saturday, Sunday

DAYTONA BEACH, Feb. 14—Need for greater depth and width to accommodate the heavier-typed boats entered in the International Speed Boat Regatta of Saturday and Sunday has necessitated transference of the course from the area between the Halifax River bridge to a point off Bethune Point, located a half-mile south of the mainland business center.

Under the changed lay-out, record-making hydroplanes and heavy motorboats will run two laps of 3 1/2 miles each, while smaller boats will run four laps of 1 1/2 miles each, making the five-mile total required in all events.

Bethune Point, the area and seawall of which will provide free parking and advantageous standing room for thousands, is best reached by way of Orange and South Street. A small fee will be charged for grandstand seats.

Permanent resident Floridians entered to date include: Travis Chastnut and Johnny Floyd, Jacksonville; Carl Meloon, Pinecastle; J. C. Cox, Lake Alfred; Barney Goggin, Louis Ferlin and Tommy Ferlin, Tampa; Goggin, who has entered seven boats, writes that additional Tampa entrants will come with him.

Nationally known as socialists and aquatic speed devotees, Mr. and Mrs. John Rutherford of Palm Beach have entered two record-holding boats—the 31 in Kyrdoplans Emancipator, which will be driven by the man; and the 32 in board Imp II which will have Mrs. Rutherford at the helm.

The speed-loving lady races under the name of Maude Rutherford. Time trials begin at 10 A. M. daily, competitive racing at 12:30 P. M.

Free Schooling Races At Track At 7:30 Tonight

Free schooling races for dogs which are being tested for places in futurity distance hurdle races which will be introduced at Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club grayhound race track near Longwood next week will be run tonight, starting at 7 o'clock.

Officials who are watching the performance of the hurdle candidates were impressed Thursday night when Backfielder, one of America's outstanding hurdlers, cleared the four obstacles and finished the futurity distance in the record time of 30 4-8 seconds.

A large crowd gathered last night taking advantage of fine weather conditions to witness the running of another outstanding program. Ten races will be offered tonight, starting at 8:15 o'clock.

"I know the value of extra nitrogen!"

I may be an "old timer" yet I keep in touch with new things. And when any new thing is better, that's what I want.

Ever since I learned the Department of Agriculture and Immigration of Virginia reported that contained extra nitrogen over the guaranteed 16% with an extra cash value as high as 88c per ton, I have used no other.

ARCADIAN, THE AMERICAN NITRATE OF SODA

I know the value of extra nitrogen and I make sure to get that extra value.

For truck, fruit and all crops it is now proved that ARCADIAN, THE AMERICAN NITRATE OF SODA brings the farmer big value.
