Fatal Night Of Drunk Driving Nets Teen 15-Year Prison Term

By Charles Cobb
Herald Staff Writer

A Longwood teenager whose drunk driving escapade killed a 13-year-old girl in 1981 was sentenced Tuesday to 15 years in prison following an emotional courtroom session in which the victim's mother broke into sobs.

Unconvinced by the defendant's expressed regret, Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi imposed the maximum sentence on 19-year-old Jerome Jowals.

Jowals was sentenced as an adult, although he was only 17 years old at the time of the incident. Salfi said Jowals' attorney has 60 days in which to request that Jowals be sentenced as a youthful offender.

If such a motion is made and Salfi accepts it, Jowals' sentence could not exceed six years, which would mean four years in prison and two years on probation.

If the adult sentence stands, Jowals will likely be released on parole in four years.

Salfi told Jowals to present a plan to him within 60 days detailing how he thinks he should make restitution for his crime.

Jowals was convicted of running down Laurie Ann Hebel of

Jerome Jowals

Longwood on May 17, 1981. His car struck Laurie as she was walking along the shoulder of Wekiva Springs Road with four other girls at about midnight.

The car "grazed" all the girls and also seriously injured Laurie Ann's sister, Marianne Hebel, who was 10 years old at the time, according to assistant state attorney Steve Plotnik.

After the accident, Laurie, who was bleeding from the nose, mouth and ears, was put in Jowals' car and driven back to the Hebel home for help. She died later that morning.

'I've changed my life. I don't drink anymore. I'm really sorry for this.'

Jowals was convicted of manslaughter-driving while intoxicated by a six-woman Seminole circuit court jury in April.

During the sentencing Tuesday, Jowals said he was sorry for what he had done and would like to make up for it.

"I feel I should pay," said Jowals. "I would like to do anything I could. I've changed my life. I don't drink anymore. I really am sorry for this. I'm not just thinking of myself."

Mrs. Sandra Hebel, the mother of the dead girl, sobbed and her voice broke as she responded angrily to Jowals:

"He sits there and says he's sorry. He's not sorry. He doesn't know what pain and suffering he's caused this family. He doesn't have any feeling for anything but for his own butt."

One of the dead girl's sisters, Ruth Ann Hebel, told Salfi she had heard reports that Jowals had "bragged and joked about it (the accident) at parties."

Marianne Hebel said she thought Jowals felt no remorse.

"If he was really sorry, he would already have done something," she said.

Looking across the room at the Hebel family members, Jowals, a slim, blonde young man, said he had wanted to do something to show his regret.

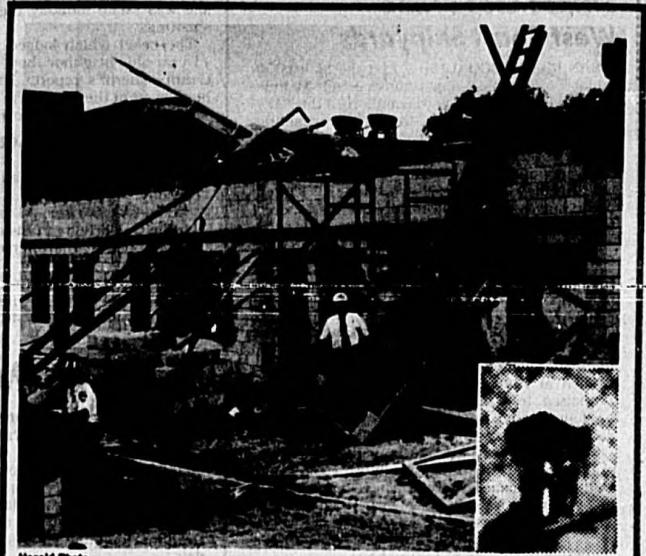

"I didn't know if it would be OK to go to Laurie's gravesite and place flowers. I didn't know how to approach you."

Salfi said to Jowals: "I don't feel you are honest in what you are saying. You don't really feel what's going on with them (Hebel family). I think there's been a time when you have felt joy and relief at the way this case was going."

A Florida Highway Patrol trooper revealed at the sentencing that Jowals had been involved in a traffic accident before the Hebel girl was killed.

Trooper Gary Odom said he joined Altamonte Springs police

Roof Collapse Kills Sanford Man

Altamonte Springs Chief Building Inspector John Waddell walks from amid rubble left after the roof of a shopping center under construction collapsed Tuesday, killing James Terry, 43, of Sanford (inset). Fire Inspector Steven W. Peavey talks to an onlooker from behind the cordoned-off area at the site on County Road 427 near State Road 436. Waddell said the cause of the collapse was unknown. "When I get my pictures developed and my blueprints out, then we'll know." Others have speculated the weight of too much roofing material caused trusses to snap. Story and pictures, page 3A.

'What Did They Have This Meeting For?'

Seminole Okays 4-Cent Gas Tax

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

After a two-hour public hearing that some called a sham, Seminole County commissioners voted unanimously Tuesday night to establish a countywide 4-cent gasoline tax that will last ten years.

Fourteen people spoke for the proposed tax and 16 spoke against it. After the vote one opponent of the tax commented, "What did they have this meeting for? They already made up their minds."

The gas tax will bring an estimated $3.4 million annually into county coffers over the next decade to deal with road needs. According to some estimates, the tax will cost the average driver about $30 per year.

The tax plan approved by commissioners represented a victory of sorts for Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather who wanted a priority list of roads which will be improved with funds from the tax.

But it was also a victory for Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff who wanted to avoid a priority list to retain the commission's flexibility in dealing with transportation needs.

Feather proposed that a transportation management plan be prepared to determine exactly what the county's needs are, an objective criteria be established for evaluating the transportation needs and that more than $800,000 generated by the tax be used to replenish the county's equipment replacement reserve, which was depleted by commissioners to balance the 1983-84 budget.

He also proposed setting aside half a cent of the gas tax for use in purchasing rights-of-way and drainage property for road construction.

But Kirchhoff said it is premature to set aside funds from the tax for any particular purpose. "At certain times we need rights-of-way, at certain times we need signals. Ten years is a long time. I don't think we should tie down 1/2 cent for that long," he said.

Feather withdrew that part of his motion in exchange for a promise that right-of-way acquisition would be considered during discussions on spending the tax revenues.

The unanimous vote drew boos and snickers from members of the audience who claimed that commissioners had made up their minds before the public hearing and were just going through the motions of a public comment.

Three commissioners had previously announced their support for a 4-cent tax. Sandra Glenn, Robert Sturm and Barbara Christensen took a stand a month ago in favor of the tax. But by state law, they needed either Kirchhoff or Feather to support the tax in order to impose the full four cents.

In the past few weeks, Feather, who has been an ardent supporter of transportation improvements, said he was against the tax without a priority list and Kirchhoff said he would take no public stand on the tax until the hearing.

But Tuesday night they, too, came out in favor of the tax as well. Kirchhoff said growth in Seminole

'No Vietnam'

In his news conference Tuesday night, President Reagan said there is no comparison between Vietnam and the direction U.S. policy in Central America is now taking. On a related matter, the president said halting aid to Nicaraguan rebels would be a "grave mistake." See stories on page 3A.

Drowning Victim 'Doomed' Self

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

A 24-year-old Altamonte Springs man who drowned in an Apopka underground cave Monday night was "doomed" when he went into the water, said an Orange County Fire Department cave and cavern diving expert today.

David J. Williams of Capistrano Condominiums "was improperly equipped, had no formal training in cave diving and it was the first time he dived in the Apopka Blue Sink," said Capt. Ron Menke.

Williams' friend, Sean Madison, also of Capistrano Condominiums, said they had gone into the cave "for the thrill of it, a thought that is horrible in the minds of experienced divers," Menke said. "I told Madison his buddy then had experienced the ultimate thrill. He died."

"When Williams' body was found Tuesday, there was a big gash on the back of his hand. He was sitting in the cave with his air mask ripped off," Menke said.

"He had pulled both of his air tanks to zero, hoping someone would come back and look for him," the cave and cavern diving expert and instructor said. "Horrifying thoughts must have been going through his mind as he was drawing those last few breaths and he probably thrashed about a bit."

"Usually what happens," Menke said "is the tendency to rip the air mask off your face and usually the diver goes unconscious. Within the last 10-15 breaths, it is difficult because there is nothing left (in the air tanks) there."

"He was sitting down there with 1,000 pounds of air left and when the tanks got to zero, that's the end," Menke said.

Williams' body was recovered Tuesday by two divers certified by the National Association for Cave Diving, Bill Olgarden and Roy Young. Menke said. Menke gave up a search for the body early Tuesday morning, some three hours after the Williams and Madison began their dive into the Apopka Blue Sink at 9:20 p.m. Monday.

"I didn't have a certified diver with me and there was no point in taking risks when there was no chance Williams would be found alive," Menke said.

"When divers explore a cavern during the daytime, they can see the natural light from the entrance. At 9:20 at night, the cavern automatically becomes a cave, one cannot look back and see any light whatsoever and it is the blackest black there is. If a diver has a light failure, there is no light. You can't imagine how black it is," Menke said.

"Apparently some inexperienced divers dive for the thrill of walking that fine line between life and death. With real cave divers there is nothing further from the truth," Menke insisted.

Menke explained there are different classes of divers, those certified to dive in open water like the ocean or fresh water springs where they can look up and see the light of day and those certified to dive in caves or caverns. Williams and Madison were certified for open water diving.

"Certified cave and cavern divers are required to have alternate sources of air and two lights each. Madison had two lights with him and had only been in cave three times. His buddy had only been certified for open diving four months, had never been at the cave and had only one light," Menke said.

A cave or cavern diver is going to spend $2,500 to $3,000 for cave diving equipment, he said. "The equipment is bought mainly for your buddy as back up. If your buddy doesn't want to go through the expense, you don't dive with him."

To be certified for cave diving, Menke said, a person attends classes for four weekends or eight days and the classes include 20 dives. "The word 'safety' is stressed at those classes with big capital letters. We fall people out of class when they do not show enough safety," Menke said.

He noted that neither Williams nor Madison had any training in cave diving. Neither knew how to run a safety line and both were ill equipped. The line from the cave to the surface which the pair used had been left in the water by someone else.

$7 Million Project

Library Bond Issue Gets Final Approval

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County's $7 million library bond issue has been taken off the shelf.

Commissioners dusted off the bond issue proposal at a work session Tuesday and agreed to issue the $7 million in bonds approved in November by county voters.

The bond issue is intended to pay for expansion of the Sanford branch library, build a new home for the main library in Casselberry and acquire property and build libraries in Lake Mary, Oviedo, Lake Howell-Tuscawilla and Forest City-Wekiva.

The bonds were scheduled to be issued in March but concern over the county's ability to pay higher library operating costs led commissioners to delay the matter.

As a compromise, Library Advisory Board members recommended issuing $4 million of the bonds now and the remaining $3 million by 1987. The split would have permitted the county to proceed with acquisition and construction of some of the libraries.

But County Attorney Nikki Clayton said splitting the bond issue makes little sense, pointing out that issuing bonds twice would increase the county's costs.

"In my opinion, we've had a mandate from the people," Commissioner Sandra Glenn said.

With that, commissioners decided to go ahead with their original proposal and sell all the bonds, then begin land acquisition and construction as soon as possible. Construction would begin as sites become available, giving commissioners and civic organizations an incentive to help locate potential library sites in their areas.

Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather said the library advisory board, which is in charge of selecting sites, should contact the Seminole County School Board and city governments within the county to determine whether they might have surplus land available for use as a library.

The bonds should be validated by December. Once the bonds are sold, the county has five years to spend the money.

NATION IN BRIEF

Strikes Close Nine West Coast Shipyards

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A strike by 10,000 metal workers shut down construction at nine major West Coast shipyards and forced the Navy to put federal employees to work overhauling the USS Enterprise aircraft carrier.

The workers walked off the job Tuesday at shipyards and repair docks from San Francisco to Seattle after the Metal Trades Council unanimously rejected a contract package offered by the Pacific Coast Shipbuilders Association.

Negotiations broke off in Oakland last Saturday, and Clarence Briggs, executive secretary of the Oakland, Calif.-based council, said he did not expect any settlement until a federal mediator arrives later this week.

The strike forced the Navy to put federal employees to work overhauling the giant nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise, docked at Alameda across the bay from San Francisco. In Seattle, the dispute stopped work on four guided missile frigates at Todd Shipyard.

The unions want a $3 an hour raise in wages and benefits over three years, but a spokesman said they probably would have accepted a one-year wage freeze.

Management wants a three-year wage freeze and a cutback in benefits. The average journeyman wage is $13.50 an hour.

Pneumonia Killed Panda

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Laboratory tests reveal a type of pneumonia that developed several days before birth caused the sudden death of America's first baby giant panda.

Three hours after its birth last Thursday, the tiny male cub died of "acute prenatal bronchopneumonia," National Zoo spokeswoman Leslie Hornig said Tuesday. "The infection probably started two days to a week before birth."

Doctors are keeping an eye on the mother, Ling-Ling, to make sure she did not contract the infection.

Despite the death of the cub, zoo officials are pleased Ling-Ling is capable of being a mother.

"It's a good sign," Ms. Hornig said. "They mated this year, there was a birth and Ling-Ling was very maternal. We hope this points to a cub next year."

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: The lingering heat wave pushed temperatures to record highs in three states and Florida baked through its hottest July on record, but thunderstorms pushed the worst hot spell in three years out of the rest of the nation, plunging readings by as much as 30 degrees. Records were set or tied Tuesday in Alabama, Georgia and Florida as the heat wave, blamed for at least 160 deaths nationwide, stalled over the South. The high of 98 at Mobile, Ala. tied the mark set in 1912. Columbus, Ga. recorded a steamy 98 to edge the mark of 97 set in 1976 and Tallahassee and West Palm Beach sweated in sticky 99-degree heat. But officials who counted at least 160 heat-related deaths from two weeks of furnace-like weather across the eastern two-thirds of the nation relaxed as buckets of rain cooled them — but only a little. "I'm mildly optimistic that the weather will give us the break that's needed," said Mike Latesa, director of emergency medical services at St. Louis, the city worst hit by heat deaths. "But we don't want to completely demobilize and let our guards down." Officials in Kentucky reported 44 heat-related deaths, Missouri 37, Illinois 23, Indiana 16, Georgia 14, North Carolina nine, Alabama, Florida and South Carolina three each, and Kansas, Iowa, Ohio, Minnesota, Maryland, New York, Arkansas and Tennessee one each. South Florida, suffering its hottest July ever with a mean temperature in excess of 85 for combined night and day readings, hoped for relief today from afternoon showers.

Girl, 7, Stable After Surgery To Remove BB

A 7-year-old Sanford girl was reported in stable condition at Shands Teaching Hospital, Gainesville, today following surgery to remove a BB pellet from her left eye.

A hospital spokesman said the prognosis looked good for Jessica Humphrey, of Miller Road, to recover sight in the damaged eye. The child was transferred to Shands from Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, where she was taken Monday night following the accidental shooting.

The pellet which lodged in her eye was fired by an 11-year-old neighbor boy, according to a Seminole County sheriff's report. Jessica was reportedly riding her bicycle at the time of the incident.

An investigation into the incident is continuing.

NECKLACE SNATCHED

A 14-carat gold chain was ripped off the neck of an Altamonte Springs man as he sat in his car at 8:07 p.m. Tuesday.

Donald W. Walker, 26, of 863 Ballard St., told police that he was driving in his car when a vehicle in front of him stopped at the intersection of North and Jackson streets.

Ballard stopped his car and six men approached him. One of them jumped into his vehicle, snatched the chain, valued at $400, from his neck and ran.

FOOT CHASE

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy chased a gasoline thief twice at a Holiday Inn west of Sanford but the culprit escaped the fast feet of the law both times.

Deputy S. G. Thompson said he was patrolling in his squad car when he saw a man standing beside a 1981 Ford pickup truck parked on the back parking lot of the Holiday Inn at West State Road 46 and Interstate 4 at 3:07 a.m. Tuesday.

Thompson said the man, who was carrying a red gas can and a clear hose, took off running when he saw the squad car. Thompson chased the man on foot through the parking lot to the front of the motel, but lost him. Other deputies arrived and began searching for the thief and about a half hour later Thompson saw the man again, running toward a wooded area behind the motel. Thompson chased him again but lost the speedy thief in the underbrush.

CARS STOLEN

Two automobiles have been reported stolen in Sanford recently.

John S. Root, 45, of 702 Grove Ave., Altamonte Springs, said someone stole his car, valued at $2,000, while it was parked at 1002 S. French Ave. between midnight Thursday and 7:45 p.m. Friday.

Lucille Montgomery, 43, of 2540 Byrd Ave., said she left her keys in her 1975 brown Chevrolet Impala while it was parked in front of a residence at 1600 W. 12th St. She said someone removed the car, valued at $900, between 10 p.m. Friday and 6:15 a.m. Saturday.

DRUGS TAKEN

Someone broke into a Longwood drug store and stole two bottles containing 1,200 Valium tablets and $10 in cash between 7:10 p.m. Saturday and 5 p.m. Sunday.

Store manager, David M. Midgett, said the thief entered the Longwood-Village Pharmacy, 1807 State Road 434, by breaking out a small window next to the front door.

2 More May Seek Office In Lake Mary; Oviedo Ballot Set

By Donna Estes
 Herald Staff Writer

On the eve of the deadline for qualifying to run for three open seats on the Lake Mary City Commission, two new prospective candidates have indicated their intentions to seek office. Deadline for qualifying is noon, Thursday.

The two new prospective candidates are Bob Stoddard and Dennis Smathers, both members of the Lake Mary Volunteer Fire Department. Neither are saying which commission seat they may seek.

Meanwhile, candidates who have qualified for the Sept. 6 election are: incumbent Burt Perinchief, Colin Keogh, an unsuccessful candidate last year, and ex-councilman Harry Terry who served seven years on the board.

Commissioner Ray Fox, completing his second term in office, has said he will not run for re-election because he wants to spend more time with his family. And Charlie Lytle, the second incumbent, says he and his family are moving out of the city.

Lake Mary residents who are not registered to vote in the city election may do so until Aug. 5 at the supervisor of elections offices at the courthouse in Sanford or the Interstate Mall or at any of the city halls in the county except Sanford.

Meanwhile, the ballot is set in Oviedo where a city election is also scheduled for Sept. 6.

Candidate qualification closed at 5 p.m. Friday with three candidates running for mayor and five others running for two city council seats being vacated by the incumbents.

Mayor Robert "Bob" Whittler is being challenged by former city councilman

Steven West and Judith H. Stout.

Candidates for the city council seat held by Pamela Pellarin are E.P. Bruce and David B. Rhodes III, while running for the group 2 seat held by Janis Fensch are James H. Browdy, W.A. Ward Jr. and William W. McCartney, according to Nancy Cox, city clerk.

Mrs. Pellarin and Mrs. Fensch declined to seek re-election.

Oviedo residents who are not registered to vote in the Sept. 6 city election, may do so until Aug. 5.

The winners will take office Oct. 3.

Morgan May Have Taped Phone Calls

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Vicki Morgan, who allegedly made sex tapes with government officials, secretly recorded her telephone calls for at least a year before she was battered to death, sources said.

The audio tapes are in the custody of Miss Morgan's lawyer and include conversations with attorney Marvin Mitchelson, who once represented the former model in her $11 million "palimony" suit against Reagan adviser Alfred Bloomingdale, a source close to the case told UPI Tuesday.

Miss Morgan, 30, was beaten to death with a baseball bat July 7 while she slept in the North Hollywood apartment she shared with longtime friend Marvin Pancoast. Pancoast, 33, surrendered to police and has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to murder charges. His preliminary hearing is scheduled Thursday.

Defense attorney Arthur Barans said Tuesday a "reliable source" has given him "reason to believe" Miss Morgan was recording her telephone calls at home and said he might subpoena those tapes if Pancoast is ordered to stand trial.

Writer Gordon Basichia, who said he had worked with Miss Morgan on her autobiography for about eight months, told UPI she taped her telephone conversations.

"Essentially it was just to protect herself," he said. "People were calling, making all kinds of offers and this and that ... She wanted a record of who called and what they said, a legal basis."

Another source close to the investigation, who spoke on the condition he not be identified, told UPI the tapes included conversations with Mitchelson, the celebrity divorce lawyer who was fired by Miss Morgan last September after representing her in the palimony suit for about two months.

Cause Of Fatal Roof Collapse Probed; Overload Suspected

By Charles Cobb
Herald Staff Writer

"He was the best man I ever had," said Thomas Todd sadly. "I wish it had been me rather than one of my men."

Todd was talking about James Terry, the 43-year-old Midway construction worker who was crushed to death yesterday when an unfinished roof, that may have been overloaded, collapsed at an Altamonte Springs building site.

"He (Terry) was truly dedicated," said Todd, owner of Expert Roofing of Sanford, Terry's employer. "If I told the men to be there at 7 a.m., he'd be there at six, waiting. When they had that tornado in Orlando, he worked right beside me in the rain. I'm sorry it happened."

Todd, 34, said he had been standing next to Terry just before the roof caved in at 12:43 p.m. at the Altamonte Depot, a strip shopping center under construction on U.S. Highway 17-92 just north of State Road 436.

The collapse showered Terry with about five tons of river rock, lumber and other building materials and injured two other workers.

As Todd walked away from Terry to make a phone call, he heard a sound "like an earthquake. Timbers were snapping and popping like Rice Krispies. I was the one who picked up the plywood off him (Terry)."

Federal inspectors today were on the scene of the tragic accident at the Altamonte Depot site to try and determine what caused a fatal roof collapse.

Todd said that if the accident had not occurred during the lunch break, there might have been 25 or 30 workers under the roof. "I've been in the roofing business for five years and have never had an accident like this," he said.

Also injured was Norman Lewis, 55, of Eatonville, who underwent surgery for a broken leg Tuesday at Florida Hospital in Altamonte Springs and was listed in fair condition today.

Joseph Fleuit of Apopka was treated at the same hospital for minor injuries and released.

Altamonte Springs building director Windell Peters said the collapse appeared to have been caused by "a roof overload" and his investigation is continuing.

Peters said federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration officials arrived at the site today to begin their own probe and are expected to release their findings Friday.

Fleuit said he was on top of the roof and was about to take a lunch break when he felt the roof shake and then felt himself falling along with a 40-by-54-foot section of the northeast corner of the structure's roof which fell about 12 feet.

"I'm lucky," said Fleuit, a Haitian immigrant. "I was going to the ladder when the roof shook, and then I fell down."

Fleuit said his arm was acut and his neck was hurt. But, he said, "I'm lucky to be living."

Todd said his crew had spent the morning using a crane to hoist four cubic yards of river rock, a roofing material similar to gravel, to the roof.

Police and fire officials said the roof, constructed with 3/4-inch plywood, was also weighed down with a dozen rolls of tar paper and concrete blocks.

Todd said he and his crew placed the river rock in the center of the northeast area of the building and planned to spread it over the entire roof after lunch.

He said he didn't know why the roof fell in, but speculated there "might have been a little bit too much weight for the trusses."

Todd said a strong wind was blowing the river rock to the far side of the roof when the roof "just started creaking and came down."

"One guy was in there just leaning against the wall eating his lunch, and the guy that was killed (Terry) just walked in to get out of the heat, I guess," Todd said.

In addition to Terry and Fleuit, who worked on Todd's seven-man roofing crew, 10 other workers were on the job at the mini-mall construction site, working on other projects, including completing two interior concrete block walls in the section where the roof collapsed.

The other workers escaped harm because they left the construction area or went to another part of the building to eat lunch, Todd said.

Lewis worked as a job site foreman for Central Florida Construction Group, Inc., the general contractor on the project. Altamonte Springs Building Department records show the 11,700-square-foot building has been inspected five times since its foundation was laid June 23 and no building code violations were reported.

The building was designed to house eight commercial tenants and will cost $270,000.

The last fatal construction accident in Seminole County occurred Aug. 18, 1982, when three people were killed in the collapse of a wall in the Burpee Seed Co. building which was being demolished in downtown Sanford.

The cause of that accident was ultimately determined to be a high wind blowing against an unsupported wall.

Chappell Asks Explanation
Lake Monroe Minister Tips Congressman On U.S. Arms Among PLO
Acting on information supplied by a Lake Monroe minister, U.S. Rep. Bill Chappell, D-Daytona Beach, has called on Secretary of State George Shultz to explain the steps being taken to prevent the transfer of U.S. supplied weapons to Saudi Arabia to the Palestine Liberation Organization.
He has also asked Shultz whether the government is aware of the transfers and the extent of such transfers.
Florida's fourth district congressman has asked for the explanation as a result of information supplied to him by Rev. George Crossley of Deltona, who reported his observations to Chappell after a tour in Israel earlier this month.
Crossley, a Baptist minister, said that he saw and took video tapes of M-16 rifles confiscated from the PLO by Israeli authorities, bearing the seal of the government of Saudi Arabia. The tapes were taken at an Israeli military base in Haifa on July 4.
"It is a matter of great concern to me that arms supplied to Saudi Arabia should be finding their way to the PLO. Such transfers of arms not only undermine U.S. interests in the Middle East but also violate the conditions of sale required by Section 3 of the Arms Export Control Act," Chappell told Shultz.
In a letter to Crossley, Chappell added that the Arms Export Control Act requires a recipient country to agree not to transfer U.S. arms to any third party. He also noted that the president is required to terminate sales if the terms of this act are violated.

Peace Seeking May Be A Mirage

With peace proposals now flying almost as thickly in Central America as the bullets, it is a good time to think aloud about just who might really be interested in a negotiated settlement.

Let us start with the Reagan administration. Its one non-negotiable objective is to prevent the transformation of Central America into a Soviet-Cuban beachhead on the mainland of the Western Hemisphere. Anything short of that, including a socialist but non-interventionist Nicaragua, would almost certainly be acceptable to an administration seriously handicapped by congressional opposition and the absence of a national consensus on U.S. policy in Central America.

The so-called Contadora group — Mexico, Venezuela, Colombia, and Panama — wants to head off a superpower confrontation that could result in a regional war threatening the security of all. Contadora members would presumably concur in any settlement that backed the superpowers out of Central America and curtailed, if not eliminated, external support for guerrilla wars in El Salvador and Nicaragua.

The governments of El Salvador, Costa Rica, Honduras, and Guatemala want an end to Nicaraguan and other Soviet-bloc support for Marxist revolutionaries within their borders.

As for Nicaragua's Sandinista regime, it proclaims a willingness to respect the sovereignty of its neighbors in exchange for a regional agreement of non-intervention and a general demilitarization of Central America.

Note the parallel interests encompassed by each of these positions. Achieving a negotiated settlement in Central America would be child's play were it not for one overriding fact of life: The actions to date of the Sandinista regime in Nicaragua and its Soviet-bloc allies, especially Cuba, belie any genuine willingness to abandon the export of revolution.

Clearly, the barrier to a negotiated settlement in Central America is not any lack of "flexibility" in Washington, Mexico City, Caracas, or anywhere else in the hemisphere outside Havana and Managua.

Which brings us to the "peace proposals" advanced recently by Nicaragua's Daniel Ortega, the hardcore Marxist who speaks most often for the Sandinista junta. Ortega said his government is willing to enter talks on a non-aggression pact between Nicaragua and Honduras, a freeze on all arms shipments to El Salvador, and an end to the use of foreign territory as a base of support for insurgencies in other countries.

The Reagan administration sees hints of conciliation in this language. So too, presumably, will members of the Contadora group and possibly some of the other states in Central America. Certainly there is reason for Washington to test Nicaragua's sincerity with at least some backdoor discussions.

But taking the Daniel Ortegas of this world at their word when they talk of compromises that would preclude the ultimate victory of Marxism requires, at the very least, an enormous leap of faith. Fidel Castro has made a career of betraying such faith for more than 20 years. And no one in Moscow has ever renounced, save as a temporary expedient, the imperative for all Marxist-Leninists to further revolution in every target of opportunity.

Odds are that the seeming conciliation coming from Nicaragua has more to do with the current military and political pressure on the Sandinistas than any desire for true compromise and a lasting negotiated settlement. That being the case, there is every reason to maintain or even increase that pressure while sounding out the Sandinistas, and the Cubans, too, on whether there is any real basis for agreement.

Unless we miss our guess, there isn't.

BERRY'S WORLD

"See! What did I tell you? The young ones aren't tough enough to be premier."

By Charles Cobb

Babysitting has always been a very popular and rewarding job. Even though the chores associated with this activity may not be too complex, caring for someone else's children carries with it a tremendous responsibility.

Parents should always provide the babysitter with phone numbers where they can be reached as well as fire and other emergency numbers.

And if you are working as a babysitter yourself, the Florida Crime Watch people have a few tips to make your job a little easier, more effective and safer:

- Plan ahead. Know in advance how to get children out of their bedrooms if the front and back doors are blocked by fire.
- Lock the doors and don't open them to anyone. (The exception may be when your employer has told you a caller is expected.)
- Know the locations of possible dangers to children in the house: portable heaters, poisons and medicines, sharp objects — and in the case of smaller children, electrical cords and outlets.

• If cooking, watch out for loose fitting sleeves that can catch fire. Turn pot handles towards the center of the stove so children can't pull them down. Smother a pan fire with a lid, never use water.

• Be brief and businesslike on the phone. Don't tell unknown callers that you are the sitter or supply other information. Take a message and say that Mr. and/or Mrs. Blank will be back "momentarily." Any extra conversation is encouragement to someone who might mean harm.

A good babysitter also knows some basic first aid to treat things like cuts and minor burns. And even though the job may seem boring at times, NEVER leave the children alone in a separate room.

What price tag can we put on crime?

It was in the 1800s when the Whyos, members of a notorious New York City street gang, terrorized lower Manhattan. They fought with other gangs, fought among themselves, and against anyone they were hired to attack.

Their notoriety swept through the area as they not only hired out as paid killers but also printed and openly distributed this itemized price list for their services:

- punching, $2
- both eyes blacked, $4
- nose and jaw broken, $10
- knocked out with blackjack, $15
- ear "chawed" off, $15
- leg or arm broken, $19
- shot in leg, $25
- stab, $25
- doing the big job (murder), $100.

WASHINGTON WORLD Are Study Panels A Benefit?

By Steve Gerstel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The naming last week by President Reagan of the Kissinger commission to develop a policy for Central America has stirred some unease on Capitol Hill.

This nebulous feeling, festering for some time, has nothing to do with the commission nor with its chairman, former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

In fact, two senators, Henry Jackson of Washington and Charles Mathias of Maryland, can claim paternity on the basis of their resolution that urged Reagan to appoint a panel.

Nor is the problem Kissinger, although he has many detractors among the very conservative Republicans and some liberal Democrats.

What causes the unease among some, although they may still be a minority, is the concept of creating commissions, peopled by experts outside government, to solve the nation's most major problems.

The concept is far from new, dating back at least to the Hoover commission. But in very recent years, this problem-solving option has come into more and more use.

First, there was the commission to revamp the Social Security system and save it from bankruptcy.

Then came the Secowfrost commission appointed to find a solution to the MX controversy, followed now by the Kissinger commission.

Going outside government for the answer seems to have worked in the case of Social Security.

Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd, who expressed his concerns during a free-flowing speech last week, cited several problems.

The first he cited was that "the reports of commissions may pretty well lock us into whatever decisions are reached by the commission."

A second source of concern, Byrd said, is that the reports of commissions "are often so fragile that the argument can be made that if this little piece or that little piece is taken out, the whole thing can unravel."

And a third problem, he said, is that commissions "can be to a considerable extent established to reflect the philosophy or the direction in which a particular administration wants to go."

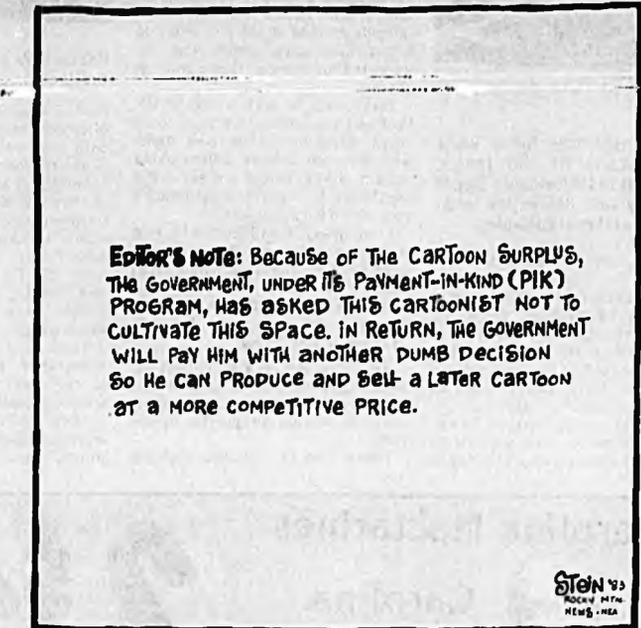

Senate Republican leader Howard Baker, long a believer in a shift from the present to the concept of citizen-legislators, believes the commissions could be the coming approach to solving the problems.

Speaking after Byrd, Baker said, "I think we are seeing a genesis in the beginning of something that may be terribly important politically in this country."

And Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., very much a traditionalist, finds much good in the concept of commissions.

Speaking the day before Byrd and Baker, Stennis noted that commissions are "in no way a substitute" for the duties and responsibilities of the president or Congress.

He said, "In fact, it is merely an added aid of people that were knowledgeable in that field and related matters to make a bipartisan examination of the facts as they find them and make recommendations — purely recommendations — as they see fit to the president and Congress."

On Political Scams

The current White House flap over the purloined Carter papers and even the Watergate scandal are trivialities compared to the way they did business in some past administrations.

In a recent column, I called attention to the probable outright theft of the 1980 presidential election by Democratic machines in Texas and in Cook County, Illinois, where graveyards and vacant lots turn out sizable Democratic majorities. Scared by 1980 experience with vote fraud, Nixon organized an army of volunteer poll watchers for his 1968 race against Hubert Humphrey.

But in the 1936 landslide victory over Alf Landon, the Roosevelt organization behaved with a regal disdain for the proprieties and for the public treasury. None of these details is meant to condone violations, but to achieve some perspective and calm.

The following delicious anecdote comes from Richard Norton Smith's recent biography, "Thomas E. Dewey and His Times," a superb account of that remarkable man and his colorful era:

"Landon liked afterwards to tell the story of his friend Roy Roberts, editor of the Kansas City Star, who had bet a thousand dollars that Landon would carry his home state. Driving to a fair on the Saturday before Election Day, Roberts noted extra men working all along the highway. He decided to check out his hunch by returning on a different road and, sure enough, it too was lined with WPA workers (the WPA was a federally funded public works project of that time). Only two months later did Roberts learn why. Jim Farley (FDR's Postmaster General and campaign manager) chuckled as he told of conversations with the state's IRS collector, its Democratic chairman, and its national committeeman over how many names would have to be added to the public payroll if Kansas were to forsake its traditional Republican voting habits. Three weeks before the election, Farley was given a figure — 25,000. He then made sure that 26,723 men were hired during the campaign's final two weeks. FDR carried Kansas."

The passage of time softens moral outrage, and now, almost a half century later, this anecdote seems largely humorous and colorful — but it is also an eye-opener. The 1936 Roosevelt campaign was absolutely certain of a landslide victory against Landon, but it wanted the further satisfaction of carrying even Landon's home state, and it was willing to add the federal treasury to the Democratic campaign chest in order to do so.

Compared with improprieties on that regal scale, things like Gordon Liddy's bugging of the Watergate Hotel offices of Larry O'Brien or the questionable Carter papers seem pretty small change.

On the Carter papers flap, a couple of things are becoming reasonably clear. We do not yet know the precise roles played in the matter by chief of staff James Baker and his group, or by CIA director William Casey and his associates. But Casey was the 1980 campaign manager and Baker was in charge of the debate preparations. Since Baker has admitted to receiving the Carter material — from Casey, he says — it is extremely hard to see how Baker can play a leading role in the 1984 campaign.

A second point emerging in all of this is that budget director David Stockman is a loose cannon in the Reagan administration, the sort of person whose indiscretions can kill you. On the very day of the Reagan-Carter debate, Stockman told a Midwestern audience about the Reaganites' possession of the papers. As William Casey remarked a few days ago, that kind of information could have blown the Reagan campaign right out of the water. Columnist George Will recalls seeing the Carter material on Stockman's kitchen table.

In 1981, Stockman meditated damagingly and at length on the Reagan economic program before liberal reporter William Greider, who published the whole thing in the Atlantic magazine. And it was Stockman who precipitated the present mess by disclosing the existence of the Carter papers to another reporter, Laurence Barrett, who printed the information in his recent book about the Reagan administration, "Gambling With History."

David Stockman may be a whiz with the numbers, but he is also a political fool whose total lack of professionalism makes him a lethal danger to the administration.

VIEWPOINT Newport Doing OK Again

By Steven W. Syre
PI Business Writer

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — It's noon on a weekday and the streets around Newport's colorful waterfront are getting crowded with visitors in shorts and summer shirts.

On the weekend, the waterfront will be packed with tourists, an international vacation crowd mixed with large numbers of day-trippers from New England and metropolitan New York.

The tourists flocking to Newport — 4.5 million are expected this year — have changed the look of the city of 30,000 over the past decade and created a growth industry feeding restaurants, shops and hotels.

Some visitors are drawn to Newport by the America's Cup yacht races, others come to tour the city's famed turn-of-the-century "summer cottage" estates. Many just look through the stores.

They will spend $157 million this year in hundreds of places that cater to tourists, many of them small specialty shops.

The influx of tourist dollars invited lots of competition, but no one is about to threaten the quaint image they bank on. The shop signs are eye catching but not glaring, many are painted wood. The Burger King facade is so low-key it's easy to walk by without noticing.

The healthy retail climate isn't what many predicted 10 years ago, when parts of the waterfront looked the worse for wear. Then the Navy fired a bombshell: It was moving nearly two-thirds of its 30,000 people out of Newport.

The Navy provided much of Newport's retail volume. The area population dropped by 30 percent and business fell by $10 million to $20 million after the move.

Later, the Redevelopment Agency of Newport helped arrange the construction of several projects. One was the Brick Market Place, a group of about 30 small, owner-operated stores.

This was ready by the Bicentennial year in 1976, when the Tall Ships and Queen Elizabeth came to Newport. It was a great tourism year for the city, spawning the growth that continues today.

"It was really a flyer and most people predicted it would fail," said Rudy Franchi, whose Nostalgia Factory store is located in the Brick Market Place. "Since it became a success, it's just been an explosion in retail space."

The boom isn't confined to stores. The Bay Club, 36 time-share condominium units, recently opened in a large stone building constructed on the waterfront 135 years ago as a yarn mill. Half its units have been sold.

Buyers pay a set price for a week per year at the unit, essentially purchasing a small fraction of the condo and sharing it with others who do the same. Two lower floors will be occupied by shops.

The opportunities in Newport were also seen from the other side of the globe. The retail section of the Bay Club is temporarily occupied by the Aussie Expo, a market for Australian businesses that came to Newport for the first time this year.

The Australians, whose boats are major competitors for the America's Cup, have also marketed some of their products in local stores.

Locked Files Attest To War On King

WASHINGTON — Civil rights leaders are planning to commemorate Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s epochal 1963 march on Washington with another march on the nation's capital Aug. 27.

Undeserving of emulation — but not easy to forget — was the FBI's march on the march on Washington. The late J. Edgar Hoover's agents dogged the footsteps of King and his associates, bugged them and tapped their telephones, squandering millions of the taxpayers' dollars on this disgraceful surveillance operation.

Now, 20 years later, tens of thousands of documents — perhaps hundreds of thousands — relating to the King family and other civil rights leaders, as well as to the historic march itself, are still locked tight in the FBI's files, unavailable to researchers, historians and the public.

The existence of the FBI's voluminous files on King was discovered by Harold Weisburg of Frederick, Md., an indefatigable researcher on American political assassinations. He obtained a 404-page partial inventory of documents that are stored in 59 FBI field offices across the country. A single entry in the inventory could refer to one page or a thousand pages of hidden material.

The inventory for the New York City field office is instructive. It gives an indication of the staggering amount of material on King that sits under lock and key in FBI files.

The inventory takes up 15 pages of index, and mentions "100 volumes" of unreleased documents. The general estimate of a "volume" is 200 pages, though it could run anywhere from six pages to several hundred pages.

The New York listing has 2,810 entries on a single King aide. The material includes formal and informal FBI memos, logs and reports of physical surveillance, teletypes, informants' reports, old newspaper clippings and copies of documents in the files of other field offices.

Much of the FBI material is classified and is still withheld because of "national security." This was a favorite Nixon-era device used to hide information that might embarrass the federal government, often when there wasn't the faintest connection to the nation's security.

Other data is being withheld by the FBI, even in the face of litigation, on grounds that it was supplied by confidential informants whose identities must still be protected. But after 20 years, the informants who are still alive could be protected easily by simply deleting their names or other identifying hints.

Oddly enough, there's a whole raft of King material that would be freely available at FBI field offices — but only if someone knew specifically what to ask for. And thousands of documents are already open to inspection in the FBI reading room.

In fairness to the FBI, employees spent hours trying to sort out the facts on the unreleased material for my associate Les Whitten. But they admitted that they have no idea — even to the nearest hundred thousand — how many documents remain hidden on the most influential black leader of our time.

Footnote: At the very time that Hoover was pursuing his vendetta against Dr. King at enormous cost to the taxpayers, the Mafia was spreading its malignant tentacles throughout American society. If the money spent harassing King had been used to fight the mob, the true security of the nation would have been better served.

Reagan: 'Central America Not A Vietnam; We Don't Want War'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, saying no comparisons to Vietnam can be made, insists planned military maneuvers in Central America are not a prelude to another U.S. war overseas.

At his Tuesday night news conference, which was dominated by his Central American policies, Reagan said, "We're not planning a war and we don't think that that's going to happen at all."

Reagan, in his opening statement, chided critics he said were unleashing a "drumbeat of confusion" about U.S. intentions and military moves in the region.

He referred to the blaze of headlines in the past few days concerning the dispatch of two naval battlegroup groups to the waters near Nicaragua and the plan to use some 4,000 American combat troops in joint exercises with Honduran soldiers.

"Too much attention is being paid to those efforts we are making to provide a security shield, and not enough to the other elements of our policy," he said. "We don't want war."

"In Central America we support democracy, reform and human freedom," Reagan said.

The resolute president argued the military exercises he has ordered are not unusual. "We have done this since 1965," Reagan said, adding U.S. troops would be training where they would not be in danger.

But he said, "Our defenders have a right to protect their own lives."

In response to a question, Reagan said, "There is no comparison with Vietnam; there is not going to be anything of that kind in this."

At another point he said, "We have no military plans for intervention of that (Vietnam) kind."

Reagan, as in the past, used intelligence information to bolster his case that the insurgents in El Salvador and the Sandinista government in Nicaragua are receiving military supplies from the Soviets and Cuba.

He said U.S. military units in the area are not there to intercept shipments, but noted that a satellite photo showed a Soviet freighter bearing troop-carrying helicopters had traveled unimpeded into the Nicaraguan port of Corinto.

When asked why the administration does not go to the source of the arms being delivered in the area, instead of concentrating on the recipients, Reagan replied:

"If you go to the source I think you're talking about the Soviet Union. They know how we feel about this. We have also talked to our friends in Cuba and told them how we feel about it. We are trying to bring about the very thing you people think we are shying away from — not bring about a war."

Reagan has been dogged by charges he is pursuing military adventurism in Central America. His April request for $110 million in additional aid for El Salvador has foundered. The House is expected to vote Thursday on a proposal to lop off the aid the CIA has been funneling to Nicaraguan rebels.

During Reagan's news conference, his 19th, the House defeated a measure that would have limited the number of U.S. military advisers in El Salvador to 55.

Reagan Defends Aiding Rebels In Nicaragua

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan says Congress is risking a "giant headache" if it votes to halt U.S. covert aid to Nicaraguan rebels.

The president's remarks during his Tuesday night news conference were aimed at the House, which resumes work today on a bill to halt U.S. support for guerrilla forces opposed to the leftist Sandinista government.

Reagan said it would be "a very grave mistake" if Congress "interfered with what we're trying to do."

The administration's policy of providing covert aid, Reagan said, "is aimed at bringing peace to El Salvador" and persuading the Nicaraguan government leaders to return to the ideals they expressed during their revolution.

"I think what we're doing is well within the limits of common sense," Reagan said during a nationally televised news conference.

The Washington Post reported Wednesday the Reagan administration has prepared a report for Congress that justifies covert U.S. support for anti-government guerrillas in Nicaragua as a means to disrupt and pressure the leftist Nicaraguan regime rather than just to prevent it from sending arms to leftist rebels in El Salvador.

The report is to be sent soon to the Senate Intelligence committee, the newspaper said.

House Speaker Thomas O'Neill said earlier Tuesday the outlook for passage of the bill was good.

The bill received the endorsement of five former top Democratic administration officials who said they are "opposed to the current American covert operation directed at the government of Nicaragua."

They urged Congress to ensure that U.S. efforts in the area "conform to domestic and international law, are conducted openly, and are aimed at negotiating a political settlement."

O'Neill had expressed concern that opponents of the bill would attempt to drag out debate and stall action. Some 103 amendments have been filed, most by opponents.

But that threat may have been eased by O'Neill's decision to put off a vote on an administration-backed bill dealing with the International Monetary Fund until the fate of the Nicaragua bill is decided.

The IMF bill would authorize an $8.4 billion increase in the U.S. pledge to the financial aid agency, and the administration has been pressing for a quick vote on it.

The Nicaragua bill would force Reagan to halt U.S. aid to the rebel forces opposed to the leftist Sandinista government of Nicaragua.

In place of the assistance to the rebels, the bill would provide $80 million for friendly governments in Central America to use in trying to halt the shipment of arms to guerrilla forces in the region.

Senate Gives MX OK; Opponents To Fight On

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan is a step closer to making the MX missile a reality with the Senate's resounding approval of full-scale production for the huge nuclear weapon beginning next year.

But the 58-41 Senate endorsement Tuesday night, which followed similar House approval last week, will not be Congress' final word on the controversial weapon.

Congressional opponents have promised a renewed effort this fall when both chambers take up legislation to appropriate the money for the authorized missiles. Even supporters are predicting a tough fight.

"It's a fragile consensus," said Sen. Paul Trible, R-Va., one of 46 Republicans who voted for the MX Tuesday night. "And unless the administration demonstrates a good-faith intention to bring about an arms reduction treaty, it may very well evaporate."

The key vote came on an effort by Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., to eliminate $2.6 billion in a military spending bill for producing the first 27 MX missiles.

The vote was 58-41, only a slight change from the 59-39 vote by which the Senate approved MX flight-testing funds in May. Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., who voted for the flight-testing funds, joined six other Republicans in voting against the production.

The Senate also rejected, 57-42, another amendment that would have prohibited funds for actual deployment, which is to begin in late 1986 or early 1987.

But it endorsed language urging the United States and the Soviet Union to promote development of single-warhead missiles that would be less tempting targets than the 10-warhead MX and its Soviet counterparts.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, the manager of the spending bill as head of the Senate Armed Services Committee, called the Senate action as a "resounding vote of confidence" in Reagan's national security and arms control policies.

The MX funds were contained in a $200 billion 1984 military authorization bill, later approved 83-15, that had been held up for more than two weeks as Hart and other mainly Democratic opponents stretched out debate on the missile.

"The president calls the MX the 'Peacekeeper,'" Hart said in his final remarks. "Let us not abuse the English language. ... This is a war missile, a weapon of first strike. This is a weapon of a nuclear holocaust."

...Teen Nets 15-Year Prison Term

 on Dec. 14, 1980, in chasing Jowals when the youth drove a van down railroad tracks in Altamonte, finally turning the van over.

Salfi also pointed out that Jowals became involved in a violent quarrel with his father some time before the fatal accident.

Jowals' mother, defending her son, said he had held a responsible job for the last two years and he was not a "drunk."

Salfi said that Jowals' mother had served as her son's "protector," and had tried to prevent the boy's father from finding out about some of his shenanigans.

Jowals' father said he did not feel that his son should be sent to prison. "What he did was alcohol-related and he's changed. He's had the will power and the fortitude to cut it off and I feel kind of proud."

Jowals suggested that he might make restitution by speaking to teenagers in schools about the problems that drinking and driving can cause.

But the father of the dead girl, John Hebel, said "he needs 15 years in jail to grow up. Here is a young man who's been able to weasel around most punishments in his life. This should be ended.

I'm calling on the court to keep him off the streets as long as possible."

Another of Laurie's sisters said, "If he's allowed to speak to young people, he can say, 'look what I've done and I've gotten away with it.'"

Assistant state attorney Plotnik said Jowals showed a "lack of compassion and understanding. He ought to be punished and to feel punished." Plotnik said the case record showed that Jowals had commented in the past, "I've paid enough, I think. In my neighborhood, people look at me like I'm a murderer."

Plotnik said Jowals had caused the death of an innocent young girl and should be punished to deter others from driving while drinking.

After Salfi passed sentence but indicated Jowals may eventually be sentenced as a youthful offender, Mrs. Hebel responded emotionally again:

"He killed my daughter. He was drunk. That's not law. That's not justice. We're on the verge of insanity. Why can't he just stand up like a man and say 'I did it' and serve his time?"

When the case was first brought to trial, Jowals pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Judge Dominick Salfi tells Jowals at the sentencing: "I don't feel you are honest in what you are saying."

...Gas Tax

County has outstripped the county's ability to deal with it.

County Administrator T. Duncan Rose said the county's population will nearly double in the next 20 years. Without a gas tax there is no available funding to deal with the severe growth impact.

"We currently exhaust virtually all funding available to us," he said.

Opponents of the tax, however, said the people coming into the area will increase the tax base, making more funds available for roads.

The public hearing attracted about 120 people, 30 of whom spoke on the tax proposal. Among those speaking in favor of the tax were several realtors, developers and home builders.

Sanford realtor Garnett White said "Simply put, Seminole County has an itch, a road itch that needs to be scratched before it becomes unbearable."

Tom Kanells, representing the Seminole County League of Civic Associations, said a majority of his group favors the tax, but chided commissioners for failing to establish a priority list for improvements.

Former WDBO radio commentator Morton Downey Jr., a Seminole County resident, said he had been against the tax for several months. But after driving on the roads for awhile he said there is "no doubt we need four cents for our roads."

Sweetwater developer Everette Huskey said the condition of roads is the key to real estate prices in Seminole County. "If you've got a $100,000 house and you can't get to it that house is only going to be worth $75,000, if you can sell it."

Huskey urged commissioners to vote for the tax. "Democracy's fine. I'm a great believer in democracy. I have a flag. But once in a while you have to speak softly and carry a big stick."

Speaking against the tax, Casselberry resident Norm Kessinger asked commissioners to give the voters an opportunity to decide on the tax.

"This takes away our opportunity to vote," he said. "I have a great admiration for Mr. Huskey. He's a great example of the American way. It was a fantastic speech to make before a group that was going to have an opportunity to vote on it, but this group isn't it."

Kessinger said Americans have responded to pleas to reduce their energy consumption. "Now the Arabs are up to their turbans in oil and prices have started to come down. So what is our reward? Federal, state and now county taxes."

Marilyn Hattaway, of the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee, said the tax is extraordinarily regressive, and will have a negative effect on poor people who cannot afford more expensive fuel-efficient cars, such as senior citizens, single mothers and students.

"The issue here is people. The decision here is how much it's going to cost. The tax, in the long run, will cost a lot more than four cents," she said.

Several people warned commissioners that passage of the gas tax would stir opposition to them at the polls.

"If you pass this tax you're putting 50,000 to 70,000 votes for Proposition 1," said Jack Lemmons of Casselberry. Proposition 1 is a plan to reduce taxes back to their 1980 levels. All taxes not approved by referendum would be reduced if the proposal passes in November, 1984.

Bill Bailey of Casselberry took a more direct approach. "I think we've wasted our breath in opposition. Let's see who votes in favor and at election time get them out of here."

Bailey's comments rankled Sturm who said he was elected to represent all the people. "I personally resent it as a commissioner. I will not listen to veiled threats."

Opponents of the tax booed Sturm's comments. Garnering enthusiastic applause, Lucretia Murray said:

"We fought one revolution over taxes in this country, called the Revolutionary War. We are the people. We should decide what we want."

Mrs. Glenn said transportation is doubtless, the county's most urgent need. "I keep a documented log. I get more calls about transportation than anything else," she said.

As she announced her intent to vote for the tax she told the audience, "I was elected to do a job. I've taken the heat."

Mrs. Christensen agreed. "Putting politics aside, I'd love to vote against this tax. But the need has been demonstrated."

... 'Doomed'

"When divers explore a cavern during the daytime, they can see the natural light from the entrance. At 9:20 at night, the cavern automatically becomes a cave, one cannot look back and see any light whatsoever and it is the blackest black there is. If a diver has a light failure, there is no light. You can't imagine how black it is," Menke said.

"Apparently some inexperienced divers dive for the thrill of walking that fine line between life and death. With real cave divers there is nothing further from the truth," Menke insisted.

Menke explained there are different classes of divers, those certified to dive in open water like the ocean or fresh water springs where they can look up and see the light of day and those certified to dive in caves or caverns. Williams and Madison were certified for open water diving.

"Certified cave and cavern divers are required to have alternate sources of air and two lights each. Madison had two lights with him and had only been in cave three times. His buddy had only been certified for open diving four months, had never been at the cave and had only one light," Menke said.

A cave or cavern diver is going to spend $2,500 to $3,000 for cave diving equipment, he said. "The equipment is bought mainly for your buddy as back up. If your buddy doesn't want to go through the expense, you don't dive with him."

City Tense After Shooting, Riots in Which Four Died

HEBRON, Israeli-Occupied West Bank (UPI) — Israeli paratroopers were rushed in by helicopter to police the West Bank after riots and a gun-and-grenade attack on Palestinian students left four people dead.

Authorities had no suspects in custody, but Palestinians blamed extremist Jewish vigilantes for the Tuesday shooting deaths of three students in Hebron. The shooting sparked riots in Nablus and stone-throwing in East Jerusalem.

Justice Minister Moshe Nisim condemned as "a despicable act" the killing of the three Palestinians and wounding of 28 others at the Islamic university in Hebron. He told the Israeli Parliament that authorities would spare no effort in tracking down the attackers.

The trouble in the Biblical city of Hebron, holy to Jews and Moslems as the burial site of Abraham, occurred as tensions already were running high over the July 7 stabbing murder of Jewish seminary student Aharon Gross, 19.

The killing of Gross was followed by a government decision, opposed by the Palestinians, to allow the rebuilding of the old Jewish quarter of Hebron by Jewish settlers.

Chile is undergoing a period of social upheaval. There is mounting worker unrest and growing demands for democratic rule.

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — A crippling economic crisis and 10 years of political repression under Gen. Augusto Pinochet have galvanized popular unrest in Chile.

Pinochet's military government has refused to give in to opposition demands for an early return to democracy and political experts fear a drift toward violent confrontation.

An angry din resounded through the streets of Santiago two weeks ago in a third mass demonstration against the regime when thousands of Chileans banged on empty pots and pans from their homes in a symbolic protest.

The protest was noisy but peaceful — in contrast to what it became in a working class neighborhood hard-hit by an ailing economy that has left up to a third of the Chilean labor force unemployed.

Demonstrators defied curfew imposed by army troops and police, setting fire to tires and erecting barricades in the streets. Police and soldiers patrolling the streets fired warning shots to silence pot-banging and snarl protesters back into their homes.

Two teenage girls died in shootings, bringing to nine the death toll in the three anti-government protests called by opposition unions and politicians since May.

"Unemployment in Chile is a time-bomb," said Jorge Lavandero, a former Christian Democrat senator jailed for five days for calling the protest.

"If the government continues ignoring the economic crisis, there will be a mass explosion on the streets," he said.

The government is struggling to avoid default on a $18 billion foreign debt, run up during the late 1970s when the economy was a success story for the proponents of monetarist theory. Now, chances for a turnaround are slim.

Chile's large middle class, which prompted the armed forces to overthrow the Socialist government of Salvador Allende in 1973, has suffered a dramatic decline in its standard of living and now wants the military to return to the barracks. "Chileans have been remarkably patient in their protests," an experienced diplomat said. "They have suffered an awful lot of economic discomfort and social dislocation."

The diplomat indicated that further outbursts could spur the government to take a harder line and polarize Chilean factions still further.

The government has dug in its heels and insisted on carrying out the 1980 constitution drawn up by the military junta and put to the country in a national referendum, when Chile was at the height of its economic boom.

The constitution entitles Pinochet to remain in power until 1989 and makes no provisions for lifting its decade-old ban on political activity.

Senate Panel Approves Gas Deregulation Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Reagan administration, having won support for a compromise natural gas deregulation bill from a key Senate committee, shifted its attention today to a House panel working on a similar measure less to the president's liking.

The Senate Energy Committee, which has struggled with the bill almost daily for weeks, voted 11-9 Tuesday to send the administration-backed compromise to the Senate floor. The complex measure would lift all price controls on natural gas over a three-year period rather than by the end of 1985 as proposed by President Reagan.

Chairman James McClure, R-Idaho, who drew up the bill with Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La., said he was optimistic — but not "confident" — about the bill's fate on the floor.

The key obstacle the bill faces in Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio. He reiterated his threat to filibuster against the bill, saying any effort to take it up in the Senate would trigger "extensive and exhaustive debate." "The bill is a Hydra-headed monster riddled with loopholes, confusion and sleeper provisions," said Metzenbaum, who tied the Senate up for days in 1978 before it approved another gas deregulation bill.

McClure, saying he does not expect the bill to come up before early fall, said the measure seeks to balance the interests of consumers, producers and pipelines, and could fail if amended to reflect many differing interests.

Deregulation supporters say price controls under the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978 are raising prices despite a glut of gas by encouraging producers to sell higher-priced new gas while "shutting in" lower-cost old gas in the expectation of higher prices later.

Administration officials say decontrol will lead to lower prices by restoring a free market; critics argue it will result in higher prices and huge windfall profits for major oil companies with large reserves of old gas.

Tax Withholding Repeal Date Extended

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary Donald Regan has given Congress four extra days, until Aug. 5, to work out a repeal of tax withholding on interest and dividends, but warns this is the last extension he will grant.

Regan had extended the original effective date of the 10 percent tax withholding rule from July 1 to Aug. 1.

Congress plans to begin its August recess next week and will not resume work until mid-September.

In the last few months, both the House and Senate voted overwhelmingly to repeal the controversial tax rule that inspired an unprecedented flood of negative mail on Capitol Hill.

But the House and Senate versions were different, with the House calling for a straight repeal and the Senate adding tougher taxpayer reporting requirements and stiffer penalties for those who fail to pay their taxes.

Although a joint

House-Senate conference committee tentatively approved a withholding repealer last week, with a compromise version of the Senate's penalties and compliance rules. It deadlocked over an unrelated rider to extend tax-exempt mortgage subsidy bonds.

Chicken Ranch

Girls Scratching Out A Living Subject Of Documentary

The Nevada desert is the land of endless lonesome. It is mile after mile of dry, dusty real estate, brooding black mountains and the bleaching remains of coyote cuisine. Daytime temperatures soar to 120 degrees. The horizon trembles with fever. Nights are like cold storage.

In this romantic atmosphere flourishes the world's oldest and seamiest profession, next to journalism. We are speaking, of course, of prostitution.

There were, at last count, 35 licensed houses of prostitution in Nevada. They pop up unexpectedly on the desert highways, dispensing the most exotic variations of Eros against an unlikely backdrop of one-horse towns with names such as Pahrump and Scotty's Junction. It's lewd, Yessir, it's crude. But it's all legal and proper.

Among these way stations of sin is one called the Chicken Ranch, home to a number of young ladies who earn their living catering to the whims of grizzled cowpokes, slack-bellied truckdrivers and rich daddies up from Vegas who use the adjoining airstrip. The girls live and work at the ranch three weeks of every four, turning up to 20 tricks a day. The house takes half the proceeds.

As a lifestyle it might not have vast appeal. But as theater, it has real possibilities. Or so reasoned filmmakers Nick Broomfield and Sandi Sissel when they set out to do a documentary on a Nevada brothel.

The movie "Chicken Ranch" is the result of their labors.

In the fall of 1981, Broomfield and Sissel spent three months at the Chicken Ranch — a descendant of the Texas-based Chicken Ranch made famous by the book, musical and movie "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas" — gaining the confidence of the women and filming them on the job and off.

"We wanted," Sissel says, "to go beyond society's stereotype of the prostitute, that they all slept with their fathers, that they are messed up on drugs and that they're all dependent on their pimps."

The result is a surprisingly sympathetic portrait of likable, rather complicated people practicing a line of work that is held in unanimous contempt but never has lacked for customers.

"In the beginning the girls were a little leery of having Nick and I around," Sissel says. "But after a while, a friendship was born, and things changed. They saw us living there, sleeping there, having breakfast with them, playing backgammon with them, and a confidence began to build up.

"There was a turning point, too," she says, recalling how the girls kept daring her to join the "lineup," the ritual by which the customer makes his choice of a companion. The girls stand side by side, their wares oozing from their gowns, as they undergo inspection.

"I kept resisting," Sissel says. "I couldn't think of myself being able to do something like that."

Then one night the girls talked her into a small wager. If she lost a game of cards, she would have to join the line.

"Up to that time I hadn't lost a single game of cards. I was positive I'd win; so I agreed. And, sure enough, right away I lost. All of a sudden 15 girls jumped on me, carrying me bodily down the hall, and in a moment they had my clothes off and put me into a slinky dress."

Sissel says her heart was in her throat as she stood there with four yokels giving everyone the once-over.

"And then what do you think happened? All four of them picked me. I panicked and ran out of the room."

Only later did she find out that the

It is inconceivable that someone could forget the camera so completely. Yet Sissel swears that "it was done" in one take.

The credit must go to her and Broomfield, both of whom are veteran documentary makers. Broomfield, a native of Great Britain, is best known for "Soldier Girls," a study for public television of the first woman recruits in the United States Army. Sissel, a longtime camerawoman for ABC News, has done "The Wobblers" and "Seeing Red" and is working on a documentary about Mother Teresa. If "Chicken Ranch" may be said to have a protagonist, it is Connie, the animated, frizzy-haired hooker who admits early on that she is bummed out by men.

In the film she complains to a coworker: "They say 'I want everything — the whole works.' I say, 'You can't have the whole works for $50.'"

Now she says, "I'm changing. I'm going out with men on dates now, rather than just seeing them as customers."

"You turn off your feelings when you go to bed with a customer, and it's hard to turn them back on. But I've never looked down on myself for this work, despite all the people who think it's the worst thing in the world. It's just a job."

Herpes Victims Start Their Own Dating Service

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) — A letter from a Spanaway, Wash. woman reads: "I have herpes, and my boyfriend left me as a result. I'd had it a couple of years and didn't know it. My boyfriend didn't understand."

The woman's letter is just one of a growing number arriving daily at a dating service for victims of herpes.

Ed Pendergraft and Dave Smith, students at Fort Steilacoom College in Tacoma who are both victims of the disease, founded the new dating service "to bring the disease out of the closet."

The incurable viral disease — which involves recurring blisters in the genital area or the mouth, is contagious and generally sexually transmitted — affects some 20 million Americans and possibly some 200,000 residents of the Puget Sound area.

"We hope we can help contain the disease by getting together the people who have it," said Pendergraft, a former Army medic studying to become a drug-and-alcohol-abuse counselor. "This is a dating service for people with a conscience, those who don't want to spread herpes."

Smith, a sociology student, said he was involved with a regular dating service for a while, but had a hard time because women ended relationships as soon as he told them he had herpes.

"Few people realize how contagious herpes is during its active periods," Smith said. "And it's not just a sexually transmitted disease."

The new dating service matches people on the basis of a 28-item questionnaire about hobbies and interests. The enrollment fee is $75, which the founders say entitles a client to between one and five referrals per month. Clients can pay an additional fee of $2.90 to continue getting referrals.

The address of the new organization for herpes victims is: HSDS, Dept. T, 9119B 128th S.W., Tacoma, Wash., 98498.

The phone number is 206-591-6196.

Pendergraft said the partners plan to open an office in Salem, Ore., next month.

"Perhaps we'll turn our dating service into a franchise," he said. "Maybe we'll become the McDonald's of herpes!"

Agency Marketing Condoms To Help Offset Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Planned Parenthood has begun marketing a condom that carries the organization's own seal of approval.

"We're filling a need that exists among out-patients and in the general community," Faye Wattleton, president of Planned Parenthood, said.

"Offering this product is a natural extension of our commitment to providing quality reproductive health care services to all those who want and need them, particularly individuals with low incomes."

The Planned Parenthood condom will range in price from 25 to 50 cents, depending on the clinic's location. More than 23 percent of the group's patients use condoms as their primary method of contraception and many more use them in conjunction with other devices.

If the condom sales are successful, it could lead to the marketing of a wide range of birth control products, Ms. Wattleton said. The funds will be used to offset cuts in federal funding.

"The income generated by this project will be used by Planned Parenthood to help support our fundamental mission of meeting the family planning needs of those who cannot afford access to other service providers," she said.

The condoms will be manufactured by Fujii Latex Company, an international supplier of latex surgical gloves and condoms and distributed by Planned Parenthood affiliates.

Planned Parenthood provides reproductive counseling to 3 million individuals in 190 communities and 43 states.

Late Homer Sinks Sanford, 5-4

Florida Little Major League State Tournament at West Palm Beach
Tuesday's results

WEST PALM BEACH — One flash of the leather and one swing of the bat carried the Jacksonville South Florida All-Stars to a 5-4 comeback victory Tuesday night over the Sanford Nationals in loser's bracket play in the Florida Little Major League State Tournament. The loss eliminates Sanford from the tournament.

A three-run homer in the bottom of the fifth inning off the bat of Tracy Wildes provided the winning punch for Jacksonville. Jason Poole led off the inning with a single and was sacrificed to second by Keith Johns. Jonathan Farrell then bounced to Sanford third baseman Anthony Merthie who fielded the ball cleanly, but thought there was a force play at third base. By the time he realized there was no force, Merthie's throw to first was too late to get Farrell. Wildes then stepped up and clouted his game-winning shot way over the left-center field fence.

The key defensive play came in the top of the fifth with Sanford holding a 4-2 lead and threatening to add more. George Gordon was hit by a pitch to lead off and Brian Howard replaced him as a courtesy runner. Jeff Blake followed by lashing a vicious liner that was headed for right center. Jacksonville second baseman Ricky Nichols, however, made a diving stab of the liner and caught Howard in no man's land to complete the double play.

Tim Graham followed with what could have been a key single, but thanks to Nichols' great play on Blake's liner. Sanford came up empty.

"We played a good game, but they made the plays that won it," Sanford manager Sylvester "Slick" Franklin Jr. said. "We can hold our heads up for the way we played in this tournament."

Sanford, which won one and lost two in the tournament and finished tied for fifth place, took an early 2-0 lead with a pair of unearned runs in the top of the second. Denny Clayton drew a walk off Jacksonville starter Johns who was then lifted because of a sore arm in favor of Farrell. With one out, Hubert Williams lined a single to left and an error on the left fielder enabled Clayton to go to third and Williams to second. Clayton then scored on a wild pitch, and with two out, Williams scored on a Jax error.

Jacksonville got one run back in the bottom of the second, but heads up defensive play by the Nationals thwarted the rally. Farrell led off with a walk off Sanford starter Mike Merthie, got Wildes reached on an infield single. With one out, Chris Cusack made a single to left to drive in Farrell. On the same play, the ball got past left fielder Harry Chibberton who then recovered, but threw wildly to third. Nationals' catcher Blake was backing up the play, though, and he tossed to Mike Merthie to get Wildes at the plate. Merthie then turned and fired a perfect throw to Anthony Merthie at third base to get Cusack for an inning-ending double play.

The Nationals took a 4-1 lead in the top of the third as Graham cracked a two-out double and Willie "Sugar Tex" McCloud followed with a two-run homer to right field.

Jax responded with a run in the bottom of the third to cut the Sanford lead to 4-2. Johnny Ingram led off with a single, went to second and third on one Sanford error and scored on another.

After allowing Sanford four runs in two innings, Farrell shut the Nationals down the rest of the way with help from Wildes' bat and Nichols' glove.

Jacksonville now goes on to play Pensacola with the winner advancing to the loser's bracket final against either Panama City or St. Petersburg Fossil Park. The lone two unbeaten teams left in the tournament, Panama City and St. Pete played at 9 a.m. Wednesday.

"We really should be proud of ourselves," Franklin said. "We made it farther than a lot of other teams."

Seniors Lead Dunnellon, 6-4, Prior To Delay

INVERNESS — Altamonte's Senior League All-Stars had the same problem as their Junior counterpart Tuesday as the rain suspended their game with Dunnellon while Altamonte held a 6-4 lead entering the fourth inning.

The game will be resumed today at 4 o'clock with Dunnellon batting.

Dunnellon, which whipped Mayo, 8-1, Monday, jumped on Altamonte starter Mike Pinckes for three runs in the first inning. Robert Hunter slammed a solo homer to lead off the game and catcher David Goebel clobbered another round-tripper as Dunnellon took a 3-0 lead.

The advantage grew to 4-0 in the top of the third when Cassandra Baker hammered a Pinckes offering over the right-field fence. "When that girl (Baker) hit that homer, it was time to make a move," said Altamonte skipper Clayton Garrison. "Pinckes got the pitch up in her eyes and she clobbered it."

Altamonte summoned first baseman Mark Coffey who shut down Dunnellon the rest of the inning.

The Seniors bats cranked up in the bottom of the third against starter Dexter Allen for six big runs. After Andy Dunn grounded out. Kenny Oswald and Pinckes drew walks. Shortstop T.J. Scaletta promptly hammered a double to right center which plated Oswald for the first run. John Bane then singled to right for two more to tie the Dunnellon lead to 4-3.

Center fielder Ryan Lisle followed by hooking triple down the left-field line to deadlock the game at 4-4. Cleanup hitter Kevin Bass immediately produced the go-ahead run with a crisp single up the middle.

Coffey walked next, but Neil Harris flew out to left. Dunn, who homered Monday, followed with a double to right which scored Bass for a 6-4 lead. Oswald struck out to end the uprising. Altamonte sent 11 batters to the plate while scoring six runs on five hits.

A victory for Altamonte today will send them against the Mayo-Dunnellon winner on Thursday, Mayo, which beat Niceville Tuesday, plays Dunnellon in today's second game to determine the loser's bracket winner.

Vikings Open Minus Siemon

MANKATO, Minn. (UPI) — The Minnesota Vikings, traditionally the last team in the NFL to end players' summer vacations, were set to open training camp today minus veteran linebacker Jeff Siemon, who announced his retirement.

The Vikings, who will train at Mankato State University, have less than two weeks to prepare for their first exhibition game Aug. 6 in London against St. Louis.

Siemon announced his retirement Tuesday after 11 NFL seasons, all spent with the Vikings. He has applied for admission to a master's program in Christian Apologetics at Simon Greenleaf School of Law in Anaheim, Calif., and plans to pursue a speaking ministry.

A graduate of Stanford, Siemon was the Vikings' first-round draft choice in 1972 and led the team in unassisted tackles three times. He finished his career with 1,012 tackles and 374 assists, plus 10 fumble recoveries and 11 pass interceptions.

"The year we drafted Siemon was one of the few years where we went into the draft wanting one particular player and getting him," Minnesota Coach Bud Grant said.

The 33-year-old Siemon saw limited action last year.

He is the third Vikings player to announce retirement in the off-season. Kick return specialist Eddie Payton and defensive back Kurt Knoff, who announced his decision Monday, have also retired from pro football.

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (UPI) — It took nearly four months for Harold Carmichael and the Philadelphia Eagles to get together on a new contract.

But once the Eagles began their pre-season training camp less than a week ago, it only was a matter of time before Carmichael came to terms. On Tuesday, he signed a pair of one-year contracts that make him one of the NFL's highest-paid wide receivers.

Football

Although no terms were released, it was believed the team's all-time leading receiver signed for a salary of more than $300,000 per season.

Carmichael couldn't wait to report to camp at West Chester University and that probably jolted the negotiating process.

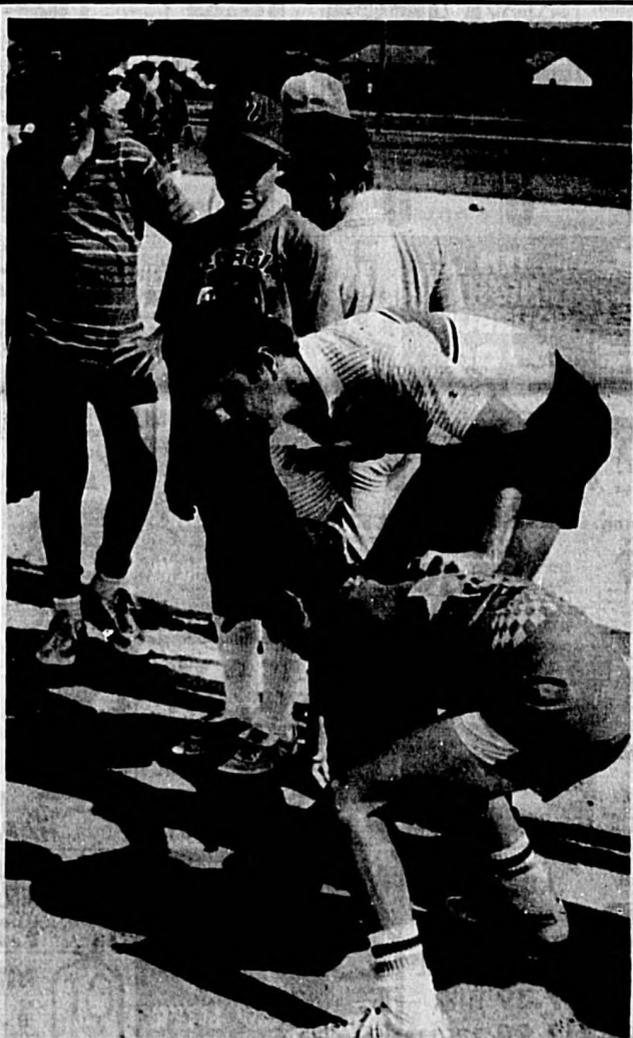

"I'm sorry it took so long," said Carmichael, who is entering his 13th season with the Eagles. "Things like that happen. I was very itchy about coming to camp. I was almost scratching the skin off of me. I'm really happy to be back."

"This is the time of year I'm supposed to be in an Eagle uniform. I play with some super people and I was really sick about not being around those guys. Everything just worked out fine and I think everybody is happy."

Carmichael, 33, officially had been a holdout since last Thursday when the full squad reported to training camp at West Chester University. But he was back on the practice field Tuesday just hours after signing.

Jim Solano, Carmichael's agent, said the breakthrough in the negotiations came Tuesday morning, following a 90-minute session late Monday night. Lynn Stiles, the Eagles Director of Player Personnel, called the negotiating process "an interesting experience."

"In the end, it's not a matter of one side winning and another side losing," Stiles said. "What's important is that we have a guy that has always been a credit to the Eagles organization back in the fold. I think everybody concerned is excited about having him back."

Cook's Corner Stops Lyman To Cap Perfect AAU Season

Cook's Corner Seminoles completed a perfect summer of AAU Basketball Tuesday night by blowing away Oshman's Lyman in the second half at Seminole High School for a 70-38 victory and a 13-0 record.

Willie Mitchell poured in 26 points to lead Cook's Corner while William Wynn and James Rouse each had 12 and Bruce Franklin handed out nine assists.

Mitchell, a 6-3 swingman, dropped in 22 points in the first half, but Cook's could only build a 38-27 halftime lead. Lyman stayed in the game behind the play of Greg Pilot, who finished with 14 points.

Juniors Meet Match — Rain

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

WINTER GARDEN — Altamonte's awesome Junior League All-Stars' hitting attack finally met its match Tuesday night — the rain.

After pushing across three runs in the first inning against Tri-County starter Herman Pryear, the rain drops began to fall as Altamonte third baseman Eric

Little League

Birle stepped to the plate with the Juniors holding a 3-0 lead in the top of the second inning.

After waiting an hour, the umpires suspended the game because the field was unplayable. The game will be resumed with Birle at bat today at 5 and Altamonte holding its 3-0 lead. The loser of today's game will have to come back and play Jacksonville Highlands, a 16-1 winner over Crystal River in Tuesday's first game.

Today's winner plays the survivor of the second game Thursday at 8 p.m., needing just a victory to cop the Little League Junior Sectional championship and a spot in the state tournament, which begins Monday at Winter Garden.

Altamonte, which hasn't been severely tested while averaging 10 runs a game thus far in the tournament, jumped on Pryear in the first. Leadoff hitter Matt Lange popped a short fly between the pitcher and catcher, which both watched drop for an infield single. Lange, as usual, stole second and moved to third on Chris Brock's single. Brock then stole second.

Eric Martinez followed with a bat-handle grounder to the mound, and Lange tried to score from third. Pryear easily tossed him out as home while Brock cruised into third and Martinez to second.

Ernest Martinez, moved into the cleanup slot after an impressive day Monday, surprised Tri-County with a safety-squeeze bunt to the right of the mound which scored Brock for a 1-0 lead. Eric Martinez moved to third and Ernest Martinez immediately stole second. Matt Messina fanned for the second out, but the first pitch to Cory Prom got past the catcher which allowed Eric Martinez to score from third. Prom followed with a hot smash off the shortstop's glove for a single to chase home Ernest Martinez for a 3-0 lead.

Lefty Jeff Hagen started for Altamonte. He struck out the leadoff hitter, but walked Russell Hollingsworth. Hagen then fanned Cliff Moore, but catcher Lange dropped the ball. Lange chased Moore down the first base line and appeared to tag him, but Moore, after taking one step toward the dugout, resumed his path to first base and was ruled safe. Hagen then retired Pryear on a popup to first base and Coy Campbell on a ground ball to third.

Altamonte manager Frank Messina said he would continue with Hagen and the same starting lineup today.

TOURNAMENT TIDBITS — Anthony Laszale, Altamonte's standout pitcher-shortstop, will have his cast removed from his right wrist in less than three weeks, according to his father, Tony Laszale. Laszale broke his wrist while falling from a bicycle after Altamonte had won the first two games of the district tournament. Laszale had four hits and three RBI along with a seven-hit pitching performance in the two games. "We'll have him ready for Detroit, if we make it," said Tony Laszale. Detroit is where the Little League Junior World Series is played.

One of the most remarkable plays of the tournament came Monday against Crystal River. Left-hander Greg Ebbert had an 0-2 count on Robert Osteen in the sixth inning. As Ebbert started to wind up, center fielder Brock moved 20 steps to his left into right center. Osteen proceeded to hit a short fly behind the second baseman which Brock caught after moved another 20 feet with a diving catch.

"With two strikes we were going to throw a fastball and we thought he (Osteen) would swing late," said Altamonte coach Terry Hagen. "Chris saw an signal just in time. He moved over, then caught up with it and made a great catch."

Hagen's son, Jeff, turned in a similar gem in the first inning while playing right field. He broke to his right and made a falling grab of a sinking liner, which kept Ebbert's perfect game intact through three innings.

Pryor, Arguello Rematch Set

Aaron Pryor deprived Alexis Arguello (right) of a chance to become the first boxer to hold a championship in four weight classes when he knocked him out last November. Arguello will get another opportunity on Sept. 9 when he fights Pryor, the unbeaten WBA junior welterweight champ, at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bill Miller criticized, Alexis Arguello apologized and Aaron Pryor agonized.

The scene was the official announcement of the rematch between Pryor, the unbeaten World Boxing Association junior welterweight champion, and Arguello, the three-time ex-champion, on Sept. 9 at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas. Pryor won the first bout last November, scoring a 14th round TKO and depriving Arguello of the chance to become the first fighter ever to win titles in four different weight classes.

Promoter Dan Duva hardly had announced the card, which also includes a 12-round title bout between Thomas Hearns, the World Boxing Council super welterweight champion, and No. 9 ranked James Green, when Miller, Arguello's manager, once again charged that Pryor was guilty of foul play in the first bout.

Miller charged the day after the fight that Pryor had been given an illegal liquid between rounds and videotapes backed his claim that trainer Panama Lewis had given Pryor a "punch" to the head. Miller also claimed that the Miami Commission failed to take a urine specimen from Pryor after the fight and that Pryor's gloves were not inspected.

Earlier this month, Lewis was banned from boxing for removing padding from Luis Resto's gloves in a bout against Billy Collins in New York. Veteran Richie Giachetti will replace him in Pryor's corner.

"All I know is that before the first fight, I was in Cincinnati and Buddy LaRosa, who was then Pryor's manager, told me to watch out for Panama Lewis. He told me to watch him with the wrappings and watch him with the gloves," Miller said at a 24-city teleconference from New York.

"Before the fight, I made it clear that we wanted urinalysis tests taken before and after the fight. The Miami Commission, which was about three weeks old, couldn't handle it. They were inept. They simply took on the role of spectators. We asked that they confiscate the gloves after the fight and no one did it. They were too busy watching the fights. Nobody from the commission seemed to be concerned what went on in Pryor's dressing room or in his corner.

"We looked at Alexis coming back to his corner after each round and he looked as if he was getting hit with a brick. He had lumps all over his neck and arms and face. Nobody ever inflicted that kind of damage on him. It was criminal what happened to Alexis that night. He won't say anything — he's too much of a gentleman and a sportsman. He's not the type to complain or make excuses.

"I protested to the WBA through proper channels and the WBA response was typical nothing. To this day I have heard nothing from them regarding our protest. Alexis wouldn't say anything. All he told me is that with all his heart, all he wanted was a rematch. He wanted Aaron Pryor back in the ring again and he'll get his wish on Sept. 9."

At first Pryor seemed amused at Miller's charges but then he began to fume.

"I don't know why they're bringing all of this up again," he said. "It's all old stuff and nobody has ever proved anything illegal went on. I'm tired of hearing all the talk about the bottle and all that. I was around for two hours after the fight if anyone wanted to take a urine test. I wasn't hiding or anything. Everyone saw me there. And there was nothing wrong with my gloves. I didn't do anything wrong or illegal."

Pryor, a native of Cincinnati, is 33-0 with 31 knockouts. Arguello, who was born in Nicaragua and now lives in Miami, is 76-4 with 62 KOs.

Duva said the purses for the four fighters would be in excess of $5 million. The fight will be telecast on closed circuit and pay-per-view outlets.

Arguello refused to be drawn into the verbal battle between Miller and Pryor but instead used the occasion to issue a public apology to Eddie Futch, his former trainer. Following the first fight, Arguello accused Futch of overtraining him.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Oviedo Physicals Aug. 11; SYSA Registers Saturday

Football season is just around the corner and some local teams are making preparations for the gridiron year.

At Oviedo, coach Jack Blanton announced Tuesday that physical examinations will be given to freshmen, sophomore, junior and senior players at Dr. Robert Likens' office on State Road 436 in Casselberry at 1 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 11.

At Sanford, the Seminole Youth Sports Association will hold its football registration at the Sanford Middle School this Saturday from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. The sign-up is for players from ages seven through 14. Registration fee is $35 and the players must bring a birth certificate.

Higuera Is Top-Seeded

NORTH CONWAY, N.H. (UPI) — Top-seed Jose Higuera leads three other seeded players into second round action today at a $225,000 men's professional tennis tournament following two drowsy days of first round action.

Higuera, of Spain, was to meet Sweden's Jan Gunnarsson with fourth-seeded Jimmy Arias of Grand Island, N.Y. squaring off against Gianni Occhipeto of Italy.

Johan Kriek of Naples, Fla., seeded fifth, was to meet Claudio Panatta of Italy while Chris Lewis of New Zealand, the surprising Wimbledon finalist who is seeded seventh, was to face Jimmy Brown of Brentwood, Tenn.

Liberty Tops Courageous

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Reigning America's Cup champion Dennis Conner, claiming Liberty is "the obvious choice" to defend the cup, has streaked past battle-weary Courageous in two more races.

Conner's crew edged Courageous by 40 seconds in the first match Tuesday and won a thumping 2-03 victory in the second under bright skies on Rhode Island Sound.

Liberty's skipper said later he plans to "upgrade every area" possible before the final round of defender's observation trials begin Aug. 16.

Minor Leaguer Reinstated

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UPI) — Four weeks and $500 after he allegedly struck a fan, outfielder Barbaro Garbey of the Evansville Triplets can put on his uniform again.

John Johnson, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, notified the American Association Triplets Tuesday that Garbey will be reinstated, but will be fined $500.

Garbey, 26, was placed on indefinite suspension July 1 for striking a Louisville fan in a Evansville double-header June 28. The Triplets lost both games to the Redbirds.

Garbey had accused the Louisville fan of heckling him about his admitted participation in a run-shaving scheme while he played for the Cuban national team in 1978.

Morgan Snaps Slump, Homer Nips Ryan, 1-0

United Press International
It seems only fitting that baseball's coldest hitter during the season's hottest month snap out of his slump in an air-conditioned building.

Joe Morgan, who still has not had a hit outdoors this month, ended an 0-for-35 streak with a solo homer off Nolan Ryan in the fourth inning at the Astrodome Tuesday night to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 1-0 victory over the Houston Astros.

Morgan's blast, on an 0-1 pitch, came with two out in the fourth inning and Charlie Hudson and Al Holland made it stand by combining to blank the Astros on a six-hitter.

"It is always nice to get the big hit, especially since I haven't been contributing lately," said Morgan, who has been criticized by Phillies' management lately for his poor performance at the plate. "We needed a lift and our pitchers shut them out tonight."

Morgan's homer came on a hanging curve and tagged Ryan, 9-4, with his third loss in a row.

"I'd had trouble with the curveball in my last three starts. I hung one to Morgan and he hit it out," Ryan said.

It was a great homecoming for Hudson, 4-3, who defeated the Astros for the second time this year.

Hudson, a native of Ennis, Texas, who attended Prairie View A&M University near Houston, went 7 2-3 innings to notch the victory. Holland got the last four outs to gain his ninth save.

Ryan, who allowed only three hits, struck out five to move past Philadelphia's Steve Carlton on the all-time strikeout list. Ryan now has 3,591 strikeouts to 3,588 for Carlton.

Dodgers 5, Cubs 2
At Chicago, Ken Landreaux had four hits and drove in three runs with a homer, double and single to lead the Dodgers to victory. Mike Marshall added a homer and an RBI single in helping Fernando Valenzuela to his 10th victory in 15 decisions. He struck out 10.

Expos 5, Reds 0
At Cincinnati, Bill Gullickson pitched a three-hitter and Tim Wallach cracked a solo homer and an RBI double to lead the Expos to victory. Gullickson, 9-10, surrendered a single and a double in the first inning but didn't allow another hit until the eighth in pitching his first shutout since 1981.

Mets 2, Braves 1
At New York, Mookie Wilson hit his first homer since May 29 with one out in the 10th inning to lift the Mets to victory. Wilson's blast, his third of the season, came off Ken Dayley, the third Braves' pitcher. Torrez allowed only four hits in going the distance.

Cardinals 6, Giants 5
At St. Louis, Tom Herr drilled his third single of the game with two outs and the bases loaded in the ninth inning to drive in Willie McGee with the run that gave the Cardinals their third victory in a row. Dave Rucker, who relieved in the ninth, got the victory to raise his record to 2-1.

Padres 6-5, Pirates 1-0
At Pittsburgh, Ruppert Jones smashed a three-run homer to lead the Padres to victory in the opener, but Mike Easler had three hits, including a two-run homer and a two-run double, to help the Pirates win the nightcap. Bill Madlock also had a two-run homer and rookie Marvell Wynne a solo shot in the second game for Pittsburgh.

Blue Jays 6-3, White Sox 4-4
Though Floyd Bannister wasn't exactly throwing lollipops earlier this season, his current offerings are making life sweeter for the Chicago White Sox.

"I didn't pitch that badly at the beginning of the year but I wasn't getting any support," Bannister said Tuesday night after allowing six hits over eight innings to help the Chicago White Sox salvage a split of their double-header with a 4-3 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays. "Now the team is scoring some runs for me and I'm starting to win some games."

After Jesse Barfield drove in two runs with a homer and a sacrifice fly and Cliff Johnson added a solo homer to lead the Blue Jays to a 6-4 victory in the first game, Carlton Fisk and Julio Cruz drove in two runs each to back Bannister in the second.

"Since the All-Star Game, I've worked him through situations using all of his pitches and I've seen him get better game to game," Fisk said of Bannister. "He now has the confidence to throw all of his pitches in any situation. It makes me feel good. He's got confidence in me and I've got confidence in him."

Bannister, 7-9, signed a free agent contract estimated at $4.9 million over five years during the off season and that may help account for his poor start. Since the All-Star Game, he is 4-0 and has allowed only four earned runs in 29 innings. In his nine losses, the club has scored only 14 runs for him.

Tigers 8, Mariners 3

At Detroit, home runs by Lance Parrish, Chet Lemon and Alan Trammell and four innings of shutout relief by Juan Berenguer carried the Tigers to their fourth win in a row while the Mariners suffered their seventh loss in the last eight games. Dave Rozema raised his record to 7-1.

Yankees 5, Rangers 0

At Arlington, Texas, rookie Ray Fontenot pitched a six-hitter for his third straight victory and first major-league shutout and Steve Balboni belted his first major-league grand slam as the Yankees took their fourth victory in a row and 11th in the last 12 games.

Indians 2, Royals 0

At Kansas City, Mo., Toby Harrah singled home one run and scored the other on a sacrifice fly by Pat Tabler to give the Indians the victory behind the seven-hit pitching of Lary Sorensen. Cleveland snapped a four-game losing streak.

Twins 6, Brewers 5

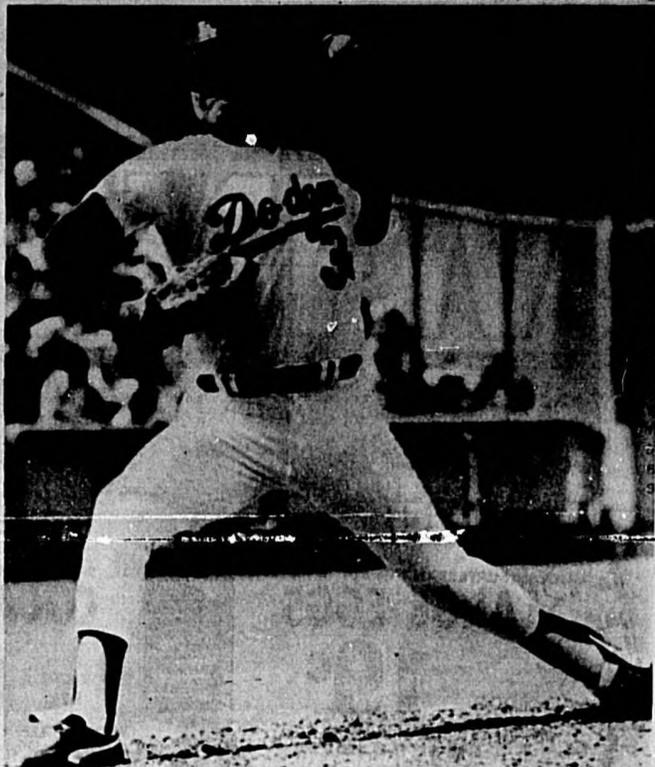

At Minneapolis, John Castino singled with two out in the ninth inning to drive in pinch runner Darrell Brown from second base and give the Twins their fifth straight triumph. Cecil Cooper hit his 22nd home run for the Brewers, a towering 463-foot shot into the upper deck in right field in the sixth.

A's 9-3, Red Sox 2-5

At Oakland, Calif., a seven-run seventh inning that included a two-run single by Carney Lansford and a two-run error by catcher Rich Gedman led the A's in the opener. Wade Boggs drove in four runs with a homer, a sacrifice fly and a ninth inning tie-breaking single to help the Boston Red Sox salvage a split.

Orioles 5, Angels 4

At Anaheim, Calif., Eddie Murray ripped a home run and a double to drive in three runs and lifting Baltimore to its 13th victory in its last 17 games. Dennis Martinez, exiled to the bullpen with a 5-12 record and a 5.84 ERA, hurled six innings of relief for his sixth victory. Geoff Zahn fell to 7-5.

Fernando Valenzuela picked up his 10th win Tuesday with a 5-2 win over the Chicago Cubs.

Mantle Admits, Deep Down, It Hurts Badly

NEW YORK (UPI) — Deep down, it hurts. Mickey Mantle admits that.

Outwardly he shows the world a sunny disposition, giving the impression it doesn't bother him being relegated to baseball's periphery. He does that because it's his basic nature.

He likes to make small jokes about how he was the world champion strikeout hitter when he retired with the Yankees 14 years ago, and how neither they nor anyone else in baseball really offered him any substantial employment since then.

So what did it really matter when Bowie Kuhn decreed he would not be allowed to work for any club in baseball after he signed a $100,000 contract as director of sports promotions for the Claridge Hotel and Gambling Casino in Atlantic City, N.J., last February?

But it does matter to Mickey Mantle, and if you get him off alone on the side, he'll tell you it does hurt.

He has had a clean record all his life and why should there be any kind of blemish on it now? Willie Mays, in the same boat, feels the same way. Both are more sensitive than most people think and would like to be back in the same good graces they were before.

Mantle showed that Monday when he was here to sign still another contract outside of baseball — this one with an organization called Timesavers, which helps people obtain credit cards who ordinarily would have difficulty doing so.

Speaking about Kuhn's contract as commissioner expiring in three weeks, a newsman called Mantle's attention to the fact that Hank Aaron has been campaigning for the job.

The Yankees' 51-year-old Hall of Famer nodded. "I've already seen where he said if he gets to be commissioner, I'd be reinstated," he said.

Since Kuhn's directive, Mantle has been a bit self-conscious, or maybe uncertain, about which baseball gatherings he feels comfortable at and which he doesn't.

He explained why he didn't attend this year's Yankees' Old Timers' Day Celebration at Yankee Stadium on July 16. He felt it was more important for him to be home in Dallas that day because his 25-year-old, Billy, returned there from chemotherapy treatments he had received in Houston. Mantle said his son was making good progress now from Hodgkins Disease.

Then he was asked how come he had not been at the Old Timers' Game in Chicago the day before the annual All-Star Game nor at the Crackerjack Classic in Washington, another get-together for old timers on July 18.

"I just don't feel ...," Mantle began and then stopped before starting over again.

"I would've loved to be at the Old Timers' game," he said, without specifying which one he meant, "but I would've felt funny being in uniform out there and being banned."

Banned, Mickey uses that word a lot. The commissioner and his aides go to some lengths to point out Mantle isn't banned in the strict sense of the word since he's perfectly free to attend all baseball functions although they make it clear he can't sign with any club. In other words, he isn't allowed to play but he can use the locker room to shower.

To Mantle, who is no etymologist and never pretended to be, banned means prohibited. The dictionary says the same thing, so maybe he isn't wrong.

When the Yankees first signed Mantle in 1949, he was working in the lead mines in Commerce, Okla., and the Yankees wanted him to report to their rookie camp in Phoenix.

He didn't show up and they became a little anxious. So they called him and asked why he hadn't reported and he told them he didn't have the bus fare. Mantle didn't know he was supposed to pay his own way and the Yankees then would refund him the money.

No matter what happened, he would never ask them for it.

Nor will he ask for reinstatement now, although you can see how much he wants it.

Underwood Wins Low Gross

Steve Underwood (above) fired an 81 to post the best low gross score in the championship flight for the Seminole Golf Club's Summer Championship Six-Week Program. Best low net scores for the Longwood course were Bobby Brantley (60), Jim Bussard (64) and James Joyce (67). Brantley, Todd Christensen, Dale Stevens and Bussard also posted birdies.

Cook Of The Week

Eat Your Hearts Out, Beard And Child

By Lou Childers
Herald Correspondent

Bill Baker of Sanford does all of the grocery shopping for his family of five, and "95 percent of the cooking."

To Bill, cooking is "a form of relaxation" after he has spent eight or nine hours working hard at his Volkswagen dealership in DeLand.

Bill says he was "a short order cook in a drive-in restaurant" during his high school years. This talent pays off now when he is engaged in cooking for civic groups such as the Rotary Club.

Bill is sergeant-at-arms for the Rotary Club of Sanford-Breakfast and come next October he will be "Chef Baker" for the club's big spaghetti dinner and auction to be held at the Sanford Civic Center.

He insists that his spaghetti sauce, "will have about double the amount of meat," you would normally get in regular restaurant sauce. Bill plans on cooking about 100 gallons of Italian sauce for the October event, and over 100 pounds of pasta. The salads will require two crates of lettuce, one crate of Romaine, one bushel of bell peppers... the list goes on.

Bill's children, Billy, 22, Mike, 16, and Mary Ellen, 13, are all proud of their Dad's culinary accomplishments, and his wife, Mack, says, "I love it that he does the cooking."

Bill's recipes span a range from Clam Pie that he says "is somewhat like a quiche and can be served as an hors d'oeuvre or as a football snack," to one that are as southern as his Tennessee drawl, such as Pork and Bean Salad and Tennessee Fried Chicken.

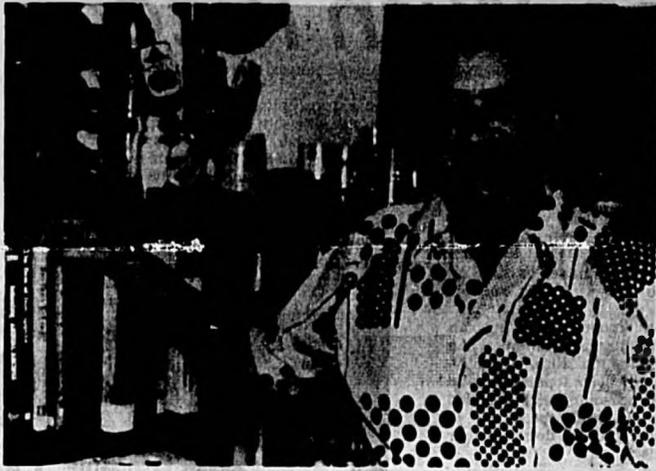

There is a Sunday morning tradition of "biscuits and gravy" in the Baker household. It is so popular that Bill says many of the neighborhood kids get in on the action. "I make the gravy country-style with bacon grease, flour and milk," He makes the biscuits by altering a prepared mix, substituting buttermilk for water and adding approximately one teaspoon of baking soda.

Bill has a couple of collections he shows with pride. The first is an assortment of over 200 bottles of rare wine. The second is shelves full of cookbooks including the annual "Southern Living Cookbook" that his mother sends him every year. "I like to read the cookbooks to get good ideas, but I seldom follow a recipe exactly," says this week's cook of the week.

You will observe that most of Bill Baker's recipes are original in text and include funny little quips somewhere in the instructions. One of his recipes has a definite masculine tone when it says to "pulverize the crackers fairly fine!"

CLAM PIE

2 cans (6 1/2 oz. size) minced clams
2 sleeves Ritz crackers
2 sticks butter or margarine, melted
You're going to love this one! Drain clams and save juice. Add milk to make 1 cup of liquid. Pulverize the crackers fairly fine. (Use a heavy drink glass to squash them.) Combine margarine and crackers. Cover bottom of an 8-inch or 9-inch pie pan with half of the cracker mixture. Pour the clams over the crackers. Cover the clams with the remainder of the crackers. Pour clam juice and milk mixture over the top and bake 45 minutes at 350 degrees. Serve in wedges as an hors d'oeuvre or football snack. Also good cold or reheated in microwave oven. Don't let the name turn you off — this will be the first thing eaten at your next party. I promise!

Bill Baker collects cookbooks and rare wines. On top of that, the busy automobile dealer does all of the grocery shopping for his family of five and 95 percent of the cooking.

FRIED CHEESE

Block of your favorite cheese — provolone, mozzarella, sharp cheddar, etc.

1/4 cup flour
1 egg, beaten
3/4 cup bread crumbs or cracker meal
Cut cheese in 1/4 to 3/4-inch cubes or large bite-size pieces. Dredge in egg, then flour, back in egg then coat very well with bread crumbs or meal. Pat crumbs or meal in well. Deep fry about 1 to 1 1/4 minutes. Eat hot! Absolutely out of sight.

TENNESSEE FRIED CHICKEN

2 to 3 pounds of your favorite chicken pieces
1 1/2 cups flour
1/4 teaspoon poultry seasoning or thyme (not both) salt
water
Heat large skillet to medium hot. Run chicken under cold water or dip in milk. Combine flour and thyme or poultry seasoning. In shaker bag coat chicken a few pieces at a time. Fry until brown on all sides — not dark brown. Lower heat to medium and add 1/4 to 1/2 cup of hot water. Cover tightly and simmer for 12 minutes. Turn chicken carefully (skin may stick lightly to pan). Add 1/4 to 1/2 cup of hot water and simmer about 10-12 minutes. Add salt and pepper to taste. Eat your heart out James Beard!

PORK AND BEAN SALAD

(I've been eating this since I was a kid in Tennessee a lot of years ago. It's easy and an excellent dish for this weather.)
16 oz. can of pork and beans
1 small bell pepper
2 medium tomatoes
1 teaspoon celery seeds (optional)
2 or 3 tablespoons salad dressing (not mayonnaise)
If pork and beans have much juice, pour about half off. Chop pepper fairly fine. Cut tomatoes in thick slices and quarter the slices. Combine pork and beans, tomatoes, pepper and celery seeds. Add salad dressing and serve. Do not make ahead and chill. Do not add salad dressing until just prior to serving. You can add all ingredients, but the dressing, cover and leave at room temperature until ready to serve. Then add dressing. Also, adjust dressing to your own family's taste. Julia Child couldn't improve this dish!

HUMMINGBIRD CAKE

3 cups all purpose flour
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
3 eggs, beaten
1 1/4 cups salad oil
2 teaspoons vanilla
12 oz. crushed pineapple with juice
2 cups chopped pecans
2 1/2 cups bananas
Combine dry ingredients in large mixing bowl. Add beaten eggs and salad oil. DO NOT BEAT, but stir in until moist. Stir in vanilla, pineapple, 1 cup chopped nuts and bananas. Spoon batter into 3 well-greased and floured 9-inch cake pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 45 minutes until toothpick comes out clean. Cool in pans for 10 to 12 minutes. Remove from pans and cool completely.

Frosting
8 oz. cream cheese, softened
1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
16 oz. box powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
Combine cream cheese, butter with beater on medium until smooth. Add powdered sugar and beat until fluffy. Add vanilla and beat until blended. Spread frosting between layers, on top and sides. Sprinkle 1 cup of pecans on top and sides of cake.

Mrs. Robert O'Dell Whitehead

Whitehead-Mergo Vows Spoken

Regina Marie Mergo and Robert O'Dell Whitehead were married June 25, at All Souls Catholic Church, Sanford. The Rev. Kevin O'Doherty performed the 7 p.m. nuptial mass and double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nichols J. Mergo, 124 Larkwood Drive, Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy G. Whitehead, 2522 Georgia Ave., Sanford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a white organza gown with a Queen Anne neckline and Alencon lace bodice embellished with pearls. The long, sheer bishop sleeves featured wide lace cuffs and appliqued lace motifs. A crystal pleated flounce overlaid with Alencon lace enhanced the skirt front with layers of Alencon lace and crystal pleats forming the graceful train that cascaded into a chapel sweep. A Juliet bandeau secured her fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a formal cascade of white bridal roses and pink gladioli florets showered with ivy streamers.

Patricia Joan Mergo attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a pink organza gown fashioned with a double ruffle off-the-shoulder neckline and a double ruffle border at the hemline which tapered in the back to the waistline where it was defined by a large bow. She carried two long-stemmed white roses with cascading ivy and pink streamers.

Bridesmaids were: Sylvia Anne Mergo, sister of the bride, Sanford; Mary Beth Mergo, sister-in-law of the bride, Altamonte Springs; Celeste Bedenbaugh, Oviedo; Mary Florence, Orlando; and Sandra Graham, Altamonte Springs. Their gowns were identical to the honor attendant's. They carried single long-stemmed white roses with pink streamers.

Nicky Whitehead served his brother as best man. Ushers were: Billy Whitehead, brother of the bridegroom, Groton, Conn.; Nicholas D. Mergo, brother of the bride, Altamonte Springs; Doug Burleson, John Sykes and Chris Kelly, all of Sanford.

The reception was held at Deltona Country Club. Following a wedding trip to Cancun, Mexico, the newlyweds are making their home at Palm Bay where the bridegroom is a field service engineer with Digital Equipment Corp. The bride is a recent graduate of the University of Central Florida.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Aloysius Wocner, the bride's maternal grandparents Newark, Del; and Robert O'Dell Slaughter, maternal grandfather of the bridegroom, Roan Mountain, Tenn.

Retirement Fete For Hugh Carlton

Hugh Carlton, director of Auxiliary Services, Seminole County School Board, will be honored at a retirement event, "Hugh Carlton Appreciation Barbecue," on Friday, Aug. 12, beginning at 6 p.m., according to Dan Pelham, principal of Sanford Middle School.

Carlton is retiring after 34 years in public education. He is a former coach as well as having served as principal of Lake Mary Elementary School and of Sanford Junior High School, the present Sanford Middle School.

The barbecue will be held at Lake Golden Park on Airport Boulevard. The cost is $15 per person and the deadline for reservations is Friday, Aug. 5. Reservations may be made through Pelham or any school principal. The public is invited.

"We plan an old-fashioned type barbecue with beef and pork that will be prepared there," he says. All the trimmings will be provided by a caterer.

NEW ARRIVAL

Mr. and Mrs. Michael W. (Mary) Brooke of Osteen, announce the birth of a son, Andrew Raymond, on June 29, at Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford. He weighed 10 1/2 lbs. and joins a brother, Travis, 22 months. Maternal grandparents are Mrs. Dorothy J. Palmer of Sanford, and the late Raymond E. Palmer. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hutchings of Osteen.

Let Gorgeous Hunk Get Lost For Good

DEAR ABBY: I'll try to keep this short, but I could write a book. I was a 38-year-old divorcee with a 17-year-old daughter ("Angie") when I married "Bill," a gorgeous, 39-year-old hunk.

I was the happiest woman in the world until I caught Bill in bed with Angie. I was humiliated and heartbroken, so I kicked him out. I never had a clue about Bill and Angie. I must have been blind because later all my friends and family told me they knew what was going on.

When our divorce was final, Bill married Angie. Shortly after, they went to Vegas to visit Bill's stepfather, and while they were there Angie caught Bill in bed with his stepfather, so Angie took a bus home and filed for divorce.

Now Bill is back, saying he still loves me and begging me to marry him again. Abby, I'm ashamed to admit it, but the flame is still burning and I want him back, but I'm afraid of what my friends and family will say. What should I do?

A FOOL IN LOVE

DEAR FOOL: A 39-year-old man who would have sex with his wife's 17-year-old daughter is a bum. Lose him for good.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I attended a family reunion, where I met a young adolescent with a condition for which the prognosis is blindness. His parents have promised him that he will not go blind because they're afraid he won't be able to handle the truth.

This young man seems very bright and resourceful, and I, among other family members, think he should be told the truth, but no one wants to interfere with the parents' decision.

How should this be handled?

ANONYMOUS PLEASE

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Although the parents mean well, they must be told that by withholding the truth from their son, they are denying him the early training that the visually handicapped need in order to live fuller and happier lives. It would be appropriate for the boy's doctor to tell the parents that the sooner their son prepares for a sightless future, the better.

DEAR ABBY: My pet peeve is "music" in public places. I enjoy music — good music — but I resent having it forced on me in restaurants, offices, even in elevators. And I now suspect that the volume and choice of music are not designed to please the customer, but certain employees. Two examples:

In a restaurant, those at our table complained that the piped-in music was so loud we couldn't converse. The manager's answer: "We'd turn it down, but the waitresses will complain."

In a high-class department store, I was shopping for a scarf for my wife. The counter was situated between a department playing semi-classical music and another playing rock. You can imagine the cacophony! I asked the salesperson at the scarf counter how she stood it. She replied, "Well, the girls over there like rock, but we over here like violin."

How does one fight the system?

PITTSBURGH MUSIC LOVER

DEAR LOVER: Write to the offending management, stating that you're taking your business elsewhere and giving the reason why.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, send for Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send $2 and a long, stamped ($7 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

GETTING MARRIED

Engagement and wedding forms are available at the Herald offices to announce these events. The forms may be accompanied by professional black and white photographs if a picture is desired with the announcement. Wedding forms and pictures must be submitted within two weeks of the wedding.

Use small marshmallows as candle holders for a birthday cake. They'll prevent wax from dripping onto the frosting.

Chefs In Training Create Appealing Dishes With Rice

In an idyllic setting high above the Hudson River just north of New York City, future chefs learn the skills, techniques and practicalities of running a food operation at the Culinary Institute of America. Whether hotel, restaurant, catering, or in-plant foodservice, the rules are the same: serve the best food in the most pleasant manner...while maintaining a profitable bottom line for financial statement.

The enthusiasm and creativity of these young people are astounding! They are immersed in their craft...and it is a craft rather than a trade. Recently they shared their creativity with the Rice Council of America to come up with interesting rice dishes to serve with meat, poultry, or seafood.

And just as rice, at less than 4 cents per serving, can add to the profitability of a restaurant operation...it can help with the budget at home, too. Rice, a gently-flavored food, does not need expensive toppings to add to its appeal. But a judicious seasoning or two added during or after cooking can make a meal a special one.

Try the following recipes and you will dress up your menus just as the professionals do.

CARRIBEAN ISLAND RICE

1 cup uncooked rice
1 cup orange juice
1 cup water
1-1/4 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon ground white pepper
1/4 cup flaked or shredded coconut
2 tablespoons unsalted butter or margarine
2 cups peeled and diced papaya or mango
Combine rice, orange juice, water, salt, and pepper in 1-1/2 to 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil; stir once or twice. Lower heat, cover, and simmer 15 minutes, or until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed. Stir in coconut and butter. Cover and let stand 10 minutes. Fold in papaya pieces. Makes 6 servings.
Or use 2 cups diced canned mangos or peaches, drained.

CHUTNEY RICE

3 cups cooked rice, cooled
1 cup cooked green peas
1 cup sliced celery
18 seedless green grapes, halved
1 tablespoon minced onion
1/4 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons chutney, chopped
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground white pepper
1/4 teaspoon powdered mustard
Combine rice, peas, celery, grapes, and onion in large mixing bowl. Blend remaining ingredients. Pour over rice mixture. Toss lightly. Chill. Serve on salad greens and garnish with whole grapes, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

SOUTHERN RICE

3 cups hot cooked rice
2 tablespoons firmly packed brown sugar
1 tart cooking apple, cored and chopped
1/4 cup dry roasted peanuts, coarsely chopped
Salt and ground white pepper
Combine rice and sugar. Toss with a fork to mix well. Add apple and peanuts. Season to taste. Makes 6 servings.

CARAWAY BACON RICE

6 slices bacon
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/4 green pepper, coarsely chopped
1 small clove garlic, minced
3 cups cooked rice
1 can (8 ounces) or 1 cup sauerkraut, rinsed and drained
1/4 teaspoon caraway seed
Salt and ground black pepper
Cook bacon in large skillet over low heat until crisp. Drain on absorbent paper. Pour off fat; return 2 tablespoons to skillet. Add onion to skillet and cook until soft. Add green pepper and garlic. Cook until pepper is tender to crisp. Stir in rice, sauerkraut, and caraway seed. Heat thoroughly. Add bacon, crumbled, and season to taste. Makes 6 servings.

RICE RICE

4 cups cooked rice, divided
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 onion, chopped
8 ounces fresh mushrooms, diced
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1-1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon ground white pepper
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 cup sour cream
1 cup finely chopped spinach (packed)
1 cup grated Swiss cheese
Paprika
Spoon half the rice into buttered shallow 2-quart baking dish. Melt butter in large skillet. Add onion, mushrooms, lemon juice, and seasonings. Cook over medium heat until onions are soft but not brown. Remove from heat; stir in sour cream. Spread mixture over rice. Cover with spinach. Top with remaining rice; sprinkle with cheese. Dust with paprika. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes, or until thoroughly heated. Makes 6 servings.

RICE CROQUETTES

3 cups cooked rice, cooked in chicken broth
8 ounces fully cooked ham, chopped (1-1/4 cups)
1 cup (4 ounces) grated Cheddar cheese
2 eggs, beaten
1/4 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1 tablespoon snipped parsley
1 clove garlic, minced
Salt and ground black pepper to taste
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
Vegetable oil for frying
In large bowl combine all ingredients except crumbs and oil. Cover and refrigerate 1 to 2 hours, or until mixture is thoroughly chilled. Shape mixture into 30 egg-shaped croquettes, about 1-1/4 tablespoons each. Roll in bread crumbs; refrigerate 20 minutes. Heat oil to 375 deg. Fry croquettes in small batches, 2 to 3 minutes, turning to brown evenly. Drain. Serve with a caper sauce or other appropriate sauce. Makes 30 croquettes.

RICE OLE CASSEROLE

4 cups cooked rice
Salt
1/4 cup yogurt
1/4 cup sour cream
1 can (4 ounces) diced green chiles
1/4 cup sliced pitted ripe olives

1-1/4 cups (6 ounces) grated Monterey Jack or Cheddar cheese

Pimiento strips, optional
Season rice with salt; spread half into buttered shallow 2-quart baking dish. Combine yogurt, sour cream and green chiles. Spread half the mixture over rice. Sprinkle with half the cheese and half the olives. Top with remaining rice. Spread with remaining yogurt mixture.

Sprinkle with remaining cheese and olives. Bake at 350 deg. for 30 minutes, or until hot and bubbly. Garnish with pimiento. Makes 6 servings.

Microwave Magic

Favorite Casseroles In Minutes

You may call it Goulash, Johnnie Marzetti, Hamburger Delight or some special name your family christened it, but the recipe includes the same basic ingredients — ground beef, tomatoes, and macaroni.

It's a combination that almost everyone likes. It's been on the menu of the school lunch program for 20 years that I know of, so you are certain of its universal appeal.

The total cooking time for such a casserole, using your microwave oven, is 25 minutes. Just about long enough to prepare a tossed salad, garlic bread, and set the table.

JOHNNIE MARZETTI

- 1 pound macaroni, cooked
- 1 medium green pepper, chopped
- 1 large onion, chopped
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 tablespoon oil
- 2 pounds lean ground beef
- 1 large can tomatoes
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper

Home Economist
Seminole Community College

1 teaspoon basil
In a 3-quart casserole, saute the onion, green pepper, and garlic until tender. Cook for 3-5 minutes at 100% power. Add the ground beef and microwave at 100% power for 5 minutes, or until meat is no longer pink. Thoroughly crush tomatoes. (The food processor does this step in seconds.) Add the tomatoes and the spices to the meat mixture. Stir. Add the cooked macaroni to the mixture. Microwave on 50% power (Medium) for 15 minutes. Serves 4-6 people.

This is another of those good basic recipes for beef cubes. It can be served on noodles, rice or mashed potatoes. It will serve 4-6 people and takes about 35 minute actual cooking time. A less tender cut such as round steak can be used. The lower power setting and moisture will cook the meat to tender juiciness.

BEEF STEW CASSEROLE

- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 1/2 lb. beef round steak, cut in 1/4 inch cubes
- 1/2 cup chopped onions
- 1 cup thinly sliced carrots
- 2 1/2 cups water
- 1 teaspoon instant beef bouillon
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper

Measure flour into a plastic bag. Add beef cubes and toss to coat evenly. Combine all ingredients in a 3-quart casserole. Cover and microwave at 100% power for 5 minutes. Reduce setting to 50% power and microwave for 30 minutes or until meat and vegetables are fork tender.

For a variation of this recipe, add 1 clove of garlic, minced; 1 tablespoon paprika; and 3 tablespoons dairy sour cream. Stir in the sour cream just before serving. Results: Hungarian Beef Stew!

Stews Boon For Persons On The Go

Hearty stews and casseroles are a boon to a busy person. Make these in quantity and freeze leftovers in serving-size portions.

If you are defrosting a dish for dinner, leave it on your refrigerator's lowest level in the morning, unless you plan to defrost it in a microwave oven. Reheat in the oven for 30 to 60 minutes, depending upon quantity, at 300 degrees, or on top of the stove.

GERMAN POTATO APPLE STEW

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 1/2 cups sliced onion
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 cup chicken broth
- 1 cup apple juice
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon caraway seeds
- 1 1/2 pounds Idaho potatoes, unpeeled, cut in large chunks

1 pound cooked ham, cut in large cubes
2 red apples, cored, cut in wedges
In Dutch oven or large, covered saucepot, melt butter; saute onion until golden. Stir in flour; gradually add broth, apple juice, lemon juice, salt and caraway seeds; stir until slightly thickened. Add potatoes, ham and prunes; bring to a boil. Cover; simmer 15 minutes. Add apples. Cover, simmer 15 to 20 minutes longer until potatoes and apples are tender; stir occasionally. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

POTATO CABBAGE CASSEROLE

- 1 1/2 pounds Idaho potatoes (3 large), unpeeled
 - 1/2 pound bacon cut into 2-inch strips
 - 1 cup sliced onion
 - 2 tablespoons flour
 - 1/2 teaspoon dried leaf thyme, crumbled
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 1/2 cups (12-ounce can) beer
 - 1/2 cup milk
 - 6 cups finely shredded cabbage (1 1/2 pounds)
 - 1 cup shredded Swiss cheese (1/2 pound)
- Steam potatoes in 1-inch boiling water 30 to 40 minutes, until tender. Slice, unpeeled, into 1/2-inch thick slices. In large skillet, cook bacon until crisp; set aside. Pour off all but 2 tablespoons bacon fat. In same skillet, saute onion until golden; stir in flour, thyme and salt. Gradually add beer and milk; stir over low heat, until mixture boils and thickens. In 3-quart casserole, layer half the cabbage, potatoes, bacon, cheese and sauce. Repeat with remaining ingredients. Cover. Bake in a 375-degree oven 30 minutes. Uncover, bake 15 minutes longer until cabbage is tender. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

Oldtimer's Law: Never Eat Seconds

By Gaynor Maddox
Special To The Herald

Three years ago I interviewed a rather stately gentleman who boasted of being 86 years old. He told me, and with great emphasis, he was convinced that he had attained his ripe old age by adhering to his law — never eat seconds.

By that he meant never go back for second helpings no matter how delicious the food may be.

In following this way of life, which has the approval of many nutrition experts, he arranged to get into his diet all the protein, carbohydrates and vitamins needed. He said he had managed to get his diet to fit into his taste preferences.

He urged me to pass along this good diet tip of no seconds. I find it is a rule for good adult living.

His meal always begin with a soup and includes a wonderful salad (a must) and dessert.

But, remember, he warned me, all the foods throughout his life were served only once. There was no snacking between meals either. This seemed to be the prevailing rule in his home.

Today when asked how he can maintain his vigorous health at his age, his answer is again — he indulges in only one serving of any particular food.

I looked at his physique. He did not show any signs of illness, debilities or the ravages of age.

Apparently during a long life, he selected his food on the basis of what he needed and wanted — rather than on the basis of which food he should deprive himself. This deprivation is very common today as more and more persons are "diet" conscious.

This man's words of wisdom could certainly be applied to those of us who feel that constant diets are a burden and behavior modification is the way to go.

Rather than be on a selected diet, try enjoying the exciting foods available and eat what your appetite dictates, but — no more than one serving of each food.

Country Kitchen Canning

"Country" is a state of mind, a feeling, not a place on a map. Whether you call home a high-rise condo or a colonial saltbox, country is experiencing the best of the past while keeping up the present. Country is warm, friendly people, neighbor helping neighbor. Country is the charm of the little things that make a house a home.

Pickling was once a way of preserving food for the long winter months ahead. Today, pickling is done, not out of necessity, but for unmatched flavor, economy, and personal satisfaction. Almost anything that grows in a garden or orchard can be pickled. Besides cucumbers, there are peppers, beans, corn, squash, melons, peaches, pears, and apples, to name a few.

The best pickles begin with the freshest vegetables or fruit, just picked from the garden or tree, if possible. If fresh dill is available by all means use it, although dried dill seed is an acceptable alternative. Use two tablespoons of dill seed for each head of fresh dill. Be sure to purchase spices each pickling season, as spices tend to deteriorate and lose their flavor during storage. Select a high grade white distilled or cider vinegar of four to six percent acidity. You'll also need to buy canning salt. It acts as a preservative, adds flavor, and crispness to the pickles. Do not use regular table salt; the additives in it can cause discolored pickles and cloudy liquid.

BLUE RIBBON PICKLED PEACHES

- 10 pounds firm ripe peaches (small to medium sized)
 - 8 1/2 cups sugar
 - 5 cups white vinegar
 - 2 tablespoons whole cloves, crushed
 - 1 piece ginger root
 - 5 sticks cinnamon (2 inches long)
- Wash and peel peaches. Put in a solution of 2 tablespoons salt, 2 tablespoons vinegar, and 1 quart water. Dissolve sugar in vinegar; add a spice bag made of cloves, ginger root, and cinnamon sticks. Bring to a boil. Drain salt-vinegar solution from peaches. Carefully add peaches to boiling syrup and cook until they can be pierced with a fork, but not soft. Remove from heat and allow peaches to stand in syrup overnight.

Prepare home canning jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions.

Bring syrup and peaches to a boil. Carefully pack peaches into hot jars, leaving 1/4 inch head space. Cover with syrup leaving 1/4 inch head space. Remove air bubbles with a non-metallic spatula. Adjust caps.

Process 20 minutes in a boiling water bath canner. Yield: about 4 quart jars.

COUNTRY APPLE RELISH

- 2 quarts peeled, cored, and chopped apples (about 10 to 12 medium)
- 2 1/2 cups brown sugar (1 pound)
- 1 cup golden raisins
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts
- 1/4 cup red wine vinegar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon allspice
- 1 ounce liquid pectin

Prepare home canning jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions. Combine chopped apples, sugar, raisins, walnuts, and spices in a large saucepot. Bring to a full, rolling boil over high heat, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; stir in liquid pectin. Carefully ladle into hot jars, leaving 1/4 inch head space. Adjust caps.

Process 10 minutes in a boiling water bath canner. Yield: about seven 8 ounce jars.

OLD-FASHIONED WATERMELON RIND PICKLES

- 4 quarts cubed watermelon rind
- 8 cups sugar
- 3 cups white vinegar
- 1 quart water
- 2 oranges, seeded and sliced
- 2 lemons, seeded and sliced
- 4 sticks cinnamon
- 1 tablespoon whole cloves
- 1 tablespoon whole allspice

Prepare watermelon rind, removing green and pink portions. Cut into 1 inch pieces. Cover with 1 quart of water and 1/4 cup salt; allow to stand overnight. Drain and rinse.

Prepare home canning jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions.

Put the watermelon rind in a large saucepan or cover with cold water. Simmer for about 30 minutes or until tender. Drain and set aside. Combine sugar, vinegar, water, and in a large saucepan. Heat, stirring until sugar dissolves. Add the sliced oranges and lemons and spices tied in a cheesecloth bag. Bring mixture to a boil. Add rind and simmer until transparent, and liquid is syrupy. Remove spice bag. Carefully pack rind into hot jars, leaving 1/4 inch head space. Remove air bubbles with a non-metallic spatula. Adjust caps.

Process 10 minutes in a boiling water bath canner. Yield: about four 12 ounce jars.

HOME STYLE DILL PICKLES

- 30 to 40 medium cucumbers (about 4 inches long)
- 1 cup canning salt
- 2 quarts water
- 1 quart white vinegar
- 5 cups water
- 1/4 cup mixed pickling spices
- Fresh dill
- Garlic cloves
- Hot red peppers (optional)

Wash cucumbers carefully. Dissolve 1 cup canning salt in 2 quarts water. Soak cucumbers in brine for 24 hours. Remove and dry.

Prepare home canning jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions. Combine 1 quart white distilled vinegar, 5 cups water, 1/4 cup mixed pickling spices, and fresh dill. Bring to a boil. Pack whole cucumbers into hot jars, leaving 1/4 inch head space. Add 2 cloves garlic, a small hot red pepper, if desired, and a small head of dill in each jar. Carefully pour hot liquid over cucumbers, leaving 1/4 inch head space. Remove air bubbles with a non-metallic spatula. Adjust caps.

Process 15 minutes in a boiling water bath canner. Yield: about 4 quart jars.

COUNTRY FAIR PEPPER-ONION RELISH

- 12 sweet bell peppers, red or green
- 6 large onions
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 2 tablespoons salt
- 2 cups cider vinegar

Prepare home canning jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions. Wash and seed peppers. Chop peppers and onions; place in a saucepot. Add sugar, salt, and vinegar. Boil 30 minutes. Carefully ladle into hot jars, leaving 1/4 inch head space.

Process 15 minutes in a boiling water bath canner. Yield: about ten 8 ounce jars.

Spinach Pie Filled With Cheese Goodness

Ice-cream cones at the fair. Tall, cold glasses of milk after sandlot baseball games. Ice cream and milk are two food synonymous with summertime fun.

Whether it's summer or winter, dairy products provide much-needed calcium and vitamin D.

SPINACH-CHEESE PIE

- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped spinach
- 1/2 cup sliced green onions
- 2 tablespoons margarine or butter
- 2 teaspoons instant chicken bouillon
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- Dash of anise seed, if desired
- 1 package pie crust sticks or mix
- 3 eggs, beaten
- 1 1/2 cups creamed cottage cheese
- 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 teaspoon water

Heat oven to 375°. Rinse frozen spinach under running cold water until thawed enough to cut into 1-inch pieces with knife. Cook onions in margarine in 10-inch skillet until tender. Stir in spinach, instant bouillon (dry), salt, pepper and anise seed. Cook and stir over low heat until all spinach is thawed.

Prepare pastry for Two-Crust Pie as directed on package except - roll each round into 9-inch square. Place 1 square in ungreased square pan, 9x9x2 inches. Reserve 1 tablespoon of the egg; stir remaining egg and the cheeses into spinach mixture. Spread over pastry in pan. Cut several slits in remaining pastry square; place over filling. Mix water and reserved egg; brush over top. Bake until golden brown, about 40 minutes. Let stand 10 minutes before serving, 6 servings.

CREAM CHEESE SQUARES

- 1/2 package chocolate chip cookie mix
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts

- 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 egg

Heat oven to 350°. Knead 1 Flavor Packet about 10 seconds. Mix 1 pouch cookie mix and the Flavor Packet in large bowl until crumbly. Mix in walnuts. Press 3/4 of the crumbly mixture in ungreased square pan, 9x9x2 inches. Bake 12 minutes.

Beat remaining ingredients in small bowl until smooth; spread over crust. Sprinkle remaining crumbly mixture over cream cheese mixture, pressing lightly. Bake until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean, 25 to 30 minutes. Cool; refrigerate 1 hour. Cut into about 1 3/4-inch squares. Refrigerate any remaining squares, 25 squares.

Spinach-Cheese Pie and Cream Cheese Squares use dairy products and convenient packaged mixes.

Hot Weather Salads

The peak watermelon season is here and The Florida Watermelon Association wishes to share some tempting hot weather salad dishes made with watermelon. The Association also suggests that you prepare some of this versatile fruit in watermelon rind preserves for a year round treat.

FRESH WATERMELON BOAT WITH

TURKEY SALAD

- 2 qts. cooked turkey (or chicken) cut in large chunks
- 4 C. seedless green grapes
- 3 C. diagonally sliced celery
- 1 C. French dressing
- 4 tsp. fresh lemon juice
- 1/4 C. mayonnaise
- 1/4 tsp. black pepper
- 1 tsp salt

Watermelon balls
In large bowl combine turkey, grapes and celery. With fork or wire whisk, mix French dressing to lemon juice, mayonnaise, salt and pepper until well blended. Add dressing to turkey mixture, toss lightly to moisten ingredients. Cover, chill until ready to serve. Spoon into scalloped watermelon boat, along with watermelon balls cut from boat. Makes about 12 servings.

WATERMELON RIND PRESERVES

- 6 C. watermelon rind, diced
 - 3 oranges
 - 2 lemons
 - 1/4 C. sugar
- Peel the green skin off the outside of the rind of watermelon and cut out the red meat. Slice the rind into cubes that are about 1" square. Seed the oranges and lemons and cut them into thin slices. Add the fruit slices and sugar to the cubed rind. Boil slowly until the rind is clear. This should take about 2 hours. Place in sterile jars and seal tightly.

If you would like to make these pretty for that Christmas fruit cake, take out half of the preserves and add green food coloring to one half and then add red food coloring to the other half. Add color as you desire before sealing jars.

RED AND WHITE WATERMELON SALAD

- 8 ounces strawberry gelatin
- 2 cups hot water
- 3 cups watermelon balls
- 1/4 ounce can crushed pineapple, undrained
- 1/4 cups chopped pecans, divided
- 1 ounce container refrigerated non-dairy topping, thawed
- 1/2 cup milk
- 8 ounces cream cheese, softened to room temperature

Dissolve gelatin in hot water; let set until firm - 40-50 minutes. Add melon balls, pineapple and 1 cup pecans; pour into a 9x13 inch pan. Chill until firm. Beat cream cheese until fluffy. Gradually add milk and beat until smooth. Fold in non-dairy topping and place on chilled fruit mixture. Sprinkle with remaining 1/4 cup pecans. Refrigerate until serving. Serves 12.

New And Marvelous Summer Desserts So Easy To Prepare

Our trio of smooth, chilled (and frozen) citrus desserts are just right for warm weather entertaining. But they're so easy to prepare — with La Creme frozen whipped topping — there's no need to wait for a special occasion to add one to the menu.

Actually "easier-than-pie" is Snowy Lime Pie, a dazzling dessert which introduces for the first time La Creme Crust...an almost foolproof frozen pie shell.

To prepare, simply spoon thawed whipped topping into the pie plate, then spread and shape into a shell and freeze. This topping, made with real dairy ingredients, can be thawed and refrozen without affecting quality. To complete preparation, spoon the refreshing lime sherbet, mini-marshmallows into the shell and freeze until firm. For filling variations, be as imaginative as you like! You can create countless combinations of sherbet and/or ice cream...adding candies, ice cream toppings, preserves and fruit.

SNOWY LIME PIE
1 container (3 cups) whipped topping with real cream, thawed
1 cup miniature marshmallows
1 pt. lime sherbet, softened
Spoon whipped topping into 9-inch pie plate; with back of spoon, spread and shape into a shell. Freeze until firm. Fold marshmallows into sherbet. Fill shell with sherbet mixture; freeze.

Variations:
Substitute 8 1/4-oz. can crushed pineapple, drained, for marshmallows.
Substitute 1/2 cup lemon yogurt for marshmallows.
Substitute raspberry sherbet for lime sherbet and 8-oz. container raspberry yogurt for marshmallows.

DREAMY ORANGE MOLD
2 11-oz. cans mandarin orange segments, drained
1 3-oz. pkg. orange flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 container (3 cups) whipped topping with real cream, thawed
Drain orange segments, reserving 1 cup liquid. Dissolve gelatin in water; add reserved liquid. Chill until thickened but not set; fold in whipped topping. Arrange 1 cup orange segments in lightly oiled 1-quart ring mold. Carefully pour gelatin mixture over orange segments; chill until firm. Garnish with remaining orange segments.

REFRESHING CHILLED LEMON SOUFFLE
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 cup water
1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
1 8-oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 container (3 cups) whipped topping with real cream, thawed
Soften gelatin in 1/2 cup cold water; stir over low heat until dissolved. Add remaining water, 1/4 cup sugar and beaten egg yolks. Cook, stirring constantly, 3 minutes over low heat. Gradually add to cream cheese, mixing until well blended. Stir in juice and rind. Chill until thickened but not set. Beat egg whites until foamy; gradually add remaining sugar, beating until stiff peaks form. Fold egg whites and whipped topping into cream cheese mixture.

Wrap 3-inch collar of foil around top of 1-quart souffle dish; secure with tape. Pour mixture into dish; chill until firm. Remove collar before serving. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Tasty Picnic Fare

Nothing beats a backyard barbecue for celebrating summer with family and friends. To live up your next picnic menu, try a crowd-pleasing potato salad recipe from the kitchens of Del Monte Corporation.

PICNIC POTATO SALAD
5 cups cooked diced potatoes
5 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1 cup chopped onion
3/4 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup chopped sweet pickle chips
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
3 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
1 1/2 cups mayonnaise
1 1/4 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon curry powder
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Combine potatoes, egg, onion, celery, pickles, green pepper and parsley. Thoroughly blend together mayonnaise, salt, curry powder, mustard, paprika and pepper; fold into potato mixture. Chill several hours before serving. Yield: 8 to 10 servings (7 1/2 cups.)

SPICY BARBECUED RIBS

1 cup ketchup
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1/4 cup prepared mustard
1 1/2 tablespoons cider vinegar
1 tablespoon prepared horseradish
1 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
3 to 4 pounds pork spareribs
Combine ketchup, Worcestershire sauce, mustard, vinegar, horseradish, sugar, garlic powder, salt and pepper. Preheat oven to 450 degrees. Place ribs on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. Bake, uncovered, for 15 minutes. Turn over and bake 15 minutes longer.

Remove from oven; drain off drippings. Reduce oven to 325 degrees. Spoon half of the barbecue sauce over the ribs. Bake, uncovered, for 20 minutes. Turn and brush remaining sauce over the ribs. Bake, until glazed well and done, about 20 minutes. (To test for doneness, make a cut near the center of a meaty portion and be sure no pink remains.) Or, place partially cooked (boiled 45 minutes) ribs on a grill 4 inches from hot coals. Brush on half of the reserved sauce. Barbecue for 10 minutes. Turn over; brush on remaining barbecue sauce and barbecue 10 minutes longer.

SENSATIONAL CHOCOLATE LAYER CAKE

1 two-layer chocolate cake mix
1 cup water
1/4 cup salad dressing
3 eggs
Combine ingredients; mix well. Pour into two wax paper-lined 9-inch layer pans. Bake at 350°, 30 to 35 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pans. Cool. Fill and frost as desired. Variation: Substitute greased and floured 13 1/2-inch baking pan for 9-inch layer pans. Bake 35 to 40 minutes.

Nuclear Cataracts: Just What Are They?

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband has been diagnosed as having nuclear cataracts in both eyes. This must be a new eye disease as there does not seem to be any information about this. Can you give us some information so we will know what to expect? Our eye doctor told us these cataracts are very slow forming and may not ever bother him but what if they do? Will he go blind? DEAR READER — Think of them as just plain cataracts. The nuclear sclerosis term is used because the lens starts to harden in the center. It does progress slowly. When it first happens it may affect refraction of light waves through the lens. As a result the person's near vision may improve for a short time. This is sometimes called "second sight" because it provides a newfound ability to read without glasses. But that is temporary. As the lens undergoes further changes the usual problems of cataracts appear. Be happy the doctor told you that the condition may never cause your husband any problem. And what if it does? He will have the same problems that other people with cataracts have. If it affects his vision too much then he can have the cataracts removed. Not everyone who has a cataract needs surgery. It depends entirely on how it affects the eyesight. If it is located where it does not interfere with light rays passing through to the retina, the person may never know that a cataract exists. However, when a cataract significantly affects vision, to the point that reading and other normal tasks become difficult or impossible, then surgery should definitely be considered. I am sending you The Health Letter 13-6, Your Cataracts Are Coming, to give you a better understanding of the problem. As this issue points out, if you also have disease of the other parts of the eye, such as the retina, you may still have vision problems after surgery. In some of these cases that is a reason for not doing surgery. DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 69 and in comparatively good health. Recently I bought a pair of suspenders. Since I am ectomorphic a belt sometimes does not hold my trousers up. What are the advantages of suspenders over a belt? The suspenders offer much more breathing space. DEAR READER — In most cases it is a matter of style. But you are right, that belts can restrict breathing. When you breathe in, your diaphragm moves down to enlarge the chest cavity and increases lung capacity. As the diaphragm moves down it must displace abdominal organs and often fat. If a belt restricts this movement it will limit breathing capacity. Belts and tight pants are common problems for stout men. The belt acts like a narrow girdle. And tight belts increase problems of a hiatal hernia. The pressure helps force the stomach through the hole in the diaphragm into the chest. Suspenders, however, are uncomfortable for some men as the straps, if not carefully located, may rub against the nipple, causing irritation. In general I favor suspenders over belts for health reasons but I wear a belt because I like it.

South responded two clubs rather than one spade because he wanted to be able to show both his suits without getting to the three level, assuming that North's hand would produce a diamond rebid. Instead North raised to three clubs. South rebid three spades and decided to bid four no-trump after North went to the no-trump game. North thought about passing, but finally jumped to six clubs. West opened the ace of hearts. South thought a long while about which heart to drop from dummy at trick one and finally dropped the king. West led a second heart. Now South went into a real trance. Part of his thinking was to ask himself why he hadn't passed at three no-trump. The rest was to find the best line of play. All reasonable plays work, but he didn't know that. Then with his mind fully made up, he won in dummy and played ace, king and a small spade for dummy to ruff. Back to his hand with a trump to the ace. Then he led his last spade. West showed out, and when West discarded, South ruffed safely with the 10. Queen of clubs came next. When East produced the jack, South overtook, drew trumps, and claimed.

Navy Paid $435 For $15 Hammer; 'Major Changes' Enacted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Not only has the Pentagon been overcharged for spare parts for its weapons, but Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger says the practice extends even to paying $435 for a hammer that costs $15 in a hardware store.

Weinberger disclosed the latest in a series of Pentagon overpayments to defense contractors Tuesday in announcing a 10-point plan to revamp purchasing procedures for spare parts.

Recent Pentagon audits of parts-buying practices "demonstrate conclusively that we must make major changes in the way we order and purchase spare parts," Weinberger said in a memorandum to the top military and civilian officials at the Defense Department.

The action follows the release of audits earlier this month showing the Navy bought $80,284 worth of spare parts for F-18 fighter-bomber simulators that it could have bought for $3,638 through its own supply system, and the Air Force spent $3.2 million on parts worth only $883,000.

The Navy is seeking a reimbursement from the Sperry Corp. for the F-18 parts. It has fired one officer at the Orlando naval center responsible for buying those parts. The commanding officer and a civilian at the center have been reprimanded.

In the latest case, Weinberger issued a statement disclosing that Gould Simulation Systems Inc., of Melville, N.Y., charged the Navy $436 for a sledge hammer, $435 for a claw hammer and $437 for a 12-foot measuring tape. The tools were purchased for work being done at the Naval Air Station, Whiting Field, Fla.

Navy Secretary John Lehman "is seeking immediate recoupment of the overcharges," Weinberger said. "A review is underway to determine if additional disciplinary actions should be taken against personnel within the Navy responsible for screening the spare parts."

In his memorandum, Weinberger acknowledged the Pentagon failed to comply with directives issued in March 1981 to increase competitive bidding and hold down prices, saying they "have not been enforced vigorously enough."

"To ensure that we are not plagued with pricing abuses in the future we have developed and put in place a 10-point program," Weinberger said.

One of those points calls for "stern disciplinary action — including reprimand, demotion and dismissal — of those employees who are negligent in implementing our procedures."

Senators Urged To Give 60,000 Japanese Internees $1.5 Billion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chairman of the Commission on Wartime Relocation and Internment urged a Senate committee today to provide $1.5 billion for 60,000 Japanese-Americans who were rounded up after the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

"It's hard to imagine circumstances more clearly justifying compensation from the government," said Joan Bernstein.

The commission, established by Congress, completed a two-year investigation by concluding "a grave injustice" was done to the Japanese-Americans during the hysteria of early World War II. It recommended making $20,000 payments to each of the approximately 60,000 surviving internees.

Mrs. Bernstein was the first witness as the Senate Judiciary administrative practice and procedure subcommittee began hearings on a bill sponsored by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., to implement her panel's recommendations.

Cranston's bill, however, does not specify a compensation amount but calls for the payment of "an appropriate sum."

Rep. Daniel Lundgren, R-Calif., the only member of the commission to oppose a payment, also was scheduled to testify.

Mrs. Bernstein said President Reagan's 1970 remark as California governor

"pointedly and accurately underscored what each American should take from this history."

She quoted Reagan as saying: "A lesson was learned in California during World War II, which should be made a part of the record and the heritage of Americans everywhere who cherish liberty, freedom and constitutional guarantees."

"No program of mass exclusion or detention was imposed on German or Italian aliens nor upon American citizens of German or Italian descent," she said.

"In simple terms 120,000 people lost the right to live where they chose and the large majority were held in detention for more than two years without charges being brought against them."

Mrs. Bernstein said the commission also recommended Congress pass a joint resolution recognizing that a grave injustice was done and apologize for the nation.

"If we are unwilling as a nation to apologize for these events, we will deliver a message to the thousands of loyal Americans who were held in the camps that will be bitter."

She said the recommended compensation was based not only on the initial acts of 1942 but also on the last 18 months of detention when there was no threat of attack on the West Coast from Japan.

Administration Pushing Tough Child Support Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Reagan administration is seeking the women's vote — and welfare savings — with a lobbying campaign to pass a stronger child support law that welfare Secretary Margaret Heckler says attacks a "major social problem."

The administration's no-cost bill, introduced in the House earlier this month, was to be introduced in the Senate today. Sponsors include the two women in the Senate — Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan., and Paula Hawkins, R-Fla., — as well as Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo.

Mrs. Heckler, health and human services secretary, held an hour-long strategy session Tuesday with nine Republican women members of Congress. She said she urged them to "use all their clout to have this issue ... brought to the floor as soon as possible." She would like it passed this session.

In an interview, she said there is no active resistance to the bill, but it will require a "gigantic effort" to pass it because Congress has a packed agenda.

The Census Bureau estimated recently fewer than half the women awarded child support actually collect the full amount, and the lost money amounts to $4 billion a year. Many of those women go on welfare.

as 16 cents for every dollar spent. The administration's unusually hard push for the bill comes as the White House is trying to bolster support among women, which polls show to be lagging. But Mrs. Heckler said child support is not a women's issue so much as a "children's issue. ... We're not talking about alimony here."

The administration's bill would trim federal funding for state programs, but use the money to set up a $200 million incentive pool for those that do a good job. It would encourage states to go after parents who cross state lines to avoid paying.

States would have to dock parents' paychecks to collect back payments and would have to deduct payments from state income tax refunds in welfare cases. Alternate collection procedures would be set up to bypass crowded courts.

Democrats want the administration to agree to let the Internal Revenue Service dock federal income tax payments in non-welfare cases, as is done in welfare situations. But Mrs. Heckler said she will forcefully oppose that because it would be impossible to administer fairly and "there are more effective techniques."

Shuttle Launch May Be Delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The shuttle Challenger has taken a key step toward launch next month, but a NASA official says the flight may be delayed because of difficulties in testing a communications satellite scheduled to talk with the ship in orbit.

Challenger was moved Tuesday from its Kennedy Space Center work hangar at Cape Canaveral to the rocket assembly building where its twin booster rockets and large external fuel tank will be hooked up. The whole assembly goes to the ocean launch pad next Monday.

LT. Gen. James Abrahamson, associate NASA administrator, told a House subcommittee the Florida launch team is aiming toward an Aug. 20 blastoff. But he said the flight may be delayed "a week or so" because of difficulties in testing the orbiting Tracking and Data Relay Satellite.

He said a decision on the launch date will have to be made by the middle of next week.

The main objective of the flight is the launch of a communications satellite for India. The crew for the mission is shuttle veteran Richard Truly and space rookies Daniel Brandenstein, Dale Gardner, Guion Bluford and William Thornton. Bluford is the first American black to fly in space.

The data relay satellite is the $100 million spacecraft that was stranded in an abnormally low wrong orbit in April by rocket failure. It was slowly nudged to its final 22,236-mile high orbit in late June.

The satellite is needed to relay scientific data from the European-built Spacelab, set to be launched Sept. 30 in the shuttle Columbia, to mission control in Houston.

The satellite must be successfully tested before Spacelab is committed to flight and in-orbit tests during the Challenger's next flight are considered the best way to check out the satellite.

But preliminary checkout of the data relay satellite is running two to three weeks behind schedule due to a variety of problems. Ronald Browning, satellite program manager at the Goddard Space Flight Center, said engineers want to be far enough along in testing from the ground to have a reasonable chance of successfully testing it with Challenger.

A delay in the shuttle's launch would give engineers extra time to prepare for the in-orbit testing.

'Voices' Told Perry About Rock Singer

LAKE ARTHUR, La. (UPI) — A man charged in the execution-style slayings of five family members wrote letters to Olivia Newton-John saying he heard voices and begging her for assurances she was real and not "some Disneyland puppet."

Michael Owen Perry was wanted on five first-degree murder charges in the July 17 slayings of his parents, a 2-year-old nephew and two cousins. The victims, each shot in the head at close range with a shotgun, were found in their homes July 19.

Officials Tuesday revealed contents of two letters signed by Perry and received from Gavin deBecker Inc., a consulting firm specializing in security for celebrities and political figures.

"I lost my only brother," one letter told the Australian singer. "I have only a married sister left and a father and a mother. If you are real, write to me and tell me so. If you are not real, some Disneyland puppet, then I will take those matters."

Investigator Ervin Trahan contracted the firm's services when officers discovered a piece of paper in Perry's trailer with three names, including "Olivia."

"I know much about Apollo and the nine muses," said one of the Perry-signed letters to Ms. Newton-John. "As I said, I saw 'Xanadu' for the first time (in) months gone by."

Muses were sister goddesses in Greek mythology who resided over song and poetry. Ms. Newton-John played one of the nine sisters in "Xanadu," a movie musical made with Gene Kelly.

Authorities issued a nationwide alert for Perry, 28, a former mental patient.

After seeing the movie, Perry wrote, he "went shopping and saw many girls who looked like you with long hair and now with short hair." Ms. Newton-John's hairstyle became fashionable shortly after the movie was released several years ago.

In the letter, Perry wrote of an "underground network" operating under his trailer and his parents' home. "I heard voices and the voices said to me that you are a muse and trapped under Lake Arthur," the letter said. Perry said he wrote the second letter in four different pens "because there were four rivers leading from paradise."

Portions of the second letter were written on Fluor Drilling Co. expense vouchers. Perry's father, Chester, 48, worked for Fluor. Also killed in the shooting spree were Perry's mother, Grace Perry, 47; nephew, Anthony Bonin, 2; and cousins, Randy Perry, 19, and Bryan DeBlanc, 22.

Perry reportedly traveled to Ms. Newton-John's home in Malibu, Calif., five times but was turned away by security guards.

Oraflex Sparks Another Lawsuit

FRANKLIN, Ind. (UPI) — A third multimillion-dollar lawsuit has been filed against Eli Lilly and Co. over the manufacture of the arthritis drug Oraflex, which has been linked to deaths and injuries in its users.

The suit, which seeks $350 million damages, was filed Tuesday in Johnson Circuit Court. It claimed the company was guilty of "gross negligence" in manufacturing Oraflex.

The suit, the third major legal action against the Indianapolis pharmaceutical firm, was filed on behalf of relatives of three people who died from taking Oraflex and for 32 others who suffered injuries.

Besides Lilly, the suit named former Lilly medical administrator Dr. W. Ian H. Sheddon and drug researcher Dr. Harvey Barnett as defendants.

The suit said Lilly was guilty of "gross negligence, carelessness and willful acts" in marketing Oraflex.

Two major suits seeking damages of more than $300 million were filed in June and earlier this month.

Lilly withdrew the drug from the market in the United States shortly after several deaths in Europe were linked to Oraflex.

The first major suit for $180 million damages was filed June 8 by lawyers representing relatives of four residents of the United Kingdom and relatives of a Georgia man who took the drug and died.

It was followed up about four weeks later with a second suit on behalf of heirs of people who died and for persons suffering numerous injuries while taking the drug.

About 70 other suits also have been filed.

Spuds Gussied Up Into International Favorites

Al Fresco dining, whether in a sylvan glade or just a few feet out on the patio is the ticket when the humidity soars. Devil'd Chicken Wings are a perennial summer favorite. Easy-to-make and flavorful, these wings are a finger food that go well with just about everything. Their versatility is matched only by that of the three out-of-the-ordinary potato salads featured here. These side dish spuds have been specially designed to withstand the problems that heat imposes on food.

The international potato salads and the chicken wings use a cider vinegar as a moistener rather than perishable mayonnaise that is not as safe during outdoor sojourns.

In addition, all three salads are the busy cook's dream since they use quality processed potatoes that can be gussied up into these delectable dishes in a matter of minutes. When buying processed potatoes, keep an eye out for the "Grown in Idaho" seal that insures that the spuds came from that state's top quality crop.

DEVILED CHICKEN WINGS

1 medium onion, chopped (¾ cup)
 ¼ cup red wine vinegar
 ¼ cup prepared Dijon-style mustard
 3 tablespoons olive oil
 3 cloves garlic, minced
 1 tablespoon dried leaf rosemary, crushed
 ¼ teaspoon salt
 ¼ teaspoon pepper
 5½ pounds chicken wings (6 wings per serving)
 In large bowl combine onion, vinegar, mustard, oil, garlic, rosemary, salt and pepper; mix well. Pierce chicken wings with a fork. Add wings to marinade. Cover; refrigerate 5 hours or overnight. Stir wings as often as possible to distribute marinade. Place wings on barbecue over medium high heat. Cook 10 minutes on one side; turn, brush with marinade and continue cooking 10 minutes longer or until wings are cooked through.

YIELD: 6 servings.

PISA POTATO SALAD

1 package (5.25 ounces) dehydrated scalloped potatoes with sauce mix
 3¾ cups water, divided
 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
 ¼ cup chopped onion
 1 clove garlic, minced
 1½ teaspoons dried leaf basil, crumbled
 ¼ teaspoon pepper
 3 tablespoons wine vinegar
 1 medium-size red pepper, seeded and cut in julienne strips
 ½ cup sliced, pitted, black olives
 4 hard-cooked eggs, divided

In medium saucepan combine potatoes and 3 cups water; heat to boiling. Reduce heat, cover, simmer until tender, about 15 minutes. Drain. Cool. Meanwhile in small saucepan heat oil; saute onion and garlic until tender. Stir in sauce mix, basil and pepper. Gradually add remaining ¾ cup water and vinegar. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture boils and thickens. Cool to room temperature. In large bowl combine sauce mixture, potatoes, red pepper and olives. Coarsely chop 2 hard-cooked eggs; add to potatoes; toss gently. Cover. Chill. To serve, turn into serving dish; garnish with remaining 2 hard-cooked eggs, cut in wedges.

YIELD: 4 servings.

ORIENTAL POTATO SALAD

 4 cups frozen Southern-style hash brown potatoes
 3 tablespoons soy sauce
 2 tablespoons cider vinegar
 1 tablespoon toasted sesame seeds
 ¼ teaspoon ground ginger
 ¼ teaspoon pepper
 2 cups bean sprouts
 1½ cups sliced mushrooms
 ½ cup finely sliced scallions
 In large skillet heat ¼ cup oil; carefully add potatoes to form a single layer. Cover. Cook 8 to 10 minutes, stirring occasionally, until potatoes are done. Cool. In small bowl combine remaining ¼ cup oil, soy sauce, vinegar, sesame seeds, ginger and pepper; mix well. In large bowl combine potatoes, bean sprouts, mushrooms, scallions and soy sauce mixture; toss lightly. Cover. Chill.

YIELD: 6 servings.

POTATO SALAD GUADALAJARA

1 package (5.5 ounces) dehydrated au gratin potatoes with sauce mix
 3¾ cups water, divided
 3 tablespoons cider vinegar
 1 teaspoon chili powder
 ¼ teaspoon ground cumin
 1 medium tomato, coarsely chopped
 1 avocado, seeded and coarsely chopped
 In medium saucepan combine potatoes and 3 cups water; heat to boiling. Reduce heat; cover; simmer 15 minutes until tender. Drain. Cool. Meanwhile in small saucepan combine sauce mix, remaining ¾ cup water, vinegar, chili powder and cumin. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture boils and thickens. Cool to room temperature. In large bowl combine potatoes, tomato, avocado and sauce mixture; toss lightly. Cover. Chill.

YIELD: 4 servings.

Picnic Special: chicken wings and potato salads

Recipe Contest In Final Week

The deadline for submitting recipes for the Herald's Third Annual Heritage Cookbook is Saturday, July 30. Breads-Rolls and Desserts are the remaining categories in the four-week contest including eight categories.

The cookbook, to be published Sunday, Aug. 21, and Thursday, Aug. 25 (in The Herald Advertiser) will feature all of the recipes submitted.

Submit recipes to The Evening Herald, 300 N. French Ave., Sanford, or P.O. Box 1657, Sanford, 32771.

RECIPE Contest

Heritage Cookbook

SPECIAL EDITION

SUNDAY, AUGUST 21st

AND

THURSDAY, AUGUST 25th

(HERALD ADVERTISER)

RULES:

Limit two (2) recipes per category each containing Name, Address and Phone Number.

TYPE or PRINT your recipe giving full instructions for preparation, cooking time and temperature. (Approximate number of servings also helpful.)

Anyone can enter except Evening Herald employees and their immediate family.

First Prize will be awarded in each of the 8 food categories. You may enter as many of the weekly categories as you like.

A panel of three expert judges will review all entries and winners will be notified at the end of the contest in August for a "taste off" to select the Grand Prize winner. Decision of the judges is final.

All recipes received will be published in August for the Evening Herald's third annual cookbook contest.
