

CARLTON SHOWS OPTIMISTIC VIEW ON STATE FUTURE

Avers Unemployment Is Negligible, And Winter Season Good

WEST PALM BEACH, Jan. 12. (A.P.)—Governor Carlton yesterday said unemployment in the state was "negligible" and that Florida is enjoying a good winter season. He predicted the state will lead the nation in a general comeback from world-wide depression.

"Florida's values are about as indestructible as you will find anywhere," he declared, and "about as good a savings bank as you will ever find."

"At the beginning of the year," he said, "I had all state institutions to make new budgets, including necessities only. As a result, of that we now stand a good chance to obviate the necessity of another extraordinary session of the Legislature."

However, the governor said that a good many of the state's sources of revenue are being attacked in the courts, and he created a situation which might change the present outlook.

The governor came here to state negotiations for the purchase of about $500,000 in equipment of the Everglades drainage district for use on the state's newly established farm now, Belle Glade in the Everglades.

The intention is to use the equipment on the farm in operations designed to raise foodstuffs for the state's institutions. Present plans call for coming over tables for out of season use.

The governor and L. E. Chapman, assistant superintendent of the state farm at Raiford, related plans for having growing crops in 30 days and for producing enough food to feed inmates of state institutions.

The drainage board decided to sell the equipment to the state. It was pointed out the article needed were not necessary to drainage board operations.

The board also renewed conversations with the Seaboard Air Line railway looking to extension of agreements expiring in April under which the railway could extend its lines along the banks of main canals in the district.

A representative of the railway told the board he expected an attempt to reorganize the Seaboard and that such a reorganization undoubtedly would include an expansion plan which would affect the road's right of way in the Everglades. The drainage board has expressed itself against renewing the agreement.

The board granted J. L. Holberg of Miami, a permit to build a bridge over the Hillsboro canal near Deerfield in Broward county after being informed Holberg planned a large agricultural development in the district.

Success Attending Trade Body Drive For Memberships

Coleman, S. O. Shinhola, Peter Thurston, and H. W. Loder, Captains Mrs. H. M. Papworth, Mrs. A. D. Covington, J. H. Menick, J. H. Hallett, J. E. Fox, H. F. Haines, H. B. Levy, and Gus Schmah, and Lieutenants, Mrs. Fannie Brown, Mrs. W. J. Thielen, Mrs. R. A. Newman, and Mrs. Daisy Lewis were also introduced.

Karl Lehmann, secretary of the trade body, made several preliminary announcements relating to the mechanics of the drive and reported that every town in the county had passed its quota, due to the fine work of Colonel Loder's team, including J. Frank Halthaus and T. D. Haines, Altamonte; J. H. Menick, at Longwood; J. E. Fox and E. M. Laney, at Paola; H. B. Levy, at Geneva, and C. J. Hallett, at Fern Park.

Workers today covered the county, soliciting memberships. They all carry personally selected prospect cards, and good wishes and good will from the trade body to every person solicited. Tomorrow at noon, solicitation is open, each member being allowed to solicit any person he wishes.

The drive will conclude tomorrow night with a "Victory Supper" at the Celery Club. All reports will be in and tabulations made as they are read, and every indication points to one of the most interesting suppers staged here.

EX-CASHER SENTENCED
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 12. (A.P.)—Earl J. Fricks, former assistant cashier in the defunct Bank of Buxley, Ala., was given a maximum sentence of from eight to 10 years in prison yesterday following his conviction of false entry in the bank's accounts.

JUDGE AKERMAN BLAMES PUBLIC FOR CONDITIONS

Urges More Thought On How To Thwart Communist Menace

TAMPA, Jan. 12. (A.P.)—Federal Judge Akerman speaking last night on communism at a meeting of the Tampa Business Women's club, put the blame for disorder squarely upon the rank and file of thoughtless American people who are only having a good time to think of the present situation as a "little drama."

At the same time, he said, Congress is woefully so blind, for failure to enact laws under which these agitators could be sent to the penitentiary.

"Every day I take up my paper," the judge said, "and I find about two pages of news and about four pages of post reports of bail and football, racing and whatnot. Then there is perhaps half a page of society. While these columns tell of sport and society, the news columns tell of people who are starving."

"I go to a picture show and there I see high life on the screen. At the same time I see people going to the Tombs; on the highways I see men chasing up and down at 70 miles an hour in automobiles with no place to go and nothing to do when they get there."

"When I see all these things, and the pace at which society is traveling, I cannot help but think of Nero fiddling while Rome burned, of Marie Antoinette, and of the more recent mobility of Russia. Nero committed suicide to escape the wrath of the people; the French queen, who asked why the people who had no bread did not eat cake, lost her head; and the nobility of Russia, who lived riotously while the people starved, are now scattered to the four corners of the earth waiting on tables."

"Our people, the high flies, and those who are trying to keep up with the Joneses, had better stop and think. We have come to perdition times."

Judge Akerman then referred to his warning to the people of Tampa of communistic activity here, delivered more than a year ago in a charge to a jury at Jacksonville. It was not heeded, he said, and trouble came. Here men and women were hungry, foreign agitators, not busy, because when men are hungry they are willing to listen, and 5000 workers left their factories and disorders followed.

"Before we condemn these dupes," Judge Akerman said, "we ought to see what we can do to give them something better than the promised land of communism. These agitators hold up high hopes, but these hopes never will be realized; such hopes never have been realized, take it from me, from the dawn of history. They can not be, so long as human nature is as it is."

"I sometimes doubt that the agitators are emissaries of Soviet Russia; sometimes I am pretty sure they are running a racket to get dues from these poor people to put in their own pockets."

"What do we as good citizens hold out for these people who are ready to follow communism? Do we set them a good example? I believe every law ought to be enforced, and if a law is not good let us repeal it. The foreigner, who is particularly apt to follow agitators, should be taught what our country and our laws stand for."

"But instead of teaching them, we have permitted communistic literature, teaching and preaching to permeate the community. The real trouble is not with the dupes. The trouble is with us, and with these agitators."

"Congress is woefully to blame for not enacting laws under which these agitators, either from this or a foreign country, could be put in the penitentiary for about 10 years and then shipped to the country they think is better than ours."

Judge Akerman read a communist circular urging boys of workers to join the Young Pioneers of America and attacking the Boy Scout organization as a military school for the training of boys to fight in wars of the bosses.

"Can you believe that such a document has been circulated here, and we have done nothing about it?" the judge asked. "It behooves us to stop and think and see if we can't take more interest in these people. Our teachers are doing well, but I think we should send committees to the schools to explain what our government stands for."

"But let us set an example ourselves; let us use every legal means to get rid of those who stir up trouble against our government, and if our laws are insufficient, let us make laws that will suffice to send these people to the country they think better than our own."

Radio Advertising Arousing Disfavor Of Senate Group

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (A.P.)—The Senate expressed a "growing dissatisfaction with the present use of radio facilities for commercial advertising" yesterday and instructed the radio commission to give it all the facts.

A resolution by Senator Cozens, Michigan Republican, calling upon the commission to report on the feasibility of government operation of the radio and "whether it would be practicable and satisfactory to permit only the announcement of sponsorship of programs" was quickly adopted.

An amendment by Senator Dill, Washington Democrat, requiring the commission to report on its actions relating to educational radio, was incorporated. Among other things, the Cozens resolution called on the commission to report on the following:

"What plans might be adopted to reduce, to limit, to control, and, perhaps, to eliminate the use of radio facilities for commercial advertising purposes;

"What rules or regulations have been adopted by other countries to control or to eliminate the use of radio facilities for commercial advertising purposes;

"Any information available concerning the investments and the net income of a number of representative broadcasting companies or stations."

JOHNSON'S WORK AT HIGH SCHOOL IS GIVEN PRAISE

Letter Of State Official Sets Forth Results Of His Efforts

The high regard in which Alex E. Johnson, Seminole County's vocational agriculture teacher, is held in state circles because of his work in this section, is indicated in a letter prepared by H. E. Wood, assistant state supervisor of agricultural education, Tallahassee, and sent to the Federal Board for Vocational Education at Washington.

The letter sets forth the reasons for Mr. Johnson's having been selected for the third consecutive year to represent Florida in the regional contest for the best agricultural teacher in the United States.

The contents of the letter are as follows:

"Alex R. Johnson, Teacher of Vocational Agriculture at Sanford, has prepared an interesting report of his work there during the fiscal year of 1930-31, (July 1st to June 30th). This report has been mailed to the Federal Board for Vocational Education in Washington to compete in the Southern Regional Master Teacher Contest. Mr. Johnson earned the right to enter this contest by being rated as the best agricultural teacher in Florida, making a total of 470 points out of a possible 1000, and leading his nearest opponent by 28 points. This is the third consecutive year that Mr. Johnson has represented Florida in the Southern Regional Contest, and his program has been growing by leaps and bounds in Seminole County.

"He is training each boy in his various classes to make a complete analysis of his home farm conditions and then work out a long time program for making the farm profitable. In doing this each boy is required to map out a personal farming program which he actually carries out in correlation with his studies.

"On the Sanford School Farm, each student is taught through actual practice, the most improved methods of doing different farm jobs. On this farm many varieties of fruit and vegetable crops are grown with the major farm crops grown at Sanford. The students and farmers get valuable information from the results of these tests. During 1930-31, the school farm developed to a point where over one thousand visitors per year visited it for the purpose of viewing the work and obtaining agricultural information.

"In the school farm shop, the students get valuable training in how to plan and construct farm buildings, repair farm equipment, build farm equipment and do various other shop jobs necessary on a Seminole County farm.

"Last year a total of 33 boys in all types of classes earned $1739.83 in various projects operated by them. Although this amount is not outstanding it represents a nice profit for school boys who at the same time earn 1 1/2 credits toward graduation from high school, on vocational agriculture.

"Mr. Johnson has done outstanding work in conducting evening classes for adults. A total of 72 farmers enrolled in the classes. At these meetings only farm problems confronting the farmers were discussed and the teacher supplied information dealing with the solution of the problems.

"The following are some of the accomplishments which are direct results of these evening classes for adults:

(1) Organization of the Seminole County Agricultural Club which has a membership of 187 and includes 80% of the truck growers of the community. At present this organization is making a united complaint against recent freight rate increases.

(2) A county wide corn growing contest resulted in 100% more corn being grown by farmers. New varieties introduced have increased the yield 75% over the commonly grown varieties. During the past two years 40 ear proof corn cobs have been built and the practice of controlling weeds by carbon disulfide is firmly established.

(3) Citrus trees were introduced as a soil building crop and 8000 lbs. of seed distributed among growers during the past year.

(4) Seminole Poultry Club organized and largely responsible for staging a poultry show in Sanford each year which stimulates more and better poultry in the county.

(5) About 25% increase in the amount of "mixed" vegetable grown, which aids in soil rotation practices and also displaces some "exotic" crops.

(6) Improving spray mixtures and the control of citrus blight which increased efficiency and eliminated this practice.

(7) Bringing back into production certain citrus soils which had become unproductive through the accumulation of fertilizer residues. The cause was discovered and the remedy evolved as a result of adult class meetings.

TAMPA OPPOSING PROPOSED CANAL ACROSS FLORIDA

Views Jacksonville Sponsored Ditch As Menacing Its Trade

TAMPA, Jan. 14.—Governors of the chamber of commerce voted unanimously yesterday, to oppose the construction of a ship canal across the Florida peninsula.

The board based its action on recommendations from the port development committee and the adoption of the motion condemning the proposed $250,000,000 project sponsored by Jacksonville was the opening gun of a fight in which Tampa will be joined by every south Florida municipality.

Charging Jacksonville interests had ignored Tampa in negotiations with the federal government for a canal survey by army engineers, members of the committee warned the governors that the construction of a ship canal, particularly on any of the northern routes, would prove disastrous to Tampa's maritime commerce.

Speaking for the committee, Chairman H. C. Culbreth said Tampa's opposition is based not only on the standpoint that Jacksonville is assuming an entirely selfish attitude but that a huge federal investment, such as would be required if the canal is built, would not be justified as compared with the canal's service to international shipping.

"In its desperate efforts to hold its port business," Mr. Culbreth said, "Jacksonville has seized upon this canal project, ignoring the welfare of other Florida ports. My committee has tried unsuccessfully to get a copy of the Jacksonville presentation to the federal government. For one reason or another, our requests for definite information have been ignored and we feel the time has come for the chamber of commerce to take a definite stand."

F. L. Judd, another member of the committee and Charles A. McKeand, general manager of the chamber of commerce also spoke on the committee's recommendation.

The federal government, Mr. Judd said, first considered a ship canal across Florida as early as 1820. Sporadic efforts have been made to revive the project from time to time, he explained, but the latest move by Jacksonville is "announced by purely selfish motives."

"Any canal across the northern part of the state," Mr. Judd stated, "would seriously encroach on Tampa's port business and draw away from its present trade territory. Several routes have been suggested. The first extends from the southern part of Georgia across Florida, emerging on the coast near St. Marks. Another traverses the St. Johns and Withlacoochee rivers, emerging at Inglis and still another follows the Suwannee River across the state, entering the Gulf near Cedar Keys. Then there is a southern route, in which Jacksonville is not interested, running across the southern peninsula from Fort Myers up the Caloosahatchee River and hitting the east coast near Stuart."

"Every ton of cargo diverted through a ship canal, Mr. Judd said, would be drawn from Tampa's total tonnage and the project would make South Florida "in fact as well as effect" an island of which the Tampa port would serve only a small area.

"If the government should decide to spend approximately $250,000,000 on such a project," Mr. Judd added, "it would be impossible for 30 years to come for any other Florida port city to get a penny of appropriation for its own harbor improvements."

Gradual growth of the Tampa port at the expense of Jacksonville's harbor, Mr. McKeand stated, has lured Jacksonville business interests.

"Our port has been a thorn in their side," he said. "The extent of this feeling has been manifested only recently in Jacksonville's efforts to divert canned grapefruit away from our port and its attempt to control the refrigerated citrus ship service, which is gaining such headway here."

fertilizing practices which have resulted in a saving of about $30.00 per acre and increased the yield 10 per cent.

(9) Testing the soil for acidity, and correcting accordingly, instead of guessing as previously done.

"Approximately 700 acres of intensive truck crop land was used by farmers representing the evening adult classes. This land produced approximately 400,000 crates of celery and other vegetables which had a cash value of approximately $500,000.00."

Trial Is Halted As Judge And Lawyer Argue On Civil War

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 14.—(A.P.)—A murder trial was halted yesterday while the judge and a defense attorney argued whether the conflict in the sixties was the "civil war" or "the war between the states."

Attorney Sam Davis mentioned the "civil war" in his address to the jury in the trial of Ed Taylor for the fatal stabbing of his father-in-law.

"Just a minute, counsel," spoke up Judge Whit Boyd. "You're wrong about that being a civil war. It was just a war between the states. No one but a fool would make a statement like that."

"I object to your calling me a fool," retorted Davis.

The judge looked at Davis sternly.

"Why, you are just the same as calling father a traitor," said Judge Boyd. "He fought in that war."

"Yes, and my grandfather fought in it for four years and he called it a civil war," replied Davis.

"But counsel, Jefferson Davis would have been executed as a traitor if it had been a civil war," argued the judge. "So would Robert E. Lee and probably my father. No, you are wrong."

"So would George Washington if England had won," Davis said.

"That was different," contended Judge Boyd. "It was the federal government who started the war between the states. You are wrong about it being a civil war."

"All right, judge, but I object to being called a fool before this jury," said Davis.

And the trial proceeded.

PETITION ASKS CONTINUATION OF HINDENBERG

faith in Von Hindenburg."

Once the required signatures have been obtained, the government must convene the Reichstag and present to it a bill embodying the subject of the plebiscite application, together with an explanation of the government's attitude.

There is no doubt the cabinet of Chancellor Heinrich Brüning would endorse such a bill.

The matter then would be up to the Reichstag, where interest would be centered in whether Adolf Hitler's national socialists and Dr. Alfred Hugenberg's nationalists would vote for or against the Von Hindenburg.

In the event the Reichstag approved the government's bill unamended, it would become law and no plebiscite would be needed. Whether a simple or a two-thirds majority of the Reichstag would be necessary is a question at present open, but the ministry of justice is expected to clarify it.

Should the Reichstag reject the bill it would go directly to the people. In that case support by 50 per cent of those voting would make it into law.

There was an inclination in some quarters last night to see the plebiscite move as a means of solving the difficulty encountered by Chancellor Brüning in his attempt to obtain an election next spring by obtaining an extension of the president's term in office.

Political commentators expressing this view pointed out that, as the proposal came from a group outside the government, Hitler and Hugenberg no longer could contend that in supporting the effort to prolong the president's term they were in effect endorsing the Brüning government.

Southern Building Totals $649,312,000 During Year Of '31

BALTIMORE, Jan. 14.—(A.P.)—Construction contracts awarded in 16 southern states during 1931 were valued at $649,312,000, the Manufacturers Record announced yesterday.

The total does not include projects of less than $10,000, nor numerous other important projects for which accurate figures were not available.

The peak year of 1930 had a total of $921,715,000, but much of this decrease is attributed to a sharp decline in the cost of building materials and construction generally.

Roads, paving and bridges showed the greatest total, $270,083,000 and other divisions included: apartments and hotels, $20,890,000; city, county, government and state projects, $46,816,000; dwellings costing $10,000 and over, $26,175,000; school buildings, $33,360,000; sewers, drainage and water works, $7,614,000; store buildings, $9,768,000; banks and office buildings, $12,272,000; church buildings, $3,806,000; association and fraternal buildings, $3,643,000; and miscellaneous, $167,480,000.

The figures cover a wide tier of southern and southwestern states from Maryland to Texas.

Considering the projects for which no figures were available, and for other projects of less than $10,000,000, the total of construction awarded in the 16 states is estimated at $850,000,000, by the publication.

Commission Men In Miami Meeting Hit Marketing Law

CORAL GABLES, Jan. 14.—(A.P.)—A review of opposition by the National League of Commission Merchants to some provisions of the agricultural marketing law was contained in a report by the league's advisory board laid before the annual convention here yesterday.

The report listed previous opposition to "use of government money for financing private business activities in a competitive field," and "the finance provisions of the marketing act." The report referred specifically to fresh fruit and vegetable provisions of the marketing act.

Discussion of the report on the convention floor extended through yesterday.

SPECIAL TERM OF HAWAIIAN BODY CALLED

Representations to the governor by a committee of prominent business men were made prior to the special session.

"We don't want the situation clouded by political trading," said Walter F. Dillingham, head of the committee.

While both prosecution and defense moved for a prompt trial of the murder case, naval officials at Pearl Harbor, where the defendants are being held, for safe keeping, said the prisoners had received hundreds of cablegrams. Most of the messages, it was said, were from prominent friends of Mrs. Fortescue in the United States and Europe.

Police records showed yesterday that Lieutenant Massie, the night before the slaying of Kahahawai, had accompanied L. E. Gilkie, an untested man, to an automobile rental station where Gilkie rented the blue sedan in which the body of the Hawaiian was found.

Gilkie was found in the two accused enlisted men.

The man who rented the car to Gilkie identified a photograph of Massie as that of the man who accompanied Gilkie. The garage man said Massie furnished $5 of the $25 deposit on the car. It was shown that Gilkie was at the navy yard at 8 A. M., Friday, shortly before Kahahawai was kidnapped in the downtown section.

A charge of attempted criminal assault was filed here yesterday against Philander B. Gray, 31, on complaint of a Portuguese woman. The incident occurred while the city was recovering from the stir over recent cases of attack and the killing of one alleged assault.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14. — (A.P.)—The investigating arm of the justice department delved into legal justice in Honolulu while four Americans awaited trial for a killing that riveted attention here on crime conditions in the island territory.

Amid offers of help from the navy and interior departments and a House committee's report blaming Governor Judd of Hawaii for conditions existing by murder of a native accused of attacking a white woman, Attorney General Mitchell's assistants silently dug into official reports on law and enforcement.

Senator McKellar of Tennessee meanwhile introduced another resolution for direct investigation by a special Senate committee.

It was said at the justice department a preliminary survey under a Senate mandate might be completed within about 10 days. Then Attorney General Mitchell probably will announce his judgment on the extent of further investigation required.

Secretary Wilbur said today the case of Lieut. Thomas Massie, Mrs. Granville R. Fortescue and two naval enlisted men, charged with murder to avenge an assault upon Mrs. Massie was the first crime to come to department attention since the ancient kingdom of Queen Liliuokalani applied for annexation and got it in 1900.

Governor Judd cabled that conditions in Hawaii "have been exaggerated by the mainland press that the good name of Hawaii demands an impartial investigation so that the injustice to the territory would be rectified."

Smith Expected To Throw Light On Candidacy Plans

The New York Sun yesterday stated that former Governor Smith is expected to tell Democratic leaders in Boston today whether or not they may enter his name in the presidential primary in Massachusetts in the spring and thereby indicate whether or not he will be a candidate for the Democratic presidential candidacy.

The former governor is to speak tonight at the New England dinner to launch in that section of the country the Democratic party's "Victory drive." Simultaneously "Victory drive" dinners will be held by party leaders all over the country. Governor Roosevelt is to speak at the New York City dinner.

Before the Boston dinner, the Sun states, former Governor Smith will meet a little group of Massachusetts Democratic leaders, including Governor Ely, and Frank Donahue, state chairman, and the conviction among his friends here is that he will interpose no objection to his Massachusetts admirers wish him to run in the primary, which carried Massachusetts in 1928.

So far, Smith has not indicated publicly what stand he is going to take—whether he will be a candidate again or whether he will support or oppose the candidacy of Governor Roosevelt.

SOLON SCORES HOOVER CREDIT BILL AS "UNFIT"

States in pawn for 10 years to pay their losses on worthless foreign paper.

"Instead of paying their own losses as other citizens have to do, these financial magnates ask us to pass a law for their special benefit. They have already in the last several years filched from the United States treasury enough money to pay the entire national debt, but that does not prevent them from staging another raid on it. With this last grand operation they propose to avail themselves of a super-corporation with a detective service de luxe and by means of this super-corporation controlling all other corporations and applying on every individual in the country, they propose to spread their losses over the entire States."

Mine Labor Leader Convicted Of Plot

MOUNT STERLING, Kentucky, Jan. 14. (A.P.)—William High lower, Harlan county labor leader, was convicted today on a charge of plotting the deaths of deputy sheriff mine guards as the result of clashes in coal fields in which four men were killed at Evans.

His sentence was fixed at 10 years in prison. The verdict was the same as that given William Jones, secretary of the miners union at Evans, who was convicted of charges similar to those against Highlower. Jones was the first of nearly 80 defendants in the case.

PAUL REVERE
Born 1733

An American patriot of revolutionary days, who, believing that a good thing should be passed along to everybody jumped on his horse, one April night in 1776, and split the wind throughout the neighborhood, yelling: "Wake up! Wake up! You can get a Specialized Greasing Job recommended by the car mfg. We have a chart of your car."
