HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL For Tuesday, January 9, 1979

YOUR BIRTHDAY January 8, 1979 You may not choose the easiest of courses to follow this coming year, but you'll enjoy every minute of the challenge you set for yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Coworkers will find ways to let their slates clean and place the blame of things going wrong on you today, if you assume a dictatorial position.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't expect others to give more of themselves than you're prepared to give. You'll have to set the example if you want them to follow.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Although it's not like you, you might not have the courage of your convictions today.

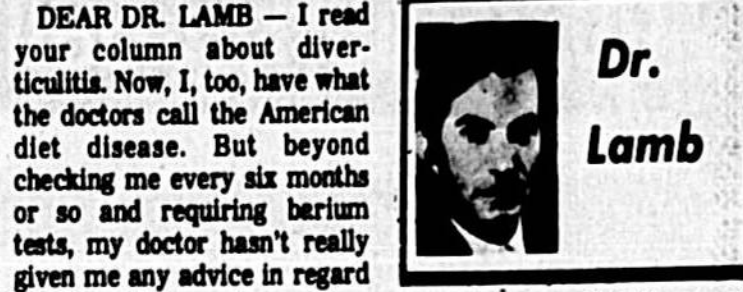

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Exercise tolerance if coworkers feel their interests should take priority over yours.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column about diverticulitis. Now, I, too, have what the doctors call the American diet disease. But beyond checking me every six months or so and requiring barium tests, my doctor hasn't really given me any advice in regard to diet.

DEAR READER — First, for those who may not know what diverticulitis is, it's those pockets of the colon that are so frequent in middle age and in older people. These are really little herniations through the wall of the colon.

When the colon goes into a spasm, its contents above the area that is clamped off by the spasm stretches like a balloon. It's this constant stretching and pressure which may be a factor in causing diverticulitis.

POINTING THE WAY Sanford Mayor Lee P. Moore sets a pointed example of how to support National Volunteer Blood Donor Month as declared by President Carter.

'Let There Be Light': Stenstrom

Sanford's lakefront will remain in darkness despite an effort to have the lights along Seminole Boulevard turned on again at city expense.

The city commission voted 3-2 to re-light the lights as proposed by Commissioner Julian Stenstrom. Newly seated Commissioner David Farr supported the move.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department has revoked the visa of white South African boxer Kalle Knoetze, effectively preventing him from fighting in Miami Beach Saturday, following protests over his shooting of a black in his own country.

in Miami Beach Saturday, following protests over his shooting of a black in his own country. A State Department spokesman said today the visa was revoked after a reassessment determined he was found guilty of a crime in South Africa that prevents him from staying in the United States under this country's immigration laws.

At Miami Beach's Convention Center Saturday. "We have not directed him to leave the country immediately," said spokesman Verne Jervis. "He'll probably be allowed to remain here until Jan. 30."

The Rev. Jesse Jackson demanded last week that Knoetze be prohibited from fighting in the United States, and there has been scattered daily picketing in Miami, mostly by blacks, at the gym where he was working out.

Sanford's Mystery House: The Search Is Still On

Since the old photograph of the mystery two-story house that belonged to Mr. and Mrs. William E. Murry in the 1900s appeared in last Thursday's Evening Herald, The Herald has received several leads.

But none has been identified as that mystery house. It all started when 75-year-old Earl Townsend Ware of Pine Grove, Calif., retired to visit Sanford for the first time in 70 years.

He brought with him the old photograph of his grandparent's home here and enlisted the aid of the Herald in locating it. Ware recalled only that the old homestead was on a five-acre piece that had an arctian well and a little creek that ran alongside the property.

He snapped his camera and rushed back to the darkroom, but on comparing it with the original, discovered his house had four upstairs windows while the Murry home had five.

Ann Benson of 2826 Empire Place, Sanford, called with a tip. Her children had suggested a possible site. "My children said they knew of the foundation of an old building on the zoo property.

It's near the picnic area to the right of the entrance and has an arctian well and a stream," she said. "That's where Woodland Park used to be and the foundation was where the old dance hall stood," he explained.

Vincent thought he recognized an old house that stands near Ninth and Magnolia — but, alas, a closer check showed there were not enough windows and no creek. Vincent suggested "Uncle Billy" Lefler, born in Sanford in 1887, might know where the house was located if anybody would.

Other calls suggested houses in the Airport Boulevard-West Route 46 area. In any case, the whereabouts of the old homestead remains a "mystery." Any ideas? — JANE CASSELLBERRY

Iran Aide Quits 4-Day New Regime; Army Coup Feared

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — The shah's new civilian government today lost a key minister, apparently because of disagreement over the future role of the Iranian military.

Gen. Feridoun Jam, named war minister in Premier Shapour Bakhtiar's four-day-old cabinet, has decided not to join the government, diplomatic sources said.

The newspaper Kayhan said Jam and Bakhtiar could not agree on key changes in Iran's 430,000-man military establishment, unpopular because of widespread killing by soldiers.

There was speculation in Tehran that Bakhtiar's failure could lead to a right-wing coup.

Tugs Circle Blazing Tanker

BANTRY, Ireland (UPI) — Firefighting tugs today circled a blazing French tanker that exploded off Ireland's giant Gulf Oil terminal, killing 50 people in one of history's worst tanker explosions. More than 24 hours after twin explosions split the 120,000-ton Betelgeuse in Bantry Bay and hurled its crewmen into an inferno of flaming oil, a thick pall of smoke curled hundreds of feet above the burning stern.

Soviets Wooling Senators

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet leadership wined and dined a group of Republican senators in a bid to win their support for a Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty. The delegation, headed by Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee, arrived in Moscow Monday. They were received by Alexei Shitikov, a leader in the supreme Soviet, the nation's parliament.

Rome Attack Heard On Radio

ROME (UPI) — Right-wing terrorists firing submachine guns and hurling firebombs burst into the studios and wounded five women in an attack heard over the air. "Help, Help. They're killing us all," one of the participants in the radio program shouted.

Basque Rebels Kill Jurist

MADRID (UPI) — Two young gunmen shot a Supreme Court justice to death as he left his home for work today in Spain's sixth Basque terrorist assassination of the new year.

30 Die In Train Collision

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — A crowded express train rammed the rear of a stationary commuter train outside Ankara today killing at least 30 persons and injuring 96 in Turkey's second serious rail crash in five days, authorities said. The death toll was higher than the 28 killed in the collision of two express trains on the same line west of Ankara late Thursday.

Argentine-Chile Rift To Pope

Argentina and Chile, on the brink of war for months, agreed to begin pulling back troops today and submit a dispute over a cluster of strategically located islands to mediation by Pope John Paul II. Argentine generals were called to a special meeting today to discuss terms of the agreement signed Monday in Montevideo, Uruguay.

In Vietnam-Cambodia War

U.S. Woe: Who's Good Guy, Bad Guy?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans like to take sides, whether they're watching a skateboard contest, a political race — or a war.

But most Americans are hard put to know who to support in Southeast Asia where Vietnam troops reportedly are pushing past the capital deep into neighboring Cambodia.

The State Department has had its own problems sorting out the good guys from the bad in the conflict. When the dispute headed for the United Nations, the department found itself in a very difficult position over which it had little or no control. One country — Vietnam — had invaded another's territory. The other — Cambodia — had apparently practiced genocide against its own people.

The department concurred the higher principle is territorial integrity, and has signaled that as repugnant as they find it, they nevertheless will support Cambodia in the debate.

But the diplomats are making clear their main goal is to keep the conflict confined.

The best U.S. diplomatic efforts are concentrated on trying to keep it from reaching the next level — confrontation between China and the Soviet Union, which at some point could involve both Communist giants in other parts of the world and in other relationships, ultimately affecting the United States.

China has strongly supported the Pol Pot regime in Cambodia, and the Soviet Union has been a supporter and supplier of military assistance to Vietnam.

State Department officials report a further buildup of Chinese aircraft and troops on Vietnam's northern border. They could not confirm reports of a Soviet troop buildup on China's border, but sources said the United States is concerned the Soviets will either create, or threaten to create, military border incidents to divert Chinese troops.

Department spokesman Hodding Carter III said Monday Vietnam's invasion "raises the danger of wider conflict" and the department is concerned "that the regional conflict could involve other players."

The United States already has supported U.N. Security Council action on the conflict, and Hodding Carter forewarned the position America will take in the debate when he told reporters: "Vietnam is guilty of aggression."

The apparent collapse of the Pol Pot government, however, has thrown into doubt any U.N. action. The Vietnam-backed People's Revolution Council says it is in total control of the country and would oppose any U.N. action.

Ambulance Service Vote Awaits Hearing

County commissioners will be making a decision sometime after a public hearing next week on whether to grant a franchise with a subsidy to Herndon Ambulance Service or to go into the ambulance business.

But whatever its decision, Public Safety Director Gary Kaiser told commissioners Monday, it will take a minimum of eight weeks from order of delivery of necessary equipment, and a minimum of 60-80 months to initiate a full-blown service.

If commissioners are leaning toward providing the service in-house, Kaiser said it is imperative that the public safety department be given authority to prepare regulations on protocol and procedures as soon as possible and be authorized to begin acquisition of equipment and to hire personnel.

A public hearing has been scheduled for next Tuesday on the request from Herndon for a franchise to continue operating in the county. Currently the county has a short-term contract with Herndon, to expire the end of January, and providing a $6,200 monthly subsidy.

Herndon has said, however, to continue the service, guaranteeing Seminoles that the county could expect no matter which way it decides to go, state law requires it hire a medical director to monitor emergency service and an emergency medical service coordinator.

County Budget Director Jeff Etchberger informed commissioners that a price war with Herndon could develop if the county goes into the business and Herndon continues to provide transfer service for patients.

Etchberger previously estimated a good share of the costs of providing ambulance service, if the county went into the business, could be defrayed with revenue from transfer patients from home-to-hospital, from hospital to hospital or from hospital to nursing home.

However, Etchberger said the county could expect no more than a 50-50 split of those revenues if Herndon continues that aspect of the business locally.

Fern Park Woman Reports $598 Gone

By LEONARD KRANDORF Herald-Staff Writer

An envelope containing $598 was taken sometime over the weekend from its hiding place under a seat cushion at the home of Mrs. Barbara Frawley of Fern Park, according to Seminole County sheriff's deputies.

Mrs. Frawley was not at home when the incident occurred, she told investigators. There were no signs of forced entry into the residence, authorities said.

HOUSE BURGLARY
Thieves broke into a home at 7435 Barnacle Court, Goldenrod, and took merchandise valued at $110 Sunday night, according to sheriff's deputies.

Stephen Bowman, 25, who lives at the residence, said it appears a knife was used to pry open a window. He said a television set, amplifier and tape recorder were taken.

MAN ARRESTED
Nicholas Brown, 18, of Ft. Sanford, was arrested Monday by Sanford police and charged with retail theft in connection with a shoplifting incident at Eagle Army and Navy discount store in Sanford.

Brown is accused of taking a pair of bluejeans and a jacket valued at a combined value of $28.76. Brown was released on personal recognizance pending a Jan. 12 court appearance.

The commission voted to advertise in the journal of the Florida League of Cities for a city administrator.

The council voted down a request by Joseph Willcox to construct a concrete batch plant on a four-acre industrial site on Route 427 that objections were made by residents of Lake Ruth South subdivision. Willcox in making the request at the Dec. 17 meeting said the plans had been approved by the Department of Environmental Regulation and the city land-planning agency and meets state and city regulations.

Former Mayor, Gerard Council, pointed out that the proposed concrete plant structure would be 50 ft tall, while the city ordinance restricts the height of buildings to two-stories.

Interim City Administrator David Chace reported parking problems on Dog Beach Road and was told by the commission to enforce the city's parking ordinance.

It was announced that the new city well is expected to be completed and on the line next week.

The purchase of a Ford front-end loader for $33,600 was approved over Grant's objection.

Meeting Delayed

The Seminole County School Board meeting scheduled for Wednesday, has been postponed until Jan. 17 because a majority of the members will be attending a conference in Tallahassee.

A member of the First Baptist Church of Sanford, also was a past president of the Sanford Rotary Club, past worshipful master of the Sanford Memorial Lodge 62 F&AM and a member of the Boba Shrine Temple, Orlando.

R. Gordon Brisson, owner and operator of Brisson Funeral Home until his retirement in 1969, died Monday at Seminole Memorial Hospital at the age of 78.

A resident of 97 Laurel Ave., he was a Sanford native and attended local schools and Boston University.

He was employed by Ericsson Funeral Home in Sanford until 1950 when he bought the business and changed the name to Brisson Funeral Home. Brisson was a past president of the Florida Funeral Directors Association.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Brisson Funeral Home with Pastor Douglas Jacobs and Rev. Freddie Smith officiating. Burial will follow in Lakeside Cemetery.

Cleveland OKs Land Sales To Halt Worker Layoffs

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The City Council has approved the sale of $5.2 million in land to generate new cash for the city's payroll accounts and prevent layoffs of municipal workers.

Mayor Dennis Kucinich said the land sales, approved by the City Council Monday night, meant there would be no layoffs at least until after the voters decide his request in a special election next month. The tax increase is intended to help the city erase its 3-week-old default on $15.5 million in short-term notes.

8th Day Of Below-Zero

The Northern Plains region shivered through its eighth consecutive day of below-zero temperatures today, and thousands of people in Maine were still without power because of a snow and ice storm that glazed roads across the Northeast. Below-freezing temperatures covered the entire nation except the West Coast and southern Florida. Skies were fair over most of the nation, with much of the Northern Plains experiencing below-zero readings.

3 Anti-Castroes On Trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With many foreign news reporters seeking reserved seats in vain, three anti-Castro Cuban exiles today faced trial for the 1978 murder of former Chilean ambassador to Washington, Orlando Letelier.

The entire U.S. District Court building was heavily guarded because U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker, who is to try the case, and assistant U.S. Attorney Eugene Propper recently were threatened.

Death Sought For Gacy

CHICAGO (UPI) — Prosecutors say they will seek the death penalty for John Wayne Gacy, who has been indicted for seven of 32 slaying linked to him in the nation's worst mass murder case. A Cook County grand jury Monday indicted Gacy on charges he killed seven young men who have disappeared since July 1975.

The space explorer, still 94 million miles from Jupiter and closing in on it at 30,360 mph, has sent back nearly 10,000 pictures. Jet Propulsion Laboratory spokesman Don Bane said Monday.

Budget First, Address Next

GOSIER, Guadeloupe (UPI) — In an apparent tactical break with tradition, President Carter plans to submit next year's austerity federal budget to Congress before delivering the State of the Union message, aides say. White House aides indicated Carter expected loud protests and "gnashing of teeth" when he sends the 1980 fiscal year "austerity" budget to Capitol Hill on Jan. 22. His state of the union message will be delivered in person two or three days later.

'I'll Take It'

ALBION, Mich. (UPI) — A man walked into the showroom of the Bob Frahn Chevrolet dealership Monday and asked to see its most expensive truck.

When a salesman pointed to a red and white 1979 model sitting on the showroom floor, the unidentified shopper happened in, turned on the ignition and drove out through an open plate glass window.

Frahn halted a passing police officer and pointed out the fleeing truck, which was stopped a half mile away. The thief was not named pending the filing of formal charges. The pickup had minor damage and was returned to the dealership.

Casselberry: A New City Hall, Chairman

Casselberry's city hall has a new appearance today.

One is not only the two white pillars—one of which had been damaged and shifted from its original position by a recent tornado—but also the ornate water fountain about which some Casselberryians have complained for years.

The fountain, since the city hall was built in 1969, has not worked most of the time. And when it did work those who had to walk around it to gain access to city hall got wet from its spray.

Mayor Bill Grier told councilmen Monday night that the spot formerly occupied by the fountain will be sodded. Councilman Carl Robertson Jr. at the same time asked that Grier gather estimates of cost to provide an additional entrance to city hall for the handicapped.

Currently there are five access doors to city hall, but only one back door has a ramp for the handicapped. Councilman John Leighty also asked Grier to gather cost estimates of providing more adequate lighting for the entranceways.

Cost of the removal of the pillars and the fountain, Grier said, totaled $1,400, all of which the city must pay. City Clerk and treasurer, Mary Hawthorne said the city's insurance is $1,000 deductible and the insurance carrier while agreeing $900 would be covered under the $1,000 deductible, also allocate funds for restoration.

Councilman Frank Schutte disputed the finding of the carrier, saying despite a deductible provision if a fender were knocked off a police car, the carrier wouldn't only pay for removing the fender, he would also pay for restoration.

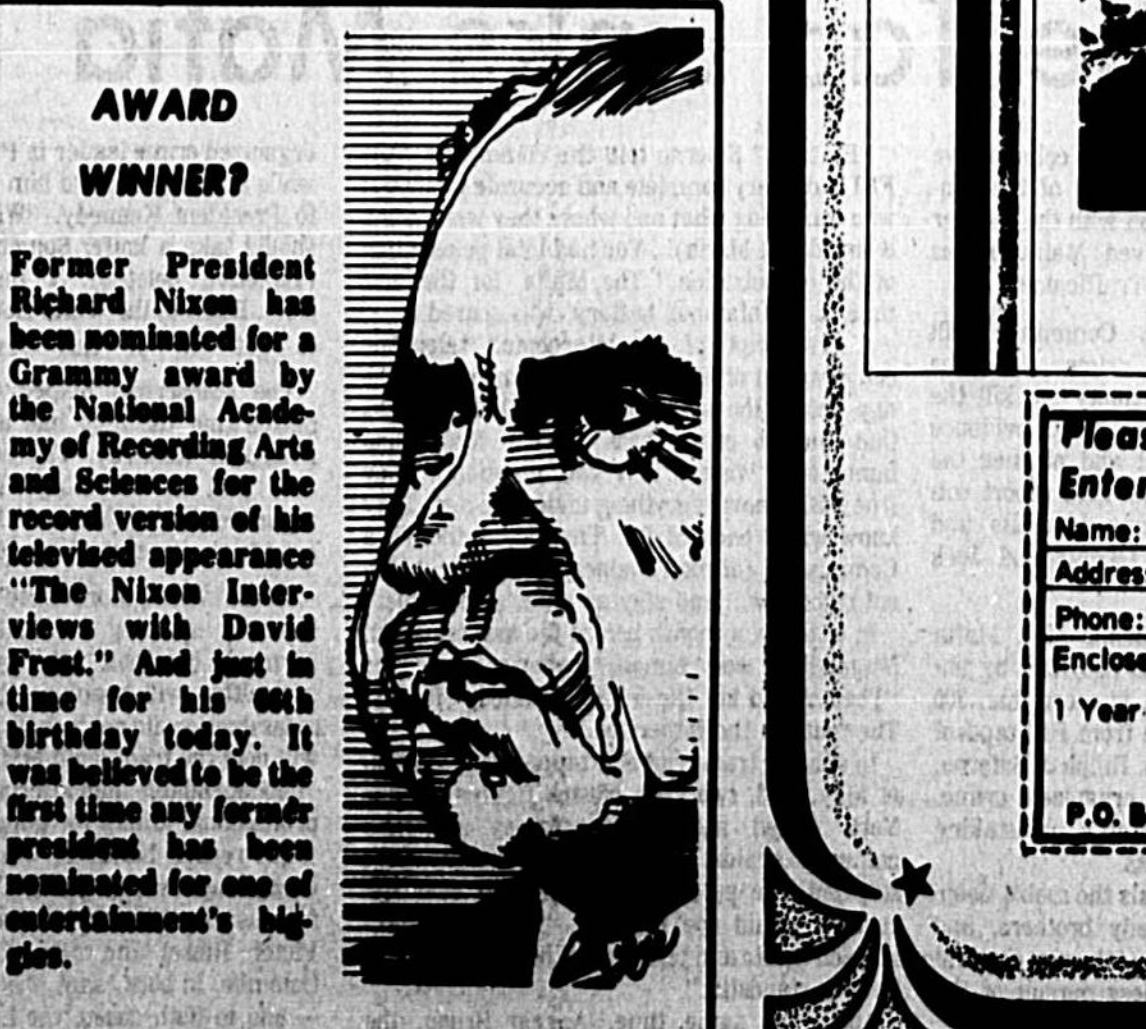

City Attorney Kenneth McIntosh said the matter would be investigated further. The City Council also elected

County Nixes Tribe Osceola Airport Bid

The Osceola Airfield near Geneva hasn't been an official airport except for emergencies since World War II and the Seminole County Commission plans to keep it that way.

Its major use in recent years has been as the county's main sanitary landfill. Unofficially planes have landed there occasionally with illicit drug caches.

The County Commission in workshop Monday turned down a request from the New Tribes Mission, a religious organization in the county, to locate a mobile building at the site and its airplanes and to use a small runway.

County Administrator Roger Neiswender urged the board to deny the request, saying he doesn't know the liability aspects to the county of the organization using the runway and in addition doesn't know of any runway not being used in good enough condition to be used.

Commission Chairman Bob French suggested the New Tribes Mission approach the Sanford Airport or the private airport at Tainville between Oviedo and Chulota.

In other business, Neiswender told commissioners an attorney

Tax Break?

No Way

Last fall, before the November elections, there was much fanfare in Washington when President Carter signed the $18.7 billion tax-cut bill approved by Congress.

The general idea was the average citizen would get a tax break in 1979. Right?

Wrong. Actually, as most of us will learn when we receive our first paycheck this month, the tax bite in 1979 will be bigger than ever.

Congress levied more than it lightened. Most wage earners will have more money withheld because of higher Social Security taxes and cost-of-living pay increases that pushed them into higher tax brackets.

Like an Alice-in-Wonderland nightmare, U.S. taxpayers have to run faster and faster just to stay in the same place. And some can't keep up.

During the last two years, the average factory worker's pay has increased 23 percent while his federal tax bill zoomed by 80 percent and his Social Security by 27 percent.

As of Jan. 1, the maximum amount of salary taxed for Social Security went from $17,700 to $22,900, accounting for a tax of $1,403.77, or $332.92 more than last year.

Annual increases scheduled to keep the Social Security system afloat will take the tax paid by each employer and employee to a stunning $3,045 by 1987, or about 14 percent of the nation's income.

Amazingly, the Social Security tax, which was only $60 in 1940 and $374 as late as 1970, now exceeds the income tax paid by half the nation's wage earners.

As worrisome as these increases are, it must be said that Congress had little choice but to keep Social Security solvent through higher taxes.

Nevertheless, current rates represent about all the traffic will bear.

Our real problem is the federal tax windfall from cost-of-living pay raises that push taxpayers into higher brackets, robbing them of the means to meet inflated prices.

The federal treasury is feeding off inflation to the tune of about $20 billion this year, thanks to the failure of Congress to shield taxpayers through indexing that would take the inflation rate into account.

The outlook for tax relief is quite slim. Ways and Means Chairman Al Ullman announced a few weeks ago that "a new income tax cut isn't needed before 1980, unless the economy goes into a recession."

In other words, taxes are no longer regarded as simply the means of paying the government's bills, but political and economic levers to be manipulated at the whim of Congress.

Mr. Ullman's 1980, we need not be reminded, is an election year.

Never mind that government spends 43 cents of every dollar earned in this country and takes almost $10,000 in direct and indirect taxes from the average family; never mind that federal tax rates begin at 14 percent and go as high as 70 percent, there will be no tax relief this year unless there is a recession because Ways and Means Chairman Ullman says so.

But what can we expect? If all we could get from Congress in an election year was a highly touted tax cut that, in fact, offered no relief, is it realistic to look for anything better in an off-year like 1979?

FEC, Get Serious

WASHINGTON (NEA) — When pursuing harmless eccentricities, inmates at federal prisons and others with little power, the government officials who enforce the law affecting the financing of campaigns for federal office are smarting.

But those officials — the members and staff of the Federal Election Commission (FEC) — are reduced to harmless pussycats whenever they're pressed to investigate the president, members of Congress or other influential politicians.

As a result, both the commission and the law face growing criticism from those who once viewed the statute as one of the most significant governmental reforms of the 1970s but now are disenchanted with the double standard of enforcement.

The FEC is a model of prosecutorial zeal in dealing with those who fail to meet the legal deadline for filing detailed reports listing campaign receipts and expenses.

Among the recent targets in that category were two inmates at the federal penitentiary in Marion, Ill., who declared themselves candidates for president in 1976, an act that requires only completion of a simple FEC registration form.

But when the prisoners ignored the FEC's subsequent demands for quarterly financial reports, the commission dispatched a series of letters and telegrams threatening court action and other dire consequences.

A similar FEC campaign was mounted against Lar Daly, the Chicago man whose red, white and blue Uncle Sam costume was the hallmark of his presidential bid in the 1976 campaign for the presidency.

While on his deathbed in a hospital, Daly was still receiving — and ignoring — FEC demands that he account for every penny spent in his last campaign. To the dismay of the commission, he died without filling out the forms.

Finally, there's the case of John Adams, a 51-year-old Navy veteran of World War II who stumbled into the 1976 campaign as a candidate for a House seat from New Hampshire.

Adams' only response to FEC demands for full disclosure was a telephone call to Washington announcing that he had solicited no money, received none and spent none.

But the commission wasn't satisfied with that disclaimer. It filed suit against Adams in federal court, then dispatched a lawyer to Concord, N.H., to demand both conviction and fine for failure to complete the official forms.

Adams failed to appear at the court hearing and the government won its case. Reluctant federal officials then tracked down Adams, finding him in a retired soldiers' home in Massachusetts and forcing him to fill out the forms.

But the FEC displayed no such enthusiasm when a national magazine alleged that a fund-raising aide to Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, requested a campaign contribution from a representative of an unidentified "Midwestern country."

The federal law specifically prohibits solicitation of political donations from citizens of other countries. But the commission didn't even investigate the charge, claiming that the magazine article didn't provide enough information.

Phone Tap Links Mafia To JFK Slaying

WASHINGTON — In a recent column, we reported that the most intriguing of the conspiracy theories, in connection with the murder of John F. Kennedy, involved Mafia boss Carlos Marcello and Santos Trafficante.

The House Assassination Committee will conclude that organized crime had the "motive," means and opportunity to kill the president. Although there is no direct evidence that the mob hierarchy met and planned the assassination, the committee's final report will give indirect evidence linking Marcello and Trafficante to Lee Harvey Oswald and Jack Ruby.

The most compelling evidence of a Mafia motive for killing Kennedy is provided by a 200-word transcript made from FBI tapes of the media's top crime figures. Ralph J. Salerno, a recognized authority on organized crime, supervised the creation of the transcript.

The transcript evidence links the mob's suspected involvement of the Kennedy brothers, and Salerno presents the reasons: Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy's relentless pursuit of the mob.

Also, the same time, Angelo Bruno, the organized crime leader in Philadelphia, listened while an associate told him what they should do to President Kennedy. "With Kennedy, a guy should take a little. Kennedy should kill the (explosive deleted). I mean it. Honest to God. Right in the White House. Somebody's got to get rid of this (explosive deleted)."

The lady handed me the license plate with a smile, and after looking at the inscription, I wondered if the smile was out of courtesy or if she had seen some humor in my tag, BEP 241. You see, 241 just happens to be my weight.

Electronic Gas Pumps?

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UPI) — The way Americans fill gas tanks is changing and so is the service station pump.

"Before long, many service stations will become just gasoline pumping depots," said J. J. Guidry, president and chairman of Tokheim Corp., one of the nation's largest pump manufacturers.

"There won't be as many places that have mechanics or other auto services won't have gas."

One indication of the trend is the "computerized" pump that shows gallons and price on digital displays — the electronic numbers found on calculators and watches. They are now found in stations from coast-to-coast, Guidry said, although more are concentrated in the western states.

The new pumps can be programmed to dispense gas and even collect money — as coin-operated vendors or minicomputers which accept a credit card and print out a receipt. Guidry said the devices are almost temper-proof.

"One attendant can supervise more than a dozen pumps from a control booth and never have to get out to wipe a window or take an oil dipstick."

Guidry's Fort Wayne-based corporation got into the pumping business at the turn of the century with the development of the automobile. The company turned to the latest electronic developments when changes in the availability and marketing of petroleum products created a need for new methods for handling gasoline and oil.

"From information at our disposal it is our considered opinion that electronic dispensing and computing devices will completely replace mechanical gasoline dispensing pumps in new installations by the early 1980s," Guidry said.

"From our standpoint the market for our self-service electronic equipment would appear to have almost unlimited potential."

"Another reason is the very real possibility of a rise in the price of gasoline to more than $1 per gallon in the near future. I believe that possibility should be considered a probability with the only question remaining being when."

"When the price hits $1, Guidry believes, the U.S. motorist will finally be forced by necessity to conserve."

Guidry said the company's primary business line likely will continue to be fuel pumps although there is room to move into such areas as meters for oil tankers or pipelines. The world like to see American gasoline sold by the liter — the metric equivalent of a quart.

"We think the better solution to this dilemma would be to change to the metric system which is so common in the rest of the world. However, the Federal Energy Agency, for psychological reasons, might insist that its unit of measurement remain in gallons since it's a gallon sounds a lot higher than its equivalent of 3.8 liters."

Guidry said the company also is involved in development of intake fuel pumps for passenger cars.

"In order to meet the fuel emissions requirements of the EPA and the improvement in fuel economy," he said, "the major automobile manufacturers are looking to new electronic fueling systems."

He said most would need high pressure fuel pumps similar to those his company developed previously. He said the firm was under contract to supply test units for one automaker late this year.

The market for such devices, he said, could amount to $100 million to $200 million early in the 1980s.

BEA, DEB, SEE, DEL, EMY, FAY, HAL and ZAC. Included. It would be interesting to know that out of the say, how many of the 900 combinations with ANN are issued to persons named Ann. Ditto for any of the other tag names.

The Trouble in Turkey

By DON GRAFT

And now Turkey. As if the chaos in Iran were not enough of a threat to a region in which so much of the world has a stake, religious strife has erupted in the country that had been the Mideast's most stable.

Ankara had to call the troops out to quell sectarian rioting that took more than a hundred lives in a broad region of southern Turkey. With more than a third of its 43 million Turks under martial law, the bloodshed may have halted but the threat has not been removed.

"That was a big game for us, no doubt," Noll said Monday, referring to the game that assured the Steelers the AFC Central Division championship. Noll was reviewing the Steelers' campaign for a berth in Super Bowl XIII, won with an easy 34-6 victory over the same Oilers in Sunday's AFC championship game.

And ethnic hostilities enter in. The trouble arises in heavily populated districts to the upheaval in neighboring Iran. The clashes have involved Shiite Moslems, whose faith is also that of the majority of Iranians. But in Turkey, they have not been directed against the government but at another sect, the Sunnis.

There are in the Turkish developments both similarities and marked differences to the upheaval in neighboring Iran. The clashes have involved Shiite Moslems, whose faith is also that of the majority of Iranians. But in Turkey, they have not been directed against the government but at another sect, the Sunnis.

And ethnic hostilities enter in. The trouble arises in heavily populated districts to the upheaval in neighboring Iran. The clashes have involved Shiite Moslems, whose faith is also that of the majority of Iranians. But in Turkey, they have not been directed against the government but at another sect, the Sunnis.

The most significant difference, however, is that the Iranian revolution is in large part part aimed at the government against the pattern of the industrial, democratic West.

Turkey has already gone a considerable distance down that road, starting a half century ago with the collapse of the Ottoman Empire. The founder of modern Turkey, Kemal Ataturk, pushed through his modernization program with a determination which, in many respects, makes Iran's Shah look half-hearted in comparison.

Among other innovations, Ataturk fostered the development of political parties. The failure of the Shah to do likewise has been suggested in recent months as one cause of the volte-face of the opposition to his policies. Iran in transition lacks channels for expressing political and social differences other than rioting in the streets.

Not that Turkey has any democratic paragon. It has seen enough of coups and strong government in recent decades to be fully familiar with the politics of power at its most basic. But through all, the multi-party system has survived and an essentially parliamentary form of government has continued to function.

With the special case of pre-civil war Lebanon, a hybrid society that was typical of the region in many respects, Turkey long has been a leading example of a functioning (even if imperfect) democracy in a Moslem society.

Now, it too finds its stability and unity threatened by religious forces. The current Turkish experience—taken into consideration with the instability that has characterized other regions through the world, offers a warning to apply test units for one automaker late this year.

The market for such devices, he said, could amount to $100 million to $200 million early in the 1980s.

had it for awhile." Rose's remark lasted a little more than one month. Rice Monday signed a seven-year contract worth $5.4 million, making the American League Most Valuable Player the highest paid performer in total salary in all of baseball.

What Turned Steelers? Dec. 3 Oiler Victory

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — If Pittsburgh Steelers' Coach Chuck Noll had to pinpoint any one game during the regular season when his team began to look and play like a club bound for the Super Bowl, it would be the 13-3 victory over the Houston Oilers at the Astrodome Dec. 3.

"That was a big game for us, no doubt," Noll said Monday, referring to the game that assured the Steelers the AFC Central Division championship. Noll was reviewing the Steelers' campaign for a berth in Super Bowl XIII, won with an easy 34-6 victory over the same Oilers in Sunday's AFC championship game.

Well, Since You Asked...

Q. What is the height and weight of the smallest player currently playing in the National Football League? — J. Carter, Chicago, Ill.

A. If you're counting kickers, I would have to say the honor goes to Jim Breach, the 5-6, 155-pound field goal booter who was signed at the end of the season by the Oakland Raiders (he was drafted originally by Detroit). If you're looking for a heavy-duty guy, the nod might go to Robert Woods, the kick returner and wide receiver of the Houston Oilers who stands at 5-7 and weighs 175, though he's probably judged Walter Payton's little (but older) brother, Eddie, a runner for Detroit, is just a shade bigger than Woods.

Q. Some people say Fran Tarkenton, the great 18-year veteran of the Minnesota Vikings, holds all quarterback records. How many does he really hold? — Jeff Turley, Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

A. The major records he holds are for most career passes attempted, completed, yards gained and touchdowns thrown — which is a fairly clean sweep. There are some other incidentals, such as the season records for attempts and completions, set just this year. And the Tarkenton record keeps growing because it looks like he'll be coming back in '79, the option year of his contract.

Q. We have Monday night football and Monday night baseball. Why not Monday night basketball? Has anyone thought of such an idea? I'm sure that large numbers of sports fans would wish such a program would be started. — Danny Raymond, Clearwater, Fla.

CBS is having a tough enough time as it is selling pro basketball as a weekend item. The numbers just haven't been there to project the NBA games into prime time on a regular basis. In fact, the baseball experiment in that Monday night slot has been pretty much a bomb. Pro football still rules on the tube for attracting big money.

Q. Are Dave Cowens and Bill Russell the only stars to have become player-coaches in the NBA? — Jeff Greedy, Panama City, Fla.

A. No, there's nothing new about being a player-coach. Among the current head men, Al Attles of the Golden State Warriors and Larry Wilkens of the Seattle SuperSonics both began their coaching careers while still in uniform as active basketball men.

Q. I would like to know who on the average makes more money in a baseball, football or basketball player? — Don Whiteington, Escondido, Calif.

The guys in the short pants still rule the economic roost. Last figure I read had the average basketball salary at $119,000 per annum (probably driven higher now by the $600,000 contract of David Thompson); baseball at $79,000 and football at $65,000.

Q. What is your thought on Earl Barry's past history as a man who could lead? — Fred Barry, Houston, Tex.

$5.4 Million Pact In Pocket, Rice Wants A Winner

BOSTON (UPI) — Jim Rice and Pete Rose were in court in Orlando, Fla., last month, Rice for a promotional venture and Rose after signing his $3.3 million contract with the Philadelphia Phillies.

"I'm going to take the crown away from you," Rice said, referring to the contract, which made Rose the game's highest paid player.

"That's okay with me," Rose responded. "At least I know I'm going to be a millionaire."

incentive clauses, which Rice said would be the detriment of himself and the team.

"I have said right along that I wanted to stay in Boston and continue to play for the Red Sox," a smiling Rice said. "I also knew I could count on the Red Sox for fair negotiations. I'm extremely happy with this new deal. I'm happy these negotiations are over, and now I'd like to concentrate on playing and helping the club catch the Yankees in 1979."

Rice terrorized opposing pitchers in 1978, leading the major leagues in six hitting categories including home runs and RBI. The 25-year-old Anderson, S.C., native became the first American League player since 1937 to hit for more than 400 total bases.

Sullivan and Pennacchia said they were pleased by the negotiations, calling them professional and fair.

Rice said he felt no pressure toward signing, adding he was already under contract for two more years. But he said he was happy at the prospect of not having to become a free agent.

"Good things come to those who wait. I think free agency hurts a lot of guys. It's a hassle and everybody gets it on," Rice said.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDEOSOL For Wednesday, Jan. 10, 1979

YOUR BIRTHDAY January 10, 1979 Quite a few new and influential persons will be entering your life this coming year. They will have a strong, lasting effect that will serve to help you achieve your goals. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Conditions could suddenly start to shift today, signaling clear of influences that have kept you bottled up for the past couple of days. Getting along with others is one of the sections you'll enjoy in your 1979 Astro-Graph Letter. Get yours by mailing it for each a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 466, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Save yourself a heap of frustration today. Avoid one who doesn't quite fit into your social circle. There are so many interesting people for you to spend your time on. PISCES (Feb. 20-Marcy 20) Trying to stay with old ways of doing things because they're comfortable isn't the answer for you today. Seek innovative, fresh ideas. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Self-doubts could set in when things first appear to be going against you. Don't get discouraged. Last-minute help arrives in the nick of time. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Flashes of inspiration will take over today, giving you just what you need to accomplish your aims. That which you thought to be unobtainable will be yours after all. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You won't have to cope with a malicious 100-year-long today. Urgent, but exciting, events occur to give you your exit. You'll quickly forget your frustrations. CANCER (June 21-July 21) Quit grumbling. Get your work done early. There's a fun person who'll pop into your yard later, and you'll want to be free to enjoy the activities. LEO (July 22-Aug. 22) Much to your dismay, you could be called upon today to organize things for others. Once you get rolling, your pride of accomplishment makes you happy. VIRGO (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The early part of the day may be a bit on the down side, but later things start hopping. Events could occur to brighten your scene. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You could revise your game plan today and take sudden action in a situation where you were having some doubts. The odds are in your favor, so all should go well. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) At first you may not realize it but you'll quickly discover you have all the answers at your fingertips. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Opposition might be just what you need to push you to look for unusual ways to find the real bargains.

Cold Air Causes Asthmatic Attack

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have had asthma since early childhood with only a little improvement over the years. I am 15 and rarely have problems when exercising in warmer months. It seems to be in the winter when I run in the cold air that I have the most problems. Sometimes I'm practically disabled from wheezing.

I know the solution would be to cut back on outdoor workouts during this time but when practicing basketball much of the running is done outside. Is there any reason the cold air should cause this wheezing or illness more easily than warmer weather? Participation in sports is very important to me. I would appreciate any advice you can give me.

DEAR READER—You've identified the culprit. It is the cold air. Very good studies have shown that cold air will cause an asthmatic attack during exercise even though the same amount of exercises in warm weather would not. This is an important consideration for parents and teachers with all young asthmatics who might want to do physical exertion. The environment is important and a good way to help prevent asthmatic attacks during exercise is to do the exertion in warm, comfortable surroundings. Swimming, which is a good exercise for many asthmatics, should be done in a pool with the temperature between 85 and 90 degrees F.

I am sending you the Health Letter number 84 Asthma. It will give you more information about asthma and exercise for asthmatics. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long-stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. WIN AT BRIDGE allowed to hold that first spade he might not shift to a club. So South let West hold that first trick. Now it was up to West to make a decision. He really should have shifted to a club. Why would South let him hold the lead if South could lead through dummy's king? Yes, West should surely have shifted to a club, but he did lead the queen of diamonds. South let it ride to his ace, drew trumps, led the king of spades, ruffed East's ace, got back to dummy with the king of diamonds, and chucked one losing club and had stolen the game.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Truscott South is looking at three quick losers in the form of one spade and two clubs and a sure diamond loser later. The queen of spades lead gives him a chance. He can cover with the king and set up dummy's jack for a club trick. The only trouble with that play is that East will almost surely shift to clubs at trick two and the defense will get their two club tricks right away. South had a better idea. He felt that if West were

First It Was 'Rape'; Now Is It Happily Ever After?

RALEIGH, Ore. (UPI)—Three weeks ago, Greta Rideout was in court testifying her husband John beat and raped her. Today the couple is living together again, having reconciled their differences, their attorneys said. The young couple was the center of national attention, involved in the first case in the country where a man was charged with raping his wife while they were married and living together. Rideout earlier filed for divorce but Jean Christensen, her attorney in the divorce case, said Tuesday night, "Greta called me and they are definitely reconciled." Rideout, 21, was found innocent Dec. 27 by an eight-member, four-man jury after a six-day trial that included dramatic testimony of Mrs. Rideout's second attorney, including an emotional fantasy. Mrs. Rideout, 23, a clerical worker, claimed Rideout beat her and raped her. Rideout, a cook in a Salem restaurant, denied he forced his wife to have sex with him but admitted he slapped her during an argument in their apartment Oct. 18, the day of the alleged rape. The attorney who successfully defended Rideout, Charles Burt, called Tuesday if the couple were back together, said, "They came into my office and told me that late this afternoon. My understanding is they are reconciled. It's sort of different."

Sanford Police: 'Morale, Image' Staff Shuffles

WILLIAM LYKENS...uniform patrol EARL BOURQUARDEZ...citizen complaints CHARLES FAGAN...citizen complaints

Sanford Police Chief Ben Butler today announced several major administrative changes within the department. Butler said the changes were meant to increase morale, improve his department's public image and establish an orderly chain of command. An eight-year veteran of the force, Lt. William Lykens has been removed as head of the detective division and transferred to uniform patrol. The new chief of detectives is 15-year veteran Lt. Johnny Parker, previously on special detail. Also transferred to the detective division is four-year veteran Ray Bronson. Butler said Bronson is filling a slot vacated several months ago.

Two new posts have been created within the department. Roy G. Williams has been named internal affairs officer and Lt. Michael Rotundo has been named public relations officer. The public relations post was previously filled by Sgt. William Bernosky. Butler said Bernosky will concentrate on what had been a dual role as the department liaison man with the state attorney's office and court officials. The assignments of the department's two captains, Earl Bourquardez and Charles Fagan, have been changed to increase their daily contact with the public. Butler said the pair will be given an office at the front of the station to handle citizen complaints. "Now, if a citizen comes in with a complaint, they'll be able to speak with someone with authority," the chief said. Previously, the two captains were more involved with supervising their respective shifts and complaints were often handled by civilian clerical personnel.

Butler said the changes coincide with the implementation of an organizational chart approved at Monday's city commission meeting. "The purpose of the organizational chart is to establish a chain of command which we didn't have before. We had a chart, but it was never adhered to," Butler said. "It used to be that if someone had something, they just walked into my office. Now, I'll be able to delegate some of that

BEN BUTLER...a need for changes'

SR 46-Railroad Track Overpass Approved

By MAX ERKILETTAN Herald Staff Writer

The Federal Highway Administration today notified Florida Department of Transportation (DOT) officials that it has approved the construction of an overpass on State Road 46 over the Seaboard Coastline railroad tracks just west of U.S. 1748. If DOT projections go according to plan, construction will begin in late 1982 with completion expected the following year. "It's something that has been worked on a very long time to alleviate traffic holdups when the trains cross," commented City Manager Warren E. Knowles. "This has been a concern for many people."

The overpasses will be located at the railroad crossing just west of Sanford where West First Street becomes SR 46. Traffic will cross over the tracks via two bridges. One bridge will have two lanes for eastbound traffic and the other two lanes for westbound traffic, according to Bill McKeely, deputy district director of DOT. McKeely said of the plans for each of the bridges would probably run about 225 feet long and would have two lanes each making the overpass a four-lane facility. "This is all preliminary," McKeely said of the plans for the overpass. "The exact configurations will be made following our engineering study."

The engineering study and an environmental study must be completed before actual construction plans can be completed, according to McKeely. "If we don't run into any snags with our environmental and engineering studies we may be able to let the contract in 1982 and begin construction in the last quarter of that year," said McKeely. Current projections for the project call for the overpass to be built either on the existing

Is Plant Dumping Into Sweetwater?

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer Engineers and officers of the state Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) are doing on-site inspections and investigating a charge by Seminole County officials that the privately-owned Sandalco Utilities sewer plant is illegally dumping 600-800 gallons per minute of treated sewage into Sweetwater Creek. Tom Hunnicutt, DER district engineer said, "We'll be getting a firsthand report today and then do whatever is required by way of enforcement." He added Sandalco Utilities which serves the Wekiva Hunt Club subdivision and Sweetwater Oaks has neither applied for nor been given a permit to install a pipe to carry the treated effluent into the creek which empties into the Wekiva River. Ultimate solution to the problem, Hunnicutt said, will be for the privately-owned utility to connect with the Alamoonte Springs regional sewer plant on Keller Road for sewage treatment and disposal. When federal funding was granted to build the 7.5 million gallon daily capacity regional plant, planning was that Sandalco would eventually connect to the facility. Currently, the Alamoonte plant is operating at about half its capacity. Jack Schuder, county public works director and Ken Hooper, director of the county's environmental services, told county commissioners Tuesday that a 10-inch pipe has been built from the Sandalco treatment plant percolation ponds to the creek. Hooper estimated 600 to 800 gallons per minute of treated effluent is being dumped into the creek. DER permits granted to the company in 1977 require that all effluent be disposed of through percolation ponds. Hunnicutt said the problem appears to be that the ponds cannot take anymore effluent and the firm has tried to bypass the ponds to get into Sweetwater Creek. Schuder said Tuesday there is no health danger from the effluent which has been treated. He said the overflow into the creek would show evidence of paper off the top and increased nutrients in the body of water. Schuder said the plant was designed to treat 1.5 million gallons of effluent daily and reported last month that it is currently treating 800,000 gallons daily. A quick calculation by Commissioner Bob Sturm showed the 600 to 800 gallons per minute of effluent directed through the pipe into the creek
