Victim's Candid Camera Captures Burglars In Act

By Charles Cobb
Herald Staff Writer

If you break into somebody's house and steal their video camera, be sure the camera didn't record the whole show. And if it did, then it would be wise to destroy the camera's tape.

That's one moral that could be drawn from an unusual burglary that occurred in the Casselberry area Tuesday night, according to the Seminole County sheriff's department. Another might be not to follow it up with running a stop sign.

In any case, two youths were arrested after they allegedly broke into a residence and stole a video camera that recorded the burglary.

Deputy sheriffs found the video camera and its tape, which clearly shows the youths plundering the residence. In the youth's automobile, said sheriff's spokesman John Spolski. The incident occurred after the residence of Robert Prickett, 31, of 3530 Munsey Place in the Howell Cove area, had been burglarized once and a second burglary attempt had been made.

After the second attempt, Prickett set up a video camera to record through his bedroom window.

Prickett returned home Tuesday evening and found his home had been burglarized again and several items were missing including the video camera and tape, valued at $1,200.

Prickett notified deputies who had the area under surveillance due to a recent rash of burglaries there, Spolski said.

At about 10 p.m. Tuesday, sheriff's investigator Debra Duguid noticed the car with the two youths in it driving through the Eastbrook subdivision near Casselberry.

Duguid had noticed the youths in the area before and was suspicious of their activities. Spolski said. She followed the youth's car in her patrol car and when they failed to stop at a stop sign, Duguid pulled their car over, Spolski said.

Duguid found the stolen video camera and tape in the trunk of the their car, Spolski said.

"The tape clearly shows the youths looking the home over before they broke in and shows them going through drawers inside the house. Both are clearly identifiable on the tape," he said.

The two youths were arrested and charged with burglary and grand theft. John Stephen Davis, 18, of 2060 Dyane Lane, Maitland, was released from the Seminole County Jail after paying $5,000 bond. His partner, 15, of the Howell Cove area near Casselberry, was being held at the county's juvenile detention facility.

Road Paving Taxes

Ordinance Befuddles County Staff

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

When Seminole County's road assessment improvement ordinance was amended earlier this year the goal was to make it simpler for residents living on dirt roads to get their streets paved.

But the program has been confusing to county staff and commissioners who are trying to administer the program. And a Tuesday work session, designed to clear up some of the confusion, may have had the reverse effect.

The ordinance allows residents of unpaved streets to petition county commissioners to establish a special taxing district for themselves to pay for paving of their street. The ordinance specifies that two-thirds of the property owners and the owners of two-thirds of the property both must agree to the special taxing district before it is established.

The idea is to pave dirt roads which are expensive for the county to maintain. The county has 134 miles of dirt roads, according to county figures.

But with three petitions already before commissioners and another 15 or so in the works, it has become apparent that not everyone is interpreting the ordinance the same way.

Commissioner Sandra Glenn's administrative aide, Rita Curtis, said in a petition for paving of Canada Avenue near Altamonte Springs, she gave joint owners of property "one vote apiece but husbands and wives got only one vote between them."

Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff, who had two road projects from his district approved several years ago, said "each property owner gets one vote, regardless of how many parcels he owns."

Kirchhoff added that joint owners of property should have only one vote between them. If joint owners aren't unanimously for the project, their vote is no.

Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather said under his interpretation of the ordinance "each buildable lot should get one vote."

Commissioner Robert Sturm said each piece of property regardless of its size should have one vote.

And Commissioner Barbara Christensen disagreed with the two-thirds majority rule. "My way is more feasible. Fifty percent plus one of the property owners is a majority."

Deputy County Attorney Bob McMillan is attempting to iron out the differences. He said any or all of the methods could be used.

McMillan said the ordinance calls for two separate votes. The first vote requiring approval of 66 2/3 percent of the property owners, makes sure the residents really want their road paved. The second vote, requiring approval from owners of 66 2/3 percent of the property, protects owners with large holdings, McMillan said.

He said county staff will have to spend more time researching the alternatives and then come up with a proposed policy for counting the votes.

In the meantime, commissioners have suspended action on road assessment petitions. Petitions already submitted will be delayed while county workers study the ordinance.

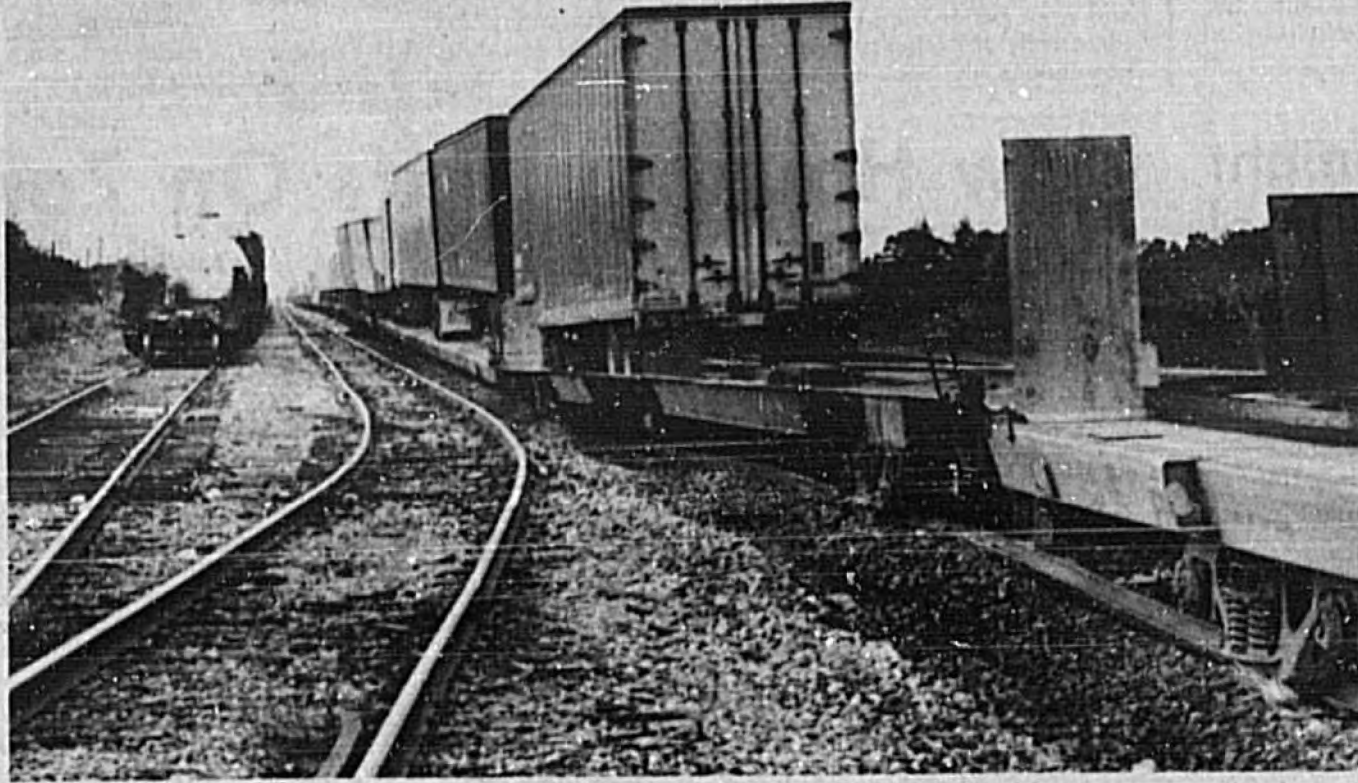

Judge To Address Sanford Group

Federal Judge Alcee Hastings of the U.S. District Court in South Florida will be keynote speaker at a meeting of the Seminole Neighborhood United Council (SNUC) at 7:30 p.m., Friday, at St. Paul Baptist Church, 813 Pine Ave., Sanford.

The subject of Judge Hastings' speech will be "Politics 1984."

A native of Altamonte Springs, Hastings was recently cleared of bribery and conspiracy charges in a federal court and is now the subject of an investigation by colleagues on the bench.

SNUC's plans are to foster political involvement in the 1984 election year by members of the black target communities countywide.

Off The Bent Track

A bent track and teetering freight cars show the results of a train derailment on tracks crossing State Route 46 west of Sanford at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday. Seaboard Systems Railroad officials are working to determine what caused these 10 flatcars of a Tampa-to-Sanford freight train to run off the track as they were being pulled at a speed of five miles per hour. John Spolski, of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department said traffic was blocked on the road until about 2:15 p.m. Railroad crews are expected to have the 10 cars, which were carrying truck trailers, back on the track by late this afternoon.

Real Estate Commission Pulls Salesman's License

The Florida Real Estate Commission Tuesday suspended the license of a Casselberry real estate salesman who was charged with fraud in a complaint filed by the Department of Professional Regulation (DPR).

The commission, which met in Orlando, also imposed a fine of $1,000 on Vincent Tomasino, whose address is listed as Post Office Box 1307.

The DPR had charged Tomasino and two Orlando real estate brokers with fraud, misrepresentation, false promises, dishonest dealing and breach of trust.

The charges stem from the alleged actions of the three men when they were selling time shares in condominiums in 1981.

The DPR charges that Tomasino received a $1,000 deposit from a couple as a down payment on a time share and that the money was never passed on to the owner of the condominium or returned to the couple.

The DPR also charged that Tomasino received deposits totaling $800 from a second couple and forwarded $400 of the sum to the owner of the condominium but refused to forward the remainder of the money or to return it to the couple.

According to the DPR, Tomasino and Krishnalall D. Persaud were employed as real estate salesmen by Ray T. Kline in 1981. The address of both Kline and Persaud is listed as 27 W. Columbia St., Orlando.

In March 1981 Tomasino and Persaud formed a corporation known as Intercontinental Marketing Services, Inc. (IMS) and Kline agreed to act as broker for the company.

IMS agreed to market in the Orlando area time shares in condominiums near Sebring, Fla., that are owned by Highlands County Title and Guaranty Land Co.

Later a Michigan couple, John D. and Helen G. Browning, sent Tomasino a $1,000 down payment on time shares in two of the condominiums and Tomasino deposited the money in an Orlando bank in the account of IMS, the DPR said.

Later Tomasino and Persaud refused to deliver the $1,000 deposit to Highlands County Title and Guaranty Co. or to return the money to the Brownings, the DPR said.

Another couple, Richard and Bonita Drapeau, also sent Tomasino deposits totaling $800 as a down payment on a time share condominium, the DPR said.

Tomasino forwarded $400 of the money to Highlands County Title and Guaranty Land Co., but did not forward the remaining $400 and refused to return the money to the Drapeaus, the DPR said.

The DPR charges that Kline failed to supervise and control the acts of his employees, Tomasino and Persaud.

In addition to the penalties the Real Estate Commission imposed on Tomasino, a hearing officer of the Florida Division of Administrative Hearings recommended that Kline's broker's license be suspended for two years and that he be fined $1,000. The officer recommended that Persaud's broker's license be suspended for two years and he be fined $500.

However, at its meeting Tuesday, the commission said that if Kline and Persaud would reimburse the Brownings and the Drapeaus the $1,400 owed to them and pay for their court costs and attorney's fees these penalties would be cut in half.

Fast Action Promised To Save Trees

If you're planning to remove trees from property in Seminole County, take note.

Seminole County commissioners have made arbor ordinance violations a top priority for their Land Management inspectors. Inspectors will drop everything else when complaints about arbor ordinance violations are called in.

In Seminole County trees three or more inches in diameter cannot be removed without a permit.

The new complaint procedure was developed by Seminole County Public Services and Development Director John Percy and comes on the heels of charges last week by a Winter Springs area woman that inspectors took four days to respond to a complaint. Susan Lawyer, a resident of Nature's Way, a dirt road a block from the intersection of Tuskawilla Road and State Road 419, complained to county commissioners last week that land management officials failed to respond to her complaints about a 3.4-acre lot being cleared of trees until the work was almost finished.

"It's ridiculous," said Mrs. Lawyer.

Land Management Manager Herb Hardin told commissioners the delay resulted from a misunderstanding by inspectors. Hardin eventually went to the site himself to post a stop work order.

"When a complaint comes in someone should drop what they're doing and go out there to the site," said Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff.

The new procedure calls for inspectors to do just that. Under the procedure, when a complaint is made, Land Management officials will check immediately to see if an arbor permit has been issued. If no record of a permit is found a site inspector will be immediately dispatched to the complaint site. If the site inspector can't be reached within 15 minutes, a zoning violation inspector will be sent.

If neither are available a building inspector will be sent to the site.

Inspectors will be on call in the evenings and on weekends to respond to calls received after hours and will remain on duty until calls made late in the day have been answered.

Under the new policy, inspectors will obtain the name of the contractor involved and license numbers of vehicles involved, notify the contractor and property owner that work must stop immediately and post a stop work order on the site. If no one is at the scene a stop work order will be placed and the inspector will contact the property owner as soon as possible.

Tennis player and coach Emma Spencer, 76, of Sanford, and former baseball player Bernard David "Buddy" Lake, 70, of Lake Mary, have also been selected to light the Olympic-style flame at the opening ceremonies of the 9th annual Golden Age Games to be held Nov. 7-12 in Sanford. They will both be inducted into the Seminole County Sports Hall of Fame on Nov. 11.

The Games ceremonies will begin at 9 a.m. in the patio of the Sanford City Hall following the parade up Park Avenue to city hall.

This year's Games will be dedicated to the memory of the late Buster Crabbe, Olympic Gold Medalist in swimming and star of many films, who is a former honorary chairman of the Golden Age Games.

This year's honorary chairman, John Brenden Kelly, Jr., former member of the U.S. Sculling Team, will be grand marshal of the parade. Kelly, 56, of Philadelphia, is vice president of the U.S. Olympic Committee and is on the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee executive committee and board of directors. Kelly is the brother of the late Princess Grace of Monaco. His father, John Sr., was an Olympic gold-medalist in rowing.

Jack Horner, president of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, which co-sponsors the Golden Age Games, said he hopes to have several well-known Olympic Gold Medal winners on hand for the opening.

They will be in the area to attend an Olympic Week-end at Walt Disney World to raise funds for America's Olympic athletes Nov. 4, 5 and 6 at both the Magic Kingdom and EPCOT Center.

Entries are needed from organizations and individuals for the informal parade and entry forms for the parade or other events are available at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce office at First Street and Sanford Avenue.

This year's Games are again sponsored by Post.

McDonald's restaurants will supply helium filled balloons emblazoned with the Golden Age Games logo to be released at the ceremonies. They will also sponsor the appearance of Miss Florida. The restaurant plans to give out buttons to participants good for a complimentary cup of coffee, and will provide orange bowls with orange drink and cups for use at the Games.

Debbie Hanna, McDonald's spokesperson and Sanford McDonald's Restaurant Manager Cheryl DeFillipo, were at the Golden Age Games Executive Committee meeting Wednesday to announce plans, which also include printing of tray liners with a map of all locations for Golden Age Games events to be used in the restaurant beginning the week before the Games.

Virginia Longwell, secretary of the Games, has already received 1,007 entries from senior citizens 55 and over from all over the country and she said more are coming in everyday. Golf, bowling, and bridge continue to lead

NATION IN BRIEF

Botulism Cause Still A Mystery

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — Health officials say they may never determine which food served at a local restaurant last weekend caused the nation's largest outbreak of botulism in recent years.

Robert Spengler, a Centers for Disease Control officer based in Springfield, Ill., said investigators never determine the cause of the outbreak in about 10 percent of all botulism cases. He said that might happen in the Peoria outbreak.

More than two dozen people were admitted to area hospitals with cases of suspected or confirmed botulism.

Economy

GNP Up; Recovery Still Strong

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. gross national product grew at a healthy 7.9 percent annual rate in the third quarter after adjustment for inflation, the Commerce Department said today.

The strength of the broadest economic indicator, measuring the nation's output of goods and services, showed the recovery was durable enough to withstand mounting trade deficits and the problems of a long, hot summer.

The latest gains are on top of the second quarter's strong 9.7 percent growth, when final sales were stronger but inventory rebuilding had not yet gotten under way.

Inflation throughout the economy, as measured in the GNP report, stayed about the same. The government's "implicit price deflator" was 3.4 percent in the third quarter compared to 3.3 percent in the second.

The third quarter's rate of growth was even better than the 7 percent tentatively projected by government economists in September on the basis of only one month's data.

Economists generally consider a sustained 4 percent growth rate the "break even" point where the unemployment rate starts getting better.

In 1983 dollars not adjusted for inflation, the department's Bureau of Economic Analysis said the July-September economy generated goods and services at an annual rate of $3.363 trillion.

When 1982 ended, its GNP was worth $3.073 trillion.

In 1972 dollars, the GNP was worth $1.554 trillion at an annual rate, the department said.

The main pillar of the recovery, consumer enthusiasm, drove retail sales up 5.1 percent in the third quarter, compared to 6.8 percent in the second quarter.

The slightly weaker sales were helped by a $10.2 billion contribution from inventory investment in the third quarter, about the same as in the second quarter.

But the inventory figures showed a seasonal change of their own, switching from a second quarter in which liquidation of inventory grew less serious to a third quarter in which the liquidation came to a halt and accumulation began.

Businesses that were cutting stocks severely through the recession and into the second quarter finally began to add to their stocks instead, a major benchmark economists look for by which to set the beginning of long-term economic expansion.

It makes no difference for the GNP's bottom line whether goods produced were put on the shelf or in the warehouse or taken home by consumers.

Among the important categories of third quarter final sales only exports declined, the department said, but only by about half as much as occurred in the second quarter.

Another measure of prices in the report, dubbed the "GNP fixed-weighted price index" increased 4.1 percent in the third quarter compared with a 4.3 percent rate in the second quarter.

Reluctant Reagan To Sign King Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan expressed doubts about honoring civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. with a national holiday overwhelmingly approved by Congress, but said he will sign it into law anyway.

Reagan declined Wednesday to reject the charges of conservatives like Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., who said secret FBI records prove the slain black leader was a tool of the communists. Helms contended during two days of bitter debate that King, winner of the 1964 Nobel Peace prize, did not deserve to be commemorated until the details of his past were divulged publicly.

The Senate rejected that argument and all of Helms' other attempts to scuttle the bill, voting 78-22 for passage. Eighteen Republicans and four Democrats voted against the new holiday, which would come on the third Monday in January — the month King was born — beginning in 1986. All of Florida's representatives voted for the holiday.

King's wife, Coretta Scott King, watched the vote with her family from a seat in the Senate gallery together with black singer Stevie Wonder and NAACP Executive Director Benjamin Hooks. She called it a "great day for America."

A Baptist minister, King came out of the Deep South to galvanize the nation with his compelling voice and non-violent assault on segregation. He began his public battle against racism in the mid-1950s, leading boycotts and marches. In the spring of 1968, at age 39, he was killed by a sniper.

Drug Meeting Tonight At Lyman High School

An organizational meeting for people interested in participating in town meetings to be held in conjunction with the airing of a two-part television special on drug abuse will be held at 7:30 tonight at Lyman High School.

Seminole, Lake Mary, Lake Brantley, Lake Howell and Lyman high schools, along with Winter Springs Elementary School, will host town meetings Nov. 2 and Nov. 9 to view the public television documentary The Chemical People.

Following the showings, panel discussions and question-and-answer sessions will be held with doctors, legislators, school administrators, teachers, parents and other interested citizens, according to Karen Coleman, public information officer for the Seminole County School District.

The first program will deal with the drug problem in American culture. The second will address ways to deal with drug abuse.

New Housing Units On Zoning Board's Agenda

Plans for construction of 261 new housing units will be considered by the Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission at its 7 p.m. meeting today.

The meeting will be held in the city commission room at city hall, 300 N. Park Ave.

The matters concerning the new housing units include:

- A preliminary and final plat of the Arbers and Hidden Lake located at Hidden Lake Drive and Pine Winds Drive. A site plan for the condominium project was approved by the board on Aug. 4. The development is to have 81 condominium units.
- A preliminary plat of Hidden Lakes, Phase III, Unit IV located at Lake Ada Circle. This development is to have 52 one and two-story units.
- And a preliminary and final plat of Kaywood Estates at State Road 46A and Oregon Avenue. Some 128 single family homes are to be built here.

At the same meeting, the commission will consider site plans for the conversion of two homes into apartments. Charles Cameron is asking for approval to convert a single family home into a three apartment units at 408 Palmetto Avenue and to convert a two-family home into a four unit apartment building at 404 Palmetto Ave.

Some weeks ago he received approval to convert the 408 Palmetto Ave. site into a two-family dwelling.

The Sanford City Commission is slated to adopt an ordinance rezoning the area from 4th to 13th streets between Laurel and Palmetto into a single family home district at its Monday night meeting.

While conversion of single family homes into two family units will be permitted as a special exception after the rezoning, conversion into more than two units will not be permitted after that date. Cameron's requested conversions will apparently be the final ones after the rezoning receives final approval.

In a related matter concerning the same area, a public hearing will be held to rezone 905 Laurel Avenue from multi-family district to general commercial. The site has been a funeral home for many years.

Oviedo Pedestrian Hit By Car; No Charges Filed

A 25-year-old Oviedo area man was in stable condition today after being struck by a car as he was attempting to walk across State Road 426 at Chapman Road about three miles south of Oviedo early today.

George Jakubcin, of Rt. 3, Redbug Road, suffered head injuries and possible internal injuries in the accident, according to a spokesman at Winter Park Memorial Hospital. Jakubcin is listed in stable condition at the hospital today.

Jakubcin was hit about 1:40 a.m. when he stepped into the path of a 1980 Mazda driven by Penelope Munsey, 34, of Oviedo, according to the Florida Highway Patrol.

No charges have been filed in the accident, the FHP said. An investigation is continuing.

MOLESTING SUSPECT RELEASED

A 23-year-old Sanford man, charged with 16 counts each of sexual battery and committing lewd and lascivious act on a child, has been released on $2,500 bond.

Sanford police said Robert Jack Harley, 305 W. First St., is accused of incidents involving four juvenile boys during the last year.

He was arrested Monday and placed in the Seminole County jail with no bond. The following day, Seminole County Judge Harold Johnson set Harley's bond at $2,500. Harley paid the bond and was released from jail at 2:30 p.m.

"I looked at it from the stand point of a bond that would assure his appearance in court," Johnson said. "That's what bonds are for."

DOUBLE THEFTS

Two motorists drove their vehicles into a Fern Park gas station, put gas in their tanks and drove off without paying.

Orange-Seminole Cablevision will also donate gifts for the entrants, possibly sweat bands for head and wrist. The Central Florida Regional Hospital will sponsor the trophies for the decathlon winners.

In honor of the Golden Age Games, Sea World will observe Sanford Week and provide $2 off admission certificates for participants.

The Seminole County Library will have paperback books available at the Games to give the participants something to read while relaxing between events and will distribute a special Golden Age Games bookmark.

Gene Keltner of the Central Florida Chapter of the American Red Cross, a member of the U.S. Olympic Committee, has secured Olympic model electronic stop watches that will time four athletes at once for use by sponsors of various events in the Golden Age Games.

The Red Cross sponsors synchronized swimming, swimming, diving, canoeing and sailing events in the Golden Age Games.

Golden Age Games Chairman Jim Jernigan announced that because the swimming pool at Sanford Landings is not deep enough, two of the Golden Age aquatic events will be held at the Sanford Bath and Tennis Club instead. The diving and synchronized swimming competition, which require greater depth, moved, but the other swimming events and canoeing will still be held at Sanford Landings Apartments, 1800 W. First St.

Sailing is held at the Sanford Marina, next to the Holiday Inn, but the current dredging project may make launching difficult on the beach, Jernigan said, so adjustments may have to be made.

Tickets are now on sale at the chamber or at the Wednesday afternoon dances at the Sanford Civic Center for the Wednesday night Jubilee Dinner-Dance. This popular event is always a sellout so early reservations are advised.

An attendant at the Thornton gas station on U.S. Highway 17-92 said a red 1975 Ford van and a red 1978 Dodge car pulled into the station at 9:45 p.m. Friday. The driver of the van put $13.50 worth of regular gas in the van's tank and the driver of the Dodge put $12 worth of unleaded gas in his car. Then both drove off northbound without paying for the gas.

Civic Center Beer Ban May Be Reconsidered

ORLANDO (UPI) — Fearful that country music star Hank Williams Jr. would attract "rowdy people," Orange County officials decided to ban the sale of alcoholic beverages at his concert next month.

Some of Williams' hits include "Whiskey Bent and Hell Bound" and "All My Rowdy Friends (Have Settled Down)." Several commissioners said they were concerned about "fighting, drinking and general rowdiness" at Williams' Nov. 8 concert at the Orange County Civic Center.

So, they voted unanimously Tuesday to ban the sale of alcoholic beverages at the event.

But Commission Chairman Lou Treadway, who said he had reservations about the original proposal, said Wednesday the panel "possibly overreacted" and may withdraw the ban at a meeting next week.

Pilot Picture Perfect

MIAMI (UPI) — A "perfect" emergency landing by a Northeastern Airlines 727 with its nose gear jammed won accolades for pilot Robert Brush from passengers and company officials.

Passengers cheered after the wide-bodied, blue-and-white Northeastern jet made a grinding landing Wednesday at Miami International Airport. None of the 71 people aboard Northeastern Flight 123, including several babies, was hurt.

An investigation by the National Transportation Safety Board and the Federal Aviation Administration into why the landing gear froze in place was pending.

Drug Probe Clears Spaet

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A House investigating committee Wednesday cleared Rep. Hal Spaet, D-Miami Beach, of using illegal drugs.

The three-term Miami Beach representative said he was "very relieved" by the findings. He had maintained throughout the investigation that he took prescription drugs on doctors' orders for treatment of epilepsy and insomnia.

DeLorean Flunks FBI Lie Test; Attorney Claims Exam 'Rigged'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — John DeLorean flunked an FBI-administered lie detector test the automaker's attorney now insists was "rigged and fixed" to bolster the government's cocaine conspiracy case against his client.

The test results, disclosed one year after DeLorean's arrest, demonstrate the millionaire automaker was a "knowing and willing participant" in a plot to smuggle cocaine into the United States, prosecutors said Wednesday.

The U.S. Attorney's Office conducted the test to counter an earlier polygraph, administered a month ago under auspices of the defense, that reportedly supported DeLorean's claim he was entrapped in the $24 million cocaine deal and not involved in any wrongdoing.

The battle of the polygraphs now moves to the courtroom of U.S. District Court Judge Robert M. Takasugi. The judge will decide after a hearing Friday whether the lie detector results can be used in DeLorean's Nov. 1 trial.

"I think Paul Minor (the FBI polygraph examiner) is a liar," defense attorney Howard Weitzman said after the results were disclosed. "The test was rigged and fixed."

Weitzman also claimed that government officials had unfairly changed the wording of one question concerning an alleged discussion of heroin.

He suggested before DeLorean took the test Tuesday that the agency — which handled the sting operation that led to his arrest — might fix the results to bolster the government's case.

DeLorean, 58, flew to Los Angeles from his home in New Jersey for the 40-minute polygraph test. He refused to talk to reporters before or after the exam.

In Minor's opinion, DeLorean was "deceptive" in his responses to four questions involving his relationship with James Hoffman, the informer in the government's drug "sting" operation leading to the automaker's arrest.

John DeLorean
...last month passed lie detector test lined up by his defense

DeLorean answered "no" to each of four questions which asked:

—Before 1982, did you seek Hoffman's assistance in arranging a drug transaction for you?

—Before July 12, 1982, did you seek Hoffman's assistance in arranging a drug transaction for you?

—When you traveled to California for the July 11 meeting, did you have plans to discuss a drug transaction with Hoffman?

—During the Marriott meeting, did you discuss with Hoffman a narcotics transaction?

Five days after the disputed discussion, FBI investigators opened the probe that led to DeLorean's arrest on Oct. 19, 1982, at a hotel near International Airport.

Red Tide Sparks Shellfishing Ban

NEW SMYRNA BEACH (UPI) — State environmentalists have banned shellfish harvesting along central Florida's Atlantic coast because of a rare red tide that has killed hundreds of thousands of fish.

The ban took effect at sunset Wednesday and will remain indefinitely, said Beverly Roberts, biology supervisor for the Department of Natural Resources.

The area included in the ban covers most of Volusia and Brevard counties.

"It's based on high concentrations of red tide organisms," said Ms. Roberts. "Oysters and clams use the (red tide) organisms as a food source, can absorb them and become toxic."

Mollusks poisoned by the toxin can cause a numbness in the extremities of people who eat them. But Ms. Roberts said there was no evidence any shellfish in the area had been infected.

The stench of dead fish hung over the area of the red tide, which was 200 yards wide and stretched for 50 miles from New Smyrna Beach to Patrick Air Force Base at Cape Canaveral.

Spy Suspect Cooperating

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Spy suspect James D. Harper Jr., held by federal marshals at an undisclosed location to protect him from assassination attempts, is giving government officials information about international espionage in "Silicon Valley," his lawyer says.

Attorney William Dougherty, speaking to reporters Wednesday after a magistrate refused bail for the electronic engineering consultant, said he preferred Harper be kept in custody where he would be safe from "foreign agents and others."

"Harper has been in Silicon Valley for 25 years and he's been active (in espionage) for four to eight years. He has a lot of information," he said.

Fire breaks out in more than seven million homes each year, resulting in thousands of deaths and hundreds of thousands of injuries.

Of course you should take precautions when using matches and combustible materials should be stored safely and heating and air conditioning systems should be kept in good repair.

But there are other danger areas that could send your home up in flames. Many fires start in appliance motors and in hidden electrical wires. Even your TV set's 28,000 volts of stored energy can cause a fire hours after the set has been turned off.

Because most fires occur at night while the occupants are sleeping, the Better Business Bureau of Central Florida has the following tips for installing smoke or heat detectors:

- Because smoke rises, the best place to put a detector is on the ceiling or high inside the wall just below the ceiling. In a mobile home, place the detector on an inside wall a few inches below the ceiling.
- There are two types of detectors: smoke detectors, which sound the alarm at the first trace of smoke and heat detectors which sound an alarm to warn of abnormally high temperatures. Smoke detectors should be installed outside the bedroom and on each additional story of the house.

• A heat detector — not a smoke detector — should be installed inside the kitchen. Also have a fire extinguisher close at hand in the kitchen.

• Test your smoke or heat detector every 30 days unless they are battery-powered and these should be tested every week.

The Future Of Hong Kong

Hong Kong, that great Asian entrepot and outpost of the British Empire, is tottering.

It is inevitable that, sooner or later, the Union Jack will be hauled down and the five-starred red flag of mainland China will be hoisted in its place.

The negotiations between Britain and China are not going well. The people of Hong Kong are, understandably, nervous. Pessimistic news reports send shivers through the Hong Kong stock market. The value of Hong Kong currency is plummeting. Wealthy people are making standby plans to emigrate and take their capital with them.

Britain wants to keep some kind of managerial role, even after the Red flag flies over the so-called New Territories, which make up most of the present colony and which must be returned to Chinese sovereignty in 1997, when Britain's lease expires.

But Peking will have none of British administration. And, without the New Territories, it does not seem likely that Britain can continue to hold Hong Kong Island and Kowloon for long, despite the terms of a treaty negotiated in the last century which gives Britain the colony in perpetuity.

The British foothold dates back to gunboat days of the Opium War (1839-42). It is anachronistic, perpetuated only by China's weakness. Now that communist China is strong enough, Peking is determined to reclaim Hong Kong. For that, it is difficult to blame the mainland Chinese.

The seizure of Hong Kong was an unhappy chapter in the history of Britain and China, the Chinese can continue to tolerate the Portuguese colony of Macao, which existed for centuries before Hong Kong became British, because the Portuguese did not seize it by force and continue to occupy it only by agreement with the Chinese government. But Hong Kong rankles.

All the people of the Pacific Basin will be diminished if Hong Kong's magnificent economic structure is laid low. The colony has been a free port and a center for trade, transshipment, shipping and banking, serving the entire world. The Chinese of Hong Kong have shown what the Confucian work ethic can achieve under conditions of freedom, and the demonstration has been little short of astounding.

The economic freedom should be continued, if that is possible, under Peking's sovereignty, together with a large measure of political independence. That would not only retain for communist China the material advantages of having a prosperous capitalist free port but would also prove to the Chinese of Taiwan that reunification of their island with the mainland is possible without sacrificing either their freedom or their prosperity.

The lines are hardening in the British-Chinese negotiations. The danger signals are obvious. We have seen in many former colonies in Asia, Africa and South America that the end of colonialism can spell chaos and suffering. Hong Kong has the potential of becoming one of the worst of the bad examples.

If cooler heads prevail on both sides, an accommodation can be struck between the claims of Chinese pride and the practical realism of Chinese common sense. It would be a political miracle equal to the economic miracle of Hong Kong's present prosperity. The British and the Chinese, alike in their pride and practicality, are the two peoples most able to pull it off.

SCIENCE WORLD Interferon: The Jury's Still Out

By Al Rossiter Jr., UPI Science Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The jury is still out, but there is increasing evidence that interferon may yet prove to have a practical role in the treatment of cancer.

A variety of small-scale tests of the natural antiviral protein against tumors of various kinds has produced mixed and often disappointing results, considering the high expectations some researchers had when anticancer interferon studies began five years ago.

But commercial laboratories are now using genetic engineering technology to produce much purer interferon in greater quantities and at far less cost. Larger tests are under way or will soon begin on cancer patients at a number of medical centers.

There are three kinds of interferon — alpha, beta and gamma — produced from natural body cells. These three types also are made by a genetic engineering technique in which the genes that regulate the formation of human interferon are transplanted into bacteria, turning them into interferon-producing factories.

The National Cancer Institute says enough is known to say interferon "is clearly beneficial in some respects."

"It may not be directly toxic to cancer cells as conventional drugs are, but it may slow their rate of growth and division so they become sluggish and die," the institute said in a report summarizing the results to date.

Researchers know interferon is produced naturally as part of the body's defenses against viral infections. The protein interferes with the multiplication of virus cells and apparently can have the same effect against rapidly-dividing cancer cells.

The cancer institute said some animal studies have shown that interferon works more effectively against cancer when it is combined with an anti-cancer drug. The institute also said mixtures of different kinds of interferon may be more effective against cancer than any single type.

Laboratory studies, for example, have shown that gamma interferon boosts the potency of the alpha and beta types when it is combined with one of them.

"Thus interferon may indeed prove to have a place in cancer therapy, but perhaps as an adjuvant to other modes of therapy rather than as a single treatment," the institute said.

"It may prove most helpful in treating cancer that remains after surgery, radiotherapy and/or chemotherapy."

Most of the early studies of interferon in cancer patients used the alpha type of interferon extracted from white blood cells of blood bank donors. This interferon was scarce and treatment cost about $30,000 per person.

The cancer institute said it now costs about $200 per patient to treat them with larger doses of interferon produced by the genetic engineering technique. The early natural interferon was usually less than 1 percent pure. The new genetic engineered interferon is almost 100 percent pure.

NATO Hopes To Blunt Fall Protests

WASHINGTON — Anti-nuclear agitators are trying to blow up a hurricane of protest powerful enough to stop the deployment of Pershing and cruise missiles in western Europe.

This is causing considerable consternation in the backrooms of Washington.

In what is probably a vain hope of defusing the controversy, NATO officials meeting in Ottawa on Saturday will announce a 25 percent cutback of the short-range nuclear weapons already deployed in Europe.

The presence of these tactical nuclear weapons has been an accepted fact of life for years; they have been all but ignored in the hullabaloo over the scheduled December deployment of medium-range Pershing II and ground-launched cruise missiles.

Indeed, the only recent controversy over the tactical nukes involved their nomenclature. For years they were known as "theater nuclear forces," which offended some Europeans. So the Reagan administration obligingly lists them now as "non-strategic nuclear forces."

But a nuclear bomb by any other name is still a deadly piece of hardware,

JEFFREY HART

Constitutional Proposal

We now have — Nixon, Ford, Carter — three living former presidents, and had John Kennedy not been shot we would probably have a fourth. Admittedly, this is an unusual situation, the product of a series of one-term and interrupted presidencies, but the point is that we could be making much better use than we are of this reservoir of talent and experience.

To be sure, these former presidents write their books, and Nixon has just written what may well be a classic on the conduct of foreign policy, but the republic could benefit more directly from their counsel if they had an official public post and a visible forum for what remarks they cared to make.

When he took office in January 1977, for example, Jimmy Carter was a provincial with little knowledge of the outside world and its leaders. But his predecessors Ford and Nixon possessed a fund of experience in that regard, and could have advised him about dealing with Brezhnev, the Chinese leadership, the Mexican government, about the SALT agreements and their pitfalls, and about the precise nature of détente.

Instead, Carter started from scratch, to a great extent, despite the availability of career diplomats.

Would it not be wise to arrange — through a constitutional amendment — that former presidents be made senators-at-large? They would have a vote, but above all they would have a forum and they could interact on a regular basis with the other senators on matters both foreign and domestic.

I have been re-reading Doris Kearns' 1976 book on Lyndon Johnson, "Lyndon Johnson and the American Dream," a much more balanced account of Johnson than you get in Robert Caro's recent hatchet job, and there is a powerful sense of waste and isolation about Johnson's life after the presidency. Johnson was by nature a doer rather than a reflective person, but there was very little for him to do, and he was virtually isolated.

Invited to the Apollo moon launching on July 17, 1969, he showed up and sat in the bleachers. Other dignitaries showed up, and a few people shook his hand. The sweat poured off him in the broiling Florida sun. Finally, at the last minute, a helicopter arrived, the band played, and an unwrinkled Spiro Agnew stepped out as the crowd stood and applauded. Johnson wished he were back at his Texas ranch.

But, back at the ranch, he preoccupied himself with trivia. Writes Kearns:

"Deciding to spend his time on the ranch rather than on the memoirs or in public arenas, Johnson set about to master the ranch's activities with the same energy he had previously put into everything else. All the skills, all the tools, shaped over decades of public life were now directed at four or five field hands. Control that had once spanned the world was now reduced to a small rugged domain, as Johnson became the commander in chief of a much reduced Western world... For hours every day, Johnson would drive around the fields checking up on his men, finding tasks undone, spotting problems, talking with them about the cattle or the tractors."

He established a regular 6 a.m. meeting with the hands. "At these morning meetings, Johnson delivered his instructions to his field hands with the same tone of voice and the same urgency I had heard at early-morning staff meetings in the White House. 'Now,' he began, talking with his hands, 'I want each of you to make a solemn pledge that you will not go to bed tonight until you are sure that every steer has everything he needs... Now I want you to write down the following symbols. 'HP' means 'high priority,' 'P' means 'priority,' 'S' means 'hold for a slow day.'"

Here goes. Fix the fence in Pasture Two — HP. Get litch medicine in town — P. Start the sprinklers in Pasture Three — HP. Fix the right wheel on the green tractor — P. Check the price of feed at the county fair — S... Any questions? There were none and he strode off."

No doubt Lyndon Johnson did enjoy his Texas ranch, but his isolation there surely represented a waste from the standpoint of public interest.

And no doubt other former presidents find ways to remain influential and politically active, Nixon being a case in point.

Shortly after his resignation, I visited Nixon in San Clemente, and the place was a beehive of activity. Foreign diplomats and businessmen poured in and out of the offices, eager for a few minutes of Nixon's advice, and there were long conference calls between congressmen and the former president. The fact that Nixon was "an unindicted co-conspirator" in the Watergate farce did not matter at all to those worldly men. What did matter was his superb grasp of international relations. And, of course, there have been the Nixon books.

But would it not be a good idea to formalize the public role of former presidents?

DICK WEST Can Clark Answer Queries?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — William Clark is bound to face some tough questioning at Senate confirmation hearings on his appointment as secretary of interior.

Opponents of the outgoing national security adviser surely will remember when his nomination as deputy secretary of state came up for approval.

At that time, Clark displayed what some detractors considered a weak grasp of world affairs, being unable, among other things, to identify the leaders of certain African nations.

During his days at the State Department, and since joining the White House staff, he presumably became more intimately acquainted with international issues.

Now, environmentalists are challenging his qualifications for the interior post.

For example, an official of the National Audubon Society, referring to President Reagan's description of Clark as a "God-fearing Westerner" and "fourth-generation rancher," pointed out that owning a ranch and understanding ecology are not exactly the same thing.

Part of the problem, I believe, is attire. Clark doesn't always dress in conventional style for the role he plays in government.

Had he appeared at his previous confirmation hearings in striped pants, his appointment to a diplomatic position would, I am convinced, have sailed through the Senate with hardly a word of dissent.

Next time, he is likely to be more appropriately clad.

Clark, as is well known, is fond of wearing cowboy boots. Footwear of that type is certain to create confidence in his ability to run the Interior Department.

Nevertheless, confirmation hearings by the Senate Energy and National Resources Committee could be rough.

Before testifying as a Cabinet nominee, Clark might be wise to have breakfast at one of those restaurants where the place mats feature maps of the United States showing the locations of all the state capitals.

That way, over ham and eggs, or whatever God-fearing Westerners eat in the morning, he could bone up on internal geography.

At the State Department, and as national security adviser, Clark didn't necessarily need to know that Pierre is the capital of South Dakota.

His primary concerns in his previous administration jobs were overseas or south of the border.

At interior, however, the outlook is more domestic and Clark will have all sorts of intramural controversies dumped in his lap. Here is the type of information committee members will be testing him on:

- In what state is Jackson Hole, Wyo?
- What is a snail darter?
- What kind of fuel was involved in Teapot Dome drilling leases?
- What is an antelope?
- What is the difference between yellow rain and acid rain?
- What does smog come from?

If Clark is going to speak for the president on environmental matters, he will need to know that trees are a prime cause of air pollution. Probably nothing in his previous experience has prepared him for that.

anyway. New artillery shells for both size howitzers are already in production, and they'll include some neutron ("enhanced radiation") warheads.

The Pentagon will spend nearly $70 million for about 800 new shells for the 8-inch howitzers, the weapons system common to all the allies. Each shell will have a maximum yield of 1.1 kilotons — one-sixth the size of the Hiroshima bomb — plus another .8 kilotons of enhanced radiation.

The new nuclear artillery shell will also travel 29 kilometers (18 miles) compared to the present round's 14-kilometer range (8.7 miles).

No neutron-bomb warheads will be deployed in Europe initially. By December, at least 340 of them will be stockpiled in this country. And any decision to deploy them abroad could come only after close consultation with the allied "host" and explicit approval from the president.

Footnote: There will be no demonstrations in East Germany, of course, against Soviet nuclear weapons. Yet the Soviets have deployed more of the horror weapons threatening western Europe than the other way around.

Time Wounds All Heels — Seminoles, Rams, Patriots Will Win

Are you ready for George McGovern as your next President?

It must be true because, when I told this guy that Illinois would upset Ohio State he said, "Yeah, you'll probably vote for McGovern too." Well, you know what they say — time wounds all heels.

Would you believe, a 10-4 week of picking (including cross country predictions)? That puts me at 37-25-1 for the season after being only one game over .500 just three weeks ago.

I think it might be safe to go out on a limb a little this week. Especially at a time when even Ronald Reagan isn't as conservative as usual. U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick shouldn't worry that Reagan turned her down for the national security advisor position though. I hear she is one of the leading candidates to replace John McKay as coach of the Tampa Bay Bucs. That list also includes Woody Hayes, Woody Allen and the Giant Redwood off U.S. Highway 17-92.

If there is a weak point on the Apopka team, it is defense. The Blue Darters haven't had to rely on the defense too much so far this season because the offense has rolled up megapoints. Apopka hasn't faced a defense as good as Lake Brantley's, though, and the Darters won't be able to run

East Carolina would like to be the first team to beat the Gators in '83. And they are capable of doing it too. East Carolina has one of the most productive offenses in the nation and they have strung together five straight victories since opening with a one-point loss to Florida State. Florida's

5 Star Contenders, Pretenders, Spoilers Take Shape Friday

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

There are contenders, pretenders and spoilers in the Five Star Conference race at this juncture. After Friday, the roles will be more clearly defined.

●Apopka, boasting a perfect 5-0 mark (4-0 in conference) and a sixth-place ranking in the 4A Prep Football Poll, is definitely a contender. Coach Chip Gierke's Blue Darters have a tremendous offensive squad led by QB Rod Brewer, tailback Sammie Smith and wideout James Jones.

●Lake Brantley, the hottest team in Seminole County, is 4-1 overall and 3-1 in the Five Star. The Patriots have shown their contending status by winning their last three conference games.

●Lyman, which hasn't lost any important games, has a 3-0 conference record and a 3-2 overall mark which stamps the Greyhounds as a legitimate contender to repeat as Five Star and district champion.

●Lake Howell, the preseason favorite of the coaches, turned out to be a pretender. The Silver Hawks blew an 18-point lead and lost to Sanford, then were embarrassed by Lake Brantley, 23-0. Lake Howell is 4-2 overall, but 3-2 in the conference.

●Seminole, which looked impressive earlier in the year, has fallen to the role of spoiler. The Seminoles stunned Lake Howell, then somehow lost to Mainland. The following week, they were zapped by powerful Apopka. They are 2-3 overall and 1-3 in the Five Star.

●Lake Mary, which surprised DeLand, 15-14, in the season opener, has had its problems with Lake Brantley (32-6), Lyman (20-0) and Lake Howell (32-6). The Rams also fall into the spoiler category.

Lake Brantley and Apopka battle in Apopka Friday. Lyman and Seminole renew their rivalry in Sanford. Lake Mary hosts Mainland. All kickoffs are 4 p.m.

Last year, Lyman and Apopka tied with 6-1 records, but the Greyhounds won the title because they whipped the Blue Darters. With the addition of the Rams this fall, eight conference games are played.

Some coaches feel that two losses will be one too many. They said they feel it may take a 7-1 record to win. "We may be out of the race, but we're going to show this conference we can play some football," said Lake Howell coach Mike Bisceglia after the loss to Lake Brantley. One team — Apopka — has drawn the respect of the coaches, especially Seminole chief Jerry Posey. "I'd say Apopka was the clear-cut favorite," Posey mused Thursday morning. "They have three excellent people at the skill positions (Brewer, Smith and Jones). Someone is going to have to catch them on an off night and be hot to beat them."

Posey, however, didn't rule out that happening. "I can't say that you couldn't catch them on an off night," he continued. "Lake Brantley, Lyman or Lake Howell could beat them."

Apopka hasn't been a world beater with its defense, but Posey said that could be misleading. "When you score all those points, the defense sometimes doesn't look as impressive," said Posey. Apopka has scored 161 points in five games for an average of 32 a game. The Darters have given up 70 points for an average of 14 an outing. Spruce Creek denied them for 21 and could have had that many more if not for turnovers. Edgewater put 20 on the board in the season opener.

Apopka will face its toughest defensive tests Friday against Lake Brantley and two weeks from Friday against Lyman. Both are at home which will help. To beat the Darters, an excellent secondary or pass rush is necessary. When Brewer gets the time, he will pick you apart.

Lake Brantley has a solid pass rush with tackles Dean Shirley and Larry Froemming. Linebackers Donnie O'Brian, Byron Bush, Scott Horwitz, Pat James and Sean O'Brian comprise the strongest unit in the conference. The secondary has a good hitter in Scott Salmon, but can the others control Brewer and Jones?

Lyman's defense, meanwhile, has been superb, yielding just 43 points in five games for an average of just 8.6 an outing. Linebackers Mike Henley, Paul Ellis and Pete Crespo are excellent hitters. Upfront, Tyrone Simpson, Bubba Jones and Kevin Keikes put heat on the quarterback. The Greyhounds' secondary is also extremely tough with safety Greg Pilot along with defensive backs Mike Battle and Tyler Hughes.

Where the Greyhounds may have their problems is putting points on the board. They have scored 83 points for 16.6 per game.

Whatever, it looks as if the Five Star should have its usual down-to-the-wire finish in November.

Lions Take Advantage Of Lapse To Subdue Seminoles In 3 Games

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

The Seminole High volleyball team played a better match Wednesday night in a losing cause against Oviedo than it did Tuesday night in a winning cause against Spruce Creek. Then again, when you're going up against the powerful Oviedo Lady Lions, you have to play near-perfect volleyball.

The Lady Tribe played an inspired opening game, but a slight lapse in concentration in the second game opened the door for the Lady Lions who went on to win the match in three games, 13-15, 15-7, 15-11 Wednesday night at Seminole High.

"I was very pleased with the way we played in the first game, we were in control all the way through," Seminole coach Beth Corso said. "But, we lost our concentration a bit in the second game and we couldn't get a break in the third game."

Seminole, 8-5 overall and 5-3 in the Five Star Conference, is back in action tonight, junior varsity action begin at 4, at Lake Howell. Oviedo has rolled up an impressive 16-4 record with its only losses coming to Lake Howell, Lake Mary and 1A powerhouse

Prep Volleyball

Orlando Luther (twice).

Dee Goebelbecker and Katy Barbour served three points apiece to open the first game as Seminole built an early 6-0 lead. Mary Lokers served four straight points for the Lady Lions to trim Seminole's lead to 6-4.

Oviedo went on to take a 10-6 lead before Seminole got the serve back and the Lady Tribe reeled off five straight points behind the blistering serve of Beth Nelson to take a 11-10 lead.

The Lady Lions came back to take a 13-11 lead on Fayetta Robinson's serve, but Seminole regained the served and Janet Hauck served two straight to tie the game at 13-13. Oviedo couldn't score when it got the serve back and Kerl Lake came on to serve the final two points, the first coming on a kill by Geneve Stallworth, as Seminole won the opening game, 15-13.

Stallworth also added four spikes in the game while Hauck and Barbour had a pair of spikes apiece and Nelson added one.

"When we got the serve (in the second game), we couldn't get anything going," Corso said. "We were hitting the ball as well as in the first game, but Oviedo kept digging them up."

The third game was a see-saw affair most of the way as neither team had more than a four point advantage and the lead changed hands four times. Oviedo, leading 13-11, finally broke away and won the match on the serve of Stephanie Nelson.

"We played better tonight than we did against Spruce Creek," Corso said. "Geneve (Stallworth) frustrated Fayetta (Robinson) several times. Geneve is really coming on strong and I can't ask any more from her."

In another county matchup, Lake Brantley subdued Lyman 15-2, 6-15, 15-2. "Our serving was excellent in the second game," said Lyman coach Annelle Griffin whose team fell to 4-10. "But we missed numerous serves in the other two."

Regan Stump had seven service points in the second game while Kim Reis added six. Lyman hosts Lake Mary tonight with junior varsity action beginning at 6:15.

Jones' 95-Yard Kick Return Can't Save Tribe Against DeLand Blur

They didn't catch his name, but the Seminole junior varsity's defense saw DeLand's number 33 flash by numerous times Wednesday night. DeLand's blur ran for three touchdowns, including one of 92 yards, as the JV Bulldogs upended the Seminole JV, 22-14, at Seminole High.

The loss drops the Tribe JV to 3-2 for the season. Seminole goes up against Lake Brantley, 6-0, next Thursday at Lake Brantley in the game that will decide the Seminole County JV champion.

Seminole built a 6-0 lead without an offensive possession as Alvin Jones returned the opening kickoff 95 yards for a touchdown. It was the third time this season Jones has returned the opening kickoff for a TD.

J.V. Football

On the ensuing kickoff, the Seminole specialty team pinned the Bulldogs back on their own eight-yard line. However, on DeLand's first play from scrimmage, number 33 broke loose for a 92-yard touchdown romp. The extra point was no good and the score stood tied at 6-6.

Seminole fumbled on its first play from scrimmage of the night and DeLand recovered on the Seminole 30. Two plays later, old number 33 darted in from 15 yards out and the two point conversion was good as DeLand built a 14-6 lead.

Seminole then put together an impressive drive as it went 75 yards for a TD. Quarterback Daryl Taylor capped off the drive with a 10-yard scoring strike to Robert Hill. Taylor then hooked up with Melvin Brinson for the two point conversion to tie the score at 14-14.

The defense woke up at the start of the second half, but DeLand broke the tie late in the third quarter as number 33 rambled 10 yards for his third TD and the two-point conversion made it 22-14. DeLand's defense held Seminole in check the rest of the game to seal the victory.

"DeLand has a fine team," Seminole coach Mike Ferrell said. "Their only loss is to Lake Brantley. We played as tough as we could, but still came up short." — Chris Fister

USFL Makes Tampa Super City, 2 — Dupree Selects Southern Miss

HOUSTON (UPI) — The city of Tampa will host the 1984 championship game of the U.S. Football League six months after hosting the National Football League's Super Bowl, but a USFL official said the scheduling was coincidental.

USFL owners, in their second annual league conference, Wednesday chose Tampa, Fla., over three other cities to host the two-year-old league's title game in the 72,000-seat Tampa Stadium next July.

Tampa outbid Jacksonville, Pontiac, Mich., and New Orleans to host the game six months after the city hosts the NFL's Super Bowl.

USFL Commissioner Chet Simmons said it was coincidental that both games will be in Tampa.

"Interestingly enough, that didn't even come up" in questions by the 18 USFL team owners to representatives of the cities, he said.

The USFL begins its second season Feb. 26. The championship game will be played July 15.

The league voted to hold the 1985 championship game in the Silverdome at Pontiac, Mich., home of the NFL's Detroit Lions and site of Super Bowl XVI in January, 1982.

Despite losing $30 million to $40 million in its first season and facing the last year of a network television contract, Simmons said the cities' aggressiveness in seeking the championship game indicates a growing interest in the league.

"I relate what happened (Wednesday), back to last year when I was trying to find a city to host the championship game, and literally drumming Denver into saying it would do it. We had four people who made presentations that blew me away with their intensity and excitement," he said.

"I think that's a tremendous reflection on the position of the league and how far we've come in a very, very short time," he said.

Meanwhile, Simmons said he has briefed owners on talks on future coverage with ABC-TV.

"I am discussing with ABC the possibility of extending their coverage to give us more regional coverage, which I think is absolutely necessary for continued growth of our league. That is the one item I am bearing in mind," he said.

Asked how ABC was responding, Simmons said, "I think the network understands what I am saying, but there is a tremendous financial impact with increasing the number of telecasts."

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (UPI) — Marcus Dupree, the elusive running back who turned his back on the University of Oklahoma less than two weeks ago, enrolled Wednesday at Southern Mississippi but apparently won't be eligible to resume his football career until 1985.

Football Roundup

"I really just wanted to be close to home," the 19-year-old athlete told an impromptu news conference, "(and) just be back among friends in Mississippi and just play ball in Mississippi."

A university spokesman confirmed Dupree registered Wednesday afternoon for the current semester, currently at its midway point, and was to start classes today or Friday.

His enrollment ended the speculation about the future of the talented sophomore that had been mounting since he left Oklahoma 11 days ago, obviously discouraged and unhappy.

Over the past several days, Dupree has indicated he was considering switching to a number of different schools including Southern Mississippi, Mississippi State and Georgia. Alabama coach Ray Perkins said Wednesday he'd also talked to Dupree, but he said the onetime Philadelphia, Miss., high school star had "probably made up his mind to go to Southern Mississippi."

Dupree said Wednesday he'd thought about other schools but liked the Golden Eagles.

"I think it is the upcoming school and I want to be part of it," he said.

There also had been reports Dupree might be interested in skipping his remaining years in college and turn pro. But, he said, "I'm not really that interested in pro football right now. I want to have fun playing college football."

Under NCAA rules, Dupree apparently will not be eligible to play for the Eagles until 1985 but will have two years of eligibility remaining after sitting out the 1984 season.

USM coach Jim Carmody told reporters he would have no comment "at this time" on Dupree's enrollment.

"We are in the midst of preparing for Saturday night's home game against Tulane and I will not do anything to change our daily routine," he said.

Dupree met with Carmody last week and strongly hinted at the time he might transfer to the school.

Dupree indicated a preference for Southern Mississippi following his high school career, when he became one of the state's mostly hotly recruited prospects. But, he wound up choosing Oklahoma because he felt it would give him a better shot at the Heisman Trophy.

He said Wednesday he believes he still has a chance at the Heisman in years ahead.

guard Glenn Bujnoch Wednesday and placed defensive back Sandy LaBeaux on the injured reserve list.

Bujnoch, an eight-year veteran from Texas A&M, was a second-round draft pick of the Cincinnati Bengals in 1976. The 6-foot-6, 265-pound Bujnoch was a part-time starter for the Bengals until being released prior to this season.

LaBeaux was put on the injured reserve list with a knee injury.

MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins linebackers problems showed no signs of improvement Wednesday.

Coach Don Shula reported that defensive captain Earnie Rhone remained in the hospital in late afternoon and would not be available for the game against the Colts in Baltimore Sunday. Rhone has been out of the lineup for three weeks recovering from pneumonia.

Shula also listed linebackers A. J. Duhe as doubtful and Mark Brown questionable for the Baltimore game. Duhe suffered groin injury in last Sunday's 32-14 win over the New York Jets and Brown has a badly bruised toe for two weeks.

The Dolphins were down to three healthy linebackers after the Jets game and signed a free agent Tuesday.

Defensive end Doug Betters (toe) and tight end Bruce Hardy (bruised ribs) were listed as probable starters.

Expos, Braves Covet Released Rose; Governor Makes Pitch To Save Twins

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Pete Rose says he wasn't even in uniform when he experienced the best moment of his five-year career with the Philadelphia Phillies.

"It was riding in the parade down Broad Street (after the Phils' World Series victory in 1980)," Rose said in reflecting on a portion of his career that ended Wednesday when the Phillies announced they would not renew the option in his contract.

"Just to see the smiling faces off all the people in the streets, all saying the same thing," he said. "I'll never forget that."

Phillies president Bill Giles said the team was releasing Rose because the 42-year-old first baseman wanted to play regularly in his quest to surpass Ty Cobb's record for most hits in a career.

"Pete wants to play every game and we could not assure him he would play every game with the Phillies," said Giles, who said the decision to release Rose was a difficult one.

"I admire him more than anybody who's worn the uniform," Giles said.

Rose, who signed with the Phils as a free agent in 1978, said he did not know where he would be playing next year.

The Atlanta Braves and the Montreal Expos are among the teams said to be interested in signing Rose, but he said he has not yet heard from anyone.

"There's no question in my mind that some teams will be interested," Rose said at a hastily called Veterans Stadium news conference.

But when asked which teams he would prefer to play for, Rose responded: "I don't know, I'd like to play anywhere. I'd like to play on a good team, a team that has a chance to play in the World Series."

He said he enjoys playing first base, where he spent most of his time with the Phillies, but could play the outfield, where he played some games this season for the first time in years.

"I really like first base but I think because I'm going to lose 10 pounds this winter that I could handle the outfield if I go to spring training knowing that's where I'm going to be," he said.

Rose said there were no "hard feelings" about his departure and said he could even end up returning to Philadelphia as a part-time player if no other team makes him an acceptable

Pete Rose ...wants to play every day offer. But he said he did not believe that was likely.

Rose made it clear that last season, when he was benched for the final three weeks as the Phillies surged to the National League eastern division title, was a difficult one for him. He batted only .245 and had 121 hits for 3,990 in his career, 202 short of breaking Cobb's record of 4,191.

"I've been a regular player for so long in my career that it's hard for me to play three days a week," he said, adding he is certain he will break Cobb's record.

Rose, who said the team paid him $2 million this year plus a $300,000 "going away present," said money would not be his main objective in seeking a new job but just the opportunity to keep playing.

"We'll just go back to Cincinnati and anticipate the phone calls and make sure the phone's on the hook every 10 minutes," he said.

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Gov. Rudy Perpich had never bought a ticket to a Minnesota Twins game in his whole life but he says he's changed his mind now that he is joining a drive to keep the Twins in Minnesota.

After meeting with Twins President Calvin Griffith Wednesday, Perpich announced he will buy two season tickets to next year's home games. The tickets will cost the governor $1,296.

Over lunch, Perpich and Griffith discussed reports the Twins may to another city if the team fails to draw 2.4 million fans next year.

Disney Classic Tees Off

LAKE BUENA VISTA (UPI) — Last year's Walt Disney World Classic gave young Hal Sutton the springboard he needed to vault among the giants of professional golf.

Sutton won the 1982 Disney tournament — his first professional victory — on the fourth hole of sudden death. He opens defense of his title today in the $400,000 Disney Classic.

The four-day tournament will be played on three par-72 courses at Disney World just west of Orlando.

A field of 132 professionals, including seven members of the U.S. Ryder Cup team that narrowly defeated a British-European contingent last weekend, will tee up for the tournament.

First prize is worth $72,000.

For Sutton, the 1982 Disney tournament boosted his record first-year winnings to $237,434. He's continued the trend this year, winning twice and earning a PGA Tour-leading $425,148.

Sutton, 25, came from behind to tie Bill Britton in last year's tournament. Jay Haas, who fired a 65 for a 5-stroke lead after three rounds, just missed making it a three-way tie when a 25-foot birdie putt attempt was off the mark.

Sutton and Britton matched pars for the first three playoff holes. On the fourth extra hole, Sutton tapped in a birdie putt to take the title.

"The Disney tournament got me started last year," said Sutton. "I'm looking forward to coming back."

Ex-Ballplayer Stone Breaks Into Broadcasting With Ease Of Veteran

All during the playoffs and the World Series, Rick Dempsey kept being asked the same question over and over again. Who did Mike Boddicker remind him of? Dempsey never even had to think. "Steve Stone," he'd come right back. Boddicker throws similarly. Also, he's in the ballgame all the time, even when he isn't pitching.

The reason the Baltimore receiver never had to bother thinking before answering was because he had discussed the same subject with Stone several times before and had told him that in his opinion, Boddicker was a clone of his.

By now, everyone has a pretty good line on Mike Boddicker. They either saw or heard how the Orioles' 28-year-old right-hander with the 45-year-old body shut out the White Sox and struck out a record-equaling 14 batters in the second playoff contest and then beat the Phillies with a three-hitter in the Game 2 of the World Series. Boddicker is getting ready to resume his annual winter job operating a grain elevator back home in Norway, Iowa. But what about Steve Stone? How is he doing? He won 23 games for Baltimore in 1980 along with the Cy Young Award, but in June of 1982 while still with the Orioles, he had to retire prematurely because of chronic tendinitis of the right elbow. He tried to keep pitching, but couldn't. Too much pain.

For your information, Steve Stone is doing just fine now. I saw him during the Orioles-White Sox playoffs and can report he never has looked better in his life. Never felt better, either. The 36-year-old former Orioles' curveballer worked the playoffs as a reporter for WGN-TV in Chicago. During the regular season, he did the Cubs' games with Harry Caray. Stone also has worked Monday Night Baseball for ABC.

For some reason, maybe because of the way he looked so absorbed standing near the batting cage, eagerly taking in everything he possibly could during the playoffs, he reminded me of some kid with his nose pressed up against the window of a candy store. Fellows like Joe Garagiola, Don Drysdale, Tony Kubek, Hawk Harrelson and George Kell, to name only a few, went from the field to the broadcast booth before Stone. They no longer show any withdrawal symptoms. Stone isn't that far removed from actual competition, however. It is only 16 months since he hung up his uniform for good.

Sports Parade

By MILTON RICHMAN

Does he still miss the competition? What do you think? Does a bear sleep in the woods?

"When you look out on the field and you know this is for the championship, you forget all the pain, all the frustration and all the anguish that go into a 162-game season," Stone said, watching Eddie Murray take his cuts during batting practice one day in the playoffs. "You realize that regardless of what you're doing and how much you like the occupation you're in, you'd give it all up for one more World Series."

A lot of ballplayers run to fat quickly when they get through playing. Not Stone. He's 12 pounds under the 178 he generally weighed in at when he was pitching. During his 12 seasons in the big leagues, he was with the Giants; the White Sox twice for a total of three years; the Cubs, and the Orioles for four years.

Since he was with both the White Sox and the Orioles, he was a little torn in his allegiance during the playoffs.

"I live in Chicago and I like the people there," he said. "Still, it's only fair to say I'll always remember my four years in Baltimore as being characterized not only by spectacular baseball thrills, but by my meeting some of the nicest people I've ever been associated with in my lifetime." While he was still pitching, Stone operated a restaurant called Steven in Scottsdale, Ariz., and he has built another one in Lake Tahoe, Nev.

This is Stone's second year in television. If you listen to him, you'd think he was born in the job. He's informative, incisive and witty without being smart-alecky. I rate him right up there with people like Garagiola, Kubek, Palmer, Tim McCarver and Reggie Jackson among the jocks I most enjoy listening to do baseball on TV.

Stone is working even harder at his present job than he did on his pitching, and if you don't know how hard that was, then go ask Rick Dempsey sometime. Stone told me he feels this way about it:

"When I left baseball, I decided to become a nationally known television personality and have my career transcend the baseball booth. I want to make television my profession and only hope this new career can give me as much satisfaction as my old one."

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Whalers Send Capitals To 7th Straight Loss

United Press International
 Coming off their best season ever, the Washington Capitals are closing in on the worst start in the franchise's nine-year history. Washington was blanked 3-0 by goaltender Greg Millen and the Hartford Whalers Wednesday night, giving the Capitals an 0-7-0 record. The Capitals are one loss away from matching an 0-8-0 start in their inaugural 1974 season.

"We've got a big monkey on our back," said Capitals defenseman Rod Lawway, whose acquisition from Montreal was a big reason the Capitals made the playoffs for the first time last season. "We have a better team than this, but it's going to take time because we are so young."

"We need someone to put the puck in the net," Capitals Coach Bryan Murray said. "We had a good effort in our seven games but we just can't score."

Washington has just 15 goals in its seven games. Millen registered his sixth career shutout and second as a Whaler by stopping 22 shots to help Hartford, 3-2-1, go over the .500 mark for the first time since November 1980, a span of 233 games.

In other games, the New York Rangers topped Calgary 3-1, Detroit dumped St. Louis 4-2, Quebec crushed Toronto 8-1, Chicago blasted New Jersey 6-3, Montreal thrashed Winnipeg 12-2 and Edmonton rallied to beat Vancouver 10-7.

Auerbach May Appeal

BOSTON (UPI) — Tempers have cooled since Sunday's tight-ridden game between the Boston Celtics and the Philadelphia 76ers, and so apparently has Celtics general manager Red Auerbach's resolve to appeal his NBA-imposed fine.

"I'm debating it," Auerbach said in today's editions of the Boston Herald.

The Boston Globe reported that Auerbach had decided not to appeal.

Auerbach was fined $2,500 for leaving his seat in the stands, storming onto the court and challenging 76ers center Moses Malone to a fight.

Cruz Nips Raines In All-Star Voting

NEW YORK (UPI) — The overall balance of the National League was reflected Thursday in the announcement of the UPI 1983 All-Star team which is made up of 11 players from nine teams including two each from the Philadelphia Phillies and Houston Astros.

The league champion Phillies voted onto the team by the 38 writers who participated were third baseman Mike Schmidt and pitcher John Denny. The two Astros were shortstop Dickie Thon and outfielder Jose Cruz.

Joining them on the squad were catcher Terry Kennedy of the San Diego Padres, first baseman George Hendrick of the St. Louis Cardinals, second baseman Johnny Ray of the Pittsburgh Pirates, outfielders Dale Murphy of the Atlanta Braves and Andre Dawson of the Montreal Expos, starting pitcher Mario Soto of the Cincinnati Reds and relief pitcher Jesse Orosco of the New York Mets.

Murphy, who batted .302 with 36 homers and 121 for the Braves, was the only unanimous choice with a "possible" 38 votes. Dawson was the second most popular vote-getter with 37.

The closest vote was at first base where Hendrick received 13 votes to 10 for former teammate Keith Hernandez, now with the Mets. Hendrick batted .318 with 18 homers and 97 runs batted in while Hernandez had a .297-12-63 offensive performance. Al Oliver of the Expos received eight of the other 15 votes.

Kennedy, who out-pollled Tony Pena of the Pirates, 19 votes to 12, hit .284, slammed 17 homers and drove in 98 runs for the Padres; Ray had a .283-5-53 offensive performance for the Pirates; Dawson batted .299 with 32 homers and 113 RBI and Cruz hit .318, had 14 homers and drove in 92 runs. Montreal outfielder Tim Lincecum (.298 average, 133 runs, 90 stolen bases) was a close fourth with 13 votes for the outfield spot, two behind Cruz.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Grenada Prime Minister Killed Near Army HQ

ST. GEORGES, Grenada (UPI) — Prime Minister Maurice Bishop and five prominent supporters marching toward army headquarters were shot and killed by Grenada's armed forces and a revolutionary military council seized control of the government.

Grenada's Army Commander Gen. Hudson Austin said Bishop was freed from six-days of house arrest by 3,000 supporters who stormed his official residence earlier in the day Wednesday. Bishop was shot and killed because he was trying to pass out weapons to the crowd, Austin said.

Caribbean leaders today called the death of Bishop amid a bitter power struggle for control of the island "a squalid betrayal" of the region's aspirations.

In Barbados, the U.S. Embassy said they were "concerned" about the safety of Americans trapped on the tiny Marxist-ruled island, 90 miles north of Venezuela. The island has close ties with Moscow and has Cuban-trained armed forces.

No-Confidence Vote Fails

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's 10-day government, surviving an opposition no-confidence motion in Parliament, moved to head off possible panic trading in the country's foundering bank shares.

Finance Minister Yigal Cohen-Orgad Wednesday formulated a plan with the country's commercial banks aimed at supporting bank shares when trading in the stocks is resumed, probably Sunday, Israel Television said.

The stock exchange, reopening Thursday after an 11-day closure, was to resume trading in bonds only. It was forced to close when Israelis began dumping their bank shares to use the cash to buy a total $120 million in foreign currencies.

In the Knesset, or Parliament, Shamir's government survived a motion of no-confidence called by the Labor Party and two other opposition groups in a 61-54 vote, clearing the way for Cohen-Orgad to proceed with austerity plans.

'Cosmonauts Are Safe'

MOSCOW (UPI) — Reports that two Russian cosmonauts are stranded in space are not true and the cosmonauts' 115-day flight is continuing normally despite the launch failure of a Soyuz spaceship to return them to Earth, an official said.

Evgenii Tabakaev, an Academy of Sciences space specialist, said Wednesday reports that cosmonauts Vladimir Lyakhov and Alexander Alexandrov were stranded aboard the space station Salyut 7 were "absolutely untrue. Their transport ship Soyuz can bring them back to Earth."

The authoritative U.S. Aviation Week & Space Technology magazine said last week the replacement crew for Salyut 7, Vladimir Titov and Gennady Strekalov, escaped death when emergency rockets pulled their capsule away from the exploding rocket last month.

Reagan: U.S. Will Stay In Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Lebanese troops and Moslem Shiite militiamen fought machine gun battles across Beirut's southern suburbs today as the government sought an alternate site for a reconciliation conference among the nation's warring factions.

The government was forced to postpone the peace talks between Christian and Moslem leaders because of objections to Beirut International Airport as a venue. The decision came amid the worst clashes between rival factions in three weeks.

Beirut newspapers reported today that the opposition had suggested Geneva as a possible venue and said the matter was now under serious consideration in a bid to end eight years of factional violence.

"The reconciliation conference could open in Geneva Monday if all parties agreed," the leftist newspaper As Safr said. The talks had been scheduled to begin today.

As behind the scene contacts continued, skirmishes kept tension high in Beirut.

State-run Beirut radio said one policeman was killed by sniper fire and a Lebanese soldier was seriously wounded today in fighting between Moslem Shiite militiamen and government troops in Beirut's southern suburbs.

A car-bomb exploded Wednesday as a Marine supply convoy of three jeeps and a truck was passing the Palestinian refugee camp of Chatilla.

Marine spokesman Maj. Robert Jordan said the blast injured four Marines, one with a slight head wound and the others with lacerated ear drums from the force of the explosion.

The car-bomb attack, coming after a week in which snipers killed two Marines, marked a new stage in the harassment of the Americans.

In Washington, President Reagan told a nationally televised news conference Wednesday night the United States would "keep doing what we have been doing" in Lebanon and will not be worn down by Syrian resistance to a peace agreement.

"I know the Syrians have been foot-dragging," Reagan said. "If they're doing it with the idea of wearing me down, they're going to be disappointed."

Six Marines have been killed in Lebanon since Reagan's last news conference July 26. Members of Congress have demanded that Reagan define the mission of the 1,200 Marines who have been in Lebanon for more than a year as part of a multinational peace-keeping force.

"The mission is to enable the Lebanese government and its military to take over its own country with the withdrawal of all (foreign) forces," Reagan said.

The government's announcement that the talks would not take place today as scheduled was followed by a brief respite in the fighting in the hills overlooking Beirut and the city's southern suburbs.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Bierly Jr., 301 Tucker Drive, Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell K. Bauder, 108 Crystal View, Sanford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal gown fashioned with a high illusion neckline, bishop sleeves and a scalloped chapel-length train. She carried a bouquet of blue and white daisies.

Boyfriend Leaves When Rules Change

DEAR ABBY: I am 45 and have three children in college. My boyfriend is 50 and all his children are grown and married. We've been sleeping together for over a year, during which time we've spent more time in bed together than my ex-husband and I did in the 20 years we were married.

Dear Abby

The other night, I told my boyfriend I was beginning to feel "immoral" and I refused to go to bed with him. He left in a huff and I later learned that he returned a diamond engagement ring to the jeweler.

My problem: He has asked me to go to Canada with him on his two-week vacation. Should I go? I hate to lose this wonderful guy.

LITTLE RED IN MIDDLETOWN, USA

DEAR LITTLE RED: I can't blame your boyfriend for leaving in a huff; after sleeping with him for over a year, you suddenly change the rules. Obviously he had marriage in mind, and still has if he's asked you to accompany him on his vacation.

A mature person takes responsibility for his/her actions, so don't ask permission from me or anyone else to go to bed or go to Canada. If you want to go to Canada, but not to bed until you're married to this wonderful guy, tell him so.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a 15-year-old boy, bigger than most grown men, who still sleeps with a security blanket? The boy happens to be my nephew. I've threatened to steal the darn thing and burn it. Except for this, he is a normal, well-adjusted kid.

My sister (the boy's mother) tells me it is nothing to worry about and it will pass in time. I say it should have passed years ago.

Does Dear Abby see a problem here or not?

UNCLE JACK
DEAR UNCLE: The only problem I see is the one you are making by calling attention to it. If he is a normal, well-adjusted 15-year-old boy, skip it.

DEAR ABBY: Women who experience frequent bedtime "headaches" should know about this sure cure. My doctor-husband suggested it, and it works like a charm.

Relax and enjoy your husband's undivided attention. Lovemaking will make your headache go away. Of course, this applies only to women who really want to be cured.

NO MORE HEADACHES

DEAR NO MORE HEADACHES: That "cure" was discovered a long time ago. The theory (and it works) is that if you behave as though you are well, happy and OK, your attitude can change your physical condition, and you will be that way.

DEAR ABBY: In response to "Fat, Female and Feeling Fantastic," you wrote: "One of our most cherished rights is the right to be ourselves."

so congratulations. There's nothing wrong with being heavy as long as you're healthy."

That must have been sweet music to a lot of fat people, Abby, but the fact of the matter is, the chances for an excessively overweight person's being healthy are slim.

AN M.D. IN NEW MEXICO

DEAR ABBY: We work in an office consisting of 11 women and one man. The lone man, "Troy" (not his real name), is in his early 20s.

The problem: One of the women in the office is getting married and we want to give her a bridal shower. Should we include Troy? (It might be a lingerie shower.)

Some of us feel that Troy should not be included and some feel he should. Those of us who feel he shouldn't be included are afraid he might show — lingerie in hand. Help!

THE OFFICE GANG

DEAR GANG: If the "office gang" is giving a co-worker a bridal shower, and since Troy is a member of the "gang," he should be included. Whether he participates or not is up to him. And to those of you are "afraid" he might show up with lingerie in hand: Grow up!

Problems? Everybody has them. What are yours? Write to Abby, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY OCTOBER 21, 1983
In choosing partner or associations, it's important this year to be extremely selective.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It isn't likely that anybody will come out the winner in matters which get down to push-and-shove today.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Soft pedal your requests if you hope to gain the cooperation of associates.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Playing the good Samaritan role could work against you today.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Petty individuals could arouse your ire today.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you discover today that someone is cutting into benefits to which you alone are entitled, keep a cool head so that you'll be able to right any wrongs.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Take it in stride if you garner a lot of oohs and aahs today.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Everyone may seem to have a chip on his or her shoulder today.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll fall flat if you attempt to copy the mannerisms or methods used by someone with whom you're impressed.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be sure you're well-grounded in facts before you espouse opinions with friends today.

Here's A Tasty Way To Get Enough Bran

M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB - For six years I suffered from a spastic colon. I am now regular, I am not bloated, I feel 100 percent better and I have my weight under control.

My problem started when I was running six miles a day. My doctor told me to use bran daily and drink plenty of fluids. I took a cup of bran, mixed with cereal and milk. That amount of bran clogged me up and the cereal added too many calories to my diet.

About six months ago my doctor said to use only 1 1/2 cups of unprocessed bran. I tasted terrible so I found the solution myself. I use 1 1/2 cups of unprocessed bran, 2 1/2 cups of cold water, a bit of salt to taste, bring to boil and stir constantly over medium heat, for about one minute. Remove it and let it sit 10 minutes.

Yes, these are the same directions for cooking oatmeal. It takes longer, though, for the bran to be completely absorbed. I defy anyone to tell the difference from oatmeal. I look forward to having it daily for breakfast.

I'm 44 years old but through good nutrition and exercise I am as healthy and energetic as a woman half my age.

DEAR READER - Thank you for sharing your experience. I'm glad bran worked for you. It doesn't matter how you get your bulk as long as you do get the right amount for you. I think your suggestion for one way to use unprocessed bran is a great one. Others like it mixed with apple sauce or fruit juice.

Others also do well with bulk formers such as Metamucil. Not everyone responds the same way.

It is also important to develop good bowel habits.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I was wondering about my son. He was premature and he grew slowly with tender loving care. He's in his late 40s and the right weight for his size. But he feels tired all the time and his legs ache. He's a farmer, who works long hours while using heavy and big equipment. A doctor told him the problem was not enough oxygen to his legs. I've never heard of that before.

Would you have any solution for his problem? DEAR READER - If he works hard, long hours, he may have a good reason to be tired.

The comment about not enough oxygen to the legs, though, makes me wonder if the doctor meant he had poor circulation to his legs. That could happen with a build up of fatty-cholesterol particles in the large arteries to the legs. He should find out.

If he has poor circulation to his legs, it is important that he not smoke.

And if he does have a significant obstruction, he eventually may need an operation. Severe obstruction can often be bypassed to provide improved circulation to the lower leg. That procedure has been done now for years.

Stretching exercises help to eliminate the soreness if he is just overworking himself.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

WIN AT BRIDGE

At this stage of the proceedings South started to justify his overbid by excellent play. He played dummy's jack of clubs and let it hold by playing his 10. The eight of spades was led and finessed. The five came next and West showed out.

Now it looked as if there was a sure trump loser plus the ace of clubs, but there was a chance for a trump coup. It wasn't much of a chance, but as the song goes, "Any chance is better than no chance."

South led his queen of clubs. West took his ace and now the patron saint of overbidders came to help South.

West tried to cash his king of hearts. South ruffed to get rid of one of his extra trumps and led a diamond.

West could still break up the coup by playing his jack of diamonds, but that is the sort of play that only the greatest players make in their dreams.

The 10 of diamonds was finessed, a high club led and ruffed, a diamond to the king and the last high club. When East followed suit, South discarded his last diamond and led the last heart from dummy for his trump coup.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

South's four-spade call was an overbid, but he had 100 honors to compensate for the probable penalty and he felt sure that no one was going to double him.

Will Reagan Back Networks In TV Programming Tussle?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The "Battle of the Network Reruns" is raging, with President Reagan squarely in the middle and speculation rampant over whether he will flex his political muscle to aid his Hollywood friends.

The television networks are in a multi-million-dollar battle for ownership and control of programs. The fight stretches from Capitol Hill to the White House.

Reagan arranged to meet today with his Cabinet Council on Commerce and Trade to discuss a move by the Federal Communications Commission to ease rules that now bar the networks from sharing in lucrative profits from the production and syndication of television programming.

The FCC wants to roll back a 13-year-old rule that prohibits the networks from having financial interests in and control of the syndication of television programs.

Hollywood producers argue they would be overpowered by the networks. They also contend that

Follow Your Favorite Team This Season

Three blockbuster games highlight the prep football schedule Friday as county rivals Lyman and Seminole battle in Sanford, Daytona Beach Mainland comes to Lake Mary and Lake Brantley journeys to Apopka in a key Five Star Conference clash. Lake Howell and Oviedo are idle. Seminole, 2-3, and Lyman, 3-2, each had last week off, so they are dying to get at each other. The Greyhounds need a win to stay on Apopka's tail in the conference race. Lake Mary, meanwhile, is looking for its first victory at its new sports complex. The Rams are 2-3 while Mainland is 2-4. The most important game takes place in Apopka where the 5-0 Darlers try to cool off the 4-1 Patriots. $10 Billion Tax Bill Passed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats and Republicans joined forces in the House Ways and Means Committee to approve a $10 billion three-year tax package that generally will not affect individuals.

Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., Wednesday said the package, which falls far short of the $73 billion target set by a congressional budget resolution, is "not a blockbuster revenue bill."

"Its size is determined more by political reality than economic necessity," he said.

Rostenkowski added that the bill will have "virtually no effect on individual taxpayers."

The panel's senior Republican, Rep. Barber Conable of New York, appeared with Rostenkowski at a news conference to underscore the message of unity.

"We are fortunate to have a package that will have bipartisan support," Conable said, noting that most Republicans did not support the budget resolution that Congress approved earlier this year and do not feel obliged to meet its savings and tax targets.

"Generally speaking, this is not a revenue raiser," Conable said of the package. "What we have done is drawn the lines in such a way that they will not disrupt existing practices in any major dimensions."

The committee's bipartisan spirit may be tarnished later, however, when the Democratic-controlled panel considers an amendment to raise additional revenue.

Although President Reagan has consistently opposed any immediate tax increases, the administration does not object to the revenue package, which addresses a hodgepodge of tax rules that were due to expire this year or blatant tax shelter abuses that needed to be corrected.

It includes changes in the tax treatment of life insurance companies, rules preserving the tax-exempt status of most employee fringe benefits, and a five-year extension of mortgage subsidy bonds. It also limits the ability of tax-exempt entities like universities and city governments to sell their buildings to investors seeking tax shelters and then leasing the buildings back from the investors for nominal fees.

The House committee also agreed to about $2 billion worth of Medicare savings, exceeding the target set by Congress. But about half the savings are contained in a controversial amendment affecting doctors' reimbursement for their elderly hospital patients' bills that will be subject to a separate vote on the House floor.

The entire tax and Medicare package is expected to reach the House floor next week. The Senate Finance Committee has not begun work on its tax package.

EPA Gives Preliminary OK For At-Sea Waste Burning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Setting the stage for stormy public hearings, the Environmental Protection Agency has given preliminary approval of permits for a toxic waste disposal company to burn at sea more than 80 million gallons of wastes.

The action, over protests of environmental groups and many Gulf Coast residents, means the EPA has decided to grant long-term permits for incineration ships although it has yet to adopt broad regulations for ocean incineration of chemical-laden wastes.

Rebecca Hanmer, acting assistant EPA administrator for water, announced that the agency intends to grant three permits for incineration of wastes aboard the ships VULCANUS I and VULCANUS II, owned by Chemical Waste Management Inc. of Oakbrook, Ill.

The ships will burn a wide range of waste mixtures, including cancer-causing polychlorinated biphenyls, or PCBs, and up to 2 parts per million of dioxin, considered the most toxic chemical made.

Alan Rubin, chief of the EPA's water quality criterion section, said public hearings on the permits are scheduled for Nov. 21 in Brownsville, Texas, and Nov. 22 and Nov. 23 in Mobile, Ala.

The ocean incineration permits have been at the center of controversy since at least last February when United Press International reported that Assistant EPA Administrator Frederick Eidsness reversed his staff and ordered speedy processing of a permit for the VULCANUS while a key aide was vacationing.

Eidsness acknowledged he had met days earlier with James Sanderson, an attorney for Chemical Waste Management who previously served as a close aide to EPA Administrator Anne Burford. Following the disclosure, the EPA delayed final action on any permits until public hearings were held and proposed monitoring safeguards to ensure against abuses.

NASA Anniversary Turns Into A Political Event

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan turned the 25th anniversary of the space agency into a political forum with suggestions Democratic candidate Walter Mondale opposed the space shuttle more than 10 years ago.

Reagan told a group of National Aeronautics and Space Agency employees Wednesday that the space agency "has done so much to galvanize our spirit as a people, to reassure us of our greatness and of our potential."

In a bid to capitalize on a recent surge of interest in the space program, Reagan took a swipe at initial opponents of the shuttle program, one of which was Mondale.

"The shortsighted were unable to understand," Reagan told the gathering. "In fact, some individuals who would lead America today led the fight against the space shuttle system a decade ago."

Administration officials said Reagan was referring to an unsuccessful move led by Mondale, then a Democratic senator from Minnesota, to delete $227.9 million in funding for the shuttle project. Mondale's proposal was defeated 61-21 in May 1972.

At the time, Mondale argued the program would soar beyond its projected costs. He advocated a less ambitious space program relying on unmanned satellites and some manned flights.

Carter Briefing Book Case Coming To A Close

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI is nearing an end to its investigation into how Carter White House materials reached Ronald Reagan's 1980 campaign, but Rep. Donald Albosta says new leads have delayed his House panel's hearings into the controversy.

Federal law enforcement sources said Wednesday the FBI hopes to complete its investigation in the next few weeks and that its findings are unlikely to support criminal prosecutions of any ranking administration officials.

The sources also said it appears doubtful that the bureau will seek to administer polygraph tests to top administration officials, such as CIA Director William Casey and White House chief of staff James Baker, to resolve discrepancies as to who first received President Carter's debate briefing book.

Baker has said publicly he recalled Casey gave him the Carter debate book, but Casey denied doing so.

Albosta, D-Mich., had originally told reporters he hoped his Post Office and Civil Service subcommittee's parallel investigation would progress to the point where he could convene two days of public hearings by the end of October.

Since he made that statement a month ago, it was disclosed that a Republican congressional official alleged that Paul Corbin, a political consultant with Democratic ties, told him last spring he passed Carter's 1980 debate briefing papers to the Reagan campaign. Timothy Wyngaard, executive director of the House Republican Policy Committee, made the allegation in an FBI interview, sources said.

Casey, responding to the allegation, told The Washington Post recently that he is a friend of Corbin's, and that he had authorized the Reagan-Bush Committee to pay Corbin $2,860 for expenses for routine campaign work in the fall of 1980. But he denied receiving Carter material from Corbin or anyone else.

In a three-paragraph statement Wednesday, Albosta made no mention of the Corbin matter or any other specifics of the panel's investigation.

But he said, "New leads have been discovered in the last few weeks that require more investigative work. These leads, which could play a significant role in resolving some of the pending issues, will further require the staff to conduct more interviews prior to the start of public hearings."

Albosta said he still hopes to begin hearings on the campaign controversy before Nov. 18, the target date for Congress to adjourn for the year.

The FBI probably will turn results of its investigation over to the Justice Department by late October or early November for a decision on whether further action is necessary, law enforcement sources said.

Discovery Could Lead To Toxic Shock Vaccine

NEW YORK (UPI) — Scientists using gene-splicing technology have developed a blood test to determine susceptibility to toxic shock syndrome by isolating and cloning the gene believed responsible for the sometimes-fatal condition, a researcher reported. Dr. Richard Novick, director of the Public Health Research Institute, said Wednesday the finding could lead to a vaccine against toxic shock syndrome.

"This work gives us a handle on understanding the nature of this gene and may very well lead to a method of treating and preventing the disease," he said.

Last year, health authorities reported 338 cases of toxic shock, eight of them fatal. The disease, which afflicts both men and women, causes nausea, vomiting, diarrhea and shock.

Novick's finding was published in this week's edition of Nature, a British journal.

In their study, Novick and his colleagues first isolated the gene that regulates the bacterial production of the toxin that causes toxic shock, allowing them to produce a purified toxin using genetic engineering technology.

The purified toxin makes possible a blood test for susceptibility.

"One takes a sample of blood, and adds the purified toxin," he said. "If antibodies are present, there is a precipitate and it settles to the bottom. If no antibodies are present, there is no precipitate and that person is susceptible."

Antibodies indicate a person is capable of fighting off the disease.

The still-experimental test has been successfully tried on 1,000 people in Minnesota and Wisconsin, Novick said.

"I would say in six months we will have a sufficient quantity of toxin to test about 10,000 people in a controlled study," he said, depending on requirements by the Food and Drug Administration.

One in every 1,000 people is susceptible to the disease and authorities said about one in 100,000 has had the disease. Bacteria associated with the disease, staphylococcus aureus, are commonly found in men and women.

Hitler's Spymaster Supplied Secrets To British Intelligence, Book Says

LONDON (UPI) — Adolf Hitler's chief spy-master supplied British intelligence with top-secret information during World War II including Germany's plan to invade Russia, says a new book by intelligence specialist Nigel West.

In excerpts, West said information passed on by German Adm. Wilhelm Canaris helped British intelligence in the planning of such World War II battles as the landings in Sicily, the Anzio beachhead in Italy and the decisive D-Day invasion of Normandy.

In his book, M16, British Secret Intelligence Operations 1909-45, West said Canaris, head of Nazi Germany's military intelligence, supplied top-secret information through a Polish woman, Halina Szymanska, in hopes of bringing about the fall of Hitler.

Canaris' contacts with Britain have been hinted at since 1944 when he was disgraced and strangled with a piano wire for his part in the bomb plot against Hitler, but M16 — Britain's counter-intelligence service — and Mrs. Szymanska kept their silence for the past 40 years.

West said senior intelligence men had privately confirmed the Canaris connection and Mrs. Szymanska, now 79 and living in a small North Carolina town, concurred with West's story in an interview recently with the London Mail.

"I did not want to be a Polish Mata Hari. I did what I did because it seemed right," said Mrs. Szymanska, who risked death by traveling in and out of occupied Europe during World War II to meet Canaris. The cover for her travels was to visit the then little-known designer, Pierre Balmain.

Most of Canaris' information was political, but West said in the autumn of 1940 he told her of Hitler's plans to invade Russia the following year, the famed Barbarossa plan.

Unfortunately, M16 did not believe the information.

West's book, to be published Oct. 27, is his fifth on the intelligence services since 1980. His information is often so precise many people believe he is simply the unofficial historian of the secret services.

One revelation in West's new book is that

Sir Alexander Korda, the legendary father-figure of the British film industry, worked closely throughout his career for M16, allowing his film company to be used as a cover for British spies traveling abroad.

The Hungarian-born Korda, who made the classic spy film The Third Man, received his knighthood partly in recognition of his discreet commitment to M16, West said. Korda, who died in 1956, never spoke of his links.

The Korda revelation comes at an awkward moment for M16 because it highlights the way British intelligence uses companies as cover.

Last week, reports emerged that M16 had bungled an attempt to recruit a couple to spy for the British in Northern Ireland. The couple had won a week's holiday to Spain, where they were propositioned by M16 officers with large sums of money to spy.

The London-based company from which they won the trip, Casuro, turned out to be bogus, but was traced back to an M16 address.

Personal Income, Spending Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's personal income rose a healthy 0.9 percent while spending shot up 1.5 percent in September, the most growth for both categories in five months.

Wednesday's Commerce Department report confirmed that September experienced a strong rebound from the late summer economic doldrums many analysts feared was the beginning of a slowdown in the economic recovery.

Personal income climbed, at an annual rate, by $25.2 billion in September to what would be a seasonally adjusted $2.781 trillion if repeated for 12 months.

In August personal income was up only 0.3 percent and spending, the main pillar of the recovery, dropped by 0.2 percent, according to revised figures in the latest report.

The nation's disposable income, after income tax withholding, was up a full 1 percent in September after a 0.2 percent increase in August.

The savings rate slipped to 4.5 percent of disposable income in September, under the average for July, August and September that the department said was 4.7 percent.

Savings averaged 5.8 percent of spendable income last year, according to the Commerce Department figures. Some analysts have said savings are actually much higher, as reflected in Federal Reserve Board measurements.

Personal spending is a somewhat broader measure than retail sales that the government said earlier this month climbed 1.6 percent in September.

The number suggested spending on services was nearly as strong as the spending on goods during the month, particularly important since consumer enthusiasm is the main ingredient powering the recovery.

The difference between August and September's income and spending figures would have been less dramatic were it not for special circumstances, the department said.

Without three factors, the telephone industry strike in August and its settlement, special payments to postal workers and August's hurricane damage cutting rental income, personal income would have been up 0.8 percent in September.
