JANUARY

Jonathan Griffin is the first baby born in 1997 at Columbia Medical Center in Sanford.

Mayor Larry Dale and Commissioners Brady Lessard and Velma Williams are sworn into office in Sanford.

Donald B. Wall, believed to be in his 60s dies following a crash at Orlando Sanford Airport of an experimental aircraft.

Joyce Suber, former land acquisition coordinator for Seminole County who was fired in August 1996 amid accusations of improprieties within her department, considers suing the county to get her job back.

Seminole County Public Works Director Larry Sellers resigns during the Suber investigation saying it was time for new blood to come into the department.

A seaplane flips over in Lake Monroe as the two people on board escape injuries.

For the third time, Stooges Lounge is denied a liquor license because of its proximity to a church.

The county begins a search for a manager as Ron Rabun resigns the $95,000 a year post. Public Safety Director Gary Kaiser is appointed as acting manager.

Roger Menefee of the public works department in Sanford is named employee of the year.

Dennis Whitmire is appointed deputy chief of the Sanford Police Department.

E. Ann McGee, president of Seminole Community College, announces the reorganization of the college and four new vice president positions.

Mayor Larry Dale requests a full time administrative assistant and a new furnished office in City Hall.

J.Q. "Slim" Galloway, a long-time law enforcement officer, is dead at 85.

Herman Shroeder, a civic activist and community volunteer, is dead at 81.

Renee Keith, the wife of a Sanford police officer is charged with credit card fraud for misuse of her mother-in-law's credit cards.

The Outreach Rescue Mission, the first mission to open in Sanford under the auspices of Mother Blanche Belle Weaver, opens its Women's Shelter.

A Sanford resident decorates the outside of his home with various flags including the Nazi symbol bringing forth the ire of residents and neighbors.

FEBRUARY

Sanford is one of five sites considered for a $50 million space flight experience center as Casey Aerospace Corporation eyes the Orlando Sanford Airport.

A car plunges 75 feet off Interstate 4 into the St. Johns River. Driver Richard R. Dawkins Sr. receives only slight injuries.

Hamilton Elementary School principal Mamie Bingham is transferred to the Educational Support Center amid controversy and allegations that the move was racially motivated. Critics had blamed Bingham for low morale among staffers and poor performance.

Joyce Suber continues her fight to get her job back after being fired by the county for allegedly accepting gifts and working on her son's political campaign in Gulf County while on the clock.

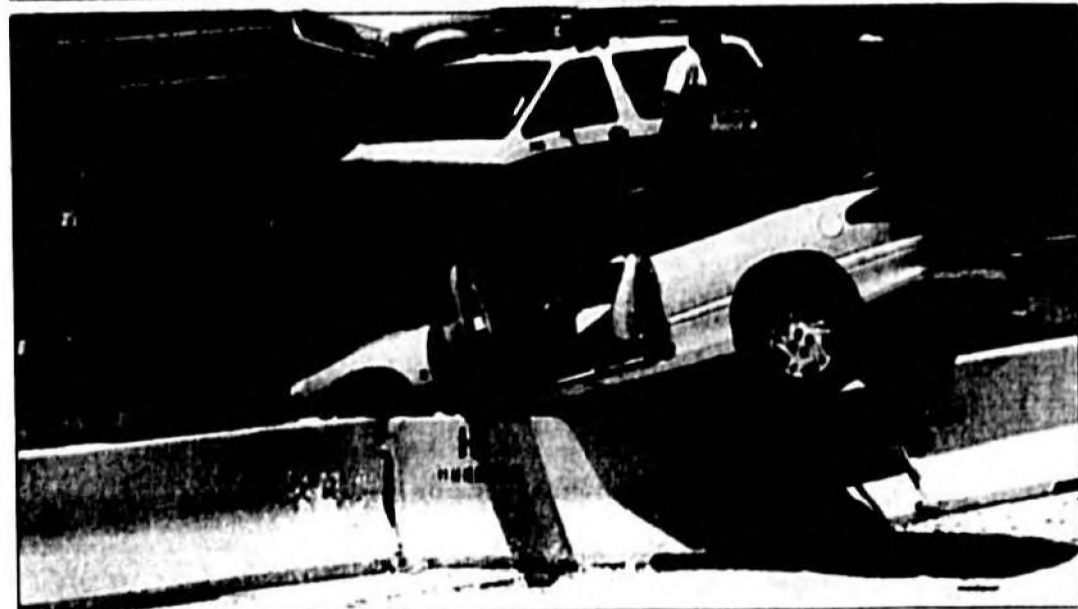

The Seminole County School Board turns down a proposal from Florida Charter Schools Inc. to operate a night school for at risk students out of Winter Springs High School.

The county debates whether to keep ambulance services or contract out to a private service.

Top left and above: Seminole County commissioners spent a big portion of 1997 trying to comply with a federal mandate that adult entertainment is protected speech under the US Constitution. Dancers at Michael Piner's Club Juana in Fern Park perform for customers while a coalition of citizens sporting No Porno T-shirts attends a recent public hearing on selected sites in Sanford that could be approved for the expansion of the industry. Commissioners reconvene to decide on the Sanford locations in mid-January. Below: Seminole County after heated debate awarded the contract for Emergency Medical Service to firefighters and trained technicians, yanking the service from the private sector. County firefighters John Jones, Brian Colley and Chris Miller visit the Hoses at their south Seminole home. Mr. Hose's life was saved by quick-thinking professional county paramedics.

Center left: Jessica, Tamra and Tania Rich maintain a vigil for their missionary dad and husband, Mark, kidnapped in January, 1993 in Pucuro, Panama, as family members watched. Also kidnapped were Rick Tenenoff and Dave Mankins, whose wife Nancy joined the vigil at the New Tribes Mission in Sanford. Bottom left: Road construction between Longwood and Lake Mary, traveled by some motorists exceeding the lower speed limit, led to many wrecks and four fatalities in the fall of 1997. Bottom right: The Orlando Sanford Airport dedicated its new Federal Aviation Authority control tower recently. The airport continues to be a major destination for European tourists.

Eaton named top jurist

By MARIA OREM
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - A Sanford judge received top honors at the Seminole County Bar Association's annual holiday luncheon last week.

Judge O.H. Eaton Jr., serving the 18th Judicial Circuit, Brevard and Seminole counties, earned the Williams Johnson Judicial Award for his contributions to the community above and beyond the call of duty, said Debbie Bullington, spokeswoman for the association.

The award, Bullington said, represents recognition of the top jurist. It is rotated each year from a judge in Brevard to one in Seminole County.

Judge Eaton

Bullington, who has known Eaton for many years, said he was deserving of the award because he is an extremely giving and dedicated person.

SANFORD - The man's name is Winfield but since his boyhood he has preferred to be called, Win. Four years ago he won a seat on the Seminole County Commission. In 1998, he's running for re-election.

Some observers say 55-year-old Win Adams is on the spot.

"He's been on the spot for sometime, and the spot keeps moving," scoffs Carlton Henley, a former county commissioner appointee who is challenging Adams in the coming Republican primary election.

prison with a minimum of 15 years before probation. Mayes had been convicted earlier in the beating of his girlfriend, Lee Reitzel, 21, as she lay unconscious in the back seat of a car.

Three teenage boys are arrested on gang related charges in the beating of a 12-year-old boy who refused to join a gang.

The Welaka Building, one of the oldest structures in downtown Sanford, reopens following extensive renovations by a European investment group.

Greenwood Lake Middle School teacher and assistant principal Julius Francis is arrested for stalking his former girlfriend. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People supports Francis, who is black. The girlfriend is white.

Lakeview Middle School guidance counselor Teresita Leson is named counselor of the year.

Officer Sharon Sheaffer obtains a copy of a report regarding Renee Keith, the wife of a police officer, who was involved in credit card fraud.

Rick Sheaffer, who is married to the policewoman, forwards the report to the Florida Department of Law Enforcement while Ofc. Sheaffer is scrutinized for possibly violating SPD policy.

MARCH

The Sanford Christian Sharing Center celebrates 20 years serving the community.

Lt. James Brantly, a law enforcement officer in the county for 34 years, is dead at 68. Sanford Police Officer Sharon Sheaffer is told that she could lose her job for forwarding a report to the Florida Department of Law Enforcement regarding credit card fraud by another officer's wife.

Gary Kaiser becomes the county's new manager.

The Seminole County School Board approves the hiring of 40 new teachers in an effort to ease overcrowding.

The Sheriff's Office cracks down on a traveling ring of gypsies suspected of committing a rash of burglaries.

The Small Business Development Center moves its satellite office to the recently opened Business Incubation Center at the Port of Sanford. The goal is to encourage small businesses to locate their operations to the center.

An audit of the Sanford

Housing Authority originally indicating an $80,000 shortfall, was later revised to show there was no shortage.

The Sheriff's Office cracks down on body scrub parlors.

The school board approves two charter schools, Summit and Rays of Hope.

Police officer Joe Dillard is appointed chief of the Sanford Police Department.

APRIL

Heno Air begins service from Orlando Sanford Airport with regularly scheduled flights to Gulfport/Biloxi, Miss.

The county continues its debate on whether to keep or privatize emergency rescue services.

SANFORD — Billed as the ultimate thrift store, "We've Got It" is the latest business to open in the old Kmart Plaza off U.S. Highway 17-92.

Since locating to the center in early November, owners Anne and Bruce Keith offer customers everything from vintage jewelry to antiques to clothing.

With very little advertising, Bruce Keith said her use of flyers and word-of-mouth information was more than enough to bring in a large number of customers.

"Business over Christmas was phenomenal; it was unreal," Keith said. "People are shopping in thrift stores. The most popular items are jewelry and clothing."

In fact, Keith said sales have been so encouraging over the holiday season that she plans to expand the operation.

Keith collects vintage watches, antiques, shoes, every thing. "We've got it all," she said.

Keith, who owned a resale shop many years ago, said it was her husband, Aaron Keith, a commander with the Sanford Police Department, who encouraged her to open the store.

"I was sitting at home stagnant for the past three years because I had been sick," she said. "When I got better I just wanted to be around people and do something."

Over the years, Keith said she accumulated a large collection of items from Minnesota. Keith has lived in Sanford since 1980, decreasing her 2,700 square-foot home with antiques and collectibles.

Everything just seemed to fall into place for Keith when she found a vacancy at 1707 S. U.S. Highway 17-92.

"We were really blessed," Keith said. "After I got the space, Kmart was going out of business and they let me have all the shelving and display cases from free. They even carried it to my store. They gave me about $8,000 worth of material for free."

Keith said she bought out two thrift stores and used her savings to open and stock her store.

She sees other thrift shops not as competition but rather as a network opportunity and somewhere that she can shop for unique items. A warehouse, two doors down is loaded with merchandise, she said.

Open every day except Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Keith said she is in the shop almost all the time. Helping Keith are husband Aaron and her assistant Annie Sutton. Especially important to Keith is to develop a rapport with her customers.

"As a merchant, you are nice to customers, giving of your self," she said. "I need to be there. People know me. I personalize service and I like to give customers a little gift when they shop here."

Keith said she shops from all over the state to get the best prices to pass on to her customers. Stock changes every day and seasonal items are available. The next theme is Valentines Day, she said.

Keith said her prices are generally about 40 percent lower than at antique stores.

"I have some antique brooches for about $150 that would probably sell for close to $350 somewhere else," she said.

Keith said she is very pleased with the shops location and has noticed more people going back and forth in the parking lot. She also likes the fact that neighboring businesses work together to help each other.

"That's the main reason this is working," she said. "I'm not in this for the money. I'm trying to serve the people. This is fun for me."

Just one door down from Keith is Angelina's Italian Restaurant, owned by Denise and Joe Mangiapane. The couple bought the eatery from Denise's parents, Felicia and Jimmy Tringali two years ago.

The transition was smooth, Mangiapane said, and business

The way we were: SHS football

GRACE M. STINE-CIPHER

This is additional information about Sanford High School football as found in early Sid Maguidis. While looking through some of these old Sidmaguidis, I found that Sanford's football team had a dismal record until 1922. In 1918 there was no football team as several of the boys were off serving in World War I. In 1920 it was decided to disperse with football and concentrate on baseball.

There is a picture of the 1921 team, but underneath is written "SHS's football prospects were seriously handicapped this year because we didn't have enough boys of Joe Corley's circumference, but she was there in spirit and attacked the mighty Gainesville team as zealously as she would have attacked Oyedo."

In 1922, SHS had a "sour-muff" football team and played a full schedule. S.A.B. Wilkins was the coach. I remember writing about him in a previous column. He was a graduate of the University of Florida and a highly touted athlete while there. RE Cooper, agriculture instructor, was athletic director.

SHS beat Ocala, Deland, Kissimmee, Orlando, (1930) Daytona (1930), West Palm Beach and Ft. Meade. The only team to beat Sanford was Miami (1931). SHS was the Central Florida District Champions that year.

Members of that team were Leonard McLucas, B. Boye, Claire Swinney, Lee Beck, E. Moyer, Pope, Victor McLaughlin, Cecil Flowers, Gale McAlexander, Merton Aycock, James Jones, H.C. DeBose, Douglas King, Clarence Fields, Sam Hoehner, Alton Gander, Matt Moyer and George Cowan.

My mother, Marie Stemper, graduated with the SHS Class of 1923 so I assume that she was in the cheering section for some of these exciting football games.

SNAS personnel at work and in training

The November 3, 1944 edition of the SNAS Sandy had so much information in it about the Sanford Naval Air Station that it all did not get printed. There were lots of pictures in that edition of various personnel at work and I'll give you some information about them today. Misses Oleda Dyson and Helen McGill of the yard office are pictured giving the low down to Max Clayman AM 2/c and Ensign E.F. Watt.

The communications department handled telegrams plus official and confidential messages. Personnel pictured are I.M. Olyburne 3 2/c, Patty Hodge, Hattie Williams, Frances Roberts, Marguerite Duncan, S.J. Flayck 5 2/c, Mary Margaret Weiskittel.

IC Whitmore, present Sanford resident, is pictured in the aviation training office with Miss E.M. Lundquist and J.E. Lewis, Yeoman striker. He is also seen in the log room where records of pilot's flights were kept. Others with him there are Grace Reilly 5 2/c, M.C. Foster 5 2/c and Martin Bennett S 2/c.

It caught all three of Mr. Whitmore's children, Dennis, Bonnie and Debbie, in the 1960s and can see a striking resemblance between the boys at that age and their dad as in this picture.

The Sanford Shore Patrol was shown as it mustered at the city police station before going on duty. Lt. Glenn Foulds was the Senior Patrol Officer.

Cautious smiles were shown of personnel "showing down" in the mess hall. It served meals in two-hour stretches three times a day. 3000 meals were served daily.

There were two barber shops on the base, one for enlisted men and the other for officers. Barbers were J.M. Trawick and W.L. Bonds.

The Ground School instructed pilots in various subjects pertaining to navigation, gunnery, engineering, communications, etc. Every student divided his day between flying and classroom instruction.

Weide and Grant Maloy against.

In recent months, Adams consistently has voted along with Morris and McLain. There have been a handful of 3-2 votes enough for some to sense Adams has chosen to be part of a team that will assure his re-election.

"This is no love-in," Ken Wright said Friday. "It's a case of the commissioners being good stewards for the citizens. Overall, it's an effective commission. They've made tough decisions and they have some tough ones ahead. There are things they haven't done that need to be done. The new courthouse is one. The adult entertainment call is another."

In January, the commission will decide whether it will "grandfather" the existing adult entertainment businesses instead of forcing them to relocate by late 1999.

Residents of Fern Park/Cassiberry want the sex clubs out of their area. At the same time, residents in Sanford don't want their area to be the possible porno war zone of the county.

Indications are that Adams, Morris and McLain will vote for grandfathering. This may lose south county votes for Adams and for Morris, who also is expected to run for re-election in 1998. At the same time, it would win votes in the northern districts.

"However he votes," Wright said, "Win Adams will have studied and tried to understand the issue thoroughly. He's been on the spot a lot. And it seems to me he's consistently made the right choices."

Adams

District 4 seat promises to heat up, perhaps become nasty well before summer time. Party leaders already are drawing up battle lines.

Henley, then a Democrat, served 13 months when picked by Gov. Lawton Chiles to fill a term by the late Bob Sturm. Switching to the Republican party to seek re-election as a county commissioner, Henley lost badly, but is ready for a go against Adams.

"First and foremost, it's an opportunity for us to be judged on our records," Adams said. "And, I'll measure my record against his anytime."

This is Win Adams, proclaiming to be "as tenacious as a pit bull" — a descendant of John Adams — and an authority in the field of cost accounting and industrial engineering. In his estimation, just the fellow to give the citizens of the county the best bang for their bucks.

The Adams' resume includes 20 years financial/industrial engineering experience for companies like RCA, Rockwell Int'l., Martin Marietta, and Occidental Chemical Corporation. He has a B.S. in Business Administration from Florida State University.

"Win's a bean counter," says attorney Ken Wright, who is managing the Re-elect Win Adams campaign. "He wants to know what everything costs. That's his background."

And this, Wright reasons, is why Adams probably annoyed a number of people last summer during the emergency medical service hullabaloo. Until all the figures were in, Adams refused to cast his deciding vote for the county firefighters or for a private vendor.

"In this case it wasn't a question of saving money," Wright said. "It was giving the public what it wanted — and the public wanted a firefighter to answer all calls. When Win realized this, he voted for the firefighters. And it was the right call."

When Adams ran for office four years ago, Ken Wright was not in his corner. At the time he preferred Andrea Dennison. "I was critical then of Adams," Wright said. "Today, I realize that Win Adams has been a good commissioner. He's genuinely concerned about what he's doing."

"What I know today that I may not have when I came on the county commission is the context of position," Adams said. "I know a wide variety of the people and the people know me. I know whom to call for advice or for observations. I consider myself a team player."

Those who back Adams say one of his strengths has been a diligent effort to get out and see things first hand, go to home owners' association meetings, listen to the people.

"This has been a full time job," Adams said of his $50,000-a-year commissioner's position. "If you want to do it right, you can't do it on a part-time basis. Not the way I want to do it."

Ernest Hatton, II, a civic activist and political pundit who lives in District 4, enthusiastically supports Adams in his bid for re-election. "He's a guy who does get together with his constituency and tries to solve problems," Hatton said. "Call him, and he'll come."

The Cedar Ridge Community in unincorporated Seminole County was so pleased at the efforts made by Adams when he first came into office that they sent him a plaque that hangs on his office wall.

"We had a terrible time for nine years getting anyone to help," Hatton said. "Larry Furlong to former commissioner now on the School Board called us whiners and refused to listen. Win Adams investigated and took the problem seriously. He did his job. He was a savior. I see no reason why he should be replaced. None at all."

Stan Bessmer, a resident of English Estates, says he would like to see a third candidate in the District 4 race. That candidate would be former Altamonte Springs fire chief Tom Siegrind. "From what most of the people I know are saying, their two choices now are not to vote or to vote for Win Adams. I'd like new blood in the race. I'd like Tom Siegrind."

Bessmer was one of those who was put off when Adams doggedly insisted more information be gathered before he would make the deciding call in the EMS decision.

"I wasn't concerned with votes or popularity," Adams said last week. "I was concerned with what was right for the citizens of the county. I needed to know if there was any difference in quality and I wanted to know how the First Response system would be affected. And what were the real costs?"

By selecting the county firefighters, Adams said he is convinced not only that it was the right decision but that he was right in taking the time to cast his vote. "There was a lot of lobbying going on and people were emotional," he said. "When all the facts were there, the choice wasn't at all difficult."

Commission Chairman Randy Morris accused Adams of "flip-flopping." Last summer when Adams required so much time to make the call, but is pleased when the call came it was "the right one."

Adams said that he considers his recommendation to the commission to elevate Gary Kaiser to county manager last spring is "the best decision" he made since becoming a county commissioner.

"This was the guy," Adams said. "I saw what he was doing as acting manager and I was convinced we had a real gem here. There was no need to conduct a national search. We had a leader right here."

There was a 3-2 vote for Kaiser, Adams voting with Morris and District 5 Commissioner Daryl McLain. Dick Van Der serving on advisory boards, Eaton also teaches a peoples' law class at Seminole Community College and volunteers his time to the community. His input has helped shape change in the state's criminal judicial system.

Bullington said Eaton served as a role model to her own daughter, who is a freshman in college majoring in pre-law.

Eaton, who currently oversees civil trials, earned statewide recognition when serving as criminal court judge. Eaton ruled accused murderer and rapist Joe Spaziano, a former motorcycle gang member, should get a new murder trial after the star witness at Spaziano's 1970s trial recanted his testimony at a hearing before Eaton in 1996. The ruling was upheld 7-0 by the state Supreme Court. Spaziano is tentatively set for retrial later in 1998.

Our wishes for the new year

We share our vision of Seminole County in 1998, after an interesting year of covering the news. Some of our suggestions could be resolutions; some are far-fetched, but, hey, we can dream, can't we?

- Imagine this:
- A peace agreement by School Board Odd Couple, Larry Furlong and Bob Goff.
- A little less controversy and more cooperation for Sanford Mayor Larry Dale.
- A solution to the county's adult entertainment quandary.
- A sandy beach area on lake Monroe.
- A new county courthouse.
- A high-rise hotel and a conference center in Sanford.
- Unity at the Sanford Police Department, and a spruced up station.
- A makeover for U.S. Highway 17-92.
- A reduction in crime.
- Prosperity and happiness for our readers.
- Interlocal agreements by the county and its cities.
- A light rail system.
- A suitable name for the Orlando Sanford Airport.
- Kinder weather.
- The new I-4 interchange off Route 48-A.
- Teamwork by the city and county commissioners.
- Safety for our firefighters and EMTs.
- Good results for our business community.
- Economic development.
- Even greater preservation efforts in Sanford's historic district.
- More glitz for the Ritz.
- More help for Mother Weaver, who gives hope to the poor and homeless.
- More patience on highways, and use of turn signals.
- Random acts of kindness.
- More time and praise for our children.
- More love and respect for our spouses.
- More prayer, less despair.
- More tolerance.
- Fewer midges.
- Calm.

On Sanford's mayor

It has been said by some that Mayor Larry Dale is a leader. I always thought leadership was the ability to bring together a number of people and help them work toward solving a problem. Not to sow the seeds of division, mistrust and chaos. Not to show the group a closed mind and an overblown ego and not to expose a bifurcated personality whose developer-business side emanates the civil-political side. The mayor is ostensibly using his office as a cudgel to beat down his opposition and to enforce his personal views and his own agendas.

At one time I thought some of the Sanford city commissioners were capable of resisting the mayor's suffocating style of control, but I was wrong. It looks like they have allowed him to use them as he so chooses and manipulate Sanford and its employees in a manner much like that of a minor king. These four commissioners have the power to stop this man before he dismantles the city. However, their past performances lead me to believe they have no stomach for it.

Larry Dale seems like a novice and arrogant driver of an 18 wheel truck whose windshield is clouded and the throttle is stuck wide open. If you are in his way you are sure to be run over. How do you stop a runaway truck? Hope it runs out of gas; goes off the road and up a tree; has a tire blow out. But how much damage has been done before it is stopped? And whose fault is it? The inexperienced driver who failed to clean his windshield to improve his vision; who failed to check his throttle and follow procedures for controlling his truck? Or the people who still allow him to sit in the driver's seat?

I am convinced the election of Larry Dale was a mistake in judgment. For the short time he has been in office he seems determined to divide the City of Sanford and as mayor he has ruled with an iron fist to accomplish his goals. Even if these goals were in the best interest of the City (and citizens), his actions would still be regrettable. No respected city leader would attempt to devastate the Police Dept., the Fire Dept., the Sanitation Dept. and cause such overwhelming distrust and animosity among his constituents. If a recall movement is afoot, there are many in Sanford who would work to put up a barricade to stop this runaway truck before it destroys a fine historic city.

Keep airport name

Please don't love Sanford to death. If we let our sentimental feelings for our hometown interfere with our business sense, we will hurt Sanford. Why let OIA stir our emotions to the point we make a bad business decision?

Let's continue to use the name Orlando Sanford Airport as a proven marketing tool. It has served us well so far. To change the name now would cause financial harm that might well kill our up and running airport. Then, of course, we would have no problem with the name--there would be no airport for Sanford at all.

Think of this business decision as "tough love." Love Sanford, but use our business sense in our financial enterprises.

Toward good government in new year

First, let me wish all of you a Happy New Year. I have enjoyed sharing my thoughts with you this past year. I am the first to admit that these are just my opinions but are based on knowledge regarding the various issues I have presented.

This new year I will do my very best to give you my opinion and to try and pass on constructive messages to our local and state governments. I believe that the county commission served us well this past year despite the apparent differences in the makeup of the commission. We must realize that this is not an easy job and there will always be those who are disappointed with decisions made by the commission. I would hope that the people of this county realize that it is very dangerous to let ourselves become one-issue voters or commissioners. Our role as taxpayers, and voters, is to look carefully at the entire record of those who are now county commissioners and not focus on one issue thus not doing just cause to those now in office. If you put yourselves in their position on any of these very difficult issues that have come before the board in the past year, it is easy to understand just how hard it has been for the present commission. Many times we, the public, simply are not as well informed as we should be on some of these issues. We miss important points, that usually are the basis for the final decision of board members, points that are not well reported or the importance of which is not well known. An example would be the points of law being lost in the debate over the nude bars. Many have the opinion that the county commission can do whatever it wishes on these issues but that isn't true. There have been court rulings that prohibit and limit what the commission can do and just how far it can go. This matter really needs to go before the state and federal government where there may be a possible change created by legislation or more importantly by the courts.

When we talk about cutting taxes, we must also factor in the cost of lawsuits that cannot be won. What I mean is that to be fiscally responsible we not only need to control taxes but also other expenditures such as these expensive, frivolous suits. If the commission cuts our taxes and then wastes those savings in the courts, what have we gained?

And more importantly, is the commissioner really being prudent? These are some of the questions you must ask yourselves before

Think about this,
Seminole County

ERNEST NATTON II

Ernest Natton II is a veteran member of numerous government boards and is a civic activist in the interest of good government.

blindly supporting anyone who cannot justify his or her position on these issues. Are they just talking, or do they really have a solution? In most cases, you will find that it is mostly talk and there are many factors that will enter into the equation that will prevent an easy solution...if any.

Despite all that is said, we, as a nation, have been served well because we have those in government and those who are not who bring all of these issues to light and there are great debaters...and that is good.

In our county, issues have been raised and are argued for months only to go before the commission for endless hours of further debate. Everyone who wishes is given a chance to present his or her views. Where else can you find this kind of opportunity? I have been disappointed at times but we must expect that. More importantly, we must accept the decision and not judge those who were on the opposite side by this one issue. We must never fall into the trap that many set for us by allowing ourselves to only focus on one issue. We must never allow ourselves to judge others by personal information given out by the opposition. If an attack is made on one candidate by another, we must insist that all relevant facts presented are truthful and that the person being attacked is given a fair opportunity to respond.

My resolution for the new year is to present to you my opinion, and I will state now, as I have before, that I may change my mind if additional information is provided that causes me to change that opinion. I hope that these columns are informative but more importantly will cause you to form your own opinions and that we can respect each other for our honest conclusions based on our knowledge of the is...sues.

I will end by saying that I was disappointed that Rep. Bob Starke was not chosen to run with Jeb Bush. Each day that passes appears to indicate that my suggestion may have been a very good one. I would like to thank our county commission for the hard work on our behalf. I would also like to thank our county manager and the staff for the great strides made in bringing the communities and staff closer together and thus creating a feeling that we are all working together to make our county one the best.

I would like to end by saying we still have more to do but we certainly are on the right path. I hope that we will make this a priority by staff who are in fact the ambassadors for our county. They are the ones who can make the difference as to how the people of this county respond to much greater requests such as the need for new taxes. If our citizens are rebuffed by staff they are more likely to do the same when government makes requests of them.

I wish you all a Happy New Year and pray that your Christmas was blessed.

Teaching others about disabilities

In last week's column, we focused on one of Altamonte Springs' most noted citizens, Mr. Eddie Rose. Today we would like to introduce you to another outstanding Altamonte Springs resident. She is someone who you might not have had the pleasure of meeting yet; her name is Ms. Doreen Kirk.

Doreen was born 48 years ago in Rochester, New York. She is a friendly and enthusiastic woman who speaks softly and cautiously about her life and her disabilities. You see, at the age of 11, she had a stroke and a cerebral hemorrhage, leaving Doreen with a paralysis of her right side, a condition that is worsening as the whole right side of her body continues to weaken.

She also does not have any peripheral vision on her right side. Doreen also has a balance problem as well as seizures. All of this, however, has not stopped her from enjoying life or raising a child, Tracy, her married daughter who recently graduated from the University of Florida.

Doreen Kirk

She graduated from the University of Central Florida with a BA in Elementary Education. Doreen has also done graduate studies in Early Childhood Education at UCF. She has an AA from the University of New York, but since her health has gotten progressively worse, she is unable to work any more.

Doreen spends most of her time, when her health permits, involved in voluntary causes. For many years she taught youngsters in: remedial reading, kindergarten, learning disabilities and emotional disabilities. Nowadays, she teaches adults, by her volunteering efforts.

Her objective is to educate the public regarding issues and obstacles that challenge individuals with disabilities, in addition to aiding and promoting Paratransit Transportation in the Tri-County Orlando area. The reason Doreen feels so strongly on educating the public, comes down to children. Growing up was not exactly easy.

When she was a child, she was constantly ridiculed by her peers, because of her disability. This was due to the fact that children did not know about disabilities and consequently were not taught about them. This was evident later on in life when Doreen began teaching children. She noticed that after awhile they did not even notice her afflictions.

These efforts have included: Lynx Transportation's Consumer's Advisory Committee (vice chair), The City of Altamonte Springs Disability Advisory Board, Metropolitan's (formerly the Metropolitan Planning Organization) Bicycle/Pedestrian Advisory Committee and the Florida/Orange Reading Association.

Doreen has also been involved in the 1998 Atlanta Paralympics Games. She assisted in increasing the awareness of the Paralympics Games in Florida. She talked with local leaders, as well as past Paralympics participants. She was instrumental in organizing the "Orlando Kick-off Dinner."

Describing why she does what she does, Doreen says simply and quietly, "I want society to realize that there are rights like the ADA for the disabled." That is why she fights so hard for the disabled. Doreen Kirk definitely is the teacher who teaches others. If you have anything for us at "Special People", please let us know!

Justice system is seriously flawed

It's incredible to see our federal government allocating/donating monies from our voters and taxpayers and given to area counties to help fight drugs and crimes when in fact the way the criminal justice system and its guidelines are set up it contributes to their failures.

A system that is benefited by crimes by allowing early release programs, probation and parole is increasing rapidly. A system that offers points to help evaluate the criminal's fate. It's amazing how a system can be set up for failure.

This system spends countless man hours, several thousands of dollars in arrests and court preparations, loss of lives in some situations, millions of dollars in equipment and staying on line with technology to help apprehend and prosecute criminals and the system in turn contradicts their own purposes by making deals with the defendants. Puts them on adult baby sitting programs called probation and parole at a low cost rate, gives them brownie points for certain crimes depending on the class of crime committed, and has the nerve to allocate monies to help fight crime.

Where I'm from, we don't have this type of government. We are all one and of the same.

Another critical area of our system is judgeship. I remember when judges of old used to be respected (your Honor) and their decisions made an impact on the person(s) before him/her and the parents and communities praised them for their strictness and power and saw changes occurring in the people that went before them. Now they are restricted by the system guidelines. There is not much respect for judges anymore from this perverse generation of law-breakers. The judges are being tormented by this overcrowded and unworkable system.

Now, judges are being sold out by a system that once respected them. Now, justice is just an illusion.

Crime and crime again will increase because this system helps create crimes. It is designed toward that purpose. It may not be for that purpose, but there is no relief in sight.

I hear talk from our law enforcement agencies about gangs in Seminole County and monies given from grants and other sources to help fight gangs. The only legal (illegal) gangs I've seen in this county and operative is the C.C.I.B. and Quad Squad. These are the only legal gangs that can bust you up, break a leg or two, charge you with whatever they feel is suitable, make big headlines, get more grant monies and the system turns around and makes deals; probation and makes money and recycles you back to the street until you gain enough points, or your money runs out and book him-Dan-O.

This system is still looking for victims and criminals. You may apply at your nearest law enforcement agency or State Attorney's office, no appointment necessary. The only way out of this worldly system is to surrender to God, the Master. Americans love to fight. God bless us all.

SANFORD - David Frazier, a reporter for the Sanford Herald, has been named to the Florida Film Critics' Circle.

"I feel very honored to be on the circle given that I'm in the group with movie reviewers from other prestigious newspapers," Frazier said.

The 12-member group, in existence for one year, consists of movie reviewers who write for daily newspapers in Florida.

The goal of the critics' circle, Frazier said, is to meet and deliberate on films naming winners in several categories including best picture, director, screenplay, and actor.

"We will recognize excellence in film and then notify the movie studios and place the results on the wire service," Frazier said.

Frazier, a resident of Chutuota, holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Central Florida. He has been writing for the Sanford Herald since February.

His interest in movies is lifelong, Frazier said.

"I just love the movies," he said. "If I wasn't doing reviews, I'd be writing about movies anyway."

His goal is to eventually write for a nationally syndicated magazine or to have his own television show, maybe something along the lines of Roger Ebert and Gene Siskel. "I respect them, especially Ebert. I like the way he writes."

When reviewing a movie, Frazier said he looks at all aspects from the directing, to the acting to the script. But mainly, he said, he tries to see what is different about the film and what makes it fresh.

And what about Frazier's Oscar pick for 1997. No question, he said, Titanic will come pretty close to a sweep.

Larry King: Man of many questions

By DAVID FRAZIER
Herald Staff Writer

ORLANDO - He has interviewed famous names like Malcolm X, Martin Luther King Jr., Eleanor Roosevelt and Cary Grant. He has kissed Marlon Brando on the lips. And in the next year, he hopes to interview Pope John Paul II. He is Larry King.

Arguably the best interviewer in the business, King has been in the game nearly 40 years. He started doing interviews and writing about the Miami Dolphins. Now, he is seen in 220 countries on the popular CNN show Larry King Live.

"A truly good interviewer is the main thing in a good interview," said King taking time out of his holiday vacation to talk in a green room at the Disney-MGM Studios. King relaxed back on the black leather couch with his eyes framed in the standard square lensed glasses talking about the essentials of a good interview. "A good interviewer is sincerely interesting," said King, "and tries to ask a question that brings the guest out."

King likes to read about six or seven newspapers daily to keep up with what is going on and may be pertinent to an upcoming interview. "I'm prepared but not prepared," said King. "I read my newspapers daily but you have to give me what a person did today." In preparation for interviews, King's show has a large staff which gathers facts on those he is about to interview and then King takes those facts and develops the conversation from that point.

However, recalls King, some interviews have not been wine and roses. "Robert Mitchum drove me to drink," King said in a tongue and cheek manner. "When I asked him questions with 'why', which usually get more than a one word answer, he gave me one word answers."

And he does have a bit of a wish list when it comes to people he would like to talk to. "We are hoping to get the Pope," said King. "Princess Diana would have been number two and [Fidel] Castro would be number three." Other than the retiring Nelson Mandela, King said that we really do not have a great world leader to interview. "There are no intriguing personalities," said King.

Before King dashed off to an awaiting car that would drive him to Tampa for another engagement, he was able to give his views on the future of the media. "Skyrocketing," said King on the outlook of the business. "There is no limit." King has a book scheduled to be released sometime in 1998 where he talks to such media moguls as Bill Gates, Michael Eisner and Ted Turner about their respective fields in the future.

One can imagine how hard it would be to interview such a great interviewer. But, in a condensed time slot, a youngster just starting out gathered some good tips from the "King" of conversation.

"Arthur Godfrey once told me that the secret is there is no secret," King said. "It's got to be your own style." He went on to say, "I can give you a lot of tips, but I can't give you the curiosity."

1997 is a wrap with more movies to see

Before we can officially adjourn this movie year and get ready for the next, some unfinished business items must be addressed. Screen Tests proudly presents the year end closeout column — a short look at some films that I have not yet reviewed in this space.

You may notice from thorough reading of this column that I start with three prime examples of great comic writing and nearly end with four lousy throwaways — unless you consider Mortal Kombat: Annihilation.

First, and foremost, is Woody Allen's wild, audacious Deconstructing Harry (Four stars). Allen plays another neurotic, depressed character who is also a boozing, womanizing writer, who draws on life experiences in creating his novels. Allen flips from one dimension to the next and, sometimes, crosses paths with them. The one dimension is the world within the author's books, and the other is where Allen's writer actually lives. And all the while, we learn that the writer cannot survive if he does not have his writing because his writing is where he finds happiness and belonging. Allen blends some of his old themes with brah writing, stylish camera work and a bit of self parody to form one of the year's best films.

Woody Allen plays Harry Brock in the film he wrote and directed, Deconstructing Harry, a Fine Line Features release. Worth seeing, rated here at four stars, and also starring Demi Moore and Stanley Tucci.

If the Oscar nominations dropped in our laps now, not only should Woody Allen's screenplay be a candidate, but also the scripts of Good Will Hunting (Three and a half stars) and As Good as It Gets (Three and a half stars). Hunting, directed by Gus Van Sant (Drugstore Cowboy) and written by co-stars Matt Damon (John Grisham's The Rainmaker) and Ben Affleck (Chasing Amy), deals with an under achieving genius and a brooding psych teacher doubling as a therapist. Some of the dialogue sequences seem directly from a Tarantino script. You can't imagine how invigorating and engrossing it is listening to good actors smoothly translate well written dialogue from the page to the voice track. (Having Robin Williams doesn't hurt either.) That also happens in As Good as It Gets where Jack Nicholson, Helen Hunt and Greg Kinnear play three very unique — and too perfectly drawn — loners, who come together and end up being the best thing for each other. The film is directed and co-written by James L. Brooks (Broadcast News) mixing side splitting comedy with bittersweet human touches.

Speaking of Tarantino, Quentin comes out of his hiatus to direct Jackie Brown (Three stars), a film that monotonously dictates the steps of a scam involving an arms dealer (Samuel L. Jackson) and a tired flight attendant (Pam Grier). Based on Elmore Leonard's Rum Punch, Jackie Brown could have been sheered of its nearly three hour running time in places. And even though the use of a certain ethnic word is used in excess thus raising the ire of director Spike Lee, Tarantino makes a marginal slice of entertainment, but, heed my warning before viewing, Pulp Fiction it ain't.

Next is two period pieces: one live action, one animated. Washington Square (Three stars) preceded The Wings of the Dove, but, as far as Henry James' adaptations go, Dove is still the better. Jennifer Jason Leigh (A Thousand Acres) and Albert Finney (Miller's Crossing) play a daughter and father are torn against each other over a young suitor the father does not trust and the daughter could not be more smitten with. The pace is tiring but the acting is head on strong.

Anastasia (Three stars) is one of the first non-Disney animated films to vie for a piece of the Mouse House box office. 20th Century Fox's Anastasia touches off a string of animated pictures trying to dethrone Disney as king of animated films. (Dreamworks, with ex-Disney man Jeffrey Katzenberg, and Warner Bros., long famous for the Looney Tunes, will be releasing their own features in the next year.) Anastasia, although it is fashioned after a Disney animated romance, is enjoyable as it is based on the legend of the Russian princess.

Either you like them or you don't, I thought that Tomorrow Never Dies (Two and a half stars) is trite James Bond. Bad guy wanting to take over the world, libidinous rendezvous with exotic women, nifty spy gadgets, heart pounding stunts and worldly locales continue to be staples and, for me, road blocks. Bond may be reliable revenue for the Broccoli family, but, next time, throw a new spice into the old recipe and see what happens.

Two Oscar winning directors have issued movies for the holiday season. First, Francis Ford Coppola (the Godfather films) directs, executive produces and writes John Grisham's The Rainmaker (Two stars). The film conveniently wraps up plot points as a young, idealistic lawyer (Matt Damon) goes up against a corrupt insurance company to fight for justice. And this is not a Coppola stamped film rather a tear jerker with a moral. BLAH!

Also, Kevin Costner returns still with a soft guttural maximus after the spanking delivered to him and director Kevin Reynolds in the Waterworld debacle. Costner tries to gain his old glory by directing another epic along the lines of his Oscar winning Dances with Wolves. But The Postman (Two stars) is no where near that league. It is a cross between Road Warrior and Dances as Costner leads a makeshift Pony Express against a military nut bent on dictatorship. The film tries these obvious poor attempts at feel good moments, and you have to wait three times for Costner's character to finally accept his leadership role. The Postman fails to deliver.

Here is the other end of the comedy spectrum. Welcome to the dungeon of films that hold us prisoner while they deliver what they think is humor for two hours. Mouse Hunt (Two stars) is supposed to be geared for children yet is uneven with a lot of adult themes and situations throughout. But I liked the mouse which is reminiscent of Jerry from the Tom and Jerry cartoons except this one does not have as much personality.

Tim Allen and Kirstie Alley, a king and queen in the sitcom television world, team up in the new film For Richer or Poorer (One and a half stars). Horse jokes, cow dung jokes and pokes at the Anish community — yes, again — bathe this new production. This is one of those films that failed in the trailer.

The next two comedies are geared at the younger audience as well. Older folks may find them cute but dismissable. Home Alone 3 (One star) takes the old story line and just plugs in some new parts here and there. Mr. Magoo (One star) takes an old favorite cartoon and humanizes it thus starving us of all the fond memories we had of the double visioned goof, Quincy Magoo, played here by Naked Gun Leslie Nielsen.

Finally, there is Mortal Kombat: Annihilation (One star) which does nothing but introduce more characters from the popular video game, but does nothing with them.

As the ad says, "destroy all expectations."

Next week, Screen Tests takes a look at the top ten films of the year. Until then, "destroy all expectations". No, I'm kidding, have a great and safe New Year!

High notes

Exhibit opens at Harris House

Paintings by DeLand artist Steve Almon will be on display at Harris House of Atlantic Center for the Arts, located at 214 S. Riverside Drive, New Smyrna Beach. The exhibit will open January 7 and will run through February 10. An opening reception will be held on January 8 from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. All are invited. For further information, please call Harris House of Atlantic Center at (904) 423-1753.

"Buffalo Soldiers"

John Russell, president of "Buffalo Soldiers" of Florida, will present the involvement of the Black Man in the shaping of this country, starting in 1524 up to the present. It is not so much a presentation of Black history, but a fuller picture of American history. This is the story of the "Black White Men" as the Indians first called them. This program is sponsored by the Seminole County Historical Society. A brief annual meeting will take place first. Doors will open at 7 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 8, with the meeting at 7:30 p.m. This will take place at the Cooperative Extension Center (Agriculture Center) located at 250 West County Home Road. It is off 17-92 across from Flea World in Sanford. For more information, call Karen Jacobs of the Museum of Seminole County History at 321-2489.

World War II Veterans...

It's not a secret anymore.

If you were exposed to mustard gas during field and chamber tests of protective equipment while in military service, you may be eligible for VA benefits for certain health problems related to that exposure. # Da' Bomb

What's up in and out of the classrooms of Seminole County

Sanford Herald, Sanford, Florida - Sunday, December 28, 1997

Da' Bomb hears all...

The Lake Brantley horns proved once again that there aren't many better in Central Florida with its Christmas show last week. Twenty-eight horns and not a bad note the whole time. Da Bomb especially liked the African number that went halfway through.

Santa Bomb dropped a bag last week by not makin' out a compliment to the Dividends to make each school a better place to be. About them, a lot of Da Bomb wouldn't be as well as they are.

Da Bomb gotta check out Wicklow Elementary. Da Bomb sez there ain't many better schools around the front lobby had pass for a hotel.

Da Bomb sez the best selection at any embaile County sporting event is at Winter Springs. But Lake Brantley makes the best dogs.

Building the perfect pavilion

By JEFF BERLINER
Herald Staff Writer

It won't be long before Lake Mary sophomore Dan Brown is soaring with the Eagles.

Brown is working towards earning becoming an Eagle Scout and part of the many requirements are performing community service work.

That's when Brown approached the Longwood Police Department with plans to build a pavilion on the site of their headquarters.

A few weeks and many volunteers later, the project is complete and waiting on final approval.

That's a really quick overview of how it all turned out. Actually, it was a long process but Brown stuck with it with a little help from his friends.

The first step was to find someone to draw up blueprints for the pavilion, which had to be approved by the proper city departments. So Brown turned to the telephone book and found a project engineer to draw up the plans. By August, the plans were conceptualized and developed and a pavilion was underway in Longwood. There were building permits to be obtained and that worked out and a licensed engineer signed-off on the plans but that was easy enough.

Brown's idea came about when he was doing community service work with the Longwood Police Department. He wanted to give something back after the hours he spent with them and that's when the idea came about.

"He was trying to figure out a project and figured it would be good to have closure on the work he did with them," said Dan's father, Tony Brown. "We wanted to do something for the Longwood Police Department and we knew the Longwood Fire Department had a pavilion so we thought the police needed one. We took the idea to them and they thought it was a great idea."

The pavilion will eventually be the site of many hunches and picnics and the police will have a chance to use it as a break area. On Halloween, Tony Brown said it could be used as a haunted house and it's pretty certain that the police will make sure it's put to good use.

It also puts Dan Brown a little bit closer to the Eagle Scout badge. He needs two more merit badges which must be approved by the scoutmaster. He needs his personal management badge and has started working on a financial accounting of himself to achieve it. There's also a safety requirement where he has to inspect a building for hazards. Since he's been deeply involved in scouting since 10th grade, and his father is an assistant scoutmaster, don't get it wrong.

Now that the pavilion is finally done, he can look back on the efforts it took to complete it. Several local stores including Scotty's, Home Depot, Six Flags Nursery and

Lake Mary sophomore Dan Brown and a host of scouts from Troop 237 got together at the Longwood

Police Department to build a pavilion as part of his requirements to achieve his Eagle Scout status

Smith Lumber provided free supplies to create the 14-foot-by-14 project and he also had to recruit helpers, 17 of which combined for over 221 man hours. They came from Troop 237 of the St. Mark's Presbyterian Chapter of the Boy Scouts with John Small as Scoutmaster.

Anyone wanting to check out the new pavilion should head over to the Longwood Police Department for the Jan. 24 dedication ceremony which will begin at 10 a.m.

"I'll feel pretty good when it's finally over," Dan Brown said. "It's been hard work but we're happy it's finally done."

After he graduates, Dan wants to move on to college or the Marine Corps, but for now, he can be happy to have given the Longwood Police Department a place to take a break.

Lakeview students keeping the peace

KELLIE WERNER
Herald Staff Writer

Last week, students at Lakeview Middle School came together to experience what makes each of them unique.

Under the direction of Guidance Chairperson Teresta Leeson, this year's fifth annual Multicultural Day was a huge success.

Leeson's area of specialty is cross-cultural guidance, which gave her the idea for Multicultural Day.

"I grew up in a very culturally diversified environment," Leeson explained. "My father was from the Philippines, my mother was from France, I had a wonderful nanny who was black and I was raised in Cuba. I learned very early on how important it is for people to respect and love the differences between them."

"When I was working toward my Doctorate, I specialized in cross-cultural guidance and then implemented the programs here at Lakeview that I thought would help to offer diversified student services to all students."

Multicultural Day is one of those programs and is one of the students' favorites.

Each classroom becomes a country or activity that represents a different cultural aspect. Members of Leeson's "La Paloma" club, which was formed to help maintain an atmosphere of peace by encouraging students to recognize others who have done something well, followed the rules or expressed an act of kindness, serve as tour guides. The guides escort the guests of honor to the different classrooms where they present their cultural information and/or activity.

Many members of the community volunteer their time and knowledge for the school function, including martial arts specialists, musicians, scientists, crafters, government officials and specialists in all areas of culture. They rotate throughout the classrooms during the morning hours after having a few refreshments that are provided by the school.

"Every class in the school is covered and students get to see and learn about things that are completely new to them," Leeson explained. "The only way to close the gap between cultures is to teach our children. Once they learn how unique and interesting people are, they become more accepting and less judgmental. The best way to bring people together is to educate them. When we don't know about something we tend to be weary of it and that only leads to misunderstandings."

Through her efforts with not only the guidance Department but also the special clubs and events that she has promoted, Leeson was named the 1997 State of Florida Guidance Counselor of the year.

"It was so humbling to receive that award," Leeson said. "To know that there are so many counselors out there doing good things and working hard and yet I was chosen by the State makes me really proud and really humble."

In all, Leeson's vision of cultural harmony has been a great influence on the students at the middle school. All of kids really look forward to Multicultural Day and participation in Leeson's clubs continues to grow every year.

No Bomb next week!

Da Bomb sez it's time for a break. Actually, he is out of town for a few days but he'll be back on January 10 with all you need to know about the best (and the worst) of the Seminole County schools.

While we're at it, let's get this out of the way. Please, please, call Da Bomb if there's anybody who deserves some credit or a thumbs up. With so many bad things being said about the youth in our country lately, Da Bomb has a hard time seeing it because he's met so many good kids throughout the county. There's a lot of students and teachers out there doing an awful lot of good and it's about time somebody recognized them. That's what Da Bomb is here for, so give me a yell (322-2611). Hope your New Year is the Bomb.

Thumbs Up!!

Avery Stein, of Altamonte Springs, earned Provost List honors at Troy State University in Alabama. He achieved a grade point average of at least 3.65 as a full-time undergraduate student.

Seven students at Winter Springs High School were notified that their art entries have been selected for display at the Peggy Crosby Student Gallery at the Orlando Museum of Art. The students were Lauren Antonelle, Anthony Coffield, Eric Cuellar, Shane Cunningham, Ben Smith, Michael Utley and Aasha Young. The art teacher at WSHS is Phi Yoda.

Nathan Edwin Welch, of Longwood, recently performed in Stetson University's Concerto Competition. He is a Theory major and a graduate of Lake Brantley.

Wendy Katrina Zatloukal, of Longwood, qualified for the President's Honor List at Louisiana Tech University, earning at least a 3.8 grade point average.

Suzanne Barnett and Robin Parry were recently awarded over $500 to be used toward their mini-grant proposal entitled, "Flying High Mentors." They are on the faculty at Oviedo High.

Students of the month for Lakeview Middle School: Jesse Torres, Yamera Barnes, Tyler Panton and Jena Jeffcoat.

Year

place last year to first this year.

Sanford, Lake Mary, homeowners and the developer signed an agreement allowing the construction of a 636-unit apartment complex on State Road 16 in Sanford. Principals had opposed the project but agreed to sign after the developer made certain concessions including dropping the dwelling density.

City Manager Bill Simmons earns a good performance evaluation and a 9 percent raise to an annual salary of $86,110.

Jeff Cashatt is appointed the director of the Seminole County Humane Society.

SPD Chief Joe Dillard and Mayor Larry Dale have developed a list of police services that could be contracted to the sheriff's office.

Goldstone Elementary Magnet School receives 1,100 applications for 750 spots for next year. Names are chosen through a computerized lottery.

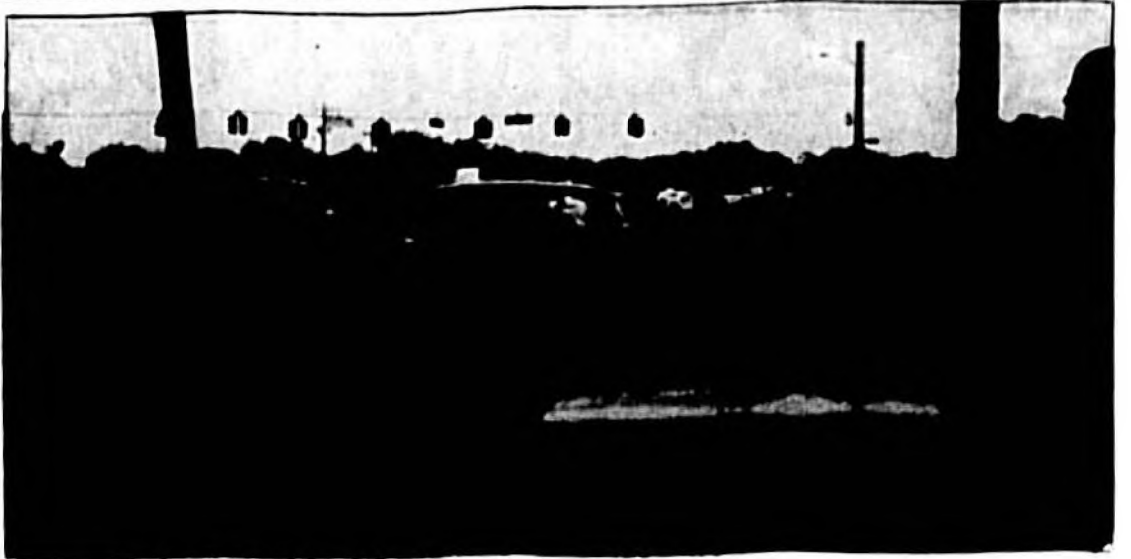

James Marino is chosen as the county's director of public works at an annual salary of $80,000.

Seminole High School undergoes a lockdown as police search for a man believed to be suffering from a self-inflicted gunshot wound, run into the math building at the school. After a thorough search, the man could not be found.

After one year in office Mayor Larry Dale is graded on his performance. Citizens give Dale grades ranging from A's to C's. The Herald gives him a B.

Daytona Beach Pilot Donald Ulrich, above, leaves a pier at Lake Monroe after his Cessna 260 amphibian seaplane capsize into the lake as he attempted to land Jan. 9. Ulrich's passenger Robert Lowrey, is comforted by Sanford Police Ofc. Claudia Webber. Top right: Seminole County commissioners vowed to enlist the help of affected cities along the blighted U.S. Highway 17-92 corridor, in a beautification effort that should get under way in 1998.

Joining 250 others, Sanford residents Gordon and Vivienne Sweeney, married in 1945 and the proprietor of Sweeney's Office Supply for many years, became American Citizens in a twice yearly ceremony at the Sanford Civic Center, sponsored by the Pilot Club Below. Circuit judges Alan Dickey and Leonard Wood were asked in 1997 to rule on the legality of two adult entertainment clubs that opened during a moratorium levied by the county. Wood shut down VIP Gold for violating the county ordinance. Dickey ruled Sassy Menets could remain open, that the county's ordinance violated the First Amendment. The county will continue to define adult club laws in 1998.

Sanford Mayor Larry Dale completed his first year in office during 1997, with a hand in reorganizing the police department, moving midges off the lakefront, voting yes to an upscale apartment complex raising the ire of some Lake Mary and Sanford residents, and sitting the ball rolling for downtown waterfront development of a hotel and convention center.

San Francisco should win the Super Bowl

SANFORD - Jerry Rice is out for the season, J.J. Stokes is still wiping spit from his face and the San Francisco 49ers have just gotten blown out by the Seattle Seahawks.

But it says here that the Niners will be the Super Bowl champs by the time this totally confusing NFL playoff tournament is done in four weeks.

Here's why. They are the only team good enough to deserve it.

Calm down, Cheeseheads. Honestly, how good have the Packers looked this season? Thirteen and three is nothing to laugh at but hasn't it looked like the Packers have gone through the motions all year? The fire that propelled them to a title last season hasn't been there and talent alone has earned Green Bay several wins but the emotion hasn't been there and that counts for something, especially when they have to travel to Candlestick Park (yes Candlestick Park. I won't give in to corporate shills).

Besides, a team fighting for home field advantage throughout the playoffs doesn't lose to a pathetic Indy Colts team.

Then again, neither do the Miami Dolphins but more on that later.

As for Tampa, give it another year. A team that can't pass the ball isn't going anywhere in January, the Giants aren't going anywhere with Danny Kanell who hasn't played in a big game since he was at Florida State.

I think the Lions and Vikings are also in the playoffs which shows how watered-down the league has become.

The AFC is more wide open. Anybody can win and extend the AFC's winless streak in the Super Bowl.

Start with the hottest team, the Kansas City Chiefs. Great team, homefield advantage and Marcus Allen.

Whoops, there's also Elvin Orbac. A team doesn't make a Super Bowl with a quarterback who has never taken a post-season snap, especially one who has been injured for

S.A.C. selects All-Star squad

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD - Co-Conference champions Oviedo and Seminole combined to place 11 players on the 24 man Seminole Athletic Conference All-Conference Football First Team.

The league's six coaches got together recently to select the team and Seminole led the way with seven first team members, three on offense and four on defense.

First-year Fighting Seminoles head coach Jim Worthington was also tabbed as the SAC Coach of the Year for leading the Tribe to an overall record of 8-2 and a 4-1 mark in the conference.

Co-Champion Oviedo, which went 7-3 overall and 4-1 under another first-year coach, Greg Register, was next with six players named, three on offense and three on defense.

Lake Mary, despite going winless this season, was well represented on the team with five players being selected, two on offense and three on defense.

Lake Howell had three players (one on offense, two on defense), Lake Brantley two players (both on offense) and Lyman had one player (on offense) named to the First Team.

Seminole also paced the second team with five players tabbed, a number also shared with Lake Mary and Lyman. Lake Howell had four players on the second team and Oviedo and Lake Brantley had three second team selections.

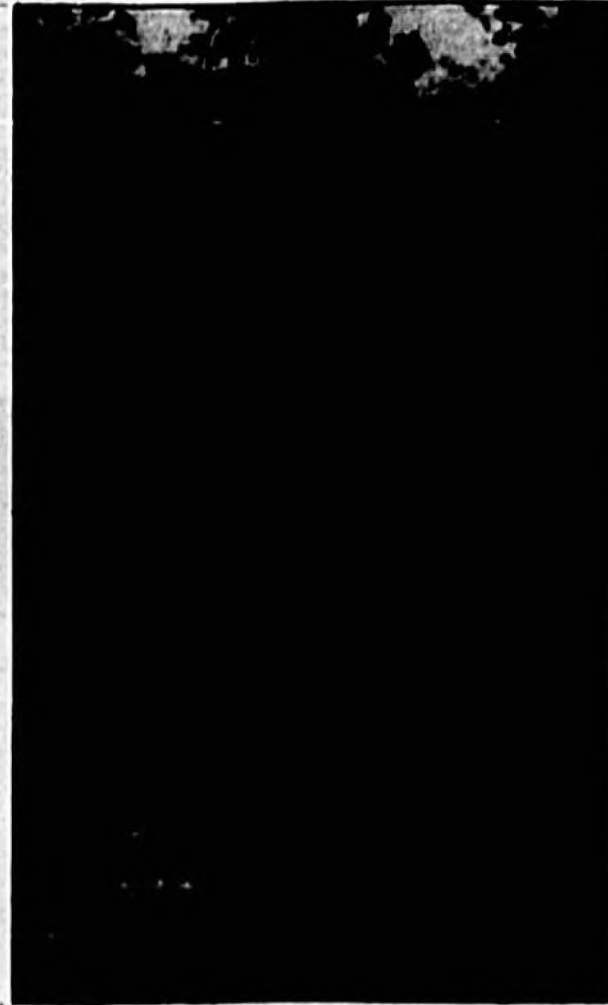

Trailing Seminole (8-2 overall, 4-1 SAC) and Oviedo (7-3 overall, 4-1 SAC) in the league standings were Lake Brantley (4-5 overall, 3-2 SAC) and Lake Howell (3-7 overall, 3-2 SAC) tied for third, Lyman (1-8 overall, 1-4 SAC) fifth and Lake Mary (0-9 overall, 0-5 SAC) sixth.

The Offensive First Team was led by quarterback Brian Criswell from Lake Brantley. He was joined in the backfield by running backs Deon Howard (Seminole) and Jamie Scott (Oviedo).

The First Team receiving corps was made up of wide outs Tim Spivey (Lake Mary) and Erick Smith (Seminole) and Tight End Brian Register (Oviedo).

Doing the blocking for the First Team offense is Chris Campbell (Lake Howell), Marc Bonadonna

Now is the time to fish for a lunker bass

SANFORD - January through April is a great time to key in on a lunker bass. Large shiners produce many fish over the 8 pound mark this time of year. Most anglers fish shiners with floats near heavy cover. This is a proven tactic, but these baits will also attract mudfish and gar. At $10.00-$12.00 per dozen for shiners, it can get pretty expensive feeding "trash" fish.

Trolling shiners with an electric motor is not a well-known tactic, but it is absolutely deadly for heavyweight bass. Slow-trolling is also very cost effective, because mudfish and gar move too slow to catch up with a trolled shiner. Shiners also live longer, because casting them from an anchored boat slowly kills them as they "splat" on the water.

Bass are scattered, and trolling shiners is the most effective way to locate fish. When one fish is found, I tend to catch several in the same general area. After a couple of trips to the same area, I can usually key in on certain spots that consistently produce fish. Lake Poinsett and Lake Winder are particularly good areas to troll live shiners. Look for weedy points out into the lakes, and get ready for action.

I hook the shiners through the lips with a 4/0-7/0 Weller weedless hook, depending upon the size of the shiner. Use level-wind reels, and turn down the antibacklash mechanism enough that the shiner cannot pull it out when trolling. I usually let out about 50 feet of line and then follow structure such as weed lines. This method is also very effective over submerged weed beds.

OUTDOORS

This method is not for the faint of heart, for jarring strikes are the norm, and bass will AVERAGE over 5 pounds. In fact, it seems that I have to "wade through" a lot of 8 pound fish to eventually catch one over the 10 pound mark.

SHUPE'S SCOOP

REMEMBER THAN 90 PERCENT OF THE BASS LIVE IN ONLY ABOUT 10 PERCENT OF THE WATER. WHEN TROLLING LIVE SHINERS, I TYPICALLY FIND THAT BASS ARE BUNCHED UP IN CERTAIN AREA. I CAN USUALLY CATCH FISH CONSISTENTLY IN THESE SPOTS ONCE I FIND THEM.

FISHING FORECAST

The river is high, but bass action will be good where bass are contained. Fish sloughs and other areas with distinct boundaries. Big shiners are hard to beat this time of year for big bass. The action of river from Lake Poinsett to Lake Winder has a lot of bass over 8 pounds. Lake Monroe has fair speckled perch action. Just head for the nearest crowd of boats and start drifting with Missouri minnows.

Huge winter flounder top the bill at Sebasitan Inlet. Bounce finger mullet slowly across the bottom for fair action with flatfish to 12 pounds. Redfish, bluefish and snook will be scattered.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral has no offshore reports due to high seas and dirty water. Inside the Port, flounder and sheepshead are providing fair action. Redfish and trout are hard to pin down this time of year due to passing cold fronts. Several days of cold weather will put them in the holes, while warmer weather will find them cruising the flats in the afternoons.

Bluefish and sheepshead dominate the action at Ponce Inlet. Redfish, drum, and jack crevalle are also present. Live or dead shrimp are the top baits. Redfish and trout are scattered in Mosquito Lagoon.

The Lake Mary All-Stars cheerleading and dance squads under the tutelage of coach Gena Evans has earned several bids to the 1998 CANAM International Cheer and Dance Championships in Myrtle Beach, S.C.

Local team earns bid to International Competition

Special to the Herald

FAYETTEVILLE (NC) The Lake Mary All-Stars cheerleading and dance squad has earned several bids to compete in the 1998 CANAM International Cheer and Dance Championships.

The Lake Mary All-Stars squad, coached by Gena Evans, earned the bids at the 1998 Orlando Area Cheer Ltd. CANAM Regional Qualifier held in late November at University High School in Orlando.

The Senior and Youth cheerleading squads earned bids by finishing first in the Senior All-

Star Division and Youth I Division, respectively, and the seniors also earned an at-large bid for their performance in the Senior Dance Division.

Lake Mary All-Star squad members Heather Dorner, Aubrie Brake and Jessica Hittchborn received bids to compete in the 1998 Junior International Cheerleader competition for their outstanding individual performances.

The Lake Mary Junior and Senior Partner stunt teams also received bids to compete in the 1998 Junior International Partner Stunt and 1998 Senior International Partner Stunt competitions for their outstanding performances.

The 1998 CANAM International Cheer and Dance Championships, 1998 Junior International Cheerleader, 1998 Junior International Partner Stunt and 1998 Senior Partner Stunt competitions will all take place in Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, March 20-22.

The competitions will bring together over 200 of the top cheerleading and dance squads from the United States and Canada for two great days of competition. This annual event features more than 4,000 cheerleaders competing in team, individual and partner stunt competitions.

the past several weeks, but with the lack of a real powerhouse rival, K.C. is the pick here.

As for the contenders, Jacksonville can't win three straight on the road, especially in cold weather (remember, last year's playoff run through Buffalo and Denver was played in unseasonably warm temperatures. If Denver has an ice box today, the Jags can go home and continue building the best team in the NFL by the year 2000).

I don't believe in Kordell Stewart, and Miami and New England haven't shown a thing recently.

The Dolphins are on a two-game losing binge and a 41-0 loss to the Colts doesn't inspire a lot of hope.

A loss to the Colts, arguably a worse franchise since 1985 than the Bucs, should mean automatic expulsion from the playoffs.

That leaves Denver and I'm almost ready to say that John Elway can outplay Grbac if it comes down to it. One of the top-five quarterbacks in NFL history versus a guy named Elvis.

Still, homefield advantage will afford the Chiefs an opportunity to get their brains beaten out by San Francisco.

What's Up In The NFL...THE PLAY-OFFS

SANFORD - Hello football fans. Today marks the beginning of this year's playoff race, and I'm just glad to be here.

I was down in Ft. Myers visiting family on Christmas Eve, when my head decided to catch on fire. My brother ran me to the hospital with a 104-degree temperature and I was hurting.

In all of the fog and chaos, I finally gained my senses and noticed that my nurse was wearing a Buca pin on her skirt. I knew then that I needed to rush home and get this article written.

It really is amazing how the Tampa Bay craze has made it's way throughout the state. It is a wonderful thing to see our beloved Buc finally get some much needed appreciation. In all seriousness folks, I was diagnosed with acute bronchitis, so today's commentary will be very brief, but very profitable.

Taking a quick look around Florida the first thing that comes to mind is that all of our teams made it to the playoffs. I congratulate the Buc and Jeff's Jags for the accomplishment, but fail to see the significance of Miami's "by default" trip to the postseason.

The Dolphins looked absolutely terrible against the Patriots last week, and don't deserve the right to be beaten by them again tomorrow. Jimmy Johnson continues to bring shame to this classy organization, and I think Dan finally sees his days may be numbered.

Jeff's Jacksonville Jaguars, on the other hand, look like they're peaking at the right time as they prepare for their matchup with the Denver Broncos.

We all watched with pleasure as the Buc had their way with the Chicago Bears last week, and hope Hardy's Boys will be up for the task again tomorrow.

Let's look at the lineup and find some winners.

NEW YORK GIANTS (-5) VS. MINNESOTA

I realize that I have been giving the Vikings a hard time all year, and for good reason, but this is way too many points for a weak offense to give up.

The Giants are a very hard working and disciplined team, but lack the marquee talent to blow this game open.

The Vikings, however, look to Randall Cunningham, who must be 60 by now, to lead this struggling offense against a very good defense.

I think it is great that Jim Fassel won the Coach of the Year Award this week. I think they may win this game, but I do not think they will cover this spread. Take the points and cross your fingers.

SIDE NOTE - I'm kind of hoping the Giants win this by a field goal, so we cover the spread, and they (and not the Buc) have to travel to Green Bay next week. If Minnesota wins, we have to go straight to the Tundra after taking care of the Lions tomorrow. Giants 24, Vikings 23.

NEW ENGLAND (-3) VS. MIAMI

This game is a very boring rematch of last week's "barnburner" in Miami. If there is any justice at all, the Patriots will win this one too.

The Dolphins no longer have the magical passing game they have always been able to rely on, and they still don't have a running game.

The Patriots look forward to being in front of a very excited crowd as they attempt to repeat last year's trip to the Super Bowl.

If you have to play this game, give up the points and cheer against a team that has lost it's luster. Patriots 24, Dolphins 17.

DENVER (-9) VS. JACKSONVILLE

The Broncos look to avenge last year's major upset when the Jags came to town and spoiled the fun for Elway and company.

This year, there won't be any surprises as the Broncos have prepared for this game mentally all week.

The fact that I think the bookies are missing here with the Broncos giving up more than a touchdown, is that the Jags are a very good football team.

They have a running game that will keep Elway off the field in long enough spurts to keep their defense rested, and have performed very well on special teams this year.

Don't get me wrong. I think the Broncos are the best team in the A.F.C.. I also think the Jags may be second.

This will probably be the best game of the weekend, and in a matchup this close, you gotta take the points. Elway may win this game, but I'll guarantee the Jags will make him work a lot harder than this line would indicate. TOO CLOSE TO CALL.

TAMPA BAY (-2) VS. DETROIT

This is the game we Buc fans have been waiting over a decade for, the first step towards the Super Bowl!

I realize that it is a long way off, but it is nice to daydream.

Playing the Detroit Lions is all about stopping Barry Sanders, you don't have to be a well paid columnist like myself to know that. The question is, "Do I think the Buc are up to the task tomorrow?"

My answer? I think Barry will run for over a hundred yards, but Dundy will contain the impact he has on the final result of the game.

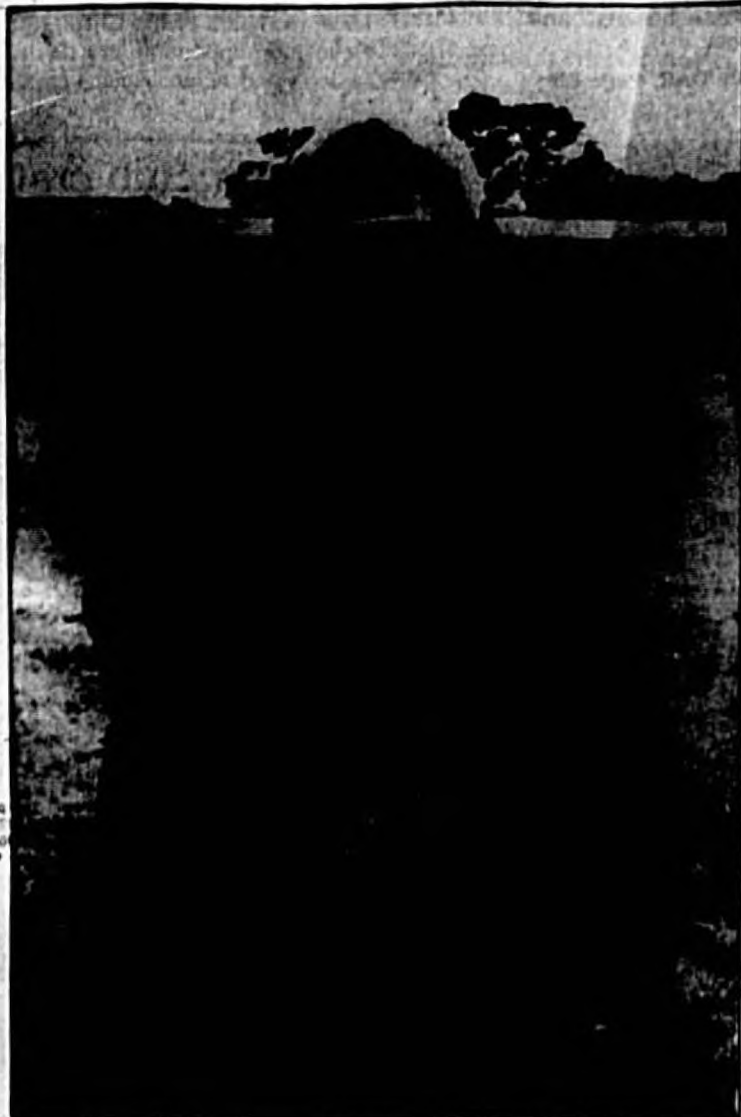

The Buc need to win this game, not just for the obvious reason of advancing to the next round, but also for the fans and players that have stuck with the team through thick and thin. Buccaneers 26, Lions 19.

Enjoy the football action and try to stay out of the rain. I hope everyone had a great holiday with family and friends.

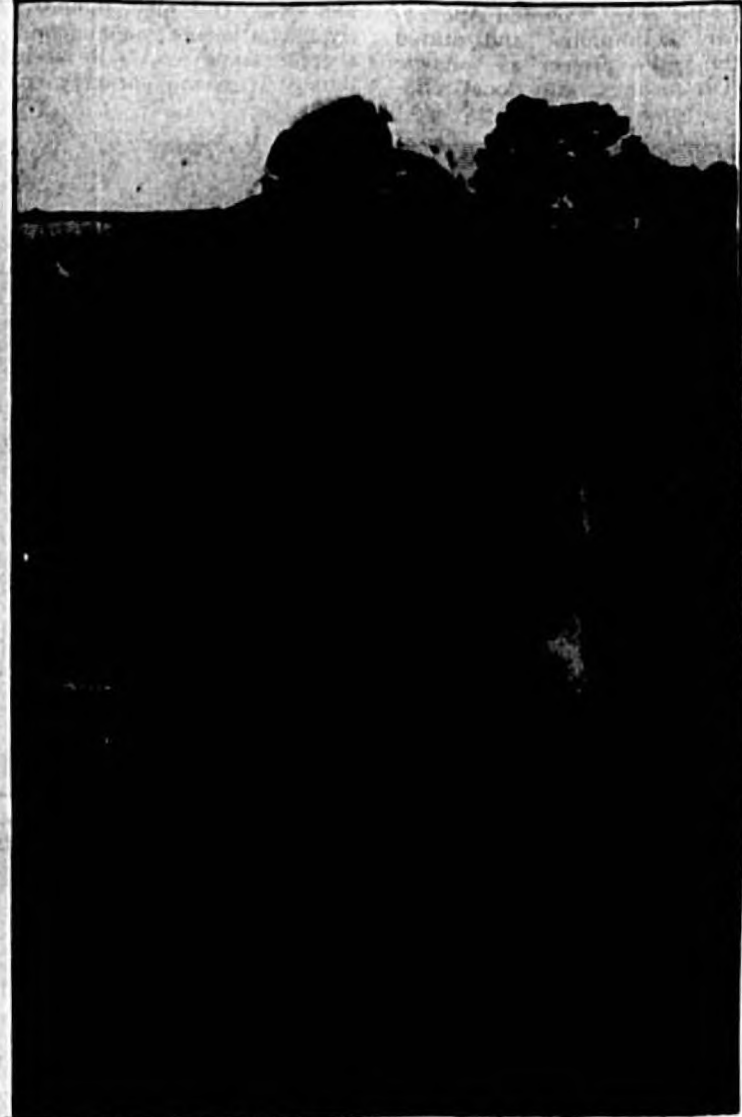

Sorry I'm in a hurry, my chest is killing me. Have a wonderful weekend and I wish you the best of luck.

Children's play reviews health problems during Revolution DAR celebrates festive holidays

Sallye Harrison Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met Dec. 13 at the Magnolia Tea Room in Longwood's historical district for a festive Christmas luncheon.

Each place was marked by a novel miniature scroll. Handmade by Regent Heidi Haines, the scrolls featured the NSDAR motto from Psalm 33:12, a tiny spray of dried red flowers and a red ribbon. Members agreed that they would hang them on their Christmas trees currently and in the future.

Before Christmas tea was served, members of the Fort Mellon Society, Children of the American Revolution, presented an original play about the family of John and Abigail Adams during the Revolutionary War years. Action centered around health concerns of the era.

State C.A.R. President, Alexis Dabroski, chose as the theme for the year, "Colonial Apothecary Revolutions" and stated the year's project as follows: "Get involved with local children's hospitals and other foundations which research cures and treatment for children with various childhood diseases. State Project Pin sale proceeds will be donated to All Children's Hospital, Research Institute in Tampa, Florida, and Play-Doh, musical books, crayons and other supplies will be donated on the Sunday of State Conference to the isolation ward playroom at All Children's Hospital for children currently undergoing treatment."

The voluminous writings of John and Abigail Adams served as the primary reference source for the play. Another featured character was Abigail's friend, Mercy Otis Warren, who kept significant records and later wrote a three-volume history of the Revolutionary War.

Narrated by Martha Mikler Van Dyke, the play included eight mini scenes in Act I and a grand finale in Act II when throngs in Boston gathered on Kings Street July 18, 1776 to hear the public reading of the Declaration of Independence. Jimmy Patterson played his trumpet and all others in the cast rang bells, used various other noisemakers and shouted their jubilation.

Characters in the play were Joe Mikler as John Adams; Abby Durham as Abigail Adams; their daughter Nabby, Michele Luna; their son, John Quincy Adams, J.T. Frye, another son, Bill Sovran; Uncle Isaac, Beau Duryea; Aunt Elizabeth, Susanna Sovran; cousin Elizabeth, Kelly Frye; cousin Lucy, Abby Luna; Amy Palk as Mercy Otis Warren; Jimmy Patterson in a dual role as Dr. Joseph Warren and the patriot musician. Beau Duryea was the Patriot Reader of the Declaration of Independence. Steven Patterson was the mail courier who made six runs from Braintree and Boston, Massachusetts and Philadelphia.

Bridge hostesses: Thelma Smith, Helen Ernest, Alice Potter and Toni Hobson.

Bridge players end year on a cheery holiday note

The Monthly Bridge Social of the Sanford Woman's Club ended the year in elegance at the Lake Mary home of Toni Hobson. Sharing hostess duties with Hobson were Thelma Smith, Helen Ernest and Alice Potter.

A holiday motif was carried out in the home decor. The refreshment table was covered with a Christmas green cloth and centered with a colorful arrangement of crimson poinsettias accented with red ribbons and gold candles. The hostesses served an attractive assortment of holiday goodies.

Betty Halback won high score for the day. Other winners were: Dib McElrath, second; and Helen Ernest, third.

Other players included Carolyn Cornelius, Mary Dale Jones, Terri Milliken, Shirley Mills, Doris Stein, Zaida Siskind, Rose Jacobson, Rustle Dean, Margaret Gross and Libby Prevatt.

For bridge enthusiasts who would learn to play the game, lessons are being planned to begin after the first of the year. For information, call Libby Prevatt.

Garden club crafts spark season

The Garden Club of Sanford Inc. held its annual December holiday boutique and craft festival at the clubhouse.

Browsers and buyers had a field day shopping, having lunch and having fun. Jellies and jams were also sold along with a table of ornate Christmas ornaments. Several vendors brought in their wares to add to the colorful array of gift items.

In upper photo Betty Akers shows Christmas accents including crochet snowflakes from the Church of the Nativity display. In lower photo Bill Taylor exhibits some of his Taylor-Made Crafts.

'We Care' delivers 200 Christmas baskets to needy families

"We Care" is an organized group of concerned volunteers, churches, ministers and the Rev. Eddie Martin, who conceived the idea to give food baskets to needy families at Christmas.

This year, Martin, with the help of various churches and concerned community persons gave 200 food baskets to families over Seminole County. Rev. Martin and Blake wish to thank those who contributed. Baskets with turkeys and trimmings for needy family dinners went to the following church families: Rose Hill Baptist Church, Mt. Zion Baptist Church, Progress Baptist Church, New Salem Primitive Baptist Church, Christian Fellowship, New Bethel Baptist Church, Zion Hope Baptist Church, St. Paul Baptist Church, Zion Hope and St. John Baptist.

"We Care" invites others to join in the 1998 special needy Christmas baskets for families. If you care, call Minister Eddie Martin at Rose Hill Baptist Church in Lake Monroe. "We Care".

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen W. Dickison

Po I. Southward, Stephen Dickison exchange vows

In Ithirathvongsy and Stephen William Dickison, both of Orlando, exchanged their wedding vows on Nov. 15 at 11 a.m. in the Markham Woods Presbyterian Church, Lake Mary. The Rev. Charles Reilly Jones was the officiating clergyman for the traditional double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest M. Southward of Lake Mary, and the bridegroom's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Dickison of Sanford. Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a traditional white satin gown fashioned with an off the shoulder neckline and a chapel length train. Alencon lace appliques highlighted with seed pearls and transparent iridescent sequins accented the gown's A-line cut. The bride's headpiece was a fingertip veil edged in seed pearls held by a small pearl and crystal crown. She carried a cascade of white mountain lilies accented by bridal pink and white roses and freesia.

Attending the bride as matron was her cousin, Laura Dinkus Maerhoffer of Orange Park. She wore an empire style, midnight blue satin gown with a bodice of Venise lace enhanced by a flat bow. She carried a colonial bouquet of Stargazer lilies and white dendrobium orchids, accented by bridal pink roses and white freesia.

Bridesmaid Shu Bussard Adams of Sanford, who was the flute soloist, joined the following bridesmaids at the altar: Amy Battista of Lake Mary, Alicia D. Elosua of Rockledge, Christina Nielsen of Safety Harbor, and Catherine Smithers of Gainesville. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

Flower girl was Amda Chanthavong of Deltona and the ring bearer was Ryan Inthachak, the bride's nephew of Deltona.

Michael Wilk of Sanford served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Phothong Ithirathvongsy, brother of the bride, Lakeland, and Vantha Ithirathvongsy, brother of the bride, Deltona.

Groomsmen were Jonathan Dickison of Sanford, the bridegroom's brother, Rattana Ithirathvongsy of Tallahassee, the bride's brother, Scott Sukup of Indian Trail, N.C., Anthony Tichonoff of Lake Mary, and Roger Vongthitraj of Deltona, the bride's nephew.

The reception was held at DelBary Golf and Country Club immediately following the ceremony, assisting at the reception were: Kristina Anderson of DeLand, Jenna and Michael Doudney of Casselberry; Campbell Doudney of Orlando; Amber Kornreich of Cleawater, and Bettina Vong of Lake Mary, all cousins of the bride.

Following a ski trip to North Carolina, the couple are making their home in Orlando, where the bride is a second grade teacher at Eastbrook Elementary School, Winter Park, and the bridegroom is employed as a civil engineer with UES Greiner, Orlando.

Hobbyist of the Week

Keitt 's custom furniture is in demand

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD Carl Keitt only recently began his hobby of making furniture but his creations are already sought after in the community. This talented gentleman custom designs all his work.

First of his projects was a redwood cedar porch swing. "I only use plugs, screws and glue," he said. "I don't use nails. Most everything is glued together."

Next, Keitt tried his hand at coffee tables. He used the same redwood cedar wood for the coffee tables that he had used for the swing.

From magazine racks, rocking chairs, patio furniture and a stow away picnic table Keitt keeps his hands busy. He estimated that he worked some 20 hours on a normal week.

"I just love building things," he said. "I make a lot of things for family and friends and then sell a few things too."

His advice to beginners was "If you are looking in a magazine and see something you like just try to sit down and draw out the pattern. That's how I got started."

Keitt recommended "Yankee Workshop Workbook" as a

AARP president toasts the New Year

Every year for the December meeting, the Lake Mary Chapter of the AARP picks a great restaurant and holds their annual Christmas party. This year, the restaurant of choice was Bistrò Cappuccino in Lake Mary. Another tradition for the December meeting is the installation of the officers for 1998. Unfortunately, incoming officer Paulie Stevens was unable to attend due to a recent illness, so the installation was postponed until the January meeting. All of the AARP members sent their best wishes to Paulie.

After the members enjoyed a great meal of prime rib, Jim Carmona, AARP President, got down to business. Business at the December meeting is always thanking those people who have helped out through out the year. As a special thank you, Jim gave the officers who had served with him

After the play, DAR member Shirley Kerr presented each participant with a Christmas tree decoration which she designed and made--red, white and blue drums with tiny gold drumsticks.

Senior C.A.R. president, Alison Durham then rewarded the cast with a picnic lunch. During the business meeting Pat Fox read the following Christmas message from the NSDAR President General:

quoting from Henry van Dyke in his The Footpath to Peace: 'To be glad of life because it gives you the chance to love and to work and to play and to look up at the stars, to be satisfied with your possessions but not contented with yourself until you have made the best of them, to despise nothing in the world except falsehood and meanness and to fear nothing except cowardice, to be governed by your admirations rather than by your disgusts, to covet nothing belonging to your neighbors except his kindness of heart and gentleness of manners, to think seldom of your enemies, often of your friends, and every day of Christ, and to spend as much time as you can, with body and with spirit, in God's out-of-doors, these are little guideposts on the footpath to peace.'

Registrar Betty Bridgwater announced that Beth Luna has been unanimously accepted as a member of Sallie Harrison Chapter.

Kindness of strangers creates a Christmas to remember still

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the letter you printed from Calvin B. Holm, Thionville, Wis., referring to people who succeed in spite of the fact their parents could not afford to help them with finances for schooling or much of anything else. I, too, was a Great Depression child. I have a true story that I hope you will print in order to pass along the message that help is out there if you pray and hope.

MY FAVORITE CHRISTMAS
It was December 1932. In those days, $1 was a lot of money, and $5 was a fortune. We lived on a farm in the Colorado Rockies, 5 1/2 miles north of a small village called Divide.

The town consisted of a combination post office, general store, filling station, and an upstairs residence for the owner's family. There was one other filling station, perhaps five or six houses, a schoolhouse, and a community hall where neighborhood meetings, country dances, etc. were held.

The schoolhouse was a two-room building with two teachers. One room was for grades one through five; the other was for grades six through 10. There was a barn where we could tie up our horses, with a feed box in each stall for a lunchtime oats snack for the horse. There was also a watering trough nearby.

I rode horseback to school every day, with my kid brother on the back of the saddle. It was cold at times. Christmas was coming and things looked very bleak. I knew there was a benevolent organization in Colorado Springs called the "Mrs. Santa Claus Club" that gave warm clothes to poor people.

The day before Christmas, we got a notice from the post office that there was a large box addressed to me. Dad picked it up. It was from the Mrs. Santa Claus Club. When we opened it, I could not believe what was inside: warm jackets, pants, shirts, underwear -- all the right size for me and/or my kid brother. There were also small blankets for my baby brother, and to top it off, toys for each of us.

My parents were elated, and my mother forgave me for stealing the postcard. She said, "I think God knew what he was doing."

In addition, the two teachers at school had procured, at their own expense, a present for each kid in the school: a pair of lace-up boots for each boy, and a pair of fur-lined overboots for each girl.

So, Abby, that's the story of the best Christmas I can remember -- thanks to a very benevolent group of people and two generous school-teachers.

RETIRED ENGINEER, KIRKLAND, WASH.

Your Birthday

Sunday, Dec. 28, 1987

In the year ahead, favorable conditions could be in store for you in two of the most important segments of your life. One deals with friendships, the other pertains to commercial interests.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Favors you've done for others might be repaid now in larger measure and in a rapid sequence. It will warm your heart to know you've been appreciated. Capricorn, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Exciting times could be ahead for you where your social life is concerned. You could get involved with new friends and a fun group.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Doors are beginning to open for rewards that are rightfully yours. You may have been overlooked in the past, but you won't be ignored in this cycle.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Greater success in your endeavors is possible at this time, provided you add the new twist of knowledge you've acquired from recent experiences.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is a favorable period to develop channels for a second source of earnings. Small beginnings will have good potential for growth.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Alliances into which you enter today should work out well for all participants. It is important that everyone continues to maintain harmony of purpose.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The breaks that could give your career a boost might begin popping up as of today. Several opportunities may be liberated simultaneously.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You could be rather fortunate today with risks that have been calculated carefully. However, this is not a green light for impulsive gambles.

VRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Where endings and beginnings are concerned, this could be your lucky day. An old matter might be terminated successfully and replaced by something new.

Start with MiniBridge

By Phillip Alder

PHILLIP ALDER

The biggest drawback of bridge is that the basics fill a 200-page book. In chess, you can learn how the pieces move in, say, 15 minutes and start playing. With bridge, you cannot start to bid and play until after several lessons. Some quick-start schemes have been proposed, but I like the sound of MiniBridge, which is now the first step for many beginners in Britain. There is no bidding. Instead, each player states his high-card point count. The pair with the lower total defends; the player with the greater number for the other partnership is the declarer. The dummy puts his hand face-up on the table. Then the declarer names his contract. Finally, the opening lead is made, and play proceeds as normal.

which contains MiniBridge problems. It is sent free to players under 25 years of age. This problem was set by the assistant editor, Jim Meddick. You are West, able to see your hand and the dummy. North. You know that South has 15 high-card points and wishes to play in three no-trump. What is your opening lead? Partner is shown to have exactly four points. Also, assuming South isn't void in diamonds, if partner doesn't have an ace, declarer has nine top tricks. So, give partner an ace. It should be obvious that only the club ace is any use. (If South has a singleton spade king, probably he would have selected five diamonds.) And to avoid blocking the suit, you
