City Settles 1 Land Purchase

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford City Commission has authorized a settlement in one of two condemnation suits, scheduled to be tried in the Circuit Court in Sanford beginning Monday.

The suits involve a total of more than 5 acres of land needed by the city for future expansion of its Poplar Avenue sewer plant.

City Attorney Bill Colbert, who with assistance from his law partner Kenneth McIntosh is representing the city of Sanford in the cases, recommended during a special meeting Friday that the city agree to pay $60,000 for a 2,104-acre parcel fronting on U.S. Highway 17-92 at the lakefront of Lake Monroe.

This parcel is owned by Frank J. Forrie Jr. of Ramapo Lane, Stroudsburg, Pa. Forrie's attorney agreed to accept the sum.

The second parcel of 3,174 acres, directly behind the first and fronting on Fulton Street, will continue to be negotiated for in the courts, Colbert said. He estimated the condemnation trial on the second parcel to begin Monday will probably last two or three days.

The owner of the second parcel, Gary C. Warner of Evergreen to Evergreen, 4450 142nd St. S. E., Bellevue, Wash., is being represented in Circuit Judge Robert McGregor's court by George Algernon Speer Jr.

Colbert said he and Speer are as much as $100,000 apart in a sales price settlement.

The city filed the original condemnation suit in December 1981. Originally, John Sauls, the city's appraiser, judged that the first parcel was worth more than $20,000. Colbert said McGregor ruled, however, that one component in judging the value of the land would be the sales prices of land in the vicinity subsequent to the filing of the condemnation suit.

This ruling meant that the purchase of land for the new Central Florida Regional Hospital had to be considered in the land value, City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles said.

Knowles said the Evergreen property isn't nearly as valuable as the Forrie parcel because it does not front on the highway.

The commission authorized City Clerk Henry Tamm to prepare the $60,000 check for the purchase of the Forrie property.

Knowles said expansion of the sewer facilities is delayed while the city attempts to resolve its debate with the state Department of Environmental Regulation over a waste load allocation from its present plant. DER has refused to reissue a permit to the city to allow continued effluent discharge into Lake Monroe, requiring instead that the city prepare to dispose of effluent from the plant through a land spreading process. Knowles has estimated that the costs of purchasing property, piping and other expenses to go to the land-spreading method will cost millions of dollars.

The city while battling with DER a couple years ago over the method of effluent disposal abandoned a plan whereby the Sanford sewer plant would be expanded into a regional facility to serve not only Sanford, but also Lake Mary and the unincorporated areas in north Seminole County.

Knowles said Friday that he has received a new letter from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency asking how plans are coming along on the regional sewer plan concept.

An Eggs-Act Science

It was 'eggs away' for Pinecrest Elementary School teacher Don DePierro as he dropped eggs from the school roof recently to test protective packaging done by various students in conjunction with the school science fair. But this test carton didn't do too well, smashing on the sidewalk below. The yolk's on contestant Tansy Grant, 8, who reacts with "Yuk, it broke." Meanwhile, Jason Middleton, 7, and Sammy Mendoza, 8, celebrate successful landings and unbroken eggs with smiles in the bottom photo.

Stranded?

Winter Springs Couple Seeks Bus Transportation

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

Federico M. Dimas-Aruti has faced a lot of challenges in his 84 years. He faced the rigors of New York on his own at age 11. He was in the U.S. Air Force for 28 years. He was shot at in Puerto Rico.

But none of those situations frighten Dimas-Aruti as much as the challenge he now faces. He's trying to get transportation from his home in Winter Springs.

Dimas-Aruti and his wife, Colita, live at 415 David St. Their home is on a nice residential street just one block off of State Road 434.

They moved there from Orlando where they had lived for three years and thought Winter Springs was a place they could spend the rest of their lives.

But their happiness has been marred by a problem which is making them reconsider their decision to move there.

The couple is virtually stranded. Dimas-Aruti owns a car but doesn't drive because of an eye problem. He claims to see well enough to drive "but is afraid for the other guy."

Winter Springs is not served by the buses which serve Seminole, Orange and Osceola counties. A van is available from the Federation of Senior Citizens office in Allamonte Springs but that only serves the area several days each week.

"We love this house but we're seriously thinking of moving," Mrs. Dimas-Aruti said. "My husband faced a serious illness a few weeks ago, I thought he was going to die. We had to call an ambulance."

But except for the ambulance, the couple has no way to get out of the house unless they call for the senior citizen van at least a day in advance or ask a neighbor to take them somewhere.

Officials with the senior citizen group said their vans are available to elderly people in the south end of the county on shopping trips and doctors' appointments.

The rest of the week the buses run from Longwood and the northern part of the county.

The group also has a medical van which can carry wheelchair patients anywhere in the county. But that is only available on two weeks notice.

The buses come nowhere near Winter Springs. Officials with the transportation authority said the nearest stop to the area is at Aloma Avenue and State Road 438, which is several miles away.

Winter Springs officials said they don't have the money to finance bus routes through their community.

"The only way for us to get somewhere is by taxicab," Mrs. Dimas-Aruti said. "And it's a $15 cab ride to Orlando."

The couple spends most of their time at home, writing, sculpting, painting or just talking. After 28 years of service in the Air Force, Dimas-Aruti has a whole room full of medals, mementoes and souvenirs, including a $15,000 suit of armor that was given to him by former Spanish dictator Francisco Franco.

Dimas-Aruti left Puerto Rico at an early age for New York. From there he went to Ann Arbor, Mich., and then to the University of Maryland, where he graduated from dentistry school in 1922.

Having no money and no practice, he joined the Air Force and spent the next 28 years traveling, mostly around Europe. But he was later stationed in Puerto Rico where he made the mistake of letting his address be known. One day a gunman tried to assassinate him. The next day Dimas-Aruti decided to leave Puerto Rico.

Lawmakers Giveth, Taketh Away Gas Tax Exemption For Local Governments

The Florida Legislature giveth and the Florida Legislature taketh away.

But very seldom does one expect the legislative body to give something in the first few pages of a bill and take the same thing away in the same bill.

On first blush, it looked like the Florida Legislature gave something to local governments — cities, counties and school boards — during its special session little more than a week ago.

For many years cities were exempt from paying the state's gas taxes and when they did pay the tax the state would refund the money.

When the Legislature repealed the first 4 cents of the gas tax from which the cities had been exempt, it appeared to take care of the loss of funds to the cities by exempting them from the new 6 cents in sales tax which they would have had to pay.

In addition, the Legislature in the 79-page bill also exempted counties and school boards from the tax.

The provision was included in Section 212.92, subsections C and D on page 20 of the legislation. The new sales tax goes into effect on April 1. However, three pages from the end of the bill, in Section 62, the provision granting this exemption is repealed as of Oct. 1.

So, the Florida Legislature granted an exemption in one section and took it away in another, all in the same bill.

Now, what does that mean? It means simply that the city of Sanford during the current budget year expected to save $5,695 because of its gas tax exemption. But if the exemption is repealed and considering the 2-cent increase in state taxes on gasoline, it will pay the state $8,400 in those taxes in fiscal 1983-84.

While state officials insist the sales tax will total 5 cents plus a fraction per gallon, it will actually total 6 cents per gallon.

The mathematics is as follows: with the repeal of the first 4 cents of the gas tax and keeping in place the second 4 cents, 3 cents of which is used by county governments and 1 cent of which goes to city governments — the actual increase in taxes on gasoline is 6 cents minus 4 cents or 2 cents per gallon.

The city of Allamonte Springs in fiscal 1983-84, instead of saving $3,500, will be paying the state more than $5,000 while Casselberry, instead of saving $3,000, will be paying the state $4,500.

The Florida League of Cities went before a legislative committee lobbying for all it was worth to retain the exemption for the cities during the special session. The story goes that from that point the state county commission association and state school board association lobbyists went to work to get the same thing for their constituencies and put the pressure on legislators to get the tax exemption. When the legislative committee got fearful, so the story goes, that the two powerful associations might kill the legislation, the section was included granting the exemption to those bodies as well. Afterwards, the repeal section was added at the end of the bill.

Sanford City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles, who has worked with the Florida League of Cities for years, said Friday that the FLC will be in Tallahassee during the upcoming regular session in April to get that exemption back.

Allamonte Springs Mayor Ray Ambrose said that certainly the cities will be talking to as many legislators as possible on the exemption.

Only two of Seminole County's legislators voted for the tax bill — State Reps. Tom Drage of Orlando and Art Grindle of Allamonte Springs. The others, Reps. Carl Selph, Bobby Brantley and state Sens. John Vogt, Richard Langley and Toni Jennings voted against it.

Brantley noted that the legislation was adopted so quickly, most of the legislators did not have enough time to read the bill.

Selph has said that he will be filing legislation during the regular session to repeal the repeal of the tax exemption to cities, counties and school boards. And he said that Miss Jennings has promised to sponsor the legislation in the state Senate.

IN BRIEF

Senate Struggling Still With Jobs Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republican-led Senate is taking a lot longer than planned to pass an emergency jobs and recession relief bill, and the showdown may come Monday.

With no apparent way to block Sen. Robert Kasten, R-Wis., from calling up an amendment to repeal the 10 percent tax withholding on interest and dividends, the Senate leadership is working over the weekend to line up opposition.

Senate Republican leader Howard Baker has conceded Kasten has the votes to attach the repealer to the jobs bill, but he is looking for a way to make the issue a procedural one on which he can get support for a parliamentary maneuver.

Kasten predicted he will have enough votes not only to win repeal, but to stave off any procedural moves as well.

President Reagan threatened to veto the $3.8 bipartisan bill if Kasten's amendment is attached.

Sea Laws Proclaimed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan has extended U.S. mining rights to a region covering about 4 million square miles of ocean by declaring an exclusive economic zone of 200 nautical miles.

Some conservative senators said they will introduce legislation to extend that jurisdiction to include fishing.

The proclamation stakes out U.S. rights to explore and mine all minerals in the zone, including oil and gas. It does not directly affect fishing rights, which vary according to the species involved, or territorial waters, which remain at 3 nautical miles off the U.S. coasts.

It declares the waters adjacent to the United States, Puerto Rico and all U.S. overseas territories, including the Pacific Trust territories, are an exclusive economic zone. The proclamation took effect immediately upon being issued Thursday.

No Bank 'Witch Hunt'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Finance Committee Chairman Robert Dole says he is not conducting a "witch hunt" against financial institutions in retaliation for their intensive lobbying campaign against the new withholding tax.

But, Dole, R-Kan., said it is time to "question whether commercial banks, thrift institutions and credit unions are bearing their fair share of the income tax burden."

As he opened hearings on the tax treatment of financial institutions Friday, Dole suggested that major banks should pay a user fee to offset the cost of government participation in the International Monetary Fund.

NATIONAL REPORT: Rain, snow and gale-force winds coated power lines with a thick crust of ice that blacked out hundreds of homes in the Northeast and temperatures plunged to record lows in the South. A school bus crash on a snowy Pennsylvania road injured 19 people. Light snow Friday coated the Appalachians, the Ohio valley and the lower Great Lakes. Binghamton, N.Y., reported 5 inches of snow and a light coating in Buffalo, warmed by temperatures in the 70s earlier this week, made driving perilous. "It's winter again," one deputy said. A school bus and a car hit head-on on a snowy road near Mount Pleasant, Pa., slightly injuring 18 children. The driver of the car was seriously injured. New Orleans and West Palm Beach set low temperature records for the day with readings of 36 and 44, respectively, but temperatures hit the 70s in Montana. "Most of our weather is coming off the Pacific, and this is warm air" in contrast to the normal Canadian air the region receives, said Max Baumgartner of the National Weather Service in Helena. Gale-force winds lashed the Northeast coast and flash flood advisories were posted. In ice-coated Massachusetts, about 500 homes in Berkshire and Franklin counties were blacked out Friday. More than 100 utility crews — half of them called in from their affiliate Connecticut Light & Power Co. — worked to restring snapped lines for the third day Friday.

U.S. Retaliates Against Oil-Rich Kuwait

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is retaliating against one of the richest OPEC nations, Kuwait, for "discriminating against U.S. citizens and corporations" seeking petroleum interests in the Persian Gulf country.

In announcing the decision, Interior Secretary James Watt said the U.S. government will stop Kuwait from buying U.S. oil and gas interests on federal land, and will investigate whether the Arab nation can keep its current holdings.

The decision by Watt declares Kuwait a "non-reciprocal nation" under the federal Mineral Leasing Act because it is discriminating against U.S. business interests that want to hold petroleum concessions in Kuwait.

While Kuwait in the 1970s forced out U.S. firms from holding interests in its energy resources, the major oil-producing country has not nationalized such concessions held by Japanese, British, Dutch and Spanish interests, Watt said.

"Because we are committed to free trade that works in both directions, we cannot condone a practice which shut out Americans while allowing access to citizens and corporations of other nations," he said at a news conference.

Watt's action means no Kuwait citizens or corporations may acquire new interests in "onshore" federal oil or gas leases under the mineral leasing law. He said his agency and the Justice Department also will determine whether Kuwait "can continue to hold the lands they now have."

Kuwait Petroleum Corp., a state-owned company, was involved in the largest investment ever by Mideast interests in a publicly traded U.S. corporation.

In 1981, it bought Santa Fe International Corp. for $2.5 billion. Santa Fe, based in Alhambra, Calif., is a major petroleum drilling and exploration firm.

Watt said only $9 million of the $2.5 billion Santa Fe deal involved federal energy leases. But he noted, "They were seeking to acquire other leases."

Santa Fe Chairman E.E. Shannon charged, however, the government action will force his company to abandon some $50 million in energy investment in this country which would have created additional employment in the United States.

Shannon also argued Kuwait is not discriminating against Americans, "since Kuwait moved in an orderly and fair manner to end all foreign ownership in the 1970s."

The 1981 Kuwait deal was reached after Santa Fe's 13 directors, including Gerald Ford, voted unanimously in favor of the acquisition.

The Securities and Exchange Commission soon afterward announced it was investigating allegations of "insider trading" in Santa Fe stock and options, in connection with the Kuwait deal.

The SEC charged that transactions acquiring Santa Fe's common stock were illegally based on confidential information, and that some people with the information collectively profited more than $5 million.

The commission eventually took action against a Kuwait investor and a number of financial institutions as a result of the allegations of insider trading. In December 1981, the Kuwait acquisition of Santa Fe was completed, after the Justice Department and a federal review group announced they would not oppose the takeover.

General At Odds With Reagan

Nuclear War In Europe Can't Be Contained

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The head of U.S. armed forces in Europe seems to be at odds with President Reagan over whether a nuclear war could be limited, a debate of vital concern to Western Europeans.

Gen. Bernard Rogers, commander in chief of the U.S. European Command, told the House Armed Services Committee that a nuclear exchange in Europe would spill over to the United States, but that such a threat could be diminished by building up conventional forces on the continent.

"We are not going to contain a nuclear war in Western Europe," the outspoken general declared.

"A nuclear war in Western Europe is going to escalate to a strategic exchange," he said. "I feel the war would escalate quickly."

It was believed to be the first time Rogers has made such a statement publicly and it appeared to contradict his commander-in-chief, President Reagan, who has said a nuclear war would not necessarily spread.

Speaking to a group of editors Oct. 16, 1982, Reagan said: "I could see where you could have exchange of tactical weapons against troops in the field without it bringing either one of the major powers to pushing the button."

The statement was widely reported throughout Europe and became a focus of the nuclear freeze movement in many countries. Some European officials questioned whether the continent could become a nuclear battleground in an escalation of tensions between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Rogers made the declaration to press his case for the continued modernization of conventional forces in Europe. Among other things, he is seeking the equipment for two more divisions — four equipped divisions are now stationed in Europe — so the hardware would be in position should more U.S. troops be needed in a conflict.

The general said he was promised the equipment when he took over as European commander June 29, 1979, but has yet to see it.

"I figure the Army owes me two sets of equipment," he said. "The quicker I get those over there, the less chance I'd have to use nuclear weapons."

Rogers said a resolution to be considered by the House next week calling for a mutual and verifiable freeze on nuclear arms is "a mistake. It's counterproductive to our goals."

The Soviet Union must be convinced that NATO is determined to deploy Pershing 2 and cruise missiles in Europe, beginning in December for it to negotiate reductions in intermediate-range nuclear weapons, he said.

"It may be that it won't be until she (the Soviet Union) sees those Pershing 2s and cruise missiles on European soil that she'll begin to negotiate," he said.

Rep. William Dickinson, R-Ala., complained information that could be used to persuade the people of America and Europe of the Soviet threat and the need for U.S. nuclear weapons in Europe is classified.

"You're not going to sell your position without producing information," Dickinson told Rogers.

But the general said his superiors have turned down his request for release of seven satellite photographs showing sites of Soviet SS-20 missiles.

"You can't get anybody in Western Europe to believe line drawings of an SS-20. They've got to see the picture," he said. "I have been singularly unsuccessful in my endeavors."

Sheriff Says 40-50 Deputies Not Involved In Probe

Seminole County Sheriff John Polk has flatly denied allegations that as many as 40 to 50 of his officers could be involved in thefts of property from evicted persons.

Polk, who asked Gov. Bob Graham to appoint an outside investigator to probe allegations that some deputies may have been involved in the theft of evicted people's property, said: "There is no way they are going to find that number."

There are around 130 deputy sheriffs under Polk. The sheriff had asked for an independent investigator to look into the allegations because he said he wanted to "avoid the appearance of a whitewash."

The investigation, which could take about two months, will be carried out by Alachua County State Attorney Eugene T. Whitworth.

The probe arises out of a complaint by a South Seminole man, Randal Brister, who was evicted from his home in December 1980. Shortly afterwards he found that a $700 stereo had allegedly been sold by former deputy sheriff Aaron Sanders, who was fired after refusing to take a polygraph test when he was investigated.

Polk says that at the time there was no evidence that Sanders was involved in alleged wrongdoing but after Brister had complained about him not being charged, case papers had been sent to Orange County, where the stereo had been sold.

State Attorney Douglas Cheshire could not be reached for comment.

THIEVES STRIKE HALF-BUILT HOMES
Houses under construction have again become the target of thieves who are stripping out hundreds of dollars worth of equipment.

The latest firm of home builders to fall victim to the thieves is Sabal Point Properties, of Winter Park, which discovered a $1,100 Litton microwave oven had been removed from a range thieves had to dismantle at a half-built house at Winter Ridge Road, Longwood.

The theft happened between 5:30 p.m. Monday and 2 p.m. Tuesday.

In the second theft, a pool pump worth $225 was stolen by thieves from a house being built at Grace Lake Circle, Longwood, Thursday. The pump belonged to Altamonte Springs builder Clarence Brent Allen.

JUKE BOX CASH STOLEN
A box containing $85 in quarters from a juke box was stolen from the Deluxe Bar, Southwest Road, Sanford, between 9 and 9:50 p.m. Thursday. The money belonged to the pub owner, Regino Alexander.

GUNS STOLEN
Three guns worth $750 were stolen from a house and two pick-up trucks belonging to Willard Ainsworth, 2860 S. Cameron Ave., Sanford, between 8:30 p.m. Wednesday and noon Thursday.

The thief stole a 20-gauge pump action shotgun worth $500 from the back bedroom of the house and semi-automatic .22-caliber rifle from one of the pick-up trucks parked outside the house. A third weapon, a .22-caliber rifle, was stolen from another pick-up.

SHOTGUN STOLEN
A 12-gauge Remington shotgun worth $75 and a .22-caliber rifle were stolen from Lefears Jackson, 125 East Street, Altamonte Springs, between 2 and 2:30 p.m. Thursday. Entry to the house was made by forcing open a door.

OFF-DUTY POLICE CAN'T CARRY GUNS
Casselberry Police Chief Fred McGowan has bluntly told his officers that they can't carry their guns outside the city limits when off-duty.

"I don't allow it. It is against the law," said McGowan, who did not want to discuss a petition submitted by Casselberry officer Paul James for permission to carry weapons while in uniform as they traveled to and from work.

"I don't want to get into the middle of a controversy. If the law is changed then that is a different matter," said McGowan.

McGowan maintains that once off-duty and outside the city limits, officers are civilians.

Some Casselberry officers have expressed concern that they could possibly run into trouble on their way home and would need a gun.

They are supported by Assistant Seminole County Attorney Bob McMillan who says that "all full-time officers have the right to carry concealed weapons during off-duty hours at the discretion of their supervisors."

In a memo sent by McMillan to County Administrator T. Duncan Rose, McMillan says that under state law, police officers do not need a license to carry a concealed weapon "when acting at any time within the scope and course of their official duties or when acting at any time in the line of or performance of their duties."

McMillan said the disagreement would have to be resolved by Casselberry officials.

SPEAKING OF MACHO...
A "macho man" who pulled a gun in an argument rather than back down was told by a Seminole Circuit judge that as part of his sentence he could give talks on the problems of macho men.

The unusual sentence was handed down by Judge Dominick J. Salfi Wednesday to 25-year-old Wayne Derrick Muselwhite of Longwood. He was told that as a condition of his one-year probation he could make speeches on the problems of macho men instead of spending six weeks in jail.

Muselwhite's attorney, Richard Rhodes, had argued that his client had reacted the way he did as a result of being brought up in a strong macho environment.

IN BRIEF

Eastern Airlines Strike May Be Avoided Sunday

MIAMI (UPI) — Federal mediators, reporting "some progress," kept negotiators for Eastern Airlines and its machinists union working in around-the-clock sessions Saturday in hopes of averting a strike scheduled for midnight.

Robert Harris, chairman of the National Mediation Board, is directing the talks at the Diplomat Hotel in nearby Hollywood.

"On balance, we are going forward. On balance, we are settling issues that weren't settled," Harris said at a news briefing Friday afternoon. "At this point in time, I have no reason to think that we'll need to go past the deadline."

Charles Bryan, leader of the International Association of Machinists bargaining committee, didn't appear as optimistic.

"We'll keep talking, but I haven't seen any change in the company's position in 18 months," Bryan said.

Even if the talks extend beyond the deadline, Bryan said, the strike will begin at 12:01 a.m. Sunday.

Eastern, which claims it carries more passengers than any other domestic airline, brings more visitors to the area than any other carrier. It also is one of the major transporters of visitors to and from Disney World, near Orlando.

Measles Coming South

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Health officials anticipating the arrival of vacationing Indiana University students who may be carrying measles are warning hospital emergency rooms to be ready.

The measles outbreak at the university in Bloomington has so far resulted in 181 reported cases. State officials have warned health authorities in Florida and other parts of the country to be on the lookout for Indiana students taking their spring break.

"We've alerted the county health officials that are likely to receive Indiana students that it is possible some measles importation may occur," said Dr. Jeffrey Sacks, acting director of Epidemiology for the Florida Health Department in Tallahassee.

He said college-age residents in Florida should be vaccinated quickly because they are susceptible to the disease.

Health officials in Florida may set up vaccination clinics, but there are no plans to do so unless several measles cases are reported there, Sacks said.

In the last year there have been several measles outbreaks in Florida, concentrated mostly among high-school students and young children in south Florida.

Students who become ill in Florida and fear they have measles should phone the nearest emergency room before receiving treatment to prevent spreading the disease, Sacks said.

Coalition Charges Reagan Jobs Bill Ignores Women

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A 57-member coalition of groups, ranging from the League of Women Voters to the Lutheran Council, is pressuring Congress to provide more work for women in emergency jobs bills.

The groups say President Reagan's original $4.3 billion bill, focusing on the repair of public buildings, veterans hospitals and public facilities, failed to take women into account.

DES, Cancer Linked In Men

CHICAGO (UPI) — Doctors are reporting the first documented cases of testicular cancer in young men whose mothers, during pregnancy, took DES — a synthetic estrogen already linked to cervical cancer in daughters.

DES, or diethylstilbestrol, was widely used in the United States from the early 1940s to 1971 to prevent spontaneous abortion and other pregnancy complications.

"As many as 4 to 6 million mothers, daughters and sons were exposed to the drug," Dr. Gene R. Conley of Boston's Tufts-New England Medical Center wrote in the latest Journal of the American Medical Association.

The first male case was published in the Journal by Conley and colleagues.

"A 28-year-old man was first seen with a large, painless scrotal mass that had slowly developed during one year. Antenatally (before birth), the mother had taken DES from the first to the third trimester, in amounts up to 105 mg per day," they said.

The doctors since have seen another case of seminoma, a malignant tumor in the testes, in a 27-year-old man exposed to DES while in the womb. He also has five DES-exposed siblings — two sisters and one brother have genital tract abnormalities.

"Multiple genital tract abnormalities have been reported in female and male offspring exposed to DES in utero," the doctors said. "The association of maternal DES therapy with tumor appearance in young women is well-known."

DES has been linked to vaginal abnormalities that can lead to a rare form of cervical glandular cancer called clear cell adenocarcinoma. Left untreated, the cancer can result in the partial or complete loss of female reproductive organs.

In laboratory tests, adult male rodents exposed to DES while in the womb developed testicular and renal tumors.

The doctors said that while the possibility of cancer in DES-exposed males was considered a possibility, "To our knowledge, until now no case of testicular cancer has been documented in a person exposed in utero to DES."

The doctors said there are three possible reasons for the lack of previous findings of testicular cancer in DES-exposed men.

"First, patients with testicular tumors are not usually questioned about antenatal DES exposure and, if questioned, may not know," they said.

"Second, the peak incidence of seminoma occurs in 30-year-olds and since DES exposure was most common in the 1950s, the group at greatest risk would be expected to be seen in the 1980s. Third, the association may not exist."

proposal totally ignored the existence of 43 percent of the labor force (women)," said Nanine Meiklejohn, a lobbyist for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

The House has approved a $4.9 billion bill and the Senate was working on a $3.7 billion version. The coalition believes their work has resulted in better bills.

"Both bills more directly acknowledge women's needs," Ms. Meiklejohn said.

But Dee Jepsen, White House liaison for women's affairs, said Reagan's original jobs bill would employ women as well.

She pointed to the large number of married women. "When males go back to work, women benefit," she said.

Labor Department statistics show that one in three female-headed families live at the poverty level, compared with one in 18 male-headed families.

Members of the coalition say their lobbying on Capitol Hill has resulted in changes in the jobs bill that place an increased emphasis on social services — an area where women can compete equally with men.

Social service money affects women directly by creating jobs in such fields as health care and indirectly by providing services like day care that many women need to take a job outside the home.

The coalition contends Reagan's proposed jobs program would create an estimated 300,000 to 600,000 jobs — mostly for men.

The Senate Appropriations Committee Monday doubled social service block grants, contained in the jobs bill, from $150 million to $300 million. But it set a 50 percent cap on social service spending in another provision of the bill — community development block grants.

Earlier, the full House allocated $740 million for all social service programs, including social service block grants.

"The House version is going to provide a lot more jobs for women than the original package," said Sally Laird, legislative director for the League of Women Voters. "We wanted to focus on programs women are qualified to step into."

Ms. Laird said one lobbying tactic the coalition used was to remind legislators. "Look, you didn't do anything for us last time."

IN BRIEF

Non-Aligned Summit Ends; No Peace Plan

NEW DELHI (UPI) — The non-aligned movement, torn by internal disputes, ended its seventh summit Saturday without a peace plan for the Iran-Iraq war and in disagreement on where to hold its next meeting.

The 101-member movement extended its five-day meeting by an extra day in its efforts to find a Gulf war solution but agreed to harshly condemn American and Israeli actions in the Middle East.

Originally scheduled to end Friday, the conference wound up its business Saturday with a plea for an end to the 30-month-old war between members Iran and Iraq and a general call for nuclear disarmament.

"We appeal to Iran and Iraq to bring an immediate end to the war. It is the universal desire that the fighting must stop at once and the two sides come to an honorable, just and enduring peace through negotiations and peaceful means," the final statement said.

Although Iraq offered at the summit to submit the dispute to binding arbitration by non-aligned leaders, Iran demanded condemnation of Baghdad as the aggressor and insisted on reparations for loss of life and property.

Let's Make Hay With Alaska Oil

It's about time Congress lifted 10-year-old restrictions against the sale of Alaskan crude oil and natural gas to foreign nations.

These restrictions were enacted at the beginning of the Arab oil embargo. Congress feared the nation would be dependent on oil from Alaska, and if it were sold to foreign countries our national energy security would be undermined.

These fears proved groundless. Demands for oil fell way off, partly because prices increased from $1.80 to $34 per barrel during the last 10 years.

Now the West Coast has a glut of Alaskan oil and it is discouraging additional oil production from Alaska.

If export controls were lifted today, the United States could slice almost $2 billion a year from its budget deficit, reduce its annual trade deficit with Japan and the Far East about $20 billion annually and abort plans for construction of a $2 billion pipeline from Puget Sound to Wisconsin.

The Alaska export restrictions are bad enough by themselves. However, when coupled with the 1920 Jones Act (which requires that all shipments between U.S. ports must be made in American flag vessels with American crews), the negative aspects are multiplied.

At present, all the crude oil and natural gas that leaves the southern Alaskan port of Valdez must either be delivered to the West Coast or carried via the Canal Zone to the Gulf Coast by American vessels. This is high-priced transportation over long distances.

It would be far cheaper to sell Valdez crude to Japan, replacing it at Gulf and Atlantic ports with imported oil from Venezuela and the east coast of Mexico. Millions of dollars in shipping costs could be saved.

Alaskan producers could develop more oil for export, possibly as much more as one million barrels a day, from fields that contain 19 billion barrels of oil and 26 trillion cubic feet of natural gas.

There would be other immediate benefits. Mexico's present financial crisis would be reduced, with increased oil sales to the United States. Japan would find itself not nearly so dependent on oil deliveries from the Mideast. And the OPEC nations would find themselves facing stiffer competition.

Yes, the Alaskan petroleum sales restrictions should be revoked by Congress, and soon.

There will be heavy opposition from the maritime interests, but common sense must prevail.

Tax Cut: Revenues

Ever since Congress voted to cut taxes across the board in 1981, critics have complained the tax cut was tilted unfairly to the benefit of the rich.

While tax rates in general were to be cut by 25 percent in three steps, the maximum tax rate was cut from 70 percent to 50 percent in one step.

Supply-side economists argued that the government would wind up collecting more taxes rather than less from the higher income groups, and data coming in suggests they were right.

The magazine Forbes reports that taxpayers filing quarterly estimates of income tax—generally those in the higher brackets—paid $85 billion in income taxes in 1982, up 10 percent from the previous year. Their taxes represented 29 percent of the total collected, compared to 27 percent a year earlier.

Rep. Jack Kemp, R-New York, has been quick to trumpet these preliminary results of the tax cut he championed. "Lowering the top tax rates has lured high-income taxpayers out of tax shelters and into more productive, job-producing—and taxable—investments. Revenues are up, not down, as a result," Kemp says.

Critics of supply-side economists have pooh-poohed the idea that a dramatic cut in income tax rates could produce an increase in tax revenue.

They were not impressed by the experience with such a tax cut during the Kennedy administration. Maybe the results of the Reagan tax cut will bring them around.

BERRY'S WORLD

By Doris Dietrich

Jean Norris is a gracious lady with an eye for beauty. She's known around Sanford as the plant lady.

Jean frequently lectures to school children as well as various organizations. She says that the younger school children are always entranced with her onion story and how the plump, robust onion gives birth to baby onions.

The plant lady was brought up under the eyes of a loving mother who instilled good manners in Jean, just as most mamas did back then. Those were the days when kids said, "yes ma'am, no ma'am, please, thank you and I'm sorry."

Jean learned that mannerly people (some as poor as Job's turkey as the old saying goes) answer formal wedding invitations, write sympathy notes, send thank you notes and always return borrowed items.

But when the "me" generation reared its ugly head, politeness stepped aside to naturalness. The "in" thing was for people of all walks of life to do as they please, so to speak, and be completely natural in dress, conversation, eating habits and the like.

But being natural is not necessarily beautiful or comfortable, Jean says. "Ever watch a small child slurp up food? It's a mess and not too appetizing. But it's natural," she laughs.

Jean is concerned that morals have gone astray and many people have no self-respect to say the least of respect for others. She wonders why educated people have to pepper their conversation with gutter talk. "Are they so insecure that they need attention that badly?" she asks in dead seriousness.

The plant lady recalls when girls were sent to fancy finishing schools to learn charm and grace. Sure, these same girls probably used four-letter words in private—but rarely ever in public. "Ladies never used profanity publicly back then,"

Jean says.

With attitudes so contagious, Jean is concerned that profane language is cropping up profusely as a means of expression, even among the highly educated. "Gutter talk is not necessarily confined to lower economic persons," she says. "And it's sad."

Jean went on to say, "We have governmental employees to clean up streets, highways, the air and sewage systems, so why don't we have someone to enforce cleaning up language? Thank goodness, though, that most self-respecting folks don't air their dirty laundry or dirty language publicly."

The plant lady would have the world as beautiful and lovely as the flowers surrounding her daily. But they don't get that way on their own, she admits.

And neither does beautiful language, or much else, without a lot of hard work and self-discipline, Jean says.

JEFFREY HART Let's Stop Scaring The Kids

An outrage of stunning stupidity is being perpetrated in some American elementary schools, a fact I learn from a recent column by Ellen Goodman, who reveals approvingly in the outrage.

Goodman begins by describing the traditional pictures and decorations on the walls of the first-grade school room, the same school. In fact, she attended as a child. "But seated in a semicircle on the floor of the room, a class of small children spent an hour with the cameras and sound equipment talking about what one child called 'the nuclear.' They were being filmed for a medical research program to show us what, and when, children know about nuclear weapons in the world. The contrast between the history on the walls and the contemporary terror on the floor was not as striking to me as it might have been"—because Goodman, growing up in an earlier phase of the atomic era, had also been afraid as a child.

But she certainly seems to approve of the child abuse she describes in this column.

"One third-grader had heard about 'the button' so much that she envisioned buttons everywhere that anyone could push. Another child thought that nuclear bombs were small enough to be carried around by anyone...A third believed that one bomb alone could destroy the world." The overall theme of Goodman's column in this case can be summed up in one of her sentences: "I tried to imagine what kind of reassurance today's adults can give." Her conclusion is, not much. The atomic monstrosity is scaring the kiddies sily with nightmares of apocalypse.

About which, a few comments: Those children did not get their misinformation from each other. The source was adult hysteria from people perhaps including Goodman herself. The evidence is accumulating and persuasive that many classrooms are being used today to scare the bejezus out of uncomprehending children about the nuclear threat. The goal is to mobilize anti-nuclear feeling, and the children are being exploited to that end. Well, cut it out.

Children in the earliest grades are not capable of understanding deterrence theory any more than they are capable of understanding calculus or the 12-tone scale. Nor do the hysterical anti-nuclear adults who are engaging in child abuse have anything superior to deterrence, pushing only chimerical "abolition" of nuclear weapons.

Every educator knows that there are stages in a child's growth when it is possible and appropriate to deal with different kinds of subjects. For some topics, the mind, the experience, and the emotions require at least some maturity.

As things are now going, however, I regard as pathological and even criminal the emotional slaughter of the innocents, and the gross political manipulation of babes, as described by Ellen Goodman in her column.

Why Are Feds Blocking Doc's File?

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department has used outrageous stalling tactics to deny Dr. Jeffrey MacDonald his legal right to see the government's files on himself. After more than three years of trying, MacDonald has yet to receive a single page of the department's 90,000-page file.

MacDonald was a Green Beret doctor at Fort Bragg, N.C., in 1970 when his pregnant wife and two daughters were brutally murdered in their home. MacDonald claimed that a drug-crazed "hippie group" killed his family and seriously wounded him. An Army investigation cleared him.

But the Justice Department, at the urging of MacDonald's father-in-law, pursued the case. Nine years after the crime, the doctor was brought to trial. Evidence that he believes could have exonerated him was withheld, and he was found guilty. He is now serving three consecutive life sentences for crimes he insists he did not commit.

Convinced that the government had information that supports his claim of innocence, MacDonald requested his files under the Freedom of Information Act in January 1980. He told my associate Donald Goldberg he believes

JULIAN BOND

Who Likes Ya In 1984?

Who do you like?
Who has your support for president in 1984?

It isn't always an easy question. If you're a Republican you'll probably say Ronald Reagan. The economy may be in ruin and unemployment rates may be climbing but he's the best bet your party has right now. Vice President George Bush, Sen. Robert Dole (Kansas) and Sen. Howard Baker (Tennessee) are waiting in the wings for a Reagan withdrawal. But for the moment, most Republicans are willing to stay the course.

If you're a Democrat the field is wider. You can choose among former Vice President Walter Mondale, the present poll front-runner; close-contender Sen. John Glenn (Ohio); Sen. Gary Hart (Colorado); Sen. Alan Cranston (California); Sen. Ernest Hollings (South Carolina); Sen. Dale Bumpers (Arkansas); and former Florida Gov. Reuben Askew.

Former and present Alabama governor and three-time presidential candidate George Wallace may run as his state's favorite son in 1984.

Among Mondale's revised orthodox liberalism, Hart's pragmatism, Glenn's liberal moderation, Askew's moderate liberalism, Cranston's liberal internationalism, Hollings' conservative moderation, Bumpers' moderate conservatism and the raw activism of Wallaceism, there's a broad choice.

Each one of the above thinks that Reagan's economic and international program could stand adjustment, from major to purely cosmetic surgery. Each thinks the Reagan record presents a window of vulnerability that can topple the president in November 1984. Each thinks he's got a prescription that will cure the ills each blames Reagan for creating.

But suppose you're a black Democrat. Suppose you agree Reagan is a disaster, but don't think any of the Democrats speak to your special needs.

Suppose you think that none of the labels correctly describes the kind of politics you want to see installed in the White House in 1985.

What do you do? If getting rid of Reagan was your only desire you could pick the candidate with a dart at 10 paces. Any except rerun George Wallace would suit you fine.

But you're understandably worried that no Democratic candidate seems to have your agenda in mind. At least none has said so, so far.

Oh, each one is in favor of human rights. But a review of public remarks makes you think they mean human rights in El Salvador and Afghanistan.

The Reagan program of weakening the protection and narrowing the remedies available to the victims of discrimination has escaped all the Democratic candidates so far.

Or else they've decided that black voters will — like other Americans — ignore the destruction of their liberties and protections, and will choose from among the candidates by applying non-racial standards.

That's a luxury black voters can't afford in 1984, unless all other Americans agree to stop imposing racial qualifications as well.

Since that's unlikely, black voters in 1984 may choose from the Democrats' list of contenders with some reluctance. Or they may insist that a candidate who looks and talks like them joins the race.

That might upset the plans of the Democrats who hope to win the nomination with the help of black anti-Reagan voters, but it should ensure that the eventual nominee is someone who makes a place in his platform for protections black voters need.

RUSTY BROWN A Home By Any Standard

Most women are nesters... a behavior that follows them wherever they go.

If I spend a week or more in a hotel room, I find myself unable to fight the urge to make it "homey."

Ridiculous, I know. First, I unpack totally, filling drawers and hangers, then stashing away the suitcases.

I spread the magazines we've brought across the coffee table and put the books on the table beside the bed.

In no time, I'm looking around for flowers to float in the ash trays or I assemble a wildflower bouquet in an empty pop bottle. Sometimes I put together a fruit bowl, and I often take along paper plates, napkins, cheese and crackers for a hospitable touch if we invite new acquaintances to our room.

If the draw drapes are hanging off the track (and believe me, they are in some of the finest hotels), I invariably climb on a chair to set the hooks aright. On occasion, I've rearranged the furniture.

I can't help straightening up a bit each day before the maid comes. I find myself prodding my husband to put away his shoes and — for heaven's sake — to take his undershirt off the door handle. He, of course, thinks my nagging is absurd. "I thought this was a vacation," he complains.

That's when I remind him that at least I'm not as bad as an aunt who always traveled with a can of cleanser and insisted on scrubbing out the tub before she unpacked.

A friend of mine has her own rituals. She has an elegant travel mirror she likes to place on the bathroom shelf. As she and her husband frequently take off between Christmas and New Year's, she always decorates for New Year's Eve. She hangs colorful balloons and streamers around the room and puts out one of those fancy paper centerpieces from Hallmark.

She recalls, "Once we had a travel case that held a wine bottle and two gold goblets. With those, and a lighted candle, our room was very romantic. Unfortunately, we left the case behind somewhere."

I've heard and read of other women who personalized their hotel rooms when traveling.

Gloria Vanderbilt, for example, is on the road a lot to promote her signature jeans, fabrics and wall coverings. She packs a collection of scarves to recover the lampshades and give the room a soft glow. She also carries scented candles, a print throw pillow and a folding frame of family pictures.

Another woman carries a small vase for the flowers she always buys and takes a couple of printed hand towels to offset the bland bathroom.

A company president buys plants for her room and gives them to the hotel staff when she leaves.

And why not? Today's room rates are often as high as a monthly payment on a mortgage.

to fulfilling the Department's responsibilities...

MacDonald did a little better with the FBI — but not much. He has received 39 of the 1,148 pages of documents on him in the FBI files. However, the 39 pages consist almost entirely of newspaper clippings and press releases.

The FBI's reason for hanging onto the rest of MacDonald's file is confusing, to say the least. The bureau admittedly has no ongoing investigation as such. But according to FBI Director William Webster, "This case remains in a pending status, with the FBI currently making inquiries as specifically requested by the U.S. Department of Justice."

Congressman Edwards questioned the FBI's assertion in his letter to the attorney general. "In light of the facts that Dr. MacDonald was convicted in 1979 and that the Supreme Court denied... his final appeal," Edwards wrote, "It appears that the position taken by the Bureau is in error, as well as at odds with the position of the Department of Justice."

In short, through unconscionable stalling and specious reasoning, the Justice Department and the FBI are keeping MacDonald from seeing his files. What is the government afraid of?

SOME VACATION: Congressional rules forbid a member's office staff from working on a re-election campaign except in their "free time." Yet somehow, the halls of Congress are virtually deserted during the last week or so before Election Day, as staff members head back home to protect their bosses' jobs — and their own.

Are they violating the "free time" law? Technically, no. These zealous campaign workers insist they're doing it all on their own time; they're on vacation. Oddly enough, though, campaign funds pay for their trips.

An aide to Rep. Beryl Anthony Jr., D-Ark., explained that though staff people did do "a little bit" of campaign work, their main reason for making the trip back to the district at campaign time was to take part in the excitement of the electoral process. Last fall, she said, the congressman's personal secretary, office manager and administrative assistant all flew home on vacation for the campaign windup.

To make sure his staff has time for more relaxing — if less exciting — vacations, Anthony gives them all 20 days' vacation a year.

Education System Is Most Important Opportunity For Future Of Florida

Today, the State of Florida stands on the threshold of national prominence. The question now before us is whether we will step up to the opportunity that is ours to create an educational system commensurate with our state's distinction in other fields. Fortunately, we still have enough time to do something about it. But, first, some background.

Demographers now estimate that Florida will become the fourth most populous state by the end of the decade. This influx of people will obviously raise a number of issues having to do with the quality of life in Florida, and no strand of the social fabric is more critical to the quality of life in our state than its educational system:

- In order to continue a democratic form of government, where the ultimate decisions rest with the people, our people must be well informed.
- In order for our economy to flourish and expand in the coming age of technology and information science, we must have an intelligent and skilled population.
- In order for our people to make creative use of their leisure time, they must know how to claim the great intellectual and cultural heritage that is theirs.

The governor, the Legislature, and the State Board of Education have pointed the way: "Educational achievement in the State of Florida will equal that of the upper quartile of states within five years." What a simple, but eloquent goal for the entire state to follow — from the smallest schools in the remotest parts of the Panhandle to the expanding institutions of higher education in the urban areas.

The Board of Regents fully recognizes its responsibility to carry out this commitment to the upper quartile goal. Although the Board is now privileged to oversee the operation of nine good universities, we believe that, with adequate support, these good institutions can be made to rank with the very best public institutions of the nation by the end of the decade.

Such a lofty goal will require the cooperation, energy, and statesmanship of all parties concerned. We already sense that the teachers in secondary schools throughout the state want to do a better job of preparing those students who wish to extend their education beyond high school. We have also begun to see a renewed commitment to academic achievement on the part of the students and faculty members now at work in the State University System.

The goal has been stated in competitive terms: to be within the "upper quartile of states" — or to put it in other words, our goal is to be demonstratively better than 75 percent of the states in the country. Although our analysis has convinced us that a university contains important ingredients that are not capable of measurement, we nonetheless have accepted the challenge to only reach the level of quality that makes our universities competitive with the universities in the top quartile of the states.

The wisdom of Florida's commitment is even more apparent now than when the upper-quartile promise was made two years ago.

The state's business, industrial, labor, and professional leaders are now making a renewed call for additional achievement as an indispensable part of a strong economic future. Additionally, the implementation of the promise now means that it is taking effect at a time when the national economy is devastating the very states that would have been more difficult to overtake when times were more prosperous.

The present moment is therefore pivotal for Florida's educational system. If the political and educational establishments can continue to merit the support of the people of the state, we will achieve the upper-quartile goal laid out for us by the Governor and the State Board of Education. Accordingly, the Board of Regents recently submitted to the State Board of Education a list of indicators which can be accurately measured across state lines to determine whether we are among the top 25 percent of the country's university systems:

- The number of National Merit Scholars and other commended students.
- The amount of money appropriated for each student in Florida's universities.
- The salaries of our faculty members.
- The holdings, facilities, and staffs of our research libraries.
- Expenditures per student for libraries.
- Research dollars generated by our faculties.

In addition, we feel that the other criteria, which are not capable of measurement across state lines, should be used by the University System to secure a solid foundation upon which academic excellence can be built. The Board of Regents therefore reaffirms its commitment to these basic principles:

- The institutions will continue their affirmative actions (1) to assure continued access to university programs for women and minorities and (2) to provide a balance of minority and female employees in all segments of the campuses.
- Further, the universities will offer an adequate breadth of programs so as to provide their students with a well-rounded undergraduate education. The size of classes will be reduced where there is the greatest effect on the learning process. English, math, and foreign language classes should probably have no more than 22 students, for example, and before graduating, all students should have at least one laboratory experience and participate in at least two small seminars in their major fields.
- Those programs not yet accredited, and for which accreditation is deemed important, will seek approval from the appropriate accrediting bodies.

In order to determine how secure that academic foundation has become, the Board of Regents will also measure the performance of its students by the following methods:

- The universities will not only administer the mathematics and the English skill tests to students at the end of the sophomore year, but they propose to administer the tests to incoming freshmen so that a student's progress during the first two years of undergraduate school can be assessed.
- The universities will use the specific discipline sections of the Graduate Record Examination to assess the achievement of their graduates. They will track graduates who win scholarships for further study, and they will monitor results of state licensure tests.
- The institutions will report the percentage of their faculties with terminal degrees.
- Finally, we will encourage the universities — and assist them when asked — as they solicit funds for endowed chairs under Florida's pioneering "Eminent Scholars Program."

Clearly, ours is a System to watch. We are pleased to report that we have begun to hear comments from educators in other parts of the country to the effect that "Florida is on the move." We believe that to be so. We hope that you will continue to support the State University System and that you will give us the kind of backing necessary to catapult our universities into the top quartile in the nation.

Sincerely,

Reform Sought For Bankruptcy Laws

Our current bankruptcy laws allow many deserving Americans to get a "fresh start" but, at the same time, they are making it far too easy for many other individuals to escape their debts — when in fact there are ways available for them to handle their financial burdens.

Some experts believe that more than $1 billion of the $6 billion in annual bankruptcies can be paid by debtors without hardship. Instead, however, we are all paying for this $1 billion debt in a number of ways. Businesses stung by individuals who do not pay their bills must in turn charge everyone higher prices to recoup their losses, and financial institutions are forced to reduce credit available to those who are deserving but have little collateral and are, therefore, a greater risk.

To correct this, we need to reform our consumer bankruptcy laws, and one good vehicle for this is "The Consumer Debtor Bankruptcy Amendments Act of 1983" (H.R. 1800), of which I am an original co-sponsor. This bill is designed to curb unnecessary bankruptcies while at the same time offer relief to those who really need it.

Since the Bankruptcy Code was revised by Congress in 1978 and enacted in 1979, we have seen a dramatic rise in personal bankruptcies. During this time, there have been about 450,000 each year, which is 200 percent of the rate for the 12 years preceding the enactment of the new Code.

Our economic conditions have been rough during these years — and have been an important factor in the rise in bankruptcies — but the fact remains that the Code has offered individuals a relatively easy way to free themselves from their financial obligations.

The legislation I have co-sponsored seeks to curb these unnecessary bankruptcies in a number of ways. Most importantly, it provides that consumer debtors receive counseling regarding their options before selecting a straight bankruptcy plan over a repayment plan. The National Bankruptcy Commission, which recommended such a measure, noted that many debtors do not realize that there are other alternatives available.

This bill also allows a judge to dismiss a bankruptcy proceeding if he feels that to continue it would constitute an abuse of the Bankruptcy Code; currently, the courts cannot stop a proceeding even if the judge believes that the relief sought is unnecessary. Other principal provisions of this bill address the problems of "loading up" by some debtors in anticipation of bankruptcy, create standards for courts to follow in confirming repayment plans, abolish the discharge hearing, and eliminate other costly and cumbersome procedures which prevent the efficient handling of bankruptcy cases. Federal exemption provisions would remain relatively intact, but debtors in joint cases would be required to elect between federal and state exemptions, instead of doubling up as is now the case. The bill also contains provisions to protect farmers whose crops are stored in bankrupt grain elevators.

There are other problems with our Bankruptcy Code that Congress is tackling at this time. In 1982, the Supreme Court ruled that the 1978 reform law gave bankruptcy court judges too much authority and not enough independence from the other branches of government. Legislation is now pending in the House and Senate to restructure the bankruptcy court, though there is much disagreement over exactly how this should be done. I myself have introduced legislation to protect those who have invested in "timeshare" vacation properties from losses due to bankruptcy.

Bankruptcy should be a last resort for those with no other options. Until we change our laws, however, it will continue to be abused by those who want the easy way out — leaving the rest of us to pay the price for their freedom.

Sincerely,
Rep. Bill McCollum

Public Officials Are Tax Happy

It is appalling to read daily the utter state of confusion that our elected and/or appointed officials work themselves and those around them into trying to invent new ways, means and ideas of taxation by which to satisfy the state's tremendous, ever increasing appetite for revenue.

The intellectual capacity of some of these lawmakers and representatives, as revealed by some of their statements concerning political economics, causes the situation to become alarming and very discouraging. They take up valuable time in preparation and presentation of a bill, which in turn only exposes their absolute ignorance of the subject, and some of these proposals are ghastly ridiculous. If the politicians responsible for the expenditure of our tax money had to earn it, I feel sure they would seek a more just way in its procurement, using "William of Occam's Razor," which is the principle of control and parsimony, in spending it.

The dominant contributing factor to the sad state of affairs in this state is the malfunction of its economic structure (tax system), which can be traced to the poor judgment and predictions of our unqualified administrators, who have been either elected or appointed to responsible positions of authority without proper qualifications. It appears quite obvious, at least as I see it, that what we see reflected here reverts back to our antiquated educational system, being conducted by "Ivory Towered" hubris professors and others who are in such a deplorable state of content rigidity that they have lost all contact with reality. Their philosophy is un-operational, therefore it is false, giving them a false sense of security which they do not realize, as they do not have to apply their theory of political economics to reality in order to abstract a living.

They depend upon our legislators (whom they have indoctrinated) through taxation, for their support.

There seems to be no greater sanctuary for the incompetent, labeled, degree holder than our tax supported public institutions. We send our children to school so that they may learn to solve problems, but they are being educated by those who cannot solve their own.

Right here the unequivocal, unambiguous fact becomes quite apparent, and where this state is sadly dragging its feet. Our institutions of learning seriously require a drastic overhauling before the caliber of graduates with administrative ability can be realized. This I feel can be accomplished by teaching the principles of Henry George's "Progress and Poverty," which deals with the use and misuse of taxation, and Alfred Korzybski's "Science and Sanity," which deals with the mathematical and physical sciences. These authors express that they give no panacea, but experience shows that when these principles are applied the results are usually beneficial on all levels, stressing administration and management, law, business, education, and all around good family relationships.

It is not so much what we must learn, but what we must unlearn, that is requisite. Intellectual discipline is necessary before any form of psychological maturity can be attained. A word to the wise is sufficient, but only to those who are wise to the words.

If the American Conservation Corps approved by the U.S. House gets the okay of the Senate — and, less likely, of the White House — it will be a modern version of the Civilian Conservation Corps of the 1930s. It won't be in the Army, but the closest a civilian can come to it and still be a civilian.

The CCC — widely known back then, as "the C's" — gave a reasonably good account of itself as the restorer and protector of resources, manmade and natural, on which the public depended for some aspect of living. In the process, it provided work and sustenance for thousands of young men who were idled by the Great Depression. Hard times, without recourse to the welfare and jobless benefits available today, made the CCC a palatable alternative to going hungry.

The need for updating and repairing public works is as great today as it was back then, and the proposed American Conservation Corps program could become a national asset.

Can there be a more irritating person than Dartmouth Professor John Rassias, he of the colorful but controversial style of teaching languages? We doubt it.

In fact, the highly opined professor of French and Italian was at it again when in a paper issued recently he declared:

"America's 'learning ends at the shorelines.' Our foreign language training is 'scandalous, incompetent and shameful.' We suffer from a 'mole mentality' and act as though we 'don't need the rest of the world.' Our lack of fluency in foreign languages poses a threat to our ability to conduct diplomatic relations abroad ... In the Soviet Union, there are more English teachers alone than there are students of Russian in the United States ... no one in the U.S. Embassy in Somalia can speak the native language ..."

But the very fact that many people are irritated by hearing these observations demonstrates that they need to be said.

...What should irritate us is that aside from Rassias, few educators are effectively stating these truths and the problem, which is of crisis proportions, remains unresolved.

Believe it or not, there's one person in the U.S. who likes to get junk mail — William Conklin of Denver who has deliberately placed his name on so many computerized mailing lists that he needs a cardboard box to receive the postman's daily delivery.

Ah, but there's method to the fellow's seeming madness. What he's doing is tossing all that junk mail into a wood stove to heat his home. A master stroke, we'd say. In fact, if the Conklin method catches on, it may lay to rest forever the hot debate over which is better, oil or natural gas. They both may lose out to the Postal Service.

The French government sponsored a big confabulation of intellectuals the other day in Paris, which still likes to think of itself as the cultural capital of the world.

Movie stars and directors, Noble Prize-winning authors and other international notables gathered. Not surprisingly, if you know anything about intellectuals, about the only consensus that emerged from what one reporter called murky and highly abstract discussions was that the United States is guilty of "cultural imperialism."

Speaker after speaker arose to denounce the projection of the worst products of American culture into almost every home in the non-communist world. And the worst product of all, they agreed, is the television serial "Dallas."

Imagine, with all the very real evils abroad in the world, the one thing that aroused the indignation of these supposedly great thinkers was a sappy soap opera.

To his credit, American novelist William Styron pointed out that "No one forces anybody at gunpoint in this country to watch 'Dallas.'"

IN BRIEF

Scotty's Sales Are Up For Month And 36 Weeks

Ray H. Cooney, president and chief operating officer of Scotty's, Inc., has reported that sales for the four weeks ended Feb. 26 were $26,665,631, an increase of 19 percent over sales of $24,129,098 for the corresponding four weeks last year.

Sales for the 34 weeks ended Feb. 26, of $212,629,116 increased 15 percent over sales for the 34 weeks ended Feb. 20.

Cooney added that the dollar increase in sales for February was approximately evenly divided between the builder and consumer segments of the market.

The 19 percent increase was achieved despite unusually frequent and heavy rains experienced in February this year compared with a normally dry season last year. February sales since 1977 have increased at a compound rate of 23.5 percent. The year to date increase was due to both builder and consumer sales increases.

New stores are under construction in Tampa and Margate. A replacement store was opened in Deland during February. New store construction is expected to begin soon in the Gateway Mall in St. Petersburg.

Company Changes Name

Art Brown Pest Control of Sanford has changed its name to Spencer Pest Control and added a new guarantee of on-time or no-charge service, according to Jim Daus, manager.

"We will be joining with other well-respected pest control companies in seven states throughout the Southeast in making this change to better serve our customers in the Sanford area," Daus said.

Spencer Pest Control, headquartered in Roswell, Ga., will provide an umbrella of professional expertise, marketing system and technical counseling to its independent members, all of whom will maintain autonomy.

"The only thing we're changing is our name," the manager said. "Our personnel, quality of service and local control will remain the same."

"The main difference will be the addition of our on-time guarantee," he said. "When we make an appointment to service your home or office, our representative will be there within 30 minutes of your scheduled time, or the job's on us."

Catalina Sales Are Up

Catalina Homes, Inc., posted $1.5 million in new home sales during the second week in February, according to Rodger Anderson, vice president for sales and marketing for the developer.

The firm wrote contracts on 19 new homes in six Central Florida subdivisions, including six contracts at Tusawilla Forest, Catalina's luxury homes community in Seminole County.

During the first two weeks in January, Tusawilla Forest posted $1.3 million in sales of 15 homes.

Anderson attributed the high volume to a combination of factors. "The HBA Parade of Homes drew a lot of traffic," Anderson said, "as well as publicity concerning our grand opening at Tusawilla Forest."

Sun Bank Promotes Two

Homer B. Lovvorn Jr., has been promoted to senior vice president and Lory M. Durrance was elected vice president of Sun Bank, N.A., according to Hans W. Tew's, bank president.

Lovvorn, 50, joined Sun Bank in 1981 as an operations officer. He is also vice president of operations services of Sun Banks of Florida, Inc., the parent bank holding company, and president of its subsidiary Sunbank Service Corporation, the operations and data processing center for Sun Banks across the state.

He earned his undergraduate degree from Georgia Tech, graduating Magna Cum Laude in Industrial Management. He attended the School of Banking of the South at Louisiana State University in 1970-72. Lovvorn holds the basic and intermediate American Institute of Banking certificates. He is 1983 chairman of the Bank Administration Institute National Check Processing Conference.

Durrance, 37, now serves as vice president and manager of the bank's Indiana Avenue Office in St. Cloud. He was formerly manager of the Conway Office. Durrance has been with Sun Bank for 12 years. He earned his bachelor's degree in business administration and economics at Rollins College. Durrance is a graduate of the School of Banking of the South at Louisiana State University.

In addition to the Sun Bank, N.A. promotions two officers have been relocated. Mike Kinsey, assistant vice president, has moved from the Central Park Office to become manager of the Conway Office. Cesar Calvet, formerly vice president of operations, transferred to community banking operations at the Main Office of Sun Bank, N.A.

Phone Directories Out

The 1983 edition of the Southern Bell Customer directory has been delivered to homes and businesses in Seminole and Volusia counties.

With a mangrove scene on the cover the new reference book on the telephone system is again a reminder of not only the beauty of Florida but the continuing growth, local Southern Bell Manager Larry Strickler said.

"The printing of the directory is an enormous undertaking which many people just take for granted," said Strickler. "The 1982 Sanford white pages took 92,231 pounds of paper, 800 pounds of glue, and 1708 gallons of ink. The directory covers required 6256 pounds of paper."

This year's book features the community services number pages, the handy customer guide pages which help make telephone service much easier to use.

Directories were delivered throughout the area over a two-week period using 50 people who were hired especially for the task, which started Feb. 11 and was just concluded. Anyone who has not received a new book should call the Bell business office at 322-6701.

More Firms Are Learning

Company Real Estate A Ready Asset

By LeRoy Pope
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Many small and middle-sized private companies that need more operating funds often are overlooking a ready asset, real estate with surplus value, says a Chicago mortgage investment expert.

In many cases it will pay these companies to sell the land and buildings and rent them back in order to get capital, Jay J. Strauss, president of Abacus Group, said.

Strauss said that just as the home is the largest financial asset of most families, so company-owned real estate often is the largest asset of small manufacturers.

If the owner of the corporation can buy the real estate and lease it back to the business, he may further benefit because the land then becomes a personal asset on which he can claim depreciation and other tax benefits, Strauss said.

"In some cases," he said, "he can raise his salary with the corporation enough to cover the interest payments on whatever he borrows to buy the property, but he must be able to show that his new higher salary is not excessive by the standards of the business the company is engaged in."

Strauss told United Press International he believes perhaps 25 percent of the small and middle-sized corporations in the United States have real property that has appreciated so in value or on which the mortgage has been paid down so much that its surplus value is an asset that is earning nothing for the company.

The remaining 75 percent of small and middle-sized corporations rent practically all the real estate they use, he said. An unincorporated business hasn't the same opportunity to benefit by selling its real property and renting it back.

"A typical small American manufacturing company today earns in the range of 15 to 22 percent on its net worth," he said. "When portions of net worth are tied up in real estate, particularly real estate which is earning nothing, the company is overlooking an important source of revenue."

Strauss's interest in this situation is that of finding new mortgage investment opportunities for his clients. When the owner or owners of small corporations recognize the possibility of helping both the corporation and their personal situation by such a property purchase, Abacus Group will find them a mortgage loan.

Cardinal Industries Sets Record Sales In 1982

Despite one of the worst recessions in the housing industry, Cardinal Industries of Sanford and Columbus, Ohio, registered record sales of nearly $300 million in 1982 — a 24 percent jump over 1981's figures.

The company — the country's third largest multi-family developer with projects throughout Florida, Georgia and the Midwest — produced more than 5,300 modular living units (10,600 12-by-24-foot modules) at its four plants in Ohio, Florida and Georgia, which accounted for $295.9 million in sales.

The modules were used primarily for apartments, but also were the basis for other Cardinal products, including Knights Inn motels; a new adult congregate housing community; condominiums; single-family homes and commercial offices.

The year's sales figures bettered Cardinal's 1981 sales of $238.5

million by $58.1 million and surpassed the company's annual growth goal of 20 percent. Cardinal's actual growth since 1979 has averaged 25 percent, and when compounded, the company's sales have increased 300 percent since 1979.

A breakdown of the company's 1982 sales report shows:

Multi-family apartment units — $62.5 million

Motel units — $13.75 million

Rental income and motel management — $82.4 million

Site construction — $129.8 million

Condominiums and single-family homes — $7.45 million.

During 1982, Cardinal Industries opened 76 new apartment communities, bringing its total of apartment developments constructed to more than 500. The company manages more than 18,000 apartments with an average occupancy rate of 97 percent. With the addition of the nine Knights Inns, Cardinal Industries has 40 budget motels operating in seven states. The chain averaged an occupancy rate 20 percent higher than the industry average.

Austin Guiringer, founder and president of Cardinal Industries, said the company's continued growth despite a dismal year for the housing industry is a tribute to the company's emphasis on "making a plan and sticking to it."

"Because Cardinal Industries is a self-contained company, we're able to control all aspects of our growth," Guiringer said. "We are Guiringer predicts that by 1990, Cardinal Industries will nearly triple its annual output of modular living units at its four existing plants, plus add four new plants to bring the company's annual output to over 20,000 living units (40,000 modules).

Gooding's 'Superstore' Work Begins

The Greater Construction Corporation broke ground Tuesday on the newest Gooding's "superstore" at Gooding's Plaza at the intersection of State Road 436 and Red Bug Road in Casselberry.

The Greater Construction Corporation is one of Florida's largest construction companies in the residential building market, and is a leader as well in commercial construction of shopping center and malls.

The family-run corporation is headquartered in Longwood. Its Orlando-area projects include Summit Plaza, Bay Lakes, the Greater Mall, Kensington Park and many others. Greater owns Gooding's Plaza and will lease space to tenants through exclusive leasing agent Fletcher Bright of Florida in Altamonte Springs.

The Gooding's Plaza will include 100,000 square feet of commercial space, with Gooding's occupying approximately 52,000 square feet. The remaining square footage will be leased to fashion shops and service stores designed for one-stop shopping.

Completion is expected in October or November. The new Gooding's store will offer about 30,000 competitively priced grocery items through its special departments.

Strauss warned it is necessary to proceed carefully in making such a sale and leaseback.

"As a general rule, if the loan on the property is less than 50 percent of the property's value, it should be looked at closely in terms of refinancing," he said. "If the loan to value ratio is 60 percent or more it could be left alone for a while other than to rearrange tax situations."

When such a deal is made, Strauss said, the company will pay rent at such a level that the deal probably will have no appreciable effect on profit or loss. But the real estate then becomes a personal asset which entitles the owner to take advantage of depreciation and other personal tax benefit writeoffs that the real estate may offer.

Strauss also said the new federal tax laws make such deals more attractive to the company owner who buys the property because these laws allow much more liberal depreciation on the buildings. A building that formerly had to be depreciated on a 50-year basis now can be depreciated in 15 years.

Stromberg Installs 3 Systems

In a small Texas farming community east of Austin, the Colorado Valley Telephone Cooperative in Plum recently placed in service its second System Century Digital Central Office supplied by Stromberg-Carlson Corporation.

Equipped with the new Local Line Switch, the DCO System has 1,500 lines and offers the community's telephone subscribers a full line of custom-calling features as well as pushbutton dialing. The first digital switch for Colorado Valley Telephone was installed in Warranton, a few miles north of Plum.

For the third time in a year Stromberg-Carlson Corporation placed in service a System Century Digital Central Office for the Eastex Telephone Cooperative in Coldspring, Texas.

Two other digital switches were installed for the telephone company in Blanchard and Onalaska, Texas, within the past 12 months.

The DCO System for the Coldspring office, which is in a vacation resort area northeast of Houston, replaced an XY Dial System. The new system has 1,327 lines and offers subscribers a choice of custom-calling features and pushbutton dialing. With all three DCO System, Eastex Telephone now provides telephone service in eastern Texas over a total of 5,500 digital lines.

One of Stromberg-Carlson Corporation's first digital switching customers, Northwest Telephone Co., recently placed in service its sixth System Century Digital Central Office.

This new, 4,000-line DCO System serves the telephone subscribers of DeForest, Wis., with a full line of custom-calling features, pushbutton dialing, and Local Automatic Message Accounting (LAMA).

Northwest Telephone now provides telephone service in Wisconsin over a total of 21,000 digital lines to Boscobel, Wild Rose, Tomah, Spooner, and Ripon, as well as DeForest.

The next system milestone will take place this summer in Neshkoro, Wis., where a DCO System will be installed for Northwest Telephone that includes the millionth digital line ordered from Stromberg-Carlson.

Stromberg-Carlson, a member of the Plessey Group, is a leading designer and manufacturer of telecommunications equipment with headquarters in Lake Mary.

By Sam Cook

LAKE LAND — Around 10:30 Saturday night six high school basketball coaches are going to throw out their chests and say to the guy next to him, "Well, what do you know? I beat the state champion."

Or, if Jacksonville Jackson coach James Humphrey has his way, he'll say, "How about that, state champions and 26-0. Nobody's better than we are."

Which pretty much sets the 4A stage Saturday night when the Boys State Basketball Tournament winds up here with the amazing Boone Braves, 23-8, taking on powerful Jacksonville Jackson, 25-0.

Jacksonville coasted into the final by thrashing Miami American, 72-41. Friday night as senior Ronnie Williams tossed in 17 points to lead five Tigers in double figures. George Beatom (15), Darrell Coleman (11), Dozier Barcos (10) and super sub Ronald Lucas (10) all joined the fun.

Boone, which stunned highly-regarded Fort Lauderdale Dillard Thursday night, has lost eight games this year, although coach Wayne Rickman's saavy Braves have never lost two in a row. Three of those losses came to Evans, one to Winter Park, Edgewater and Oak Ridge and one each to Stuart Martin County and Seminole.

The Braves have won nine straight and will need another heady performance to get past Jackson, which along with Kissimmee Osceola is attempting to become the first undefeated state champ since the 1975 Lake Weir squad.

The Braves rely on 17 points a game from Andy Hungerford and Lennie Grace. Craig Mateer runs the attack while Pat Lewis and Anthony Shorter are the role players. Grace, an excellent leaper, is hampered by a possible broken finger while Lewis may have a broken nose, according to Rickman.

The Braves won the state tournament in 1977 and reached the final four in 1978 but since then it's been a long dryspell for the Metro Conference which at one point took three straight state championships.

Saturday's 3A matchup should be a good one, too. Osceola, featuring All-Americans Frank Ford and Jimmy McCrimmon, is a highly explosive ball club which can erupt at any minute. The Kowboys of Ed Kershner love to run with the ball, but can slow down and play that way, too.

Crestview, which topped Seminole by 13 in the Kingdom of the Sun Holiday Classic at Ocala, has two super players in 6-2 Kenny Siler and 6-5 Joe Lawrence. Both average 17 points per game. Siler takes his act inside while Lawrence prefers to bomb away. He should be a good test for Osceola's 3-2 zone defense. Lawrence has already signed with the University of Florida and coach Norm Sloan hopes he'll be the answer to all of the zones the Gators encounter.

In Friday's other games, 2A Pahokee tripped Jacksonville Bolles, 67-56, and 1A Malone topped Miami Private, 78-67, behind an awesome 42-point explosion by Bruce "Action" Jackson.

Malone goes after its fifth state championship in as many tries against Hastings. The Tigers last won in 1981. Pahokee has been just about as good. The Blue Devils won last year and in 1977. They lost in the finals in 1979.

Blayney, Not Simkins

In Tuesday's Sports section, the softball picture of a Lake Mary player sliding in at home plate was of Terri Blayney and not Lisa Simkins. Simkins was in the picture, however, she was coaching first base.

Peggy Glass, Lake Mary high jumper, sails off the bar during competition in the Lyman Invitational Friday. Glass made this attempt but couldn't beat Lyman's Lori Carroll who won the event with a leap of 5-4. The Lyman girls finished second to powerful Edgewater while the Greyhound boys edged Seminole by 2½ points for their first invitational victory.

McBroom, Lyman Surprise Invitational Field

Prep Track

Friday's Lyman Invitational may have been too cold for the Daytona Beach Mainland boys and the Oak Ridge girls — but Lyman boys coach David Huggins felt like he was sitting in front of a fireplace when the final returns rolled in.

The Greyhounds, sparked by an upset 880 victory by junior Doug McBroom edged Seminole, 54-50½, to take their first ever Invitational championship. Titusville was an easy winner in the girls meet, 74½-40½, over the Lady Greyhounds.

"The coaches had us finishing sixth on paper," said an elated Huggins Saturday morning. "But we got some great performances. Some people really came through."

Two teams which didn't come through — Oak Ridge's girls and Mainland's boys — called Friday afternoon and cancelled out, citing the cold weather conditions for their decision.

"It was cold," said Huggins. "But we made a provision that the athletes could wear extra clothing to keep warm."

Despite the weather, the 880 finish between McBroom and Seminole's Mike Wooten was a heated affair. Wooten led most of the race when with 180 yards to go, McBroom, more known for longer distances, kicked past Wooten and held on for a 10-inch victory in 2:01.7.

"McBroom caught Wooten completely by surprise," Seminole coach Ted Tombros about his talented senior who has the county's best 880 time in 1:59.7. McBroom's previous best was 2:03.3. "Wooten led most of the way, but McBroom caught him and it took Mike about one-tenth of a second to respond. They really went at it down the stretch but that slight hesitation made the difference."

There was no hesitation on the part of the Tribe's Dion Jackson. Sanford's springy senior continued his domination of the jumping events, taking the long jump in 23-1¾ and the triple jump in 42-4½. The long jump leap shattered the old mark of 23-½ by Edgewater's George Freeman in 1979.

Seminole also won the mile relay in 3:31.6 as Torin Williams, Lace Mobley, Clifton Campbell and Wooten turned in an eight-yard victory. Seminole, which has the best mile medley time in the state (3:38.2), lost some points in that event when it was decided a week ago not to run to event to speed up the meet. The "Noles" were 12 seconds faster than their nearest county competition.

"We were using this meet as an experimental meet," said Huggins who along with the other coaches is trying to do something about the extraordinary length of track meets. "It cut about an hour off the meet."

Tombros didn't think a lack of the medley severely hampered his team's chances. "I thought we should have won anyway," said Tombros. "We messed up two handoffs in the 440 relay (fifth place) and Rendell Manley had an off day in the hurdles."

Manley, one of the better hurdlers in the area, was sixth in the intermediate hurdles and didn't place in the 110s. He was ranked second in the county honor roll in the 110s prior to the meet and fifth in the lows.

Other notable performances were a double victory by Lake Howell's Kenny Cheeseman in the mile and two mile, a first place by Seminole sophomore Campbell in the 440, a top spot by Oviedo's Danny Lott in the low hurdles and the intermediates along with first places by Lyman's Jeff Fisher in the pole vault and Lake Mary's Mike Rouse in the high jump. Rouse and Colonial's David Stockett tied with leaps of six feet. Stockett was the high-point individual for the meet.

For the girls, Titusville's Janet McCrary put on a one-woman show to help

Titusville to an easy win. She won the discus, shot put, helped the 440-relay team to a win and was second in the 100.

Lyman's Lori Carroll took the high jump while Lake Mary's Fran "Flash" Gordon captured the 100. Lake Brantley's Kathryn Hayward was a double winner in the 880 and mile. Crystal Caldwell of Seminole grabbed the 440 while Lyman's Schowanda Williams won her specialty, the 330 hurdles.

Brewer's Double Duty Numbs 'Noles; Rams, Lions Lose

Prep Baseball

Up until the bottom of the sixth inning Friday night, Seminole High's bats were as cold as the frigid temperatures at Seminole Memorial Stadium. The Tribe managed only one hit off Apopka's ace lefthander Rodney Brewer. But Brewer was removed in the sixth inning and Seminole immediately jumped on reliever Jason Miller for three runs in the sixth and had scored three runs in the seventh and had a runner on second with only one out.

Unfortunately for Seminole, however, in high school baseball, once a pitcher is removed, he can still re-enter the game. Before things got out of hand, Apopka went back to Brewer who easily set down Seminole's last two hitters as the Blue Darters claimed a Five Star Conference 10-6 victory on one of the coldest nights for baseball in a long time.

Brewer silenced the Seminole bats in the early innings, striking out six of the first seven batters he faced. Meanwhile, Seminole starter James Hersey was ineffective as the Darters jumped on the sophomore right-hander for five runs in the top of the first inning. Andy Griffith relieved Hersey with one out in the first and stopped Apopka from doing any further damage.

Apopka took a 6-0 lead in the second inning as Trey Brasseur singled and scored on a wild pitch. The Darters scored again in the fourth and two more times in the top of the sixth to take a commanding 10-0 lead.

In the bottom of the sixth, pinch-hitters Scott Clayton and Tony Cox drew back-to-back walks to put runners on first and second with no outs. Pinch hitter William Wynn then lifted a fly ball to the right fielder, who relayed to the shortstop who threw Clayton out at third. Seminole didn't give in though as Greg Carter knocked in Cox with a single and took second on the throw home. Carter came around to score on Brian Rogers' single to left and Rogers also advanced to third on Ron Natherson's sacrifice bunt. Brubaker scored when Barry Hysell's grounder was booted by the first baseman. In the fourth inning, Keith Wallace reached on a fielder's choice and, with two outs, stole second and advanced to third on Mark Chasey's single. Chasey then stole second and Wallace scored when the throw went through.

Bishop Moore forged ahead by six runs, 8-2, with a four-run fifth inning. Joe Sosa's two run single was the big hit and two more runs scored when McClatchy's reached on an error.

Lake Mary scored again in the bottom of the fifth to cut the lead to 8-3, but the Rams could get no closer. Bishop Moore added three insurance runs in the sixth for the final of 11-3.

Mike Passilla went the distance on the mound for the Hornets, allowing Lake Mary seven hits while striking out four and walking three. Mike Schmit pitched the entire game for the Rams, giving up seven hits while striking out two and walking seven.

"Mike pitched real well the first five innings," Lake Mary coach Don Smith said. "He should have gotten out of the fifth inning better than he did."

The Rams host Oviedo on Monday at Seminole Community College with game time scheduled for 4 p.m.

At Oviedo, the Lions gave up two unearned runs to Leesburg's Yellow Jackets and it was all Yellow Jacket pitcher Jimmy Gelv needed. Gelv gave up only three hits to the Lions while striking out 12 and walking just two as Leesburg edged Oviedo, 2-1.

Oviedo, 8-5, took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the second inning as Chris Kessinger blasted a shot over the 340 mark in left field.

Leesburg responded with both of its runs in the top of the third inning as one run scored when pitcher Dwayne Johnson balked with a runner on third and another scored when a two-out grounder to third was mishandled.

Tim Barker rapped three hits and drove in two runs for the winners while teammate Steve Page roped three singles.

'Killer Frogs' Leap Over Arkansas In OT

Call them the "Killer Frogs." The Texas Christian University Horned Frogs lived up to their new nickname Friday night by eliminating No. 5 Arkansas from the Southwest Conference tournament with a 61-59 overtime victory.

TCU moves into today's SWC final against No. 1 Houston. The Cougars crushed SMU, 75-59, earlier Friday night.

Darrell Browder, TCU's all time leading scorer, hit two free throws with four seconds remaining in overtime to lift the Frogs. It was their first victory over the Razorbacks in the last 26 games — a streak that lasted 11 years.

"I'm really happy for the kids," said TCU coach Jim "Killer" Killingsworth. "Don't ask me how it happened. Truthfully I thought it was all over when they were up by seven with two minutes left. But we can't think any more about this game because (finals against Houston) is not that far away."

The victory raised TCU's record to 21-9, the Frogs second best victory total ever.

TCU, down by 11 points with four minutes left, sent the game into overtime when Ricky Norton and Darrell Walker both missed shots in the final seconds of regulation that would have brought the Razorbacks a triumph.

In the overtime, TCU jumped in front by four only to see John Snively hit a 20-foot jump shot with 16 seconds left to tie the game 59-59.

Browder was awarded the winning foul shots when Walker fouled him going for a steal. Following his free throws, Snively's attempt to tie the game bounced off the rim.

Browder scored 22 points, hitting all six of his free throw attempts, while Razorbacks center Joe Klein paced the Hogs with 19.

In other conference tournaments: Alabama capitalized on a five-minute stall and three late free throws by Ennis Whatley to upset 10th-ranked Kentucky 69-64 and knock the league's regular season champions out of the Southeastern Conference tournament.

College Basketball

In other SEC quarterfinal action, Tennessee, paced by 6-foot-7 senior Dale Ellis who had 33 points in all, topped second-seed Louisiana State 74-71 in overtime; Jeff Malone and Terry Lewis combined for 57 points to give Mississippi State a 76-61 victory over Vanderbilt; and Vern Fleming and James Banks paced Georgia to a 69-55 victory over Mississippi.

In the Atlantic Coast Conference quarterfinals, Matt Doherty and Michael Jordan each scored 28 points and No. 6 North Carolina hit 14 field goals from 3-point range to rout Clemson 105-79; sophomore Lorenzo Charles sank a free throw with three seconds left to give North Carolina State a 71-70 victory over Wake Forest; No. 2 Virginia, overcoming foul problems by All-America center Ralph Sampson, got 23 points from junior guard Othell Wilson to trounce Duke 109-66; and Georgia Tech used deadly free throw shooting by freshmen John Salley and Mark Price to shock Maryland 64-58 in overtime.

North Carolina meets North Carolina St. and Virginia plays Georgia Tech in today's semifinals.

In the Big East semifinals, Chris Mullin scored 29 points and Billy Goodwin added 23 and No. 8 St. John's surged past No. 12 Villanova in the second half for a 91-80 victory; and Michael Adams scored 25 points and Jay Murphy controlled the inside for 23 to give No. 13 Boston College an 80-74 victory over Syracuse.

In the Big Eight semifinals, Steve Stipanovich scored 26 points and guards Jon Sundvold and Prince Bridges combined for 31 more to power No. 9 Missouri to a 69-63 victory over Nebraska; and Leroy Combs had a season-high 26 points and 15 rebounds and Matt Clark chipped in 22 points to deliver Oklahoma State its first-ever berth in the championship game with a 90-83 victory over Kansas.

Howell Hopes Right Means Might In Yankees' Rotation

By United Press International
Jay Howell is making a strong bid for the vacant right-handed starter's spot in the New York Yankees rotation.

Howell combined with three other pitchers on a one-hitter Friday night to lead the New York Yankees to a 6-0 Grapefruit League victory over the Texas Rangers at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The 26-year-old Howell hurled the first four no-hit innings and has now given up just two earned runs in eight innings of spring work. Clay Christiansen, another right-hander who appears to be ticketed for Columbus, was also impressive although he gave up the only Texas hit of the game — a fifth inning bloop single to rookie Pete O'Brien.

Don Baylor, who made his first base debut in a 'B' game against Texas in the afternoon, keyed the Yankee attack with a single, double and two RBI. The hot-hitting Baylor is now 8-for-14 with eight RBI for the spring.

Elsewhere, rookie outfielder Ron Kittle had two home runs and drove in five runs Friday to lead the White Sox to a 20-5 Grapefruit League rout of the New York Mets at Sarasota, Fla.

At West Palm Beach, Fla., George Brett singled home two runs to carry the Kansas City Royals to a 4-1 victory over the Montreal Expos. Larry Gura, Keith Creel and Mike Jones each threw two shutout innings for the Royals.

At Bradenton, Fla., Dave Parker smashed a two-run eighth-inning homer to lift the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 5-4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. Parker's first homer of the exhibition season made a winner of right-hander Jim Bibby, who made his first pitching performance since April 1, 1982. Bibby underwent shoulder surgery last spring and spent the year on the disabled list.

At Coco Beach, Fla., Tim Teufel snapped a 4-4 tie with a sixth-inning pinch hit grand slam homer to lead the Minnesota Twins to an 8-5 victory over the Houston Astros.

Nicolette Not Packing After Wind-Blown 72 Maintains Bay Hill Lead

ORLANDO (UPI) — Usually by this time of the week, Mike Nicolette has packed his bags and headed for the next stop on the PGA tour.

This week, however, is a different story.

Nicolette, who had survived only two cuts on the golf tour so far this season, finds himself in a strange position today entering the third round of the $350,000 Bay Hill Classic — first place.

Nicolette, never a winner on the PGA tour in four years on the circuit, bogeyed four of the last six holes for a 1-over-par 72 Friday but still managed to escape the second round of the wind-swept tournament with a 3-stroke lead over Bob Gilder.

"I feel confident," said the 26-year-old Nicolette, who has never led a tournament after two rounds. "I'd be a liar if I said I wasn't a little bit nervous. If I had a 10-shot lead on the last hole I'd still be nervous."

Nicolette, the first-round leader with a 66, stands at 138 after two rounds. Gilder is 1-under for the tournament at 141.

Donnie Hammond is four shots back in third place. Larry Nelson and Greg Norman are tied at 143. Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson lead a quintet of players sitting at 144.

Nicolette appeared headed for that 10-shot lead he mentioned early in Friday's round. Despite 35-mph winds and cold temperatures that allowed only one sub-par round Friday — Curtis

Pro Golf

Strange's 69 — Nicolette birdied five holes on the front nine.

He stood at 8-under for the tournament at one point and held a commanding 7-stroke lead. But he struggled on the back nine and drew closer to the pack.

"I made quite a few putts on the front, but on the back side, I just started three-putting," said Nicolette, whose best finish was a second at last year's Doral Open. "The greens started getting hard and crusty and the wind started to pick up. Instead of being bold with my stroke, I started to back off and that didn't help matters."

"I hit the ball very well. Had I putted well on the back side, who knows what I could have shot."

Gilder enjoyed a steady round of three birdies and three bogeys.

"It was cold out there," said Gilder. "It's a mental test of your patience. I'm overjoyed with a 71."

Tournament host Arnold Palmer, who owns the Bay Hill course, suffered through the worst round of his career, shooting an 85 and missing the cut.

Defending champion Tom Kite also missed the cut, carding a 77 for a two-round total of 153. A total of 74 players, who stand at 152 or better, survived the cut.

State OK Sought For Lake Mary High Stadium Plans

Plans for a $200,000 stadium at Lake Mary High School have been sent to state Department of Education officials in Tallahassee for approval. Seminole County School Board members approved the plans this past week and forwarded them to the state office.

The 3,000-seat stadium will be funded by contributions from the school's booster club and private businesses and is the second part of a three-phase building program at the school. The first phase, construction of a concession stand, already has been approved. The final phase, offices, storage space and lockerooms, has not been considered yet.

The School Board also approved the advertising of bids for an auctioneer to hold a public sale of surplus school board property. Purchasing Director Don Coleman said he had been working with a DeLand auctioneer in preparation for an April 16 public sale.

Coleman said auctioneer Lou DeLarco approached him about auctioning off surplus property rather than putting price tags on merchandise. At an auction, higher prices might be gotten for some items, Coleman said.

He said the auctioneer would receive a fee of 15 to 20 percent of the sales but not more than $3,000.

But board member Nancy Warren said she was disturbed that no advertising was done to get proposals from other auctioneers.

Board member William Kroll agreed. "We should advertise even if it means moving it back. Most of that stuff has been sitting there for several months already."

No new date has been set for the auction.

Board Attorney Ned Julian said a surveyor has completed work at Lyman High School. The survey showed a sag of 10 inches in some of the beams in the school gym's roof.

Portions of the roof gave way Feb. 13, letting water from heavy rains cascade into the gym, flooding the floor.

In a personnel matter, Robert Lundquist was named as dean of students at Seminole High School, replacing Jacqueline Pearson who was placed on unpaid leave last month.

Mrs. Pearson was given a deferred sentence Feb. 22 for shoplifting $10.73 worth of goods from a local store. As part of her agreement, she received a leave of absence from her job.

Terry Woods was hired to replace Lundquist as a math teacher at Seminole. —Michael Beha

Wheelchair Service For County OK'd

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Florida Wheelchair Transportation, Inc., of Orlando has been granted a franchise to transport wheelchair-bound Seminole County residents.

Seminole County commissioners granted the franchise this past week to allow the firm to provide non-emergency transportation.

The service will provide transportation for wheelchair-bound people at a base rate of $10 plus $1 per mile, according to Grady Strawder, president of the Orlando-based firm.

"We don't have one," said Bruce Fowler who is confined to a wheelchair and cannot drive because he suffers seizures. "The only thing we have is Herndon's and they charge a much higher rate."

Fowler's wife, Virginia, said she is often not available to take her husband shopping or to the doctor's office. "If this service is available it will be a great service to people like Bruce and I," she said.

Strawder said the company will provide service 24 hours a day. However, service between 10 p.m. and 5 a.m. will cost an additional $10. Herndon charges a minimum of $40 for non-emergency wheelchair service.

Herndon President Idus Willis said the service will not affect his company and he welcomes the new firm.

The county got responsibility for franchising ambulances in October. Previously, the state had been responsible for franchising non-emergency and wheelchair ambulance service

Seminole County Commissioner Sandra Glenn wheeled through the Seminole County Courthouse as part of Barrier Awareness Day.

Office Space At Issue

Where Will County Grow?

Seminole County's circuit and county judges have sent another volley at the Seminole County Commission in an ongoing dispute between the two groups over office space.

This past week, Chief Circuit Court Judge S. Joseph Davis issued an administrative order instructing commissioners and Circuit Court Clerk Art Beckwith not to destroy documents concerning the county's plans for new offices.

The judge also ordered that the records be made available to Emery H. Rosenbluth, the Orlando attorney hired by the judges to expedite adoption of plans to provide more space for the judiciary in the courthouse.

Commissioners had declared their intention to move into the old Seminole Memorial Hospital building in Sanford, freeing up the courthouse for use by the judges and other court-related offices.

But this past week commissioners voted to explore other alternatives, including the hiring of a private company to build a new office building at the county's Five Points complex. That plan, proposed by Commissioner Robert Sturm, would have the private firm construct an office building and the county would then pay for it over 30 years.

Sanford city commissioners have also gotten into the act, offering to construct a building downtown to keep the county offices downtown.

But either of those plans would delay the plan to move out of the courthouse unless alternative temporary office space can be found.

"A solution to the longstanding problem of inadequate courthouse facilities may not promptly be forthcoming," Davis said. "There is substantial data within the public record of Seminole County regarding the problem of inadequate judicial space."

County Attorney Nikki Clayton said the order may be a prelude to a lawsuit from the judges. State Attorney Douglas Cheshire has also threatened to file suit against the county if his office is moved to the County Services Building, a block from the courthouse. A suit filed by Public Defender J.R. Russo was dropped late last year when that office was placed in the first floor of Sanford City Hall.

Ms. Clayton said Davis has a conflict of interest in the case since he would be one of the recipients of new office space when the county finally completes its plans. She added that the order was filed without giving the county notice and scheduling a hearing to give the county an opportunity to impose its own order.

But the records on office space are open, Commissioner Sandra Glenn said, and Rosenbluth has access to them just as any other private citizen has.

A work session on the various space issues is slated March 22.

Cars Of Tomorrow Will Be Smarter, And Safer Than You?

By Elmer Lammi
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Maybe you've had a few drinks too many and get into your car to drive home.

uses — literally — to start. Or you forget to fasten your seatbelt. No buzzer. No flashing lights. Instead, your car talks. "Please fasten your seat belt."

You do. "Thank you," the car says politely. These were just two of many new and future safety features described Friday by auto industry officials testifying at Senate hearings on highway safety. Howard Kehrl, vice chairman of General Motors, told of his company's research into how to detect drunken drivers before they hit the road. General Motors, he said, is taking advantage of a device developed by NASA and known as the "Critical Tracking Task" as a means of providing a sobriety test. "If a driver fails the test, the car is designed so it will not start, or will operate only at low speeds or trigger an alarm system to alert other drivers and enforcement officials," he said.

The tattle-tale device "is not for everybody," Kehrl said, but has been turned over to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration for field-testing in Los Angeles with drivers twice convicted of drunken driving.

The talking car already is available, said Christopher Kennedy, Washington lobbyist for Chrysler Corp.

How's Your Hearing?

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of one of the smallest Beltone aids of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

It's yours for the asking, so send for it now. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. The actual aid weighs less than a fourth of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. All hearing problems are not alike and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid but many can. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 50905, Beltone Electronics Corp., 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Illinois 60646.

ASK DR. SHARP

Q. IS IT TRUE THAT A TOOTH THAT'S BEEN KNOCKED OUT CAN BE PUT BACK?

A. Given fast action, it can be done. If the entire tooth—baby or permanent—is intact and gets a quick trip to the dentist, it can usually be put back in its socket. Replaced promptly, it has a good chance of settling back in place while the gums heal and re-embrace it.

When the knock-out happens, put the tooth in a glass of water or wrap in a clean, wet cloth, and take off for the dentist immediately. The replacement must be done within 30 minutes to 2 hours after knock-out. The sooner it's done the better chance of re-establishing the tooth. Since this is an emergency situation, it rates a call to the dentist at any time, even over weekends or at odd hours. If he/she can't be reached, the local hospital emergency room may have someone on call.

Halfway House For Women Alcoholics Needs Help

By Lori Drew
Special To The Herald

A green cottage sits alongside U.S. Highway 17-92 in Casselberry. No sign marks it as different from any other home in the area. So why should its residents be marked as "different" from others in the community?

Inside the two-bedroom rental house, the color console television is in need of repair, but the six residents who watch it seem oblivious to the chatter of the actors. They are engrossed in each other's conversation. They are friends, trying so desperately to come down from the stage where they have acted as average wife, mother or career woman, when in reality, they were running head on into one of the nation's most common diseases — alcoholism.

At The Cottage, these few women are on the road to recovery, and on this two-way street where the experienced give so others can gain, all are at least halfway there.

The Cottage is a halfway house for female alcoholics who, as the administrator there puts it, "have nowhere else to go. Think about it — you're a woman walking the street. It's dark and there's no place to go. Nobody wants you. Even your family doesn't want you. What happens to women like that?"

Lucille Cione, registered nurse, clinician and administrator of The Cottage, has seen what could happen to women like that. Fortunately, her experience of working with alcoholics, which began in the 1950s as a U.S. Army nurse, has led her to the project of the halfway house exclusively for female clients.

She received the OK from her superiors at the Seminole County Mental Health Center, Inc., and The Cottage was opened in July of last year, meant for helping female alcoholics in the tri-county area readjust to living and working in society.

"Since we opened in mid-July," explained Helen Crawford, alcohol therapist at the house, "we've had about 15 women through here. I can't recall anyone coming in whom we haven't accepted. But they haven't all made it."

Six women from various parts of Seminole, Orange and Osceola Counties are still trying to make it at The Cottage. "In the two-bedroom house, one woman sleeps on the couch," said Ms. Crawford, one of six staff members who work together at both The Cottage and The Crossroads — a halfway house in Sanford for male alcoholics.

'It's dark and there's no place to go. Nobody wants you. Even your family doesn't want you. What happens to women like that?' asks Lucille Cione. A resident of The Cottage says, 'We're sick, not bad.'

Cottage. "I try to spend an hour with them," said Ms. Crawford. "Sometimes it's a 15- to 20-minute chat if things are going well. We're dealing with people who can get out and earn a living."

In most cases, the women are referred to the center by the area's detoxification unit or 28-day program, according to Ms. Cione. "Our main detox unit is MACO (Metropolitan Alcohol Council of Orlando), a state-funded operation. We also get women from Avon Park, which has a 28-day program as well as MACO." She added that MACO is part of a comprehensive alcohol treatment to the tri-county area.

According to Ms. Crawford, the first step to recovery for most of these alcoholics is a detox unit. There, they spend five to 10 days dealing with overcoming the physical problems associated with drinking.

"Then I like to use the 28-day treatment," she

The annual event attracts ceramics buffs from across the nation.

Mrs. Herndon took the third place award in the underglazed category. Her entry was a wall plaque depicting a Victorian setting from a calendar.

"Competition was unreal," she said. "I feel really good about winning even third place. It was all good work and I was up against some excellent competition."

Tammy has been into ceramics since she was 5. She won a ribbon for a dog in the stained category, ages 6-9.

High-Stepping Gaynor Gives Marriage A Lift

DEAR ABBY: A lot of people think that if you're in show business you stay married for about an hour and a half. Nuts!

To make a marriage work, you have to have more going for you than just "love." You have to like and respect each other.

In our case, Jack and I are best friends; we have to be. We've been married for 28 years and haven't been apart for more than a few days.

In order to get along with your guy, you have to play his game. If he likes watching sports, start off the game by sitting on his lap. If he likes to eat, learn to be a good cook. If he gets sick, nurse him as only you can. Instructions and prescriptions are great, but he needs you.

For the past 16 years, I've performed in over 60 different cities, a real cross section of America, and let me tell you, the insecurities and uncertainties about marriage are the same in Chicago, Houston, New York and San Francisco.

The song says, "Woman needs a man and man must have his mate" — well, girls, work at it! A lot of marriages break up because people get bored. I say, "Girls, get more interested in parlor, bedroom and bath!" Love,

MITZI GAYNOR (BEAN)
DEAR MITZI: With all the letters I get from losers in the marriage game, how refreshing to hear from a winner! Your letter made my day.

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor who is very nosy when she comes over to my house. Right away she starts looking in my cupboards and closets. And even my drawers!

I told her I didn't like it, but she doesn't listen to me. Now I am thinking maybe I should tell her that if she doesn't stop inspecting my house she can't come over anymore, but she is one of my best friends and I feel that it would be hard for me to tell her this.

CONFUSED (AGE 10)
DEAR CONFUSED: You have a decision to make. You can tell your friend that if she wants to continue to come to your house, she will have to stop looking in your closets, cupboards and drawers. And if she does it anyway, stick to your word and end your friendship.

Or, let her do as she pleases and put up with it. If you learn at age 10 how to prevent people from pushing you around and taking advantage of you, you will have learned a valuable lesson that some people never learn. You are within your rights to demand privacy. Don't be a softie.

DEAR ABBY: To settle an argument, I am asking for your opinion. In the event of an evening wedding, which seems to be so popular these days, the groom is left with a full day to do as he pleases. So to pass the time, he has a few (maybe five) beers — two hours before the wedding is to take place.

Abby, do you think morning wedding ceremonies would solve the problem?

HAWTHORNE, CALIF.
DEAR HAWTHORNE: If the wedding must be scheduled in the morning in order to ensure the sobriety of the groom, the marriage is in trouble from the first "I do."

DEAR ABBY: I was married for 28 years, then I got a divorce. He married again but I never did. He just passed away, and I was wondering if I'm a widow now, or am I just a divorcee?

This is very important to me. My husband's wife is still living if that makes a difference.

DALLAS
DEAR DALLAS: You are a divorcee. The woman who was married to your ex-husband at the time of his death is his widow.

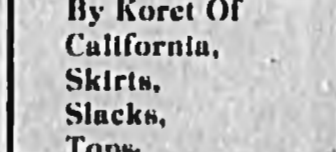

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, send for Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038

In And Around Lake Mary

Welcome Newcomers

Lake Mary has some newcomers to the area. Naomi Wallace was sworn in as Lake Mary's new postmaster at a ceremony held at the post office on March 1.

Naomi, past president of the National League of Postmasters, currently a representative in state legislative of the league, says she is excited about the challenge of being Lake Mary's postmaster.

Included in the many nonoree guests at the ceremony were: Mayor Walter Sorenson, city commissioner Ray Fox and Russel Megonegal with wife, Lillian, city manager Philip Kulbes, chamber of commerce president Dick Fess, DeLores Lash, Cindy Brown, Barbara Gorman, John Norden, Bob Ball, Mary Terry, Barbara Warman and Virginia Anderson, a former Lake Mary postmaster.

Two beautiful cakes, frosted with the post office's red, white and blue eagle insignia were baked by post office employee Barbara Sherman and husband, David. The cakes along with punch, chips and nuts were served to the guests.

Other newcomers to the area are the Rev. Jackie Nix, his wife, Harriett, and 2-year-old daughter Elisha. Rev. Nix has taken the parsonage of the Lakeview Baptist Church.

Rev. Nix is originally from Balmbridge, Ga. and lived in Orlando about eight years ago. At that time he felt a calling from God to become a minister. He moved to Ft. Worth, Texas where he attended the South Western Theological Seminary and attended the Birchwood Baptist Church where he later met Harriett, an art teacher. In February Jackie was ordained a minister. This will be their first church parsonage.

The Lake Mary Extension Homemakers had an informative meeting on March 8. Police Chief Harry

Karen Warner

Benson gave an enlightening talk on "finger printing" children.

On March 21 there will be a special leader training meeting for all Seminole County Extension Homemakers. Linda Paine of the Lake Mary Police Dept. will be giving training and demonstrations in the art of self-defense. This class will give basic information on how to protect yourself.

Invited are women from the Seminole County area, as well as members from other organizations. You do not have to be a member of the Extension Homemakers Club to attend. They are hoping for a large turnout. This meeting will start at 9:30 a.m. in the auditorium of the Agricultural Center on U.S. Highway 17-92.

The Lake Mary Woman's Club has announced plans to take a trip to Tallahassee on April 28. Included in the trip will be a six-hour tour of the capital. They are planning to stay overnight and spend two days taking in the sights.

The cost of the trip is $100 which includes bus fare, hotel accommodations, breakfast and dinner.

The trip is open to the residents of the Lake Mary area as well as their guest. For information contact Helen Glatt at 323-9449.

The Lake Mary Rotary Club has been doing some nice things in the community during the last few weeks. The club raised $750 at their recent flea market and this money along with other available funds, was put to good use as follows: $250 was donated to the Pony Baseball League, $1,000 to the Community Improvement Association for the building of the community center and $1,000 was donated to the Lake Mary High School Stadium building fund.

Other business conducted during the last weeks was to elect new officers who will be installed in June. Dr. Bobby Sharp was elected as president and David Meador, vice-president.

The club is also in the process of designating one of the members as a "Paul Harris Fellow," the highest honor paid to a Rotarian.

Residents of the Forest will celebrate St. Patrick's Day with a catered dinner on March 13. The theme will be "Pot O' Gold" and the dinner will consist of corned beef and cabbage.

The planning committee, Vera and Kermit Arnold, Jean and George Glenzinger, Marion and Bob Musleve, Jeanne and Herb Potter and Betty and Wayne Thompson have lined up live entertainment and will handle the decorating. Dinner starts at 2 p.m. in the Starlite Room.

Not to be outdone, the Keenagers Club at the Forest has planned a special St. Patrick's Day celebration of their own. According to vice-president Ronald Lulinski, the evening of March 14 will begin festivities with the recreation of the legendary "Barney Stone," and an old fashioned Irish sing-along with music provided by the Forest Band.

The theme of the evening (you guessed it) is "A Little Bit Of Ireland." The Keenagers will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Starlite Room.

Other Forest News is that the monthly potluck dinner is set for March 17, at 6:30 p.m. in the Starlite Room. This is a "bring your own" eating utensils and a covered dish.

African Violet Show Set

The Heart of Florida African Violet Society will hold its Second Annual African Violet Show and Plant Sale March 19 and 20 at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce building, 400 E. First St.

According to Jean Norris, the show theme is "Around the World with African Violets." The show is open to the public on Saturday, 12 to 5:30 p.m., and Sunday, 12:30 to 5 p.m.

Mrs. Norris says there will be a section for hobbyists and other violet growers who are not members of the HFAVS to exhibit their violet plants. Exhibitors are limited to three plants. Entries can be made on Friday, March 18, between 3 and 7 p.m. at the chamber.

Mrs. Evelyn Briggs is chairman and Mrs. Wanda Ross, co-chairman. For information call 322-1409, 322-3976 or 323-8969.

There will be horticulture and artistic exhibits judged by accredited AVSA judges.

Mrs. Norris says an African Violet and Episcia plant sale will also be held during the show hours

...The Cottage

continued. It consists of nearly a month of intensive therapy, including group therapy, Alcoholics Anonymous meetings and in-depth alcohol education. "To carry on the therapy, they have to be out working."

So the next step is a minimum stay of 90 days at The Cottage or similar halfway house. Unfortunately for many, there are too few such places in the tri-county area — two, counting The Cottage, which are equipped to handle women.

After referral to The Cottage, the administrator and therapist interview the prospective client. Then there is a two-week trial period, during which time the new resident is watched for motivation. "We expect our women to get a job and help pay the rent," said Ms. Clone. Just $9 a day covers food, housing and counseling. "They buy their own lipstick, cigarettes and that sort of thing."

But more money is needed to make this fledgling survive. According to Ms. Clone, MACO allots $30,000 per year for detox services to Seminole County. "We have not used all of it, so we're asking for $15,000 of it to be diverted to The Cottage, with other funds going to a three-quarterway house. If I don't get it, we may be in jeopardy," she admitted recently. She still does not know if her proposal will be approved, with funds having to be matched by the Seminole County Mental Health Center by three to one. "I particularly have a special thing for The Cottage," said the administrator and emergency therapist. "I want it to succeed so badly I can almost taste it."

Its success may well be in reach as another recent development with local hospitals signals the growth The Cottage needs to help its residents.

An agreement between the Seminole County Mental Health Center and Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford was signed last week by that hospital's administrator, James D. Tesar, and Ms. Clone said she expects Florida Hospital, Altamonte, to do the same. "We're making arrangements with Central Florida Regional, the sheriff's department and police department that when alcoholic clients are found, between 5 p.m. and 8 a.m. if they are not being charged with an offense, they will be brought to the emergency room at the hospital. I will dispatch one of my staff to see the member in ER." After the hospital clears the patient medically, either Ms. Clone or her staff will decide if the person needs to be cleared physically of the intoxicating alcohol.

But helping these alcoholics requires more than the roof and therapy the halfway house provides. "Not only do we encourage AA, we push it."

Those are the words of the alcohol therapist. "The first thing I say to a client is, 'Go to a AA meeting. Go to 90 meetings in 90 days.'"

In addition to their jobs and household chores, Cottage residents are required to attend a minimum of four Alcoholics Anonymous meetings each week, according to Ms. Crawford. And each meeting lasts one to two hours.

Age 19 to 56, the halfway house residents travel by car, bus or feet to the meetings of their choice with one mandatory AA meeting held in their home once a week.

But to these special citizens, it does not appear to be a chore. "Actually, I'm eager to go to the meetings," said one woman asking to remain anonymous.

At these meetings, they discuss resentments, honesty, family, feelings, laughter. "It all has to do with living," one alcoholic said rather peacefully. "The biggest part of the program is to help others — to give something back. That's why it works."

Help is here. But The Cottage needs a little more. "We need community support. We need more of it," believes Ms. Clone. "We've begun the nucleus, but we need to grow."

She continued, "We need for women to know we're here, to know there is somewhere they can go to be treated like decent human beings."

"We're looking for service clubs to take over the electric bill for six months or the trash bill for a year. The more community support we have, the greater the program."

In treating six women, the administrator stresses, "We haven't even touched the tip of the iceberg." And one resident opined, "There's a very real need for a place like this. This is a dream for some people."

For people like this woman, The Cottage is a dream come true, where people "are there when you need them and there when you don't know you need them."

Yes, these women are different — these women who live in the little green cottage with the damaged television and six toothbrushes in a single glass jar.

But they are different in a positive sense. They are fighting together against the odds of survival for a female alcoholic.

Would you like to help? You can — by remembering the words of one Cottage resident still not ready to leave.

"We're sick, not bad."

It's here—the Second Annual Miss Sanford Scholarship Pageant Saturday, March 12 at Lake Mary High School, at 8 p.m.

According to co-chairmen, Carole Pegrum and Meg Newman, tickets are available at the door. They suggest to come early. Ticket prices are adults, $5, and children under 12, $2.50.

Eleven pretty and talented contestants in competition for the coveted title, Miss Sanford, will sing, dance, play musical instruments and perform dramatic readings.

A panel of judges representing the Miss Florida Scholarship Pageant will judge the beauties. The winner will go on to compete for Miss Florida.

Adding to the lively program will be Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole performing several dances.

Dr. and Mrs. Roger (Gail) Stewart will entertain the judges at a buffet dinner before the pageant. Following the evening's festivities, a reception will be held at the Skyport Restaurant.

The pageant is sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. with each contestant individually sponsored by the business community.

Although Lois Dycus of Lois' Place Fashions, was "wiped out" by smoke damage caused from a fire in the adjoining restaurant, according to her husband, Ron, the show must go on.

Lois will still coordinate the fashion show on Thursday, March 24, at the First United Methodist Church, Sanford, when the United Methodist Women host the annual luncheon.

Luncheon chairman Rubye King says a western theme will be depicted in the decor and food. "Don western duds," Rubye says, "or wear attire of your choice."

UMW president Nancy Terwilliger says tickets are available from any circle member, the church office, Lois' Place or Gifts by Nan. The luncheon price is $4.

Mrs. Rick (Cindy) Butler was the guest of honor at a stork shower Tuesday night at the Georgia Avenue home of Belinda Joiner.

Games, gifts, genial guests and goodies highlighted the fun and festivities.

The shower was just in time. Two days later, Cindy delivered a beautiful baby girl.

Congratulations are in order to Kathleen Reynolds and June McFadden. Kathleen will be installed as Worthy Matron of Order of Eastern Star No. 25, Sanford Assembly, March 12, while June is the new Royal Matron of Seminole Court No 59 Order of the Amaranth.

Joan Madison, director of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) is excited that RSVP will celebrate a decade of service in Seminole County at Tenth Annual Recognition Luncheon, on Friday, March 25, at the Sanford Civic Center.

Joan says that 350 volunteers will be honored for their 72,000 hours of service in the county during 1982.

Joan goes on to say that the volunteers, all 60 or over, "have enriched the community by sharing their years of education, skills, training and experience at Seminole County's schools, health care facilities, governmental agencies and nonprofit community service organizations."

Official representing all Seminole will be on hand to share the festivities with the deserving volunteers.

Mysteries

The words themselves are mysteries to him — black 'squiggles' against the white page — but Daddy makes them sound very interesting. Later he will begin to read for himself and a vast new world will be opened. In it, however, other mysteries will appear — other things that seem as impossible as the black words against the white page. But gradually these will become clear. One of these mysteries is religion. Understanding God's message, learning the meaning of faith — these vital subjects take a particular kind of education and special study. It will take the remainder of his lifetime, and yet more, to fully understand the spiritual universe. But this little boy is lucky. Although he doesn't know it yet, his parents will see to it that he gets this 'education' in the right place — in their house of worship.

Women Recognized For Service

The Women's Mission Society of St. Paul Baptist Church, Sanford, the Rev. Amos C. Jones, pastor, at 6 p.m. Sunday, will recognize area women for their contributions in several categories.

Recipients will be recognized for their dedication and commitment in these service areas — social service, church leadership and related activities, music, community and education.

To be honored for social service, Juanita Adams Golden, Rochester, N.Y., has been involved in Action for Welfare Rights, health screening, medical program for Public Assistance recipients 21 years and under, providing transportation for children to shelter home and placing children in shelter care.

Claudia Gregory after years of caring for migrant children in her home without a fee, she opened Child Development Center, Apopka, in 1974, financed by her husband's salary.

To be recognized as founder, pastor and evangelist is Elder Carrie B. Bryant. Called to the ministry at 18 years old, she served as an evangelist for 23 years. Ordained in 1978, she built, with 17 members, the Tabernacle of Prayer for All People which was dedicated in 1980.

Angie B. Douglas is an active member of St. Paul Missionary Baptist Church. She has served as president of the Deaconess Board, and presently is vice president of Deaconess Board and Choir # 1. Along with her continued years of service in the church, she has touched the lives of many young people in various activities relating to christian growth and development. Mrs. Douglas is a retired teacher-counselor from the public schools in Seminole County.

Anica McLeod's interest in church school started as a child at St. Paul. This interest was later turned into a career. She pursued studies at Columbia University under the sponsorship of Abyssinia Baptist Church, New York City and in-service courses given by the Christian Education Dept. of that local church. Upon returning to Sanford and reuniting with St. Paul she was given a class in the Junior Department, where she is actively involved.

During her 33 years of ministering music at the First Presbyterian Church, Sanford, Louise Touhy lived up to Psalm 100, an exhortation to praise God cheerfully — "Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands." Louise Touhy's contribution has been inspiring and noteworthy. She has given herself freely.

Leslie Braboy Weaver has the distinction of being the first Black music supervisor in the Orange County School District. Her music career spans years of successful participation in school and community activities as organizer and coordinator of youth and adults groups, director of choirs, concert pianist and concert organist. She has served as an elected officer of the State Vocal Association.

Barbara Givens dream of a Children's Choir is a reality. In 1980 she started with seven children at Trinity United Methodist. The number has grown to 32, ages 8-21. She has shared her talents and has given fully of her time and resources in building an inter-faith youth group, known as Sanford's Interdenominational Youth Choir, of which she is director.

Gloria Williams began her music career at age nine in Chicago, Ill. and was playing piano for her church when she was in elementary school. Her life has been devoted to musical activities. She has played for and trained Sanford Community Singers, Seminole Community College Chorale and Chansonettes. Also music instructor for Seminole Community College Leisure Time Program-Congregate Meal. Presently she is playing for First Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church, Sanford.

Rudcen Francis has a special touch with children. She is able to help pre-schoolers to make music that is sweet and delights the hearts of those who hear them at a worship service at St. Paul Missionary Baptist Church. The Children's Choir is called The Rose Buds. The group includes nursery through elementary grades.

Community Services — Lillie Bell Merthie saw the need in 1947 to provide a service for Black children. Pre-school education was not available to them. Over the years facilities have grown from an area in her home to a building that house the 99 enrollees and a staff of 10. She did not neglect her own training. She has done continuing education course in early childhood education at area colleges and universities. Her Christian background has been a main stay for community involvement and contributions. She is active in the church school of Mt. Zion Baptist, Sanford, Deaconess Board and related auxiliaries.

Many Sanford residents may not have heard the name. Ruth Church was a trailblazer. More than 25 years ago she organized the first Girl Scout troop for Negroes. She traveled to Winter Park for training and information and materials to carry out her duties as troop leader. Ruth and her troop soon found themselves involved in projects that supported urgent needs and calls made by the Salvation Army and other community based agencies. When parents could not, or would not, provide transportation for girls she bridged the gap. Along with her scouting, she directed youth activities at First Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church, Sanford.

Education — Mary Dunn has a distinguished background in the field of education. She is the founder of Pace School, Forest City. This facility was started with a small enrollment and little or no equipment. Mary has been honored locally and acclaimed nationally for designing programs adapted to children's educability.

Defeat Enemy Within

The habit of hope as the secret of winning is my concern as I write these words. We are never really defeated except when we have a traitor within our own gates. There is one near to us, so near that we hear him as he keeps whispering comments on all we have done or plan. If he is not the Devil, he is a contemptible self. Do you hear what he is saying? "I don't think you can win. The enemy is very strong. Better look for some easy way out. You failed yesterday! Remember last week! Last year!" And if we listen long to him we are beaten before we begin.

The fortress of the soul is never taken except when a betrayer from within opens the gates. He wins our consent to his traitorous work by destroying hope in us. He makes us think of our own scant resources and rusty sword. He reminds us of our paper armor and our feeble right arm.

It is the work of the Spirit of God to remind us that we are soldiers under authority of the king. God's Spirit bids us look to him. He is mighty. His sword is sharp. His armor is shining and strong. He is able.

There is a statement within a catechism of one of the major denominations which states, "Christ executeth the office of a king, in subduing us to Himself, in ruling and defending us, and in restraining and conquering all His and our enemies." The apostle Paul says in II Corinthians 12 that he takes pleasure in weaknesses, reproaches, necessities, persecutions, in distresses for Christ's sake and then he adds in verse 10, "For when I am weak, then am I strong." The sense of this verse is that Christ becomes strength within us.

The following is a verse upon which I have sought to base my life since having accepted the call to the ministry. Philippians 1:6, "I am sure that he who began a good work in me will bring it to completion." (My paraphrase). God has a purpose for me and for you. The habit of hope will enable us to reach forth toward the completion of the attainment of that purpose. You can win. You can win. To the Romans the apostle said, "For we are saved by hope but hope that is seen is not hope; for what a man seeth why doth he yet hope for?" (Romans 8:24)

Cast the traitor out of your life. In 1631 a ship sailed from England to explore dangerous and unknown regions. One of the articles to which the crew swore allegiance was that "no man shall speak a despairing word against the success of the expedition, or make a doubt thereof." That's the way you can win.

Farewell Fete For McClains

Veteran OMS International missionaries Dale and Polly McClain, who have been living in Casselberry for several years while he has been serving as southeast director of development, are again returning to the field in Hong Kong.

They have been active in Community United Methodist Church of Casselberry during this time and their friends in the Christian Homemakers Sunday School Class will host a covered dish dinner at 6 p.m. Saturday, March 19 in the church fellowship hall in their honor. A special farewell program will follow and all of their friends are invited to attend.

Mrs. McClain was born in China to missionary parents and the couple served there as missionaries until forced to flee by the Communists in 1949. They later served in India, Hong Kong and Indonesia.

Lent And The Sabbath

By George R. Plagens
The Third Commandment: Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy (Exodus 20:8).

A Lutheran church in Michigan excommunicates members who do not faithfully attend church on Sunday. Harsh as this seems, it has the effect of restoring this neglected commandment to an importance it has unfortunately lost.

We all ought to be concerned about what the exploitation of Sunday by commercialized entertainment (and commercialism generally) is doing to us. It has given the quest for a good time and the quest for bargains in the store precedence over the cultivation of the spiritual resources by which man ultimately lives.

This lack of relaxation in our lives and our frantic misuse of leisure is also, some doctors say, exacting a toll on our heart valves and arteries.

Many critics of the state of modern culture are inclined, moreover, to trace the decline of the arts to "the acceleration of life and the loss of the capacity for rest and reflection and that serenity of spirit which is the parent of creativity."

Licensed For Ministry

The Rev. Paul E. Murphy Jr., left, pastor of First Baptist Church of Sanford, presents Robert "Bob" Dugger of Lake Mary with a certificate of license to the gospel ministry on behalf of First Baptist Church as his wife, Amy, looks on. The service was held recently at Lakeview Baptist Church, a mission of First Baptist. Dugger plans to enter Stetson University to prepare for his ministry in music.

Mariners Aid Center

Charlie and Betsy Craig, skippers of the Mariners of the St. Johns group from First Presbyterian Church of Sanford, present a $775 donation to Kit Carson, public relations director for the Sanford Christian Sharing Center, as Marion and Sue White, pursers, look on.

Youth Quake Set March 21

Country singer Dennis Agajanian, billed as "The world's fastest flat-pick guitarist," will perform at Youth Quake II, Monday, March 21, at 7:30 p.m. at the Bob Carr Performing Arts Centre, Orlando.

Sponsored by the Youth-Student Committee of the Central Florida Billy Graham Crusade, scheduled April 10-17 in the Tangerine Bowl, Youth Quake II will be free.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

We are going to wind up our week of duplicate hands with another example of luck. It started with South. He had a tough hand to bid. He was a trifle strong for a three-club opening, but he did not want to open with four clubs and shut out a possible three no-trump. Of course, he could have passed, but South really hated to pass. So he opened with three clubs.

West wasn't going to be shut out. He doubled for takeout.

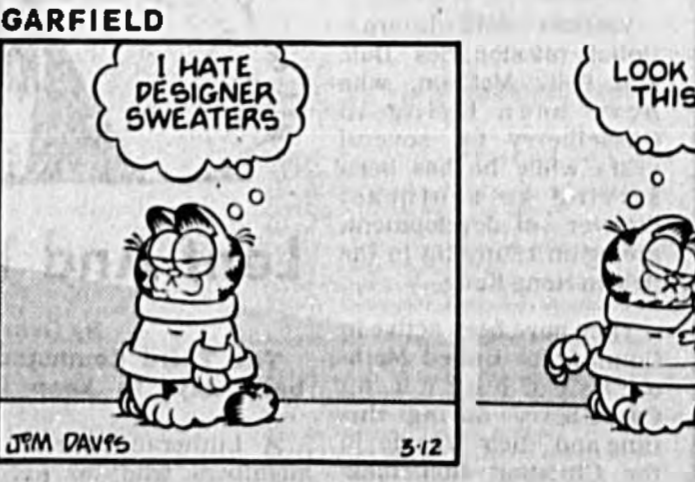

East responded three diamonds and North was licking his lips in anticipation of doubling for real penalties. Then South committed an unpardonable sin for an expert. He rebid his preempt to four!

You just don't rebid pre-empt on your own if you want to play good bridge.

There was little to the play. West opened the king of diamonds. South took dummy's ace and ruffed a diamond. South cashed the ace and king of trumps. Then he led a heart to dummy's ace, ruffed another diamond and led a spade.

The fortunate position of the spade king, plus the fact that the king, queen and jack of diamonds had fallen, allowed a discard of a losing spade on the diamond 10. South made his contract with an overtrick for plus-150.

The score turned out to be almost a bottom since most North-South pairs were plus-200 or more, but proper punishment for South's rebidding a pre-emptive opening. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 13, 1983

Knowing how to avoid problems of the past will assure success in your chosen field in the coming year. Because you learned well the lessons of experience you'll know how to overcome many obstacles.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be on your very best behavior today if you have to deal with persons you'd like to impress. Everything you do will be viewed by critical eyes. Order now: The NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals romantic combinations, compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Send an additional $1 for your Pisces Astro-Graph predictions for 1983. Be sure to give your zodiac sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Any obstacles or problems you might have to contend with today are apt to be of your own making.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In social repartee with friends today, try not to introduce controversial topics. These could turn lukewarm discussions into heated arguments.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Unless you clearly define your objectives today, you're not apt to have too much to show for your efforts. Don't flounder.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Even though you might feel industrious today, you'd be wise not to take on too heavy a workload. Concentrate on quality performance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you butt into situations today where you shouldn't, you could cause serious complications for yourself as well as for others. Keep your distance.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Try to avoid domestic disagreements today. Every one small squabble could produce a chain reaction.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This is not a good day to tackle tasks which require your full concentration. Your attention span might not be up to its usual standards.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's OK to pamper yourself a bit today, but not to the point of extravagance or overindulgence. Treat yourself kindly, but in moderation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Being too upon gratifying your desires today could cause you to be less considerate of others than usual. Get back to your true character.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Normally you're pretty good about keeping secrets, but today you might talk about confidential matters which you know you shouldn't.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It might not be to your best advantage to request favors today. Those who comply will probably expect a higher return for their deeds.

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 14, 1983

There will be considerable changes in your goals and objectives, as well as in your perspective this coming year. These alterations will make the difference that brings you success.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Nothing very fruitful is likely to result today if you permit others to direct you in situations where you should be leading them. Don't abdicate from command. 1983 predictions for Pisces are now ready. Romance, career, luck, earnings, travel and much more are discussed. Send $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign. Send an additional $2 for the NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This is a good day to begin a wedding-out process to eliminate unproductive situations so that you can start to use your time and skills more effectively.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't build your hopes too high today on things you expect friends to do for you. There could be delays caused by circumstances beyond their control.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be image-conscious today if your involvements bring you before the public. By thinking your moves through first, you'll avoid embarrassing mistakes.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your memory could prove to be an undeniable ally today, so don't rely too heavily upon it. Make lists or notes to which you can refer.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Joint ventures entered into impulsively today might prove to be of dubious value. Be sure both parties have assets which complement one another.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Seek expert counsel today before committing yourself to any type of binding agreement. There could be hidden clauses.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Put forth your best efforts today, but also take steps to protect what you do so that a coworker isn't credited with your accomplishments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your expectations about things you deem to be prestigious are slightly exaggerated. Lower your sights so you won't be disappointed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Displays of moodiness will cast a shadow over your entire household today, so be careful not to put on a long face if everything doesn't go your way.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There's a possibility there could be a brief delay with plans you need approved. Wait confirmation before plowing ahead.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be extra-careful with your possessions today so prized items won't get lost or stolen. You'll be angry later if you fail to prevent a mishap.

English Beauties Continue Invasion

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD — Following on the well-turned heels of Bisset and Seymour and Down and Ward comes a new English beauty. Her name is Cherie Lunghi. She is as beautiful as Jackie or Jane or Lesley-Anne or Rachel, but she has something the others never had — a solid acting background.

You saw her (or, if you didn't, you missed something very good) in the first of the series of Agatha Christie stories on the PBS series, "Mystery!" It was called "The Manhood of Edward Robinson" and Cherie Lunghi starred.

You may have also seen her in the feature film, "Excalibur," playing Guinevere.

And, chances are, you will be seeing her more often in the future, because Cherie Lunghi is in California searching for a new rung in her career ladder.

"Excalibur" is the only movie I've done," says Cherie, "but it won't be the last. I have acquired a Hollywood agent and I am going after a Hollywood career."

Seems somewhat strange, for a young lady who has a lofty reputation in England, as a member

Carter's Motorcade Is Stoned

RAMALLAH, Israel-occupied West Bank (UPI) — Palestinian protesters Saturday stoned the motorcade of former President Jimmy Carter on tour of the occupied West Bank. Police said no one was injured.

UPI reporter Gerald Nadler said Carter was in a motorcade of about eight vehicles led by two black limousines when it came under a barrage of rocks and stones hurled by Palestinian youths.

Israel troops chased away the protesters and authorities said no one in the motorcade was hurt, although several of the cars were hit.

It was not immediately known if the car in which Carter was riding was hit by the rocks.

The motorcade continued on its trip without stopping after the incident. Carter had gone into Ramallah, a West Bank town several miles north of Jerusalem, after touring the Tomb of Samuel nearby. The city's main street was had been blocked to local traffic in anticipation of his visit.

Carter's private tour of Israel has been marked with violence since it began earlier this week.

The protesters are angry with Carter because of his role in the 1978 Camp David accords that led to the 1979 Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty and Carter's failure to support an independent Palestinian state.

In the old city of Jerusalem Saturday, Israeli soldiers opened fire on rock-throwing Palestinian demonstrators, wounding one Arab youth in the leg.

Israel Radio said an army patrol fired at the demonstrators after the windshields of several cars were smashed by rocks.

Military sources said Arab demonstrators at Halhoul, near the West Bank town of Hebron, threw rocks that smashed the windshields of several Israeli vehicles. One Israeli army officer was injured when hit by a stone.

On Friday, Jewish zealots armed with rifles, pistols and shovels tried to storm Islam's holiest site in Jerusalem but were turned back by police, who arrested 39 people.

Police, acting on a tip, stopped the protest before the demonstrators got to the holy site, which houses Al Aksa Mosque and the gold Dome of Rock, one of Jerusalem's most prominent landmarks.

Most of those arrested were soldiers who were members of Rabbi Meir Kahane's nationalistic Kach movement.

Help Offered Smokers To Kick The Habit

A five-day plan to stop smoking will be offered at Florida Hospital/Altamonte, starting March 20 at 7:30 p.m.

A physician/counselor team will direct the sessions. The physician will discuss how the body reacts to smoking cessation. The counselor will prepare participants for the emotional side effects of giving up the habit.

Habits that reinforce dependence on tobacco will be discussed as well as a plan to avoid weight gain — a fear of many who want to stop smoking. A support group will be organized during the program in order that participants may encourage each other. Persons may call 897-1927 for more information.

Kid-Proof Bottle Caps Are Adult Proof, Too

WASHINGTON (UPI) — What America needs is a better medicine bottle — one that protects children from accidental poisonings while also giving adults easy access to medication.

That was the message voiced at a hearing Thursday by the Consumer Protect Safety Commission on proposed changes in the Poison Prevention Packaging Act of 1970.

Adults frustrated by child-resistant caps for potentially hazardous household products pleaded for new bottle tops that can be opened without a struggle — and in less than a minute.

They complained that many elderly people, particularly those suffering from arthritis, are unable to manipulate the safety caps used on products ranging from drain cleaners to aspirin.

As a result, they said, many people do not close the bottles once they manage to open them — effectively nullifying the 13-year-old act that mandated the caps as a way to prevent accidental poisonings of children.

"American technology is certainly advanced enough to design caps that are difficult to open by young, yet easily manipulated by adults," said Anne Avery of the Consumer Federation of America.

Last month, the CPSC staff proposed changes in testing procedures and standards for child-resistant caps.

Under the proposals, now under commission review, the maximum allowable test time for an adult to open a child-resistant bottle would be reduced from five minutes to less than one minute.

In addition, elderly people would be placed on the examination panels, which are now composed of people from age 18 to 45.

Commissioner Stuart Stalter, after hearing a bevy of cap complaints, offered this observation: "We've managed to put a man on the moon ... but haven't been able to come up with a cap, for aspirin and oven cleaners, resistant to children and accessible to adults."

Said Stalter, "You say we have to do a better job. And I say we will do a better job."

Representatives of several drug packaging firms endorsed the intent of the proposed revisions, but urged the commission to be careful not to make bottles too accessible.

"There appears to be no way around it," Alexander Perritt, president of Perritt Laboratories Inc., of Hightstown, N.J., said. "Child-resistant packaging, in order to be effective, is going to generate some level of adult complaints."

The child-resistant cap has been credited with dramatically reducing accidental child poisonings, including a 83 percent drop in incidents involving aspirin.

Witnesses testified that they believed poisonings could be further reduced with broader use of such caps, provided a better one is developed.
