German Planes Aid Italy In Mediterranean

Axis Partner's Losing Fight Helped; Italians Recalled From British Siege

R. A. F. Reports Extensive Raids

Dublin Is Spattered With Bombs By Unidentified Aircraft

A year-end review of the siege of Britain, the Nazi High Command declared today that nearly 100,000,000 pounds of German bombs had been dropped on the island kingdom since Aug. 8—a rate of nearly 2-1 for every pound of British bombs dropped on Germany.

Adolf Hitler has sent Nazi warplanes and crews to bolster Italy's wobbling campaigns in the Mediterranean; the Rome radio disclosed today, reporting also that Italian fliers had been recalled from the aerial siege of Britain.

Possibly seizing on the weakening of the Axis offensive forces across the Channel, R. A. F. bombers were reported to have carried out "very extensive" overnight raids, the British reported, slashing at the German port of Bremen, Nazi "invasion" ports, U-boat bases and other targets.

Nearby (Southern Ireland) fell the impact of bombs as unidentified aircraft scattered explosives within a 60-mile radius of Dublin, the capital, for five hours early today. At least three were killed, and two seriously wounded.

Nazi "fire planes" returned to the attack last night after a bombless British New Year's dropping incendiary bombs in several east England sectors.

London had its first two alarms of 1941 during the night hours. The first, a short one, breaking a calm undisturbed since the city's fall of five Sunday night. During the second alert, which followed quickly after the first "all clear" signal, gunfire rumbled in one London area.

No damage was reported immediately from the fire bombs in the eastern England localities, and they were dealt with promptly by the fire fighting services.

Lower Strait never which many German raiders must fly—was taken by a bitterly cold north-west wind. A mist limited visibility to mid-Channel.

The British announced a series of daylight raids against Nazi targets which neutral observers regarded as the most daring and significant blow of this winter's European air war.

Attractions yesterday on selected fronts from the nearby Dutch coast, the Rhineland were disclosed by the Air Ministry to have been carried out with the loss of only two planes.

Harden, Dairyman, Is Praised In Magazine

George Harden, operating the one of the Florida Poultryman farm, is praised in the current issue of the Florida Poultryman and Poultryman for "setting a splendid example in progressive farming."

The article about Mr. Harden describes how he resigned from a bank job in 1928 to start his dairy business in Seminole County, and in 1932 became sole owner of the plant he now operates. More recently he acquired the Walker Dairy Road, the article says.

The present Harden interests consist of 500 acres of land, a part of which is improved pastures with more being added from year to year; a herd of about 100 cows— Jerseys and Guernseys—of which 61 are milking at the present time and one of the most modern dairy plants in the State, the article declares.

Most Of U. S. Has Mild Temperatures

Most of the United States enjoyed New Year's Day temperatures above freezing, marred only by a large rain and cloud area across the country's mid-section.

The Weather Bureau credited a low pressure area over Oklahoma and Kansas with pushing back the southern boundary of freezing temperatures, changing snow to rain in sections of the Dakotas and Minnesota.

Inland from the Pacific coast and the New England States were somewhat colder. Sharp rise in temperatures over the year-end swept up from the Texas coast across Mississippi into the Carolinas and as far inland as Chicago and northern Iowa.

The rise ranged from 10 degrees at Tallahassee, to 14 and 17 degrees at points in Mississippi.

Floridians Are Warned Against Outbreak Of Flu

No Cause For Alarm, Health Board Says; Caution Is Advised

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 2.—(AP)—Floridians were warned this week to be on guard against an outbreak of influenza. State health officials pointed out that there was no cause for alarm and stated that the form of influenza now prevalent is mild and urged precautionary measures as a means of avoiding it.

The State Board of Health said that the exact number of cases in the State is not known, but many had been reported, indicating that the epidemic which started in the west and has been sweeping across the country for the past few weeks has reached Florida.

Persons having colds or fever should immediately isolate themselves, the board said, and call a physician. It was pointed out that prompt care and attention would prevent serious illness and loss of time from work, while neglect and carelessness might lead to complications.

A bulletin issued by the board urged persons with colds, coughs, or fever to stay away from other people—especially babies and elderly persons, avoid kissing anyone, use disposable tissues for nose and throat discharges and dispose of them promptly, wash hands frequently, especially after coming in contact with discharges, consult a physician and follow his instructions. If a fever is evidenced, patient should go to bed immediately.

Sufferers were cautioned to avoid the use of alcohol, which in the case of "flu" lowers the resistance instead of increasing it, making it just that much harder for the body to throw off the disease.

Influenza itself is not particularly dangerous, officials pointed out, but warned against failure to recognize and treat it promptly, since the real danger would arise from complications caused through neglect which might lead to pneumonia.

Greeks Report New Successes Inside Albania

Bardia, Libyan Port Still Under Fire Of British Guns

ATHENS, Jan. 2.—(AP)—The Greeks reported new successes today against the Fascists and on the North African front. British land and naval artillery continued to pound besieged Bardia, the Libyan port where 20,000 Italians are making a desperate stand.

Stemming fierce Italian counterattacks, the Greeks were reported last night to have captured an elaborate fortification line outside Kibira and to have turned back a tank assault along the coastal road to the Albanian port of Valona.

An official spokesman said the entire defense works, including machine gun nests, and field guns fell before the Greek advance on the 24-kilometer Kibira sector.

The system was described as deep with intercommunicating trenches protected by double lines of barbed wire.

A dozen heavy guns, 15 machine guns, a number of trench mortars, and automatic rifles were among materials left behind by the retreating Italians, the spokesman said.

Efforts by tanks to halt the Greek advance along the coast, the spokesman continued, failed, and the Italians suffered heavy losses.

In the north, where weather conditions were bad, Greek troops were said to have occupied new heights. Greek planes machine-gunned and bombed enemy columns moving up to the front.

BULLS VERSE FOR TODAY

IF WE HAVE FAITH TO TRY GREAT THINGS, I can do all things through Him that strengthens me.—Phil. 4:13

PLAN FOR THE YEARS

There are so many, many souls who go down gallantly and fall to meet the end. So many who pin courage over you, and such a throng of silent ones who weep, with heads held high, a war on their faces, and so many bearing flags of many colors. That, self, we must, in going down the years, refuse to be brave and gay and strong! And let us learn to keep an open mind, a sense of humor, and a reverent soul. And never be too busy to be kind. Praying so valiantly this strange new role. That watching ones, who love their youth, can say, "I should not mind so, growing old that way!" —Author Unknown

The American public eliminated a number of bottlenecks in the economy.

We have those who are still thinking of the noise of the past.

Recently everyone we have met agrees that Roosevelt's speech Monday night was the best he ever gave.

Whether Wheeler offers a series of peace proposals. Why doesn't he give them to Hitler? It takes two to make a peace.

One of the secret weapons that Germany evidently didn't know the British had was the ability to lose it.

Gov. Chas. Bennett is leaving no doubts in the State Road Department as he goes out of office. But there are some mighty big holes in some of our roads.

Our government claims it has an airplane that will make 520 miles an hour. Wouldn't those Italians trying to get away from the Greeks like to have a plane like that?

President Roosevelt promises to send all aid short of war, even if we have to fight a war, if we have to fight a war, we'll rather fight it in Europe than in Florida.

Hitler is becoming so unpopular as a poet of war that he wouldn't be surprised to see him handing out copies down at the City Court house at sentences.

The Secret Of Life

Although he probably could not qualify for the Man of the Year in 1940 because he is the head of a defeated nation and one seldom if ever achieves the peak of greatness in defeat, however magnificent, nevertheless Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, premier of France with powers of a virtual dictator, has shown himself to be a most remarkable man and one deserving of closer study by all who would know how to live.

At the age of 88 he has probably what is the most difficult job in the world today. His is the task of ruling efficiently over a vanquished and demoralized French nation with an overpowering enemy in possession of a third of his country's soil and in a position to take over the rest of it without a moment's notice while many of his own people clamor for a resumption of hostilities and threats of revolution come from every part of the empire.

He must rule so as to preserve order and discipline among all Frenchmen, and while avoiding anything which might contribute to a British defeat, recognizing that only in a British victory does his country have any chance of regaining its complete independence, he must at the same time refrain from antagonizing Hitler or doing anything which might bring the German war machine rolling down again upon his people.

In the last few days he is reported to have run into fresh difficulties with the German leaders. His vice premier, Pierre Laval, who was pro-German, was forced to resign when he tried to get France to do something which Petain wouldn't stand for. Since then Hitler has resumed his efforts to force France to do his bidding, which rumor has it is to turn over the French fleet and North African bases to the Nazis, and Petain persistently refuses.

All this bickering, these threats and bully-ragging are enough to cause even a much younger man many sleepless nights. Just how an 88-year-old man can stand up to it is something we cannot fathom. Consider the problems and worries which you have in your own business and your own home, and then consider how much greater are the burdens and responsibilities of this octogenarian. He must have remarkable health and amazingly sound nerves.

And Petain has not led a sheltered life where he could always take good care of himself and protect himself from exposure, exhaustion and nervous irritations. We are not thoroughly familiar with his biography, but his part in the World War when for six months he stood off the Germans at Verdun and saw hundreds of thousands of lives sacrificed to the God of War should have been sufficient to leave him a nervous wreck.

And yet we find him, nearly a quarter of a century later facing the most blood-thirsty tyrant in all history with complete composure. We find him refusing to kneel before the fiery threats of His Satanic Majesty as imperturbably as the banker refuses a loan. We hear him calmly but firmly talking to the people of the French nation as a well-mannered father addresses his children.

Petain must truly know the secret of life. He must know how to solve the gravest problems without worrying. He must know how to face the most dangerous trials without fear or apprehension. He must know how to persuade the people around him to do what has to be done, or, failing that, not to care. He must, indeed, be able to face complete disaster and then go home and go to sleep.

Petain, indeed, is a marvelous man.

Inventions For Defense

"The job of the Naval Consulting Board in 1917 was to mobilize inventors. Now the time has come again to mobilize American inventive genius for defense," writes Stuart Chase, famed economist, in the current issue of the Fortune Magazine. "The machinery for doing it has already been set up in Washington."

During the last war, the Board passed on 110,000 "inventions," of which 75 percent were worthless. But 2 percent of the total were useful, and that means 2,200 worth-while inventions were uncovered. "Among these practical suggestions," Mr. Chase tells, "were an improved bomb sight, a rapid-fire gun, a method of manufacturing gun tubes by hydraulic pressure, and a sea-sled carrying a full-size torpedo at 50 miles an hour."

Since we have started active defense preparations, there has been set up in Washington the National Inventors' Council, to which all inventions can be sent. There they will be surveyed by experts in each field and, if found possessed of a germ of an idea, will be further considered.

"Your plan goes first to the evaluation and classification department," Mr. Chase relates. "Here sit the engineers who determine whether you've got something. From the examiners, your idea goes to one of the Council's 12 committees for further inspection. If everybody gets excited, you may find yourself somebody who is somebody in Washington." And—"the boys are looking for excitement," he adds.

The Council is not only depending on suggestions and plans, Mr. Chase points out, but has a list of leading, known inventors. Suppose the Navy wants an improved armor plate for a special purpose—The Council at once consults its list of 2,000 leading inventors. Perhaps ten men are especially qualified. The Council gets in touch with these experts. They go to work.

Thus, the Council is a sorting bureau, a spark plug, and a finished machine. "It is equipped and waiting to receive from American inventors," concludes Mr. Chase, "other surprises for overconfident aggressors."

Citrus Exceeds Auction Prices Paid Last Year

LAKELAND, Fla., Jan. 2.—(Special)—The Florida market committee is holding up the price of citrus fruit to Dec. 31. These conclusions are expected to be a result of a report released by the U. S. lines brought an average of $2.92 per box compared to last year's 1800 cars at $2.68, an increase of 24 cents per box. Mr. Willson's report shows further the total shipments of Florida citrus by rail, boat, truck and express in car lots through Dec. 25, in the case of oranges on Dec. 25, 1940, 15,248 cars had been shipped compared with 19,322 for the same period in 1939. However this figure includes 253 cars for relief purposes. With grapefruit, covering the same period, there were 6,275 cars, including 234 cars for relief, for 1940 and 6,249 for 1939. In grapefruit, 1940, 1,101 cars were shipped up to Dec. 25 against 2,466 cars for the same period last year.

Demand For More Kindergartens Is Made By Educator

EVANSTON, Ill., Jan. 2.—(AP)—America needs more kindergartens, says a Northwestern University educator, Dr. Howard Lane. "If the state does not assume the responsibility for children from five to six," says Dr. Lane, "we face the danger of race degeneration." "The incidence of nervousness among American school children has grown alarmingly. Furthermore I am convinced that anti-social tendencies are started early in life through children's unsupervised search for freedom among adults who have no time for them." "Pre-schools were started as part of a sentimental movement to give poor children better care. Today there is accumulating scientific evidence to show that married girls in charge and intelligence may result from pre-school training." "In pre-school children should find satisfaction for basic childhood needs, including a sense of managing their own affairs free from supervision, the opportunity to talk and work with persons of the same age and a feeling of af-

Florida Chamber Will Again Have Research Bureau

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 2—So great was Florida's growth in 1940, all along the economic front, and so extensive were the demands made upon the Florida State Chamber of Commerce by investors, jobbers, manufacturers, settlers and others—including the federal and state governments—that quick and vital information as to the State's resources and possibilities, that that organization, according to its president, Carl D. Brorein of Tampa, deemed it advisable to re-establish its once powerful industrial research bureau as a more direct aid to seekers after such data.

The bureau began functioning yesterday, Mr. Brorein said, under the supervision of Harold Cole, vice president and general manager of the State Chamber, at Jacksonville, and under the immediate direction of L. J. Penney, whose research work is well known in Florida. Mr. Penney is a painstaking analyst in both business and governmental spheres, and has a broad acquaintance in the trade paper and magazine fields. He was on editorial staffs of several eastern metropolitan daily newspapers before coming to Florida a dozen years ago, and has had much practical Chamber of Commerce and organizational experience.

Chief objective of the bureau, Mr. Brorein declared, is to render specific assistance to all industrial, financial, agricultural, civic and social forces at work advancing the best interests of Florida. Stern necessity faced the State Chamber, he added, when the federal government recently, through its national defense committee, asked for information which was known generally, but which was difficult of presentation within the few hours time at the state chamber's disposal.

"That information," Mr. Brorein declared, "furnished after great and speedy effort, definitely focused Florida in the mind of such men as William S. Knudson, Donald Nelson, and others, whose charge the President had placed defense procurement, and resulted in huge defense orders and contracts for our state."

Many thousands of dollars, Mr. Brorein added, came into Florida last year as a result of the Chamber's statistical service. "We possibly lost some," he continued, "because our machinery was not geared to quickly make known our position. We now know how to strengthen our services and, moreover, we are in a position to handle interest in our State."

Positively, the State Chamber of Commerce is expected to see "a faster and, perhaps, more acceptable" industry, and it is its purpose to lend active aid to local communities in the furthering of their ambitions.

The revitalized bureau, according to Mr. Cole, is amply and competently staffed.

"The commercial, industrial and agricultural interests of the State," he said, "are invited to make use of this service. We will leave no stone unturned in behalf of this great State of ours. Henceforth, we are increasing our effort at ferreting out opportunities, not waiting for them to break."

Progress Made By Farmers Reviewed This Year, Says By AAA Executive

GAINESVILLE, Jan. 2.—Florida farmers are taking stock of their accomplishments in the agricultural conservation program during 1940 and finding that they have made substantial progress, H. O. Clayton, State administrative officer in charge of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration activities in the State, is authority for the following information covering a period of years.

In 1936 only 23,523 Florida farms were in the program. In 1937 the number rose to 28,882. Evidently, however, farmers soon began to realize its merits and its provisions were broadened to include truck growers and others. For the last three years, farms voluntarily in the program have numbered 41,409, 44,593, and 49,391.

As operated in Florida, there are now five divisions of the program. They are agricultural conservation, parity payments, sugar program, cotton marketing quota, tobacco marketing quota, and the cotton mattress project. Under the conservation program farmers are encouraged and aided in conserving their soils and growing soil-building crops. Under the parity payment program they are paid part of the difference between parity prices and actual selling prices on some products, particularly cotton.

Cotton and tobacco quotas make it necessary that each farmer produce and market within his allotment, or pay a penalty on his excess marketings and forfeit his benefit payments for 90 days. Conservation, through the mattress project 4,521 low-income farm families have been given cotton and ticking with which to make new mattresses.

Increasing emphasis has been placed on soil conservation features. Through them farmers earn AAA payments for planting a larger part of their acreage formerly in soil-depleting crops to soil-conserving crops, such as grasses and legumes, and for carrying out soil-building practices, such as seedling of legumes, application of lime and phosphate, planting of trees and construction of terraces to control water run-off.

The records show that 75 percent of all payments made by the AAA in 1940 were for carrying out soil-improving practices. This gives Florida the highest percentage in that phase of any State in the country.

By Florida farmers have been increasing expenditures for them for conserving rather than depleting their soils. Clayton is authority for the following figures on Florida benefits and parity payments (but not including sugar payments): 1939, $1,925,500; 1937, $1,829,141; 1938, $2,512,429; 1939, $2,252,549; and 1940, $2,900,000 estimated. These payments,

Crop Yield Is Up This Year, Says Marketing Report

The yield of Florida crops per acre increased during the past year despite a variety of weather adversities, the Federal Agriculture Marketing Service reported yesterday in its annual crop summary.

Total acreage of corn and peanuts showed a gain, but the most pronounced changes were in sugar cane for sugar, with a 45 percent increase, and tobacco, with a 49 percent decrease.

However, the yield per acre for tobacco also gained, as well as corn, cotton and peanuts.

"The 1939-40 Florida vegetable season was marked by the 'unbusiness' of the weather," the summary said. "Crops experienced every kind of weather and before the season was over, the Florida grower had gone through a siege of flood, frost, freeze and hail. The winter season began in the Fall 1939) and continued through the winter in several areas, badly damaging crops, but the freeze of last January climaxed an unfavorable winter and practically wiped out Florida vegetables. Cool weather persisted throughout the Spring, lengthening the crop season."

supplementing the incomes of Florida farmers, have meant a great deal to the state's business life.

Clayton reports that during 1940, as grants of aid, Florida farmers used 16,899 tons of dolomite, 870.5 tons of calcium phosphate, 42 tons of triple superphosphate, 239.7 tons of 20 percent superphosphate, and 122,085 pounds of Austrian winter pea seed.

The Department of Agriculture's sugar program seems to be the only one which has aroused much opposition in Florida. Clayton says that under the 1940 sugar program an amended producer can have a share in excess of the proportionate share acreage for the farm and still earn payments. There are about 5,000 acres of excess cane in Florida and it is expected that most of this will be harvested for sugar. The United States cane producing area will not likely produce its full tonnage of 11,000 in the preceding year.

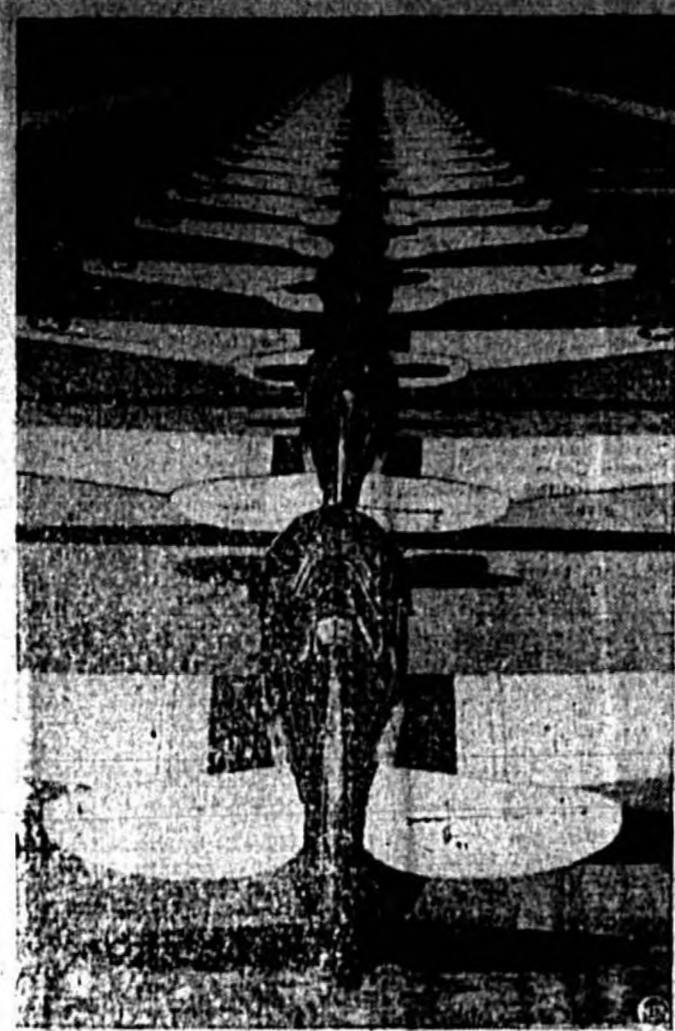

Estimates for other crops included: Tobacco—Production of 10,128,000 pounds on 16,760 acres compared with 23,670,000 pounds on 33,000 acres in 1939.

Sugar cane for sugar—New high for both cane and sugar production expected, with 1,192,000 tons of cane available for milling. Estimated sugar production, 414,000 short tons and blackstrap producing at 7,280,000 gallons.

Snap beans—Final acreage below 1938-39 season, with small yield.

Celery—Production of 112,000 tons, little more than double the 1939 yield.

Looking like a bird's-eye view of a gigantic, multi-winged insect, this lineup of more than 300 training planes is awaiting the 500 living cadets who will start basic training at Randolph Field, Tex., after the holidays. It will be the largest class ever to start at the Army's "West Point of the Air."

and surprisingly resulted in exceptionally large yields of some vegetables.

The summary estimated 1940 Florida corn production at 9,031,000 bushels compared with 6,038,000 harvested in 1939, and the average yield at 11 bushels per acre against 7.5 the previous year. The 1940 cotton acreage was placed at 65,000. The yield per acre was 145 pounds in 1940 compared with 75 pounds in 1939, and the production 20,000 bales against 11,000 in the preceding year.

Peppers—Some loss in production due to January freeze.

Tomatoes—440,000 bushels compared with 308,000 last year.

Watermelons—Total of 6,815,000 melons, or nearly 1,400,000 more than in 1939.

Prize Winning Painting To Be Shown At Fair

TAMPA, Jan. 2.—Kenneth M. Adams' painting, "Beneath Tahoma," awarded the $1,000 first prize in the competitions of 63 artists exhibiting contemporary art in the International Business Machines Gallery of Science and Art at the New York World's Fair, will be one of the 55 exhibits of the great collection to be shown at the Florida State Fair, Feb. 4 to 15. Thomas J. Watson, collector and company president, has advised exhibition officials here.

Adams' remarkable entry represents New Mexico, his home state, and was selected for first award in a display that represented every state in the union, District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. The entire collection is to be displayed under guard at the Florida State Fair, officials have announced.

Other prize winners to be represented in the collection are Lamar Dodd, Georgia; "View of Albany" Paul Sample, New Hampshire; "Going to Town" N. C. Wyeth, Delaware; "Three Fishermen" Everett Warner, Pennsylvania; "Snow Particles" John E. Grabach, New Jersey; "Taking the Hurdles" and Wil-

Inventors Work To Aid National Defense Program

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—(AP)—National defense has a brain trust. Don't get the idea, though, that it's anything like the group that started the New Deal winging on its way.

The national defense brain trust is composed entirely of laboratory magic dabblers and workshop geni.

The official name of this gray matter corps is the National Inventors Council. The chairman is Dr. Charles F. Kettering. There are 13 others in the group. And theirs is the darndest job in the whole defense set-up.

Books And Authors By MRS. IRVING FEINBERG

In "The Pleasures of Publishing" by Columbia University Press, we find the astonishing information that one of the best selling books in Germany is Dale Carnegie's "How To Win Friends and Influence People." The only explanation we can see for the popularity of this book in Germany is that the Nazis read it in order to get a good laugh out of the idea of anybody wanting to win friends.

Maurine Whipple's novel, "The Giant Joshua," which Houghton Mifflin Company will publish on Jan. 2, derives its name from the giant cactus known as the Joshua tree. Donald Culross Peattie, who has just edited "Audubon's America," gives the following description: "Joshua trees, which from the strangest sort of yucca that flowers only at rare intervals; unlike other yuccas they are true trees, waving mighty arms like tottering old prophets gesturing mysterious portent. They reach their culmination in Joshua Tree National Monument, two hours from Los Angeles." The story of "The Giant Joshua" deals with the "ultima" side of Mormon life.

probably agree, is anything but faint praise.

Elizabeth Dewing Kaup, whose novel "Not for the Meek" is the Literary Guild's selection for February, was born on Washington Square, New York City, and still lives in the old part of town. Her father was the well-known artist Thomas W. Dewing. Her father-in-law is a steel man of the old school, and she says that much of the background of "Not for the Meek" comes from him.

The leading character in the novel is a man of humble Danish birth who comes to America at 22 and makes a fortune in steel. Mrs. Kaup's best-known earlier novels were "My Son John" and "Eagles Fly High."

Short Review: "Oliver Wiswell" by Kenneth Roberts. It is indeed ironical that many of those who are most proud of their American Revolutionary ancestry would have been the strongest supporters of King George if they lived in the days of the Revolution; and it is not easy to say for themselves, as Kenneth shows in his new novel, "Oliver Wiswell," is a story of the American Revolution, told by a young Englishman, which is illuminating in its statement of the localist spirit of Oliver and his father, though they are loyal Americans, but they believe the interests of America will be best served by a continuance of the union with Britain, and that with patience they may obtain the redress of their grievances by peaceful means, at infinitely less cost than war; and Oliver is faithful to this even though it means a life of hardship and heartache, the daughter of a rebellious Revolutionary family. We have had many novels of the Revolution recently, but few have shown it with such depth and with such vividness and humanity, and through such fresh and revealing eyes.

There is a new arrival on this week's best seller list as the January Book of the Month Club selection of the Localist novel, "Oliver Wiswell" by Kenneth Roberts. For Whom The Bell Tolls by Hemingway. Mrs. Miniver by Jan Struther. The Family by E. V. Rieu.

If there is something that isn't on earth, if no one has ever thought of it before, even if no one knows whether it really exists—but it's needed—it's up to the council to produce it.

"What we need," says General Hopper, "is a rocket torpedo that can be fired to a height of about five miles, and will level off, chase down a bombing plane and blow it to splinters."

And right away the inventors go to work.

"If we could just make airplanes out of plastics," says General Wisner, "and stamp them out at the rate of a thousand a day."

And another inventor either on or under the direction of the council, starts retorts steaming and presses pressing.

These may sound like fictions, but the plastic plane is bearing reality and some experts say the rocket torpedo for defense against bombing attacks is just over the horizon.

These aren't the only duties of this new brain trust. One of the most important is sifting all ideas and suggestions that pour in from the public. Since the council's creation, more than 6,000 such ideas have collected and they are sifting in now at the rate of 125 a day—all dealing with methods for strengthening and speeding the nation's defenses. They range all the way from crackpot schemes that must have been conceived in a welsh rabbit night to suggestions for suggestions from embryo Edisons who are willing to contribute their bit to giving the United States a little hypo in the national defense swindle.

At the present all ideas are secret and will remain so until the council, working with its Army and Navy advisors, has waded through them and tossed them aside as useless or approved them and thrown them into the great defense hopper.

Some of them are as wild as flying submarines. Some examples: "Use water as a medium for the schrozzles of whale-trapped to search out enemy submarines; sub-carriers—huge mother ships that carry a school of little guppy submarines in under-water tanks; cement spray which, spread from planes, would turn the enemy into statues; and giant bear traps, whose jaws would snap up enemy tanks."

The list is endless but in spite of all the goofy ideas, there are plenty which are practical suggestions or hints that can be turned to use. Probably never in the history of this nation was there such a marshalling of ideas and inventions as that under the present program of this new brain trust.

According to Dr. Kettering, what it takes to outstrip any aggressor nation in inventiveness and speed of production, this country has.

He points out that it was in the U. S. that the airplane, the light internal combustion engine and the high-test gasoline that runs them, the tank, the submarine, the machine gun and the automobile—all name only a few of the engines of war—were invented. The U. S. also is birthplace and home of mass production. The aggressor nations have appropriated all these to use in modern battles, says the doctor. But with a spring board start like that, he feels,

Authority To Be Heard At Rollins College

WINTER PARK, Jan. 2.—As prominent features of the Rollins College adult education program, Mr. Hayes Davis, of New York City, authority on international peace through justice, will deliver a series of five public lectures which will culminate on Jan. 10 with a debate between Mr. Davis and Clarence K. Hamilton, author of "Union Now".

Beginning on Friday, Jan. 24, Mr. Davis will lecture on "The Step in the Peace of the World," each Monday and Friday morning at 11:00 o'clock in Annie Russell Theater, during his final talk on Feb. 7. The originator of the idea that the nations of the world should be organized into a world government similar to the general union of the United States has been recognized as a leading authority on international relations.

Mr. Davis' articles seemed to open a field of international relations greater than any other which came into the pages of our magazine, said the president who has devoted much of his life to popularizing the study of international relations. "Present international conditions make it appear that the time is ripe for a comprehensive treatment of this subject in the form of lectures on the history of substituting a world government for the present system of nations."

Mr. Davis' progress step by step in the study of international relations, and the ultimate goal of a world government, will be the revival of the League of Nations. Dr. Holt, who favors a world government organized at once by the nations, said that the present system of nations is a failure. He said that the nations are in a state of anarchy and that the only way to bring about a world government is by the nations taking a step at a time.

Telephone Calls Mean Thrills To 'Blood Donators'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—There are some folks here in Washington who don't bark but humoredly into the telephone when it rings in the middle of the night. Instead, they jump up and go into action with the thrill that can come only to men who are presented with an opportunity to save a life.

They are not firemen or doctors either. They are employees of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and members of the bureau's American Legion Post No. 89. They make up the post's "blood donating squad."

Mostly it is Charles Wolfe, administrative assistant at the bureau and captain of the squad, who gets the call, or it may be Arthur J. Thomas, an assistant to Commissioner Guy T. Helvering, who is Captain Wolfe's first lieutenant. But it can be any one of the men or women who comprise the squad.

If it is Wolfe who is called, as it was one night recently, when an excited, pleading bureau employee told him that his sister had undergone a tumor operation and her doctors felt it imperative she have a blood transfusion, the captain goes to work. If the patient's blood type is known, Wolfe consults his little black book, selects members of the squad who have the same type and orders them to rush to the hospital. In this recent case, the employee's sister had her transfusion within an hour and now is at home and well.

The "blood donating squad" is a Bureau of Internal Revenue activity. It has been operating for nearly four years but it only came to public attention recently when the officers held out invitations to a benefit dance and included a little history of the squad. Don't get the wrong idea. The squad has no administrative expense and no salary. It is a voluntary organization.

Proper maturity of citrus and growth of winter vegetables were delayed, while planting activities were at a standstill as farmers looked hopefully at the skies and hesitated to put in new crops until there was more moisture in the land. Ranges and woodlands were brown and timber dry and firebreaks were being difficultly in getting enough grass.

Generous rains which began a day or two before Christmas changed the picture, however, and farmers rushed their planting and other work that had been delayed for weeks by dry weather. Many acres of vegetables, cover crops, permanent pastures, and other crops have been planted since the rains came.

Tung Outlook For 1941 Called Good; Fruits Unchanged

GAINESVILLE, Jan. 2.—Prices of tung oil have advanced greatly during the past year, giving this crop a favorable outlook for 1941, says G. H. Blackmon, horticulturist with the Florida Experiment Station in the annual outlook report now being issued by the Extension Service. Prospects for other small fruits and nuts remain mostly about the same as last year.

The 1940 crop of pecans has been mostly marketed at fair prices, especially for early varieties, and growers are giving more attention to problems of soil fertility and the control of insects and diseases. Experiment Station research has shown how to maintain production fairly uniformly, and growers are adopting the recommended practices.

Current season's production of American tung oil has been the highest on record, estimates placing the crop of Florida fruit at around 10 million pounds which should yield around 1,600,000 pounds of oil. Continued expansion of plantings, particularly in other Gulf states, is noted.

Growers are choosing locations less subject to hazards of late frost and are planting improved strains. Blackmon believes that future production, under normal conditions, will show a marked increase for a few years.

Silver King Tractor Representative Name

The Watson Equipment Company, 1018 West Church Street, Orlando, announced today they have been appointed exclusive representatives for Silver King Tractors by the Fate-Root-Heath Co., manufacturers, Plymouth, Ohio.

C. K. Watson of the Watson Equipment Co. stated that there are many of these tractors already in use in Florida and that the satisfaction they are giving to present owners was one of the outstanding factors in securing the state distribution for the Silver King. The public is invited to inspect the new salesroom and warehouse in Orlando, and to see the Silver King tractor.

Exports of petroleum products from the United States required the production of 194,000,000 barrels of oil in 1935, while in 1940 the export requirements were about 123,000,000 barrels.

Considerable interest in the production of early peaches in Florida has been manifested, and additional orchards will be set during the current planting season. Blackmon says that orchard management returning high quality early fruit will be the most profitable. No material changes are in prospect for peaches, grapes, persimmons or blueberries, Blackmon concludes.

Convict Gives Up 22 Years After Escape

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 2.—A 74-year old man, Tom Hodge, last night followed his son's advice and started "the new year right" by surrendering to Warden Wilson at Alabama's Kilby prison where he escaped in 1915.

Hodge was serving a life sentence for murder in Covington county when he escaped 22 years ago. The old man, accompanied by his son, Clifford Hodge, walked into the prison and told the warden he was ready to resume serving the sentence.

The consumption of oil in the United States is so great that the Army and Navy could quadruple their demands and increase the total U. S. demand "only a small fraction."

Heavy Rains Boost Farming Activities

GAINESVILLE, Jan. 2.—Recent heavy rains—the first in nearly three months in some localities—have resulted in a marked increase in farming activity in Florida during the past fortnight, according to reports received by the State Agricultural Extension Service.

While some coastal sections received fairly good rains several weeks ago, crops in many counties were suffering from lack of moisture until the rains which came just before the Christmas season.

Proper maturity of citrus and growth of winter vegetables were delayed, while planting activities were at a standstill as farmers looked hopefully at the skies and hesitated to put in new crops until there was more moisture in the land. Ranges and woodlands were brown and timber dry and firebreaks were being difficultly in getting enough grass.

77th Congress Takes Up New Job Solemnly

Members Of Two Bodies Meet At Noon For First Session; Most Are Veterans

Investigation Of Defense Planned

Dual Inquiry To Be Made By Committee Of Senate, House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—(AP)—President Roosevelt announced today steps were being taken to begin building about 200 merchant vessels of approximately 7,500 tons each costing $200,000,000 to $250,000,000. The vessels, he said, will be constructed in the new shipbuilding yards owned chiefly by the government.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The new Congress, taking over from its record-breaking predecessor the task of arming America, met today in an atmosphere made gloomy by grave international problems.

There were hearty handshakes and greetings of "good New Year" however, as members of the House and Senate met for the first session.

The 76th Congress, which ended just before the new year, had introduced 1,100 bills, 1,000 of which were passed.

The 77th Congress will be expected to pass more legislation than any other in the history of the United States.

The House will be headed by Speaker Charles McNary, Democrat of Oregon, and the Senate by Vice President Charles McNary, Democrat of Oregon.

McNary said his examination would cover the progress of National Air Corps expansion, shipbuilding, construction of shore establishments, production of armor plate and heavy guns and the time table for completing the program.

McNary said his committee planned to work at top speed for several months. In the interim it will keep in contact with the naval high command, most of whom will be called before the committee.

Interesting Stories Lie Behind Old Glassware At Antique Shop

If you're in the mood for stories, there are many interesting ones connected with the display of old glassware, jewelry and buttons at the antique shop on Park Avenue operated by Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Sandberg and Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Shekley of New York City.

This is the Sandberg's first visit to Sanford, but the Shekley's are old-timers. They've been coming here for seven years. Both own antique shops in New York, the Sandbergs in Tonawanda, and the Shekleys in Westfield. This is the first time that any part of the Shekley's collection has been brought down to Sanford.

Mr. Sandberg, who has been collecting glassware for over 15 years, can pick up almost any of the varied pieces and relate a story about it.

"Take this one for instance," he said. It was a low vase of many colors, somewhat resembling a large antique shop in New York. This is the first time that any part of the Shekley's collection has been brought down to Sanford.

Cabinet Setup Is Changed By Premier Petain

'Appeasement' Directorate Named; British Penetrate Bardia Stronghold

By Associated Press.—France's aged Chief of State, Marshal Philippe Petain completely reorganized his cabinet today by dropping Secretary of State Paul Baudouin and appointing what appeared to be an "appeasement" directorate, similar to the setup under Napoleon Bonaparte in the early days of the French Republic.

In the 18-day-old siege of Bardia, on the Libyan desert in North Africa, the British general headquarters reported today that just after dawn tank-supported Australians penetrated the defenses of the stronghold. Operations are continuing, the announcement said.

British mechanized forces were reported operating 75 miles beyond the Egyptian border in Libya yesterday in a possible prelude to an attack on the big Italian base at Tobruk even before the anticipated fall of Bardia.

With these forces declared to be firmly holding the strategic road leading from Bardia to Tobruk, 80 miles west of the Egyptian border, the R.A.F. launched out new last night against Bardia, the Mediterranean coast, and other Fascist objectives deep in the Libyan desert.
