Sewage Treatment Technique Proposed For Seminole

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County and Orlando officials plan to use a new technique to increase the capacity at the Iron Bridge Regional Sewage Treatment Plant near Oviedo by 4 million gallons.

Bob Haven, an Orlando official, said this week hyacinths can be used to increase the capacity at the plant to 28 million gallons from its current 24 million gallons.

He said the plan calls for 8 million gallons of effluent to be placed in hyacinth ponds for "polishing." In that process the hyacinths would reduce the nutrients in the effluent.

Seminole County commissioners have not yet taken official action on the proposal but only Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather has expressed opposition to the plan.

If the project is undertaken, a change in the special exception granted for the plant would have to be granted by the county. Under that special exception the size of the plant is limited to 24 million gallons.

Haven said the total amount of nutrients permitted to flow into the Little Econlockhatchee River from the plant would remain the same. The only difference is that more sewage would be treated because some of it would be broken down further than it is currently.

The plan has been tentatively approved by the state Department of Environmental Regulation, Haven said.

It would be the first time hyacinths have been used commercially to treat sewage, said Phil Searcy, a consultant with Post, Buckley, Schuh and Jernigan, the county's sewage consultant.

Hyacinths have long been considered helpful in reducing the nutrient level in streams or ponds but have never really been tested for their effectiveness, Haven said.

Haven said the ponds could be drained and used for percolation if tests show the hyacinth ponds are not working.

Approval of the plan is contingent upon satisfying the St. Johns' coalition that it won't add to the level of pollution in the river, having the plant working for six months without any problems and technical review by state DER officials.

Seminole County's portion of the cost would be about $750,000 and it would provide Seminole County with about 900,000 gallons of additional capacity.

Haven said the plant still has odor problems at its current level of 12.5 million gallons daily. He said a considerable amount of money already has been spent in treating the sewage chemically to reduce the odor.

"It's the biggest problem we've had and frankly it's an embarrassment," he said.

He said the designers of the plant did not take the odor problem into consideration. One solution to the problem could be the installation of covers on the tanks but that would cost about $250,000.

Haven said he will continue trying to correct the odor problem chemically but if that fails, the covers will be needed. "If that's what it takes, that's what we're going to do."

Haven said construction of the hyacinth ponds and alterations to pipes and tanks at the plant will cost about $3.3 million. That cost translates to 82 cents per gallon, far less than the $4 per gallon construction costs associated with building new treatment plants.

Seminole County's portion of the cost would be about $750,000 and it would provide Seminole County with about 900,000 gallons of additional capacity.

Haven said the hyacinth ponds could be operational within 18 months if everything goes smoothly.

Seminole County is not currently sending sewage to Iron Bridge. Environmental Services Manager Ken Hooper said the county will begin sending 500,000 gallons beginning in three months.

Car-Truck Crash Kills 2; Traffic Tied Up

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

A tragic two-vehicle collision claimed the lives of a Winter Springs and an Orlando man today, tying up traffic for six hours and sparking several minor traffic accidents.

Dennis Casey Stever, 27, of 680 Ft. Rose Drive in Winter Springs, and Marvin Loumar Zipperer, 34, of Orlando died after Stever's Pontiac and Zipperer's Gustafson Farms semi-trailer collided at State Road 434 and U.S. Highway 17-92 in Longwood at about 4:55 a.m. today, Longwood police said.

"The Pontiac was eastbound on State Road 434, heading toward Winter Springs and the truck was southbound on U.S. 17-92," Longwood Police Chief Greg Manning said. "There were no skid marks on the road and it appears both vehicles were moving when impact occurred."

"The car collided with the front right side of the truck, taking the front axle of the truck," he said. "The axle came to rest atop the Pontiac with a tire resting on the hood against the windshield."

"The truck turned and flipped, throwing milk everywhere, then caught fire," Manning said. "My man tried to get to the truck driver, to get him out, but he couldn't get near it because of the heat of the flames."

Manning said his investigators are not sure if Zipperer died on impact or if his death came as a result of the fire.

"The other driver appears to have died on impact or shortly thereafter," Manning said. "The medical examiner is doing the autopsies and they are supposed to tell us something this morning."

"Apparently Dennis was coming home when it happened," said Mrs. Rita Stever, Dennis' mother. "Dennis is a tennis pro and works at the Altamonte Racquet Club. He's always coming and going from tournaments in and out of town day and night. I really don't know where he had been that evening. All I know is I'm still in shock. I couldn't believe it when they came and told me this morning."

Mrs. Stever said her son lived with her, her husband, Elmer Stever, and a younger brother, Kevin, at the Ft. Rose Drive home. Stever had two other brothers and a sister, all married and living out of town, Mrs. Stever said.

"I just can't believe it," she said. "We don't know anything more about what happened. They are still investigating it and said they'd talk with us later. I just can't believe it."

Meanwhile, Manning said his investigator, Steve Falk, has "a tough job ahead because there weren't any witnesses to the crash that we know of. It'll be a while before we know exactly what happened."

Manning added that Seminole County sheriff's deputies were called in to assist with traffic and handle minor accidents which resulted around the fatal crash scene.

"There was nothing serious," Manning said. "Just a few minor fender-benders and rear-enders. The sheriff's department really helped us out a lot with traffic. This was a bad accident."

The fatalities bring the total of traffic-related deaths in Seminole County this year to 33, troopers said.

Glenn Elected

First Woman Commissioner Now Chairman

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The first woman ever elected to the Seminole County Commission — Sandra Glenn — also has become its first woman chairman. And chairman is the title she holds, not chairwoman nor chairperson.

"That seems to be the thing that has caused the greatest confusion by everyone from switchboard operators to lawyers," said the 44-year-old official from Altamonte Springs.

"But I was elected chairman," she said. "Tuesday, her first day on the job in her new role, she ran a 'tight ship,' moving items along."

"Since I wasn't asking as many questions, I guess the meeting speeded up," she said, adding she will still be seeking out information on every item of consideration as she has done during her first term in office.

Re-elected unopposed earlier this month, Mrs. Glenn, mother of one son, Benny, 14, a student at Milwee Middle School, began her political career in 1972. After being balked at by Altamonte Springs city officials when she sought solutions to Charter Oaks subdivision neighborhood problems especially with street lighting, she ran for a city commission berth.

She admits she was green about politics and handily lost that election. In 1974, she was all geared up for a city commission election battle and won easily, defeating her male opponent by about 2-1.

In 1976, she was easily re-elected to the city commission, defeating another male opponent by better than 2-1.

By 1978, her goal was the Seminole County Commission, although two other women had tried for a slot on the county governing body and lost.

Mrs. Glenn didn't see the race as a woman candidate but rather as the "best qualified candidate" and broke the county's 65-year record at that time of having had only men commissioners. She is a Republican.

A year ago she was offered the chairmanship by her colleagues, but declined, saying with elections this year she didn't feel she could do a good job as chairman while running for re-election at the same time.

She was elected Tuesday unanimously. And again she is not giving credit for her election to the fact that she's a woman.

"I hope I was elected on my ability rather than to make history as the first woman chairman in the 69 years the county has existed," she said.

"I'm pleased that the vote was unanimous. That shows that the members have confidence that we can work well together," Mrs. Glenn said.

A native of Georgia and the daughter of a Baptist minister father and a school teacher mother, Mrs. Glenn, during her first four-year term, served on the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council representing the county. She was elected chairman of that body which includes members of the Central Florida counties. She intends to continue serving on that board.

SANDRA GLENN

"It involves monthly meetings and will not interfere with my other duties," she said. Mrs. Glenn also has been county representative to the Council of Local Governments in Seminole County.

The major priorities during her tenure are transportation and the space move, priorities set by the majority of the Commission.

In her role as chairman, Mrs. Glenn sees her job to be carrying out these priorities, moving them along as quickly as possible to get the job done.

"The challenge is going to be getting the new administrator on line and up to date on county priorities and to continue the board working under the team effort concept," she said.

"I'll be depending on my fellow commissioners to help make all our priorities become reality," she said. Mrs. Glenn also will be asking commissioners to start thinking of the committee assignments and appointments they want, she said.

During the next year, the District 4 commissioner said she will be depending on her primary secretary, Rita Curtis, and her backup secretary, Mary Mantzaris and the other county commission staff secretaries to "make the paperwork flow."

"All the staff has pledged their support to help make this the best year ever," she said.

Administrator

New County Chief To Take Extensive Vacation First

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

T. Duncan Rose has a lot of things to do between now and Jan. 17 when he takes over as Seminole County administrator.

Rose and his wife, Linda, plan to visit Turkey and the Mideast before he assumes his new post. Rose will leave his position in Alachua County on Dec. 10 and may spend Christmas in Israel.

The Roses are no strangers to travel. After he left a job in Columbus, Ohio, the couple traveled 3,500 miles on mopeds through Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Greece and Hungary.

Mrs. Rose, who holds a master of fine arts degree, is a fiber artist and is presently assistant program director at a University of Florida Craft Center. She is scheduled to exhibit her work at the Maitland Art Center in the spring.

Rose was offered the post of Altamonte Springs city manager when that city decided to hire a full-time administrator in 1980.

But he turned the job down and former Seminole County Assistant Administrator Jeff Eichberger was chosen.

Rose said turning down the offer from Altamonte Springs was one of the most difficult decisions he has made.

"The Alachua County offer came just two hours before I heard from Altamonte Springs," he explained. "It was a real tough decision, but I felt for my career at the time the Alachua position offered more in-depth experience in a couple of areas I wanted to test myself in. It turned out to be exactly what I needed."

Rose said he anticipates keeping a low profile for the first few months, discussing problems with department and division heads and finding out what commissioners' priorities are.

"I will slowly start to try to effect changes that I think are appropriate until I get a good feel for things. I want to look carefully at the computer needs from the support standpoint and the basic commitment for expanding. I plan to get moving on that right away. I want to study the growth of the area and complete plans for a capital project system and needs of roads and streets, and the financial system."

"The growth problem in the county will be significant for the next five to 15 years," he added.

A native of eastern Tennessee, Rose went into the Army after completing his undergraduate work at Grove City College in Pennsylvania. He was an officer in the Infantry and served in Alaska.

He later received a master's degree in planning from the University of Tennessee and a master's degree in public administration from Ohio State University.

Rose, former administrator Roger Nelwender and assistant administrator Jim Easton are all graduates of the University of Tennessee's planning program.

Under the terms of Rose's contract, he will receive a $44,000 annual salary along with three weeks of vacation and an additional five days of sick leave.

The contract between Rose and the county is good for three years.

IN BRIEF

Reagan Getting Little Support For His MX Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan faces the possibility of sustaining a major defense spending setback — rejection of his MX missile basing plan.

Legislation after legislator Tuesday denounced Reagan's decision to base the warheads in a "dense pack" in Wyoming. And they predicted they would be able to halt production funds.

They attacked the plan on economic and military grounds and charged it would violate arms control agreements with the Soviet Union that ban new missile launchers.

Chrysler Bypassing Canada

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. says it is preparing to move work performed by striking Canadians to the United States but United Auto Worker officials say a confrontation may result.

Chrysler Vice President for Industrial Relations Thomas Miner said Tuesday the company is duplicating machine tooling and casting dies needed to produce parts that had come from Canada, where workers have been on strike since Nov. 5.

UAW Vice President Marc Stepp said the statement sounded like Chrysler was willing to risk a confrontation with the union. Stepp refused to say whether the union would go on strike in the United States if the work is moved here.

Hurricane Smashes Hawaii

HONOLULU (UPI) — Hurricane Ina slammed into the northern islands of Hawaii with 110-mph winds early today, ripping away roofs, toppling trees and power lines, blocking roads with debris and causing thousands of people to evacuate their homes.

An estimated 6,800 people were ordered or chose to flee to shelters before the storm struck and then spun away to the northeast toward the California coast, subsiding in intensity.

No deaths or serious injuries were reported, but the worst of the storm hit the small private island of Niihau, kept isolated by its owners who officials were unable to contact. First assessments of damage on the 24 by 6 mile island where 226 people live were to be made from the air at daybreak.

Turkeys Today In Giveaway

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Salvation Army provided butter and cheese for 1,800 poor and unemployed people and hoped for an orderly crowd today for the Thanksgiving main course giveaway — turkeys.

As police stood guard to help avoid a repeat of a melee that occurred last week, people waited in a drizzle at a Salvation Army post Tuesday for free 5-pound boxes of cheese and 1-pound boxes of butter.

Today they will wait again in hopes of receiving one of 110 certificates for free turkeys. Police were to be on hand again to assure there would be no incidents.

Reagan Heads To The Hills To Study Sputtering Economy

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — President Reagan today began the first full day of a holiday vacation trying to decide what measures beyond a job-creating highway repair program to recommend to stimulate the economy.

Reagan arrived in California Tuesday to spend Thanksgiving with his family at his secluded mountaintop ranch and prepare for a five-day trip to Latin America next week.

Aides expect his stay to be subdued, but before leaving Washington Tuesday he made a splash by announcing support for a 5-cent gasoline tax hike to finance a $5.5 billion program to repair the nation's deteriorating roads and bridges.

Reagan said the program would cost the average motorist $30 a year. And while insisting the bill is a response to the state of the federal road system and not 10.4 percent unemployment, administration officials estimated it would help spawn 320,000 jobs.

Aides said the gas-tax increase is one of several initiatives Reagan will recommend for congressional action during the post election-session that begins Monday.

After appearing on short notice in the White House press room to endorse the gas-tax rise, Reagan promised "a series of other measures that would help give our economy a fresh boost as we head into 1983."

Presidential counselor Edwin Meese told reporters accompanying Reagan to California there are "a few things floating around" that could be used to stimulate the economy, but provided few details.

Said Meese, "It will not be a vast, extensive package, but will be a number of things Congress should look at in a comprehensive way."

One option still under consideration, aides said, is a six-month acceleration in the 10 percent tax cut scheduled for next July 1.

Reagan and some top advisers believe speeding up the cut would be a boost to the economy, but the proposal is opposed by other members of the administration and congressional leaders because it would add to a deficit many already consider unacceptably large.

Administration officials said Reagan also may offer a proposal to attack high unemployment among young people, possibly in the form of a "subminimum wage" to encourage the hiring of teenage workers.

White House aides went to lengths to dispute suggestions Reagan had been a "Johnnie-come-lately" to the gas tax plan, which he endorsed only after it had received broad bipartisan support in Congress.

The president told reporters the highway system has been ignored for so long the repair program would be necessary "if there were no recession at all."

PRESIDENT REAGAN ...on vacation

"There's no question that obviously there will be some employment with it," Reagan acknowledged. "But it is not a jobs bill as such. It is a necessity."

2 Others Injured

Policeman Hurt In 2-Car Crash

Three people, including a Casselberry police officer, were injured in a two-car collision this morning after a car apparently ran a red light and hit a patrol car which was pulling onto U.S. Highway 17-92 from Lake Triplet Drive.

Theresa Ann Coomes, 22, of 656 Huntington Court, Winter Park, was in critical condition at Florida Hospital-Orlando today following the crash which also seriously injured her passenger, Bruce Casey, of 129 Clyde Ave.,

Longwood, Florida Highway Patrol troopers said. Casey is being treated at Florida Hospital-Altamonte Springs.

Meanwhile, officer James C. Rus, was released from Florida Hospital-Altamonte Springs after being treated for neck and leg injuries. Officials said Rus left the hospital wearing leg and neck braces.

According to troopers, Ms. Coomes' 1980 Honda was traveling north on 17-92 at about 2:15 a.m. when she ran a red light and collided with Rus' patrol vehicle at Lake Triplet Drive and 17-92. Troopers said the Honda struck the patrol car in the driver's side.

Approximately $2,000 damage was caused to the police vehicle while the Honda was totaled, troopers said.

Ms. Coomes has been charged with driving under the influence of alcoholic beverages and running a red light, troopers said.

Commissioners Deny Zoning Change On 17-92

By DONNA ESTES
 Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford City Commission has bowed to the wishes of 26 neighboring property homeowners and turned down the proposed rezoning to general commercial on a 10-block strip of French Avenue (U.S. Highway 17-92) from 15th to 25th streets.

But Mayor Lee P. Moore warned the protesters that "zoning on French Avenue is going to be changed eventually and you might as well prepare for it."

On Monday night, the City's Planning and Zoning Commission recommended the zoning to general commercial of spots along the thoroughfare which are zoned restricted commercial to make zoning along the highway uniform.

Restrictive commercial zoning permits professional offices, barber and beauty shops, convenience stores and other small retail and service establishments.

General commercial allows all those uses permitted in restricted commercial, but also permits shopping centers, banks, light manufacturing, automotive sales, and other larger service and retail establishments.

Mrs. Joyce Nikkola of Lutz, Fla., owner of three lots east of the Pizza Hut, argued for the change, submitting newspaper clippings dating as far back as February, 1949, showing the property's zoning was designated general commercial at that time. She also produced a plat showing the property still was zoned commercial two years later.

"I'd like the zoning the property had for over 30 years," Mrs. Nikkola said.

However, John T. Cullum Jr. of 412 Editha Circle, submitted a petition containing the signatures of 26 homeowners in his area protesting the change.

And Commissioner Eddie Keith said he was reluctant to change the zoning on any property affecting homeowners.

The vote on the issue was 4-1 with Commissioner David Farr, voting in favor of the rezoning.

Noting that spot zoning examples now exist on French Avenue, Farr said that the commission could have excluded from the proposed rezoning those areas that Cullum and his neighbors were concerned about, and change at least those properties north of 20th Street to correct some of the spot zoning while it had the opportunity to do so.

Feather Votes 'No' On Zoning Change For His Ex-Wife

By MICHAEL BEHA
 Herald Staff Writer

A request to change the site plan of a parcel of property owned by Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather's ex-wife was rejected by Seminole County commissioners.

Feather and fellow commissioner's Sandra Glenn and William Kirchhoff voted to deny the request for a change in the site plan from a one-story, 4,800-square-foot building to a two-story, 10,000-square-foot building.

The property located at the intersection of Wekiva Springs Road and East Lake Brantley Road near Longwood, was once owned by Feather and his wife, but when the couple was divorced, his wife, Dodi Simmerson, became the sole owner of the property.

Feather appeared before commissioners in 1980, prior to his election to the board, and asked for a zoning change on the property from agricultural to a restricted office-professional zoning. He planned to build a real estate office for himself and a travel agency for his wife.

Feather worked intensively with area residents to gain their support for the plan which commissioners eventually approved.

The zoning change was approved for the site plan submitted by Feather and when Altamonte Springs developer Walter Judge requested the change in the site plan to allow the larger building, Feather objected.

During discussion of the plan two weeks ago, Ms. Simmerson accused Feather of opposing the plan because of their divorce. Feather denied the charge, claiming he was responsible to the people in the area because of the assurances he made them that the character of the neighborhood would be maintained.

Tuesday's discussion was less emotional, centering on the issue of one-story versus two-story buildings.

Judge said the building he wanted to build would have glazed glass to reflect the trees surrounding it.

Feather answered charges that he had a conflict of interest in the case by claiming that voters in the area affected by the plan had elected him to the commission.

He said only two buildings, both houses, on Wekiva Springs Road are more than one-story.

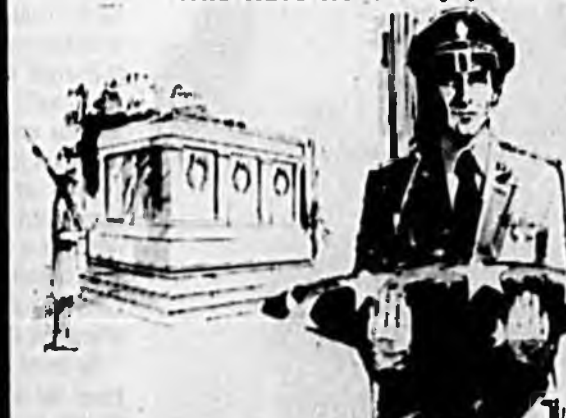

Commissioner Robert Sturm argued in favor of Judge's plan, claiming the zoning does not limit buildings to one-story. He said Feather voluntarily accepted the one-story restriction so Judge does not have to abide by Feather's plans.

But Kirchhoff agreed with Feather, claiming the zoning change granted on the property was contingent on the site plan.

Mrs. Glenn agreed to deny the site plan change when Feather and Kirchhoff said they would accept a larger square footage if it is a one-story building.

FP&L Wins $101 Million

Rate Hike; Will Seek More

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Florida Power & Light Co. has gotten its second rate increase in a year, although not nearly as big as it wanted, and it will seek still a third rate hike in 1983.

The Public Service Commission Tuesday authorized Miami-based FP&L to raise its rates to generate an extra $101 million a year in income.

The decision means about a $2.40 increase in FP&L's average residential bill of $63.63. That will be on top of the 76-cent increase that went into effect when the commission granted the utility a $45 million interim increase this summer. The interim hike is included in the $101 million increase. FP&L had requested $281 million a year in additional revenues.

Ma Bell Wants More $ Too

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Public Service Commission was just finishing up an eight-month review of a rate hike by one giant utility, when another one came in — Southern Bell Telephone.

Southern Bell filed for a $404 million rate increase for its Florida operations Tuesday. The rate case had been expected, but not nearly that large of a request.

Southern Bell was granted a $140 million increase only a year ago.

Neither utility got nearly as much as it requested last year, however.

The $404 million rate increase, if granted, would be the biggest ever for Southern Bell of Florida and would mean a $6 a month boost in the average residential telephone bill and a $9 boost in business bills. The company asked that $178.5 million of the increase take effect on an interim basis in 60 days. Any permanent increase wouldn't go into effect for nine or 10 months.

Altamonte Man Innocent In Bar Brawl

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Two men are free today after being found innocent in separate trials in Seminole Circuit Court, of aggravated battery and escape.

Steven Harold Tinsley, 31, of 1017 Clemson Drive, Altamonte Springs, was acquitted of an aggravated battery charge after a six-member jury deliberated over two days.

The state charged that Tinsley walked into the Capt. Hook's Oyster Bar and Pub on State Road 436, Altamonte Springs, and hit Dennis Kraszewski over the head with a baseball bat after Kraszewski had ejected Tinsley from the bar.

Kraszewski, a bar patron, told the jury he had asked Tinsley to leave the bar after Tinsley had "a little too much to drink" and began disturbing other customers in the bar.

About an hour later, Kraszewski said he was standing at the bar counter talking with employees and friends when someone hit him on the right side of the face with a baseball bat which broke in two.

Michelle Hudson, a barmaid at the pub, said she saw Tinsley raise the bat over his head and strike Kraszewski.

"I was shocked at the jury's decision," said prosecutor Glenn Storch. "We had an eyewitness, the broken bat and testimony from the victim. I just can't understand their verdict. Obviously there was a lot of jury sympathy for the defendant."

Meanwhile, Stanley Steven Anderson also left the courtroom a free man after Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor found him innocent of an escape charge in a non-jury trial Tuesday.

Anderson, who is also known as Eric Bosley, had been charged with kicking the window out of a police vehicle and running from the car while officers were transporting him from Orlando to the Seminole County jail.

Anderson's lawyer argued that the arrest warrant had not been lawfully issued and that without a legal arrest, the charge of escape could not be filed. McGregor agreed.

Inflation, Economic Recovery Both Slow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Inflation for this year as a whole is likely to be the lowest in half a decade, including retail food prices.

But the long-awaited recovery from the recession still is very slow in getting off the ground.

And the buying power of the nation's blue collar workers is still declining.

Those were among economic signs reported by the government Tuesday and form a backdrop to debate over economic policy that is continuing and will intensify when Congress returns for its post-election session Monday.

Some of President Reagan's advisers urge the 10 percent income-tax cut scheduled for July 1 be advanced to Jan. 1 to give the economy an added boost. Others say it would add too much to the deficit and perhaps re-ignite inflation.

Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige Tuesday favored moving up the tax cut, telling reporters it would provide "confidence building stimulus" for the economy. Martin Feldstein, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, is cool toward the idea.

Another issue is how tight a rein the Federal Reserve should continue to keep on the money supply. Some congressional Democrats long have urged the Fed to ease up in an effort to further reduce interest rates.

The Fed has eased somewhat, but Chairman Paul Volcker, scheduled to testify before Congress' Joint Economic today, has said going too far in that direction would start inflation up again.

A third set of issues involves many proposals for job programs attempting to deal with the country's 10.4 percent unemployment rate.

Several nations moved ahead of the American manufacturing worker in average hourly compensation during the 1970s.

The Consumer Price Index rose 0.5 percent in August, somewhat faster than the previous two months, bringing the annual rate of inflation to 4.9 percent for the first 10 months of the year.

Baldrige said he expects it to end up around 5 percent for the year as a whole, which would be the lowest rate since 4.8 percent in 1976.

The Agriculture Department said retail food prices rose 0.2 percent in October, with lower prices for meats and seafood partially offsetting the higher cost of eggs and soft drinks.

It predicted the increase in food prices paid by consumers this year will be the smallest since 1976.

Less hopeful was the news that new orders to the nation's factories for durable manufactured goods declined 4.9 percent in October.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Japan's Pro-U. S. Nakasone

To Become Prime Minister

TOKYO (UPI) — State Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone, an advocate of a strong defense and better U.S. ties, won a resounding victory today in a ruling party primary, setting him up to become Japan's 11th prime minister.

With 99 percent of the vote counted, Nakasone, 64, had more than twice as many votes as his nearest rival and over 50 percent of the total, virtually assuring his succession to Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki. Suzuki is stepping down after leading the party and the nation since July 1980.

Whoever is president of the ruling party automatically becomes prime minister because of the party's majority in the Diet, or parliament, where the prime minister is chosen.

Israel's El Al Is No More

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — The shareholders of Israel's El Al airlines voted today to disband and sell the once-proud national carrier.

The decision announced by the shareholders came after the failure of negotiations with the company's pilots who refused to agree to a management demand for increases in working hours.

Over the years, the company increasingly ran into debt and last year lost $30 million. Strikes have plagued the company, with 69 in the last decade alone.

The Bishops And The Bomb

The spectacle of the nation's Roman Catholic bishops solemnly debating the morality of nuclear weapons and strategy would have seemed incongruous, even a few years ago.

The Catholic hierarchy in this country traditionally supported a strong military predicated on the inherent moral right of self-defense. And the choice of what weapons and strategy were best suited to ensure that defense was traditionally left to the nation's duly constituted military and political authority.

Not so today if the bishops' recent debates in Washington are any guide. A "peace" lobby led by Seattle's Archbishop Raymond G. Hunthausen urged the bishops to endorse unilateral nuclear disarmament, even if it left the Soviet Union as the only superpower with a nuclear arsenal.

Although only a minority of bishops seem prepared to support such obvious folly, a majority is likely to vote next spring for a pastoral letter endorsing a nuclear freeze and questioning the morality of a strategy of nuclear deterrence. A draft of the proposed pastoral letter under debate by the bishops condemns the threat to use nuclear weapons.

It cannot have escaped the bishops' notice that the very threat they would condemn is all that makes a nuclear deterrent credible. What could be more obvious than the fact that the possession of nuclear weapons as a deterrent to war would fail to deter the moment the possessor of those weapons renounces their use under any circumstances?

That is precisely why every American president since the dawn of the nuclear age has found it necessary to indicate publicly that a nuclear attack upon the United States would be answered in kind. And because that threat has been deemed credible by the Soviets, the possession of nuclear weapons in American hands has contributed decisively to the prevention of another world war for nearly 40 years now.

Renouncing that threat would be no service to the cause of peace or, we might add, of freedom including the religious liberty that should be of special concern to the bishops.

There are, to be sure, plenty of legitimate moral issues involved in the whole question of nuclear weapons and nuclear strategy. Too few are being addressed by the bishops.

Was it moral, for example, for successive American administrations from Lyndon Johnson's through Jimmy Carter's to deliberately deny the American people any protection from nuclear attack? Is it moral for today's peace lobby to oppose even the rudimentary civil defense measures proposed by the Reagan administration?

Is it moral, or even intelligent, to advocate a nuclear freeze with the Soviets at a time when the relative strength of the American nuclear deterrent is at its lowest point in history?

Is it especially moral to oppose, as many of the bishops do implicitly, research and development work on anti-ballistic missile defenses that might someday render the American nuclear deterrent and perhaps cities as well virtually invulnerable to attack?

We heard too little out of the bishops' debate in Washington that suggested these issues received anything approaching equal consideration with the various calls for disarmament. Nor, did we hear much support for the Reagan administration's policy of attempting to negotiate arms reduction agreements from a position of strength rather than weakness.

The nation's Catholic bishops have an enormous moral responsibility to reach conclusions on questions of nuclear weapons and doctrine that actually strengthen the cause of peace and freedom. We regret to say that much of what came out of the bishops' recent annual conference threatens to accomplish the opposite.

Football is still on the minds of students at Lyman, Lake Howell and Oviedo, but a move indoors has permeated the rest of the county.

Coach Bill Scott's Lyman Greyhounds travel to Vero Beach Friday to take on coach Billy Livings' Indians in the Region 4A-5 football championship.

Vero Beach survived a three-way tie with Satellite Beach and Merritt Island when the Indians won a playoff with the other two by taking two triple-overtime thrillers.

This is the same Vero Beach school which hammered Seminole last year in the playoffs. Livings says his team (6-4) isn't as strong as last year. The Indians went on to take the state championship last year.

"We don't have one standout player," said the veteran coach. "Just a bunch of guys who like to play football and do it well as a team."

Elsewhere, the most interesting Rotary Bowl matchup in sometime takes place Saturday night at 8 in Longwood when Lake Howell and Oviedo get together at Lyman.

The two schools once shared Oviedo's facility in 1975 which makes them natural rivals.

The game will feature a host of talented running backs. Lake Howell's Jay Robey went over the 1,000 mark against Bishop Moore by three yards. He ran for 197 yards against the Hornets as Lake Howell finished 6-4 for the regular season. It's the second winning season in the school's history.

Oviedo has a solid 1-2 punch with Junior J. W. Yarborough and Barry Williams. Yarborough, a 205-pound fullback, ran for 844 yards and six touchdowns. Williams, a 165-pound tailback, zoomed for 727 yards and eight scores.

Behind them are talented sophomores Larry Grayson and Charles "Pop" Bowers. Andrew Smith, a speedy freshman, is also a future star.

Turning to basketball, the county teams, minus Oviedo, get a small taste of what the competition will be like Wednesday night at Lyman when the Rotary Bowl Basketball Jamboree takes place.

There will be six quarters of action with the following pairings:

7 p.m. Trinity Prep vs. Lake Mary
7:30 p.m. Lake Brantley vs. Lake Mary
8 p.m. Trinity Prep vs. Lake Howell
8:30 p.m. Lyman vs. Lake Brantley
9 p.m. Lake Howell vs. Seminole
9:30 p.m. Seminole vs. Lyman
Coach Tom Lawrence's Lyman club and coach Chris Marlette's Seminoles figure to be the teams to beat in the jamboree.

The Vietnam Memorial

It's always a good idea to experience a work of art before commenting on it, interpreting it, and arguing about it.

A work of art is above all specific and concrete, either it works or it does not, while interpretation and opinion operate in another realm altogether.

These reflections were stimulated by the new Vietnam War Memorial, which was recently dedicated in Washington. I had a chance to take a careful look at it a few days later when I was in Washington on other matters.

I know that many conservatives, some of them my closest friends, have considered the monument an insult, an outrage.

The monument consists of a slab of polished black granite, 440 feet long. Its ground-plan is a large, flattened V. In the middle, it rises to a height of 10 feet, and the two arms of the V slope into the ground at their tips.

On the face of the black granite there have been engraved the some 57,939 names of those who died in the war, listed in the order in which they were killed.

Many have objected to the black granite as too funereal. Some have found in the V-shaped design an unwelcome reminder of the anti-war V salutes of the protestors. The roll of the dead in the monument has been held to ignore the heroism of many who fought in Vietnam. The monument is charged with failing to give any reason for these deaths, no statement about the war, not even an American flag. Tom Wolfe has written a brilliant essay characterizing it as an academic cliché, formula modernism. It has also been called a Monument to Jane Fonda.

I find all of these opinions plausible, except when standing before the actual work itself. The site it stands on, near the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument, plays a key role in the overall effect, and I am sure that Maya Ying Lin, who designed the monument when she was a 22-year-old undergraduate at Yale, took this site into her calculations.

The highly polished surface of the granite, as you stand before it, reflects both the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial, and has the effect of superimposing those famous images on the honor roll of names. This is a brilliant visual metaphor. It surely suggests the American ideal for which many or most of these men were fighting, and it associates them with the political ideals of those two great American presidents — ideas hardly alien to what the Vietnam War was about. Washington led the fight for national independence, and the war was fought for the independence of South Vietnam. In the fight over slavery, Lincoln was the Great Emancipator, and the Vietnam War was about slavery too. Those two monuments, reflected amid those names, associate the dead with the highest ideals of American history. They give the dead their honored place in the American tradition. And, finally, the observer sees his own reflection in the polished granite, among the names of the dead. They are part of us, and we are part of them.

Next year, a more conventional sculpture of three soldiers, plus a flag pole will be added nearby at the insistence of the monument's critics. I do not mind that at all. Because the new monument is so powerful, they will probably only enhance the central idea.

Maya Ying Lin has done her work well, and she must know that controversy does not surround bland works of art.

On The 'Cabinet Of Millionaires'

WASHINGTON — Times are tougher this holiday season than at any time since the Great Depression. As unemployment continues to climb and jobless benefits run out, many American families will count themselves lucky if they can scrape together the money for even a modest version of the traditional turkey dinner.

At the same time, there is a group of men who have good reason to count their blessings this Thanksgiving. The American system has been truly good to them. They have made sizeable fortunes and are in a unique position to safeguard their wealth through political influence.

I refer, of course, to the "Cabinet of Millionaires," the plutocrats whom Ronald Reagan — himself a millionaire — has appointed to run the federal government. Their decisions affect the lives of every American.

With few exceptions, the Cabinet members don't really need their government salaries; the $89,630 a year they collect from Uncle Sam each year is barely a blip on the chart of their incomes from investments and interest,

Mental Illness Causes?

By ROBERT STRAND

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Dr. Jack Barchas has a vision of a radically different psychiatry of the future.

During the patient's first visit to a psychiatric clinic, a blood sample will be drawn for analysis by a mass-spectrometer, a $175,000 machine now only found in research laboratories. Next the patient will give his case history.

With the combined results, a psychiatrist will prescribe drugs that together with conventional office visits will provide better and faster treatment.

Barchas is an apostle of the new science of behavioral neurochemistry which he says now verges on discovery of "new continents and islands."

Barchas, director of Stanford's Nancy Pritzker Laboratory of Behavioral Neurochemistry, is one of two dozen psychiatrists in the United States devoting his time exclusively to learning what happens in the brain to cause mental illness.

What happens, he believes, are chemical disorders. The bad chemistry affects behavior, and the bad behavior in turn affects the chemistry.

"We're learning all sorts of things, such as what neurotransmitters are present and how they work biochemically and physiologically," Barchas said recently during a lecture. "There was very little study of these problems until a few decades ago."

He said a new vista was opened when a Swede, Arvid Carlsson, analyzing brain chemicals discovered dopamine, which is important in Parkinson's disease, a movement disorder.

"It may also be important in some forms of depression. Knowledge about dopamine has led to a whole new way of thinking about schizophrenia, which suggests that a relative excess of dopamine may be involved in schizophrenia or in its treatment."

Members of Barchas' lab recently were the first to purify the brain enzyme that controls dopamine's formation and remarkable activation during stress. Further work indicated that production of the enzyme was controlled genetically.

Now the lab is seeking to determine whether the same genetic process is involved in depression, autism and schizophrenia. French scientists have discovered drugs called phenothiazines that help treat some kinds of schizophrenia by blocking brain receptors so they don't get too much dopamine.

"They have been miraculous because prior to World War II, schizophrenia was a disease which almost inevitably resulted in a very bad outcome. Now an acute schizophrenic taking the medications will usually be markedly improved, and after a while will be finished with the treatment."

Stanford scientists say mania and depression are somehow associated with neurotransmitters such as serotonin and norepinephrine concentrated in areas thought to control emotion and mood.

Another group of chemicals that may be involved in depression are endorphins, which function like the body's natural morphine.

"The finding of such substances is quite exciting. We are in a phase of neurobiology similar to that of the finding of continents and islands. We know the finding of new neurotransmitters will be important for treatment and diagnosis in the future but do not know yet exactly what their significance will be or in what disorder they will prove important."

A problem will be money. For cancer research Barchas says the nation spends about $200 per patient and for heart research about $100, but for mental illness research only $6 per patient.

Eyeing Andropov In Power

How will the Andropov era in the Soviet Union differ from the Brezhnev era?

That's the question policy analysts and ordinary citizens are asking in America and around the world. Only time will tell, but there are factors in the situation which bear consideration.

This is the first time in the Soviet Union that the chief secret policeman has been named the head of the Communist Party. The secret police mentality has to be a factor in the new leadership. A conspiratorial approach is basic to the Soviet communist regime, but this is likely to be accentuated.

If anything, there is likely to be an even stronger emphasis on the silencing of dissent within the Soviet empire. This has been a primary task of the KGB, the committee on state security, which Andropov headed. With this background, Andropov is almost certain to tighten the grip on the captive nations of Eastern Europe.

The KGB also has played the key role in the spreading of dis-information to the West and in subverting Western institutions. It is safe to predict that the No. 1 priority of the Andropov regime will be a stepped-up campaign on the nuclear freeze and disarmament issue, designed to increase Western fears of nuclear war and to encourage Western defeatism.

The dual aim in this campaign, launched under Brezhnev, was to steer the Western countries in the direction of unilateral nuclear disarmament and to detach the West European countries from alliance with the United States.

Andropov undoubtedly has great skill in orchestrating the nuclear freeze offensive, especially in manipulating the opinions of Western Church leaders.

Still, Andropov has weaknesses at home. The USSR's principal problem is an archaic economic system. Poor agricultural production is the worst of the economic problems. Andropov has no expertise in this area and no record of interest in economic matters. With a failed economy, indolence and unrest will increase in the Soviet Union. Andropov is likely to turn to typical police state tactics to deal with this. However, sending people to Siberia won't solve Soviet economic problems in an era that requires decentralized economic management and the use of automation on a wider scale.

Finally, Andropov hasn't a lot of time. He comes to power at age 68. Older, younger communist leaders must be eager to succeed him. If the former chief KGB man deals with this problem in the manner of all secret policemen, the future leadership of the Soviet Union may be further impaired.

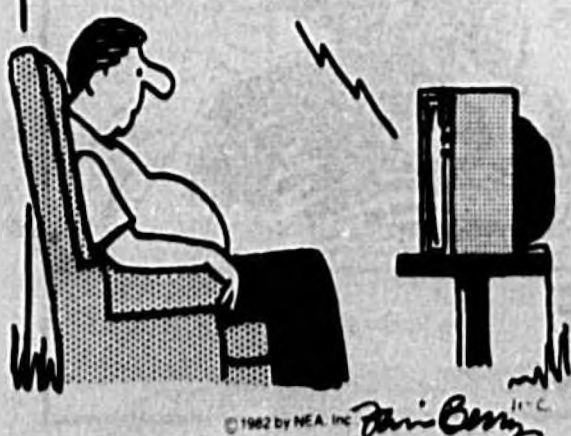

It is essential that the U.S. government understand the background, strength and weaknesses of the new "czar" of all the Russias.

Fred Friendly Is Pitchman For First Amendment

LAKE BUENA VISTA (UPI) — Actor Robert Conrad advertises batteries; Orson Welles, wine. Then there's Fred Friendly, who spends his time pitching the First Amendment. "I'm sort of a pitchman for the First Amendment," said Friendly, former president of CBS News who now teaches journalism at Columbia University and travels around the country lecturing on his favorite topic. "I shake my tambourine for the First Amendment," he said. "It's funny, but Oz Elliott, the dean of our school, introduces me, saying, 'this is Fred Friendly, who helped James Madison write the First Amendment.'"

When Friendly is not teaching, lecturing or writing books, he's preaching free speech to America's young. We recently held a First Amendment seminar on "Why in the World," on PBS program designed by Walter Conkite to encourage high school students to link current events to their classroom studies.

"I think the First Amendment changes. It has more teeth in it than it used to," Friendly said in an interview at Disney's new Epcot Center. "We have the freest press in the world. For that reason, I want to make sure we use it and don't abuse it."

Friendly, 67, joined the lecture circuit and began teaching because "I just can't say no. I'm supposed to be retired, but I flunked retirement," he joked.

In addition to teaching at the Columbia School of Journalism, Friendly conducts seminars for journalists, judges, prosecutors and lawyers. "This puts journalists and judges in each others shoes," he said. "It works really well."

Friendly began his broadcasting career in Providence, R.I., in 1938 and then teamed up with Broadcast pioneer Edward R. Murrow 10 years later. He worked briefly for NBC and became a news executive for CBS in 1959. He was president of CBS News from 1964 to 1966.

Friendly said television news has changed somewhat since the days he was in command at CBS. "There is a little too much garbage, electronic garbage, on the news programs for my taste," he said. "There is too much Walter Winchell garbage."

"I think you have to be careful you don't so hype the news with show biz that it gets like the quiz shows of 20 and 30 years ago, where people begin not to trust it because it's so gimmicky."

Reagan Sparing Turkey

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan got the bird Tuesday — and promptly spared its life.

Receiving a 50-pound turkey from the National Turkey Federation, Reagan said he prefers live birds, and recalled a previous attack with a carving knife on a cooked turkey.

"I looked down and saw blood and I thought 'this turkey isn't cooked enough.' Then I found I had cut my thumb. So I prefer them live."

The huge bird, standing on spindly legs on a green-covered table in the Rose Garden, was given Reagan by William H. Prestage of Warsaw, N.C. It was the National Turkey Federation's 35th annual presentation to a first family.

Gazing at the turkey, Reagan said "considering the season, he is the national bird." Then he added: "He has a reprieve."

A White House aide said the turkey will be used to breed other gobblers for other Thanksgiving groaning boards — then will be taken to a pet farm.

Rotary Bowl May Rekindle Lake Howell-Oviedo Feud

Little did the Rotary Bowl football committee know when it put together the Oviedo-Lake Howell matchup for this Saturday night, it might be rekindling a lost rivalry.

Saturday's 8 o'clock reunion at Lyman High School may be just what it takes to get these two neighboring football schools back together. There's been a trial separation for two years now and it's been like the divorce of Ma and Pa Kettle. It should never have happened.

These two need to play each other. It's only natural. The geographic closeness would be reason enough. And, of course, you have the fact that Oviedo shared its school with Lake Howell in 1975 while the Silver Hawks were constructing theirs.

The money factor is another reason.

It's doubtful any high school principal would turn away from a sizable contribution to the school's coffers which this game would generate.

Then why don't they play? One of the biggest reasons is Oviedo is 3A and Lake Howell is 4A. Former Oviedo coach Joe Montgomery didn't see any sense in playing up a level when he could schedule 3A schools he could beat. He also felt the rivalry had lost some of its intensity. It seems Montgomery was the catalyst behind dropping the game.

Why wouldn't Lake Howell want to play? If you're going to lose a game, it shouldn't be to a 3A opponent, reasons Lake Howell.

Rivalries, however, know no class divisions. Goliath's size didn't keep David from slinging that rock at him and just because Lake Howell is a class bigger than the Lions, it shouldn't deter a classic matchup.

The teams last played in 1980. That year, Sam Weir had Lake Howell's best team ever. It won the district championship. The Silver Hawks crushed the Lions.

Just one year earlier, however, Montgomery had the best team in his school's history. The Lions crushed the Silver Hawks en route to a final four finish.

These two years were pretty much exceptions, however. The games were generally close and well-played.

Emotion was at its peak which would unusually compensate for any difference between the teams that year.

Lake Howell would like to renew the rivalry on a yearly basis. Oviedo is not sure, but it is willing to listen.

"We want to play them every year," said Lake Howell coach Mike Bisceglia. "Our kids know some of theirs and it's only natural they would like to play them."

"From what I've seen of them, they can compete with the 4As. Besides, it's a nonconference game. It would be no great loss," he added.

First-year Oviedo coach Jack Blanton is open to the possibility, but some concessions would have to be made.

"We'll see how this one goes. If we beat them by 40 points, we'll play them again next year," laughed Blanton.

Seriously, though, Blanton seems open to the idea. He wants to play a Seminole County school or two and he knows Lake Howell is the most logical one to play.

He feels, however, that everything should be geared toward the district schedule. He doesn't want to play 4As and risk the threat on an injury which may jeopardize his district chances.

"I've got to take care of my kids," said Blanton. "Our district is the most important thing to us and making the state playoffs."

Which leaves one logical opening. The game could be scheduled for the 10th game. Several schools throw a nonconference game on the end of their schedule. If they've had a dismal season, a closing game with a natural rivalry could be just the spice needed. If they have made the playoffs, it could be a good sendoff into the post-season tournament.

"I wouldn't mind playing them the last game of the season," said Blanton. "But, really, we'll have to see how it goes Saturday. And we'll have to see who doesn't want to play us again next year."

"I know it could be a good rivalry again."

BOWL BITS— Players and coaches from Oviedo and Lake Howell will get together Friday morning at the Eastmonte Recreation Center in Altamonte Springs.

The Rotarians will host a breakfast for the teams and Rotary Bowl T-shirts will be passed out. The breakfast begins at 7:45 a.m.

Crooms Faces Giant Battle For 36th Win Against Tall Patriots

The giants and the midgets.

That's the matchup tonight at 8 in the Lake Brantley gymnasium when the 2-0 Crooms Panthers take on the 2-0 Lake Brantley Patriots in freshman basketball.

Both teams picked up their second victories Tuesday in the Lake Brantley Freshman Round Robin Tournament at Altamonte Springs.

The two, however, took different routes.

Coach John McNamara's Panthers reeled off their 35th straight victory over a three-year period by ripping Oviedo, 68-39.

McNamara, taking over for Chris Marlette who took over at Seminole High for Bill Payne, pulled his starters after the first quarter when Crooms broke to a 17-0 burst and led, 29-5, after one period.

"Oviedo ran into some traffic and was late for the game," said McNamara. "They only had about three minutes to warmup. That might have had something to do with it."

The Panthers' press was again devastating as Alvin "Chris" Jones picked up seven passes. Jones also tossed in 10 points and collected four rebounds to aid the cause.

Point guard Daryl Williams was next with seven points while Ed Cotton and Robert Hill each had six. Marc Klein handed out six assists to lead Crooms in that category. Garmel Cooper had five rebounds and Theron Liggins had four.

Brantley's victory, meanwhile, came hard-earned as coach Fred Little's club bounced back from a five-point, fourth-quarter deficit to trim Lake Mary, 59-56.

Mark Moser and Allen Unrow tossed in six points each in the fourth quarter sure which propelled the Patriots to a seven-point lead.

"Lake Mary picked away at our lead the rest of the quarter, but we were able to hold on," said Little.

Moser, a 5-10 swingman, led the way for the Patriots with 15 points. Unrow threw in 13 points and Mike Morris added 12. Unrow and Will Freeman, both 6-2, each snatched 11 rebounds.

"They're an awful big team," said McNamara about tonight's opponent. "Number (victory) 36 will be a big one for us."

In Tuesday's third game, Bishop Moore, routed St. Cloud, 68-22. Tonight's other games are St. Cloud and Lake Mary at 6:15 p.m. and Bishop Moore and Oviedo at 4:30 p.m.

Beathard Resigns Ram Football Post

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

Roger Beathard resigned as head football coach at Lake Mary High School on Tuesday after suffering through a 1-9 season.

Beathard, who was a defensive coordinator for nine seasons at Seminole High before coming to Lake Mary two years ago, cited a growing frustration with the job for his decision.

"It's been a real frustrating year and there were a lot of factors as to why I resigned," said Beathard Wednesday morning. "It's not anything or anyone person. I just didn't feel I was effective enough at the job."

Beathard began the program at Lake Mary two years ago with a freshman and a junior varsity team. The JVs were 4-4 while the frosh were 5-0 and county champions.

This year the Rams took on their first varsity schedule. It was a tough one, made up of strong 2A and 3A schools along with 4A Lake Brantley.

Lake Mary was able to beat Wymore Tech, but lost most of the others by lopsided scores. The Rams were also hurt by injuries, losing quarterback Kyle Frakes early in the season.

Beathard has been pondering the move for three or four weeks, but didn't make the final decision until Tuesday after a discussion with Lake Mary Principal Don Reynolds.

"Three or four weeks ago, I told him (Reynolds) how down and frustrated I was," said Beathard. "He tried to cheer me up. But I still feel the same way."

Beathard is undecided about future coaching plans, but did indicate he would probably stay with football after some time off.

"I'm definitely going to think about it," he said. "I love coaching and I sure hope I'm going to be back in it sometime in the next two years."

Reynolds met with the football players today and discussed the Lake Mary program.

The Lake Mary principal said he will appoint a committee which will help him screen candidates for the position.

The committee will begin accepting applications after Thanksgiving and eventually pare the field to 10 names and then three, from which Reynolds will make his final decision.

Sam Weir, who resigned the head coaching job at the University of Central Florida several weeks ago, is believed to be interested in the job.

"I don't know how interested in the position Sam is," said Reynolds. "We'll put him in the hat with the rest of them if he is."

Weir previously coached at Lake Howell and Lake Brantley.

Raiders Blow Huge Lead, Fall To Palm Beach, 90-71

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

PALM BEACH GARDENS — A lot of things contributed to Seminole Community College's loss of a 14-point lead to the Raiders of Palm Beach Junior College here Tuesday night.

First, there was the hard-pressing Palm Beach defense. Second, there was the devastating Raiders' fast-break. But the third strike against the Raiders is the one that literally knocked coach Bill Payne's squad out for the first time in this young basketball season.

"You can't make that many mistakes and win," Payne said of SCC's 24 second-half turnovers that eventually led to a 90-71 victory for the Raiders of coach Bill Hodges. "You can't do that on the road and you can't do it against good teams."

The Raiders record now stands at 2-1 while Palm Beach JC raised its record to 6-2. SCC went into the game ranked seventh in the state and Palm Beach went in ranked ninth.

The first nine minutes of the opening half were a nip-and-tuck battle with neither team able to establish a lead. But, with 11:41 remaining in the first half, Ricky Sutton gave the Raiders a 16-15 lead after converting a technical foul free throw. The tech was slapped on Palm Beach's Randall Mounts who had just picked up his third personal foul.

A minute and a half after Sutton's free throw, Leon Wright sank two from the charity stripe to cap seven straight points for SCC as the Raiders took 21-15 lead.

All this happened while the Raiders' top player, Danny Sheldon, was out with a minor injury that occurred early in the game. As soon as Sheldon returned, Palm Beach got back in the game. A layup by Sheldon, who was the game's top scorer with 30 points, tied the game at 23 with 7:48 left in the first half.

SCC then reeled off another string of seven unanswered points to take a 30-23 lead with 6:08 left in the half. Behind Delvin Everett's 14 first-half points, SCC took a 42-30 halftime lead.

A technical foul was assessed on Hodges at the end of the first half and, before a second had ticked off the clock in the second half, Sutton sank the two free throws to give SCC a 44-30 lead.

As soon as the second half opened though, the roof caved in on the Raiders.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Stepping down at the peak of success is very uncommon. But then, Southern Cal football Coach John Robinson is an uncommon man.

Saying there is a time in everyone's life to move on, Robinson — one of the most successful coaches in college football history — has announced he's leaving the coaching profession.

Robinson, who will be replaced by offensive coordinator Ted Tolner, will coach his final game Saturday when the Trojans host Notre Dame in a nationally televised game.

The 47-year-old coach, who ranks third among active coaches — behind Oklahoma's Barry Switzer and Penn State's Joe Paterno — with an .817 winning percentage and a seven-year record of 66-14-2.

Tuskawilla Midgets Turn In Big Effort To Claim Second Straight Championship

Kim Perry, Tuskawilla Rams' Junior Pee Wee cheerleader, has a lot to shout about. Her crew was named the most outstanding in the Junior Pee Wee Division and the Rams won the championship.

Tuskawilla's Midget Warriors successfully defended their championship Saturday by knocking off Jackson Heights, 13-6, in Seminole Youth Sports Association football playoff action at Sylvan Lake Park.

Tuskawilla's defense set the tone for the game in the first quarter when it stopped Jackson Heights after three downs and gave the offense good field position at the Warrior 40.

Tuskawilla promptly put together a crisp 60-yard march which resulted in a seven-yard touchdown scamper by Steve Trier.

Trier didn't need a long march for the Warriors' next score. The talented running back zipped behind key blocks by Ken Joseph and Chet Getz to go 65 yards on a counter play for the second score and a 13-0 halftime lead.

Jackson Heights, taking advantage of a good punt return, pushed across a score in the third quarter, but some excellent defensive work by Jeff Macpherson, Trier and Joseph shut down the Bobcats' only other threat at the Warrior 12.

Trier dashed for 128 yards on 16 carries while Jerry Walz picked up 51 yards in 15 carries. Quarterback Kevin Einzig completed 12 of 16 passes for 102 yards.

Dropping down to the Junior Midget Division, it still turned out to be a Warrior Weekend. Tuskawilla's Blue Warriors scored in every period to blast the Rock Lake Green Raiders, 46-0.

Tye Cohen rambled for two TDS — one on a seven-yard run and the other on a 15-yard run — to lead the rout. Tim Baker also had two scoring dashes of three and 20 yards.

Nathan Hoskins put Tuskawilla on the board in the first quarter with a three-yard run. After Baker's first TD run, Ric Bohannon pulled in an 18-yard pass for Mark Wainwright for a touchdown. Jeff Holcomb booted five extra points to cap the slaughter.

Hoskins churned out 61 yards on six carries while Baker added 56 on nine. Wainwright completed 3 of 4 passes for 60 yards. Bohannon caught two for 45 and Tony Van Ore hauled in one for 15.

Defensively, Jimmy Joe Kress, Baker and Cohen led the way. Cohen and Chris Gentile each recovered a fumble. Wainwright and Kyle Ange intercepted passes.

The Tuskawilla defense held Rock Lake to 36 yards and rolled up 258 of its own on offense.

In Junior Pee Wee action, Tuskawilla's Rams capped an undefeated season with a narrow 6-2 victory over Rock Lake's Raiders.

A fumble with two minutes remaining on the Tuskawilla six-inch line did in the Raiders. Offensively, Jason Varitek completed 4 of 8 passes for 60 yards. Billy Clark hauled in two passes for 36 yards and ran the ball 10 times for 38. Scott Yurchison toted seven times for 23 yards.

In Pee Wee play, Sammy Edwards returned an interception 45 yards for a touchdown as the Lakeview Dolphins blanked the Teague Tigers, 6-0.

Bobby Colfield led the Dolphins with 60 yards on 10 carries. Ralph Anderson chipped in 50 on eight. Colfield completed 2 of 2 passes for 35 yards and Edwards hit on 4 of 7 for 40. Henry Williams had two receptions for 35 yards.

Players To Vote Dec. 3 On Paychecks, Work Time

WASHINGTON (UPI) — NFL players, many expressing little interest in resuming their strike, are to vote Dec. 3 on a tentative agreement that could increase their paychecks and work time.

Player representatives from 24 NFL clubs voted Tuesday to allow players' union members to vote on the agreement even though some issues are the subject of continued haggling with the NFL Management Council.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, said the agreement with league owners, announced a week ago in New York, is "90 to 95 percent signed off."

But negotiators for the NFLPA maintain four areas are far from being resolved.

"We still disagree on the reinstatement of the player reps who were released and management's desire for an 18-game schedule," said Tom Condon of the Kansas City Chiefs, a member of the union negotiating committee. "We want them reinstated immediately."

"Management also wants players who play in Canada to remain bound for four years to the NFL club that drafts them. We say two years, like it is now, is enough," Condon said. "We have agreed to extend the draft in its present form through 1990 but they want it through 1992."

The parts of the contract that have been agreed on will be mailed to the players Friday for their examination, Garvey said. Lawyers for both sides will continue to work on contract language until next Monday, he said.

Ripken Top AL Rookie

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cal Ripken Jr., whose father congratulated him on the field after each of his 28 home runs, was named 1982 American League Rookie of the Year Tuesday by the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Ripken, the 22-year-old Orioles' infielder whose father is Baltimore's third base coach, was a clear winner over runner-up Kent Hrbek of the Minnesota Twins. Ripken received 24 first place-votes and four second-place votes from the 28-man panel (two writers from each AL city), and finished with 132 points.

Hrbek received the remaining four first-place votes and finished with 90 points. Under the voting system, a player receives five points for a first-place vote, three for second and one for third.

Ripken, who began the season playing third base and finished at shortstop, batted .284 with 93 RBI. Hrbek, also 22, a first baseman, had a .301 average with 23 homers and 92 RBI.

Ripken is the third Oriole named Rookie of the Year in the past 10 years and fifth since the award was started in 1949.

Ramsay Has Happy Homecoming, Trail Blazers Nip Sixers, 106-103

United Press International
Jack Ramsay, who played and coached at St. Joseph's College, then coached the 76ers for four years, finally had a happy homecoming in Philadelphia Tuesday night. Ramsay hadn't won in Philadelphia since he became coach of the Portland Trail Blazers in 1976. With his team on a roll, however, he snapped his hometown jinx with a 106-103 victory over the 76ers.

"I know it's been a long time since we won here and this is a great win," Ramsay said after handing Philadelphia its second loss against 10 triumphs.

"We've been playing very well. They are a great team. They're devastating if they're running their fast break."

Calvin Natt led a balanced attack with 22 points and Kenny Carr and Mychal Thompson each added 20 as the Blazers won their fourth straight game and seventh in the last eight.

Rookie Lafayette Lever scored only three points but he made them count in the final minute after the Sixers roared back from a 103-93 deficit with 2:15 remaining, to 103-100.

"Portland played outstanding basketball," Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham said. "They were much sharper than we were."

In other games Tuesday, Indiana dumped New York, 94-90, Utah trounced Cleveland, 121-90, Atlanta blasted Chicago, 132-102, San Antonio outgunned Denver, 136-126, Detroit crushed Houston, 126-108, and New Jersey nipped Golden State, 110-103.

Pacers 94, Knicks 90

At New York, George Johnson and Billy Knight each scored 21 points and Johnson added a game-high 14 rebounds to lead Indiana. Bernard King led the Knicks with 19 points.

Jazz 121, Cavaliers 99
At Richfield, Ohio, Adrian Dantley scored 17 of his 27 points in the first period and Darrell Griffith added 25 to spark Utah. Cleveland lost its 30th game in its last 31 starts.

Hawks 132, Bulls 102
At Atlanta, Eddie Johnson scored 25 points, Dominique Wilkins had 24 and Rory Sparrow a career-high 23 for the Hawks. Chicago was led by Reggie Theus' 17 points.

Spurs 136, Nuggets 126
At San Antonio, Texas, Gene Banks and Mike Mitchell combined for 21 fourth-quarter points, to lift the Spurs. Denver's Alex English led all scorers with 36 points, to help the Nuggets score over 100 points for the 130th straight game and break an NBA record previously held by San Antonio.

Pistons 128, Rockets 106
At Houston, Kelly Tripucka scored 27 points and Isiah Thomas and Edgar Jones contributed 24 each to lead Detroit. James Bailey led the Rockets with 18.

Nets 119, Warriors 103
At Oakland, Calif., Otis Birdsong scored 27 points and hit a 20-footer with 32 seconds left to nail down a New Jersey victory.

Pretty Beth Freeman stole the show.

Hacienda Holidays Benefit

Jerri Kirk, attired in a soft salmon Jo Ann knit original fashioned along the Victorian silhouette, set the pace for "Hacienda Holidays," the fashion show she narrated Nov. 17 at the Woman's Club of Sanford.

The fashion show-luncheon attracted a full house of women to benefit Hacienda Girl's Ranch, Melbourne, a home for girls sponsored by the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs.

Peggy Deere, the club's Hacienda Ranch chairman, was chairman of the colorful extravaganza when a variety of door prizes added to the delightful fall fete. Fashions were from Lois' Place in Sanford with the owner, Lois Dycus, also serving as a model.

The fashion scene ran the gamut from stylish casual wear to the ultimate in exquisite knits. Pretty Beth Freeman stole the show modeling a Khaki Malibu jacket over an avocado colored tank suit. This super new look in a jacket can be worn with jeans or for the glamour of after five.

Other models were: Jean Clontz, Bridget Deere, Betty Jack, Chris Tillis, Myra Stapleton, Pat Foster, club president, Eloise Cleveland, Jennifer Cowley, Martha Yancey and Rubye King.

'Georgia's Jewel' Elected UDC Leader

Mrs. Levy C. Renfroe of Fitzgerald, Ga., was elected president general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy Nov. 10 as the 89th annual convention of the Daughters closed in Richmond.

Mrs. Renfroe won easily in a vote of 780 to 511 over her opponent, Mrs. Alvin Seippel of Winston-Salem, N.C.

Mrs. Renfroe said she didn't do much campaigning for the office, but ran on her merits. Other women from the Georgia delegation did considerable campaigning for "Georgia's Jewel" as they called her. Her first name is Jewell.

Mrs. Renfroe has been a UDC member for 40 years, joining when she was a young schoolteacher in 1942, during a period of high patriotism in the United States. She says she would like to see that same spirit of patriotism return to the country. She hopes during her administration to see the UDC encourage patriotic activities and promote a more patriotic spirit among Americans.

These 40 years have given her many challenging and rewarding experiences in the various positions she has served for the organization. Mrs. Renfroe has been president of the Georgia Division as well as vice president and third vice president, in charge of the Children of the Confederacy.

On the general level Mrs. Renfroe has served as third vice president and in 1975 she was named to fill an unexpired term in the same post. In recent years Mrs. Renfroe has held national posts in several committee chairmanships; chairman of the finance committee and chairman of the board of trustees.

The five-fold objectives of the United Daughters of the Confederacy are historical, educational, benevolent, memorial and patriotic. For many years it has recognized with special awards, excellence among graduates of the American military schools.

During the administration of Mrs. Renfroe a new Men in Space Award will be given for outstanding achievement by a person connected with the space program.

Mrs. Renfroe is also interested in extending the educational efforts of the UDC through its scholarship program. She'd like to increase the $2 million scholarship fund, the interest from which is used to give scholarships.

Mrs. Renfroe will serve as president general for a two-year term.

Expert Discredits Boyfriend's Logic

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend, Buddy, is a great guy, but here's the problem. Now that he's into weightlifting he refuses to engage in sex! He claims that the protein lost in making love depletes the supply required by his body to build muscle, and he needs all the protein he can get.

Buddy says all great athletes know that making love saps the strength and drains the energy. I've heard that story before. Is it true? If it's not, how did it get started?

Please ask your experts, Abby. I need to know if Buddy is using weightlifting as an excuse to get out of making love to me.

FRUSTRATED IN MILL VALLEY

DEAR FRUSTRATED: I asked my consultant, Virginia Johnson, of Masters and Johnson. Her response:

"The notion that sexual activity is a drain on the body's energy can be traced back many centuries to the unscientific theory that 'vital bodily fluids' were lost forever by this route and thus needed to be preciously guarded. Today, a more scientific understanding of the processes of sexual function reveals that:

"(1) The small amount of protein contained in semen is easily replenished from normal dietary intake and represents no 'threat' to the incorporation of protein into muscle mass;

"(2) Theoretically, there are actually some advantages to regular sexual activity for male athletes, since it tends to bolster the amount of testosterone (the male sex hormone) that enters the circulation and plays an important role in the way the body transforms nitrogen from protein into muscle;

"(3) Several world-record performances have been documented as occurring within 12 hours after sexual activity."

Share this with Buddy. And if he continues to hold out,

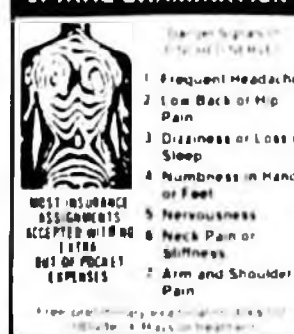

Dear Abby

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Changes Can Occur From Osteoporosis

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have had osteoporosis for 16 years. I didn't have any trouble with it until four years ago. I am 59 years old. By the age of 28 I had had a child and three operations removing all my female organs. I started using Premarin for hot flashes.

I had always been a strong, athletic person of 5 feet 6 and 105 pounds. Now I have lost 3.5 inches in height and weigh between 105 and 110. I have your Health Letter on osteoporosis and I learned a lot from it. I spent nine weeks in the hospital with muscle spasms, not able to turn in bed without help, and barely able to walk. Everything in your Health Letter pertains to me.

The big problem I have is the hanging skin over my chest and abdomen. My ribs also ride the pelvic bones, which is very uncomfortable. I use a brace which helps some. It helps hold in the skin and fat.

Is it possible or wise to have the skin and overhang removed? I do many isometric and stretching exercises and plenty of walking and take calcium and vitamin D.

DEAR READER — As you know, osteoporosis is softening or dissolving of the bones. Your smaller vertebrae are part of the reason for loss of height. Your spine may also have curved with the softening.

As the vertebrae shorten, the rib cage does come closer to the pelvic bones. That shortening makes the abdomen protrude and causes skin and tissue to hang over the pelvic brim.

I would not have surgery for this. It is not because you are necessarily too fat or have excess skin but rather due to the shortening of your spine.

Your story is typical in that you had changes without symptoms for many years. And your early changes demonstrate the importance of female hormones in preventing such changes. Your early surgery must have had a lot to do with it. Have your exercise program approved by your doctor. Exercise is helpful but lifting and straining may fracture a weak bone.

I'm glad you learned a lot from The Health Letter 6-10, Osteoporosis. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have claustrophobia. It even wakes me up out of a sound sleep. My husband thinks I am faking it because it bothers me to sleep in the camper. Please help me. He is planning a trip for us in the camper.

DEAR READER — Fear of being closed in, called claustrophobia, is real. As with other phobias, the victim avoids certain situations or objects out of fear that something bad will happen. It is a form of acute anxiety in response to a specific situation.

In some instances the underlying cause can be determined and the problem resolved. Your husband may be interested to know that sometimes a person can overcome a phobia if he or she feels protected by someone he or she trusts.

Because one phobia often enlarges to include other phobias, the situation can eventually almost cripple a person's capacity for normal life. Behavioral therapy helps in some instances and you may be able to be desensitized to small or closed spaces, thereby easing or eliminating your claustrophobia.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be compassionate today and don't worry about what others may do for you in return. Surprisingly, you're apt to get more than you give.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Do not base important decisions today upon gossip or hearsay information. Your judgment will be accurate if the data you deal with is reliable.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There is a possibility something opportune could develop today work- or careerwise. Should good things happen, keep them to yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) To thoroughly enjoy what today has to offer temporarily, shelve mundane interests and focus on having fun. Don't have a foot in both camps.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try to maintain a flexible outlook today. Changing conditions work in your favor. Instead of being locked in, be ready to shift with events.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) More can be accomplished today through a team effort than by going it alone. Strive to be cooperative. Think in terms of "we," not "me."

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your material aspects look very encouraging today, so keep an eye peeled for opportunity. It could come through someone with whom you've worked recently.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The one thing you don't want to be today is a loner. You'll fit comfortably into large groups. The bigger the crowd, the more fun you should have.

takeout double, but South had no trouble finding a three no-trump call that North raised to four. This four no-trump call was not Blackwood, but South's five-heart call said, "Partner, I am treating your bid as Blackwood because my three no-trump was super-sound"

Then North's five no-trump was a request for kings and when South showed three of them North went to seven.

South was looking at 12 top tricks and was sure of the 13th unless diamonds broke 4-1. A sort of counting seemed in order so South cashed two more spades to get three club discards from East. Then came the ace-king-queen of hearts with everyone following. The king of clubs and a club to the queen found West still following so West had shown up with 12 cards outside the diamond suit.

Dummy's king of diamonds found everybody following, so East had to hold the three last cards in that suit. The 10 of diamonds was covered by East's jack and the queen.

Back to the ace of clubs for a final finesse against the diamond nine spot and curtains for the defense.

Cancer-Causing Genes Are Being Discovered

NEW YORK (UPI) — Scientists from Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center tracking after potential cancer genes have found two on a chromosome that's abnormally rearranged in several cancers.

It's the latest report in a burgeoning area of genetic research by scientists seeking the causes of cancer.

So far, about 15 to 20 potential cancer-causing genes have been discovered in various creatures, from fruit flies to man. They were first seen in the mid-1970's in viruses.

There may be more than 100,000 genes in a single cell, each directing the manufacture of one or another body substance. Genes are arranged along chromosomes, which are minute thread-like structures.

Even though each human cell contains the full complement of 46 chromosomes, all the genetic instructions for a complete human being, only a small percentage of genes are turned on in any one cell at any point in its life cycle.

Cancer genes seem to be normal genes. Though scientists do not know precisely what these genes are responsible for, there is general agreement among experts that potential cancer genes play a role in the growth and proliferation of cells.

The fact that potential cancer genes exist in so many forms of life suggests that their primary functions are so important that they have remained a part of the gene pool virtually throughout evolution, scientists say.

The Sloan-Kettering team led by Dr. William S. Hayward dubbed the suspect cancer genes C-myc and C-mos. Normally, they are located at the precise spots where cancer-related breaks occur in a chromosome known to scientists as number 8.

A Sloan-Kettering report said these breaks in chromosome number 8 have long been associated with a type of blood cancer called acute nonlymphocytic leukemia; Burkitt's lymphoma, which is a lymph cancer generally seen in Africa; other types of lymph tissue malignancies and a hereditary predisposition that leads to kidney cancer.

Scientists suspect that potential cancer genes — known as oncogenes — may go haywire when they are altered in some way by radiation or a cancer-causing chemical or virus.

Dr. Hayward and his coworkers think it is possible that a cell may become malignant when a potential cancer gene is reinserted into a very active part of the genetic material, possibly one of the areas responsible for the production of antibodies used in the body's disease defense system.

At present, the Memorial Sloan-Kettering team is investigating that possibility.

The report said the new findings support the idea that rearrangements of genetic material in the cells of patients with some cancers may involve the movement of a normal, but potentially cancer-causing gene.

Hayward is head of the Laboratory of Molecular Genetics and Oncology at the center. His associates are Drs. Benjamin G. Neel, Suresh C. Jhanwar and R.S.K. Chaganti.

The Memorial Sloan-Kettering findings were presented at a recent meeting of the European Molecular Biology Organization at the Max Planck Institute in Heidelberg, Germany.

Hey, You Nurses Pay Back Loans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government says $19.1 million in federal low-interest nursing school loans are in default and 24,000 more students could be held if delinquent borrowers paid back their obligations.

New audit figures show 26 percent of nursing student loans are in arrears, Health and Human Services Secretary Richard Schweiker said.

The audit by HHS Inspector General Richard Kusserow found 36 of the 1,129 schools that participate in the program have delinquency rates over 40 percent, and six are over 90 percent. One of them — Essex County College in Newark, N.J. — was suspended from the program last month.

The average loan is $800. The nursing loan program has made $26.4 million in loans since it began in 1964.

Schweiker said a crackdown announced in December is showing results, but he is taking new steps to shore up the Nursing Student Loan program, which is run by schools but overseen by HHS' Public Health Service.

Schweiker said schools have an estimated $76 million in cash reserves from the program, mostly in non-interest bearing accounts. He ordered the Public Health Service to find and recover unused cash reserves.

He estimated the reserves cost taxpayers $12 million in interest, because the federal government must borrow money instead of having access to the unused funds, and $9 million more because the reserves were not invested or investments were not reported.

In addition, Schweiker said the audit found up to $5.6 million of the delinquent loans could be canceled under provisions freeing students from their obligations if they work in areas where medical care is scarce. He has already ordered cancellation procedures to be tightened.

December's crackdown was spurred by congressional hearings and an audit showing 11.8 percent of doctors who borrowed were in default under the Health Professions Student Loan program.

Three ways to avoid taking a bath with an inefficient water heater.

One of our three Watt-Wise™ incentives could pay you up to several hundred dollars. Our water heater incentive program applies to customers who replace or modify their current electric water heaters with either 1) a solar water heater, 2) a water heating heat pump or 3) a heat recovery unit. All three are designed to save electricity.

An FPL Home Energy Audit will determine if you qualify and how much you can save. Then we'll help cover the cost of purchase and installation of the new system. Water heaters must meet our standards and be installed by a participating dealer/contractor. In most cases, payment will be in the form of a Watt-Saver™ certificate redeemable with the contractor.

Will everyone benefit from Watt-Wise incentives?

Yes.

These incentives are less costly than the oil necessary to generate the electricity wasted by inefficient homes. Every 600 kilowatt-hours of electricity not used is a barrel of oil no one has to pay for. This also helps us postpone the building of expensive power plants. The less oil we use, and the less new building we have to do, the more we can help hold the line of everyone's electric bill.

For more information, or to arrange for a Home Energy Audit, send us the coupon or call the Watt-Wise Line at 1-800-432-6563.

The Watt-Wise Products Program. Another way we're working hard at being the kind of power company you want.

I'd like more information on the following Watt-Wise incentives:

- Water Heating.
- Cooling & Heating.
- Solar-Reflective Film.
- Ceiling Insulation.
- I would like to have an FPL Home Energy Audit.
