Feds to rule on dolphin programs soon

KEY WEST - The National Marine Fisheries Service is expected to decide this week on the fate of swim-with-dolphins programs that activists claim are harmful to the animals and sometimes to people.

That decision could restrict or halt the recreational programs that are also used as therapy for youngsters with Down's syndrome, which retards mental and physical development.

Activists, environmentalists and even Gov. Bob Martinez have decried the capture of wild dolphins in Florida. Many activists have also questioned the morality of holding captive such intellegent creatures for human entertainment.

"The whole crux of this thing is a moral issue," said Jeff Brown, a marine mammal biologist with the fisheries service in St. Petersburg, "How does the federal government regulate, something like that? It's not easy."

It has also become a financial issue, said Ann Terbush, permitting chief for the national agency. Since 1985, when the first program opened, more than 43,000 people have paid anywhere from $40 to $60 for a 30-minute "dolphin encounter,"

UFO photographer disputes photos

GULF BREEZE - A man whose photos of alleged UFOs started a series of sightings in northwest Florida is disputing debunkers' claims that pictures of "ghosts" he took in the past are reason to question his credibility.

"What better way to ridicule local UFO reports than with a false ghost-demon story?" Ed Walters, 43, said Monday, "The debunkers claim that a simple flashbounce off of a glass door is a ghost-demon double exposure."

Walters, a builder who has since written a book about his experiences, took a number of photos beginning in 1987 of what he claimed were UFOs. Other residents reported sightings after a weekly newspaper published Walter's photos.

Detractors recently have charged that Walters, convicted in 1966 on a forgery charge, has falsified photos in the past. They claim he took double-exposures with a Polaroid months before he used it to photograph alleged UFOs.

Several women who declined to be identified told the Pensacola News Journal they had been at gatherings at Walters' house in which "ghost" photos were taken by Walters.

Debunkers say the photos are reason to doubt Walters' story

Governor signs two death warrants

TALLAHASSEE - Gov. Bob Martinez signed death warrants Monday for Jim Eric Chandler in the murder of an elderly Indian River County couple and for William R. Squires, a prison escapee who went on a deadly crime spree.

The executions were scheduled for 7 a.m. July 10. However, both men are on their first warrants, and no Florida inmate has been executed on a first warrant since executions resumed in Squires escaped in 1980 from a work release program at Lake City Correctional Institution, where he was serving three life sentences. He went on a crime spree that included bank robberies in Mississippi. Alabama, Florida and South Carolina, plus car theits in Tallahassee and New York.

He was sentenced to death for the execution-style slaying of Jesse Albritton following a Sept. 2, 1980 gas station robbery in Hillsborough County.

Chandler was sentenced for the July 22, 1980, bludgeoning and stabbing murders of Rachel and Harold Steinberger, an elderly Indian River County couple, during a robbery.

Defendant in horse-drugging case cleared

MIAMI - Reputed mob captain Anthony Accetturo was acquitted of 10-year-old charges that he helped drug horses in a scheme to fix races at Calder Race Course.

After four days of trial, U.S. District Court Judge Edward Davis declared the government's case against Accetturo was too weak and acquitted him Monday without giving the case to the

"We're disappointed," said Diane Cossin, spokeswoman for the U.S. Attorney's Office.

The acquittal marked yet another setback in the government's efforts to convict Accetture, 52. "The guy's incredible, isn't he?" asked Alfred La Manna, who retired from the FBI in February after 17 years of tracking organized crime and Accetturo in the Fort Lauderdale area. "He's been a source of frustration for years to federal (and) state.

Accetturo and five other men were indicted in 1980 on charges of fixing races at Calder, north of Miami, by drugging some horses and then betting on the undrugged ones. The government claimed the scheme earned the participants more than $500,000 between May and August of 1975.

The five co-conspirators were convicted in 1981 and sent to prison. Accetturo avoided prosecution when his lawyers persuaded a judge in 1981 that Accetturo had Alzheimer's

TALLAHASSEE - Florida's domestic mari juana cradication program rubbed out 579 million-worth of homegrown margin in a during calendar 1989, state officials said

In Seminole County last year, City County Investigative Bureau agents report seizing $400,000 worth of pot plants. This year, CCIB. has already confiscated one pot crop valued at

Agents also seized grower assets worth 500 percent more than in the previous year, the Florida Department of Law Enforcement's annual report said. The increase was due to a decentralizing of the state program, which ledto closer cooperation with local lawmen.

Florida's climate makes it a prime place grow the illegal weed, though seasonal differences each year make pot production a higger business in some areas than others.

State official just kidding? 'Who'd you sleep with to get your job?'

TALLAHASSEE - Jon Peck, press secretary to Gov-Bob Martinez, said Monday that he was only joking and meant no disrespect when he asked a female news reporter. "Who'd you sleep with to get your job?"

"I certainly regret if it caused her any discomfort or anyone else any discomfort But I think anybody who knows me knows that that comment doesn't reflect who and what fam." Peck said.

The remark was reported in a Sunday political column by Miami Herald reporter Ellen-McGarrahan who recently transferred to that newspaper's Tallahassee bureau after working as an education writer in Palm Beach County and as a neighborhood reporter in Dade County-

McGarrahan quoted Peck asking her "Who'd you sleep with to get your job?" during an interview in his office. She wrote that Peck ad

The flap recalled earlier controversies involving other Martinez press secretaries Doug Hoyt, the first to hold the position, left after it was disclosed he owed back child support. His successor, Susan Traylor, left amid complaints she suffered from a combative nature. Peck, a former Tallahassec reporter for United Press International and the Florida Freedom newspapers, confirmed he made the remark attributed to him.

"It was an accurate quote. but not one in context. I was toking and she knew it. She still knows that," Pecksaid-

Postmasters fight fraud in county

LAKE MARY - Lake Mary postmaster Naomi Wallace is enthusiastic about a recent "Say No to Mail Fraud" drive being conducted by the U. S. Postal Inspection Service.

She said she believes the more publicity on the matter, the more the general public will be helped toward eliminating mail fraud

As do all postmasters, Wallace forwards suspected violations to the Inspector in Charge in Tampa.

She reports that during this past week alone, she has forwarded five suspect letters to the Postal Inspector, letters given to her from Lake Mary recipients. Wallace said, "All five were chain letters, some requesting money, others not. It is up to the Postal Inspection service to determine what further action to take, if any." Of those actually charged with mail fraud, the Postal Service brings 95 percent to justice in U. S. District Court.

According to O. J. Broadwater at the Tampa Postal Service office, "Learning to say no is the best defense against promoters who promise more than they plan to deliver. Mail order businesses are an important part of our free enterprise system and most of them are scrupulously honest, but there's always the occasional bad apple you need to identify, so you can know when to say no."

The Lake Mary postmaster adds that most mail fraud is allowed to happen, because, as she put it, "Many people are just looking for something that's free. but all they end up getting, is

The Inspection Service urges postal customers who believe they may be mail fraud victims to write down as much information as possible, such as the name and address of the suspected business, copies of correspondence or advertisements. method of payment, and other details before contacting the nearest post office, or the Inspection Service in Tampa.

Clean house

Reforming the discredited system by which congressional campaigns are financed has become a motherhood Issue on Capitol Hill. Most incumbents and challengers alike now agree that the cost of running for office - an average of $3.6 million for the Senate and $400,000 for the House — is obscenely high.

The problem is that, until recently, no one had been able come up with a containment strategy that suited both Democrats and Republicans. Thanks, however, to Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, and Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., a solution may be at hand.

Recently, the Senate's top two leaders appointed a panel of six lawyers, professors and political operatives. The group has proposed "flexible spending limits" to curb heavy reliance on out-of-state contributions and special-interest money. The panel's reforms would encourage candidates to raise funds in relatively small amounts from individual voters in their own states.

The plan, which will be subject to considerable negotiation, would establish "reasonably high" spending limits subject to automatic cost-of-living increases. The limits also would be adjusted to reflect the disproportionate costs of running in sparsely populated states or states with expensive media markets.

As an incentive to raise money from sources other than political action committees representing special interests, the limits would not apply to in-state contributions from individuals. In addition, in state contributors would receive a 100 percent tax credit up to an amount yet to be determined.

Meanwhile, political parties would be given broad leeway in financing research, registration and get-out-the-vote efforts. Although these efforts could not include purchasing media ads, the plan does call for reduced postal and broadcast rates and the allotment of free air time for parties and their nominated candidates. There would be no limit on personal expenditures.

This balanced approach would provide an overall spending limit while prodding candidates to compete for contributions among their own constituents, which is as it should be. The seamy side of out-of-state fund-raising has been amply illustrated by Charles Keating Jr. An Arizona resident, Keating made generous contributions to Sens. Alan Cranston, D-Calif, Don Riegle, D-Mich, John Glenn, D-Ohio. (Two Arizona senators, Demoerat Dennis DeConcini and Republican John McCain also received contributions.) These influential senators helped Keating fend off federal regulators from assuming control of his financially troubled savings and loan institution.

Two other reforms are necessary to help clean up the campaign finance mess.

As proposed by President George Bush, Congress should eliminate political action committees financed by corporations, labor unions and trade associations. The tens of millions of dollars spent annually by interest groups distort the political process by buying lawmakers' votes and making it nearly impossible to unseat incumbents. Similarly, there should be a ban on "soft money" contributions, which allow creative incumbents to evade the spirit and intent of federal contribution limits.

Mother Earth's doing fine, thanks

DENVER - This old Earth has survived quite a bit of mischief in 4.6 billion years. It's withstood the swelling of the continental crust. ice ages, even a slowdown in rotation from 425 to 365 times a year. It's endured hothouse epochs when you could play baseball in the Arctic, it may have taken a direct hit from a

And the Earth will most certainly survive the human race, too, whatever we pesky primates

Yet even if the Earth were seriously ill, sagging on its axis in planetary pallor, would that mean we've accomplished nothing during the past 20

Our environmental laws were among the world's first and most strict. We now spend at least $80 billion annually on pollution control a figure that will rise by more than $20 billion after Congress approves the new Clean Air Act this year.

Has it all really been in vain?

Not all at, despite what you might have heard during recent Earth Day observances. Whatever the state of the planet elsewhere, the story at home is in many respects one of formidable progress. Herewith, a summary:

Air quality: Emissions of most major pollutants, from carbon monoxide to sulfur dioxide (a major cause of acid rain), have been trimmed by substantial amounts. And the next clean air law will cut them even more.

Water quality: It either stayed the same or improved in most of the nation's streams and lakes. Among the reasons: An additional 50 million people were provided with secondary sewage treatment, and farmers cut pesticide use laster it peaked in 1976). But there is some bad news, too: "Non-point" pollution from agricultural fertilizers rose in many places, as did water salinity.

Wetlands: More than half of this country's original wetlands have been destroyed, but the loss slowed rapidly once wetland laws took effect in the mid-1970s.

Public lands: Pressure on some national parks has grown to the point that they are as overrun as the Washington Mall. Yet the past 20 years also witnessed the designation of most of the 90 million acres of official wilderness and the 7,000-plus miles of protected "wild and scenic"

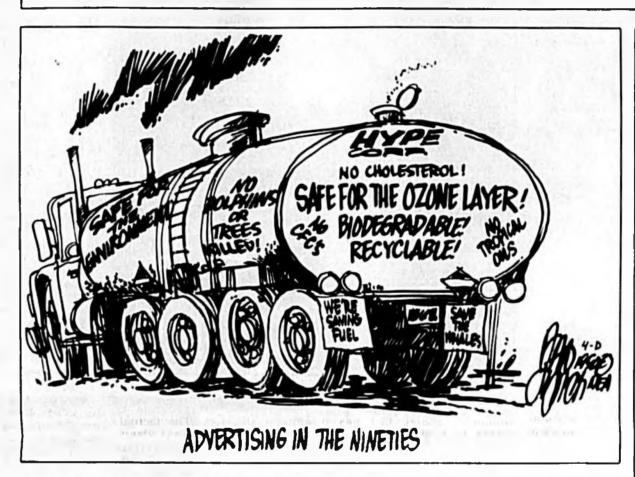

Species loss: The alligator has crawled back from the brink, while the brown pelican, bald eagle and whooping crane are recovering, too, But dozens of other animal species remain

Toxic dumps: More than 1,200 remain on the Superfund priority list. Whether they warrant so much hand-wringing is another matter. In a 1987 document, EPA scientists assessed environmental risks in order of importance, and such dumps were nowhere near the top. For good reason: Not a single study has demonstrated a general public danger from toxic dumps.

Trash and garbage: Each American generated a daily average of 2.4 pounds of trash in 1960; today the figure is 3 pounds or more. On the other hand, most of the leakiest landfills have been closed or will shut down in the next few

Court usurps political power

WASHINGTON - Just 48 hours after the Supreme Court ruled, Missouri's Jack Danforth, one of the Senate's most judicious and least flamboyant members, proposed this constitutional amendment: "Neither the Supreme Court nor any inferior court of the United States shall have the power to instruct or order a state or political subdivision thereof, or an official of such state or political subdivision, to lay or increase taxes.

It is a measure of the imperiousness of today's imperial judiciary that if such language had been proposed to the constitutional convention in 1787, the language would have been dismissed as absurdly unnecessary. But last week the Court ruled that courts can impose taxation.

A lower court found Kansas City's school district guilty of operating a segregated system. The court, attempting to fine-tune the racial balance of schools by attracting white students, ordered as a remedy the expansion of "magnet schools." The court's plan, priced at upwards of $700 million, included a 25-acre farm, a 25-acre wildlife area, animal rooms, a planetarium, 15 computers per classroom, a model United Nations wired for language translations, greenhouses and vivariums, movie-editing and screening rooms, a temperature controlled art gallery, a dust-free diesel mechanics room, instruction in cosmetology and robotics, radio and television studios with editing and animation labs. All this and more, mind you, is supposedly mandated by the

The lower court even ordered the hiring of a $30,000 "public information specialist" to advocate the court's plan. Thus the court's plan involved extracting taxes from unwilling and unrepresented citizens and spending some of the money to fund expression of views the citizens disapprove.

The school district had neither sufficient money for all this nor the power to raise it. Now the Supreme Court has held, 5-4, that a court has a right to do what was done in Knasas City: a right to order a government to increase taxes and to suspend a state constitutional limit on such increases.

The rationale for this radicalism is that the power of courts to discern unconstitutional behavior entails the power to decree remedles sufficient thereto. The anti-democratic extremism of this is apparent. This thought never crosses the extremists' closed minds:

Measures such as judicial taxation, measures incompatible with the most lundamental constitutional principles, measures that shred democracy's due processes and obliterate the separation of powers - such measures cannot be necessary responses to social conditions deemed incompatible with

The school desegregation era began 70 miles from Kansas City, in Topeka, with Brown v. Board of Education. There, children were being denied enrollment in particular schools because their skins were black. In the era of judicial flats for "racial balance," some black children in Kansas City have been dented admission to some schools because their skins are black: Admitting them would complicate some judge's pursuit of his preferred racial numbers. To fund such ugly lunacy, courts are now driven to the anti-constitutional expedient of judicial taxation. Justice Kennedy. joined in dissent by Relinquist, O'Connor and Scalia, notes that when advocating ratification of the Constitution. Alexander Hamilton assured Americans that "the judiciary...has not influence over...the purse" (Federalist 78) and James Madison said that "the legislative department alone has access to the pockets of the people" (Federalist 48). Today a majority of the Court says, in effect, "Well, what did the Founders know about the intent of the Founders?"

The court

even ordered the hiring of a 'public in-specialist' to advocate the court's plan.

But what does the Court's majority say about what the Court has said in earlier cases? For example, that a legislature is "the sole organ for levying taxes." that power being "the highest attribute of sovereignty"?

Danforth's remedy may be unnecessarily drastic. Congress can by statute limit the jurisdiction of lower courts (as Congress did in the Norris-LaGuardia Act, stripping courts of the power to issue labor injunctions). Besides, the five justices in this benighted majority (White, Brennan, Marshall, Blackmun, Stevens) are the five oldest justices. Nature will change the Court.

Meanwhile, liberals applauding judicial tax ation are in an interesting intellectual tangle. Regarding the conduct of foreign policy, a core function of the executive branch, they today take a tolerant view of Congress' claim to capacious powers. (Liberals thought otherwise until they lost confidence in their ability to elect Presidents.) And now regarding the power to raise and disperse revenues - surely the core legislative function — liberals are pleased to see this power usurped by the

U.S. denies aid to Panamanians

WASHINGTON - If the new government of Panama succeeds, then the United States can call its invasion a success. But in its rush to get Panama on its feet. Washington is lorgetting the Panamanians who need the help most - the civilians who were unfucky enough to get in the way of the invasion.

The widow of Pablo Diaz and her 12 children doa't know anything about the Washington bureaucracy. They only know that in the early morning of Dec. 20. Diaz died in a hall of bullets, and now his wife and children are left to fend for themselves. Diaz was a cargo worker for Eastern Airlines. He and two were on the night shift at Panama's Tocumen airport when the U.S. forces attacked. The three tried to escape the firelight, but their truck caught seven bullets from U.S. guns. All three men running between 2,000 and 3,000. Legal obstacles are being used as an excuse for the failure to compensate civilian victims for their combat losses. But bureaucratic red tape and a small dose of bad press may be the real reason no money is going their way. In the past, the United States has generously compensated innocent bystanders in foreign military operations. This time there is no such program in the works. Sources close to the U.S. Southern Command in Panama told our associate Dean Boyd that immediately after the invasion, the idea of compensation was run up the flagpole. It was quickly run down again. Congressional sources say the logistics of a compensation program don't jive with the administration's rush to put together a quick fix for Panama. Even more important, a potentially large number of victims could run the costs up and invite bad press for an otherwise popular invasion. The Army claims office has gone so far as to say that the United States can't legally pay combat-related damages in Panama because of the restrictions of the Foreign Claims Act-

200 to 300 with the number of injured

But brothers David and John Kiyonaga. two lawyers representing Panamanian civilians, say the U.S. government has sidestepped the Foreign Claims Act in the past when it suited the government's purposes to make a show of goodwill. They claim that happened in Grenada in 1983 and the Dominican Republic in 1965.

A 1984 agreement between the Army and the U.S. Agency for International Development, allowed the Army to use $1.6 million in AID funds for Grenadian victims of that invasion. An Anny publication later boasted widely about the "resounding success" of the program.

But today, with compensation in Panama becoming a sensitive issue, the Army claims office denies that it ever made any exceptions to the Foreign Claims Act, or that it ever paid combat claims in Grenada or the Dominican Republic. The claims office policy is "combatdamage claims for Panama should not be

Morgan said one of the main goals of the exchange program is to break down barriers that may be up between cultures. The children now in elementary school are going to grow up, she sald, in a world with much raore open borders and it is up to the educational system to pave the way for easier communication.

Tax increase package revised The House is also multing

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE - The formula for a package of tax increases worth more than $400 million was revised Monday by the House Appropriations Committee to go easier on smokers and public utilities.

A proposed 11-cent increase in the eigarette tax, approved last week by the Finance and Tax Committee, was reduced to 9 cents, while a planned increase in the gross receipts tax on utilities was scrapped altogether.

The bill also scales back plans for higher taxes on real estate transactions. That levy was to have been raised to 45 cents per $100 assessed value, but the new plan called for an increase to only 35 cents per $100.

The proceeds from the planned gross receipts tax hike are replaced by adjustments to the intangible tax on investment earnings. That levy is increased by .5 mill, but the exemption would also be increased by $5,000, for a total exemption of $25,000 for individuals and $50,000 for couples

House leaders said they wanted to be careful about $96.7 million in higher motor raising the eigarette tax too high, for fear of encouraging tax evasion and bootlegging. They said the Appropriations Committee's version of the tax bill (HB 3695) was fairer to all concerned.

Gov. Bob Martinez originally wanted to boost the 24-cents-per-pack state tax on eigarettes by 19 cents per pack. but the House has already rejected any increases on that "All the Republicans (on the committee) voted for this, and they didn't vote for his eigarette tax." Appropriations Chairman T.K. Wetherell, D.Daytona Beach, said of the tax package approved 36-0 by his committee. It's no more money than he raises," Wetherell said of the

· About 62 percent of all illegal marijuana was grown on private land. Santa Rosa County, located in the western Panhandle, was by far the leading producer, with about 8,700 plants found and destroyed.

WIESBADEN, West Germany - American Frank Reed arrived in West Germany today for a reunion with his family after 44 months of captivity in Lebanon, blowing kisses and flashing the thumbs-up sign.

The 57-year-old school director, the second hostage released from Lebanon through Syria in eight days, smiled, waved and bent to touch the ground with one hand after stepping off the C-141 Starlifter at the U.S. Rhein-Main Air Base near Frankfurt Reed was given a red-earpet welcome and greeted by an official U.S. delegation and a five-person Air Force color guard holding the American, West German and base flags.

He walked confidently toward an awaiting military van, flashing V-for-victory signs with both hands raised, and briefly shielding his eyes from the bright sun. Reed said he was blindfolded much of the time he was held hostage.

Reed, dressed in an elegant gray suit and sporting a neatly trimined mustache, looked pale and fatigued but obviously clated at his release.

He was driven to an Air Force helicopter that flew him to the nearby U.S. military hospital at Wiesbaden.

About 150 military officials and patients waved and cheered as Reed arrived at the medical center, where he was greeted by a huge banner that read:

Welcome back to the free world. Reed responded to the cheers by giving the thumbs-up sign and blowing kisses to the crowd.

Doctors were expected to immediately start medical and psychological tests, and U.S. intelligence teams were preparing to question the released hostage on details of his captivity.

Reed's Moslem Syrian wife, Fahimeh Dalatt, and 9-year-old son. Tarek, arrived about two hours later in Wiesbaden from Massachusetts for a

On April 22, 55-year-old Robert Polhill was let go by his kidnappers after 39 months of captivity and he followed the same course to freedom. Reed and Polhill were the first American hostages freed since three others were released in the fall of 1986 as part of the secret Iran-Contra arms-for-hostages swap between the United States and Iran.

"It was lonely. It was boring," Reed told Syrian television Monday after his release.

Reed, a Massachusetts man who was kidnapped Sept. 9, 1986, while driving a van in Moslem west Beirut, was freed by his captors Monday in Beirut and turned over to Syrian troops, who drove him

Bush reviews 'private message' and demands unconditional releases

United Press International

WASHINGTON - President Bush, mulling a "private message" from terrorists, says he is grateful for the release of two American hostages in as many weeks, but that "we've got to see every American returned."

Bush thanked Syria and Iran for assisting in the release last Sunday of Robert Polhfll and the release Monday of Frank Reed. He also reiterated his demand for unconditional freedom for six remaining American captives.

We can't, in terms of overall relationship between countries, expect normalcy, until ... all Americans are free," the president said.

The president talked by telephone Monday with Reed, offering him "greetings from the American people," shortly after welcoming Polhill to the White House for a one-hour visit.

Mr. Polhill said he had a private message from his captors," said White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater. "The president received that message in private, and indicated he would not discuss the message publicly.

Cone tantrum costs Mets

The New York Mets, who for several seasons have let their pitching do the talking, gave new meaning to the phrase Monday night.

Mets' pitcher David Cone, who made a serious error in judgement by getting involved in a heated argument with an umptre while two Atlanta runners rounded the bases to score, accepted complete responsibility for the New York's 7-4 loss to the Braves

The moment occured in the fourth linning when Cone became consumed with a controversial play at first base, choosing to argue the call with first-base umpire Charlie Williams rather than concentrating on two base runners in scoring position

Apopka hosts Lake Brantley in 4A-Region V playoff game

From staff reports

Last Friday night, the Lake Brantley Patriots became the first Seminole Junity team in several years to repeat as district baseball champions, beating the Lyman Greyhounds 11-7 in the 4A-District 9 championship game.

Tonight at Apopka High School's Jay Barnes Field, the Patriots try to become the first Seminole County team in four years to win a regional title and advance to the next round of the state playoffs.

This evening's 4A-Region V contest, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m., is a dream game, pitting the state's third-ranked team (Lake Brantley) against the fourth-ranked team (Apopka)

Not only that, but lonight's probable pitching matchup is a beauty: Lake Brantley's Brad Rigby (10-0) vs. Apopka's Jell Musselwhite.

The game also matches two of the area's most successful high school coaches Lake Brantley's Mike Smith has an 85-57-1 record in his five years guiding the Patriots. 213-100-1 overall, while Apopka's Sonny Wise has led the Blue Darters to live district championships.

Both the Patriots (25-3) and Apopka Blue Darters (26-4) got to tonight's regional championship game in much the same way, with solid pitching, sure handed fielding

Patriots vs. Blue Darters

Lake Brantley also found some much-needed offensive balance during last week's district tournament.

During the regular season, the first four litters in the lineup -Greg Thomas, Jerry Thurston, Jason Varitek and Sean Burke carried the Patriots. But in the district tournament. No. 6 hitter Steve Sheiman and No. 8 hitter Tyler Iller exploded, Sheiman going 3 for 4 in the finals while filer hit two home runs over three games.

Apopka also has a fairly balanced and explosive lineup. Against Dr. Phillips in the 4A District 10 finals last Friday, both Musselwhite and Roscoe Griffin shigged home runs. The Blue Darters also stole six bases against the Panthers.

One of the little games within the game that may determine the outcome of tonight's game will be between the Apopka baserunners and Thurston, regarded by many asone of the top high school catchers in the country. Thurston may possess the best throwing arm of any Central Florida high school catcher since Boone graduate Ron-Karkovice

By the same token, it will be interesting to see if the Patriots, who have been very selective at the plate this season, will be able to exploit the hard-throwing Musselwhite's occasional control problems.

The winner of this evening's game will play again Friday in the 4A-Section III champtonship game against the Region VI winner. Stuart-Martin County plays at Lake Worth-John I Leonard tonight to determine the other sectional final-

NBA home teams use advantage in playoffs

United Press International

Life on the road can be disheartening - especially during the NBA playoffs.

Seven of the eight first-round series stand at 2-0 in favor of the home teams as action renews Tuesday night with six games. Only the Phoentx Suns managed to split on the road, using Sunday's 105-87 rout in Salt Lake City to gain the homecourt advantage against the Utah

J :22. Phoenix can wrap up the best-of-five series with two victories at Veterans Memorial Coliscum, where Utah has not won since 1986 and is just 4-33 overall. The home side has ruled completely in the Eastern Conference, where New York, Cleveland, Indiana and Milwaukee seek to force a decisive Game 5 with a pair of victories in friendly confines. In the West, Los Angeles, Portland and San Antonin pack a suitcase looking to complete three-game sweeps. While most of Sunday's attention was focused on the outstanding play of Phoenix guard Kevin Johnson, the Suns received a huge lift from center Mark West, who grabbed 21 rebounds and outscored Mark Eaton 14-2. Johnson, hampered by the flu in Friday's openinggame loss, scored 22 points as against All-Stars Karl Malone and John Stockton. 'We're going into that place kind of like going into a fire with gasoline on your back," says Utah Coach Jerry Sloan of his team's journey to Phoenix. "You always have to give yourself a chance. You don't want go over there with the idea that you don't have a chance. I'd like to think we're going to play as hard as we can." Malone, the league's No. 2 scorer behind Michael Jordan. shot just 7 for 21 from the floor before fouling out with 20 points while Stockton was limited to 12 points and eight assists.

They gave us trouble all year long," says Sloan, "As everyone knows, when this team is healthy, this is probably a better team than we are."

The Cavaliers, 27-14 at the sponded with 32 points in Sun-fensive help.

day's 107-101 triumph, spinning past John Williams twice on the baseline down the stretch. Guards Craig Ehlo and Steve Kerr hurt Cleveland in Game 2 by combining to hit on Just 3 of 18 field goal attempts. "Charles was just spectacular," Cleveland Coach Lenny Wilkens said. "He came up big when he had to." The Knicks, 29-12 at Madison Square Garden, appear unable to solve Boston's halfcourt offense. The Celtics were so efficient in Saturday's 157-128 blitz, Larry Bird didn't need to shoot. Instead, the unselfish forward repeatedly fed Kevin McHale and Robert Parish in the post and watched the Celties make the extra pass that made New York pay for the double team. Milwaukee's 27-14 mark at home will be tested by the surging Bulls, who continue to ride hot shooting and Jordan's wondrous talents. Jordan and Scottie Pippen combined for 68 points in Sunday's tense 109-102 triumph. The Bucks appeared defenseless in the final minutes of Game 2 as Jordan converted a pair of 3-point plays and provided the back-breaking basket on a baseline Jumper with 36 seconds left. Detroit's league-leading defense has suffocated Indiana as the Pacers head to the sanctuary of Market Square Arena, where they won 28 of 41 games. "As long as we take care of ourselves, we'll come out on top," says Detroit's Bill Laimbeer, who scored 20 of his 22 points in the second half on 9 for 10 shooting "Our confidence level is always high. We think

-we can win any game we play." Dallas, 0-6 against Portland this year, is 30-11 at Reunion Arena. Home cooking won't help the Mayericks nearly as much as a helping of rebounding prowess against the NBA's most powerful club off the boards. Portland forward Buck Williams has turned in a pair of formidable efforts while Clyde Drexler has been a defensive demon against Rolando Blackmon in a physical battle between All-Star guards.

Rookie of the Year David Robinson has sparked the Spurs to a 2.0 lead against Denver negang into Tuesday's matchup unable to stop Philadelphia at McNichols Arena. DEAR ABBY: Last February, you published a letter from David C. Graham of San Diego. suggesting that your readers send President Gorbachev a card to wish him well on this 59th birthday, March 2. (He even provided Gorbachev's address in Moscow.1

I sent a birthday card to many of my friends, and I'm interested in knowing approximately how many cards "Gorby" (as you called him) received. Please keep your readers informed.

A FAITHFUL FAN.

DULUTH, MINN. DEAR FAN: 1, 100, was interested, so I contacted my friend, Dr. Armand Hammer, who probably has more influential friends in the Soviet Union than any American in or out of government.

I asked Dr. Hammer if he could use his good offices to find out approximately how many birthday cards and letters President Gorbachev received from the United States and Canada.

I received the following message (by fax) from Dr.

glue. What does the Postal classmates and alert them to Service recommend? Should 1 their class reunion. reinforce the stamps by using my own glue pot? Or must I contact with their classmates staple the postage stamps onto would simply send a postcard or the envelopes? Maybe I should letter with their name, address write across the envelope, and year of graduation to the "Postmaster: This letter bore high school from which they postage when I mailed it."

MAD AT THE MAIL established.

DEAR MAD: Move over, I'm also mad. 1, too, have noticed recently that I am stuck with stamps that don't stick. As you can well imagine. I don't have a lot of space to spare on my desk. but I had to make room for a glue pot. So--CONFIDENTIAL TO POSTMASTER ANTHONY M. FRANK: If you are economizing by using inferior glue--people are starting to notice!

DEAR ABBY: High school class-reunton committees are constantly searching for members of their graduation class with whom they have lost contact over the years. I have personally spent many hours making phone calls and writing letters in an effort to locate

LEONARD A. PORTZLINE. WEST FAIRVIEW, PA.

DEAR LEONARD: Great idea. Readers, address your cards or letters to: "The Principal" of good old "Hackensack High" or whatever the name is.

Full-Service Stations: Not Just A Thing Of The Past

Do you remember the friendly neighborhood gas station in your hometown? It was probably on a tree-lined street, and you knew the station manager by his first name. He took care of your car like it was his own - filled it with gas, checked theoil, and cleaned the windshields. He also gave you the advice of a homegrown car expert when your car made a funny noise or leaked too much water.

The same corner gas station existed in hundreds of towns and cities in America for years. But it is not very common today, for several rea-

First, as the American population grew during the past 30 years, interregional and interstate highways were built to accommodate the increasing number of drivers and changing transportation needs. Today, there are more than 130 million cars and trucks registered in the U.S., some 30 million more than in 1970, with more than 147 million licensed drivers.

Second, the Arab off embargo caused gasoline prices to increase dramatically in the early 1970s, and gasoline lines stretched for blocks as motorists waited to fill their tanks. The late 1970s were not much different, as oil prices doubled and we became less dependent on foreign oil.

So, in response to these factors, sell-service gasoline evolved, with many station dealers adding self-serve islands. Over the past several years most oil companies have converted there stations to convenience stores.

Today, because many customers still want and need full service, Sanford Mobil Service is committed to high quality, professional automotive service. Today you have a number of choices when you need to fill up the car. You can go to a self-serve station, a full-serve station, or a combination sta-Hon.

At Sanford Mobil Car Center, we offer full service and more. We perform basic auto repair work, so drivers can rely on us for gas, preventive maintenance and repair work. You can't get that just anywhere.

Many of our customers come back time after time for the basic services, like oil changes and tune-ups. We know lots of them by name, and we try to build that bond of trust with them so they can depend on us for their car's regular service

While there are specialty outlets in the market for basic automotive services, drivers often don't have time to shop around for the best deal and don't always know who to turn to. Sanford Mobil Service takes care of the continual needs and repair normal problems, all in one place.

Drivers want personal involvement when they bring their cars in for service. They want the work done the right way, and they want to know their money was spent wisely. We realize this at Sanford Mobil and we know how important it is that we uphold our end of the deal, to provide excellent service.

The roles of service station dealers have increased dramatically over the past few decades, from being mere sellers of petroleum products to being independent business people offering a variety of products and services to customers who rely greatly on them.

Oil and gas prices will continue to change, and so will automobile designs. But one thing that won't change is the need for automotive maintenance, and the full-serve stations are back in the Lusiness of caring for the car, not just filling it with

Patsio's Diner a dream fulfilled for entrepreneur Carlos Lantigua

SANFORD | Local entrepreneur Carlos Lantigua, and his wife, Myriam, make a dream a reality through the success of their two Patsio's restaurants, one of which is located at 2565 S. French Ave. Aside from the great entrees, light sides and tempting desserts, the Lantiguas base their success on their most basic goal; to provide convenience, variety and good quality service 24.

Carlos did not originally have his career sights set toward the restuarant business. A native of Cuba, Carlos came to the United States as a teenager in 1962. He attended New Mexico State University, earning a degree in mechanical engineering in 1973.

After college, he went to work for General Electric as a field engineer, working with turbine arlos went to work for Argo International, managing its Latin American operation.

He was exposed to many types of restaurant atmospheres and menus in his travels. He often thought of how he would like to create a "typical 24-hour diner" like he went to in his high-

The vision turned to reality when he came to Central Florida and purchased Patsio's in Casselberry in May of 1987. He opened his second Patsio's here last April.

Carlos' goal was to have a typical family diner convenient to every schedule and taste. Families, singles or dates can find a menu to suit every occasion.

Menu selections include American, Italian and Greek selections. Favorite features include an all-you-can-eat breakfast from 6 to 11 a.m. Monday through Friday and from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m. on weekends. Menu breakfasts are served Patsio's offers more than 15 sandwich selections including the popular Gyros and Reugenerator equipment. After nine years with GE, bens. Soup and salad is included with all dinners. All potatoes, including hash browns, home fries, and mashed, are cooked daily. A freshly-made soup is featured daily. Wine and beer selections are available for lunch and dinner.

duce enough lubrication for the Joints. My doctor has prescribed prednisone, which I've heard has tremendous side effects, yet my condition is quite painful. Are the side effects worth being by Mort Walker pain-free?

DEAR READER: This is a decision only you can make. Some autoimmune diseases when the body reacts to its own normal tissues - are marked by joint inflammation and poor oint lubrication. In these instances, drugs - such as prednisone - will help to "turn off" the body's immune response and relieve discomfort.

However, as you are aware, prednisone and other cortisonelike drugs do have troublesome. even dangerous, side effects, including susceptibility to diabetes, bone softening, cataracts, acne and reduced immunity to infection. Therefore, you should consider the benefits vs. the risks of prednisone therapy before taking the drug. If you are thereby reducing the risk of side effects. Or it can be prescribed with other, non-cortisone drugs. making a still lower dose possible. Share your concerns with #### in constant pain and your life is governed by discomfort, prednisone may return you to normal: the side effects may be a price you are willing to pay to be pain-free. On the other hand, if your pain is tolerable, you may choose a less potent drug with fewer side effects. Your doctor can help you make a choice by explaining your options but, in the final analysis, the decision is yours. I have a suggestion that may enable you to straddle the tence. Try prednisone for a couple of weeks and see how much you improve. Short courses of prednisone do not cause significant side effects, as is the case with long-duration therapy. If you experience relief, you can decide about continued prednisone treatment. This can be administered in the lowest possible dose that is effective,

In consecutive weeks in January, invitational events were held in the Netherlands and in-London. World-class pairs at-Tony Forrester and Andrew Robson was victorious in both. Today's deal illustrates a neat fencing match at the table between Robson, South, and long-time Brazilian celebrity Gabriel Chagas, West. Chagas led his singleton spade. Declarer Robson won the ace in dummy. came to his hand with the club king, and played A-K and a heart, shedding a card from each suit in dummy. Chagas won the heart eight and cashed the heart queen, declarer throwing another spade from dummy. At this point, Chagas could see that playing ace and another diamond would be to no avail. Declarer would pitch a club on the king of diamonds, ruff a diamond and then play out all tended both tournaments. Re- his trumps, coming down to A-9 markably the English pair of of clubs in dummy. East would be squeezed in clubs and spades, and the contract would make. But Chagas saw an out. He played the queen of diamonds, hoping that South would play East for the lone ace. But Robson went up with the king. Even so, if Robson now ruffed a diamond and played out trumps, the squeeze would not quite operate. Instead, declarer, having won dummy's diamond king, played a second diamond and discarded a club. West had nothing left but diamonds, and Robson was able to ruff and execute the squeeze as described above.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol YOUR BIRTHDAY May 2, 1990

It you don't get upset about not being in the spotlight you may find yourself indirectly involved in something extremely beneficial in the year ahead. Keep in mind the advantages of serving in the rear ranks.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is a good day to work on assignments that are in need of finishing touches. You should do rather well today at finalizing things to your satisfaction. Taurus, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper. P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your imaginative and creative instincts will be rather prononneed today, particularly in areas pertaining to communication. Advance your interests through writing, promoting or selling.

CANCER [June 21-July 22] ANNIE

There are times when it's necessary to be frugal and there are times when it is okay to splurge. Today you should be able to combine these two extremes without abuses in either area.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Perhaps it's wise at this time to step in and take control of a matter in which you're involved that has not been managed too wisely by another.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It won't require obvious actions on your behalf to make your impact felt today. You can function as an effective force by directing matters from behind the scenes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Social involvements won't be a frivolous waste of time today. In fact, you might be able to do yourself more good at a friendly gathering than at a business meeting.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Tactics and style could be of greater significance than usual today. It won't be so important what you accomplish as how you go about it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Much can be accomplished of a work week.

today, provided you truly believe in the ideas and positive philosophy which you espouse. If you don't others will easily perceive your doubts. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. (9) You may be able to derive material benefits at this time from other than your usual sources. Start looking for opportunities in fresh fields. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It may be necessary for you to make some compromises and concessions in your dealings with others today in order to advance your personal interests. Be pliable.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You have a slight edge in your competitive career involvements today, because you are likely to be more imaginative than those who compete against you. Use this plus advantageously.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A spontaneous entertainment break today could do you a lot of good at this time. There's no need to feel guilty about taking one just because it's the middle
