Lawsuit School Board Can Now Sue Architect

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County School Board can now sue a Sanford architect and contractors and subcontractors for about $4 million for the leaking roofs at 13 public schools in the county.

The Fifth District Court of Appeal at Daytona Beach on Wednesday reversed a decision by Circuit Judge Robert B. MacGregor that the four-year statute of limitations had expired and thus it could not sue to recover.

The case is now to be re-heard by Circuit Judge Vernon Mize during the first three weeks in October.

School Board attorney Ned N. Julian Jr. told the board Wednesday night that its claims for damages will exceed the insurance coverage of architect Eoghan Kelley and the contractors and subcontractors who did the work.

Hugh Carlton, director of auxiliary services for the public schools, said today that by the time the repair work is completed the school system will have spent well over $3 million and closer to $4 million.

Carlton refused to answer questions about the cause of the roofs leaking, saying the case is under litigation. "Professional roof consultants came and made evaluations," he said, adding that it "was more than just a problem of materials being bad."

According to the opinion of the appellate court, the School Board's suit asserted Kelley was liable for "improperly designing or supervising the construction of the roofs."

MacGregor had ruled that the four-year statute of limitations had expired because the School Board "discovered or should have discovered the design defects in the roofs more than four years before it filed its lawsuits in July 1977."

The appellate court said that for MacGregor to have made that decision, the record would have had to conclusively demonstrate that the board discovered at an earlier date the defects in the roof design.

The appellate court noted that despite repairs made by contractors and subcontractors, the leaks became "increasingly severe and persistent."

The board, in its suits against the Sanford architect, said he failed to design proper expansion joints in the roof system.

The appellate court decision said: "From the beginning of the leaks through 1975, the School Board called on Kelley to handle, coordinate and devise plans to repair the roofs. Repairs were made repeatedly without cost to the board."

It also noted that the board in 1973-74 corresponded with Kelley reporting leaks and problems and was assured by him that the roof problems were being handled and that permanent repairs were being made under his direction, together with the roof bonding company. Ultimately, GAF, manufacturer of the roofing material, refused to make any further repairs, saying the problem was structural or design-related and not covered under its bond.

The appellate court decision said the board was not notified until March 1976 that the leaks were really caused by design or structural defects.

The opinion concluded that "had the roof problems been reparable as Kelley asserted, the board would have no cause of action" against the architect.

Brantley: Cardinal Is Interested In Building Modular Jail Cells

Cardinal Industries is definitely interested in the possibility of designing and building temporary housing for state prisoners, State Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, said today.

"And the firm feels it is probably better qualified to make changes in its assembly line to construct the units than any other modular company in the state," he said.

Julian Stenstrom, a spokesman for the Sanford firm, said Cardinal's management team discussed the possibility with Brantley and State Rep. James Ward, D-Fort Walton Beach, Wednesday. Brantley and Ward are members of the House Select Committee on Prison Oversight.

"They are to tell us what they need and our management team will determine whether we will do something of that nature," Stenstrom said.

Of the Wednesday tour of the Cardinal plant, Brantley said he and Ward were impressed with what they saw. He said modified modular cells could be built through the Cardinal assembly line simply by omitting several steps of its current operation.

"They would probably have to build a shell with a toilet and sink in it," the legislator said.

"One of the attractive things about using the Cardinal concept to build temporary state prison cells, Brantley said, would be the ability to move the units from place to place as they are needed.

"If we had the units at one prison site and the overcrowding situation was solved, we could move them to another site," he said.

"Moving the units would be a whole lot less expensive than building new housing," he said, adding that the units can basically be moved on a flatbed trailer, something the state could do with existing equipment. Brantley said he will have to get federal specifications for state prisons and pass them on to Cardinal. "I feel their engineers from that point could come up with a design," he said.

Brantley said he and his committee within the next three weeks will be traveling to Atlanta to tour a plant already building modular prison units.

Noting that the state prison system needs 3,000 temporary beds for non-violent prisoners, Brantley said the Department of Corrections has been talking to a Tampa firm about building units in pieces and putting the pieces together on the site.

He said he will be encouraging comparison of costs per unit from the Tampa firm and Cardinal. "Cost is going to be the determining factor," he said.

After the overcrowding in the prison system is solved, the Cardinal modules could be used for other state purposes, Brantley said.

Currently the state has a prison population of 24,000. This is expected to increase to 25,000 before the end of the year. Florida ranks third in the nation in the number of state prisoners, he said. — DONNA ESTES

Soundproof Birth Center OK'd

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Staff Writer

The Longwood City Commission, by a vote of 3-2, has approved the conversion of the Clouser House at 211 W. Warren Ave. to a birthing center — provided Fern Park midwife Mary Ann Becker soundproofs it.

The Clouser House lies in the city's historic district, west of County Road 427, and is one of the few remaining examples of late 19th century Florida construction.

According to a 10-year-old ordinance, the Victorian structures in the area are protected. But the ordinance allows for several residential and commercial land uses compatible with the area's character. The land uses include one- and two-family homes, antique and gift shops, small hotels and restaurants, and office uses, including medical offices and clinics.

The zoning code doesn't specifically list birthing centers, so City Attorney Marvin Hooks polled the commission on its opinion concerning Ms. Becker's application to use the Clouser House for a birthing center, including pre- and post-natal care facilities and medical office services.

The two dissenting votes on Ms. Becker's application came from Mayor June Lormann and Councilman Steven Uskert on Monday.

Mrs. Lormann expressed concern that a birthing clinic was too close to homes and City Hall, and wanted to know if the birthing center would be soundproofed.

Ukert expressed concern that patients in long labor periods would have to remain in the clinic overnight.

Ms. Becker, a state-certified nurse-midwife, previously worked at Orlando's Home Birth Service, and said that during her tenure there she handled 70 home births since October 1980. Prior to working at the Orlando facility, she spent two years as a nurse-midwife at Cook County Hospital in Chicago before being licensed in Florida in 1979.

"Soundproofing was a stipulation by the commission," Ms. Becker said today.

"I'm hoping to open the center for office use and pre-natal care around the middle of May, but I'm not exactly sure of when our home birthing services will begin," she said.

Office hours probably will be from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. during the center's initial operating period, she added.

Ms. Becker said the trend toward home births stems from the fact that most women prefer to have their babies with them throughout the delivery and afterward, as opposed to standard hospital birth procedures, and that many women prefer a home atmosphere to a hospital.

She said she envisioned few, if any, overnight stays. "Depending on the individual labor period, which runs on the average two to seven hours, women usually will stay in the center three to four hours after the birth," she said. "If a woman is experiencing problems, she'll be transferred to a hospital."

Ms. Becker added that women interested in the home birthing method of delivery are carefully screened when they apply for the service.

One Man Arrested In Cable Sabotage

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

An Apopka man has been arrested and possible other arrests are pending in what Seminole County sheriff's deputies are calling "internal sabotage" of a two-county cable television company.

John Charles Davis, 30, is free today on $500 bond from the county jail following his arrest Friday in connection with "over 40 deliberate actions to cut off service to Orange-Seminole Cablevision subscribers," according to a Sheriff's Department investigator.

Sheriff's Department records indicate that in addition to the 40 previous cable power outages in Seminole County since February, four other incidents were reported within the last two days of someone breaking into the company's control boxes and shutting the power off.

"The cable company asked the Sheriff's Department, along with the Orange County Sheriff's Department, Orlando police and other area city police, to help them find out who was responsible for the vandalism and power outages," said Roger Webb, investigator for the Seminole County Sheriff's Department. "We really feel we are onto them. We've arrested one man in connection with it and there will probably be more. This thing is big, and it's going to get worse before it gets better."

Webb said he saw a man climb a telephone pole on Lake Drive near Seminola Boulevard in Casselberry, break open the cable power box and shut the power off.

"We arrested him coming off the pole," Webb said. "We charged Davis with criminal mischief, but the state may want to change that if they determine he violated a new law which puts a stiffer penalty on those convicted of cutting off television air service to customers. That charge would be a third-degree felony," he said.

According to the company's general manager, Michael D'Ambra, the company is currently undergoing an internal investigation after private and sheriff's investigators reported the incidents were being committed by disgruntled employees and former employees.

"Some people have been terminated," D'Ambra said. "I would prefer not to say whether or not others will be, but I will say the investigation may involve some further civil and criminal action by us." "We have had problems," D'Ambra said concerning company employees. "Some employees have no business being here. We are taking steps to rectify the situation and make this a company where our employees, who do a good job, can do it effectively and efficiently."

D'Ambra said that although his employees are represented by the Communications Workers of America union, this is "not a union matter."

Orange-Seminole Cablevision currently provides cable service to about 30,000 Seminole County residents and about 50,000 Orange County residents.

"The incidents have mostly affected Seminole County people," Webb said. "But our investigation is continuing. We do have some very good information and are anticipating additional arrests soon."

Man Killed In Sanford Accident

A 36-year-old Winter Park man became Sanford's first traffic fatality of 1982 when he lost control of his vehicle, struck a street light pole and overturned his car at about 2:30 a.m. today.

An autopsy by county Medical Examiner Dr. G.V. Garay revealed that Daniel Eugene Williams died as a result of multiple head fractures suffered when his car left the roadway on U.S. Highway 17-92 just south of Park Avenue, crashed into a pole, overturned and plined his body between the car and the ground.

Sanford police investigating the incident said Williams was driving a 1981 Mercury Cougar northbound on 17-92 when the car's right front tire ran up against the curb numerous times before it eventually crashed into the street light pole. The vehicle then slid around, the left side of the car striking the curb and causing the car to overturn about 15 feet from the roadway, police said.

Williams was partly thrown from the car through the driver's window, police added. When the vehicle came to rest, Williams was plined between the car's roof and the ground, they said. No one else was injured.

Schools' Storm Damage Listed In Five Figures

Estimates of the damage from last week's hail storm to 10 public schools in the Sanford area are not yet available, but it will run into five figures.

Hugh Carlton, director of the county school administration's auxiliary services, said today that more than 2,000 panes of glass in the various schools were broken out. Most severely damaged was Pine Crest Elementary which suffered the loss of 800 panes of glass, he said.

"There's no way of estimating the cost of repairs," Carlton said.

The school office on Mellonville Avenue lost 25 to 28 windows. There was also damage to the computer building roof and some water leakage into the building. Carlton said the water was caught by the insulation and ceiling tile, saving the computers from water damage.

From a third to half of the flooring in the Crooms High School gymnasium was water-damaged, and since windows have not yet been replaced, another heavy rainstorm could do additional damage, he said.

The schools receiving damage included Wilson, Crooms, Goldboro, Sanford Middle, Seminole High, Pine Crest, Sanford Grammar, Southside, Midway, and Geneva. One or two other schools received minor damage.

Continental Cuisine Served At Sanford House

Patrick Crews and Phil Terry, owners of the Sanford House, at 109 N. Oak Avenue serve cuisine that includes quiche Lorraine and asparagus salad.

Crews, a Winter Park High School graduate says, "Now you can enjoy good quality food without driving to Winter Park restaurants."

Terry, who grew up in Germany and attended a German-Swiss cooking school in Bavaria, says the use of fresh vegetables and other fine quality ingredients, "makes all the difference in the world."

Terry visits local produce markets to pick out vegetables, their seafood is purchased from Lombardi's and desserts with ice cream feature the Haagen-Dazs brand exclusively.

Such desserts like the Bavarian-style raisin cheese cake and chocolate mousse are also featured.

Many of their pastries and the white bread used for sandwiches are delivered daily from the Swiss Alpine Bakery, which also supplies restaurants like Le Cordon Bleu, in Winter Park.

The quality of their food is paramount, Terry says, noting he stayed here to open his own restaurant rather than return to Europe.

Their lunch prices are from $3 to $5 and dinner prices range from $7 to $12.

Lots Of Rooney But No Conflict In 'Boys'

Pint-sized Mickey Rooney currently ranks as America's best loved showbiz survivor. In his 80-year career he has resided in both the penthouse and the outhouse. Whatever his address he has never lost his spunk, wit or love for performing. Happily, he has the river view and terrace again — a long-running Broadway hit, movie offers 10 deep and his own NBC sit-com, "One of the Boys."

The series is custom-tailored to fit Mickey. He plays Oliver Nugent, a fatso 66-year-old widower who believes that aging is a state of mind. He'll have nothing to do with old folks' homes. Instead he moves in on his grandson Adam (Dana Carvey), a college student who already rooms with Jonathan (Nathan Lane).

Oliver jogs a lot, does the cooking and tries to dodge the advances of Jonathan's landlady, the widow Green (Francine Beers), who is shorter than he is but just as tenacious. He also plays cards with his pal Bernard (Scatman Crothers).

"One of the Boys" is what is known in the trade as a clever one-line idea, offering a new wrinkle both on "The Odd Couple" and on the generation gap theme. Flushed out to a half-hour, though, it doesn't quite click. When it goes for gags, the humor doesn't flow freely enough. When it tries for pathos — perhaps Rooney's greatest gift — it seems hasty and contrived.

The humorous possibilities of our cramped, unusual living arrangement are seldom exploited. Amazingly, Oliver just doesn't get in the boys' way. I suppose it helps that neither Adam nor Jonathan ever cracks the books, dates women or invites other people over. Whatever, there's no conflict here.

Nor is there any conflict between grandfather and grandson. Adam is polite, friendly and respectful to the old coot. As played by Carver, he is also much too wimpy and accommodating. Rooney — who comes out swinging the second the director yells "Action!" — devours Carver whole.

So week is Carver's Adam that this central relationship is overshadowed by Oliver's rapport with Jonathan. The chubby, self-deprecating Lane has the timing and strength to keep up with Rooney, but his Jonathan is on the same wavelength as Rooney's Oliver — an irreverent romantic. No conflict there, either.

If Adam were a snob and a stuffed shirt — a kid who could use some loosening up from his uninhibited grandpa — then we would be on to something. Unfortunately, the role sees only spot duty in the guise of Adam's father and Oliver's son-in-law, George (Peter Michael Goetz, a pompous bore with a grating voice.

"One of the Boys" could be pulled into shape with some tinkering and recasting. It could actually be a good show. But you get the feeling both NBC and Rooney are content to let it run its mid-season course.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Youngsters who watch what passes for children's television these days soon may find themselves under mounting commercial pressure to whine and throw tantrums for goodies seen on the tube, but Clare O'Brien won't be sorry for most of their parents. She says they have it coming.

Mrs. O'Brien, who helped create the exquisite PBS children's show, "The Big Blue Marble," said commercial mind-rot for the younger set is the likely outcome of FCC chairman Mark S. Fowler's determination to deregulate the broadcast industry.

The move, mandated by President Reagan, will delight the networks at the expense of young viewers — protected heretofore from hard-sell commercial messages in their programming — but she doubts if enough parents care any more to change the scenario.

"Now that the heat's off the cereal manufacturers ... they can more or less go in and leech the kid audience," she said. "The same thing goes for the candy and toy manufacturers — and the toy manufacturers aren't going to concern themselves with toy safety issues the way they had to before.

"I don't know what's going to happen in terms of advertising minutes per hour ... but advertising isn't the biggest problem to me. The programming causes me many more reservations."

Programming — in an era that has seen CBS's time-honored "Captain Kangaroo" reduced to 15 minutes and buried at dawn — is something a lot of people interested in children's television fare are worried about now that the FCC appears to be getting out of the regulating business.

"It's a real crapshoot," Mrs. O'Brien said. "It's either going to mean nothing will be on for kids at all, or that a lot of garbage will be on. It's very easy, if you watch children and how they relate to television, to see how they get hooked on garbage."

"They spew back those commercials to you — 'ring around the collar' — even things that aren't intended for them ... Now the advertisers can go back and do pretty much whatever they want to do if the commissioner has his way."

Money, she said, will be the hinge upon which children's programming will turn for better or for worse at the commercial networks.

"We're in an interesting transition now," she said. "I'm curious to see ... when the heat gets off the advertisers and they can go after those little kids if a market will be created. I'm not inclined to say anything good will come out of it in terms of good programming, but I do think a lot of the networks have stayed back because of regulations in advertising."

"Nothing's going to come out of the networks unless there's a ton of money to be made in it."

Most parents, she said, deserve what the networks are about to give them.

"When I first got involved in television, I had a lot of very naive notions that the general public really wanted what was best for their kids," she said. "In 10 years, I've learned that not everybody does. We're raising a generation of children with no taste and that's a terrible thing, but a lot of people don't care."

Miss Piggy To Cut Album

By CINDY ADAMS
NEW YORK — CBS may do a series with Sally Strubbers in the starring role, called "Gloria," in the fall. Her Feb. 28 appearance with TV dad Carroll O'Connor on "Archie Bunker's Place" garnered high ratings. . . Miss Piggy has a deal to sequel on records next season. She'll make an exercise album. . . From Christopher Reeve: Certainly I expect to do 'Superman' when it films in London this summer. The only thing is, I haven't yet seen a script — or a contract."

Kate Jackson wants to be Kate Hepburn, to do "stylish, sophisticated comedy like 'The Philadelphia Story,'" she told me and, she said: "My TV series made me economically independent enough to sit back and wait for that kind of thing before I make any move."

Readying his bones to play a boxer in a TV movie, Erik Estrada, who has a daily 6 a.m. call on the "CHiPs" set and works until 9 p.m., now jobs around a secluded area of the San Fernando Valley every morning before dawn... Carolyn Jones, the black-haired Morticia of "The Addams Family" is now into red-haired wigs. "In my new daily CBS soap opera, 'Capitol,' I play a malicious, ambitious bitch. There's a little of me in the character," she says. . . Diana Ross will make a rare appearance in Atlantic City's Resorts International Hotel May 7-15. She's shopping for a comic to open for her. . . Stella Parton, sister of Dolly, has a hit with her single "I'll Miss You." Look for special stories on Stella in Time, Redbook and Playboy.

Some Serious Sci-Fi

What do you get when you make a kids' science-fiction series that has elements of "Space 1999" and "Mission Impossible"? Nickelodeon's British-produced "Tomorrow People."

Four teen-agers with super-human powers (telepathy, the ability to disappear, etc.) do good deeds — you know, like trying to save the world and all that. They take orders from a master computer that converses with them and projects mug shots and detailed instructions on a video screen. Just a bit more elaborate than the "Mission Impossible" tape recorder.

The tone of the series is serious, even sedate — much closer to "Space 1999" than to "Star Trek." The four young protagonists are adults in teen-age bodies — they display no obvious teen-age characteristics. They announce their lines with careful British accents that would make the adult thespians of "Brideshead Revisited" envious.

In the four-part segment called "The Doomsday Men," which concludes on April 18, the youngsters must infiltrate the ranks of a college where "doomsday" recruits are trained. This secret society advocates war and seeks to disrupt disarmament talks.

...Hitting The Links With A Drive, Chip And A Putt

"One of the biggest mistakes I see beginning golfers make is to drive their carts too close to the greens or if they're using pull carts to yank them up on the greens when they get ready to putt," he says.

"A lot of golfers start hitting the ball all over the course and spend too much time on one hole," he says. "Golf isn't like tennis where you're playing on your own court and aren't really bothering anybody. Beginners can easily start chasing the ball around and quickly tie up the whole course."

Mayfair's new pro says that for beginning golfers interested in taking a few lessons to pick up some of the fundamentals, the cost may vary greatly.

"People can expect to pay between $10 and $50 per lesson for a session that lasts between 30-45 minutes," says Wintz. "It's up to the person how much they want to spend. But they should think of golf lessons in the same terms of going to a doctor or lawyer. You go for lessons because your game is sick and you need it fixed. Most people would prefer a good doctor or lawyer to an average one."

Wintz says with just a few lessons, a beginning golfer can learn the basic fundamentals such as the proper way to grip the club, the stance, weight distribution and the swing.

"Everyone's golf swing is different because of their age, weight and physical size," says Wintz. "In the past, a lot of pros would try to completely change a person's swing. But now, more and more instructors are leaving the swing alone and going directly to what problem the golfer has such as a hook or slice. Usually when you can fix a major swing problem, the little problems seem to take care of themselves," he says.

Wintz also cautions beginners not to expect to go out and play like Nicklaus or Palmer.

"Beginners shouldn't be too quick to judge the game," he says.

"A lot of people take up the sport and expect instant results. It takes some time to get a complete game together. But more often than not, it's that one long, perfect drive off the tee, or the elation that comes with sinking a 30 or 40-foot putt that keeps the golfer coming back.

"It's an easy sport to get hooked on," says Wintz.

British-Style Experiment Flops

'Q.E.D.' Wastes Its International Talents

"Q.E.D." signifies a major experiment by CBS.

The network went to John Hawkesworth — the British producer responsible for so many of those tasteful, intelligent and entertaining imports we've seen on PBS' "Masterpiece Theatre": "Upstairs, Downstairs," "The Duchess of Duke Street," "Danger UXB" — and commissioned him to make a six-part, limited-run, British-style series directly for U.S. commercial TV.

A heckuva idea, huh? Nobody ever did that before.

Hawkesworth came up with the concept for a madcap period piece about one Quentin E. Deverill, a brilliant, high-spirited Harvard science professor who escapes the constraints of university life to find freedom and adventure in England, circa 1912. Deverill is also something of an amateur sleuth.

The series title would be "Q.E.D.," standing not only for the hero's initials but for the Latin "quod erat demonstrandum," translating to "which was to be demonstrated."

The producer demonstrated his own fine instincts by hiring Sam Waterston — a hound-faced stage and screen actor equipped with far more range, intelligence and dignity than most series stars — to play the lead.

All in all, a grand experiment. And if "Q.E.D." had turned out to be any good at all, the network would have blasted us with fanfare, not slid it quietly on opposite "Happy Days" in this, the Third Season. Or is this the Fourth?

If "Q.E.D." had turned out to be any good at all, industry observers would be labeling it a major breakthrough in Hollywood-London relations. Our dough, their know-how.

If "Q.E.D." had turned out to be any good at all, network programmers would be hailing the limited-run series as the wave of the future, what with the 26-week "long form" series becoming more and more expensive and losing more and more ratings points to cable every week.

But this is the story of a trend in the un-making. For "Q.E.D." didn't turn out to be any good at all. It's a shallow, idly action comedy that bears more than a passing resemblance to "The Dukes of Hazard." The accents are British, the cars antique, the women properly cosseted. Otherwise, it's the same old show.

The characters are shallow caricatures who never grow. The plotting is stale and obvious. The dialogue is limited to clichés and lead-ins to the next scene. No scene is longer than two minutes, and each is positively bursting with flying fists, hurled flower pots, broken windows, pratfalls and car chases.

Someone, either

Hawkesworth or the network, has made a disastrous miscalculation. Instead of bringing U.S. television up to the level of the good British shows, "Q.E.D." brings British television down to the level of our poorest.

Fresh off the boat, Deverill rents an English country manor and hires his impertinent Cockney cabbie Phipps (George Innes) to be his manservant. Phipps also has to don goggles and try out Deverill's rocket-powered contraptions, all of which send him somersaulting through the nearest garage roof.

In the pilot episode, Deverill meets up with the man who will be his arch-rival, the mad scientist Dr. Kilkins (Julian Glover), an evil saboteur who sells his inventions to the highest bidder. In this case it is Germany, for whom he is building a rocket with which to destroy London. Deverill thwarts the evil deed.

In the next episode, Kilkins is now working for the Japanese, who've entered a car in a 300-mile auto race. "If Kilkins wins this," vows Deverill, "mark my words, the world will rue it." He installs his own rocket engine in a British racer and dives into the fray. "I have a natural affinity for speed," he exclaims.

I have a natural affinity for not watching shows like "Q.E.D." We could have grown this one ourselves. What a waste.

'Love American Style' Started 'Happy Days'

DEAR DICK: My husband thinks "Happy Days" originated as one of the sketches on a show that had several sketches per episode, such as "Love, American Style." I think it started as a pilot, like most sit-coms. Please tell us how the show got started. I.M., Albuquerque, N.M.

Your husband is absolutely right. On Feb. 25, 1972, there was a sketch on "Love, American Style" called "Love and the Happy Days." It starred Ron Howard and Anson Williams, with Marion Ross as the mother and Harold Gould as the father, the part that Tom Bosley took over when it went to series. That was the beginning.

DEAR DICK: I have a collection of music on tapes and a card file listing the name of the song, composer and lyricist, so I can find any given selection. It isn't hard researching Brahma, Beethoven and Bach, but it is harder to find the people responsible for the modern music. I understand ASCAP has a catalog that might help me. Will it, for example, have all of the songs a particular composer wrote? Can you tell me about that book? VIRGINIA N. WHITE, Ventura, Calif.

I have in front of me the "ASCAP Biographical Dictionary," which is the most complete book I know. And yet it does not claim to list every song each writer wrote. I don't think any book does that. This one, published by Bowker, has all the major songs by all the major composers.

DEAR DICK: Do you know whether or not Nancy and Ronald Reagan look at "Falcon Crest," with Jane Wyman, his ex-wife? MRS. G.C. ORMSBY, Hamlet, N.C.

I don't know the intimate TV viewing of the White House occupants, but I am inclined to doubt it. Somehow, it doesn't seem reasonable that a man and his wife would sit around looking at pictures of the man's former wife. And I would also sincerely hope that the president of the United States would have something better to do with his time than watching a TV nighttime soap.

DEAR DICK: Who is behind Half-Pint Productions? They did several of the movies that Melissa Gilbert starred in. I'm guessing Melissa herself is behind this production company, or is it Michael Landon? CYNTHIA L. APPLEBY, Warsaw, Ind.

Half-Pint Productions is run by Ray Katz, Melissa's manager, and the two are partners in it. Half-Pint is, of course, her nickname on "Little House on the Prairie." Mike Landon is not involved in the Gilbert-Katz company.

DEAR DICK: On "M-A-S-H," when Col. Henry Blake mentions his wife, he calls her Lorraine. In the next episode, he calls her Mildred, the same as Col. Potter's wife. Obviously, he couldn't have gone home and gotten married a second time. What gives? DOUG BEATY, Bloomington, Mich.

What gives is a little confusion in your mind, or else you are seeing reruns and mixing up your colonels and their wives. Col. Blake (McLean Stevenson) had a wife whose name nobody around the current "M-A-S-H" company remembers, but it could have been Lorraine. Col. Potter (Harry Morgan) has a wife whose name is now and has always been Mildred. Nothing has changed for the Potters.

DEAR DICK: Could you give me a list of the cast of characters in the movie "The Loved One?" I think John Gielgud was in it. Was the mover ever shown locally? MIRIAM BENJAMIN, Tipp City, Ohio.

I probably was shown, but quickly. It was not very successful. It did have a top-notch cast, however — Robert Morse, Gielgud, Rod Steiger, Liberace, Anjanette Comer, Jonathan Winters, Dana Andrews, Milton Berle, James Coburn and many others.

Golf—A Good Way To Putt Around

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Staff Writer

Looking for some creative insanity to fill those extra hours of sun that will soon arrive with daylight saving time?

If that old football injury keeps you off the tennis court and the summer heat cuts into your jogging time, you might consider taking up one of the nation's favorite pastimes — golf.

Smacking the little white ball is one of the few leisure time sports that places little demand on size, speed or strength. Age and sex are no barriers, either. There are perhaps as many women's golf organizations nowadays as men's. And according to Mayfair Country Club head professional Gary Wintz, the younger you start, the better, although Wintz says it's the perfect sport for any age.

There are, however, a few things the beginning golfer should keep in mind, says Wintz.

"The biggest mistake a golfer can make is to just get out and start playing. A lot of people borrow a friend's clubs and go out and whack it around, they don't get any idea of the basic fundamentals," says the former Walt Disney World golf pro.

Wintz points out that the golf swing is a very complicated piece of physical mechanics and without an idea of the fundamentals, a beginning golfer can easily become discouraged with the game.

"Everyone's swing is different according to their physical make-up and age," says Wintz.

"Some people read books and magazine articles on the perfect golf swing, but without some practical experience in the game, it can be hard to relate what a book says while you are out on the course.

"In just a few lessons, a good instructor can show a golfer how to do things correctly. Usually the would-be duffer is amazed at the difference," says Wintz, former Daytona Beach Community College golf team captain.

Another common mistake a beginning golfer can make is in purchasing clubs.

"You can invest a lot of money in this sport between clubs, shoes and other accessories," acknowledges Wintz. "A good idea for the beginning golfer is to shop around for a decent set of used clubs before making a big investment. A beginner should play a while before sinking a lot of money into the sport."

Wintz suggests that prospective buyers stick with name-brand clubs when shopping around for a used set. Spalding, Wilson, Lynx and Arushnet are a few of the better known names in the game.

"The store-line clubs, like the sets you buy at most department stores are alright," says Wintz, "but they're not made for the individual golfer's size, weight and age. And after hitting a good pro-line club and a store-line club, the golfer can really tell the difference."

Wintz also says another common mistake young golfers make is using clubs that are too big and heavy for them.

"You see a lot of junior golfers developing bad habits early because they usually get hand-me-down clubs from their parents or adult relatives," says Wintz. "Playing with poor equipment is just as bad as going out on the course with no idea of how to hit the ball. People can get very discouraged with the game like that."

While golf was once considered a sport solely for the rich, more and more people are taking up the game. It doesn't cost a great deal of money to get started. Golfers can expect to pay between $14 to $20 for green fees and a cart on weekends at most local courses while weekday green fees and cart charges usually run $3-$4 less.

Head down, eye on the ball and good follow-through. Mayfair Country Club head professional Gary Wintz displays the proper form in getting out of a sand trap, a familiar spot for beginning golfers. Wintz strongly suggests that beginners take a few lessons to learn the basic fundamentals such as grip.

Many courses offer twilight rates after 3 p.m. that are often as much as half the regular fees.

Wintz strongly suggests that the beginning golfer stance and swing before heading out to the golf course. The former Daytona Beach Community College golf team captain also cautions beginners not to sink a fortune into equipment before they've played a few rounds to determine if the game is for them.

familiarize him or herself with golf course etiquette before taking to the links.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Spreading Cancer Meant Castration

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to have your opinion on the surgery that was done on my husband six years ago. The doctor's report on the insurance papers makes no sense to me but I know what the results were. The report reads, cystoscopy and needle biopsy with frozen section, transurethral resection (TUR) of the prostate and bilateral orchiectomy. Would this be cause for castration? That is what was done.

DEAR READER — The cystoscopy means that the bladder was examined directly through an instrument. A biopsy was taken of the prostate and the tissue removed and examined under a microscope. Evidently the doctors saw a cancer and because of its location or spread or its particular type decided to do an orchiectomy, which is a castration. The reasons the testicles are removed in some cases of prostate cancer is because of the cell type and spread of the cancer itself. This is somewhat complicated. By eliminating the source of most of the male hormones part of the stimulus for growth for the prostate cancer cells is removed. In some cases female hormones are then administered in further hope for slowing the growth of cancer.

In early cancers of the prostate that have tissue characteristics of slower growth less radical procedures can be used. Cancer of the prostate is about tied for second place with cancer of the bowel as the second leading cause of cancer deaths in American men. In 10 years about 210,000 men die from it.

The tragedy is that many of these deaths could be prevented if the cancer is found early enough. And the best way of finding them is by a finger examination of the rectum at least annually in men 40 years of age or older. I am sending you the Health Letter number 15-6, Prostate Gland Problems, which will outline the current status of diagnosis and treatment of prostate cancer plus other prostate conditions. Every adult male should read this. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read an article about drugs having side effects and some of the drugs I take were on that list. I am enclosing my list of medicines for blood pressure and arthritis and for pressure in my eyes. What side effects do these have if any?

DEAR READER — I would be doing you a disservice to give you such a long list. Every medicine has side effects. I think the public needs to develop a more balanced view of side effects so they will be less inclined to be a victim of such scare articles.

To understand this you need to realize that oxygen is a dangerous substance — but none of us can live without it. The side effects of oxygen would read as scary as the list for most medicines, including inducing respiratory problems, convulsions and death. I sometimes wonder if oxygen could pass approval by the Food and Drug Administration. And sunlight causes cancer.

The only sensible thing to do is to ask your doctor if there are any things you need to watch for. And then don't fail to return to him for evaluations he needs to do to see how you are doing.

Today's hand came up in a duplicate club championship. All pairs except one bid four spades going down one or more tricks. Our pair bid only three spades, but made four.

Had East opened three diamonds in first seat,

North-South would have been propelled into game. But East passed and West opened one heart in a bid chair. North made an off-shape takeout double and East now tried three diamonds, which was passed back to North. He doubled again and judged to pass South's three spade response.

The diamond ace won the first trick and West continued with the queen forcing dummy to trump with the spade seven. Declarer now led the spade jack to his king in order to try a heart finesse. The jack was covered by the king and won by dummy's ace. Next the heart queen was cashed and a small heart trumped in the closed hand. A club in the king was followed by a final heart ruff in declarer's hand. South led a club to dummy's ace, his eighth trick and exited with a club. The defense was helpless. Eventually dummy's ace-jack of spades provided two more tricks.

Careful timing had given South the overtrick. He had several finesses to choose from, but the heart finesse was the one he needed to take the club finesse as the play developed and the defenders were finally forced to lead spades for him.

Park Improvement Auction Saturday

SISTER (Sanford's Interested Barbs To Encourage Rejuvenation) Inc. undertook a project last fall to install a sprinkling system around Lake Carolla in Fort Mellon Park, and the adjacent Henry B. Sanford Museum-Library.

The first phase of the project has been completed, according to SISTER president, Vivian Bucy. Several organizations contributed to the $3,000 needed to complete this phase.

The Beautification Committee of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce has joined forces with SISTER on the completion of the second phase to extend the sprinkling system to the east of the lake.

To raise funds for the project, the two groups held a yard sale and auction on April 3. Due to a poor turnout, the auction will continue Saturday, from 9 to 11 a.m. at the chamber of commerce building, 400 E. First St.

Among the quality merchandise on the auction block are: a new sofa and chair, golf cart, and record cabinet. Inspection begins at 8:30 a.m.

With runners at first and second and no one out, Seminole's Andy Griffith drops a perfect bunt toward third base...

Lyman third baseman Lee Jenkins fields the ball, but has no play at first, so he turns his attention toward third where Greg Hill (left) is scampering to the bag, while Lyman pitcher Pat Burkhart covers...

A few pitches later, Burkhart uncorked a wild one and Hill safely slides home as Burkhart covers in vain and Seminole's Brian Rogers and umpire Dave Morton await the outcome.

Rain, Not Tornado Cancels Seminole-Lyman Diamond Play

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

Things are looking brighter for Bobby Lundquist's Fighting Seminoles. Just last Thursday rain and a tornado chased the 'Noles out of Sanford Memorial Stadium.

And, yesterday, Sanford built a 2-0 lead going into the bottom of the third inning against Lyman, only to see showers make the field unplayable after an hour's rain delay.

"We might never get these games in," said Lundquist during the wait.

Looking at the bright side, nevertheless, just plain rain is better than a tornado any day. The Seminoles will try again today against the Greyhounds at 3:30.

After the afternoon contest, the Tribe comes back against Mainland Friday night at 7. Then, in 11 a.m. clash has been scheduled for Saturday with Seabreeze.

If the Five Star games are not made up by Monday, they will be considered a loss. The District 4A-9 Tournament begins Tuesday at Sanford Memorial and on Sunday the seeds are supposed to be determined at Daytona Beach along with the all-conference teams.

Lyman, meanwhile, will try to play Lake Brantley under its new lights Saturday. If the lights are not ready, the Greyhounds will play at noon Saturday.

Today, the 'Hounds are scurrying to get the project done in time. Lyman thought an electrician was going to do the job free of charge, but that didn't materialize.

"We thought we had a freebie," said Athletic Director Ed Buckner. "Then we had to hire one to help him. If we don't have any unforeseen problems they should be ready Saturday."

If the lights aren't ready for tonight's clash, the first and last game for this prep season under the lights at Lyman will be Monday between the Sounds junior varsity and Lake Brantley, according to McCullough.

Lyman's JV raced to an 11-4 record before losing to Apopka and Boone. Some of its better performers are Jeff Livernola, Clint Baker and Mike Henley.

Prep Baseball

In the two and one-half innings that were played Thursday, right-hander Tracy Walker blanked the Greyhounds for three innings, while Seminole built a 2-0 lead.

The game featured a return to action by the Tribe's Brett Von Herbulis. The designated hitter rapped a single in the second inning to score Walker who had walked.

An earlier run scored on a wild pitch by Pat Burkhart, who was relieved after walking Brian Rogers to load the bases. "Von" greeted Willie Pashe with a single to left field to make it 2-0 before the rains ended the contest after Lyman batted in the third inning.

COUNTY NOTES — A strong race for the batting title in Seminole County is shaping up between Lake Howell's Doug Chiodini and Lyman's Todd Marriott.

Chiodini, a senior who ranks highly in just about every pitching and hitting category, finished the season Wednesday with a .377 batting average.

Marriott, a junior center fielder, is stroking the ball at a .367 clip. He finished the regular season with two games today and tonight.

Montreal Expo scout Harry Moore look advantage of Thursday's rain delay to give Marriott a couple of pointers on his game.

Moore, who surveys the young talent every year down here, heads back to Canada on Monday.

That sour look on Stadium operator Wes Rinker's face is there for a good reason. Rinker leases the park from the city. Last Thursday's tornado did a lot of damage to the stadium, including knocking down 107 feet of wall at a cost of $2,600.

The city, however, didn't have insurance. "The least they could do was tell me they didn't have it," said Rinker, who is considering legal action to recoup the damages.

Rice, O'Dell Bail Out Raiders Against Vikes

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

The Seminole Community College Raiders battled the elements, a tough St. Johns River Community College team and came back from a five-run deficit to defeat the Vikings, 7-4, Thursday afternoon at Seminole Community College.

SCC, 33-12 and 13-4, in Mid Florida Conference play, climbed on the back of relief pitcher Brian Rice and took advantage of poor defense by the Vikings in the late innings. Rice hurled four shutout innings and held St. Johns to only one hit while striking out five. Rice earned his sixth victory and has yet to drop a decision.

St. Johns got on the board first scoring two runs in the top of the third. Alan Howard led off the inning with a triple to the right-center field fence and scored on Jeff Theda's single. Theda advanced to second and scored on a two-out single by designated hitter Wall Roundtree.

The Vikings, 27-15 and 9-6, in conference play, sent nine batters to the plate and came away with three runs in the fifth knocking out SCC starter John Thompson. Howard reached on an error and came around to score on Alan Peacock's double. Peacock scored on a sacrifice fly by Theda. With one out Alan Maddox and Roundtree knocked back-to-back singles putting runners on the corners. Maddox scored on a sacrifice fly by Rich Surhoff putting St. Johns in the driver's seat 5-0.

But in the next three innings the Vikings were demoted from front seat to back seat as the Raiders exploded for seven runs.

SCC designated hitter Jody Ryan drew a walk to lead off the bottom of the sixth and later scored on an error. Bob Parker, who reached on the St. Johns error scored SCC's second run on a base hit by pinch-hitter Bryan Holzworth. The Raiders added a single run in the seventh on a solo home run by Jeff O'Dell. It was O'Dell's fifth homer of the season and the SCC centerfielder was the game's top hitter with three hits in four trips to the plate.

Two St. Johns errors and clutch hitting by O'Dell and Brian Philpott enabled the Raiders to tally four runs in the bottom of the eighth. With one out Parker was hit by a pitch and Jeff Blanton followed with a single. A sacrifice bunt by Joe Pattucci put runners on second and third with two outs. Jim Mee then hit a routine grounder to St. Johns shortstop Theda who threw wildly past first enabling Parker and Blanton to score. Mee wound up on second base.

O'Dell then came up and rapped a single to left knocking in Mee with the go-ahead run. An error on the throw enabled O'Dell to reach second and he came across on Philpott's single, making the score 7-5. Four of the Raiders seven runs were unearned.

Rice opened the top of the ninth by issuing a free pass to pinch-hitter Joe Barfield. But Rice settled down and retired the next three St. Johns hitters in order.

SCC travels to Valencia for a 2 p.m. game Saturday.

The intensity was high. The sun was hot and Lyman was invading to play a tough Lake Howell team who came into the contest seeking a Five Star Conference championship.

When it was all over, coach Jo Luciano's Silver Hawks had put together 10 hits, pushing them past the Greyhounds, 4-1.

Eileen Thiebaut put on a show at the plate as she doubled and scored, while adding a cushion RBI single in the bottom of the sixth.

Lyman broke the ice first when Kathy Richardson rapped a sacrifice fly for a 1-0 lead in the third inning.

The Hawks came right back as Julie Geesaman tripled and scored on Erin Duffy's fly back to right field in the third inning.

Howell added single runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings to wrap up its first Five Star Conference title.

Kasie McDonough rapped two hits for the Hawks to give her five hits in her last six at bats. Sophomore shortstop Mary Johnson turned in the defensive play of the game with a diving leap to prevent a run. She also tripled.

A Sanford Little National League triple-header is scheduled for Fort Mellon Park on Saturday as the teams make up three games that were washed out by last week's big storm.

Sanford D.A.V. plays the Railroaders at 3 p.m., while unbeaten Poppa Jay's battles once-beaten Rinker Materials at 5 p.m. First Federal battles Cardinal Industries in the 7 p.m. nightcap.

Chambers, Brooks Hit 76 Points

San Diego Clips Losing Skein

United Press International

It took two extraordinary individual efforts, but the San Diego Clippers have avoided tying an NBA record for futility.

Rookie Tom Chambers scored 30 points and Michael Brooks had 37, both career highs, and the Clippers avoided their 30th straight loss Thursday night by downing the Portland Trail Blazers 129-123.

A loss would have tied the NBA record for consecutive defeats set by Philadelphia in 1973.

The victory closed the season for the Clippers, 17-43, who will participate in a coin toss with Los Angeles — which acquired Cleveland's first draft choice — on May 30 for the right to the first pick in the college draft.

"It's nice to go out on a winning note," said Chambers, a first-round draft choice who has come on strong in the last month. "Everybody worked really hard tonight and hopefully the sport we had will carry on to next year. I've learned so much this year. I've grown physically, mentally and emotionally. This team has a good future."

Pro Basketball

Brooks hit a 7-footer plus a free throw to snap a 101-101 tie with 8:46 remaining and the Clippers were not in serious danger the rest of the way. Chambers connected for 22 points in the first half on 7-of-11 shooting.

Reserve guard Billy Ray Bates had 27 points to lead Portland, 41-39, which has two games remaining. Jim Paxson ad'ed 23 for the Trail Blazers.

"It's been a long year," said San Diego's Joe Bryant. "I'm not as disappointed as much as I have believed at what happened."

In other games, Indiana defeated Atlanta 108-102 and Detroit downed Cleveland 120-110.

Pacers 108, Hawks 102

At Indianapolis, Butch Carter scored 14 of his career-high 20 points in the second period to lead Indiana. Carter's shooting sparked the Pacers from a 27-31 deficit after one quarter to a 57-50 advantage at halftime. Johnny Davis and Louis Orr added 16 points each for Indiana. John Drew led Atlanta with 21 points and Rory Sparrow finished with 19.

Pistons 120, Cavaliers 110

At Pontiac, Mich., Kelly Tripucka and John

'It's nice to go out on a winning note. I've grown up physically, mentally and emotionally.'

Long each scored 22 points to help Detroit hand Cleveland its 17th straight loss. The victory was Detroit's 38th, one better than the team won in the past two seasons combined.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Sodbusters, Mean Green Go After Florida Cup

Seminole Soccer Club coach Tom Barnes hopes his cup runneth over Saturday at Coral Springs. The former Lyman tennis coach takes his Puralet Turf Sodbusters under 14 team to Coral Springs to battle the host team at 1:30 p.m. for the Florida Cup. A victory will earn the Sodbusters a trip to Tulsa, Ok. for a spot in the 13-team South Region III championship field. Puralet Turf advanced to Coral Springs by winning a tournament at Plantation. Allyson Barnes and Maybell Bryant are the goal producers for the Sodbusters, while Lisa Chatman does a tidy job around the net. Nature's Greenhouse Mean Green Machine, an under 10 group coached by George Doherty, also goes to Coral Springs for an 11 a.m. game. Slingy goalie Becky Carr spearheads the Mean Green defense, which produced two shutouts in Miami.

Harry's, Barn Win Easily

The Battle of the Barn continued to swell in the Sanford's Men's Softball League as The Barn and Harry's Bar posted impressive wins Thursday. The Barn crushed Seminole Hospital, 17-1, knocking out 19 hits in the process. Tom Szabo hurled a three-hitter and rapped four hits for The Barn, while Ernie Erwin and David Price had two each. Scott Millson had two for Hospital. Ed Bussard ripped a home run and Burnett Washington pitched a one-hitter as Harry's ripped AMP, 15-1. Ed Jackson and Chuck McMullan roped two hits for Harry's.

The victory keeps Harry's Bar undefeated at 6-0 for the season. The Barn is right behind with a 5-1 mark. Tony Shaden and Louie Lively belted home runs as Cardinal disposed of the Raiders, 17-6. Gary Scott had four hits for Cardinal, while Harry Chibberton and Mark McCaulley paced the Raiders with two apiece.

Trinity Hosts Lady Saints

Trinity Preparatory School will host the Fourth Annual Lady Saints Invitational Track Meet on Saturday. Field events will begin at 10:00 a.m. The following teams will participate: Bishop Moore (3A), Clermont (2A), Lake Mary (2A), Mount Dora High School (2A), Daytona Father Lopez (2A), Mount Dora Bible, Lakeland Christian, Luther High School, Lake Highland, Montverde and Trinity Prep — all 1A schools.

Tigers' Fleet Paws Cripple Blue Jays

United Press International
With his troops wounded and powerless, Sparky Anderson has found a way to win. He simply inserts two former National League veterans into his lineup and watches them steal a game.

The fleet feet of Larry Herndon and the timely hitting of Enoa Cabell enabled the crippled Detroit Tigers to register a 4-2 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays Thursday before an Opening Day crowd of 51,038 at Tiger Stadium.

Herndon scored from first base on a two-out single to right-center by second baseman Lou Whitaker to snap a 2-2 tie in the sixth inning. Cabell, acquired prior to the start of the season from San Francisco for Champ Summers, drove in a pair of runs with bloop singles over second base in the fifth and seventh innings. Relievers Kevin Saucier and Elias Sosa held Toronto scoreless on four hits over the last 5-2-3 innings.

"It was a steal," Herndon said. "I saw Alex (third base coach Grammas) waving me home when I got to second and I just kept running. That's all it was. It was a heads-up play by the third base coach for sure."

"Larry made a great play," Anderson said of the 28-year-old left fielder, who was acquired from the Giants for Dan Schatzeder. "The fans won't appreciate him but I will. He does things the average fan doesn't appreciate."

Twins 11, A's 9
At Minneapolis, rookie Kent Hrbek hit his fifth home run of the year in a three-run sixth inning and fellow rookie Randy Johnson added a three-run shot, his fourth hit of the day, in a six-run eighth to spark Minnesota.

White Sox 8, Red Sox 4
At Boston, Steve Kemp cracked a two-run homer and Jim Morrison broke a 0-for-13 slump with a two-run double to lead the White Sox to their fifth straight victory.

Indians 8, Brewers 1

JERRY KOOSMAN ...solid relief

At Cleveland, Bert Blyleven allowed two hits over seven innings and Bake McBride and Rick Manning each drove in two runs to spark the Indians. Blyleven retired the first 14 batters in order before Ben Oglivie doubled with one out in the fifth. Mike Caldwell, 0-1, suffered the loss.

Angels 3, Mariners 2
At Anaheim, Calif., Don Baylor and Tim Foli singled in a run apiece in the fourth inning and the Angels held on to complete a three-game sweep.

Mura Throttles Unimpressed Cubs

United Press International

The much-maligned St. Louis pitching staff is looking like world beaters these days, but Chicago Cubs Manager Lee Elia insists it's still strictly from Missouri.

In other words, "Show Me" come October. Steve Mura turned in the Cardinals' second straight complete-game victory Thursday by stopping the Cubs 6-1 on four hits. But Elia wasn't overly impressed with the righthander's performance, even though his team did not score until the ninth, when Keith Moreland hit his fourth homer.

"I thought after the fifth inning, he didn't pitch all that well," said Elia, pointing to the fact that the Cubs just happen to be in a horrendous batting slump. "If he (Cardinals' Manager Whitey Herzog) feels he has such a good pitching staff, well, he'll know about it in October."

National League

In his first outing last Saturday, Mura lasted only 1-3 innings and was charged with three runs in an 11-7 loss.

Mura struck out five and walked two in helping the Cardinals to their fifth straight triumph. Lonnie Smith and George Hendrick supported Mura with home runs in handing Doug Bird his second loss in three decisions.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh beat Montreal 4-3, Philadelphia downed New York 8-4 in 13 innings and San Diego blanked Los Angeles 2-0.

In American League games, Detroit beat Toronto 4-2, Chicago topped Boston 8-4, Minnesota crushed Oakland 11-5, Cleveland whipped Milwaukee 8-1 and California edged Seattle 3-2. Pirates 4, Expos 3

Goldsboro Captures North Cluster; Advances To Finals

Threat Of Cuban Missile Crisis

The threat was made casually enough. Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev reiterated his proposal for a freeze on missiles in Europe. In a March 16 talk in Moscow to the opening of the 17th congress of Soviet trade unions, he said that the deployment of new American missiles in Europe, as planned by NATO, would pose a threat to the Soviet Union.

Then he added: "This would compel us to take retaliatory steps that would put the other side, including the United States itself, its own territory, in an analogous position. This should not be forgotten."

The U.S. Embassy in Moscow played down the importance of the warning. Diplomats said the Soviet Union had made such "rather vague threats" before. Later, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger described the threat as a "very obscure, ambiguous sort of phrase."

Then the threat was reiterated, in the same vague terms, by two Soviet officials. Valentin Falin, first deputy chief of the Communist Party Central Committee's International Information Department, and Lt. Gen. Nikolai Chervov, chief of the Department of the General Staff of the Armed Forces of the U.S.S.R., appeared on Moscow television March 27.

"It (referring to the United States) is bringing the danger closer to itself," Falin said with reference to the NATO missile plan.

"In the U.S.A., they probably entertain illusions that they are invulnerable, separated by two oceans," Chervov said. "At present, however, distances must be evaluated differently, differently in the sense that, by moving a threat closer to others, the U.S.A. is in the same manner bringing it closer to itself."

Does this talk hint at a Soviet plan to station medium-range ballistic missiles in Cuba? Apparently, but the threat hasn't got that specific so far.

In 1962, the United States and the Soviet Union went eyeball to eyeball over this very issue and the Soviets blinked.

Nikita Khrushchev took Soviet ballistic missiles out of Cuba and agreed that the U.S.S.R. would not station offensive weapons systems in Cuba. In return, President Kennedy promised that the United States would not invade Cuba.

Some historians believe the fact that the Soviets had to back down in 1962 is what has motivated their buildup in naval forces and strategic weapons since that date. In any case, they are far stronger in comparison to the United States now than they were then. In a new Cuban missile crisis, it is unlikely that they would back down as quickly, if at all.

The veiled threat of a new Cuban missile crisis may have been made, as diplomats believe, merely to strengthen the anti-nuclear-war movement in Europe and the United States.

But the fact that the Kremlin would make it, even in such an obscure way, is enough to give us pause. It is a kind of nuclear brinkmanship that is extremely dangerous.

We must not allow this kind of nuclear blackmail to influence the course of U.S. foreign policy.

But if Soviet missiles were once again emplaced in Cuba, there is very little we could do about it. We have lost the kind of military superiority we had in 1962.

BERRY'S WORLD

"The president delivering messages on the radio - kinda brings back certain memories doesn't it?"

By JOE DeSANTIS

There's an old saying that goes something along the lines about "killing two birds with one stone."

If that's the case, the Longwood City Commission and Central Florida Zoological Society should join forces.

The zoo has in the recent past suffered from pressing financial problems. The Longwood commission is currently suffering from a rash of adolescent behavior.

At this week's commission meeting, before a packed house concerned about Longwood's long-term land-use map, one of the commissioners engaged in a heated exchange with a resident over rezoning of a section of Grant Street from single to multi-family dwellings.

Commissioner Russell Grant flatly yelled at a city resident to shut up and sit down; the statement coming after Grant had removed himself from his commission seat and assumed the role of a regular citizen at a public hearing microphone.

The city resident promptly screamed back, "I don't have to take that personal crap from you."

Just imagine where we'd be if a Richard Nixon spokesman had told special prosecutor Leon Jaworski to "shut up and sit down," during the Watergate hearings.

It's comforting to know that our elected officials have such great concern for the public they're supposed to be serving.

During the past three Longwood commission meetings, Mayor June Lormann's role has more resembled that of a ringmaster than a mayor.

Perhaps if Longwood moved its commission meetings under a big top tent and charged admission, with benefits targeted for the zoo, we'd really witness a public service.

Political Force In The Works

NEW YORK (NEA) — Lewis Lehrman is an Ivy League-educated, self-made multi-millionaire who is waging his first campaign for public office.

The 43-year-old Lehrman is attempting to win the Republican nomination for governor of New York. Although he entered the race with a name recognition factor of almost zero, he is beginning to attract national attention.

Most experts originally dismissed Lehrman out-of-hand as another rich dilettante willing to use his own fortune in an effort to enter politics at the top. (He was a founder of the Rite Aid drugstore chain and has a personal net worth of many millions of dollars.)

At that time State Comptroller Ned Regan was the odds-on favorite to capture the gubernatorial nomination.

But Lehrman reached deep into his personal treasury to finance a media campaign that not only raised his name recognition among New York voters to a respectable level but also scared Regan out of the race.

Lehrman now is favored to take the GOP nomination and to face the Democratic nominee — almost certainly New York City Mayor Ed Koch — in November.

Lehrman is not a complete novice in the public arena. The Yale honors graduate is an authority on economics who for years has pushed supply-side theory through a public policy institute that he has funded and that bears his name.

He almost became treasury secretary but lost out when Reagan advisers decided that he was too doctrinaire and that an established Wall Streeteer like Donald Regan would project a better image for the new administration.

Lehrman looks like an Ivy Leaguer — tall, thin and somewhat patrician in bearing. But to the surprise of most observers he seems to be developing a liking for the campaign trail.

He remains much better one-on-one than with crowds, where he still seems stiff and ill-at-ease. Nevertheless, his quick mind and articulateness indicate that he may become a very effective campaigner.

This has the Democrats worried. Koch's political brain trust fears that Lehrman's millions may make him a formidable opponent. He could run an especially strong race if Lt. Gov. Mario Cuomo gets the nod of the state's Liberal Party and appears along with Koch and Lehrman on the November ballot.

It's not only the Democrats who are uneasy about Lehrman.

His candidacy also worries some regular Republicans who do not consider him a member of the club. They vividly remember when another wealthy outsider, Nelson Rockefeller, ran successfully for governor and took control of the state party. The regulars only recently won back the party from the "Rockefeller elements."

Conservatives both inside and outside the state are even more worried about the potential influence of Lehrman on the state party.

They are predicting that President Reagan will not run for a second term and that Vice President George Bush and Rep. Jack Kemp will vie for the 1984 GOP presidential nomination. Bush would be the candidate of Republican moderates while Kemp would be the candidate of the conservatives.

Manual Tells How To Spot A Spy

WASHINGTON — If you should ever be invited to an embassy party overseas, look for a clean-cut Jack Armstrong type furtively peering behind the potted palms and philodendrons. That will be an American military attaché, checking for spies.

Each year the Defense Intelligence Agency's school in northern Virginia gives 100 future military attachés a rigorous training course in intelligence techniques. A training manual issued to the recruits warns them to be on guard against the agents of darkness who lurk in diplomatic circles.

"You soon will be meeting officers and agents of the KGB and GRU," the manual starts off, referring to the dread Soviet secret police agencies. "Depending on your area of assignment, you may also meet people from the HVA, STB, CSS, SB, RO, AVH, HSR and the DGI" — the spy agencies of Cuba, Czechoslovakia and other Soviet satellites.

Dizzied by this alphabetical barrage, the future attaché is then warned that anyone may turn out to be an agent of the Kremlin. "You will chat with these people, shake

Insurance Industry: No Risk

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It's an industry that consumes 11.7 percent of the nation's entire disposable income every year, yet it produces nothing of value and contributes nothing to the country's wealth.

It's the insurance business, which enjoys a special exemption from federal antitrust laws, freedom from virtually all public oversight and assets more than twice as large as the wealthy petroleum industry.

Insurance companies do provide a service to society. But they are, in effect, glorified clerks and accountants who merely collect and redistribute funds provided by other people — customers willing to enter a shared-risk arrangement by pooling their money.

The inordinately high fees charged for that paper-shuffling service have made the industry extraordinarily wealthy. The National Insurance Consumer Organization, a relatively new public-interest group based in nearby Alexandria, Va., provides these representative figures:

— Americans paid more than $240 billion in life, health, property and casualty insurance premiums in 1981, an amount not far below the $284 billion those same people paid that year in federal personal income taxes.

— For every dollar paid by customers in insurance premiums, only 50 to 60 cents is returned to them in the form of payments on claims they file.

— Approximately $100 billion of the customers' money is held by property and casualty insurance companies in reserve accounts. The firms invest that money and earn substantial income on it — but they seldom share the proceeds with the clients who supplied the capital.

All other major industries in this country — including banking, automobiles, petroleum, steel and chemicals — are subjected to some form of oversight by the executive and legislative branches of the federal government.

Only the insurance industry is exempt — and it has enough political "clout" to guarantee that there will be no serious, sustained public examination of how it conducts its business.

In 1944, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the industry was subject to the federal antitrust statutes applicable to almost all other forms of business enterprise.

Within a year, however, the industry had successfully lobbied Congress to nullify that judicial decision through passage of a law containing a special antitrust exemption.

In 1978, the staff of the Federal Trade Commission produced a report highly critical of life insurance pricing practices. Within a year, the industry had secured a federal law prohibiting the FTC from conducting any further investigations without the explicit approval of Congress.

The 1945 law, the McCarran-Ferguson Act, contains a provision that specifically allows price-fixing in the retail sale of insurance by authorizing underwriters to establish the amount all agents (even independent) can charge for the services they provide to the public.

"Thus, able, aggressive agents who can market insurance more efficiently are prevented . . . from passing any of those savings on to their clients," says NICO President J. Robert Hunter, a former Federal Insurance administrator.

In theory, insurance company practices are subject to state laws and regulations. In practice, too many state insurance commissioners are industry pawns. A 1979 General Accounting Office report found "serious shortcomings" in the states' regulations of the industry.

"No state has meaningful disclosure systems where (customers can) find out which company is cheapest, which company offers the best service, which policy gives the most coverage or which company offers the best value," says Hunter.

"When it comes to life insurance, it's even worse," he adds. "You cannot get rate-of-return information on the savings portion of your whole life insurance policy. Who would deposit money in a bank that refused to say what interest rate is paid on savings accounts?"

mision to Seminole County's student body, the Seminole County Health Department has scheduled special clinics for student immunizations.

One clinic will be held in Longwood from 8 a.m. — 11 a.m. while the other clinic will be conducted at 800 French Avenue, Sanford, on April 19 from 4 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

The new school immunization law makes it mandatory for all school children to have proof of immunization. According to the county Health Department, many students in Seminole County do not have necessary documentation. The health department is concerned about each student completing the necessary immunizations prior to the end of this school year.

For more information on the immunization clinics, contact Mrs. Bernice Duncan at the county Health Department at 323-3734.

Insect War Continues

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Health Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Farmers someday may use orange, lemon and grapefruit seeds against insects.

Dr. Isao Kubo of the University of California at Berkeley told the American Chemical Society that waste products from citrus fruits show promise against two insect pests down on the farm.

He called the potential bug killers limonoids and said they are found in seeds, juice and rinds.

Kubo told fellow scientists at a recent national ACS meeting that citrus limonoids inhibited growth of larvae of the cotton bollworm and the fall armyworm.

He figures a pesticide that stunts an insect's growth would cut down damage. Smaller insects can't do as much crop harm as large ones. They eat less.

But there's more to it, said the report on the investigations at Berkeley.

The resultant pigmy bugs also probably would be less resistant to natural predators, parasites and adverse physical conditions, the scientist said.

Limonoids will be put to further tests this year in field experiments on corn or cotton — tests Kubo says are warranted due to the fact that the natural substances apparently are bad for bugs but harmless to humans.

Kubo estimates 30 tons of the substance could be extracted every year from grapefruit seeds alone.

In the tests, Kubo said larvae of bollworm and armyworm would not feed on cotton leaves tainted with limonoids when untreated leaves were available.

When there was no choice, they munched on leaves dosed with limonoids. That diet curbed growth. Result? Dwarf versions of fullgrown insects.

In tests to date, limonoid from seeds of the neem tree killed the bollworm and armyworm larvae — a lethal step beyond just stunting growth. But Kubo said the chemical structure of that limonoid is too complicated for large-scale production.

The citrus limonoids are complicated, too, but they are available in a steady way from wastes of grapefruit, oranges and lemons.

More intelligence about the war on insects came in two other reports presented at the ACS conference in Las Vegas, Nev.

One told how some plants wage sophisticated war against bugs — literally burning them. The other related how trees trick bugs by changing composition of leaves to make them non-appetizing.

Dr. Thor Arnason, University of Ottawa, and Dr. G. H. Neil Towers, University of British Columbia, Vancouver, told how plant chemicals absorb sunlight and use it to fry insects to death.

Arnason said members of the sunflower clan — daisies, black-eyed Susans, marigolds — are probably the biggest users of this brand of warfare.

Dr. Jack C. Schultz, of Dartmouth College, said the trees changing chemical composition of leaves to get rid of insects use a different defense mechanism.

He said research at the Hubbard Brook Experimental Forest in New Hampshire revealed that the changes occur in response to chewing insects.

prepared to get nothing but name, rank and serial number in response.

SBA BLUES: Employees at the Small Business Administration are up in arms over the possibility that John Patrick, an acting associate administrator, will be given the job permanently.

In his 12 years at the agency, Patrick has been no stranger to controversy. He has the political backing of Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. That fact alone is enough to arouse misgivings among minority employees and businessmen who deal with the SBA.

Complaints of favoritism and racial discrimination led to an investigation of Patrick's administrative performance in 1980. Among other things, the investigation by the agency's Equal Employment Opportunity office looked into complaints that white women got all the promotions and minority women got none.

In an initial report on their findings, the EEO team stated: "The majority of the employees interviewed felt that promotions were not distributed on an equitable basis. Some felt that minorities were discriminated against when it comes to promotions. Others felt that if you were not a member of the 'inner circle,' regardless of race, you were not promoted."

In the end, the investigators concluded that Patrick's "questionable or poor management practices" could not be attributed to racial discrimination. But the team did note that "morale is extremely low" in Patrick's division, saying:

"The overwhelming majority of employees complained of pre-selection, favoritism, positions being created for 'certain people,' harassment by top management, especially Mr. Patrick, and lack of advancement . . . It is unusual for a significant number of employees to complain about the same things and/or person(s)."

For his part, Patrick emphasized that the EEO investigation had cleared him of the racial discrimination charge. Anyway, he told his associate Lucette Lagrado, he doesn't know whether he will be named to keep his current job, though he has expressed interest in it.

Storm Blows In Good Neighborliness

Much of Geneva is still cleaning up and making repairs after last week's storm.

The elementary school windows on the north side of the original school building remain covered with roofing felt awaiting glass replacement. Many individuals have been told they'll have a three week wait to get their windows replaced.

Mobile homes received more serious damage in our area than most other residences. In neighboring Oviedo, the third base dugout of the major league field collapsed.

There is always a bright side to every situation. The town where I grew up, Xenia, Ohio, was devastated by a tornado several years ago, also the week before Easter. Over 30 people were killed and one half of the town literally destroyed by the Ohio storm which measured wind speeds of 200 MPH.

Those of us in Seminole County who weathered the storm with only "property damage" can be thankful the funeral homes here aren't over crowded.

When my husband and I surveyed 13 broken windows and screens, three torn metal awnings, chipped paint and dented wooden siding and a collapsed carport at our home, we had contentment in knowing it could all be fixed.

However, when we walked through what was my 2-month-old garden, a tear came to my eye as I picked up a crushed cucumber plant.

A warm and friendly atmosphere prevails in Geneva as neighbor helps neighbor rake yards, clean up broken glass, and pound a nail or two. We are truly thankful.

Rose Marie Cox (Mrs. E. Don) of Casselberry was the guest speaker Thursday evening at the Women's Ministries meeting at the Chulokta First Assembly of God Church. Mrs. Cox's husband, Rev. E. Don Cox is the teaching elder of the Christian Assembly in Longwood.

Mrs. Cox spoke on "Practical Christian Living" and used Proverbs 31 for her text.

Mrs. Lily Simpkins, president of the WM's, announced that the ladies of the church will display and sell their handmade craft items at the Oviedo Women's Club annual "Great Day in The Country" April 24 at St. Luke's in Slavia. The proceeds from the crafts will be used to purchase carpeting for the new sanctuary.

Wayne Johnson expects a record crowd for this month's community gospel singing to be held Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the Oviedo High School commons building.

Faith Ambassadors, The Believers, Assurance from Trinity Baptist Church, The Anchors Quartet, and a mixed quartet from the Aloma Baptist Church will be the featured groups.

For one and one half years, Harry Meeks, owner of several Central Florida Burger Chef restaurants, has furnished refreshments for the Oviedo gospel sing intermissions. According to Mr. Johnson, promoter of the sings, Mr. Meeks' faithfulness in providing the food and the money he donates from the sale of same has helped greatly to finance the monthly events.

Mr. Johnson also said the Blackwood Brothers would be returning for another engagement this summer.

The gospel sings are free to the public with a love offering taken each month.

Another free concert of classical, semi-classical and opera music is your cup of tea, will be available this weekend. William and Adelle Pirigyl will be performing at the Altamonte Spring Eastmonte Civic Center at 4:00 p.m. Sunday.

The Pirigyl's travel throughout Florida presenting local talent as well as getting in on the act themselves. He is a polished tenor singer—an accomplished pianist, both with outstanding musical backgrounds having played such noteworthy places as the Metropolitan.

Miss Sanford Pageant

Pretty Girls, Entertainment Set Saturday

BY DORIS DIETRICH
OURSELVES Editor

A pretty girl competing in the Miss Sanford Scholarship Pageant is more than "like a melody." The young women are the cream of the crop in beauty, talent, poise and intelligence.

And one will be the winner of a scholarship to pursue the educational field of her choice in addition to prizes donated by Sanford businesses.

Sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club of Sanford, the Miss Sanford Scholarship Pageant will be held Saturday, at 8 p.m., in the Lake Mary High School auditorium. Admission is $5, adults, and $2.50, children under 12. Cathy Gillaspie of Longwood, Miss Colorado 1971 and the Miss America talent winner that year will coordinate the talent in the colorful pageant which is a preliminary to the Miss Florida and Miss America Pageants.

Mark Hess, a NASSA representative in public relations, will serve as master of ceremonies and sing three songs. He has previously been associated with the Miss Florida Pageant productions and in various musicals in the surrounding area.

Lynn Peghini, Miss Orlando 1982, is the pageant pianist and Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole under the direction of Valerie Weld and Miriam Wright will introduce the three pageant segments with dancers from "Times and Tempos."

Moustache Needed For Macho Image

DEAR ABBY: This may sound like a very insignificant problem compared to some of the ones you get, but it's very important to me.

I'm a 23-year-old man who can't seem to grow a respectable-looking moustache. I've tried several times, but I always get disgusted and shave it off because it grows in so sparse it looks ridiculous.

I would even be willing to buy a fake one. Is there some movie studio make-up department that has them for sale? It would have to be a good one that would stay in place. Can you help me? Money is no object.

MACHO MAN WANTS MOUSTACHE:
DEAR MACHO: Ready-made moustaches can be purchased at most "hair goods" stores. And if money is no object, you can have a custom job designed especially for you. Look in the Yellow Pages under "Hair."

It's right under your nose.
DEAR ABBY: Please say something to well-meaning friends and relatives who insist on crowding into the kitchen to help serve a meal even after you have said no, thank you, to their offers.

They block the passageways, the stove, the refrigerator and cabinets, and they think they're helping you. I've worked many hours preparing a good meal, but before I get it served, I'm ready to go to bed!

When a hostess refuses my offer to help, I retreat, return to the other guests and keep the conversation going. How I wish everyone would treat me that way. sign me ...

NO HELP WANTED

DEAR NO HELP: There's a wonderful poem by Susan Sawyer that you might want to hang in your kitchen. It's been in my column, but apparently it's time for a return.

PLEASE STAY AWAY FROM MY KITCHEN

Please stay away from my kitchen

From my dishwashing, cooking and such;

You were kind to have offered to pitch in

But thanks, no, thank you so much!

Please don't think me ungracious

When I ask that you leave

Dear Abby

me alone;

For my kitchen's not any too spacious
And my routine is strictly my own.

Tell you what: You stay out of my kitchen
With its soddin, hot, lackluster turns—
When you're here, stay out of my kitchen
And I promise to stay out of yours!

ALBERT C. MALMSTEN, TRENTON, MICH.

DEAR ABBY: How can a girl get a guy to propose (marriage) to her? I have done just about as much hinting as I can without coming right out and asking him to marry me. I know there's not anybody else in his life, so please tell me what's my next move? And by the way, when is leap year?

TIRED OF WAITING

DEAR TIRED: Leap year is in 1984, but don't wait that long. Ask him! You've nothing to lose. If he says no, you could save yourself a lot of time.

DEAR ABBY: Is it proper to eat the skin of a baked potato in public?

BILL G.

DEAR BILL: Certainly. And in private, too.

Everybody needs friends.

Gardening

Mildew Common To Squash

Some of the more common questions recently asked are as follows:

Q. My squash vines have yellow spots on the leaves. Later the entire leaf turns brown and shrivels. What could the problem be?

A. You have a common disease problem called downy mildew. This disease also occurs quite commonly on cucumbers. Control can be accomplished by spraying weekly with a fungicide such as dithane M-45 or manzate 200.

Q. We are having a problem with our tomato plants. The leaves get spots on them about 1/2 inch in diameter and later develop yellow areas around them. Also, the immature fruit seems to be starting to rot. Is this a disease problem?

A. Yes. What you have described sounds like early blight which can seriously limit tomato production in our area. Weekly sprays of dithane M-45 or Manzate 200 should provide control. Q. We have hundreds of reddish-black bugs in our grass and in our shrubbery. The legs and heads are black and the body is red. Could you please tell me the name of these and if they are harmful?

Tom Davis
Urban Horticulturist
322-3228

A. The insects you have described are called cotton stainers. I have never known them to do a lot of damage, but if they become a nuisance or you see them gathering on a particular plant, then sprays of malathion or diazinon should control them.

Q. How often should we water our St. Augustine lawn?

A. Daily waterings are only needed if you have just put a new lawn in, and should be reduced once the grass is established (about two-three weeks). Any more is not needed and only encourages disease problems. It is far better to water less often but good and deep than frequent, light sprinklings.

Q. My citrus trees are getting fairly large yellow spots on the leaves. Is this a disease or a nutritional problem?

A. Neither. What you have is more likely a mite problem. Mites on citrus leaves are very prevalent this time of the year and can be controlled with kelthane. Repeat this spray one week later.

Consumers frequently receive advertisements through the mail or by telephone; often from a little known company selling something or other. More times than not, they probably assume that the product being sold is useless, and the method less than reputable. Well, there is a new company in the area—a direct selling company which markets its products directly to consumers via home demonstrations, and any consumer who doesn't give this company's representatives a fair hearing will be losing out.

The company, Vorwerk USA, Inc., is the offspring of Vorwerk International, which was established a century ago in Germany as a manufacturer of carpeting and later, a full range of consumer products. In the United States only a little over a year, Vorwerk USA has enjoyed tremendous success because of the excellence of its product: a lightweight and extremely versatile home cleaning system consisting of a vacuum cleaner and a unique dry cleaning process. The quality of the product is typical of German engineering and design, especially where the manufacture of motors is concerned.

The Vorwerk sales "Advisor" is well-trained, courteous and competent to demonstrate the product and answer any questions the consumer might have. My wife and I thoroughly enjoyed the demonstration of the Vorwerk cleaning system and decided to invest in one. With the image of the direct salesperson being so negative in this country, I feel it would be valuable for consumers to consider a company such as Vorwerk USA, Inc., as an intelligent alternative to retail, "middle-man" buying; an alternative sorely needed in an inflationary economy.

NATION IN BRIEF

Reagan Enters The Fray Over 1983 Budget Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan is more involved in the stalemated negotiations between congressional leaders and his aides over the 1983 budget than he is letting on, Senate GOP leaders say. Republican leader Howard Baker confessed Thursday to being "impatient" with Reagan, and Senate Finance Committee Chairman Robert Dole said he has been "discouraged."

NSC Meets On Falklands

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan summoned the National Security Council into session today following a telephone talk with the president of Argentina about the simmering Falkland Islands crisis.

President Leopoldo Galtieri called Reagan about 9 p.m. Thursday and both restated their desire for a peaceful resolution of Argentina's dispute with Great Britain, said deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes.

Down's Tot Ran Out Of Time

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — A starving, week-old Down's Syndrome baby, denied food on his parents' orders, died hours before lawyers were to ask a Supreme Court justice for an emergency order that might have kept him alive.

The unidentified infant died at 10:03 p.m. EST Thursday, a spokesman for Bloomington Hospital said. Court-appointed lawyers for the baby had planned to appear before Supreme Court Justice John Paul Stevens today to ask for an emergency order directing the hospital to try to save the infant's life.

Guru Wins Antelope

ANTELOPE, Ore. (UPI) — Red-garbed, ball-tossing followers of an Indian guru overwhelmed the locals at the polls, thwarting an attempt by townspeople to save the central Oregon hamlet by voting it out of existence.

In cool, crisp weather Thursday, 97 voters flocked to a two-room schoolhouse with battle lines drawn sharply: the followers of guru Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh vs. longtime residents of Antelope.

When the votes were counted, it was 55-42 against incorporating the town, a victory for the 50-year-old guru and his 280 followers. Locals had planned to incorporate to make it harder for the guru to set up businesses in town.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Heavy thunderstorms rumbled across the country's midsection from Minnesota to Arkansas today, spawning tornadoes in Nebraska and North Dakota and killing a Missouri woman with a bolt of lightning. The National Weather Service reported three tornadoes in Nebraska — at Syracuse, Nebraska City and Tecumseh. Flash floods churning as much as 3 feet of water washed out water service in a small Nebraska town pounded by heavy rains and forced at least 100 people to flee their homes. Hail that accompanied the thunderstorms pounded portions of Nebraska, Missouri, Georgia, Iowa, Texas and North Dakota. Flash flood watches were posted in Iowa, where Des Moines was soaked with nearly 2 inches of rain during a brief, but heavy, downpour. A 34-year-old Altamonte Springs firefighter was listed in stable condition at the Winter Park Memorial-Hospital today after he suffered a heart attack in the hospital emergency room Monday night.

"Sal Salita drove himself to the hospital from his home at about 9:30 p.m., complaining of chest pains," according to Altamonte Springs Fire Chief Thomas Siegfried. "They checked him out and were going to admit him for observation. But when they turned away and then turned back to him, he was straight-lined," Siegfried said, meaning there was no indication of a pulse on the heart monitor.

"It was really touch and go but the emergency room people worked on him and brought him back," Siegfried said.

Salita, a nine-year city employee, is currently in the hospital's cardiac care unit and is expected to be recuperating for about four to six months.

Immunization Clinic Scheduled For Monday

Seminole County public school students needing to complete their school immunization records will have the opportunity to do so when the county Health Department holds an immunization clinic Monday.

The clinic will be held at 900 French Ave., Sanford, from 4 to 7:30 p.m.

According to Mrs. Bernice Duncan of the Health Department, there will be no charge for immunizations and any student currently enrolled in the county public school system is eligible.

"Those are the routine groups," said Mrs. Duncan. "Some of the older high school students may need a booster shot or two."

She added, "I hope this clinic is successful. At the present time we don't have any more clinics planned over the summer, so the public should take advantage of this one."

Attorney General's Fears On Redistricting Calmed

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Lawyers for the House and Senate have persuaded Attorney General Jim Smith that the constitutional flaw he thought he had found in the legislative reapportionment plan doesn't exist.

Smith asked the Florida Supreme Court on Thursday to cancel a Monday hearing on whether the proposal is the final agreement required by the state Constitution at this point in the apportionment process and proceed with its review of the plan. Supreme Court Chief Justice Alan Sundberg is expected to cancel the hearing.

Budget Worries Graham

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham is worried that not enough money in the $10.3 billion new state budget was set aside for an emergency reserve and new prison beds.

Graham could veto some big-money appropriations to increase the level of the working-capital reserve fund and to free additional money for prison space that could be reappropriated by the Legislature during the special session planned for early June.

ORLANDO — A fire touched off by a spark from a metal grinder from an old press machine touched off a blaze in an unused pressroom, causing an estimated $1 million in damage to the Sentinel Star's downtown building Thursday.

Fire officials reported two firemen were injured during the blaze that took 90 minutes to control. The fire started when a spark from a metal grinder mixed with ink dust and ignited, spreading through the air-conditioning duct system.

The newspaper's printing functions were not affected by the fire.

Argentine Warships Sail As Haig Tries More Talks

United Press International
Argentine warships have put to sea in a possible challenge to the British blockade of the occupied Falkland Islands, creating deeper problems for U.S. Secretary of State Alexander Haig's peace talks today in Buenos Aires.

"It is clear that the task will not be easy," Haig said when he arrived Thursday night for another round of his peace-shuttle. "The stakes are so high that they demand the ultimate effort of all participants in these discussions."

Brezhnev Suffers Stroke?

MOSCOW (UPI) — President Leonid Brezhnev's personal doctor reportedly has told foreigners the aging Soviet leader may have suffered a stroke, the first such report attributed to an intimate of the Communist Party chief.

Flagship Has Cash For Storm Loans

Flagship Bank President Dennis H. Courson, announced today that Flagship has funds to lend to local residents and merchants for storm damage repair.

For qualified borrowers, funds can be made available in a matter of days since loan decisions are made locally.

Courson said that Flagship is SBA Certified, the only lender in Seminole County holding this distinction, which means that any Small Business Administration loan request can be granted in a minimum of three days by local bank management to qualified applicants.

Need Storm Repairs?

Check Chamber BBB

The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce has issued a reminder that it has a better business bureau available to anyone wanting to check on a business seeking to make repairs to storm-damaged buildings.

The reminder was issued today by chamber President Jack Horner, who said several out-of-town businessmen are in the area soliciting work in the wake of last week's severe storms.

"Some of them may be legitimate, some may not. The problem is, the chamber has no way of knowing unless each is checked out. So, if anyone wants to fix up that roof, have broken windows replaced, or anything else repaired, it would be advisable if they check with the chamber of commerce before authorizing the work," Horner cautioned.

OKs Hookup To Larger Water Main

Council Fixes Resident's Drip

By DONNA ESTES

At times, the water pressure in Mark Brewer's Lake Mary home is so low that water barely trickles from the faucets, a plight that has prompted the City Council to approve his house for hookup to a six-inch water main.

In addition, the council Thursday night said Brewer, of 222 W. Washington Ave., will have to pay only about $50 for the connection rather than the usual $310.

Brewer, whose home is at the end of a 1 1/4-inch water line, said at times "the water doesn't even drip out of the faucets" at his home. But, he said paying $300 for connection to a larger main is "out of the question."

Councilman Richard Fess urged his colleagues to approve Brewer's request, saying it is a hardship case. Brewer said he was complaining at this time because he and his wife are expecting a new baby and feel adequate water pressure is an absolute necessity.

Councilman Ray Fox noted the extension approval would not set a precedent.

In other business Thursday night, the council voted 3-1, with Councilman Ken King opposing, to adopt an ordinance rezoning the property adjacent to Lake Mary Elementary School from agriculture to residential. The property has 132 feet of frontage on Lake Mary Boulevard.

Raymond Kaleel of Windermere, an adjacent property owner, protested the rezoning, saying owners of neighboring properties are concerned that certain retail establishments would move into the tract and devalue their lands. Kaleel said he opposed barber shops, dime stores or pizza parlors on the site. King agreed, saying the property should be limited to professional offices as recommended by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

The council also: — Heard a report from City Manager Phil Kulbes that the Natural Resources Group of Millford, N.H. and Boston will begin its promotion of water-saving gadgets the week of May 13. The kits will be available for sale beginning May 24.

The non-profit corporation promotes the use of and sells at cost kits including a custom designed shower head, water faucet head and water closet baffles to conserve water.

— Heard Mayor Walter Sorenson proclaim the week of April 16-23 Private Property Week and April 22 Girl Scout Leader Day.

charter permitting repeal of ordinances by the people unconstitutional. Massey said he urged the council to appeal the decision. He noted last night that an appeal to the appellate court on a similar Winter Springs charter provision resulted in a reversal.

Massey said Fess and King told him he had not given as complete reports to the council as it would have liked and that the council didn't like his ruling on the Evansdale paving project.

Massey, after research, determined that numerous residents had an ownership interest in the road and that it would be nearly impossible to get all their signatures of approval to allow the city to pave.

Massey called the three councilmen's actions "unconscionable," adding that it no longer makes any difference to him but should make a difference to other city employees.

Petree today said Massey is an excellent lawyer and that he is looking forward to working with him in the transition. He said he appreciated Massey's assistance to help him become familiar with the city's problems.

Chicken Restaurant Spreading Its Wings

Jerry and Marguerite Sullivan, co-owners of Famous Recipe Fried Chicken, 1809 S. French Ave., Sanford, expect to begin construction of an expanded franchise adjacent to the restaurant's current location early next week.

Sullivan says the expansion will cost in the "hundreds of thousands of dollars" and is expected to be completed within 90 days.

According to Sullivan, Famous Recipe Fried Chicken franchises became part of Shoney's Big Boy Restaurant chain last year and he expects a considerable trend towards expansion in the future.

"Business has been good in the fried chicken industry and it is expected to show considerable gains despite the economy," said Sullivan.

The new Famous Recipe Fried Chicken expansion in Sanford will result in an approximately 21,000-square foot building adjacent to the present location and will employ 18-20 persons.

Sullivan said most of those will be full-time jobs with about a third of them part-time positions.

"The foundation will probably be laid within the next 10 days," Sullivan said.

"The public wouldn't believe the kind of money that's involved in this type of expansion," he said.

"Famous Recipe has experienced 10 years of good customer relations in Sanford," Sullivan said. "And we hope to continue improved service to the local community."

Sullivan said the new expansion will include increased interior dining space, a drive-thru order window and more parking space.

The Sullivan's currently own and operate Famous Recipe Fried Chicken franchises in Sanford, Casselberry, Waycross, Ga., and Baxley, Ga.

"We're hoping to expand to DeLand at the end of the year," Sullivan said.
