

John Maragon Gets 8 Months Sentence

WASHINGTON, May 2. — (AP) — John Maragon, a one-time lawyer around the White House, was sentenced today to serve eight months in the Federal House of Correction for living criminally to Senate investigators.

Maragon was convicted last Wednesday on two charges of harboring himself about his bank accounts and former job.

Federal Judge Jennings Bailey gave him the minimum sentence of eight months to two years on each count. The judge said he could serve the two sentences at the same time.

The maximum penalty Maragon could have received would have been 40 months on each count — but the maximum is seldom imposed.

Maragon's lawyer, Irvin Goldstein, asked for Maragon's release on bail and the case would be appealed. He said he believes some questions of law are involved and he proposes to appeal in good faith and not for purposes of delay.

county, based on the volume of heavy morning balloting.

Early voting rushes were reported in many other parts of the state.

At Tampa a check of 48 of the precincts indicated nearly 12 percent of the county's 72,465 registered voters had cast their ballots by 9 A. M.

Approximately one-third of Palm Beach county's 20,313 registered Democrats had voted by noon.

Veteran election workers in Tallahassee predicted a record vote on the basis of early balloting. Voters were waiting in line in some of Leon county's 12 precincts.

At Jacksonville, voting was heavy in Duval county's industrial sectors and about the same during the 1948 presidential election in downtown sections.

Orlando and Orange county residents also were balloting at a record rate. Election workers said if it kept up better than 80 percent of the registered voters would go to the polls before they closed.

The Democratic primary in Alabama today — a test of state-righters' 1950 strength — combined with Florida's as Deep South attention centers, but overshadowed primaries in Ohio and Indiana. In both Florida and Alabama the primary winners were certain of election in November.

In the four states of early balloting, being held by three Senate and House and two governors' seats (Alabama and Ohio).

In Florida, around 600,000 registered Democrats were expected to go to the polls. The Alabama turnout was estimated at 400,000.

The possibility of a Pepper defeat was taken into account in advance by both Republicans and Democrats. The former said that a defeat would indicate a road against the Truman Administration.

Pepper's campaign stressed his backing for more federal financial aid for the states, increased old age benefits and a national health program. Smith urged less in-the-red financing and more in-the-green.

He called the Taft-Hartley Labor Act basically good and opposed what he called "socialized medicine."

In Alabama, 158 persons are running for 72 places on the State Democratic Committee, which will control the Alabama party machinery for the next four years.

Of these, 92 say they favor returning to the National Democratic Party organization, which will stick with the States Rights group where Alabama's presidential vote went in 1948, one entry is claimed by both sides and six by neither.

Senator Lister Hill, seeking Democratic renomination, has been in the forefront of the fight to return the Alabama organization to the national party.

Involved may be Alabama's 26 Democratic convention votes in 1952. In 1948, the state cast its convention vote for Senator Russell (D-Ga.) in protest of the President's Civil Rights stand. Its 11 electoral votes went to the States Rights ticket.

Hill is opposed in the primary by Lawrence McNell, former Navy Capt. John Crommelin, who figured in the battle over unification, has announced he will contest the winner in November, running as an independent.

In the north, interest centers on Ohio, where Democrats are giving a November opponent for Robert Taft from a seven-man field. Taft has no opposition in the Republican primary.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, Toledo Mayor Michael V. DiMatteo generally are regarded as leading candidates. Whoever wins is likely to inherit strong general election support from organized labor units gunning for the office of his membership of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Ohio's 26 Congress members have no primary opposition, but Democrats said three are in.

Indiana, a primary battle between a woman first-term member of Congress, Rep. Cecil C. Coker in November, was expected to be an interesting dull race to pick nominees for 11 seats.

At least a member of the Democratic caucus in each of the 11 states is expected to be elected.

Lattimore Raps

for Fordham University.

Budenz swore that while he was a Communist high party leader he was not a Communist.

Earl Browder and Frederick Vanderbilt Field — two men who were on the committee and denied it.

Today was Lattimore's own chance to have his say in reply.

Lattimore took the witness chair with a 15,000 word statement of his own, and a slashing attack on the character of both Budenz and McCarthy.

He called McCarthy "clearly a bad policy risk" and tore into the Wisconsin Republican's background with allusion to official criticism of McCarthy's conduct as a state judge and asserted difficulties over wartime income tax returns.

As for Budenz, Lattimore called him a liar, either a plain old-fashioned liar or a pathological liar.

Lattimore dismissed as without substance the testimony of Freda Hirsch, a former Communist, that if Lattimore isn't a Communist he acts like one. Lattimore said he could use Miss Hirsch's writings in the way she cited his and build up a case for either a plain old-fashioned liar or a pathological liar.

The big hearing room was crowded as Lattimore read his prepared statement. But there was no fan of would-be spectators in the corridors as there was when he testified last month.

The anti-communist witness was accompanied by his wife and his attorneys, Abe Fortas and Paul Porter.

McCarthy was not in the room when Lattimore took the stand. The Senator flew back last night from Arizona, where he went last week to seek relief from a sinus ailment.

McCarthy turned up with Budenz, who was managing editor of the Daily Worker until the renowned Communist in 1945. Budenz, usually strong leader, told Lattimore was a member of a Communist cell, and that the party leaders had disciplinary power over him.

Referring to Budenz today, Lattimore told the committee:

"The screen of lies behind which he disguised his lack of information is very thin, indeed."

In testimony that was a study in risk, Lattimore turned back on the Senator a phrase which McCarthy had applied to Lattimore. Then he added:

"In testimony that was a study in risk, Lattimore turned back on the Senator a phrase which McCarthy had applied to Lattimore. Then he added:

4. The obvious subjugation of Japanese Communists to the leadership of Russian Communists, who are highly nationalistic and suspicious of all things Russian.

MacArthur's statement drew home this last point. He reminded the Japanese that in the recent past a minority, "the militarists and their collaborators," had sought Japan to totalitarianism.

The Reds, he said, now were pushing Japan toward an even greater disaster—"this time without even the pretense of service to legitimate national ends, but under foreign dictation to establish a domestic basis favorable to the ultimate subjugation of Japan to the political control of others."

Turning to the constitution itself, he praised the Japanese for having shown "a marked ability to live and advance within the framework of these great constitutional precepts," and suggested that history may finally point to the Japanese constitution as the Magna Carta of free Asia.

(forming of white and colored voters and the only segregation was in the voting booths which were marked White and Colored.)

At this time Precinct No. 1, located in the Old Scout Building on Commercial Avenue, reported a total of 476 votes.

On duty at the three tables were the following officials: Ed W. Melbeck, Leon Butler, Henry Russell, Philip R. Bach, James Singletary, "Happy" Lyles, J. L. Thornton, W. S. Thornton, B. F. Whitner, Jr., C. P. Whitner, Victor Green and J. W. Jones.

Mrs. Charles Glenn, who was assisting the clerks, reported three ballots had been thrown out for violation of the law prohibiting the carrying of other papers along with the ballots into the booths. The extra papers included sample ballots.

At Precinct No. 2 at the Four-Center Inn, there were 769 votes at 10:00 o'clock and a total of more than 800 votes had been cast. Here the clerks at four tables were kept busy, especially since a request was received to sign one of the ballot stubs.

On the job at Precinct No. 3 were Mrs. F. E. Boushield, B. W. Perkins, Jr., Benjamin M. McNeil, Mrs. A. W. Jones, Mrs. A. Newman, Jr., Bill Lanning, George Beale, Herbert Powell, Karlyn Boushield, Floyd Lanning, Mrs. J. W. Jones, Mrs. M. G. Gorman, Jr., Mrs. Gorman, B. D. Dugas and Fred Pava.

John Brunney was one of the clerks at the precinct No. 4.

NEW YORK—There is something about the music of hymns that makes you stop, no matter where you are. Maybe that's a childish statement, but that's the way it is with me.

I can be playing the heathen on Sunday, staying home from church and putting my tennis gear into a valise, and if I turn on the radio to check the weather, the first thing I might hear when the power comes on full strength could be a hymn, and it makes me stop folding my sweater to listen.

I hear the organ and the voices of the choir, and whatever I'm doing, they stop me and hold me in a state of suspension until I shake my head faintly and remember what it is I'm to do.

I was coming into Grand Central Terminal the other night, skating along on the polished floors past the frantic commuters, when hymn music from the balcony brought me up like a dog suddenly reaching the end of his leash.

The choir was St. Mark's and a sign said it was led by Cecile Jacobson, whom I met the stout young lady with the pleasant face and braided brown hair who was standing in front of the group of 20 or so singers and waving her hands the way leaders do.

It was funny—funny peculiar—in look at the singers that Miss Jacobson was leading, because a half-dozen of them were good-looking girls, the bright blond model type, in mouton coats with black scarves around their heads, and somehow you didn't associate them with choirs.

You take a harsh view of things here in New York sometimes. You take a harsh view that when you see a slick and beautiful girl, usually she doesn't have too much time for the things of the spirit, but concentrates on getting herself a millionaire or an airtight, well-paying job. To see some of them standing on the balcony of a railroad station and singing hymns is a little confusing.

NOTHING SHORT OF AN EARTHQUAKE can keep the average commuter from the swift completion of his appointed rounds, but this night a lot of them were just standing there, absorbed in the singing, and forgetting the 817 completely.

It made quite a tableau. There was a Traveler's Aid sign like a lamp-post, and a trainman rolling up the station sign on Track 23, in front of the Lake Shore Limited on Track 27, and the swishing voices and the sudden hush and ending of the gabbie-gabbie that marks the commuting hours in the big terminals the way leaders do.

Men who were going home to Scarsdale and New Rochelle stood around, their faces tired and lined from the day's war, smoking their pipes and listening. I didn't know many of the hymns but some of them were sad, and when you looked around at the men standing on the marble floor, you saw the sadness reflected in their faces, as if now, suddenly, they knew they had not made their lives what one should have been, and it was late.

Other men standing around were too hard-bitten to let their faces show their thoughts, and you looked at them, they were ex-premionies. Some lighted cigarettes and it made for a strange feeling, watching people smoking white hymns were being played, but it was all right. They meant no harm.

People would come out of a bakery shop in the terminal and go half-for-leather across the floor and get halfway to whatever track they sought, before they would be aware of the music from the choir. They would look up hurriedly and then go on a few steps, and then stop, as if in a double take, and stand a little.

A junior-league-type girl came by, jiggling a little. She saw few contributions to some charity choir, but she couldn't make a dime; everybody was listening to the hymns, and nobody paid her any never mind.

AFTER EACH HYMN, A FEW OF THE MEN, not quite sure what to do, would clap, and Miss Jacobson would turn around, a little embarrassed, but pleased, and bow a little.

It really wasn't a very good choir, and when it got the lead into a rousing hymn, the voices would boom virtually to the ceiling, and you would follow them up and see the painted gold stars twinkling on the pale blue ceiling.

Then, finally, the hymns ended and they began to open the gates for the Lake Shore Limited, and pretty soon the terminal was as noisy and frantic as ever. But a few minutes there, they interrupted the wheels of commutation, and a good thing, too.

agitation groups — as they are called by their organizers — will venture their game in the West sectors since the Allied authorities have made it clear any unfurnished demonstrations are forbidden. If they do, it will mean street corner assembling and leading that could strain West Berlin tempers too far.

Also in Berlin, an American court sent two members of the Soviet-sponsored East German people's police army to jail for one year. They were convicted of transporting war weapons through the U. S. sector of Berlin.

The pair, Lieut. Heinz Wilhelm Nocht, 21, and sergeant Wilfried Roloff, 22, had testified that the so-called people's police was actually a full-scale war machine — a 35,000-man "army" with German naval units and air force instruction.

Nocht and Roloff pleaded guilty to three charges of wearing military uniforms and transporting rifles and machine pistols.

The court granted leniency, U. S. District Judge John A. Babo of Gary, Ind., said, because they were dupes of a designing and scheming authority — the Russian occupation authorities and the Communist-dominated East German government which organized the people's police.

Six other people's policemen arrested with Nocht and Roloff are awaiting trial in Berlin.

Judge Babo termed the people's police an "unlawful military organization" with all the trappings of a real army. He said, violated the Yalta and Potsdam agreements and subverted four-power laws for the demilitarization of Germany.

Meanwhile in London, Pakistan Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan left for Washington today aboard President Truman's private plane, the "Independence." He was accompanied by members of his staff and Mr. Truman's military aide, Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan. Liaquat Ali will spend a month touring the United States and Canada.

And in Aquila, Italy, the four provinces of Abruzzi in central Italy were tied up today by a Communist-supported general strike in protest against the death of two peasants in May Day rioting.

Officials of the Communist-dominated chamber of labor said 21 other peasants were wounded in the demonstration over Italy's proposed land distribution program. They charged that some of the shots were fired by police and others by fascists who sniped at the demonstrators.

As a result yesterday, May Day demonstrations in Aquila were turned into a mourning procession. Rome's Communist press gave a day to the leftists and blamed them for Fascist agitators.

Back in Germany, the U. S. High Commission today said the struggle for a free German radio has not yet been won and warned Germans of possible new assaults against radio's independence.

A report issued by the Commission, published in the office said: "The German post office, for example, is known to be preparing a campaign to regain the controlling influence over radio which it lost by Military Government decree.

program and introduced the speaker.

Dr. Griffin said that the only thing wrong with the world today is that too many people have outgrown their neck bands, or their bad habits, and he illustrated this point on a few days' worth with a speech that was a study in basic principles.

He declared that there is something wrong with the world, but that the real trouble is not with the world, but with the people who are suffering from fear, frustration and hysteria. If we are going to survive at all, he said, we had better get on the ball.

"It is about time we recognize that something big is taking place in the world. When we find a manly people going around criticizing history, kings, the church and everything we hold dear, and making light of the basic fundamental principles of our way of life, it is time to do something about it."

pictures, he said there are some items on the credit side. Among these he listed the Atlantic Defense Alliance and the progress being made in European recovery under the Marshall Plan.

Bradley said it would take only a day for a youth to be registered and classified in the draft.

"That is not too much to ask of a young man to contribute to the preparedness of this country," he said.

The Vinson draft proposal also provides for calling up reserves. Once Congress gives its consent, the President would have authority to order any or all military and naval reserves to active duty for 21 months.

However, any reservist under the age of 19 who is ordered to duty could apply for a discharge under honorable conditions.

Did Reds Hope to Recover Secrets From Lost Plane? | Privatizer Incident Could May Be Arming of Patrols

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Some military observers in Washington suggest that Russia's motive in shooting down the unarmed, missing United States Navy Privateer patrol plane may have been a hope to recover secret American navigation and detection equipment.

Defense officials are tight-lipped, but it is doubtful if any advanced device would have been risked in an aircraft operating near the Soviet border.

Nevertheless, the off-chance might have led Red airmen into the unprovoked attack. Much has been printed in technical journals about the Navy's newest submarine detection equipment, such as MAD (magnetic detection) and sonobuoys.

There is, of course, the possibility that the Privateer was equipped with new gimmicks—and that the Navy took the risk in order to test the equipment against Russian submarines operating in the Baltic.

ARMED PATROLS—Look for a drive in Congress for the arming of United States patrol planes as a result of the Privateer incident.

Several senators already have demanded the arming of American military planes. It is certain that mounting demands for such procedure will be made in both the Senate and the House.

The Navy is standing pat on its orders that patrol planes must be unarmed.

Some defense officials, however, are said to approve arming of the planes, though they are reluctant to take the initiative. These officials want Congress to start the "arm to the teeth" move as the military can't be accused of "warmongering." The final decision rests with the White House. Right now, there is no indication that President Truman would approve such a bold step.

MONEY—Personal income is near an all-time high in present-day dollars, but the amount of money people are laying aside for ready use in case of emergency is down to the pre-war level. In fact, it is less if the decline in the dollar's value is taken into account.

The Securities and Exchange Commission says that "liquid savings" by the American public totaled around $4.3 billion dollars in 1946. In 1939, when the dollar was worth much more, the total was $4.4 billion. Liquid savings means money the public could lay its hands on instantly, in case of need.

Paradoxically, the accumulated volume of liquid savings is beyond all bounds. It is more than $300 billion. The SEC says there is about $266 billion in these categories alone: Cash and bank deposits, government securities, private life insurance and savings and loan association deposits.

This vast reservoir was built up during the war when there were many things people couldn't buy. The all-time peak in liquid savings was $14 billion in 1945, of which $18 billion represented cash.

The volume of actual savings, experts say, is still high. But people are putting huge chunks of it into non-liquid investments, such as the purchase of homes.

DUST—Reports of midwest dust storms cause concern both in Washington and in Europe. The reason is obvious. Western Europe will need huge supplies of food after the Marshall Plan ends in 1950 and serious crop failures can reverse the gains made against Communism.

The Agriculture department estimates that at least 100 million bushels of grain already have been lost this year in the nation's dust bowls.

That is not yet too serious. However, the trend is dangerous. For starvation in Western Europe might result if the Communists as far have tried unsuccessfully to blockade against democratic governments.

The agency warned: "Should there be serious crop failures in over present possibility—economic gains in Europe not only can be halted, but reversed."

Thus the perennial demand for extensive reclamation projects is being pressed with more vigor than ever.

to place the same excise tax on television that now applies to 80.

Meanwhile, the Treasury reported that the government spent $2,588,186,000 more than it took in during the first 10 months of the current fiscal year.

That deficit is expected to be a deficit of $1,811,000,000.

The Smoke Lifts

With election returns still incomplete, but with Smathers leading by fifty or sixty thousand votes, and with Senator Pepper having conceded defeat, we hasten to congratulate the people of Florida in general and the people of Seminole County in particular for having the good sense to make a change in their senatorial representation.

It is not easy to see through the mist and the smoke of a hot political campaign such as this one has been, and when every conceivable attempt is made to confuse, if not to deceive the average voter, who is apt to be so busy with his personal affairs that he does not have time to check every statement made, it would not be surprising if some of them voted for the wrong man.

But those of us who have followed this campaign closely and who have made it our business to know what our representatives were doing and saying in Washington and elsewhere, as well as at home, are convinced that the vast majority of the voters of Florida have made no such mistake this time. They voted for the man who will represent their interests in Congress.

And isn't that what they are supposed to do? When we elect a senator to go to Washington and vote for laws which vitally affect our way of life, we are not supposed to pick someone who will represent the CIO Political Action Committee, or National Association for the Advancement of Colored People or Tammany Hall, or the remnants of Boss Pendergast's political machine. We are supposed to select someone who will represent us and who will vote for laws which we want.

That is what the people of Florida have done and even those who voted for Senator Pepper will find in the long run we believe that George Smathers more adequately represents their views than his opponent. The causes which impelled them to vote for Pepper were really not issues in this campaign, but in those matters which really were at issue we feel sure that they too will find Smathers more to their liking.

Although there were some 250,000 or more persons in Florida who voted for Senator Pepper, we feel quite sure there are nowhere near that many who are in favor of Communism, or even appeasement of Russia, or who are in favor of socialized medicine, or any sort of socialism, or who would want to see an FEPC bill enacted into law. They simply could not believe that these were issues in the campaign.

However they were and they were the only issues, Florida can thank God, and so can the rest of the country, that here were enough clear-thinking citizens of this state who were willing to listen to George Smathers' clarion call in defense of freedom and go to the polls and vote for the preservation of the American way of life.

Florida has joined the ranks of those people all over the world who are standing up for liberty and democracy. The red flag of the hammer and sickle flies at half staff in Moscow today.

Finding Good Things

Emphasis on supposed corruption in the courts and among judges may make a more exciting story, play or movie, but such false values undermine the influence of honest and upright lawyers and judges, who are greatly in the majority.

This point was brought out by Justice Francis E. Rivers of the New York City Courts in a speech before a group of lawyers in that city. He suggested that a positive approach be emphasized in defending civil liberties by keeping the public, and especially school children, aware of the worth of the freedoms enjoyed in this country rather than continually stressing the abuses of them.

It seems to be human nature to emphasize the weaknesses of any system, and to overlook its merits. Propaganda artists engaged in promoting other ways of life, however, are notably insistent on their advantages and silent as to their weaknesses. It behooves the champions of democracy to get busy with emphasis on the positive.

Job Relationships

An important angle of the job-seeking situation is the attitude of the would-be worker toward the job he is after. Employers say many young people seem interested only in the amount of pay and the length of vacations. This complaint is not a sign of the times; it has always been hard.

After a person is employed, his attitude is equally significant. A speaker before the Illinois Vocational Association recently asserted that many people lost their jobs because of poor relations with fellow-employees, lack of consideration for their firm's rights, and unwillingness to put forth their best efforts. The speaker recommended that business schools emphasize the matter of attitude as part of their training.

Such training should really begin in the home. Character-building, begun in the early years, leads to a correct attitude in all of life's relationships, including those of job-hunting and job-holding.

THE WORLD TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

John Foster Dulles, Republican adviser to the State Department, says the capture of Hainan Island by the Chinese Communists is a strategic action to keep the strategic island of Formosa out of Red hands.

Why? Mr. Dulles doesn't amplify that but leaves us to figure it out. One very obvious answer is that Formosa not only is Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's headquarters but is the seat of what is left of the Nationalist government—a castle with a ghost. It's about the last bit of Chinese soil China has for refuge.

But suppose Uncle Sam invites the Nationalists on the island what practical purpose will it serve? Does Chiang have a chance of retrieving his position and reconquering China?

Well, a horse-racing addict perhaps would figure Chiang's chances as a long shot. However, the Generalissimo maintains that he still can turn the trick if he gets support. Here are some of his reasons:

While the Communists ostensibly have "conquered" the vast mainland, the Nationalists claim that actually there are many areas which still are in the hands of guerrillas who have an eye for the Reds and are prepared to cast their lot with Chiang.

For instance, take the great province of Szechwan, seat of the old Chinese capital of Chungking. In this province, through which runs the mighty Yangtze River, there are 140 counties and the Nationalists report that more than 70 of them are in the hands of guerrillas. One estimate places the old Nationalist troops still in the Yangtze valley at 500,000.

And why haven't the Chinese Communists liquidated all these pockets of guerrillas? Probably for the same reason that the Reds were unable to mop them up in all the years of the Sino-Japanese fighting. The vastness of the country and its rugged terrain are adapted to the existence of small bodies of fighting men in a territory that is hard to control unless the country is peaceful.

Then there's another important aspect of the situation. It is that the Chinese Communists knock out the Nationalist government and military headquarters on Formosa for economic reasons.

Smathers' Record

Here it is:
"I favor a strong national defense and will fight to keep the Army, Navy and Marine Corps up to effective combat strength. The Russians are realists and the only way to achieve peace is to show them that it would be folly for them to attack us, or to continue with their aggression."

"I have introduced and will continue to aid the passage of legislation that will expand and extend medical services for all, and which will at the same time, answer the threat of socialized medicine by providing scholarships to outstanding high school graduates that we can have more doctors, more dentists, nurses, technicians and hospitalists. That, in my opinion is our answer to the problem of extended medical coverage."

"I am in favor of a farm program that will assist the small dirt farmer, who is, after all, the backbone of our economy. I favor the removal of acreage restrictions on the small dirt farmer who drives the whole income from his farm."

"I have already fought, and will continue to fight for, 90 per cent of parity on certain farm products."

"I favor confirmation of the present freight rate structure so as to eliminate the present discrimination against Florida and the South."

"I was cosponsor of the flood control legislation in the House of Representatives and will continue to fight vigorously for it—and to complete the $208,000,000 Florida flood control program."

"I propose the establishment of the proposed West Point of the Air in Florida for our climate is ideally suited for that sort of thing."

"I favor a sound budget and fiscal policy on the part of the Federal Government so as to eliminate any inflationary policy or deficit spending."

"I believe in labor unions and their right to collective bargaining and a high minimum wage which provides purchasing power. That is why I voted for the 75-cent minimum wage."

"I believe in the adoption of the principal features of the Truman-Hoover Commission as a basis for a sound reorganization policy to achieve administrative effectiveness in our Government, although I favor the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars' recommendation for the efficient operation of veterans' hospitals."

Truman Invites

Senator Brewster of Maine, the Republican senatorial campaign committee chairman, announced today his selection to answer the president's "Jefferson Jubilee" speech in Chicago. Brewster told a reporter the Republicans will demand broadcasting time for half an hour to the half hour that four radio networks will give the President.

Party leaders may invite Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York to sum up the Republican answer to the President after the trip is over.

West of the Republican replies will be from Washington but Senator Morse (R-Ore) said he is going to be right on the ground in Oregon, ready with an answer to anything the President may have to say in seven stops in that state, including a scheduled major address at Pendleton.

With the start of the presidential trip four days away Harold E. Stassen unsuccessful 1948 candidate for the GOP presidential nominee, opened the Republican firing.

Stassen who heads the University of Pennsylvania, told an audience of Republican women in New York last night that "President Truman is the cleverest politician ever to occupy the White House."

"And he is also the worst President ever to occupy the White House," Stassen added.

Asserting that President Truman "is a post graduate of the most effective political school in America—the Perogian school of Kansas City, Mo.," Stassen continued:

"The tragedy for America is that the same school which made Truman such a clever politician also made him such a bad President. This is true because it is a school whose graduates are lacking in a sense of idealism and who minimize the importance of honesty and integrity."

James Galloway

His outstanding work of securing new members to the Post. On Dec. 31, Capt. Loucks was rated high man in the State in this work, said Post Adjutant James Singletary.

In addition, Capt. Loucks at Ft. Lauderdale, was installed by National Commander George Craig as a Sixth District Executive Committee member.

John Pierson, who also attended the convention, was installed as District Agricultural Committee member by District Commander Charles Coffin.

For its accomplishments in securing new memberships, Post 63 was awarded a yellow streamer for the second year in succession, said Adjutant Singletary this morning.

Hickory Dies

A hearse came to take the body away. The crowd turned it back. Four hours passed, then five. Still they tried to pump a spark of life in the still form.

Finally, after the sixth hour, heads began to shake slowly. No use.

The crowd drifted away slowly still finding it hard to believe that Hickory Jones, 34, VFW commander, organizer of the city softball league and one of the most popular men town, was dead.

Hollywood

By BOR THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, May 3.—(AP)—Fredric Brown, celebrating his 35th anniversary in films, today picked the five greatest heroes of movie history. It was 35 years ago this week that Brown took his first job in Hollywood. Rising to fame as the director of Greta Garbo's pictures, he is one of the industry's most distinguished creators. Since his name has been one of the specialties, I asked him to name the five greatest heroes of the screen. After thinking it over, he came up with these selections:

John Barrymore—"He had a great theatrical flair for love. His name would add class to any list."

Charles Boyer—"The suave kid. His love scenes with Garbo in 'Conquest' were terrific."

Clark Gable—"The man any girl would love to get beaten up by. The tough lover."

John Gilbert—"The dashing lover."

Rudolph Valentino—"The Latin lover."

Brown, who has directed all fifty, wouldn't say which was the greatest.

"But I can tell you which one will live the longest in history," says Valentino. "He said, 'He has been dead 25 years and his name is still magic. Look at Gilbert. He has been gone only a few years and he is almost forgotten.'"

Brown is not at all aghast to reveal that it was he who put on the screen what he terms "heroic love." To be a movie hero is a job that he boasts that "I was the guy who gave the screen the most trouble. They built their careers around me."

In "Flesh and the Devil" the picture that made Garbo a star, Brown had her and Gilbert play a scene while reclining. The scene caused the nation's screens to give the movie censoring board something to think about.

The director is continuing his career with a picture in production in which he is teamed with Clark Gable and Jean Harlow.

"For 15 years I've been working with Gable," says Brown. "I've done 'National Velvet,' 'The Sign of the Cross' and 'Intolerance.' I think it's time for a return."

to romance

That's one of the trouble with movie business today—there isn't enough love. After all, the backbone of the industry has always been the love story.

Brown regrets that censorship, some of which, of course, is of his own creation, will no longer permit scenes like he used to get away with in the old silent. But he says he is pulling a few new tricks in his Gable-Stanwyck pictures, including a love scene with telephone which he says is mighty torrid. Hmmm.

Brown says, sadly, that so many screen leading men are the sadistic

It is good idea to have the house cleaned before you move your furniture to it. The job will be twice as different if you have to scrub floors and moldings after you move in.

The "Gay White Way" Target For Critics

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP Newfeatures Writer NEW YORK—New York City currently is taking quite a kicking around.

In magazine articles, just about every phase of New York existence is being slashed at as if it were a vicious, nasty personality. I guess New York can take it, but maybe this is the beginning of a trend. Looks like the professional debunkers have run out of human targets—movie stars, tycoons and others whose life and personality is of public interest.

Detraction's technique is the subject vegetable, mineral or animal is to find something of established reputation and then under the guise of analysis, strip it of glamor and expose the clay feet.

If this works with New York, next on the list will be San Francisco, New Orleans and other great cities with definite personalities.

Many of us hope that the current campaign of denigration will work. Maybe it will stem the flow of tourists and stave off career seekers who think New York is Mecca. Maybe some of the tourists will stay home or go to the Grand Canyon instead and where the carpet-bagger's heads of the out-of-towners. And we are proud of our feet of clay. We just hope that more people will see things and decide that maybe life can be beautiful if lived off an little island.

Cut out rounds of rich pastry dough with a cookie cutter. Put a little jam in the center of each and fold over an edges and seal well and pick tops. These taste best when they are freshly baked.

Gulek Is more likely to evaluate the city in terms of glamor beat and such. If I were visiting or moving to Dry Gulek I'd probably have opinions about it too, whereas I've never really considered New York as anything more than a home town.

But we do get angry and bored by hearing from our outlander friends that it's an okay place to visit but they'd hate to live there. The trouble is they do want to live here and they flood in from all over, cluttering up our lives. What some of our firemen realize is that when we spend all our savings and take them to theaters, restaurants they've read about and give them the Rockies feller center and Statue of Liberty tour, most of us are seeing these places for the first time. Our normal pace is about that of our visitor when she's home—and we're not as choosy as she is when she's away.

It's weird to our out-of-town visitors. Broadway would be just another street at night. The theaters would be replaced by office buildings and the bistros and nightclubs would go out of business. New Yorkers don't prioritize them most of them have already moved out to the suburbs or are saving their money so they can find a spot where there's some grass and trees. They can't find them.

In Glamour's Paris, it's all in the eye of the beholder. The carpet-bagger's heads of the out-of-towners. And we are proud of our feet of clay. We just hope that more people will see things and decide that maybe life can be beautiful if lived off an little island.

Tedesco Shuts-Out Palatka Squad 7 To 0

Jackson Hits His 1st Homer Of Season; Locals Meet Leesburg Here Tonight

The Sanford Giants made it two in a row last night when they clubbed the Palatka Azaleas 7 to 0. Righthander Charlie Tedesco became the first Giant hurler of the season to register a shut-out win, when he limited the losers to six scattered hits.

Outfielder Ed Jackson's big bat slammed, out of his first homer of the year.

Tedesco overcame a rash of wildness that has recently inflicted the Giant moundstaff by giving up only three walks and uncorning a single wild pitch.

Spot Kaseh tossed his initial game for the Azaleas and held the Giants hitless for four innings giving up an unearned run in the fourth on a hit batsman, a stolen base, and error and passed ball.

The Giants take on Leesburg tonight at Municipal Hall Park. Game time is 8:00 P. M.

McDermott Beats Cleveland Indians For 1st Triumph

ASSOCIATED PRESS Credit the New York Yankees with an assist should Maurice should call me Micky. McDermott fulfilled his promise of developing into a winning hurler with the Boston Red Sox.

A Red Sox official, who shall remain unidentified, would have you believe that the unmerciful trouncing the Bronx Bombers handed McDermott at the Yankee Stadium a week ago today was a blessing in disguise.

During the recent spring drills, when McDermott was causing Manager McCarthy to spend sleepless nights with his indifferent performances, a Sox official confided:

"That McDermott could become a great pitcher if only he gets serious about his job. The trouble with him is that he's too cocky. He believes all those flowery words written about him in the papers. He hasn't spent a season in the big leagues and already he is convinced he's a second Lefty Grove."

Not a one-run defeat in the lot. But Little Rock has done its best. Pitchers paraded in and out in wholesale lots but only Lou Lombardo could win. The Trava have batted at an average of eight hits per game—not too bad and not too good—but not good enough.

Manager Jack Saltzburger ordered batting sessions then watched his team outwit the opposition's but lose just the same.

Travelers Fumble 13 Straight Games In Southern Loop

ASSOCIATED PRESS The Little Rock Travelers shouldn't be laughed at in their seemingly endless effort and modest ambition to win two baseball games during 1950.

For 19 days, one eighth of the season, Little Rock has made every effort to win but seldom has even come close. Only once have the frustrated travelers won. That was two weeks ago against Memphis.

Since the happy night of Apr. 18 when Little Rock defeated Memphis by the narrowest of margins, 5-4, the Trava have lost 13 consecutive games. Last night's 10-3 defeat by Mobile was typical.

Other decisive defeats by various Southern Association teams were by healthy margins of up to 13 runs.

West Palm Beachers Drop St. Pete 2-1

By ASSOCIATED PRESS A 350-foot home run blast by West Palm Beach's Rudy Laszkowski shored the St. Petersburg Saints back into the cellar of the Florida International League Tuesday night.

Macon Peaches Lose 5th Game Of Season

By ASSOCIATED PRESS The Macon Peaches, leaders in the South Atlantic League, have not been rained out this season, but last night they wished they had been.

For 22 straight games the Peaches have played with the weather man's blessings. Then last night while half the South Atlantic League was washed away and other games were thoroughly rained, the Peaches lost for the fifth time this season.

Macon took a sound beating from Jacksonville 7-2. In the only other game washed away in showers and rain was a 12-0 victory for Columbia over Augusta.

Jacksonville meets Macon again tonight in Macon and Augusta plays in Columbia. Charleston and Greenville plays a doubleheader in Greenville to make up for last night's washout and Savannah meets Columbus.

Lakeland blasted three Miami Beach pitchers for 14 runs, chalking up 12 runs in the first four innings and then coasted to a lopsided 14-8 margin over the Ft. Lauderdale.

John Metkovich homered for Jacksonville in the three-run first inning and Bob Lennon got three Tar Hiss in three times at bat.

The game was delayed twice by rain but that was mild compared to the Augusta-Columbia affair. Columbia literally waded to victory in rain soaked Central Park. Play was delayed for 31 minutes and again for an hour.

Joe Musser, Columbia center-fielder, hit a grand slam homer in the eighth which settled any doubts about who would win.

Bill Carroll gave Augusta only eight hits. The only time he weakened was in the sixth inning when he threw six hits and scored four times.

NEW BIG LEAGUE TORONTO, May 3.—(AP)—Ford Frick, president of the National Baseball Association, said major league baseball is as "inevitable" as tomorrow.

"It may be the National and American leagues will split into 12 teams before splitting into three leagues," the executive added. "but it has to come."

Clubhouse

By FRANK ECK AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor NEW YORK — No one man will claim credit for baseball's new rules interpretation committee, least of all Frank J. (Shag) Shaughnessy. But Shaq, president of the International League since 1937, has been one of the most active proponents for such a committee.

Ever since Shaughnessy saw the revisions in the baseball rules, he has felt they needed clarification. "The only way to do this," said Shaughnessy, "would be through a rules interpretation committee."

A call to Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler, head of the following reply: "We have formed an interpretation committee. It will consist of Jimmy Gallagher, business manager of the Chicago Cubs, and Tom Connolly, chief of the American League umpires. It will be ready to function May 4 immediately after it meets May 4 at Cincinnati."

Then George M. Trautman, president of The National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues (full title), suggested to Chandler that Shaughnessy be added to the interpretation committee. Chandler heartily endorsed Trautman's suggestion. All this points out what baseball thinks of Shaughnessy, the white-haired ex-Notre Dame athlete. Shaq knows baseball rules forward and backward—and probably upside down.

The new rules and revisions were supposed to be in simple language so even sandlot kids could read them. But in type the revisions came out like double talk.

The rules committee, which met last December for the first time since 1928 included baseball's secretary-treasurer Walter W. Mulberry, senior National League umpire Bill Stewart, senior American League umpire Bill Summers, Branch Rickey Jr. of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox, Trautman, Shaughnessy, Connolly and Gallagher.

The way the rules were messaged up happened to be no fault of the committee. But such a brutal job was done with them in print that now baseball needs a rules interpretation committee.

Look at some of the things that happened in the new book. Here's what rule 8.01 (d) says:

If a pitcher makes an illegal pitch with the bases unoccupied it shall be called a ball, unless the batter shall make a fair hit; or seasons first base on an error or otherwise, and no other runner is hit the ball but it was a case of the many walks by the pitching staff of the Peaches, who giving up a total of 16 free runs.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr. NEW YORK, May 3.—(AP)—Contradicting the old theory that everything happens in Brooklyn, Boston Red Sox fans ask: "Did a manager ever thank himself out of a game there?"

Joe McCarthy did that and some say it's the screwiest thing Joe ever did. McCarthy, who seems Joe got the thumb while he was arguing with umpire Bill McKinley and left the park. McKinley later said he had only told McCarthy, "Get back and beat down."

But a couple of days before that Manager Al Vincent of the Tulsa (Texas League) Oilers, rushed out to demand that an opposing pitcher be given the heave-ho. Before he was through talking, Vincent had been tossed out himself.

Then there's Clyde Smoll of West Palm Beach, who earned the doubtful distinction of being the first manager "fired" this season. His club lost 12 of its first 16 games.

Sam Demma of the Opelika, Ala. club that up. At odds with the club heads, Sam resigned two days before the season opened and took a playing job with Anniston.

We can't swear to this story, but it comes from a good quarter. It seems that Paul Pettit, Pittsburgh's $100,000 farmhand, was causing his New Orleans boss considerable concern by disappearing for long walks, alone, in the French quarter.

They figured Paul wasn't the kind of kid to get into trouble, but still it could happen in that part of town. Diplomatically, a couple of them dropped into Paul's room and carefully brought the conversation around to these jaunts.

First the rule mentions "bases unoccupied." Then it reads "no other runner."

Rule 6.06 is another ditty. It states: "A batter is OUT for illegal action when he fails to take his position in the batter's box PROMPTLY. If he persists in unwarranted delay in taking his position the umpire shall direct the pitcher to deliver the ball to the batter and every such pitch SHALL BE CALLED A STRIKE by the umpire."

Seems somebody had a hard time deciding whether the batter would be out or would have each pitch called a strike.

However, before the season is over, the rules interpretation committee of Chandler, Shaughnessy, Connolly and Gallagher probably will come up with new answers or interpretations. And this time they'll be right.

President Of Chile Will Leave United States Today At 6 P. M.

NEW ORLEANS, May 3. — (AP) — Doing his last-minute shopping today, the President of Chile prepared to depart by air at 6 P. M. (EST) for Santiago after a three-week visit in the United States.

President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla thanked his hosts here last night.

"I am deeply struck by the friendship and open sincerity of the people of the United States," he told a banquet audience.

"I would like to express, too, my admiration for something our countries have in common — the love of freedom and democracy."

"In this last hour I'm spending with you I would like to express my deepest admiration for your people."

After the banquet, attended by New Orleans government, industrial and business leaders, the President and a small party, accompanied by city officials, left for New Orleans night club.

Yesterday the President, Sen. Gonzalez and an aide went shopping for toys. They bought several toys for three young grandchildren in Santiago. They were a metal chicken that lays marble eggs, a duck that walks, a toy dog and bright-colored mechanical toys.

Today there was another shopping expedition planned. The President promised to receive the press again this afternoon at the airport for a final informal farewell.

At the farewell banquet last night, which climaxed the official visit, the President asked Chilean foreign affairs minister "to express all our feelings about your splendid demonstration of friendship."

Said the foreign affairs minister, Horacio Walker: "In this beautiful city, tomorrow will end the visit of the President of Chile to the United States which is tantamount to saying that the last impression of this country will remain in his memory as extremely pleasant."

"He came on a mission of friendship and brotherhood, and he found both in full measure."

"He came on a political and not a commercial mission. He came to shake the loyal hand of the President of the United States, and had the pleasure of having a meeting of minds with him in the appreciation of problems which affect our two countries, the American continent, and the present-day worries of humanity."

"I am sure," added the foreign minister, "that the Chilean people will remember the visit of the President of the United States as a landmark in the history of our two countries."

At a hotel reception by Loyola and Tulane Universities yesterday, the President thanked his audience with a glass of champagne.

Officially opening the Congress of Municipalities, Gonzalez Videla said "the municipal authority eliminates to a large extent the inconveniences of a decentralized government."

Lie declared at a news conference the world is facing "the most critical situation since 1945."

Before leaving on his European trip he talked with President Truman. Anticipating the Moscow crisis, Lie took with him to Europe the highest ranking Russian national in the U. N. Secretariat, Konstantin E. Zinchenko, a former top assistant to Russian Deputy Prime Minister V. M. Molotov.

In Washington, government officials said they expect further purges to take place in Iron Curtain countries.

The new nominee voted for and still backs the Taft-Hartley Labor law, repeal of which is sought by Mr. Truman.

He vigorously opposes both the President's FEPC program and Administration-backed proposals for national health insurance. And he strongly condemned deficit spending in his campaign.

On foreign policy, however, Smathers has an almost unbroken record of siding with Mr. Truman.

Four of Florida's six congressmen were re-nominated. Rep. Bob Hines, Crestview, and Rep. Sydney Williams, Leesville, were unopposed. Rep. Dwight L. Rogers, Fort Lauderdale, won in the sixth district and Rep. Charles E. Bennett, Jacksonville, in the second.

For railroad commissioners the incumbent Wilbur C. King was leading in Group No. 1 with 105,745 votes from 1,362 precincts.

Group No. 2, Jerry Carter set up a commanding lead over his opponent, having 211,201 votes to 131,559 for Anell Boyette with 1,352 precincts reporting.

Smathers Wins

(Continued From Page One) to Smathers today, McMath said: "Your fight was in accordance with the traditions of a good Marine. The young Democrats of Arkansas have been pulling for you since your excellent keynote speech at their convention here in 1947."

In traditional and overwhelming Democratic Florida, Smathers' nomination insures his election in the November general election. His Republican opponent will be John P. Booth, a politically-unknown Miami lawyer. Pepper's term ends next Jan. 3.

Smathers' victory will send to the Senate an avowed enemy of some major items of President Truman's legislative program, even though he called himself a better friend of the national administration than Pepper.

Joseph Grew Says Jap Situation Is In Favor Of Reds

NEW YORK, May 3. — (AP) — Joseph C. Grew, former U. S. Ambassador to Japan, said today that conditions in Japan "are working in favor of the Communists."

On his arrival here by ship from Europe, Grew said that Japan today "stands at the cross roads" between Democracy and "the desolately easy road to Communism and totalitarianism."

"Grew, also former Undersecretary of State, said various factors in Japan have combined to "give the susceptible Japanese youth what seems to him good reason to turn to the left."

He listed these factors as "the inflation of currency, the shortage of consumer goods, the lack of appreciable foreign trade, the housing shortage, the destruction of national ideals and the disorganization of society."

There still is a chance to reverse the trend in Japan, he said, because the "average Japanese still is malleable." But he said any progress would be largely through voluntary American "military occupation pressure."

Questioned about recent revival of interest in America's case of 1945, which involved the alleged wartime stealing of U. S. secrets, Grew declined to make any comment, except to say:

"It was I who gave the order for the arrests in that case because I was acting Secretary of State at that time."

He said he did not want to discuss the case until he gets back to Washington, D. C.

Grew now is national chairman of a campaign to raise funds for the International Christian University in Japan.

Negro Youth Tries To Commit Suicide

MIAMI, May 3. — (AP) — A 15-year old Negro boy tried to drown himself yesterday because his mother took his last 50 cents to "buy a drink."

Capt. Louis Allen of the Miami juvenile aid bureau said the nearly hysterical youth told him he earned $11.88 a week by working after school.

"I turned it all but 50 cents over to my Mama," Alton quipped the youth as saying, "I had to have that money for a picnic at school. This morning, she took it away from me to buy a drink. I want to die."

The juvenile officer said the youth apparently decided to jump off the 12th Avenue bridge into the river, then changed his mind and clung to the handrail. A Merrill-Stevens shipyard worker, Bonnie Nodine, pulled the boy to safety.

When Brown first testified at a naval court of inquiry which preceded the court-martial, he said his "team of officers" let him down when he needed it most and that he felt utterly alone in his assistance for his team of officers was concerned.

Charles Gifford Is Indicted For Murder Of Shuh

CLEARWATER, May 3. — (AP) — R. Charles Gifford, 71, was indicted today by the Pinellas grand jury for first degree murder in the pistol slaying of State Rep. Charles J. Shuh, Jr.

Within half an hour after the true bill was returned, Gifford was brought before Circuit Judge John U. Bird and his trial set for Monday, May 29.

Gifford, wearing a blue cotton shirt and trousers of the same color and material, was escorted before Judge Bird by Sheriff Todd Ocker. The prisoner's gray hair was in disorder and his face covered by a heavy growth of beard.

"Are you Charles Gifford?" Judge Bird asked the defendant.

"The name is Ross," replied the prisoner in a quavering voice.

"Well, what is your real name?" asked Judge Bird.

"My name is Ross — Charles Ross," came the reply.

Gifford, identified by a former wife, a son and police files after his arrest, has continuously maintained that his name is Ross.

Judge Bird informed the defendant that he had just been indicted for first degree murder. There was no mention of the name of the victim, a popular official who was to have run unopposed for re-nomination in yesterday's Democratic primary.

Gifford showed no emotion and made no audible reply as he listened to the judge's questioning. He told the court that he had no money to employ an attorney.

"We will see about your lawyer later," said Bird.

Gifford was arrested at the scene shortly after Shuh was shot to death in his law office on the morning of Apr. 24. He readily admitted to police and reporters that he had killed the legislator. He gave "rotten politics" as his reason but Assistant Police Chief John S. Sierra said he was more inclined to the theory that Gifford shot Shuh as an act of revenge. Shuh represented Gifford's wife in a divorce action several years ago.

British In China Are Beginning To Resent Commies

HONG KONG, May 3. — (AP) — British feeling in this crown colony is hardening against the Communists.

The tide of opinion has turned from three months ago, when British offered to recognize Beijing. At that time Hong Kong's political opinion.

Today, the British colony is openly questioning the wisdom of London's decision.

British resent it because their representative in Peking has been snubbed and, from their point of view, insulted by the Chinese Reds.

Hong Kong's British press, which usually reflects the feelings of trade quarters, is steadily becoming more caustic about relations with Peking.

The telegraph broke the less severe weeks ago. It said under the Chinese Reds made an "immediate and genuine" change of policy British businessmen should begin a "wholesale liquidation" of their interests in China.

More recently, the China mail argued the "full mobilization of Western diplomacy in Peking" to force a showdown on why the Communists refuse to accept recognition from Western powers.

Truman Declares Red Situation Is "Much Improved"

Harry Says War With Soviets Further Away Now Than It Was 4 Years Ago

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)—President Truman said today he doesn't feel the cold war is close to turning into a shooting war with Russia. In fact, he said, he thinks the international situation is much better now than it was in 1944.

Mr. Truman voiced his optimism for world peace at a news conference. He spoke out after a reporter told him Senator Tydings (D-Md) had said this country is close to a shooting war with Russia.

The President said he thinks Tydings was unduly alarmed if he said that. He said he thinks the situation is improving. He said he may be an optimist in saying that, and added that one has to be an optimist to be President of the United States.

Mr. Truman said that he disagrees with former President Hoover on Hoover's proposal to reorganize the United Nations without Russia. But, he said, he feels Hoover is right in suggesting that moral forces be strengthened for world peace.

The President said the nation's defense budget will be smaller for the 1951-52 fiscal year (beginning July 1, 1951) and he is not alarmed in any sense of the word. This was in answer to a question whether recent proposed increases in the 1950-51 defense budget were based on alarming world conditions.

He suggested that reporters read Secretary of Defense Johnson's reasons for the increases. Mr. Truman said they simply are to maintain a defense program adequate for the country.

Informed of arguments that because of the present deficit the nation could not afford to carry the Marshall Plan, the President replied that it is the old argument which its opponents have made ever since the Plan was started.

The present deficit, he went on, is a good one and as tight as it can be made. Defense outlays are budgeted at $13,911,000,000 in the pending appropriation bill, with an amount calling for an additional $1,000,000,000.

Geneva Bridge For Fishing Purposes Asked By Group

The County Commission today gave further consideration to retaining for fishing purposes portions of the present Geneva Bridge which will be replaced by traffic by the bridge now under construction.

B. B. Crow presented to the Commission a petition signed by 160 voters to the fishing camps located on the Sanford side of the present bridge, asking that 26 feet of the bridge on both the Seminole and Volusia sides of the St. Johns River be retained for use of those camps to fish.

George Miller, resident on Lake Drive near the Seminole Drive Park, appeared on behalf of 10 residents located near Lake Tony on the drive, to ask the removal of a cattle guard on the road. He stated that the guard was in a bad condition of repair.

The Commission decided to notify Hibbard Casaberry for whose use the guard was constructed, to remove it and within 30 days to remove cattle from the vicinity.

Howard Hughes, who is operating Big Tree post on a lease, was granted a three year extension of the lease and was granted 90,000 feet of 30 ft. in width either by or the County could terminate the agreement.

George Williams, executive secretary of the Sanford Housing Authority, asked the Commission to purchase County owned land near the City for public housing.

Remington Says Again He Never Was Communist

32-Year-Old Expert Makes Statement Before Committee

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)—William W. Remington denied once again today that he ever was a Communist. Anyone who disputes that, he said, either doesn't know the facts, or is "engaged in a deliberate falsehood."

The 33-year-old Commerce Department economist made the statement before the House Un-American Activities committee as the group opened a new inquiry into his loyalty.

Remington was suspended briefly two years ago from his $9,870 a year job as the result of a Senate investigation. He was reinstated after the government's loyalty review board cleared him.

Chairman Wood (D-Ga.) announced last week the House Committee now has new evidence "from a highly confidential source." He did not give any hint as to the nature of the evidence.

Remington's wartime Navy intelligence officer, said in his prepared statement he understood the committee is chiefly interested in a nine-month period when he served as a messenger with the Tennessee Valley Authority at the age of 19 or 20.

"I repeat again that I was not at that time or at any other time a member of the Communist Party," he said.

Remington related that while he worked for TVA he joined the A. L. C. (American League for the Advancement of Democracy) Union, which he described as "the center of extracurricular and social activities."

"I understand now," he added, "from questioning by government agencies, that some with whom I worked there were not as idealistic as I was, and that some of them may have actually been Communists and fellow travelers."

Remington's suspension in 1948 resulted from charges made before Senate investigators by Elizabeth Bentley, admitted former courier for a Russian spy ring.

Miss Bentley said then Remington had passed government information over to her. Remington confirmed that, but said the information wasn't secret and that he had believed her to be a reporter and not a spy.

When Miss Bentley repeated her charges on a television program, Remington said her program's producers and sponsors. The suit was settled out of court, reportedly for $10,000.

"I cannot but feel this is unjust," he said. "The right to be free from continued embarrassment is fundamental under our laws. In my case it is not merely done in jeopardy, it is triple jeopardy."

He said he had hoped his loyalty would never again be questioned after it was passed on by the review board.

"I was further encouraged in the hope that my loyalty had been confirmed to fish."

George Williams, executive secretary of the Sanford Housing Authority, asked the Commission to purchase County owned land near the City for public housing.

The fourteen killed were workmen dismantling the bombs to take the explosive for industrial uses. The store contained 30 bombs weighing 1,600 pounds each. They blew up when a workman was taking the caps off one of them.

The victims were buried by the blast in a huge pile of earth, stones and debris. The injured were hit by splinters and flying glass from broken windows. They are being treated in Catania's hospitals.

Truman Views Pepper Defeat As No Licking

President Says Outcome Was Result Of Other Issues

By ASSOCIATED PRESS. President Truman today said the defeat of Senator Charles Pepper by the Florida Democratic primary was no licking for the Administration in the "Last Deal."

Mr. Truman's comment was at a news conference in response to questions. Without going into details, he said these were issues in the Florida campaign that had no connection with the national picture.

Senator Howell called it a victory of liberalism as opposed to conservatism. He said that the people of Florida do not wish to venture off on the wide road of extremism in any direction.

Senator Felt (R-Ill.) said that the significant thing about the John Pepper vote was that it was a defeat because he was for the "Last Deal."

He added that the fact that he had been defeated was a defeat for the "Last Deal."

William M. Boyle, Democratic national chairman, did not go into the reasons for Senator's victory but congratulated him in a telegram. The message spoke of continuing "the fine work you have done in Washington."

Boyle also congratulated Pepper that the party is still depending on him for support in its battle against reactionary Republicanism.

80,000 Workers Will Begin Returning To Plant Monday; 50,000 Now Back

DETROIT, May 4.—(AP)—The 100-day Chrysler strike was settled today in mixed feelings of elation and bitterness.

The 80,000 workers of United Auto Workers came home, but union leaders and officials of the company exchanged heavy words after signing the strike-ending agreement at 4:30 A. M. (EST).

Each side blamed the other for prolonging the 110-day strike that cost nearly a billion and a half dollars in lost sales and wages.

The 50,000 workers who quit the plant in mid-February are expected to begin returning to work on Monday.

The 100-day strike cost the auto industry in lost sales and wages $1,000,000,000, according to the Automobile News Association.

American Officials In Germany Battle Against Germs And Nazis

FRANKFURT, May 4.—(AP)—American health officials in Germany are waging a battle against germs—and Nazis.

The American authorities believe the postwar fight against disease in Germany has been largely won.

But they say the infiltration of Nazis into the German medical, dental and pharmaceutical professions is one of "the thorniest problems" in the health field.

They warn that old Nazis already have edged into important health positions at the expense of Democrats and those they regard as untrustworthy.

American officials want to check the possibility of their getting control of medical associations and similar professional groups and setting them on a subversive path.

The difficulty is finding clear-cut grounds for excluding them. They have been cleared by de-Nazification courts or have said their best.

2nd Pilotless Plane Drones Over Florida

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla., May 4.—(AP)—The second completely pilotless flight of four engine aircraft in the United States was reported today.

Members of the 55th guided missile wing attached to this air proving ground operated the remote controlled take off of a B-17 Flying Fortress. The drone plane climbed to 30,000 feet and then was brought to a landing.

Eglin officials said the first such flight was accomplished some time ago when two B-17's were remotely controlled from Hilo, Hawaii to Maui, Calif.

The first test was flown by the same testing group, then known as the first experimental guided missile group.

The B-17 drone is not new to the Air Force or to Eglin, but previous to this the drone plane carried a "safely" pilot who would take over in case of necessity.

Prime Minister Says Pakistan Was Founded On Democratic Base

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)—Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan told Congress today that his new nation was founded on democracy and will remain true to its principles.

The leader of the world's largest Moslem state starting an official tour of the U. S., said that "no threat or persuasion, no material bribe or ideological allurements can deflect us from the path we have chosen."

He voiced a plea at the same time that leaders of world opinion use their wisdom and power to dispel and not to enhance the fears of an apprehensive world.

The Prime Minister, who was President Truman's overnight guest following his arrival yesterday, prepared identical addresses for separate sessions of the Senate and the House.

He touched only lightly on world affairs, avoiding direct reference to the East-West split and devoted most of his address to Pakistan's founding and its hopes and purposes.

"We sincerely hope that the leaders of world opinion will pursue the path of understanding and will use their wisdom and power to dispel and not to enhance the fears of an apprehensive world. Though freedom has had many births, greed, aggression and intolerance continue, alas, to rear their ugly heads."
