U. S. Net Stars Win Again From Italy To Earn Right To Meet France In Finals

PARIS. July 21—(INS)—Still smarting under the sting of Bill Tilden's summary dismissal from its ranks, the American team today swept on into the challenge round with France by scoring its third and conclusive victory over Italy in the inter-zone finals of the Davis cup series.

Johnny Hennessy, Indianapolis, and George Lott, Chicago, teaming perfectly, won the doubles match, which decided the final round, from Baron de Murguia and G. Gestini, in the same straightforward style that featured America's singles victories yesterday. The scores of today's match were 6-3, 6-1, 6-1.

The simplicity of the American victory could have been somewhat startling had it not been that it was almost ordained by the ease of their triumphs in the singles 24 hours earlier. Even with Tilden leading the charge against them, the Italians had been beaten in their first-round opposition. But, with Tilden declared out on a technicality that found only defiance with his teammates, the Americans became fairly inspired and brushed off opposition aside in their ruthless desire to win and obtain satisfaction for the fate of their leader.

Few victories have been easily gained in an inter-zone final. In fact, a three-match triumph without the loss of a set and the fact that only one of those sets were carried into extra games may constitute an inter-zone record. The performance, greeted heartily by a small gallery, sent the Americans into the challenge round with France next week with heightened hopes of making more than a creditable showing.

NOVELIST TELLS WHY GIRL ARTIST ENDED HER LIFE AND RICH WIDOW

MAXWELL BODKHEIM, Missing Author, Is Found By Police; Says Girl Jumped In River Because She Couldn't Write

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., July 21.—(INS)—Maxwell Bodenheim, poet and novelist, friend of Miss Virginia Drew, young artist and authoress whose body was found in the Hudson River, was located here today in the artist colony. Miss Drew was last seen alive leaving the apartment of Mr. Bodenheim, who subsequently disappeared.

Mr. Bodenheim frankly admitted that he went away from New York to avoid "unpleasant publicity."

He declared that he argued with Miss Drew until 10 o'clock in the morning of the day she left her New York apartment, trying to dissuade her from taking her life.

Disappointment over her failure to write acceptable verse coupled with reveries over the theory of reincarnation, was discovered to have figured in the case, and that was learned that the girl had talked of a suicide pact with a novelist friend.

Bodenheim, known in New York's Greenwich Village as the "Bohemian of Bohemians," was found in his cottage here, "the Peggy."

"Yes, she was at my apartment Friday night," he said.

"She's the last person I'll ever befriend, too. I left New York to get away from any publicity in this connection, and never thought you'd find me here. Still there's nothing to hide, only it's mighty unpleasant."

Two or three weeks ago I first heard of Virginia Drew. I got a letter from her in which she asked me to look over some verses she had written. She wanted to know if they were good or bad.

"She gave me her phone number in the letter and I called her up. She begged to be allowed to call at my apartment bringing the verses. So she came. They were not a bit artistic and I was forced to tell her so. She asked for frankness."

Charge Of Making Threats And Carrying Weapons Are Made Against Woman; Story Is Thought To Be Delusion

NORRITON, Pa., July 21.—(INS)—A warrant charging carrying concealed weapons and making threats was issued here today by magistrate Ralph McLaughlin against Mrs. Virginia Alvarez Hussey, who steadfastly holds to her story that she shot and killed her husband, Lindsey Hussey, an author, and a woman with whom the wife alleges he has been carrying on a love affair.

Owing to her extremely nervous condition, police said Mrs. Hussey would not be questioned further today. Reporters were not permitted to talk to her. Authorities are convinced that her account of the double killing is a delusion though it has now been established that she has been very bitter against her husband and his alleged paramour.

Convinced that the husband and his alleged paramour, are alive, police turned their search to Philadelphia. Hussey was arrested last Friday in Another, officer learned, on charges of passing $1,000 in worthless checks on the Raymond Trust Company.

Constable Morris, who arrested Hussey, said that Mrs. Grace Evans, wealthy divorcee, of number, visited Hussey, and gave her $1,000 to make good the checks and also furnish $1,000 bail for her release.

Yesterday Mrs. Hussey telephoned her son, Theodore, 16, and instructed him to leave their home at Broad Ave. Ambler, and go to a summer camp, police say. The youth told them,

"I'm hiding in Philadelphia on the advice of my lawyer. Don't talk to anyone" he is reported to have said.

Mrs. Hussey told several stories of the "double murder" in the Montgomery County prison. First she said that she had left the ladies' inside the road near Parkersburg. Later she said that she had found her husband and his paramour swimming in the Schuylkill River, and shot them after they had come ashore, and that his body remained in the water.

Rival Questioned In Rum Runner's Death

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 21.—(INS)—The appointment of Roy O. West as Secretary of Interior came as a surprise to all yesterday. It had been expected confidently that the post Driftless Work is creating would go to a western man, as it is in the regions well west of the Mississippi that reclamation and irrigation—the two outstanding problems of the Interior Department are most dominant.

West accepted the appointment, it is understood, with the express agreement that the tenure in office would run only to March 4, 1933, along with President Coolidge and that he need expect no similar reward from Hoover, should the latter be elected.

CARRANZA'S BODY IS TAKEN TO HOMELAND

LAREDO, Tex., July 21.—(INS)—The body of Capt. Emilio Carranza, Mexico's premier, killed in a crash in New Jersey several days ago while flying homeward from a good-will tour to the United States, was returned to his home land in an imposing and colorful ceremony on the international bridge here today.

The predominant note of the remembrance was military, but thousands of the thousands witnessed the affair and joined in the expressions of genuine sorrow for the gallant young flier.

HOPES WIN BRITISH RACE

LONDON, July 21.—(INS)—Lawrence Hope, piloting a de Havilland "moth" plane today won the record-Britain air race, for the King's cup. His flying time for the 1,000-1/2 miles was 10 hours and 21 minutes and he averaged 105-1/2 miles per hour. C. V. Holden finished second and Miss W. E. Sommer, the only women pilot in the contest, was a close third. The 80 pilots dropped off at Hendon yesterday, spending the night at Glasgow.

Tunney Facing Tiresome Journey From Speculator Camp To Scene Of Fight

NEW York, July 20.—(INS)—It strikes me, as the fellow said while trying to smell the electric fan, that among the several mistakes of Brother Tunney in connection with this Heeney matter of next Thursday night, the first has proved easily the foremost and worst. He shouldn't have selected Speculator N. Y., as a training camp; he could have gone to Coney Island and lost himself in the vice-maze, thus making real contact out of his attempt to reach New York in time for the fight.

Tunney franked in a jam this morning and he considered ways and means of getting here from an inaccessible spot like Speculator 35 miles from the nearest railroad station, without losing the edge of his form enroute.

He had intended to fly to New York the morning of the fight. Rickard says he won't let him, even if he, Rickard, has to go to court for an injunction against the undertaking. Brother Tunney probably doesn't realize it, but George is doing him a favor. An airplane flight of some 265 miles is not the way to establish a boxer's tranquility on the day of a contest and Tunney should know it.

He flew down from Stroudsburg to Philadelphia, a comparatively short distance, for the first Dempsey fight and arrived with an upset stomach, according to his own account of the incident. Rickard of course, isn't worrying about the good man's stomach upon arrival. What worries him is the arrival itself, meaning that he fears there might be almost none at all.

If he whistles for the law on this thing, Tunney will be faced with two courses of action—and neither of them is exactly ideal. If he comes by train the day before the fight, he must motor 35 miles to the nearest railroad station to Ponda and then spend an uncomfortable night on the train. If he elects to come all the way by automobile, he faces a fatiguing 16 hour drive, unless he wishes to spend a night in a hotel along the route. He could stop over Albany the night before the fight, after driving that far by motor, and then come on the rest of the way by train the next day.

This is the most feasible plan he could adopt, if he must stick with Speculator until the last possible moment. But it is far from ideal for a man who wants rest and quiet above all things. Such a man, about to go in and gamble with a million dollar asset naturally is keyed up, mentally and morally, and performance is easily affected by even slight discomforts.

The best plan to follow is one that Tunney probably will not consider for a moment. This would call for him to arrive here on Monday in order to become acclimated, for New York is thousands of feet lower than Speculator in altitude and about 20 degrees higher in temperature. He told Artie McGuire about his experience in arriving in the heat from Saratoga the night before the Gibbons fight, yet he is fixing to place himself in the same position this time.

His present dilemma is typical of the lack of forethought shown in Tunney's preparation for this fight. His other mistakes may prove, in the light of subsequent developments, to be unimportant at least, they seem so now in comparison with the notion that a man ought to go 265 miles away from where he wants to be at a given time.

GEORGIA GIRL BECOMES THE BRIDE OF JOHN BRUMLEY IN PRETTY WEDDING

CONIRMCE, Ga., July 21.—Just preceding the bride the maid of honor, Miss Thelma Stark descended the stairs wearing a beautiful gown of light blue green tulle veiling green taffeta, the graceful skirt effectively draped to form an uneven line. The satin slippers matched the gown and had petite rhinestone side buckles. She carried a lovely cascade bouquet of pastel shaded garden flowers similar to the bridesmaids.

Then came the little flower girl, Eleanor Hosch of Louisville, Ga., wearing a lovely orchid georgette trimmed with taffeta ruffles, carrying an arm basket of pink rose buds tied with blue tulle.

The bride was a picture of loveliness as she descended the stairway in her bridal gown of imported supreme white satin and rose point lace. The waist was a tight fitting bodice of satin. Ruffles of lace over tulle draped the skirt into shape in the center back. Outlining the design of the lace were embroidered in seed pearls.

Her handsome veil of imported white tulle was cap shaped, confined to her blonde hair by a bandeau of orange blossoms. Orange blossoms were caught at intervals, the entire length of the veil, which fell in graceful folds to form a train. Her white satin slippers were ornamented with lace and tiny sprays of orange blossoms and she carried a gorgeous bouquet of bride roses, valerian lilies and swansons, the shower of lilies and narrow lace ribbons reaching to the floor.

She was met at the foot of the stairway by her father to be given away at the altar where they were joined by the groom and his best man.

During the ceremony the lights were extinguished and only the soft glow of the candles shed their radiance over the bridal party. A reception followed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Brumley left immediately after the reception by motor for Washington, D. C., where they will take the boat to Eastern points and will spend several days in Canada. After August the first the young couple will be at home to their friends in Sanford.

The wedding march from Lohengrin was played for the entrance of the bridebearers, Masters, Herman La Pietiere, Jr. of Hoschton, and Dan Syfan of Commerce, as pianist who was dressed in a beautiful gown of cream lace over sunset yellow with a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. C. E. Shanks of Commerce accompanied as violinist and wore a lovely gown of rose chiffon embroidered in silver, with a shoulder corsage of pink roses.

The bride is the second daughter of Col. and Mrs. Lester Brumley of Sanford. She received her education at Kappa Delta at the University of Georgia where she received her education. She is a member of a prominent family of Commerce and this section.

The groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Brumley of Sanford. He received his education from the University of Florida where he is a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Mr. Brumley has been associated with his father in his many extensive business enterprises and is now the owner of a large boat works in Sanford. He is a popular member of the young social set in the city of Sanford.

The maids wore beautiful bouffant gowns of tulle and taffeta combined, in pastel shades and satin slippers matching their gowns. They carried cascade bouquets of pastel shaded garden flowers of pink and yellow roses, gladioli, snapdragons and delphinium tied with satin pastel ribbons.

Why, I argued with her from eight in the evening until three in the morning trying to talk her out of suicide, and I thought I succeeded. When she left, I walked with her along 45th Street, New York, and finally got her promise to go to living and make the best of things. Thought she went to a train.

I went back to the hotel, where my apartment is. The next day the clerk told me a man had called, flashed a badge of the secret service, said he was a brother of Miss Drew and hinted at suicide.

"I'm not going to carry on any longer," was what she said. I argued with her until I was black in the face, trying to persuade her if she could give up verses and devote her talents to music, painting or something else artistic.

Lay after day, in every city in the land, a nation's shopping list is made. On it is written every commodity used by man from the requirements of great industries to the needs of the housewife. Each day raw materials, equipment and supplies for the nation's factories must be bought. Each day the home-shopper goes forth with her market basket determined to secure the freshest and finest fruits, vegetables and other foods for her table.

tions that produce early seasonal crops. The experienced shopper is coming more and more to recognize the Florida product as the choice of the market.

For Florida citrus fruits alone, the finest in the world, the nation pays some fifty million dollars annually. Vegetables and other fruits bring the state about forty-five million dollars a year. Field crops, nuts, bulbs, ferns, etc., are worth thirty million annually.

Meat, poultry, dairy and apiary products total some forty million dollars in value.

In this day of plant culture and scientific research Florida is growing fast in importance as a great supply house for the entire nation.

Its vast resources and the incomparable diversity and productivity of its soil is appreciated and utilized more and more each year. Annually thousands of new names are added to the fast growing list of Florida buyers.

Florida leads the south in the shipment of lumber and is second in the world in naval stores. Its annual production of forest products totals $100,000,000. Three-fourths of all the phosphates used in the United States are produced in Florida. Many varieties of sea foods are found only in Florida, and producers of tobacco and manufacturers of tobacco products. Florida furnishes practically all of the fuller's earth used in the United States. In addition, each year Uncle Sam buys upwards of $200,000,000 worth of health, sunshine and recreation in Florida.

A countless number of the commodities on this great shopping list are Florida products. Many of them are not grown or produced elsewhere. Many more represent the things in the production of which Florida leads the world. Still others are those of which Florida can produce the best. Regularly, year in and year out, Florida invariably reaches the eastern and northern markets first with the freshest and finest fruits and vegetables. For in the state's proximity to the greatest markets of the country, Florida has a distinct advantage over other second tier states. We are
