

Fertile, Non-Fertile There's No Difference
DEAR DR. LAMB - I have been told that the fertile egg is better for your health than the infertile egg. Does the cholesterol in the fertile egg cause a build-up in the arteries the same as the infertile egg?
DEAR READER - You have been hearing a lot of nonsense. There is no health or nutritional difference between fertile and infertile eggs. As far as the cholesterol is concerned it's in the yolk.
The yolk is not fertilized and is nothing more than a big food sack for the developing chick embryo. The amount of cholesterol in the yolk of food is the same whether the egg has been fertilized or not and its action in the body is also the same. The fact that fertile eggs are better than infertile eggs is a bunch of nonsense that has been popularized by people who apparently have little or no knowledge of nutrition.
Since you are interested in controlling your cholesterol I'm sending you The Health Letter number 14, DHE. Preventing Atherosclerosis, to help you. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1581, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10018.
DEAR DR. LAMB - A couple of years ago I became aware that my testicles had reduced to about half their former size and since that time they are growing smaller. As I am now 78 the question of why this is happening is pretty academic. But contemplating the prospect of an emphysematous wife which would contain my pride in manhood is slightly disconcerting.
I am apparently in excellent health. Could this condition be inherited? Does it happen to others or could it be due to a vasectomy I had about 20 years ago? My family doctor says he doesn't know and the urologist who performed the operation is in another city and I don't have the address. I would very much appreciate your comment.

DEAR READER - Your present change is unrelated to your vasectomy. All a vasectomy does is tie off the pathway so the sperm cannot leave the testicles. In fact, it used to be hoped it would improve men's sexual capacity. Such results, however, are more likely to be related to a psychological response rather than any true benefit.
The testicles get smaller with age. Part of this may be caused by fundamental changes in hormone balance associated with aging. The testicles are under the control of hormones secreted by the pituitary gland underneath the brain. They really are the counterpart of ovaries which are also controlled by the pituitary gland and undergo degenerative changes at the time of the menopause.
Another important factor which can affect the size is the circulation to that area. If you have poor arterial circulation to the pelvic region, you could have a decrease in the size of the testicle.
Many men remain sexually active well past the age of 70. About half of American men are still sexually active at age 75.

HOROSCOPE

Wednesday, August 16, 1978
By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Aug. 16, 1978
In situations where you may have shied-off from seeking partners, you'll do the opposite this coming year. It's possible to establish some very powerful alliances.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll enjoy doing things today that are a blend of mental and physical nature. Activities where muscle is required won't be so appealing. Find to whom you're romantically suited by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 469, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10018. Be sure to specify birth sign.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Pals that are too play-oriented should be avoided today. Be sure chums are as industrious as you are.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Here's the secret for chalking up points with a friend today: Instead of requesting a favor (as you intend) do one for him.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Your first inclination may be to savor a letter bill when passing on information today. The wise course is to tell it straight.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Be careful in money matters today or else you may come up with the short end and yet think you've got the best deal. Ask lots of questions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're more skillful at accomplishing what you go after today when acting independently. Associates you count on may be unreliable.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Today's decisions should be predicated upon logic, not emotion. Where your feelings intervene, your reason deserts you.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Don't beat around the bush where things affecting your security are concerned today. If you want a condition changed for the better, ask outright.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today it would be unwise to think you could pull something that may offend others and thereby to make amends later. This would have dire results.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be realistic concerning types of results you anticipate today. Success is likely but the trophy might not be as large as you expected.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll make a better deal today businesswise if you don't announce in advance how much you're prepared to spend or receive if you want to close the transaction.
CANCER (June 21-July 21) In a major relationship where there's been a bit of disharmony lately, do something positive to rectify it today rather than let it remain as is.

WIN AT BRIDGE
plus one or maybe two in hearts.
It seemed imperative to attack hearts right away. The second diamond was not going to run away in any event.
Which heart to lead? The standard lead from jack-10-small is the jack, but this did not seem to be the right time for the standard lead.
East led the deuce.
What should declarer do? You can see the four of hearts is the winning play, but declarer could not. He played his queen. West took his ace and jack and hearts. The defense got their two heart tricks.
Note that if East tried to cash a second diamond, South would ruff, draw trumps, knock out the club ace, discard a heart from dummy on his fourth club and make his game.
Ask the Experts
By Oswald Jacoby and Allan Sonsteg
East took his king of diamonds and was about to continue with the ace. Then he stopped to put the acronym "ARCI" to work.
He analyzed the lead. Third or fourth best - probably fourth best.
He reviewed the bidding. West had bid him. West undoubtedly had something in addition to the queen of diamonds. Dummy was in clubs. Therefore, it had to be in hearts.
Then he counted his winners. One or possibly two diamonds, plus one club.

ROBERT SHEVIN GEORGE KARCHER

Shevin: Police Review Board Public

By DENNIS FEOLA
Herald Staff Writer
The chief said the inquiry was made in January in connection with an internal hearing for a Casseberry police officer now a member of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department.
He said in conforming with state law, Casseberry has a commission review board comprised of three members. One member is chosen by the policeman involved, one is chosen by the police chief and the third is selected by the two chosen officers. Karcher said the board only reviews the facts of the case and offers a non-binding recommendation to the chief.
He said in the January case the officer chose to sit in on the meeting with his attorney. Karcher said he denied the request and was informed by the lawyer the meeting was governed by the Sunshine Law. The lawyer and the officer did not sit in on the hearing at Karcher's request, he said.
"I didn't know whether to view it as a public hearing or an internal matter within the police department," Karcher said.
He said the officer was cleared of the complaint which dealt with his manner and speech during the insurance of a traffic citation.
"This is fine. Now we know it is a public hearing," Karcher said.

Sheriff Beef-Up: More Lawmen On Roads

By MAX ERKLETTAN
Herald Staff Writer
The Seminole County Sheriff's Department is in the midst of a reorganization designed to put more officers on road patrol.
The restructuring will include doing away with the chief deputy's position, according to plans under consideration by Sheriff Joe Polk.
"I'm contemplating at this time doing away with the chief deputy's position," said Polk. "The department would be divided into two main sections under the present proposal. We would have an operations section and a support section," explained Polk.
"The chief deputy would be a major in charge of operations. He would still be second in command of the sheriff's department and would serve in my place when I was gone."
The operations section is comprised of the patrol, vice, narcotics, detective and investigations divisions, according to Polk.
"I will not come back and ask for additional manpower to man these motorcycles," Polk told the commission.
Polk claimed reports of speeding in residential areas is increasing.
"I am as disturbed as you gentlemen are from each of your districts about the complaints of people continually violating the traffic laws of the state," Polk told the commission.
"We're talking about a general restructuring. I'm not at the point where I can draw a complete diagram and say who is going where," said Polk. "We may not be to that until the first of the year."
One of the most immediate effects of the reorganization will be the institution of tighter traffic control. That will be accomplished through the addition of two motorcycles to the force.
Polk said the additional motorcycles will not mean an increase in manpower, because of his reorganization.
"The reorganization commission approved a transfer of $9,000 from other funds within Polk's budget to purchase the motorcycles Tuesday.

"Thank Heaven, we are not getting all the government we are paying for," said Woodrow Wilson Storey, Democratic candidate for the District 16 seat in the Florida Senate, Tuesday, to more than 100 members of the Seminole County Board of Realtors attending the organization's monthly luncheon.
This is a favorite remark by the late Will Rogers, Storey of Indiana, said. Storey and 11 other candidates of both political parties were appealing for votes in the upcoming Sept. 13 primary election.
Storey labeled himself a "Wilsonian Democrat," saying he is a "self-made man" who joined the army as an enlisted man and rose to the rank of colonel in five years. A former vice president of Martin Marietta, Storey said he had given up both his practice of law and his business to devote full time to the Senate when he is elected.
The three other Democratic candidates for the District 16 Senate seat were vacated by Lori Wilson of Cocoa and their remarks were:
Nathan Van Meter of Casseberry, who said he will carry the Realtors' pledge of protecting the rights of people to own and enjoy property to the Senate floor.
"I've been fighting high taxes for years," said Van Meter, pointing to his record as a member of the Casseberry City Council and a reduction in of both property taxes and utility taxes there last year.
— Bill Beck of St. Cloud, a former county commissioner in Osceola County, a citrus grower and associate Realtor, said the citizens of Florida are over-regulated by the state bureaucracy. Noting his primary livelihood is from citrus groves and "a few cows," Beck suggested: "Compare me to the rest, you'll find I'm not a lobbyist."
— Said Glenn Turner: "It's nice to be running for the government rather than from the government." He said he is tired of government taking over and will form a committee, if elected, to advise him on legislation which should be passed and laws which should be repealed.
"I don't want to be one of 40 senators," he said. "I want to be the senator. I want to be a lobbyist for the people. I won't be a good lobbyist," he said.
Candidates for the District 34 seat in the Florida House who spoke were:
— Joe Knowles, D-Lansburg, who told of his recent trip to Texas where he went to buy a few cows. He said cattlemen are unhappy because President Carter is permitting the importation of beef. In retaliation, Texas cattlemen's cars carry the bumper strip saying: "eat foreign peanuts," he said.
"I'm an outspoken opponent of the over-regulation of our daily lives," Knowles said. "Socio-economic forces are eroding our property rights."
— Cal DeVancey, D-Altamonte Springs, said he would like to work on the bureaucracy of the state and would concentrate on repealing laws. He pointed to the one and one-half pages of legislation which called for annual motor vehicle inspections

Seminole School Tax Rate At $8

By LEONARD KRANSDORF
Herald Staff Writer
With two of its members objecting for opposing reasons the Seminole County School Board Tuesday night adopted 3-2 the $8.362,646-68 budget for the 1978-1979 school year.
The budget calls for a tax rate of $8 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.
The budget is about $4 million more than last year's budget of $59.8 million. The increase money is coming from state and local revenues, according to Roger Harris assistant superintendent of finance, so no raise in the tax rate is necessary.
Voting for the budget were: Pat Telson, E. C. Harper and Allan Keech.
Objecting to the budget were members Roland Williams and Robert Feather. Feather called the budget a "rip-off" remarks about lowering the tax rate.
As he has in the past, Feather stressed that the millage could be lowered to 7.75 and still school districts with the lowest scores on the state assessment test had lowered their rate.

Psst...Got This Bridge To Name...

It's not every day a man gets a bridge named for him and Thursday will be Sanford attorney Douglas Strom's big day.
At a ceremony scheduled 9:30 a.m. on the Seminole County bridge of the St. Johns River, the $2.62 million Osteen Bridge will be officially dedicated as the Douglas Strom Bridge.
The public is invited to attend what Chamber Executive Manager Jack Horner describes as a "brief but meaningful ceremony."
These attending may get there on their own via Colony Avenue or join the official motorcade which will leave the Greater Sanford Chamber at 9:40 a.m., Horner said. Horner described Strom as "a quiet gentleman, who gets a lot done and is a credit to the community and state."

HE WALKED AWAY
An Altamonte Springs man escaped serious injury Tuesday when his car flipped over after it hit the curb in front of the Oak Ridge Motel at 626 Highway 17-92 in Fern Park. Terry Wayne Cotton, 35, of 811 Grandview Ave. was treated at the scene (background) by rescue attendants. A sheriff's department spokesman said a car pulled in front of Cotton's car and he swerved to avoid hitting it, striking the curb, causing the car to flip over.

Cold Wave in Brazil:

Higher Prices For Coffee?

LONDRINA, Brazil (UPI) — More than a quarter of the trees in the heart of the coffee-growing region already have been damaged by an Antarctic cold wave sweeping Brazil, officials reported, but industry sources said the estimate was too low.

Coffee prices leaped 13 percent on the New York commodities market this week, and the Brazilian Coffee Institute suspended all exports of beans and instant coffee while officials evaluate the frost damage. Industry sources in Rio de Janeiro predicted the most critical period would occur tonight, when clear weather and cold winds are expected to bring the lowest temperatures.

China Cardinal Dies In Rome

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Cardinal Paul Yu Pin of China died in Rome today, reducing to 111 the number of cardinals expected to attend the Aug. 25 conclave for the election of a new pope, Vatican officials said.

Soviet Dissident Convicted

MOSCOW (UPI) — Using traditional czarist tactics of banishing opponents to prison or Siberian exile, the Soviet government has effectively eradicated the Moscow dissident community and swept virtually all its foes out of the capital. The latest case: A Soviet court in Elektrostal, a village 40 miles from Moscow that is off-limits to foreigners, convicted Alexander Podrabinek of anti-Soviet slander and sentenced him to five years in exile Tuesday.

BEDFORD, Mass. (UPI) — The balloon Double Eagle II drifted to within 425 miles of the British Isles today and the three American adventurers aboard were reported to be in good shape and high spirits in their quest to make the first trans-Atlantic balloon crossing.

Buckling Roads Prompt Move In Casselberry

The Casselberry City Council has declared an emergency on Kenton and Lilac Roads in the city where drainage has been an emergency problem during the past six weeks has caused the roads to buckle.

Mayor Bill Grier and City Engineer Kenneth Ehlers urged the council to cite the emergency and authorize the expenditure — without going to bid — of $15,200 to repair the roads. Grier said the immediate action was necessary to save three-quarters of the two roads from being destroyed.

Work to be done under the emergency authorization includes temporary patching, $600; $1,100 for installation of 870 linear feet of underdrains; $1,200 for underdrain connections to existing storm drainage inlets; $1,500 for paving and underdrain replacement at the intersection of Winter Park Drive at Lilac and Kenton.

Ehlers in a memo to the council said the litterrock base on both roads is deteriorating and the roads are actually breaking up. He said the water table underneath has risen to the point where it is seeping, and in some spots creating fountains, out the top of the road surface. There are no underdrains at either road.

Ehlers recommended that 90, 120 days after this work is done and the results are observed, another $6,000 be allocated to replace the sub-base, base and asphaltic concrete at both locations.

Only Councilman Don Willson voted against the declaration of an emergency, insisting an emergency exists and that the action defeats the purposes of the bid law.

"A citizen might take us to court or the state attorney might hear of this," Willson said.

Willson also wanted the action on the issue deferred until Councilman Carl Robertson Jr., ill with pneumonia, could be present. Willson said that authorizing the emergency was turning money over to the mayor and engineer to spend as they see fit.

Grier said 21.50 inches of rain fell in the city in July.

In other business, the council granted a 30-day extension of contract, requested by Arico Construction Co., which is working on a portion of the city's overall drainage plan.

Shevin Asks Tax Breaks On Homes

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Seeking to keep Floridians from forcing property tax freezes or drastic cuts in local school taxes, governor candidate Robert Shevin today proposed doubling homestead tax exemptions.

He also said if casino gambling is authorized in November, he would veto any implementing legislation that permitted slot machines in the casinos.

"Slot machines are the worst kind of gambling," he said. Shevin reiterated his refusal to commit himself to voting any implementing legislation, saying the ballot amendment might be self-executing and the state would lose all control without regulatory laws.

Shevin proposed the higher homestead exemption be applied only to school taxes with the state making up the $60 million it would cost the schools. He said the money could come from the state's current $130 million surplus.

The proposal would up homesteaded tax exemption from $10,000 to $20,000 for senior citizens and from $5,000 to $10,000 for everyone else.

He coded his proposal — if adopted by the legislature and the people — would mean an annual savings of only $40 to the average homeowner and $80 to senior citizens.

"But to the poor and the person living on a fixed income, that is a substantial sum," he told a news conference.

Florida property taxes are already among the lowest in the nation and about half what they were in California before that state adopted "proposition 13" which roughly cut taxes in half.

But, Shevin said, Floridians are demanding tax relief and if they don't get it his way, they are going to force a rollback in tax rates either of which he thinks would be bad.

(Continued From Page 1A) percent increase in salaries and fringe benefits that we are offering the teachers could be reduced.

Board negotiator Ernest Cowley, who is currently involved in negotiations with the teachers, said he could not comment on what guidelines the board members have given him. He did not say the board does not give across the board raises, but the percentage of raises given to teachers depend on the pay grade that is established.

Currently the pay grade is set at $8,700. Among the items included in the new budget is an increase of school lunches from 50 cents to 55 cents for kindergarten and 60 cents to 65 cents for sixth grade through twelfth grade.

Also included is $208,000 for eight new buses. The budget also includes $6,748,823 for capital outlay projects.

The budget has $22,932,170 for salaries. If that amount is changed after the negotiations have been completed it would require amendments to put the budget and money be shifted from other areas.

In a statement which surprised both his fellow board members and teachers in the audience, Feather noted "I don't agree to any 11 percent increase," was the initial reaction of Board Chairman Telson to Feather's remarks.

"I think he is completely inaccurate and that figure was not reflected in any meetings that I went to," said Williams. "It's news to me, and as a matter of fact we didn't agree established."

Memphis: Blackout, Strikes As Thousands Honor Elvis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — A county-wide blackout authorities said was caused by sabotage darkened Memphis today and fostered widespread looting in the midst of a police and fire strike. Police said a suspect in the sabotage had been arrested.

A police official indicated the blackout was linked to the strike by police and firefighters, but the suspect's name was not released and police said they did not know if he was involved with the strike.

The blackout came as a vast pilgrimage of reverent Elvis Presley admirers and an army of souvenir peddlers converged on the strike-plagued city to honor the late rock 'n' roll kid who died a year ago today.

Marathon Swim Pays Off

By United Press International Diana Nyad was blocked from her goal by choppy seas and strong currents Tuesday, but swam nearly 100 miles in her 41 1/2-hour effort to reach Key West from Cuba. She pulled herself from her shark cage at 7:45 a.m. EDT. Her attempt earned her a $100,000 personal appearance contract with a tooth-paste company.

On the other hand Stella Taylor, whose Bimini to Fort Lauderdale swim — she made 140 miles in 31 1/2 hours — was aborted at 3:15 p.m. EDT, when the Gulf Stream swept her away from land. The high-powered publicity behind Miss Nyad's swim has not been lost on Miss Taylor. She says she'll never swim for free again.

Power Company Winning One

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — A battle against a 47-mile power line being built across the cornfields of west-central Minnesota to carry 400-kilovolt of electricity to the suburb of Delano, seems to be almost at an end. The power company expects to claim its victory next month.

The farmers, who own the land, have fought the power line stretching over their land with rifles, wrenches, rocks and manure. But, once the power line becomes functional, it will become a federal crime to tamper with its operation. And as a power company spokesman pointed out, "If anyone comes in contact with that 400,000 volt line, it's all over."

Postal Workers Back Strike

DENVER (UPI) — Postal Workers Union President Emmet Andrews said delegates overwhelmingly approved a resolution on a voice vote Tuesday, to call a nationwide strike if a current contract offer is rejected by the rank and file and a new pact cannot be drawn up within five days.

But, Andrews again predicted union members would ratify the contract proposal. "If I had to bet on it, I'd bet the contract will be ratified." The deadline for mailing in ballots is midnight Aug. 23.

Ray Under Oath: 'I Didn't Kill Dr. King'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James Earl Ray, the petty crook who pleaded guilty to the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr., today denied under oath that he shot the civil rights leader.

"I did not shoot Martin Luther King Jr.," Ray told the House Assassinations Committee in televised testimony.

Ray said new FBI documents point to a conspiracy between the bureau and Memphis police to kill King.

He said his first lawyer, Percy Foreman, made a deal with Tennessee authorities that resulted in his pleading guilty without facing a trial.

Ray said he had a 38-page statement to read to the committee, but began reading from three "newly discovered" FBI documents.

One said the first person to reach King's fallen body was a Memphis undercover police officer. This officer then pointed in the direction of the rooming house from which the fatal shot was believed to have been fired.

It was believed that Ray would testify that several blocks away from the murder site at a service station.

The testimony took place before 12 committee members, some 200 carefully screened, specially ticketed members of the public, and the news media. Escorting by his lawyer, Mark Lane, Ray entered the hearing room under heavy security provided by federal marshals.

He wore a checkered sportcoat and a striped tie and carried a briefcase.

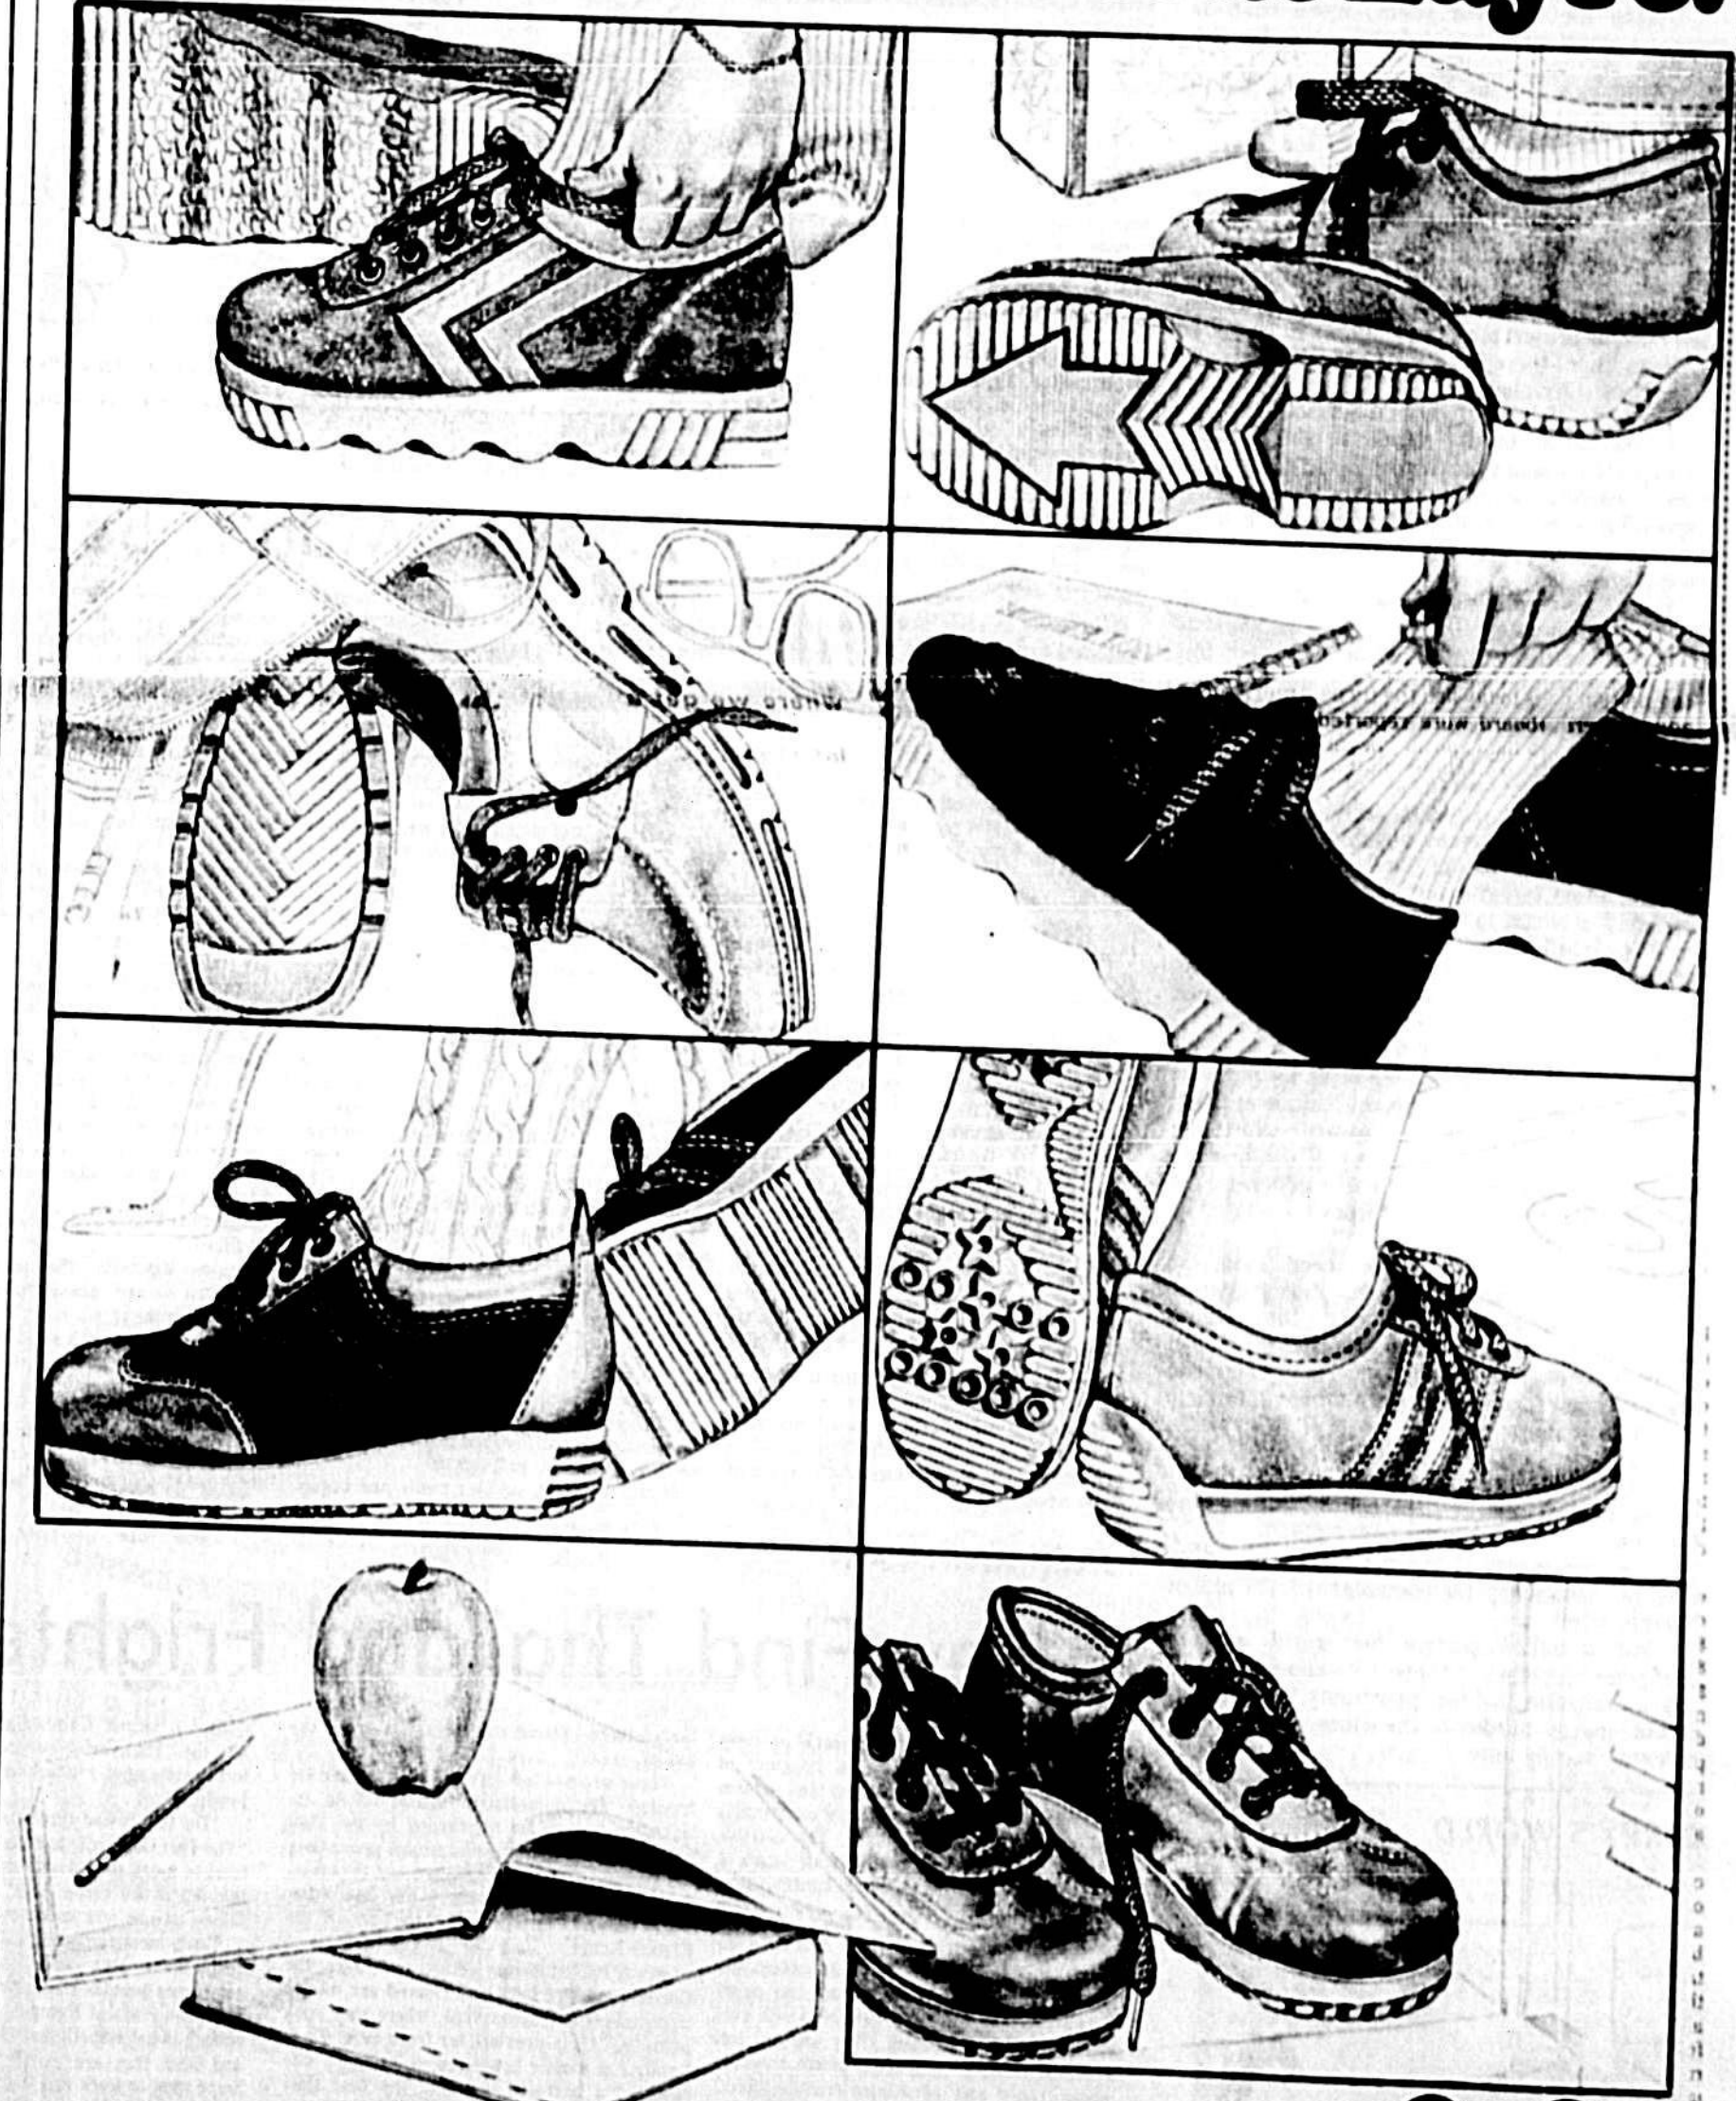

Before Ray testified, Lane protested that his client had been beaten by federal marshals on Monday when he was transferred to Washington. But Rep. Richardson Preyer, D-N.C., said that matter was not before the committee.

On another point, Lane contended his client had been beaten by guards as late as Monday and held in solitary confinement for 24 hours. Preyer, a former federal judge, interrupted Lane, saying:

"This is not a trial. There are no prosecutors. There are no defendants. The role of counsel is not that of counsel in a criminal trial. The role of counsel is to advise the witness as to his constitutional rights."

Lane, his latest attorney, preceded Ray by making several procedural motions — one to permit other defense attorneys a place at the witness table. It was rejected for security reasons.

Sanford Man Beaten, Found Unconscious At City Lounge

By DENNIS FZOLA
Herald Staff Writer

A Sanford man was found by sheriff's deputies unconscious and bleeding from multiple cuts at a Sanford lounge. Persons inside the Star-Lite Lounge at 2301 Orlando Drive told deputies they didn't know anything about the incident. Deputy R. O'Connor was first at the scene at 11 p.m. Tuesday. The man was identified as Wayne Farmer Crumpton, 35, of 2659 Magnolia Ave. Employees and customers in the lounge told deputies the incident occurred outside the lounge and the door was closed and they didn't hear anything. A barmaid at the lounge, who asked not to be identified, said the man was in the lounge earlier in the evening but had left about an hour before he was found just outside the front door. "His face was completely bloodied," she said. "I've been

In the saloon business for 30 years and I've never seen anything like that."

The woman said police speculated the man could have been hit by a car. "It looked to me as if somebody beat the hell out of him," she said. The barmaid said Crumpton was a regular customer. "He's a quiet guy, he doesn't bother anyone," she said. A spokesman for Seminole Memorial Hospital said the bedroom of the home while she was on vacation, according to records. Nothing else was taken and there were no signs of forced entry to the house, reports indicate. A neighbor told deputies she saw a man, about 21-years-old, driving a blue pick-up truck, park in front of the house late last month. Candidates of both parties get to know one another well during the course of an extended political campaign. And the luncheon meeting of the Seminole County Board of Realtors Tuesday provided just the right forum for such happenings. Exchanging views (photo left) are Sandra Glenn, GOP candidate for county commissioner, and Nathan Van Meter, Democratic candidate for the state senate. Meanwhile (center photo), Joe Knowles, Democratic hopeful for District 31 House seat, talks to Jean Doyle, Republican running for District 33 House seat. At far right, businessman J. R. Hattaway (seated) ponders what Cal DeVoney, Democratic candidate for the District 31 House seat, has to say.

which was expanded by the bureaucracy to a 106-page manual of regulations.

"I want to repeal unnecessary legislation," he said. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, told of his problems concerning the posting of campaign signs. He said he acquired appropriate permits from the county for signs in the unincorporated areas Tuesday. "I'm all legal now," he said.

Nothing he is a member of the county's planning and zoning commission, Brantley said that zoning is an area that must be addressed by government, adding there is a fine line between what is legal and what is right.

Bob Love, P-Longwood, said government must not be permitted to discourage ownership of private property through excessive property taxes. "I'm sick of government taking our earnings to benefit those who do not wish to work," said Lovell.

He said that in Florida the legislature has control of property taxes. Lovell said he offers strong, experienced and mature leadership.

Gerome Frederick, non-partisan candidate for the circuit court seat currently held by Dominick Salli, said the Sept. 12 primary will determine the winners in judicial contests.

"I want the job," said Frederick. "It's not the money nor the prestige. I will be a full-time circuit judge," he said, adding however, that the salary with an upcoming raise for circuit judges will be $23.50 per hour. "Good money in anyone's book," he said.

"I know I can do the job better than it is being done now," Bill Bracken, who represented Salli, described the judge who has been in office eight years as thorough. "He cares," said Bracken, adding that his candidate is actively involved in the community, conducting creative aggression classes to help people solve their problems and mock trials so that school children will better understand the judiciary system.

Sandra Glenn, Republican candidate for the county commission, district 4, said she would be a full-time commissioner and would not depend on paid staff members and advisory boards to make decisions for her.

In making judgments on programs, she said she considers the three questions, "Do we need it? Do people want it? Can we afford it?"

Mrs. Glenn said she is the only daughter of a Baptist minister father and a school teacher mother, and has served four years on the Altamonte city commission, and with the state and county governments as well.

Ron Holman, the second GOP candidate for that county commission office, said he saw things change in Seminole County between the time he went away to school and came back and many of the changes were not good.

"There's nothing wrong with growth," he said. "Some growth is healthy and some is not." Chairman of the Seminole County planning and zoning commission, Holman said he is concerned with the attitude in the courthouse of telling citizens what they can't do.

Other candidates who were introduced but not given the opportunity to speak because they are not involved in primary races were State Rep. Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs, and His GOP opponent Jean Doyle of Tanglewood for the District 33 seat in the Florida House of Representatives; and John Perkins, D-Altamonte Springs, candidate for county commission, district 4.

Neither County Commissioner John Alexander, D-Longwood, nor his Republican opponent, Bob Sturm of the Woodlands, attended.

Road-Paving Plans Start In W. Springs

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Consulting Engineers, Clark, Dietz and Associates, were directed by the Winter Springs City Council Tuesday night to proceed with detailed engineering plans for paving roads and providing drainage in the Ranchettes section of the city.

The call for the detailed engineering plans is the first step toward providing the improvements under an assessment program in that area.

Bill Holmes of the engineering firm estimated construction costs for the improvements at $271,000. And Mayor Troy Piland predicted the total costs including engineering, legal fees and administration will ultimately total $355,000.

Holmes said the scope of the improvements envisioned at this point include the paving of Hayes, Salfish, Coral Way, Bonita, Marlin, Dolphin, Silver Creek and Tides Road. He said paved roads would be 30 feet wide with soil-cement base and grout and drainage would be provided with outfall into Gee Creek. Underdrains would be installed in a north-south direction, he said.

Hayes Road paving would be 24-feet wide, he said. He estimated the cost of paving at $137,000 with small inlets and outfall pipe at $27,000.

He said paving would total 12,200 feet in length serving 220 lots, adding that estimates were based on today's prices for similar work.

In addition, Holmes said engineering fees would total $25,000 to $25,000 and surveying would cost about $5,000. Holmes said construction would take six to nine months for completion. Acting City Attorney Wallace

Stalnaker said that costs "must be more particularized" in order to have an assessment program whereby property owners benefiting from the improvements would pay the full costs.

The Ranchettes section of the city has been plagued with drainage problems. The area was platted before the city adopted a subdivision ordinance. So when new homes were built paving of streets and providing drainage could not be required.

Student Tests Rescued

TALLAHASSEE. (UPI)—The functional literacy test failed by 37 percent of Florida's 81th graders last October will be re-scored, but youngsters are being warned not to get their hopes up.

"There will be a few cases where it will make a difference, but very few," said Dr. Carey Ferrell Jr., state public schools director. "I don't want a lot of students to get their hopes up and be disappointed."

Trying to quiet growing opposition to the literacy and basic skills exams, the Cabinet late Tuesday adopted a new scoring system and created a task force to recommend other changes.

It also changed the name of the literacy test so students failing it won't be branded as illiterates.

The fact the Cabinet wrestled with the issue for nearly nine hours trying to do something is "gratifying," Florida Legal Services Director Bob Williams said.

Florida's educational accountability act requires students to pass the literacy exam, given in the 11th and 12th grades. It requires 8th, 9th, 10th and 11th graders to meet each of the 34 standards in the basic skills exam to be promoted to the next grade.

Thirty-seven percent failed the literacy exam the first time around, including 77 percent of black students. Most 11th graders failed at least one of the basic skills standards and were required to take remedial instruction.

The dual passing requirement established by the Department of Education when the tests were begun last year was eliminated by Cabinet members on the literacy test and 11th grade basic skills exam.

A student must answer correctly 70 percent of the total questions, not no longer must he also pass at least 80 percent of the "skills" or sub-sections.

Babe Still In His Own Class

NEW YORK (UPI)—Clonest ballplayer to Babe Ruth right now, as far as personality goes, is Pete Rose.

Whatever the Babe felt, he said, he was almost childlike in his approach, completely natural, the same as Pete Rose.

"I never saw him run flatfooted. He was always up on his toes. That dog trot of his circling the bases after a home run was something you had to see to fully appreciate. It has been frequently imitated but never duplicated.

"The Babe had a special way with kids and women. They all loved him. Once you heard him speak, you'd never forget that voice. It had a sandpaper quality that rumbled along. His voice started out as a growl and generally wound up as a purr.

"The Yankees gave me nothing," he said, using a much harsher word than "nothing." "I know I'm not in good shape now, but I'd be in much worse shape if not for the Ford Foundation. They at least gave me a job."

"The job they gave him was with their Junior Legion baseball program and he paid $500 a week. Despite the Babe's claim that he wasn't in very good financial shape, he left an estate of somewhat more than $300,000, which would amount to better than $1 million in today's inflated economy.

"Don't worry about him at all," the priest told the children. "He was in fine shape when he went. He received all the last rites and died a good Catholic. He said his prayers until the end."

Stretching and bending were items on the football agenda this morning at Seminole High School, where fall practice has taken over the local sports spotlight.

Doctors: Decision In Two Weeks

Each team in the NFL was forced to reduce its roster to 80 players Tuesday, but attention throughout the league remained focused on a California hospital room.

Doctors said Tuesday it will be about two weeks before they can predict the recovery prospects for Darryl Stingley, the New England Patriots wide receiver, who was paralyzed in an exhibition game last week.

A spokesman at Edin Hospital, where Stingley is in traction under intensive care, said new X-rays showed there is no need for further surgery at this time. Stingley has some movement in his right arm and sensation in his entire body, but the paralysis resulting from a spine injury remains unchanged.

The 26-year-old receiver was hit by safetyman Jack Talton of the Oakland Raiders while diving for a catch at midfield. Two vertebrates in his neck were broken. Surgery was performed and he was put in traction.

Elsewhere, only two weeks into exhibition play, the first cry of "cheap shot" has been heard. Houston quarterback Dan Fouts said his leg injury in Monday night's exhibition game with Philadelphia was not as serious as first thought.

Texas Makes Bold Move

By United Press International The Texas Rangers are finally playing the way they feel they could have been playing all season long.

"For the first time all year we believe in ourselves," said Richie Zisk, whose home run was one of only two Ranger hits in a 1-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Besides getting Zisk's clutch seventh-inning home run, his 14th homer of the season and first in six weeks, the Rangers played errorless ball, continuing a recent trend toward improvement in the area of team defense.

"If we had been playing defense like this all year we'd be in a lot better shape than we are now," said Manager Billy Hunter.

Brewers 9, Blue Jays 1: Larry Hale belted his 27th home run and Robin Yount and Cecil Cooper contributed three hits to light a 14-hit Brewer attack. Jerry Augustine, 11-11, threw his eighth complete game.

Pastorini said his leg injury in Monday night's exhibition game with Philadelphia was not as serious as first thought. But he said he was convinced Bill Berry's late hit knocked him out of the game was avoidable.

Bermy, one of the NFL's premier middle linebackers, drew a roughing-the-passer penalty for diving into Pastorini's knees after the quarterback delivered a pass in the second quarter of the Eagles' 26-10 victory. Pastorini had to be helped from the field after the incident.

"It feels a lot better today," the quarterback said of his left thigh. "The doctor told me it was not a hamstring ... he said I pulled a tendon that attaches to the upper part of the hamstring."

Tech Ditches Wishbone, Uses 'I'

ATLANTA (UPI) — You may not recognize Pepper Rodgers' Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets this fall. But, then, you may not recognize Pepper Rodgers either. The Yellow Jackets have abandoned their wishbone offense. They have gone to the "I" and plan to make the forward pass an integral part of their offense. Now, that's really a change when you recall they averaged only two completions per game last year. Rodgers' personal change is just as drastic. The previously flamboyant coach has switched to short hair, three-piece suits and a mustache. Rodgers said he moved to the "I" because six years of wishbone is long enough. Anyway, I got tired of the wishbone when I kept finding my quarterback stuck with the ball. Credit the personal change to Rodgers' wife. "She knows style, so when she says short hair is back in, that's good enough for me." Rodgers has had three winning teams in his four years at Georgia Tech, but the best of those was 7-4 and he has reason to believe that 1978 might be a bowl year.

"We've got the best team we've had," Rodgers says of a squad with 16 starters included among 49 returning lettermen. "Physically, we're certainly better, but before you start translating that into wins and losses remember that other teams may be better too." Georgia Tech will have an experienced offensive line averaging about 250 from tackle to tackle. Rodgers points out that coming off the wishbone means that line "has to learn to pass block." Gary Hardie was a wishbone quarterback who spent the spring playing baseball. Rodgers says sophomore Ted Peoples will run No. 1 at the start of preseason "and Hardie will have to back him out." Gary Lanier, who alternated at quarterback with Hardie last year, has been switched to wide receiver, but Rodgers says "he'll work out at quarterback to keep his hand in. You never know when injuries might bring you up short." Georgia Tech appears set at running back. Eddie Lee Ivory, a 210-pound senior, set a school record last fall when he rushed for 800 yards, averaging nearly six yards per carry. And Rodney Lee, 205-pound junior, didn't start playing regularly until near midseason but still wound up with 700 yards. "I think we'll be quicker on defense," said Rodgers. "In fact, we have a chance to have the best defensive team Tech's had in four or five years." Mind you now, Rodgers says that despite the loss of second-team All-American linebacker Lucius Sanford and three starters from the defensive front. "We've got some quality people playing defense," said Rodgers. "Especially Machel Harris (who has been moved from linebacker to end). Harris is an exciting defensive player, one who always seems to be in on every tackle." Tech will have 275-pound Roy Simmons anchoring the defensive line at nose guard and he'll be flanked by Mike Blanton and Larry Reese who both top 250. Tech's biggest defensive improvement over last season, when the Yellow Jackets went 6-4, should be in the secondary.

Cook Of The Week

Describes Cooking As 'Heinz Variety'

By ELDA NICHOLS
Herald Correspondent

Elhel Firth, Longwood, describes her cooking as "the Heinz variety type." "We have lived in Japan and Pakistan, as well as different sections of the United States, on my husband's tours of duty in the Army. Then, I'm from the North and Robert, my husband, is from the South. So I go from black-eyed peas and cornbread to highly spiced Pakistani foods or just plain cooking." Laughing, she added, "We had been stationed in El Paso, Texas, right across the border from Mexico at one time. I really enjoyed Mexican cooking. When we were transferred to New Jersey, I missed the food so much that I wrote back and asked for some of the recipes. And they were sent to me, too!"

Elhel Firth cubes meat in preparation for Sweet An Sour Pork.

Elhel believes in well-balanced meals, and stated, "Even though the price of groceries is high, I've never skimped on food." Back when they were stationed in Pakistan, she said, "The men sat in front and women sat in back, we included. They had their choice of the food and we got the scraps!" Continuing, she said, "It was an outpost type of station. We never got any news until two weeks after it had happened. All food was flown in. We were there for two years, but I don't regret the experience at all."

Elhel's hobbies include sewing, tennis, bowling and dancing. "I like to be active," she said. SWEET AND SOUR PORK 1-1/2 lb. pork, cubed 1 Tbsp. cooking sherry

Ex-Wife Using His Name Confusing To New Mrs.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my ex-wife. We were married for less than two years, never had any children, and then were divorced. That was 10 years ago, but she is still calling herself "Mrs. Sidney Feinbaum." It is causing a lot of confusion because I am married again and my wife is constantly being confused with the ex-Mrs. Feinbaum. To make matters worse, my ex-wife and my present wife have charge accounts at many of the same stores, and my wife gets the bills that she has gone to the Mrs. Feinbaum.

DEAR ABBY: I'm another one of your readers who never thought she'd be writing to Dear Abby, but here I am. I found out recently that my husband went to a massage parlor, and needless to say, he received more than a massage for his money. He didn't tell me on his own, but I found out about it because he CHANGED IT! Can you believe this? When I confronted him with the evidence, he said he had planned to tell me, but he just hadn't gotten around to it. We've been married for six years and nothing like this has ever happened before. He asked me to please forgive him, and he promised it wouldn't happen again.

Amigos, Serve A Brunch Mexicano For A Fun Family Fiesta At Home

Attention amigos: you're invited to "Brunch Mexicano"—a colorful feast from south of the border.

Capture the spirit of a meal Latin-style with "Arroz Mexicano" (Mexican Rice), a delicately spiced yet hearty main dish.

A traditional Mexican punch and crisp taco chips are the perfect accompaniments to the fragrant main dish. Dessert might be a lush fruit salad. For extra atmosphere, play lively guitar music in the background. It gives the guests at "Brunch Mexicano" just one more reason to shout "Ole!"

ARROZ MEXICANO (MEXICAN RICE)

1 1/2 cups sliced red peppers
1 1/2 tablespoons seeded, chopped jalapeno or green chili peppers
1 1/2 tablespoons chili powder
2 teaspoons salt
1 can (8 oz.) tomatoes, coarsely chopped
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
1 cups cooked rice

1 cup butter or margarine, softened
2 cloves garlic, crushed
1 1/2-inch Italian loaf hero bread, split lengthwise
8 ounces sliced American cheese
2 cups sauerkraut, drained (about 16 oz.)
1/2 cup catsup
6 frankfurters
Blend butter and garlic. Spread over bread halves. Top with cheese.

Mix kraut and catsup. Spread over cheese. Tightly wrap each hero half in foil. Heat thoroughly on grill about 15 minutes on each side.

Make about 10 slits in each frankfurter, being careful not to cut all the way through. Brown cut on grill. Unwrap heroes and top each with 3 round dogs. Cut each round dog hero into 3 servings. Makes 6 servings.

Stir in tomatoes, tomato sauce, rice, raisins, almonds and reserved bacon; arrange hard cooked eggs in and around rice mixture. Bake in greased pan or casserole at 350 degrees F, 20 minutes or until heated through. Garnish with parsley, as desired. Serve immediately from pan.

Bring the spirit of Mexico to your table with spicy dish, Arroz Mexicano.

Kraut Goes To The Dogs

Next time your grill hogs, consider a more elaborate way of serving them. It doesn't take much time to create a kraut dog hero. Served up on Italian loaf hero bread, these sandwiches gain added nutrients and taste from cheese and sauerkraut.

Outdoor chefs will also want to try these juicy hamburgers. Ground beef — mixed with seasonings, such as caraway and scallions, plus evaporated milk — is served over seasoned vegetable kraut.

6 frankfurters
Blend butter and garlic. Spread over bread halves. Top with cheese.

Mix kraut and catsup. Spread over cheese. Tightly wrap each hero half in foil. Heat thoroughly on grill about 15 minutes on each side.

Make about 10 slits in each frankfurter, being careful not to cut all the way through. Brown cut on grill. Unwrap heroes and top each with 3 round dogs. Cut each round dog hero into 3 servings. Makes 6 servings.

Meanwhile combine sour cream and blue cheese. About 2 minutes before end of broiling time, top each patty with about 1 1/2 tablespoons of cheese mixture and continue broiling.

That means you have to supply the wherewithal for them. And milk is a leading source of protein, calcium, riboflavin and phosphorus which these cells need.

Cirrhosis, It's A Scarring Of Liver

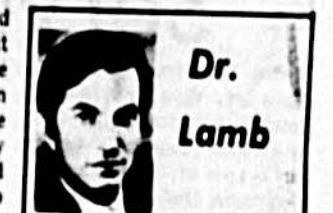

DEAR DR. LAMB—I would like to know more about cirrhosis. I have had it since January of 1974. I have been in three hospitals and each one adds to my diet. I am on a very low protein, sodium and potassium diet. It must help some as I have not blacked out in over a year. Before that I would black out about every 10 days, sometimes even in the hospital.

I don't have good balance and I forget a lot. I go to the hospital for a check-up every three months. My feet swell up and are discolored and they have been doing this for about four years. Any information you can give me would be appreciated.

DEAR READER—Cirrhosis of the liver means scarring of the liver and it literally follows the injury of the liver cells. Remember that scarring occurs if you injure your skin or any other part of the body so don't be too surprised if problems scarring occurs in the body's organs if their cells are injured.

The scar tissue in the liver contracts and deforms the liver. The important part of the presence of cirrhosis of the liver is how much liver function is still present. A mild degree of cirrhosis is compatible with a relatively good state of health. If you've had a lot of damage to the liver that is associated with the scarring, then abnormal liver function may cause the body to retain fluid and seriously affect digestion, including how the body handles proteins.

I'm not sure whether you were having what we call hepatic coma (coma from liver failure) to cause your blackouts or whether it was associated with low blood sugar factor, too. Any major illness associated with you have one of attacks which can occur with people with liver disease. The swelling of your feet and ankles may also be associated with the change in the type of proteins in your blood system. This is a common complication of serious liver disease.

There are many ways that the liver can be injured. One of the most common ones is from the excessive use of alcohol. About 60 percent of the people who have cirrhosis have alcohol. That means that at least 40 percent of the people who develop cirrhosis who have an alcohol problem. These can occur from gallstones, liver and even nutritional problems. Once you have developed cirrhosis of the liver you should certainly avoid alcohol, and if you do contract and deforms the liver. Pack A School Lunch With Variety-Not 'Same Old Yuk'

Peanuty cheese spread on rye or whole wheat bread goes to school high in flavor appeal and high in nutrition.

Back-to-school lunches are a challenge for Mom, Dad or whoever is in charge of feeding the budding geniuses.

Occasionally add variety to lunches with a vacuum bottle filled with hot soup.

Leftovers from dinner—such as chicken, beef or even pizza or pizza bread—also provide a lunchtime change of pace.

Remove pan from heat and beat with egg, one at a time. Drop rounded teaspoonful onto ungreased cookie sheet.

A Man On 'His' Bridge

It's Now The Douglas Stenstrom Bridge

By JANE CASSELLBERRY Herald Staff Writer

Flags waved, the Navy Band played and perspiring speakers paid tribute to Sanford and community leader Douglas Stenstrom as the year-old Osteen Bridge was renamed in his honor today.

"So far as I am aware never before in the history of our county have so many people worked so hard and so long to complete a project... I'll never be convinced that I of the Long Range Planning committee of the chamber; members of the press who have written so many editorials and articles; and state and local officials.

Stenstrom's brother, Julian, representing the city of Sanford as acting mayor, told the gathering of state, county, and city officials and friends that it was really another Stenstrom that began it all.

It seems, according to the acting mayor, it was his grandfather, sea captain Nels Julius Stenstrom, who on leaving a head-of-days-o'-the-week-Sanborn to Sanford in 1871, arrived at the St. Johns River.

He took one look at the old Osteen Bridge, put his hand on old Bossy's head and remarked "Something's got to be done about that bridge!"

"Little did the old gent dream that 107 years later his grandson would have a bridge named in his honor," added Stenstrom.

Clerk Union Team-School Board Agree On 4.6 Percent Pay Raise

By LEONARD KRANSDORF Herald Staff Writer

Disatisfied with the progress of contract negotiations with the Seminole County School Board, members of the county's educational clerical association took matters into their own hands and reached an agreement.

The agreement calls for a 4.6 percent increase, retroactive to Aug. 1 for the approximately 600 members of the union.

Currently, the base is now set at $4,750 and the raise would bring that base to $4,974.

The agreement is tentative and still has to be ratified by the entire membership and the school board.

For a person becoming a clerk with no experience the raise represents an increase of $219 and for the employee at the top of the scale, it will mean an increase of $41 over the $9,307 current base.

The agreement came after the two sides had already had four two-hour meetings, over a two-week period.

The board is still negotiating with the teachers, the non-instructional personnel and the bus drivers.

According to school board negotiator Ernest Cowley, representatives of the clerical union had called him earlier in the day to request a meeting. The board had already

'The majority of the negotiating team was dissatisfied with the progress...'

The clerical union had been represented by Gene Grooms, executive director of the Seminole Education Association, but he was not present at the meeting when the agreement was reached.

"The majority of the negotiating team was dissatisfied with the progress of the negotiations and when Grooms failed to show up for the meeting I replaced him," said Faye Wilhelm, a Milwee scheduled a meeting with the non-instructional personnel but, agreed to meet with the clerical union at 10 p.m.

The agreement was reached after a two-hour meeting with the non-instructional personnel and the bus drivers.

Gas Spill Tab: $50,000

Saxon Oil Co., and the Seminole County Port Authority (SCPHA) are back in full operation today following a 6,000-gallon gasoline spill that closed the petroleum tank farm at the port Monday.

Total cost of the clean-up has been estimated as high as $50,000. That cost will be paid by Saxon Oil, according to Assistant Port Administrator Dennis Dolger.

Late Wednesday night county and state fire officials lifted the restrictions placed on the 3.5-million-gallon-capacity tank farm, according to Public Safety Director Gary Kaiser.

The Seminole County Fire Department and the state Fire Marshal's office had placed a ban on further operation of the tank farm until the spill was cleaned up.

"The blankets brought in to soak up the remainder of the spill were very effective according to the report given me," said Kaiser.

Through the cause of the spill is still officially under investigation, preliminary reports indicate the spill may have resulted when a tanker driver fell asleep while filling his truck and allowed the gasoline to overflow.

The spill went into a 200 yard by four foot canal leading to the St. Johns River.

A small amount of the gasoline may have entered the river, according to Dolger. However, most of the spill was contained in the canal when county fire fighters sprayed foam over the spill.

A lightning storm Monday afternoon posed a threat of igniting the spill, according to Dolger.

Lake Mary's Books: He Does, She Does, They Do

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

The duties of bookkeeper-treasurer in Lake Mary have been taken care of since the resignation of Mrs. Myra DeVine earlier this month by City Clerk Sig Pearson, clerk-typist Connie Major, City Planner Reggie Allard and Mayor Walter Sorenson.

Today it was Sorenson's turn to "take over the books."

"I don't mean to imply that we are doing the job that needs to be done," said Sorenson today, adding that he has appointments Friday with several persons seeking the job and expects to have someone for the position next week.

"Myra did very nice work. She simply thought she was overloaded and that we weren't providing the support she needed. She may well turn out to be right," said the mayor.

Mrs. DeVine was the city's bookkeeper in November, 1975, and was appointed the city's treasurer and given those added responsibilities in October, 1978. She resigned effective Aug. 8.

"I talked to the mayor and told him I needed help. Evidently he didn't agree with me. I could not continue to work, and give all of my outside time, too," she said.

Mrs. DeVine said she mentioned from time to time that she had a lot of work and that it was a well-known fact how much she had to do. "It is up to the city to decide if they can find one person who can do it all."

"If I ever wanted a day or a week off, I had to work myself to death. If I was home sick a day they had to call me at home for information," said Mrs. DeVine. She said that even when she was ill she made up the time working on city business at night at her home.

'It's up to the city...to find one person who can do it all'

Mrs. DeVine had been receiving a salary of $8,700 annually until she was named interim city clerk in March in addition to remaining on as bookkeeper and treasurer. At that time her salary was raised to $10,000. Sorenson said at the time that the pay raise was overdue and had nothing to do with the interim clerk appointment.

Mrs. DeVine said the workload of the bookkeeper and the treasurer's office continually increased as new employees were added to the payroll, federally funded projects were undertaken and city money was invested in interest bearing accounts.

She said that new bookkeeping procedure which must be taken in the new fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 under mandate from the state would have added even more work to the office.

"I haven't started looking for another job yet," said Mrs. DeVine. She had been employed for many years as a bookkeeper for a law firm in Texas prior to moving to Lake Mary where she thought it all out when she submitted her resignation. He said it was not the first time she had mentioned that she would have to resign.

"We had taken some steps to fix that (her need for help) but she did not agree with the approach we were taking. I was trying to spread the work among the people at city hall to help everyone. I was also looking at the possibility of having someone who would work in more than one spot in city hall. I don't know that it would have proved necessary," said the mayor.

"Everybody is going to have to help everybody else at city hall. I am reluctant to hire an additional person if we don't have to," he said.

Mrs. DeVine was not willing to wait for the evaluation. She wanted someone who would specifically work with her," said Sorenson.

Program said today that three persons were authorized to sign city checks, the mayor, the deputy mayor, Councilman Harry Terry, and the treasurer. With the treasurer gone, he said, Sorenson and Terry are signing the checks.

MYRA DEVINE... 'I like the work'
