Suspect named in murders

COCOA BEACH — Stephen Michael Bates, a 30-year-old short-order cook from Lakeland, has been confirmed as a top suspect in the Gainesville murders after he broke into a Lakeland woman's home, threw water on her and her daughter while they were asleep, and pointed a butcher knife at them. Man charged in pick stabbing

SANFORD — Larry Cornell Johnson, 36, 1581 W. 18th Street, Sanford, is charged with attempted first-degree murder in connection with the July 3 stabbing of a Sanford woman.

Johnson is accused of stabbing Beverly Holley with a pick and of puncturing the tires of a man's car with the pick, the warrant said.

Seminole County sheriff's deputy James Virgin, who also charged Johnson with criminal mischief. The arrest was made at 10:06 a.m. Tuesday.

Tree protester released

LONG CREEK, S.C. — A man who took up temporary residence in a tree to block construction of a logging road in the Sumter National Forest was released on bond Tuesday, one day after he came down from his lofty perch.

U.S. Forest Service officials said Hunter Hastings Sims, 24, of Long Creek, who had been calling himself "Forest Green," voluntarily came down from a platform in a 100-year-old pine tree Monday morning. He told authorities he still had food and other supplies but was exhausted.

Sims was arrested immediately on charges of interfering with a federal officer in the performance of his duties and placing an impediment or hazard to the safety of a person.

LOTTO sales on the rise

TALLAHASSEE — A sharp increase in ticket sales has boosted Florida's LOTTO jackpot to an estimated $47 million this week, state Lottery officials said Tuesday.

Sales through Tuesday were 43 percent higher than last week, with a total of $3.06 million compared to $2.15 million Aug. 28, said Lottery Secretary Rebecca Paul.

It has been four weeks since there was a LOTTO grand prize winner, meaning the pot has rolled over to the higher figure. It was estimated at $45 million on Sunday, but the increased sales led to the higher estimate Tuesday.

The $47-million jackpot is the third-highest since the LOTTO gaming began. The record is $55.3 million, paid in April of this year. The second-highest was $55.6 million, paid in September of 1988.

Kids' health, safety jeopardized, study finds

By JANEY GAGE
United Press International

WASHINGTON — The failure of state governments to regulate child care operations is jeopardizing the health and safety of millions of American children, a study released Tuesday by the Children's Defense Fund said.

The report on state efforts to assure quality child care found that nearly half of the more than 6 million American children in out-

-of-home child care settings "remain unprotected" despite state assurances.

"At first glance, nearly every state appears to have a system that responds to parental concerns about quality," said Gink Adams, the report's author. "But a closer look reveals that states do not provide even minimal health and safety protections for nearly one-half of all children being care for outside their homes."

Fess forces runoff County commissioners Sturm, Glenn face second elections

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commission incumbents Bob Sturm and Sandra Glenn survived their Republican primaries Tuesday night after all 95 precincts were counted.

Glenn handily defeated former county commissioner and school board member Robert "Bud" Feather by a 57.9 to 42.1 margin to win the District 4 primary Tuesday night. She will now face Democrat Larry Furlong Nov. 6.

But Sturm failed to gain a plurality and will face former Lake Mary mayor Dick Fess in an October runoff. Sturm gained 47.6 percent of the vote, compared to Fess's 35.9 percent. The third District 2 Republican candidate, Bob Desmond, gained 16.5 percent of the vote.

In all, 31,414 of Seminole County's 111,922 registered voters participated in Tuesday's primaries, producing a 28.1 percent turnout.

Although Sturm said he would have been more confident facing Fess in October with a wider margin of votes, he said his support shows he will be re-elected. No Democrats are seeking the District 2 seat so either Sturm or Fess will be elected to the position by Republicans Oct. 2.

Brock, Julian face runoff in November

By BOB PRINCE
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Newman D. Brock and Ned Julian were the run-off victors in the race for 18th Judicial Circuit Judge, group 10 yesterday, while Robert B. McGregor defeated Jeff Deen to retain his seat as circuit judge in group 11.

The 18th judicial circuit consists of both Seminole and Brevard counties.

In the group 10 race, the combined two-county returns showed Brock with 28,499 votes while Julian had 22,891.

It was a close call for Julian, who was actually bested in Brevard County by Robert E. Miller, who gleaned 173 more votes than Julian in that county. Miller's total was 20,388 votes. The fourth candidate, George C. Kelley, earned a combined vote of 17,104. The group 10 seat had been occupied by Alan A. Dickey, who resigned to seek the position of group 19 circuit judge.

It's Chiles and Martinez for governor

By MICHAEL NELSON
United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Lawton Chiles defeated Bill Nelson by a margin of more than 2-to-1 in Florida's Democratic primary for governor Tuesday, as Gov. Bob Martinez easily won the GOP nomination, avoiding an embarrassing runoff.

With 67 percent of the precincts reporting, Chiles had 71 percent, or 446,280 votes, and Nelson had 29 percent, or 184,357 votes.

In a concessionary call to Chiles about 9:30 p.m., Nelson pledged his support toward unifying the Democratic Party.

In his victory speech at campaign headquarters in Tallahassee, Chiles urged Republicans to join him in repudiating big-money, negative campaign tactics.

"Yesterday I had a feeling that no matter how the race turned out today, we had won. We had shown that people mean more than money," Chiles told cheering admirers.

Now supporters are urging him to "fight fire with fire," he said. "But the real test is whether you trust the people."

"We've taken the first step. This just shows that if you ask the people..." See Governor, Page 5A

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Lakeland man a suspect in UF student murders

By GENE STOVAN United Press International

COCOA BEACH — Police in Gainesville have confirmed that a 30-year-old short-order cook from Lakeland was among their top suspects.

Stephen Michael Bates is being held on $100,000 bond for burglary, aggravated assault and battery. Authorities said he broke into a Lakeland woman's home, threw water on her and her daughter while they were asleep and pointed a butcher knife at them.

Police in Polk County said they did not think Bates was a viable suspect in the Gainesville murders, but Gainesville Lt. Sadie Darnell said Bates was one of their top eight suspects, and his fingerprints had been sent to a task force investigating the deaths of the students.

A University of Florida student suspected in the slaying of five college students in Gainesville was linked to a hunting knife attack on a woman two years ago, Indian River County authorities said Tuesday.

The first suspect named, Edward Lewis Humphrey, 18, was identified by the victim in the 1988 case, who saw Humphrey's picture in news reports over the weekend, said Maureen Coogan, records clerk with the Indian River County Sheriff's Office.

Based on the victim's statement, Indian River authorities issued a warrant charging Humphrey with armed burglary and attempted sexual battery.

Humphrey was already being held under $1 million bond at the Brevard County Detention Center in Sharps. He was charged Thursday in Brevard County, southeast of Gainesville, with aggravated battery in the alleged beating of his grandmother, with whom he had lived.

A bond reduction hearing for Humphrey on Tuesday was postponed until Thursday morning in Brevard County Circuit Court in Melbourne. Coogan said the new warrant had not been served, but a detainer has been placed on Humphrey in connection with the 1988 incident.

Indian River authorities would not release the name of the 37-year-old woman, who was simply described as being white.

The Sept. 6, 1988 attack, described in a report dated Oct. 16, 1989, occurred in the victim's home, Coogan said.

The woman was followed into her home by the attacker as she was carrying groceries. The attacker tore her blouse, the report said.

The woman told police she pleaded with the attacker not to rape her. He said he would not, but held a hunting knife to her throat and told her to remove her pants.

A male witness, identified in the report as Robert L. Anderson Jr., apparently saw the attacker outside the victim's home.

Indian River investigators cited "similarities" between the 1988 attack and the Gainesville investigation, but would not release specifics.

Humphrey's public defender, James Russo, said earlier Tuesday that investigators had skirted the law and perhaps broke it to question Humphrey during the weekend.

Russo said state investigators talked their way early Sunday past employees of Brevard County Jail, where Humphrey was being held on charges unrelated to the airtal killings.

They apparently questioned Humphrey for two hours despite the suspect's petition to halt questioning outside the presence of an attorney, Russo said.

"It has certainly been very, very unusual, maybe improper, maybe illegal," Russo said.

Cops want testimony law change

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Some state officials here suggested changing a state law prohibiting testimony from one spouse against another in criminal cases, despite protests of civil rights advocates.

The husband-wife privilege is based on a common law doctrine designed to protect the family and the institution of marriage. But at least one state lawmaker now questions whether marriage is more important than life itself.

Rep. James Burke, D-Miami, who heads up a House subcommittee on prosecution and punishment, is among those backing the change as a means of obtaining testimony that could put a criminal behind bars.

"I think that by terminating that privilege we would not do harm to the family," Burke said. "There's also the interest of society in protecting life (and) the clear choice is protecting life."

The so-called husband-wife privilege, written into the state evidence code in 1978, allows one spouse to prevent the other from disclosing any communication "intended to be made in confidence" between them while they are married.

The only exceptions are civil and criminal proceedings between spouses, cases in which one spouse is charged with a crime against a child and communications entered as evidence by a defendant.

In applying the law, courts reportedly have held that confessions made by one spouse to another are privileged. A Kentucky court ruled a wife couldn't testify about her husband's confession to a grocery store robbery. A Florida appeals court decided it was improper to allow a woman's testimony about her husband's confession to a Duval County barroom shooting.

Voters reject consolidated government

GAINESVILLE — Alachua County voters rejected Tuesday by a margin of almost 2-to-1 a referendum question that would have consolidated their county and municipal governments.

Rejection of the measure, which failed 21,840 to 11,008, means that a new state law making it easier for Gainesville to annex county land into the city took effect.

Duval County is Florida's only county with a consolidated government. Leon County residents will vote on a consolidation referendum in the November general election.

Foster child's overdose investigated

CLAIR-MEL CITY — Authorities were investigating Wednesday the death of a 5-year-old girl who apparently overdosed on prescription drugs at a state-licensed foster home.

The unidentified child may have swallowed barbiturates, but officials were unsure how she obtained the drugs. Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services spokesman Tom Jones said.

Investigators also found bruises on the child's body, said Jones, who confirmed that four other foster children in the home near Tallahassee were taken from the location.

The girl was pronounced dead at Tampa General Hospital Tuesday afternoon after an unidentified adult called authorities to report she had stopped breathing. Paramedics found a bottle that had contained barbiturates.

The child was the oldest of five foster children living at a single-story brick house, said Jones, who added that at least one adult was there when the incident occurred.

Woman charged with beating mother

ST. AUGUSTINE — A northeast Florida woman was being held Wednesday on charges of beating her elderly mother, who later died at a hospital, police said.

Almae Trivedi, 58, of Hastings, was charged with aggravated battery for allegedly beating Alma Jones, 88, who died Sunday afternoon. The woman's death could lead to more serious charges, pending the result of an autopsy, police said.

'Boot camps' reduce recidivism

TALLAHASSEE — A state program that uses a "boot camp" alternative to traditional prisons has resulted in a 2.5 percent reduction in the number of inmates who return to prison, a report showed.

The inmates in the program were young offenders put through military-type training and discipline to keep them out of traditional prisons. But more research is needed to know whether the Summer County program is more effective than other prison programs, the report said.

The program, begun in 1977, was touted as a way to keep potential repeat offenders from returning to prison.

Cattle rustler gets five-year sentence

GREEN COVE SPRINGS — A man who pleaded guilty to cattle rustling received a five-year prison term on a theft conviction.

Burford Wallace Gilliam pleaded guilty to grand theft for last month's theft of four newborn calves from a Clay County dairy. Two other men charged in the case had not been arrested.

Police said they seized 200 calves stolen in a 1974 Ford Mustang near Green Cove Springs. The calves were taken from a nearby Gaston Dairy, and were worth about $75 each.

The three rustlers apparently wanted to sell the baby calves, police said.

Tropical depression forms in Atlantic

MIAMI — A tropical depression with 26 mph winds formed in the mid-Atlantic Wednesday, and forecasters predicted it would strengthen into Tropical Storm Esther.

At 8 a.m. EDT, tropical depression No. 10 was centered near latitude 37 north, longitude 84 west, about 650 miles southwest of the Cape Verde Islands.

It was moving west near 17 mph and was expected to continue that motion during the next 24 hours.

The maximum sustained winds were near 26 mph, 4 mph shy of tropical storm strength. Forecasters at the National Hurricane Center in Miami said it could strengthen Wednesday into Tropical Storm Esther, the ninth named storm of the Atlantic-Caribbean hurricane season.

There have been eight tropical storms since the six-month hurricane season began June 1, and three have grown to hurricane strength. Forecasters said that was two or three more storms than average for this time of year, but their effect on land has been minimal.

Broward voters say no to gay rights act

United Press International

FORT LAUDERDALE — Voters in Broward County overwhelmingly defeated Tuesday a Gay Rights Amendment that would have protected homosexuals from discrimination based on their sexual preference.

With 98 percent of the county's 377 precincts reporting, 99,434, or 99 percent voted against, and 67,501, or 41 percent, voted for the amendment.

The Gay Rights Amendment to the county's Human Rights Act has been a major source of controversy in the county, which is said to be a favorite destination for gays because of its beaches and relaxed laws.

"The message that hit home I think is that the people are sick and tired of having their values stepped on and being pushed back," said Maurice Baum, 44, of Davie, head of the Christian Coalition of Broward County.

Baum's group was one of a handful that surfaced to fight the amendment during the last three or four weeks.

"Anytime you push and repress somebody hard enough, it's going to have a backlash, which is exactly what has happened tonight," Baum said.

Jim Pollard, head of People's Voice, another recently formed opposition group, said he got involved because he was concerned about what would happen next.

"The Civil Rights Act of 1963 says we won't have any quota restrictions on us now," he said. "It was a 'no' vote, and what I want to get across was that this was just the beginning and just like the Civil Rights Act, if we let this thing get through others would follow."

Allan Teri, a Fort Lauderdale lawyer who helped draft the amendment about a year ago, said proponents of the amendment may have lost this battle, but they will take time to regroup and determine their next course of action.

Teri spent the night at George's Restaurant and Bar, a favorite among gays and lesbians, where a band played the Star Spangled Banner. Patrons insisted the amendment was as important to American as baseball and apple pie.

Approval of the amendment would have made sexual orientation a protected category, like race, color, religion or sex. Gays would have been able to sue if they were refused housing, turned down for jobs or denied use of public facilities.

Columbia set for blastoff after three-month delay

By WILLIAM MALMROSS United Press Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL — The presumably last-time shuttle Columbia's countdown clocked down into the night Tuesday, ending the stage for fuel loading Wednesday and Space Shuttle days Thursday on a long-delayed mission.

Running more than three months behind schedule because of a hydrogen fuel leak, Columbia's seven-man crew is scheduled to launch atop the orbiter Thursday, one week later than the ship was grounded because of trouble with an on-board telescope.

For shuttle crews have had as much trouble getting off the ground as Columbia, but NASA last director Albert W. Boldt said Tuesday the orbiter's third mission in 10 months will preceeding smoothly, with an 80 percent chance of good weather at launch time Thursday.

"Everybody's very comfortable. The firing room's very calm and we're just proceeding down with the count," Boldt told reporters. "It's business as usual."

Engineers tested the spacecraft's flight control system Tuesday and made preparations for the make-or-break fuel loading procedure Wednesday afternoon that will determine whether NASA resumes shuttle flights after a four-month hiatus or whether the agency's launchless summer lingers on into the fall.

NASA managers, subjected to intense criticism this summer because of flaws in the Shuttle Space Telescope and concern about the feasibility of the agency's space station project, are especially eager to get Columbia into orbit. But they insist the shuttle will not be launched unless it is operating properly.

Still, Columbia's delays have pushed the flight to so late in the summer that another major problem, such as a new fuel leak, likely would force NASA to postpone the mission until after the shuttle Discovery takes off around Oct. 5 on a higher-priority mission to ferry the Ulysses solar probe into orbit.

Engineers began hauling Discovery to launch pad 38B Tuesday night to ready the ship for liftoff amid concerns about a coolant system leak that threatens to delay the flight. But launch director Robert Meck said it was too early to tell what impact the problem might ultimately have on the Ulysses mission.

Columbia's astronauts spent the day Tuesday reviewing their complex flight plans and generally relaxing.

TALLAHASSEE — The daily number Tuesday in the Florida Lottery 6/49's game was 875.

Candidates qualify for Sanford race

By BOB SPRENG
Herald staff writer

Candidates Martha Yancey and A.A. McClanahan shake hands after qualifying.

SANFORD — The qualifying period for Sanford City Commission began at 8:30 a.m. today, and within the first half hour, Martha Yancey and A.A. McClanahan had both submitted their qualification papers to City Clerk Jan Donahoe, to run in the district 3 city election scheduled for Dec. 4.

McClanahan had served as a city commissioner from 1973 to 1979, then ran successfully for the same seat in 1980. During the last election, he was opposed by Yancey in a three-way race, with Yancey losing by only three votes.

Yancey was raised in Sanford and attended local schools. Since 1976 she has served as Goodwill Ambassador of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, and has, by her own count, attended over 1,000 openings of new local businesses.

She is active in the Golden Age Games, and has served as the Chairman of the city Scenic Improvement Board. Among her many awards, she received the John S. Krider Memorial Topper Award for outstanding service to Sanford.

McClanahan was born in Minnesota, Fla., and educated at Rollins College. He served as a member of the U.S. Navy, retiring in 1970 with the rank of Lt. Commander.

Between his terms as city commissioner, McClanahan served as director of administrative services for the Seminole County Mental Health Center and operates his own real estate company.

Between the two qualifications, Yancey and McClanahan gave each other a good luck hug, telling each other, "After this is over, we'll still be friends."

The only other city commission seat that will be listed on the December ballot is for district 4, currently held by Whitney Eckstein. While he has indicated he intends to seek re-election, he has not announced when he will officially file his qualifying papers.

So far, no other persons have indicated an intent to seek either city commission seat, but the qualifying period doesn't end until 12 noon, Oct. 20.

Clerks threatened in robbery

APOPKA — A robber who threatened two clerks with a gun robbed the Quick Sarge, 4350 Bear Lake Road, rural Apopka, at 10:40 p.m. Friday, Seminole County sheriff's deputies report. The clerks weren't injured and the robber fled with an undisclosed amount of cash.

Maitland man accused of forgery

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Seminole County sheriff's Sgt. Jerry Human reports charging Richard Scott Williams, 23, 248 Summerwood Trail, Maitland, with forgery and grand theft for allegedly cashing a forged check for $600 at Barnett Bank, Longwood, July 23.

Williams was arrested at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Altamonte Springs police station. He was reportedly identified by a bank photo and fingerprints on the check.

Illegal bank withdrawals reported

SANFORD — Lender Nell Wells, 30, 204 Magnolia Street, Altamonte Springs, wanted on a Seminole County warrant for two counts of uttering a forgery, surrendered at the county jail to be charged at about 10 a.m. Tuesday.

According to the arrest report Wells is accused of on July 10 and 12 making two illegal withdrawals from accounts of two other persons at Pioneer Bank in Seminole County. The arrest was made by a Seminole County sheriff's deputy.

Seminole County DUI arrests

SANFORD — The following persons face a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol (DUI) in Seminole County:

• John Joseph Briggs Jr., 32, of Ocala, was arrested at 1:58 a.m. Tuesday after he drove erratically in a parking lot off State Road 436, Altamonte Springs. He was also charged with careless driving.

• Rena Maleca Campbell, 33, of Palatka, was arrested at about 6 p.m. Tuesday after her car ran a stop sign and hit a median on Sheeha Boulevard, Winter Springs.

Convenience store robbery reported

SANFORD — City police here are investigating the 6:30 a.m. Monday robbery of the Lil' Champ, 1116 Celery Ave., Sanford. In addition to stealing store property, police said the knife-wielding robber stole the clerk's car. The car was abandoned and recovered.

State tax fraud charges filed against local motel owners

By SUSAN LORREN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Co-owners of Cesare's Palace motel, 3200 S. Orlando Drive, Sanford, are free on $2,000 bond each. Both men are charged with 13 counts each of theft of state funds.

Cesare A. Polidoro, 53, and Anthony John Milazzo, 48, both of Oviedo, are accused of collecting but not paying more than $20,000 in Florida state sales tax at the motel since 1980.

The first 11 counts against the suspects accuse them of defrauding the state of more than $100 in tax payments for individual months in 1980 and 1981. The final count includes 13 months of total taxes of more than $20,000, which were allegedly not remitted to the state through early 1980, arrest documents show.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies with warrants issued through the state attorney's office arrested the men at the Seminole County jail. Milazzo was arrested Aug. 29, and Milazzo surrendered Aug. 31, jail records show.

Cross-border justice

The 1985 murder in Mexico of Drug Enforcement Administration agent Enrique Camarena led to the biggest manhunt in U.S. history, resulting so far in seven convictions in U.S. courts and 26 in Mexico. This success is owed mainly to the zeal of DEA agents infuriated by the involvement of some Mexican police officials in the killing and in trying to block the subsequent investigation.

Unfortunately, that zeal occasionally has been excessive, as when last April DEA agents engineered the abduction and delivery to this country of a Mexican physician, Humberto Alvarez Machain, accused of taking part in the torture of Camarena. Mexican officials protested loudly, to no avail — until early in August, when federal Judge Edward Rafeedie in Los Angeles ruled that Alvarez's abduction violated the U.S.-Mexican extradition treaty, and that U.S. courts thus lack jurisdiction. Rafeedie ordered Alvarez returned to Mexico where authorities have indicted him, tentatively, on the same charges.

This is a bitter blow to Camarena's DEA colleagues, but it's the right decision nonetheless. Seizing fugitives in foreign countries is wrong, because it violates others' sovereignty and exposes Americans to retaliation. And in this case, it could weaken joint efforts to fight drug trafficking.

Legal scholars believe Rafeedie's decision may be reversed on appeal, given the U.S. courts' history of not quibbling about how suspects get before them. Such an unfortunate result would strengthen a wrongheaded policy, reiterated last year by the Justice Department, that U.S. agents may seize suspects abroad without the local government's permission. The real reason for bringing someone to justice is that the means are unimportant. There are other, legitimate ways, diplomatic and economic, of applying pressure.

U.S.-Mexican relations are always lumpy, but lately they have been improving. Despite continued friction over the Canadian and Mexican in June gave DEA agents their best diplomatic immunity and the right to carry weapons, the lack of which had been an inhibiting factor in the drug-war world in which they operate. In return, Mexican agents were allowed to work in the U.S. Southwest, for July, that administration officials ordered a system to help Mexico pursue drug traffickers by furnishing up to $20 million worth of military helicopters, radar, vehicles and other equipment.

These gains may be jeopardized if the Justice Department successfully appeals Judge Rafeedie's order to return Alvarez to Mexico. Angry Mexican officials now demand the extradition of the DEA agent who orchestrated the doctor's kidnapping. A Justice Department spokesman says that's not of the question, a perfect example of Washington's procedural nitpicking.

That nitpicking is understandable in light of the way in which Enrique Camarena was killed, and by whom, but it's still not defensible. Sending Alvarez back to face prosecution would give Mexican officials a further opportunity to demonstrate their commitment to justice, and to a campaign against drug traffickers that can only be won jointly, despite all the lingering tensions among them on the front lines.

VINCENT CARROLL

Define goals before shooting starts

DENVER — Transfixed by a looming military clash in the Persian Gulf, most Americans probably couldn't care less about the acres of their last triumph under arms. But there is a lesson for us down in Panama, if only we care to heed it.

The lesson is that we'd better know exactly why we go to war, and possess reasonable objectives, or else even total victory may seem hollow over time.

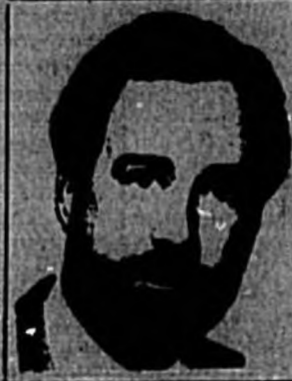

As you may recall, President Bush gave four reasons for our invasion of Panama last December. They were, in his own words, "to safeguard the lives of Americans, to defend democracy in Panama, to combat drug trafficking and to protect the integrity of the Panama Canal Treaty."

From the outset, no one took his first and last reasons very seriously. Americans have been harassed in any number of countries without Washington taking up arms in response. Meanwhile, regular U.S. forces in the Canal Zone were more than enough to protect the canal from attack or sabotage.

Bush's other two reasons, it seemed, possessed more heft. Not only did we install a previously elected Panamanian president in office, we also toppled a brutal dictator known to pocket profits from drug-trafficking.

President Guillermo Endara remains in office today, although with no special popularity. He also remains, alas, the sole justification for our invasion. To see why, read this dispatch from The New York Times' Mark Uhlig:

"Eight months after the American strike, Panamanians familiar with the country's jungle airstrips and ragged coastlines say there has been little significant reduction in the activities of drug traffickers here. Pilots, dock workers and people in rural areas say the end of Mr. Noriega's harsh military rule has instead given smugglers new, unlimited access to many rural landing fields and coastal areas."

The lesson is that we'd better know exactly why we go to war.

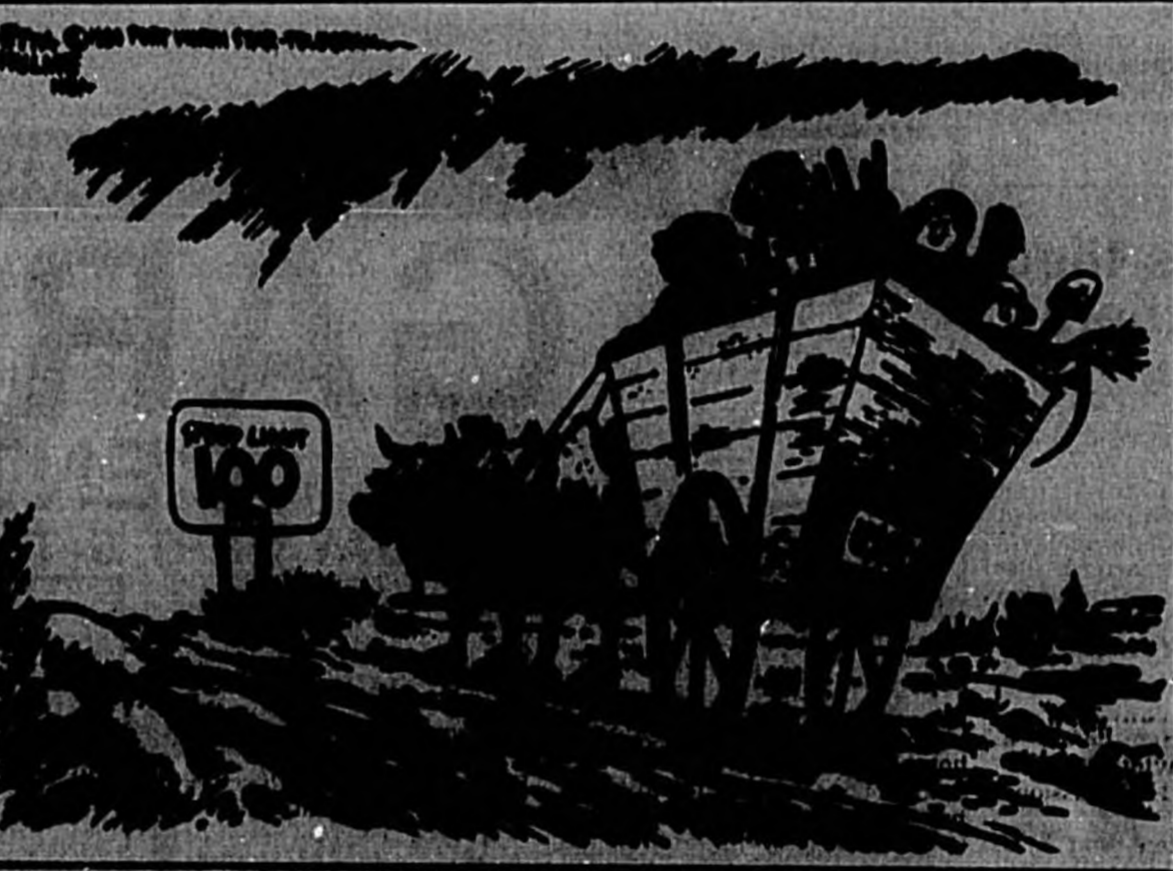

In short, the most commonly invoked goal of our invasion — to stem the flow of drugs through Panama — simply never panned out. And it's hard to believe we'd have invaded solely to install an elected leader into an office he'd never even occupied.

U.S. officials may fall at putting things away for a long stretch in prison, too. As the acquittal of Imelda Marcos suggests, convicting foreigners in U.S. courts for crimes committed abroad isn't as easy as some prosecutors would like us to believe.

Iraq is not Panama, of course, and Bush would have an easier time making the case for an attack. Saddam threatens his neighbors, covets a nuclear bomb, deploys chemical weapons when convenient, and controls, with his new holdings in Kuwait, perhaps 30 percent of the world's oil reserves.

But if we decide to cross into Kuwait, will toppling Saddam even be one of our goals? And if so, can we be sure his successor would be an improvement either in temperament or ambitions, that he would distance himself from Saddam's strategic and nuclear goals?

As J.B. Kelly, author of "Arabia, the Gulf and the West," emphasizes, raw ambition and disregard for international law have typified most Arab states.

ROBERT WAGMAN

Military buildup saps drug war

WASHINGTON — Saddam Hussein has made at least one group of people happy through Iraq's invasion of Kuwait — South American drug lords. They are breathing easier now that the massive U.S. military buildup in the Middle East has disrupted the Pentagon's anti-drug efforts.

For years, the Pentagon had wanted nothing to do with the war on drugs. However, with tensions evaporating in Europe, the realization struck that if it was to maintain its budget at current levels, the military would have to find something to do. Over the last 18 months, the war on drugs had become a major Pentagon priority.

Recently, the military's main thrust had been helping interdiction efforts in the air and on sea. Almost half the Air Force's fleet of AWACS radar planes had been in the air over the Caribbean and the southwestern United States, watching planes leaving drug-producing countries and headed toward North America. Air Force interceptors had been helping the Coast Guard, Customs Department and Drug Enforcement Administration in intercepting and identifying these planes.

The Navy had been helping out an overworked Coast Guard in tracking, intercepting and combating suspicious ships headed toward American ports. While the Coast Guard still has the primary interdiction role, the Navy's effort was growing steadily.

Now much of this has come to a screeching halt. The AWACS coverage of the air routes has been discontinued as planes have been pulled off line and sent to Saudi Arabia. The same is true of interceptors as ships and planes have been sent to the Persian Gulf.

U.S. officials don't want to announce how many planes have been pulled out, but DEA sources confirm that the quality and scope of air coverage has declined sharply. The drug lords know this and have stepped up their cocaine flights to the United States.

"We still have same level of coverage," says one DEA source, "and we want to keep them guessing. We won't identify as many ships, but we will still pick up enough to cause them a lot of trouble, especially if they try to send planes into here."

But what Operation Desert Shield will ultimately disrupt are the more granular anti-drug plans the Pentagon had in the works. In fiscal 1991, the military had planned to increase spending on anti-narcotics efforts in South America from about $450 million to $1.3 billion. Plans were under way to cover the entire southern border of the United States with a massive radar net that would identify and track every aircraft — including those trying to fly at treetop height — by using look-down radar in constantly circling planes.

Further, plans are nearing completion to carry the war on drugs directly to the producing countries of South America. Most of the plan is still secret, but bits and pieces have started to emerge:

The overall commander of the effort is Gen. Maxwell Thurman, who headed the U.S. invasion of Panama last year. Currently, between 100 to 200 anti-drug military advisers are nearing the end of training. The plan is to dispatch them to South American nations to train national police anti-narcotics units in staging command-style raids on drug labs, processing sites, landing strips and the homes and hiding places of the drug lords themselves.

Meanwhile, using the latest in high-tech equipment — from spy satellites to infra-red and X-ray sensors that can look through such or other jungle canopy — U.S. troops would identify targets. They would also be equipped with a new Counter Narcotics Operations Center being built at Southern Command headquarters in Panama.

Last December, Colombian drug lord Jose Rodriguez Gacha was killed during a shootout with Colombian air commandos who had cornered him at his mountain hideout. Last May, the same elite anti-drug unit staged a daring helicopter raid that resulted in the destruction of several major cocaine processing labs, the seizure of a huge cache of drugs and several dozen arrests.

Although the United States has never officially claimed any part in these operations, it has been an open secret that they were planned and carried out as a model for what Thurman wants to do on a large scale in the future.

Now, however, it appears that the Pentagon will not have either the money or resources for the operation if U.S. involvement in Saudi Arabia becomes long-term.

WASHINGTON — Since her election as president of Nicaragua last February, Violeta Chamorro has been looking over her shoulder, fearing that the defeated Sandinista government will try to bring down her struggling administration. She should have also been looking right behind her — at her vice president, Virginia Godoy.

The Sandinistas threatened to rule the country from below when they lost the presidency, and the massive strikes that paralyzed Nicaragua in July proved that the old Sandinista politics of the left had the power to do that. But the left has not been Chamorro's only problem. A coalition of right-wingers also used the strikes to further unsettle Chamorro's shaky administration. Ironically, the politician who emerged as the leader of that far-right coalition was Godoy — the vice president whom Chamorro has refused to assign a desk or any duties.

Godoy is one of Nicaragua's most experienced politicians, and he has one of the country's biggest political egos. These close to him say Godoy has an insatiable appetite for power. He is a party jumper, a former Sandinista, who will make dubious alliances to gain power. During the election campaign, tensions ran high between Godoy and the relatively young and inexperienced Chamorro clique. The friction came to a head after the election when Godoy was denied an office in the Presidential Palace. Chamorro didn't want him on her presidential ticket in the first place, and has yet to assign him any duties. A source told us Godoy is completely excluded from the decision-making loop.

That gives Godoy plenty of time for mischief, and he used Chamorro's first crisis to make a comeback. In the midst of the July strikes, Godoy mobilized forces on the right and formed the National Salvation Committee. The group claimed that the government's policy of national reconciliation had all but ceded power to the Sandinistas. Their gun's Catholic hierarchy chimed in with timely veiled criticisms of Chamorro. She was not consulted about the formation of the National Salvation Committee and she pledged that she would not let it "replace my government."

The former international secretary of Godoy's political party, the Independent Liberal Party, told our associate Dean Boyd that Godoy had made the right move. Even though he is vice president, he is essentially an outsider. "Godoy did not take the political heat for the mistakes made by Chamorro. He capitalized on them by criticizing her as well as the Sandinistas." But Godoy is a massive coping mechanism. A group, supposedly armed and calling itself the Brigades of National Salvation, began distributing literature echoing Godoy's criticisms. And the vibrant Nicaraguan press began blaming some land seizures and shooting incidents on the brigades and, by association, Godoy.

The most controversial of the stories had Godoy and the U.S. ambassador plotting the overthrow of Chamorro. The United States denied the rumor, but has not gone out of its way lately to stick up for Chamorro. Our U.S. diplomat was quoted anonymously in the U.S. press saying of Chamorro, "Even her friends call her rag doll. ... Nobody respects her."

The rumors about violence and coup plots have cost Godoy supporters. Many of those who rallied around him during the strikes have since realized that his anti-Chamorro rhetoric was only serving an ammunition for the Sandinistas.

The rumors about violence and coup plots have cost Godoy supporters.

For years, the Pentagon had worked nothing to do with the war on drugs.

Iraqi minister in Moscow prior to U.S.-Soviet talk

By Gayle Young
United Press International

Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz traveled to Moscow Wednesday in advance of a planned U.S.-Soviet summit, possibly to seek help from Iraq's oil-time ally as the United States moved to more strongly enforce a U.N. economic embargo against Baghdad.

U.S. warships, which seized an Iraqi cargo ship carrying tea in the Gulf of Oman Tuesday, closed in on two Iraqi oil tankers in the Persian Gulf region Wednesday. The British Broadcasting Corp. reported the warships would intercept the tankers if they attempted to load up with oil.

Iraq said it would continue efforts for a "comprehensive Arab settlement to all issues in the region" and an "Arab solution" was the only way to end the crisis. The Iraqi News Agency quoted an Iraqi government spokesman saying the presence of Western troops in the region complicated the situation and "would lead to an explosion in the region ... threatening the interests of its countries and other world states."

Western countries continued efforts to evacuate women and children from Iraq and occupied Kuwait who had been held by Iraqi authorities as human shields against attack by Western forces in the Gulf.

The State Department said Tuesday 150 former hostages were flown from Baghdad to Amman aboard a U.S. government charter flight.

From Amman, 93 of the former captives went to London Wednesday on a Virgin Atlantic Airways jet, according to a British Foreign Office spokesman. The spokesman said the group was made up of 57 Britons, 29 Americans, four Australians and two Canadians. A spokeswoman for the U.S. Embassy in London said U.S. consular officials went to Gatwick Airport about 30 miles southeast of London to meet the plane.

More than 500 British women and children who arrived in Baghdad Tuesday after a grueling 17-hour trip over land tried Wednesday to obtain exit visas for home.

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein has said women and children hostages, whom he called "guests," could leave the two countries while the men remained. But the evacuation has been slowed by red tape and Iraq's insistence no foreign planes land in Baghdad until Iraq planes can enter Western nations — a violation of the U.N. embargo against Iraq for its Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

The Iraqi News Agency, quoting the government spokesman, said Wednesday Iraq "endeavored with all possible means" to ensure the departure of foreign women and children and Iraqi Airways was ready to lease planes to transport them to any capital.

International relief agencies mounted campaigns also to help the thousands of destitute foreigners who have fled into Jordan from Iraq and Kuwait. The refugees, many from other Arab countries, Malaysia and Bangladesh, are living in squalid conditions at the Jordanian-Iraq border.

The Iraqi News Agency said Aziz arrived Wednesday in Moscow, five days before a planned U.S.-Soviet summit expected to include discussions on the Gulf crisis.

Western diplomats said Aziz may seek Soviet sympathy for Iraq, which faces a multinational force in the Gulf region and is suffering from the economic blockade.

Two runoffs likely for cabinet

Fomer Gov. Kirk wins education post primary

By Jeff Siskman
United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Two of Tuesday's four primary contests for the Florida Cabinet appeared to have ended in runoffs, but former Gov. Claude Kirk managed to secure the GOP nomination for Commissioner of Education.

With 50 percent of the precincts reporting, Kirk had 54 percent of the vote, enough to win outright the opportunity to take on Democratic Commissioner of Education Betty Carter in November.

Kirk, remembered for his mercurial stewardship of Florida between 1967 and 1970, launched his general election campaign against Castor Tuesday night with an attack on Florida Education Association President Pat Tornillo.

He accused the teachers' union chief of leading a "gang of bureaucrats" who "have owned the last three commissioners of education."

"But I promise to free the children and to free the teaching teachers of Florida to teach no matter the unions," Kirk said in a written statement released to reporters.

Ken Stepp, 42, an Inverness lawyer, was next with 37 percent. The third Republican in the primary, Amelia Geuka, 50, a former state employee from Tallahassee, trailed with 9 percent of the ballots.

The closest contest was the three-way Democratic primary for Secretary of State. With 90 percent of the state's 4,583 precincts reporting, former newspaper editorial writer Jim Minter, 53, of Tallahassee, led with 38 percent of the vote.

Quinted federal judge Alose Hastings, 53, of Miami, followed with 33 percent, only 3 percentage points ahead of former Ku Klux Klan leader John Paul Rogers, 46, of Lake Wales.

With no clear winner, it appeared Minter and Hastings were headed for a runoff Oct. 3 for the right to take on Republican incumbent Jim Smith in November's general election.

Hughes captures District 4 in three-way Democratic primary

By Jeff Siskman
United Press International

Daytona Beach investor Reid Hughes captured 61 percent of the vote in the Democratic primary for the 4th Congressional District, defeating two opponents to face first-term Republican incumbent Craig James in November.

Hughes declared victory in the three-way Democratic primary at 9 p.m. EDT Tuesday. Later figures showed Hughes with 61 percent of the vote with 73 percent of the returns counted.

The district runs along Florida's east coast from Jacksonville to a point near the Kennedy Space Center and includes much of the state's prime citrus land.

"I think it's pretty obvious," said Hughes, who had unsuccessfully sought the Democratic nomination in 1988. "From the figures I had at 9 p.m., which are about 50 percent of the vote, percentage wise it looks like a mandate. It's safe to say I've won."

However, second-place finisher David Lee Davis refused to concede defeat until the absentee ballots were counted.

"I'm not going to concede until the last vote is counted. My home state is Florida. Davis and it's not all in yet. I don't think we can put him into a runoff," he said.

The District 4 race is key to the state Democratic Party's hopes to win back the majority of Florida's 19 congressional districts. The Republican Party now holds 11 of those seats to the Democrat's eight. James wrested the seat from longtime Congressman Bill Chappell Jr. in 1986 and is seeking to defend it for the first time in the November elections.

Hughes has been running TV spots attacking James on his anti-abortion stance and trading confrontational "open letters" with the Miami lawyer in local newspapers.

In north Florida's District 2, Democrat Pete Peterson of Marianna, a Vietnam POW and retired Air Force colonel, defeated Tallahassee lawyer Bob Boyd, receiving 59 percent of the vote to Boyd's 41 percent with 95 percent of the vote counted in the primary.

Peterson will face in November incumbent Rep. Bill Grant of Madison, a former state legislator who is considered vulnerable because he criticized the Republican Party in February 1988, just after he won his second term.

Grant's defection to the Republican Party helped the GOP gain control of the Florida congressional delegation for the first time in modern history and he has been targeted for defeat by the Democratic National Party.

Boyd conceded the race at 11:45 p.m. EDT, saying: "My priority is to beat Bill Grant. Pete and I alone received more votes than there are registered Republicans in the 2nd District. Bill Grant's in real trouble, these people are already committed to vote Democratic."

Democrats in District 6 were treated to quiet campaigns and a very close election from lawyers Jean Wollen of Leesburg and Art Johnson of Gainesville, who were vying for the right to challenge Republican incumbent Cliff Stearns of Ocala.

With 88 percent of the vote counted, less than 3 percentage points separated the candidates. Johnson was leading with 51 percent to Wollen's 49 percent. "I'm not conceding, but I'm also a realist and I think he's going to win. I'm just glad it was that close," Wollen said.

At last report, campaign headquarters in Wollen's Leesburg office, by about 2:30 p.m. EDT, 1988 gubernatorial challenger received $20,300 in net campaign war chest in Johnson's $10,300.

In the Republican primary, the 11 incumbents easily won re-election with only three facing weak challenges.

Sandra Geard

Voter turnout as predicted

SANFORD — Election supervisor Sandra Geard's prediction of a 55 percent voter turnout Tuesday held true.

A total of 25.1 percent of the 111,822 registered voters in Seminole County participated in primary polls for governor, several U.S. senators and representatives, state judges, and school board. A total of 51,414 people cast ballots Tuesday.

Individual precinct counts will be available later today.

Children

Adams urged final approval of federal child care legislation passed by the House and Senate but now languishing in a conference committee. The legislation would help parents and states meet the cost of child care and enhance the quality of child care

Programs. In general, Adams said more serious problems are found in southern and central western states in terms of whether licensing is required, the adequacy of licensing requirements and level of enforcement of laws on the books. Historically, the South has not had enough money to finance programs affecting children and the West's attitude often has been that "we don't want people telling us what to do," Adams said.

One of the biggest loopholes, the report said, is that many states just regulate child care programs that receive public funds, while other programs are exempt from state laws or operate illegally.

Adams said 2.6 million children, or 43 percent of those in out-of-home child care, are in programs exempt from state regulation. "These programs often are not subject to any state regulation," Adams said.

Campaign '80 Circuit

pleased with not only the results, but the campaign itself. Referring to his opponents he said, "They were all gentlemen in a gentleman's race." He said the victory "feels good, and with the right momentum, we'll carry it in November."

Julian said, "I'm very pleased with the results, especially since I had to take a week or two away from the campaign trail for eye surgery." He said most of the campaigning he missed was what he had originally planned for Brevard County.

A nonpartisan race, the two will square off for the final decision on the Nov. 6 general election ballot.

In the race for group 11 circuit judge, incumbent Robert B. McGregor received almost 80 percent of the total two-county votes with 52,520, while political newcomer Jeff Deen received 35,711 votes. McGregor carried the election in both counties but the margin of victory was slightly larger in Brevard, where he spent the final hours of election day. McGregor said he was "very gratified over the results." This was the fourth time he has run for this seat and only the first time he has had any opposition.

"I am very thankful for the support of the people who helped me and believed in me," he said.

During the campaign, his opponent had accused him of keeping people waiting in court, but McGregor said he believed it was highly important to "take the time to study each case carefully, and take time in sentencing."

Deen had campaigned strenuously in both counties, and had the endorsement of law enforcement agencies in both counties. "We tried very hard," he said, "but to be perfectly honest, we were a bunch of political novices trying to unseat a very established gentleman. He ran on his record and won, and he deserves to be congratulated, and I certainly do congratulate him. But he needed a challenge, and we did that."

The third circuit judge battle was for a seat in Brevard County for group 16. Charles M. Holcomb of Cocoa received 43,682 votes for 51.3 percent, while his opponent Glenn Craig of Melbourne received 41,434 votes.

Waiting for circuit judge votes to be tallied, Ann Frederick (l to r), Nancy and Ned Julian and Donna McIntosh read election results from the supervisor of elections office last night.

to respond, they will," said Chilea, whose campaign attacked big-money candidates and was crafted around his refusal to accept any camaign contribution of more than $100.

U.S. Rep. Nelson, 47, was an early frontrunner in the Democratic campaign, but he was overshadowed when former U.S. Senator Chilea ended his political retirement in April to enter the race. Nelson promised a "new generation" of leadership and hammered away at Chilea's business dealings and health. Chilea, 60, has disclosed that he retired from his safe Senate seat two years ago because of clinical depression and is currently taking the prescription anti-depressant Prozac.

The accusations bounced off Chilea, who predicted Democrats would be able to close ranks and avoid the sort of internal party breach through which Martinez slipped to gain the governorship four years ago.

"There's a spirit that's different from 1988," Chilea said. "I think everybody is going to come together. I think it will happen this time." Nelson pledged to stand beside Chilea in a show of unity in Tallahassee Wednesday.

"Now it's time for the Democratic family to come together," Nelson told his crestfallen supporters in Orlando. In the Republican primary, See Governor, Page 7A

At Sandra Glenn's headquarters last night, the incumbent commissioner of the Seminole County Board of Commissioners received congratulations from Deborah Deal and Missy Manuel, both of Longwood, and Damien Madison, Maitland.

"We didn't quite get the margin we wanted," Sturn said Tuesday night. "But still, considering we faced two tough opponents, we're pleased with the turnout we did get. I'm not comfortable with it though. I'd start back to work tomorrow."

Fess was confident that because 82.4 percent of the vote went against Sturn, he would win the run-off.

"I'm absolutely comfortable," Fess said. "Over 50 percent of the Republicans voting said they were unhappy with the 18-year incumbent. We'll have no problem next month."

Deemond, who produced only 16.5 percent of the vote compared to about 46 percent in his last challenge to Sturn four years ago, said he was sorry he didn't win, but encouraged his supporters to back Fess's bid to oust Sturn.

"I was a little disappointed with myself," Deemond said from Fess campaign headquarters Tuesday night. "But I have no problem in strongly urging everyone who supported me and voted for me to get behind Dick Fess."

Deemond said his third-place finish was due to his youth.

"I think that played a big role," Deemond said. "We'll see what happens to us in the future politically now."

Glenn, who was unwilling to commit to confidence Tuesday afternoon, was pleased with her support.

"You always feel confident after the numbers come in," Glenn said Tuesday night. "I feel comfortable facing Larry Fess."

But Feather was disappointed with what he said was voter's apparent failure to understand the issue he tried to put forth in his campaign. He had asserted that because much of Glenn's campaign contributions were from the development industry, she would be influenced by that financial support.

"It tells me the developers are still in control of Seminole County at least," Feather said Tuesday night. "I am happy that there were so many people who did vote for me, but so many apparently didn't realize that developers are still in control."

Feather said he may not seek another bid at the county commission after losing two races. He lost to Fred Streetman in 1984 after serving four years on the commission.

Sloop, Bevan set for final contest

By [Name] Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — John Sloop and Ken Bevan, the two top vote-getters in the five-man Seminole County judge election yesterday, will face off in the Nov. 6 general election.

Sloop, with 8,682 votes, received 30.5 percent, and Bevan, with 6,268, had 22.2 percent of the vote. Richard S. Taylor Jr. received 5,002 votes for 17.7 percent; Michael Kramer had 4,704 votes at 16.7 percent; and Chris Ray received 3,543 votes for 12.6 percent.

As returns began trickling in from various precincts around the county, no trends seemed to be indicated. It wasn't until late in the evening when it became clear that Sloop would receive the largest number of votes.

Sloop stayed at the Supervisor of Elections office at the County Services Building until the last precinct was reported last night. He said over and over again that he was "very pleased with the results." As to his plans for the campaign against Bevan, he said, "I'll just have to work harder."

Ken Bevan

Sloop had campaigned on his experience as a prosecutor in criminal cases as well as his civil law work in his own legal firm.

He had said that "County Court is the place I want to be. I have no aspirations for Circuit Court, County Court is where I believe I can perform the best service for the people."

Bevan, who waited for the returns at home with family and friends, said, "I'm very happy. I had a good organization." Bevan said he expected the other three candidates, Taylor, Kramer and Ray would swing to his side against Sloop, to provide a victory at the polls in November.

As for his chances on Nov. 6, Bevan said, "I'll be working on a two pronged campaign. Number one, I'm better qualified. Number two, I'm a Seminole County Attorney. John Sloop is an Orange County Attorney. It'll be up to the people of Seminole County to decide which they prefer. It's as simple as that."

Taylor, who lost to Bevan by only one percentage point, placed his congratulations as soon as the final vote was announced. While Taylor admitted he was disappointed, he said, "I'm not down. Just remember, Abraham Lincoln didn't win his first election either."

Taylor commented that while Bevan had asked for his support during the phone conversation, "I'll have to wait on that one. I still haven't decided."

PAC backs school candidates

From staff reports

SANFORD — The Seminole UniServe Political Action Committee has announced its support of candidates in each of three district school board races.

In the District 1 race, they have endorsed John Bush of Winter Springs; in District 4 they have endorsed Barbara Kuhn of Casselberry and in District 5 they have endorsed Jeanne Morris of Loistga.

The Seminole UniServe Political Action Committee is made up of members of the four unions that represent the employees of the Seminole County school district.

Martinez garnered 60 percent of the vote. State Sen. Mariene Woodson-Howard, his best-known challenger, had 18 percent.

Martinez proclaimed victory at 9:30 p.m. at the Hyatt Regency in Tampa, amid cheers of "Four More Years."

"For those of you who are waiting for the primary to end, it's ended," Martinez said.

With his wife and family behind him and running mate Allison DeFoor beside him, Martinez said, "In November of this year, I will be the first Republican governor to be elected in the state of Florida."

"We are ready for the next two months. This is not a campaign about memories of yesterday. It's about today and tomorrow," he said in an obvious shot at Chiles.

Martinez, Florida's first Republican governor in 20 years, predicted he would easily become the first since Reconstruction to win re-election.

Judge Souter receives highest rating

WASHINGTON — Supreme Court Justice David H. Souter received the American Bar Association's highest rating of "well qualified," the ABA announced Tuesday.

Ralph Lancaster Jr., chairman of the ABA Standing Committee on the Federal Judiciary, reported his committee's findings Tuesday morning to Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Joseph Biden, D-Del., and to William P. Barr, Deputy Attorney General.

In a brief note, Lancaster said the "committee has unanimously concluded that Judge David H. Souter is 'well qualified' for appointment to the Supreme Court of the United States."

Well qualified is the highest of three ABA ratings. The other two are qualified and not qualified.

Massive payola case tossed out

LOS ANGELES — A federal judge Tuesday dismissed the biggest payola case in U.S. history, bringing to a stunning end the government's prosecution of a once powerful record promoter after finding that key evidence was improperly withheld from the defense.

In tossing out the charges against Joseph Iago, U.S. District Judge James M. Ideman said, "The court finds that there has been outrageous government misconduct."

"Having been caught with the smoking pistol, the government, having previously denied it had a pistol, denied the pistol smoked," Ideman said.

Possible link between fatigue and virus

PHILADELPHIA — Scientists reported Tuesday they have found evidence that the debilitating chronic fatigue syndrome, commonly called the "yuppie flu," may be linked to a virus.

Elaine DeFretas, an associate professor at the Wistar Institute, and two colleagues found evidence in the blood of syndrome patients of a type of virus known as a retrovirus.

Retroviruses are viruses that use an unusual genetic mechanism to reproduce. The virus that causes AIDS is a retrovirus while another retrovirus has been linked to a rare form of leukemia.

The researchers said they had not yet identified the virus or shown it actually causes the disease.

"At the very least, we will sequence the gene of the virus that we have found and determine its relationship to other retroviruses and its biologic behavior," DeFretas said.

WORLD BRIEFS

Soweto warmly welcomes de Klerk

BOWETO, South Africa — President Frederik de Klerk made a surprise visit to the nation's largest black township of Soweto and mingled easily with cheering residents welcoming the leader they believe might end white minority rule.

It was only the fourth visit in 12 years by a South African head of government to a black township and the first by de Klerk since he became president Sept. 20.

De Klerk, his wife Mariette and two Cabinet Ministers spent Tuesday in the township touring a hospital, a hotel shopping center, police station, and a workers' hostel torn by factional violence less than two weeks ago.

South Africa: At least 35 killed

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Fighting in the black township of Sebokeng killed at least 35 people, including 11 found dead after soldiers fired on crowds surrounding a hostel for migrant workers, police said.

Nearly 100 people were wounded and more than 100 were arrested Tuesday, police spokesman Col. Frans Malherbe said.

Police sources said a prominent local leader of the Zulu movement Inkatha, Themba Khoza, was among those detained — allegedly found in the hostel area passing out AK-47s from his vehicle to supporters.

Williams elected to Hall

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — The Florida Association of The Athletics Congress (TAC) has announced that Schowanda Williams, a Lyman High School graduate who was a member of the 1988 Olympic 400-meter hurdle team, has been nominated for induction into the Florida Track and Field Hall of Fame.

Williams was one of six new inductees announced by TAC, which is the governing body for track and field, long distance running and race walking in the United States.

The induction ceremony will take place as part of the Florida Athletics Congress (FAC) annual banquet and state convention which will be held at the Altamonte Springs Hilton October 13-14.

The other five new members are: Jim Vickers, long time member of the Orlando Track Club; Jay Seider, Glades High School coach for 18 years; Harvey Nairn, hurdler and long jumper from Miami Northwestern High School; Bill Roberts, successful track coach at St. Petersburg's North East High School and Clarence Nos, track coach at Ft. Lauderdale Stranahan for the past 25 years.

Elections for FAC officers will also be conducted during this year's convention.

Anyone interested in attending the convention and the Hall of Fame Banquet please call the Florida Athletics Congress offices at (904) 378-8805 for more information.

Drambuie Hole-in-one entrant

Timon Brittle of Winter Springs has scored a hole-in-one at his Pines Golf Resort and entered the 30th annual Drambuie Rusty Nail Hole-in-One Sweepstakes.

Brittle and Tom Casson, the golf professional who validated the entry are both eligible to win this year's grand prize in commemoration of the sweepstakes' 30th Anniversary: a one-week trip for two to Scotland, VIP tour of the Drambuie Liquor Co. Ltd. and $1,000 cash.

Nearly 10,000 lucky people score a hole-in-one and enter the sweepstakes each year.

The sweepstakes runs from Jan. 1, 1990 to Dec. 31, 1990. All entrants will receive a customized Hole-in-One bag tag from Drambuie.

Red Lobster looking for entries

ORLANDO — Corporate teams are now forming for participation in the YMCA/Red Lobster Corporate Cup Run. More than 600 teams are expected to take part in this sixth annual event, which benefits Orlando's Downtown YMCA.

Teams of four from corporations throughout the state will take to the Church Street Market at 8:10 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 3, for the 5-kilometer (3.1 miles) race. The Corporate Cup will go to the team with the best total time.

There will be four divisions of teams corresponding to the number of employees within the team's company: Division I — One to 50 employees; Division II — 51-150 employees; Division III — 151-750 employees; and Division IV — 751 and more.

Additionally, each team of four must include one woman member and one member at least 35 years old as of race day.

Registration will be closed until Oct. 26 or until the calling for entries is reached. Applications are available at all local YMCA facilities, the Track Shack of Orlando and Red Lobster Restaurants.

The entry fee is $75 per team. Companies entering five or more teams can pay $300 for the first five teams and $45 for each additional team. A $50 fee for the YMCA will be charged for teams registering after Oct. 26.

For information, call the YMCA at 988-8801.

Volleyball season opens

Lake Mary, Oviedo and Lake Howell 2-1 in jamboree

By TOM BUCHHEIM
Herald Sports Editor

LAKE MARY — It was only a preseason jamboree, but you couldn't tell by the way the Oviedo Lions and Lake Mary Rams were going after each other.

Playing in the sixth and final game of the four-school girls' volleyball jamboree hosted by the Rams, Oviedo and Lake Mary — which finished first and second in the Seminole Athletic Conference and 4A-District 9 races a year ago — battled for each point like it meant a trip to the state tournament.

Lake Mary ended up winning the game 15-11 as the Rams, Lions and Lake Howell Silver Hawks all went 2-1 in the preseason workout. Seminole finished 0-3.

The Rams opened things with a 15-4 win over Seminole. Oviedo followed that with a 15-2 thrashing of Lake Howell. The Silver Hawks came right back and beat Lake Mary 18-14 before Oviedo hammered Seminole 15-7. Lake Howell then beat Seminole 15-8 before Lake Mary topped Oviedo in the final.

For the defending conference, district and regional champion Oviedo Lions, the jamboree was a good opportunity to try some different things that might help them defend their titles.

"We experimented with a lot of different players in different situations," said Oviedo coach Anita Carlson. "It gives you an indication of what works and what doesn't work."

"I'm pretty pleased. Our serving was terrible in the last game. We have to work on our hitting and our defense, but I was pleased with our hitting."

As expected, senior setter Betsy Hughes was in the middle of most of Oviedo's offensive formations. Carrie MacLeod also did a fine job at the net while Mimi Tran contributed along the front and back row.

For the Lake Mary Rams, who have finished second in the district tournament the last two years, the jamboree was a good jumping off point for a team that is a mix of very experienced and very inexperienced players.

"We played three freshmen and a senior who have never played organized volleyball before," said Lake Mary coach Cindy Henry. "It proved us up in certain situations. But overall, it wasn't too bad for the first time."

"We just hope that the young ones come along. I have to get them into games where they can get experience."

Senior Tara Calvin led the Rams with her all-around fine play as Henry used everyone on her roster.

Gaining experience will also be the goal of the Lake Howell Silver Hawks during the regular season. There are eight returners on this year's team but not a lot with actual game experience.

"We were real cold against Oviedo," said Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano of her team's blowout loss at the hands of the Lions. "They don't wait around for you to warm up."

"We have some returners but they don't have a lot of game experience. We need to use the regular season to get them ready for districts."

One pleasant surprise for Lake Howell was the play of foreign exchange student Monika Kolakovic. From Berlin, Kolakovic showed good form hitting the ball.

Seminole hopes to take the lessons learned in the jamboree and implement them almost immediately as they travel to St. Cloud tonight for a 3A-District 6 match.

"We didn't play as a team tonight," said Seminole coach Beth Carr. "That's my main concern. We didn't even look like we have in practice. We didn't even play up to the ability we've been showing in practice. We didn't work together as a team. That's our big problem."

"It's better to play someone whose better than you are to help raise your ability. Hopefully, we learned a lot tonight and we'll take it into our district opener on Wednesday and our conference opener on Thursday (at Lake Brantley). We only have 24 hours to do it."

Cowboys surprise luncheon with a signed Emmitt Smith

United Press International

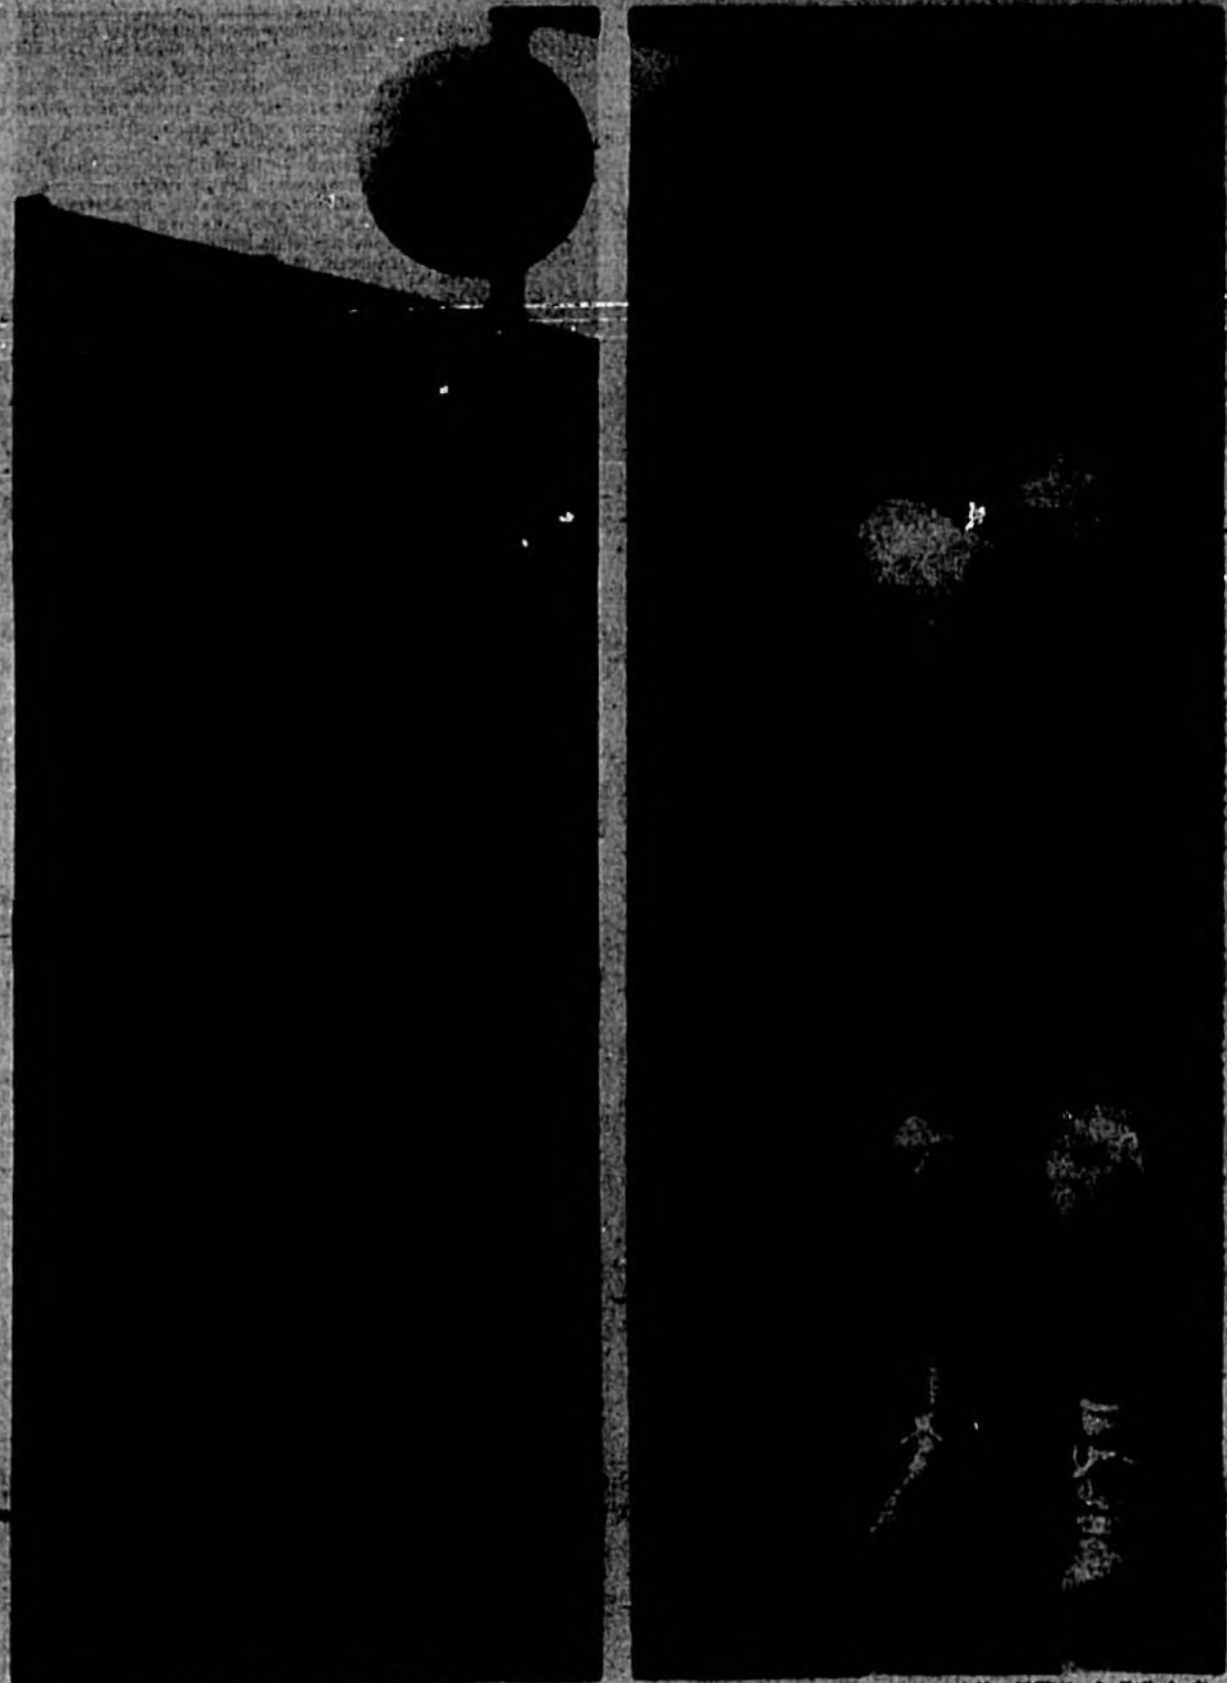

DALLAS — The Dallas Cowboys Tuesday signed No. 1 draft choice Emmitt Smith of Florida and surprised 3,000 of their fans by introducing him at the team's annual Michael luncheon.

"Jerry, you know there is one thing this football team needs," Cowboys Coach Jimmy Johnson told thousands of fans at the luncheon. "And I think you know what it is."

"Why didn't you say so earlier?" Jones responded in an obviously staged and theatrical byplay with his coach. "Step up here, will you, Emmitt?"

With that, Smith walked into the large ballroom in the presence of the fans who had gathered for the luncheon.

Smith, who gained 1,500 yards and scored 14 touchdowns in his senior year at Florida, signed

In what is sure to be only the first of many close battles between the two teams, Tara Calvin (left) and the Lake Mary Rams hooked up with Lori Boger (right) and the Oviedo Lions in the final game of Tuesday's jamboree at Lake Mary High School. Lake Mary won the contest, 15-11.

Lake Mary boys start with sweep

From staff reports

LAKE MARY — Two-time Seminole Athletic Conference boys' volleyball champion Lake Mary High School opened its 1990 season with a two-game sweep of the Bishop Moore Hornets on Tuesday night at the Lake Mary gym.

The Lake Mary Rams battled back from a 7-5 deficit in the first game to win 15-10, then rolled out to an 11-3 lead in the second game before winning 15-4.

Lake Mary's junior varsity also won its two straight over their Bishop Moore counterparts.

Now 1-0, the Rams will open their 1990 conference schedule tonight at Deland. The junior varsity will play at 6 p.m. with the varsity set to begin at 7 p.m.

"For the first match of the year, we did pretty well," said Lake Mary coach Bill Whalen after Tuesday night's win. "We came out pretty slow at the beginning, but the kids picked each other up and we finished strong."

In the first game, 6-4 Matt MacDonald led the Rams with three kills, four aces and a pair of blocks. Matt Simon added a pair of kills and one ace while Brent Marshall had three blocks.

MacDonald, Simon and Marshall are three of nine seniors on this year's squad. Of those nine, six played on the team last year. Simon was an All-Conference selection as a sophomore for the Rams but attended another school last year before returning to Lake Mary.

What helped turn the match around for the Rams was their near-perfect serving.

"We did real well serving," said Whalen. "We didn't miss a serve until we were up 11-3 in the second game."

Leading Lake Mary at the service line was junior David Yurick, who ran off 10 consecutive points in second game and served a total of 16 for the match.

The Rams just overwhelmed the Hornets in the second game. Jon Brown, another of Lake Mary's returning seniors, had one kill and three aces in the second game.

For the match, the Rams registered three blocks, seven kills and 50 aces.

"We passed the ball pretty well and we served extremely well," said Whalen. "If we continue to improve the other aspects of our game, we should do well. We also blocked well tonight. That's something we've been working on in practice."

Allman was the team's leading rusher in preseason.

But the Cowboys obtained fullback Alonso Highsmith from the Houston Oilers Monday and signed Smith. If they stay healthy, those two should make up Dallas' starting backfield by a month into the season.

The ability to get Smith under contract also freed some of the secondary talent of the Cowboys in their futile attempt to sign linebacker Jesse Salomon. The Cowboys announced 10 days ago they had come to terms with Salomon, but Jones then had to admit there was a misunderstanding which will keep the linebacker from playing with the team this year.

Smith will not count on Dallas' roster until he plays in a game.

Smith was the next-to-last first-round draft pick to come to terms around the NFL. The last holdout in Pittsburgh choice Eric Green, a tight end from Liberty College.

IN BRIEF

Get active, volunteer

The Sanford Senior Center, at Seminole and Sanford Avenues, will be the site of an informational coffee sponsored by the Retired Senior Volunteer Program of Seminole County. The program, which will begin at 10 a.m., Thursday, September 8, will feature a retired senior volunteer speaker and a slide show presentation about volunteer activities available to seniors in Sanford and surrounding Seminole County communities. Refreshments will be served.

Established in Seminole County in 1973, the Retired Senior Volunteer Program serves over 600 seniors. Active seniors, age 60 and over, provide community-based organizations such as hospitals, nursing homes, chambers of commerce, police and sheriff's departments with skilled and experienced services based on the volunteer's interests and background.

For more information, call RSVVP at 323-4440.

Rose Society to meet

The Central Florida Rose Society will meet September 10, 7:15 p.m., at the Marks Street Senior Center, corner of Marks and Magnolia, Orlando. Judging roses will be discussed. Public is invited.

Kitchen is most important room.

By JOAN KING
Herald correspondent

SANFORD — Jerry Evans recently moved to Sanford from Canal Winchester, Ohio.

Evans' family name is familiar to Central Florida diners as his dad, Dan, and uncles own and operate Evans Farms who supply and operate the Bob Evans restaurants.

Our Cook of the Week says, "I'm a self-taught cook and prefer cooking breakfast."

Evans has been here only 10 months and cooks professionally for Belle Miller at Mac's Pub on First Street in Sanford. At the pub, Evans gets to try his hand at different dishes because there is a full service menu, including service for Evans' favorite meal, breakfast.

Although Evans won't reveal any of the pub's secret recipes, he does share his favorite breakfast of fresh sausage with gravy and an entree of country fried chicken.

Evans shares his cooking duties and space at work with Al Clapsaddle, the manager of Mac's, who recites a recipe for cheesecake from memory and says, "It's important to follow each step for good results."

The two men work well together in the compact kitchen, smoothly passing each other while prepping veggies, cooking homemade cream of broccoli soup and serving diners sizzling scallops in a delightful sauce.

Evans pays meticulous attention to detail while prepping ingredients for his recipes. Every morsel is carefully cut to uniform size for just the right portion. His work area is scrupulously clean and Evans is immaculate with a freshly scrubbed look and slicked back hair. Sanitary conditions are a must for this cook.

"Kitchens are hot and heat intensifies bacterial growth. That's the most important room in your home and should be kept clean and orderly," he says.

Jerry Evans starts cooking in a clean kitchen.

Kids in harness cause others to unleash unkind tongues

DEAR ABBY: Will you please do me a big favor and print the following message in your column: "If you see someone in a shopping mall — or on the street — and this person has a child on the other end of a leash, please keep your mouth shut!"

I am the mother of two very active boys. They are 13 months apart; the oldest is 4½. I have nobody to leave them with, so when I go shopping, I take them with me, and yes, I put them in harnesses for their own safety and my peace of mind.

Every time I take the kids out in public with their harnesses on, I get dirty looks and nasty comments from strangers who say, "Those ain't dogs, lady — they's children!" Maybe if you put this in your column, people will realize that I keep my kids on a leash because I love them — not because I'm mean.

A LOVING MOM

them and ran into the street in the middle of traffic.

DEAR ABBY: I am going crazy trying to figure something out. Is it possible to have an aunt who is younger than you are? And if it is possible, please explain how it can be. Thank you.

GOING CRAZY

DEAR GOING: It's possible and here's how: An aunt is the sister of your mother or father. Right? Let us say that when you were 5 years old, your father's mother (who is your grandmother) gave birth to a baby girl whom she named "Paula." Well, because Paula is your father's sister, even though she is five years younger than you, she is your aunt. Got it?

FRESH SAUSAGE AND GRAVY

½ lb. fresh sausage (patties or broken up)
3 cups milk
¼ tsp. butter
Pan drippings
Cook sausage well done. While sausage is cooking, prepare roux for thickening gravy.

Base for Gravy

¼ cup flour
1 egg (beaten)
¼ cup milk
Mix flour, egg and milk together, set aside.

Remove sausage from pan, set aside. Slowly add 3 cups milk to pan drippings, add ¼ tsp. butter and stir well. Bring up heat and add the roux constantly stirring so as not to stick. Gravy and sausage may be combined and served over biscuits or toast.

COUNTRY FRESH CHICKEN

1 whole chicken, cut up
1½ cups oil
3 cups milk
3 eggs (beaten)
1 cup flour
salt and pepper to taste
Heat oil very hot in an extra large skillet to accommodate all of the chicken. Mix eggs, milk, salt and pepper to make a wash for the chicken. Dip chicken in wash, then dust with flour. Repeat the wash and dusting to form a good batter. Immediately and carefully place each piece of chicken in the hot oil to sear and seal the batter. Once the chicken is seared, reduce heat and cook for 35 minutes uncovered.

CLAPSADLE'S CHEESE-CAKE

Preheat oven to 350°. Grease a springform cake pan.

Ingredients for cheesecake:
1 brick of cream cheese (soften at room temp. 2 hours). Cream cheese in brick form may be purchased at Whitehall Food & Paper Supply in the Sanford Plaza next to the old Publix.

½ doz. eggs
1¼ cups white sugar
Juice of 1 fresh lemon
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. pure vanilla extract
Whip softened cream cheese on high speed until pearlike, set aside. In a separate bowl, mix eggs, sugar, lemon juice and salt on low speed until smooth and lemon colored. Fold into cream cheese until all is incorporated. Pour into graham cracker crust and bake 1 hour, then brown top under broiler. Immediately place in refrigerator to set for 4 hours.

Graham Cracker Crust

1 cup graham cracker crumbs
¼ cup Zwieback (baby washing machine)
3 egg whites
¼ cup butter (melted)
¼ cup 10-X powdered sugar
Use fork, combine all ingredients together, mix until small lumps form. Press crumbs into bottom of greased pan. Bake pan, get mixture down, pour cream cheese mixture onto crust. Smooth with spatula.

Eat your fresh vegetables

There is nothing quite like fresh vegetables picked at their peak of flavor.

Green beans are available and getting quite reasonable in price. Soon you'll be able to plant them in home gardens and in approximately 90 days the homegrown source will be available.

Since microwave cooking requires little additional water and a shorter cooking time, you will have more nutritious, flavorful vegetables. Green beans do require more liquid than most vegetables because of a longer cooking time. Even so, they can still be cooked with less liquid than is normal for conventional cooking. The microwave technique for green beans is similar to conventional preparation because green beans contain cellulose which requires some simmering to become tender. After bringing the beans to a boil, the power is reduced to allow them to gently simmer. On most microwave ovens it is about 30% power.

Vegetable combinations are always attractive and add interest as well as flavor complements.

BEANS AND CABBAGE

8 oz. fresh green beans, snapped (about 2 cups)

- 3 Tbsp. water
- 2 C. shredded cabbage
- 2 green onions, sliced
- 1 1/4 C. sugar
- 2 Tbsp. butter or margarine
- 1/2 tsp. sugar
- 1 tsp. lemon juice
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- Dash lemon pepper

Combine beans and water in 1-qt. casserole. Cover with casserole lid. Microwave on 100% power, 3-4 minutes or until boiling. Stir, then reduce power to low (30% and M/W 9-10 minutes or until tender-crisp. Drain beans. Add cabbage, onion and butter. M/W on 100% power, 4-5 minutes or until desired doneness, stirring once. Add sugar, lemon juice, salt and pepper; mix lightly.

The flavor of bacon adds a nice touch to beans.

GREEN BEANS AND BACON

- 2 slices bacon
- 3 C. fresh green beans, snapped
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1/2 Tbsp. water
- 2 Tbsp. cider vinegar
- 2 tsp. tarragon leaves
- 1/4 tsp. salt

Place bacon in single layer in 1-qt. shallow casserole. Cover with towel. M/W on 100% power, 1 1/2-2 minutes or until crisp. Remove bacon and set aside. Add beans, onion and water to drippings. Cover. M/W on 30% power, 14-15 minutes or until tender. Stir in vinegar, sugar, tarragon and salt. Crumble bacon and sprinkle over beans just before serving. Makes 4-5 servings — 45 calories each.

This recipe is much like the green bean dish that appears at every covered dish supper; however, this uses fresh green beans that give a more desirable color and texture.

SAVORY SNAP BEANS

- 1 lb. fresh green beans, snapped (about 4 cups)
- 1/2 envelope dry onion soup mix
- 1/4 C. water
- 1/4 C. sour cream*
- 1/4 C. sliced almonds
- 1 Tbsp. butter or margarine

Combine beans, soup mix and water in 1-qt. casserole. Cover. M/W on 100% power 4-5 minutes or until mixture boils. Stir, then microwave on 30% power 14-15 minutes or until just about tender. Stir in sour cream; set aside. Combine almonds and butter in glass custard cup. M/W on 100% power, uncovered, 3-4 minutes or until golden brown, stirring 2-3 times. Spoon over beans just before serving.

*Plain yogurt can be substituted for sour cream.

A fresh green bean salad is a special dish that can win you fame! I like the crispness (that doesn't wilt on standing) and the variety of food combinations that can be used.

Bean Salad Nicoise is healthy and delicious.

BEAN SALAD NICOISE

- 1 lb. fresh green beans, trimmed
- 1 am. red onion, peeled and thinly sliced
- 1/2-1 C. vinaigrette
- 12 ripe cherry tomatoes, cut in half
- 1 can (6 1/2 oz.) light tuna, drained and flaked
- 1 am. can black (ripe) olives

Prepare green beans by microwaving on 100% power 6-8 minutes or until just tender-crisp. Drain and run under cold water to stop further cooking. Dry the beans on paper towels and set aside. Transfer the beans to a large serving bowl together with the red onion and tuna with 1/2 C. vinaigrette. Marinate at room temperature for 30 minutes. Just before serving, add the cherry tomatoes, tuna and olives. Taste and correct the seasoning; add the remaining vinaigrette, if desired. Garnish and serve at room temperature.

VINAIGRETTE
In a small jar combine 1 Tbsp. olive oil, 2-3 Tbsp. red wine vinegar, 2 tsp. Dijon mustard and 1 clove garlic, crushed. Add salt and pepper to taste. Cover and shake.

Fresh herbs, such as parsley, chive, mint, or dill can be added. Another variation on the basic salad is to omit tuna, tomatoes and olives and add feta cheese and toasted, chopped walnuts. Use fresh chopped mint in the vinaigrette for the cheese walnut combo.

Meals like this one are low in sodium.

Alternative to salt keeps meal tasty, healthy and convenient

For many families today, time is the most precious commodity. As a result, people are relying more and more on the convenience of prepared meals, especially at dinner time. These meals can be high in salt and fat, adding sodium and extra calories to your diet. Since excess sodium has been linked to hypertension, a condition which increases your risk of heart disease and kidney disorders, there is added concern.

But active people take heart! With salt-free seasoning blends, you can make quick and easy entrees that are low in sodium and high in nutrition and taste. Made with an all-natural blend of herbs and spices, these blends add delicious, hearty flavor to every evening meal without added salt.

Because one teaspoon of salt contains a whopping 2,325 mg of sodium — nearly five times the 500 mg needed in your daily diet — reducing your family's salt intake may be the key to healthier eating in the '90s. With the great taste of seasoning blends, you can create dinner recipes that taste so good, your family won't believe they are low in sodium.

This meal of Lemon Herb Sole, Vegetable Stir-Fry, Fiesta Salad and Asparagus with Cream Sauce will spice up your table with homemade goodness the whole family will love. It is easy to make, low in sodium and fat and perfect for those trying to eat a healthy, well-balanced diet. Try it tonight and see why for those on the go, Dinners-in-a-dash are the only way to go.

COVER STORY

Since bursting on the scene as a freshman, Lake Howell's Marquette Smith has preoccupied opposing defenses. Considering that he's rushed for over 4,300 yards, they haven't had much success stopping him.

Wiggins, Smith are decoy and weapon

By TONY BOGGERMAN
Herald Sports Editor

Like it or not, Seminole High School's Kerry Wiggins and Lake Howell High School's Marquette Smith will be two very popular young men this fall.

In fact, every time they touch a football, they'll be sure to draw a crowd.

And with good reason. Last year, Smith rushed for over 1,700 yards and scored 27 touchdowns for the conference, district and regional champion Silver Hawks. Meanwhile, Wiggins threw for over 1,800 yards and 20 touchdowns as well as ran for over 150 yards and four touchdowns for the Fighting Seminoles, who were also district and regional champs.

As a result, opponents and fans will be watching their every move.

That's just fine with Seminole coach Emory Blake and Lake Howell coach Mike Blacaglia.

"Kerry's probably the top quarterback coming back in Central Florida," said Blake. "He's more mature this year and we have the players to compliment him. It's going to take a whole lot to stop us."

"I hope that people key on Kerry and disregard JoJo (Merthie), Henry (Williams), Bruce (McClary) and Tim (Hampton). They can't stop them and Kerry at the same time."

The same is true at Lake Howell. Smith is a built-in decoy. Even if he's nowhere near the play, opponents have to keep close track of him. That creates space for his teammates to exploit.

"We have a quarterback (Ryan Thomas) who runs a 4.40," said Blacaglia. "Our other halfback (Paul Jorgensen) runs a 4.740. Any one of those three has the ability to rip it."

"We're an option team. If we were an I-Back...

Lake Mary High School Rams

Rams hoping to erase memory of disastrous 1989

By TONY BOGGERMAN
Herald Sports Editor

Like a horrifying nightmare, last year's 3-7 season lingers in the memory of the Lake Mary High School football team, its coaches and its fans.

There's only one way to purge that specter — go out this season and turn that mark around.

Stranger things have happened. A year ago, Seminole High School's football team went from 4-6 to 7-4. And while second-year Coach Doug Peters prefers not to speak in specifics when it comes to wins and losses, he thinks a repeat of 1989 is highly unlikely. "We had a lot of seniors last year who were new to the program," said Peters. "This year, we have guys who played a lot last season. We're coming into this year with a bit of experience."

"This year, our defense has experience. There are a lot of the guys that people may not have heard about, but they played extensively last year. We hope we've made some real improvement in that area. I think we have."

One reason is the addition of defensive coordinator, Boyd Rasmussen. A former head coach in Ft. Lauderdale and at Orlando Colonial, Rasmussen has been given control of the Lake Mary defense.

"He's doing an outstanding job," said Peters. "I feel we're going to surprise some people."

The returners the defense is built around include defensive end Mike McKenna, linebacker

While a year's worth of experience will go a long way toward improving on last year, it wouldn't be enough, Peters and the Rams knew that, so they spent the summer engaged in a disciplined weight lifting regimen.

"After we got off to a tough start, we decided to play a lot of juniors and sophomores," said Peters. "I think we'll benefit from that this year. Also, our kids went through an extensive off-season weight program."

Success on defense will immediately pay dividends on offense. Instead of trying to make up lots of points in a hurry, the offense hopes to be able to stick to its game plan more often this year.

"When you get behind, you have a tendency to do things on offense that you don't want to do," said Peters, adding, "This will be an 'earn respect' year for us."

Leading the Rams

toward respectability on offense will be first-year quarterback Joe Menello.

"Joe throws very well," said Peters. "We won't be an option-oriented offense, but we can do that. We won't be the veer option team we thought we were going to be. We're going to be more pass-oriented than last year."

The problem may be finding someone to catch the ball. Senior wide receiver Bill Kanasky attended several camps over the summer and McKenna will also see time at tight end.

If Lake Mary can generate any passing offense at all, it will create space for running backs Chris Haney and Anush Collins. Haney, a team captain, was the baseball team's starting catcher last spring while Collins is one of the fastest sprinters in Seminole County.

As always, the key will be the performance of the offensive line. And it just so happens that's where Peters thinks the Rams are strongest.

"I feel like our offensive line will be able to match up with the better teams in county," said Peters.

Leading the pack are seniors Sean Adams (center) and Jason Oliver (guard). The rest are all juniors: guard Kenny Hoover, tackles Richard DiTucci and John Laird and McKenna at tight end.

Junior Norman Henkle, a move-in from Alabama who will play soccer at Lake Mary this winter, will be the Rams' placekicker while Haney will do the punting.

You Always Pay Less At... Magic

IT'S BETTER THAN ANY OTHER

IT'S BETTER THAN ANY OTHER

New faces showing up at the controls

By TONY BUCHANAN
Herald Sports Editor

Finding someone who can pull the trigger isn't easy. There are many who would try. But those who can are unique.

In this county, Kerry Wiggins is the top trigger man, gunning down opponents as the quarterback of the Seminole High School football team. With three years at the controls, he brings unparalleled experience to the task.

But at the five Seminole County schools, some relatively new faces (in three instances) and a couple of totally new faces (at two schools) have been given the controls.

At Lake Mary High School, senior Joe Menello is a totally new face. A dropback passer, Menello was a move-in from New Jersey last year with older brother Bob (now at the University of Central Florida).

Last year, the Rams were an option team under the guidance of running quarterback Mike Merthie. A year later, Menello has been installed at quarterback as the Rams go to a Pro

Set offense that features more throwing.

"Both Merthie and Menello do different things well," said Lake Mary coach Doug Peters. "Joe throws very well."

The other new face will belong to either sophomore Drew Jackson or junior Dan Hargrave at Oviedo High School. This will be the third year that the Lions will be led by a different quarterback (Matt Blanton called the shots in 1988 while Brian MacInness was the starter last year).

In the preseason jam boree at Lyman High School on Aug. 30, both Jackson and Hargrave took turns under center.

At Lake Howell, Lake Brantley and Lyman, the young men calling the signals will be vaguely familiar if you were paying attention at all last year.

For the defending Seminole Athletic Conference-champion Lake Howell Silver Hawks, for instance, Ryan Thomas will be the new quarterback. Last year Thomas saw considerable action as the understudy to starter Dan Vercek. So while he Oviedo sophomore Drew Jackson (No. 10) is one of several newcomers to the Seminole County chapter of that select fraternity of high school quarterbacks.

Lyman High School Greyhounds

Greyhounds go into 1990 with plenty of questions

By TONY DeGORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

Going into the 1990 football season, the Lyman High School Greyhounds are a team in transition, faced with a lot of questions and having only a few answers.

For starters, the Greyhounds are almost a completely different team from a year ago. Of the 36 players that started the season on Lyman's 1989 roster, 19 graduated. From the remaining 19, only 13 are on this year's season-opening roster.

This year, there are 24 seniors (11 returners) on the Greyhounds' 37-man roster.

At the skill positions, quarterback Jeff Jackson, running back Cedric Bouey and receiver John Jump give the Greyhounds some experienced talent on offense. Shea Scott, Bobby Stevenson,

Coach Bill Scott

Tanner Morrison and Tracy Duncan are returners anchoring the offensive line.

In the preseason jamboree, Lyman was a two-time winner, beating Oviedo and Seminole in 12-minute contests. But Coach Bill Scott saw enough mistakes to temper any excitement felt at winning.

"We didn't block up front very well," said Scott, noting that Bouey was hit numerous times by defenders behind the offensive line. "We're not as good as we're going to need to be. We made some mistakes in the backfield."

Despite being the target of opponent defenses every time he touches the ball, Bouey showed why he's considered one of Central Florida's top backs, scoring twice on plunges through heavy traffic. Jackson, one of three quarterbacks used by Lyman in 1989, appears to have improved over last year.

"Jeff did a good job controlling things," said Scott. "He's an intelligent young man, a heady player."

Among the newcomers to the offense are sophomores Dallas Simpson and Steve Sipe. Simpson was in the backfield with Bouey while Sipe started on the line.

One area where Lyman did look particularly strong in the jamboree was on defense, staying with the offensively-advanced attacks of Oviedo and Seminole. Scott pointed out that it's difficult to get anything going offensively in just 12 minutes, but he did like what he saw.

"Defense is usually a little faster coming along than the offense," said Scott. "You line up and go get somebody."

Leading the defense is junior Brian Grayson, an All-County selection last year as a sophomore. Defensive back Herb Jenkins and linemen Tim Urban, Jeff Adell, Sam Mitchum and Scott Chance are other returners who the Greyhounds will be counting on defensively.

Because they have the second-smallest varsity team in the county (only Seminole dresses fewer), Scott and his staff will be forced to play quite a few people both ways and in different positions.

"We'll have to rotate people in and out so we can try and keep everybody fresh," said Scott. "We have to do some work before we start the season (on Friday, Nov. 7, at home against Boone)."

"We hope that this (the jamboree) will show us our weaknesses. Then we can work on them in practice and, hopefully, be ready to play."

Seminole County will have 10 young men continuing their football and basketball careers at Florida colleges this winter.

Lake Howell High School leads the way with five graduates while Oviedo has three and Lake Brantley and Lake Mary one each.

The University of Central Florida is the state school with the most local recruits as its roster will cover Florida State University has two and including national champion Miami, one.

Going to UCF will be freshman linebacker Gary Collins, freshman running back Mike Hamilton and sophomore tailback James Kotar (Lake Howell), center Gordon King and offensive guard Mike Lee (Oviedo), freshman fullback Bob Menden (Lake Mary) and center tailback Cornelius Friendly (Lake Brantley).

At Florida State is sophomore defensive back David Don from Lake Howell and freshman linebacker Willie Steele from Oviedo. The late Seminole county resident at Miami is junior offensive guard Harry Collier, who graduated from Lake Howell.

Kotar, King and Friendly are expected to contribute to the Knights in their first full year in NCAA Division IAA.

Kotar was signed by UCF as a defensive lineman but last season was switched to fullback. Even though he got no game action at the position last year he was listed as the No. 3 fullback going into fall practice.

King was injured most of last season but is expected to resume his duties as the back-up center for the Knights.

Friendly did most of his work last year as a kick return specialist, leading the Knights with a 21.5 yard per return average on 13 run-backs. He also had two carries for five yards as a fullback.

Collier will be playing his third position since signing with the defending national champions four years ago. He was signed as a defensive lineman but was moved to center when he was the back-up last year. This year he has been moved to strong guard and has learned the position quickly enough to move to No. 3 on the depth chart at the start of fall practice.

At Florida State, Steele was re-declared last year as a freshman. After gaining 17 pounds and increasing his speed in the 40-yard dash, he was named the most improved tackle linebacker of the spring. He is expected to see considerable action this year as a back-up. The hard-hitting ex-Lake will also see action on the special teams this season.

team, then opponents could say "That's the tailback. Key on him."

Of course, keying on Smith and Wiggins last year did little to slow them. That's the quandary facing opponents. You can gear up your defense to stop a Smith or a Wiggins, but you run the risk of getting burned by someone else and there's a better than even chance you won't stop a Smith or a Wiggins anyway.

"Marquette was well respected last year. Wasn't he?" said Blaceglia with a smile. "He still gained over 2,000 yards."

As further testament to their abilities, both Wiggins and Smith will be the main weapons in different offensive schemes. At Lake Howell, Blaceglia has changed the Silver Hawks from a Pro Set to a veer. Blake has the Seminoles looking to run and pass the ball equally this year after a 75-25 passing-to-rushing ratio last season.

In both cases, Blake and Blaceglia will be expecting opponents to key on Wiggins and Smith. In fact, they'll be counting on it so much that both offensive schemes, despite some fundamental differences, incorporate a lot of motion designed to keep defenses guessing.

Make the wrong guess and you end up seeing the backs of a lot of jerseys.

technically new, he's not

With Thomas at quarterback, Lake Howell will undergo a transformation opposite that of Lake Mary. In 1988, the Silver Hawks were a fairly balanced run-pass team. This year, Lake Howell will be running the option with Thomson. Jeff Jackson wasn't so much an understudy for the Lyman Greyhounds last year as he was a cast of several looking for the starting role. In 1988, Jackson, Paul Bowen and Rabian Brooks all took turns at quarterback.

For Jackson, the only understudyman of the trio, it was a beneficial learning experience.

"Jeff did a good job controlling things," said Lyman coach Bill Scott after the Aug. 30 jamboree. "He played a little last year and that helped him. He's a heady player."

The starting job at Lake Brantley was still up for grabs going into the Aug. 31 jamboree at Lake Howell. Senior Robert Brymore attempted two passes in 1988 during short stints in relief of starter Clint Johnson (since gone to Notre Dame). Sedat Smith, a running back in 1988, is competing with Brymore for the starting nod.

"I'm waiting to see who takes charge and takes the job," said Patriot coach Fred Almon.

Silver Hawks want to wrap up unfinished business

By SEAN SMITH
Herald sports writer

Last year the Lake Howell Silver Hawks had a saying on their T-shirts. "Hawks on a mission . . . just win it, baby."

Well, they came up two wins short in their quest for the SA State Championship losing the SA-Section I championship game to Pensacola Washington 24-21.

So this year the team adopted the motto, "Hawks: We have unfinished business . . . in it to win it." And with a little luck they could very easily pull that dream off.

"The kids came up with the idea," said Head Coach Mike Biscaglia of the shirts. "Each team gets to pick their own saying."

One reason that everyone points to Lake Howell as a favorite to win the state title is All-American running back Marquette Smith, who rushed for 3100 yards last season and scored 27 touchdowns.

In the three years Smith has started at Lake Howell Coach Biscaglia has resisted the temptation to use him exclusively preferring to get everyone on the offense involved so opposing defenses can't key on one person.

"We like putting the defense in a bind," said Biscaglia.

that the Silver Hawks would be hurt by the loss of 315-pound full back Cortez Graves to graduation. But Biscaglia said 175-pound junior Pat Jorgenson has proved to be a good replacement.

"People think we are not going to be able to run the ball up the middle, but they are wrong," said Biscaglia. "Jorgenson is a tough kid who really likes to hit."

The quarterback for the Silver Hawks this season is Ryan Thomas, who replaces two-year starter Dan Verock. But while Verock was the starter, Thomas took almost as many snaps in the game.

The starting slot back is expected to be senior Scott Golden.

Two younger players have been impressive for Lake Howell at receiver. Senior Scott Macintosh was being counted on heavily to be the wide receiver but has been out with an injury. Junior Ali Vialdora has stepped right in, joining junior tight end Jon Taylor.

Another reason the Silver Hawk offense does so well is the fact the offensive line is huge and experienced. Led by 6-6, 335-pound Chris Morris-Rood and 6-0, 335-pound Adam Teah, the line does an exceptional job of opening holes for Smith and company.

The defense has a quartet of players returning who are as good as anyone: junior linebacker Ken Times was the Seminole County Defensive Player of the Year last year as a sophomore; linebacker Ken Spearman is one of the best but overshadowed by Times; basketball star Tom Dams was a terror at defensive end late in the year; and 5-8, 145-pound defensive back Frank Bates may hit as hard as anyone in the county.
