'Whatnik' Reports Continue To Be Heard Across Nation

By UNITED PRESS
A virtual shower of flying object reports swamped authorities across the nation today, and officials' skepticism over the "whatniks" mounted in proportion. The current flurry of unidentified flying object sightings began during the weekend, and has been picking up steam since. Sky gazers described the objects as appearing in many colors and in shapes ranging from a "meat platter" to "the open end of a bucket." Some of the objects zoomed about, others hovered overhead and, kill automobile engines and lights. Two persons, one an ex-convict in Nebraska and the other a Tennessee schoolboy, insist they have seen space ships manned by German-speaking men and women land. The boy said one of the specimens tried to kidnap his dog. Scientists, however, were cool to most of the reports. They said many of them stemmed from sightings of bright stars and planets, clouds and weather mirages, the aurora borealis, tricks of vision and, perhaps, a touch of hysteria brought on by Russia's Sputnik. Dr. Donald M. Hoagland, director of the Harvard College Observatory, dismissed most of the sightings as "another flying saucer scare." A Chicago scientist pointed out the reports, which have ranged from the Fiji Islands to Italy, all have come from the free world while no such objects have been sighted in Iron Curtain countries. Air Force officials investigated some of the stranger sightings. But a spokesman at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base near Dayton, Ohio, observed that of the thousands of flying saucer reports checked out in the past 10 years, only about three percent of them still are in the "unknown file." Could be Identified. "And those three per cent probably could be identified, the spokesman said, if more information about them could be learned. The spokesman, a top official of the Air Technical Intelligence Center, also threw cold water on the reports by stating that not one bit of physical evidence of flying saucers has ever been found by the Air Force in checking out 5,700 sightings in the past 10 years. He said preliminary studies of some of the current mystery sightings indicate the lights may have stemmed from "cloud ceiling light."

A Naval astronomer said a rash of "whatnik" sightings along the Eastern Seaboard Wednesday night was the aurora borealis, or northern lights. The lights, described as "reddish objects" were seen as far south as Georgia. Astronomer Sylvan Bestel, in Washington said it was "unusual" to have such a brilliant display that far south.

Ike Urged To Be Frank In Missile Talk Tonight

WASHINGTON — Congressmen of both parties urged today that President Eisenhower tell the nation frankly in his radio-television address tonight where the United States stands in the missile race with Russia.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said "much more is needed" than a "generalized pep talk" by the President. He urged Eisenhower to summon a special session of congress.

Rep. Walter Rogers (D-Tex.) said the President should "let us know what the score is . . . if we have slipped behind the Russians, the sooner we know it, the better."

Among Republicans, 10 first-term GOP House members sent a telegram to the President saying "The people want and must have the facts about our missile program and the effect the Russian achievements have on our national security."

where we stand" and withhold the "pious postures of faith and hope."

U.S. Willing To Set Up Nuclear Arms Stockpile In Europe

WASHINGTON — The United States is willing to set up a nuclear arms stockpile in Europe for North Atlantic Treaty allies. It plans to make the offer at the forthcoming meeting of Western allies in Paris. The meeting will be attended by President Eisenhower and other chiefs of government.

Under tentative thinking, the weapons would be placed under the jurisdiction of Gen. Lauris Norstad, who has the dual role of commanding both U. S. forces in Europe and NATO forces.

By this handling, the administration believes, there would be no violation of a congressional act forbidding the turn-over of U. S. nuclear weapons to foreign nations in peacetime.

In case all-out war developed, the weapons would be close to NATO allies and President Eisenhower presumably would order them distributed to NATO forces immediately.

The idea of a NATO nuclear stockpile and other thoughts for strengthening the Atlantic alliance were discussed Wednesday at an extraordinary meeting of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and several former Truman administration officials who worked on NATO matters.

One conferee was Paul H. Nitze, director of the State Department's policy planning staff under Dean Acheson, and another was Frank Pace Jr., Army secretary during part of President Truman's administration.

Dulles invited the group to the conference because he wanted a "fresh approach" to the problem of strengthening NATO. He hoped to get help from persons outside government who are not bogged down by day to day details of government operations.

Congressman Herlong Visits, Tours SNAS

Congressman Syd Herlong and other well-known personalities of the Sanford area visited U. S. Naval Air Station, Sanford, yesterday. The party was met at the station entrance by Commander Lewis D. Tamny, Naval Air Station Executive Officer, who escorted them to the Naval Air Station Administration Building, where they were greeted by Captain Lonel A. Arthur, Naval Air Station Commanding Officer.

Following initial greeting, Congressman Herlong and party were then taken on a tour of the Naval Air Station which terminated in the Commissioned Officers' Mess (closed) where the party was joined by Commander Heavy Attack Wing One and the Commanding Officers of all the fleet units based aboard the Naval Air Station.

Leutenant Commander D. P. Cuning, Naval Air Station Public Works Officer, delivered a short briefing on the subject of current plans for utilization of the 2.3 million dollars authorized in the 1958 Federal Military appropriation.

Following the briefing, a short question and answer session was held. Attending the ceremonies in addition to Congressman Herlong were: Mr. Bratzel, M. L. Raborn Jr., John Krider, Andrew Carraway, Karlisle Housholder, Mack N. Cleveland Jr., Briley Odham, Mayor Gatchel and Mr. Jennings.

Navy Chief, Family Are Living Aboard 'Aquanymph'

The Aquanymph, formerly a Navy PT boat Number 13, and a veteran of World War II, is bearer of a crude log located on the overhead above the forward bunk spaces which serves to witness that he did duty from the invasion in Salerno to Normandy. Although still a proud boat and worthy of the Naval designation of "ship", having been stripped of all the combat equipment which made her a proud man of war, she still remains an active challenge for the do-it-yourself man who would have a yacht second to none.

If you were to ask any one of the five Rieboldt children their home address, their answer would be something like this: "The Yacht Aquanymph! You know—by the sunken boat in Lake Monroe."

Yes, for the first time in the history of the Sanford Naval Air Station, a navy chief and his family have reported for duty at NAS via a seagoing craft! Chief Paul Rieboldt and his family may be truly considered a nautical family, having 29 years' naval service behind them and a year and a half living aboard an ex-Navy PT boat.

Chief Rieboldt, with only seven of his family of 13 living aboard the Aquanymph is aided in the running of his craft by an able bodied crew—his wife, Dorothy; his sons, Ronald, 17; Albert 16; and his daughters, Patricia, 15; Sharon, 10; and Linda Lee, three.

His other three daughters and three sons are over 21 years of age and are living in different sections of the country. Although the female gender of the "crew" don't often contribute in the actual running of the craft, they do their share in keeping the Aquanymph shipshape. Chief Rieboldt chuckled when asked who is skipper of his boat and stated that his three year old, Linda Lee, could very well be considered the skipper. His son, Ronald, is helmsman, and Albert is crewman. Rieboldt says that the boys can handle the vessel pretty well by themselves and have learned to read and understand the inland waterway and navigation charts.

The eight compartment Aquanymph is sturdily constructed with double plank mahogany and is powered by two 225 horsepower engines. Her highest rate of speed is 13 knots an hour, and she can run 40 hours, cruising speed, on 570 gallons of diesel oil. There are four compartments in the bow of the boat. In the 1st compartment is the gear locker which houses lines, tackles, and chains for rigging the boat; the crew's quarters and head are in the second compartment; the galley and breakfast nook are in the third compartment; the fourth compartment is presently being used as a storage room; the fifth compartment, which is in the mid-ship section of the boat, is the engine room. The remaining three compartments are in the stern of the boat. The sixth compartment is being used as the utility room which houses the washing machine, dryer, and auxiliary generating power plant which provides them with their electricity. The seventh and eighth compartments are being used for storage.

Although the Aquanymph has been a great adventure and has meant much in the lives of the Rieboldt family, they are looking forward to becoming "landlubbers" and landowners in Sanford where they plan to settle down in their retirement home.

Now Hear This!

The Enlisted Men's Wives Club met last Monday evening at the USO. The turnout was much better than it has been, and we're always happy to see new faces there. Much business was discussed, and it was decided that the next meeting will be a "Membership Coffee". It's the time of the year for that sort of thing, so all you new enlisted wives who have thought off and on about coming down to join, are especially invited to do so at the next meeting, which will be on Monday night, Nov. 18. There will be games and prizes for all, so come on down and have a good time, meet the girls, and if you would like to join, we'd be most happy to have you.

Have you ever felt completely hemmed in by your obligations? I'm in a quandary! There are three places I am supposed to be tonight, and here I sit trying to figure out which one to go to! A P.T.A. board meeting, school, and the first meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Fleet Reserve Association! The P.T.A. meeting is very important, but you're only allowed just so many misses at banking school in order to pass the course, and in order to get the Fleet Reserve program started for the ladies they have to have at least 15 prospective members present!

I'll let you know what happens! Late as usual, so not too many night to write about, but I can let you know what's playing tonight and tomorrow night at the theatre. Thursday: Monolith Monsters, with Grant Williams and Lola Albright. Friday: Hot Rod Rumble, with project.

The Housing Authority of the City of Sanford, Florida reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any informality in the bidding.

No bid shall be withdrawn for a period of thirty (30) days subsequent to the opening of bids without the consent of the Housing Authority of the City of Sanford, Florida.

THE HOUSING AUTHORITY OF THE CITY OF SANFORD, FLORIDA, By: C. L. Redding, Chairman

Ligh Snowden and Richard Hartman. Southside P.T.A. meeting tonight and it's an important one. Miss Annie Laurie Crawford, Psychiatric Nursing Consultant for the Florida State Board of Health will be the guest speaker, and there will be a brief talk first by Superintendent of Schools, Mr. Milver. Parents are asked to make a very brief stop in their respective rooms for the "room-count", and to proceed immediately to the auditorium for the regular program.

It's also the time of year to start thinking about weeding out the old toys that accumulate in any house where there are children. Even broken and worn-out ones are wanted, as there is always some clever person around to fix them up as good as new. One again this year the transportation division at the Naval Air Station is collecting these things to fix up and take to the Mount Dora Children's Home so that these less fortunate children might also have a Merry Christmas. There is hardly anyone who is immune to the "Christmas spirit" starting around the twentieth of December, when the holiday mood really takes hold of us. But unfortunately, things like this can't wait until we get around to them. They need the things NOW, in order to have all the work completed in time to assure these children of a beautiful Christmas. Maybe your youngsters are growing up and they have an accumulation of games, toys, etc., more suitable for much younger children. Ask them if they would like to see these things making other children happy. I say "ask" your children, as I know from experience that they resent your walking in and helping yourself to what you don't think they will miss, whereas, if they are asked, they usually want to give even some of the things that you thought they would never give up. Kids can be the most generous people in the world, given half a chance, so give them that chance, and be sure and get these things out to the base where they will find their way to make some boys and girls very happy on Christmas morning. If you wish any further information about this, call T. W. BROOKS at ext. 322, at the Naval Air Station.

About fifth period every day as we peer into the hall we see sweet little Elaine Mims posing as janitor after some of our careless students who have been to lunch. You're a doll, Elaine; we wish we had more thoughtful people like you!

We have been seeing quite a bit of Kathy Carlos and Tommy Tillis lately—could this develop into something real serious, or is it just a crazy, mixed-up friendship? What about it, you two? He is sure starchy-eyed for SOMEONE.

More new students and more new students! Goodness, where are they all coming from? It's marvelous seeing new faces, though.

Pat Donahoe, what would you say "if'n" we told you we think you're just sensational when it comes to putting over a show? Don't be modest, now.

Leroy and Linda Humphrey, that sweet sister and brother team, are back with us! We hope you two can stay this time.

Sidney, whom did we see with you at the variety show? Both of you looked as if you were having a wonderful time.

I wonder why Kay Ivey always calls Jimmy Cordell "Jackie". Tell us about it, Jimmy!

Didn't Rickie Cox and Bobby Johnson make a cute couple Tuesday night? I heard that Bobby was doing pretty well with a darling Freshman girl in study hall, by the name of Ann. Hmm.

Ray Hudson and his big bad Ford can be seen almost anywhere settle down. Why should he?

Congratulations to Linda Smith, Peggy Lundquist, Deloris Jones, and Sandra Lee for being elected Homecoming sponsors.

It's so nice seeing so many of last year's alumni. It's a crying shame you can't come back to S. H. We really MISS you all!

Good luck to Faye Clark and Leonard La Pore. We hear they're going steady.

Speaking of going steady, I'll just have to tell everyone that Pauline Rans and Tommy Brown are doing just that. We're so happy for you two.

Bobby Osburn seems to think that Sue Ann Toney is quite a gal. We agree with you all the way, Bobby!

John Holloway, we haven't seen you with a girl in quite a while. Could be you're "just lookin' around"? Girls, perk up and get busy!

I wonder why Judy Heron was so wrapped up in her English lesson last Wednesday? If you had what she had in her book, you would have been on a cloud, too. It was a picture of a doll with the initials R. K. Roger King? ? ?

Stars On Horizon

By ANGELO COMPAIN

It seems that this year the new recording artists have taken the limelight from the old perennial winners. Examples given: Sonny James, Ferlin Husky, Johnny Mathis, Everly Brothers, Chuck Willis, The Coasters, The Dell Vikings, Paul Anka, Marty Robbins, Sal Mineo, Ricky Nelson, Charlie Gracie, Tab Hunter, Tommy Sandie, Nick Todd, etc. And so, in the proper mood, I submit my choice for the stars of tomorrow, stars that are now just appearing on the horizon.

Betty McLauren. Mmm boy! Whatta voice! The clear, crystalline, melodic voice of this new lass in the music world sure adds class to her newest Alca recording, "Autumn Leaves". And what a number that is! They changed the old standby into the progressive style, mood music with a top-your-feet beat. Real gem! "Autumn Leaves" was one of my very favorites when Betty Williams played it on the radio, but this new version, man, like wow! This week's MUST.

Irene Williams and Leslie Scott. These are yet to be discovered in the U. S. I don't know anything about them, but I heard them on Radio Nassau, and they're just plain wonderful! Some bright person should bring them across the Atlantic to record for us. They sing the native "Gumbo" in English. She does a real cute number in which she preaches against padded shoulders, "Just Suit, No Man". He has an equally unique "Marianne, Keep Scratching My Back". (He adds, "It feels good!") Crazy, man, crazy!

Carol Jarvis. This girl created a sensation over at Don Recordings. Now she's a nationwide sensation with "Rebel". Don't get the wrong impression; the song is not dedicated to teen-age rebels or Southern rebels. Just the same it has a nice rhythm to it—catchy, too. And Carol Jarvis has the voice to go with it.

Janice Harper. The first time I heard "Bon Voyage" this summer, I said to myself, "This girl will be the female find of the year." I guess I was wrong. I didn't hear from her again, and it turned out that the year's discovery appears to be Della Reese. Whatta matter, cats? Dontcha like Harper? I like to hear the vocal chords of Della Reese, but Janice handles hers better. So, if you see a record with Janice Harper on the label, be sharper, hear Harper.

Homecoming

Dear Ms. Wal, the "big doings" is over, Ma, but it sure was fun while it lasted.

It all started with the bonfire on Thursday. That was fun but some boys started to throw fire crackers and that sort of put a damper on the doings, until our big, strong, brave, he-manish football players brought some more wood and the fire blazed again. The parade on Friday was next on our schedule of fun. It started late but people around tell me that that's usually the way it is. They stopped all the traffic and the Band and Pep Club marched down the street proud as they could be. There were all sorts of things in the parade. An ol' rickety car (like ours) filled with Future Nurses and also full-fledged red-haired Indians on horseback. After all of that came the biggest "Doing" of all, the game (algh)! We won, thanks to those big, strong, brave, he-manish football players, 14-8. The Band and Pep Club put on a great show. All full of tepees, Indians (with Tom-Toms) and tommy-hawks. Over in the corner sitting all maternal-like were the sponsors, Peggy Lundquist, Deloris Jones, Sandra Lee and Linda Smith, with escorts Jimmy Cordell, Pat Donahoe, Jimmy Moye and Richard Phagen. After the game everybody went to the dance which was super, great and just plain wonderful! I really had a big time, and everybody enjoyed it.

Love ya,
Lisa Jane
P. S. Take care of Abigail and her new babies! Please!

Question Of Week

By Claudia Warmack

The "Question of the Week" for this week is "How do you think we can keep the break?"

Kathy Carlos—"By doing without it for a while and realizing what a difference it makes."

Deloris Bailey—"Don't walk on the tables!"

Betty Johnson—"By being good little boys and girls!"

Kiddie Korner

By John Miller

Just got back from the bonfire, and enjoyed it very much. These things that we do BEFORE the game are almost as much fun as the Homecoming game and dance itself. The school spirit that the students of SHS have shown has really been wonderful. We think that it makes a much better school when everyone is willing to come out and help. When this was written, everyone was getting ready for the Big Dance.

Delegates from the Future Teachers Club went last weekend to Daytona for the Statewide Convention. This reporter went up that Saturday. Everyone had a wonderful time, and we all want to thank Mrs. Bateman for being such a wonderful sponsor. She has put everything she can into this club, and all the members appreciate it. Thank you again, Mrs. Bateman!

Speaking of clubs, one that really did one fine job last week was the A-Squad Glee Club. I for one certainly enjoyed it. The script was very well written, the dances certainly showed work, and of course the musical numbers were outstanding. We'll be looking forward to the next performance.

By the way, we'd like to mention here for just a minute the Ninth Grade Glee Club. We don't sing as much as the Upperclassmen for audiences, but we DO practice every day, and one day we'll surprise you with a performance. Course, we can't guarantee how it'll SOUND, but... (heh, heh) well, as I was saying, the A-Squad was mighty good.

Seriously, though, even if I do joke a lot, I'm harmless. That's what they said at Chaitanochee, and I guess they oughta know! Last week I put a dime in that phone in the hall, and I've come to the conclusion that I am a sucker. That phone took my dime, (with which I could have bought an ice cream cone) huzzed once, and was very quiet. Maybe that's how the office staff makes its pocket money. Anyway, there's a racket going on somewhere.

Congratulations to Diane, Leslie, and Linda for coming out on top in the election. It was a good fight, and I believe we came up with some good officers. I would like to thank everyone who was a, as to good to support my campaign. We didn't win, but it's a good feeling to know that you have friends who are willing to vote and get others to vote for you. So, thank you again for a wonderful campaign.

I'm very afraid that Rat Day is not very far off, fellow Freshmen. Shall we all be on our P's and Q's? Guess what! I finished my algebra homework in school! Now I've got to go and study negative roots. And as many have said before, "I'll leave on that unhappy note."

Jukebox In Cafeteria

By Kathy Carlos

We are all just jumping with joy to have a jukebox in the cafeteria. It makes such a difference in the whole atmosphere of lunch hour. So far we have found so many more advantages than disadvantages in having a jukebox.

So many kids used to go elsewhere and have a hamburger and coke for lunch instead of a nice hot lunchroom meal. That can be heard on your pocketbook as well as your health. Better health, better grades, better individuals. See the connection?

You will always find the very latest hits on the jukebox, such as "Wake Up, Little Sule", "Jailhouse Rock", "Treat Me Nice", and a job of others. We just want to say thanks to all who are connected in any way with helping us to get a jukebox.

Home Economics II Class Is Being Organized At SHS

By Kathy Carlos

A newly organized class here at S. H. is Home Economics II. This subject is taught only four periods, and, at the present, our class consists of only 16 girls.

Being a small class certainly has its advantages. Under these conditions, we will be able to take various trips and conduct more experiments in cooking, sewing, and other homemaking processes. We plan to cover information on planning a sensible wardrobe, budgeting, etiquette, child care, health habits, first aid, and anything else our time will allow.

This is a most interesting class and I'm sure almost any girl would enjoy it. It's been so nice letting you in on our new home ec class and you will be hearing from us again probably, in the near future. Thank you.

New Students

By Deloris Bailey

I would like to congratulate Kathy Carlos on the grand job she did on this column while she was writing it. I only hope I can do half as well.

At Seminole High School we have an average of five new students every week. This week I am writing on two of the students, instead of the usual one, for this reason.

All of the freshmen have met Mickey Reedy. She was in the Dramatic Club in Newport, R. I. where she last attended school. Her father is a captain in the Navy, a fact that explains why she lives in Sanford instead of in Southern Pines, N. C. where she was born. Mickey wishes she were 15 instead of her present age. She adores water skiing and hopes to be a nurse in future years. Pat Boone is ideal, so, naturally, "When The Swallows Come Back To Capistrano" is her favorite song. Welcome to Seminole III, Mickey.

A welcomed member of the Junior class is Ronnie Eastern. He came to us from Robert E. Lee High School, Jacksonville. Ronnie was born in Washington, D. C., but has attended several schools as his dad is in the Navy. He thinks the music in the lunchroom is fabulous. He likes to dance and loves to boogie. "Twelfth of Never" is his favorite song. Ronnie says everyone in our school is very polite and shows his Southern hospitality.

You girls get on the move and show Ronnie how nice our school can be. It's a pleasure to have you at SHS, Ronnie.

On Der Soviet Sirkle

By Angelo Compain

Our anonymous amateur radio operator has again made contact with the inner sanctum, and he tells us "he heard a party propaganda announcer that Sovietska is growing so much that no longer is it bound by the Iron Curtain; rather, the Iron Curtain now encircles the free world. That'll be the day, eh American public? No truth to the matter, of course; I've heard that it'll bomb in northern Siberia have caused the Lena to overflow and thus reduce Soviet territory. Tik, tik. And unrest in the Sovietized satellites (not Sputnik, I don't think) has also been heard on the unfortunate Kremlin Kups.

Well, anyway, our friend ham informs us that a new song has been added to "Our Hit Parade" on radio Moscow. It seems to me I've heard it here in America, but, of course, Russia claims priority of invention. The score has been helpfully translated into our vernacular as follows:

"Chances are, 'cause I war a silly grin the moment that Sputnik was launched.

Chances are they think my game is espionage!

Just because I delighted when I heard Hungry revolutionized, Chances are they think that I am not so nice!

"In the grasp of Bulgann, when they found me so close, Chances are they believed that I would try.

To cause Premier to die!

Yes, I guess they'll always see that there's the "perfect place" for me;

And if I ain't been had, Well, chances are my chances are campaign.

I'm very afraid that Rat Day is not very far off, fellow Freshmen. Shall we all be on our P's and Q's? Guess what! I finished my algebra homework in school! Now I've got to go and study negative roots. And as many have said before, "I'll leave on that unhappy note."

Rat Day Blues

By John Miller

Rat Day, Rat Day, go away. Come again another day. Come at noon or come at night. When e'er you come, I'll be a sight!

Here come sophs with lipstich bright, To smear and paint with all their might. Hear come Juniors with their guss To soak us Frosh with "Fro in Funs".

Perfume, if you didn't know That makes all we Frosh just wanta show. Our teeth and smile and grin, And want to sock them on the chin. But sock we can't, nor fight or fuss No matter WHAT they do to make a muss Of us.

We must laugh and smile and cheer While s-me soph draws on our ear. We must say, "Hurray, hurray", When Lois, June, Diane or Fay Takes a stick and makes a mark On us and says, "You're in the dark."

'Cause you're a freshman dear, my dear, And you I'd dearly love to smear! And so that's it, my happy friends, So please beware the soph who spends All he's got on lipstich bright And who says both day and night "I want Rat Day so I can rough Up some Freshman." Think it's rough? That's tough!

There Might Be Screaming Some Day If Voting Methods Change

The citizens of Sanford should be thoroughly ashamed of themselves in the way they turned out for the election Tuesday.

We have pounded away at the apathy of people regarding their government, especially at the grass roots level but seemingly without any effect whatsoever.

For, on Tuesday approximately 500 voters out of 8,500 turned out to cast their ballots for a city commissioner.

There were issues at stake — big issues at that — which did not attract voters of Sanford.

The issues were—first, a woman was running for the Board of Sanford City Commissioners for the first time. Second, the docks and terminals project.

If at any time in the last decade there should have been the biggest vote in the history of Sanford — last Tuesday would have been the day.

We cannot say truthfully and honestly that "the people have spoken". The only analysis that can be made of Tuesday's city election is that "part of the people have spoken."

In other countries (claiming to be democratic) every person is forced to appear at the polls to cast a ballot — there is no choice in the matter. However — on the ballot there is but one name — and to vote against him or her would be political suicide.

Should we change our form of government so that political matters could be settled fairly and squarely — should we adopt the form of ballot used by other countries — or should we allow the apathy of the people to continue the way that it has been expressed last Tuesday?

Our form of government and the methods by which public officials are elected is the fairest, most democratic, and truly American — if American people will use their privilege of voting.

The only fear is that some day we may wake up and find ourselves voting by another method because of the apathy and negligence of the citizens today. Then — there will be screaming!

Jaycees Sponsor Xmas Parade

The Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce has, again this year, taken on the task of staging another Christmas Parade.

This is, if we are not mistaken, the eighth annual Christmas Parade sponsored jointly by the Jaycees and the Sanford Merchants Association.

The way the Jaycees enter in the Christmas Parade is by doing "The Work" — the Sanford Merchants Association finance the project.

Now don't think for one moment that the work of staging a Christmas Parade is simple — especially one the size of Sanford's. Many larger cities would look with envy on the length, time, and type of parade staged here.

For weeks the Jaycees and their many committees appointed to take care of the various phases of a parade are hard at work. This year John Alexander, general chairman for the parade has seventeen committees — and the work of each group meet climax at the time set for the parade to start.

The Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce is to be congratulated for the fine work they have done in staging Christmas Parades of the past — and we know that when the parade is over this year and children have all had an opportunity to get a brief glance at Santa Claus that the Jaycees will again receive the thanks of a grateful community.

No doubt about it — this year's Jaycees-Sanford Merchants Association Christmas Parade will be the biggest and best of all!

Congressman Herlong's Visit

Sanford and Seminole County were mighty happy to see Congressman A. S. "Syd" Herlong the other day.

This was the occasion of his annual visit during which time the people of the city and county have an opportunity to ask as many questions as they like about the affairs in Washington.

Congressman Herlong spends hours upon hours of time in the interest of the Sanford Naval Air Station, he is backing the move toward creating the Sanford-Titusville Canal, and about the biggest thing on his mind right now is the Sadlak-Herlong Bill to reduce income taxes.

It is a lot easier now for Congressman Herlong to reach the people of the county since acquiring his mobile trailer-office. He said, when he took over the office, that he would visit every precinct in his district and from the looks of his itinerary that's exactly what he has done.

In Seminole County, for instance, he visited Lake Mary, Casselberry, Longwood, Altamonte Springs, Oviedo, Geneva—and across the river he stopped by to talk with the folks in DeBary.

It is unusual for a Congressman, or any other public official for that matter, to visit every precinct in a district. But doing the unusual is the usual thing for Congressman "Syd" Herlong.

Thanks for coming around, Congressman Herlong — coming around to answer the questions of those interested in the operation of government and to speak to the civic clubs of the community.

Takes Expert To Recognize Depressed Person

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—It takes an expert to recognize a depressed person and even experts run the risk of confusing a depressed person with an anxious one. This striking insight into people was contained in the newest warning to family doctors to go easy on giving "happy pills" to the depressed.

Dr. Frank J. Ayd Jr., well-known psychiatric specialist of Baltimore, said the "happy pills" (and he included the whole family of tranquilizing drugs) were "depressants" of the sympathetic nervous system and were dangerous when given to depressed persons.

A depressed person already is suffering from under-reactivity of the sympathetic system, he said, and to "superimpose a drug which is a sympathetic depressant only aggravates the existing emotional depression and increases the risk of suicide."

Yet family doctors continue to prescribe them for people who shouldn't have them, he said. Ayd assumed these doctors either were confusing the tranquilizing drugs with the family of stimulating drugs, or didn't recognize depression when they saw it.

If it were the latter, it was understandable, he said. Depression is hard to recognize in other people although they are "among the most common illnesses" the general medical man sees. One reason is that the depressed person has at least one set of engaging physical symptoms when he goes to a doctor and will, the chances are, try to hide his depression.

Nevertheless "everything about his appearance and behavior suggests otherwise," Ayd said in "Current Medical Digest." "He may force himself to talk, not to cry, to smile, to appear cheerful, yet he walks slowly, reacts sluggishly and appears dull and lacking in vitality. During an interview it is evident that his thinking is retarded as well."

Anxious persons also go to doctors with sets of physical symptoms which will also prove unjustified when investigation turns up no bodily causes for them. These anxious persons can be helped by "happy pills" whereas the depressed are harmed. So the two must be told apart.

Must Study Moods
Look at moods, Ayd said. In one the mood is primarily depressed, and anxiety is outstanding and depression is secondary. The depressed usually are reluctant to talk about their symptoms but the anxious are eager to talk about them. The depressed person will be critical of himself and blame himself but the anxious person will think he's an all right Joe and blame other people.

The depressed person has lost his interests and no matter what is happening, he pays very little attention to what goes on around him. But the anxious person usually hangs on to his interests and he responds to what happens around him. The depressed person feels worse in the morning; the anxious person, in the evening.

The depressed person can be helped by proper treatment, Ayd said, but he is not going to be helped if he is told: "There is nothing really wrong with you. Get a hold on yourself. Stop worrying. Get a hobby. Go out more. You have to cure yourself."

"Such platitudes," Ayd continued, "are a grave injustice to the patient and an admission to medical ignorance. It causes relatives to pressure the patient to attempt to do things which he is unable to do. This increases his feelings of inadequacy and hopelessness."

Health-Preserving Wonders Of Tomorrow

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—A scientist has demonstrated that baby mice can be protected from sickening bacterial infections by vaccinating their mother before they are born.

Other scientists have succeeded in getting the cat ends of cat nerve cords to knit again.

These are among the health-preserving wonders —

Washington SAW

SEE by W.W. PENNINGTON

BLOW DAT WHISTLE — One day last week when the Seaboard's Silver Meteor pulled into Jacksonville from Jacksonville, the station master saw a strange face at the window of the cab. Congressman Charlie Bennett had just brought his first train in on time.

This was Charlie's first ride in the cab of a Diesel engine. He wasn't exactly the engineer—just a guest. Reason for his riding the cab wasn't to satisfy a lifelong ambition to be a railroad engineer. This trip was to pick up a bit of first-hand information about a proposed change in a federal law.

The law now says that railroad workers can't work more than 16 continuous hours. Recently a group of railroad employees asked Congressman Bennett to sponsor a change in the law that would limit the working time to 14 hours.

Bennett, who belongs to the old school of hard work, said that he often works 16 to 18 hours a day himself and that he couldn't see any need to change the law limiting the amount of time a man could work, so long as he was being paid for it.

The railroad workers explained that in some jobs the tempo was so severe and the responsibility so great that working 16 hours actually could be dangerous. When Bennett wasn't 100 per cent convinced, his visitors suggested that he take a look for himself. And on Bennett's next trip to Washington, he was given a seat in the cab of the engine where he could get a close up look at one of the more exacting jobs.

"They were right," he said. "It isn't as easy as it looks. You have to keep a constant lookout for signals. Everybody who works up front checks every signal—and each one calls out the signal when they first see it and again when they go by it." Bennett explained that this is a rule to keep everybody on his toes and to double check the operation of the train.

"By the time we pulled into Savannah," he said, "I understood how to read most of the signals and was crying them out along with the other trainmen." After his ride, he's inclined to go along with the idea of changing the law.

Bennett's train ride recalls another little known precarious effort he made to get his information on the ground floor—or rather on the river bottom. In 1952, a Jacksonville firm was granted the contract and repair of a special communications line running between the Capitol and the Pentagon Building. A question about the difficulty of the operation arose. Charlie said he'd like to take a look. The spot he had to see was at the bottom of the Potomac River.

Into a diver's suit he went and with the help of the undersea experts, the Congressman took his turn in the knee deep mud and silt of the Potomac.

Bennett has a long record of service on the Armed Services Committee. So, don't be surprised one of these days if you read about him hitch-hiking a ride into outer space on an Army rocket.

Mental Hospitals

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—When the annual health reports of a state mental hospital had the opportunity to give close, extended attention to 72 long-time inmates, they discovered there was no really good reason why 26 of them shouldn't be returned to the outside world.

Twenty-six of the 72 actually were returned and 26 of the 26 became self-supporting and others gave the world no trouble.

The reporting scientists noted that if they had the opportunity to work closely with the inmates, they might have stayed in the hospital "indefinitely."

As for the 26 others of the 55, they have been in the hospital for so long they had no "motivation" for giving up its security for the uncertainties of the outside. In other words, they were doing all right where they were, and didn't want to take chances.

Facilities are inadequate

The report of Dr. Frederick Phillips and Sophia Belle May of Spring Grove State Hospital, Baltimore, Md., to the American Psychiatric Association dramatized the condition of all mental hospitals. That American public facilities for treating the mentally ill are extremely inadequate.

The 72 chronic mental patients in the study were all well enough to be employed in various jobs around the hospital. They were transferred from wards to a convalescent cottage on the grounds. The original idea was to get inmate-workers under one roof in order to study the hospital's work program.

But this was quickly broadened into a study of the patients themselves and efforts to make them more "socially active" with the view of discharging them. Of the 72 men, over half had been in the hospital longer than 10 years and 71 per cent had been in longer than five. Their ages ranged from 19 to 81 but 47 per cent were over 50.

Lack of Details

One of the first developments was the lack of detailed hospital records of those chronic patients. The charts of 26 of them had not been taken from the files of the central record room in three years. "The longer the patient was in the hospital, the less likely was the staff to know much about him," the scientists reported.

They reported that the "implications" of this were "startling."

Letters To The Editor

Editor, The Sanford Herald, Sanford, Florida

Dear Sir:

Thank you for your co-operation in publishing the B-Squad game, recently sponsored by the Seminole High School P.T.A.

The funds derived from this project will be used to provide recreational facilities for the students of Seminole High School, and the excellent publicity given us by you and your staff greatly aided the success of this undertaking.

Sincerely,

What Type Furniture Does Your Baby Need?

By DELOS SMITH, D.D.
A BRAND-NEW baby needs and drafts. Also, the folding chairs to sit on and the way of furniture. The new parents, however, will find a bath table and facilities for storing the infant's clothing helpful, although not absolutely essential. As the child grows older, there will be a few other articles you'll need such as a high-chair, play pen, toy chest, a toilet seat or a nursery chair.

Get a Sturdy One

The baby will need a high-chair by the time he is six months old, when he begins to sit up and is eating solid food. Be sure to get a sturdy one with legs spread outward to prevent a lively youngster from causing it to overturn.

Trays may be of plastic, wood or metal, although I think you might find the plastic variety easier to keep clean. Some sort of strap or safety device should be provided to hold the youngster securely in the chair.

Good Conventions

A play pen is a great convenience both to the baby and his mother. Not only does it keep a youngster out of mischief, it also helps teach him to walk by providing safe, sure support.

The play pen you select should be large enough to provide the baby with plenty of play room. I advise you to get the type which has a raised floor. This will keep your infant away from dirt

Sanford Garden Club Hosts 19 Clubs In Other Counties

Nineteen garden clubs from Sumter, Oseola, Seminole, Orange, and Lake Counties participated in the District VII meeting of the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs held in Sanford on Tuesday. About two hundred enthusiastic gardeners and their guests enjoyed the hospitality of the Sanford Garden Club. Members were greeted at the Elks' Club with coffee and doughnuts. They had an opportunity to renew old friendships while admiring the beautiful flower arrangements provided by Mrs. Irvin Fleischer and Mrs. I. E. Batten. Garden books, books on flower arrangements, Christmas decorations, and related subjects were also on display, under the direction of Mrs. J. T. Horton Sr., Mrs. Volie Williams Jr. and her committee are to be commended for their efforts in making this a most successful affair.

Mrs. J. E. Laughinghouse, District VII director from Orlando, opened the meeting, followed by an invocation by Mrs. L. E. Spencer. After words of welcome from the president of the Sanford Garden Club, Mrs. Fred R. Ganss, and a response by Mrs. William P. Hurd, Jr. of Azalea Park, there were messages from State officers and district chairmen.

The State President, Mrs. Vernon L. Conner of Mt. Dora gave an inspirational talk on "Steps to Success" for a garden club, stressing the objectives of civic beauty, road-side improvement, conservation of natural resources, study of improved horticultural methods, landscape design, and sharing gardening knowledge. Mrs. Conner illustrated the various ways in which garden clubs have achieved these aims, emphasizing the miles of beauty planted at approaches to towns and cities, the Litter-bug campaign, and the work in the education of junior gardeners. The State President epitomized the interest, enthusiasm, and desire to learn, which are the characteristics of good garden club members.

Attention was focused on the beautiful sterling silver punch bowl presented by the Wilson-Toomer Company, and the silver coffee urn given by the Gulf Life Insurance Company to be inscribed with the names of the winners in flower arrangement classes at State Flower Shows. Since the winner does not retain the trophy, she is given a lovely miniature silver bowl to commemorate this honor.

Interesting and stimulating reports were given by Mrs. C. R. Mayes, Jr. Pompano Beach on Conservation; Mrs. Arthur F. Coe of Jacksonville, Awards; Mrs. C. E. Saunders of Orlando, Junior Garden Clubs; Mrs. G. O. Gjoerloff of Apopka, Landscape Design, and Mrs. William T. Chennell of Orlando, Publicity. Mrs. Mayes called attention to the fact that there will be thirty scholarships available to teachers to a short course in conservation at the Florida State University in 1958. The Awards Chairman, Mrs. Coe, said that about sixty-five awards are open to competition by adult and junior groups and urged the clubs to check on the rules governing the awards. Junior gardeners, according to Mrs. C. E. Saunders, have had numerous successful projects through Florida, even including the landscaping of school grounds. In speaking of landscape design, Mrs. Gjoerloff emphasized both planning and planting. Mrs. Chennell explained the need for public support through good public relations.

Individual reports were given by club presidents who tried to outline the achievements of their groups within the three-minute time limit given to them. An outstanding characteristic of club programs reflected the desire to be of service to the community, and to aid in the beautification of their towns.

At the close of the morning session, an invitation was extended by the Winter Park Garden Club to hold the 1958 District Meeting in Winter Park.

A delicious luncheon was served by Mrs. John Morgan and her committee at the Shrine Club. The tables were decorated with beautiful arrangements of driftwood, Koeleria seed pods, and Caladium leaves. The afternoon meeting was highlighted by the presentation of certificates of affiliation of the garden clubs with the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs to the club presidents.

Mrs. Howard Campbell of Eustis announced the Florida State Flower Show to be held in Eustis on December 6, 7, & 8. This will give the Central Florida an opportunity to enjoy an outstanding flower show.

The Sanford Garden Club presented Mrs. Vernon L. Conner with a beautiful picture designed of dried materials and driftwood in appreciation of her leadership. The Garden Club of Wildwood was given an award for having the largest percentage of their members present.

The Garden Club of Sanford wishes to extend its thanks and sincere appreciation to the Elks Club and to the Shrine Club for the use of their facilities; also Faust Drug Store and Touchton's Drug Company for the individual boxes of candy presented to the members at lunch, and candy given as door prizes. Thanks also to the Burpee Seed company which gave seed packets to all members, and special seeds to state officers.

Coach Of Week

By OLIVER MORRISON
United Press Sports Writer
ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—He once said "you have to be a little goofy to be a football coach." He isn't goofy at all but rather, as one writer once described him, "as knowing as a chief petty officer and as wise as an admiral." He isn't a braggart but was quick to say "we feel we are going to win every game we play."

He's Eddie Erdelatz of Navy, the United Press Coach of the Week after his Navy team whipped previously unbeaten Notre Dame, 20-6, Saturday and proved that sailors can travel via land and air, too.

Best Starting Backfield
Erdelatz has developed possibly the best starting backfield in the nation. In fact, he was so satisfied during spring practice that he called a half after 17 days, three less than the NCAA limit.

Don't get the idea that the 44-year-old Erdelatz is over-confident. He just knows a good thing when he sees it. When Navy wins, he gives the credit to "our great players." When the Middies lose, he says "it's all my fault."

Living up to personal traditions, Erdelatz attributed the win over Notre Dame to his players, assistant coaches and the Navy student body.

"We have exceptional spirit at the Academy," he explained. "The Middies shipped in $550 to have their cheers piped into the Notre Dame Stadium.

Easy Going Fellow
Eddie is easy going, quick to laugh and insists that everyone call him by his first name, a novelty at Annapolis where just about everyone except the waterboy rates a "sir."

After graduation from St. Mary's College in California in 1935, Erdelatz served as line or end coach at his alma mater, the University of San Francisco, Navy and the professional San Francisco 49'ers, with time out for a hitch as a World War II naval officer.

Will Navy beat Army again this year?
"We have enough to worry about this week against Duke," Erdelatz smiled. "We play them one at a time."

Sport Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
ROME — Friends, Romans, countrymen, lend me your ears.

Fearless Fraley has come not to bury Caesar. Nor to praise him. I'd just like to see 'em put a wooden floor down at the Colosseum so that when the Olympic Games are held at Rome in 1960 the Greco-Roman rascals can go legitimate.

This, if they're ever going to have a fitting place for such an event, is it. For, while the old hickup is a bit moth-eaten, it once was the home of the gladiators and burping lions.

The hitch is that a special branch of the ministry of education which supervises national monuments must okay the idea. Up to now, in true Nero style, they've turned thumbs down and simply keep on fiddling while the Greco-Roman rascals burn.

The ministry is just plain set on keeping the moths ahead of the muscles.

Moses Statue Legend
They're experts at it, too. As example, seven months ago it was decided to put a new floor in the church of St. Peter's chains. This is the site of Michelangelo's world-famous marble statue of Moses, the one which was so life-like when he finished it that, legend goes, he whacked a nick in the knee and dared it to "go ahead, speak."

Anyhow, when they started to dig down to lay the new floor, they found some old Roman paving stones. So the church has been silent for seven months, fresh dust gathers unnoticed on Moses' heroic marble brow, and the ministry can't seem to decide whether to dig up the whole interior of the church.

The oldest relic always takes precedent in Rome. That's why even the Greco-Roman rascals, museum pieces of the Olympic Games, have to whoa back when it comes to invading the Colosseum. The ministry is afraid that they might dislodge a brick here or there, although personally I never saw such smash action in this type of what is quaintly referred to as razzling.

Yea, Slippery Rock
Being on my way out of Rome, I might even go so far as to say nobody would probably notice it even if they did bust up a bit of the blood-stained masonry. For, while the Colosseum might have been quite a stadium during the era of the great Roman marshmallow roast, it wouldn't be big enough now for Slippery Rock to play Lock Haven Teachers.

The arena, filled with a decomposing barracks which looks like a hastily gathered pile of Irish confetti, is but 94 yards long and 59 yards wide.

A wooden floor could easily be laid to protect the busted up brickwork underneath and, while there are few fitting seats left in the rising tiers, where the crowd once screamed for blood, they wouldn't have to install a single chair. The Greco-Roman rascals don't draw like Gorgeous George.

But the ministry in charge isn't rushing in where the local gentry once feared to tread. Nor are they hurrying on a proposition that the marathon course be laid over the ancient Applan Way, finishing under the Arch of Constantine.

Marshall's Play Powers Hershey Bears Into First

NEW YORK (AP)—Willie Marshall, whose fine play has powered the Hershey Bears into first place in the American Hockey League, is running far ahead of his rivals in the league's three scoring departments.

The star center tallied seven points during last week's action to increase his season's total to 25. Marshall's 12 goals and 13 assists are also league-leading marks.

Dunc Fisher, Marshall's right wing, is second in total points with 18. Cleveland's Jimmy Moore is next with 17, while Ken Wharram of Buffalo, Bill Sweeney of Providence and Johnny McEllan and Fred Glover of Cleveland are tied for fourth place with 13 points each.

Hershey also boats the circuit's top goaltender in Gil Mayer. The veteran netminder has yielded just 14 goals in seven games for an average of 2.00. And in case Mayer gets hurt, the Bears can call on Bob Perreault, who has an average of 2.50 in five games.

Eddie Shack, Providence freshman, is continuing his AHL orientation from the penalty box. In his first season out of amateur play, Shack has compiled 34 penalty minutes in 14 games.

Same Faces On Top As League Passes Halfway Point

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The National Football League skipped past the halfway point in its 13 game schedule with the same old faces dominating the individual performances.

Tommy Wilson of Los Angeles was the top rusher 486 yards for the fourth week in a row; Eddie LeBaron of Washington, averaging 10.15 yards gained for every pass thrown, led the passers and Clyde Conner of San Francisco led the pass receivers with 27 completions.

But George Blanda of the Chicago Bears put his best foot forward to oust Jim Mutscheller of Baltimore as leading point-maker with 45.

Norm Van Brocklin of Los Angeles continued to set the punting pace with a 45.4 average; Joe Scudero of Washington led the punt-return pack with a 9.3 average and Don McElhenny of Green Bay was head man in the kickoff-return department with a 32.3 average.

Jack Butler of Pittsburgh intercepted three passes last Sunday to boost his season total to a high of eight, two more than Jack Christiansen of Detroit.

Hugh McElhenny of San Francisco picked up 29 yards on Wilson's 496 yards on 97 attempts for a 5.1 average. McElhenny has gained 418 yards on 86 carries for a 4.8 average. Jimmy Brown of Cleveland picked up 109 yards to vault from sixth to third place.

Tommy O'Connell of Cleveland trails LeBaron in the passing department, holding second place with 35 completions out of 59 attempts for 547 yards and three touchdowns. His average is 9.27, compared to LeBaron's 10.15.

Although Conner held away for the fourth straight week as the top pass receiver, Jack McClaren of Pittsburgh caught seven last week to leap from seventh to second place with a total of 24 for 315 yards. Jim Dooley of the Chicago Bears was third with 22.

Undefeated Seminoles Travel To Leesburg Tomorrow Nite

By Jerry Covington
The flashy, undefeated Seminoles travel to Leesburg tomorrow night in an effort to keep their wonderful 1937 football record unblemished. This will be the third conference tilt and if they are successful in this outing their record will stand at two wins and one tie.

The most discouraging news around SHS is the fact that big Jack Stotsky is being forced out of the lineup because of the knee injury received in last Friday's game. The extent of his injury is not known but the coaches felt that they should not take any chances of further injury because the "homestretch" is going to be rough and Stotsky is figured strongly in the plans to upset Melbourne and remain undefeated throughout the season. His great ability, backed up by his wonderful team spirit, has played a big part in the success of the team thus far and it is hoped that Jack can overcome his ailments and be ready when the Seminoles go against mighty Melbourne next week.

In an effort to strengthen the center spot, Mike Tammy, who has played practically everywhere, has been shifted to aid Tommy Butner, with the chores at the middle position. Tommy, who is only a sophomore, took over last week for Stotsky and did a very good job. Although Jack will be greatly missed, these boys will be in there doing their best, which should be enough to beat Leesburg.

Although there will still be a few sore knees in the lineup, these great team players have worked out all their flaws of last weeks contest and they should be ready to show their old form. Actually, last weeks game was much better than it looked. Any team that can hold its opponents to a scant 35 yards while piling up 218 for themselves had to play good ball. A few mistakes were made, but they were entitled to them because until last week, there just weren't any. They have played great ball throughout the season and are very strong contenders to take the honors in averaging 110 yards per game and is very capable of galloping all over the field. Although the Jacks have the worst record they have shown in years, they have played good ball, and even with Sanford as the favorite, it should be a good ball game.

The OBC. They stand first in line to defeat Melbourne and they could very possibly do so.

Going into tomorrow night's game against the Jacks, the Seminoles will be in top form for the first time since their long layoff. Bob Johnson has completely recovered from his hand injury and Eddie Barbour's knee seems to be OK so they will be ready to go full speed. Johnny Yeackle, Sanford's leading ground gainer, is in top form and will be out to better his record.

Quarterback Cecil Dandridge, the ace signal caller, will also be in top form to go against the Jacks. His contributions to the team are invaluable as he has called all the shots, handled the passing, done all the punting, as well as adding several great runs to the local cause.

The Defense will be bolstered this week by the return of Ronnie Russi, defensive back, who received a slight concussion two weeks ago against Winter Park. Ronnie will be expected to stop Parker on quite a few occasions when he is in his outside linebacker position. Billy Tyre, who has been hampered for the last two games with knee infections, will be at top form tomorrow night. Billy is a great tackle and a great competitor so he can be counted on to "rip" the Jacks apart.

Guard, Teddy Walker, continues to be troubled with his knee but it is hoped that he will be ready to see plenty of action. Teddy is another Seminole that has been hampered for the last two games. Teddy and Dave Stanley, prove to be one of the best pairs of guards in Central Florida. Dave leads the Seminoles defensive attack on individual tackles and it might be well to know that his left guard spot is where the Seminoles have been most successful on the ground.

Rounding out this great prep lineup are Tommy Brown, who also is one of the leaders on defense, and a fine pair of ends—Gerald Jones and Allen Swain.

Both these boys have been stand-outs on offense with their pass receiving and Allen has been a great help on defense.

Looking over the lineup one finds it hard to single out any stars. Fellows like Harold Stone, Tammy, Collins, and Schirard are as capable as anyone on the squad and have been great in the role that they have played. The local fans, at last, realize that they have a great squad with the ability to go all the way. They also realize that one of the greatest coaching teams, in Pigott and Laude, is now well established at Seminole High. These men, with proper cooperation, could go a long way.

Good luck is not only wished but a great deal of it will be carried to Leesburg tomorrow night as the Seminoles go all out to keep their wonderful record clean.

Seminole—7 points over the Jacks.

High Blood Pressure

By BRUCE SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (AP)—A head-on scientific attack on all the medical problems of high blood pressure has been proposed by a noted blood pressure expert, on the grounds that if those problems were solved, scores of lives would be saved every year.

Dr. L. McD. G. Stewart spoke especially of blood pressure which are high but not so high they have caused any damage or produced any sense of ill in the persons who contain them. The lives of many of these persons could be prolonged, he said.

He made the following statements as facts: 1. death or disability are produced by the damage excessive blood pressure produces in arteries and veins, and not by excessive blood pressure itself; 2. a reduction of blood pressure "can delay or arrest" this damage; 3. "a relatively slight" reduction might be enough in some people.

Block Nerve Centers
Right now medical science throughout the world is employing an effective blood-pressure-reducing weapon in the form of chemicals which "block nerve centers of the sympathetic nervous system." But this weapon is employed only in persons whose blood pressure is extremely excessive or has been excessive for so long that life-shortening damage has been done.

In these severely ill persons, many of whom have reached the "malignant" high blood pressure stage and so are at death's door, these chemical weapons have produced wonders in lowering pressures, keeping them down, and so prolonging life. Dr. Stewart said they had been proven "potent, practical, and reasonably predictable."

Then why not use them in all persons with only moderately elevated blood pressure—since life insurance statistics show that "any sustained rise of arterial pressure occurring short of old age, particularly in men, presents a grave long-term threat?" There are two main reasons why not, he said. One is a lack of knowledge of how the agents work in healthy bodies against blood pressure that is high but not very high.

New Control Studies
This is knowledge which medical science needs, and which it can obtain only in massive "controlled" studies everywhere of the effects of the chemical agents in more-or-less normal persons. But at this point Dr. Stewart encountered his major difficulty, and that is the difficulty is people generally.

Mention blood pressure if you are a doctor to the average person and the mere mention of the subject increases his blood pressure. If you're going to have a "controlled" study of the chemical weapons in persons whose blood pressures are not elevated by very much, you'll have to have their cooperation because you'd have to measure their pressures repeatedly for a few weeks. And so you'd have to tell these persons their blood pressures.

Dr. Stewart said he was against telling patients their blood pressures as of now, but if the blood pressure problems were solved, "the whole climate of professional and private opinion" might change and then it would be possible to tell the patient about his high blood pressure "without inevitably releasing a flood of anxiety symptoms."

A British specialist, he made his proposal in a London lecture. That lecture now is being widely discussed among American medical scientists.

Gregory Peck Is Actor Elected To Be Executive

Editor's note:
Gregory Peck, movieland's handsome leading man, has turned producer—and columnist. He writes about his problems as an "executive."

By GREGORY PECK
Written For United Press
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—I once heard somewhere that put an actor behind a desk in an executive job and something psychologically dire happened.

His reflexes suddenly tense, his animation dims as a free-souled player of many parts and he becomes stately and enormously aware of himself as a member of the business brass. In other words, fatty tissue moves in on the gypsy spirit.

Well, I am an actor who has elected to become an executive. With my partner, William Wyler, I am producing my first independent motion picture in "The Big Country" for United Artists Release. I have stepped behind that desk where supposedly actors shouldn't lurk for reason of the intangibly destructive things that happen to the freedom of the histrionic talent.

Result of Action
Now, what has happened to me, as the result of my action? I feel that becoming an actor-producer has most decidedly helped me as an actor before the camera. I have never before been on such intimate terms with my material.

Hollywood actors aren't always as fortunate as Broadway players who have weeks of intensive rehearsal on a play during which they are able to "inside" their characters and the spoken lines. Because of the haste of movie production, the Hollywoodian is often rushed into scenes before he has had opportunity to become acquainted with them and has to rely on his creative fortitude in the state of hurry.

As a co-producer, I am in the brilliant company of William Wyler, who is acknowledged one of the finest directors in the film industry. Will, of the two of us, has by far the most exacting assignment, for his concern is the vital presentation, the emotional spark of actor and story.

Local Grocer Attends State Meet At Daytona

Joe Gezell, proprietor of the Tip Top Super Market on Sanford Ave., this city, returned home Wednesday morning from a three-day convention of the Retail Grocers Association of Florida, held this year at the Daytona Plaza Hotel in Daytona Beach.

Gezell said that this year's convention was the largest on record, with over 500 independent grocers from all parts of the state in attendance.

In addition to an intensive program of modern market management, advertising, store display and public relations, the grocers were treated to an immense display of new food products. Among the new foods shown by manufacturers and packers were such novel items as fruit flavored potato chips.

The next annual meeting of the Retail Grocers will be held in the Fort Harrison Hotel at Clearwater, it was announced.

A public lecture will be given Sunday at the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses, 1621 West 1st St.

The topic of lecture will be "A basis for successful marriage." The speaker will be D. Shaver, a representative of the Watchtower Society. All the public is invited to attend. There will be no collection taken.

The first friction matches in America were made in Chocoma, Mass.

R. Benton Seeks Freshman Class Office At College

Word has been received that Russel Benton of Sanford, who attends Erskine College in Due West S. C., is running for treasurer of the freshman class.

The nominations were made on Tuesday and the first election will be held tomorrow. Final election run-off will be held Tuesday, Nov. 12.

Forty-seven students were nominated for the six officer positions.

Fossil footprints, relics of the pre-historic era when dinosaurs roamed the land, have been discovered at Gill, Mass.

President Names 'Czar' To Push U.S. Missile Development

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today named a "czar" to push U. S. missile development and other scientific programs with the utmost possible speed.

In a "fact-before-you" address on radio and television, the Chief Executive announced "the Soviets are quite likely ahead in some missile and special areas, and are obviously ahead of us in satellite development."

But he said that "it is my conviction, supported by trusted scientific and military advisers that as of today the overall military strength of the Free World is distinctly greater than that of the Communist countries."

He then announced a five-point "program of action," topped by the naming of a special assistant on science and technology, to wipe out any "temporary" edge Russia may enjoy with its space satellites and rocket advances.

And, in a progress report on U. S. developments, he officially confirmed that:

Solved Major Obstacle
U. S. scientists have "solved" one of the major obstacles to perfecting an intercontinental ballistic missile — the problem of how to get the missile back to earth once it has soared into space without having it burn up from friction on re-entering the atmosphere.

The Air Force Spunk, a sub-orbital, jet-propelled pilotless bomber recently flew 3,000 miles inter-continental distance — "and was accurately placed on target."

The United States derived "most valuable information about outer space" in the recent Air Force firing of a rocket to between 2,000 and 4,000 miles over the Pacific.

$2 Billion Defense Budget Increase Seen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) said following a talk with President Eisenhower today that next year's defense budget may be increased by one to two billion dollars to meet the cost of the nation's "accelerated" missile-satellite program.

He said increased defense costs will "make chances of a tax cut more dubious."

Bridges, chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee and a member of the Armed Services Committee, had a breakfast conference with the President.

Talking to reporters afterward, he held out hope that the overall 1958 budget may show "some decrease" despite higher defense costs.

Oviedo Man Takes Part In Short Course Nov. 12-14

Transportation executives and members of fruits and vegetables including Homer W. Kelly of Oviedo, will join with staff members of the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station and the Extension Service for a waste-prevention short course in Gainesville Nov. 12-14.

The occasion is the Tenth Annual Southeastern Short Course on Causes and Prevention of Economic Waste in Marketing Fruits and Vegetables. States included in the area are Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia. All sessions will be held in McCarthy Hall Auditorium at the University of Florida campus.

Opening the program, the afternoon of Nov. 12, will be Dr. R. W. Bledsoe, associate director of the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station, with a welcoming message. The remainder of the program will be devoted to talks on means of preventing waste in getting fresh fruits and vegetables from the producer to the consumer.

The short course is sponsored by the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station and Extension Service, Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association, Growers and Shippers League of Florida, Railway Development Association of The Southeast, and the Southeastern Climate Conference.

There will be a self-contained, mechanically refrigerated rail car on display on the campus siding, courtesy of Fruit Growers Express Co.

Members of the male chorus are reminded that there will be a rehearsal Monday night at 8 o'clock at the First Presbyterian Church.

Chorus director Harry M. Weir asks for a full attendance. Mrs. Lulu Bailey, well-known local pianist, serves as accompanist for the group.

Navy personnel and any men interested in singing "for the joy of singing" are urged to come out for the practice, Weir said.

Education Week Nov. 10-16 Here

Sanford's Mayor David Gatchel today proclaimed Nov. 10-16 as American Education Week in this City.

The proclamation reads: WHEREAS, public education is essential to the successful functioning of a democratic government, and an efficient school system in each community is vital to the preservation of our American ideals, and

WHEREAS, our educational system is experiencing constant change in order to meet the urgent demands of our complex age, and WHEREAS, all citizens should acquaint themselves with the problems and progress of our schools, and recognizing that the observance of a special education week each year affords opportunity for a general re-appraisal of public education with a view to its betterment, Therefore, I, David Gatchel, Mayor of Sanford, do proclaim November 10 to 16, 1957, to be American Education Week in this city.

Morrison To Stage Program At DeBary Civic Association
The monthly meeting of the DeBary Civic Association next Tuesday night, starting at 7 o'clock, will be featured by an entertainment program staged by Charlie Morrison, former member of the advertising staff of The Herald and presently director of public relations for Holler Motor Sales, here.

Appearing on the program will be David Wayne Mathes, popular guitarist; Sid Vihlen Jr. and his well-known instrumentalists and Morrison who will lead a period of community singing. The program will conclude with one of Morrison's "silver dollar" quizzes during which "shiny" silver dollars presented by the Florida State Bank of Sanford will be awarded to those who correctly answer the questions propounded by the "quizzier."

Nolan has been extended duty around the United States in his twenty-three years career. During World War II Nolan was promoted to the temporary grade of Lieutenant Junior Grade for his outstanding service. In Korea he received a letter of commendation from Capt. W. R. Hollingsworth, Commanding Officer of the USS Princeton (CV-37), that reads in part: "For meritorious service on board the USS Princeton during sustained operations against enemy North Korea and Chinese Communist Forces from 30 April to 18 October 1952, Nolan distinguished himself by his outstanding skill and craftsmanship in repairing and rebuilding battle damaged aircraft, (contributing) to the fulfillment of the important task of conducting successful air operations against the enemy."

Among Nolan's awards are: the Asiatic-Pacific Medal, the World War II Victory Medal, the Korean Theatre Medal, the United Nations Medal, the Korean Presidential Unit Citation, and the Good Conduct Medal with four stars.
