Dogs Suspect In Death Of Man, 79

An autopsy was scheduled today in Volusia County to determine the exact cause of death of a 79-year-old Volusia County man who was apparently killed by dogs Wednesday.

Volusia County sheriff's deputies reported that apparently Arron Hutchings of 1272 State Road 415, was killed by dogs after he climbed over a padlocked gate to enter the fenced property of Janine Franks on State Road 415 near Osteen at about 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Hutchings was believed to have come to Mrs. Franks home to negotiate a cattle purchase. but she was not at home. When Mrs. Franks arrived home at about 3 p.m. she found Franks lying dead in her yard and her three dogs - a pit bull, a boxer and a mixed breed, were near his body, deputies reported.

There were several injuries to Hutchings' body, deputies reported, and it was transported to Halifax Hospital Medical Center Spilling The Beans in Daytona Beach for autopsy.

The nature of the injuries indicate that Hutchings was attacked by dogs, but deputies said the autopsy will determine the exact cause of death.

Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett and former Seminole County Asst. The University of Central Florida Institute of Government seminar will be held at the college on Friday, and is open to county and city elected and appointed officials, their staffs and their advisory boards. Knowles said.

The day long program will offer its attendees "important tools and education" to improve working relationships and avoid internal pitfalls, according to Knowles, who became coordinator of the four year old Institute of Government program last year, upon his retirement as Sanford city manager after 32 years.

Knowles said representatives from Central Florida's 11 counties and all its cities have been invited to attend Friday's seminar, which will be the last of seven the organization sponsored this year for local governments.

Topics covered at preceeding sessions included insurance and growth management, and Knowles said he found it interesting that the previous forums were attended by far more appointed officials than those

Middle School Zones Officially Adopted 4-1

By Paul Schaefer Herald Staff Writer

The School Board of Seminole County officially adopted its disputed middle school attendance zone policy, known as Plan I Modified, during Wednesday night's regular board meeting.

The adoption came after some last minute lobbying to change the plan, and the presentation of an alternative plan.

The policy was adopted by a 4-1 vote, with board member Bill Kroll casting the only no vote on the motion to approve the plan. Board chairman Nancy Warren, and members Joe Williams, Jr., Jean Bryant, and Pat Telson voted to adopt the plan. Plan I Modified was approved by the United States Justice Department last week, following their three week review to determine it met the 1970 federal court desegregation order.

Board attorney Ned Julian, said he will submit the proposed plan to U.S. district court Judge Kendali G. Sharp, and ask him to "confirm the board's decision" in adopting the plan.

Shuttle Cabin Shown Intact After Blast

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) -New photographs of the shuttle explosion show Challenger's nose section with the crew cabin inside emerging relatively intact from the fireball of the ship's exploding external fuel tank.

But NASA officials insist the resolution of the film does not indicate what condition the cabin may have been in and the fate of the seven astronauts.

"You're going to have to draw your own conclusions." NASA spokesman Hugh Harris said Wednesday when NASA released 10 pictures from a 7,000-frame roll of 70mm film camera.

Some experts have speculated the seven astronauts in the crew module may have been alive during the cabin's 8.9-mile plunge to the sea but the father of one shuttle flier said he was told the astronauts probably died seconds after the explosion. A NASA statement accompanying the new photographs said: There is not enough detail available to ascertain the integrity of the cabin.

"All available data sources. including these photographs, are being utilized in an attempt to understand the condition of the crew module following vehicle breakup. NASA will have no further comment until the analysis is complete."

The pictures, taken by a camera 2 miles away from Challenger's launch pad, were released after Freedom of Information requests made by United Press International and other news organizations.

The space agency continues to refuse release of the entire sequence of pictures depite repeated requests.

One frame shows the cockpit section trailing what appears to agency refuses to discuss the be a thin stream of vapor with markings on the object that could be black tiles around the cockpit window frames. But the resolution of the film made precise identification impossible.

The first photograph was taken about 76 seconds after taken Jan. 28 by a tracking blastoff, two or three seconds after the explosion, with the object identified by Harris as nose section emerging from the fireball of Challenger's exploding fuel tank obscured by thick smoke. The final picture in the sequence was taken about 101 seconds after blastoff. Several contrails are visible in the picture, produced by other shuttle wreckage, along with the object identified by Harris as the cabin.

The orientation of the cabin in the pictures indicates it was tumbling after it broke away from the main body of shuttle wreckage.

BOSTON (UPI) - Re. searchers today reported encouraging results in the use of synthetic interferon to treat the early stages of a common form of adult leukemia, but cautioned that they "still have a long way to go.

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

With 500 walkers already preregistered, the 10-mile March of Dimes WalkAmerica scheduled for Saturday in Sanford is expected to be the largest March of Dimes event ever held in Seminole County, according to Harold Sheffer, executive director of the Central Florida Chapter.

Sheffer said the walk will be held from 7-9 a.m. both starting and ending at the Sanford Civic Center at Sanford Avenue and Seminole Boulevard. He expects to exceed the minimum goal of $25,000 for the March of Dimes' fight against birth defects. Walkers get pledges from Sheffersaid. sponsors for each mile they Seminole Sheffer said one out of every 14 children born in the United States has some type of birth defect, but 80 percent of them are preventable. The ratio has improved from one in 12.

Immunization against measles has eliminated many birth defects, he said.

West Germany Orders Mass Libyan Expulsions

BONN. West Germany (UPI) - West Germany has ordered the expulsion of 22 Libyan diplomats, travel restrictions on 19 others and a close scrutiny of Libyan business activities in a counteroffensive against terrorism endorsed by the European Community.

"The capability of Libya to undertake terrorist activity will, in the assessment of our officials, be curtailed," chief government spokesman Friedhelm Ost told a news conference Wednesday.

Ost also said U.S. military families stationed in West Germany will be allowed to swap their military license plates for the larger German civilian ones so their cars will be less of a target for terrorists.

To foil terror attacks on 250,000 U.S. armed forces members and their families stationed in West Germany, he said, non-resident traffic might also be barred from predominantly American housing areas.

Duchess Of Windsor Dies At 89

LONDON (UPI) - The Duchess of Windsor, American wife of King Edward VIII who renounced his throne to marry "the woman I love," died today at her Paris home, Buckingham Palace announced.

The duchess, the twice-divorced Wallis Warfield Simpson, was 89 years old and had been in declining health for years.

"Buckingham Palace announces with deep regret that the Duchess of Windsor has died at her residence in Paris." an announcement said. It said she died at 10 a.m. Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

The palace confirmed that, under a long-standing arrangement with the British royal family, the woman who changed the course of the British monarchy will be buried beside her husband in the royal burial ground at Frognal in Windsor Great Park in the shadow of Windsor Castle 20 miles west of London.

Her husband, who took the title Duke of Windsor when he renounced the throne in 1936, died of cancer in 1972.

Edward VIII came to the throne on the death of his father, King George V. in 1936, but abdicated within the year because Mrs. Simpson's divorces had made her unacceptable as a royal wife.

In a nationwide radio broadcast Dec. 10, 1936, Edward Vill announced he was giving up the throne.

You must believe me when I tell you that I have found it impossible to carry the heavy burden of responsibility and to discharge my duties as king as I would wish to do without the help and support of the woman I love.'

As the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, the couple went into self-imposed exile, most of the time in France.

Court Considers Constitutionality Of Gramm-Rudman Budget Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) - What began as political controversy over how to keep government spending in line is now in the hands of the Supreme Court, which now begins deliberating the future of the Gramm-Rudman balancedbudget law.

Following a rare two-hour session of arguments Wednesday, sponsors of the law said the matter is out of

The court is expected to rule by July on the constitutionality of the law's key provision requiring the comptroller general to calculate automatic across-theboard budget cuts if Congress and the White House cannot meet annual deficit targets.

On another level, the court will resolve a difficult question in constitutional law. By giving power to the comptroller general, some say, Congress violated the Constitution's separation of powers doctrine mandating separation of the three branches of government.

Senate Adds Education Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) - For almost a month, the Budget Committee waited patiently, well aware that its delicate bipartisan money package for fiscal 1987 faced big troubles in the Senate.

On Wednesday, the committee found out how big the troubles are. On its first attempt, the Senate easily pierced the committee's ceilings, adding $300 million for educa-

Although the amount in a nearly $1 trillion budget was small, the size of backing for the education amendment was big, 60-38.

A second test for the committee, which could prove as difficult as the first, comes today when the Senate votes on restoring money for the general revenue sharing program.

The only other action Wednesday came when the Senate defeated 83-14 an amemendment to adopt President Reagan's plan to kill 44 programs, which would have provided a savings of $4 billion and a corresponding cut in the needed revenues.

Polygraphs, Pro And Con

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A union official told Congress that lie detector tests are like using a "rack and thumbscrews" to extract information, and said private companies should be banned from using them to screen workers.

But prominent criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey said Wednesday a polygraph is a good tool for investigators and "properly run in good hands, it is a good test."

'That machine either works or it is broken." Bailey told the Senate Labor and Human Resources committee considering a bill that would prohibit businesses from using polygraph tests on workers.

Bailey and Wynn joined a long list of witnesses tesifying on both sides of the issue, including representatives from the casino and jewelry industries, which oppose the bill. and labor unions which support it.

Panei Passes Sales Tax Repeal, Homestead Exeption Reduction

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - The House Finance and Tax committee Wednesday voted to sunset sales tax exemptions worth over $1.2 billion, and to reduce the Homestead Tax exemption.

The sales tax bill (PCB FT 86-5) would do away with sales tax exemptions for services including medical and lawyers fees, newspaper sales, advertising and magazine supscriptions on July 1, 1987. Prior to that sunset, a special joint House-Senate commission would study and report to Legislature on which exemptions should be saved; any exemptions not specifically revived would fade

In other legislative action:

-House Finance and Tax also passed a bill by Betty Easley, R-Largo, to reduce the Homestead Exemption. Her bill (PCB FT 88-11) would place a reduction in that exemption before the voters in November. Voters would have to approve any reduction in the exemption because it is part of the state constitution.

 A House Criminal Justice subcommittee defeated a bill banning sex on cable television, but Rules Committee chairman Rep. Herb Morgan, D-Tallahasace, its powerful sponsor, promised the bill would reappear this session.

-Gov. Bob Graham signed into law a bill allowing Sunday horse racing, and the first sabbath race was scheduled for this Sunday in Hislesh.

Costliness Of Crime ...

The final report of the President's Commission on Organized Crime is a shocker. It dissects a top U.S. growth industry that could turn a $75 billion profit this year.

The report describes organized crime as a $106 billion-a-year business that robs the United States of 414,000 jobs. $6.5 billion in lost taxes, and costs every American $77.20.

Although the 24 La Cosa Nostra families that constitute the Masia leadership remain the best-known and most-powerful organized crime groups, the commission report warns of growing criminal activity by motorcycle gangs, Asian crime rings, and other ethnic gangs. Several of these groups are active in California.

The bulk of organized crime's illegal carnings come from drugs, illegal gambling. loan-sharking, and prostitution, but the Masia also has made inroads into almost every major U.S. industry. These gains have come despite the passage of tougher antiracketeering laws and increased federal prosecutions of organized crime figures during recent years.

Another real problem addressed by the report deals with mob-connected attorneys. State bar associations and law enforcement agencies are urged to crack down on unethical members of the bar who cooperate with criminals. Moreover, states are urged to combat organized crime through greater use of undercover tactics, electronic surveillance, and grand jury investigations.

One area the commission failed to address is the significant contribution ordinary citizens can make toward better law enforcement. Many otherwise law-abiding Americans support organized crime by buying illicit drugs or placing illegal bets with their neighborhood bookies. Nationwide, this amounts to substantial revenues for the illegal economy.

Law enforcement can't bring down organized crime by itself. There must be active support from an aroused citizenry.

China Market

China has been exporting more grain in recent years, but chances are that American farmers will continue to have a market in China.

U.S. Department of Agriculture records show that China, before 1984, annually exported about 200,000 metric tons of grain. primarily corn. In 1984, the exports increased to 510,000 tons. Last year, the Chinese exported a record 5.2 million tons.

The Chinese total was still relatively small compared with annual U.S. grain exports that generally range between 45 million and 50 million tons of grain.

Furthermore, China's exports in part reflect the fact that it has internal transportation problems. Only one railroad links China's eastern and western regions, so Chinese officials often find it easier to export grain from one part of China than to ship across the country to meet domestic demand. Another reason China exports corn is that it lacks warehouse space.

Chinese officials have said they want to improve the nation's transportation system and gradually improve the diet of Chinese families. Richard Gady, vice president for economics and research for ConAgra, said that if the Chinese succeeded in those goals, not even China's increased agricultural production would meet the nation's domestic demand for food.

China's increasing grain exports isn't the best news for American farmers, but the news isn't as bad as it might be.

I personally am on a diet that doesn't allow me to consume more than 3.98 pounds daily. But don't let that stop you.

Go ahead. Be a glutton if you like. Just don't ask me to pay your grocery bill.

Anyway, if you ate food in 1984, you downed about 1,426 pounds that year, give or take a few stalks of broccoll. Or you did if you are average.

Some of us, as I have already indicated, eat more than others. But, blessedly, 1984 is the last year for which statistics are available. No telling what the projection for 1999 might show.

Average annual food consumption has increased from 1,359 pounds in 1965. Or maybe it's the food that has gained weight.

In 1909, when average eaters consumed 1.614 pounds, the menu included a lot of potatoes, which probably were pretty heavy for their size. Since then, fibrous foods, which possibly become big sellers.

In any event, I salute the nation's 2,328,000 farmers, and ask where would we be without them. They provide food for 271 million people, not all of them overweight.

Perhaps we would be justified in asking why only 271 million. The Agricultural Research Service indicates that scientific farming is Presumably, shoppers are switching to products laced with the real thing. Which would account for the latest swing of the pendulum.

When I was living in an agricultural region, farmers didn't have many pendulums. Mostly, they relied on tractors, plows and tools like that. But then, they didn't grow very good additives

Additive crop failures may be one of the reasons synthetic non-fatty compounds became popular.

About The Real Sandinistas

By Marvin Alisky

Recent congressional debates and votes over $100 million "cash for Contras" revealed more than whether or not we could buy bullets or band-aids.

The federal budget for fiscal 1986 shows 25 percent for defense, second in percentage fo social security and welfare programs. But our total of foreign military and economic aid for all countries is only 1.69 percent of the big budget. With billions of dollars appropriated for various programs with little or no debate. somehow the relatively tiny sum of $100 million rated major coverage on network television, with very little background about the Sandinistas. Instead, the spotlight was on the Contras.

From The New York Times, we now know that Agendas International, a plush public relations agency in New York, is the entity through which Daniel Ortega has flooded our news media with whitewashed versions of his Marxist regime. The agency is owned by two ex-Maryknolls who were classmates of Miguel D'Escoto when the three of them studied publicity that is mickry at the Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism.

This shows how much more subtle Daniel Ortega, ruler of Marxist Nicaragua is than Fidel Castro. ruler of Communist Cuba. Castro suppressed organized religion. But Ortega recruited what Lenin called "useful idiots," liberation theologians to beguile naive "Witness for Peace" groups from the United States. These good folks, ignorant of Spanish and Nicaraguan culture, get guided tours and return home to share their brainwashed views with others equally as unaware of the real Nicaragua.

Testimony shows that the Sandinistas kicked out the Jews in May 1983 to repay the Palestine Liberation Organization for training Sandinista guerillas during the war against Somoza in 1978 and 1979. In 1985, I interviewed four anthropologists who got within one kilometer of the PLO training camp in northern Nicaragua in Esteli Province before police returned them to Managua.

Testimony from a Nicaraguan defector, carried on CBS-TV news on March 12 on the early morning roundup, showed that Tomas Borge, Minister of the Interior for the Sandinista regime, has been directing narcotics shipments from Colombia via Nicaragua and Cuba into Florida, for profit and to help demoralize American youth.

Solution To Khadafy

forced into a new kind of war with Libya, both sides in the conflict pursuing novel strategies. The Li-byens have deplaced war by threatening Americans everywhere with individual destruction through low-level terrorist attacks. The United States has responded with high-tech strikes the Libyans have no way of blocking. Our implicit threat is to escalate such strikes until not much is left of Libya.

As this process goes forward, a closer look at Libya's strongman Muammar Khadafy will enable us to better anticipate what to expect from him.

First of all, like many charismatic third-world leaders. Khadafy has a "teaching" devised by himself out of many sources but pulled together and given a good deal of coherence. In this he resembles Kwane Nkrumah. Mao Zedong. Ho Chi Minh, Che Guevara, Nasser and even Gandhi. When these teachings derive from Marx, as many of them do, such leaders are deliberately innovative and heretical, as if their personal claims to greatness were so compelling as to prevent them from being merely followers of one old ideologue. It is Khadafy's doctrine, moroever, fanatically held, that steels him to order his terrorist attacks at random, knowing full well that non-combatants including women and children will be killed or maimed. Second. Khadafy's vision of his historical role goes far beyond Libva. Like Fidel Castro, for example. Khadafy sees himself as a kind of Napolean of the third world, the instrument of its greatness, the conqueror of the decadent and plutocratic "advanced" countries. Far from being a "nationalist."

The United States has now been Khadafy clearly regards Libya with its paltry three million inhabitants as a convenience, and a pitiful one at that. His visions possess universality, as witness his so-far unsuccessful attempts to form some sort of confederation with Egypt, taking advantage of its population and military capacity to advance his large goals. Needless to say. Khadafy sees himself as the sole leader of such a confederation one of many good reasons why Egyptian presidents have not leaped at the idea. And Khadafy is constantly attempting to expand his power southward into formerly French Chad, only to be balked by timely strikes from French Mirage fighter-bombers.

> And it is of course in the service of his larger vision that Khadafy has turned Libya into what amounts to an arms depot, with more tanks. planes, rockets and so forth than the few Libyans he rules could possibly operate or even master technically.

> Khadafy undoubtedly sees himself as the avenger of the oppressed and exploited peoples of the third world, and his doctrine is called The Third International Theory, by which he means to distinguish it from either capitalism or communism, both of which he views as oppressive and piratical systems. During the 1970s, he published The Green Book. It appeared in three slender volumes and contains the essence of his teaching.

This consists of a melange of Western utopian thought, both socialist and anarchist, drawing upon Marx, Rousseau, Babeuf, Saint-Simon and others, all of it filtered through his own egalitarian, harsh experience as a desert tribesman.

ROBERT WALTERS Quotes

From lacocca

WASHINGTON (NEA) - "We made some big - I mean really big - mistakes." admits Chrysler Corp. board chairman Lee A. lacocca in explaining why his company was forced to seek a financial bailout from the federal government in 1979.

"But mostly it was because we got clobbered by forces we couldn't control, forces that only people here in (Washington) could handle," adds lacocca. "Normal ups and downs we could handle - I've been dealing with them all my life - but the swings (in the late 1970s) were too violent."

Among the forces he cited in a recent speech at the annual convention here of the American Society of Newspaper Editors were brutal competition from foreign automakers and volatile gasoline prices.

Chrysler is healthy again, its $1.5 billion worth of federal loan guarantees has been fully repaid and gasoline prices are plummeting almost as rapidly as they soared a decade ago. However, many of the fundamental problems remain.

Indeed, lacocca presents a com-pelling case that President Reagan's commitment to laisez faire government, his naive faith in the unrestrained free market and his addiction to deficit spending will surely devastate the nation's economy.

"We've had five years of insufficient revenues, deficits that have gone over the moon and an economy that just hasn't grown like the cheerleaders all said it would." says lacocca.

"Suddenly, OPEC comes apart like a $3 watch and it's like life support to all these supply-siders. They've got to be wondering how they got so damned lucky - but I hope they're wondering what comes next," he adds. "Low oil prices are propping up Reaganomics right now.

Corporate executives struggle to cope with violent economic fluctuations, but lacocca notes they lack the power of federal officials:

'Any good management can handle year-to-year changes of 10 percent to 15 percent - that's what we get paid to do. But a 100 percent jump in gas prices like we went through a couple of years ago or 100 percent in interest rates, 10 percent to 22 percent and back again - I can't handle swings like that, nobody can....

"We go from huge inflation to almost deflation. We go from trade surpluses, just five years ago, to big trade deficits. We go from the world's biggest creditor to the world's biggest debtor in three years.

The Soviets Want Khadafy Out

By Jack Anderson And

Joseph Booar WASHINGTON — Last November we suggested that Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy, who stands at the center of a worldwide terrorist network, was living in terror himself and would likely be ousted by a coup within a year.

We cited intelligence reports that portrayed Khadaiy as a haunted man, with nerves rubbed raw, who gulped down sleeping pills and complained that his enemies were trying to poleon him.

We also quoted a top-secret CIA evaluation, which suggested he was 'very vulnerable" to a coup. No less than two dozen anti-Khadafy groups have been plotting his downfall. But the Soviets, who have befriended him and stocked his amenal, are expected to beat them all to the kill.

CIA reports, including intercepted communications (compiled before the U.S. bombing of Tripoli) indicate that the Soviets would like to replace the volatile Khadafy with the man who has been protecting their interests inside Libya's revolutionary regime. He is Khadafy's No. 2 man, Abdul Salam Jalloud.

According to one intercepted message, the Soviets are "looking forward to Khadafy's downfall." Another top-secret CIA report quotes a high Soviet military official as saying, in a private conversation, that Khadafy is a "madman on top of a pile of gold." The reference presumably is to the black gold under Libya's desert sands.

For Khadafy's part, he is described by the CIA as "xenophobic and anti-communist." He "once offered Egypt generous induce-ments to expel the Bevists." He moved closer to Moscow because he wanted Soviet arms more than he hated communism. Still, the CIA reports that he "had to be persuaded by Prime Minister Jalloud to negotiate the first arms accord with Moscow in May 1974."

It has been Jalloud more than Khadafy who has turned Libya into a Moscow-armed confrontationist state. Khadafy let the Sovieta inside his tent reluctantly - because of the military aid and the power this gave him. He repeatedly and sharply "warned the Soviets that he will not be used 'like other Arab

Concludes a top-secret CIA analy-sis: "Khadafy has almost certainly neither softened his ideological opposition nor his basic distrust of the Soviets. On the contrary, his basic hostility to them may ultimately disrupt the lieison." It seems more likely that the Soviets will do the disrupting. They have far too much at stake in Libya to leave their fortunes in the hands of the unpredictable Khadafy. Not since they were booted out of Egypt in 1972 have they had a better opportunity to control North Africa. They are establishing a powerful new beachhead in North Africa through Libya, Sudan and Ethiopia.

What has happened, clearly, is that the Soviets have transformed Libya into a forward logistical base to solidify their hold on North Africa. They have shipped more than $20 billion worth of military hardware to Libya. Ostensibly this formidable arsenal was "sold" to Khadafy who may think he owns it. But the Soviets aren't likely to leave their forward base in the hands of the unreliable Khadafy. They would prefer the reliable way legally defective," Julian said after the meeting. He said he would submit the plan to Judge Sharp within a week to ten days.

Superintendent of Schools Robert Hughes has stated that with the Justice Department's approval, the federal court judge's review of the plan was expected to be "routine".

Approval of the plan means the middle school attendance zones will be adjusted to accomodate and redistribute the middle school student population of over 9,000 in advance of the opening of the new Greenwood Lakes Middle School in Lake Mary this fall,

The board's official adoption of the new zone policy came in the 22nd public meeting on the new zone lines, eight months after the process

Prior to the deciding vote, a new plan was presented, and a representative of developer Jeno Paulucci repeated the businessman's offer to pay for half the cost of a new study.

Jan Railey, who represents parents of students who live in an area northwest of Lake Mary, presented a change to Plan I Modified, which included students living in that area in the Greenwood Lakes Middle School zone. The area added to the new school's zone under Mrs. Railey's proposal is north of Lake Mary Boulevard, east of the Wekiva River, south of 46A, and west of Interstate 4.

Mrs. Railey has led residents in that area in the battle for inclusion into the new school's zone for months. Earlier this year, Railey led a parent group to a confrontation with Hughes in his office, to make it clear they wanted their children to attend Greenwood Lakes, half the distance from their homes from Lakeview Middle School, where they will now attend this fall under the adopted plan.

Railey repeated her plea to have the ten students in the disputed area sent to the new school. She said the trip is twice the distance to Lakeview than Greenwood Lakes, which "creates twice the time, and twice the hardship," she said.

Also expressing frustration was Lake Mary resident Dennis Smathers, who lives near Rinchart Road, within two miles of the new school. Students in that area will also attend Lakeview.

"My son means much more to me than a number. As elected officials, he should be more than a number to you, too," Smathers said.

Paulucci, who was out of town, sent representative Karene Beller to speak on his behalf. He has supported Railey's desire to have the northwest Lake Mary area included in the Greenwood Lakes zone, and has said he has grandchildren living in the disputed area. His Heathrow development is also in the disputed

In addition to sending a representative to lobby on his behalf, a school official said the developer also made early morning phone calls to board members to restate his position.

One board member reported she was not contacted by Paulucci, while another said he did

In a letter hand delivered to the school board Tuesday. Paulucci said the now adopted plan could effect the quality of education, and repeated his offer to pay half the cost of an additional study.

Paulucci included with his letter, a letter from Robert Destro of the Civil Rights Commission. which Paulucci said indicated "that problems of educational inequity are not necessarily resolved by focusing on either the boundaries of individual schools or the resulting racial mixture. We understand, appreciate, and support the need to achieve racial balance as well as the need to fully utilize the capacity of all existing and planned school facilities." "Notwithstanding this, we are concerned that the plan that the school board has, apparently, decided to adopt, unfairly burdens some students both with respect to quality of facilities and education, as well as with respect to the distance that some of those same students are being bused. This problem would be understandable if other, better alternatives were not available to your board," Paulucci wrote.

He then repeated his offer to fund half the cost of an addiation study by a computer data analysis company to provide an alternative to the middle school zone task force recommended plan. modified by Hughes into the adopted plan.

Paulucci asked that the board postpone the decision until the study was done and the results examined by the board; acceptance of his offer to fund half the cost of the study, reportedlyt between $25,000 and $30,000; consideration of the results of the study by the board "in good faith"; and "if the results of the study demonstrate that better alternatives for redistricting lines are available or that the quality of education available to students at the various facilities throughout the county is not equal, implement such changes as may be necessary in order to achieve our mutual goal. Kroll said Paulucci's offer is "the same as a grant," and that the board should "go forward with the study, and let's make a decision that will last." He said under the plan. Tuskawilla and Jackson Heights middle schools remain overcrowded, and the zones "won't last five years" at those schools. Jim McCave, a representative of computer data analysis firm, info-Tech, said the study could be done in 60-90 days, but it would be easy. He said Alachua County used Info-Tech to draw zone lines in five months which "left neighborhood schools intact." Schools Superintendent for Business and Finance Carey Ferrell has stated that the information info-Tech would need for analysis would take a year to compile.

Board member Jean Bryant made the motion to adopt the plan, and Kroll attempted to ammend the motion to "go forth with a computer study." Kroll's amendment died for lack of a second.

In other action Wednesday, the school board accepted the resignation of former Jackson Heights Middle School teacher Stuart M. Fullerton, 46, 469 South Central Avenue, Oviedo.

Fullerton is under investigation by Professional Practices Services of Tallahassee, the investigative arm of the state Department of Education, according to county schools Director of Personnel Ann Neiswender.

The board acted to accept the resignation along with all other personnel decisions, as recommended by Mrs.Neiswender. There was no discussion in accepting Fullerton's resignation.

Marriage Made In Heaven Is Not To Take Place In Clouds

People are actually writing to you. hoping to promote the idea of empowering airline captains to perform marriage ceremonies in midair. Personally, when I fly I want the pilot in the cockpit, flying the plane — not in the back of the plane performing a marriage service.

Maybe we've been seeing too many episodes of "Love Boat" with the ship's captain constantly away from the wheel. (Who's steering the ship?)

Abby, when airline captains start performing marriages, please let us know, so I can book a reservation on Amtrak. CAROL IN DALLAS

DEAR CAROL: Relax, I doubt that it will ever happen. Read on for an update on marriages performed on the high seas: DEAR ABBY: You were quite right in stating that sea captains were permitted to perform marriage ceremonies years ago when voyages were very long. However, times have changed, and ships' captains can no longer tie the nuptial knot at sea.

Shortly after World War II. when I was captain of an American freighter docked in Istanbul. Turkey, I was asked by a young couple from New York to marry them at sea. I went ashore and asked the American vice consul if I was empowered to marry the couple. He consulted a large volume of federal regulations. then declared that I could not marry them. He read the section that was applicable, and I still recall the significant part:

It seems that Bud Fisher, the creator of the famous comic strip Mutt and Jeff, had been married by a captain on a trans-Atlantic liner. Some time later, the Fishers split up, and one of the parties claimed that the marriage was not valid as the ship's captain was not authorized to marry couples. The courts decreed that sea captains no longer had the authority to perform marriages, so since the Fisher marriage was not legal, it was annulled. Fisher vs. Fisher was apparently a test case. Frederick N. MacLean, APTOS, CALIF. DEAR MR. MACLEAN: Thanks for a nice Fish(er) story.

DEAR ABBY: A man who works where I work keeps asking me to go out with him. He said for either a Sunday brunch or maybe dinner. I always make up some excuse because in the first place he's not my type, and in the second place he's too old for me. (He's somewhere in the neighborhood of 45, and I am

Well, he sent me an Easter card and wrote on it. "When can we go out?" And there was a $20 billion in the envelope.

Now I don't know what to do. A giri can always use an extra $20, but something tells me that I should give it back to him. What should I do?

DEAR OUT: The "something that tells you to return the $30 common sense. You don't need an "excuse" to decline his invitations. Give him a re the real one; but don't tell him he's too old for you — tell him you're too young for him.

DEAR ABBY: If a friend has had a stillborn baby, is it proper to write a note of condolence to tell her you are sorry she lost her baby? Or would it be kinder not to remind her of it? (She didn't really "lose" a child as she never had it to hold even for a minute.)

I hear she is so broken up about it she is in a deep depression and isn't seeing any-

What should I do?

DEAR PRIEND: Send flowers or a note of condolence. And please don't say she didn't really 'lose" a child. She certainly did. A stillborn baby is a child to the mother who bore it. The pain of such a tragic loss is intensified by shock and disappointment. Let her know that your thoughts and prayers are with her. Silence signals abandonment.

DEAR ABBY: Here's our problem: My 92-year-old aunt is living with my husband and me. and we'd like to get away for a weekend. One of my nieces is willing to take her, but Auntie raises a fuss, saying she will have trouble sleeping. Abby, she has gone on trips with them and other relatives, staying at different motels, and she's never

My husband is mad. He says

Take Doctor's Advise, Ignore All The Rest

moved to the South recently and somehow contracted hepatitis. She says it's not contagious. Someone prescribed the following treatment: Drink lots of fluids, get rest and cat at least a pound of sugar a day for the next couple of months. The first two sound reasonable, but that third idea sounds crazy to me. What do you think?

DEAR READER - I think it sounds crazy. Hepatitis is a contagious viral infection of the liver. Years ago, doctors prescribed a high-sugar diet because hepatitis patients lost their appetites and their caloric needs were not met by ordinary meals. However, a pound of sugar a day would be astronomically high, even for "Refrigerator" Perry. The fluids and rest are OK. I suggest that you and your niece follow the instructions given by a doctor: the other advice is best ignored.

DEAR DR. GOTT - 1'm sure you've read about the couple who visited a fertility clinic for two years, at which point the woman gave birth to seven babies. (Four died because of prematurity). The couple is now suing the clinic, claiming it was at fault for prescribing Perganol. which causes the development of multiple fetuses. I know that you sometimes "take on" your medical colleagues, but in this case, don't you think the couple bringing suit is a little off-thewall? Or is fertility such an exact science now that the fertility clinic could predict the precise outcome of the Perganol treatment?

DEAR READER — I doubt that any fertility clinic could predict such an outcome, although multiple births are a recognized complication of Perganol therapy. Many physicians practicing todayexpressa damned-if-you-do, damned-if-you-don't attitude that reflects the litigation-oriented society we live in.

I think the couple you described might be just as likely to have sued the clinic if no pregnancy resulted from treatment. The sad part of the story is

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

The sudden leap to six notrump by North was a bit tempestuous. It would not have been at all remarkable for South to have a solid club suit and a heart stopper consisting of the Q-J, for example, in which event the contract might be immediately set. But declarer's actual hand presented quite a good play for 12 tricks at no-trump. Unfortunately South botched the play. See if you would have done

Declarer won the heart king and played the club king. ducked all around as dummy shed a heart. Another high club next, also ducked, as declarer let another heart go in dummy. Now the third club was taken by the ace, and wouldn't you, just like declarer, play dummy's low spade? With East showing out now in clubs, declarer has to go after diamonds and, ugly to behold. East has four to the jack. Of course the spades do behave. but it is too late to go back and retain the fourth spade in dummy, and so most probably you, like today's declarer, are set a trick. What's the answer?

Before going after the club suit. declarer should play dummy's diamond king and then the queen in his hand. If diamonds split, there will never be any problem. If not, declarer will know to keep all four spades in dummy just in case the club suit also is going to divide badly. Since the clubs do break badly, that little bit of foresight pays a handsome dividend. After bad luck in both minor suits, it seems fair that spades split 3-3 with the queen located favorably. And finally, that's enough to make the slam.

Mable, Oviedo Seek To Sever 10-Season Jinx

Every year about this time. Howard Mabie looks back on a successful Orange Belt Conference baseball season. The 10year Oviedo High School coach has enough OBC titles to stock a trophy case. In the past five years alone, Oviedo has won the championship four times.

It's the conference season success which makes Oviedo's post-season failure so unexplainable. The Class 3A-6 District is composed of the same teams as the Orange Belt. The Lions can beat them in the regular season but not in the tournament.

It's a 10-year string of frustration Mable said he would like sever this year. The Lions, the perennial No. 1 seed, open tournament play today at 5 against Osceola Kissimmee at St. Cloud High School. Osceola dropped Leesburg, 8-6, Wednesday night. A win today pushes Oviedo into the championship game Friday against St. Cloud or Orlando Bishop Moore.

"We have never won a district," Mable confirmed this week. "And we've been close a lot of times. The frustration ...

He didn't have to finish the sentence. The Oviedo program under Mabie has consistently sent players to college. Mable runs a complete program. In the summer he is a key member of District 14's Big League Program. A sound fundamentalist, Mable desperately seeks to add the missing jewel which would make his decade complete.

"The problem is we haven't really got the break that we he said about the past failures. "In a one game (single climination) situation, you need that break." He can recall vivdly Brett Theyer being nipped at first base by a half step for third out as the tying run crossed the plate three years ago against Bishop Moore. It save the Hornets a 1-0 win and a trip to the sectional.

The competition again this year comes from St. Cloud and Bishop Moore. Oviedo is 1-1 against each team this year. The Hornets have had a knack of playing their best ball in the district and St. Cloud has Shaun Purdy, one of the top hurlers in the area.

This year's Oviedo team does not have the hitting of past years. It is based around three excellent hitters - Mark Merchant (.467), Tony Belflower (.389) and Frank Torres (.438). The pitching, though, may be better and deeper. Craig Duncan, Scott Bowers and Jimmy Barrett all have earned run averages under 3.00. Barrett was the county's best at 0.74.

The curveballing senior righthander will get the start today. "We'll go with the best ERA." Mabie said. "Barrett has been the hottest one for us in second half of season. We can relieve with Bowers or Duncan if we have to and then come back with whoever didn't pitch Friday.

Mable said two things are different this year which he hopes will make a difference. "We have always had the prom the weekend of the tournament. and the kids have been dis-tracted," he said. "And this year the tournament is at St. Cloud. It's always been at Leesburg. The shorter fence at St. Cloud should be to our advantage."

Oviedo's biggest advantage, though, is its stolen base prowess. The Lions stole 132 bases in 146 attempts for a whopping 90 percent success ratio.

"The key to victory is our running game," Mable said. 'Merchant (the leadoff man) is exceptionally important. The kids look to Merchant. Belfower and Torres to produce."

Mabie said Oviedo's quick start (10-1, No. 3 ranking) could also make a difference. "The kids blended well," he said. "This is the first year we've started quickly, had a slump and then bounced back.

"We are playing with ag-gression and we're playing a full seven innings again. We are not at our peak but we're climbing toward it."

A climb he hopes will include semething he's never had — the Class SA-6 District champton-

Lake Mary vs. Lake Howell. Lyman vs. DeLand.

The Final Four at this year's Class 4A-9 District Baseball Tournament at DeLand's Conrad Park may not compare with the 80-plus wins of last year's contestants.

What the combatants lack in victories, nonetheless, they definitely make up in fervor.

Today's 5 p.m. semifinal between top-seeded Lake Mary and fifth-seeded Lake Howell is a battle between teams who are not very fond of each other.

"I don't have any trouble with Lake Howell," laughed Lake Mary coach Allen Tuttle. "You know how it is, everybody jumps on No. 1."

The Rams, 27-3, are ranked No. 1 in the state by the Florida Sports Writers Prep Poll and No. 4 in the nation by USA Today's Easton High School Baseball

Yet, the Silver Hawks, 16-14, interrupted the Rammies' bid for a perfect season, which still still rankles Lake Mary.

Lake Howell's starter will be junior Craig Wagner. The hulking (6-3, 235-pounder) was shelled by the Rams in the first meeting. After an adjustment. however, Walker convincingly shut down Lake Mary on two hits for a 4-0 victory the next

"They clobbered me the first time." the easy-going righthander said. "I was throwing too many fastballs. I knew I could beat them the second time if I pitched smarter. I just threw more curves. I'm ready to go

Lake Mary first baseman Mike Schmit and third baseman Mike Pinckes said they both remember the second meeting, as well as the first encounter. "Yeah, we're thinking about that loss," Schmit said. "But we're also thinking about pounding him the first time, too." Pinckes said Mary's first time success hurt it the second time Baseball overanxious because we hit him so well the first time," he said. "We'll be in trouble again if we go fishing (for his curveball.) We have to be patient."

Howell coach Birto Benjamin said he thinks his big junior is up to the task again. "I'm not worried about our pitching because it's been consistent all season," he said. "We need to support our pitchers by hitting the ball and playing good de-

Lake Howell hit just enough Tuesday, using a two-run single by Marty Golloher in the sixth inning for a 2-1 win over Port Orange Spruce Creek. "I was ready to strap on the football helmet until I got that hit," Golloher, who delivers quite a hit on the football field, too, said.

"I am really looking forward to taking on Lyman," DeLand coach Jim Joiner said. "Last year, they beat us 9-0 in the semifinal round. They scored 9 runs on four hits and we only had one error. We want to avenge that loss very badly."

The shutout performance by Byron Overstreet cost the 'Dogs a place in the final against Lake Mary and when Lyman upset the Rams in the title game, it made Joiner's summer that much longer.

Both DeLand, 19-10, and Lyman, 16-14, are in rebuilding years. The Bulldogs had to replace their infield and standout center sielder Paris Hayden. Lyman lost six starters including ace righthander Derek Livernois and center fielder Paul Alegre.

Waln Bats Brantley By Lyman

By Chris Pister Herald Sports Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS -After Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots knocked off their first Class 4A-9 District Tournament opponent, senior second baseman Kim Waln said, "One down, six more to go."

Although the Lady Patriots prefer to take them one at a time, six more wins is what it would take for the Lady Patriots to win a state championship. If Waln continues to hit the way she did Wednesday afternoon, Brantley's chances of continuing its best season ever would definitely increase. In three at bats, Wain equaled her extra base hit output for the entire season as she smacked a triple and a double, drove in two runs and scored two in Brantley's 8-2 victory over Lyman's Lady Greyhounds before 71 fans at Lake Brantley

The top-seeded Lady Patriots, 25-5, host Seminole High today at 4:30 in one semifinal. The Lady Seminoles advanced with an 11-6 victory over Spruce Creek. Lake Brantley and Seminole met twice during the regular season with the Lady Patriots winning both.

Matthiesen would rob Vega again in the sixth by reaching high to snag a line drive. Wain then recorded the third out of the third frame when she made a nice leaping catch of a soft liner to right by Debbie Skirvin.

Lake Brantley opened it up with four runs on four hits in the bottom of the fourth. Laura Davis walked to lead off and Matthiesen followed with a single to center. With one out. Sheri Peterson can't tell you the first thing about "Wee Willie" Keeler. Keeler was in baseball's Hall of Fame many years before Peterson picked up her first softball.

Peterson, however, didn't hesitate to borrow from Keeler's hitting theory Wednesday.

"Hit 'em where they ain't," Keeler used to expound about his ability to find the open area.

That's what Peterson did with the bases loaded in the fourth inning. The lefthanded hitting junior rifled a single over the third base bag to break a 4-4 deadlock and the Lady Seminoles went on to an 11-6 victory over Port Orange Spruce Creek in the opening round of the Class 4A-9 District Softball Tournament before 51 fans at Fort Mellon Park.

Bream Make Up For Lack Of Size With Fight, Taste

Many fisherman ignore bream such as bluegills and shellcrackers because of their small size. Veteran bream anglers smile at this misconception, because they realize what these gamesters lack in size they more than make up for in fighting ability and taste.

Bream anglers all agree that if bream grew as large as bass, it would take special tackle to reel them in.

On rare occasions, members of the bream family attain gargantuan proportions. A new Florida record (and probably a new world record) shellcracker was recently caught by Joey Floyd in Merrit's Mill Pond near Marianna, that weighed 4 pounds. 13% ounces. This monster was 171/2 inches long and 1614 inches in girth!

Bluegills and shellcrackers not only fight well and taste good, but they are also plentiful. They are an excellent fish for family outings because they provide plenty of action for everyone.

Many of us can recall our first fishing trips, and chances are we started our fishing careers catching bream with cane poles

One key to deriving the proper amount of enjoyment from bream fishing is to use light tackle. It is easy to overpower these panfish with heavy tackle. The true fighting abilities of these fish can really be appreciated with the use of ultra-light spinning tackle. By outfits, or light cane poles.

Bluegills and shellcrackers are randomly scattered throughout the waterways of central Florida. To catch large numbers, however, a fisherman needs to locate concentrations of bream.

The most obvious way to locate a concentration of bream is to locate a concentration of bream fishermen. Groups of bream anglers tend to cluster around bedding areas. When approaching a group of fishermen. it is polite to give the other people a wide berth. There are always plenty of fish for everyone.

Many times bream spawn in the illy pads. Alert anglers can look for specific signs when bream are in the pads. Dragonflies leave their eggs underneath lilly pad leaves, and bream consider these eggs a delicacy. The eggs are literally stuck to the pads, and bream such them off. leaving small holes in the pads. When you locate a lilly pad field with plenty of small holes in the leaves, you have found the bream.

Many bream anglers locate concentrations of bream with their noses! It sounds like a fish story, but you can actually smell bream when the gather in large numbers. The smell is distinctive, like that of watermelon, and is easiest to detect when the air is calm.

A highly specialized group of bream fishermen take a long-handled garden rake fishing with them. It is not to dig earthworms, but to rake holes in floating mats of water hyacinths. Grass shrimp and insects are dislodged when the holes are made, and this in turn attracts hordes of hungry bream. Anglers typically make several holes all, are not large fish, and they readily around their boat, moving their bait from hole to hole.

Bream can be caught with many baits, but grass shrimp are by far the best bait. They can be gathered by using a fine mesh net under and through grass beds in shallow water. Grass shrimp are most effective when "free-lined." or fished without a cork or weight.

Bream also love carthworms. crickets, mussels, and grasshoppers. At times they have been known to eat smail minnows.

Bream will also strike artificials such as Beetle Spins and Jigs. They also like small poppers and wet flies.

The next time you need a change of pace or you need to take some children fishing, remember the mighty bream. They fight hard, taste good, and are always willing to bite.

SHUPE'S SCOOP - When bream fishing, always use the lightest line and the lightest weight/cork possible. This will not only add more enjoyment to your fishing, but you will also catch more bluegills and shellcrackers. Remember that they detect any added resistance to your bait. For more bream, use the least resistance.

WEEKEND PORECAST — Dell Abernethy from Calcon Bridge reports that bream are active around the new bridge and in Lake Micros. Greek whiting are the best best, and crickets and confinements also take their share of bluegills and shellcrackers. Base tishing is good with the cooler weether and the low water. ### Green Gets 32, Jazz To Play On

United Press International

Rickey Green forestalled elimination for another day. Green scored 32 points Wednesday night to lift the Utah Jazz to a 100-98 victory over the Dallas Mavericks. With the triumph, the Jazz remained alive in in their Western Conference quarterfinal. Even if they win their next two games to advance. however, they would have to face the defending champion Los Angeles Lakers. And the Lakers are getting hot. Last night they swept the San Antonio Spurs in their conference quarterfinal with a 114-94 victory.

The Jazz trail Dallas 2-1, but Utah's advancement this far allowed Green to answer some critics.

In games tonight, Portland and Washington host Denver and Philadelphia, respectively. The Trail Blazers and Bullets both trail 2-1 in their best-of-five series. In games Friday night, Atlanta, leading 2-1, is at Detroit, and Dallas is at Utah.

Other teams that have clinched include Boston and Milwaukee in the East and Houston in the West. Boston plays the winner of the Atlanta-Detroit series, and Milwaukee faces the winner of the Philadelphia-Washington quarterfinal.

In the West. Houston will play the winner of the Denver-Portland series.

Green, who scored only 14 points in two losses at Dallas, decided he had to be more of a factor in "I didn't look to score in the first two games," he said. "And tonight I said I was going to come out and maybe try to make some things happen. We had to come out and play because our backs were to the wall."

Rookie Karl Malone, who had 16 points for Utah, sank the winning basket with 45 seconds left. Blackman had two shots in the final seconds to tie the score, but Malone rebounded Blackman's first miss, and Green the second. Center James Donaldson led Dallas with 20 rebounds and 17 points, and Blackman had 16 points and Sam Perkins 15. The Lakers had looked nearly unbeatable in taking the 2-0 lead over the Spura. Oddly enough, that had coach Pat Riley worried. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Byron Scott broke open the game in the third quarter, as the Lakers eliminated San Antonio by a combined margin of 95 points. Abdul-Jabbar, who turned 39 a week ago, had totaled 26 points in the opening two games. He scored 25 Wednesday night despite sitting out the fourth quarter.

He scored 10 points in the first six minutes of the third period and Scott added four jumpshots from the corner. The Spurs made only five field goals in the third quarter.

The Lakers expanded their lead to 26 points in the final quarter, and the Spurs drew no closer than 18.

Magic Johnson had 14 points. 17 assists and 10 rebounds for Los Angeles.

TRC Pulls Down Pants, Six Flags Stays In Hunt

The Tim Raines Connection beat back the challenge of one pursuer Wednesday night in Sanford Men's Softball League action, but another stayed within striking distance.

TRC, 7-0, used a seven-run fourth inning to trim Panta USA. 10-8. Pants fell to 5-2. Six Flags Nursery, though, climbed to 7-1 and remained a half game back with an 18-7 victory over Bill Knapp's. AJ's outslugged Brown Boveri Company. 17-10, in Wednesday's third game at Pinchurst Field.

Rodney Turner's two-run single highlighted TRC's big inning. Levi Raines. Billy Griffith, Burnett "Slim" Washington and Greg Hardy each contributed RBI singles to erase a 6-3 Pants USA advantage. Levi and Ned Raines combined for six hits to lead the winners.

Joe Benton doubled home two runs for Pants. Rico Peterson, Dave Hudick and Ed Maisak had one RBI each.

After Benton's double in the fifth, winning pitcher Washington retired eight of the final 11

In Nursery's win. Scott Williams drove in five runs with two singles, a triple and a homer. Ted Miller had four hits and Bill Stoudemire had three. Terrell Ervin slugged an inside-the-park

Harry McCarty led Bill Knapp's with three hits and an RBI.

In AJ's victory, Neilie Tirado had four hits and Mike Ferrell clubbed a double, triple and homer while driving in three runs. Tom Aikens had two Willie Merkerson belted two homers and two singles while chasing home five runs for the losers. Otis Raines had a trio of singles.

Tanner, Tribe Can't Win, 3-2

United Press International Atlanta's 3.2 loss to the Houston Astros Wednesday night illustrated that sometimes, a manager just can't win. One night earlier, Atlanta skipper Chuck Tanner heard second-guessing when his decision to use rookie Duane Ward over veteran Bruce Sutter resulted in a loss. Wednesday night, Tanner went with Sutter, and the result was the same: a ninth-inning loss. Pinch hitter Craig Reynolds capped a three-run ninth with a two-run single off Sutter to rally the Zane Smith, 1-1, carried a four-hitter into the ninth, but with two out. Glenn Davis singled and Kevin Bass walked. Jose Cruz singled home Davis, bringing on Sutter. Tony Walker ran for Cruz and stole second. After Alan Ashby walked,

Reynolds singled up the middle to score Bass and Walker. Dodgers 6, Giants 4 At San Francisco, Mike Marshall drove in four runs, and Fernando Valenzuela pitched an Bryan Maley pitched seven innings of one-hit relief and Jeff Morgan broke a 5-5 tie with a two-run homer in the top of the fifth as Seminole Community College's Raiders moved closer to a state tournament bid with a 7.5 victory over the Vikings of St. John's River Wednesday in Mid-Florida Conference action at Palatka.

SCC, 29-17 overall and 16-7 in the league, can clinch a spot in the state tournament today at home with a win over Santa Fe. Sanford's James Hersey will be on the mound. An SCC loss would force the Raiders to go up against Central Florida in a three-game series to decide who goes to state.
