Duck Hunters Are Requested To Save
Feathers Of Ducks

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (Special)
—America's sportmen can contribute to the safety of wartime flyers this fall by saving the down and small body feathers of wild ducks and geese needed for lining high-altitude flying suits. Ducks Unlimited announces in launching a nation-wide campaign to collect waterfowl feathers.

By law, all publications for commercial flier down imports of which have been cut off by the war, the down of 10 million ducks, for example, will not only provide a flying suit with protective warmth against sub-zero temperatures but with buoyancy to keep its wearer afloat for 24 hours.

Experts say enough of this material is to be had from the annual national waterfowl bag (obtainable only during the legal hunting season through co-operative duck hunters) to make 300,000 flying suits, 600,000 zero proof parkas or 160,000 sleeping bags for troops in colder areas of the world.

All feathers less than two and one-half inches can be used. They should be kept dry. Sportmen are urged to donate shipments, transportation, collect, to Ducks Unlimited, 83 Columbia Street, Seattle, Wash. Name and address of donor and "Waterfowl and Sportsmen's Organizations" should be written on package.

Sportmen's organizations, sporting goods stores and others are also asked to establish local feather recycling stations from which bulk shipments may be made.

Donations will serve the double purpose of aiding the war effort and waterfowl restoration. Manufacturers will pay for the material at government established prices and all proceeds will be given to fund establishment of waterfowl nesting refuges.

Whether you refer to freedom of the press or to freedom of speech, they are quite one and the same. This is because together they constitute the right of individuals to communicate with one another.

Abridgement Caused Revolution

The very existence of the United States as a free nation springs from the fact that the founders insisted on the Constitution including a provision for freedom of speech and of the press. That right had long been recognized among free men but it threatened abridgement was one of the factors leading up to the Revolution. It was the guarantee that this right would never again be questioned or infringed that was stated in writing in the fundamental law of the land.

In times like these it is all the more important that we in America shall not give way to hysteria. It is a function of the press, and its duty, to keep the public fully informed concerning all activities of government.

The fact is that the expression "Freedom of the Press" simply means the right of everyone to express his thoughts in writing or in print, for others to read. The right of freedom of the press is a right not alone of those engaged in the business of printing and publishing but of all the people. The obligation to guard it is that of the press. Destruction of the right of free press would destroy democracy.

It would destroy every right that every individual has to communicate his thoughts by publication or word of mouth, uncensored by government authority.

In short, if we lose freedom of speech and of the press we will surely lose all other freedoms and will become as completely understood as are the millions under the heel of European and Asiatic dictators.

I like to look at this freedom of speech and of the press mainly as the symbol of your liberties and mine as citizens.

Need For Veteran
Agents Is Told By Joe Chittenden

A need for qualified Veterans' Administration representatives at county and state level where discharge art is issued is reported by Joe D. Chittenden, Director, National Service Bureau of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States. In a communication received here by Commander L. F. Boyle Post No. 3232 V. F. W., Mr. Chittenden, who formerly resided in Sanford, states that the duty of such representatives should be to consult with and advise veterans about their legal rights under Veterans' laws.

Under existing regulations, representatives of the American Red Cross are the sole contacts supplied to the veterans. Their inexperience and lack of sufficient knowledge of the complicated veterans' laws, have resulted, Chittenden states, in numerous cases in many eligible veterans claiming benefits denied and, in others being mishandled that their fair adjudication is jeopardized.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States contends that the government is responsible for the care of disabled members of the Armed Forces, to whom the V. F. W. holds in fairness to men being discharged from the Armed Forces for physical and mental disabilities only the very best advice and counsel should be placed at their disposal, the V. F. W. official pointed out.

The V. F. W. appreciates the fact that the Red Cross is doing a magnificent job in the national emergency," Chittenden wrote. Commander Boyle, the V. F. W. official pointed out.

A Free Press and a Free People are an unbeatable team." The following article is written by LINWOOD L. NOYES, publisher of The Ironwood (Mich.) Globe and president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Written Exclusively For AP Features

By LINWOOD L. NOYES

A Free press and a free people are an unbeatable team. If this fact could only become an international standard of democracy, the freedom of the United States as a national organization and its sovereignty among nations could never be successfully challenged.

When the press is under attack—and it is these days—the liberties are under attack and their liberties are threatened. Should the press go down before the onslaughts of the communists the world would be lost.

3rd War Loan Campaign Is Over The Top

Seminole County Has Sold Over Million Dollars Worth Of Bonds In 3 Weeks

Seminole County has over-subscribed its quota by $187,640.00 in the Third War Loan campaign. Frank Evans, chairman of the drive, reported today. The sum of $1,174,201.09 has actually been raised in cash he said and there are several county committees yet to report.

The effectiveness with which the drive has been conducted here is shown in Seminole County being the second county in the central Florida district to reach its quota, L. C. Teedy, regional manager, reported today.

This announcement came as reported from the state capital where it was learned that the Third War Loan has passed its quota of $16,000,000 with $16,900,000 to spare.

Laying high tribute to all those who had assisted in the drive, Mr. Evans said, "I wish to thank the people of Seminole County for their superb contribution to our quota over the top." Nearly all of the committees stated that the attitude of the people in putting over this drive was so pleasure to meet.

He complimented particularly the colored committee headed by D. C. Brock which was successful in raising over $10,100. This committee, Mr. Evans said, was not mentioned on page four.

Sailor Is Cleared Of Window Peeping Charge Against Him

Edward H. Hunter, 32, rested by the City Police charges of peaking into windows was brought to trial at the Naval Air Station, accused.

"After a thorough investigation the naval authorities were convinced that Hunter was not charged as having actually seen looking into windows and for the older group once a month, he stated.

Keeping in good physical condition through healthful exercise is a war time need, as well as a fine recreation, Mr. Bolt said. In addition, Sanford has a $100,000 investment in this club and it should be kept up.

Transportation to the club is afforded by buses that leave the town terminal at Second Street and Park Avenue at 7:05 and 9:00 A.M. and at 2:40 and 6:30, 9:30 and 11:00 P.M.

Return trips may be made from the Country Club approximately 45 minutes after each of the schedules given.

Library Has Large Number New Books

In addition to Elvira Garner's new book, "Little Cat Lost", a large number of juvenile and adult books in various fields to suit every reader's taste are being placed on the circulation shelves of the Sanford Public Library. Mrs. Elton Mowgton, librarian, announced today.

In the juvenile classification, Collision's "Flying Fortress" which is the story of a Boeing bomber and Mohr's "Inside the F.B.I." were recommended as particularly good books for young readers. Others school boys and girls may make book revolutions and also enjoy art "Macron", the life of the inventor of Coke and Alden Hatch's collection of biographies, "Heroes of Anna-Polis".

A popular non-fiction full of suspense and intrigue may be found in "Undercover" by Carlson, who lived with the Axis for a number of years to secure the information he disclosed in the book. Others in the non-fiction class are Paul de Brum's "The War With the Doctors", Eric Siegmester's "The Music Lovers Handbook"; Henry C. Cassidy's "Moscow Dateline", written in the same style as his news column; Gordon B. Seagrave's "Burns Surgeon", the biography of a man whose specialty was now married. Another who now marries in the Army Medical Corps Lowell Bennett's "Assignment to Mothers" and Corey Fort's "Short Cut to Tokyo" tell the stories of the battle for Tunisia and the battle for control in the Aleutians.

In "Albatross" by Irving Stone is an interesting comparison between the men who were presidents of the United States and the men who were their defeated opponents. In the vein of "See Here Private Margrave" there has been written a very humorous story of life in the Army. Chet Spalding and Otto Corney entitled "Love at First Flight".

Countries new mysteries and light novels will be available to local readers and among the slightly heavier novels we found "Puffin Battalion" one of a series of "Candy" by Franklin.

"Candy" by Franklin

offensive on the eastern front with all its immense implications for the whole course and duration of the war has led to a definite decision for early and intimate American-British-Soviet military and political meetings even in advance of the forthcoming three-power diplomatic meeting. This was learned today from a non-British source.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA Oct. 1. (AP)—British General Sir Bernard Freyberg's forces moved north out of besieged Naples last night toward their next defense line in the hills just west of Roseto, 125 miles away, as American tanks clanked into the outskirts of the great port from the south, after skirting Mt. Vesuvius. (A Berlin dispatch to Stockholms Tidningar said the British-controlled Naples, and the Nazi-controlled fleet was shelling the ravaged city.)

At last report American armored columns had fought their way past the ruins of ancient Pompeii to reach Torre Annunziata, arms and iron center nine miles south of Naples and within distance of their goal.

With the first step in the conquest of Italy nearing completion in the capture of a superb deepwater port, it was announced that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander-in-chief, had met yesterday with Marshal Badoglio to discuss the future use of Italy's army and navy against the Nazis.

The five German divisions bulwarking the Nazi defense were seen fleeing into the city and then streaming to the north and northwest in orderly retreat.

The unbroken advance of the American Fifth Army, rolled beyond Mercato San Pietro, 22 miles southeast of Naples, and approached the broad plains of Vesuvius in a move that threatened to flank the city of 925,000 and trap any German rear guards who fled to fight their behind street barricades.

The Allies already were thinking about Rome, Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's second announced objective, which lies 135 rail miles north of Naples across broad plumes netted with excellent highways. A military spokesman told reporters that the schoolmen's saying "All roads lead to Rome" had added the Nazi face an almost impossible military task of supplying their trapped goals of the capital for a full scale battle unless they use Rome as a fortified, and not an open city.

British Advance
The extreme right flank of the Allied line across Italy rapidly was invading the Adriatic coast. The British Eighth army advanced 20 miles north of Zara yesterday to capture Manfredonia on the gulf of that name. Some indications were that Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery might be hurling part of his forces westward to flank the Volturno river, 40 miles north of Naples, to which the main body of Marshal Albert Kesselring's army appeared to be fleeing.

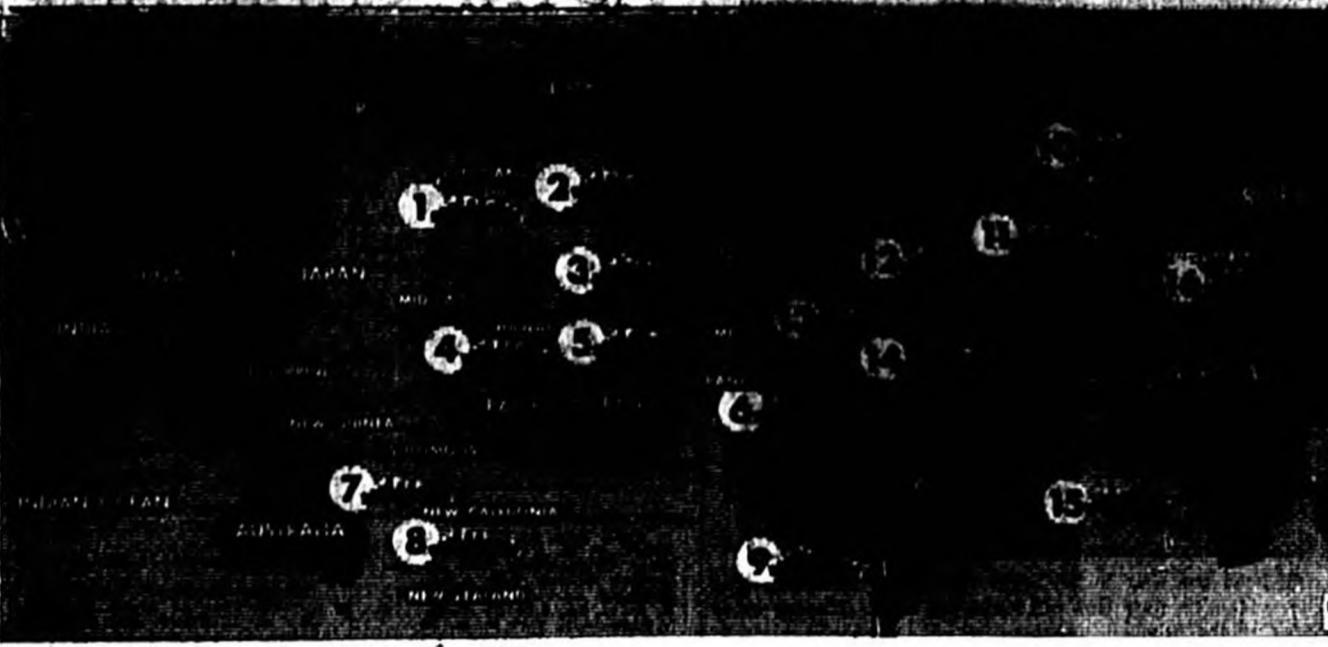

The frontal and flanking approaches to Naples were mined and demolished extensively. These familiar German retreat tactics were paralleled and applied to the British and American troops of the Fifth, boasting upon Naples along the narrow coastal bottleneck between Vesuvius and the sea. But already the army was well encircled on the Naples plains and exerting ever-increasing pressure with strong armored personnel carriers, tanks, mobile artillery and the like.

Beautiful Naples, the pride of southern Italy, in peacetime was a great thriving city of nearly two million people gathered there for tourists and marveled at its artistic wonders, and likewise an important manufacturing and shipping center.

Occupying one of the most beautiful sites in the world, Naples towers like a giant on the sea, its citadel, the Castel Nuovo, and the great church of S. Maria del Carmine, the latter built by the Dominicans over remains of the ancient temple of Venus.

AMERICA'S RAPIDLY GROWING NAVY is making its force felt in almost every fighting quarter of the world. This map reveals how the U. S. Naval forces are deployed in the various war theaters and in defense of our home shores against any threat of invasion. The North Pacific Force (1) is based on the Aleutians while another force (2) guards the Northwest Sea Frontier covering Alaska and the coast of western Canada. Still another force (3) is deployed to guard the Western Sea Frontier of the U. S. itself. At Pearl Harbor (4) is based our main Pacific fleet, backed up by the naval units attached to the Hawaiian Sea Frontier (5). The Panama Canal has its own formidable naval force (6) while

"down under" our South Pacific and Southwest Pacific forces, (7) and (8), have been seeing plenty of action in those areas. In addition there is a Southeast Pacific Force (9) which patrols the western coast of South America. On the Atlantic side our naval force in Northern Europe (10) works side by side with the British, while the Atlantic Fleet (11) has been fighting a deadly war against Nazi U-boats. Its activities are supported by naval units of the Eastern Sea Frontier (12), the Gulf Frontier (13), the Caribbean Sea Frontier (14) and the South Atlantic Force (15). In the Mediterranean a special U. S. naval force (16) has been cooperating with the British Mediterranean Fleet. (International) appointed until one week before the drive ended and its total does not include subscriptions made by companies before the time.

The Afro-American Life Insurance Company purchased $2,000 worth of bonds through D. C. Brock's committee.

An outstanding feature of the campaign, Mr. Evans added, was the report from McCrory's store for the sale of war stamps which increased from $100,000 to $300,000 a month to $888,000.

Executive chairman V. A. Speer of the County War Finance Committee, commenting on the success of the drive, said: "I am very grateful to all persons who responded and grateful for the help of my co-workers. I have had most enthusiastic support from my wife."

"We all ought to be proud of our bank and investment chairman, Frank Evans, who so ably conducted this drive, as well as other committees whose efforts synchronized to put the drive over," said Mr. Speer.

Incomplete school reports of bond sales, according to Principal H. Morris, of Seminole High School, show thus far a total of $21,201.50.

Mr. Speer made light of his broken arm this morning by stating that he had considered requesting the Navy for time off from his work at the Station, to which he had been assigned, but the accident of falling off a truck resulted in his getting plenty of time for the bond work.

Subscriptions were divided among the following institutions in this manner:

Federal Land Bank $ 1,612.50

Besides an abundance of ancient Greek art—many fine examples of thirteenth century art and the Renaissance rested in Naples.

Opposite Naples via the Serpentines road, the allied troops found a city almost dead, though their exteriors are somewhat plain.

The best known thoroughfare is the hideously bombed Via Etnea, which runs almost due north from the Plaza Del Plebiscito in front of the Nove Capodimonte. It reaches the gates of Capodimonte Palace, thus dividing the city into two parts.

The Germans, however, had not yet come to the city, and therefore the city had vast stretches of rubble, twisted metal, locomotives and tank tracks, men and all.

But the Allies had come to the city, and the Germans had the city in their hands.
