TODAY'S BIRTH VERRE

Because it is sunny today does not prove that storms will never come again. Sometimes bitter medicine is good for us. I was at ease but he hath broken me asunder.—Jb. 16:12.

The President's recent economic message, of 6,000 words, says the New Haven (Conn.) Register, was issued to correct one error, "that calling for a four billion dollar tax increase," and then he proceeds to recommend several more errors, 11, to be specific.

There should be some sociological significance in the report from Sanford that white prisoners outnumber negroes, although 12 years ago negroes outnumbered whites by three to one. Sixty-five percent of the entire prison population is composed of men between the ages of 18 and 25. We don't know just why these things should be so, but an investigation might lead to some interesting conclusions.

A small boy, absolutely naked, playing in the street during a driving rain is completely unaware of the supine of passing motorists as if he were the only person on earth, as happy with his cool refreshing bath as no king ever dared to be; a group of negro boys bathing in the river having the time of their lives completely oblivious to such things as prejudice, intolerance, and racial discrimination; these and other instances like them make one wonder who is happiest, he who gets pleasure from simple things, or he who has so much he is bored by it all.

We have heard a lot about the evils of the "52-20 Club", that organization of veterans under the G. I. Bill of Rights who collected $20 a week in "locking chair money" for 52 weeks. Here in Florida over $5,000,000 has been paid to veterans under this provision of the bill and more than 125,000 have thus been benefited. What is perhaps sometimes overlooked is that although 125,000 drew at least one week's payment, only 18,774 drew payments for 52 weeks. Only 18,774 actually belonged to the club and continued to draw benefits as long as they did before looking for a job. All but the other 106,000.

We have long been of the opinion that the ministers of the gospel could increase the size of their congregations by adopting modern preaching methods. This view was substantiated last Sunday by the Rev. Norman Hammer of the Emmanuel Lutheran Church of St. Petersburg adopted the technique of the modern drive-in theater and preached his sermon over a microphone and loud speaker to a large crowd of people parked in automobiles in a vacant lot. Out in Pasadena, Calif. the Rev. Wallace Hamilton who has been doing this sort of thing for some time attracts as many as 1,500 automobiles on a Sunday morning.

A constitutional amendment is proposed to limit income taxes to 6 percent. Not many people know that very wealthy people are taxed as much as 75 or 80 percent of their total incomes, or that a person making a million dollars a year has to give six or seven hundred thousand of it to the government. There is no call to feel sorry for people taxed like that. They can get along all right anyway. The ones to feel sorry for are the people themselves, the American public. And the government for them in deciding to spend the money of the taxpayer in the public interest.

No Military Dictator

The government reorganization act has been passed by Congress and signed by the President, but efforts to exempt favored departments from Vinson's provisions are by no means ended. Representative Carl Vinson of Georgia, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, has now proposed that, by additional legislation, the armed services be made proof against the reorganization powers of the President. The reason against military dictatorship. The motives of the chairman may be altogether sincere. But that does not alter the fact that what he proposes is a weakening of the reorganization act. If a successful attack can be made against the act on behalf of one department, other attempts to protect departments, bureaus, offices and agencies will certainly follow. If the President is to attack inefficiency and waste in government, he must have power to attack them wherever they exist. The prevention of military dictatorship - or any other dictatorship - is not to be found in law. The most precious heritages of the Bill of Rights and the rest of the Constitution are ours only as long as we appreciate them and are willing to protect them with our thoughts and speech and actions in private life, with our interest in public affairs, willingness to serve the nation, and intelligent use of the ballot. Those things are our assurance against dictatorship.

To Govern Economics

A new proposal for government manipulation of the business trend is being prepared for presentation to Congress. Like measures brought forward earlier in the year, it would give the government broad powers in the business field, but now the purpose is to counteract depression instead of to control inflation. There is much to be said in favor of achieving both purposes. But in the light of past experience with business manipulation by government, the new proposal is a little frightening. Controls intended to modify the effects of the business cycle must be planned and applied in advance. Yet experience of both private and public business trends far in advance with reliable accuracy. When attempts are made at artificial control, they are about as likely to aggravate the cycle as to ease it, depending on whether the guessing was good or bad. It is questionable whether we are ready yet to guess and apply advance measures on a grand scale. An incidental but very pertinent point is that this proposal, called an economic expansion plan, is also a government expansion plan of impressive proportions. It would create big new offices and agencies, and provide for big new spending.

Introduced at this late date in the session of Congress, it is likely to be pressed as an emergency measure. But a proposal of such wide significance certainly should not be dealt with hurriedly.

Hall of Fame Candidate

Dr. William C. Gorgas should be in the Hall of Fame, says a group of his admirers, headed by Dr. Oliver C. Carmichael, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. They think that Gorgas has been strangely overlooked. As surgeon general of the Army Gorgas was instrumental in clearing the Canal Zone of fever, and making possible the digging of the Panama Canal. The Hall finally admitted Dr. Walter Reed, who isolated the germ of yellow fever, and might well choose Gorgas also. But the electors, having many possible candidates to consider, are sometimes slow in making what seem to others to be obvious choices. It was years before they admitted such a star of American literature as Edgar Allan Poe. The next election will take place in 1950. By that time the Gorgas committee might be able to work up a really good campaign.

Nation's Business

(Continued From Page One) of wage or other benefits to labor. These other industries feel that if the unions have their way with steel, it will be almost impossible for any of the others to head off similar demands. Why does management in general feel that this is the time to turn and take a stand? Why are both sides being so stubborn this summer? Contestants are always stubborn just before a battle, of course. That's good tactics. But this time there are many indications that they mean it. Management feels it has two strong arguments: 1. Output is falling in many of these industries, although not all. And some of them openly predict it will fall still more this fall. With prices softening and buyers staying out of the market in many cases, management feels a strike would hurt the companies less now than at any time since the war. 2. Management contends that wage or other forms of labor benefits cannot be increased at a time when sales and earnings are falling, and when many companies are nearing their high, break-even point. They say higher labor costs at this time would push them over that break-even precipice, make it unlikely that prices can be dropped to meet outside demand, and thus grind industry to a halt, bringing on either a deepening recession or another dizzy whirl on the inflation spiral.

Labor is just as stubborn. It pooh-poohs these contentions of management. It argues that 1. The only way to hold off a depression is to keep the nation's purchasing power high. And the way to do that is to keep buying power in the pockets of workers. How else, asks labor, can they buy the products of industry? 2. Industry can afford wage increases, in the labor view. The unions cite the record earnings of last year in most industries and the early part of this year in others. Labor says wages can be raised and have plenty of people to buy them. 3. There are many who believe that the immediate future is a time when the nation's purchasing power will be high. They believe that the government will be able to keep the purchasing power high by increasing the money supply. They believe that the government will be able to keep the purchasing power high by increasing the money supply.

SIMPLE SIMON'S SUCCESSOR

Inside WASHINGTON MARCH OF EVENTS

Governor Dewey Appoints Dulles to Wagner's Seat | Democrats Urging Lehman To Run for Senate Post | Special to Central Press WASHINGTON—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's blunt announcement that he would not seek the Senate seat vacated by veteran Senator Robert F. Wagner (D, New York), threatened to put New York Republicans very much on the spot for a candidate—until Dewey appointed John Foster Dulles to the post. Political experts expected the governor would nominate Dulles, his foreign adviser, to succeed Wagner until the run-off election. There is an uncertainty, however, that the GOP would nominate Dulles to succeed himself for a full term in the Senate. Democrats are bending all their efforts toward inducing former Gov. Herbert H. Lehman to seek the post. Lehman has the backing of newly-elected Congressman Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. (D), New York.

NEW STATESMAN—The recent Big Four foreign ministers' meeting in Paris saw the emergence on the world stage of France's Foreign Minister Robert Schuman. An unknown until precipitated into the arena of French politics, he is believed to have played the most important part in changing French psychology. At previous meetings or other dealings with France, a fear of the emergence of a military Germany has plagued the French representative. Schuman regards the peril lightly. Now France as a whole takes the matter less seriously, due in part to the promise of the rearmament program and the North Atlantic Alliance. Schuman, strategically, is a native of Lorraine, which was in German hands from 1870 to World War I. Until he served in the French army, fighting Germany, 1914-1918, he knew no word of French.

TARGET DATE—Sept. 1st or 2nd is now being set as the tentative date for adjournment of Congress. Administration leaders are talking of winding up business and going home in time for the Labor Day weekend. As the deadline for adjournment is July 31 under the provisions of the reorganization law, the House and Senate will have to adopt a resolution extending the session. Keeping Congress here during the entire summer will not prove popular with the legislators, but Democratic leaders consider it necessary. One result will be that the President's eight governmental reorganization plans will be able to go into effect on the expiration of 60 days. The deadline is the week of Aug. 30.

FANE INVASION?—An interesting conviction held by some Latin American experts is that the recent "invasion" of the Dominican Republic was actually staged by its own purported victim, Dominican President Trujillo. Many peculiar circumstances surrounding the "slaking" of two airplanes bearing the "invaders" lend those experts to see something at least unusual in the "invasion." However, of greatest significance is the fact that Det. Trujillo is up against a $10 million dollar military budget. Such a budget is unprecedented for one of the tiny Caribbean countries but Trujillo must have a big Army to protect him against overthrow. Impartial observers say Trujillo already is questioning the last possible penny in taxes out of the country and that a revolt was likely unless he could show the Dominican people that assault from without was possible. Hence, it is believed that Trujillo arranged and paid for the "invasion." The "invaders," of course, were not intended that they would be slaughtered.

Low Flying Causes Los Angeles Crash LOS ANGELES, July 13.—Civil Aeronautics Board officials say that low flying and not a fight caused the crash and explosion of a non-scheduled airplane, on July 11, and killed 15 people. The plane, a Douglas C-47, was flying at 1,000 feet when it crashed into a residential area. The pilot, who was also killed, was flying at a low altitude. The crash occurred near the city of Los Angeles.

British Pay $100,000 To Scotch Dentist

EDINBURGH, Scotland, July 14.—A Scottish dentist has made £25,000 ($100,000) for 11 months work under Britain's socialized medicine scheme. This was disclosed by Sir William Marshall, chairman of the Lanark county health service executive council at a meeting of the dental estimates board yesterday. Under the national health service, dentists submit a bill to the government for each patient treated. The patient does not have to pay for treatment. The government pays the dentist according to the number of patients under his care and the kind of treatment given.

WEED OUT PROPS WASHINGTON, July 14.—It's time for colleges to weed out some of the teachers they hired in times of emergency, says the American Association of University Professors. The association's committee on academic tenure, said in a report that the six-year probationary period is almost over for thousands of young teachers who were hired during and shortly after World War II.

Trade Tunic" Shown By Hattie Carnegie

BY DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor
NEW YORK, July 14 (AP)—The "Trade Tunic," a sophisticated version of the cobbler's apron, is presented by Hattie Carnegie in her Fall collection. The way to transform a simple black dress into a party costume.
The tunics, shown in several versions, are made of black taffeta and are tied on with slim black jersey dresses, adding festivity quicker than you can say "I haven't a thing to wear."
Fabric interest is the highlight in the Carnegie showings, as it has been in other Fall fashion previews presented during New York's crowded week of openings.
Most dramatic are the sheer tweeds and worsteds which are seen throughout the collections. These have the rich, soft look of regular weight wools, but in the hand have little more than the weight of chiffon. Thus they are used for dresses and can be handled and draped like silk.
Stiff, lustrous upholstery demands and satins also are used by Miss Carnegie for the theater coats and dresses with a distinctly 1950 look and a Venetian silk with a woven dot, is now and handsome.
Coat dresses are important in the Carnegie collection, as they are in others of the couture group. A typical number is a coat dress in feather-weight dove check gray and white wool with a one-sided pleat and a panel-back skirt.
Miss Carnegie shows also the "Necessity Coat"—bulky, boxy, in three-quarter length. It is effective in oxford gray flannel with a velvet collar.
Many of her suits do ticks this fall. A detachable apron may button on a slim tube skirt or a cape collar may be attached to a jacket.
Miss Carnegie features the "sideline" silhouette—a wrap-around dress draped and buttoned on one hip.
Twenty-nine states have countries named Washington.

Miss Wilkinson Is Honored At Luncheon

Mrs. Grady Duncan and her daughter, Mrs. Allen Delaney of New Orleans, entertained yesterday with a luncheon at 1:00 o'clock at the Duncan home on Palmetto Avenue honoring Miss Betty Wilkinson, whose marriage to Dr. Richard Silver will be an event of next week. White gladioluses were used in decorating throughout the rooms.
Guests were seated at the dining table which was centered with a lovely arrangement of the white flowers. White napery was placed in crystal holders on either side of the flower arrangement and bridal place cards marked the seating arrangement.
Miss Wilkinson went for the luncheon a smilack lavender cotton frock with green accessories. Her gift from the hostesses was in her chosen pattern of crystal.
Those enjoying the luncheon with Miss Wilkinson were her mother, Mrs. Jack Wilkinson, her grandmother, Mrs. W. P. Brooks, Miss Elsie Farley, Mrs. Harry Lee, Mrs. H. N. Bayer, Miss Adele Curry of Savannah, Ga. and Miss Peggy Duncan.
A good way to use up a little leftover rice is to put it into an omelet—about half a cup to a two-egg puffy omelet. Serve with hot biscuits and curant jelly or peach preserves.
Before frying eggplant slices in deep fat, dip them in beaten egg and then in well-seasoned fine dry bread crumbs. Serve the slices with tomato sauce and a green salad for luncheon.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, July 14 (AP)—At one time or another you have seen leg pictures of most movie stars. But not Shirley Temple.
"I don't like cleavage pictures and I don't think they are necessary," she explains. She sniffed at the idea she might not have a photographic figure.
"Besides my personal dislike for it (leg art), it's against the policy of my boss David Selznick," she added. You don't see any of his stars—Ingrid Bergman, Joan Fontaine, Jennifer Jones, Dorothy Metzger—posing for sexy pictures.
"If I had a choice between having sex appeal and being an actress, I'd rather be an actress," she added. Lita Baron Agur, at 17 months, is probably the town's youngest stockholder. She has one share and a voting interest in the concern, which is making ing "A Kiss for Corliss." The picture stars the young capitalist's mother, Shirley Temple.

Betty Hutton has already concluded all the numbers for "Annie Get Your Gun," so that should end the rumors that Judy Garland might get the role back. Betty says she's practically doing two pictures at once—"Annie" and "Let's Dance."
Anne Jeffreys is a sensation in "Kiss Me, Kate," which opened its road company at the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera. The bright Cole Porter hit goes to San Francisco and then for a year in Chicago, but the studios should be luring Miss Jeffreys back before long. She's a brilliant soprano and comedienne.
Dan Dailey and his wife, David Niven, Boris Karloff, Gloria Swanson, Vera Ellen and other Hollywood first-nighters were on hand in great Porter at a town house reception following the "Kate" opening.
John Carroll finishes up his Republic contract with "The Assayer." The film was originally shot in Argentina, but added scenes are being made here.
Barbara Stanwick still isn't fully recovered from her illness. But she reported back to "The Lie" because her scenes were in a hospital bed.
Producer Alan Lamy was stuck for a casting of Robert Preston's buddy in "Thunder in the Dust," so he's playing the role himself. Incidentally, MGM is protesting the use of that title, claiming it conflicts with "Intruder in the Dust."
John Ford says he'll make "The Quiet Man" in Ireland next Fall. The cast will include Maureen O'Hara, John Wayne and Victor McLaglen, all of whom will go anywhere to work for the director. Ford is now making "Front and Center," one of his first comedies since his Will Rogers films.
A battle royal is shaping up among the various talent unions of screen, stage, radio, variety and concert fields. There is still no agreement on how television talent will be organized.

Leftover slices of meat may be arranged in a shallow baking dish, covered with gravy and topped with mashed potatoes. Then heated thoroughly in a moderate oven. Sprinkle the potatoes with paprika before they are heated and then garnish with parsley sprigs just before the dish comes to the table.
A small white turnip, peeled and sliced, gives a tangy flavor to an ordinary vegetable soup. Add a bouquet of herbs to the soup, and you can make it by using a day's left celery top, a sprig of parsley, and one of thyme together. Remove the "bouquet" before serving.

No Welfare Fund Balance Remains, Chairman Asserts

ORLANDO, July 14. (Special)—There was no balance in the State Welfare funds July 1, Emmet Safay, chairman of the State Welfare Board, said today in commenting on a published statement made by Rep. James A. Haley of Sarasota yesterday. Haley had said that the board had an approximate $1,000,000 balance July 1 which it could be using to meet the full amounts of assistance warrants to the needy this month.

The State board has ordered reduction in all its expenditures in keeping with the State Budget's Commission's withholding of 25 percent of State appropriations during the closing months of

for the next three months. "The 1949 Legislature itself banned carry-over balance from one biennium to the next," Safay said. "Regardless of the balance which the State Welfare Board might have had on the books June 30, it all went back into the general revenue fund at that time. The Welfare Board has no jurisdiction over actions of the Legislature."

"When the Legislature is not in session, the State Budget Commission has final authority over the release of funds from the general revenue account. When it said only 75 percent of the State appropriated funds would be released during the first three months of the new fiscal year, there was nothing the State Welfare Board could do except adjust its expenditures in line with the Commission's withholding of 25 percent of State appropriations during the closing months of the last fiscal year ending June 30, a balance did develop in the welfare fund. That was due, Safay explained, "and this has been explained time and time again to legislators," he commented to proportionately larger payments in the assistance program from Federal funds.

In April 1948 when the budget was submitted for the year beginning July 1, 1948, the Welfare Board set up $17,256,926 in State funds for assistance payments which would on the basis of the formula then in effect have produced $22,852,040 in Federal funds. In October of 1948, the Federal formula was revised increasing its proportion of the grants. That increased Federal funds for the year to $26,363,781. In that way, the approximate $4,000,000 in State funds was not used, Safay said.

Insane Killer Shows Signs Of Coming To Earth

LIMA, O., July 14.—(AP)—Raymond J. Julia, the tank-sitting killer at Lima State Hospital for the Criminal Insane, descended from his 100-foot water tower perch today at 2:59 P. M. (EST), nearly 23 hours after he was up. Julia was quiet and extremely tired when he stepped to the ground. He offered no resistance to hospital guards.

LIMA, O., July 14.—(AP)—Tower-sitting Raymond Julia, the insane killer who tried to escape and ended 130 feet in the air atop a water tower, showed signs of going to sleep today after coming to earth.

Cold and sleepy after a night on the tower at Lima State Hospital, Julia laid down a new resignation for his voluntary detention.

"Have a uniformed Western Union messenger deliver me a telegram from Johnson (Police Chief William Johnson of Warren, O.) and I'll come down," the haggard lifer shouted.

Quickly authorities planned a telegram and sent for a uniformed messenger.

They said they thought Julia meant it this time. The Warren, O., slayer complained of a head ache.

He complained, too, of thirst although he clung within inches of the criminal insane hospital's water supply.

Several times since he seemed perched on the tower yesterday at 9:30 A. M. Julia has promised to come down if certain conditions were met. Then, he has changed his mind.

If the telegram ever failed to work, said officials, they will return to their patient game of waiting.

Police Chief Johnson telephoned from Warren that Julia's family was in no danger.

"It's just a figment of his imagination," Johnson said of the patient's fears.

The agile, muscular Julia rebounded after sitting through yesterday's 94-degree high temperature, chatted amiably with the people on the ground.

He insisted he did not intend to escape. He explained that he climbed the tower just to call attention to what he described as his family's predicament.

Julia has not threatened to jump off the tower. Hospital officials feel it would be extremely hazardous to have a guard try to bring down the patient.

The patient, they explained, is more agile than the guards. They would have trouble catching him. And if they did catch him on the ladders, somebody might fall off if a fight developed.

The sun shone brightly on the tower again today, but Julia kept his thirst quenched with water drawn from the tower.

China's War

The premier, bent and looking older than his 67 years, told foreign correspondents that Nationalist China would fight on with or without foreign aid.

He said, "we have only one intention—to annihilate the enemy." You said the territory in the hands of the Nationalists today was only slightly smaller than the United States and contained more than 200,000,000 people.

He admitted tacitly the Reds could take Canton if they wished but emphasized the fight would go on whatever happened.

You asked the Nationalist failures in the past, partly to corruption, inefficiency and incorrect evaluation of Communist capabilities.

The premier declared Nationalist and Red strength south of the Yangtze was about equal. He estimated the Reds numbered 500,000 men.

The Nationalists, he said, are on the defensive now but eventually will turn the tide. He said this was "not a question of time but of changing tactics. When we change ours we'll gain the upper hand."

You appealed to the Western Powers for help.

Meanwhile Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, visiting Canton for the first time in 13 years, huddled himself with conference. He did not see women.

You and Chiang's main purpose in coming here from Formosa was to survey the situation. He said he did not know when Chiang's projected 12 man emergency council will be activated.

The council composed of Kuomintang Party men would direct resistance to the Reds.

A government spokesman said Chiang, who retired from the presidency in January, probably will spend only a few days here. Some quarters say Chiang then will visit other areas—eventually going to the northwest where Moslem resistance to the Reds is firm.

A Nationalist spokesman at a news conference said fighting was underway on several fronts. Five thousand Reds crossed the Kun River south of Nanchang, the Communist held capital of Jiangxi province, he said.

The spokesman, Maj. General Teng Wen-Yi, said Nationalist soldiers prevented others from crossing and that members of Reds were killed.

The Kuomintang National Government in northern China occupies and claims the largest stand of Yunnan in the world.
