

For Some Men It's Just Work

For the grimy, dust-covered men on the bulldozers, the draglines and the great earth movers, it is just another job.

But for 2,000 miles from Duluth to the Atlantic Ocean this vast concentration of heavy construction equipment along the international waterway of the St. Lawrence River is a mighty dream coming true.

The dream? The job? Harness the river. Add 2,300 miles of deep water coastline to the United States. Cut a wider door into the industrial heartland of America and Canada.

Both the dream and the job embrace two separate projects—seaway and power. The seaway is a joint U.S.-Canadian venture. The power development is being carried out by the province of Ontario and New York State. Both will cost in excess of a billion dollars.

By the time the whole job is completed, perhaps by 1963, the electric power capacity of the two nations along the St. Lawrence will have been boosted by 13 billion kilowatt hours and three quarters of the world's shipping will be able to sail into the heart of the Middle West.

To reach the far end of Lake Superior, ocean going ships will be able to travel a 27-foot channel rising progressively through 15 locks, instead of the present 24, to more than 600 feet above sea level.

Once a ship is afloat on the 10,000 square miles of Great Lakes, the riches of 17 states in the great inland basin will be available for transport. These states produce 31 per cent of the nation's industrial goods and 84 per cent of its agricultural products.

Moreover, certain cities along the St. Lawrence and Great Lakes will be closer to Europe than are some Atlantic ports.

But the big factor, according to seaway supporters, is the fact that shipment by water direct to Europe from Great Lakes ports will be cheaper than the present system of shipping by rail to the East Coast, then by freighter across the Atlantic.

For the 28 million people in the lakes basin cheaper water transportation may mean cheaper goods from all corners of the globe. Further, the drop in transportation costs may enhance their competitive position in world markets.

All along the projected route of the channel cities are busy assessing needs, raising money and making plans.

In Detroit the auto makers are awaiting completion of the seaway with great hopes.

Chrysler Corp., for example, which now moves only six per cent of its exports by way of the lakes, predicts this figure will jump to 80 per cent when the seaway is completed.

Shallow draft vessels along the lakes now carry 65 per cent of the export trade of the Burroughs Corp., makers of business machines. Burroughs figures it will up this figure to 90 per cent.

No city along the waterway has moved more rapidly than Chicago to develop a first class port. The Chicago Port District authority, a state agency, already has issued $4 million dollars worth of bonds and begun expansion of docks and warehouse facilities on a 200 acre tract. In time Chicago plans to spend $25 million.

Maxim M. Cohen, general manager for the Chicago authority, anticipates that the present foreign freight traffic of about 180,000 tons will jump to around a million tons in 1959.

Along the Atlantic Seaboard the coming of the seaway has been greeted glumly, by and large, though some profess a measure of optimism.

John Holloran, manager of the Maritime Assn. of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, said that in his opinion the seaway "undoubtedly will result in a loss of 20 to 30 per cent of the total import export cargo. Our only possibility is to provide a reduction of inland railroad rates."

In Philadelphia, Port Commissioner Harry G. Schad observed that the city would lose business "but I don't think it will lose nearly to the extent that Baltimore and New York will."

The New York Board of Trade, which consistently has fought the seaway, estimates the project will affect the incomes of about 25 per cent of the people in the port area.

The final judgement on which arguments are justified can only wait completion of the connection from inland America to the sea.

Dentists' Assembly To Be In Orlando For Two-Day Period

To keep abreast of some of the latest developments in their profession for benefit of their patients, scores of doctors of dentistry will assemble at Orlando on Jan. 8 and 9.

The occasion is the annual winter meeting of the Central District Dental Society of Florida which includes the 10 central counties of the state.

The Florida dentists will be honored by the presence of Dr. Harry Lyons of the School of Dentistry of the Medical College of Virginia, president-elect of the American Dental Association. He will deliver a lecture on Periodontia.

Dr. Thomas A. Price of Miami, president of the Florida State Dental Society of more than 1,100 dentists, also will be an honored guest and will address the convention at the official luncheon on Jan. 9.

Other technical lectures will be delivered by Drs. Frank T. Scott and M. J. Calbeck, Florida dental specialists and Dr. Richard Chase of Orlando will be moderator of a panel discussion.

Presiding at the meeting will be Dr. Wayne C. McCall of Ocala, president of the Central District Dental Society.

Other officers include Dr. S. A. Hussey Jr. of Gainesville, president-elect; Dr. K. A. Barker of Orlando, first vice president; Dr. Robert F. Vason, Mt. Dora, second vice president; Dr. M. Ervin Wehlich of Orlando, secretary-treasurer.

Brown Miller Selected County Board Leader

Sugar Cane Grind Slated By Volusia At Hubbard's Mill

W. Brown Miller was elected Chairman of the Seminole County Board of County Commissioners this morning at the reorganizational meeting of the Board held at the County Court House.

Hubbard's mill is one of the few left in the area and will be dismantled at the end of this winter's syrup season.

Largely supplanted by modern machinery and large corporations, the private cane mill, powered by a mule and hand fed, has almost disappeared from the Florida scene.

Today's grind will start at 6 p. m. and will continue until 10 o'clock, according to Ted Strawn, retiring president of the Wildlife Association.

One accident marred the New Year Holiday in Sanford according to the records at the Sanford Police Department.

One Accident Mars Holiday Records

The collision occurred Sunday morning shortly before 10 o'clock at the intersection of French Ave. and Ninth Street.

A 1933 Ford sedan traveling north on French Ave. driven by K. C. Baker, 45-year-old negro laborer, collided with a 1940 Chevrolet sedan traveling in the same direction and driven by Charles Frederick Robbins, 28-year-old unemployed Lake Mary man.

Property damage to the Ford was estimated at $150, to the Chevrolet at $110, and to the newly constructed concrete curb at $100.

Charges of "improper right turn" were placed against Baker and Robbins and negligent driving against Robbins.

January Is Named March Of Dimes Month In Florida

January has been proclaimed March of Dimes month in Florida by Governor LeRoy Collins, it was announced today by Wendell C. Ilicaton, Florida State Chairman, 1956 March of Dimes.

WHEREAS, the Salk polio vaccine comes too late for tens of thousands of Americans who need continued care in overcoming the crippling effects of this disease;

WHEREAS, our people still need the protection of emergency polio-fighting skills and facilities which have saved many lives and restored much human usefulness;

WHEREAS, the cost of patient aid, scientific research and professional education essential to the fight against polio runs to many millions of dollars;

WHEREAS, the people of this State and this Nation in past years have given their full support to the fight against polio through the March of Dimes;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, LEROY COLLINS, by virtue of the authority vested in me as Governor of the State of Florida, do hereby proclaim the month of January, 1956, as

MARCH OF DIMES MONTH in Florida, and appeal to the generosity and self-interest of every citizen to contribute to the March of Dimes.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Florida, to be affixed at Tallahassee, the Capital, this 15th day of December, A. D. 1955.

Golden Jubilee Exhibition

In conjunction with the Golden Jubilee Anniversary of the organization of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, the management of the Mayfair Inn, owned and operated by the New York Giants, announces an exhibition of tennis as it was played at the turn of the century and as it is being exemplified in its modern acceptations.

The exhibition will be staged on the Mayfair Inn courts tonight at 8:00 o'clock. Several prominent local tennis stars will participate and will be joined by some old timers who are still devoted to the sport, although they are in their sixties.

Sidney Summerfield, tennis professional of Daytona Beach, T. E. "Gene" Tucker, local banker and men's singles champion, with W. Gordon Dean, Phil Filbert of the Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station and Frank Deane, who has done much to encourage the youngsters of our community in proper tennis technique and Charlie Morrison, local "grandfather of tennis" will take part.

Frank N. Mebane Jr., manager of the Mayfair Inn, extends a cordial invitation to local tennis fans to witness the exhibition.

Cancer Society Set For Series At Mayfair Inn

The Florida Division of the American Cancer Society has set one of a series of District Meetings to acquaint the organization's many volunteers with its program, with emphasis on the importance of public information, its various media and techniques, in Sanford on Sunday, Jan. 15, at the Mayfair Inn.

Volunteers in the Central Florida District have been invited in the meeting staged by the Planning Committee of the organization.

Mrs. Ralph Hansel, District Director of the Central Florida District, said that the program will include talks by representatives of the State and National organizations, a medical panel, and several workshop sessions to discuss individual problems.

The meeting has been set for 10 o'clock and will continue through 4 o'clock in the afternoon and will include luncheon at the Mayfair Inn.

Increasing Tide Of Local Spending Is Shown In Report

An example of the increasing tide of spending in Seminole County is the December report from the office of Ray Green, State Comptroller.

Green reports that gasoline dealers paid $54,738.25 to his office in December for the seven cents per gallon tax on their November sales of gasoline in Seminole County.

He distributed $19,749.34 of this tax for road bonds or road building purposes in this county. Sales of gasoline in the entire state totalled 103,084,360 gallons in November and the tax collected was $7,213,905.26. This is approximately $737,000 more than the same month last year, and represents an increase of 12 per cent.

Scores Of Masons Plan Celebration In Apopka Jan. 14

One of the oldest institutions in the world will mark a milestone in Apopka on Saturday, Jan. 14, when Orange Lodge No. 28 F & A M, celebrates its 100th birthday.

This will be a gala day and a solemn day. A spirit of gladness prevails among the Craft because of past achievements. The future is faced with solemn dignity.

Orange Lodge commemorates the meeting together of a small group of Master Masons in a sawmill on the little Wekiva River to receive a Warrant from the Grand Lodge of Florida empowering Orange Lodge No. 28 to confer degrees in Masonry. Brother James G. Speer was chosen first Worshipful Master, Campbell Lassiter, first Senior Warden, and Amos Newton, first Junior Warden. The Lodge still operates under the original Warrant.

This was the first Masonic Lodge to be instituted in Central Florida. Craftsmen came from great distances, traveling great paths as there were no roads. The time of meeting was set as the Friday or before the Full Moon, the Craft depending upon moonlight to aid them in their journeys in and from Lodge. When the members arrived at the Temple the Master called them to assemble by causing a horn to be sounded.

The Centennial program will be inaugurated at the Local Masonic Temple, built by slave labor, at Apopka on Highway 441 just at the brow of a hill, the oldest Masonic Temple in the State of Florida.

All Masons and their Ladies, as well as non-Masons and their Ladies, are invited. The ceremonies will begin at 2 p. m. Jan. 14 with an informal reception for Roy T. Lord, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Florida and other distinguished guests, by Stanford Overholser, Master of Orange Lodge and by the officers and members of the Lodge.

Everyone is invited to register on arrival at the Masonic Temple and guests will be shown through the century old building.

At six o'clock p. m. a banquet by reservation only, will be served in the dining room of the Apopka Memorial High School on Rock Springs Road.

At 8 o'clock that evening there will be a program in the school auditorium directed by Dr. C. H. Damsel, at which the Grand Master, Roy T. Lord, will be the principal speaker.

Mrs. Lundquist Is Added To Staff. A new employe in the office of Clerk of Circuit Court O. P. Herndon began her duties this morning.

New Commissioner Will Be Sworn In

A meeting of the Sanford Board of City Commissioners will be held tonight as set by City Charter.

According to Section 7, Page 8, of the City Charter, the first meeting of the year will be held on the first Tuesday following the first Monday of the year following the year in which any commissioner is elected.

Commissioner-Mayor J. Denver Cordell retires from his office and will be replaced by commissioner-elect David Gatchel who will be sworn in at this evening's meeting.

Report Indicates French Ave. Work 68 Pct. Completed

More than $45 million in road construction projects were under way in the state during November, according to a monthly progress report issued today by Wilbur E. Jones, Chairman of the State Road Department.

In addition to the $45,101,722 of projects already under construction, Chairman Jones said that bids were received for $6,932,153 in new construction. During the month contracts were formally awarded for other road construction totaling $6,722,062 while work completed and accepted by the Department in the period amounted to $1,058,032.

William H. Dial of Orlando, Road Board Member from the Fifth District, reported that construction under 46 contracts in the 12 counties comprising this district accounted for $17,736,910 of the state total.

Under construction in Seminole County and reported 68 per cent completed is the grading and paving of French Ave. in Sanford.

Hyacinth Control Is Subject

A heated argument between a representative of the Hyacinth Control Division of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission and fishing camp operators broke out this morning during a report to the Board of Seminole County Commissioners.

Field Supervisor James De Jean, of the Hyacinth Control Division reported to the Board of Commissioners on the progress of hyacinth eradication in Seminole County.

De Jean reported that the total budget for a two year period in Seminole County amounted to $4,195.91.

Of this total, he said, $41,000 had been expended for chemicals. Two hundred sixty four gallons of the chemical materials had been used, De Jean reported at a cost of 2.43 a gallon.

Through the application of the chemicals by plane, about 200 acres of hyacinth had been killed.

According to the budget set up by auditors in Tallahassee, he said, the cost of applying the chemicals was about $5 to $1 per acre and other costs including equipment.

Richard Van Camp, operator of a fish camp at Black Hammock said, "We pay the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission a license for each boat and we want some action on the eradication of hyacinths. We can charge a fee to come into our camps and give the boats away if that will help get the action we want."

However, Leslie Flister, a co-operator of Riley's Fish Camp on Lake Jessup said, "Two wrongs won't make a right. There must be some way to solve our problem which has become an emergency."

The fish camp operators appealed to the Board of County Commissioners for an emergency appropriation to furnish chemicals so that the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission could help eradicate the hyacinths without the extreme high cost of labor charged against the Hyacinth Control Division budget.

MANY CARS CROSS TALLAHASSEE. Tallahassee (AP)—More than 18,000 vehicles crissed the Sunshine Skyway over Tampa Bay during the five days of the Christmas holidays.

Ralph Hartfield, director of revenue projects for the road department, said yesterday holiday business helped swell this year's average to 2,460 cars a day compared to 2,337 a day in 1954.

What's Ahead For Us In 1956? That Includes Seminole County

"What's ahead for 1956?" is a question that will probably be asked thousands upon thousands in these beginning days of the New Year.

That leads us to ask the question, here in our community, what's ahead for us on the progressive trail of growth and expansion.

During his campaign Eisenhower said, in part, in the magazine section of "The New York Times" of November 3, that "The basic long-term issue of this campaign is between two different concepts of America and two totally different estimates of the future."

On one hand, there is that school of thought whose spokesmen regard America as a "mature economy"; a land of abundant resources.

There is another and opposite school of thought that sees America as a "young economy"; a land of abundant resources.

In a report printed by maritime organizations, the title reads "KNOW YOUR WATERWAYS," and by way of explanation says: they are vital to national defense, industry, commerce, civic development, and beneficial to all the people.

The report states that America is far from a "mature economy." Though strong, the nation must become stronger. Improved harbors and channels are indispensable parts of our present strength. But the almost total abandonment of further development means that this important work will fall far behind other national advances. It is certain that there are those in high places in the Federal Government who do believe that America is a "mature economy."

Picture the nation today if all harbors and channels vanished. Imagine the loss some decades hence if many splendid potential harbors and channels are still undeveloped, unexpanded.

Money spent for useful waterway development is not unproductive at any time. Rather, it is an investment in the building of the nation and in the welfare of the people.

While America is not yet complete, so we are here in our community. The "mature economy" of Sanford and Seminole County has not yet been reached though some would want the citizens of the community to think in such terms.

Sanford and Seminole County is one of the frontiers for development and we stand to profit by the sound thinking of creating an economic seaboard with the building of wharves and docks alongside the channel provided for our use.

Better roads are in the making for our community and from every direction trucks and cars will roll over, four-laned, and paved thoroughfares that will increase the traffic into our midst four-fold.

Better railroad facilities, improvements and faster service will bring into Sanford and Seminole County additional thousands of tons of merchandise and take out from our community an additional tonnage of products grown here and produced here.

The system of air travel is being improved and developed almost daily to give the Central Florida community the advantages of immediate service for many of the products produced here that are needed momentarily in other parts of the world.

But our waterways travel is at a standstill while other sections of the country, abounding with the same resources we have here, are profiting from expansion and increased.

Selfish interest yell and howl that Sanford and Seminole County, as well as Central Florida, do not need another avenue for goods and merchandise to be shipped in to us.

Yet we hear, from time to time, "shortage of trucks, unable to ship" — "freight cars tied up with the millions of tons of merchandise being shipped" — "planes unable to supply the demand for shipping space."

On the other hand, sellers of merchandise say "we can't compete with markets who underprice us because of savings accrued from water rates." Wholesalers yell "port cities are underselling us."

The biggest headline of the year for Sanford and Seminole County would be "docks and wharves to be built."

Yet citizens of the community stand by idly doing nothing about the one factor that would bring more different industries and businesses here than any other one improvement.

How did our hospital finally become a reality? A citizens committee spurred and pushed the project into its beginning stage, working tirelessly day by day until it became a project in action.

How did our 17-92 widening and four-laning become a reality? A citizens committee talked, worked and pushed the project into its present stage of getting underway in the near future.

How will we realize a 'dock and wharves' project for the benefit of Sanford and Seminole County? A citizens committee whose complete interest will be the building of the facilities that will benefit more people more than any one other project.

It behooves our County Commissioners, City Commissioners, Senator and Legislators to make the 'docks and wharves' for Sanford and Seminole County their NUMBER ONE project for 1956.

If it is progress that we want, the use of the St. Johns river channel to bring freight into Central Florida would be the most progressive interest.

If it is tax money we need to boost the title of City and County government then the Docks and Wharves project would be the greatest single item to increase the income of our local governments.

Whining that our treasuries are depleted is useless. It takes work and interest, progressive thinking and sound planning to bring about the improvements that we need most.

Our next most important word would be a report from the two boards of our local government on what has been accomplished toward making the project a reality.

French Politicians Get Worried

The French politician has been worried when he saw a strong personality emerging. The impulse of the French legislator is to slap down any rising star who seems to be getting a majority of the country behind him. That is one reason cabinets change so frequently.

"It's about time we got rid of him," the National Assembly says about a premier — usually after six months. "He may be getting to think he's somebody."

Now Premier Edgar Faure — running for re-election — insists something has to be done about the two-year system.

"It makes a spectacle of us before the world," he says. A number of political leaders agree with the idea he is pushing, that the cabinet should be kept in office at least two years. They differ with him on some other issues.

Faure himself looks, and probably is, about the last politician in the world to become a strongman. Small, with a high domed forehead and big glasses, he is a scholar in law and the Russian language. He speaks with a slight lisp, and takes his exercise — when he can get it — in a gymnasium.

He specializes in compromises, a necessary talent in French political life — there are so many parties that all cabinets must be coalitions of differing groups. But he might find himself in a position to push some fairly uncompromising policies if — as he obviously hopes — he gets a chance to keep the job.

That depends on the strength his right-of-center coalition can show in the Jan. 2 elections.

Much less of a compromiser is his chief rival for leadership, former Premier Pierre Mendes-France, who heads a left-of-center group. Mendes-France is the kind such assessments shall stand confirmed and be and remain binding upon the property against which such assessments are made, until paid in accordance with the provisions of this Act; provided, however, that upon the completion of the street improvement, the City shall rebate to the owner of any property which shall have been specially assessed for any street improvement, the difference in the assessment as originally made and confirmed, and the proportionate part of the actual cost of said street improvement to be paid by special assessments as finally determined upon the completion of said street improvement.

Section 109. PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS, PLANS AND SPECIFICATIONS TO BE ON FILE. At the time of passing the resolution hereinafter provided for, there shall be on file at the office of the City Clerk plans and specifications with the estimated costs of the proposed improvements, which plans and specifications and estimate shall be open to the inspection of the public.

Section 107. PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS, RESOLUTION FOR, TO BE PUBLISHED; ASSESSMENT ROLL TO BE PREPARED, WHAT TO CONTAIN. The resolution, as thus adopted, shall be published one time in a newspaper published in the City of Sanford, Florida; and the City Assessor and City Clerk shall thereupon proceed to assess with the method of assessment provided for in the resolution, which roll shall be completed and filed with the City Commission as promptly as possible, and show own district and argues his case against home distilling of alcohol before audiences of Normandy farmers who scarcely take a cup of coffee without adding a tot of their own applejack.

About the only concession he makes is to refrain from drinking milk at his meetings. Mendes-France thinks the big alcohol interests played a major part in ousting him last February, and he and his partisans are bitter about it. His sharpness of speech, both in public and private, may seriously hinder him.

It would take a good deal of imagination to see Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay as a strongman. He is a soft-spoken but strong-minded businessman who wears his Momburg like Charlie Huggins used to in the movies. Pinay was popular with conservative Frenchmen.

There was some doubt of his ability to cope with foreign affairs when Faure appointed him minister but he went after the job with thoroughness and tenacity and became Faure's right-hand man.

Pinay and his friends of the conservative independent group are allied with Faure in this campaign. He is probably due for a prominent role during the five-year life of the next National Assembly.

The most colorful, and to some Frenchmen the most worrisome, figure in the current campaign is a rabble-rousing, small-town book-seller from the poor regions of central France. Pierre Poujade when he near the names he calls the members of the outgoing National Assembly, it's not surprising "Pirats," "small-time cheats," "rotters" are some of the printable ones.

Poujade gets most of his strength from small shopkeepers who say he is being pushed to the wall by tax collectors. He started by organizing mob actions against government auditors who come to look over store books. He is sponsoring three political parties — that way he gets triple time on radio and television.

Poujade's opponents call him a Fascist, a charge he disputes by showing that he served in the French underground army against the Nazis.

Though his parties will probably get no more than a dozen seats or so in the 527-seat National Assembly, he may draw enough votes in other districts to change the results significantly.

SHORTEST HIGHWAY

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—State Highway 127 runs a few feet less than four-tenths of a mile, but it's part of Utah's official highway network just the same.

So officials decided it ought to have a highway marker. They put it up yesterday. It reads "U-127, Utah's shortest designated highway."

U-127 is the driveway leading into the state prison south of here.

D. MORRIS FISHERIN tells of a dull day in a psychiatrist's office that was considerably enlivened by the arrival of a male patient, trundling a big hat box. Out of it he suddenly produced his wife's head! On top of it was a hat bedecked with birds and flowers. Even the psychiatrist was horrified. "This is terrible," he wailed. "It certainly is," agreed the patient, "and that's exactly what I told her when she admitted she paid $50 for it."

Spotlight On Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD UP—"As long as I can remember, my family never bothered to plan ahead. They never worried about the future as long as there was applause to be had. But I wondered what would happen when the applause was no longer there."

This was Donald O'Connor's explanation of why he has temporarily abandoned his blossoming movie and TV career.

"Originally I planned to stay away from work for a year, but it may be less than that," he explained. "I finished 'Anything Goes' five months ago. I may do another picture next April—possibly the Buster Keaton story."

The talented young performer made these observations about his past and future between rehearsals in a studio above the Hollywood bus station. In these unique surroundings, he was preparing for his date at Las Vegas' Sahara, his only professional engagement during his long vacation.

O'Connor, a serious young fellow despite his talent for clowning, explained that he had been working steadily since he was knee-high. He played in his family's vaudeville act during his earliest years. He came to movies at 12, has been in them ever since, minus time for the Army.

"I never had any time to plan," said Donald, now 30. "I didn't want

C. A. Ponders Celebrate 50th Anniversary

By ROSALIE WOLLOMON

Today, one of the best loved and most highly respected couples in Sanford are celebrating their Golden Wedding Anniversary; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Ponder of 113 E. Fifth Street.

The Ponders were married 50 years ago in Waynesboro, Ga., that being the home of Mrs. Ponder who is the former Ada Greiner.

Mr. Ponder was born in Bartow, Fla. The couple came to Sanford to live quite some time ago.

In this writer's opinion Ada Greiner Ponder's character and traits of personality are "pure gold". She is outstanding, sincere, and a devout Christian woman, having been a member of the First Methodist Church her entire life. Her love and faithfulness to her husband have been a credit to the Southern women.

Mr. Ponder is a loyal member of the Methodist Church and is a fine type of citizen for any community. All Sanford joins me in hearty congratulations and wishes for them many happy returns of the day.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Paris Jr. and sons, Elmo III and George have returned from Chattanooga, Tenn., where they spent Christmas holidays with their parents.

MARRIAGE FOR THREE

By ELIZABETH SEIFERT

CHAPTER ONE

ADAM LAIRD happened to marry Ann Outman. He might just as well, just as easily and as reasonably, have married Linda or Pinky—he might just as easily have—then in love with them. And they with him.

Adam was a nice-looking, clean-cut chap, with an engaging, open-mouthed smile which appealed to women; therefore his choice of women was wide.

But he chose Ann. She was sweet, and she was pretty—but maybe Adam married her because he knew her before he met Linda or Pinky; maybe it was because, of that period in his life, he was vulnerable.

The time was 1945, and Adam Laird had been out of the Seabee for more than a year. He'd served as boat carpenter, and had done a fine job. Had he had more formal schooling, he might have done something about studying architecture. But that, he decided, could come later. Just at first, since he had saved quite a bit from his pay, he would try taking a few contracting jobs on his own. His father had died during the war, but Adam could have worked for any contractor in that part of Missouri. However, he wanted to be his own boss, work out his own ideas. If he failed, he still could work for another man. Or go to school. College.

Meanwhile, he seemed to have a talent for realizing ideas, his own as well as those in the minds of other people. That first year he put up screens and built a porch. He converted a house into two apartments, and got his first contract to build a new home from scratch.

It was a nice problem, and he was bubbling with enthusiasm for it when he walked into the office of the Kensery Lumber company on that summer morning. In that mood, he was especially surprised, and pleasantly, too, to find Ann sitting behind the desk, instead of old Mr. Belcher. Ann lifted her brown eyes to him, and her soft red lips parted a little to show very white teeth.

"Well," said Adam, "where did you come from?"

"I'm the new office girl," said Ann with dignity.

"You mean you're going to be here right along?"

"If I make good . . ."

"You'll make good," said the tall blue-eyed man. "I'll give you all my business."

"That's wonderful," said Ann. "At least I hope it is."

"I hope it is, too," said Adam, laughing.

And the first thing both knew, he was sitting on the corner of her desk, talking Ann all about the house. It was to be for a man in a white shirt. It must sit flat on the ground with no stile and if there were ramps, they must be on very slight inclines, and—

He went on and on and didn't get any work done that morning, except that Ann's ideas, coupled with his own, had just about solved the problems of the house.

After that Adam visited Ann at her office frequently and soon came to believe he had fallen in love with her.

To Ann, Adam seemed the handsomest man on earth, the most thrilling; out of all the guys who would surely be ready to love him, and he liked her?

"This girl's different, son," Adam told himself. "She's a nice girl—sweet and decent and fine. You want to watch your step, boy."

They were in love, and for the rest of that summer, in the good clean smell of fresh-sawed lumber, and then surrounded by the sharp pungency of paint and varnish, they grew to know the warmth of their love, to cherish their familiarity with it and with each other.

In the house which he had built, he said to her one day: "We're going to get married, Ann."

She walked over to the easement windows and worked one of them. She wanted to marry Adam! But when could they live and on what? She'd had her mouth of sharing other people's homes. "I wish this were our house," she murmured.

He strode to her. "I'll build you a house!" he promised to see his own, but he said her so close that about all she could see was his chin. "Oh, Adam, could you?" she breathed.

"Sure could," he promised solemnly.

"Could you . . ." she broke off. Then, valiantly taking her courage in hand, she began again. If they were going to be married, she had a right to ask—to know—

"Could you afford it?" she asked.

Adam held her close. The way he felt about Ann—"I can afford anything you want, Ann," he said readily. "I may have a little trouble meeting my payroll, but for you—with you—even going broke means good."

It was lovers' talk, and Ann knew it. Relieved it.

That night it was black dark when he drove her to see a build-

Couple Is Honored

Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andersen, the former Miss Margaret Wilson, were honored by Mrs. Andersen's mother, Mrs. John Wilson, at a dinner in her home.

Decorations followed a bridal theme and an unusual arrangement were placed on the mantle consisting of sprays of camellias entwined with greenery.

Invited to enjoy the event were the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cowley, Miss Caroline McInnis, Angus McInnis, Mr. and Mrs. James Powell and the hosts.

Oklahoma Football Goliath

By ED COBBMAN
The Associated Press

Master of all it surveyed, Oklahoma today stood as the Goliath of college football for 1955.

But Wilkinson's 21st-ranked Sooners, 20-4 victors over Maryland in the Orange Bowl yesterday, won't bear the brunt of "weak schedules" for a long time to come.

As a member of the relatively weak Big Seven, Oklahoma plays a full conference schedule. As a result, the team sometimes does emerge as an underdog underdog.

The manner in which the Sooners managed Maryland, tightest major defensive outfit in the nation, before a crowd of 70,000 in Miami simply emphasized that they rated their No. 1 ranking.

Two years ago, Maryland had been voted the mythical national title, only to fall before Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl.

Two of the three other major bowls followed expectations. Michigan State shed out a final-sevenside victory over UCLA before 100,000 in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., 17-14, and Georgia Tech turned back Pitt 7-0 before 80,175 in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

Not so expected was Mississippi's 14-13 decision over Texas Christian in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas, with a gathering of 75,000 looking on.

In the second-line games, Missouri Valley and Juniper (7-0) fought to 6-6 tie in the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., Wyoming whipped Texas Tech 21-14 in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., and Prairie View State humbled Fisk 56-0 in the Prairie View Bowl at Houston, Tex.

Two of Oklahoma's three touchdowns were scored by second stringers—and the Sooners had to come from behind like champions to gain their triumph. Trailing 6-0 in the third period as a result of Ed Vereb's 15-yard jaunt in the second quarter, the Sooners tore Maryland apart with two scores in the third quarter and one in the fourth.

Oklahoma's skinny All America halfback Tommy McDonald notched the first score touchdown on a four-yard dash. Billy Preece converted and that was all that was needed. But Jay O'Neal went over from the 1 and Carl Dodd intercepted one of Lynn Beightol's passes and ran 28 yards for the final score.

"The teams were about even," acknowledged Wilkinson later. "We got the breaks and they didn't. We are not big and what we do is fast. The tension was off when we scored the first time we got the ball in the second half."

Maryland Coach Jim Tatum was lavish in his praise of the Sooners. "Oklahoma is the best college football team in the country," he said. "They were in better physical shape. They handled themselves better. They outthrusted us. They had too much speed."

But it remained for the Terps' All America center Bob Pellegrini to explain the whole thing. "They came out of their huddle 10 feet, we couldn't adjust our defenses to meet them," he said.

REVIEW OF THE YEAR—By Alan Mawer

Georgia Tech Wearing Crown At Jaunty Angle

By JAMES BARTON
NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Georgia Tech is wearing its fourth Sugar Bowl crown at a jaunty angle today, caring little about the arguments over the touchdown in its 7-0 victory over Pittsburgh.

Tech got two of the biggest breaks in its illustrious football history yesterday to whip Pitt, a stubborn team with power-laden running and dangerous passing that belied its role as a one-of-two-touchdown underdog.

The first break came when Pitt quarterback Pete Nelt fumbled and Tech guard Allen Kchow recovered on the Pitt 25 in the first quarter. The second came on the next play, when quarterback Wade Mitchell tossed toward end Don Ellis in the Pitt end zone.

Officials ruled that Pitt defensive back Bob Grier, the first Negro to play in the Sugar Bowl, pushed Ellis. They penalized Pitt for pass interference and placed the ball on the Pitt 1.

Mitchell banged over for the touchdown and converted for the winning margin.

Grier, sobbing in the dressing room, told newsmen the penalty "should have been called the other way. He pushed me from behind, that's why I fell forward."

Pictures of the final stages of the play show Grier flat on his stomach in front of Ellis, who is in the air reaching over Grier's body for the ball.

Game officials declined comment.

Tech Coach Bobby Dodd said "I couldn't see the play at all. Ellis told me Grier pushed him and I guess that was the way it was."

Pitt Coach John Michelosen said, "It could have been called either way."

There was equal disagreement among the 80,175 fans.

Tech's only other threat came in the fourth period on a sustained drive that carried from its 18 to the Pitt 7. At the point Pitt threw Tech for two straight losses before taking over when halfback Ray Dipaquie intercepted a Topsy Vann pass and returned it eight yards to the 11.

Guest Franklin Brooks of Tech, who helped stop the drive, was voted the most outstanding player by writers covering the game.

Field Goal Beats UCLA

By ROBERT E. VOGES
PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Sophomore end Dave Kaiser hadn't connected with a field goal for Michigan State before, but with just seven seconds left in the Rose Bowl game yesterday, he boomed one 41 yards to give the Spartans the 17-14 victory over UCLA.

The last previous time MSU controlled the ball, fullback Jerry Planutis had tried a field goal but failed. Many of the 100,000 spectators thought it was Planutis making another attempt.

But Coach Duffy Daugherty gambled on Kaiser, a 203-pounder who needs to wear contact lenses.

ISRAEL AND ARAB DIPPER ON PEACE FORMULAS

THE BOXES AT LEFT list five "concessions" Israel has informed the United States she is willing to make for Middle East peace. Arab sources claim these are not concessions at all, and list three essentials (boxes at right) for an over-all settlement. Western diplomats foresee no quick solution.

Reporter Relates Observations

Editor's Note—Lois Mitchellson is a 29-year-old British newspaper reporter and daughter of a Laborite member of Parliament. The Chinese Communists gave her permission to spend two months in Red China as a journalist. Her observations, related below for the Associated Press, were mailed to Hong Kong from Peiping.

By LOIS MITCHISON

PEIPING, China (AP)—I have spent an afternoon and two evenings with seven of the United Nations ex-POWs—six of them Americans—who chose to stay in Red China. They expect to return to their homes "sometime."

I had long talks with John R. Dunn, Baltimore; Andrew Fortune, Iowa, Mich.; Scott L. Rush, Marietta, Ohio; Samuel D. Hawkins, Oklahoma City; Clarence C. Adams, Memphis, Tenn.; Lawrence V. Sullivan, Omaha, Neb.; and Andrew Condron, Bathgate, Scotland, the only Briton among the voluntary expatriates.

Adams and Sullivan are Negroes. "I'm looking forward to going back," Sullivan said, "but I'm waiting until conditions are ripe. I want to be a good revolutionary... able to serve those people in America, while as well as Negro, I have seen experiencing bitterness."

"I'm going back when I'm sure no men in leather jackets are going to beat me up," Rush said.

Condron, the Briton, said that since "there's a lot of ignorance in the world and ignorance makes wars," he wanted to stay in China long enough to learn something about the country.

Why did these prisoners choose to stay in China? They gave different reasons.

Hawkins said he had joined the Army at 15, "more or less by accident. I had a quarrel with my sister over my automobile." He continued:

"Well, in Korea I'd heard all those stories about cruelty, about the way Chinese treated their prisoners. Then I was wounded when I was taken prisoner, and the first thing the Chinese did was take me straight to a base hospital."

Both Hawkins and Condron said they believed the Chinese charges the Americans were waging germ warfare.

"A large bomb was found in our camp," Hawkins said. "It was the prisoners who found it, not the guards. The insects inside the bombs had been mashed a bit and couldn't escape, so there were a lot of them lying around for us to see."

Rush said he had signed "peace petition after peace petition" in the prison camp. Then, he continued, after the "Little Switch" exchange of sick and wounded prisoners, he received his version of how the petition signers were treated:

"They were summoned by Sen. (Joseph R.) McCarthy (R-Wis) and the un-American committee. I just wanted peace, and I didn't want to be persecuted. So, naturally, I stayed."

(Only U.S. military authorities questioned returned authorities. They did not appear before the Senate Investigations Subcommittee or the House Committee on Un-American Activities.)

Sullivan and Adams said they had stayed in China because "Negroes were oppressed in America for economic reasons." Sullivan and Dunn referred to lynchings and the Ku Klux Klan in the South.

The ex-prisoners insisted they were not members of the Communist party but said they were sympathetic with its philosophy.

"I haven't got the qualifications for a Communist party member," Sullivan said, "but I'm working toward the qualifications. It's a glorious thing to be a member."

Fortune, recalling a lack of food at his home in his childhood and breadlines in the streets at Detroit, said he puzzled in camp over what "caused all that."

"Marxist philosophy solved my basic problems," he declared.

None of the former POWs are married or engaged. Fortune said in the household of the female Judith, who is the mother of Carol. (Repeat, mother of Carol.) Judith decides to marry the male, Kevin, whom she hates, and who, in turn hates Vanessa. They plan to recover Carol so that Judith can inherit a fortune from her father, who is not yet dead.

Next, in segment "Search for Tomorrow," there was much gossip about the collapse of a marriage. The segment distinct evidence of a housing shortage on earth since both the females involved with the male in question, who did not appear, were billeted in the same house.

Finally, a segment "Guiding Light" continued the depressed mood.

In summary, the earthlings appear to be afflicted by suspicion and gossip. The majority appear to want something they cannot have. Among them float a few detached personalities who either (A) try to obtain the impossible things for others or (B) urge them not to want the impossible.

The accumulating anxieties and tensions of the earthlings have affected the television monitors on this space ship to a marked degree. We urgently request rotation of this command so that we may return to Mars for rest and rehabilitation.

A male named Morris appeared and suggested that Mrs. Emerson tell her daughter she loved her. Mrs. Emerson did so. This apparently made Diane decide to marry Joey Gordon. There was no further examination of her fitness.

In segment "Love of Life" there was little love of it. The female they were "playing the field," Hawkins' friends said he has dates with an English-speaking Russian girl.

The seven ex-prisoners I met are studying "chinese and world history" at the People's University in Peiping. Four others were reported there: Harold H. Webb, Fort Pierce, Fla.; Morris R. Willis, Fort Ann, N.Y.; Richard G. Corde, East Providence, R.I.; and William C. White, Plummerville, Ark.

The other six American ex-GIs still in China—four have returned home and one died in this country—work at a paper factory at Taisan, 230 miles south of Peiping.

Employed as lathe operators or general workers are Lowell D. Skinner, Akron, Ohio; James G. Veneris, Hawthorne, Calif.; Aaron P. Wilson, Urania, La.; and Arlie H. Pate, Carbondale, Ill.

Radio-TV Highlights

NEW YORK (AP)—There's a good deal of masochistic imagination in space ships about 50 miles above this continent studying us. Americans.

It's his contention that the Martians have learned English from listening to the radio and only recently perfected a TV set. But because of the current riot of soap spots they're receiving only one hour a day—a daytime hour confined to soap opera. Since seeing anything they hear on the radio and base their estimates of us only on what they see.

The gentleman claims to have just intercepted this intelligence message back to Mars from Solar Space Ship G-2:

The anxiety of the earthlings increases daily as observed on Television CBS. Misunderstanding is rife among families and acquaintances. The mortals remain within their homes, which are installed with moody music. There is much tears and anger and seldom any laughter. Observe one hour.

In the segment of life called "Villiant Lady" the question was whether the female known as Diane Emerson was fit to mate with the male known as Joey Gordon, who did not appear. The girl, talking with her mother, was remorseful about the past. Perhaps she had been indiscreet, for in the background were the squaws of an infant. We shall attempt to ascertain this in the future.

A male named Morris appeared and suggested that Mrs. Emerson tell her daughter she loved her. Mrs. Emerson did so. This apparently made Diane decide to marry Joey Gordon. There was no further examination of her fitness.

The seven ex-prisoners I met are studying "chinese and world history" at the People's University in Peiping. Four others were reported there: Harold H. Webb, Fort Pierce, Fla.; Morris R. Willis, Fort Ann, N.Y.; Richard G. Corde, East Providence, R.I.; and William C. White, Plummerville, Ark.

The other six American ex-GIs still in China—four have returned home and one died in this country—work at a paper factory at Taisan, 230 miles south of Peiping.

Employed as lathe operators or general workers are Lowell D. Skinner, Akron, Ohio; James G. Veneris, Hawthorne, Calif.; Aaron P. Wilson, Urania, La.; and Arlie H. Pate, Carbondale, Ill.

Army Experiments With New One-Man Flying Machine

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army is experimenting with a new one-man flying machine which it says a infantryman can learn to pilot in 20 minutes.

Twelve of the contraptions, called "aerocycles," have been bought for tests that are part of the Army's continuing effort to increase the mobility of foot soldiers.

The Army said yesterday the machines were purchased from machine by leaning in the direct Delackner Helicopter, Inc., Mount Vernon, N.Y., which developed them.

The aerocycle bears a resemblance to a platform plane. The pilot stands on a platform and the Navy's "flying platform" over rotor blades and guides the lion he wants to go. Speeds up to 63 miles an hour are attained by manipulating a hand trolley.

Modern airliners require a reserved block of air space almost 30 miles long, during instrument flight, as a safeguard against collision.

Easing The Burden Of Some Illnesses

KIDS get a treat when they go to the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia for urinary tract X-rays.

Drs. John W. Hope and Francisco Campney are using carbonated beverages in the picture taking.

Children are given nothing to eat for ten to twelve hours prior to the visit to the hospital. Upon their arrival, a preliminary X-ray is taken.

Overlapping Shadows

When the youngsters are given from six to 12 ounces of a beverage. Generally, within 15 minutes to half an hour, the gas has distended the stomach enough to push away from the kidneys all overlapping shadows. And a clear picture is made.

The method does not work on youngsters over the age of eight. If you are like most of us, you don't show hard enough, say two Columbia University dentists.

Drs. Hans N. Neumann and Charles A. De Haven used their x-ray beams to show that the method is better than our nation's balanced diet.

Both depend upon frequent urination and a dose of about 10 pounds of fresh, dry, or frozen sugar. "Sugar" means glucose, sucrose, and maltose, or more than 50 pounds of products, they say.

And what is a "carb sandwich?" They describe it as "a giant-size sandwich made from an entire loaf of crusty Italian bread." Seems to me your jaws would get pretty tired!

Equivalency Tests Set For Next Week At Seminole High

General Educational Development Tests for a High School Equivalency Diploma will be given next Monday and Tuesday on the top floor of the Seminole County Court House beginning at 9 a. m. Applicants for these tests must be a resident of the State of Florida and at least 20 years of age. Applicants must also pass a preliminary examination on American history and government before being allowed to take the regular battery of five tests. The G. E. D. tests are in the areas of literature, English, mathematics, social studies and the natural sciences. The G. E. D. tests are supervised by the State Department of Education and administered by an approved local director of testing. The State High School Equivalency Diploma constitutes the legal equivalent of a high school diploma and can be accepted by employers and training agencies as such. It bears the signature of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and that of the Director of Adult and Vocational Education. The purpose of this equivalency testing program is that many educationally mature veterans, servicemen and non-veteran adults in the state who, for one reason or another, have not had the opportunity to complete formal requirements for high school graduation. Many such persons, through reading, travel, self-directed study, and the practical experience of life, have reached a level of educational competence comparable to that required for high school graduation. Since these people cannot afford to spend the required amount of time in classroom attendance, they are not able to have their competence certified through the traditional unit diploma pattern.

Anyone who can meet the requirements for taking these tests or who is interested in further information may contact Fred C. Murray, Director of the Seminole County Testing Center. His office is located on the top floor of the Court House and the telephone number is 665.

Fee Hike Request Presented To Board Of Commissioners

A request to increase the fee for a Master Plumber's examination from $10 to $50 was presented to the Board of City Commissioners last night with the explanation that the request was made to "make it equal with the fee for an electrician and to bring it in line with the surrounding communities."

City Clerk H. N. Sayer explained that the Plumber's Code was adopted in 1926 and the fee was set at the same time. He also stated that the electrician's code and fee was set in 1928.

City Commissioner Earl Higginbotham objected to the raise in fee because "I don't believe a man should be taxed out of working."

"It's not the money, it's the tax," that gives us good master plumbers said Commissioner John Krider.

Pointing to the difference between the two codes, City Clerk Sayer said that the Electrical Code was a national code adopted by the City and the Plumbing Code was worked up by a local committee.

Commissioner Higginbotham said, "I question the feasibility of the electrician's fee and I still question the taxing of man's right to work. I am opposed to suppressing competition."

Commissioner Jack Ratigan said, "From the discussion by the Board I suggest that the request be tabled because of the lack of information warranting the increase."

The suggestion was adopted unanimously by the commission-

Commissioner F. D. Scott was elected Mayor of the City of Sanford last night by the Board of City Commissioners.

Mayor Scott said, as he took over the chair, "I will do the best I can in the interest of the City to promote harmony within the commission."

Commissioner David Gatchel was sworn in by City Clerk H. N. Sayer prior to the election of the Mayor. Gatchel was chosen as temporary chairman of the Board and immediately called for nominations for Mayor.

Commissioner Scott was nominated by Commissioner Jack Ratigan and Commissioner John Krider was nominated by Commissioner Earl Higginbotham.

Scott was elected to the office of Mayor through a technicality in voting when it was declared that those not voting automatically voted for the candidate receiving the majority of votes for the office.

Commissioner Scott will serve as Mayor for one year, according to the City Charter, unless re-elected to the office by a unanimous vote of the Board of City Commissioners at its first meeting in January of 1937.

Dentists To Attend Orlando Confab

Your dentist may be absent from his practice on Monday, Jan. 9.

If so, he probably will be attending lectures in Orlando to keep abreast of some of the latest developments in the dental profession.

The lectures are to be given at the winter meeting of the Central District Dental Society of Florida, which covers 10 leading counties of the state.

The president-elect of the national-wide American Dental Association, Dean Harry Lyons of the School of Dentistry, Medical College of Virginia, will be the honored guest and lecturer on Periodontia — diseases of the gums and other tissues surrounding the teeth.

Another honored guest-speaker will be Dr. Thomas A. Price of Miami, president of the Florida State Dental Society of 1,100 dentist members.

Other speakers on Periodontia include Drs. Richard Chase, Frank Scott, and M. J. Calbeck, all of Florida.

President at the meeting will be Dr. Wayne C. McCall of Ocala, president of the Central District Society.

Local dentists planning to attend the meeting include: Dr. J. W. Epps, Dr. A. W. Epps, Jr., Dr. A. W. Epps Sr., Dr. H. W. Rucker, Dr. Harry S. Woodruff, and Dr. L. D. Brown.

Approval Is Sought For Right-Of-Way

Approval of 50 foot right-of-way for streets in the "Lake of the Woods" subdivision proposed for a 17-92 Seminole County site was requested this morning by Senator Douglas Stenstrom representing Charles Clayton of Clayton Realty Company.

County Attorney Mack N. Cleveland Jr., reporting to the Board of County Commissioners relative to the approval said, "in view of the intent of the Legislature and the many subdivisions that are being developed in Seminole County, it would be my opinion that it would be all right to revert back to the 50 foot right of way."

"I am fully convinced," said Cleveland, "that the next session of the Legislature will remedy the situation."

"Consequently," he said, "I think that it would be all right to revert back to the former right of way with."

County Attorney Cleveland further said that "where there is a deadend, a 50 foot right of way would be all right if there is proper drainage."

Clayton, developer of Lake of the Woods told the commissioners that "we plan to use a road easement to put in storm sewers underground that will drain into the lake."

John Meisch, former chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, said "this doesn't have anything to do with the road code. It is a Seminole County Plat Law adopted in 1933."

Senator Stenstrom asked the commissioners if they would be willing to approve the right of way on the promise that County Surveyor also approve the drainage and storm sewers.

Commissioner Meisch said, "I am not going to argue the intent of the legislature but the law says 66 feet. On a 50 foot right-of-way, I am going to insist on storm sewers and curb and gutters."

The Board of Commissioners, on a motion by Commissioner B. C. Dodd, agreed to approve a plat of the subdivision provided that the curb and gutters as well as storm sewers met the approval of County Surveyor M. C. Hagen.

The local pro explained that a Scotch Foursome includes a man and woman golfer playing together with one golf ball but alternate shots.

Armstrong said that Ray Heron, local golfer, shot a hole in one at the Mayfair Inn course last week on the No. 5 hole using a five iron.

Agencies Are Slow In Replying To Law

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—The secretary of state's office said today many state agencies, boards and commissions haven't complied with a new state law requiring them to file copies of their rules and regulations by Jan. 1.

The law was designed to lift some of the secrecy in government and provide easier access to rules and regulations adopted by the numerous governmental bodies.

The law required that every rule and regulation adopted by any state department, board or commission after Jan. 1, and affecting the rights of the public, had to be filed with the secretary of state's office before it could become effective.

County Judge Says Children, Guns Giving Trouble

"We're having all kinds of trouble with children playing with BB guns, air rifles and 22 rifles," said Juvenile Judge Ernest Housholder this morning.

"Many reports are coming in to us," Judge Housholder said, "and each report must be investigated."

Housholder explained that "the use of BB guns, air rifles and 22 rifles by children under 16 years of age subjects these children to the Juvenile Court."

"Property is being damaged and lives are endangered by the flagrant disregard of the laws of our state in regards to the use of the seemingly harmless playthings that are always among the gifts for children at Christmas," said Housholder.

"We do not want to be harsh or subject the children to undue punishment in these cases," the Judge said. But, he explained, we have State Laws guiding the use of such rifles and ammunition, laws which were adopted by our Legislature in 1931.

According to the Florida Statutes, Housholder commented, whoever discharges a firearm on a highway or within 300 yards of any persons premises without the owners consent is declared to be a misdemeanor.

The Statutes continue, the use for any purpose whatsoever of a children under 16 years of age BB gun, air rifle or 22 rifle by must be under the supervision of adults.

Judge Housholder said, "although Christmas is the time for gifts, and usually includes such gifts as BB guns, air rifles and 22 rifles, parents are urged to carry their supervision of children and the use of such weapons throughout the year."

Property Owner Asks For Damages

A Chuluota property owner suggested to the Board of Seminole County Commissioners yesterday that damages to his car be paid by the county.

Ludomil W. Morski, owner of property in Chuluota told the commissioners yesterday that he was coming across the Econlockhatchee Bridge between Chuluota and Geneva when he saw a plank sticking up and had to turn to avoid it.

According to Morski frost or dampness on the bridge caused him to skid off the bridge and seriously damage his car.

He suggested to the commissioners that he should be reimbursed for the damages.

However, Seminole County Attorney Mack N. Cleveland Jr. advised the complainant that there was no county responsibility involved.

Four Deputy Sheriffs bonds were approved by the Board of Commissioners yesterday. They were Deputy Sheriffs Bonds for R. C. Whitten, Nash B. Kennedy, R. L. Smith, and J. D. Warren.

A 35-year-old Winter Park negro pool room operator was taken into custody last night by Seminole County Sheriff Denver Cordell and Deputy Sheriff James Singletary and lodged in the County Jail charged with attempted rape of a Seminole County white woman.

The negro, Gilbert Brookins, 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighing 213 pounds, according to Sheriff Cordell, followed a car driven by an Altamonte Springs single woman, pulled up alongside of her car, and then ran her off the road hooking her back bumper.

The 35-year-old woman says that the negro got hold of her but she broke away and ran. She attempted to get the license tag number of the negro's car and was caught again. However, the woman said she obtained the license tag number and again broke away from the heavy negro and ran for help.

The attempted rape took place about one mile west of Altamonte Springs on a deserted dirt road that goes to San Lando Springs.

Deep ruts, tire tracks, and sand piles were left at the scene where the negro was forced to jack his car out of the deep sand and clay where it became imbedded when he attempted to turn his car around.

Sheriff Cordell says that the successful arrest of the negro can be attributed to the radio network that provided him with the identification of the negro man taken by the woman, the husky negro attempted to rape.

A Longwood woman, who was raped by a negro on Oct. 6, came to the Seminole County Jail and identified Brookins in a six-man lineup as the man who raped her on the Longwood Road. A woman of Brookins in the both cases were identical. However, no complaint has been filed on Brookins which stems from the Oct. 6 case.

Fletcher Jones, 35-year-old Sanford negro, who is being held on charges of criminal attack on a 27-year-old Orlando nurse is still confined in the Seminole County Jail.

Brookins was brought in the Seminole County Jail after an all-night investigation by Sheriff Cordell and Deputy Sheriff Singletary.

The Altamonte Springs woman, when she broke loose from Brookins ran for help and notified Homer Sewell, Altamonte Springs Constable who immediately came to the scene of the attempted attack.

Brookins was driving a very light green 1934 Plymouth car which bears the damage when he hooked bumpers with the woman's car.

ROUTINE RUN

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Patrolman Gene Hayes considered it a routine run Sunday when he delivered Margie Baker to a hospital, where she died of a cerebral hemorrhage.

It was all in a day's work too when on Monday he delivered Magdelene Baker, who had collapsed on a sidewalk, to the hospital. She was pronounced dead of a heart attack.

He learned yesterday they were 15-year-old twin sisters.
