Going, going, gone

A Longwood landmark, a 7,500-gallon water tank weighing 10 tons was toppled Tuesday from its lower located on County Road 427 at Bay Avenue. Gary Harmon, 34-year-old steepjack from Lakeland, one of two employees of Security Maintenance Co. of Henderson, Ky., cut the internal supports of the tank and its wall, and dropped it where he wanted it to land. The company will finish dismantling the structure over the next few days. The 63-year-old water tower has been empty since 1982 after it was taken out of service because it leaked. An effort to preserve it as a historic landmark failed because of the high cost of refurbishing and maintaining it—and the danger of it blowing down in a hurricane—compared to the $8,950 to tear it down.

Korman drops out of county race

Jerry Korman, Longwood attorney, citing "personal reasons," has decided not to challenge Seminole County commission incumbent Fred Streetman Bob Webster for the Republican nomination for the District 3 seat and

Jeff Eichenberger, a Longwood city consultant, said he is considering running for the nomination, but has made no final decision.

Streetman has raised $25,255 for his campaign, compared to Korman's $2,660, of which $2,000 was a personal loan. Korman said that was a factor in his decision not to run, but not the major one.

Sanford boaters lost in the Gulf

By Wayne Mize
Herald Staff Writer

CLEARWATER — The search for two Sanford residents lost at sea when their boat capsized in the Gulf of Mexico over the weekend continues today off Florida's west coast.

Robert Sprague, 56, and his son David, 30, both of Sanford, along with passengers Frank Clemente, 25, of Tampa, and a unknown female passenger have been missing since Saturday.

Robert Sprague's 23-foot cabin cruiser, the "Dew Drop", was found capsized approximately 50 miles from Clearwater at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday by a Coast Guard helicopter.

No sign of the boaters was found after a thorough search of the boat and surrounding area by the Coast Guard.

Robert Sprague is a carpentry teacher at Lake Mary High School where he has worked since 1981. David is a cabinet maker.

"We haven't heard any more,"

Robert Sprague's daughter Cheryl Cloyd, said today. "The last contact we had (with the Coast Guard) was last night (Tuesday) at about 9 o'clock. They said the search would begin this morning at daybreak and last until it gets dark."

Speaking from her parents' residence at 109 Waits Drive,

Cloyd, 29, of Deltona, said little is known about the other two passengers.

"We really don't know who they are," said Cheryl. "I know one (Clemente) worked with my brother and we think he is from Tampa. We think the woman

Firm seeks garbage service rate increase

LONGWOOD—The city commission has scheduled another work session for June 6 to discuss a $1.37-per-month increase for residential garbage service. The increase was requested by Industrial Waste Service (IWS), and customers protesting the rate increase have been assured they will have a chance to voice their opinion.

Commissioners were presented with IWS's request for an increase from $7.42 to $8.79 at a Monday work session. They were told that even with the proposed increase, Longwood's fee would still be the lowest in Central Florida. The city gets $1 per month per customer as a franchise tax.

IWS is also recommending a one-time fee of $10 for each new resident be initiated to cover the removal of move-in boxes and debris.

Officials handed the company representative back copies of the firm's operating cost figures after he said they were confidential and not to be revealed. He was told that any information given the commission is considered public and his suggestion that the figures be discussed in private with the commission at a later date could not be accepted. They told him such a meeting

City-county law prevalence debated

By J. Mark Barfield
Herald Staff Writer

CASSELBERRY — Members of the Seminole County Charter Advisory Committee decided to hold off their decision of whether county laws should prevail over city ordinances until city officials can comment.

Although many of the members said city laws should prevail when a conflict arises between city and county laws, many of the members also think there are issues of such county-wide importance, such as the environment, over which the county should retain ultimate jurisdiction.

"You don't want to give the county a wide range of power," said committee member David McIntosh, a city appointee. "You would create a problem with acceptance. It would be a sure way to scuttle the charter in the polls."

"I'm against anything that supercedes the cities," said committee member Gene Duffy.

Deputy rebuked for helping in campaign

By Susan Loden

SANFORD — Seminole County Sheriff's Capt. Beau Taylor has knuckled under to a demand by Sheriff John Polk that he divorce himself from the political campaign of a candidate for Citrus County sheriff. Polk, in an April 19 letter to Taylor, ordered him to disassociate himself from the campaign of Richard Eary or face the possibility of being fired or another form of "severe discipline."

Taylor said today the issue has been blown out of proportion and he and Polk and Eary all want it to die. Polk agreed today.

"As far as I'm concerned it's a deal issue. It never was anything to begin with," Taylor said. He added, "It's unfortunate Dean is getting bad publicity over this," referring to Citrus County Sheriff Charles Dean.

Taylor said a call from Dean to Polk complaining about Taylor attending a political dinner in Citrus County for Eary brought Polk's reprimand. "If he wasn't in a policy-making position he could do what he wants to do," Polk said. However, Polk said, as a leader in his department, when Taylor speaks for or advises a candidate

Longwood kids' persistence brings change in park rules

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Never underestimate the power—or persistence—of a kid. The children of Highland Hills subdivision organized a spontaneous sit-in about a month ago to protest a sign posted by the city in their neighborhood park to restrict hours and activities. But no one anticipated just how determined they were and how far they were willing to take their cause.

Monday night they prevailed over unbending city officials and committees by getting the city commission to let city parks stay open later.

The commission authorized City Attorney Michael Kramer to draw up an ordinance changing the closing time from 8:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. for all city parks. It all started when the Highland Hills children came home from school one day to be confronted with a sign proclaiming: "No Pets, No Alcohol, No Firearms, No Golf, Etc.," and establishing hours from 7 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. DST. They summed up the regulations in two words—"No Fun" and wrote them on a sign of their own.

They found the "Etc." so ambiguous that they were unsure just what they could and could not do, and the sign said violators would be immediately arrested.

Nadine Tolos' 7-year-old son, Perry, was one of the spokesmen for the neighborhood youths. She said after the children discovered the new sign, they set up lawn chairs in the park for a sit-in, but after 1 1/2 hours, she suggested that "sit-ins don't accomplish much unless the other side knows what you are doing." According to Parks and Recreation Director Bill Goebel, the sign has holes drilled in it so a plate can be bolted over to change the closing to 6 p.m. when the time reverts to Eastern Standard next fall.

Because it stays light later now, the approximately 30 youngsters ranging in age from 5 to 15 like to play outside until 9 p.m. if their parents let them. Two weeks ago they obtained signatures on a petition asking for the sign to be taken down or changed to say from dawn to dusk. They were able to get signatures of representatives of 71 of the 83 families living in their subdivision.

Perry, accompanied Sara Dexter, 12, and Mike Nelson, 13, when they presented the petition to the commission at the April 18 meeting. They also asked the commissioners for two more swings in the park, which now See KIDS, page 12A

IN BRIEF

Four men face cocaine charges after attempted sale to agents

LONGWOOD — Four men were jailed after a reputed sale of cocaine to agents of the City County Investigative Bureau at a Longwood home late Tuesday.

A resident of the home at 781 E. Logan Drive, who allegedly delivered the cocaine and then fought with agents, John Edward Gluhan, 40, has been charged with battery on a policeman and resisting arrest with violence in addition to facing charges of sale, delivery, and possession of cocaine and criminal conspiracy.

In addition, Mike Francesa Gluhan, 42, of the same address has been charged with possession of cocaine and criminal conspiracy along with Dana Margaret Viola, 24, of 757 E. Logan St.

Charles Ronald Robinson, 38, of 111 Sabal Court, Winter Springs, who along with John Gluhan allegedly delivered $120 worth of cocaine to the undercover CCIB agent, has been charged with sale, delivery and possession of cocaine and criminal conspiracy.

Gluhan and Viola allegedly watched as the other two suspects allegedly sold the agent two grams of cocaine. After the deal the four reportedly prepared to use cocaine as other agents moved in and made the arrests. The four were being held in lieu of $2,000 bond each.

Argument leads to man's arrest

LONGWOOD — A man who allegedly threatened and battered his wife and fired a gun while at his home remains jailed today in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Ronald L. Bash, 22, of 133 Clyde St., Longwood, faces charges of aggravated assault, battery and discharging a firearm in public. He was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies at his home at about 8:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Bash's wife, Gracie, fled from their home, taking her teen-age daughter with her after Bash allegedly attacked and threatened her with a gun during an argument. She ran to another home and called sheriff's deputies.

While deputies were questioning her at 142 Burns Ave., they reported hearing three or four shots fired at her home. Deputies went there and confronted Bash, who was arrested. Deputies reported finding spent shells around the home and a gun inside the house after Mrs. Bash gave them permission to search the residence. She reportedly said she was afraid her husband was going to kill her when he ordered her out of their home a few minutes before his arrest.

Forgery charges filed

LONGWOOD — A Sanford man who allegedly tried to cash a forged check for $600 has been arrested on charges of uttering a forged instrument and attempted grand theft.

Longwood police arrested Boky Hee Lee, 19, of 107 Amelia Ave., Monday at First Union Bank, 120 U.S. Highway 17-92.

Lee reportedly presented a check to a First Union teller on a drive-thru lane along with his driver's license. A balance inquiry on the account turned up a code that required further verification. In verifying the check, the teller's computer showed the check as having been reported stolen, police report.

Lee was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Man 'breaks' cocaine law

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A traffic stop based on a broken brake light in a known drug-dealing area of rural Altamonte Springs has brought a charge of possession of cocaine against a 20-year-old Winter Park man.

Tony Lewis Ellis, of 1849 Azalea Ave., was charged with driving with a suspended license before a Seminole County sheriff's deputy focused a flashlight into Ellis' pickup truck stopped on North Street. The deputy reported seeing a piece of crack cocaine on the floor of the truck. It was recovered and the cocaine charge was added against Ellis at about 10:04 p.m. Monday. Bond was set at $2,000.

Cash taken from delivery truck

SANFORD — A bag containing $120 in cash receipts was taken from a Royal Crown Cola delivery truck Tuesday evening, according to police reports.

The unlocked truck was parked in front of Richey's Market at 5:30 p.m. when the theft occurred. Driver Thomas Black discovered the theft upon returning from a delivery at the store. Police are still investigating.

Thief walks out with television

SANFORD — Miller's Satellite & Television shop, 2619 Orlando Drive, was robbed of a small television Tuesday morning, valued at $150. The thief reportedly walked out the front door with the television, according to the police report. The suspect was last seen walking south on Orlando Drive.

Sharp thieves get away with $1,175 in knives

From staff reports
 The Seminole County sheriff's department is investigating the work of some pretty sharp thieves who made off with over 30 knives, four of which comprised a Randall Knives set valued at $1,175, during an Oviedo robbery.

Margaret Duval of 4900 Barriella Road reported the four knives, along with 30 others of undetermined value, missing when she returned home Saturday. According to police reports, a portable radio valued at $100 was also taken during the burglary.

In other burglary and theft cases:
 • Seminole County sheriff's deputies have the name of a suspect who may be responsible for the theft of two televisions, a voltmeter, a staple gun and a video recorder service manual from Royald Enterprises, Inc., 6275 S. Sylvan Lake Drive, Sanford. The total value of the loss is about $800. Owner Rooney L. Leyer reported the theft Monday and said it occurred Friday or Saturday.

WEATHER

Five-Day Forecast For Central Florida

Don't fertilize on Mother's Day

By Fred H. Cooper
Herald Staff Writer

So you're even now making your plans for Mother's Day. Remember, it's Sunday. If you're planning some real nice outdoor activity such as a ballgame or fishing, you'll be happy to know that it won't rain. And the sun will be sunny. Temperatures? Probably in the mid-80s.

If you were planning to let Mother fertilize the lawn or something else equally constructive, forget it. It'll just burn up the grass without water, or bankrupt you with sprinkling costs. So just grow weeds and take mom out for a change.

Folks everywhere are envious of our weather. In fact, talk up north is about the great conditions in Seminole County. No fooling. Clear, blue skies, warm sun, collish nights for sleeping without air-conditioning. However, the downside for locals is the lack of water. Maybe, just a tiny maybe, there may be a sprinkle tomorrow afternoon. A front will be passing but most likely its moisture will drop on the Panhandle and miss us completely. However, the 20 percent odds are better than we've had most days. It definitely will mean an increase in humidity, which can be either good or bad.

If you're wondering, the highest high in the 48 contiguous states fondly known as the mainland was at Laredo with a 98 degree reading. Lowest low? Why, Yellowstone Park, with a reading of 20 degrees.

But Yellowstone was on eof the exceptions in the Rocky Mountain area as spring really has arrived.

It's mellow in the Rockies after the snow dumped by a freak storm melted and temperatures reached the 60s and 70s throughout the country.

Temperatures in the 50s are predicted today for the Pacific Northwest and the mercury is expected to climb into the 90s in the desert areas of Arizona and the Rio Grande valley, according to the National Weather Service.

Showers and thunderstorms are expected to be scattered across parts of Ohio and northern areas of the southern Atlantic region and the Pacific Northwest, particularly in Oregon, the weather service said.

Hundreds of motorists stranded by the storm in the Rockies got back on the road Tuesday, as showers and thunderstorms swept across the nation's midsection.

Temperatures rose into the 50s in Colorado and southeast Wyoming, where about a foot of snow fell in the foothills Monday. Denver received 2 inches and wind gusts to 40 mph.

Interstate 70 in eastern Colorado reopened about 1 a.m. Tuesday, and hundreds of stranded travelers got back on the road after spending the night in Burlington, Colo., which received 6 inches of snow.

Afternoon showers and thunderstorms, some packing hail, stretched eastern South Dakota across the Missouri and Mississippi valleys into western Tennessee. The heaviest thunderstorms occurred in Missouri, eastern Kansas and northern Arkansas.

(Reports by United Press International and data provided by the National Weather Service were used in compiling this report.)

The Seminole Dog Fanciers' Association, Inc., will offer a new eight-week session of basic dog obedience classes beginning Thursday, May 12. Classes are held at the Casselberry Recreation Center in Secret Lake Park on Ivey Road in Casselberry. Registration begins at 7 p.m. and training at 7:30 p.m. Tuition is $45 and discounts are available for dogs adopted from the Humane Society or Seminole County Animal Control. Registrants may also purchase required training equipment at registration. Advanced obedience classes, including preparation for all levels of AKC obedience competition, are also offered by SDFA on Thursday nights. For further information, please contact Eva Matheny, president of the club at 332-1952.

Lottery officials mull fining computer firm

TAMPA (UPI) — State Lottery Secretary Rebecca Paul is assessing the possibility of fining Control Data Corp. for failure to get the entire computerized lottery system in operation on time. The Tampa Tribune reported Tuesday.

The contract the state signed with Control Data Corp. Jan. 8 required 3,100 terminals be in operation by April 25. The Lotto and Cash 3 games began Friday, four days after the deadline, but at times as many as 900 terminals weren't working, officials said.

The contract with the Minneapolis firm provides for a fine of up to $600 a day for each terminal that doesn't work.

"We'll see where we are at the end of the week," Paul said Monday.

But she said she thought the first few days of operation had gone relatively well, "considering the complexity of the network we're setting up."

"We went through a lot of trouble to make sure there weren't any glitches," Marcel Helou, vice president of sales for Control Data's automated wagering division, told The Tribune. "It's just taking a little bit longer to work out the glitches."

He said the company is using several hundred workers to get the system fully operational, and said the problem frequently lies in the connections between individual terminals and the lottery's statewide telephone network.

"The glitches are caused by all kinds of things," said lottery spokesman Ed George. "Maybe we didn't train the retailers good enough and they didn't train their employees good enough. Some of these things are, frankly, very complicated. There's a lot more to it than scratching a ticket."

Helou said the glitches weren't unusual for states starting computerized games. Control Data operates computerized lotteries in six other states.

But John Schade, a spokesman for the California Lottery told The Tribune, there were no significant problems getting that state's system working when its 4,600-terminal system went on-line in October 1986.

"Our basic problem was informing people how to play and where to play the game," he said. "We didn't have any major system problems."

Schade said in 18 months he can remember only two times when the system slowed down during peak buying times. California's computerized games are operated by GTECH Corp. of Providence, R.I.

George said as of midday Monday, 656 of the 3,142 terminals weren't working, and at that rate, Control Data could be fined up to $1.2 million for the first three days of the lottery.

The five-year contract provides for Control Data to receive 2.89 cents for every $1 in Lotto and Cash 3 tickets. In the first three days, Control Data's share would be nearly $60,000.

"That's a question between the lottery, their lawyers and our lawyers," Helou said when asked about the possibility of a fine. "That all has to be looked at by the lottery when the dust settles."

No easy way to reach the worst

We share U.S. Education Secretary William Bennett's frustration over how to educate the "worst 5 or 10 percent" of the public school students, but we have some reservations about his proposal to have them enroll in the nation's Catholic schools, which would then receive state or local funds for educating them.

The proposal immediately runs into constitutional problems that would result from the use of public funds to pay for the education of students in private, religious schools.

Apart from that major hurdle, however, is the question of whether Catholic schools could do a better job of educating these students than have the public schools. There is no question that the nation's Catholic schools have done an outstanding job educating their 2.5 million students, including the 22 percent of minority students, many of whom live in the inner city where public schools have often failed.

Having acknowledged that, however, can we now jump to the conclusion that Catholic schools could do a better job with the "worst 5 or 10 percent" of the public school students? No. In comparing private schools in general with public schools we often overlook a fundamental difference between the two systems—that public schools are required by law to accept any student who walks into the classroom while private schools select who is admitted. Private schools can and do quickly expel troublemakers while public schools must go through a more cumbersome expulsion process that usually results in more classroom disruption.

Private school students in Catholic and other facilities are usually more motivated because their parents must make a substantial effort to keep them in the school—whether they pay tuition, arrange for a scholarship, or participate in school and/or church activities. Parental motivation and higher expulsion rates have played significant roles in those instances where inner-city public schools have had spectacular success in raising achievement levels.

Public and private educators, however, still have yet to discover how to educate the student who does not want to learn or even be in school and whose parents do not care whether their child goes to class. When it is discovered how such students can be motivated, both public and private schools may be able to reach the "worst 5 or 10 percent."

'Magma Carta'

The conflict between church and state has risen to new heights in Hawaii.

Native worshippers of the goddess Pele are protesting a project to tap geothermal energy from a 9,000-acre section of the island of Hawaii. They say the goddess represents "the magma, the heat, the vapor, the steam and the cosmic creations that occur in volcanic eruptions."

They fear that building "a spider web of pipelines, roads and geothermal plants...would by accepted religious doctrine destroy the goddess Pele."

The U.S. Supreme Court has refused to hear their appeal to stop the project.

Will Pele strike back with an eruption of lava?

Senate bill just scratches the surface

By Steve Gerstel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With prideful boasts and self-congratulations, the Senate passed a bill prohibiting former members from lobbying their old colleagues and Cabinet members for a year.

This infliction is already in effect for officials who leave the executive branch — has been in somewhat different form since 1978 — and may well lead to former White House aides Lyn Nofziger's and Michael Deaver's taking up residence in federal prisons.

Nofziger has been convicted of violating the anti-lobbying law and Deaver for lying about his lobbying activities.

The law, however, never covered members of Congress who, once out of office frequently take up lobbying as a lucrative hobby and habitate Capitol Hill as if they were still in office.

There is a Senate rule that prohibits former senators from lobbying the Senate for year, but if anyone has been caught, it remains a secret. There is no punishment involved, of course.

"I think this is a signal day in the history of the U.S. Senate," Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, intoned. "The Senate has unanimously passed a piece of legislation indicating that it wants to reform some of its own procedures, and the Senate has said unanimously that members of this body are to be governed by some of the same rules that are applicable to other people in government."

The only "signal" element of the bill's passage is that it came 10 years after anti-lobbying prohibitions were slapped on everyone else in the government and underscored, if the topic needs underscoring, that Congress has exempted itself again and again from laws which apply to all other Americans.

What's good for the country is not necessarily good for the U.S. Senate and the U.S. House.

Congress has exempted itself from civil rights and labor laws, including the 1964 Civil Rights Act, the 1972 Equal Employment Opportunity Act, the Civil Service Reform Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Equal Pay Act, and the Occupational Safety and Health Act.

Congress and members of Congress can with impunity discriminate on the basis of sex, race, age, religion or anything else that comes to mind. They can and do stuff employees into virtual closets that would not pass the minimal health and safety standards.

Congress can, and does, bury workers in the bowels of their office buildings and work them 70 hours a week with no overtime, and nothing requires them to give women equal pay with men for equal work.

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., used passage of the anti-lobbying law as a jumping-off spot to launch another of his efforts to at least stretch current laws on employment protections to Capitol workers.

"This double standard is a plain injustice to those who make our work possible," Leahy said. "It is an embarrassment to us all."

Leahy noted the employment laws taken together spell out civil, social, physical and economic working rights and standards "for all Americans — except if they work for Congress."

Rhetoric worries NATO

BRUSSELS (NEA) — Our NATO allies are closely following the 1988 campaign in the United States, and it's making them very nervous.

As they see it, the whole future of the NATO alliance may rest on the policies of the man who takes over the Oval Office next January. And they are afraid that the new president — whoever he may be — may try to weaken the U.S. commitment to NATO.

On the surface, NATO seems to have survived the tremors that ran through it as a result of the INF treaty President Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev signed last winter.

NATO's whole defense strategy calls for NATO and the United States to counter any Soviet invasion of Western Europe with first tactical, then intermediate range, and if necessary, strategic nuclear weapons.

When the treaty banning intermediate-range weapons was announced, many in NATO feared it would lead to a "decoupling" of the United States from Europe's defense. Gone would be that link between battlefield nuclear weapons and the massive strategic weapons whose use signal all-out nuclear war. With the link gone, the United States could conceivably turn its back on Europe.

Since the summit, U.S. officials have tried to assure NATO that our commitment to Europe's defense has not wavered. And we have pledged to beef up our conventional forces in Europe.

NATO leaders are even more concerned about what they hear from all the candidates about the need for the United States to cut back in its financial commitment to NATO and for European countries to pay for a greater share of their own defense. And these statements are coming from all the candidates, including Vice President George Bush.

But fair or unfair, NATO is deeply worried that the mood in the U.S. is such that the next administration — be it Democratic or Republican — will cut back in the U.S. commitment to NATO and will insist on higher military budgets in Europe, something that is all but politically impossible in many of the countries. This, they believe, will lead to troubled times for the alliance.

Inspection system may ignore hazards

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — The beef you toss on the grill this summer may be stamped "USDA Government Inspected," but don't believe it. A few of those T-bone steaks will come from meatpacking plants where a radical new inspection procedure is being tested.

Under the new streamlined inspection system (called SIS for short), the Department of Agriculture has given meatpacking companies many of the jobs traditionally handled by government inspectors. The old system was controversial for a variety of reasons, but now the job of keeping meat free of the dirt and manure that breed dangerous bacteria has been turned over to company workers.

The USDA is quietly testing SIS at four slaughter houses in Nebraska, Colorado and Texas. USDA inspectors are still on the job at those plants, but their primary job under SIS is to look for disease while the company inspectors control filth.

Although USDA officials in Washington are convinced SIS is working, a six-month investigation

ROBERT WALTERS

Worms in Big Apple

NEW YORK (NEA) — In Queens, one of the city's most powerful judges has been censured for ethical misconduct. Lawyers given lucrative court-appointed positions by the judge also were encouraged to rent office space from him.

In Brooklyn, self-proclaimed civil rights leaders threatened to disrupt construction projects unless more jobs were given to members of minority groups. The leaders have been charged with extortion. "They wanted their wallets stuffed," a federal prosecutor bluntly explains.

In Manhattan, a panhandler has been charged with murdering his girlfriend's 3-year-old daughter. The accused man had used the severely battered and bruised youngster and her 18-month-old brother to evoke sympathy from the passersby he solicited for money.

In the Bronx, the Wedtech scandal drags on, producing an amazingly long list of allegedly corrupt public officials. Those tainted thus far range from the borough's political hacks to members of Congress.

And on Staten Island, city police and federal narcotics agents have belatedly closed down a walk-in, drive-up, around-the-clock "crack" factory and drug supermarket that did $25,000 worth of business every day of the year.

That's a recent sampling of events in a city that increasingly is unmanageable, unworkable and unlivable. It's a city where basic public services go undelivered, graft is rampant and bizarre crimes are commonplace.

New York does retain many of its great strengths and virtues. The energy level of its people is unmatched anywhere in the country, as are the luxuries reserved for those who enjoy the corporate power and individual wealth concentrated here.

Life in the urban jungle has infused its undaunted residents with resilience and spirit. The rich assortment of ethnic communities is a very special asset.

But overwhelming all else is the inescapable fact that too many people (8.5 million within the city's five boroughs and 18 million inside a metropolitan area that includes portions of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut) have been jammed into too little space.

At one end of the spectrum spanning this country's continuing experiment in urban living is the "Los Angeles model" that emphasizes the horizontal dispersion of the populace. Under this model, the concept of a unified community is lost and valuable land is incessantly chewed up for everything from tract homes to shopping malls.

At the other end of the spectrum — and equally unappealing — is the "New York model" that places a premium upon the intense vertical concentration of people, their homes and workplaces.

The goods news for New York is that only 141 people are murdered here every month. The bad news is that those who are not must continue their struggle in a congested city that is rapidly becoming a suitable home only for the very rich and the very poor.

Genetics link disorders

By Debra Richs
UPI Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A genetic disorder of fat metabolism that leads to elevated cholesterol levels in the blood affects men more often than women and usually leads to heart attacks — but need not be fatal anymore, research confirms.

A Utah medical researcher reporting results of a study at a recent meeting of the California Dietetic Association in Los Angeles said the condition known as familial hypercholesterolemia takes particular aim at men.

"We have studied hundreds of people over several years," said Dr. Roger R. Williams, professor of internal medicine at the University of Utah and chief investigator in the ongoing cholesterol study.

"This is an inherited condition that leads to high cholesterol levels, and if these people are males, they will have a heart attack by age 45," he said.

Familial hypercholesterolemia is considered to be a dangerous metabolic disorder because victims have increased levels of low-density lipoprotein in their blood, the so-called "bad" form of cholesterol.

The fatty deposits can cause pain in the joints where deposits tend to collect, as well as clogging blood vessels.

Because fat collects in joints and the Achilles tendon, Williams said painful recurrent tendonitis and xanthomas — benign fatty tumors — are often detected.

The statistical study by Williams and his team confirms results of earlier laboratory research showing that familial hypercholesterolemia carries the risk of two to three times the normal blood cholesterol rate if the victim inherits a gene for the disorder from both parents.

"Although the heart attack rate is higher in men, we found that in women the likelihood of early heart attacks is variable. It's not as certain," Williams said.

But he notes that early death from heart attack or stroke does not have to be the case if victims of the disease follow a diet low in fat and high in complex carbohydrates and take cholesterol-lowering medications.

by our associate Stewart Harris raises some serious questions.

Internal USDA memos hint that government officials may be blurring the line between profits and clean beef. For example, the USDA introduced SIS in 1985 with a report that begins, "The primary goal of any business is to generate a profit."

At the Monfort meatpacking plant in Grand Island, Neb., where SIS is being tested, a government inspector reported last November that she was afraid she would lose her job if she shut down an assembly line when she saw what appeared to be an unhealthy carcass slip by. Her boss, a USDA veterinarian, had warned her that it was money out of the company's pocket every time she shut off the line.

The inspector's union filed a grievance with the USDA claiming the veterinarian told her it cost $130 every minute the line remained idle. The grievance also said the vet reminded the inspector that her job evaluation was coming up. Under SIS, USDA inspectors report diseased cattle to the USDA veterinarians, who check the carcass and decide whether it should be taken off the line.

The grievance was upheld. The vet apologized in writing and admitted mentioning the cost of halting the line. He said in a letter to the union, "If we are shutting off the line for an unwarranted reason, then we probably should consider the cost. She was not influenced to not shut off the line because of the cost to the company." The vet denied that he had raised the issue of her job evaluation.

In another incident at the same plant, condensation dripped from the ceiling onto edible meat on the "viscera table" of the production line for a full day in January, according to memos written by government inspectors. USDA inspectors in the plant repeatedly warned their supervisors and plant officials about the drip. Under the old inspection system, the line would have been shut down until the problem was fixed, but not under SIS.

USDA inspector Steve Cockerham asked his boss, another USDA veterinarian at the plant, whether the line should be stopped. In a memo reporting the incident, Cockerham said his boss told him the problem wasn't serious enough to stop work.

Abel Santos, the head of the local inspectors' union, complained about the incident in a memo to the USDA. "If our supervisors weren't so spineless and afraid to stand up to the company and do their jobs, we wouldn't have a problem like this."

Many top USDA officials are convinced this is only a union spat — that the inspectors are complaining about SIS just to sabotage the system. Inspectors have been accused of slowing production lines without good reason.

The inspectors admit that SIS threatens to thin their ranks by as much as 40 percent, because it requires fewer government inspectors. But the inspectors say they have on-the-job insight into how SIS is working and their expertise is sometimes overlooked by the USDA. Instead, they say the USDA officials in Washington make changes to the system at the request of company officials.

Next, we will report on one meatpacking plant where the records show the new inspection system may not be working as well as the USDA would like to believe.

Jury chides Philadelphia for 'MOVE' bombing

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A grand jury characterized the city's handling of the 1985 MOVE confrontation in which 11 people died as "an epic of government incompetence" and rebuked officials for their "morally reprehensible behavior" but did not recommend any criminal charges.

"While the conduct of city officials in handling MOVE is utterly unacceptable, it is not the proper subject of criminal prosecutions," the county grand jury said in the summary of its 100-page report released Tuesday.

Eleven members of the radical cult MOVE including five children were killed May 13, 1985, when police dropped a bomb on the roof of their West Philadelphia row house with the approval of Mayor Wilson Goode. The explosion touched off a fire that engulfed 81 houses and left 250 people homeless.

"It is an epic of government incompetence," the grand jury report said. "It details an operation marked by political cowardice at its inception, inexperience in its planning, and ineptitude in its execution."

"Even the ensuing investigations were marred by deception," the report said, noting the testimony of 125 witnesses over an 18-month period. "Applying the law to the facts as we found them, no charges are warranted. Yet we do not exonerate the men responsible for this disaster."

"Rather than a vindication of those officials, this report should stand as a permanent record of their morally reprehensible behavior. This city, its leaders and citizens must never forget the terrible cost of their misjudgments."

District Attorney Ronald Castille petitioned the courts to empanel a grand jury to investigate the events surrounding the confrontation that made international headlines.

Six members of the anti-authority group and five children were killed when police dropped a powerful explosive from a helicopter on the bunker. The cult members had barricaded themselves in the house in a working-class neighborhood, haranguing neighbors with threats through loudspeakers at all hours of the day and night.

By dropping the bomb, police hoped to dislodge a bunker MOVE members built on the roof and to insert tear gas to flush out the stubborn occupants.

But the explosion touched off a raging fire that not only engulfed the MOVE house, but consumed 80 other row houses, leaving 250 people homeless. The disaster was considered the worst tragedy in the city's modern history.

Two people escaped: an adult now serving a prison term and a child, Michael Moses Ward, formerly known as Birdie Africa, who told authorities his initial efforts to escape were stymied by police gunfire. Police have denied they fired shots at escaping members. Goode, who approved the use of explosives in dislodging the bunker, watched the critical events unfold on television.

A separate federal grand jury is investigating possible civil rights violations and obstruction of justice charges. That investigation is expected to be completed this summer.

Two developers are on trial in Philadelphia Common Pleas Court for misappropriating funds advanced by the city to rebuild the neighborhoods. Both have denied the charges.

A week after the commission issued its report in 1986, Goode acknowledged that he had "made a mistake."

But, he said, "I do not feel I will be indicted. I do not feel I should be indicted."

The mayor refused comment on the grand jury's report before its release.

Goode, although stung by the MOVE fiasco, won re-election in a tight and hotly contested race against former Mayor Frank Rizzo. MOVE was a major topic of the campaign, with Rizzo, a tough-talking former police commissioner, referring to Goode as "The Mad Bomber."

Rizzo had his own problems with the radical cult when he was mayor in 1978. Police officer James Ramp was killed in a shootout with police when authorities used firehoses to force MOVE members out of their row house so they could be arrested.

Several MOVE members were convicted of murder in Ramp's death.

Reagan offers another summit scene set in Chicago speech

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan decided to weigh in again today against the denial of human rights in the Soviet Union, flying to Chicago to deliver another stage-setting speech before his summit in Moscow this month.

After an Illinois Republican Party fund-raiser, officials said, the address to the National Security Strategy Forum, a non-partisan organization of Chicago-area business and civic leaders, offered the president a chance to strike a "more balanced" tone than in other recent pre-summit speeches.

Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev already has complained about the provocative rhetoric from Reagan as they prepare for their fourth meeting, and Tuesday the president offered a few conciliatory words even as he pressed his points.

Speaking to religious activists and Soviet emigres at the White House, Reagan promised to stress to Gorbachev the need for greater Soviet religious freedom, calling the Kremlin's modern domestic reforms "just a beginning."

Annual SDI fight launched today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The annual battle over "Star Wars" spending moved to the House floor today, with an effort to pare it back to $3.5 billion in the 1989 defense bill given a good chance of success.

The debate focused on one of the last major controversies facing the House in its work on the $299.5 billion budget measure for the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1. President Reagan had sought nearly $5 billion for "Star Wars," the Strategic Defense Initiative, but the House Armed Services Committee, which wrote the legislation sent to the floor, cut that to about $4.1 billion.

Due for virtually back-to-back afternoon votes today were a conservative proposal to run the SDI figure back up to $4.9 billion, a liberal effort to cut it to $1.3 billion by abolishing the SDI office and redistributing some of the research, a Republican amendment to hold the figure at $4.1 billion and a Democratic proposal to shave it to $3.5 billion. Debating rules dictated the last amendment to get a majority vote would be the one to pass.

Veterans angered by vandalism

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Veterans and their families are reacting angrily to the etching of a swastika-like symbol across names war dead carved in the Vietnam Veterans Memorial, comparing the act to the defacement of a religious shrine.

"Everybody's outraged and absolutely shocked and angry," said Jan Scruggs, president of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund. "The memorial is like a shrine. It's a lot like a religious object. It's as if somebody would go into the Vatican in Rome or a synagogue in Jerusalem and do something like that."

The faint scratches in the memorial's black granite face are about a foot high, starting near the base of panel 15 and running through several names.

In addition to a rough swastika-like scrawl in the highly polished granite, a series of about a dozen random scratches also appear.

Tourist: Aloha plane buckled

HONOLULU (UPI) — Federal investigators said they have not confirmed a report from a tourist that the side of an Aloha Airlines jetliner was "going in and out" during a flight just hours before the plane lost a huge section of its fuselage at 24,000 feet.

Aloha Airlines spokesman Milton Goto dismissed the report Tuesday as "ridiculous," and said, "Any observation of movement of interior panels within the aircraft has absolutely no relation to the outside structure."

National Transportation Safety Board spokesman Michael Benson said the agency is working on the report from a Connecticut woman that the inside wall of the plane was buckling, but said he had no information on whether the plane used on the earlier Aloha Airlines flight was the same as that used on the ill-fated Flight 243.

Methodist hymnal eliminates some, not all, male pronouns

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A revised hymnal that eliminates some but not all male references to God was adopted by the United Methodist General Conference in a compromise to end a battle that generated 20,000 letters.

Delegates to the General Conference of the United Methodist Church voted Tuesday to adopt the hymnal that is more sensitive to the concerns of women, minorities and the disabled.

The vote was 893-69 in favor of accepting changes to the hymnal used by the denomination's 9.1 million members.

More than 800 members of the church were consulted on the content of the new book, and more than 200 churches tested the hymnal under a pilot program.

The most controversial aspect of the revision was whether to use "inclusive" language, which did not refer to gender, in references to God.

The proposed changes generated 20,000 letters to the committee, more than 10,000 of which came in 1986 over the proposed exclusion of the traditional hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers" because of its militaristic theme. Committee members later voted to include the hymn.

The committee's report was amended by the General Conference to change the language in 35 of the 113 recommended psalms and to restore the word "his" in 53 references to God.

The new version of the 23rd Psalm reads, "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. The Lord makes me lie down in green pastures, leads me by still waters, restores my life, leads me in the right paths for the sake of the Lord's name."

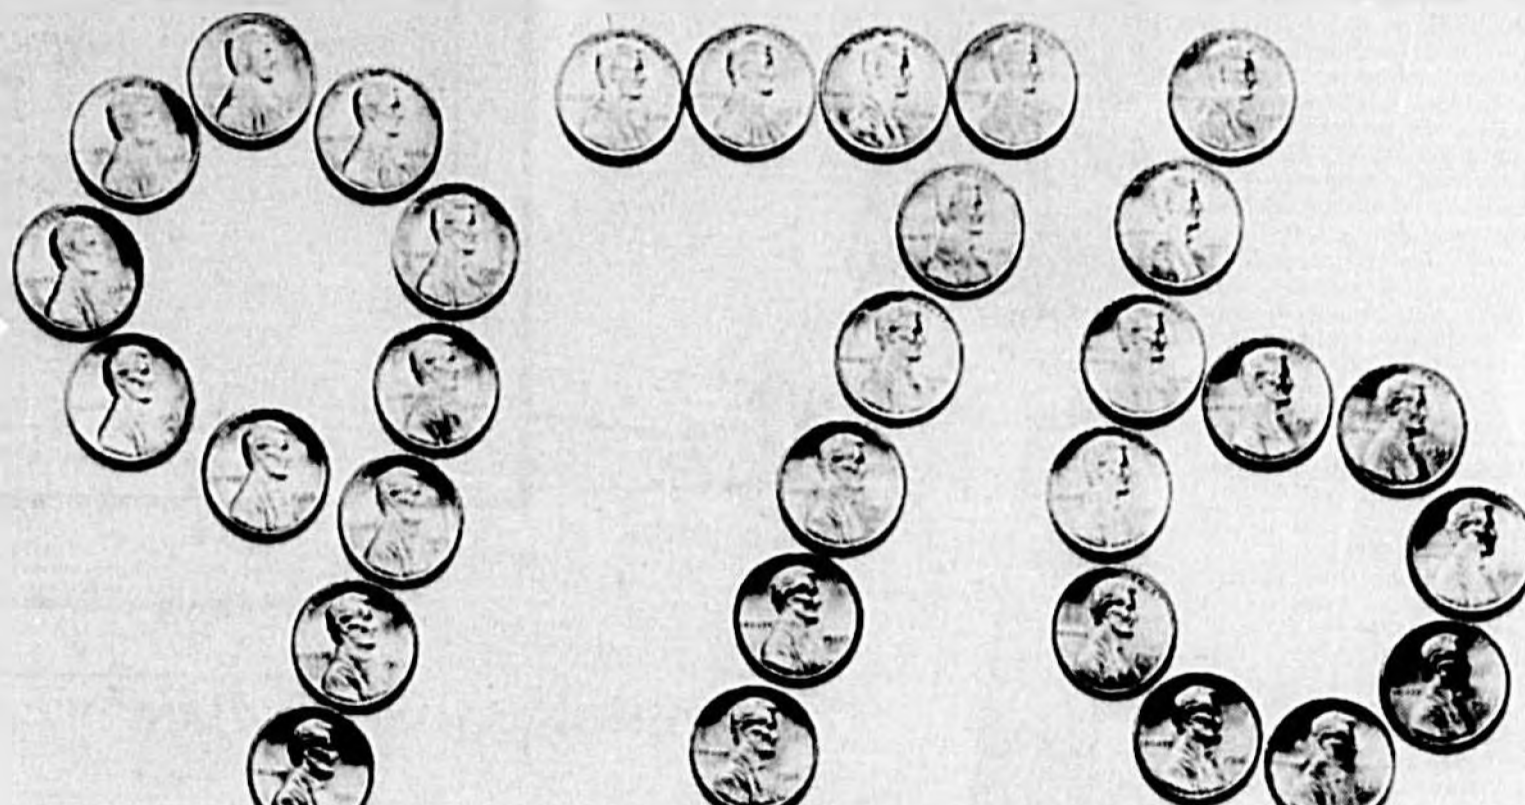

The committee originally proposed a Psalter with no gender references to God, but fear of negative reaction apparently led to compromise over the 35 psalms.

The Rev. Vergil Daughtery, district superintendent from Valdosta, Ga., brought up fears of a backlash from conservative members.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

House votes to name holiday for King; Senate votes next

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The House has voted to make the third day of each January a state holiday in honor of civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. The House voted 96-14 in favor of the bill (HB 313) Tuesday morning. It goes next to the Senate. Supporters said the holiday would serve to remind all Floridians of King's work for civil rights and the philosophy of non-violent social change he personified. The holiday would take the place of a discretionary holiday awarded by the Secretary of the Department of Administration each year, and so would not mean an additional day off. That discretionary holiday was used to celebrate King's birthday the past two years. In prior years it was usually used to extend the Christmas holidays. The third Monday in each January is already a holiday.

Police foil wife's murder plot

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A Hollywood woman who let out a contract for her husband's death, apparently because of a bitter divorce dispute, and a friend were being held without bond Tuesday after police learned of the plot. Graciela Hieke, 40, and her friend, Adela Ciampa, 30, were arrested Monday on murder conspiracy charges. Police said they told an undercover detective who was posing as a hit man they would pay him $2,700 to kill Hieke's husband, Svato, 58. The woman told detective Ed Schubert they wanted Hieke killed at his art frame shop in Boca Raton. They also wanted Schubert to plant cocaine on the victim to make the shooting appear drug related, police said.

Union, state reach tentative pact

MIAMI (UPI) — Union officials representing 6,500 faculty and professional employees at Florida's nine state universities said Tuesday they reached a tentative three-year agreement with the Board of Regents. The contract calls for a 4.5 percent average salary increase, along with a distribution formula for an additional 1.5 percent salary enhancement package. Jim Parry, of the Florida State University System, said the agreement, reached April 26, calls for $16 million in salary and benefit increases that must be appropriated by the Legislature.

Man adrift for 14 days rescued by oil tanker

CAPE MAY, N.J. (UPI) — A man whose small rubber rowboat drifted more than 650 miles off course says he survived in the Atlantic for 14 days by catching rainwater in his coat and eating tiny shrimp and crabs he plucked from floating seaweed.

Kenneth Maffei, 26, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., who set out April 12 in an inflatable Sears raft to study plant life on islands off the coast of Florida, was rescued by an oil tanker Thursday after roaming an estimated 650 to 700 miles from his destination.

The tanker anchored off Delaware Monday and reported the rescue to the Coast Guard station in Cape May.

"I felt I would make it," Maffei, who was in stable condition Tuesday in Burdette Tomlin Memorial Hospital in Cape May Court House, told the Atlantic City Press.

"The biggest thing about this is that I've learned that I have a desire. I have a will for life," Maffei said through bloody, blistered lips. "Otherwise, I don't think I would have made it."

Maffei was picked up by the tanker Rich Duchess about 90 miles off Cape Hatteras, N.C. The tanker notified the Coast Guard in Cape May after it anchored off Bowers Beach, Del., Coast Guard Chief Petty Officer Fred Hoatlin said. A helicopter carried Maffei to the hospital.

Maffei, an odd-job laborer, had no sailing experience other than a few informal classes before he set out on his trek. His equipment included the tiny boat, oars and an Army surplus raft in which he towed water, food and clothes.

Maffei's boat had no motor, no radio communications and no signal flares.

On the second day, the Army raft deflated and he lost most of his supplies, Maffei said. The boat he rode in was too small for his 6-foot-3 frame and Maffei said his feet hung over the ends even when he was sitting.

Maffei said his craft was buffeted by high winds and pelted with heavy rains. He used his raincoat to catch rainwater. To protect himself from exposure, Maffei covered himself with the deflated cargo raft, but still suffered second-degree burns over his entire body, as well as cuts on his sides from rubbing on the raft.

Sulfuric acid spilled from railroad cars

ROODHOUSE, Ill. (UPI) — Two cars of a Missouri Western Railroad train derailed on the edge of town today, spilling sulfuric acid and ammonium nitrate and forcing the evacuation of at least 1,000 people.

John Plunk, chief of operations for the Illinois Emergency Services and Disaster Agency, said no injuries were reported in the derailment. The accident occurred on the southwest edge of Roodhouse, a town of about 2,400 people located about 50 miles northeast of St. Louis.

About 400 residents and 300 students immediately were evacuated from the Roodhouse Junior High School to a school in White Hall, about four miles south, Plunk said. The evacuation area later was expanded to a total of about 700 residents.

Officials expanded the evacuation area because 10 to 15 mph southeast winds were blowing the sulfuric acid fumes into the town, Plunk said.

"Everything is in control," said Sgt. Harold Walker of the Illinois State Police. "I do not know when they'll be able to return home."

Plunk said the car containing sulfuric acid was leaking from the top dome used for loading the car. The hopper car spilled ammonium nitrate, described by Plunk as a highly reactive fertilizer that generates great heat when mixed with water or any number of other substances. In confined areas, ammonium nitrate can explode if it becomes wet, he said.

Plunk said officials were attempting to prevent the sulfuric acid and ammonium nitrate from mixing. Officials also were working to keep sulfuric acid from seeping into local water supplies.

Shortly after noon officials said they had stopped the leakage of sulfuric acid and crews are attempting to neutralize about 550 gallons of the substance which leaked onto the ground. About 1,000 pounds of ammonium nitrate was spilled onto the ground.

The cause of the accident is not known, Plunk said.

Perez ousts McEnroe; Edborg survives Ross

NEW YORK (UPI) — When he was winning big, John McEnroe presented a portrait of a raging young man. Now that losing comes with a certain regularity, he is mellow and happy.

McEnroe, a master craftsman, always has been a study in uncontrolled contrast. And if he is to be believed, the fire of his anger has been quashed for good.

He had every reason to flash his temper on a cold day Tuesday when virtually every close call went against him and he fell to Diego Perez 7-6 (7-2), 2-6, 6-3 in the opening round of the $677,500 Eagle Tournament of Champions. Perez, a 26-year-old Uruguayan who lives in Spain, is ranked 136th in the world.

Instead, he was a gentleman to the end.

"I'm not real comfortable getting angry at this stage, and I want to keep it that way," McEnroe said. "I felt I was in control, and that's the main thing. In general, most of the decisions were right."

Top seed Stefan Edberg of Sweden also came perilously close to defeat before beating 24-year-old qualifier John Ross 6-7 (5-7), 7-6 (7-5), 6-2 in a night match that stretched 2 hours, 45 minutes.

In another big upset at Forest Hills, 12th seed Paul Annacone was eliminated by 17-year-old qualifier Nicolas Pietrangeli of Venezuela 7-5, 7-6 (8-6).

Other seeded players to advance to the second round were No. 5 Andre Agassi, No. 6 Mikael Pernfors, No. 7 Aaron Krickstein, No. 8 Slobodan Zivjajnovic and No. 9 Jay Berger.

Kohde-Kilsch, Reggi advance of Italian

ROME, May 3 (UPI) — Third-seeded West German Claudia Kohde-Kilsch scored a quick victory and fifth seed Raffaella Reggi rallied after a rain delay Tuesday in the second round of the $200,000 Women's Italian Open.

Top seed Chris Evert's scheduled match against Australian Nicole Provis was postponed until Wednesday because of the bad weather. Evert and the rest of the top eight seeds received byes in the first round.

Rain-interrupted matches began late Tuesday afternoon after a delay of several hours.

Kohde-Kilsch finished off a 6-0, 6-1 rout of Italian wild-card entry Kathy Caversazio as the rain began to fall.

Reggi, who has risen to an Italian record 13th ranking, began play before the rain and came back after the delay to defeat Isabelle Demongeot of France, 5-7, 6-4, 6-1.

Tampa King's Wells signs with FSU

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Byron Wells, a 6-foot-8 forward from Tampa King High School, has signed a letter of intent to play basketball for Florida State. Coach Pat Kennedy announced Tuesday.

Wells, who is projected as a guard-forward, averaged 28 points a game during his senior year at King, and has a reputation as an outstanding shooter.

"Byron is the classic example of the 'late bloomer,'" Kennedy said. "He has loads of potential. Byron is a great student and a fine young man. We look forward to having him as a member of our basketball program."

Wells also excelled in the classroom, as he was selected captain of the Tampa area all-academic team and will graduate with honors from King High School in June.

The signing of Wells rounds out what looks to be another outstanding recruiting class for the Seminoles. The incoming freshman class of 1988 includes Lorenzo Hands, a 6-foot-2 guard who finished second in the voting for the state's "Mr. Basketball," and 6-foot-10 all-South selection Stacey Williams.

Inspired Oviedo blasts Ocala Vanguard, 10-2

By Chris Pieter
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — Oviedo's Lions have used many different ways to win games during the 1988 season. Whether it's power pitching, tight defense, clutch hitting or speed on the bases, the Lions have at one time or another relied on it to win. So which one did Oviedo pull out of its hat Tuesday night?

How about all of the above. Alan Greene tossed a three hitter and cranked a two-run homer and the Lions played flawless defense behind him. Oviedo also displayed the trademark of many Howard Mable teams of the past as it added seven stolen bases in a 10-2 thrashing of Ocala Vanguard's Knights in the 3A-3 Region playoff before 701 fans at Sanford Memorial Stadium.

The Lions, 18-8, advance to the 3A-2 Section playoff Friday at either Tampa Jesuit or Tampa Plant. Richard Cobb will get the start on the mound for the Lions.

"Richard (Cobb) has been very reliable for us this year and I have confidence in him," Mable said. "With the rest inbetween, Alan (Greene) will also be ready if we need him in relief."

After surrendering a two-run homer in the top of the first, Greene silenced the Knights the rest of the way. The senior righthander allowed a total of three hits, struck out 12 and walked three.

"The big guy came through," Mable said of Greene. "He did it with pitching, his glove and his bat. And the guys turned in a great defensive game behind him."

After fanning leadoff man Rookie Hodges and getting Gene Swift to fly out to left, Greene issued a walk to Trevor Eatmon. He then ran the count to 2-2 on the lefthanded hitting Tony Penvel. Greene then got a curve up in the strike zone and Penvel stroked it over the wall in right field for a two-run homer.

"My curve wasn't working that good and I hung one on him (Penvel)," Greene said. "I knew it was just a lucky hit and it wouldn't happen again. After that, I just worked on hitting the corners with my fastball."

Oviedo got a run back in the bottom of the first to pull within 2-1. John Emerson led off with a walk, stole second and scored when Gary Pelczar grounded a single through the right side. Oviedo loaded the bases with two outs, but Vanguard starter Ben Denison got Jody Spelman to fly to center to end the inning.

Vanguard put together a pair of two-out singles in the top of the second but Greene fanned Hodges to end the threat. Vanguard had no hits and only two baserunners the rest of the game.

After missing out on a couple of opportunities in the second and fourth frames, Oviedo got the wheels turning in the bottom of the fifth. Pelczar reached on an error to start the frame and then stole second. With one out,

Oviedo's Micah Kinnaid watches the flight of the ball he just hit during Tuesday's 3A-3 Region playoff at Sanford Memorial Stadium. Oviedo roared to a 10-2 victory to advance to Friday's Section 2 playoff at Tampa.

Greene singled to left to put runners on the corners. Cobb then punched a base hit to right to drive in Pelczar and knot the score at 2-2.

Green and Cobb then perfectly executed a double steal with Greene taking third and Cobb second. Robbie King followed with a fly ball to shallow left field and Greene tagged up and raced home ahead of the throw for a 3-2 lead. Spelman, who had ripped a double in his last plate appearance, then scorched a single to left to drive in Cobb for a 4-2 Oviedo lead.

"It felt good to finally get it going on the basepaths," Mable said. "We didn't execute some things early, but we felt we could run on Vanguard and the kids did a good job of it."

Cobb's hit also chased Denison and Jeff Guinn came on in relief. Guinn got out of the inning without any further trouble, but it was curtains for the Knights from that point on as Oviedo had the momentum and Greene was on the mound.

After Greene retired the side in order in the top of the sixth, Oviedo delivered the knockout punch in the bottom half. Emerson drew a walk and, with the hit and run on, took third on Pelczar's single to right. Micah Kinnaid then roped a single to center to drive in Emerson for a 5-2 lead.

Apopka routs Lady Rams

By Chris Pieter
Herald Sports Editor

APOPKA — A five-run first inning gave Apopka's Lady Blue Darters all the confidence in the world and they never let up en route to a 15-0 rout of Lake Mary's Lady Rams in the 4A-3 Region playoff Tuesday afternoon before 401 fans at Edwards Field.

Apopka goes on to the 4A-2 Section playoff on Friday against Orlando Boone, a 7-0 upset winner over Bradenton Manatee. Friday's winner goes on to the 4A State Tournament. Lake Mary ended its excellent season with a 20-7 record.

Lake Mary put a pair of baserunners on in the top of the first inning but failed to score. It was all downhill from there for the Lady Rams.

In the bottom of the first, Tiffany Saffold and Conya Johnson led off with consecutive walks and Teresa Lisk then unloaded a three-run homer to deep left field. Beth Blankenship's RBI double and Kim Steinke's run-scoring single gave the Lady Darters a 5-0 lead.

With a comfortable lead after just one inning, Apopka gained so much confidence that it's usual weakness, defense, turned into a strong point. Apopka made a number of spectacular plays to keep Lake Mary off the bases in the early innings.

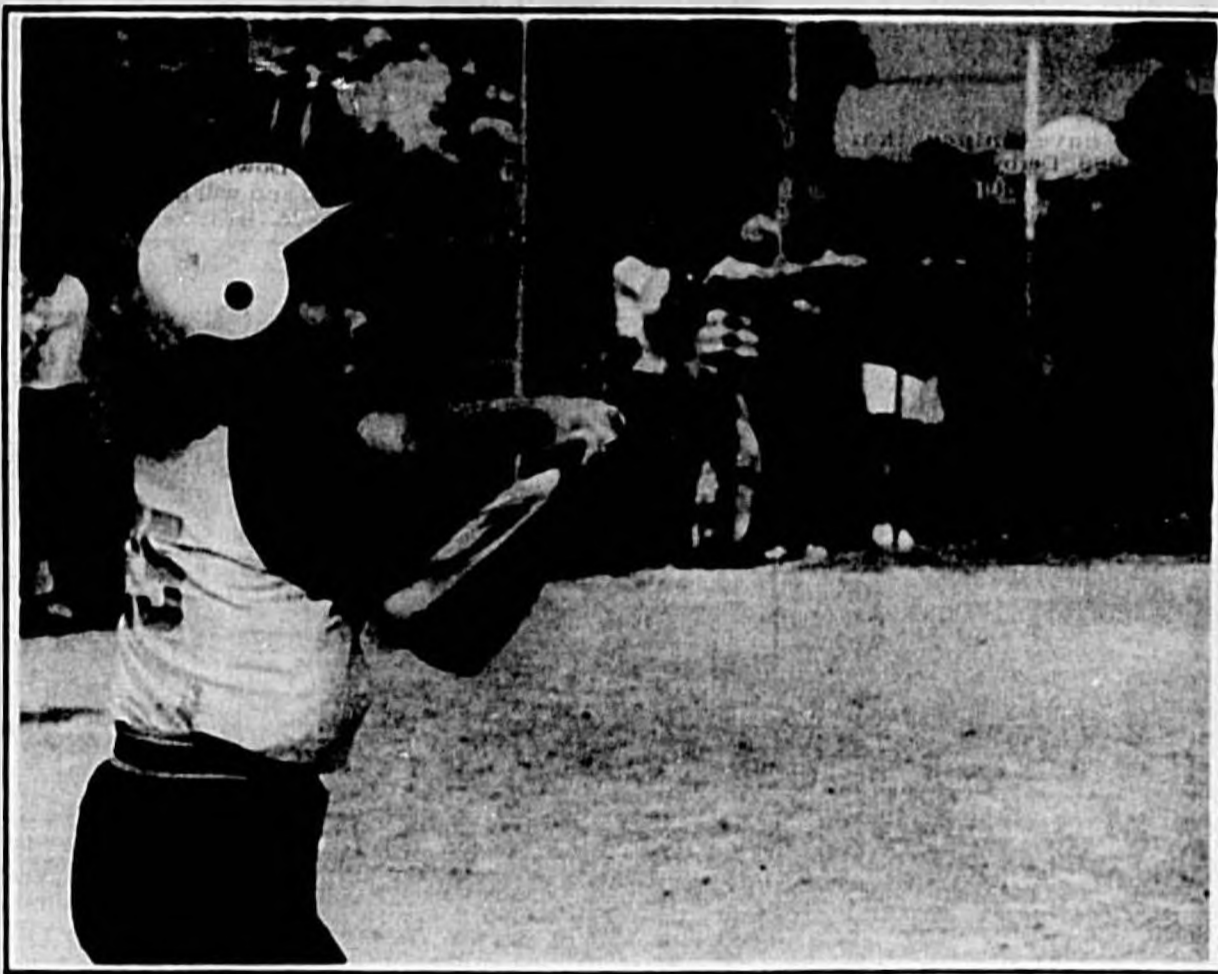

The Lady Darters continued to crush the ball at the plate in the second frame as they tacked on five more runs. Lisk had a two-run single in the frame and Tonya Ennett also had a two-run single.

After Lake Mary went down in order in the top of the third, Apopka scored two more in the bottom for a 12-0 lead. One run scored on a Lake Mary error and the second on a base hit by Lisk.

Lake Mary's best threat came in the top of the fourth when Paula Songer and Heather Golden hit back to back singles with one out. Apopka got the next two hitters, though, to keep the Lady Rams off the board.

Lake Mary held Apopka scoreless in the fourth but the Lady Rams could not mount a threat in the fifth. The Lady Darters then ended the game by the 15-run rule with three runs in the bottom of the fifth. Johnson's two-run homer highlighted the inning.

Apopka finished with 17 hits in the game compared to five for the Lady Rams.

Kristie Montione unleashes a swing during Tuesday's 3A-3 Region softball game against Sparr North Marion at Red Bug

North Marion tops Lady Lions, 1-0, in 10 innings

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

OVIEDO — Sparr North Marion came up with a run in the top of the tenth inning to break a scoreless tie and allow the Lady Wildcats to capture the 3A-3 Region 3 championship, 1-0, over Oviedo before 151 fans at Red Bug Park.

The Lady Lions, 15-8, completed its season with an impressive defense performance as it kept the powerful Sparr from rolling.

"This was our best defensive performance of the season," Oviedo coach Jackie Miller said. "We had a couple of chances to score early, we just couldn't come up with a hit when we needed one."

Oviedo managed to mount the games first scoring threat by loading the bases with no one out in the bottom of the second inning. Sparr, though, shut the Lady Lions down with a pair of nice defensive plays.

Oviedo came up with another scoring threat in the bottom of the fifth inning with Robin Hetzel opening the frame with a single to left. Anna Hollits then moved her to second and reached first safely on an error. Three consecutive infield pop ups, though, prevented the runners from advancing any further.

The Lady Lions continued to play strong defense and put Sparr down in order in the top of the sixth. The Lady Wildcats, though, came up with a strong effort to score in the top of the seventh.

Kim Robinson led off the inning with pinch hit single, as Rachel Markham re-entered the game to run the bases. Diane Williams followed with a single before Mechelle Fontaine then hit a hard shot up the middle that bounced off Oviedo pitcher Jodie Switzer's glove to short and was fielded by Jill Knutson who flipped the ball to second base for the force out that left runners on first and third.

Debbie Davis then sent a long shot to right field that was caught on the run for the second out, a throw was made to try to stop Markham from scoring but was late. Markham, though, failed to tag up on the fly ball and was called out on the play to keep the game deadlocked.

The Lady Lions managed to get the first batter on again as Cheryl Buntz came up with a lead off single to right center field. Kellie Gaines then was called upon to pinch hit and popped up to right field. Buntz was caught off first as the Lady Wildcats came up with a double play.

Sparr finally broke the ice in the top of the tenth with Liz Johnson reaching first on an error to lead off the inning. Williams followed with a single and a grounder to second by Glenda Martin left runners on second and third with one out.

Davis then lined a hit to left field and plated Johnson with the winning run. Williams attempted to make it to third, but throw to the plate was late and Switzer cut the ball off and caught Williams in between second and third before Oviedo put

Lyman upends Apopka

By Mark Blythe

APOPKA — Lyman used a fine pitching performance from Ross Urshan and timely hitting by Noah Talesnick to claim a hard-fought 3-2 victory over Apopka in 4A-5 Region playoff action Tuesday night before 451 fans at Apopka High School.

Lyman, 17-13, will now play the winner of the Merritt Island-West Palm Beach Forrest Hills game in the sectional playoffs.

"We weren't hitting the ball early but came up with the runs when we needed them," Lyman coach Bob McCullough said. "We just want to have fun and stay relaxed on the field, things will come together as long as we don't force anything."

Lyman, which has been playing aggressive and taking risks, fell behind early with Apopka playing aggressively and putting a run across in the bottom of the first inning.

Gavin Jones led the frame off with an infield single followed by a bunt single by Fred Hayes. A passed ball advanced the runners to second and third with Urshan putting down Paul Bates on strikes.

Tim Eubanks then connected on a slow chopper to third that Talesnick barehanded and threw to first as he had no play on Jones at the plate. Todd Migliore then bounced out to short to end the inning with the Blue Darters holding a 1-0 advantage.

Urshan then settled down on the mound and shut down the Apopka offense until the sixth inning. Urshan finished with six strikeouts while walking three and scattering six hits.

Urshan also came up with a big hit in the top of the sixth inning to put the 'Hounds on the scoreboard. After an out, John Luce drew a walk followed by a bunt single by Mickey Helms. Kenny Jackson then walked to load the bases. Urshan then ripped a line drive single to center that scored two runs and gave Lyman a 2-1 edge. Apopka then changed pitchers, with Jimmy Musslewhite coming on in relief of James Barks, and Musslewhite came up with a strikeout and a groundout to end the inning.

Urshan looked tough in the bottom half of the inning as he struck out the first two batters on just seven pitches. Migliore, though, got hold of a fastball and

Colors among derby favorites

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — One horse. That's all trainer D. Wayne Lukas, the unduped king of multiple-horse entries, found in his huge stable good enough to race against North America's best 3-year-old colts in the 1988 Kentucky Derby.

Out of a record number of 20 Triple Crown nominees, just one horse, A filly, Lukas, the nation's most successful trainer the past five years, believes that's all he needs to break an 0 for 12 string that makes him the biggest loser in the Derby's 113-year history.

Bill Shoemaker prepares to take another run for the roses. Shoemaker will run in his 25th Kentucky Derby this Saturday.

On Saturday, Winning Colors, the tall and solidly constructed, dark roan daughter of Caro, will become just the 35th female to try to win the world's most famous race. Only two — Regret in 1915 and Genuine Risk in 1980 — have succeeded.

"We've taken the position, we're gonna run the best," Lukas said Tuesday, after he watched Winning Colors' final Derby workout. He was explaining why he had decided against Derby starts for such highly regarded colts as Telano, the record-setting juvenile money champion of 1987, and Success Express, winner of the 1987 Breeders' Cup Juvenile.

"It takes an exceptional one (filly) to win the Derby," he conceded. "This one is."

Lukas is not alone in his assessment. Winning Colors is expected to go to post Saturday as no less than the second choice or co-favorite with undefeated Private Terms in a field that has been reduced to 18 probable starters.

Trainer and co-owner Laz Barrera announced he would not run Mi Preferido, winner of the Grade I San Felipe Handicap, because of overall body soreness. Trainer Happy Alter concluded that Frosty the Snowman, fourth by three noses in the April 30 Derby Trial, was not a legitimate Derby contender.

The field could be reduced by one more before the draw for post positions Thursday. Jack Van Berg, who won the 1987 Derby with Alysheba, said he wanted to watch how Dan's Dancer came back from a one-mile workout Tuesday before committing to the race.

The colt, who was shocked in 1:40 2-5, had a virus two weeks ago, and Van Berg said he wanted to be sure he was strong enough to handle the rigors of the Derby.

Risen Star, winner of the Louisiana Derby and Lexington Stakes, also worked Tuesday, breezing three-quarters of a mile under two-time Derby winner Eddie Delahoussaye in 1:13. The work, videotaped by co-owner and trainer Louis Roussel III, served as a tryout for Delahoussaye. Roussel said he would study that videotape and another of Craig Perret working Risen Star last week before naming his Derby jockey.

Time-wise, Winning Colors' half-mile work in :49 was unimpressive, but it was not meant to be. Exercise rider Otto Draper kept the filly under firm restraint. In horsemen's parlance, it was a "useful work," designed to get the filly to the gate "crying to run."

Lukas did not even time the work.

"I just wanted her to stretch her legs, to exert herself a little to get the feel of the race track," he said. "You're not going to change a horse much Derby Week. Wherever you are today is where you are. It's my opinion you've got a chance to set yourself back, but not to move up..."

"We've had good luck with her all spring," Lukas added. "The thing you want to do Derby Week in my opinion — granted we've never won the thing so maybe we are not doing it right — is to stick with what you got here. It's like going to the Final Four or the Super Bowl. If you've got to put in new plays for the final game, you're in trouble."

Critics have sniped that Lukas' 1988 Derby play is a losing one. It is difficult for a horse — colt or filly — to defeat a huge field racing on the lead the way Winning Colors does for the mile-and-a-quarter length of the Derby.

In the past 50 years, only seven horses have won leading wire to wire; in the past 10, just one. Spend a Buck in 1985. Speed horses more often end up burning out well before the finish, as Winning Colors' stablemate Althea did in 1984.

But the probable field is an unusual one, heavy on closers and, except for Winning Colors and Forty Niner, distinctly lacking in quality speed.

Through her first six starts, five victories and one one-neck defeat, Winning Colors also has been an unusual speed horse. Her jockeys have not taken her to the front — she has taken them.

"She's found herself on the lead, but as the competition gets better and the fields get deeper and the variation of talent gets more involved, this may or may not happen," Lukas said.

"So far, nobody's been on the lead in front, and two trainers who elected to try to take the lead, couldn't take the lead, but Saturday's a new ballgame, a new defense, a new offense."

STABLE CHECK
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Here is Tuesday's stable-by-stable check of probable starters in Saturday's Kentucky Derby:

Bribe's Time: The Florida Derby winner, trained by John Veitch, galloped two miles with exercise rider Lester Ricks up and will blow out three-eighths on Derby Eve.

Cebs: The Woody Stephens-trained colt lost a hind shoe in his stall overnight and had to be reshod. He tried out the new shoe with a gallop and will work a half-mile Thursday.

Din's Dancer: The colt trained by Jack Van Berg worked a mile in 1:40 2-5. Van Berg said he was still watching for any sign of a recurring fever.

Forty Niner: The Mr. Prospector colt galloped strongly and will breeze a half-mile Thursday, trainer Woody Stephens said.

Frosty The Snowman: Walked shedrow and will head to the track Wednesday.

Granacus: The Blue Grass Stakes winner galloped 1 1/2 miles with regular exercise rider Kenny Mills up and may work a half-mile Wednesday if the rain forecast holds off.

Intensive Command: Galloped 1 1/2 miles with regular exercise rider James Stukes aboard.

Jim's Orbit: The grandson of Northern Dancer galloped and showed he has "bounced back quicker from this (Saturday's win in the Derby Trial) than the others," said trainer Clarence Picou.

Kingpost: The Dianne Carpenter-trained colt jogged two miles under exercise rider John Griffith.

Lively One: The Santa Anita Derby runner-up galloped 1 1/2 miles and will breeze a half-mile Thursday. Veteran trainer Charlie Whittingham declared the Nelson Bunker Hunt-owned colt in fine shape for the Derby.

Private Terms: Trainer Charles Hadry sent the unbeaten colt on a gallop of about 1 1/2 miles and said the horse "is doing very well. He's fit enough, he doesn't need fast works." Private Terms will blow out three-eighths Friday.

Proper Reality: The Florida-bred colt trained by Bob Holtus walked along shedrow, the covered walkway which rims the horse stalls.

Purdue King: The Harry Wexler-trained colt galloped 2 miles and will work a half-mile Wednesday.

Regal Classic: Took a light jog in the mile chute, a 2 1/2-mile gallop and walked through the paddock area where horses will be saddled for the Derby.

Risen Star: In his final prep-Derby workout, the Secretariat colt went seven furlongs in 1:27 1-5 while pulling up under jockey Eddie Delahoussaye. "I consider it a good, useful workout," said trainer Louis Roussel III.

Sea Trek: Galloped 1 1/2 miles and appeared free of a virus nagging other horses in the stable trained by Gary Hartlage. "I just hope he's strong enough not to get it," Hartlage said.

Seeking The Gold: The Mr. Prospector colt, runnerup in both the Wood Memorial and Gotham, had his first test on the Churchill Downs track, jogging 1 1/2 miles, and will blow out three furlongs on Derby Eve.

Stalwart: Walked in the morning and will gallop Wednesday but won't need another workout before the race, trainer Gary Jones said.

Winning Colors: The D. Wayne Lukas-trained filly worked a half-mile in :49 seconds and will gallop daily until race day.

KOC's Fisher throws one-hitter

SANFORD — In Sanford Junior League action on Monday, the Knights of Columbus rolled over Woodman, 17-7, and Moose tipped Rotary, 20-0.

The Knights were led by the one hit pitching of Maurice Fisher who only gave up a double in the third inning after his team had built a 12 run lead. Anthony Roberts had two triples with three runs batted in and two runs scored to lead the hitting attack. Britt Henderson added a triple and a single with two RBI's and a run. Bill Kern added a double and a triple with three RBI's and two runs with Tyrone Chibberton adding a pair of singles with two runs scored. James June led the Woodman with a double for two RBI's and two runs scored.

Lawrence McIntyre led the Moose attack with a double, four RBI's and three runs scored. Mike Thomas added another double with two runs batted in and three scored. Moose only finished with four hits but used 11 walks and eight errors to break the game open. Judy Bailey led Rotary with two singles and a run scored. Ron Livingston added a double with two runs batted in.

In Little American League action Quinton Hunt pitched a perfect game to lead Cardinal Industries past Sun Bank, 16-0, as Craig Marrson led the offense with two home runs and a single for seven runs batted in and three scored. George Beasley added two single and two doubles to plate three runs and score three others with Kevin Butler adding two singles with a RBI and three runs.

In other American League action First

Union and Carriage Cove ended in a 7-7 tie. Calvin Campbell led Carriage Cove with a single and a double and two runs scored. Johnny Dennis added a pair of doubles with two RBI's and a run with Nathan Morgan adding a single, a run batted in and a run scored.

In Little National League play SPBA came up with six first inning runs to take control over D.A.V. to post a 17-3 decision. Robert Aime led the way with a double for three runs batted in and three scored. John Young added a double that scored two runs while adding three runs scored and Eric Roberts ripped another double for three RBI's while scoring one. Damon Bell led D.A.V. with two hits, a double and a single with a run batted in and a run scored. David James added a single to score one run to round out the offensive attack.

drilled a shot to the wall for a stand up double. Migliore continued to third as the relay man could not come up with the throw and the ball bounced slowly in left field.

Matt Rony followed with a single up the middle that bounced off Lyman's second baseman Darren Holquist's glove to score Migliore and knot the score at 2-2. Again Urshan settled down and put the Blue Darters out before they could come up with any more runs.

"No one is going to get a real big inning going against the teams left," McCullough said. "There are just too many strong defensive players to let five or more runs score in one inning."

Lyman almost came up with a run in the top of the seventh as, after two outs, Chris Brock ripped a shot to right field that hit the wall and fell in for a stand up double. Luce was then intentionally walked before Helms hit a pop fly to first base to end the inning.

Urshan put the Blue Darters down in order in the bottom of the seventh to give his squad some momentum as they came to the plate. Jackson led off with a walk and moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Urshan. Marty Martin then reached on an error by the Apopka third baseman that left runners on first and third.

Talesnick then approached the plate and roped a single to right field that scored the game winning run as Jackson raced in from third.

In the bottom of the eighth the Blue Darters hit the ball hard, but the 'Hounds defense could smell the win and came up with the plays in the field. Jackson made the first put out on a nice play at the fence as Bates fouled out. Eubanks followed with a hard grounder up the middle that Urshan played for the second out. After Migliore walked Rony hit a shot to Helms, the short stop, who zipped the throw to Jackson for the final out.

"The bottom of the order has done it for us over the past few games," McCullough said. "Talesnick came up with the big hit tonight as we had to scrape around and to get our runs. When we put people in position we were able to hit the ball."

her out to end the top half of the inning.

The Lady Lions then had a chance to score, but a nice play by the Lady Wildcat shortstop Natasha Wynn, turned things around. After an out Hollis singled up the middle, Kristie Montione followed with a short pop that was bobbled and dropped by the Sparr catcher as Oviedo had runners on first and second with one out.

Buntz then lined a shot to third that bounced off the Sparr third baseman's glove and right into the glove of Wynn for the inning's second out. Becky Jakubein then hit a hard grounder that was picked up by pitcher Davis who tossed the ball to first for the final out.

"We've been averaging 15 hits in our last four or five games and only came up with five today," Miller said. "It definitely was not one of our better hitting performances and they (Sparr) came up with the hit when they needed it to make the difference in the game."

Hudson gets start, silences White Sox

United Press International
Charles Hudson silenced all skeptics, and more importantly, the Chicago White Sox.

Hudson, making his first start of the season in place of the injured Rick Rhoden, allowed four hits in six innings as the New York Yankees defeated the Chicago White Sox Tuesday 4-1.

Hudson, 3-1, had made seven appearances this season, all in relief.

"I was happy to be in my rhythm," said Hudson. "It felt pretty good starting again, different. It was nice knowing a day before you're going to pitch. I just have to do my best each time I go out there."

"I can't force any decisions. Whether I start or relieve is all up to (manager) Billy (Martin)."

Athletics 8, Tigers 3
At Detroit, Mike Gallego hit a three-run double to help Dave Stewart become the major leagues' first seven-game winner and lead Oakland to its ninth straight victory. The A's finished their road trip at 10-1.

Rangers 4, Orioles 3
At Baltimore, Larry Parrish drove in two runs to help Ray Hayward win his first major-league game and allow the Rangers to send the Orioles to their 24th loss in 26 games. Mike Boddicker dropped to 0-6 and has not won in his last 11 decisions.

Royals 9, Red Sox 3

BASEBALL

At Boston, George Brett collected three hits, two RBI and scored a pair of runs to spark Kansas City. Jamie Quirk had a solo homer and Bill Pecota added three RBI for the Royals, who concluded an eight-game road trip at 5-3. Wade Boggs had three hits for Boston, which dropped its third game in a row.

Angels 6, Indians 4
At Cleveland, Bill Buckner's two-run single capped a five-run ninth inning to rally the Angels. Pinch-hit singles by George Hendrick and Butch Wynegar plated the tying and go-ahead runs to make a winner of reliever Donnie Moore. 2-2 California's Johnny Ray had a 16-game hitting streak snapped.

Brewers 4, Twins 3
At Milwaukee, Ted Higuera pitched a six-hitter and Jim Gantner singled home the winning run with none out in the ninth inning to lift the Brewers. Higuera, 3-1, struck out six and walked one in pitching his second complete game of the year.

Blue Jays 9, Mariners 2
At Seattle, Rookie Todd Stottlemyre retired the first 19 batters he faced, allowing one hit over 6 2-3 innings, and Fred McGriff homered twice to power Toronto. Stottlemyre, 1-2, lost his perfect game when he hit Rey Quinones on the hip with one out in the seventh.

Astros 4, Phillies 0
At Philadelphia, Bob Knepper limited

Philadelphia to six singles to gain his first victory in Veterans Stadium in nearly five years and lead the Houston Astros to a 4-0 decision over the Phillies.

Knepper, 3-0, allowed two hits in an inning only once — singles by Bob Dernier and Lance Parrish in the ninth — in hurling his first shutout since Aug. 18, 1986. Knepper, 8-17 with a 5.27 ERA last year, lowered his ERA to a National League-best 0.64 this season.

Mets 8, Braves 0
At New York, David Cone, starting for the first time this season, fired an eight-hitter for his first career shutout to lift the New York Mets to an 8-0 romp over the Atlanta Braves.

Darryl Strawberry hit a three-run homer and Kevin Elster a two-run blast to support Cone, 3-0.

Cone was inserted into the rotation as the fifth starter to replace Rick Aguilera, on the disabled list with an elbow injury. Cone walked one and struck out five to give the Mets' staff six complete-game shutouts this season — one more than it had all last year.

Elster's homer, his third this season, came off reliever Juan Eichelberger in the fifth. Strawberry hit his National League-leading eighth, also off Eichelberger, in the sixth.

Cubs 13, Padres 5
At San Diego, Andre Dawson homered twice, doubled and knocked in five runs to lead a 15-hit outburst by the Chicago Cubs in their 13-5 drubbing of the San Diego Padres.

Calvin Schiraldi, trying for his first major-league complete game, was lifted in the eighth. Schiraldi, 2-2, gave up four runs on six hits and three walks. He struck out three before giving way to Mike Bielecki.

Dawson, who has taken over the National League-lead with nine homers, has 27 multiple homer games in his career. He led the NL with 40 homers last year.

Dawson started the Chicago attack with a double in the first off Ed Whitson, 2-1. He came in to score on a sacrifice fly by Rafael Palmeiro.

Giants 2, Cardinals 0
At San Francisco, Joel Youngblood's eighth-inning RBI single broke a scoreless tie and three San Francisco pitchers teamed on an eight-hitter Tuesday night to spark the San Francisco Giants to a 2-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Kelly Downs, Allee Hammaker and Craig Lefferts pitched for the Giants. Hammaker, 2-0, hurled two perfect innings for the victory. Lefferts worked the ninth for his first save.

Dodgers 14, Pirates 6
At Los Angeles, Mike Marshall homered twice and drove in five runs to fuel a 16-hit attack that carried the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 14-6 rout of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Mike Scioscia, the National League's leading hitter with a .381 average, went 3 for 4 as Los Angeles rallied from a 3-0 first-inning deficit to produce the Pirates' first two-game losing streak of the season.

Expos nip Reds in 12

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Joe Heaketh worked out of a bases-loaded none-out jam in the 11th inning and Tim Wallach knocked in the winning run in the 12th Tuesday night to lift the Montreal Expos to a 4-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Tim Lincecum singled with one out in the 12th off Rob Murphy, 0-2, the fifth Reds pitcher. After the second out, Hubie Brookins hit a pop-fly to short right field that second baseman Dave Concepcion and right fielder Tracy Jones let fall between them for Brookins' fifth hit — Raines going to third.

Wallach, who had bounced into an inning-ending double play with the bases loaded in the 10th, broke an 0 for 9 skid with a single up the middle.

Heaketh, 1-0, pitched one inning. Tim Burke, the fifth Montreal hurler, threw the 12th for his fourth save.

Jones had led off the 11th with a double off Heaketh and Concepcion walked on four pitches. Barry Larkin filled the bases with a bunt single. Chris Sabo grounded into a third-to-home-to-first double play. Kal Daniels walked to load the bases. But Heaketh struck out Eric Davis to quell the threat.

For the second straight game, Tommy Helms managed the Reds in place of Pete Rose, who had arthroscopic surgery on his left knee Monday and was advised to recuperate at home for several days.

ROSE APPEALS

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Cincinnati Reds Manager Pete Rose admitted Tuesday he was out of line during his weekend confrontation with umpire Dave Pallone.

"I know I was wrong," Rose told WLWT-TV. "I'm not saying I shouldn't be suspended, but no one bothered to hear my side of the story. I guarantee he heard Pallone's side of the story."

Rose was suspended for 30 days by National League President A. Bartlett Giamatti for shoving Pallone during Saturday night's game against the New York Mets.

Price boosts Cavaliers

RICHFIELD, Ohio (UPI) — Mark Price scored 31 points and the Cleveland Cavaliers remained alive in the playoffs Tuesday night, leading from start to finish en route to a 110-102 victory over the Chicago Bulls.

John "Hot Rod" Williams added 20 points off the Cleveland bench and the Cavaliers' warming defense permitted Michael Jordan 38 points while containing the rest of the Chicago attack. Jordan scored 20 and 55 points in the first two games of the series.

Chicago cut its deficit to 2-1 in the best-of-five first-round matchup. Game 4 is Thursday night at the Richfield Coliseum.

Brad Sellers finished with 22 points for the Bulls but the Cavaliers limited Charles Oakley to 10 and Sam Vincent to 2.

Before a crowd of 20,068, Cleveland led 89-74 entering the fourth quarter. Chicago drew to 95-86 on John Paxson's basket with 7:17 to play. Paxson then committed three straight fouls but the Bulls regrouped with a ballhawking defense. Oakley's two free throws trimmed Cleveland's lead to 99-92 with 4:48 remaining.

The Bulls came no closer. Price hit a 21-footer and Larry Nance, who finished with 16 points, had a jumper and four free throws in the final minute. Jordan, double-teamed by Craig Ehlo and Price, could not penetrate and had just 4 points in the final 7:51.

Price hit all five of his field-goal attempts and all four free throws in the first quarter. Cleveland, which had a 31-10 home record during the season, took a 35-22 first-quarter lead. Jordan scored 14 points in the second quarter, helping Chicago pull within 59-50 at halftime.

Despite Jordan's 10 points, Cleveland rolled to the 15-point lead entering the fourth quarter as Price had 7 points and Nance 6 as both keyed a steady defense.

Cleveland is making its first postseason appearance since 1984-85 and only its second in 10 years. Chicago has not advanced past the first round since beating New York in the 1980-81 postseason. The Bulls have lost their last four playoff series.

JONES TO STEP DOWN

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston Celtics Coach K.C. Jones said Tuesday he will step down after this season to become the club's vice president and personnel director. He will be replaced by Assistant Coach Jimmy Rodgers.

Jones, completing his fifth season, has led the Celtics to two NBA titles. He said he decided to make the change during last week's meeting with Celtics President Red Auerbach. However, Jones said he began thinking of leaving coaching after the Celtics lost to the Los Angeles Lakers in the 1987 NBA finals.

"I thought, 'I've done it all and where can I go from here?'" Jones said in an interview on WCVB-TV. "Jimmy's been here for years and would like to have a coaching job and this would be super for Jimmy, too."

The 55-year-old coach broke the news to the players Tuesday as the club prepared for Wednesday night's playoff game against the New York Knicks. The Celtics lead the first-round series 2-0.

"I talked to the players — it was total shock," Jones said. "They were happy for me because it's something I want. No one can ever talk me out of it."

UNSELD INDUCTED

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — Washington Bullets Coach Wes Unseld skipped practice Tuesday to attend his induction into the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass.

Unseld earned his way into the Hall of Fame with inspired rebounding, bone-jarring picks and timely scoring in 13 years as a player for the Baltimore and Washington Bullets. But Unseld is now making a mark as a coach — a fact that is clearly understood by the Detroit Pistons.

"They're playing like they want to win," said Detroit center Bill Laimbeer. "Last year (under Coach Kevin Loughery), they mailed it in."

Detroit will take a 2-1 lead into the best-of-five, first-round Eastern Conference series Wednesday night at the Capital Center. Washington, behind a remarkable shooting display Monday by guard Jeff Malone, won Game 3 by 114-106 in overtime.

Lakers eliminate Spurs

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (UPI) — During their three playoff games, the Los Angeles Lakers displayed their raw ability and the San Antonio Spurs demonstrated their pride.

Not unexpectedly, raw ability won.

The Lakers, who found the Spurs to be peskier than expected in the opening two games played in Los Angeles, held off San Antonio Tuesday night to complete a three-game sweep of the series, 109-107.

The Spurs, however, produced something to build on during their brief 1988 post-season appearance while the Lakers find themselves with something less than overwhelming momentum going into the next round.

An off-balanced layup try with three seconds remaining by San Antonio guard Johnny Dawkins rattled off the rim to wipe out the Spurs last hope of sending the game into overtime.

San Antonio put up such a gritty effort that Los Angeles coach Pat Riley wound up talking more about the Spurs after the game than he did his own team. "I just want to say I'll take my hat off to San Antonio," Riley said. "We are very glad we don't have to play them in a Game 4. When David Robinson shows up (after serving his Naval stint), this will be a really tough team. They are tough now."

"Bobby (Weiss) has done a hell of a job here, and I commend him and his team. They really fought us. They ran and played tight defense and really made us dig deep to win."

The Lakers won chiefly because of Earvin "Magic" Johnson's 25 points and Mychal Thompson's 23.

They led a Los Angeles comeback which erased a six-point deficit in the third quarter. DALLAS TOPS HOUSTON grabbed 13 rebounds Tuesday night to lead the Dallas Mavericks to a 93-92 victory over the Houston Rockets and 2-1 lead in the best-of-five playoff series.

BASKETBALL

Tarpley sank a short baseline jumper with 48 seconds that proved the difference, giving Dallas a 93-90 lead. Akem Olajuwon, who led Houston with 35 points and 12 rebounds, hit a jumper with 35 seconds left. After a Dallas turnover, he missed a 15-footer at the buzzer.

Rolando Blackman and Sam Perkins added 15 points apiece for Dallas while Joe Barry Carroll had 16 for the Rockets.

Game 4 of the series is Thursday night in The Summit. Dallas won Game 1 120-110 and Houston Game 2 119-108. Game 5, if needed, will be in Dallas Saturday.

Olajuwon scored 9 points and Carroll added 8 in the third period to help the Rockets build a 77-73 lead entering the final quarter. Brad Davis and Mark Aguirre each scored quick baskets for Dallas to tie it. The score was 84-84 when Tarpley punched in a missed shot and Derek Harper added a free throw to give Dallas an 87-84 lead with 3:16 left.

Houston pulled within a point three times, but on each occasional Dallas responded to keep a 3-point cushion, including Tarpley's basket with 48 seconds left. Olajuwon brought the Rockets to 93-92 with a short hook with 35 seconds left.

Blackman was then trapped near the baseline and he turned the ball over and Rodney McCray recovered under the basket. Houston called time with 12 seconds left. Harper fouled Eric Floyd, then Olajuwon missed a 15-foot jumper and time expired.

SONICS STOP NUGGETS

SEATTLE (UPI) — Blair Rasmussen scored 28 points to lead the Denver Nuggets to a 125-114 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics Tuesday night for a 2-1 lead in their first-round playoff series.

Game 4 is Thursday in Seattle with Game 5, if necessary, in Denver Saturday.

The Nuggets took the lead for good with a late first-quarter spurt. They lost star guard Lafayette Lever late in the first half when he twisted his right knee. He did not play in the second half and finished with 6 points.

Alex English scored 25 points for Denver while Jay Vincent had 24 and Michael Adams 19. For the Sonics, Tom Chambers scored 34 points, Xavier McDaniel added 30 and Dale Ellis 27.

Stocks open slightly higher

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened slightly higher today in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which rose 15.09 Tuesday, was up 1.99 to 2080.35 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 485-294 among the 1,193 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Early turnover amounted to about 8,920,000 shares.

Stocks posted strong gains Tuesday in moderate trading, boosted by takeover-related activity and renewed interest in the blue-chip sector.

Gold opens higher; gold, silver both lower

By United Press International

The dollar opened mostly higher in light trading today on major foreign currency markets. Gold continued to move lower.

Currency traders in New York attributed the restrained trading to the closing of the Tokyo markets for the holiday and little news in the marketplace.

All financial markets in Tokyo were closed today and will remain closed Thursday for a national holiday celebrating Constitution Day. Trading in Tokyo will resume Friday, May 6.

In early New York trading, the dollar was narrowly mixed in thin trading.

Traders said their European counterparts are speculating that U.S. interest rates may rise, while U.S. traders are speculating that Europeans, particularly West Germans, will raise interest rates.

A news conference on Thursday by the West German Bundesbank may fuel the fire, traders said.

In Europe, the dollar began the day in Frankfurt at 1.682 West German marks, up from 1.6773 on Tuesday.

The dollar opened in Zurich at 1.402 Swiss francs, up from 1.3957, and in Paris at 5.7175 French francs, up from 5.7005.

In Brussels, the dollar opened at 35.40 Belgian francs, up from 35.30. In London, the pound opened at $1.864, compared with $1.8725 on Tuesday.

In Amsterdam, the dollar began trading at 1.886 Dutch guilders, up from 1.8815, and in Milan at 1.251.75 lire, up from 1.248.20.

In Zurich gold opened $1.75 an ounce lower at $444.25 an ounce and fell $1.80 an ounce in London to $443.95.

most Seminole County cities oppose the clause, saying it takes control away from governments closest to the residents.

City officials say past county actions, such as imposing a county-wide road impact fee without their consent and an aggressive county stance in fighting municipal annexations, make them wary of giving the county greater controls.

McIntosh said cities should be allowed to comment on the proposed charter, the county's home rule constitution, before the committee makes a recommendation to the county commission to place the proposal on the ballot later this year.

McIntosh conceded environmental issues might be best left to the county's control, but only if the cities concur.

"I don't want to fight old battles," McIntosh said. "I want to create an avenue for solutions. But I wouldn't want to create a situation where there might be an environmental problem the county can't overcome."

Committee member Nancy Warren said county commissioners are elected county-wide and are in the position to view the county as a whole, not just separate areas.

"To say city ordinances should prevail over county ordinances is foolish," Warren said. "Some areas must apply to everyone."

In other action, committee members decided county commissioners can place proposed future charter changes on the ballot by a majority plus one additional commissioner. The members said charter changes shouldn't be made too easy to prevent reactionary decisions by commissioners.

U.S. gasoline stocks rise sharply

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's gasoline stocks rose sharply last week as imports and production surged, according to the American Petroleum Institute.

Crude oil inventories slipped in the week ended April 29 as crude oil imports plummeted, the oil industry trade group said.

Gasoline stocks climbed to 230.0 million barrels from 225.9 million barrels in the previous week but still were below the 243.5 million barrels on hand in the same week last year.

Supplies of unleaded fuel, which accounts for about 85 percent of the domestic gasoline market, increased to 146.2 million barrels from 141.8 million barrels in the preceding week and 142.0 million barrels a year ago.

Gasoline production jumped to 7.2 million barrels a day from 6.9 million barrels in the preceding week and 6.9 million barrels a day in the year-earlier week.

Citrus Shipments

WINTER HAVEN (UPI) — Today's citrus shipments reported by the Division of Fruit and Vegetable Inspection, Shipping total in 4-5th bushel cartons and cannery totals in 1.3-5th bushel boxes:

Rail — 165,088 grapefruit, 15,919 late oranges, 633 honey tangerines.

Export — 125,450 grapefruit, 2,439 late oranges.

Truck — 90,615 grapefruit, 65,123 late oranges.

Cannery — 71,549 grapefruit, 121 temples, 1,007,103 late oranges, 415 honey tangerines.

Shipping — 315,267.

Cannery — 1,079,188.

exclusive residential garbage collection franchise less than a year ago. The agreement provides for the franchisee to petition the commission for a rate adjustment based on unusual charges. According to IWS, there was more refuse than anticipated and it was necessary to put on an additional truck to keep within the time constraints imposed by the city. The requested increase pays one-third the original cost of the truck, he said.

Residential rates for surrounding areas listed by IWS for comparison include: Casselberry, $9.61; Maitland, $10 plus $25 initiation fee; Winter Park, $10 plus a $37.45 deposit; Seminole County, $11.65; Sanford, $9.78; Winter Springs, $9.

Residents, who attended the worksession, were upset that they didn't get a chance to speak, but they were later given an opportunity during the public participation period at the regular meeting.

Craig Bush of 340 Ferdinand Drive said, "I feel IWS has a 3-year contract and can't justify expenses to substantiate the rate increase. You should consider rescinding the contract. If they're losing money they would probably be glad to get out."

Former Longwood Mayor Ed Myers called the request for the customers to pay for one-third the cost of the added truck "asinine." "They're not fulfilling their contract by putting the lids back on the garbage cans."

Gail Carroll of 341 Ferdinand Drive commented, "Their service stinks—no pun intended—there are trash cans and lids thrown around the yard."

Clarence Moore of 439 Longwood Circle said, "They haven't given proper service."

has two swings; and for repair of the see-saw, (the park has two). There is also a basketball court in the park, and a metal "fire engine" structure to climb on.

Perry is a student at Woodlands Elementary School, and Sara and Mike go to Rock Lake Middle School.

The commission asked Acting City Administrator Don Terry to coordinate the matter with Tolos, who agreed to be the liaison between the city and the children. She said, "They told us they were not going to stop the children from playing there" and referred the request to the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board.

The P&R Board didn't feel a change was warranted and explained that the present ordinance requires the sign be posted.

Tolas said even though the ordinance and sign say no one is allowed in the park after 8:30 p.m., authorities promised they would not arrest the children if they violated regulations by staying there until 9 p.m. She said she thought this would satisfy the children, but the children said they wanted to be law-abiding and didn't want to disobey the rules.

They wanted to go back to the city commission Monday night, so Tolos took the three spokesmen to the city meeting. Not all the children were there because it was a school night, she said. Mike asked again that the hours on the sign be changed to "a half hour after sunrise to one half hour after sunset" or "dawn to dusk."

Terry said there is an ordinance on the books with specific hours and that "dawn to dusk" is too vague for police officers to try and enforce.

"We would like to obey the law," Perry told the commission. Sara said, "Mrs. Tolos read that we are not allowed to ride skateboards unless in a specified area. We usually ride on the basketball court when they are not playing basketball. We take turns sharing the court."

The children are learning some valuable lessons in citizenship. Tolos said the children were happy on the way home after the meeting, knowing an ordinance would be introduced to change the hours, but they wanted to know just what this means. She explained that it would take two to four weeks for the first and second readings and public hearing at which time those for and against the ordinance could speak.

"Now we're going to go after our parents to come to the meeting to support it," they told her.

Canoe-a-thon to raise funds for preservation

MAITLAND — The Florida Audubon Society will hold its Tenth Annual Canoe-a-thon May 21 on the Wekiva River. Participants will canoe the 11 miles from the Wekiva Marina down river to Katie's Landing. The deadline for participant registration is May 8.

This fund-raiser aids Florida Audubon's continuing efforts to preserve Florida's natural resources. This year's event highlights the society's work in protecting the endangered Wekiva River.

"Beautiful water is a risky condition: it is a magnet to developers who want their projects to be close to the heart of the system," said Dr. Bernard Yokel, Florida Audubon president.

"Frequently this results in serious problems, such as wetland losses, pollution, and fragmented, undersized natural areas that stress or eliminate wildlife."

Entries are accepted in one of four categories: individual, corporate, public service and Florida Audubon Chapter. Entrants obtain dollar pledges for each mile paddled the day of the event. A $14 registration fee covers canoe rental, transportation from end point to starting point, and lunch.

The grand prize for the highest dollar amount collected is a Champagne Balloon Ride. Other prizes include weekend stays at the Pelican Inn on Dog Island, compliments of the Pelican Club in Carrabelle, and a canoeing "Get-a-Way," provided by Florida Pack-n-Paddle, Orlando.

For further information or to register contact Florida Audubon Society, Canoe-a-thon, 1101 Audubon Way, Maitland, 32751, (407) 647-2615.

Attendance to the meeting is free, and parents and professionals are invited.

CHADD is a non-profit organization that provides information and support to parents of children with attention deficit disorders.

To register to attend or for more information, call the Parent Resource Center at 425-3663 or Sharon Routledge at 834-7673.

Women Voters league to have annual meet

LONGWOOD — The Seminole County chapter of the League of Women Voters will have its annual meeting at the West Library branch, 245 Hunt Club Blvd., on Monday, May 9.

At 7 p.m., a tour of the new library facility will be conducted, and at 7:30 p.m. the annual meeting and dessert will begin.

COOK OF THE WEEK

High school senior: kitchen whiz

Though he's young of heart, cooking's an art

By Brian Hedberg
PEOPLE Editor

CHULUOTA — It's not easy being a culinary teen when your parents have opposite tastes.

George Nunnery Jr.'s mother, from Seattle, likes a lot of pepper. His father, from North Carolina, wants none. So when cooking for his parents, the Chuluota youth uses white pepper, which his dad can't see, and puts in half the amount his mom would like.

Our Cook of the Week, a senior at Oviedo High School, has suffered other trials in perfecting his kitchen skills and pleasing loved ones.

Take, for instance, the wedding of home economics extension agent Barbara Hughes. George graciously offered to buy and cook chicken for the wedding reception. It was July 4, 1987. The sun was sweltering. The humidity was horrifying. George's 6-foot grill spewed a continual blast of smoke and heat, so that the young cook worked in dripping clothes. He had to cook, turn and barbeque 270 pounds of the birds, or 130 pieces, to feed all the guests. All at the reception, of course, loved the chicken.

After that memorable occasion, George vowed never to cook so great a batch of vittles again. Nevertheless, his state officers of his 4-H organization are asking him to barbeque for a mock legislative session this summer. "I'm not about to cook for 200 people!" he declared.

George supposes he got his flair for cooking from his parents. His father is the family barbequer, and father and son cook on the grill at least once a week.

Mrs. Nunnery, a park ranger for Lake Mills Park in Chuluota, doesn't get home until late. So her husband and George cook most of the meals. Once a year, usually around New Year's Eve, she ties the apron on for a fancy feast from scratch, such as Chinese complete with wonton soup, chicken chow mein and egg rolls.

Last year, since his mother had other New Year's Eve business, George cooked the big meal, including chicken cordon blue, cream of broccoli soup, and homemade croutons. The project was quite a challenge, but George's meal pleased the family critics.

Speaking of family, George, with three brothers and three sisters, is the next to youngest. His brother Wesley is kitchen manager at Tony Roma's in Los Angeles. Brother Billy manages Cisco Foods in Orlando but doesn't cook (except for a great chili.) His trio of sisters pickle cucumbers, can peas, make preserves and concoct their own elderberry wine. The family raises its own beef on its three-acre farm, which includes orange trees and a vegetable garden.

Continuing in his family's cooking vein, George intends to attend Johnson and Wales College in Rhode Island, a school of culinary arts. He is due this week to hear word of his acceptance by the college. "I'm not that great academically, but I'm great at everything else I do," George said.

His goal is to be a head chef, at least, by age 30. At Johnson and Wales, he would go for a two-year culinary arts degree and a bachelor's degree in food management.

George also is president of Seminole County's 4-H, a youth organization offering programs in everything from aerospace and automation to zoology and choosing one's first car. At the state convention in July, he will know whether he will receive a 4-H scholarship to further his education.

The Nunnerys decided to go all out into 4-H some years back. Wesley Nunnery was in the organization for four years and ended up county vice president. Brother David raises steers through 4-H.

George, in his fifth and final year of 4-H, has entered the poultry barbeque contest at the state fair's 4-H Day since 1983. In 1984, he placed third in the event, which judges everything from how you wear your chef's hat to whether charcoal ashes speckle your chicken. In 1985, he tried a lady's barbeque sauce that called for peppermint in the recipe. George thought it was taste-provoking, the judges thought it was rotten, and George hasn't placed higher than fourth since.

PECAN PIE

1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 9-inch unbaked pie shell
1 cup light corn syrup
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup pecans

George Nunnery cuts into his barbeque chicken specialty.

Cream together butter, brown sugar, vanilla and salt. Blend in syrup. Add eggs and mix well. Stir in pecans. Pour filling into pie shell. Bake at 400° F for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 325° F and bake 35 to 40 minutes longer until filling is set. Cool.
Yield: 1 9-inch pie.

PIONEER BARBECUE SAUCE

1 cup tomato puree
2 cups catsup
1 cup cider vinegar
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1/2 cup sherry wine
1/2 cup vegetable oil
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup water
2 teaspoons liquid smoke
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons dry mustard
1 teaspoon BBQ seasoning
1/2 cup sugar
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
3 tablespoons cornstarch
Combine all ingredients except cornstarch in water in a saucepan. Bring to a boil. Dissolve cornstarch in water and stir into sauce. Let cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Cool.
Yield: 5 cups.

CARROT SALAD

1/2 cup heavy cream
3 cups shredded carrots
1/2 cup raisins
3 tablespoons sugar
1/4 to 1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup mayonnaise
Whip cream. Set aside.
Combine remaining ingredients in a bowl, tossing to blend. Fold in whipped cream. Let chill, covered, in refrigerator for 10 minutes before serving. Refrigerate any unused portion.
Yield: 4-6 servings.

CREAM OF BROCCOLI SOUP

4 cups (about 1 pound) broccoli stems, cut very fine

1 quart chicken broth
1 bay leaf
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
3 chicken bouillon cubes
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup flour
1 cup half and half
1/2 cups finely cut broccoli buds
1/2 teaspoon white pepper
Combine broccoli stems, chicken broth, bay leaf and onion in a saucepan. Bring to a boil and cook for 10 minutes. Add bouillon cubes and cook 3 minutes longer. Strain and set broth aside.

In a saucepan, melt butter and add flour. Cook and stir for 5 minutes over low heat, being careful not to brown. Add half and half and broth, and stir until mixture boils and thickens. Add broccoli buds and pepper. Let simmer over low heat for 20 minutes, stirring occasionally.

This soup is also good served ice cold. Yield: 5 cups.

CHEESE BREAD

3/4 to 4 cups bread flour, divided
2 tablespoons sugar
1 1/2 teaspoon salt
1 package active dry yeast
1 cup very warm water (120° to 130°F)
Squeeze margarine
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded natural Swiss cheese
1/2 cup (2 ounces) grated Parmesan cheese
1 egg beaten
In a large bowl, combine 2 cups flour, sugar, salt and yeast. Mix well. Gradually add water and 2 tablespoons margarine. Mix until soft dough forms. Combine Swiss and Parmesan cheeses. Reserve 1/2 cup. Add remaining cheese mixture, egg and 1 cup of the flour dough. Mix remaining flour. Place dough in lightly greased bowl, turning once to grease surface. Cover. Let rest in warm place 20 minutes. On lightly floured surface, knead dough a few times. Divide in four equal pieces.

Cover and let rise 15 minutes. Roll out each piece in a rectangle and roll up short side. Press ends to seal. Fold ends under loaf. Place seamed side, down in four greased 6-by-3-inch loaf pans. Cover. Let rise until double in volume, about 50 minutes. Make a 1/4-inch deep slit lengthwise on top of each loaf. Sprinkle each with 1 tablespoon remaining cheese mixture. Bake at 375°F for 20-25 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from pans immediately. Brush with margarine.

Yield: 4 loaves.
CHICKEN CORDON BLEU
2 whole boneless chicken breasts

Salt and white pepper to taste
4 slices Swiss cheese
4 slices cooked ham, 1/4 inch thick
6 tablespoons flour
2 eggs, beaten
1 tablespoon water
6 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs
4 tablespoons butter
Remove skin from chicken breasts and discard. Between two pieces of wax paper, flatten breasts with wooden mallet until quite thin. Cut each in 2 pieces crosswise. Season to taste with salt and white pepper. Lay a slice of cheese and slice of ham on each piece of breast roll and roll.

Eat a little something and you'll feel better?

By Brian Hedberg
PEOPLE Editor

Grits for the grieving. Pasta for the pensive. Bagels for the broken-hearted.

"Comfort foods," the enthusiasts proclaim, are cure-alls for everything from stress to depression. No need to cry in your tea when you can chomp corn bread. Man's best friend can't help you like a steaming heap of mashed potatoes can.

And lest you think the whole idea of comfort food is the brainchild of some money-hungry advertiser or wishful food industry, listen to the science of it all: "Recent research suggests that certain foods provide contentment and mood elevation by actually altering the amounts of key brain chemicals," says Sue Kretzman in her book Comfort Food.

Here, in layman's English, is how these mood foods work. When you eat more carbohydrates than proteins, levels of serotonin—which keeps one from downward mood swings—are more apt to stay high. Thus you'll feel calm, sleepy and less anxious.

Here's the way Jane Brody describes a paradox in dieting habits in her Jane Brody's Good Food Book: "The first thing most Americans do when they decide to shed unwanted pounds is to cut out bread, pass up potatoes and rice, and cross spaghetti dinners off the menu entirely. Instead they try to subsist on steak and salad, cottage cheese and fruit, tuna salad and tomatoes, chicken and green beans, or some such combination of a high-protein animal food and a low-calorie fruit or vegetable. Before long, they're feeling tired and listless and bored and may even have trouble falling asleep at night."

Depriving oneself of carbohydrates, Brody goes on to say, has been shown to deplete the brain of serotonin, a neurotransmitter that also acts as a calming factor and sleep inducer. This dry well in the brain leaves the human craving that cookie, piece of bread or pizza.

"How much better it would be to avoid deprivation and denial by including carbohydrates in their weight-loss plan," Brody concludes. "That way they'd never have to 'go off the diet' to eat the foods they love."

No doubt Brody's words are jewels to many a dieter. But Brody is not alone in her ideas.

In Managing Your Mind and Mood Through Foods, Dr. Judith Wurtman recommends linguini, tortelli and pasta dinners for workers who want to disentangle their nerves after a hectic day.

"When the brain begins to make more serotonin, as it does when the carbohydrates are eaten, negative feelings are eased; anger is modulated, worrisome problems seem to shrink in magnitude, the edge is taken off anxiety, tension diminishes, and it becomes easier to deal with frustration," Wurtman writes.

Kretzman ranks macaroni and cheese among the highest of comfort foods. The traditional dish is guaranteed to ward off "disappointments in love, IRA snafus and other deep woes," she states.

If you'd like to experiment with the "feel good" foods yourself, here is a carbohydrate-rich recipe to try:

PASTA A LA KING

2 packages (4 ounces each) frozen prepared chicken a la king cookin' bags, thawed
4 teaspoons grated Parmesan cheese
4 teaspoons Dijon-style mustard
1 teaspoon lemon pepper seasoning
1 cup cooked rigatoni noodles
1 cup frozen mixed vegetables, thawed
In medium saucepan, combine chicken a la king, cheese, mustard and lemon pepper seasoning. Stir in noodles and vegetables. Simmer, covered, until hot. Makes 2 servings.

Keep on truckin'

Mix eggs with water and dip chicken in egg, then flour, then in egg again and finally in crumbs. Melt butter in a flat baking dish and bake chicken at 350° F for 20 minutes or until lightly browned.

Yield: 4 servings.
MARINATED MUSHROOMS
2 cups fresh mushrooms
1/2 cup lemon juice
1 1/4 cups Vinaigrette dressing
2 medium bay leaves
1/2 cup red wine vinegar
Salt to taste
1 1/2 cups julienne-sliced Bermuda onions

4 tablespoons dried pimientos. Choose medium-size mushrooms, which come about 34 to a pound. Two pounds makes about 10 cups. Trim stems and put mushrooms in a large bowl. Add lemon juice. Strain Vinaigrette dressing and put solids in a cheesecloth square. Tie shut and put in container in which mushrooms will be marinated. Combine Vinaigrette liquid, bay leaves and vinegar in a saucepan and heat to boiling. Add mushrooms and simmer 1 minute. Pour into a 3-quart container and add salt, onions and pimientos. Let cool before refrigerating overnight.

Yield: 4 quarts.

Embarrassment leaves 'ostomates' without association's peer support

DEAR ABBY: In a recent letter dealing with people who have a hearing problem but refuse to wear a hearing aid, you wrote: "A physical impairment of any kind is nothing to be ashamed of." That message should be communicated to the hundreds of thousands of people who are not members of the United Ostomy Association, where they can get support and information about the problems they face. There are persons—of all ages—who have a "stoma" (artificial opening) to eliminate the waste products of the body. The surgical procedure is called "colostomy" or "ileostomy."

There are an estimated 1 1/2 million "ostomates" in the United States, but only 50,000 are members of the United Ostomy Association. Why? Because most people who have had that kind of surgery are too embarrassed to discuss it.

Abby, meeting with others who share a common problem can give encouragement and support. Bearing it alone isolates, and makes for self-pity.

men's suits, uniforms, boots and hats. Also costume jewelry, and accessories such as parasols, fans, feather boas, lace and other types of trim, and any old apparel in good condition that dates back 40 years or more.

Those lonely people who write to you might also consider their community theaters when donating their talents. There are hundreds of jobs that need to be done other than acting, and never enough hands at most theaters to do them. Any retired carpenters? Painters? Artists?

Most people associated with the theater are relaxed, friendly, congenial and great fun.

DEAR MARGARET: What a great idea. There's no business like show business. (Unless it's monkey business.)

DEAR ABBY: You have had several letters recently from people who are fed up with receiving overdue notices and nasty letters from service companies. You say that most billings these days are handled by computers, which are sorely lacking in common sense.

My trash collecting service uses computer billing, and what its computer lacks in common sense, it makes up in a sense of humor. After I missed one payment, my second bill read: "Hello, I am a computer. Your account is past due. If you don't pay soon, I will tell a human."

That kind of message will get better results than one that puts me on the defensive.

ALL FOR HUMOR IN BOULDER

DEAR ABBY: As a registered nurse in a large county hospital emergency room, I have seen this "it can't happen to me" attitude over and over again.

I heard those words screamed by a young father who had had "a few beers" just before he wrapped his car around a telephone pole and sent his 4-year-old son to the morgue.

"This can't happen to us" both families cried as a 14-year-old girl lay dying, and her 15-year-old boyfriend was paralyzed from the neck down. He had been driving 120 mph on the interstate when his car was caught by the end of a semitrailer truck. Cocaine was found in the car.

Or the day we lost a battle to save a beautiful 6-month-old baby who had been thrown out of the car during a "minor" accident. Moments before, she had been lying comfortably in her mother's arms, while the infant car seat was sitting empty in the back seat.

I could go on and on, but I think you get the idea, Abby, please keep telling your readers not to drink and drive, to use seat belts and car seats—and don't use drugs! Terrible things can and do happen to them. They are your readers, but they end up being our patients.

LINDA M., R.N.,

DEAR LINDA: Maybe we saved a life or two today. Thanks for caring enough to put your thoughts on paper.

Quick breads won't heat up house

It was a very short spring! It seems we have gone from cool to hot weather rather quickly. No better time to take advantage of the microwave oven for cool cooking and baking. Muffins and other quick breads are easy to prepare and add special interest to any meal.

This quick coffee cake is best served warm.

SOUP CREAM COFFEE CAKE

3/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup cooking oil
2 eggs
3/4 cup sour cream
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
Topping:
2 tablespoons margarine
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
3 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
Glaze:
2 tablespoons margarine
1/4 teaspoon maple flavoring
Blend together the sugar and oil. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Stir in sour cream and vanilla. Add flour, salt, soda and nutmeg. Beat until smooth.
Grease the bottom of an 8-inch round glass baking dish. Pour in half of cake batter; spread evenly. Set aside. Place butter in small mixing bowl. M/W on 100 percent power 10-15 minutes or until softened. Mix in brown sugar, flour, cinnamon and walnuts until crumbly. Spoon half of topping evenly over batter in dish. Spoon remaining batter over topping; spread evenly. Sprinkle with remaining topping.

Midge Mycoff

M/W on 100 percent for 6 minutes, then M/W on 100 percent power 1 1/2-2 minutes or until no longer doughy. Let stand 5 minutes. M/W on 100 percent power margarine for glaze for 20-40 seconds or until melted. Blend in maple flavoring. Brush over surface of cake. Serve warm.

Corn and cheese make this bread moist and full of flavor. It can be baked in a ring mold or round dish.

MEXICAN CORN BREAD

1/2 cup yellow cornmeal
1/2 cup all-purpose flour
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup buttermilk
1 egg, slightly beaten
3 tablespoons cooking oil
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese

1/2 cup drained whole kernel corn
2 green onions, chopped
1 teaspoon pimiento
1-2 tablespoons jalapeno peppers
Cornflake crumbs

Combine all ingredients except cornflake crumbs; mix well. Grease 5 cup micro-safe ring mold. Sprinkle dish with cornflake crumbs. Shake out excess. Spoon cornbread into dish, spread evenly. Microwave on 100 percent power for 5-6 minutes or until no longer doughy. Let stand 5 minutes. Invert onto serving plate. An 8-inch round dish can be used instead of the ring dish.

SIX WEEK'S BRAN MUFFINS

1 cup water
1 cup bran flakes
1-2 cups packed brown sugar
1/2 cup shortening
3 eggs
2 cups buttermilk
2 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
2 cup All Bran cereal
2 teaspoons soda
1/2 teaspoon salt

Microwave on 100 percent power water in 1-quart batter bowl for 2-2 1/2 minutes, or until boiling. Mix in bran flakes and raisins; set aside. Cream brown sugar and shortening in mixing bowl. Add eggs one at a time, beating after each. Blend in buttermilk. Mix in raisin mixture, flour, All Bran, soda and salt until combined. Spoon batter into paper-lined muffin cups, filling 3/4 full.

M/W 6 muffins at a time on 100 percent power, uncovered, for 2-2 1/2 minutes or until no longer doughy. Store extra batter in the refrigerator up to 6 weeks. Makes about 3 1/2 dozen.

An advantage of microwave muffins is being able to cook just one or two. This batter can be stored for weeks.

My mother's fusilli was a pasta dilly

By Carl Jerome
UPI Food Writer

So much of our identities is tied to our gastronomic roots, to the foods we ate during childhood.

The eating customs that influence us most are those of our childhood, so the single person most responsible for our adult view of food is, most often, our mother.

My favorite family supper as a child was a casserole my mother invented as a variation on the standard spaghetti with tomato sauce. Instead of using simple spaghetti, my mother used fusilli, long twisted strands of pasta that were fun to eat.

As a child I was astonished that spaghetti could be made curly. I even wondered how my mother shaped it. Did she wrap regular spaghetti around a pencil to give it its corkscrew appearance? I never dreamed, at the age of 8, that it was extruded from a commercial pasta-making machine, nor that my mother bought it, already twisted, in a box at the local supermarket.

Today two types of pasta share the name fusilli, at least one of which can be found in most supermarkets. The first is the type my mother used, the second is a corkscrew pasta that looks like a tightly compressed spring. As with so many things Italian, the term fusilli was never standardized. Either can be used in the recipe below.

I prefer dried pasta for baked casseroles because they hold their shape and texture better than fresh. But fresh fusilli, which is available in some specialty shops, can be used. Just be careful not to overcook.

My mother made a quick, chunky tomato sauce by "doctoring"

Although you would be hard pressed to find anything like My Mother's Fusilli Casserole at an Italian dinner table—it is clearly an American dish with southern Italian roots—it is nonetheless my favorite family meal. And what better time to serve it than on Mother's Day.

MY MOTHER'S FUSILLI CASSEROLE

Serves 6. Leftovers should be saved and served cold for breakfast a day or two after dinner. An Italian red wine would seem most appropriate, though a light California zinfandel would be a good choice for those family members of drinking age.

32-ounce jar high quality thick or chunky tomato sauce
8-ounce can tomato paste
4 large garlic cloves, peeled
1 rounded Tbsp dried basil
1 heaping teaspoon dried oregano
1 small bay leaf, crumbled
1 pound fusilli, cooked until just barely tender
1/2 pound mozzarella cheese, grated
2 ounces grated parmesan or romano cheese

Combine the tomato sauce, tomato paste, garlic, basil, oregano, and bay leaf in a very large microwave safe bowl. Seal airtight with plastic film. Microwave on HIGH for 15 minutes.

Add the fusilli to the sauce, toss well, and set aside, covered, to cool. Stir in the cheeses and transfer to a baking dish. Cover either with foil or a lid.

To reheat, bake for about half an hour in a 375° conventional oven.

Variation: MY MOTHER'S FUSILLI CASSEROLE WITH MEAT SAUCE: For a more substantial casserole to serve 8, use meat sauce instead of the vegetarian tomato sauce.

Meat Sauce: For a quick meat sauce, not by any means an orthodox Italian Sauce Bolognese, crumble 1 pound of lean ground beef into a shallow microwave safe dish. Microwave on HIGH for about 6 minutes until all the beef is browned and no pink is visible. Break up the pieces of beef and mixing them around for 3 minutes of cooking. Drain well, then stir into the tomato sauce recipe above. Seal airtight with plastic film and microwave on HIGH for 6 minutes to blend the flavors.

Cobb Salad is cool, light, easy.

Cobb Salad makes light of cooking

For warmer months that invite cool, casual entertaining, try colorful main dish salads.

Salads keep entertaining light and easy with creative combinations of healthy-fresh ingredients. Many can be made completely in advance and chilled, or partially prepared for quick assembly just before serving.

One wholesome crowd pleaser is Cobb Salad, a bright blend of tomato, turkey or chicken, bacon, egg and avocado. Its healthful bonus of convenient canned kidney beans adds fiber, protein and complex carbohydrates, as well as bright color and great flavor. Artfully arranged on a platter for presentation at the table, the salad is tossed with a simple, zesty dressing before serving.

COBB SALAD
1/2 cup Italian salad dressing
1/4 cup (1 ounce) crumbled blue cheese
6 slices crisply cooked bacon, crumbled

1 avocado, chopped
2 medium tomatoes, seeded, chopped
2 cups chopped cooked turkey or chicken
One 15-ounce can Van Camp's Dark or Light Red Kidney Beans, drained
2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
4 cups shredded lettuce
Combine salad dressing and blue cheese; mix well. Chill until ready to use.
Arrange bacon, avocado, tomatoes, turkey, beans and eggs in rows on lettuce-lined 12-inch round platter. Just before serving, pour prepared dressing over salad. Toss. Makes 8 servings.

Inexpensive Cavity Prevention: Dental Sealants Protect Your Children's Teeth

By sealing the chewing surfaces of their teeth, dental sealants help your children stay cavity-free!

The chewing surfaces of molars are the most cavity-prone areas of your child's teeth. Unfortunately, they are also the most difficult areas to protect with fluoride. That's why the American Dental Association recommends that dental sealants be applied to permanent molars of all children as part of routine preventive dentistry. A "sealed" molar is actually ten times less likely to experience decay because bacteria and food debris cannot enter its tiny pits and grooves.

Sealants, which are tooth-colored or transparent plastic resins, are painted on the teeth in liquid form and quickly harden into thin, very strong coatings. Their protection can last for up to five years, but they should be checked regularly.

The combination of sealants for the chewing surfaces and fluoride for the smooth surfaces of tooth enamel is a cavity-fighting powerhouse. Dr. Richard J. Simonsen, Chairman of the Department of General Dentistry at the University of Tennessee and author of several scientific studies on sealants, explains:

"With proper use of fluorides and proper use of sealants, children in families that are motivated to follow their dentist's advice on diet and oral hygiene will very likely stay cavity free."

Sealing teeth is a simple, painless and inexpensive procedure. Ask your dentist about its potential for your children, or call our office, no cost consultation.

IN BRIEF

Walesa says union legalization is price for ending strikes

GDANSK, Poland (UPI) — Solidarity founder Lech Walesa demanded today the government legalize the outlawed union as the price for ending the wave of labor unrest sweeping Poland.

The demand by the Nobel Peace Prize winner openly moved the crisis from a labor issue to one with serious political ramifications for the embattled Communist regime.

Threatening to mobilize all of Poland in a national protest, Walesa said, "The strikes will be over when Solidarity is revived. I can mobilize the whole country" for action, he said.

Police ended their blockade today of the huge Lenin Shipyard the day after Walesa rallied thousands of striking workers with a warning to Soviet and Polish authorities that "a bloody revolution" could erupt without meaningful economic reforms.

Israeli troops in fierce fight

AIN EL TINE, Lebanon (UPI) — Tank-led Israeli troops ran into fierce resistance from Lebanese guerrilla forces today for the first time in their 3-day-old incursion into southern Lebanon.

The first casualties of the Israeli mission in Lebanon were reported as a spokesman for the Shiite Amal militia said the group suffered two dead and four wounded in fighting in and around the village of Meidoun, a stronghold of the pro-Iranian Hezbollah group 14 miles north of the Israeli border.

Police said dozens of Israeli troops, covered by tanks and helicopters, rolled deeper into southern Lebanon toward Meidoun.

The Israeli forces, attempting to crush guerrilla defenses, hammered Meidoun, two miles south of El Tine, and nearby areas with dozens of shells and rockets, inflicting extensive damage and starting many fires.

Marcos cannot attend funeral

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — The 95-year-old mother of former President Ferdinand Marcos died Wednesday but President Corason Aquino rejected her deathbed wish that her son fly home from Hawaiian exile, a senator said.

Sen. Aquilino Pimentel, emerging from a meeting with Aquino, said the president has decided "not to allow the coming back of Marcos because of the passion that it will arouse that will lead to serious problems."

"National interest requires the banning of Marcos," said Pimentel. He said the decision was reached after Aquino consulted by telephone with leaders of the House of Representatives and the Senate. He said the leaders were "unanimous" in not allowing Marcos to return home for the funeral.

Doctors said Josefa Edralin Marcos died at 12:20 p.m. at suburban Veterans Memorial Center.

Frat brothers indicted after alcohol-related hazing death

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — Some students at Rutgers University were stoked about two recent alcohol-related deaths, saying they are inevitable, but a prosecutor vowed to act against "the unending tragedy of excess drinking."

Hours after a school football player was killed Tuesday in a drunken-driving accident, 15 fraternally brothers at the school were indicted on charges of aggravated hazing for allegedly encouraging a pledge to drink himself to death.

"You can't stop kids from drinking and partying," said Renee Murray, a junior at Rutgers who said her 18-year-old nephew was killed in an alcohol-related car crash. "Some will make it, some won't."

Three Rutgers football players in a car were involved in an early morning head-on collision with a tractor-trailer, leaving one of them dead.

The car's driver, starting linebacker Bob Spedel of Wayne, N.J., had just turned 21 Tuesday and may have been out with his friends celebrating. Middlesex County Prosecutor Alan Rockoff said. The legal drinking age in New Jersey is 21.

Spedel had a blood-alcohol level of 0.253 percent, more than twice the amount New Jersey regards as legal proof of intoxication, Rockoff said.

Reserve sophomore center Bob Lowther of Wadsworth, Ohio, was killed, and starting junior linebacker Paul Gorea of Hamden, Conn., was hospitalized in intensive care along with Spedel.

Since 4 p.m. Monday the three had been out drinking in dormitories and possibly at bars later in New Brunswick, the prosecutor said. Their car hit the truck at 12:12 a.m., Rockoff said.

Rockoff said the president, vice president, rush chairman and 12 other members of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity chapter at the university's New Brunswick campus were indicted in the death of 18-year-old James Callahan on Feb. 12.

Callahan died after he and other pledges attending an all-night party were encouraged to for a law enforcement post it appears the whole department supports that candidate.

Polk said he personally has been asked to become involved in such campaigns in Volusia and Orange county and has always refused to do so. Taylor is free to make financial contributions to law enforcement candidates, but not to actively support them, he said. Polk added he does not feel he is violating Taylor's constitutional rights. Taylor refused to address that issue.

Taylor, 42, who has been with the Seminole County Sheriff's Department 18 years, said he attended the dinner as a guest of Eary and as a friend. He told the Sanford Herald today that his venture into Citrus County politics was a test of the political waters and an opportunity for him to gain campaign expertise in anticipation of someday running for sheriff of Seminole County after Polk retires. Polk, who has been sheriff since 1969, is seeking re-election this year.

Taylor said the extent of his involvement in Eary's campaign was to advise him "which side to wear his nametag on; always wear a nice suit; and always shake hands with everyone in the room." He said he also discussed 12-hour shifts for sheriff's deputies. At the dinner, Taylor said he introduced himself to two Citrus County sheriff's deputies who reported back to Dean that he was involved in Eary's campaign. Polk, Taylor and Eary are Republicans. Dean is a Democrat.

Taylor said Polk has found no fault with his support of the successful campaign of Winter Springs Mayor Leanne Grove last fall. Taylor lives in Winter Springs, and he said Polk told him that he would in no way restrict Taylor's political activity in Seminole County.

As a result of the flap, Taylor will resign his position on the Seminole County Republican Executive Committee because he is now not permitted to support Republican candidates for law enforcement offices in other counties. Polk said that under state law if one of his deputies runs for sheriff against him that deputy would have to resign.

Taylor said Polk has not objected to Taylor donating money to the campaign of Seminole County Sheriff's Sgt. George Knupp, who is a candidate for sheriff of Lake County. Knupp will take a leave of absence from his Seminole County post when his candidacy is formalized this summer. Taylor said Polk told him his involvement in those two campaigns was different from his involvement in the Citrus County sheriff's race.

Polk, in his letter to Taylor wrote:

"I have attempted to explain to you the problems which could arise out of becoming involved in campaigns outside of this county that could result in a situation which would be a detriment to good law enforcement. We, as an agency, must work with all agencies without political prejudice.

"When I requested that you cease your political activities in a county 90 miles away from Seminole County, you asked if this was a direct order.

"Due to your being in one of the highest policy making positions in this department, I direct you to refrain from political activity involving other law enforcement agencies.

"Failure to abide by this direct order will be considered insubordination and will be grounds for severe disciplinary action, even to the possible point of termination."

Taylor who has headed the department's patrol division for about two years is, in keeping with Polk's policy of rotating the duty of his officers, scheduled to be reassigned as administrative captain May 15.

Convicted killer vows suicide before execution

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Harrison Graham, given six death sentences and one life term for strangling seven women during sex, vows to kill himself before he can be executed.

Common Pleas Judge Robert A. Latrone ordered the life and death sentences to run consecutively, meaning Graham would only face the electric chair if his life term was commuted, defense lawyer Joel Moldovsky said.

After hearing the first of his six death sentences Tuesday, the 28-year-old Graham leaned over and told Moldovsky, "I'll commit suicide; they'll never kill me," according to his attorneys.

The former dishwasher has been under suicide watch since he was convicted last week of strangling seven women during sex over an 11-month period after using drugs to lure the victims to his trash-strewn apartment, later dubbed the "House of Death."

"I've had my men go down and watch him at 20-minute intervals," Philadelphia Detention Center Warden Willie Gray said. "He's been cool, but we've been watching him just in case he tries something."

The judge sentenced Graham to life in prison for the death of one victim, whose near-skeletal remains were found scattered around the apartment. Latrone said there were no proven aggravating circumstances warranting the death penalty for that murder.

Latroné then sentenced Graham to death for the six other killings, citing the life sentence he received for the first murder as an aggravating circumstance warranting capital punishment for successive murders under Pennsylvania law.

In addition, Graham received seven one-to-two year sentences for abuse of a corpse.

Primaries roundup

Dukakis takes Ohio and Indiana, Bush clinches GOP nomination

United Press International

Democrat Michael Dukakis won heartland landslides in Ohio and Indiana to pad his national delegate lead over presidential rival Jesse Jackson, a winner in the District of Columbia, while Republican George Bush took all three contests to clinch his party's nomination.

Even before full results trickled in early today from the trio of primary elections, Bush was celebrating achievement of the number of delegates needed for the GOP nod. Chiding the Democrats, the vice president said in Washington, D.C., "Let them apologize for America and let me lead her to new greatness."

Dukakis and Jackson, however, maintained a positive approach to their duel, with the front-running Massachusetts governor pointing out he would talk to the Chicago civil rights leader by telephone today.

"We always talk the morning after a primary. We just talk about it like a couple of good friends," Dukakis said Tuesday night. Asked whether Jackson might withdraw from the race, he demurred. "He's got to make that judgment."

Nonetheless, Dukakis, as expected, was able to add the victories in Ohio and Indiana to a string of successes since his loss to Jackson in Michigan March 28. Tuesday's contests were the last major primaries until June 7, when New Jersey and California close out the season.

In delegate-rich Ohio, with 100 percent of the precincts reporting, Dukakis had crushed Jackson in the popular vote 63 percent to 28 percent. In Indiana, with 94 percent counted, the gap was 70 percent to 22 percent.

Jackson won as handily as expected in the mostly black District of Columbia, pulling 77 percent to Dukakis's 21 percent with all votes counted. The victory did not offer him nearly the delegate totals for Dukakis, however.

Collecting 181 delegates from the trio of Tuesday primaries, Dukakis emerged with 1,320.15 to date by United Press International's count. Some Democratic delegates will vote fractionally at the party's convention in July. UPI found Jackson gaining 70 delegates Tuesday for an overall total of 854.2.

Still, with only 804 delegates yet to be chosen in the Democratic primary season, it is clear Dukakis will not reach the 2,081 votes needed for the nomination without picking up some delegates currently uncommitted.

Jackson, emphasizing his local victory at a District of Columbia hotel Tuesday night, insisted his campaign remained the stronger of the two.

The outlook for Bush hardly could be more different. Gathering all 132 GOP delegates up for grabs Tuesday, he pushed his total to 1,228 by UPI's count, well above the 1,139 needed at the party's national convention in August.

Bush ran away with the three contests, drawing 81 percent of the popular vote in Ohio, 83 percent in Indiana and 90 percent in the District of Columbia.

Bush reveals strategy for fall campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — George Bush, now the locked-in Republican presidential nominee, has a clear basic strategy for the fall campaign — attack Democrats as naysayers while touting himself as "the guy out there talking about hope and opportunity."

"Let them apologize for America and let me lead her to new greatness!" the vice president crowed Tuesday in celebrating his unquestioned attainment of enough national delegates to claim the GOP nomination.

Speaking to several hundred supporters at a downtown hotel even before the results from the Ohio, Indiana and District of Columbia primaries were known, Bush previewed what will be almost certainly the thrust of his fall campaign.

"Let Mike Dukakis go around there talking about pink slips, despair, pessimism in the United States," Bush said, referring to his likely Democratic opponent. "I'll be the guy out there talking about hope and opportunity and challenge and the fact that the United States is the best, the fairest, the most decent nation on the face of the Earth."

Though clearly expecting to run against Dukakis, Bush reiterated his argument that he provides a distinct contrast to either the Massachusetts governor or the other major Democrat still in the race, civil rights leader Jesse Jackson.

And also as he has recently, Bush wasted no time reminding people of former Democratic President Jimmy Carter, contending both Dukakis and Jackson embrace similar policies.

"I don't plan to run against Jimmy Carter, but I plan to have a starting point and that starting point is there," Bush said, recalling the double-digit inflation and other problems of the Carter years.

President Reagan did not attend the Tuesday party for Bush.

was his girlfriend, but that's all we know."

The Coast Guard will continue the search today with the use of a Falcon jet from Miami, two C-130's, a helicopter and a patrol boat, said Coast Guard Petty Officer Joe Dye.

The boaters left the Seminole Marina in Clearwater Friday to fish waters 15 miles off the coast.

The Spragues were to have returned home Sunday, according to Mrs. Patricia Sprague, who reported the pair missing to the Seminole County Sheriff's Department and the Coast Guard Monday.

The Gulf of Mexico experienced rough seas Saturday with swells of 15 feet reported. Dye said of the Sprague boat, "It's not made to take those kind of seas."

Sprague's trailer and van were found by Coast Guard officials Monday in a parking lot near a popular public boat ramp.

A note found in the van said that the party had left at 9 p.m. Saturday and expected to return the next day.
